

The United Nations has declared 11 October 2012 as the world's first International Day of the Girl

To celebrate this day, the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts invites you to help create
"The world we want for girls"

1. Imagine the world we want for girls by adding your ideas, films, pictures, quotes and stories to theworldwewantforgirls.tumblr.com
2. Make 11 October 2012 a perfect day for girls by holding events and doing activities on the day, using our activity pack
3. Help make the imaginary reality by making a commitment to girls at theworldwewantforgirls.tumblr.com/commitment
4. Make sure 11 October 2012 is just the beginning. Help us implement the 2012 Day of the Girl action plan

The world I want for girls is one where all girls are _____

TIP
Be specific! If you could change one thing for girls, what would it be?

To make this imaginary world a reality, I/my organization will _____

TIP
What concrete actions will you or your organization take that will have the most impact on the lives of girls?

SOME DETAILS:

Your name _____

Your company/organization _____

Your phone number _____

Your email address _____

Country/location your commitment will take place in _____

Number of girls the commitment will benefit _____

Specific contributions/activities you will deliver for girls _____

Date you will have delivered on your commitment _____

Support/partnerships you might need to deliver on your commitment _____

Thank you for helping us transform the lives of girls around the world. Every commitment makes a difference. Your commitment will form part of the 2012 Day of the Girl Action Plan, which the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts will launch on 11 November.
