Report on the Institute for Congregation 1987-88
Institute of African Studies
Established - 1963

Administration

There was a change in the personnel of the administration: Professor K.A. Dickson, Director, 1980-87, rejoined the Department of the Studies of Religion in September, 1987. Professor Kwame Arhin succeeded him in an acting capacity, and became substantive director on 1st October 1988. Professor M.E. Kropp-Dakubu was elected as Deputy Director and Mr. E.Q. Blavo continued as Administrative Secretary.

Professor Kropp-Dakubu left the Institute on appointment as Director of the Language Centre on 1st February, 1989 and Mr. Blavo as Lecturer in Social Administration on 1st January, 1989.

I wish to record the Institute's appreciation of the excellent services of both Professor Kropp-Dakubu and Mr. Blavo.

Administrative Activities

The Administration presented a Five-Year Development Plan, 1987-1992 to the Vice-Chancellor. The main features of the plan include:

- a) the establishment of a Development and Women Studies Unit.
- b) extension to the Institute's Library; and
- c) the building of a Documentation Centre for what was conceived at the inception of the Institute as basic materials for the reconstruction and analysis of past and contemporary African history and society.

These materials consist of Arabic manuscripts, foreign newspapers of the late nineteenth century, court records, stool histories and oral traditions of the various peoples of Ghana and their neighbours, photographic and sound recordings of Ghanaian festivals.

We now envisage the Centre to include basic materials from the Government of Ghana, and the U.N. and its agencies on developmental and gender issues; copies of field reports by visiting scholars, and those submitted by research affiliates of the Institute from foreign Universities.

We were able to complete the projected extension to the library which can now hold 8,000 volumes, and also the physical structure for the nucleus of our envisioned Documentation Centre. During the budget hearings, the Ministry of Education agreed to recommend to the Ministry of Finance and Economic Planning approval for an estimated sum of thirty-five million cedis for a combined building for an enlarged documentation centre, a museum of ethnographic collections and musical archives.

We hope that with Government and Unesco support the Centre will become a Regional Documentation Centre for Ghana and its neighbours.

Orientation Courses for Foreign Students

The Institute organized an orientation course in African Studies for a group of students from the University of California at Los Angeles now at Legon for a year's study under an exchange agreement between the Universities of Ghana and California at Los Angeles. The Institute also hosted a seminar for a group of students from the State University of New York at Brockport College led by Professor Nwabueze of the Department of African Studies. The theme of the seminar was African Society, Culture, History, Economics and Politics in change. The seminar was under the direction of Professors Nwabueze and Arhin, Director of the Institute, and speakers included Professor D.A. Akyeampong, Pro-Vice-Chancellor, Nana Addo Dankwa III, Okuapemhene, Dr. K.G. Erbynn of the Ghana Investment Centre, and Dr. K. Berkoh of the Budget Division of Ministry of Finance and Economic Planning.

Supporting Services:

The Library:

Ms. Olive Akpebu, Head.

Library space has been extended to house 8,000 volumes, with a seating capacity for twenty; Lighting facilities have also been improved.

The physical structure for the nucleus of a Documentation Centre has been completed; it is proposed to furnish and equip it in the 1989-90 financial year.

The cataloguing and classification of Arabic manuscripts collected in the 1960s have begun.

Printing

The Institute's printing machines have been moved into another room. It is intended to board and sell all obsolete equipment and ask for additional government grant to refurbish our equipment so as to commercialize our services.

Photographic Section

We are seeking for funds to increase our photographic equipment in order to increase our commercial potential.

The Museum of Ethnographic Collections

We have installed an air-conditioner in the room in order to ensure the preservation of the collections.

We are engaging a consultant and an assistant to classify, catalogue and arrange the collections in such order as would interest visitors to the Museum. In 1987-88 we had the honour of showing the Museum to The President of the Peoples' Republic of Rumania and the Deputy Head of the U.S. Mission to Ghana.

Chalets:

We were able to put 8 Units of our chalets into shape for renting to visiting scholars: Six units were also given to the University to help ease the pressure on accommodation in the University.

Kwame Arhin
DIRECTOR.
