The last secretary to visit was John Snyder in 1948. Lee has to go thru historical records to find the other answer.

Dave,

Attached is the final list of visitors we have for the visit. We've included all the security personnel as well as the wife, still haven't heard anything different on that yet. Those highlighted will be going inside the vault. I'll have copies of the list with me for the dry run as well as the FAQ's for you.

SUBJECT: Light Refreshments for Cabinet/Congressional Visit

RECOMMENDATION

That you approve the purchase of light refreshments for a Cabinet/Congressional visit to the United States Bullion Depository (USB), Fort Knox, KY on August 21, 2017.

Approve K. McNally Disapprove _____ Let's Discuss _____
 Date: 8/16/17

BACKGROUND:

On August 21, 2017, the Secretary of the Treasury will host a Cabinet/Congressional visit of approximately 40 Treasury, Mint and Congressional personnel to the USB. This is only the second visit of this type in the 80 year history of the facility. The refreshments will be served in three locations throughout the facility where activities will occur.

DISCUSSION:

In accordance with United States Mint-Wide Policy Memo DIR-10-R, the expenditure of funds to purchase food for this event is authorized under section 1(d), Official Reception of Prominent Officials. We are requesting approval of the expenditure for light refreshments as this will enhance the historic nature of the event. The total estimated cost for the refreshments is $350.00

FOR EMPLOYEE USE ONLY

You are about to become part of history again. As most of you know, we will begin some official visits next week. Chief O'Connor will be here Sunday thru Tuesday. On Tuesday morning, we will host the first of two VIP visits for 9 personnel:

Treasury Assistant Secretary for Management (ASM) Kody Kinsley

Treasury Staff (b) (6)

Treasury OIG (b) (6)

Treasury OIG

Treasury OIG

Mint A/PDD Dave Motl

Mint CFO Kristie McNally

Mint Special Asst. (b) (6)

Mint Police Chief Dennis O'Connor

On August 21, we will host the second VIP visit for 41 personnel, including the following cabinet / Congressional personnel, their staff members and security details:

Treasury Secretary Steve Mnuchin

Treasury Assistant Secretary for Management (ASM) Kody Kinsley

United States Treasurer Jovita Carranza

Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell

Senator Rand Paul

Representative Brett Guthrie

Kentucky Governor Matt Bevin (TBD)

Over the next few days and weeks, there will be a lot of activity and changes – be flexible. I ask everyone to take a few extra moments to insure office spaces, uniforms, lockers, storage areas, etc....are well prepared, as I expect several tours of the facility will be conducted.

This is only the second Congressional visit in the USBD history and we have the honor of getting to be a part of it.

Hello everyone,

I am Secretary Mnuchin's advance lead for the Fort Knox visit.

I have two important announcements:

Everybody coming to the US Bullion Depository will need a valid drivers license or PIV Card. This includes all principles.

Everybody will also need to keep all phones and electronics in the vehicles. They are not allowed into the facility whatsoever. This also includes all principles.

I am currently on the ground in Louisville please reach out to me if you have any questions at all regarding the visit.

Thanks,

All,

I am attaching here the Ft. Knox visit run of show for your principal's review and awareness. If there are any questions regarding this event/visit, please do not hesitate to reach out. (b) (6) cc'd here, will serve as our advance lead for the visit and will be on the ground tomorrow.

Thank you all for the assistance in making this historic visit a success for everyone involved.

VIP visit to United States Bullion Depository
Monday, August 21st

For the purposes of this document, “VIPs” refers to the following seven (7) individuals:

- Secretary of the Treasury Steve Mnuchin
- Senator Mitch McConnell
- Representative Brett Guthrie
- Governor Matt Bevin
- Assistant Secretary for Management Kody Kinsley
- Treasurer Jovita Carranza

ASM Kinsley and Treasurer Carranza will arrive at the United States Bullion Depository (USB) during the morning of August 21. The motorcade for the other VIPs is expected to arrive at the USBD at approximately 2:00 pm.

1:30 pm United States Mint (Mint) staff will be posted at the entry gate to Fort Knox, so as to ensure the VIP motorcade proceeds directly to the USBD.

2:00 pm Upon arrival at the USBD, the VIPs will be greeted by Mint personnel. All vehicles in the VIP motorcade will have assigned parking spaces in the USBD parking lot.

In the event members of media arrive to cover the visit, the Mint will have a media area (located in a maintenance facility located adjacent to the parking area).

2:05 pm All VIPs and members of their entourage will proceed through general security screening (b) [REDACTED] (7)(E) [REDACTED]

(b) (7)(E) [REDACTED]

2:20 pm VIPs and their staff members who they choose to accompany them into the USBD will walk (b) (7)(E) [REDACTED]. Upon entry to the USBD, Mint staff will lead the VIPs and their staff members to the roof of the facility to view the solar eclipse. Fort Knox is approximately 142 miles north of the “Path of Totality.” The solar eclipse is projected to reach its maximum viewing potential at 2:30 pm. The Mint has procured viewing glasses for VIPs and their staff to view the eclipse safely.

2:40 pm Following the eclipse viewing, VIPs will proceed to the USBD’s 2nd floor conference room. Once in the room, they will receive a brief (7-8 minutes) presentation about the USBD, its history, and the restrictions on sharing any information related to the facility’s security. The presentation will be made by Dave Motl, the Mint’s Acting Deputy Director and senior career official. During this presentation, Mint & IG staff who are required to be present in the vault will be processed through vault security. During the presentation, any aides to VIPs and Treasury staff members who are not going inside the vault will be brought to the 2nd floor kitchenette. At the conclusion of the presentation, the VIPs will be escorted to the office of USBD Field Chief Lee Booth to begin processing for access to the USBD vault. At this time, the aides to VIPs and Treasury staff who are not going inside the vault will be escorted to the USBD's 2nd floor conference room where light refreshments will be available.

2:50 pm Each VIP will go through security processing individually. (b) (7)(E)
(b) (7)(E)

In compliance with the U.S. Mint Directive 8H-1 Chapter 8 Finances – Custodial Deep Storage Asset, members of the Department's Office of Inspector General (IG), as well as designated representatives of the Director of the Mint must be present when any compartment containing gold is opened. To avoid any unnecessary delays, those IG and Mint staff will be processed through the vault security prior to the arrival of the VIPs. The only three staff who will go through security in addition to the VIPs will be: Dave Motl – Acting Deputy Director (and senior career official) of the Mint; Dennis O'Connor – Chief of Mint Police; and, Field Chief Lee Booth – senior official at the USBD.

3:25 pm Once all the VIPs have cleared vault security, they will have the opportunity to inspect and handle an actual bar of "working" gold from the Mint facility at West Point. (Reminder – unlike the "working" gold at West Point, the gold stored at the USBD is not used for making coins.)

3:40 pm Upon entering the vault, the compartment directly in front of the entrance will be open for inspection. This compartment is completely empty – so as to provide the VIPs a more complete understanding of the size of each compartment.

The VIPs will be escorted (in a single group) to the lower-level to the vault where one of the compartments will be open for inspection. (b) (7)(E). VIPs will be invited into the compartment to inspect and handle the high-value assets stored within:

- Ten (10) "1933 Double Eagle" gold coins recently returned to the custody of the Mint
- 1974 aluminum penny
- Sacagawea $1 coins which were official cargo on a NASA Space Shuttle mission.

Talking points describing the significance of these high-value assets are attached.

3:50 pm (b) (7)(E)
(b) (7)(E)

Each VIP will be permitted to enter the compartment to view the deep storage gold stored within. The two staff members from the IG and Mint will provide gloves to each VIP so they may handle one of the bars of gold. A photographer from the Mint will be present to take photos each VIP standing inside the compartment holding a bar of gold with 25,000+ more bars of gold directly behind them.

To comply with security and audit requirements, no bars of gold may be removed from the compartment. However, each VIP will be given ample opportunity to see, inspect, and handle the gold while inside the compartment.

Once the VIP group has finished their inspection of the gold inside the compartment, they and the two staff members from IG and Mint will exit the compartment and the door will be closed. VIPs will be offered the opportunity to sign the "witness document" which will accompany the new seal affixed to the closed compartment as a testament of their visit.

While the IG and Mint staff complete each of the steps required to re-seal of the compartment, the VIPs will be escorted outside the vault to the holding area where they received the presentation from Mint Acting Deputy Director Motl. The VIPs will once again have the opportunity to view and handle the bar of "working" gold from West Point.

4:15 pm VIPs will begin the exit screening process. (b) (7)(E) [REDACTED]

While the VIPs go through the exit screening process, Mint staff will accompany all staff members who had been waiting in the USBD conference room back to the main lobby area where they can meet up with the VIPs and exit the USBD.

4:30 pm Upon exiting the USBD, all VIPs and their staff members will walk (b) (7)(E) [REDACTED] All visitors (VIPs and staff) will go through the general screening process a final time, after which they will exit into the parking lot.

EVENT MEMORANDUM FOR SECRETARY MNUCHIN

Event: United States Bullion Depository Visit with Congressional Delegation
Date/Loc: Monday, August 21, 2017; Fort Knox, Kentucky
Press: Official Mint Photographer
From: Kody H. Kinsley, Assistant Secretary for Management
Jovita Caranza, Treasurer

OVERVIEW

This memorandum outlines logistics for a Congressional delegation visit to the United States Bullion Depository (USB) at Fort Knox, Kentucky. The USB is operated by the U.S. Mint and stores bullion reserves. It currently holds 147.3 million ounces of gold that as of August 16 is worth approximately $190.4 billion.

Access to the USB is limited, as the facility exists solely for the storage of gold. (b) (5) [REDACTED]

ATTACHMENT 1: Public Affairs Questions/Answers and Fact Sheet

The official name of the U.S. Mint facility referred to as “Fort Knox” is the United States Bullion Depository (USBBD). The reference to Fort Knox originates from its proximity to the Fort Knox military installation.

1. What is the role and history of the U.S. Mint?

The U.S. Mint is the Nation’s sole manufacturer of legal tender coinage and is responsible for producing circulating coinage for the Nation to conduct its trade and commerce. The Mint also produces bullion of gold, silver and platinum for investors, Congressional Gold Medals, and coins and medals for collectors (numismatists). Mint programs are self-sustaining and operate at no cost to the taxpayer.

The history of the U.S. Mint dates back to 1792 when Congress passed the Coinage Act, which created the Mint and authorized the construction of a Mint Building in Philadelphia (then the Nation’s capital). The Mint became part of the Treasury Department in February 1873.

2. What is the history of Fort Knox?

In 1933, President Franklin D. Roosevelt issued Executive Order 6102, which outlawed private ownership of gold coins, bullion, and gold certificates by American citizens. The rationale was the hoarding of gold was stalling economic growth making the Great Depression worse.

Fort Knox Bullion Depository was created through the Deficiency Act on June 22, 1936, signed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt. The building was completed in December 1936 at a cost of $560,000. The land was transferred to Treasury from the Army.

The Depository needed 16,000 feet of granite, 4,200 cubic yards of concrete and 750 tons of reinforced steel and 670 tons of structural steel.

Fort Knox is a 109,000 acre U.S. Army post. Besides housing the U.S. Bullion Depository (USBBD), it is also home to the General George S. Patton Museum.

3. When and who was the last Treasury Secretary to visit Fort Knox? What was the purpose of that trip?

Fort Knox had been previously visited by Secretary Henry Morgenthau on January 19, 1939, and Secretary John Snyder on June 17, 1948. The visits were conducted for a business needs, as Treasury has overall responsibility for the Depository.

4. What is the purpose of the trip by Secretary Mnuchin?

The Secretary has the overall responsibility for the Depository. He also attests to the form and content of the financial statements of the Department—the custodial gold holding is a significant part of that attestation. The Secretary has visited IRS Headquarters and Bureau of Fiscal Service, both in Washington, DC. Secretary Mnuchin has plans to visit other Treasury facilities around the country and meet with Treasury personnel in the coming months.

5. Besides being a depository for gold and other precious items, what is Fort Knox used for (in a Treasury role, if any)?

The Bullion Depository at Fort Knox was constructed solely as a secured storage facility. By the way of background, the Act of August 13, 1935, Public Law 74-267, 49 Stat. 613 authorized the Secretary of War to transfer some land from the Fort Knox Military Reservation to the Secretary of the Treasury for the purpose of constructing the United States Bullion Depository (USBID).

6. What is the present value of the gold held at Fort Knox?

Deep Storage Gold Reserves as of September 30, 2016
with Market Value as of August 16, 2017

	Fine Troy Ounces	Statutory Value	Market Value
Fort Knox	147,341,858.382	6,221,097,413	190,459,979,819
Denver	43,853,707.279	1,851,599,999	56,687,056,177
West Point	54,067,331.379	2,282,841,679	69,889,595,234
Total	245,262,897.04	$10,355,539,091	317,036,631,230

* $1,292.64 per FTO

7. How much of the U.S. gold is held at Fort Knox vs. held in other facilities, like the Federal Reserve Bank of New York (FRBNY)?

FRBNY Gold Reserves as of September 30, 2016
with Market Value as of August 16, 2017

	Fine Troy Ounces	Statutory Value	Market Value
Gold Bars	13,378,981.032	$564,890,013	$17,294,206,041
Gold Coins	73,829.500	$ 3,117,244	$95,434,965
Total	13,452,810.532	$568,007,257	$17,791,341,929

* $1,292.64 per FTO

8. Is the gold ever transferred to other Mint facilities or the Federal Reserve from Fort Knox?

No, gold is not transferred to other Mint facilities or the Federal Reserve from Fort Knox.

9. Besides gold, what other items are stored there?

In addition to the gold, the USBD currently secures 1933 Double Eagle Gold Coins, a 1974-D aluminum penny, and twenty gold (22-karat) Sacagawea dollar coins that were flown on the Space Shuttle. In the past, other items were held at Fort Knox.

10. How many employees work at the facility?

For security purposes we do not provide that information to the public.

11. Why was Fort Knox chosen to be the site?

The Depository was constructed with the possibility of war looming. Fort Knox provided a location far from either coast, adjacent to a military installation for added security and close to a rail head for transportation.

12. When was the last gold audit?

Between 1971 and 2008, all Treasury owned gold stored at the United States Mint (Fort Knox, Denver and West Point) was audited and placed under Official Joint Seal. In 2012, the Treasury-owned gold stored at the Federal Reserve Bank (FRB) was audited/inventoried by the Department of the Treasury's Office of Inspector General (OIG) and placed under Joint Seal.

In addition, on an annual basis, the TOIG conducts audits of United States Mint Custodial Gold Schedules at all Mint locations, and since 2012, Treasury Gold Schedules at the FRB. The annual audit includes an inspection of all gold compartments and Joint Seals to verify the compartments are locked, and the seals are in-tact and have not been tampered with.

13. When was the last shipment of gold sent to Fort Knox, and do shipments still take place?

The first shipment to Fort Knox was made from January to June 1937 from the Philadelphia Mint and the New York Assay Office (public gold refinery). The last gold shipment was delivered to the USBD in 1944. Shipments of gold no longer take place.

Additional Fort Knox Facts and History

- Due to World War II, the first Magna Carta was stored at the Depository from 1939 to 1947.
- The crown, sword, scepter, orb, and cape of St. Stephen, King of Hungary (975-1038) were given to the U.S. Army by the Hungarian Crown for safe keeping from the Soviet Union. The items were stored at the Depository at the end of World War II. The Carter Administration returned the items to the government of Hungary in 1978.
- To protect them from any possible danger during World War II, the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, and the Bill of Rights were secretly stored in protective vaults. Only when Allied victory was imminent in 1944 were the historic documents returned to Washington, D.C.
- During the Cold War, a cache of opium and morphine was stored at Fort Knox for emergency uses. In 1993, the opium was turned into morphine sulfate. The opium and morphine is no longer stored at the Depository.
- In 1974, there was circulated a theory that the gold in the Depository had been secretly removed by elites, and that the vaults were empty.
- In September 1974, 63rd Secretary of the Treasury William E. Simon invited a group of reporters and a Congressional delegation to visit Fort Knox. The delegation was allowed inside in order to refute the theory, which had gained traction thanks to coverage in tabloid newspapers and on the radio. Other than this 1974 event, no member of the public has been allowed inside.

Other Facts

- The highest gold holdings this century was 649.6 million ounces (December 31, 1941).
- Each gold bar weigh approximately 27.5 lbs.
- The gold is only removed in small quantities to test the purity of the gold during regular audits.

WASHINGTON, DC 20510

March 21, 2017

The Honorable Steven Mnuchin
Secretary
Department of the Treasury
1500 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, D.C. 20220

Dear Secretary Mnuchin:

I am writing to you today requesting the opportunity to observe in person the deposits held in United States Bullion Depository in Fort Knox Kentucky. A similar request was made to Acting Principal Deputy Director Motl on January 23, 2017. I received a response from Acting Principal Deputy Director Motl on February 8, 2017, which stated "The United States Mint has received your letter, and [my] request is under consideration."

As it has been nearly two months since my original request, and there is not yet a permanent Director of the Mint, I am asking you to approve this request. With the completion of the U.S. Bullion Depository in Fort Knox, Kentucky, in 1937, the Depository has been a beacon of pride for many residents of the Commonwealth of Kentucky and a cornerstone of the Fort Knox Community.

As stated in my original request, in the 42 years since the last public viewing, no civilians have been allowed to enter and view the gold vault. As one of the U.S. Senators elected to represent the Commonwealth of Kentucky and Chairman of the Subcommittee on Federal Spending, which provides oversight of all taxpayer funded operations of the United States Mint, I believe it is my responsibility to assure my constituents that the Federal government has maintained the appropriate troy ounces of gold in deep storage as stated in the U.S. Mint Annual Reports.

Since 2000, the U.S. Mint Annual Reports have stated the U.S. Mint has been in possession of 245,262,897 fine troy ounces of gold bullion. According to the Department of Treasury's Bureau of Fiscal Services, as of December 2016, approximately 147.342 million ounces, are held at the Depository. It is important for the confidence of the United States economy for a civilian and independent observation of the deposits and holdings.

Thank you for your timely attention and consideration of my request to view the U.S. Bullion Depository. I look forward to your compliance with my request at your earliest convenience.

Sincerely,

RAND PAUL, M.D.
