BOY SHOT DEAD; WATCHMAN IS HELD

Manslaughter Charge Against 64-Year-Old Man After Victim's Companions Declare He Fired Shot.

An unidentified boy about 12 years old, known to his playmates as "Julius" was shot and killed late Thursday afternoon while playing with some other boys on a pile of scrap leather near the plant of the American Agricultural Chemical company plant at Babcock and Howard streets.

Charles Michaels, 64 years old, 688 Genesee street, a watchman at the plant, who is alleged to have fired the shot is being held at the Fillmore avenue police station on a charge of manslaughter, second degree.

No statement had been taken fro Michaels Thursday night. According to what the other boys told the police he what the other boys told the poince he told them to get off the premises sev-eral times, and when they didn't leave, he fired a shot into the ground to scare them. Still the boys did not move, they said, and then they declared, the watchman fired again, this time the built finding a mark—the sead boy. The bullet pierced his body. NO IDENTIFICATION ON SLAIN WOMAN Girl Believed to Be Victim, Found to Be Alive—Shoes and Knife Are Only Clues.

The girl murder victim who was strangled and stabbed before being thrown into Ellicott creek, near the Moose clubhouse, one mile from the Colvin boulevard, sometime Tuesday night, is still unidentified at the county morgue, Upper Terrace, although earlier Thursday two brothers of Eleanor McCormick, 1569 Seneca street, positively identified the body as that of their sister.

When the McCormick girl was found at Niagara Falls, working in a restaurant, the murder became more of a mystery than ever, and Sheriff Charles F. Zimmerman now has four men and two women deputies searching for clues that might give him a thread to follow towards making an identification. The McCormick boy was found by L. H. McCullough, assistant county under-

The sheriff's office has only two slight clues to work on in the effort to establish the identity of the dead girl, a pair of shoes purchased at a Washington street store and a knife, found near the scene of the murder.
