FIFA World Cup Finals facts and figures

Four World Cup Finals have gone to extra time: Italy's 2-1 defeat of Czechoslovakia in 1934 after a 1-1 draw in regular time; England's 4-2 victory over Germany FR in 1966 when England scored twice in the added half hour to win the match, Argentina's 3-1 defeat of the Netherlands in 1978 when the hosts ended the 1-1 stalemate in extra time thanks to two goals and finally Spain's 1-0 victory over the Netherlands in 2010 when Spain ended the goalless draw of regular time with a goal at the 116th minute.

Two Finals have been settled by penalty shoot outs and both involving Italy. In 1994 Brazil beat them to win the match after 120 minutes without goals. Italy were again faced with penalties after equalising 1-1 with France but this time the Azzurri secured match victory.

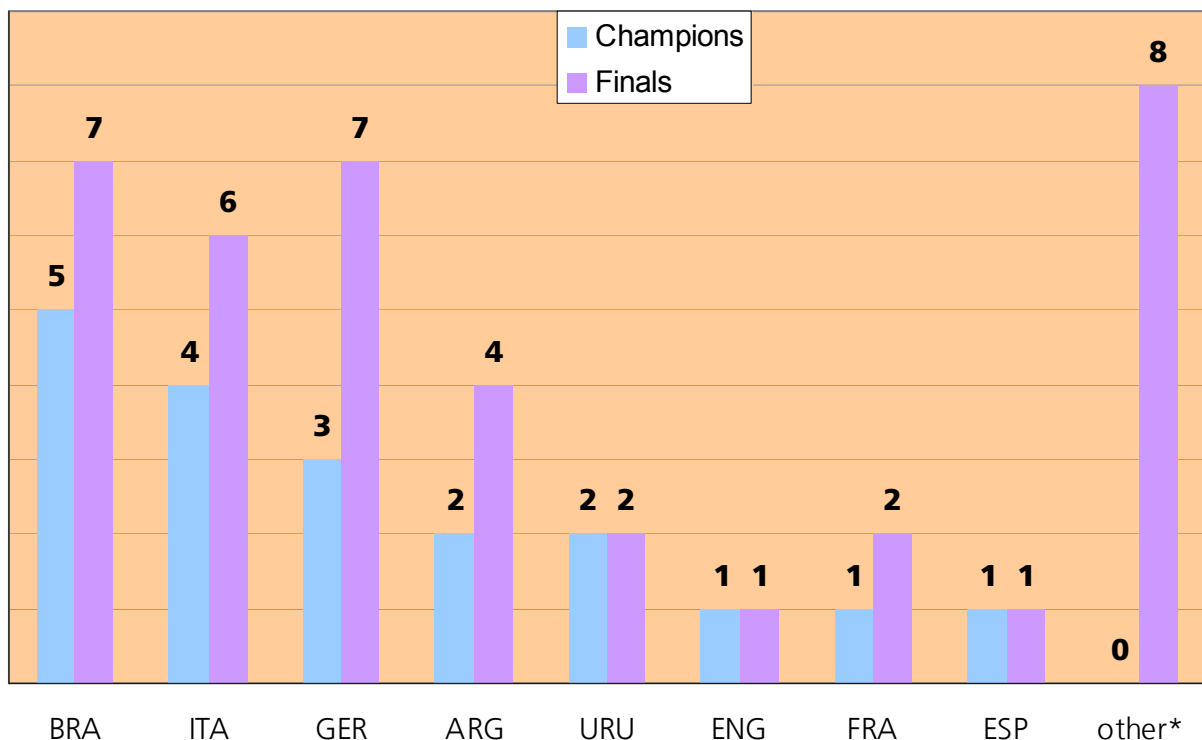

Germany FR-Argentina in 1990 was the only Final decided by a single penalty.

The World Cup goal average is 3.7. Only one match, Brazil-Italy in 1994 was a scoreless draw. The Final with the most goals was Brazil-Sweden 5-2 in 1958.

On eight occasions a team that scored first in the Final did not continue its lead to win the title including Czechoslovakia who did so twice in 1934 v Italy and again in 1962 v Brazil and Hungary who were leading by a margin of two goals before being defeated 3-2 by Germany FR in 1954.

Uruguay are the only team to win a title even though their opponent was leading at half time. In 1930 they were down 1-2 after 45 minutes against Argentina before coming back in the second half to win the match 4-2.
