OFFICE OF THE
SUPERINTENDENT OF POLICE
CHICAGO

July 15, 1968

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Submitted herewith is the annual report of the Chicago Police Department for the year 1967. This booklet, which consolidates types of data heretofore presented in separate annual and statistical reports, is designed for reference use by governmental agencies at city, state and national levels and by others who may request information from the Department.

We are indebted to you, the City Council and other department heads for continued support of our efforts to give Chicago the finest police department in the nation.

Sincerely,

Superintendent of Police

Honorable Richard J. Daley
Mayor of Chicago
City Hall
Chicago, Ill. 60602

Crime in our city continued to increase, but to a lesser extent than elsewhere in the nation. In Chicago, Index crimes increased 5.0% over the previous year (1).* Nationwide averages, reported by the FBI, increased 16%; averages for cities over 1 million rose 7%; and for cities under 1 million average increases ranged from 15% to 23%.

The marked upsurge of Chicago summer crime experienced in 1966 did not materialize in 1967. Though there were sporadic outbreaks of civil disturbance, no major disorders occurred. Also, in contrast to 1966, when there was a decline during the autumn months, the 1967 crime rate continued to rise, dropping slightly at year's end (2, 3).

Index crimes that showed the greatest increase during 1967 were: Murder, 8.2%; Rape, 12.5%; and Robbery, 10.0%. Clearances for these crimes likewise increased. Clearance rates for 1967, which compare favorably with nationwide averages, were 36.8% for all Index crimes, 91.1% for Murder, 72.4% for Rape, and 41.6% for Robbery; the rate for Aggravated Assault was 71.0% (6, 7).

Arrests for Index crimes increased by 13.1%. Persons under 25 accounted for 75.8% of all Index crime arrests, and persons under 18 for 49.4% (8-11).

The number killed in Chicago traffic accidents declined 8.4% (21). The city's fatality rate was 3.0 per 10,000 registered vehicles; Chicago thus retained its position as second among cities over 1 million.

SERVICES TO COMMUNITIES

Greatly broadened year-round efforts to relieve social tensions and to protect citizens in areas of potential strife contributed to the 1967 reduction in summer crime. A new Community Service Division was created to coordinate human relations and community relations functions and provide staff supervision over related activities at the district level (18).

Officers of the Human Relations Section, a unit originally established in 1948, maintained continuous alert for incidents of racial, ethnic or religious conflict and kept open lines of communication between citizens and police personnel serving their neighborhoods.

Police-Community Workshops and other meetings with citizens were held once a month in each of the districts except the Central (Loop) District. To aid district commanders in programing meetings and fostering direct contacts with individual citizens, community sergeants, assisted by cadets serving as community service officers, were assigned. In certain districts, neighborhood teenagers were hired to assist in the community programs. An Officer Friendly at each district visited lower-grade classrooms of neighborhood public and parochial schools.

During the summer months, effective preventive patrol in areas of tension was achieved by a massive redeployment of field forces. The men detailed for this purpose were drawn from patrol beats and from Task Force, Traffic, Detective and Youth area units throughout the city. The number of men detailed was more than three times as large as in the previous year (14).

During 1967, tactical units, each with a sergeant and 10 patrolmen, were established at all districts. These units, directly responsible to their commanders, provide a ready, mobile reserve to handle specific problems of crime without reducing the blanket of patrol provided by beat officers. Because of their detailed knowledge of particular districts, officers of the tactical units are also called upon to assist area units of the Task Force and of the Detective and Youth Divisions.

The Gang Intelligence Unit was organized in response to an increasing number of murders and assaults committed by teenage boys. The 10-man group gathers background evidence on gang leadership, relationships among various gangs, and forces that encourage the commission of crimes by gang members. The number of Task Force personnel assigned to patrol of Chicago Transit Authority (CTA) trains and platforms was increased.

The Labor Relations Section was called upon to serve at an unusually large number of locations throughout the city. Among the 113 different strikes occurring during the year, the strikes of five unions involved picketing of 219 separate firms and 95% of all railroads, and the activities of 23,000 truck drivers on strike against a large number of individual cartage companies (13).

* The seven major crimes selected by the FBI for use in making comparisons among various jurisdictions are: Murder (including non-negligent homicide), Forcible Rape; Robbery; Aggravated Assault; Burglary; Theft, $50 and Over; and Auto Theft. Figures shown in parentheses refer to tables and charts that follow.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE YEAR

The Department completed its first full year under a school absentee program developed in cooperation with the Board of Education (12). Beat officers were instructed to question youngsters apparently truant during school hours. Of those questioned, it was found that some 17% were involved in serious violations such as burglary, shoplifting, armed robbery and possession of firearms.

STAFF FUNCTIONS

Services of staff units continued to expand. The number of inquiries by officers for computer-stored information on stolen cars and wanted persons increased 17.2% (26); midyear installation of video-type (cathode ray tube) inquiry terminals enabled dispatchers and others to obtain such information more accurately and at considerably greater speed.

Inquiry terminals to provide direct access to computer files of the National Crime Information Center (NCIC) at Washington, D.C., were also installed. Department messages via the 48-state LETS (teletype) network tripled during the year (26). Facsimile transmission for direct-image transmission of operational messages to districts and area headquarters was introduced (25).

Fingerprints submitted for comparison totalled over 162,000 (28); and guns processed for identification over 10,000 (30). Over 63,000 vehicles were removed from the city's streets; monies received for cars towed away, stored or sold totalled over $1 million (31). Department vehicles traveled 55 million miles; average expenditure, including accident and radio repair costs, was 4-3/4¢ per mile (34).

The Electronics Engineering Division was established, replacing the former Radio Maintenance Division. The new unit assumes responsibility for the planning and design of electronic equipment used throughout the Department. Among its assignments is the research and development of portable radios to provide two-way communications with officers at any location, whether on foot or in a vehicle.

Enrollment for in-service training was increased. New courses were introduced for officers of the Intelligence Division, of Task Force and district tactical units, and of district vice units, and for community service sergeants and officers (35). A program for helping Spanish-speaking men to qualify for the Civil Service patrolman examination was launched under provisions of the federal Manpower Development Training Act. Among Department research programs initiated: a manpower allocation study unit in the Planning Division under a $150,000 federal grant from the Office of Law Enforcement Assistance.

The Internal Inspections Division was established as a consolidation of the former Internal Investigation and Inspection Divisions in order to more effectively coordinate follow-up on complaints against officers lodged by citizens and surveillance initiated within the Department. To further facilitate communication in this area, a non-partisan official, the Registrar of Citizens' Complaints was appointed by the Mayor. As a major innovation in employee relations, the Superintendent appointed as Liaison Officer a detective of many years' experience to receive and transmit to him complaints presented by any member, regardless of rank.

DEPARTMENT RESOURCES

Expenditures in 1967 totalled over $113 million, of which $106 million, or 93.9%, was spent for salaries (39). The total number of personnel was 14,336, an increase of 2.8% (40). Among the year's promotions: 86 patrolmen became sergeants, 46 sergeants became lieutenants, and 9 lieutenants became captains.

TYPES OF DATA PRESENTED

Periods and months. Unless otherwise noted, tabulations are based on reports for 28-day, 13-period years. The Department's first 13-period year was 1964 (a leap year), that began 9 January 1964 and ended 6 January 1965. Ending dates for individual 28-day periods of the two years 1966 and 1967 are shown in Table 3.

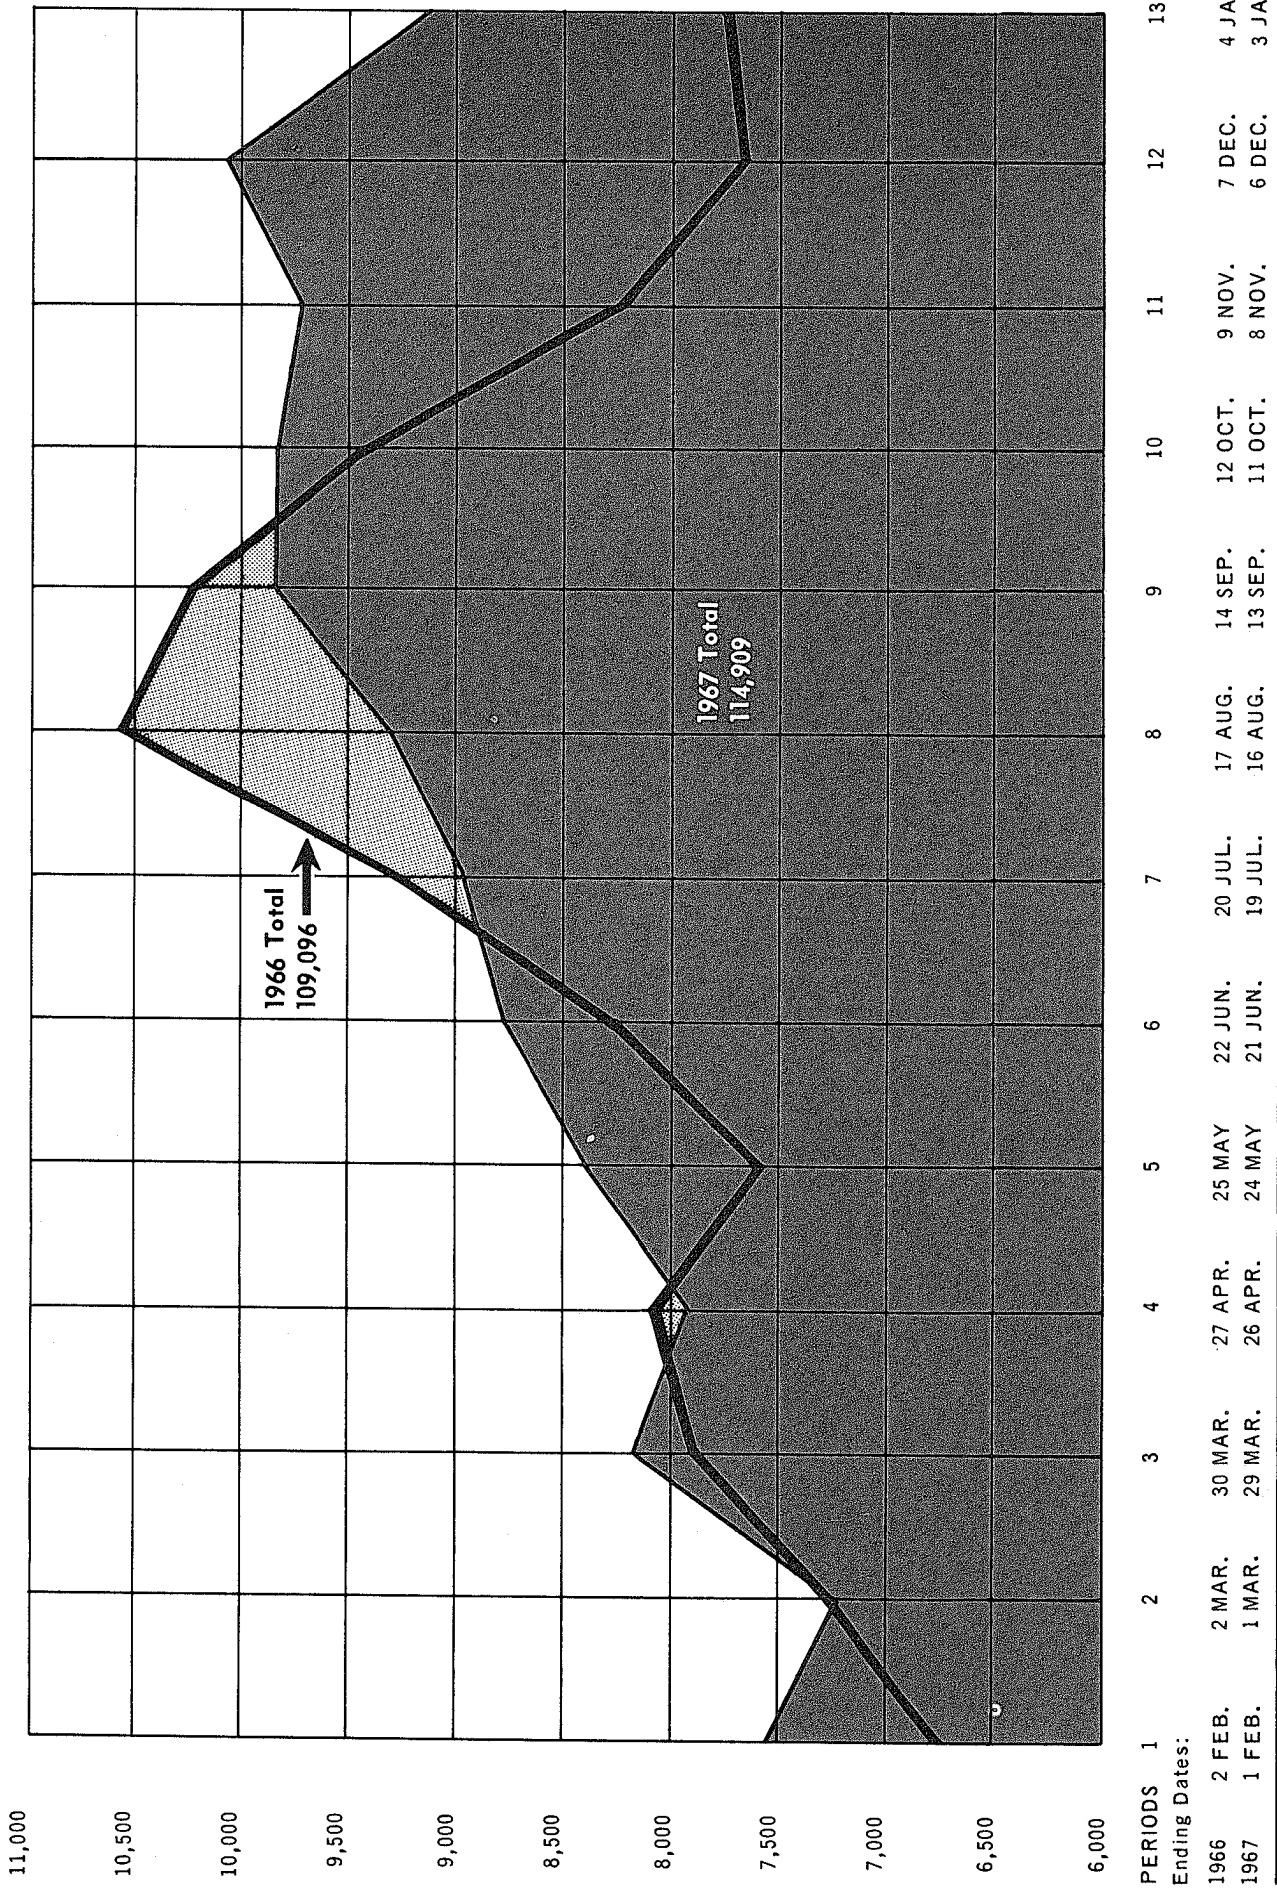

The Chicago Police uses the 13-period year because every period and year (1) contains the identical number of days, (2) begins on the same weekday and ends on the same weekday, and (3) contains the same number of normal peak workload days (Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays).

Tabulations based on the 12-month calendar year (1 January to 31 December) are presented where data related to FBI, City of Chicago or certain other reports.

It should be noted that figures for 12-month and 13-period years are not fully comparable (see Tables 1 and 2). The 12-month years 1966 and 1967 had 365 days, whereas all 13-period years had only 364 days. Yearly totals also differ when unusually high (or low) figures are recorded during the first days of January.

Revisions. Figures for 1966 reported in the Department's 1966 Statistical Report have been revised to reflect certain year-end corrections and improvements in data-reporting procedures. Figures for crimes reported, notably Rape and Aggravated Assault, have been adjusted to show the number of victims when two or more are involved in an incident; this adjustment has been made for both 1966 and 1967. Data on arrests, however, continue to show only the number of offenders apprehended.

3. Index Crimes by Periods*
