TIME TABLE & BRIEF HISTORY OF SERVICE OF THE JALUIT GESELLSCHAFT MAIL STEAMER GERMANIA 1904–1914:
A Contribution to the Communications History of Micronesia

To effectively administer the newly acquired German possessions of the Caroline, Palau and Mariana Islands, Germany had to establish reliable communications with Berlin as well as between the islands themselves. As a result the Jaluit Line was formed, connecting German Micronesia with Sydney and Hong Kong. From 1904 onwards main stay of this shipping line was the steamer Germania. This paper sets out a brief history of the ship and provides a timetable of its voyages, as reconstructed from various published sources.

Until the acquisition of the Spanish possessions in Micronesia by the German Empire in late 1899, all communications between the German Marshall Islands and the rest of the world deeded on letters being transported by various trading vessels. Reliable shipping services were needed to administer the newly established of the German district administration of the 'Inselgebiet' in 1899, with its district administrations in Pohnpei, Yap and Saipan.

To provide a reliable communication with its colonies, the German government contracted the Jaluit Gesellschaft to provide a mail service connecting Sydney with Jaluit and Yap. At the latter point the mails could be transhipped to the Norddeutscher Lloyd steamers on the newly established Hong Kong–Saipan–Yap–Pohnpei–Sydney run.

The Jaluit Gesellschaft was to commence in 1901. In its annual report for 1899 the Jaluit Gesellschaft mentioned that its proposal to op-erate a twelve-weekly shipping service running the route Sydney–Jaluit–Kosrae–Pohnpei–Chuuk– Yap–Palau and back was accepted and that a steamer had been bought.

When the Norddeutscher Lloyd terminated its Sydney-Hong Kong run by the end of 1901, the Jaluit Gesellschaft was asked—or saw the opportunity and requested—to extend its Micronesian run to Hong Kong . The German administration centre at Herbertshöhe on New Britain was to be included as a mandatory stop, while Matupi was time-tabled as a stop over if the need arose. The new service was conducted on a bi-monthly roster.

The initial service was operated by the Oceana, an 1891-built steel screw steam ship of 684 tons, which the Jaluit Gesellschaft had acquired the Harold and refitted for the tropical conditions. On 29 December 1903 the Oceana ran aground on a reef on Jaluit. When, after preliminary repairs, the vessel arrived in Sydney it was found that full repairs were prohibitively expensive and the vessel was best be sold as scrap and broken up. Rather than acquiring an existing vessel as replacement, the decision was made to replace her by a purpose-built vessel, the Germania.

The remainder of this brief paper sets out a history of the ship and provides a timetable of its voyages, as reconstructed from various published sources.

THE SHIP

The Germania was a steel screw steamship of 1096 tons, built in 1904 by Friedrich Krupp AG on the Germania Werft at Kiel, Germany. The Jaluit Gesellschaft had ordered the vessel as replacement for the inadequate and damaged Oceana. It was purpose-built to serve as an island passenger vessel and trader in tropical conditions.

The Germania commenced sea-trials on 12 September 1904. They were brief but intensive, as the vessel was to depart as soon as possible for the Pacific. A departure in late September was envisaged, as the regular service was to recommence on 9 December. The Germania was fitted with three life boats and a gig. On the bridge deck the ship had ten twin-cabins. In addition, provisions were made for 12 second class passengers and 50 passengers on deck. A dining room was on the bridge deck, and a smoking salon on the rear. Contemporary accounts mention that the dining room was decorated with three paintings, one each of Hong Kong, Sydney and Jaluit.

To satisfy the requirements of the postal service, one cabin was designed to serve as a ship's post office and fitted out accordingly.

The Germania, call sign RNGL, commenced its regular service on 9 December 1904 as planned, departing Hong Kong for Sydney. The Germania completed her maiden voyage from Hong Kong when she reached Sydney on 24 January 1905. From then on she operated on the Sydney-Hong Kong route, making about three round trips a year. The service was terminated with voyage no. 57 when the Germania was requisitioned in Sydney in the first days of World War I.
The Jaluit Gesellschaft utilised the Germania both to fulfill its mail contract with the German government, and to provide a backbone to its own trading operations and general cargo deliveries throughout Micronesia.

The Germania survived several typhoons, including the one which struck Jaluit on 30 June 1905. On her last voyage under German flag she went through the eye of a typhoon in the Caroline Islands. The life boats were smashed and the bilge clogged with ashes from the flooded stokehold. She arrived on 30 July 1914 in Sydney. Before the necessary repairs could be carried out, however, she was overtaken by the outbreak of World War I and interned by the Australian government

From 4 August 1914 the Germania became part of the Commonwealth fleet of steamers. It was leased to Burns Philp & Co, the main competitor of the Jaluit Gesellschaft, and later had a career in Australia, New Caledonia and Japan, incl. the Japanese navy. It sank on 29 March 1945.
