NOTES & KEY TO ABBREVIATIONS

DATE column Pre-1752 year began 25 March so Y/M/D as source. Q=quarter. Ranges entered at earliest but may have been updated by original source since entered)

FIRST NAMES column Included are some people who have Holcombe etc as a first name. Strange spellings have a standard version (my judgement) as well.

SURNAME column It is not advisable to search Holcombes by surname (see Gen Information). nee = maiden name, Hookham included in case of spelling error

EVENT column b = birth, c = christening (baptism), h = home, int = burial, m = marriage, o = death, d = daughter, s = son, w = will/work, inh/beq = bequest, + = later than cr = cremated, GF = groom's father, BF = bride's father, wit = witness, wid = widow(er), (b)otp = (both) of this parish

COUNTY/Town/village Most counties and many towns/villages/parishes have their own family history/genealogy organisations which you can find on the internet
Counties coded using Chapman codes - see https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Chapman\_code for more information
Spelling of parishes, and the county they are in, can change depending on the date

SOURCE column i = IGI 1992 (note - not all parishes covered), IGI = 2008+, @ = relatives named, ^ = East Lavington, e = email. See also PUBLISHED SOURCES below.
c = census, + = Countess of Huntingdon's, *YY or *YYYY = deduced from known later date, N = Tony Holkham's notes
Unpublished sources: Names/dates are from private correspondence; contact me for more information.

WARNING !! Don't assume ANY data is FACT unless you have verified it yourself from original documentation. Please ALWAYS quote sources when passing on data.

INTRODUCTION

Welcome to the Holcombe Index which contains about 8000 references to some 100 spellings of these names and places. Please read the General Information section below before searching.

NOTE TO RESEARCHERS IN AUSTRALIA, NZ, USA, CANADA & OTHER COUNTRIES OUTSIDE THE BRITISH ISLES

This database covers only England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland. So much research has been done in other countries that it is beyond the scope of this index, whose principal purpose is to help researchers discover their British ancestors. Most post-1700 data on overseas people (apart from known emigrants) that I have received from researchers has been filed and is available on request.

CAN I HELP YOU?

I have been researching my family, and helping others to research theirs, for more than 30 years. If you would like help researching your British ancestors, please contact me.

I do not charge for help or advice by email, and would only charge if you asked me to do work that would incur costs such as expenses or fees. Any charges would always be agreed in advance. Please note that I am unable to visit records offices.

GENERAL INFORMATION

IF YOU HAVE RECEIVED A COPY OF THIS FILE, PLEASE DO NOT AMEND IT. HAVING LOTS OF DIFFERENT VERSIONS WOULD BE CHAOS.

If you have received this file as an Excel spreadsheet, always open as read-only to avoid accidentally altering data.

A WORD ABOUT TRUTH All my workings out are transparent and, although I make many assertions, I make no assumptions. Any assertion I make should be followed up with detective work which I could not hope to accomplish. Above all, you must remember that nothing you read in this index is gospel unless and until you have seen the evidence with your own eyes. There are, for example, people who are convinced that Holcombs date back to the conquest and have royal descent, and others equally convinced this has never been proved. Whichever is right will only be determined by hard evidence. It may be that one faction is deluding themselves, while the other is demanding too much proof, but I make no judgement on the matter. All I ask newcomers to family history to do is not to take other people's - yes, even if they are published (as this index will be) - trees too much at face value. Of course this is difficult. It's tempting to take the easy route. But look at the evidence they put forward (likewise look at my evidence) and ask yourself if it is evidence, or just something someone has assumed, maybe years before.

ORIGINS I started this index back in the late 1980s, purely as a resource for my own family research. It quickly became apparent that it was pointless limiting my research to Holkham, as this name is only about five generations old (in my family). With illiteracy the norm before then, I found ancestors listed under the names Hockham, Halcombe and Hawkham in my searches, and many others. To date I have found 100 variants of the name, and any of them could be my ancestors. Added to this I was corresponding with a number of other researchers, and it was clear someone needed to be the repository for the information we were all generating if countless others were not to have to duplicate our hard work. And then, gradually, it dawned on me that I was finding the history and dynamics of the name was just as interesting a study as my own remote family origins.

BLUE BLOOD? It's fun to see whether you're descended from, for example, William the Conqueror. Remember, though, that if you are, one ancestor 100 generations back will only make your blood 1% blue, so don't get too hung up on the possibility, eh? Being descended from a bricklayer can be just as interesting.

SCOPE Data have come in from many different sources, and I regret to say in a far from methodical fashion. The UK IGI for 1992 is all included, and I have started to add more. There is a selection of census information and a great deal has come from GRO indexes and the National Archives. Quite a few parishes have been searched and some of these are not yet covered by the IGI. The rest is a miscellany from record offices and researchers in various countries, mainly UK and USA. I have also personally searched some churchyards and taken a few photographs of graves.

DNA TESTING It is becoming popular to test DNA for origins. I cannot comment on this, except to say that a great deal about it is to be found on the internet for anyone interested in this line of research.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS I wish to acknowledge the help and generosity of all those people mentioned in the source column. Some have abstracted and sent to me considerable amounts of information without which this index would be little more than a cold list of births, marriages and deaths. I hope this generosity (especially by Eric Holcombe, David Holkham and Martin Haulkham) will encourage others to contribute.

ANSTY or ONSTY - A SPECIAL CASE

Some records show A(O)nsti(e) or A(O)nsty(e) alias H or H alias A/O (Anstey is an E Sussex village), an alias of remote origin. Some Ansteys/Onstyes without Holcombe are therefore included.

SPELLING VARIATIONS & PRONUNCIATION

About 100 spelling variations are included, so a search by surname is not recommended. Always search by other parameters. These are the spellings so far encountered -

Names in red: no search results in National Archives "find a person"

Names in green: National Archives for these spellings are included

All these names have also been searched at CWGC

Hollscombe Hollycome Holocume Horcomb Horcombe Horkham Horecumb Houckham Houkam Houlcombe Howkam Hucham

May be related, but not included: Oldcombe Akeman Hookam

THE MOST COMMON SPELLING OF THE NAME IN ENGLAND IS HOLCOMBE and there are almost as many different spelling for villages of the name

There are many other variations which could be related e.g. Auckram (established connection), Acombe and Elcomb (neither established) so never rule it out by spelling.

NOT INCLUDED are names ending with N (with a few exceptions)

Pronunciation - the variations included were done so because of the following aspects of the name:

The first syllable is stressed, and the "l", if present, may be silent or sounded. Second syllable is always short - sounded k'm.

The first vowel is almost always encountered as in hot, ford, go or full, and extremely rarely as in hat, harp, her or hut.

Most common modern pronunciation seems to be "hole-k'm", whereas a century ago it was likely to be different (eg Hockham, Hawkham), i.e. without the "l". The three main distinguishing features of the name under study are [1] it starts with an "h" sound, [2] has a "k" or hard "c" sound in the middle, and [3] ends with the "um" sound.

There are many ways in which this combination of sounds can be spell - and my name has the "l" sound before the "k", for example, but could equally be pronounced as in "poke", and often is by people who haven't heard me say it, or just think I'm saying it wrong! (Note: this is a personal view, and I welcome comments on this topic - and indeed any other.)

WHAT NEXT?

I have searched many published sources for instances of the name, and the next step is to append extractions by date/county and date/first name. These will help researchers put families together and look for strays.
