U.S. Chess Championship

We are pleased to send our warm greetings on the occasion of the U.S. Chess Championship Tournament.

The Golden State is proud to host stimulating events that showcase the talent and skill of Americans. This tournament marks a rebirth of the U.S. Chess Championship national title and brings hundreds of chess enthusiasts together to test their abilities and challenge other players. I salute each of the competitors for your commitment to excellence in chess.

I also congratulate the organizers and supporters of this tournament for your efforts to promote the use of chess in education. Playing chess enhances cognitive development and improves children's critical thinking abilities. Your cultivation of these vital skills benefits our youth and continues the great American chess tradition.

Thank you for your efforts, and please accept our best wishes for a successful tournament.

Sincerely,

Arnold Schwarzenegger

It is with great pleasure to welcome the U.S. Chess Championship players to San Diego, California. San Diego offers the perfect setting for the country's foremost chess tournament. For nine-days, the country's best players will be vying for the title of U.S. Champion in America's Finest City. The 2005 tournament will be the most exciting competition play ever.

America's Foundation for Chess (AF4C), was founded in June 2000 to invest in the education of our children and to bring chess into our cultural fabric. AF4C partnered with the United States Chess Federation to host the U.S. Championship, the highest level of competition in the United States.

We are proud to join with the NTC Foundation this year as we move the tournament to San Diego. The NTC Foundation is committed to bringing significant events to San Diego that will further their mission of bringing innovative experiences to this great region. Together, our organizations are increasing the awareness of the benefits of chess to a broader audience.

The 2005 U.S. Chess Championship will set new standards for national chess excellence, but also forward the Foundation's mission to strengthen the minds and character of young people by advancing chess in our schools and culture.

By bringing this tournament of elites to San Diego, we establish chess as a valued component of American culture. Young children learning chess across the country have something to strive toward – to one day become the holder of the U.S. Championship Title. It will provide them with role models to emulate and a reason to keep playing.

We wish to acknowledge and thank all of this year's sponsors. We are proud to have Chessmaster return as the title sponsor and ZMD as presenting sponsor. Their contribution is much appreciated and allows the tournament to continue to flourish.

All the best moves.

Victoria Hamilton Ex-Officio On behalf of the NTC Foundation Board of Directors, we welcome the U.S. Chess Championship players, families and sponsors to San Diego – America's Finest City. We are proud to be partners with America's Foundation for Chess in bringing the nation's elite tournament to San Diego. Paralleling values of enriching people's lives through learning and engaging activities, the NTC Foundation and AF4C joined together to bring this elite championship here. It is a great move for San Diego.

The City of San Diego is known for its extraordinary setting and a natural beauty that enriches the daily lives of its people. Inspired by a wealth of natural resources, the citizenry have built a community which reflects its surroundings. San Diego has been the host city for many widely-watched events – NFL Super Bowl, National Baseball All Star Game and World Series. And now – the U.S. Chess Championship will make its home in San Diego – and in 2006 will be at the NTC Promenade.

NTC Promenade will be the flagship for arts, culture, science and technology that will reflect, advance and strengthen San Diego as a Center for Innovation and Creativity. The center will be home to hundreds of non profit organizations offering enriching and interactive experiences for resident and visitors year-round.

From the traditional opening ceremonies to the final checkmate, the U.S. Championship will be a significant new event for San Diego.

We wish all the players the best of luck!

Sincerely,

Phil Blair

CHESSMASTER

PUBLISHED BY UBISOFT

Here at Ubisoft we are committed to bringing the game of chess to children and adults through our partnership with America's Foundation for Chess and our Chessmaster line of products. Together we are bringing the game of chess to more Americans every day. We are proud to help sponsor the U.S Chess Championships which will generate greater interest in the game by showcasing the United States' best players. We know that the game of chess helps develop analytical skills and creative thinking, and we think it's a lot of fun too.

We wish all the players good luck and happy gaming.

Changing the Face of The U.S. Chess Championship

The mission of America's Foundation for Chess (AF4C) is to strengthen the minds and character of young people by advancing chess in American schools and culture. AF4C advances chess in American schools by organizing scholastic chess programs that utilize its First Move chess curriculum. AF4C advances chess in American culture by hosting the U.S. Chess Championships.

Since taking over the running of the historic national title in 2000, AF4C has made several innovative changes to revitalize the Championships - the most significant of which was the integration of men, women and juniors all competing for the first time in an event that is now open for all Americans to qualify for.

More People Compete For National Titles

Seventeen top-rated players (12 men, 5 women) – including the 2003 U.S. Champion Alexander Shabalov and the 2004 U.S. Women's Champion Jennifer Shahade, the 2003 and 2004 U.S. Junior Champions, Varuzhan Akobian and Lev Milman, and the 2002 and 2003 USCF Grand Prix Champion Aleks Wojtkiewicz were automatically seeded into the event. For the first time, an online Champion of Champions event hosted by the Internet Chess Club saw Ronald Burnett of Tennessee become the first qualifier from all the State Champions. Making up the rest of the field will be 43 additional players (33 men, 10 women) who survived the qualifying events held at the National Open, Foxwoods Open, the Chicago Open, the World Open, the U.S. Open and the North American Open. This open-competition format has also allowed many young, non-titled players to compete for the first time for a cherished spot in the national championship.

In addition, AF4C will utilize two wild card spots, agreed to by the USCF, to further our mission of promoting chess. AF4C's Wild Card committee voted to invite returning superstar Gata Kamsky after a five-year lay-off from the game, who will be this year's top seed, as well as 14-year-old Salvijus Bercys, the #1 U.S. rated player under the age of 16.

Richest Prize in U.S. Chess Championship History

AF4C has consistently boosted the prize fund since taking over in 2000, and this year the prize fund for the 2005 U.S. Chess Championships is a record $253,600. This unprecedented amount - with $25,000 slotted for the winner - should encourage more Americans to pursue a career in chess so that one day soon America finds its next Bobby Fischer – an Americanborn world champion who cultivated a new-found fascination with chess around the world.

Time Control

Each player starts with 100 minutes on the clock, during which time he or she must complete the first 40 moves. After 40 moves, 50 minutes are added to the clock and 20 more moves must be completed. After a total of 60 moves, 10 more minutes are added to the clock for all remaining moves. In addition, the clock automatically adds 30 seconds each time the player has completed his/her move (the Fischer Method).

The Nine-Round Swiss System

The Championships are a nine-round Swiss system. The Swiss system is a pairing method that determines how the players are matched against one another. In each round the players with the same number of points will combat each other. After each round the pool of players with the highest score will become smaller so that hopefully after 9 rounds one victor will emerge. If after nine rounds one or more people tie for first, a tiebreak will be played after the last round to determine the winner and prize money distribution.

Tiebreaks

In case of a final tie for first place, the tie(s) will be broken through a playoff(s). The playoff(s) will be completed prior to the closing ceremony. Time, place and schedule will be announced as soon as possible after the tied players are known. Rules and regulations, covering all anticipated solutions, will be available prior to the first round.

Chief Arbiter, Carol Jarecki

Ms. Jarecki is both a National Tournament Director and FIDE International Arbiter. She has been chief arbiter of a large array of chess events from multithousand-player scholastic tournaments to world championship matches such as the one between Kasparov and Anand at the top of the World Trade Center. She was the arbiter at the famous Kasparov/IBM Deep Blue match in New York.

U.S. CHESS CHAMPION TROPHY

Provided by Swarovski

Swarovski Crystal Full Chess Set in faceted jet and clear crystal and mirror chessboard will symbolize the United States' foremost champion in Chess. The annual trophy will list all past winners - title and women's champions – from the beginning of the Championship.

Bent Larsen Championship Prize

The organizers of the U.S. Championship proudly announce an exciting additional prize for this year's event. We want to give special recognition to players who consistently bring fighting spirit to the tournament, who decline the easy and perhaps convenient draw, and find ways to carry their games to exciting and successful conclusions. Hence, Professor Jim Roberts, Co-Founder of America's Foundation for Chess, his wife Pam and their children, Jacob and Emma, have generously donated a $5,000 cash prize to reward the player who "brings it to the table" when it matters.

The Roberts family considers that the legendary and always gracious Bent Larsen of Denmark is the player who has best captured this ideal of over-the-board courage.

The winner or winners will be chosen by Jim Roberts in association with the organizers of the U.S. Championship. Their decision will be final.

PLAYING FIELD

GM Joel Benjamin

Grandmaster Joel Benjamin was born in 1964 in the Big Apple. At the tender age of 13 he broke Bobby Fischer's record by becoming the youngest-ever U.S. Master. As a junior player Joel accomplished the rare feat of winning the National Elementary title (1976), the National Junior High crown (1978), and the National High School title (1980-81).

Other triumphs have included the U.S. Junior Championship in 1980 and 1982 and the U.S. Open

Championship in 1985, a year in which Joel also found time to graduate from Yale University. He earned the Grandmaster title a year later. Joel was U.S. Champion in 1987, 1997 and 2000. He appeared in the movie "Searching for Bobby Fischer" and was hired by IBM as a consultant for supercomputer Deep Blue in its successful match against Garry Kasparov

In 1998 the personable New Yorker was voted "Grandmaster of the Year" by the U.S. Chess Federation. This year Joel is competing in his 22nd consecutive U.S. Championship, a record!

GM Boris Gulko

Grandmaster Boris Gulko was born in the former East Germany, but spent most of his early years in the Soviet Union. Boris became an international master in 1975 and a grandmaster in 1976 - just one year after that, he won one of the strongest tournaments of the time: the national championship of

However, during the late 70's, political persecution thwarted a promising career. Boris and his wife Anna attempted to emigrate and had to endured persecution and even imprisonment.

Beaten by the KGB while a political prisoner, he engaged in a 40-day hunger strike in protest that brought international attention to his cause. Boris has won the U.S. championship in 1994 and 1999, and is the only player in to have won both the U.S. and Soviet championships. One of the few players with a plus score against Garry Kasparov (3-1), Boris has been a candidate for the World Championship title several times and has represented the U.S. team ten times at chess Olympiads and was a member of the team that brought home the gold during the World Team Championship event in Lucerne, 1993.

GM Alexander Shabalov

Defending Champion

Born in Latvia in 1967, defending champion Alexander Shabalov discovered the game of chess by watching his father play. He soon proved to be a promising talent by winning the highly competitive Under 16 Championship of the Soviet Union in 1982. He studied chess under former world chess champion Mikhail Tal, and in 1988 chose the career of being a professional player; going on to become a grandmaster in 1991

With the Soviet Union beginning to crumble, Shabalov and his wife left in 1992 and settled in Pittsburgh. They have two daughters, Anna, 15, and Kathy, 11.

In 1993 Alex won both the prestigious U.S. Open and the U.S. Championship sharing the latter title with Alexander Yermolinsky. In 2000 Alex, won the U.S. Championship together with Yasser Seirawan and Joel Benjamin. Winning his third title in 2003 proved to be a major turning point in Alexander's career, as he went on to win practically every top tournament in the U.S. since to become the country's leading money winner in the game.

Alex debuted for the U.S. team during the 1994 Moscow Olympiad, played second board at the Elista Olympiad, and only last month in Spain played his part in the U.S. team scoring fourth place at the Calvia Olympiad. Alexander is regarded as an 'Open warrior' on the tournament circuit, and is often seen playing in events both in the U.S. and Europe.

WGM Irina Krush

Born in Odessa, USSR (now the Ukraine) in 1983. Irina Krush is widely known for her series of chess training videos, the "Krushing Attacks" series.

Krush gained fame both inside and outside chess circles during the well-publicized "Kasparov versus The World" chess match in 1999 sponsored by Microsoft. Garry Kasparov played the white pieces and the Internet public voted on moves for the black pieces, guided by Krush and three other young chess experts. Thanks to Krush's efforts, the game was a splendid brawl, and the outcome was in doubt for more than fifty moves before Kasparov eventually won - but only after controversy when the World failed to play a Krush recommended move that could have saved the day.

Irina became the youngest woman ever to compete in the U.S.

Women's Chess Championship, at age 11. A Master at age 12, Irina won the 1998 US Women's Chess Championship at the age of 14, and this year is the #1 seeded woman player.

Already a holder of the Women's Grandmaster (WGM) title, Irina also holds the title of International Master (IM) and has one of three tournament results (norms) necessary to qualify for a full International Grandmaster (GM) title. Last month in Spain, Irina was a leading member of the U.S. Women's team that captured the silver medal at the Calvia Olympiad - the first time the U.S. team has ever won a women's medal in a world team competition.

WIM Jennifer Shahade

Women's International Master Jennifer Shahade discovered chess through her father. She likes the emotional intensity of the game and the joys of a critical win or a brilliant combination.

Her biggest chess accomplishments are U.S. Junior Open Champion in 1998 and a steadily improving record in the U.S. Women's Championship: 1997 - fourth place, 1998 – third place, 1999 – second place. The 2002 Championships became the jewel in the crown when Jennifer became the state of the first time in a field that saw man and women.

Women's Champion for the first time in a field that saw men and women compete for the titles together. Her final score of 5.0/9 gave her the additional satisfaction of earning her first International Master norm to become only the second U.S. woman in history to accomplish this level of excellence in chess competition.

After losing out in playoff in 2003 to Anna Hahn, during the summer Jenny recaptured her U.S. Women's Championship title and thus is the defending women's champion. With Irina Krush, Jenny was a member of the U.S. Women's team that captured silver at the Calvia Olympiad.

Currently Jennifer is a full-time student at New York University. She has been teaching chess part time for the last four years for Chess in the Schools, a non-profit organization based in New York and has found teaching chess to enthusiastic students to be great fun.

GM Hikaru Nakamura

This unassuming teenager from White Plains, New York, who loves spaghetti, tennis and ping pong, is the brightest American star since Bobby Fischer.

Hikaru Nakamura was born in Japan and moved to the U.S. when he was two years old. He began playing chess at the age of seven and reached the level of National Master within a mere two and a half years. He holds a whole clutch of national youth titles and is the youngest American ever to earn the master title, which he achieved at the age earn the master title, which he achieved at the age of 10 years and 79 days.

Now 16 years old, Hikaru is already ranked among the world's elite players, and is currently the highest-rated player in the world at 16 and under with a world rating of 2601 on the July 2004 list. Recently, he scored several impressive victories in the 2004 FIDE World Championship held in Tripoli, Libya in June. In the 128 player knock-out format, he reached the quarter finals.

Founded in 1961 and located in the heart of Europe's Silicon Valley (Dresden, Germany), ZMD has a rich heritage for successfully designing and producing high-performance, leading edge analog, digital and mixed-signal standard and full-custom integrated circuits.

For over four decades, ZMD application specific integrated circuits (ASICs) and application specific standard products (ASSPs) have been servicing the world's automotive, industrial, medical, telecommunications and consumer markets. During this time, ZMD has established an enviable reputation for fabricating highly reliable, cost-effective CMOS and BiCMOS silicon solutions.

Today, ZMD ASICs are employed by the millions in many of the world's top. Fortune 100 companies in providing leading edge solutions in numerous wireless sensor and sensor applications.

During our 40-year history, ZMD has developed a vast library of innovative macro cell designs and process enhancements. ZMD's RB^{IC} resistive bridge signal conditioning IC utilizes our unique ZACwire™ macro to provide a one-wire analog/digital communication. Our 900MHz, IEEE 802.15.4 compliant ZigBee™ IC, provides a low cost, low power transceiver solution for wireless sensor networks. ZMD's propriety fabrication process boasts the world's best non-volatile EEPROM that operates at temperatures up to 150°C − while our proprietary high voltage ZACMOS® process operates at voltages ranging from 1−40 Volts.

ZMD is ISO 9001, QS9000/VDA6 and ISO 14000 certified.

#1 Worldwide in AS-Interface v2.11 ICs #1 Worldwide In automotive SRAM #1 Worldwide in analog front-end ICs for hearing side

Applications

Sensor ICs

- A5-Interfaces
- pressure sensors
- temperature sensors
- humidity sensors
- AMR sensors
- opto sensors
- hearing aich

Wireless

- REID
- WPAN
- IrDA

Standard products (ASSPs)

- automotive SRAMs and mSRAMs
- AS-Interface ICs
- LIN-transceiver ICs
- sensor signal conditioner ICs
- RFID ICs
- + WPAN ICS

Sensor Technologies

- pressure
- temperature
- force
- capacitance
- displacement

Markets

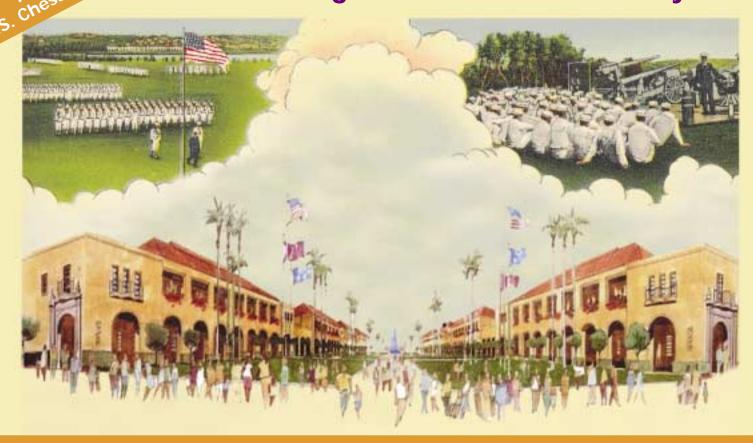

- automotive
- communication
- personal diagnostics
- industrial automation
- consumer automation.
- home automation

San Diego's Naval Training Center. It changed lives. It altered history.

NOW YOU HAVE AN OPPORTUNITY TO BE A LASTING PART OF IT

BUY A BRICK!

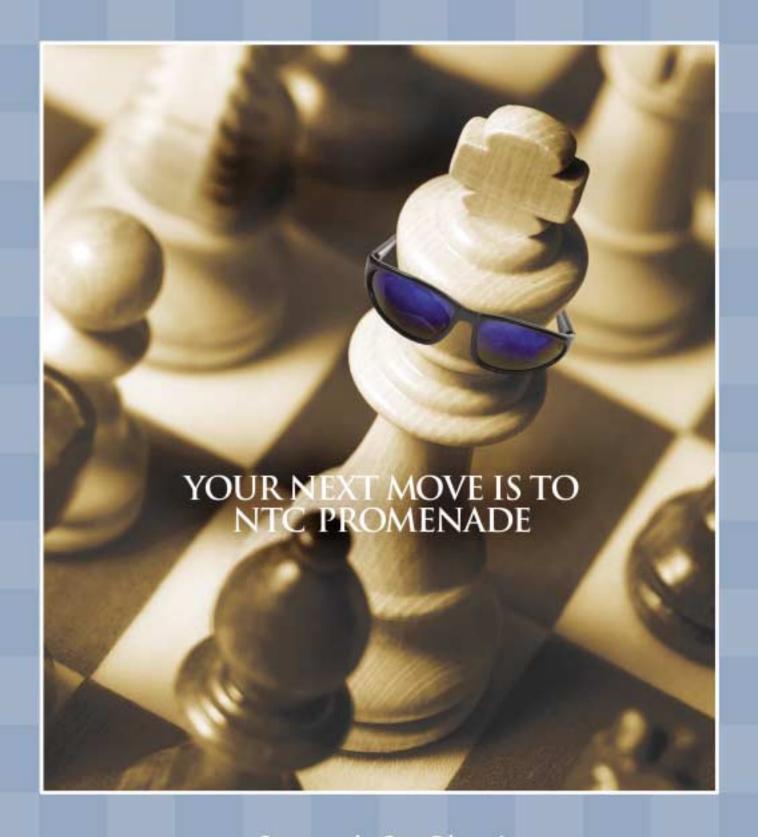

Preserve the Legacy of NTC San Diego and Honor Those Who Served

Act today to preserve 26 historic buildings at San Diego's Naval Training Center (NTC) and pave the way for its new mission as NTC Promenade – San Diego's new flagship destination for arts, science, culture and technology. 26 historic buildings are being renovated by the NTC Foundation and will reopen to once again educate, inspire and change lives for generations. You can buy a personalized NTC Brick to permanently honor family, friends and those who served. NTC bricks will be prominently placed in 3 Legacy Plaza along the NTC Promenade in the historic district. There's no more fitting way to "honor the past" and leave your mark at San Diego's new destination. Only a limited number of bricks are available starting at $150.
