FEDERAL PARTY POSITIONS.

The majority of Spaniards and Italians may not actually approve of the existing regime, but they must, at any rate, consider it the lesser of two evils. They preterest. They were the first full and each party had its own dome olore's increasing influence. But Mr. Theodore apparently is content for the Theodore apparently in content of time being with the deputy-leadership. Thus he displaces Mr. Blakeley, of the A.W.U., which doubtless antagonises at least one member of the caucus. Rumour least one member of the caucus. Rumour has it that Mr. Theodore's ears are filled with the whispers of a greater ambition; they hear no sound of the laments of disting hear no sound of the laments of disting preferred against Mr. M. L. Shepher in illusioned Mr. Mah.my from somewhere in the purificus of Dailey. Mr. Theodore was, perhaps, in a position to demand his reward. He enters the new Parliament with an increased personal following in his increased personal following in his civil aviation.

But since then the Commonwealth and all the State Parliaments vanish the last traces of the constitutional democracy which came into existence in 1870. Much has been heard of the success of Facsism in Italy, but the experience of Spain is no less illuminating. General Primo de Rivera executed his coup in 1023—just a year after Signor Mussolid sected the reins in Italy—and his position has not been seriously challenged. Occasional risings, such as the one at Citudat. Rodrigo last week, occur; but the ease with which they are suppressed only emphasises the strength of his authority. He maintains it by methods similar to those employed by Signor Mussolial. The official record of the House against no oul; citals of the directorate are clothed with extraordinary powers. of that State, and in the north-eastern core of New South Wales is of interest, but at the present stage of no actual importance. Undoubted crude oil has been met with its small quantities in Victoria, about Lakes Entrance, and near the South Australian berder in the Gilenelg River. The rocks in both areas are of Tertiary age, similar to those in the great oil belt of the world, but they lack the very decisive structures which are universally present in the producing fields in these geological formations. The search for ill in the south of Australia must, therefore, resolves itself into a very careful search in the well-defined and decisive structures.

Up to the present no very encouraging indications of petroleum have been met with in Tasmania, but from the distribution of the world's great oil belt the ultimate prospects of obtaining petroleum in the Antarctic continent would appear to be of a high order. Naturally, however, prospecting in search area is not likely to be undertaken on a commercial scale whilst more temperate regions remain to be explored.

CENOTAPH FIGURES. UNVEILING CEREMONY. FIXED FOR FEBRUARY 21.

The bronze figures by Sir Bertram Mac-kennal for the Cenotaph in Martin-place, which arrived in Sydney by the R.E.S. Mod-tan, were partially unpacked yesterday. Portions of the case in which the figures arrived were removed in the presence of Dr. Bradfield, the designer of the memorial, and representative of Sir Bertram Mackenal, and were found not to have been damaged in transit. In addition to the figures of a saler and soldier, the case contained a bronze lared wreath for the Cenotaph. Each figure weighs shout Sewt.

and soldier, the case contained a wreath for the Cenotaph. Each figure weighs shout 3cwt.

The work of placing the figures in position on the Cenotaph will not be commenced until a few days before the efficial unveiling, which will take place on February 21—the ansiverary of the nutry of the Australian Light Horse into Jericho.

The figures are about 16 feet in height, and represent a sallor in landing "rig," and a soldier of the A.I.F. in field service uniform, and wearing a steel betweet. In some quargers objection has been taken to the figures of the standing at ease they should be at attestion, with arms reversed and heads bowed. When this controversy arose the matter we referred to Sir Bertram Mackennal, who cable his opinion in the following words: "gemeria not a temb. Figures not mourning; guarding alter of remembrance."

The figure of the sallor will be placed of the George-acreet and of the Cenotaph, and that of the soldier will adorn the Pitt-street each.
