

ALPHA Durenberger, David.

David Durenberger senatorial files, 1954-1996 (bulk 1978-1994).
418.0 cu. ft. (425 boxes).

Papers of a three-term Republican U.S. Senator from Minnesota who served from 1978 to 1995. Durenberger was a political moderate with expertise in health care, environmental, foreign affairs, and government operations issues. Includes some miscellaneous material predating his first term in office.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

Dave (David Ferdinand) Durenberger was born in St. Cloud (Minn.) on August 19, 1934, the son of George and Isabelle Durenberger. The elder Durenberger was for many years athletic director at St. John's University (Collegeville, Minn.).

Dave Durenberger graduated from St. John's Preparatory School (Collegeville, Minn.) in 1951, and in 1955 earned a B.A. Degree in political science from St. John's University. He served as a lieutenant in the Army Counter-Intelligence Corps in 1956 and, from 1957 to 1963, was a captain in the U.S. Army Reserve.

Durenberger graduated from the University of Minnesota Law School in 1959, and from 1959 to 1966 practiced law with the South St. Paul law firm of LeVander, Gillen, Miller and Durenberger. He served as executive secretary to Minnesota Governor Harold LeVander (his former law partner) from 1967-1971. Durenberger worked for the H.B. Fuller Company (St. Paul) from 1971 to 1978, where he served as manager of the international licensing division, counsel for legal and community affairs, and corporate secretary. During this period, Durenberger also served as chairman of the Metropolitan Open Space Advisory Board (1972-1974) and as a member of the Minnesota State Ethical Practices Board (1974-1978).

In 1977 Durenberger began a campaign for governor, but later withdrew from that race to run for the senate seat vacated when Democrat Hubert Humphrey died in office. He won election to the seat in a special election held on November 7, 1978, and assumed office the next day. He won reelection in 1982 and 1988.

Senator Durenberger's committee assignments included the Finance, Environment and Public Works, Labor and Human Resources, Intergovernmental Relations, Governmental Affairs, and Intelligence committees; the Senate Special Committee on Aging; the Select Committee on Ethics; and the Finance Subcommittee on Health. He spent much of his time working on health care reform issues.

Following a Senate Ethics Committee investigation into his activities, Durenberger was denounced by the Senate on July 25, 1990. The issues involved had to do with royalties from a book publishing deal and an arrangement whereby he received reimbursement from the federal government for stays in a Minneapolis condominium. In August, 1995 Durenberger pled guilty to five misdemeanor charges in connection with the condominium arrangement.

Durenberger decided not to run in 1994 for a fourth term in the Senate. After retiring he worked as a health and public policy advisor for APCO Associates, Inc., a Washington, D.C. lobbying and consulting firm, and was a graduate school instructor at the University of St. Thomas (St. Paul).

Durenberger and his first wife, Judy, had four sons. Judy died in 1970, and in 1971 he married Penny Baran. Dave and Penny later divorced and in 1995 he married Susan Bartlett Foote.

DESCRIPTION OF THE PAPERS

The collection documents Durenberger's three terms in the United States Senate, and is strongest in its documentation of the final term (1989-1995). The papers are perhaps most significant for the information they contain about his interest in, and legislative activities regarding, health policy and health care reform issues.

The collection is divided into six sections and includes records from both the Washington, D.C. office (Sections I-V) and the Minnesota office (Section VI). See the Summary Box List, below, for a general overview of the collection.

The papers include subject files, legislative activities reports (Section II, boxes 7-10) and voting records, bills, briefing books, news clippings, audio and video tapes, press releases and statements, speeches (Section VI and scattered throughout the collection), newsletters, schedules, trip files, hearing transcripts, polling and research data, correspondence and memoranda, and a variety of reports and government publications. A series of appointment books (Section I, boxes 66-67) provides a picture of Durenberger's day-to-day routine and activities.

The bulk of the collection consists of legislative assistants' subject files (Sections II and VI). These are organized by topic and document Durenberger's work in the areas of agriculture; business, taxes, and trade; environment, energy, and natural resources; foreign relations (including defense and intelligence); judicial appointments and other related matters; and transportation and infrastructure.

The largest group of legislative assistants' files are those relating to health policy issues and health care reform. Health care reform--controlling health care costs, expanding coverage and availability, etc.--was the focus of much congressional debate and legislative activity during Durenberger's final term in office. There is information about health care reform proposals advanced by the Clinton administration and by congressional Republicans; health-related committee hearings and legislation; and issues such as aging, catastrophic insurance, long-term care, Medicaid, Medicare, medical malpractice, and drugs and pharmaceuticals.

Campaign files include information about Durenberger's senate election campaigns and his opponents: Democrats Bob Short (1978), Mark Dayton (1982), and Hubert H. ("Skip") Humphrey III (1988). There is also some information about the 1978 Minnesota governor's race (Section I, boxes 2-3). Two of Durenberger's posters from the 1978 Governor's race are located at +76 (See "+" inventory notebooks for a description.).

Ethics files document investigations into several alleged Durenberger ethical lapses: the so-called Pollard Case, involving national security leaks (1985-1988); the book and condominium deals (1985-1994); and a rape/paternity suit (1992-1993). There are ethics-related sound and visual materials in Section VI-Part 4.

There is some information about other politicians and about partisan and Republican Party politics; about Governor Harold LeVander; and about his alma mater, St. John's University. There is a small sampling of grant/project files.

Correspondence and memoranda are found throughout the collection, both alone (Section I) and within the various subject files. Correspondents include Durenberger and his staffers; administration officials; constituents; federal officials and agencies; fellow senators and representatives; state and local government officials; businesses and industry groups; lobbyists, political action committees, and others interested in policy or in specific issues and legislation; and Durenberger's attorneys (Ethics Files - Section I).

Audio and video tapes are found in two places in the collection: Campaign Files (Section I) and TV and Radio Files (Section VI). Videocassettes comprise about 4.15 cu. ft. of the collection. There are some still photographs (4 folders/0.25 cu. ft.) in various places in the collection: (Section I, boxes 2 and 32; Section V, box 3; and Section VI, box 2). A VHS videocassette of Durenberger campaign advertisements (1982), formerly cataloged separately in the MHS Sound and Visual collections as Video Tape 429, was added to the other audio-visual materials in the Campaign Files (Section I, box 29). See the Photographs in Archives and Manuscripts Collections notebooks for more information about the videocassettes and still photos.

There is some information in the collection about Durenberger's work on the Senate Intelligence Committee, including press accounts of his feud with CIA Director William Casey (Section VI-Part 4, boxes 56-57). There are some intelligence-related speeches (Section VI-Part 4, box 64). Other intelligence-related material is found in Foreign Affairs (Section II, boxes 81-83).

Scattered miscellaneous personal material from earlier years is found in Sections I, II, and VI. Some of this contains information about, or otherwise relates to, Governor LeVander.

Durenberger's papers as executive secretary to Governor LeVander are found in the Minnesota State Archives with LeVander's records.

Durenberger's books, Neither Madmen nor Messiahs (1984) and Prescription for Change (1986), are cataloged separately in the Minnesota Historical Society book collection. Published government documents relating to the Senate Select Committee on Ethics investigation of Durenberger's activities (exhibits, reports of the committee and the special counsel, and memoranda submitted on behalf of Durenberger) are also in the Society's book collection. There is some miscellaneous Durenberger campaign ephemera in the Society's museum collections.

In 1996 major additions of new material were made to an existing collection of Durenberger papers, which had arrived at the Society between 1979 and 1988. At that time the entire collection was reorganized into six sections in accordance with the outline presented by Senate Historical Office archivist Karen Dawley Paul in Records Management Handbook for United States Senators and Their Archival Repositories (1992).

Ethics FilesFirst Investigation:
Pollard Case (national security leaks)

Jonathan J. Pollard was a U.S. Navy intelligence analyst arrested on Nov. 21, 1985 and charged with selling classified documents to Israel. He subsequently pled guilty to espionage charges. Documents had to do with Arab and Islamic countries military activity.

Durenberger (former chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence) made two speeches before Jewish groups in Florida on March 15, 1987 (claiming he was trying to put the Pollard case into some context) in which he said that the CIA had started it all by recruiting a disgruntled Israeli military officer to spy on his government for Washington in 1982. This angered Reagan administration officials...they at the Israeli government denied it. The Senate Ethics Committee began an investigation into Dave Durenberger's apparent breach of security (saying these things in these speeches), and there was talk of censure.

Ethics Committee in April 1988 concluded that Dave Durenberger's statements had given "the appearance" that he was disclosing sensitive national security information, but because his actions were not intentional, etc., they did not recommend the Senate take institutional action against him (4/27/88 letter in Staff Files: miscellany).

Minnesota National Issues Opinion Survey

Questionnaires (April 1992) produced by Durenberger and sent to constituents using pre-printed address labels. They include some critical comments/responses. Address such issues as Federal spending priorities; spending, taxes, and deficit reduction; the Federal budget; and challenges facing America. There is space for respondents' comments.

There are no tabulations, interpretations, or summary data. The questionnaires are in no discernible order.

Legislative Assistants' Files

The files consist of interoffice memoranda, both within the Minnesota office and between the Minnesota and Washington offices; correspondence; reports and other printed material; newspaper clippings; press releases; position papers; background information; and other material reflecting Durenberger's legislative interests and activities, committee assignments, and issues of concern to his constituents. Correspondents and organizations represented in the collection include constituents, congressional colleagues, federal and state government officials, lobbyists and interest groups, environmental and industry organizations, and others.

Karen Humphrey/Bonnie McCarvel/Shirley Hunt

Primarily files of legislative assistant Karen Humphrey (1989-1994) and her predecessor, Bonnie McCarvel (1985-1989). There are a few files from their predecessor Shirley Hunt (1979-1983), who was temporarily reassigned to the Washington D.C. office in 1981.

Health Issues: Mary C. Edwards

These are mainly the files of legislative aide Mary C. Edwards, Durenberger's legislative aide for health and human resources/services issues (ca.1987-ca.1993). There are also files of Ed Garvey, legislative aide for Health Issues and apparently Edwards' successor (ca.1993-ca.1994). The files document Durenberger's interest in and legislative activity with regard to health issues, including health care reform during the Clinton Administration--both the president's plan and Republican alternative proposals.

Human Resources Issues:

Files kept by Louise Forseth, Kenyari Bellfield, Bev Carlson, and Mary Edwards prior to 1988. These files are concerned largely with children/youth, economic equity/comparable worth, education, Native Americans (especially the White Earth Reservation), urban, and veterans' issues and legislation.

Minnesota Directors' Files:

The Minnesota Director was responsible for managing Durenberger's Minnesota office and outreach program, and was his primary political representative and community relations liaison in the state. The Minnesota Director was responsible for managing and supervising all personnel assigned to the Minnesota office, including the legislative assistants. He or she was responsible for managing the senator's "presence" at Minnesota events (managing the use of his time while in the state, representing him at key events, etc.). The Minnesota Director reported to Durenberger's Administrative Assistant (Chief of Staff) in Washington, D.C. Durenberger's Minnesota Directors included:

George Thiss	1979-Dec. 1983
Kitty (Katherine) Gamble	Dec. 1983-1989
Alice Negratti	1989-1991
Jim Heap	1992-1993
Bill Fritts	1993-1994
[Jon Schroeder?	1994-1995?]

The files include correspondence and memoranda, news clippings, press releases, position papers, reports, some speeches and constituent newsletters, copies and drafts of bills, some manuals, and background information and briefing material relating to legislative issues, Durenberger's appearances in Minnesota (town meetings, field hearings, the Minnesota State Fair), and to a variety of local projects, issues, and concerns. There is information about office management and staff (including job descriptions), and a few files related to Durenberger's 1982 and 1988 reelection campaigns. Staff represented in the files (in addition to the Minnesota directors) include policy development director Jon Schroeder; legislative assistants Bonnie McCarvel, Phil Cohen, and Mary Edwards; and staff assistant Christina Pierson.

Policy Development Director's Files

(Jon Schroeder)

Jon Schroeder was based in Durenberger's Minnesota office ca.1984-1994, where he served variously as Communications Director, Director of Policy Development, and possibly as Minnesota Director. He was also staff assistant for youth apprenticeship, job training, vocational education, and unemployment compensation issues; education; and human services. He was Legislative Liaison on labor, welfare reform, civil rights, campaign finance reform, and crime/gun control issues; Minnesota Staff Liaison on defense and foreign affairs issues; and Chief Staffer on national service and service learning issues.

These are probably Schroeder's files as Director of Policy Development (ca.1989-ca.1991), in which position he was responsible for initiating, coordinating, and supervising legislative planning and issue development in and from Minnesota. The Director of Policy Development reported to the Senator and to the Administrative Assistant in Washington, D.C. He or she had a lateral relationship with the Legislative Director, the Communications Director, and the Minnesota Director. The position was created around March 1989.

Schroeder's files as Communications Director are in Press/Media Records, below.

Public Relations Files:

Includes press releases and "media advisories," miscellaneous constituent newsletters, statements made by Durenberger in committee and on the Senate floor, opinion pieces, and letters-to-the-editor on a wide range of topics from throughout Durenberger's years in the Senate. There are also transcriptions of his radio programs, and of television news/interview programs on which he appeared.

There are newspaper clippings related to Durenberger's ethical and legal troubles, particularly investigations into Durenberger's book and condominium deals, and his subsequent denouncement by the Senate. Other clippings concern allegations made by a woman in the 1990s that he had fathered her son some 30 years earlier.

Speeches

Typed copies of Durenberger's speeches before various constituent and other groups, and floor statements: copies of Durenberger's remarks made in the Senate on a variety of topics of both national and local interest and reprinted from the Congressional Record for distribution to constituents, the media, and others (also known as Congressional Record Inserts).

Speech files consist mainly of speech texts, "talking points," and statements issued by Durenberger. The files also contain press releases and staff memoranda. Virtually all of the speeches appear to be final drafts. Seldom are there multiple drafts of a given speech, and very few speeches contain any annotations.

TV and Radio Files:

Audio and video cassettes featuring coverage of Durenberger's press conferences, appearances on news and public affairs programs, media interviews, and meetings with newspaper editorial boards. There are speeches before constituent groups; business, industry, and professional organizations; I-R district conventions; and before groups of local government officials. There are TV news clips, some of which relate to the senator's ethics problems; recordings of Durenberger's appearances at community events, at his issues forums/town meetings, at field hearings, and at fundraising events. There are also recordings of some of Durenberger's remarks in the Senate (floor statements/floor debates).

Audio and video cassettes related to Durenberger's election and reelection campaigns are found in the Campaign Records record group (Section I).

The audio tapes are all standard cassettes. The video cassettes are nearly all of the VHS type, although there are a few of the "studio" type intended for broadcast at television station facilities (MHS may not have the necessary equipment to view them).

Two 17" x 20" political posters (1977-1978) from Durenberger's short-lived 1978 campaign for governor of Minnesota. One features Durenberger's portrait.

Durenberger conducted a brief campaign for governor in 1977-1978. He later dropped out of that race in order to run for the Senate seat left vacant by the death of Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey in early 1978.
