EUROPEAN EXPANSION AND GLOBAL INTERACTION

General Editors:

Pieter Emmer, Institute for the History of European Expansion, Leiden University

Seymour Drescher, University Professor, Department of History, University of Pittsburgh

It may be said that the question of how the technology, languages, institutions, and even pastimes of Western Europe came to dominate global civilization — even came to create that civilization — is the greatest historical question of modern times. Yet scholars have paid relatively little attention to this veritable monumental phenomenon. This new series is designed to offer a forum for debate and bring new research to light.

THE LANGUAGE ENCOUNTER IN THE AMERICAS, 1492-1800

Edited by Edward G. Gray, Florida State University and Norman Fiering, John Carter Brown Library, Brown University

"This collection is a very welcome addition to scholarship on Native-European encounters in the New World ... Both the broad coverage and the interdisciplinary approaches ... will offer future scholars of colonial situations conceptual tools ... a strong and accessible collection that will lead scholars of diverse subfields in very profitable common directions." — Indigenous Nations Studies

THE JEWS AND THE EXPANSION OF EUROPE TO THE WEST, 1400-1800

Edited by Paolo Bernardini, Boston University, and Norman Fiering, John Carter Brown Library, Brown University

"A substantial contribution to the scholarship on Indian [Native-American]-European relations ... Specialists will find new nuggets to challenge existing interpretations, while readers new to the topic will find useful introductions and more detailed case studies that give some idea of the current issues under scholarly debate. All readers will experience the benefits of looking at one topic comparatively across vast amounts of space and time." — Itinerario

THE DUTCH-MUNSEE ENCOUNTER IN AMERICA

WINNER OF THE

The Struggle for Sovereignty in the Hudson Valley

Paul Otto, George Fox University

“The Dutch-Munsee Encounter in America fills a major gap in scholarly studies of New Netherland. With keen judgment and perceptive analysis, Paul Otto examines European intrusion into the lower Hudson Valley and western Long Island and evaluates the changes it wrought on Indian and Dutch societies. This deeply-researched book is as nearly definitive—in the absence of Munsee sources—as it could be, and the comparative essay on South Africa is a valuable bonus.”

—Alden T. Vaughan,
Professor Emeritus of History,
Columbia University

Employing a frontier framework, this book traces intercultural relations in the lower Hudson River valley of early seventeenth-century New Netherland. It explores the interaction between the Dutch and the Munsee Indians and considers how they, and individuals within each group, interacted, focusing in particular on how the changing colonial landscape affected their cultural encounter and Munsee cultural development. At each stage of European colonization—first contact, trade, and settlement—the Munsees faced evolving and changing challenges.

Understanding culture in terms of worldview and societal structures, this volume identifies ways in which Munsee society changed in an effort to adjust to the new intercultural relations and looks at the ways the Munsees maintained aspects of their own culture and resisted any imposition of Dutch societal structures and sovereignty over them. In addition, the book includes a suggestive afterward in which the author applies his frontier framework to Dutch-indigenous relations in the Cape colony.

THE SOUNDS OF SILENCE

Nineteenth-Century Portugal and the Abolition of the Slave Trade

João Pedro Marques, Instituto de Investigação Científica Tropical (Lisbon)
Translated from the Portuguese by
Richard Wall

"About the year 1770, the slave trade was at its height, legal everywhere, an integral part of the commerce and society of the Atlantic world. One hundred years later, the slave trade had vanished and chattel slavery itself was destined for extinction. The causes and the dynamics of this radical change are hotly debated. The Sounds of Silence contributes to this debate by investigating the attitudes and political changes that in Portugal led to the ending of the slave trade" — Luso-Brazilian Review

POSSESSING THE WORLD

Taking the Measurements of Colonisation from the 18th to the 20th Century

Bouda Etemad, Universities of Geneva and Lausanne. Translated from the French by Andrene Everson

Based on an impressive body of information and data, this volume recounts the history of five continents over a long stretch of time and in a comparative approach. From the beginning of European expansion the question was posed: what were the "empire tools" that gave Europe its military superiority, even before the industrial revolution? What was it that enabled Europeans to withstand life-threatening tropical diseases and to control indigenous populations? This book gives a fresh and wide-ranging view of the construction and collapse of the modern colonial empires of Europe, the United States of America and Japan.

THE DUTCH SLAVE TRADE, 1500-1850

Pieter Emmer, University of Leiden
Translated from the Dutch by Chris Emery

P.C. Emmer, one of the most prominent experts in Dutch Atlantic slavery, tells the story of Dutch involvement in the trade from the beginning of the 17th century—much later than the Spaniards and the Portuguese—and goes on to show how the trade shifted from Brazil to the Caribbean. He explains how the purchase of slaves was organized in Africa, records their dramatic transport across the Atlantic, and examines how the sales machinery worked. Drawing on his prolonged study of the topic, he presents his subject clearly and soberly, although never forgetting the tragedy hidden behind the numbers – the dark side of the Dutch Golden Age –, which makes this study not only informative but also very readable.

PIOUS PURSUITS

German Moravians in the Atlantic World

Edited by Michele Gillespie. Wake Forest University and Robert Beachy, Goucher College

This volume offers a fresh vantage point from which to examine the Atlantic world. Quick to traverse the conventional political boundaries that divided European states and American colonies, Moravians departed their homelands to form new congregations in the most cosmopolitan European cities as well as on the North American frontier. This volume explores Atlantic World Moravians' lives and beliefs, their communities and their culture, and provides a new framework for analysis of the Atlantic world that is comparative, and even transnational.
