

JANUARY/FEBRUARY 2003

Zoogoeer

VOLUME 32 / NUMBER 1

6

8

20

8 OKAVANGO: THE RIVER THAT NEVER FINDS THE SEA

BY MILES ROBERTS AND PALMER GRAHAM

Rains flood the Okavango delta each year, quenching the Kalahari's "big thirst" and bringing nutrients to a surprising diversity of animals.

20 ENVIRO CO

BY LYNN BLISS

Environmental consciousness among corporations is more than just PR; it can reflect values that are the foundation of success.

DEPARTMENTS

6 NOTES & NEWS

A boisterous birthday celebrated, there's a new giraffe in town, and bronze lions are the pride of the Zoo's "mane" entrance.

29 BOOKS, NATURALLY

Microscopic in proportion but global in their impact, antibiotic-resistant bacteria are a growing problem. Michael Shnayerson's and Mark Plotkin's new book delves into this deadly dilemma.

30 BIOALMANAC

A refugee of Angolan war, the sable antelope comes out of hiding; a drug widely used on pets becomes a last meal for an American icon; and your name can grace the scientific record while your money benefits species conservation.