

Bournemouth's Listed Buildings

The Echo Building, Richmond Hill

INTRODUCTION

The majority of historic buildings within the Borough date from the Victorian and Edwardian eras, although there are a few of 18th century origin and even earlier. The special architectural or historic interest of some of the buildings in Bournemouth has been recognised as an important national asset and they have been listed. Listed building status ensures that these buildings are legally protected against unauthorised demolition, alteration or extension and that their character and setting is preserved for future generations. This leaflet aims to give a brief explanation of how this legislation affects the owners/occupiers of listed buildings.

What is a Listed Building?

A listed building is one that is included in the Statutory List of Buildings of Special Architectural or Historic Interest. This list is compiled or approved by the Secretary of State. The concept of listed buildings was introduced by the Town and Country Planning Act 1947. Control of works in respect of listed buildings is contained in the Planning (Listed Buildings and Conservation Areas) Act 1990. Historic buildings are listed by English Heritage and are classified into three grades - Grade I, II* or II depending on their importance.

How are they selected?

Buildings are selected for inclusion on the list according to criteria such as their architectural interest, historic interest, close historical association and group value. For full details please refer to 'Principles of Selection for Listing Buildings' produced by the Department for Culture, Media and Sport (dcms). Age and rarity are relevant considerations and buildings on the list will include:

- All buildings before 1700 that contain a significant proportion of their original fabric;
- Most buildings from 1700 to 1840;
- Selected buildings after 1840 due to the increased numbers built and surviving today.
- Buildings less than 30 years old if they are of outstanding quality and under threat.

For advice on how to get a building listed you are advised to contact English Heritage.

How are they graded?

Historic buildings are a finite resource; once a particular building is lost, it cannot be replaced. Listed buildings make an important contribution to the character of an area either in isolation or as part of a group. They are of intrinsic architectural or historic interest, and are graded according to their relative importance: Grade I, II* or II. Grade I and II* include buildings of outstanding architectural or historic interest and of great importance to the nation's built heritage. Grade II identifies buildings of special interest.

Some churches in Bournemouth on older lists were designated under an ecclesiastical system as Grade A, B or C. In recent years, however, English Heritage have reassessed all churches within the Borough that were classified under this old system and have regraded them as Grade I, II* or II to accord with the majority of other listed buildings.

What does the listing cover?

The listing covers the entire building both internally and externally. It also extends to include any object or structure which is fixed to the building, or is within its curtilage and forms part of the land and has done so since before July 1948.

How many does Bournemouth have?

Bournemouth has approximately 239 listed structures. The nature of these within the Borough is very diverse and includes water towers, telephone kiosks, gas lamps, railings; and a wide variety of commercial, public, industrial and agricultural buildings.

From the list: three buildings are classified as being Grade I; eight are Grade II*; the remaining buildings being Grade II listed.

Is my building listed?

An alphabetical list of all the listed buildings in Bournemouth, along with their date and grade, is included with this booklet.

How are the owners/occupiers affected.

The use of listed buildings in Bournemouth varies considerably and includes public buildings such as a museum and library in addition to ecclesiastical, residential, hotel and commercial.

Owning and/or occupying a listed building brings with it certain responsibilities and as a result there are increased restrictions on development. No work should be carried out to a listed building (either externally or internally) in any way which would affect its character as a building of special architectural or historic interest without first obtaining Listed Building Consent from the Local Planning Authority. This consent, which is quite separate from any planning permission that may additionally be required, broadly includes the following works:

- Extensions and additions to the building
- External alterations such as the replacement or alteration of windows, doors and roof coverings
- Application of coatings or cladding to walls;
- External painting; particularly previously unpainted surfaces and in other circumstances where the new colour would affect the character of the building;
- The removal or alteration of objects attached to the building, or the addition of any objects which may affect the appearance of the building, i.e. signs, meter boxes, satellite dishes, drain pipes, garden ornaments etc.
- The demolition (totally or partly) of any part or feature of the building, whether external or internal;
- Internal alterations to any part of the building where its character may be affected (in some circumstances this could include painting or removal of wall paper).

It is important to note that there is a legal requirement to obtain Listed Building Consent before carrying out the works mentioned above. However, this list is not exhaustive.

It is a criminal offence to undertake unauthorised work to a listed building and you may be liable to prosecution. You may also be required to make good any damage and to reinstate the building to its former condition at your own expense.

If you are not certain whether the work you propose requires listed building consent you are advised to contact the Local Planning Authority in writing including full details of your proposal. We will aim to provide you with advice and an informal opinion based on the information that you supply.

All applications to the Council for listed building consent will be carefully considered, taking into account the scale, design and choice of materials proposed before granting, or refusing consent.

The listing may also restrict works to other buildings, structures or objects, within the same grounds as the main building. This is because any object or structure within the curtilage of a Listed Building is also deemed to be listed if erected before 1948 and the same controls and restrictions apply. Listed Building Consent may therefore be required to carry out works to outhouses, garden walls or gates.

Curtilage of a Listed Building

- (i) A freestanding building or object erected or placed after June 1948 is not treated as a listed building, unless individually listed in its own right.

- (ii) A freestanding object or building is treated as listed if positioned / erected before 1st July 1948.

(ii)

- (iii) Any extension or fixture to a listed building whenever added will also be treated as listed.

(iii)

- (iv) A terrace of dwellings in separate ownership / occupation at time of listing: although attached, the other dwellings are not listed merely by virtue of being attached to the listed building.

(iv)

(v)

- (v) Boundary walls and gates are treated in the same way as buildings / objects.
(See (ii) above)

Repairs

The Council is keen to encourage the proper and regular maintenance of listed buildings. Listed Building Consent is not usually required for straight forward repairs using traditional materials and techniques appropriate to the building. However, it is recommended that owners inform their local planning authority that they intend to carry out such repairs. It is noted that where repairs involve alterations which would affect the character of the listed building, consent is required. It is recommended that owners inform the Local Planning Authority that they intend to carry out repairs prior to undertaking such works.

It must be emphasised that replacement materials should match exactly the original existing materials and be applied in the correct way. For example: repairs to natural slate roofs must use only natural slate to match the existing; repairs to windows and doors must follow exactly the detailing of the originals; brickwork should be repaired using traditional pointing and jointing to match the original, and replacement bricks should match the original; for example, handmade bricks.

The list description

The description of the building which appears in the list includes any special features identified at the time of the inspection. However, the descriptions were only originally intended to identify the individual buildings and they are not a comprehensive record of all the features of importance. The amount of information given in descriptions varies considerably and other features of importance any come to light after the building's inclusion in the list.

The name, address and grade of each building in the Statutory List is followed by a general description which may mention special features of interest; however, the entire building is protected, regardless of whether features are mentioned or not.

A copy of the statutory list for the Borough is held at planning reception and is available for public inspection.
