COMPARATIVE WORDLIST 1

Summer Institute of Linguistics Ukarumpa, Papua New Guinea This publication was made possible by a grant from the Literature Revolving Fund of the Summer Institute of Linguistics Ukarumpa, Papua New Guinea.

The wordlists in this volume have been compiled by John Z'graggen from linguistic data to which he had access. Since the data in these wordlists are now in a form which can be used and built upon by other linguists, it is felt that they should be made available at this time.

Richard Loving, editor

COMPARATIVE WORDLISTS OF THE GULF DISTRICT AND ADJACENT AREAS

Karl J. Franklin (ed.) and John Z'graggen (compiler)

INTRODUCTION

In editing "The Linguistic Situation of the Gulf District and Adjacent Areas, Papua New Guinea", (1973) K. J. Franklin and his contributors make a valuable contribution to the study of non-Austronesian languages. The main part of this publication provides extensive descriptive and comparative materials in a number of languages and language groups in the area concerned.

Appendices (A-J) provide the 100 Swadesh basic wordlists in 69 languages collected by the editor and the other contributors. The wordlists are printed in numbered sequence, but separate for each language. Such an arrangement is to the advantage of a researcher or student in a particular language. The linguistic researcher, however, interested in comparative studies will find it time consuming and bothersome to arrange the words in comparable tables. For this reason, the present compiler decided to re-arrange the data in comparable columns for each lexical item on one separate page. This should lessen the burden of arranging the items independently by individual researchers.

A list with the full names of the languages (as given by Franklin 1973:54ff) is given on pages IVf. The number following the language name refers to the overall map of the languages of the Gulf District (see Franklin 1973:14). For the comparative word tables, some of the long names had to be shortened in order to allow the data to be displayed on a single page. The letter and number for each language will lead the reader unmistakingly to the primary source. For each word two numbers are given. The first refers to Z'graggen (1971). If an item is not included in this list, then it is marked as --. The second number refers to Franklin's numbering which allows the researcher to find the primary source.

The sequence of the items follows Z'graggen's (1971) numbering and semantic arrangements. The arrangement of words into semantic groups has considerable advantages in elicitation. First, it was observed in the course of fieldwork, that informants prefer to complete one semantic group, rather than shifting back and forward between semantic groups. Secondly, it facilitates the study of grammatical features peculiar for some semantic groups of words such as body parts, adjectives, verbs etc.

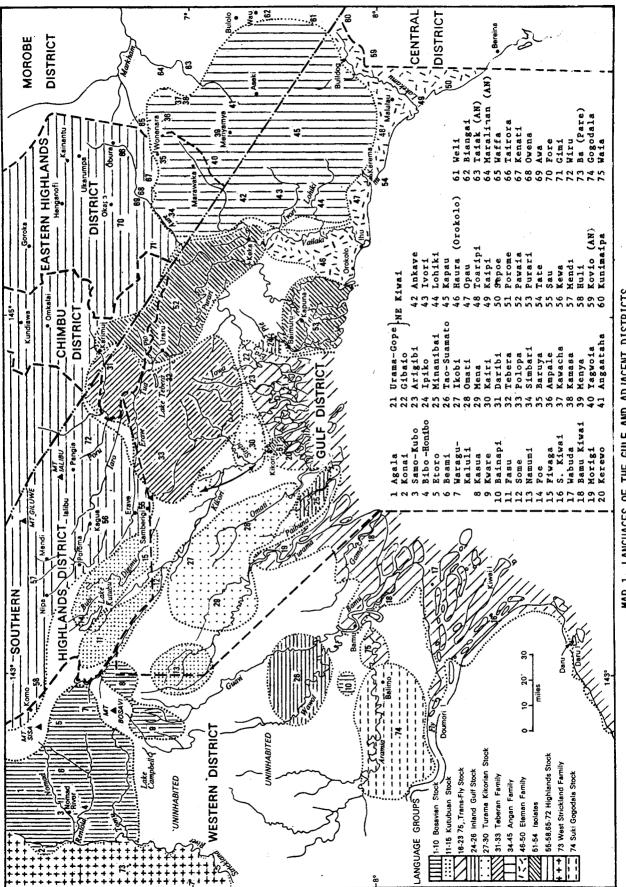

Affixed genetive pronouns and affixed object pronouns, for instance, must be identified if the word is considered to be comparable with others. In addition, this arrangement will facilitate comparison with wordlists in the Madang District. Z'graggen hopes to make his comparative wordlist in the Madang District available in the near future.

It might be noted that 42 of the words are comparable with the Trans-New Guinea Phylum vocabulary (see McElhanon-Voorhoeve 1970).

It is hoped that this presentation of data, although not as accurate as Franklin would like, will facilitate and encourage preliminary comparative studies in non-Austronesian languages.
