

Indian Cinema

Encyclopaedia of

Indian Cinema Encyclopaedia of

ASHISH RAJADHYAKSHA / PAUL WILLEMEN

BFI PUBLISHING

OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS

New Delhi

1998

Produced in association with the National Film Archive of India

First published in 1994 by the British Film Institute
21 Stephen Street, London W1P 1PL and
Oxford University Press
YMCA Library Building, Jai Singh Road
Post Box 43, New Delhi 110001

The British Film Institute exists to encourage the development of film, television and video in the United Kingdom, and to promote knowledge, understanding and enjoyment of the culture of the moving image. Its activities include the National Film and Television Archive; the National Film Theatre; the Museum of the Moving Image; the London Film Festival; the production and distribution of film and video; funding and support for regional activities; Library and Information Services; Stills, Posters and Design; Research, Publishing and Education; and the monthly Sight and Sound magazine.

Copyright © Ashish Rajadhyaksha and Paul Willemen 1994

All rights reserved

Cover: From the exhibition Culture of the Streets (1981) by M. F. Husain.
Reproduced, with grateful thanks, courtesy of M. F. Husain.
The authors respectfully dedicate this book to the memory of D. D. Kosambi.

British Library Cataloguing in Publication Data.
A catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library.

ISBN 0-85170-455-7 (UK)
019-563579-5 (India)

US Cataloguing data available from the Library of Congress.

Designed and Processed at

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments.....	7
Preface to Second Edition	8
Preface	9
Introduction.....	10
Explanatory Notes	12
Abbreviations	15
Chronicle	17
National Production Figures	30
Dictionary	33
Films	243
Bibliography	533
Name Index	547
Film Index.....	572

Blank

We gratefully acknowledge the financial and institutional assistance of the UNESCO Participation Programme (1989); the Indian Council for Social Science Research, New Delhi; the Charles Wallace (India) Trust; Tata Institute of Social Sciences (Bombay), and Centre for the Study of Culture & Society, Bangalore.

A number of people have graciously and generously taken the time to give us advice and to comment on parts of the manuscript. Special thanks go to Nasreen Munni Kabir, M. S. S. Pandian, V. A. K. Ranga Rao, Geeta Kapur, Harish Raghuvanshi, P. K. Nair, Sibaji Bandyopadhyay, Anustup Basu, Shivarama Padikkal, 'Filmnews' Anandan, Venkatesh Chakravarthy, V. Chandran, Roma Gibson, B. N. Subramanya and P. G. Srinivasa Murthy.

Stills: Courtesy National Film Archive of India; BFI Stills, Posters and Designs; Kamat Foto Flash, Syndications Today.

We thank the following contributors and consultants:

Assamese: Pradip Acharya (Guwahati)

Bengali: Moinak Biswas (Calcutta)

Bhojpuri and Rajasthani: Murlidhar Soni (Jaipur)

Gujarati: Amrit Gangar (Mumbai)

Gujarati and Hindi: Harish Raghuvanshi (Surat)

Hindi: Nasreen Munni Kabir (London)

Kannada: Dr Vijaya (Bangalore), Madhava Prasad (Bangalore)

Malayalam: P. K. Nair (Pune), R. Nandakumar (Trivandrum), Neelan (Trichur), Sathesh Poduval (Hyderabad)

Oriya: Chandidas Mishra (Mumbai/Bhubhaneshwar), Samarendra Das (Phulbani)

Punjabi: B. R. Garg (New Delhi), Anup Singh (London)

Silent Film: Virchand Dharamsey (Mumbai)

Tamil: S. Theodore Baskaran (Chennai), Preetham Chakravarthy (Chennai)

Telugu: K. N. T. Sastry (Hyderabad), I. S. A. Mohana Krishna (Hyderabad), S. V. Srinivas (Hyderabad/Bangalore)

Research and editorial assistance were generously contributed by Subhash Chheda, Amrit Gangar and their team at DadaKino, Mumbai, as well as by:

Bengali: Amitava Sen (Calcutta), Sanjit Choudhury (Calcutta)

Documentary Film: Subhash Chheda, Amrit Gangar (Mumbai)

Hindi: Kavita Anand (Mumbai), Ganga Mukhi (Mumbai)

Kannada: Pushpamala N. (Mysore/Mumbai), Sandhya Rao (Bangalore), Raghunandan (Mysore)

Malayalam: M. G. Radhakrishnan (Trivandrum), Koshy A.V. (Trivandrum), Sreekumar K. (Trivandrum) and Manambur Suresh (London)

Marathi: Vasudha Ambiyee (Mumbai)

Silent Film: Partho Datta (New Delhi)

Tamil: M. Ravi Kumar (Mumbai)

This book, quite simply, would never have been realised without the assistance of a number of people within the British Film Institute (Richard Paterson, Bridget Kinally and Imdad Hussain), London, and the National Film Archive of India, Pune. In addition, we should like to thank the Nehru Centre in London, the London International Film Festival, Mr R. Advani and Ms Anita Roy of the Oxford University Press, Delhi, for their enthusiasm and support. For support in editing, designing and printing the second edition, we are especially grateful to the Repro-India team, and in particular to Rakesh Pherwani's assistance in solving often complex problems of computer software.

We are particularly grateful to Mr P. K. Nair who, in his former capacity as director of the NFAI, was a major supporter of the project and who later became one of its key contributors and authorities. His successor, Suresh Chabria, extended all the facilities of the NFAI for research and remained a source of encouragement and support. On several occasions the staff, especially the film and library staff, went beyond their official function to extend their belief in, and commitment to, this endeavour. Needless to say, none of this book's no doubt numerous shortcomings can be blamed on any of the contributors and advisers who have so generously and unselfishly given their time and expertise to this project.

A special thank you, at the end of a long journey, to all the contributors of this book. Most of them worked on it in their spare time, while holding down full-time jobs as bureaucrats, teachers, journalists or researchers in areas other than the cinema, which makes their involvement, their labour and their patience all the more valuable.

The already complicated problems of gathering information across the expanse of India, the absence of established networks and the, at times, bewildering logistics of simple communication systems, always and in every instance means that in India, people depend on other people, friends and colleagues, families, associates, relatives, acquaintances, to manage - even to set up - functioning systems in lieu of those that do not work. I could not even begin to list the many friends who extended their hospitality to me, those who sent me books and references or put me in touch with others who could help. A special thank you to colleagues at the Centre for the Study of Culture and Society, Bangalore, in particular to Tejaswini Niranjana for her support and encouragement, Geeta Kapur, Vivian Sundaram, Nasreen Munni Kabir, Prof. Mihir Bhattacharya and the Department of Film Studies Jadavpur University, Nandinee Bandyopadhyay, Jhuma Basak; P. Govinda Pillai, Prof. Hireen Gohain, Dhiru Bhuyan, Pabitra Kumar Deka, Prafulla Dutta, Bobbeeta Sarma; Ashok Dhareshwar, David Windsor; Anjali Monteiro at the TISS, Sudhir Nandgaonkar and the Prabhat Chitra Mandal, S. V. Rajendra Singh, Girish Kasaravalli, Satyamurthy Anandur, Sushant Mishra, T.V. Chandran, K.P. Kumaran. Subbalakshmi Iyer allowed us the use of her bibliography of Indian cinema. A special thanks to Gudipoodi Srihari for his help in Telugu film, 'Filmnews' Anandan for the Tamil and Dilip Das for helping us overcome difficulties in researching recent Oriya film. Gerhard Koch kindly advised us on the entry for Franz Osten. M. S. S. Pandian provided a new bibliography of Tamil film for the second edition. Randor Guy graciously reassured us about the accuracy of some of our information on Tamil cinema. Jyoti Bhatt gave us his kind permission to use and also provided the print for the picture illustrating the DMK Film entry. Virchand Dharamsey made available his encyclopaedic memory not only in his area of specialisation, but also to identify hundreds of film stills. Harish Raghuvanshi is largely responsible for whatever degree of accuracy we have achieved in our Hindi filmographies. K. P. R. Nair shot and S. B. Kanhere developed the prints in the NFAI collection for this book. Riyad Vinci Wadia provided new information, including prints of otherwise unavailable Wadia productions to help us correct and update credits, synopses, filmographies and other information on that studio and its personnel. The Films Division Commentary staff gave me access to every Indian language, a unique instance of the unique nature of many of our national institutions. Alaknanda Samarth's support at all times, and especially in that rainy February of 1992 in London at a particularly critical time for this project, as well as Mrs Ranu Biswas' hospitality in Calcutta and R. S. Amladi's for long stretches in Pune, are the kinds of support that, over time, became integral to the logistics of this programme.

Thanks also to the library staffs, too numerous to name, of the National Centre for Performing Arts, Mumbai Marathi Granthasangrahalaya, the Centre for Education and Documentation (Mumbai); the Kerala Studies section of the Trivandrum University Library; the National Library, Gautam Chattopadhyay at Nandan, the libraries of Chitrabani, Cine Central and Cine Society (Calcutta); the Film and Television Institute of India (Pune); the Suchitra Film Society (Bangalore); the Nehru Memorial Museum and Library (New Delhi); the BFI's library and the India Office Library (London). Information about the careers of Indian directors in Malaysia was kindly supplied by Mr Dato' Haji Mohd Zain Haji Hamzah and Ms Shara Abdul Samad of the National Film Development Corporation, Malaysia.

And, finally, Pushpamala, who shared with me every moment of the pain and the pleasure, the discoveries and the journeys of realisation we made together these last five years. The complexity these days of values like 'home' and 'belonging' and 'memory', the interrogation and enablement that is the very stuff of her work, makes her place in the world in which this book has been written perhaps the most special of all.

Preface to Second Edition

It is with pleasure that we present before you a revised and updated second edition of the Encyclopaedia of Indian Cinema. The book's indices, filmographies and film entries have now been brought up to 1995. We present new entries on stars, directors and composers who have made their mark in the 1990s, and a vastly expanded section of film entries where we have especially covered mainstream productions from the 1970s-90s. These are films that are most likely to be in current circulation, on video, television or in your neighbourhood theatre. We have carried out many thousands of corrections on the first edition, some major, others mostly to do with spellings, dates - many film titles have now been re-dated in terms of their actual completion (rather than their dates of release) - and the identification of dubbed films and multilingual productions. We also include a new feature: an exhaustive index of names other than the ones featuring as independent entries. Although nowhere near the end, we believe in all this that we have taken a major step towards that elusive category 'definitive'.

When we handed over the first edition to the publishers in mid-1994, all those who had worked on the book were aware of the priorities of its time. Our focus was then on the history of Indian cinema, especially on its relatively less chronicled periods: the silent era, the early years of sound, the major directors, stars, writers and composers who were noted figures in their times but often forgotten by subsequent generations. Furthermore, we tried to present as far as possible within the pages of a single book the vast panorama of the six major language industries and the nine other languages in which films are commonly made, covering not only the well known titles but also the key film-making personnel of these regions. This often called for some kind of loose system of allocating space to all 'language' cinemas proportionate to their production scale. Finally, we addressed the major problems presented by the archives: how to use current concerns of theory to 'read into' surviving material in situations where the films themselves haven't always survived and information is scanty, scattered and often contradictory.

Having put this together, the next stage was to put this material into the public arena, and generate some kind of dialogue with interested readers and authorities.

We always expected a controversial response, but never one as overwhelming as we got, especially in India, but also in many other parts of the world where the book is being used by teachers and researchers of Indian film. In India, the commonest response featured extensive, often heated, discussions around why certain names - usually of stars - did not feature in the book. It must be remembered in this context that some 23 million Indians go to the movies every day, that a goodly percentage of these would consider themselves, validly, authorities on the subject of this book, and further, that certain kinds of actors often represent an essential constituency, and are crucially implicated in the assertion of their fans' identities.

Many readers responded to our call for this project to become something of a collaborative venture, helped with their knowledge on certain areas, with comments on certain perhaps unduly critical turns of phrase, with otherwise scarce information enabling us to update this project as a whole. To these readers, and to the dozens of reviewers of the first edition in India, Pakistan, Britain, Australia and the USA who also came up with often useful responses, our sincere gratitude.

Our gratitude especially extends to the team that assembled the first edition, and went to work on the second. We also welcome to the team several new, younger, contributors and consultants who joined us, notably in Tamil, Telugu, Kannada, Malayalam and Oriya cinemas. Their names feature in our updated acknowledgements list. Many of our senior authorities went through the book in the greatest possible detail, and we must especially reiterate our gratitude to Virchand Dharamsey, Harish Raghuvanshi and V.A.K. Ranga Rao in this regard.

Most gratifying perhaps, at least partly as a result of the work that went into this book along with the debates its publication has sparked, other initiatives appear to have received a new burst of energy. In terms of research, DataKino's computerised data bank housed at the National Film Development Corporation is set up on a clearly more comprehensive scale than could have been achieved in one book. Further, the success of the first edition contributed to providing a new space for writing on the cinema, and to allied events such as conferences and workshops in the relatively recent discipline of film studies. It is this development, and the nature of demands that theorists and researchers of the future and arising from the new disciplines that are currently in the process of formation and stabilisation, that will no doubt determine the future directions this Encyclopaedia project will take. Perhaps future, computerised, and eventually on-line publication will allow both an expansion of the space at our disposal and permit newer search modes suitable both to researchers and cinephiles alike.

Ashish Rajadhyaksha/Paul Willemen
August 1998

Producing a reference work about a national cinema is an uncomfortable project. Both Seamus Deane, an Irish intellectual, and Aijaz Ahmad, a subcontinental intellectual, have produced powerful critiques of the very attempts to provide a history of any particular art-form presented in terms of a nation-state's achievements. Deane's 'Critical Reflections' in Artforum of December 1993 argue the case in relation to the construction of national art histories. Ahmad's 'Indian Literature: Notes Towards the Definition of a Category', reprinted in his book In Theory (1992, pp. 243-85), examines the (im)possibility of there being a national Indian literary history. Ahmad points out that, even should the legitimacy of a category such as Indian literature be granted, it would have to encompass such diverse histories in so many languages tied to geographical terrains with constantly shifting boundaries that no single scholar can ever claim to practise the discipline of Indian literature. Furthermore, the territorial unity that can readily, though abusively, be imagined for German, French, US or Japanese cinemas and literatures, cannot be fantasised for India without restricting the terrain and the period to an absurdly small fragment of what should be addressed if we are to make any kind of sense of the cultural productions at issue. To restrict an account of Indian cinema to the geo-temporal frame constituted by the Indian nation-state since Independence or, more accurately, since Partition, would require us to ignore some of the most admirable cinematic achievements realised in Colonial India. More damagingly, it would also rule out any engagement with the longer-term dynamics which have shaped post-Partition Indian cinema.

Even if it were thought to be desirable, a rigorously 'nation-state' approach to Indian cinema, or to any other art-form, cannot be sustained. If we put the emphasis on 'nation' rather than on 'state', the problems only multiply. In other words, there is no sense of Indianness, nor of any other so-called national identity, that precedes the forms of historical and personal experience or expression given shape by particular, geographically and historically bounded institutions of government, by particular state forms providing and enforcing, and always necessarily falling short of doing so homogeneously, both geographical limits and social stratifications. Nations are retroactive, not retrospective constructions to which we are invited, often not very subtly, to adhere. Seamus Deane notes that 'the most essentialist figurings of history ... depend upon making an intersection between time and space, between chronology and territory. This is a feature of all writings that aim to provide a history of an art-form, of a literature, of a nation-state's achievement in the arts.' He goes on to ask:

Is it possible to write a history of any form of 'Art', is it possible to locate it territorially, and at the same time to be free of any conception of art that is not at least implicitly essentialist and therefore subversive of the very idea and form of history - that is not in some sense either reactionary or ancestral in its longings, and, ultimately, impassive toward all forms of exposition or explanation?

In this respect, a reference work is no different from a historical account: both construct what they purport to address.

Deane's questions go to the heart of the matter. It may not be an accident that an Irish intellectual talking about 'Irish Art' should ask questions so pertinent to the very desire of producing a book about Indian cinema. As an intellectual marked by the history of the island of Ireland, including the experience of colonialism, post-colonialism and Partition, Deane's thought has a definite resonance for those who address notions of Indian art-forms.

A book purporting to be, however imperfectly, an encyclopaedia of Indian cinema(s) cannot but lay itself open to all the criticisms and strictures formulated by Deane and Ahmad. The very enterprise of compiling such an encyclopaedia is inevitably caught in the tensions, fantasies and, not to put too fine a point on it, the traps they describe. If the category of Indian cinema cannot be restricted to post-Partition India, neither can it be made to coincide with any definition of pre-Partition or of Colonial India. Any such definition would include all or part of Pakistan, Bangladesh, Sri Lanka and various bits and pieces of geography beyond the current borders of the Indian Republic. As even a cursory glance at the Chronicle in this book will make clear, the boundaries and composition of the Indian State have varied a great deal over the years. In addition, the cultural divisions between Indian cinema and other cinemas have been very flexible as well. To give but one example, and the editors of this book have debated the point, the beginnings of Iranian sound cinema could be seen as part of Indian cinema: Ardeshir Irani, the director of Alam Ara, also made the Persian film, Dokhtar-e-Lor, in 1933 in Bombay, commonly acknowledged as the first Iranian sound feature, a fact celebrated in Mohsen Makhmalbaf's Nassereddin Shah Actor-e-Cinema (Once Upon a Time Cinema), 1992).

Any account of Indian cinema cannot but run the risk of essentialism as outlined by Deane, including its reactionary aspects and distasteful ancestral longings. To acknowledge, with Ahmad, that the art-form defined under such murky circumstances is always too diverse to fit neatly under any label that could be affixed to it, is small comfort, especially in the context of contemporary India where the risks to life and limb of ancestral longings and essentialism are so gruesomely made real. In such a context, it is not enough simply to point out that India is and always was plural and diverse and that any attempt to essentialise it, to force a coincidence between territory and chronology, or between nation, ethnicity, religion and state, is un-Indian (in the sense that it betrays the struggle which achieved an independent state in the first place) as well as murderous.

Deane tries to think his way through the problem of the 'national' art-form by invoking feminism: 'It is a crux of feminist theory that essentialism must be both accepted and confronted, cancelled, erased.' The present work on Indian cinema tries to learn this lesson from feminist theory, especially as formulated by, for example, Gayatri Chakravorty Spivak, who described the 'risk of essence' in terms of the need to acknowledge 'the dangerousness of something one cannot not use' (Outside in the Teaching Machine, London and New York: Routledge, 1993, p. 5).

On the one hand, essentialism is evoked and confronted in the attempt to offer a fairly comprehensive though no doubt seriously flawed introduction to an All-Indian cinematic history. It is All-Indian not in the sense of stressing a common denominator or in the negative acceptance of the term discussed in our entry on All-Indian Film, but in its attempt to engage with the film cultures that arose in all parts of India, rather than to privilege the Hindi cinema, and to give them space in accordance with their relative weight in Indian cinema as a whole. This strategy necessarily involves making judgments, and equally necessarily means getting some of the judgments wrong. So be it. Other books with similar aims will provide correctives and future, corrected and up-dated editions of this first effort will do likewise.

On the other hand, essentialism has been erased both in the critical methodology, which is consciously hybrid and 'impure', calling on knowledges, values and conceptual tools which are neither nativist nor rootlessly cosmopolitan, and in the scope of the book which unapologetically includes artists and films that could be claimed by Pakistan, Bangladesh, Malaysia, Singapore or even by Hollywood (Ellis Duncan) or Germany (Franz Osten, Paul Zils). The editors do not wish to suggest that these other national cinemas would be wrong to make such claims. It is just that Indian cinema is incomprehensible without the inclusion of these artists and films in the same way that Pakistani or Bangladeshi cinema cannot be understood without taking into account the work of artists commonly regarded as part of Indian cinema.

The editors have taken the risk, described by Deane, of 'going through essentialism, re-tracing the journey as much as possible against the grain of the received pattern while still accepting that pattern as given, in order ultimately to replace it with something that is not essentialist, univocal, coercive'. In this task, we have been greatly helped by many scholars whose expertise in the many different Indian cinemas and cultures has made the editors acutely aware of the impossibility of mastering, unifying and essentialising Indian cinema as an artform coinciding with both a singular territory and chronology.

We have taken 'India', not as a fixed entity, but as a socio-cultural process, a changing and contested set of overlapping frameworks (always temporarily) stabilised by governmental institutions, be they the Colonial administration, the Indian government or the various institutions seeking to regulate (or deregulate, which is only a different type of regulation) the interface between culture and economy within, at any given time, specific territorial limits. In the end, our main guideline has been to focus on the works, the artists and the institutions which have addressed Indian cinema as a constituent part of 'India' as a socio-cultural process.

Paul Willemen
London, May 1994

Introduction

The sheer gigantomania of India's film factories in Mumbai, Chennai, Calcutta, Bangalore and Hyderabad, well known collectively as the world's largest national film industry, have attracted increasing, if sometimes bemused, attention from film scholars, not least because of the embarrassment of Indian cinema's near-chronic omission from most global film histories. However, for millions of Indians, wherever they live, a major part of 'India' derives from its movies. Here, the cinema has provided, for the better part of this century, the most readily accessible and sometimes the most inventive forms of mass entertainment. In its scale and pervasiveness, film has borne, often unconsciously, several large burdens, such as the provision of influential paradigms for notions of 'Indianness', 'collectivity' (in the generation of an unprecedented, nationwide, mass-audience), and key terms of reference for the prevailing cultural hegemony. In India, the cinema as apparatus and as industry has spearheaded the development of a culture of indigenous capitalism 'from below', and its achievement in doing so continues to influence and determine newer programming and publishing strategies with the proliferation of television channels and mass-circulation fan magazines.

So, at least, goes conventional wisdom about an admittedly complex, and at times bewilderingly vast, realm of cultural production. The prime example of a mass-entertainment industry operating in a nation-building context has clearly been, to date, Hollywood. Dozens of books have been devoted to speculation about, and a few to analyses of, the relationship between notions of 'America' and the 'America' constructed in the minds of people all over the world, including in the USA, by Hollywood's products. In the early decades of this century, the dime novel, popular journalism and then film provided not only the key narratives for that relationship, but also its most potent archives: a baggage of political fact and cultural revisionism that was accepted, in its entirety, by US television from the 1960s on.

The 'India' of its movies, like Hollywood's 'America', has spawned its own cinephilia, which at its most basic is animated by a distinctive 'insiderism', a buddy-culture of speech and body-language that has now expanded and replicated itself into idioms of popular literature with a dynamic of their own via reviews, gossip columns and magazines, publicity materials, novelisations, autobiographies, interviews and fan-club hagiographies. Unlike Hollywood, however, the dynamic of these idioms has not always intersected with that of official, 'national' India in any predictable fashion. To some extent, as Paul Willemsen's Preface shows, this has to do with 'the national' itself, as ideology and as institution, as State and as imaginary motherland. India has changed dramatically, and more than once in this century. And, as can be imagined, the Indian state has required at different times different things from its popular culture to shore up, defend and/or perpetuate its realm of political and cultural control. To a much greater extent, and again unlike Hollywood, the 'Indian' in Indian cinema has all too often been a realm beyond what the State has been able to claim for itself: a complicit, if not always officially legitimate terrain of belonging, simultaneously envied and resented.

Most Indian readers of this book will be familiar with how, in the 1970s, cinephilia relating to mainstream Hindi cinema became an important source for celebrating 'indigenous' cultural populism while mounting a free-market attack on the Nehru-Indira Gandhi socialist model of state institutions, and how it influenced a great deal of state policy, especially, of course, policy addressing the Indian film industry itself. They will also recognise this cinephilia's role over the last two decades in the propagation of a sense of nostalgia, as glossy 'nostalgia films' and advertising campaigns invoke genres such as the classic 50s romances, even as political parties create an aggressive new frontier of right-wing 'Hindutva' for indigenous populism. Others may recognise the crucial part this and other kinds of nostalgia have played in the rhetoric of an Asian diaspora, which in turn further informed influential literary as well as cinematic fictions, along with, for instance, the Asian music-video industry and other kinds of actual or pretend political counter-cultures.

This reference book on Indian film has required of its editors and contributors some sensitivity to both the form and the history of this entire cluster of discourses, not least because an amalgam of them has, on several occasions, provided a stand-in for the history of Indian cinema itself, or at least for the kind of history mobilised by influential sectors of the film industry with its press and institutional support systems to perpetuate their economic and cultural claims and to record their achievements. Indeed, so influential is this amalgam of industrial, institutional and cinephiliac discourses, so thoroughly has it saturated the 'sources', that it has become virtually impossible consistently to ascertain historical 'facts' even as basic as filmographies or credits.

The problem is, of course, not new to India's historians. From the mid-19th century through to the late colonial period, India's history was virtually the plaything of an extraordinary variety of ideological movements, from Orientalists to Utilitarians, Evangelists, Reformers, Nationalists and religious revivalists, each presenting history as an idea of 'the past', choosing the one most suited to the kind of cultural mobilisation they were propagating in their present. Each of these in turn yielded simplified, uncritical but extraordinarily durable versions of their stand, which in turn not only influenced the popular art of its time but the actual process of history-writing itself. Many of the historians whose methods we adopted have been concerned with placing the 'fact' as a central question in their analysis, including, and crucially so, the forms and circumstances of the generation of 'records'. Referring, for instance, to Ranajit Guha's manifesto statement, 'On Some Aspects of the Historiography of Colonial India', and to the work of the Subaltern Studies Group, Edward Said (1988) pointed to the frequent reference to such things as gaps, absences, lapses, ellipses, all of them symbolic of the truths that historical writing is after all writing and not reality ... [which was controlled by] the Indian elite and the British colonizers who ran, as well as wrote the history of, India. In other words, subaltern history in literal fact is a narrative missing from the official story of India.

To supply the narrative requires 'a deeply engaged search for new documents, a ... re-deployment and re-interpretation of old documents, so ... that what emerges is a new knowledge'. One of the first historians to do so was D.D. Kosambi, to whom we dedicate this book. In his celebrated Introduction to the Study of Indian History (1956/80), Kosambi set out to 'reconstruct a history without episodes ... defined as the presentation, in chronological order, of successive developments in the means and relations of production', enjoining all historians of India to remember that no single mode [of production] prevailed uniformly over the whole country at any one time: so it is necessary to select for treatment that particular mode which, in any period, was the most vigorous, most likely to dominate production ... no matter how many of the older forms survived in outward appearance.

Clearly in India's 20th-century cultural arena, the mode of production at issue in cinema is capitalism, remembering that 'no single mode prevailed uniformly' and that 'older forms survived' at the same time. Even if those older forms survived only 'in appearance', that still means they must be taken into account since it is fatal to overlook appearances, especially in cinema. The lesson to be learned from D.D. Kosambi in this respect is that we must refuse to reduce a mode of production to either pure capitalism or to some older mode. In each case (film, studio, state) the particular mix of old and new will leave a particular imprint, with the capitalist mode of production in cinema providing a more (or less) dominant determination. When the cinema apparatus came into India, it was a technology and a mode of cultural manufacture and distribution without direct historical precedent in the country. On the other hand, from the earliest features of Phalke's work and ever since then, film presented its most critical value as being a neo-traditional cultural form par excellence, a gadget that worked at its best in suturing cultural difference and producing an easily consumable homogeneity for an increasingly undifferentiated mass audience. To aid this suturing, several film-makers, producers and institutions went some way in demonstrating the survival of older forms. Phalke himself attempted a theory of film that made it virtually a traditional Indian art in the context of Swadeshi. The studio-era film-makers commonly aspired to the respectability of the reform novel, just as 50s films were later to seek the 'high-art' credentials of a Satyajit Ray and other directors promoted as models by the Indian State. New Indian Cinema was born in the context of Indira Gandhi's developmentalist programmes culminating in the Emergency and the establishment of Doodardshan. Most influential of all, perhaps, was the way the Utopian 'India' of the pre-Independence period - the tabula rasa upon which were inscribed some of the most elaborate melodramas in Indian film history - gave way to the idea of regionalism, an idea of ethnic rootedness that effectively divided the nation into its constituent linguistic units.

All these areas inevitably came to be inscribed into the records of Indian cinema's history, as film-makers, using the technology uniquely equipped to celebrate, intervene in and record the rise of such epochal achievements as the emergence of an Indian working class and the birth of an independent nation, assimilated local political imperatives and the languages of the 'official' and the neo-traditional. From its earliest years, Indian film found its archive in the popular press and the publicity outlets of the industry. The problem of facts took an ideological turn when Indian cinema institutionalised itself, and, in the process, also institutionalised its several factions, their claims and their conflicts. Institutions representing the film industry and those managing the relations between state and industry, such as the various State Film Chambers of Commerce, the Film Federation of India, the various Film Development Corporations and the trade unions led by the Indian Motion Pictures Producers Association, have, over the years, expanded their ambit to include the authority to represent the 'official' history of whatever sector, region or special interest they represent politically. These histories, usually published on occasions commemorating the anniversaries of various cinema industries in India, accompanied by the felicitations of their pioneers and the valorisation of independent archivists and the private collections of individual cinephiles, are entirely susceptible to the critique Gyanendra Pandey (1991) mounts against contemporary historians' acceptance of the view that the 'centre' remains the recognised vantage point for a meaningful reconstruction of "Indian" history, and the 'official' archive ... the primary source for its construction. By attributing a 'natural' quality to a particular unity, such as 'India', and adopting its 'official' archive as the primary source of historical knowledge ... the history of India since the early 19th century has tended to become the biography of the emerging nation-state. It has also become the history in which the story of Partition, and the accompanying Hindu-Muslim and Muslim-Sikh riots ... is written up as a secondary story ... one that, for all its consequences, miraculously left the course of Indian history unaltered, [as] 'India' ... started firmly and 'naturally' on its secular, democratic, non-violent course.

Nevertheless, if today we accept that, far from being a straightforward move towards nationalism, secularism and democracy, India's history represents an extraordinarily chequered growth with its own share of conflicts and compromises, at least one reason for it would be the evidence provided by Indian cinema. When we started this encyclopaedic project, the aim was to provide a reference work on Indian film. In the process of its compilation, however, it developed a variety of more complex and less easily defined ambitions, a crucial one was to chronicle a sense of India that could move beyond its most obviously available nationalist construct, even as we chronicle the formation of that construct and its history through its cinematic product. Indian films are and always were read, and implicated in social transformations, in ways infinitely more complex than plot summaries or 'official' histories can claim or suggest. Attempts to 'locate' individual films or film-makers required constant cross-referencing between technological, economic, political and cultural chronologies, trying to read any one of these 'series' in terms of their intersections with all the others. The task was made all the harder by the simple, frustrating 'fact' that only a handful of India's silent films appear to have survived and that many of the key sound films are not readily available for consultation. This has meant that we have had to rely on contemporary (whenever possible) or subsequent accounts, surviving publicity materials and so on, all of them deeply enmeshed in the rhetorical amalgam of discourses mentioned earlier. Consequently, when approaching a film, the discourses 'placing' it would first have to be negotiated and 'placed' in their turn. Of course, that way madness lies as the critic-historian is relentlessly driven further and further away from the 'object', the 'source', the film. But it is a madness that must be faced, even risked, within limits which we have endeavoured not to overstep. For instance, many of the films have come to us via plot synopses which cry out (or was it the films that cried out?) for a psychoanalytic reading. Except in a few obvious instances, this is a temptation we have resisted. Similarly, we often had to contend with flagrantly partisan synopses presenting political and, most frequently, gender oppression as the 'natural' order of things. These we have tried to read against the grain in the hope that the partisan version, familiar to and internalised by most film publicists and their readers, will, when juxtaposed to our less familiar perspective, spark autonomous critical thought in our readers.

On the other hand, although it may seem that the actual film might get lost in this process, the amalgam of discourses surrounding a film, usually qualified as 'secondary', are not totally separate from the film either. They form part of the intertextual network that gave rise to and accompanied the film in its attempt to reshape parts of the very public sphere which engendered the film in the first place. It is true that nothing can substitute for a viewing of the 'original' film and that the scarcity of prints preserved in a decent condition (not to mention prints uncontaminated by censors or other vandals) is a severe drawback when attempting to describe and 'place' it. However, it is equally true that any encounter with a film is always already pre-structured, given that people are never utterly empty-headed when watching it. Reliance on the film alone is as misguided as an overestimation of the secondary discourses. As always, we have to see the one in terms of the other.

Most of the facts in this book are gleaned from available sources, representing the most reliable ones we could find for each of India's cinemas (the sources are listed below). Many of these are what we earlier called, somewhat dismissively, 'official'. Given the nature of the Indian film industry, however, there were compelling reasons for drawing on this material alongside other, not always less 'reliable' sources. The editors of this book, quite deliberately and as a matter of policy, have refused to accept any single 'authoritative' source on any of India's cinemas. On the contrary, we have endeavoured to produce a book providing the 'most likely' truth on the basis of often deeply conflicting sources. In this respect, what we offer here is not an authoritative source either (although these things are relative: we believe ours to be more authoritative than others simply because we were able to stand on the shoulders, so to speak, of the scholars who went before, even though none ever ventured to encompass as wide a field as we do in this project). Although this book will inevitably bear the scars inflicted by the unreliability of the sources used, we should like to believe that in consistently mapping India's film histories on to a national canvas, we also present several new discoveries, such as the sheer contiguity of historical processes nationwide that most Indian regions persist in viewing as unique, the influences of film-makers from one region onto another, or even the trajectories of individual careers that transgressed boundaries sometimes decades before these boundaries came to be asserted.

This book shares all the problems, and some of the credit, of any endeavour that is the 'first of its kind'. There are encouraging signs in India that several agencies, such as the National Film Archive of India, are gradually introducing sophisticated records, not only of their actual holdings but also of Indian cinema in general. Amrit Gangar and Subhash Chheda's recently completed computerised cross-indexing of the entire output of the Films Division means that the bulk of India's documentary cinema is now available for various kinds of research. India's Central Board of Film Certification may well take on board the need to compile their vast data in readily accessible form, a source that has not been available for this book except for the work of B.V. Dharap. Future editions of this Encyclopaedia will no doubt benefit substantially when that work becomes available.

To sum up: this book is very much designed as a research tool, a kind of baseline for others to amplify and correct, so that it may grow into a work of collective, constantly returned scholarship.

Ashish Rajadhyaksha
Bombay, April 1994

Explanatory Notes

FILMOGRAPHIES AND INDEX: The biographical section of this volume addresses only some aspects of the film-making process: directors, actors, composers, scenarists and lyric writers, alongside brief entries on most of the major film studios, genres and art movements. Due to lack of space and the complexities involved, we were unable to include entries for producers, cinematographers, set designers, art directors, editors, choreographers, sound specialists, and so on. Filmographies have been provided for directors, actors and composers only, and for the second edition have been extended to 1995. The filmographies, which have been listed by title and year of production (or release or censorship; often we could not be sure whether there was a difference), have to be checked against the Index for fuller information about individual titles. The Index lists titles alphabetically, providing the name of the director, the language and the year of production (release or censorship). A major effort has been made to provide also alternative and English titles whenever this seemed relevant, for example, commonly used translations and those used for other than local releases. Because of the extreme difficulties involved in the romanisation of Indian languages, readers may well experience problems locating a particular title (see below under 'spelling').

The Index, and several individual filmographies, have been compiled largely from the following sources:

1. B.V. Dharap's Indian Film annuals. Dharap's original project of compiling the entire record of the Central Board of Film Certification under the aegis of the National Film Archive of India, is now unevenly available in five different sets:
 - 1920-33: India's silent cinema, unpublished (available at the NFAI). This problematic volume lists titles by the year in which they were censored. This means that all films made before 1920 (the year from which Censor Board records were maintained) had to be separately dated. Virchand Dharamsey's new filmography, in Paolo Cherchi Usai/Suresh Chabria (eds.) Light of Asia (1994), published after our last edition, constitutes a major advance of scholarship on this period, and its definitive listings.
 - 1931-50: In four volumes, unpublished (available at the NFAI).
 - 1972-78: Published annually as Indian Films by Motion Picture Enterprises, Pune.
 - 1979-82: Unpublished but lodged at the NFAI.
 - 1983-85: Three volumes published by NFAI.This material represents the only publicly available record of the CBFC and is by and large the best filmographic source for the years covered. The periods 1920-50, 1972-85 are referred to as the Dharap Years.
2. To cover the gaps in Dharap's work, we have used the following sources:
 - Assamese cinema: T.M. Ramchandran (ed.), 70 Years of Indian Cinema (1985: Assamese Cinema section) for the period 1935-83; Pradip Acharya and Bobbeeta Sharma provided us with information for the subsequent years.
 - Bengali cinema: 'Filmography of Bengali Cinema (1897-1981)' in B. Jha (ed.), Indian Motion Picture Almanac (1986). Rathish Saha compiled the years 1984-90 for us. For the period 1942-52, Jha inexplicably eliminates all credits except the director's name. These have been collated with Kalish Mukhopadhyay's history (1962) until 1948, and for 1949-50 by the Dharap years. Actor and composer credits for the years 1951-52 and 1982 have been compiled from reviews and publicity material. The update to 1995 is from Tapan Roy (ed.) Shattatar Basharer Bangla Chhabi, Calcutta: Bapi Prakashan, 1996 (Bengali).
 - Bhojpur cinema: 1962-92 was compiled by M.D. Soni for this book, collated with listings in Har Mandir Singh (ed.), Hindi Film Geet Kosh, vols 1-4 (Hindi) and thereafter from the records of DataKino.

Gujarati cinema: Manilal Gala and Amrit Gangar (eds), Gujarati Chalachitron: 1982 Na Aare (1982, Gujarati) provide information for 1932-82; thereafter we relied on Harish Raghuvanshi (ed.), Gujarati Film Geet Kosh (Surat, 1995, Gujarati).

Hindi cinema: We consulted the pioneering work of Firoze Rangoonwala (ed.), Indian Filmography, Silent and Hindi Film: 1897-1969 (1970) and its updated version, Rajendra Ojha (ed.), 75 Glorious Years of Indian Cinema: 1913-1988 (1988). For 1988-90, we used annual listings by Film Information (Bombay). This information was collated with Har Mandir Singh (ed.), Hindi Film Geet Kosh, vols 1-4, and Bishwanath Chatterjee (ed.), Hindi Film Geet Kosh, vol. 5. We also consulted annual listings by Filmfare (Bombay) 1953-71.

Kannada cinema: 1934-84 is covered in Vijaya et. al. (eds), Kannada Vakchitra Suvarna Mahotsava 1934-1984 Smarana Sanchike (1984, Kannada), updated (1985-91) from the records of the Karnataka Film Chamber of Commerce, Bangalore (Golden Jubilee Souvenir 1995).

Malayalam cinema: 1938-70 is covered in the Malayala Cinema Directory (1970, Malayalam), which gives film credits and synopses, and in 'Malayalam Cinema from Vigathakumaran to Manjil Virinja Pookkal' in the journal Nana (Special Issue, 1982), which provides film titles and directors up to 1980. Titles only are listed in M. Saraswathy (ed.), Malayala Cinema-Aranootandu (1987, Malayalam) and in M.G. Radhakrishnan (ed.), Malayalam Cinema: 50 Years (1989). Actor and composer credits for the years 1971, 1981 and 1986 (for the latter two, titles as well) are compiled from the records of the Journal of the Film Chamber (Madras), and thereafter from the Journal of Kerala State Film Chamber of Commerce.

Marathi cinema: 1931-89 is covered in Vasant Sathé (ed.), Chitrasampada (1989, Marathi). Between 1989-1993 we used D.B. Samant (ed.) Marathi Chitrapat Samagra Suchi in Rupavani (Diwali special issue, 1993), and thereafter the records of DataKino, Bombay.

Oriya cinema: 1934-84 is in Kartick Kumar Ghosh (ed.), Oriya Chalachitrara Itihas (1984, Oriya). Information after 1986 was compiled by Samarendra Das.

Punjabi cinema: 1935-92 was compiled by B.R. Garg (unpublished).

Rajasthani cinema: 1942-92 is available in Murlidhar Soni (ed.), Rajasthani Film Geet Kosh (forthcoming) and in Jugal Parihar (ed.) Maruranjani: Rajasthani Film Mahotsav Smarika (1993, Hindi), and was thereafter provided by DataKino.

Tamil cinema: The only major Indian film industry whose filmography remains uncompiled. There is a list of Tamil titles from 1931 to 1985 in 'Filmnews' Anandan's 1931 Mudal 1985 Varai Veliyana Padamgal (1985, Tamil), updated to 1990 in Randor Guy (ed.), History of Tamil Cinema (1991). This list has been collated with the monthly listings of the Journal of the Film Chamber (Madras) for the Index and directors' filmographies, supported by reviews, advertising and publicity pamphlets. Filmographies were built from available listings, such as the Manimekalai series on Tamil directors and stars. Wherever such listings were not available and filmographies have been compiled especially for this project, including the Tamil work of non-Tamil biographical entries, these are likely to be less comprehensive. Listings for the years 1991-95 were compiled specially for this book by 'Filmnews' Anandan.

Telugu cinema: 1931-76 is covered in the Andhra Film Chamber Journal (December 1976, Telugu), and updated by K.N.T. Sastry for this book.

3. DOCUMENTARIES: Until the mid-70s when independent Indian documentary cinema came of age, the genre was monopolised by the Films Division. Amrit Gangar and Subhash Chheda's computerised list and index updates with vital new information the Films Division Catalogue of Films: 1949-1972 edited by

V.N. Gulavani. Information about independent documentaries was in most cases compiled from information provided by the film-makers themselves or from the annual Indian Panorama catalogues (1977-92).

4. For all FTII student films, the FTII Films 1964-1987 (1987) catalogue was used.
5. All-India quarterly listings of releases can be found in issues of Mangala Chandran (ed.), Cinema in India (April 1987-January/March 1990).
6. The above languages constitute all the major cinemas of India; minor cinemas such as Kashmiri, Tulu, Konkani, Haryanvi, Khasi and Maithili have been covered mainly through Dharap's listings and reviews. Under current conditions, no claim towards exhaustiveness can be made for these languages.
7. For non-Indian film titles we relied mostly on Markku Salmi's compilation published as the National Film Archive (London) Catalogue of Stills, Posters and Designs, London: British Film Institute, 1982.

BOLD: Items in bold in the text indicate that there is a specific entry on the title or name (or institution, etc.) elsewhere in the volume.

DATES: Indian sources (like many sources throughout the world) often do not specify which date is being used: the year when production was completed, when the director's cut was completed, when the film passed the Censor Board, when it was first screened to the trade or to the press or when it was first released to the public. Dates in Indian sources tend to be either the production date, the Censor Board date or the release date. We have given priority to the production date (when known); our second priority was the Censor Board date. When neither of these was available to us, we have relied on the release date. In most mainstream productions, these dates fall fairly closely together. However, there can be significant differences for independent productions which may have received a delayed release, remain unreleased or even refused a Censor Board certificate (and therefore unrepresented in listings by industry sources). There are also several instances of productions being certified by the Censor Board several years after they were made. Dharap's compilations usually provide the censor year, while, for instance, Jha's Almanac in Bengal, Rangoonwala and Ojha or Film Information refer to release dates. We have attempted on all occasions (especially in entries on individual films) to provide dates closest to the completion of the first release print. However, the absence of reliable information on every title in the Index has prevented any uniform principle on dating, and we have adhered to the records listed above except in instances where more reliable information to the contrary was available.

FILMS: The editors have endeavoured to provide individual entries on the most 'important' films in India's rich and varied film history; by 'important' we mean Indian films which have made a significant contribution to the development of Indian cinema from a number of points of view: economic, technological, aesthetic, intellectual, political and sociological (not necessarily in that order). Inevitably, many films which could legitimately have claimed an entry have been omitted, primarily because of lack of space. Other reasons for omissions include: the unavailability of the prints, which meant we were not able to check whether a particular film warranted inclusion or not; absence of relevant commentaries suggesting that a particular film needed to be included; the editorial decision to end the film section in 1990, later extended to 1992 in view of the time required to compile this reference work; the editorial decision to concentrate on 'typical' items representative of an artist's work or of a genre rather than making vain attempts, in the light of space restrictions, to include all of an artist's good and significant work, and so on. The films have been organised according to their date and, within the production years, in alphabetical order.

GAUGE: The gauge used is hardly ever recorded in any Indian filmographies and has therefore been omitted. Wherever possible, 'scope', has been used to indicate CinemaScope-type formats.

GENERAL ENTRIES: In the Dictionary section of this book, the reader will find a number of entries referring to art movements (the Indian People's Theatre Association, the Kallol Group, the Progressive Artists Group, the Progressive Writers Association, the Navya Movement and others), techniques and art genres (Company School Painting, Photography, Sangeet Natak, Stage Backdrops, Pat Painting, Parsee Theatre and others), traditions (Art Schools, Music Schools) and political issues (Naxalite, Swadeshi). To some extent, these entries reflect the historical approach taken by the editors. Other items could have been added, such as Modernism, Reform Literature, various styles of poetry which have left their trace on film lyrics, and many others. Shortage of space and the need to concentrate on people, studios and films meant that we were able to include only a few such entries. Those selected for inclusion are intended to give readers a glimpse of the range of issues that must be taken into consideration when addressing Indian cinemas, as we attempt to make clear via elaborate cross-references to other, more directly 'cinematic' entries. While supplying basic information about such 'general' matters, we also intended signalling the need for cinema to be seen as a specific discursive form inextricably intertwined with a wide and complex network of industrial, institutional and cultural histories.

GENRES: A great deal more work needs to be done on the problems of defining, analysing and periodising genres in Indian cinema. Given that many films deliberately combine, as in a menu, elements from what in the West would be regarded as different genres (comedy, thriller, horror, action, musical and so on), we have attempted to provide a rough outline of the main Indian genres in the full knowledge that any such attempt must at this stage be rudimentary and impressionistic. The genre entries will be found in the alphabetically arranged Dictionary section of the Encyclopaedia. There are entries for: All-India Film, Historicals, Melodrama, Mythologicals, New Indian Cinema, Saint Films and Social. The 'devotional' is in some respects a cross between the Saint Film and the Mythological, often closer to the former than to the latter. The 'Stunt Film' is a self-explanatory subcategory of the internationally known 'Action Film'. Neither of these two genres have been given separate treatment in this book.

HINDI-URDU: The indication 'Hindi-Urdu' in the credits is meant to suggest that we are dealing with a Hindi film making extensive use of Urdu, usually for the lyrics.

MULTILINGUALS: In its most precise form, a bilingual or a trilingual was the kind of film made in the 1930s in the studio era, when different but identical takes were made of every shot in different languages, often with different leading stars but identical technical crew and music. The classic example would be V. Shantaram's Kunku (Marathi)/Duniya Na Mane (Hindi), 1937. However, it becomes extremely difficult to distinguish multilinguals in this original sense from dubbed versions, remakes, reissues or, in some cases, the same film listed with different titles, presented as separate versions in different languages. In this respect, Har Mandir Singh's work has substantially contained the problem in Hindi film, but it remains in most other languages. Wherever we found clear evidence that a title referred to a dubbed version, the secondary version has been dropped from the Index. When titles are divided by /, they are usually multilinguals in which each version counts as an original version. In all other instances, other versions are listed as 'aka' ('also known as'). Nevertheless, it will take years of scholarly work to establish definitive data in this respect. In some filmographies, a title may be followed, in brackets, by an indication of the language. This is to avoid confusion when films with identical titles were made in the same year in different languages.

PLOT SYNOPSES: Readers will notice very quickly that the plot outlines provided are extremely compressed, especially when we remember that most Indian films take many detours and mobilise multiple plot-lines in any given narrative. There may be two or three main plot-lines accompanied by a comedy plot and interspersed with song sequences which may or may not advance or impact upon any of the other plots, each of them intersecting with the others in ways not always easily integrated into a single, linear account of events. We have opted for an outline of the overall shape of the story, privileging a few narrative knots which we consider more important at this stage of Indian film scholarship. Such a procedure is risky, invites argument and should not be mistaken for an attempt to 'fix' what the film is about.

RUNNING TIMES: Are based on footage recorded by the censors. Sources for footage include Dharap's compilations; the Madras Film Diary (1957) for South Indian films 1951-56, thereafter the monthly and annual listings of the Journal of the Film Chamber (Madras); the Journal of the Kerala Film Chamber (Cochin) for post-1970 Malayalam films; the annual listings of 80s and 90s North Indian films in Film Information (Bombay); the collections of censorship data in the National Film Archive of India, and the prints struck from original negatives in the NFAT's holdings. Wherever these have not been available, the footage recorded on the Censor Certificate of available prints has been used. In instances where films with running times noticeably different from the original censored length have been in common circulation, these have been separately indicated in brackets. In several titles produced especially during WW2, Dharap's running times are either missing or have been given in round figures: in these cases, we have indicated that the running time is an approximate figure. For silent films, we have provided only the footage to allow for variable projection speeds.

SPELLING: As indicated earlier, spelling problems have proved intractable. Given the general lack of standardisation in transliterations of Indian languages into English, as well as the extensive linguistic variations of languages like Tamil (e.g. the syllable 'zh') and Bengali (the syllable 'o') and complicated syllables like 'chch', the decision to include an all-India Index presented problems which a listing by language would have only partially overcome. In the end, we felt that an alphabetical Index would be of greater benefit to international users. Since most film-publicity outlets provide their own, often eccentric, transliterations, several films are already well known by a particular 'graphic image'. These titles have generally been retained, except where idiosyncratic diversions (e.g. Ramesh Sippy's recent Akayla, 1991) have forced a re-spelling in the more conventional form (Akela, aka Akayla). However, certain common proper nouns have been standardised for all languages, such as Seeta (not Sita or Seetha), Gauri (not Gowri), Ganga (not Gunga). In general, following the practice of popular film literature, 'common-sense' solutions have been used rather than any rigidly standardised notation, with extensive uses of the 'aka' and 'see' wherever alphabetical discrepancies are likely to cause serious difficulties in finding the title. In some cases, all we can suggest is that the reader make an imaginative effort and check other possible romanised spellings. For instance, the 'u' sound may be rendered as 'u' or as 'oo'; often 'a' and 'u' are used for the same sound, as in Ganga Jumna or Gunga Jumna; the sequence 'eni' at the beginning of a word may be rendered as 'ini'; a double 'aa' may appear as a single 'a', 'g' as 'k', and so on.

SQUARE BRACKETS: Around a letter or a word in a quote designate the omission of a portion of the text or the interpolation of text not in the original; elsewhere, their use is self-explanatory.

Finally, we should like to repeat that we would be extremely grateful if readers could send us their corrections together with an indication of their evidence. Only continuous collective scholarship can hope to establish a more solid basis for further work in chronicling the immensely rich but still grievously under-documented and under-analysed Indian cinemas.

Ashish Rajadhyaksha and Paul Willemen

A	Assamese	ICC	Report of the Indian Cinematograph Committee 1927-28.
act	actor/actress/acting	i.e.	that is to say
AIR	All India Radio	Int.	International
aka	also known as	IPTA	Indian Peoples' Theatre Association
anim	animation	ISRO	Indian Space Research Organisation
a.o.	among others	K	Kannada
AP	Andhra Pradesh	lp	leading players
B	Bengal/Bengali	lyr	lyrics/lyricist
b&w	black and white	Mal	Malayalam
BBC	British Broadcasting Corporation	Mar	Marathi
Bh	Bhojpuri	MGR	Ramachandran, Marudur Gopalamenon
BJP	Bharatiya Janata Party	MP	Member of Parliament/Madhya Pradesh
c	cinematography	MPEAA	Motion Picture Export Association of America
c.	circa	MUKT	Marketing Union of Kinematograph Technicians
cf	compare/see also	m	music
CFS	Children's Film Society	NFDC	National Film Development Corporation
CIRCO	Cine Industries & Recording Company	NTR	Rama Rao, Nandamuri Taraka
Co.	Company	O	Oriya
co-d/s	co-director/scenarist	P	Punjabi
col	colour	PAG	Progressive Artists Group
Corp.	Corporation	pc	production company
CP	Communist Party	Pics	pictures
CPI	Communist Party of India	p	producer
CPI(M)	Communist Party of India (Marxist)	pov	point of view
CPI(ML)	Communist Party of India (Marxist-Leninist)	Prod.	production(s)
d	director/directed	PWA	Progressive Writers' Association
dial	dialogues/dialogue writer	R	Rajasthani
Dist.	District	s	script and story
Distr.	distribution/distributors	sc	script
DMK	Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam	Sh	short film
Doc	documentary	SITE	Satellite Instructional Television Experiment
E	English	St	Silent
e.g.	for instance	st	story
Ents	Enterprises	Tam	Tamil
esp.	especially	Tel	Telugu
Est:	established	TN	Tamil Nadu
et al.	and others	TV	television
FFC	Film Finance Corporation	U	Urdu
FTII	Film and Television Institute of India (Pune)	UCLA	University of California at Los Angeles
G	Gujarati	UP	Uttar Pradesh
H	Hindi	USC	University of Southern California
		WW1/2	World War 1/2

Balraj Sahni and Nirupa Roy in Do Bigha Zameen

1896

Plague in Bombay and Pune; national famine until 1897. E. B. Havell, one of the figureheads of the Bengal School of Painting, is appointed Superintendent of the Government School of Art, Calcutta. Bankimchandra Chatterjee's Vande Mataram (Hail to the Mother), one of India's national anthems later appropriated by Hindu chauvinists, is recited for the very first time at the Indian National Congress. Bal Gangadhar Tilak inaugurates a festival around the figure of the 17th C. Maratha emperor Shivaji to generate nationalist sentiment. B. R. Rajam Aiyer publishes the social reform novel, Kamalampal Charitram, in Tamil. The singer Vishnu Digambar Paluskar leaves the Miraj court to popularise classical music.

First film screening at Watson's Hotel, Bombay, on 7 July, by the Lumière cameraman Marius Sestier. The Madras Photographic Stores advertises imported 'animated photographs', reviewed in the Journal of the Amateur Photographic Society of Madras.

1897

Damodar Hari Chaphekar assassinates Charles Rand, the 'Plague Commissioner', and Ayres, the district magistrate, for their handling of plague relief measures; he is hanged with his two brothers in 1898.

First films shown in Calcutta and Madras. Clifton & Co. announce daily screenings at their Meadows Street photography studio, Bombay.

1898

The first gramophone record is released by Gramophone & Typewriter Ltd., Belgatchia. Bhai Vir Singh's Punjabi novel, Sundri is published.

Two Italians, Colorello and Cornaglia, organise film shows in tents at the Azad Maidan, Bombay. Hiralal Sen starts making films. Amritlal Bose screens a package of 'actualities' and 'fakes' at the Star Theatre, Calcutta, with plays and variety entertainments. The multinational Warwick Trading Co. commissions Panorama of Calcutta newsreel. Other films include Poona Races and Train Arriving at the Churchgate Station (by Andersonscopograph).

1899

Calcutta receives electricity supply, although earlier that year the Maharaja of Bikaner had apparently been the first Indian to switch on an electric light bulb. Lord Curzon becomes Viceroy and Governor-General of India. The seminal work of Urdu literature, Ruswa Mohammed Hadi Mirza's Umrao Jaan Ada is published. Performance of G. B. Deval's Marathi play, Sangeet Sharada, sometimes cited as the first reform 'social'.

H.S. Bhatavdekar films a wrestling match in Bombay's hanging gardens.

1900

Lord Curzon rejects the Congress Party's pleas for permanent land settlements, alleging that the weather, rather than excessive taxes, had caused the famine, but he later reduces salt tax and raises income tax thresholds. He also sets up a Railway Board, and opens 6100 miles of new rail track.

Major Warwick establishes a cinema in Madras. F. B. Thanawala's Grand Kinetoscope newsreels establish the genre's commercial possibilities. Footage of the Boer War is released at the Novelty Cinema, Bombay.

1901

The reformist leader Mahadev Govind Ranade dies. Tagore establishes the Brahmacharya Ashram, the nucleus of the Vishwabharati University of Shantiniketan. Fakir Mohan Senapati publishes his Oriya historical novel, Lachama. Vishnu Digambar Paluskar sets up the first music school, the Gandharva Mahavidyalaya in Lahore. Edward VII is crowned following the death of Queen Victoria. The North West Frontier Province is created. Ramananda Chattopadhyay starts editing Prabasi, a high-profile, extensively illustrated Bengali literary monthly which pioneers the popular mix of book excerpts, poetry and one-act plays alongside reviews and essays (occasionally on film); its serialised fiction includes Rabindranath Tagore's Gora (1907-1909).

Hiralal Sen's Royal Bioscope establishes film exhibition alongside the commercial theatre in Calcutta, filming extracts from plays.

Bhatavdekar films the landing of Sir M. M. Bhownuggree and the arrival (returning from Cambridge University) of Sir Wrangler Mr R. P. Paranjpye.

1902

Kakuzo Okakura, a Japanese artist and a militant proponent of a pan-Asian ideology, arrives in Calcutta as a guest of Surendranath Tagore. His ideas influence the Bengal School of Painting and are given a nationalist gloss by Sister Nivedita. The first Indian to record a song on gramophone disc is Sashi Mukhi of Classic Theatres, Calcutta.

J. F. Madan launches his bioscope show in a tent on Calcutta's Maidan, the foundation of a massive exhibition and distribution empire which dominated silent Indian, Burmese and Sri Lankan cinemas.

1903

Bhatavdekar and American Biograph film Lord Curzon's Delhi Durbar, marking the enthronement of Edward VII.

1904

Madhav Prasad Mishra's short story, Ladki Bahaduri, appears in the journal Sudarshan. It is sometimes cited as the first work of short fiction in the still-evolving Hindustani language. Veer Savarkar, later associated with the right-wing Hindu Mahasabha, starts the Abhinav Bharat as a secret society of revolutionary terrorists. The Maharashtra Natak Mandali introduces naturalist prose theatre, later associated with the stage/film star Keshavrao Date.

Manek D. Sethna starts the Touring Cinema Co. in Bombay, showing The Life of Christ (two reels).

1905

Lord Curzon and the new Governor of Bengal, Andrew Fraser, announces the Partition of Bengal, ostensibly for the development of Assam. Partly in response, the Indian National Congress launches the Swadeshi Movement on 7 August, calling for the boycott of all foreign-manufactured goods. Lord Minto becomes Viceroy.

J. F. Madan turns producer with Jyotish Sarkar's film of a protest rally against Partition.

1906

Dadabhai Naoroji, President of the Congress, announces that the Party's aim is full 'self-government or Swaraj'. The artist Raja Ravi Varma dies.

Madan's Elphinstone Bioscope Co. dominates indigenous film production.

1907

The All-India Muslim League is formed in Dacca by a group of big landlords including the Aga Khan, the Nawab of Dacca and Nawab Mohsin-uk-Mulk, supporting the Partition of Bengal and calling for separate Muslim electorates and other safeguards for Muslims. Ramananda Chattopadhyay starts The Modern Review in Allahabad, discussing modernism in Indian art. It later published Tagore's debate with Gandhi about culture.

J. F. Madan opens the Elphinstone Picture Palace in Calcutta, the first of his cinema chain. Pathé establishes an Indian office.

1908

Establishment of The Tata Iron & Steel Co. India's largest private-sector corporation. Terrorist movements in Bengal, active since 1902, reach their peak with organisations such as the Anushilan Samiti of Calcutta and Dacca, the return of Hemchandra Kanungo from Paris and raids such as the Barrah dacoity by Pulin Das's group. The movement, often led by upper-caste men proclaiming a communal Hindu or casteist ideology, dominated the romantic imagination of Bengali nationalism for decades. Khudiram Bose, a former Swadeshi activist and member of the Revolutionary Party, is hanged on 11 August. Bal Gangadhar Tilak is convicted of sedition and deported to Mandalay. Keshavrao Bhosle starts the Sangeet Natak troupe, Lalitkalarsh.

Abdulally Esoofally, a South Asian and Singaporean travelling showman, starts exhibiting in India.

1909

The Indian Councils Act 1909 (Morley-Minto Reforms) is announced, introducing elections while trying to split the nationalist movement along communal lines by introducing separate Muslim electorates. Ananda Coomaraswamy publishes Essays in Nationalist Idealism. The Amateur Dramatic Association is started in Bangalore, associated with playwright T. P. Kailasam and stage actor-director Ballari Raghava, bringing modernism to Kannada theatre. Performance in Bengal of Dwijendralal Roy's historical, Shah Jehan. Together with Rana Pratapsingha (1904), Durgadas (1906), Noor Jehan (1907) and Mewar Patan (1908), Shah Jehan anchors the stage historical in communal and nationalist politics.

1910

Rabindranath Tagore publishes Geetanjali. The All-India Hindu Mahasabha is launched at Allahabad, allegedly in response to the Muslim League, intensifying communal hostilities in Indian politics. Dadasaheb Phalke attends a screening of The Life of Christ at P. B. Mehta's America-India Cinema.

1911

George V visits Delhi. The grand Durbar is India's first extensively filmed public event, shot by Hiralal Sen, Bourne & Shepherd, Gaumont, Imperial Bioscope, S. N. Patankar and Madan. The Partition of Bengal is modified, followed in 1912 by the separation of Bihar and Orissa from Bengal. Tilak yokes Hindu chauvinism to the nationalist movement with his Geeta Rahasya. Jana Gana Mana is adopted as the second national anthem by the Congress Party.

Anadi Bose, Debi Ghosh and others start the Aurora Cinema Co. showing films in tents as part of a variety bill.

1912

British government transfers its Indian headquarters from Calcutta to Delhi. Ananda Coomaraswamy publishes his second text on an aesthetic theory for Indian nationalism, Art and Swadeshi.

Pundalik, probably the first Indian feature film.

1913

The first telephone service in India begins in Simla; the first carrier system is between Delhi and Agra in 1930. The militant Ghadar Movement, calling for the violent overthrow of British rule, is started by US-based Indians in San Francisco. Pherozechah Mehta starts the Bombay Chronicle. Jaladhar Sen and Amulyacharan Bidyabhushan start the popular Bengali literary monthly Bharatbarsha; early essays on film include Pramathanath Bhattacharya's 'Bioscope' in the inaugural issue and Narendra Dev's 'Chhayay Mayay Bichitra Rahasya' on film-making techniques, later published as a book in 1934; the monthly also publishes Saradindu Bandyopadhyay's screenplay of Kalidasa. Rabindranath Tagore receives Nobel Prize for literature. Bal Gandharva starts the Gandharva Natak Mandali, the most famous of the Marathi Sangeet Natak repertories. The Parsee Theatre group, Khatau-Alfred, performs Narayan Prasad Betaab's Mahabharata play. Phalke's Raja Harishchandra opens on 21st April to a select audience; on 3 May it opens commercially in Bombay's Coronation Cinematograph.

1914

Start of WW1. Indian soldiers fight with British forces at Kut-al-Amara in Turkey and in Mesopotamia. Gandhi's agreement with General Smuts in South Africa on immigration and taxation laws for Indians is the first political success of his Satyagraha (non-violent) 'experiments with truth'. The Komagata Maru sails from Hong Kong to Vancouver carrying 376 passengers including several Sikh Ghadar activists, and is refused entry by Canadian authorities. The MacMahon Line fixes the border between India and China, leading to disputes erupting in the 1962 war.

Phalke shows his first three features, Raja Harishchandra, Mohini Bhasmasur and Satyavan Savitri, in London. R. Venkaiah and R. S. Prakash build Madras's first permanent cinema, the Gaiety.

1915

The Defence of India Act. Gopal Krishna Gokhale dies. Aga Hashr Kashmiri writes his best-known and most often filmed play, Yahudi Ki Ladki. Govindrao Tembe starts the Shivraj Natak Mandali. First South Indian feature: R. Nataraja Mudaliar's Gopal Krishna.

1916

Annie Besant and B. G. Tilak start their Home Rule Leagues on the lines of the Irish Home Rulers. Coomaraswamy's entire collection of South Asian art is moved to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, and he becomes its curator: this move influences his subsequent opposition to progressive Indian nationalism and its modernising aspects. The South Indian Liberation Federation, aka Justice Party, is formed in Madras.

Universal Pictures sets up Hollywood's first Indian agency.

1917

Gandhi's participation in the Champaran indigo planters' agitation against iniquitous local taxes by European thikadars, followed by the Kheda movement in 1918, introduces his philosophy of Satyagraha to India and again places revolutionary peasant movements at the forefront of Indian nationalism.

Patankar-Friends & Co. is started, the predecessor of the Kohinoor Studio. J. F. Madan's Satyavadi Raja Harishchandra is the first feature made in Calcutta. Phalke makes How Films are Prepared, a short film about film-making.

1918

WW1 ends. The first modern trade union, the Madras Labour Union, is founded.

Baburao Painter starts the Maharashtra Film Co. at Kolhapur. The Indian Cinematograph Act, modelled on that of Britain, defines the terms of censorship and cinema licensing. Phalke's Hindustan Cinema Films Co. is established. Patankar's Ram Vanvas is the first serial.

1919

The Government of India Act 1919 aka the Montagu-Chelmsford reforms, transfers selected areas of administration to Indian control. The Anarchical and Revolutionary Crimes Act, aka the Rowlatt Act, is designed to suppress all forms of nationalist protest. The massacre at Jallianwala Bagh, Amritsar, commanded by General R. E. H. Dyer on 13 April. Rabindranath Tagore, knighted in 1915, returns his knighthood in protest following Jallianwala Bagh. The All-India Khilafat Conference, uniting conservative Muslims in support of the defeated Caliph of Turkey, is supported by the Congress Party. It influences the non-co-operation movement the following year as well as the Moplah rebellion of 1921. Modern Indian shipping launched with the Scindia Steam Navigation Co.'s Liberty.

The Kohinoor Film Co. is founded. Release of the Maharashtra Film Co.'s debut film, Sairandhri. Bilwamangal aka Bhagat Surdas, sometimes presented as the first Bengali feature, by Rustomji Dotiwala for Madan Theatres.

1920

Non-co-operation movement launched by Gandhi calling for the defiance of 'every single state-made law', and Muslim theologians announce that Muslims have only two alternatives before them: to declare a jihad (holy war) against the foreign infidels, or hijrat (emigration). M. N. Roy, who had formed the Communist Party in Mexico in 1919, the first outside the Soviet Union, starts the CP of India (CPI) in Tashkent on 17 October with six other members.

The Bengali film weekly Bijoli starts, edited throughout the 20s by Nalinikanta Sarkar, Barindrakumar Ghosh, Sachindranath Sengupta, Arun Sinha and writer-film-maker Dinesh Ranjan Das. Film censor boards set up in Bombay, Calcutta and Madras. The American-trained Suchet Singh releases Shakuntala with Dorothy Kingdom and other imported actors. Ardeshir Irani starts his first studio, Star Film Co. Nala Damayanti is the first international co-production (with Italy).

1921

The Moplah (or Mapilla) rebellion in Malabar, in which Muslim peasants kill or 'convert' Hindus, leads to bloody confrontations with the police and is a major setback to the non-co-operation movement's efforts to make a nationalist alliance between Hindus and Muslims. Tagore's Vishwabharati University is officially recognised. The Bengali Theatrical Company stages Khirode Prasad Vidyavinode's Alamgir, introducing Sisir Bhaduri, and transforms the Bengali public theatre. Lalitkaladarsh stages its famous one-off production of Sangeet Manapmaan, featuring the reigning stars of Marathi theatre, Bal Gandharva and Keshavrao Bhosle, to raise funds for Gandhi's Tilak Swarajya Fund. Abanindranath Tagore's seminal Calcutta lectures, the Bageshwari Shilpa Prabhandaivali (loosely translated as Some Notes on the Indian Artistic Anatomy and Sadanga, or The Six Limbs of Indian Painting), defines an aesthetic theory for the 'New School' or the 'Bengal School' of Indian painting. The artist Jamini Roy abandons his Post-Impressionist landscapes in favour of a modernist, urban assimilation of popular and folk influences. His atelier of mass-produced paintings, opposing the dominant primitivist emphasis on tradition, becomes a major influence on contemporary Indian, especially Bengali art. Vishnu Narayan Bhatkhande publishes Hindustan Sangeet Paddhati, making classical music compositions available to the public in the form of a textbook. Gandhi visits Gorakhpur campaigning for the non-co-operation movement. According to Shahid Amin (1984), the occasion marked the launch of the Messianic 'Mahatma' image. Novelist Premchand surrenders his government post to contribute pamphlets in support of the movement.

Kohinoor's Bhakta Vidur, banned in Madras and Sind, becomes Indian cinema's first censorship controversy. Dhiren Ganguly's anti-Western satire, Bilet Pherat, produced by the Indo-British Film Co. (Est: 1918). R. S. Prakash starts the Star of the East film company in Madras.

1922

The Chauri Chaura episode (4 February): a group of Congress and Khilafat protestors attack a police station and kill 22 policemen, causing Gandhi to call off the non-co-operation movement. The artist Nandalal Bose, later Satyajit Ray's teacher, takes over the Kala Bhavan at Shantiniketan. Hemendraprasad Ghosh starts the Bengali literary monthly Masik Basumati (later the fortnightly Basumati) for the Basumati literary house, publishing literary fiction and theatre, book and film reviews; it also publishes essays on film by Hemendrakumar Roy and Atorthy's seminal writings on silent Bengali cinema. Mama Warkerkar writes the play Satteche Gulam.

Entertainment tax on film exhibition is levied in Calcutta. Sisir Bhaduri, supported by a group of lawyers, starts the short-lived Taj Mahal Film Co. to adapt well-known literary works to film. The trend is later continued by other studios in Bengal. Rewashankar Pancholi starts Empire Film Distributors in Karachi and Lahore, importing American films.

1923

C. R. Das and Motilal Nehru start the Swaraj Party to enter legislative assemblies. It achieves wider Muslim and Hindu support than the Congress, but by 1928 the Party represents mainly conservative Hindu landlord interests in the communally charged Bengal. Aparesh Chandra Mukherjee's Karnarjun at Calcutta's Star Theatre confirms the commercial theatre's dominant language, influencing much of the early Bengali cinema. The Hindustan Times is launched. The Bengali literary journal Kallol, edited by Dinesh Ranjan Das, is first published and becomes the foremost literary journal of its time, lending its name to the Kallol Group.

One of the early Bengali film weeklies, Sachitra Sisir, edited by Bijoyratna Majumdar, contains film and theatre reviews as well as production news. The elite literary journal Bharati (founded in 1877 and regarded as the journal of the Tagore clan) carries a serialised history of Bengali cinema. Entertainment tax of 12½% is levied in Bombay. The Saurashtra Kinematograph is set up in Rajkot.

1924

First radio programme, broadcast privately with a 40w transmitter, by the Madras Presidency Club Radio. The station ran for three years.

Dhiren Ganguly exhibits Nanubhai Desai and B. P. Mishra's Razia Begum in Hyderabad; the story of a Muslim princess falling in love with a Hindu leads to Ganguly's expulsion by the Nizam and the closure of his Lotus Film Co. Nanubhai Desai and others start Saraswati Film. Maneklal Patel starts Krishna Film. Kamala Movietone is started in Lahore. India's first periodical exclusively devoted to cinema, Mouj Majah (Gujarati), is launched in Bombay by J. K. Dwivedi. Hemendrakumar Roy and Premankur Atorthy start Nachghar, a weekly Bengali theatre and performing arts journal also publishing essays on film.

1925

In Amravati, K. B. Hedgewar founds the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS), a militant cadre-based civilian army, to establish a Hindu rashtra (state). One of its members later assassinated Gandhi and the group has been involved in communal confrontations ever since. A Puss Moth carrying mail from Karachi to Bombay inaugurates a civilian air service. The Gurdwara Law in Punjab vests the responsibility for the running of all major gurdwaras in the Shiromani Gurdwara Prabandhak Committee (SGPC) which, with the Akali Dal, has controlled Punjab politics ever since.

The first major film adaptation of the social reform novel: Painter's Savkari Pash, the Indo-German co-production Prem Sanyas aka The Light of Asia. Fatma Begum, probably the first Indian woman producer and director, starts her production company and débuts as director with Bulbul-e-Parastan, released in 1926. N. D. Sarpotdar and Pandurang Talegiri start United Pictures Syndicate (formerly Deccan Pictures) in Pune; Sharda Film is started and formalises the stunt film genre. The Madurai Bala Shanmughananda Sabha, later known as the TKS Brothers troupe, is started, dominating pre-Independence Tamil theatre and film.

1926

The Arya Samaj leader Swami Shraddhanand is assassinated. Periyar E. V. Ramaswamy Naicker starts the Self-Respect Movement, propagating atheism to oppose caste discrimination. The Imperial Conference redefines Dominions as 'autonomous communities within the British Empire'. India is not offered Dominion Status until 1942, when the offer is rejected. The Conference also launches the notion of Empire Films. The Bengali literary monthly Kalikalama, edited by Murlidhar Basu, Sailajananda Mukherjee and Premendra Mitra, starts in the wake of Kallol's success; indicted repeatedly by the conservative literary establishment for obscenity, it serialised Mitra's controversial Pank.

Foundation of the Punjab Film Corp. in Lahore, inaugurating the Punjabi film industry. Ardeshir Irani starts Imperial Films, eventually making India's first sound film.

Vande Mataram Ashram, the first Vande Mataram Film Co. production, is censored and briefly banned. The journal Photoplay starts in Calcutta.

1927

The Indian Trade Union Act comes into force on 1 June, defining the terms for union recognition and their frame of reference. Industrialists set up the Federation of Indian Chambers of Commerce and Industry (FICCI). The Indian Broadcasting Company starts operations in Bombay and Calcutta, inaugurating professional radio in India. Modhu Bose starts the Calcutta Amateur Players theatre group.

Indian Kinema Arts Studio starts in Calcutta, one of the predecessors of New Theatres. Film journals the Movie Mirror (Madras) and Kinema (Bombay) are started.

1928

Gandhi resumes Satyagraha, suspended after the Chauri Chaura violence, with the Bardoli peasant movement protesting against the 22% rise in land revenue collections. The movement also makes Vallabhbhai Patel a national leader. The Simon Commission, consisting of Sir John Simon and seven British MPs, arrives in India. It is boycotted by all major Indian Parties. Its 1930 report recommends abolition of diarchy and provincial autonomy, falling far short of Indian demands for autonomy. Lala Lajpat Rai is killed in a police charge on a demonstration in Lahore against the Simon Commission. Bhagat Singh and two other members of the Hindustan Socialist Republican Army retaliate by assassinating a British police officer. The first major textile strike in Bombay, led by the Girni Kamgar Union, lasts for six months and establishes the CPI as a political force.

The Indian Cinematograph Committee (1927-8) publishes its report. Appointed to counteract American imports with censorship regulations, the Report refused to give British films preferential treatment and recommended a series of measures to promote Indian films instead, with measures such as financial incentives to producers, the abolition of raw stock duty and the reduction of entertainment tax. The British administration ignores the report. A. R. Kardar starts the United Players Corporation in Lahore, the origin of Playart Phototone. R. Padmanabhan founds the Associated Films Studio in Madras, presiding over K. Subramanyam's entry into the cinema and Raja Sandow's directorial début. First Malayalam feature: J. C. Daniel's Vigathakumaran.

1929

The defeat of the Public Safety Bill (1928), intended to deport socialist activists, leads to the Meerut Conspiracy when 31 CPI members, including three English CP representatives, are put on trial. The Devdasi Bill, combating prostitution in the name of religion and introduced by Muthulakshmi Reddy in the Madras legislature in 1926, is partially passed against conservative male opposition. It is passed in its full form only in 1947. The first commercial aviation service is offered by Imperial Airways, extending its weekly London-Cairo flight to Karachi.

Wall Street crashes, ending negotiations about a major Hollywood expansion into India. Several important studios are founded: Prabhat Film Co. in Kolhapur; Ranjit Movietone in Bombay; British Dominion Films Studio and Aurora Film Corp. in Calcutta; General Pictures Corp. in Madras. The influential Gujarati film periodical Chitrapat, edited by Naginlal Shah, and the Moving Picture Monthly are launched in Bombay. Universal's Melody of Love is the first sound feature released in India, at the Elphinstone Picture Palace.

Bankimchandra Chattopadhyay (not the famous novelist) launches the Bengali monthly Deepali containing mainly film-news, reviews, memoirs and serialised fiction; the journal also produced an English weekly under the same title, edited by Manujendra Bhanja and addressing a 'highbrow' audience.

1930

The former Congress Party activist Surya Sen leads an Indian Republican Army raid on the police and auxiliary force armouries at Chittagong. The group launched a sustained guerrilla action against the British, triggering several terrorist movements in and around Midnapore, and brutal state reprisals against the entire nationalist movement. The poet Mohammed Iqbal suggests a merging of the North West Frontier Province, Punjab, Sind and Baluchistan into a single state, the ancestor of Pakistan. Gandhi inaugurates the civil disobedience movement with his epic march from Ahmedabad to Dandi to defy the Salt Act. The Department of Industries and Labour takes over radio operations and starts the Indian Broadcasting Service in Bombay and Calcutta. Physicist C. V. Raman wins the Nobel Prize for his theory of the 'Raman Effect' of scattered light. Rabindranath Tagore, who started painting aged 67, has his first exhibition at the Galerie Pigalle, Paris; the show travels through Europe and opens at the Town Hall, Calcutta, in 1931. Abanindranath Tagore paints his definitive work, the Arabian Nights series. Munshi Premchand publishes the first number of his journal Hans.

Sailajananda Mukherjee starts the Bengali film weekly Bioscope reporting the Hollywood, Bombay and Calcutta film industries and publishing reviews, pre-release synopses of films, industrial surveys and, occasionally, essays about technical and aesthetic issues. Ambalal Patel and Chimanlal Desai start Sagar Film. Gubbi Veeranna starts production with the Gubbi-Karnataka Films Corp. at the Mallechwaram Studios in Bangalore.

1931

Bhagat Singh is hanged, after throwing a bomb at the Central Legislative Assembly 'to make the deaf hear'. He becomes India's first nationally renowned socialist martyr. The Gandhi-Lord Irwin Pact is signed, leading to the temporary suspension of the civil disobedience movement. It is resumed after the failure of the second Round Table Conference in London, where Winston Churchill refers to Gandhi as a 'half-naked seditious fakir'. New Delhi, designed by the Orientalist architect Edwin Lutyens, becomes India's capital.

Alam Ara is India's first sound film. Kalidas is the first Tamil sound feature; in Telugu it is Bhakta Prahlada and in Bengali Jamai Sasthi. B. N. Sircar founds New Theatres, a sound film expansion of International Filmcraft (Est: 1930). Pancholi's Empire Talkie Distributors acquires rights to RKO-Radio productions and RCA-Photophone sound equipment. The Bengali film weeklies Batayan (edited by Abinashchandra Ghoshal) and Chitralekha (edited by Bibhutibhushan Bannerjee) are launched. The Bengali literary quarterly Parichay (edited by Sudhindranath Datta) starts, arguably the most influential journal of cultural theory in pre-Independence Bengal.

1932

Within three days of the Congress Party's decision to resume the civil disobedience movement, the entire leadership is jailed and all civil liberties suspended. Over 80,000 non-violent protesters court arrest. Ramsay MacDonald's 'Communal Award', creating separate electorates in the provincial legislatures for Hindus, Muslims, Sikhs, Christians, Anglo-Indians, Europeans, Depressed Classes, Women, Marathas and 'Others', further emphasises British efforts to communalise the nationalist movement and gives a new lease of life to the Hindu Mahasabha, which becomes its most strident opponent.

First sound features in Gujarati (Narasinh Mehta) and Marathi (Sant Tukaram). The East India Film Co. starts in Calcutta, pioneering Bengali, Tamil and Telugu film-making. The Motion Picture Society of India is set up to represent the Indian film industry (in 1951, the Film Federation of India takes over). Hindi weekly Cinema Sansar, edited by Radhakrishna Sharma and featuring screenplays, lyrics, stories and film news, is launched in Bombay. In Bengal, the monthly Chitrapanji edited by Abani Basu includes serious essays by film-makers.

1933

The Indian Air Force is formed, named 'Royal' during WW2. The Indian Military Academy is started at Dehra Dun on the lines of the Sandhurst academy. The government of India nationalises radio broadcasting. Choudhury Rehmat Ali's note of 28 January is the first time the word 'Pakistan' (Land of the Pure) is used: it is also a loose acronym for 'Punjab, Afghanistan, Kashmir, Sind, Baluchistan'. In Calcutta, Bengal Lamps is India's first manufacturer of light bulbs and electrical equipment. Natyamanwantar stages its landmark Marathi stage production, Andhalyanchi Shala.

Prabhat Studio moves to Pune; its Sairandhri, processed and printed in Germany, becomes India's first colour film. Kolhapur Cinetone is started. Wadia Movietone is founded, establishing the stunt film as a respectable, big-budget genre, with Hunterwali (1935). Vijay Bhatt and others start Prakash Pictures. Vel Pictures and Tamil Nadu Talkies are launched in Madras. Himansu Rai's fourth international venture, Karma, is premiered in London. The air-conditioned Regal Cinema opens in Bombay.

1934

The Congress Socialist Party is founded in Bombay, consisting of a group of Marxists, including Jayaprakash Narayan, Achyut Patwardhan and Yusuf Meherally; it later re-established links with the A. P. Kisan Sabhas and emphasised land reform as an integral part of the nationalist agenda. The CPI is banned. Jinnah returns from England to head the Muslim League. Major earthquake in Bihar, destroying the city of Monghyr. The Royal Indian Navy is set up. Bengal's 'establishment' literary weekly Desh starts.

Bombay Talkies is established. Zubeida and Nanubhai Vakil start Mahalaxmi Cinetone. First sound features in Oriya (Seeta Bibaha) and Kannada (Bhakta Dhruva). Ch. Narasimha Rao's Seeta Kalyanam, for Vel Pictures, is the first sound feature made in Madras. Meenakshi Cinetone is founded with K. Subramanyam's Pavalakkodi. Priyanath Ganguly helps start Kali Films in Calcutta. Rajit studio's Toofan Mail is the Hindi cinema's first major success in the 'stunt' film genre, leading to Wadia's Hunterwali (1935). The Hindi film periodical Chitrapat, edited by Hrishamcharan Jain, is launched in Delhi; it publishes scripts, fiction serials, poetry and news about international cinema. Bengali film weekly Ruprekha, edited by Jyotishchandra Ghosh, starts. The Urdu novelist Munshi Premchand is hired as a scenarist by Ajanta Cinetone at Rs 8000 per year.

1935

Buddhadev Bose and Samar Sen start the leading poetry quarterly Kavita in Bengal, introducing major writers such as Jibanananda Das and Bishnu Dey. The Indian Broadcasting Service starts its Delhi station. The Government of India Act (1935) provides provincial autonomy for elected ministers. Debates over participation in elections divide Congress. The Act defines an Anglo-Indian as a 'European with a male progenitor, but the female is a native Indian'. The Seventh Congress of the Communist International (1935) calls for united anti-Fascist fronts. The CPI, regrouped under P. C. Joshi, abandons its critique of the Congress as a 'party of the bourgeoisie' to make common cause with several left groups, including the Congress Socialists, the Royists and the All-India Kisan Sabha (founded in 1936). The broad socialist front is supported by Nehru.

India produces 228 features. In a booming South India, studios are started in Madras (K. Subramanyam's Madras United Artists), Salem (Angel Films, 1934) and Coimbatore. The first All-India Motion Picture Convention is held. First films in Punjabi (Sheila) and Assamese (Joymati). Dhoop Chaon establishes playback singing as a standard practice. Launch of the seminal film monthly Filmindia; initially edited by D. K. Parker, it was later taken over by its proprietor Baburao Patel and lasted until 1961. The Quetta earthquake on 21 May; its after-effects are filmed by P. V. Pathy.

1936

The Progressive Writers Association conference, started in London in 1935, has its first all-India conference at Lucknow. The All-India Kisan Sabha, founded alongside the Congress session in Lucknow, publishes N. G. Ranga's Kisan Manifesto making a series of 'minimum demands' on behalf of small landowners, tenants and landless labourers. All-India Radio is started. Orissa and Bihar become independent states of India.

Amar Jyoti is shown in Venice. Master Vinayak and cameraman Pandurang Naik co-found Huns Pictures; the Telugu company Saraswati Talkies debuts with Drapadi Vastrapaharanam. Sarathi Films, started the same year, presided over Gudavalli Ramabrahmam's early work in the reform genre (e. g. Raitu Bidda, 1939). Raja Sandow's Vasantsena launches the prolific career of the Tamil comedy duo N. S. Krishnan and T. A. Mathuram. Franz Osten joins the Nazi Party. Jaddanbai starts Sangeet Film with films featuring her daughter Nargis as a child actress. Sohrab Modi and Rustom Modi start Minerva Movietone. The Bengal Motion Picture Association is founded in Calcutta. The second All-India Motion Picture Convention (Madras).

1937

Elections under the 1935 Act, when several political veterans contest for governmental office for the first time in their lives, leads to a Congress triumph in 8 of the 11 British-ruled provinces. C. P. Ramaswamy Aiyer, the dewan of Travancore, announces the Temple Entry proclamation and later concedes communal representation to keep the Christian, Ezhava and Muslim communities from becoming a joint opposition to Nair and caste-Hindu domination. Amrita Sher-Gil, who returned to India in 1934, visits the Ajanta and Mattancheri murals (1936-7), and paints her major works, Brahmacharis and Bride's Toilet.

First 'songless' film, J. B. H. Wadia's Naujawan. The first indigenously made colour film is Gidwani's Kisan Kanya, using the Cinecolor process acquired by Imperial. T. R. Sundaram starts Modern Theatres in Salem; Newtowne Studio starts in Madras. The Indian Motion Picture Producers' Association (IMPPA) is formed in Bombay, the first and for several years the most influential trade union in the film industry. Sant Tukaram receives a special jury mention in Venice. The Amateur Cine Society of India is formed in Bombay by, a. o. , P. V. Pathy, Stanley Jepson and Rudi Van Leyden. Jogjiban Bandyopadhyay sets up the Bengali film weekly Kheyali.

1938

The Haripura Congress is marked by ideological rifts between the Right and the Left factions of Congress; it also exhibits Nandalal Bose's famous Haripura posters, showing India's working people and evoking Pat figurations and reliefs from Bengal's terracotta temples. The modernist sculptor Ram Kinker Bajj makes his monumental Santhal Family cement sculpture at Shantiniketan. K. M. Munshi starts the Bhartiya Vidya Bhavan.

Short-wave radio broadcasts are introduced. Veer Savarkar becomes president of the Hindu Mahasabha.

Duniya Na Mane is shown in Venice; none of the four Indian films shown in Venice in the 30s were bought for Western distribution. Bombay Talkies makes what is probably the first officially commissioned advertising film, on Lever's Dalda cooking oil, for the Lintas advertising agency (although Niranjan Pal is supposed to have made some ads in the early 30s). The South Indian Film Chamber of Commerce and the Indian Motion Picture Distributors' Association (IMPDA) are set up. The silver jubilee of the Indian film industry (usually dated from Phalke's Raja Harishchandra) is celebrated with 'official' versions of India's film history. The first Malayalam sound feature: Balan. The Indian Screen Gazette is started by Wadia Movietone, sponsored by the Film Advisory Board; P. V. Pathy films a three-reeler on the Haripura Congress for the Gazette.

1939

The British government declares war on Germany in the name of India. Nehru protests, declaring himself equally opposed to Fascism and imperialism, and pledges that an independent India, fighting Fascism alongside other free nations, would freely make its resources available for the war. Congress ministers, elected in 1937, resign.

Vauhini Pictures is started by B. N. Reddi and Gemini by S. S. Vasan. Both companies expanded into studios in Madras in the 40s. Film Industry, a trade newspaper, is started in Bombay.

1940

The All-India Muslim League adopts the 'Pakistan resolution' at Lahore. The harmonium is banned from All-India Radio: its tempered scale, adapted from the organ, is considered antithetical to the shruti or the microtones that give Indian music its continuous scale. Only decades later would this commonly used musical instrument be allowed on radio again.

Film Advisory Board is set up by the government and is granted monopoly over raw stock. Intensification of censorship of films likely to support the independence movement with images or words. P. K. Atre, Master Vinayak and others start Navyug Chitrapat with public finance. Mehboob makes Aurat, the original version of Mother India. Himansu Rai dies, and Devika Rani takes over Bombay Talkies.

1941

Subhash Chandra Bose escapes from house arrest, travels to Berlin and meets Hitler (1942), who approves a plan to raise an army in South-East Asia. All-India Radio becomes part of the Ministry of Information & Broadcasting. Rabindranath Tagore dies. The first modern shipyard in India, at Vishakapatnam, comes on stream. Its first ship, Jala Usha, is commissioned in 1948. Churchill announces that the Atlantic Charter does not apply to India.

The Lahore-based film industry breaks into the national market with Khazanchi. First Pushtu film: Sarhad Pictures' Laila Majnu. Kadaru Nagabhushanam and P. Kannamba start Rajarajeshwari Film. The Motion Picture Association is founded in Delhi, after similar regional bodies in Bengal and Madras.

1942

Sir Stafford Cripps arrives in India amid increasing fears that India might fall to Japan, which bombs the east coast and Calcutta. His proposals to frame a Dominion Constitution and a promise of independence after the war are rejected, especially since they imply Partition. Congress launches the 'Quit India' movement in August. Violent confrontations lead to massive reprisals as eight British brigades and 57 Indian battalions are used to quell what the viceroy describes as 'by far the most serious rebellion since that of 1857'. Matangini Hazra, a 72-year-old widow, leads a demonstration braving police bullets in Tamluk, Midnapore, becoming one of the icons of the August Kranti movement. The Japanese bomb Rangoon and Singapore. Representatives of Indian organisations from Japanese-occupied territories meet in Tokyo and Bangkok, and resolve to raise an Indian National Army (aka Azad Hind Fauj) with Japanese support, consisting mainly of Indian prisoners of war. The CPI collaborates with the British following Hitler's invasion of the USSR and opposes the Quit India movement. It concentrates on organising the Telangana peasantry against the Nizam of Hyderabad and on the Travancore movement against Dewan Ramaswamy Aiyer's rule. Dr Dwarkanath Kotnis, head of a medical team sent to China, dies. Four years later, V. Shantaram films his story (Dr Kotnis Ki Amar Kahani) as a nationalist fable. Hindustan Motors is the first indigenous car-manufacturing company.

The Bombay Film Society is formed. Major shortages in raw stock; only recognised producers receive a maximum of 11,000 feet for features and 400 feet for publicity trailers. Priority is given to films supporting the war effort, leading to a rash of war movies.

Filmistan is founded by a breakaway group from Bombay Talkies led by S. Mukherjee and Ashok Kumar. A. R. Kardar founds the Kardar Studio. First films in Sindhi (Homi Wadia's Ekta) and Marwari (G. P. Kapoor's Nazrana). V. Shantaram starts the Rajkamal Kalamandir Studio on the former Wadia Movietone premises; Homi Wadia starts Basant Pictures. Mehboob starts his own production company (becoming a studio in 1952) with the hammer-and-sickle logo. K. A. Abbas, V. P. Sathe and others start the journal Sound, featuring politics, fiction, reviews and essays on Indian film.

1943

The Bengal famine (1943-4), a direct consequence of war profiteering and speculation, leaves five million dead. The best-known work of art dealing with the issues involved is Bijon Bhattacharya's play Nabanna, the inaugural production of the Indian Peoples' Theatre Association. Subhash Chandra Bose arrives in Singapore by submarine from Kiel and becomes Supreme Commander of the Indian National Army. He proclaims a 'Provisional Government of Azad Hind' (Free India). His government in exile is immediately recognised by Germany and Japan. The Muslim League amends the 'Quit India' resolution to 'Divide And Quit'. The Calcutta Group of painters, including Gopal Ghosh, Prodosh Dasgupta and Nirode Majumdar, has its first show.

Kismet, one of the biggest hits in Indian film history, is released. Rajkamal Kalamandir's début feature, Shakuntala, is a major hit.

Information Films of India is started; the Defence of India Act is amended to force all distributors to pay for and to show the Indian News Parade. K. Ramnath starts the Cine Technicians Association of South India. Court Dancer, the English version of Raj Nartaki, is released in the USA in a few provincial theatres. Kalish Mukhopadhyay starts the seminal Bengali film monthly Rupamancha, with extensive film and performing arts reviews, committed to film education and to the reorganisation of the industry.

1944

The Indian National Army fights the British at Arakan, near Mandalay, and on Assam's north-east frontier. They 'liberate' 15,000 square miles including Japanese-occupied Andaman and Nicobar islands. The Dravidar Kazhagam Party is founded by Periyar E. V. Ramaswamy Naicker in Madras. The Bombay Plan, presented by a group of industrialists, commits the Indian private sector to nationalist responsibilities, envisaging the possibilities of a free-market economy coalescing into the socialist ideal of a planned economy. K. C. S. Panicker starts the Progressive Painters Association in Madras, later institutionalised into the Chalamandal artists' village (1966). Prithviraj Kapoor launches the Prithvi Theatres in Bombay.

War profiteers increasingly launder their gains through the film industry, inflating star salaries and budgets, speeding up the shift away from studios towards independent production. The Navajyothi Studio is started in Mysore. The government appoints a Film Advisory Committee. Entertainment tax is increased in UP, Central Provinces, Bombay and Madras.

1945

The Indian National Army, hit by desertions and disease, surrenders, and several members are publicly tried. Bose is believed to have been killed in an air crash over Taipei. Central and provincial legislature elections: Congress wins majority but loses to the Muslim League in all Muslim-dominated provinces except the North West Frontier Province. A pact between Bhulabhai Desai of the Congress and Liaquat Ali of the Muslim League envisages joint control of an interim government, but both parties quickly repudiate any such understanding. Labour comes to power in Britain. C. R. Attlee sponsors a new initiative to break the Hindu-Muslim deadlock with the Simla Conference chaired by Lord Wavell. Jinnah rejects all compromise offers. The Tata Institute of Fundamental Research (TIFR) is inaugurated (it became operational only in 1954); it later pioneered India's nuclear and space research programmes. The best known Prithvi Theatres play, Inder Raj Anand's Deewar, addresses the communal divide in the context of India's impending Partition.

M. K. Thyagaraja Bhagavathar and N. S. Krishnan are arrested on murder charges and imprisoned. Film trade representatives resign from the Film Advisory Committee. The government withdraws state control on raw stock distribution (imposed in July 1943).

1946

The Muslim League's call for a Direct Action Day (16 August) leads to the worst 20th C. communal riots in Bengal (Calcutta, Dacca, Noakhali and Tipperah). Riots in Bihar following the observance of 25 October as Noakhali Day. Nehru becomes vice-president of the Viceroy's Executive Council, heading the Interim Government of an undivided India. Jinnah declares the day (2 September) as a day of mourning for Muslims; the Muslim League joins the government on 13 October and Jinnah accompanies Lord Wavell, Nehru and others to London to try to break the political impasse over Partition. Mutiny by Royal Indian Navy ratings (18 February). The CPI-led Telangana peasant insurrection reaches its peak, fighting the feudal zamindar system and bonded labour, forced levies and illegal land seizures. In Travancore, a general strike against Dewan Ramaswamy Aiyer's insistence on continuing a despotic independence escalates into the CPI-led Punnappa-Vyalar uprising. India recalls its South African High Commission, repudiating the India-South Africa treaty of 1927. The privately owned Tata Airlines becomes the country's official international airline, Air India. Binode Behari Mukherjee paints his major mural, Medieval Hindi Saints, at the Hindi Bhavan, Shantiniketan (1946-8). Nehru publishes The Discovery of India.

IPTA's debut feature, Dharti Ke Lal, with Neecha Nagar and Dr. Kotnis Ki Amar Kahani, are made as war-effort films. Ranakdevi establishes the Gujarati cinema as a financially viable industry. MGM introduces commercial 16mm distribution, mainly for mobile cinemas. Information Films of India is dissolved; the Defence of India Rules on compulsory documentary screenings as well as footage restrictions are withdrawn.

1947

Lord Mountbatten becomes the last Viceroy and Governor General of India; he presents his plan for Partition (3 June), and announces the schedule for the transfer of power (14-15 August). The Indian Independence Bill is passed 15-16 July. Pakistan's Constituent Assembly meets (11 August) and elects Jinnah as its first President. Nehru becomes India's first Prime Minister (15 August), making his famous speech, 'A Tryst with Destiny', to the Constituent Assembly. In Punjab, the fall of Khizar Hayat Khan's Congress- and Sikh-supported ministry is followed by massive rioting in Lahore, Amritsar, Multan, Attock and Rawalpindi. Nearly 200,000 people are killed as six million Muslims from the East and over four million Hindus and Sikhs from the West become refugees in an exchange of populations. Communal attitudes merge with attitudes to sexual conquest and to property in a virtual war of extermination, as refugee trains carry more corpses than living people. The nizam of Hyderabad refuses to accede to the Indian Union and encourages the razakars, members of the Ittehad-ul-Muslimeen, to terrorise the peasantry. Pakistan attacks Kashmir; India signs a treaty of accession with Maharaja Hari Singh of Kashmir.

Udaya Studios, the first film studio in Kerala. The AVM Film Co. starts, adapting S. V. Sahasranamam's stage hit, Nam Iruvar; Master Bhagwan's Jagriti Studios is established near Bombay. Paul Zils and Fali Bilimoria start the Documentary Unit - India. Satyajit Ray, Chidananda Das Gupta and others start the Calcutta Film Society. Foundation of the Bengali film weekly Rupanjali, edited by Sudhangshu Basu.

1948

Gandhi is assassinated by an RSS member. Limited India-Pakistan war over Kashmir, as India complains to the UN Security Council. The Indian Army occupies Hyderabad, forcing the Nizam to surrender. The CPI, which had fought the Razakars, refuses to call off the Telangana insurrection, raising hopes of spearheading a nationwide revolution. The peasantry fights the army until the insurrection is called off in 1951. The Press Trust of India is formed as a news agency under an agreement with Reuter and the Indian & Eastern Newspaper Society. The Progressive Artists Group, formed in 1947 in Bombay, has its first show. Sombhu Mitra starts the theatre group Bohurupee. The Atomic Energy Act is passed.

Uday Shankar makes his nationalist dance spectacular Kalpana; S. S. Vasan's Chandralekha is the first Madras production to become an all-India hit; both films are made at the Gemini Studio. Bhavani's Ajit is made on 16mm Kodachrome and blown up to 35mm in the USA. Nirmala is the first Malayalam film made in Kerala. Raj Kapoor starts his R. K. Films, building his studio in 1950. Nehru announces a freeze on the construction of movie theatres. Gour Chattopadhyay initiates the Bengali film monthly Chitrabani, the most reliable record of 40s-50s Bengali cinema together with Rupamancha.

1949

The Indian constitution is drawn up, adopting the British model. Universal suffrage and equal rights for all are among its radical measures, but it also includes Articles 352-5, empowering the president to declare a State of Emergency and providing central government with virtually unlimited authority. Manipur becomes an Indian Territory. The State of Rajasthan is formed, merging the old state with the Rajput Princely States of Bikaner, Jaipur, Jodhpur and Jaisalmer. Ceasefire in Kashmir, as the Indian Constituent Assembly recognises Kashmir's independent status and its decision to become part of the Indian Union. This decision becomes a major rallying point for the Hindu Right which claims that Kashmiri Muslims have 'special status' in India. Ban on the RSS is withdrawn, after a pledge to eschew violence. Trade agreement to export jute, tea and castor oil to the USSR in return for wheat. The USSR becomes India's biggest trading partner and the only country to accept rupees as a currency for international trade. Athreya's play, N. G. O., pioneers realism on the Telugu stage.

Films Division is set up. The DMK (Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam) is founded by C. N. Annadurai. The Party launches its use of film as propaganda with Velaikkari and Nallathambi. Dharti Ke Lal becomes the first Indian film to receive widespread distribution in the USSR. The Cinematograph Act of 1918 is amended; a new censorship classification is introduced. Entertainment tax for film is raised to 50% in the Central Provinces, going up to 75% in West Bengal. The Central Circuit Cine Conference, under Raibahadur Chunilal, protests at the increases and theatres go on strike. Dev Anand and Chetan Anand start Navketan Productions in Bombay, one of the independent producers through which IPTA members enter Hindi cinema. Movie Times is launched in Bombay, edited by B. K. Karanjia. Indian Documentary is launched by Paul Zils and others.

1950

India declares itself a sovereign democratic republic (26 January): population 350 million. The Republic is elected member of the UN Security Council for two years. The Assam earthquake (1 August). The Faculty of Fine Arts, Baroda, starts; ten years later, it becomes the pre-eminent centre for contemporary Indian art.

Jean Renoir and Satyajit Ray meet on the shoot of The River in Bengal. Nemai Ghosh makes Chinnamul in Calcutta. The celebrated Tamil film Ezhai Padum Padu establishes Ramnoth, Nagaiah and Arudra. C. R. Subburaman, Samudrala Raghavacharya, Vedantam Raghavaiah and others start the Vinoda Studio. Vijaya Pictures starts with Shavukaru. The Pakistan government levies a tax of Re 1 per foot on all imported Indian films.

1951

The First Five-Year Plan is announced, with an outlay of Rs 2069 crore. Shyama Prasad Mukherjee starts the Bhartiya Jan Sangh on 2 October, an earlier version of the BJP, as the political wing of the RSS.

The S. K. Patil Film Enquiry Committee, appointed in 1949, reports on all aspects of cinema, noting the shift from the studio system to independent entrepreneurship. Its critique of the mass-cultural idiom, including black market money and the star system, is accompanied by recommendations for major state investment in film production, the setting up of a film finance corporation, a film institute and film archives. The report is ignored for a decade. Film Censorship is centralised under a Central Board located in Bombay. The Film Federation of India is formed, joining up all sectors of the industry, with Chandulal Shah as president. Anjali Devi and Adi Narayana Rao start the Anjali Pictures Studio. The success of Patala Bhairavi transforms Telugu cinema. P. Subramanyam starts the Merryland Studio in Kerala. The weekly newspaper Screen is set up by the Indian Express group. Pudovkin and Cherkassov tour India with a major Soviet film programme.

1952

Nehru forms a government in May after independent India's first general elections. Gopalakrishna Adiga's poetry anthology, Nadedu Banda Dari, is published; together with his Bhumigita (1959), these are considered the beginnings of the Navya Movement.

The first International Film Festival of India, held in Bombay, Madras and Calcutta, by Films Division. The films of De Sica make a tremendous impact. Bimal Roy moves to Bombay and sets up his production company. Parasakthi, the most famous DMK Film, is released. The Indian Cinematograph Act 1952 is passed, replacing the 1918 Act, but makes few changes. The key section, banning films 'against the interests of the security of the State, friendly relations with other foreign states, public order, decency or morality', is retained. Film producers terminate their agreement with All-India Radio to broadcast film songs, when the radio refuses to credit producers or film titles. The radio starts its National Programme on music and its National Orchestra, conducted initially by Ravi Shankar. Colour films Aan and Jhansi Ki Rani (released in 1953) are made. Bombay Talkies ceases production. Ritwik Ghatak débuts with Nagarik. The fortnightly journal Filmfare is launched, claiming to be the 'first serious effort in film journalism in India'. The Indore-based Hindi tabloid Cinema, edited by Manohar Prasad Gupta, starts publication. With the failure of protracted negotiations, West Pakistan finally bans the import of Indian films. An Indian film delegation visits Hollywood on invitation from the Motion Picture Association of America.

1953

The state of Andhra Pradesh, merging the former Central Provinces and Telangana, is formed, with the cessation of the CPI-led insurrection. Sheikh Abdullah, former Prime Minister of Kashmir, is arrested and imprisoned. Until 1975, Kashmir's politics are largely determined by the central government. The Sangeet Natak Akademi is launched to support and fund music and theatre; it is the first of the three autonomous institutions intended to channel government spending on the arts.

Do Bigha Zameen, showing the influence of Italian neo-realism, receives a special mention at Cannes (1954) and the Social Progress Award at Karlovy Vary. Prabhat Studio ceases production. Sharey Chuattar, the first film starring Uttam Kumar and Suchitra Sen. The Cinematograph Act is amended, extending the powers of various authorities to suspend exhibition of certificated films. The Film Federation of India accepts an Advertisement Code. The trade weekly Trade Guide (edited B. K. Adarsh) is started; it remains the main Hindi film trade paper. Filmfare inaugurates its annual awards.

1954

Zhou Enlai visits India, and Nehru goes to Beijing where he signs the 'Five Principles of Peaceful Co-existence' with Mao Zedong. The National Gallery of Modern Art opens in New Delhi. The Lalit Kala (Fine Arts) Akademi and Sahitya (Literature) Akademi open.

The first national film awards go to Shyamchi Aai and Jagat Murari's short, Mahabalipuram. Awara is a major hit in the USSR. Abbas's Munna is the second 'songless' film; it was shown at the Edinburgh Film Festival in 1955. Indian film delegations visit the Middle East and the USSR. Talks between the Film Federation of India and the government fail over All-India Radio's policy of broadcasting film songs without crediting sources, driving producers into using Radio Ceylon. The compulsory exhibition of 'approved films' (i. e. government propaganda films) in Madras is declared unlawful by the Supreme Court. The Premier Studio, Mysore's second studio premises, is started by M. N. Basavarajaiah.

1955

Nehru's celebrated speech at the Avadi Congress calls for a 'Socialistic Pattern of Society'. Khrushchev and Bulganin come to India. Nehru attends the Bandung Afro-Asian Conference, which inaugurates the Non-Aligned Movement in a cold war context. The leaders of the movement, Nehru, Nasser and Tito, meet again at Briony in 1956. Cow slaughter is banned in Andhra Pradesh. The National Defence Academy is set up at Khadakvasla. The Hindu Marriage Act is amended, making the minimum marriageable age for women 15 and for men 18; it also provides for divorces and individual separations. Dharamvir Bharati writes his Hindi verse play, Andha Yug; staged by Satyadev Dubey for Theatre Unit in 1960, it is one of the inaugural productions of a modern, post-Independence Indian theatre.

Pather Panchali has its world première at the Museum of Modern Art, New York, coinciding with the official opening of the Textiles and Ornamental Arts of India Exhibition; in India, the film makes money for the West Bengal State Government, a significant factor in persuading the central government to set up the Film Finance Corporation in 1960, long after it had rejected the 1951 Enquiry Committee's recommendation as financially impracticable. Festivals of Indian cinema in Beijing and London. The Children's Film Society is set up. The South Indian Film Chamber of Commerce starts the Journal of the Film Chamber. The High Court at Andhra Pradesh grants an interim stay on the law of compulsory exhibition of 'approved' films and on the show tax.

1956

The Second Five-Year Plan, with a plan outlay of Rs 4800 crores. The government signs the controversial PL 480 agreement with the USA on foodgrain imports: India pays for the food in the form of loans to US multinationals in India and to private enterprises marketing American goods. The States Reorganisation Bill is passed; the State of Madhya Pradesh and the Union Territories of Delhi and Andaman and Nicobar Islands come into being. Language riots in Ahmedabad over the proposed division of Bombay into Maharashtra and Gujarat. Kerala State is formed, combining Malabar, Kasergod and most of Travancore-Cochin. Mysore State (later Karnataka) is formed, extending the old Mysore kingdom with parts of Madras and Bombay Presidencies and Hyderabad. On 14 October, Dr Babasaheb Ambedkar and 200,000 'scheduled caste' Hindus convert to Buddhism in Nagpur to overcome the iniquities of caste oppression. The first Indian newsprint factory at Nepeanagar is started. APSARA, the first nuclear reactor in Asia outside the USSR, is commissioned at Turbhe, just outside Bombay city. The artist M. F. Husain paints his seminal works Zameen (1955) and Between the Spider and the Lamp, presenting an emblematic cultural amalgam for independent India. UNESCO gives a $20,000 grant to study the use of television as a medium for education and 'rural uplift'. The USA donates equipment and Philips sells a 500w transmitter at a nominal price.

Indian films are shown at Edinburgh, Karlovy Vary and Berlin. The government refuses to make its 'approved', compulsory propaganda films available free of charge to exhibitors. The freeze on construction of new cinemas in Bombay is lifted. The Kerala Film Chamber is started in Cochin. The Andhra Film Chamber Journal is launched in Vijaywada. Rossellini starts work on India '57. Despite major government support and funds, his visa is allowed to expire after a variety of controversies including allegations that he infringed local moral codes (by having an affair with a married Indian woman). The Hindi journal Film Sangeet, published by the Sangeet Karyalaya, Hathras (which had earlier published Bhatkhande's pathbreaking textbook on North Indian classical music). Bhatkhande's influence is extended to written musical scores for film songs, in addition to essays on film music aesthetics and interviews with musicians.

1957

The first Communist ministry is formed in Kerala, led by E. M. S. Namboodiripad. Food prices increase by 50% since 1955, forcing the government to import wheat commercially from Australia and to accept aid under the controversial PL 480 agreement with the USA. The Indian Navy purchases the British aircraft carrier Hercules. All-India Radio starts its 'light entertainment' Vividh Bharati channel, later becoming its commercial channel, emphasising film-based entertainment.

Jagte Raho wins first prize in Karlovy Vary and Aparajito in Venice; Kabuliwala receives a special mention for music in Berlin. Mother India is released. Pardesi is the first Indo-Soviet co-production. Raw stock is declared an essential commodity and its import is centrally controlled. Dealers are forced to declare their stocks. The Cinematograph Bill, intended to start a national film board, production bureau and film institute, is withdrawn. Chidananda Das Gupta, Satyajit Ray, Mrinal Sen and others start the Indian Film Quarterly.

1958

The first phase of the Bhakra Nangal dam, the showpiece of Nehru's government, is completed. The dramatic deterioration in India's foreign exchange reserves, increased spending on imported arms and the need to double the envisaged foodgrain imports, force the government to adopt a radical development strategy emphasising agrarian reform, land ceilings and (following the Chinese model) the organisation of co-operatives. The Indian Copyright Act comes into force. Hindi playwright Mohan Rakesh writes his Ashad Ka Ek Din.

The first documentary film festival is held in Bombay. Ajantrik is shown in Cannes, out of competition. D. N. Sampat, founder of the Kohinoor Studio, dies.

1959

The government-sponsored steel plants at Rourkela and Bhilai are inaugurated; like the Bhakra Nangal dam, they exemplify Nehru's 'temples of the future'. In September, television arrives in India as a half-hour weekly service with a range of 40km around Delhi. C. Rajagopalachari starts the Right-wing pro-liberalisation Swatantra Party, combining the Forum of Free Enterprise and the All-India Agricultural Federation. China's suppression of the Tibetan revolt, violating the treaty signed by Nehru and Mao Zedong (1954), forces 14,000 Tibetan refugees, led by the Dalai Lama, to turn to India. One consequence is that the Chinese model of economic collectivisation is discredited. Most of the food imported under the subsidised PL 480 scheme from the USA is released in fair-price shops, inaugurating India's indebtedness to global lending organisations. The Communist ministry in Kerala is dismissed.

Six years after The Robe, Guru Dutt makes the first Indian CinemaScope film, Kaagaz Ke Phool. Do Aankhen Bara Haath is shown in Berlin and wins the Hollywood Foreign Press Association and Samuel Goldwyn Awards for best foreign film. Pather Panchali's continuous 226-day run at the Fifth Avenue Playhouse, New York, apparently breaks a 30-year record for foreign releases in the USA. The Federation of Film Societies of India is founded, with Satyajit Ray as its president and Indira Gandhi as one of the vice-presidents. In Bombay, the Marathi weekly Rasarang (edited by A. D. Potnis), featuring sports and movies, is started; the Hindi monthly Sushama, an offshoot of the famous Urdu periodical Shama (edited by Yusuf Dehlvi in Delhi), features poetry, short stories, song lyrics and articles on Hindi films.

1960

Bombay State is divided into Maharashtra and Gujarat. Steel production starts at the Durgapur plant. Indian Navy's first aircraft carrier, the INS Vikrant, is commissioned in Belfast. The National Museum opens in New Delhi.

The government implements the 1951 Film Committee recommendation and starts the Film Finance Corporation to give low-interest loans to selected projects. In the late 60s, the FFC emphasises the financing of the independent sector. The Film Institute is started at Pune, on the former Prabhat Studio premises; the Institute for Film Technology is started in Madras. The Hindustan Photo Film Manufacturing Co. starts making b&w X-ray film. Mughal-e-Azam, the most expensive feature to date, is completed. Ranadheera Kanteerava is the first big Kannada hit, establishing its star, Rajkumar. Shri Venkateshwara Mahatyam inaugurates N. T. Rama Rao's political persona of the 'living god'. The weekly tabloid Movieland is launched in Madras. Gandhian Sarvodaya workers start a series of protests against indecent film posters and hoardings.

1961

India invades and annexes Goa, Daman, Diu and Nagar-Haveli, the remaining Portuguese colonies, which are now declared Union Territories, along with Nagaland. The All-India Census reveals India's population growth to be 2.3% annually, considerably higher than the Central Statistical Organisation's projections. The Third Five-Year Plan introduces family planning programmes, which were later to prove controversial. School television project is launched in Delhi.

Ganga Jumna promotes the use of regional dialects in the mainstream Hindi film. First Rajasthani film: B. K. Adarsh's Babasa Ri Laadi. Drastic cuts in the import of raw film stock. Second Film Festival of India in Delhi.

1962

The border war with China (20 October-21 November) in the North and North East. The ill-equipped Indian Army is routed. Nehru is violently attacked by the Congress right wing for the failure of his 'non-alignment' policies. In the general elections, Congress wins but the rise of the Jan Sangh and the Swatantra Parties signal a formidable merging of industrial pro-liberalisation forces with those of Hindu communalism in collective opposition to Nehru. The Bhakra-Nangal multipurpose river valley project on the river Sutlej, one of the biggest dams in the world, is complete. In 1954, Nehru had described this engineering feat as the 'greatest and holiest' of India's shrines.

Pakistan bans Indian films in the East (West Pakistan had banned them in 1952), hitting the Bengali cinema particularly hard. Radio Ceylon captures India's commercial radio audience by broadcasting film songs and film-based programmes, while All-India Radio concentrates on popularising classical music. First Bhojpuri film: Ganga Maiya Tohe Piyari Chadhaibo. Indian Film Culture, the journal of the Federation of Film Societies of India, is launched in Calcutta.

1963

The 'Kamaraj Plan', initiated by K. Kamaraj, a senior Congress leader and Chief Minister of Madras, calls for the voluntary resignation of all senior Congress members from government posts in order to concentrate on revitalising the Party. Nehru uses the plan to purge the right wing from his ministry. Morarji Desai, one of the most vocal critics of Nehru's socialism, accuses him of preparing the rise to power of Indira Gandhi. Parliament approves the continued use of English as an official language beyond 1965. A 10kg 'toy rocket', launched into outer space from the Thumba Equatorial Rocket Launching Station near Trivandrum, is India's first space research success. The Group 1890, an art exhibition with J. Swaminathan's manifesto and an introduction by Octavio Paz, becomes the second major show, after the Progressive Artists Group, to redefine an indigenous modernism.

The Indian Motion Picture Export Corporation (IMPEC) is formed. The first Indian Merchant-Ivory film, The Householder. Barnouw and Krishnaswamy's Indian Film is published. The Journal of the CTA of South India, a Madras-based monthly, is started; it is probably the first technical film journal in India, and reports on the work of major film technicians in the South.

1964

Nehru dies; Lal Bahadur Shastri becomes prime minister. The Communist Party of India splits, the majority of the rank and file going to the CPI (Marxist). The split is triggered by the India-China war, but the larger context is the CPSU's support for the Congress, regarded as an imperialist ally by the CPI's left wing. Following a split in the Congress and the imposition of president's rule in Kerala, 800 CPI(M) cadres are arrested, including A. K. Gopalan, the best known of Kerala's Marxist leaders. The indigenously manufactured Vijayanta tank is the showpiece of the Indian Army's arsenal.

The National Film Archive of India is founded in Pune under the Information & Broadcasting Ministry. The Film Institute at Adyar, Madras, starts. Report on Indian Cinema for UNESCO by Jerzy Toeplitz, president of FIAF. He notes the Bombay cinema's impact on the Hindi language. First Kashmiri film: Naizraat.

1965

Second Indo-Pakistan War since Partition disputing the Kashmir borders. Pakistan invades Chhamb and the Rann of Kutch (1-23 September). Major language riots in South India over the adoption of Hindi as India's national 'link' language. Demonstrations in Madras exceed those of the 1942 Quit India movement. M. Karunanidhi is among the arrested DMK agitators. Kerala declares a strike on 18 February. The CPI(M) emerges as the dominant political party in Kerala's mid-term elections. However, its significant left wing concentrates increasingly on creating peasant organisations with an extra-parliamentary action programme. Charu Majumdar, leading the best known of these movements, declares: 'The real fight against revisionism can never be begun unless the peasant starts it through revolutionary practice'. Television becomes a daily service of one hour, restricted to Delhi. The International Film Festival of India turns competitive. R. Kariat's Chemmeen.

1966

Indira Gandhi becomes prime minister, after the Tashkent peace talks followed by the death of Lal Bahadur Shastri. Punjab is divided into Punjab, Haryana and Himachal Pradesh. Devaluation of the rupee by 36.5%. A growing number of political groups, both Left and Right, marginalise parliamentary politics and embark on violent protests. The Communists' emphasis on extra-parliamentary 'mass struggle' is emulated by a variety of regionalist, ethnic and communal groups. The FICCI considers a proposal to raise a large election fund to support a 'business party'.

Ghatak joins the FTII in Pune. Karnataka Chief Minister Veerendra Patil initiates a scheme to subsidise all films made in the state. The initial subsidy is Rs. 50,000 for b&w and Rs. 1 lakh for a colour film. The Dolton Press, part of B. Nagi Reddy's publishing empire, starts the journal Bommai (edited by B. Vishwanatha Reddy) in Tamil. The Dadasaheb Phalke Lifetime-Achievement Awards are started. The first Dogri film is Kumar Kuldeep's Gallan Hoyian Beetiyan. The North Calcutta Film Society starts the quarterly Chittravash and publishes special issues on, e. g., Nemai Ghosh and Rajen Tarafdar. The Cine Club in Calcutta starts the occasional journal Kino in English.

1967

Indira Gandhi leads her Party to victory in the National Elections. The Congress, hit by major defections and multi-party alliances cobbled together exclusively to oppose it, finds its popular support eroded and loses in eight of India's 17 states. Left United Fronts assume power in West Bengal and Kerala; the DMK wins in Madras on an anti-Hindi platform, and coalitions elsewhere include Hindu communalist factions, dissident ex-Congressmen and reincarnated pre-Independence royalty. The peasant uprising in the Naxalbari District of West Bengal, led by CPI(M) members, starts peacefully but turns into an armed insurrection against individual landowners. Chief Minister Ajoy Mukherjee, who leads the only major non-Marxist faction in Bengal's United Front, rigorously quells the rebellion, causing a split in the United Front and provoking the dismissal of the state government. Naxalite activity surfaces in Andhra Pradesh, at Srikakulam, where Girijan tribals take on local landlords and the police to create virtual soviets, redistributing land and establishing their own administrative machinery. The Srikakulam uprising is defeated only in 1969 by the Central Reserve Police Force. The Rohini RH75 rocket is launched from the Thumba base.

Bommai diversifies into the Telugu monthly, Vijaychitra. Start of the Bengali film monthly Chitrabikshan by Cine Central, Calcutta. Hindustan Photo Films makes India self-sufficient in b&w film and sound negative film. All colour stock is imported and locally perforated. The first 70mm wide-screen film screened in India. M. G. Ramachandran is shot and injured by co-star M. R. Radha. He also becomes a DMK Member of the Legislative Assembly and, in 1970, treasurer of the DMK. The Vividh Bharati channel on All-India Radio goes commercial in Bombay, Pune and Nagpur. Over the next decade, it becomes the dominant publicity medium for cinema, with, e. g., sponsored serials and song compilation programmes.

1968

The All-India Co-ordination Committee of Communist Revolutionaries, the precursor of the CPI(ML), becomes the focus of the extra-parliamentary Left. The first Indian Triennale of International Art, organised by the Lalit Kala Akademi.

The G. D. Khosla Committee Report on Film Censorship criticises the censorship guidelines: 'If they are followed rigidly, not a single film, Indian or Western, is likely to be certified.' Abbas's independent short, Char Shaher Ek Kahani, made in the context of the Khosla Committee's investigations, sparks a major censorship controversy by suggesting that censorship violates the constitutional right to free speech. Major reforms are instituted by the Hidayatullah judgment in the Supreme Court. A manifesto for a New Indian Cinema movement is issued by Mrinal Sen and Arun Kaul, advocating a state-sponsored author-cinema. The state-owned Jyoti-Chitran studio is inaugurated in Kahilipara, Guwahati, Assam.

1969

Indira Gandhi splits the Congress, sacks her finance minister Morarji Desai, and announces the nationalisation of 14 of India's largest banks accounting for 52% of the national credit. She becomes the unquestioned leader of her Party. Her increasing use of radical socialist rhetoric attempts to neutralise both Left and Right opposition in the name of 'progressive forces'. The CPI(ML) is founded in Calcutta by Kanu Sanyal. The atomic power station at Tarapur becomes operational. The Bhabha Atomic Research Centre produces Uranium 235. The scientist Vikram Sarabhai, Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, presents his vision for Indian TV: to overcome simultaneously India's two major limitations, geographical distance and linguistic diversity.

Bhuvan Shome and Uski Roti, financed by the FFC, inaugurate New Indian Cinema. Olavum Theeravum launches a second 'new wave' in Malayalam. Aradhana makes Rajesh Khanna a megastar in association with Kishore Kumar's singing and S. D. and R. D. Burman's scores. Publication of P. Parrain's Regards sur le cinéma indien in Paris. First Satyajit Ray retrospective at the Cinémathèque, Paris.

1970

The Naxalite Movement takes a new turn with student uprisings in Calcutta and other cities. Rebellious against corrupt and archaic education systems, problems of unemployment and the class divide separating Westernised urban life from the 'reality' of rural India, the student action becomes iconoclastic, defacing statues of Gandhi, Rammohun Roy, Ishwarchandra Vidyasagar, Vivekananda et al. Furious debates about the role of art and culture, the supportable and objectionable aspects of India's history, and the role of its petty bourgeoisie, end badly with brutal police and military crackdowns and indiscriminate killings. Anti-Naxalite hysteria grips the state machinery. The central government approves the West Bengal Prevention of Violent Activities Bill. Indira Gandhi's turn towards socialism is reflected in the new Industrial Licensing Policy, reversing the trend towards deregulation. This socialism is incarnated in the Fourth Five-Year Plan, with an outlay of Rs 15,902 crore. The government abolishes privy purses and all privileges to India's erstwhile royalty.

The English monthly Stardust, using 'Bombay English' and featuring movie star gossip and scandals, revolutionises the concept of the fanzine. Journal of the Kerala Film Chamber (Cochin) starts. Close Up (no. 5/6) publishes a special number on 'The Indian Film Scene'.

Samskara inaugurates New Indian Cinema in Kannada. Firoze Rangoonwala publishes his Indian Filmography: Silent and Hindi Films (1897-1969).

1971

The Pakistan government's crackdown on Sheikh Mujibur Rahman's Awami League leads to war with India and results in East Pakistan becoming Bangladesh. Indira Gandhi exploits India's success by announcing elections. Her Congress (R) wins a massive majority, which she uses to change the Constitution, giving greater powers to the parliamentary executive at the expense of the judiciary. President's Rule is declared in West Bengal and Union Minister Siddhartha Shankar Ray uses troops to quell what remains of the Naxalite Movement. A conservative estimate (quoted by Francine Frankel, 1978) is that 15,000 people were arrested, of whom 2000 were killed. By 1973, there are more than 30,000 political prisoners in Bengal, arrested under the Maintenance of Internal Security Act (MISA). India signs a 20-year Treaty of Peace and Friendship with the USSR, triggered by 'secret' talks between Kissinger and Zhou Enlai and the fear that both China and the USA would back Pakistan in the event of further conflict. This effectively ends the Nehruite non-alignment policy. The State of Himachal Pradesh is formed. B. V. Karanth's theatre group, Benaka, stages Karnad's Hayavadana, Kambhar's Jokumaraswamy and Lankesh's Oedipus, inaugurating a Navya-inspired avant-garde in Kannada theatre.

The agreement between the Indian government and the MPEAA is allowed to expire. From 114 foreign films censored in 1972, the number falls to 38 in 1973 and 26 in 1974. The directive to the FFC to sponsor independent film-making is written into its official objectives, enjoining it to turn film into 'an effective instrument for the promotion of national culture, education and healthy entertainment . . . by granting loans for modest but off-beat films of talented and promising persons in the field'. This directive was to last for only five years. India produces 433 feature films, making it the largest film producer in the world. The boom, started in the mid-60s, continues throughout the decade: in 1979, 714 Indian features were submitted to the censor.

Pakeezah is released. Shantata! Court Chalu Aahe starts the New Indian Cinema movement in Marathi. Its original author, Tendulkar, writes the play Sakharam Binder.

1972

Government nationalises the coal-mining industry. Zulfikar Ali Bhutto and Indira Gandhi reach agreement over Kashmir (the Simla Accord). Amol Palekar's staging of Sadanand Rege's Marathi play Gochee starts the Chhabildas experimental theatre movement, deriving its name from a school in a lower-middle-class neighbourhood in Bombay, which the theatre group Aavishkar had earlier acquired to stage low-budget theatre experiments to a small audience. Television starts in Bombay (October). Stations are started the following year in Srinagar, Amritsar and Calcutta. Madras and Lucknow follow in 1975.

First art-house cinema opened by the FFC. First features in Manipuri (Matamgi Manipur) and Coorgi (Nada Manne Nada Koolu). The first film co-operative run by technicians, the Chitralakha Co-op, starts production with Adoor Gopalakrishnan's debut, Swayamvaram. In Tamil Nadu, M. G. Ramachandran is expelled from the DMK and forms the Anna Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam. The Malayalam film weekly Nana starts, occasionally publishing filmographies and listings in between features on the Malayalam film industry. Do Gaz Zameen Ke Neeche establishes the Ramsay Brothers and the horror genre in Hindi.

1973

The former Mysore State becomes Karnataka. A Special Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court restricts Indira Gandhi's constitutional amendments of 1971, impeding her efforts to make parliament the supreme authority in the country's constitution. In retaliation, Mrs Gandhi selects and appoints a new chief justice, a 'blatant attempt . . . at undermining the independence of the judiciary', according to the Supreme Court Bar Association. Jayaprakash Narayan, the former socialist later associated with the Gandhian Sarvodaya Samaj, warns against the erosion of democracy. All private wholesale trading in wheat is banned; only the Food Corporation of India, and similar organisations, are authorised to purchase wheat. The fixing of procurement prices, coupled with the relative failure of the wheat crop, leads to large-scale hoarding and a major black market in food.

The FFC becomes the channelling agency for the import of raw stock, a role until then played by the State Trading Corporation of India. A 250% import duty on raw stock is imposed. First Haryanvi film: Beera Shera. Bobby reinvigorates the love story genre. Ankur is a commercial success, starting the 'middle-of-the-road' cinema of the independently financed, commercially designed art-house movie, a genre that soon dominates state-sponsored film and television. Launch of the Bombay-based weekly trade paper Film Information, providing the most reliable listings of Hindi cinema.

1974

The Nav Nirman student agitation in Gujarat, opposing a faction-ridden Congress, the corruption of Chief Minister Chimanbhai Patel and escalating prices of wheat and cooking oil, leads to President's Rule. The agitation spreads to Bihar as Jayaprakash Narayan announces his re-entry into political life to lead the movement, supported by the Jan Sangh, the Congress (O) and the CPI(M). A National Co-ordination Committee led by Narayan addresses a series of massive rallies, making Bihar the spearhead of the anti-Indira Gandhi campaign. Anand Patwardhan's Waves of Revolution (1975) chronicles the movement towards what Narayan called 'sampoorna kranti' ('Total Revolution'). The strike of 1.7 million railway workers continues for three weeks with wide support from the anti-Congress opposition. It is broken through the widespread use of preventive detention under the Maintenance of Internal Security Act (MISA). The 'peaceful' nuclear blast at Pokharan demonstrates India's acquisition of nuclear capability.

Hindustan Photo Films starts limited production of positive colour stock. The Film Festival of India becomes an annual event. The Film Institute of India is registered as an autonomous society, and is merged with the TV Training Centre to become the Film & Television Institute of India.

1975

Indira Gandhi is accused of 'corrupt practices' during her 1971 election campaign in the Rae Bareilly constituency. She is debarred from holding elective office for six years. This event, and the expansion of the Jayaprakash Narayan-led movement into Gujarat, the formation of a multi-party 'Janata Front' culminating in Narayan's major Delhi rally calling on the army and police to disobey 'illegal orders', lead to the declaration of Internal Emergency. All opposition leaders and thousands of intellectuals and political activists are jailed. Mrs Gandhi announces her Twenty-Point Economic Programme, using the unprecedented powers of her government to promise: the implementation of agricultural land ceilings, houses for landless labourers, the abolition of bonded labour, the liquidation of rural debt, cheaper prices, higher agricultural wages, increased production and employment, the socialisation of urban land, a crackdown on tax evasion, the confiscation of smuggled property and cheaper textbooks. Smallpox is eradicated from India. The Chasnala colliery disaster, in which 372 miners die. Utpal Dutt presents his play, Dushwapner Nagari. The USA loans its satellite ATS-6 for a one-year SITE project, while Doordarshan expands its number of terrestrial stations (Calcutta, Madras and Lucknow in 1975, Ahmedabad in 1976). The Aryabhata, a 360kg satellite, is made in India and launched from a Soviet cosmodrome. A new agreement with the MPEAA means that US films can be imported again. Sholay and Jai Santoshi Maa are made. The Bengali film fortnightly Anandalok starts.

1976

Emergency attacks on civil liberties include the Prevention of Publication of Objectional Matter Act, effectively introducing pre-censorship of the press, and the 42nd Amendment, paving the way for a permanent dictatorship. A new National Population Policy is announced by Sanjay Gandhi, aiming to sterilise 23 million people over three years. Between April and September 1976, 3.7 million Indians were sterilised, mostly among the lowest and most oppressed sections of the population, often forcibly in makeshift sterilisation camps. In the Turkman Gate and Jama Masjid neighbourhoods in Delhi, 700,000 people are made homeless by slum clearance and 'beautification' programmes. The Constitution's preamble is amended from 'Sovereign Democratic Republic' to 'Sovereign Socialist Secular Democratic Republic'. Food prices stabilise following a good monsoon; the number of days lost in industrial strikes goes down from 6 million between July and September 1974 to 1.56 million between July and September 1975. Doordarshan TV is separated from All-India Radio and is allowed to take advertising.

During the Emergency, the Committee on Public Undertakings attacks the FFC's 'art-film' policy because, from Rs 62.5 lakhs disbursed since June 1969 for 30 features, Rs 38.01 lakhs had not been recovered. From the 30 films financed, only 16 were completed and 10 of them 'have not proved successful at the box office'. The Committee ignores distribution and exhibition, exclusively blaming the films instead. It decrees a series of aesthetic criteria for future film funding, including 'human interest in theme', 'Indianness' and 'characters with whom the audience can identify'. Prefiguring the commercialised Doordarshan experiment, the Estimates Committee's 80th Report (1975-6), states that 'It should have been apparent to the [C]orporation that films are primarily a means of entertainment and unless the films financed provide good entertainment [t]hey would not be acceptable to the masses.' The Report adds that in 1969-70, Indian films worth Rs 4.35 crore were exported illegally. It also attacks the selection policy of Indian films entered in foreign festivals. The journal Film Blaze starts in Bombay. The YUKT co-op, a group of ex-students of the FTII, makes Ghashiram Kotwal. The negative of Amrit Nahata's Kissa Kursi Ka (remade 1977), a satire on Emergency rule, is destroyed by Sanjay Gandhi's representatives.

1977

In the general election, Indira Gandhi is defeated and the Janata Party, a coalition of disparate opposition groups, takes power under Morarji Desai. The Emergency is withdrawn. In Tamil Nadu, the AIADMK comes to power with M. G. Ramachandran as chief minister. He introduces schemes to assist the Tamil film industry, including government subsidies. Tamil film production leaps from 66 films in 1978 to 105 in 1979.

1978

Indira Gandhi starts the Congress (I) Party. The Janata Party's Foreign Exchange Regulation Act, and the founding of the Monopolies and Restrictive Trade Practices Commission, effectively terminate the licences to Coca Cola, IBM and other multinationals. The All-Assam Students Union (AASU) issues a 16-point

Charter, including a demand to restrict the entry of foreigners, mainly Bangladeshi refugees, into Assam. The B. G. Verghese Working Group on Autonomy for Akashvani and Doordarshan, submits its report. The following year, the Prasar Bharati Bill cancels any possibility of real autonomy for TV.

The net Indian box-office take for 1978-9 is c. Rs 247 crore. Entertainment tax for the period is Rs 187 crore. On average, state governments collect 43% of the gross box office. The Orissa Film Development Corporation (Est: 1976) announces the financing of 'Janata cinema houses' in rural and semi-urban areas. The number of Oriya films reaches 15. Tamil Nadu and Andhra Pradesh adopt similar financing programmes while Punjab, UP and Kerala directly build state-owned theatres. Panorama of Indian cinema at the Carthage Film Festival. The Malayalam film journal Chitrabhoomi is started by the owners of the mainstream daily Mathrubhoomi.

1979

The Janata Party splits (e. g. because of the Jan Sangh's affiliations to the RSS), Morarji Desai resigns and Charan Singh becomes a caretaker prime minister as elections are announced. The Akali Dal General House defines the Anandpur Sahib Resolution, demanding that Chandigarh becomes the capital of Punjab and that the Supreme Court adjudicate disputes over the distribution of river water. The Congress (I) supports Jarnail Singh Bhindranwale for the Shiromani Gurudwara Prabandhak Committee elections. The film industry forms the National Party with a predominantly pro-industry, right-wing manifesto, denying that it is a version of the former Swatantra Party. This is the only occasion when the film industry attempted to start a political Party of its own, although several movie stars participated in parliamentary politics. Mass rallies in Assam, led by the AASU, on the issue of illegal immigrants, also generate anti-Muslim and regionalist anti-Bengali sentiment. The second satellite, Bhaskara-1, also built in India by ISRO, is launched from Bear's Lake, USSR. However, the first Satellite Launching Vehicle (SLV) at Sriharikota fails with a payload of 40kg.

Malayalam film production reaches 123 (54 in 1975), exceeding the Hindi cinema, partly because of the Kerala government's Chitranjali Film Studio and other subsidies, but mostly because of the influx of 'Gulf money' remitted by Malayalam workers in the Middle East. Shankarabharanam is a major Telugu musical hit.

1980

Indira Gandhi's Congress (I) returns to power, also winning Punjab with the support of Bhindranwale and other groups which unleash extreme Right terrorist attacks. As a result of the Foreign Exchange Regulation Act, the number of foreign companies in India falls from 510 in 1975 to 300 by 1980-1. The second satellite launch from Sriharikota, the satellite ROHINI, is successful. The first colour telecast from Doordarshan, an experiment on 18 July, announces the 1982 shift to colour and commercialisation. The Information & Broadcasting Minister makes colour TV one of the Congress (I)'s main election promises.

India has 6368 permanent and 4024 temporary 'touring' theatres. The Lotus Cinema, hired by the FFC, becomes Bombay's only venue for 'art' films, opening with Bimal Dutt's Kasturi (1978). The FFC merges with the Indian Motion Picture Export Corporation to become the NFDC. Independent film-makers start the Forum for Better Cinema and ask the government to invite Satyajit Ray to head the new organisation. Ray declines the offer, urging the Forum to exercise caution. The NFDC's Board combines disparate interests and is unable to agree which kind of cinema to support. K. S. Karanth's Report of the Working Group on National Film Policy is published. It recommends, e. g. , the foundation of a Chalachitra Akademi for film in line with the academies for literature, theatre, dance and the visual arts. The academy would combine the Directorate of Film Festivals, the National Film Archive of India, a non-commercial import/export agency, a film museum and the means to fund film societies, education and research programmes. The government ignores the report. Satyajit Ray retrospective at the Indian International Film Festival; Mrinal Sen retrospective at the National Film Theatre, London. The journal Cinema Vision (India) starts in Bombay with an issue on silent cinema.

1981

Mrs Gandhi's government reverses its pre-Emergency commitment to socialist protectionism in the wake of its new space satellite programme. The shift to colour TV pioneers the liberalisation of import licences for unassembled TV kits, assembly and marketing initially being reserved for small businesses. India borrows $5 billion from the International Monetary Fund, the biggest such loan in history. The art exhibition Place for People (Bhupen Khakhar, Vivan Sundaram, Gulam Mohammed Sheikh, Nalini Malani, Sudhir Patwardhan) reconstitutes Indian modernism, drawing on popular arts and on figurative elements rather than abstraction. India's first geostationary telecommunications satellite, APPLE (Ariane Passenger Payload Experiment), weighing 670kg, is launched from French Guiana by the European Space Agency. Celebration of Indian cinema's golden jubilee; formation of the short-lived Indian Academy of Motion Picture Arts & Sciences (IAMPAS). A three-part season tours the USA (billed as a pre-Ray package, a Ray retrospective and a New Indian Cinema programme). Special issue on Indian cinema by the Journal for Asian Literature (Washington). 36 Chowringhee Lane achieves a commercially viable, English-speaking audience, enhanced by foreign sales.

1982

Continuing the Congress (I)'s liberalisation policies, Indian culture is marketed in a massive Festivals of India campaign starting in London, then in Paris and Moscow. India's finest traditional and contemporary artists are featured. The Bombay Textile strike, lasting almost a year. INSAT 1-A is launched from Cape Canaveral, inaugurating a national TV programme mobilising all prime time throughout the country for the New Delhi station. Colour TV starts on 25 April with the telecast of Ray's Sadgati and Shatranj Ke Khiladi. Regular colour telecasts through INSAT begin on 15 August. The Ninth Asian Games held in Delhi provide the first nationwide colour programmes, using the USSR's Stationary-5 satellite and 20 low-power transmitters.

N. T. Rama Rao starts the Telugu Desam Party. The failure of Rawail's Deedar-e-Yaar is a major setback to the Hindi industry. The Tamil film weekly Gemini Cinema starts. First films in Brijhasha (Brij Bhoomi) and Malvi (Bhadwa Mata).

1983

Violence erupts in Assam, led by the All-Assam Students Union (AASU) which boycotts the Assembly elections held with major military support, although none of the main Parties except the Congress (I) and some Left groups participate. Rampant terrorism in the Punjab countryside, briefly quelled by massive state intervention, gradually resurfaces. INSAT 1-B satellite is put into orbit from the US space shuttle Challenger, inaugurating the Special Plan for Expansion of the Television Network.

The Karnataka state subsidy to films is increased to Rs 1 lakh for b&w and Rs 1.5 lakh for colour, provided the films are in Kannada and made entirely in the state. Producers are allowed to do post-production outside Karnataka until 1986, when several dubbing, mixing and re-recording studios (the Chamundeshwari and Vasant labs, followed by Prasad Studios and Shankar Nag's Sanket Electronics) are established. Panorama of Indian Cinema at the Centre Pompidou, Paris. First film in Garhwali (Jagwal) and Khasi (Ka Lawei Ha Ki Ktjiong Ngi).

1984

The Bhopal disaster, in which deadly emissions of methyl iso-cyanate from a Union Carbide (India) plant in Bhopal kill 3849 people (by official estimates) and maim 500,000 people in the countryside. The army attacks the Golden Temple, Amritsar, the most sacred of Sikh gurdwaras and the hideout of Jarnail Singh Bhindranwale. Over 2000 people die, including a third of the military contingent used. The Congress (I)'s former protégé, Bhindranwale, is killed. In retaliation, Indira Gandhi is assassinated by her security guards, triggering the Delhi riots in which 2717 people (official estimate), mostly Sikhs, are killed by mobs with alleged Congress (I) compliance. Rajiv Gandhi becomes prime minister. The P. C. Joshi Working Group on Software for Doordarshan is presented to parliament, with scathing criticism of TV's commercialism and 'Delhi-centrism'. The report is never officially published. Doordarshan starts a second channel from Delhi.

John Abraham starts the Odessa Collective in Cochin.

1985

The 52nd Amendment bill disqualifies Members of Parliament who defect from one Party to another. The Assam accord, after which the AASU-Asom Gana Parishad leadership takes over the state government. The Punjab accord is signed by Rajiv Gandhi and Harchand Singh Longowal, the most moderate of the Sikh leaders. Longowal is assassinated shortly afterwards. Doordarshan becomes a fully commercial station selling prime time slots to private sponsors and manufacturers of TV soaps. Its first successful series, Kumar Vasudev's Humlog (1984-5), is modelled on the Mexican concept of the 'developmental' soap opera and is sponsored by Colgate-Palmolive and Nestlé. Several privately made serials follow as TV ownership jumps from 2.7 million in 1984 to 12.5 million in 1986.

Indian Cinema season at Pesaro Film Festival, Italy.

1986

The district judge of Faizabad orders the opening of the Babri Masjid mosque in Ayodhya to Hindu worshippers. According to fanatical Hindus, the mosque, built in 1528, stands on the spot where Ram, a Hindu god, was born. The Babri Masjid Action Committee (BMAC) is formed. G. M. Shah's ministry in Kashmir is dissolved and Kashmir is brought under President's rule. The Muslim Women (Protection of Rights on Divorce) Bill, better known as the Shah Bano Bill, follows the Supreme Court's judgment ordering Mohammed Ahmed Khan of Indore to pay alimony to his divorced wife Shah Bano. The Supreme Court is accused of violating the Shariat (the Koranic Commandments) by the Muslim Personal Law Board, and the government, to win conservative Muslim support, passes a Bill taking away all rights from divorced Muslim women. The assets of the top 574 companies identified by the Monopolies & Restrictive Trade Practices Act are, on average, Rs. 70.24 crore, almost double the value of Indian subsidiaries of foreign multinationals.

The actress Smita Patil dies, aged 31. The Calcutta-based journal Splice starts, edited by Samik Bandyopadhyay. It lasts for four issues.

1987

Institutionalised corruption and capital flight become dominant political issues. Arms deals (e. g. buying Bofors guns and HDW submarines) and the hiring of an American detective agency to trace illegal funds held by Indians abroad provoke a series of inquiry commissions. Finance Minister V. P. Singh is sacked and becomes a leading opponent of the Rajiv Gandhi regime. Amitabh Bachchan resigns as MP after allegations that his family is involved in the Bofors kickback scandal. In Deorala, Roop Kanwar is burnt alive on her husband's funeral pyre, reviving the ritual murder of widows which had been banned for a century. The Jharkhand agitation in Bihar strives for separate statehood. The government persecutes the Indian Express, a virulent anti-Rajiv Gandhi paper which relentlessly pursued the corruption scandals. 300,000 Muslims at a New Delhi rally demand the return of the Babri Mosque, while militant Hindus gather at Ayodhya to pledge the building of a temple. India sends troops to support the Sri Lankan government against the guerrilla movement launched by the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam. The Baroda art exhibition, Questions and Dialogue, signals the emergence of the Radical Painters & Sculptors Association dominated by artists from Kerala and takes a militant stand on the commercialisation of Indian art, emphasising a role for the radical avant-garde. The Ramayana TV serial (1986-8) becomes Indian TV's first major hit.

The NFDC starts the quarterly journal Cinema in India.

1988

Rajiv Gandhi's Defamation Bill, seeking to reimpose Emergency-type curbs on the press, is withdrawn following nationwide resistance. The National Front of opposition parties is launched in August; the Janata Dal, led by expelled Congress(I) member V. P. Singh, revives the centrist opposition unity of the Emergency, except for the BJP. The Bhartiya Kisan Union, led by Mahendra Singh Tikait, the most militant of the rich peasant organisations, organises a major rally at the Boat Club, New Delhi. The DMK wins the Tamil Nadu state assembly after M. G. Ramachandran's death (1987) and the split in his AIADMK. IRS-1A, a remote sensing satellite, is launched from the Baikonur cosmodrome in the USSR. INSAT 1C, launched by the Ariane facility in Kourou, French Guiana, develops snags.

The journals Cinemaya (A Quarterly on Asian Film) and Deep Focus start.

1989

Satwant Singh and Kehar Singh, accused of assassinating Indira Gandhi, are hanged. Safdar Hashmi, a street theatre activist, is killed by thugs allegedly members of the Delhi Congress(I). Amid a nationwide outcry, the Safdar Hashmi Memorial Trust is formed, organising a series of Artists Against Communalism programmes featuring some of India's best-known musicians, dancers and artists. Agni, an intermediate-range ballistic missile, is fired, making India the fifth country to acquire IRBM capability. The Shilanyas ceremony is held at Ayodhya, as the foundation stone for a temple in the name of Ram is laid. Rajiv Gandhi, seeking Hindu support, allows the ceremony to take place. In the general elections (December), a coalition of the Janata Dal, supported by the right-wing BJP and the CPI(M), displace Rajiv Gandhi's government. The Central Board of Film Certification allows 1268 video titles to be released, including 62 features, 213 shorts, 48 'long' films and 915 foreign shorts.

1990

The government's policy to increase quotas of jobs for 'backward castes' in public service is strongly attacked by upper-caste and middle-class sectors. Karunanidhi's DMK government in Tamil Nadu is dismissed for allegedly supporting the Sri Lankan LTTE. A 'Rath-Yatra', evoking a medieval chariot procession, is led by L. K. Advani of the BJP from Somnath to Ayodhya, fomenting communal violence along its route. Advani is arrested by the Janata Dal; in retaliation, the BJP withdraws its support from the government, which falls. The second Shilanyas procession and the 'kar seva' at Ayodhya on 30 October in which several people are killed and injured in police action. The first Bombay International Film Festival for Shorts and Documentaries, sponsored by Films Division.

1991

Rajiv Gandhi is assassinated by suspected LTTE terrorists. A rising foreign debt and other dysfunctions inaugurate a policy of economic reform encouraging foreign investment. The USSR disintegrates. India conducts the last census of the century, announcing a population of 844 million. The Doordarshan Director General, Shiv Sharma, is assassinated by suspected Punjab terrorists. Punjab is declared a 'disturbed area', followed by Assam. The 10th Lok Sabha elections take place with 200 million registered voters. The Congress emerges as the largest party and P.V. Narasimha Rao is sworn in as Prime Minister. The first-ever BJP ministry takes over in U.P and acquires the disputed Ayodhya land. Parliament passes the notorious Terrorists and Disruptive Activities (Prevention) (TADA) Bill. The Parliamentary 'Question Hour' is telecast for the first time.

1992

'Prithvi', India's medium range surface-to-surface missile is successfully tested, followed by the 'Agni'. Major stock exchange scandal featuring the stockbroker Harshad Mehta is discovered, and the Janakiraman Committee's revelations of major collusion by banks is accepted by the government. The BJP government makes Sanskrit compulsory in primary schools in U.P. Later in the year the BJP organises an attack on Ayodhya and destroys the Babri mosque leading to major bloodbaths in many parts of the country.

The first Indian-made satellite, INSAT-2 A, is launched from Kourou. Five selected regional TV channels go national. Satyajit Ray is presented an honorary 'Oscar' and the Bharat Ratna, India's highest civilian honour.

1993

Communal violence spreads in Bombay and Ahmedabad, with the Bombay death toll in the aftermath of the Ayodhya riots rising to 550. The movie star Sanjay Dutt is arrested under the TADA Act. The Government of India decides to implement the Mandal Commission recommendations, providing for 27% reservation for socially and educationally backward castes in the Central Services. The Hazratbal mosque in Kashmir is taken over by terrorists. The Latur earthquake obliterates over 40 villages in Maharashtra.

Bill to regulate Cable TV introduced in the Lok Sabha. Five more Doordarshan channels are launched. Murdoch's STAR-TV acquires 49.9% shares in the ZEE-TV network. Controversy over the 'Choli ke peeche' song in Subhash Ghai's *Khalnayak.

1994

The Janata Dal splits and George Fernandes is elected president of the breakaway 'Samata' group. The agitation in Karnataka against the telecasting of news in Urdu turns violent, following which the Election Commission announces a stay-order on Urdu news telecasts from Bangalore Doordarshan. The Cable Television (Regulation) Ordinance is announced. Plague hits the city of Surat claiming 47 victims; five more die in Delhi of pneumonic plague. Real-life 'Bandit Queen' Phoolan Devi is released from prison after 11 years.

Murdoch announces a new 'pay-TV' channel in Hindi, among several other ventures. Jurassic Park (1992) is dubbed in Hindi and grosses Rs 12 crore. It is followed by Speed (1993), Cliffhanger (1992) etc., Aladdin (1992), True Lies (1994), Twister (1996) etc., intensifying the new practice of dubbing Hollywood products into Hindi and other languages. The 'sarkailo khatia' song in Raja Babu causes a scandal leading to the announcement of amendments in the Censor Code. Hum Aapke Hain Koun is declared the biggest hit in the history of Indian cinema, reintroducing the 'family' entertainment genre. Bandit Queen is virtually banned by the Indian Censor Board.

1995

The Government of India decides not to extend the notorious TADA (Terrorists and Disruptive Activities) Bill. The Shiv Sena-run Maharashtra government scraps the Enron power project but then revises its decision. The Char-e-Sharif shrine, built in 1460 by Zain-ul-Abidin in central Kashmir, is burnt down by terrorists. The Oil and Natural Gas Commission rig in Pasalapudi blows up, and the fire is put out after 62 days. The first-ever cellular phone service in India starts in major cities.

The INSAT 2C is launched. ISRO and INTELSAT announce a $ 100 million 10-year agreement leasing some of the forthcoming INSAT-2E capacity. CNN announces a news channel in partnership with Doordarshan. Aditya Chopra's Dilwale Dulhania Le Jayenge is the hit of the year. Mani Rathnam's *Bombay has a controversial release after it is 'cleared' by Shiv Sena chief Bal Thackeray. Major censorship controversy around E.V.V. Satyanarayana's *Alluda Majaaka.

1996

The Lok Sabha election takes place, with the BJP emerging as India's single largest party, but short of a majority. A.B. Vajpayee's government collapses after 13 days, and is replaced by a multi-party coalition under H.D. Deve Gowda. The Michael Jackson show is organised in Bombay by Shiv Sena leader Raj Thackeray. In a year dominated by political corruption, the 'Jain Hawala' case involves alleged kickbacks by a businessman to several Cabinet Ministers and other noted politicians, former Prime Minister P.V. Narasimha Rao is indicted in the 'St Kitts forgery' case and former telecommunications minister Sukh Ram's house is raided by the CBI which finds Rs 3 crore in cash and jewellery. The Port Blair station of Doordarshan is inaugurated.

Shyam Benegal's Making of the Mahatma is released in India and South Africa. N.T. Rama Rao dies.

1997

The former film star and Chief Minister of Tamil Nadu, J. Jayalalitha, is arrested on corruption charges. The liberalisation drive now includes consumer goods. Bill Gates visits India, as does Greek musician Yanni who performs outside the Taj Mahal. The BJP and Bahujan Samaj Party announce a coalition government in U.P. with a plan of rotating the Chief Ministership every six months, but this coalition comes to grief in the first six months. India joins the Information Technology Agreement (ITA) of the World Trade Organisation, paving the way for a phased reduction in import tariffs on IT products. Caste violence sweeps through many parts of North and South India, as 10 Dalits are killed by the pro-landlord Ranvir Sena in Bihar, and violence escalates between Dalit and Thevar communities in Tamil Nadu.

Gulshan Kumar, owner of the T-Series label and pioneer of the audio-cassette revolution of the 1990s, is assassinated. Leading Hindi composer Nadeem is accused of the murder, and also accused of acting in collusion with a Dubai-based mafia. Continuing accusations of the 'criminalisation' of the Hindi film industry lead to its being declared an 'industry' the following year. Doordarshan drops its plans to introduce a STAR-TV-led project of Direct-to-Home satellite TV. Amitabh Bachchan returns to film with the commercial disaster Mrityudaata.

1998

The I.K. Gujral-led United Front coalition government falls after the report of the Jain Commission on Rajiv Gandhi's assassination claims the participation of the DMK in training Tamil militants in Sri Lanka. The BJP forms a government led by A.B. Vajpayee. The new government announces several changes in the Prasar Bharati Act of 1990, affecting Doordarshan's future as an autonomous enterprise, as well as in the proposed Broadcast Bill. Riots in Bombay following the desecration of an Ambedkar statue. The Women's Reservation Bill is withdrawn by the government following stiff opposition by practically every major political party. India explodes the H-Bomb at Pokharan.

The Prime Minister's 'Task Force' on Information Technology announces the plan of having 'internet kiosks' at every public telephone booth in India. The government declares the film industry as a legitimate industry qualifying it for institutional finance.

INDIAN SOUND FEATURES 1931/1995

Language	1931	1932	1933	1934	1935	1936	1937	1938	1939	1940	1941	1942	1943	1944	1945	1946	1947	1948	1949	1950	1951	1952	1953	1954	1955
Arabic													1	1			2						1	1	2
Assamese					1
Avadhi
Badaga						20	16	19	16	16	19	18	21	14	9	15	33	37	62	42	39	43	50	48	52
Bhojpuri	4	5	9	10	19
Bodo
Brij Bhasha
Chhatisghari
Coorgi
Dogri
English		1		1						1			1					1		1			2	2	1
Garwhali
German		2		1					1															1
Gujarati						3											11	27	17	13	6	2
Gujjar
Haryanvi
Hindi	23	61	75	121	154	135	102	88	80	85	73	98	106	85	73	155	183	147	159	114	99	102	97	118	125
Iranian																	1
Kannada				2	1						2	2	4		1		5	2	6	1	2	1	7	11	15
Karbi
Kashmiri
Khasi
Kodava
Kodava
Kok Borok
Konkani
Konkani
Kumaoni
Magdhi
Maithili
Malayalam								1		1								1	1	6	6	11	7	9	7
Malvi
Manipuri
Marathi		8	6	11	9	6	11	14	12	10	13	13	7	5		2	6	7	15	19	16	17	21	18	13
Marwari												1
Nagamese
Nagpuri
Nepali
Nimadi
Oriya						1												1
Persian			1	1	2	1											3
Pushtu													1
Punjabi					1	1		1	7	7	8	5	1	2		1		1	1	5	4		3	3
Rajasthan
Sanskrit
Sindhi												1
Sinhalese
Tamil	1	4	7	14	38	38	37	39	35	36	32	23	13	14	11	16	29	32	21	19	26	32	42	38	46
Telugu		3	5	3	7	12	10	10	12	14	15	12	6	6	5	9	6	7	7	18	21	25	29	28	24
Thai
Tulu
Urdu
Total	28	84	103	164	233	217	176	172	164	170	166	173	161	127	99	199	280	263	291	241	221	233	260	278	288

Note : This chart compiles official figures of censored films published annually by the Central Board of Film Certification. These figures could include several dubbed films, and usually number multilinguals as distinct and independent productions for each language.

LIST OF ENTRIES

- Abbas, Khwaja Ahmad (1914-87)
 Abraham, John (1937-87)
 Acharya, N. R. (1909-56)
 Advani, Jagatrai Pesimal (b. 1903)
 Agarwala, Jyotiprasad (1903-51)
 Agradoot
 Ahluwalia, Sukhdev (b. 1932)
 Akhtar, Javed [see Salim-Javed]
 Akhtar, Sardar (1915-84)
 Akhtar-ul-Iman (1915-96)
 Ali, Muzaffar (b. 1944)
 All-India Film
 Altekar, Parshwanath Yeshwant (1898-1957)
 Aman, Zeenat (b. 1951)
 Amarnath, Gelaram Khetarpal (1914-83)
 Amrohi, Kamal (1918-93)
 A. Na. Kru [see Krishnarao, A. N.]
 Anand, Chetan (1915-97)
 Anand, Dev (b. 1923)
 Anand, Inder Raj
 Anand, Mukul Sudheswar (1951-97)
 Anand, Vijay (b. 1935)
 Anjaneyulu, Chilakalapudi Seeta Rama (1907-63)
 Annadurai, Canjeevaram Natarajan (1909-69)
 Anthony, P. J. (1923-79)
 Apte, Narayan Hari (1889-1971)
 Apte, Shanta (1916-64)
 Arathi (b. 1954)
 Aravindan, Govindan (1935-91)
 Art Schools
 Arudra (1925-98)
 Arunaraje or Aruna-Vikas [see Raje, Aruna]
 Ashwathamma, K. (1910-44)
 Asif, Karimuddin (1924-71)
 Athavale, Shantaram Govind (b. 1910)
 Athreya, Acharya (1921-89)
 Atma, K. P. [see Pratyagatma, K.]
 Atma Ram (1930-94)
 Atorthy, Premankur (1890-1964)
 Atre, Pralhad Keshav (1898-1969)
 Aurora Film Corporation
 AVM Film Company
 Azmi, Kaifi (b. 1925)
 Azmi, Shabana (b. 1950)
 Babu, Hanumappa Vishwanath (1903-68)
 Baburaj, M. S. (b. 1921)
 Bachchan, Amitabh (b. 1942)
 Backer, P. A. (b. 1940-93)
 Badami, Sarvottam (b. 1910)
 Bagchi, Gurudas (b. 1926)
 Bakshi, Anand (b. 1920)
 Bakshi, Shanti Prakash (1925-88)
 Balachander, Kailasam (b. 1930)
 Balachander, Sundaram (1927-90)
 Balakrishna (b. 1960)
 Balaramaiah, Ghantasala (1906-53)
 Balasaraswathi, R. (b. 1928)
 Balasubramanyam, S. P. (b. 1945)
 Bal Gandharva (1888-1967)
 Bali, Geeta (1930-65)
 Balkrishna, T. N. (1913-95)
 Baloch, Mohammed [see Kumar, Mehul]
 Bannerjee, Bhanu (1920-83)
 Bannerjee, Durgadas (1893-1943)
 Bannerjee, Jyotish (b. 1887)
 Bannerjee, Kali (1921-93)
 Bannerjee, Kanu (1905-85)
 Bapaiah, K.
 Bapu (b. 1933)
 Baran, Timir (1904-87)
 Barua, Brojen (1925-72)
 Barua, Jahnu (b. 1952)
 Barua, Munin (b. 1948)
 Barua, Nip (1925-92)
 Barua, Padum (b. 1924)
 Barua, Pramathesh Chandra (1903-51)
 Barua, Ramen (b. 1938)
 Bedekar, Vishram (b. 1906)
 Bedi, Narendra (1937-82)
 Bedi, Rajinder Singh (1915-84)
 Benegal, Shyam (b. 1934)
 Betaab, Narayan Prasad (1872-1945)
 Bhaduri, Sisir Kumar (1889-1959)
 Bhagavathar, C. Honnappa (1914-92)
 Bhagavathar, M. Krishnamurthy Thyagaraja (1909-59)
 Bhagwan, Master (b. 1913)
 Bhagyaraj, Krishnaswamy (b. 1953)
 Bhanumathi, Paluvayi (b. 1924)
 Bharathan, B. G. (1946-98)
 Bharatidasan (1891-1964)
 Bharathirajaa (b. 1944)
 Bhasi, Adoor (1929-90)
 Bhasi, Thoppil (1925-92)
 Bhaskara Das (1892-1952)
 Bhaskaran, P. (b. 1924)
 Bhatavdekar, Harishchandra Sakharam (b. 1868)
 Bhatia, Vanraj (b. 1926)
 Bhatt, Balwant N. (1909-65)
 Bhatt, Mahesh (b. 1949)
 Bhatt, Nanabhai N. (b. 1915)
 Bhatt, Vijay Jagneshwar (1907-93)
 Bhattacharya, Abhi (1922-93)
 Bhattacharya, Ardhendu (1955-92)
 Bhattacharya, Basu (1934-97)
 Bhattacharya, Bijon (1917-78)
 Bhattacharya, Dhiraj (1905-59)
 Bhavnani, Mohan Dayaram (1903-62)
 Bhimsingh, A. (1924-78)
 Bhole, Keshavrao Vaman (1896-1967)
 Bhosle, Asha (b. 1933)
 Bilimoria, Dinshaw (b. 1904)
 Bilimoria, Fali (b. 1923)
 Biswas, Anil (b. 1914)
 Biswas, Sachindranath [Chhabil] (1900-62)
 Bombay Talkies
 Boral, Rai Chand (1903-81)
 Bordoloi, Atul (b. 1938)
 Bose, Debaki Kumar (1898-1971)
 Bose, Modhu (1900-69)
 Bose, Nitin (1897-1986)
 Bose, Sadhona (1914-73)
 Bose, Satyen (1916-93)
 Bose, Tapan (b. 1946)
 Bourne & Shepherd
 British Dominion Films
 Burma, Phani (b. 1897)
 Burman, Rahul Dev (1939-94)
 Burman, Sachin Dev (1906-75)
 Calcutta Theatres
 Chakraborty, Madhabi [see Mukherjee, Madhabi]
 Chakraborty, Mithun (b. 1956)
 Chakraborty, Tulsi (1899-1961)
 Chakraborty, Utpalendu (b. 1948)
 Chakrapani (?-1975)
 Chakravarty, Amiya (1912-57)
 Chanakya, Tapi (1925-73)
 Chander, Krishan (1914-77)
 Chandra, N. (b. 1952)
 Chandrakant Gaur (b. 1929)
 Chandrakant Sangani [see Sangani, Chandrakant]
 Chandramohan (1905-49)
 Chandrasekhar, Raja (1904-71)
 Chatterjee, Anil (b. 1928)
 Chatterjee, Basu (b. 1930)
 Chatterjee, Dhritiman (b. 1946)
 Chatterjee, Nabyendu (b. 1937)
 Chatterjee, Pashupati (1906-91?)
 Chatterjee, Sabitri (b. 1937)
 Chatterjee, Soumitra (b. 1934)
 Chattopadhyay, Kartick (1912-89)
 Cherian, P. J. (1891-1981)
 Chinnappa, Pudukottai Ulaganathan (1915-51)
 Children's Film Society
 Chiranjeevi (b. 1955)
 Chitnis, Leela (b. 1912)
 Chopra, Baldev Raj (b. 1914)
 Chopra, Yash (b. 1932)
 Choudhury, Ahindra (1897-1974)
 Choudhury, Basanta (b. 1928)
 Choudhury, Kosaraju Raghavaiah [see Kosaraju Raghavaiah Choudhury]
 Choudhury, Rama Shankar (1903-72)
 Choudhury, Salil (1925-95)
 Choudhury, Santi P. (1929-82)
 Choudhury, Supriya
 Chughtai, Ismat (1915-91)
 Chunder, Hemchandra (b. 1907)
 Chunder, Krishan [see Chander, Krishan (1914-77)]
 Company Natak
 Company School Painting
 Cooper, Patience (b. 1905?)
 Dakshinamurthy, V. (b. 1919)
 Damle, Vishnupant Govind (1892-1945)
 Das, Jharana (b. 1945)
 Dasgupta, Buddhadev (b. 1944)
 Das Gupta, Chidananda (b. 1921)
 Dasgupta, Harisadhan (b. 1923)
 Dasgupta, Kamal (?-1974)
 Dasgupta, Protima (b. 1922)
 Dasgupta, Sukumar (b. 1907)
 Date, Keshavrao (1889-1971)
 Datta Keshav Kulkarni (b. 1932)
 Dave, Mohanlal G.
 Dave, Ravindra (1919-92)
 Debi, Suprabha (b. 1939)
 Deol, Dharmendra (b. 1935)
 Desai, Dhirubhai B. (1908-90)
 Desai, Jayantilal Zinabhai (1909-76)
 Desai, Manmohan (1936-94)
 Desai, Nanubhai B. (1902-67)

- Desai, Vasant (1912-75)
 Devarajan, Paravur
 Devare, Narayan Gopinath (1899-1954)
 Devi, Anjali (b. 1927)
 Devi, Arundhati (1923-90)
 Devi, B. Saroja (b. 1945)
 Devi, Chhaya (b. 1914)
 Devi, Kanan (1916-92)
 Devi, Saraswati (1912-80)
 Devi, Seeta (b. 1912)
 Devi, Sitara (b. 1919)
 Devika Rani [see Rani Choudhury, Devika]
 Dey, Krishna Chandra (1893-1962)
 Dey, Nirmal (b. 1913)
 Dhaiber, Keshavrao (1890-1978)
 Dharmadhikari, Dattatreya Jagannath (1913-82)
 Dharmaraj, Rabindra (1949-82)
 Dharma Rao, Tapi (1887-1973)
 Dixit, Madhuri (b. 1967)
 DMK Film
 Doordarshan
 Doshi, Chaturbhuj Anand (1894-1969)
 Duncan, Ellis R. (b. 1908)
 Durai
 Dutt, Geeta (1930-72)
 Dutt, Guru (1925-64)
 Dutt, Sunil (b. 1929)
 Dutt, Utpal (1929-93)
 Dutta, J. P. (b. 1949)
 East India Film Company
 Ekalavya [see Ghosh, Robil]
 Elangovan (1913-71)
 Empire Films
 Esoofally, Abdulally (1884-1957)
 Fatma, Begum
 Fattal, Sheikh (1897-1964)
 Fazil (b. 1953)
 Film Advisory Board
 Film and Television Institute of India
 Film Finance Corporation [see National Film Development Corporation]
 Filmistan
 Films Division
 Gadkar, Jayshree (b. 1942)
 Gaggaiyah, Vemuri (1895-1955)
 Gandhi, Naval (b. 1897)
 Ganesan, Sivaji (b. 1927)
 Ganesh, Gemini
 Ganguly, Dhirendranath (1893-1978)
 Ganguly, Jahar (1904-69)
 Ganguly, Jiban (1905-53)
 Ganguly, Priyanath N. (1887-1956)
 Gemini Pictures
 General Pictures Corporation
 George, Kulakkatil Geevarghese (b. 1945)
 Ghai, Subhash (b. 1943)
 Ghantasala Venkateswara Rao (1923-74)
 Ghatak, Anupam (1911-47)
 Ghatak, Ritwik Kumar (1925-76)
 Ghose, Gautam (b. 1950)
 Ghosh, Kaliprasad (b. 1889)
 Ghosh, Nachiketa (1924-76)
 Ghosh, Nemai (1914-88)
 Ghosh, Parbati (b. 1944)
 Ghosh, Robi (1931-97)
 Gidwani, Moti B. (b. 1905)
 Gohar, Kayoum Mamajiwala (1910-85)
 Gopalakrishnan, Adoor (b. 1941)
 Gopalakrishnan, K. S.
 Gopi (b. 1937)
 Gopichand, Tripuraneni (1910-62)
 Govinda (b. 1963)
 Gulzar, Sampooran Singh (b. 1936)
 Gummadi [see Venkateswara Rao, Gummadi]
 Gupta, Dinen (b. 1932)
 Gupta, Hemen (1914-67)
 Haider, Ghulam (1908-53)
 Haldar, Krishna [see Atorthy, Premankur]
 Hamsalekha (b. 1951)
 Hariharan, T.
 Hazarika, Bhupen (b. 1926)
 Heblkar, Suresh (b. 1945)
 Hindustan Cinema Films Company
 Historicals
 Hublikar, Shanta (1914-92)
 Husnlal-Bhagatram [Husnlal (?-1968), Bhagatram (?-1973)]
 Hussain, Anwar (b. 1929)
 Hussain, Nasir (b. 1931)
 Ilaiyaraja
 Ilangovan [see Elangovan]
 Imperial Films Company
 Indian Kinema Arts
 Indian Peoples' Theatre Association
 Information Films of India
 Irani, Ardeshir Marwan (1886-1969)
 Ishara, Babu Ram
 Islam, Kazi Nazrul (1889-1976)
 Iyer, Ganapathy Venkatramana (b. 1917)
 Jaddanbai (b. 1892)
 Jaffrey, Saeed (b. 1929)
 Jaggaiah, Kongara (b. 1926)
 Jagirdar, Gajanan (1907-88)
 Jamuna, Nippani (b. 1937)
 Janaki, S. (b. 1938)
 Janaki, Sowcar (b. 1922)
 Jaswantlal, Nandlal (b. 1906)
 Jayalalitha Jayaram (b. 1948)
 Jayamma, B. (1915-88)
 Jayoo Nachiket [see Jayoo and Nachiket Patwardhan]
 Jaywant, Nalini (b. 1926)
 Jeetendra (b. 1942)
 Jha, Prakash (b. 1952)
 Joshi, Manilal (1893-1927)
 Kale, Keshav Narayan (1904-74)
 Kalingrao, P. (1914-81)
 Kalki (1899-1954)
 Kallol Group
 Kalpana (?-1979)
 Kalyanasundaram, Pattukotai (1930-59)
 Kalyanji-Anandji [Kalyanji Veerji Shah & Anandji Virjee Shah]
 Kamalabai, Surabhi (b. 1913)
 Kamalahasan (b. 1954)
 Kambadasan
 Kambhar, Chandrasekhar (b. 1937)
 Kameshwara Rao, Kamalakara [see Rao, Kamalakara Kameshwara]
 Kanagal, Subraveshti Ramaswamy Puttanna (1933-85)
 Kanam, E. J. (1926-87)
 Kanchanmala (1923-81)
 Kannadasan (1927-81)
 Kannamba, Pasupuleti (1912-64)
 Kapoor, Prithviraj (1906-72)
 Kapoor, Raj (1924-88)
 Kapoor, Shammi (b. 1931)
 Kapoor, Shashi (b. 1938)
 Kapur, Shekhar (b. 1945)
 Kar, Ajoy (1914-85)
 Karanth, B. V. (b. 1929)
 Karanth, Prema (b. 1936)
 Kardar, Abdul Rashid (1904-89)
 Kariat, Ramu (1927-79)
 Karnad, Girish Raghunath (b. 1938)
 Karnataki, Vinayak [see Vinayak, Master]
 Karun, Shaji N. (b. 1951)
 Karunanidhi, Muthuvel (b. 1924)
 Kasaravalli, Girish (b. 1949)
 Kashmiri, Aga Hashr (1879-1935)
 Kathavachak, Radheshyam (b. 1890)
 Kaul, Mahesh (1911-72)
 Kaul, Mani R. (b. 1942)
 K.D. Brothers
 Khan, Shah Rukh (b. 1965)
 Khandekar, Vishnu Sakharam (1898-1976)
 Khanna, Rajesh (b. 1942)
 Khayyam, Mohammed Zahur (b. 1927)
 Khosla, Raj (1925-91)
 Khote, Durga (1905-91)
 Kohinoor Film Company
 Koirala, Manisha
 Kolhapur Cinetone
 Komala, A. P. (b. 1934)
 Kondke, Dada (1932-98)
 Kosaraju Raghavaiah Choudhury (1905-87)
 Kottarakkara, Kuttan Pillai (b. 1924)
 Kottarakkara Sridharan Nair [see Nair, Kottarakkara Sridharan]
 Krishen, Pradip (b. 1949)
 Krishna Film Company
 Krishna, Ghantamneni (b. 1943)
 Krishnakant (b. 1922)
 Krishnamurthy, Hunsur (b. 1914)
 Krishnan, Nagerkoyil Sudalaimuthu (1905-57)
 Krishnan-Panju [R. Krishnan (b. 1909), S. Panju (b. 1915)]
 Krishnarao, Arakalagudu Narasinga Rao (1908-71)
 Krishnarao Phulambrikar, Master (1891-1974)
 Krishna Shastry, Devulapalli [see Sastry, Devulapalli Krishna]
 Krishnaveni, C. (b. 1924)
 Kulkarni, Datta Keshav [see Datta Keshav Kulkarni]
 Kumar, Anup (b. 1932)
 Kumar Ganguly, Ashok (b. 1911)
 Kumar, Dilip (b. 1922)
 Kumar, Hemant [see Mukherjee, Hemanta]
 Kumar, Kalyana (b. 1936)
 Kumar, Kishore (1929-87)
 Kumar, Manoj (b. 1937)
 Kumar, Mehul (b. 1949)
 Kumar, Rajendra (b. 1929)

- Kumar, Sampath [see Kumar, Kalyana]
Kumar, Udaya (1930-86)
Kumar, Uttam (1926-80)
Kumaran, K. P.
Kumari, Meena (1932-72)
Kumari, Usha [see Vijayanirmala]
Kunchako (1912-76)
Kurup, O. N. V. (b. 1931)
Lahiri, Bappi
Lahiri Nirendranath (1908-72)
Lajmi, Kalpana (b. 1954)
Lakshminarayan, N. (?-1991)
Lakshminarayan, Sattiraju [see Bapu]
Lakshmirajyam (1922-87)
Lankesh, P. (b. 1935)
Laxmikant-Pyarelal [Laxmikant Shantaram Kudalkar (1937-98), Pyarelal Ramprasad Sharma (b. 1940)]
Leela, P. (b. 1933)
Leelavathi (b. 1938)
Ludhianvi, Sahir (1921-80)
Luhar, Chimanlal Muljibhoy (1901-48)
Madan Theatres
Madgulkar, Gajanan Digambar (1919-77)
Madhu
Madhubala (1933-69)
Mahapatra, Manmohan (b. 1951)
Mahapatra, Nirad
Maharashtra Film Company
Mahendra, Balu (b. 1946)
Mahendran, J. (b. 1939)
Majid, Abdul (b. 1932)
Majumdar, Nagendra (b. 1894)
Majumdar, Phani (1911-94)
Majumdar, Sushil (1906-88)
Majumdar, Tarun (b. 1932)
Malayil, Sibi
Malini, Hema (b. 1948)
Malvankar, Damuanna (1893-1975)
Mammooty (b. 1953)
Mane, Anant (1915-95)
Mangeshkar, Lata (b. 1929)
Mani Rathnam [see Rathnam, Mani]
Manto, Sadat Hasan (1912-55)
Marudakasi, Ayyamperumal (1920-89)
Master, Homi (?-1949)
Mathur, Vishnu (b. 1944)
Mazumdar [see Majumdar]
Mehboob (1906-64)
Mehra, Krishna Dev (1907-95)
Mehra, Prakash (b. 1939)
Mehta, Harshadrai Sakerlal
Mehta, Ketan (b. 1952)
Mehta, Vijaya (b. 1934)
Meiyappan Chettiar, A. V. [see AVM Film Company]
Melodrama
Menon, P. N. (b. 1928)
Menon, S. Balachandra (b. 1954)
Minerva Movietone
Mir, Ezra (1903-93)
Mirza, Saeed Akhtar (b. 1943)
Mishra, Bhagwati Prasad (1896-1932)
Mishra, Sisir (b. 1942)
Mistri, Babubhai (b. 1919)
Mitra, Kamal (1911-93)
Mitra, Naresh Chandra (1888-1968)
Mitra, Premendra (1904-88)
Mitra, Sombhu (1916-97)
Modak, Shahu (1918-93)
Modern Theatres
Modi, Sohrab Merwanji (1897-1984)
Mohanani, K. R. (b. 1947)
Mohan Kohli, Madan (1924-75)
Mohanlal (b. 1962)
Mohapatra [see Mahapatra]
Motilal Rajvansh (1910-65)
Mudaliar, Pammal Vijayaranga Sambandham (1872-1964)
Mudaliar, R. Nataraja (1885-1972)
Mukherjee, Gyan (1909-59)
Mukherjee, Hemanta Kumar (1920-89)
Mukherjee, Hrishikesh (b. 1922)
Mukherjee, Madhabi (b. 1943)
Mukherjee, Sailajananda (1901-76)
Mukherjee, Subodh (b. 1921)
Mukkamala, Krishnamurthy (1920-87)
Mullick, Amar (1899-1972)
Mullick, Pankaj (1905-78)
Munshi, Kanhaiyalal Maneklal (1887-1971)
Murugadasa (b. 1900)
Music Schools
Muthuswamy, A. [see Murugadasa]
Muzumdar [see Majumdar]
Mythologicals
Nadia (1908-96)
Nadkarni, Sundarrao
Nag, Anant (b. 1948)
Nag, Shankar (1954-90)
Nagabharana, T. S. (b. 1953)
Nagabhushanam, Kadaru (b. 1902)
Nagaiah, Chittor V. (1904-73)
Nagalingam, P. K. [see Sandow, P. K. Raja]
Nagarajan, A. P.
Nagarjuna, Akkineni (b. 1959)
Nagendra Rao, Pingali [see Rao, Pingali Nagendra]
Nagendra Rao, R. [see Rao, Nagendra R.]
Nageshwara Rao, Akkineni [see Rao, Akkineni Nageshwara]
Nageshwara Rao, Pendyala [see Pendyala Nageshwara Rao]
Nageshwara Rao, Rajanala [see Rao, Rajanala Nageshwara]
Naik, Prabhakar [see Nayak, Prabhakar]
Nair, Kottarakkara Sridharan (1922-86)
Nair, Madathu Thekepattu Vasudevan (b. 1934)
Nair, Mira (b. 1957)
Nair, Thikkurisi Sukumaran (1917-97)
Nanda, Prashanta (b. 1947)
Narasaraju, Datla Venkata (b. 1920)
Narasimha Rao, Bhimavarapu [see Rao, Bhimavarapu Narashimha]
Narasimha Rao, Chitrapu [see Rao, Chitrapu Narasimha]
Narasimha Rao, Bongu [see Rao, Bongu Narasinga]
Narayana Kavi, Udumalai (1899-1981)
Narayanamurthy, Chitrapu (1913-85)
Narayanan, A. (1900-39)
Narayana Rao, Adi [see Rao, Adi Narayana]
Narayana Rao, Dasari [see Rao, Dasari Narayana]
Narayan Kale, K. [see Kale, K. Narayan]
Narayan Rao, Balkrishna [see Rao, Balkrishna Narayan]
Nargis (1929-81)
National Film Development Corporation
Naushad Ali (b. 1919)
Navketan [see Chetan Anand]
Navya Movement
Navyug Chitrapat
Naxalite
Nayak, Prabhakar Manajirao (1920-86)
Nayyar, Omkar Prasad (b. 1926)
Nazir, Prem (1928-89)
Neelakantan, P. (b. 1916)
Neerja [see Vijayanirmala]
Nene, Raja (1912-75)
New Indian Cinema
New Theatres
Nihalani, Govind (b. 1940)
Nurjehan (b. 1929)
Nutan Samarth (1936-91)
Osten, Franz (1876-1956)
Pachajanya [see Mahapatra, Nirad]
Padmanabhan, R. (b. 1896)
Padmarajan, P. (1936-91)
Padmini, S. (b. 1934)
PAG [see Progressive Artists Group]
Pagnis, Vishnupant (1892-1943)
Painter, Baburao (1890-1954)
Pal, Niranjan (1889-1959)
Palekar, Amol (b. 1944)
Palit, Nitai (b. 1923)
Pancholi, Dalsukh M. (1906-59)
Pande, Vinod
Pandharibai (b. 1930)
Panthulu, Budugur Ramakrishnaiah (1911-74)
Paranjpe, Raja (1910-79)
Paranjpye, Sai (b. 1936)
Parsee Theatre
Patankar, Shri Nath (?-1941)
Patekar, Nana (b. 1951)
Patel, Jabbar (b. 1942)
Pathy, P. V. (1906-61)
Patil, Dinkar Dattajirao (b. 1915)
Patil, Smita (1955-86)
Pat Painting
Pattanayak, Kabichandra Kalicharan (b. 1900)
Patwardhan, Anand (b. 1950)
Patwardhan, Nachiket (b. 1948) and Patwardhan, Jayoo (b. 1949)
Pavithran, Vattaparambil Krishnan (b. 1950)
Pawar, Lalita (1916-98)
Pendharkar, Baburao (1896-1967)
Pendharkar, Bhalchandra Gopal [Bhalji] (1898-1994)
Pendyala Nageshwara Rao (1924-84)
Phadke, Sudhir Vinayak (b. 1919)
Phalke, Dhundiraj Govind (1870-1944)
Phalke Films Company
Photography
Pillai, Muthukulam Raghavan (b. 1909)
Pothen, Prathap K. (b. 1952)
Prabhat Film Company
Prakash, Khemchand (1907-50)
Prakash, Raghupati Surya (1901-56)

- Prakash Rao, Kovalapati Surya (1914-96)
Prakash Rao, Tatineni (1924-92)
Prasad, L. V. (1908-94)
Pratyagatma, Kotayya (b. 1925)
Priyadarshan
Progressive Artists Group
Progressive Writers Association
Pullaiah, Chittajallu (1895-1967)
Pullaiah, P. (1911-85)
Punatar, Ratilal Hemchand (b. 1913)
Punjab Film Corporation
Puri, Om (b. 1950)
Puttanna, S. R. [see Kanagal, S. R. Puttanna]
PWA [see Progressive Writers Association]
Qadir, Kozhikode Abdul
Rafi, Mohammed (1924-80)
Raghava, Bellari (1880-1946)
Raghavacharya, Samudrala (1902-68)
Raghavaiah, Kosaraju [see Kosaraju Raghavaiah Choudhury]
Raghavaiah, Vedantam (1919-71)
Raghavendra Rao, K.
Raghunath, T. R. (1912-90)
Raghuramaiah, Kalyanam (1915-68)
Rai, Himansu (1892-1940)
Rajalakshmi, T. P. (?-1964)
Rajamma, M. V. (b. 1923)
Rajanikant [see Rajnikant]
Rajan-Nagendra [Rajan (b. 1933), Nagendra (b. 1935)]
Rajarithnam, Bezawada (b. 1921)
Raja Sandow [see Sandow, P. K. Raja]
Rajdutt (b. 1932)
Raje, Aruna (b. 1946)
Rajendar, Thesingu (b. 1955)
Rajendran, Lenin (b. 1952)
Rajendra Singh, S. V. [see Singh, S. V. Rajendra]
Rajeswara Rao, Saluri [see Rao, Saluri Rajeswara]
Rajkamal Kalamandir
Rajkumar (b. 1929)
Rajnikant (b. 1950)
Raju, Thotakura Venkata (1921-73)
Ramabrahmam, Gudavalli (1902-46)
Ramachandran, Marudur Gopalamenon (1917-87)
Ramaiyadas, Thanjai (1914-69)
Ramakrishna Rao, P. S. [see Rao, P. S. Ramakrishna]
Raman, Mahalingam Venkat (b. 1913)
Rama Rao, Nandamuri Taraka (1923-96)
Rama Rao, Tatineni (b. 1938)
Ramchandra, Narhar Chitalkar (1918-82)
Ramnoth, K. (1912-56)
Ramsay Brothers
Ranga, B. S. (b. 1918)
Ranga Rao, Samrla Venkata (1918-74)
Rani, Bulu C. (1920-93)
Rani Choudhury, Devika (1907-94)
Ranjit Movietone
Rao, Adi Narayana (1915-91)
Rao, Akkineni Nageshwara (b. 1924)
Rao, A. Subba [see Subba Rao, A.]
Rao, Balkrishna Narayan (b. 1909)
Rao, Bhimavarapu Narasimha (?-1957)
Rao, Bongu Narasinga (b. 1946)
Rao, Chitrapu Narasimha (b. 1911)
Rao, Chittajalu Srinivasa (b. 1924)
Rao, Dasari Narayana (b. 1947)
Rao, Ghantasala Venkateswara [see Ghantasala Venkateswara Rao]
Rao, Kamalakara Kameshwara (b. 1911)
Rao, Pendyala Nageshwara [see Pendyala Nageshwara Rao]
Rao, Pingali Nagendra (1901-71)
Rao, Prakash [see Prakash Rao, K. S.]
Rao, Raghavendra [see Raghavendra Rao, K.]
Rao, R. Nagendra (1896-1977)
Rao, Rajanala Nageshwara (1926-59)
Rao, Rama [see Rama Rao, N. T. or Rama Rao, Tatineni]
Rao, P. S. Ramakrishna (1918-86)
Rao, Ranga [see Ranga Rao, S. V.]
Rao, Saluri Rajeswara (b. 1922)
Rao, Singeetham Srinivasa
Rao, T. Prakash [see Prakash Rao, Tatineni]
Rao, Yaragudipati Varada (1903-73)
Raskapur, Manhar (1922-80)
Rathnam, Mani (b. 1956)
Rathod, Kanjibhai J.
Rathod, Kantilal (1925-88)
Rawail, Harnam Singh (b. 1921)
Rawail, Rahul (b. 1951)
Ray, Satyajit (1921-92)
Reddi, Bommireddi Narasimha (1908-77)
Reddy, Hanumappa Muniappa (1882-1960)
Reddy, Kadri Venkata (1912-72)
Reddy, Pattabhi Rama (b. 1919)
Reddy, S.V. Krishna
Rehman, Allah Rakha (b. 1966)
Rehman, Waheeda (b. 1938)
Rekha (b. 1954)
Roy, Bimal (1909-66)
Roy, Charu (1890-1971)
Roy, Jahar (1929-77)
Roy, Nirupa (b. 1931)
Rupkonwar [see Agarwala, Jyotiprasad]
Sabhyasachi [see Kar, Ajoy]
Sadanandan, S. L. Puram (b. 1927)
Sagar, Ramanand (b. 1917)
Sagar Film Company
Sahni, Balraj (1913-73)
Sahu, Kishore (1915-80)
Saigal, Kundan Lal (1904-46)
Saikia, Bhabendranath (b. 1932)
Saint Films
Salim-Javed [Salim Khan, Javed Akhtar]
Samanta, Shakti (b. 1925)
Samarth, Nutan [see Nutan Samarth]
Samarth, Shobhana (b. 1916)
Sami, Arul Susai Anthony (b. 1917)
Sandow, P. K. Raja (1894-1942)
Sangani, Chandrakant (b. 1927)
Sangeet Natak
Sanyal, Pahadi (1906-74)
Saraiya, Govind (b. 1929)
Sardar Begum [see Akhtar, Sardar]
Sarhadi, Zia (b. 1914)
Sarma, Phani (1910-70)
Sarpotdar, Narayanrao Damodar (1896-1940)
Sasi, I. V. (b. 1948)
Sasikumar
Sastry, Bellave Narahari (1881-1961)
Sastry, Devulapalli Krishna (1897-1980)
Sathyan (1912-71)
Sathyu, Mysore Srinivasa (b. 1930)
Satyanarayana, E.V.V.
Saurashtra Film Company
Save Dada [see Bhatavdekar, H. S.]
Savitri, Kommareddy (1937-81)
Segal, Mohan (b. 1921)
Sekhar, Raja C. [see Chandrasekhar, Raja]
Sen, Aparna (b. 1945)
Sen, Asit (b. 1922)
Sen, Hiralal (1866-1917)
Sen, Mrinal (b. 1923)
Sen, Satu (1902-72)
Sen, Suchitra (b. 1931?)
Sethumadhavan, K. S. (b. 1926)
Shah, Chandulal Jesangbhai (1898-1975)
Shah, Kundan (b. 1947)
Shah, Naseeruddin
Shahani, Kumar (b. 1940)
Shailendra (1923-66)
Shankar-Jaikishen [Shankarsinh Raghuwanshi (?-1987), Jaikishen Dayabhai Panchal (1929-71)]
Shantaram, Rajaram Vankudre (1901-90)
Sharada (b. 1945)
Sharda Film Company
Sharma, Aribam Syam (b. 1939)
Sharma, Kidar Nath (b. 1910)
Sharma, Ramesh
Sharmaji [see Khayyam, Mohammed Zahur]
Shobhana Samartha [see Samartha, Shobhana]
Shobhan Babu (b. 1936)
Shorey, Roshan Lal
Shorey, Roop Kishore (1914-73)
Simha, H. L. N. (1904-72)
Singh, Dara (b. 1928)
Singh, M. A.
Singh, Shankar V. Rajendra (b. 1948)
Singh, Suchet (?-1920)
Singh, Surinder (b. 1945)
Sinha, Mala (b. 1936)
Sinha, Tapan (b. 1924)
Sippy, Gopaldas Parmanand (b. 1915)
Sippy, Ramesh (b. 1947)
Sivan, Papanasam (1891-1973)
Social
Soundararajan, S. (?-1966)
Sridevi (b. 1960)
Sridhar, Chingelpet V.
Srinivasan, M. B. (1925-88)
Sriranjani Junior (1927-74)
Sriranjani Senior (1906-39)
Sri Sri (1910-83)
Stage Backdrops
Subbaiah Naidu, M. V. (1896-1962)
Subba Rao, Adurthi (1921-75)
Subburaman, C. R. (1921-52)
Subramanyam, Krishnaswamy (1904-71)
Subramanyam, P. (1910-78)
Suhasini (b. 1961)
Sukhdev Singh Sandhu (1933-79)
Sulochana (1907-83)
Sultanpuri, Majrooh (b. 1924)
Sundaram, Tiruchengodu Ramalinga (1907-63)
Sundarrajan, S [see Soundararajan, S.]

Surabhi Theatres	Vanisree (b. 1951)	Vijayabhaskar (b. 1931)
Suraiya Jamal Sheikh (b. 1929)	Varalakshmi, Garikipati (b. 1926)	Vijayanirmala (b. 1945)
Suryakant (b. 1925)	Varalakshmi, S. (b. 1927)	Vinayak Damodar Karnataki, Master (1906-47)
Suryakumari, Tantaguri (b. 1925)	Varkey, Mutatthu (b. 1918)	Vincent, Aloysius (b. 1928)
Swadeshi	Varkey, Poonkunnam (b. 1908)	Vishnuvardhan (b. 1952)
Swaminathan, Komal (1935-1995)	Varma, Raja Ravi (1848-1906)	Vishwanath, Kashinadhuri (b. 1930)
Tagore, Rabindranath (1861-1941)	Varma, Ram Gopal (b. 1961)	Vithal, Master (?-1969)
Tagore, Sharmila (b. 1944)	Varma, Vyalar Rama (1929-75)	Vittalacharya, B. (b. 1920)
Tarafdar, Rajen (1917-87)	Vasan, S. S. (1903-69)	Vyas, Avinash (1912-84)
Tembe, Govindrao (1881-1955)	Vasudevan Nair, M. T. [see Nair, Madathu Thekepattu Vasudevan]	Vyas, Vishnukumar Maganlal (b. 1905)
Tendulkar, Vijay (b. 1925)	Vauhini Pictures	Vyjayanthimala (b. 1936)
Thakur, Raja (1923-75)	Veeranna, Gubbi (1890-1972)	Wadia, Homi Boman (b. 1911)
Thakur, Ramchandra (1908-92)	Vel Pictures	Wadia, Jamshed Boman Homi (1901-86)
Thakur, Siva Prasad (b. 1939)	Venkaiah, Raghupathi (?-1941)	Wadia Movietone
Timirbaran [see Baran, Timir]	Venkatesh, Daggubati (b. 1960)	Wadkar, Hansa (1923-72)
TKS Brothers	Venkatesh, G. K. (1927-93)	Walker, Johnny (b. 1925)
Torney, Ramchandra Gopal (1880-1960)	Venkateswara Rao, Ghantasala [see Ghantasala Venkateswara Rao]	Yagnik, Indulal (1892-1972)
Trivedi, Upendra	Venkateswara Rao, Gummadi (b. 1927)	Yatrik see Majumdar, Tarun
Urs, D. Kemparaj (1918-82)	Venkatramaiah, Relangi (1910-75)	Yesudas, K. J. (b. 1940)
Vairamuthu	Venu, Master (1916-81)	Yoganand, D. (b. 1922)
Vakil, Nanubhai B. (1904-80)	Vijaya Pictures	Yusufali, Abdulali [see Esoofally, Abdulally]
Vali		Zils, Paul (1915-79)
Vamsy (b. 1956)		Zubeida (1911-90)

Blank

Abbas, Khwaja Ahmad (1914 - 87)

Hindi-Urdu director and scenarist mainly in the socialist-realist mode. Born in Panipat, Haryana; grandfather is the well-known poet Hali. Graduated from Aligarh Muslim University (1933). Journalist, novelist and short-story writer with prodigious output. Worked on National Call, a New Delhi paper (1933); started Aligarh Opinion when studying law (1934); obtained law degree in 1935; political correspondent and later film critic for nationalist Bombay Chronicle, Bombay (1935-47) praising Dieterle, Capra and esp.

Shantaram. Wrote Indian journalism's longest-running weekly political column, Last Page (1941-86), in Chronicle and Blitz. Best-known fiction (Zafran Ke Phool situated in Kashmir, Inquilab on communal violence) places him in younger generation of Urdu and Hindi writers with Ali Sardar Jafri and Ismat Chughtai, whose work followed the PWA and drew sustenance from Nehruite socialism's pre-Independence, anti-Fascist and anti-communal commitments. Founder member of IPTA's all-India front (1943), to which he contributed two seminal plays: Yeh Amrit Hai and Zubeida. Entered film as publicist for Bombay Talkies (1936) to whom he sold his first screenplay, Naya Sansar (1941). First film, Dharti Ke Lal, made under IPTA's banner and drew on Bijon Bhattacharya's classic play Nabanna (1944), dealing with the Bengal famine of 1943. Set up production company Naya Sansar (1951), providing India's most consistent representation of socialist-realist film (cf. Thoppil Bhasi and Utpal Dutt). Best work is in the scripts for his own films and for those of Raj Kapoor (Awara, 1951; Shri 420, 1955, both co-written with V.P. Sathe; Jagte Raho, 1956; Bobby, 1973) and Shantaram's Dr. Kotnis Ki Amar Kahani (1946; adapted from his own book, And One Did Not Come Back), which combined aspects of Soviet cinema (Pudovkin) and of Hollywood (e.g. Capra and Upton Sinclair), influencing a new generation of Hindi cineastes (Kapoor, Chetan Anand) and sparking new realist performance idioms (Balraj Sahni). His Munna, without songs or dances, and Shaher Aur Sapna, cheaply made on location in slums, were described as being influenced by neo-realism. Pardesi is the first Indian-Soviet co-production, co-directed by Vassili M. Pronin. The landmark Supreme Court censorship judgement about his Char Shaher Ek Kahani (aka A Tale of Four Cities) curtailed 'arbitrary' governmental pre-censorship powers on the grounds that the Indian Constitution guarantees the right to free speech. Published many books including I Am Not An Island and Mad Mad World of Indian Films (both 1977). Other important scripts: Neecha Nagar (1946); Mera Naam Joker (1970); Zindagi Zindagi (1972); Henna (1991). Abbas also brought a number of new talents into the film industry, such as Amitabh Bachchan in Saat Hindustani.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1946: Dharti Ke Lal, 1947: Aaj Aur Kal, 1952: Anhonee, Rahi/Two Leaves And A Bud; 1954: Munna; 1957: Pardesi; 1959: Char Dil Char Raahein; 1960: Id Mubarak (Sh); 1961: Gir Game Sanctuary (Doc); 1962: Gyarah Hazaar Ladkiyan; 1963: Shaher Aur Sapna; Teen Gharaney; 1964: Hamara Ghar; 1965: Aasmaan Mahal; Tomorrow Shall Be Better (Sh); 1967: Dharti Ki Pukaar (Sh); Bambai Raat Ki Bahon Mein; 1968: Char Shaher Ek Kahani (Doc); 1969: Saat Hindustani; 1971: Do Boond Pani; Lav Kush (Sh); 1972: Bharat Darshan (Doc); 1973: Kal Ki Baat (Sh); Juhu (TV-Sh); 1974: Faasla; 1975: Papa Miyan of Aligarh (Doc); 1976: Phir Bolo Aaye Sant Kabir (Doc); 1978: Dr Iqbal (Doc); 1979: The Naxalites; 1983: Hindustan Hamara (Sh); 1984: Nanga Fakir (TV); Mr. X (unfinished).

Abraham, John (1937-87)

Malayalam director born in Changanacherry, Kuttanad Dist., Kerala; studied economics at a college near Kottayam. Educated by grandfather who gave him his first camera. Worked as insurance salesman in Bellary; went to the FTII and studied under Ghatak. Assisted Mani Kaul on Uski Roti (1969) and worked on unreleased Hindi feature shot in Kerala, Trisandhya (1972). First films: Vidyarthikale Ithile Ithile, made in Madras as group co-operative effort, and his internationally acclaimed Agraharathil Kazhuthai in Tamil. Lived a nomadic existence in the 70s, depending on support from friends and colleagues in Kerala, later the basis of the Odessa Collective (Est: 1984 in Calicut) launched with street play Nayakali staged in Fort Cochin (1984). Odessa funded Amma Ariyan through screening 16mm prints of e.g. Chaplin's The Kid (1921) and Anand Patwardhan's Hamara Shaher (1985) in towns and villages throughout Kerala in return for small donations. After his accidental death, he is often portrayed as an example of the romantic artist who by-passed the tyranny of the market-place through a direct relationship with his people, raising money by travelling from village to village beating a drum and asking for contributions to a genuine 'people's cinema'. Others point to the probably Christian theme of infantile innocence in his work and place his marginal lifestyle in the cultural context of Kerala and the contentious history of authorial identity he inherited and lived out, exploring its alternatives. Suffered from alcoholism. Also wrote his own films.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1967: Koyna Nagar (Doc); 1969: Priya (Sh); Hides And Strings (Doc); 1971: Vidyarthikale Ithile Ithile; 1977: Agraharathil Kazhuthai; 1979: Cheriyachente Kroora Krithyangal; 1986: Amma Ariyan.

Romi (right) in K. A. Abbas' Munna (1954)

Acharya, N. R. (1909-93)

Hindi director born in Karachi. Was a government contractor when he joined East India Film in Calcutta (1934). Later worked as production manager at Bombay Talkies, where he directed the first examples of S. Mukherjee's new regime, e.g. Bandhan and the Abbas script Naya Sansar. Became producer with Sahu's Kunwara Baap (1942). Continued producing under the Acharya Arts Prod. banner until 1950. Also made Gujarati films, e.g. Lagna Mandap.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1940: Bandhan, Azad; 1941: Naya Sansar; 1942: Uljhan; 1943: Aage Kadam; 1949: Parivartan, Shohrat (with K. Amarnath); 1950: Lagna Mandap; 1956: Dhola Maru.

Advani, Jagatrai Pesumal (b. 1903)

Hindi director born in Hyderabad (now Pakistan). Studied film-making in Germany in the 20s and returned to become Bhavnani's assistant. Directorial debut at Krishnatone with Heer Ranjha, then at Saroj Movietone where he directed Sardar Akhtar (Gafil Musafir, Johar-e-Shamsheer, Shah Behram, Tilasimi Talwar). Made the Sardar Akhtar film Farebi Duniya at the Karachi-based Golden Eagle company; then directed e.g. Khursheed films (Elaan-e-Jung, Shokh Dilruba, Sipahsalar) and Anil Biswas musicals such as Veena, Ladli and Lajawaab. Apparently known as a director who could handle female stars to their advantage, his films starring Nimmi included Wafaa and a title probably produced by the star, Danka. His Sassi Punnu is a Hindi/Punjabi bilingual.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1931: Heer Ranjha; 1933: Zehar-e-Ishq; 1934: Afghan Abla; Dilara; Gafil Musafir; Johar-e-Shamsheer; Tilasimi Talwar; Vasantsena; Flashing Sword; 1935: Bahar-e-Sulemani; Farebi Duniya; Shah Behram; 1936: Elaan-e-Jung; Shokh Dilruba; Sipahsalaar; 1937: Saqi; Insaaf; 1939: Dekha Jayega; 1940: Dharma Bandhar; Sneh Bandhar; 1941: Shehzadi; 1942: Suhagar; 1943: Sahara; 1946: Sassi Punnu; 1948: Veena; 1949: Laadli; 1950: Wafaa; Lajawaab; 1952: Saloni; 1954: Danka; 1955: Hasina.

Agarwal a, Jyotiprasad (1903-51)

Aka Rupkonwar. First Assamese director. Born in Tezpur; radical playwright (e.g. Sonitkonwari, 1925; Karengar-Ligari, 1936; Rupalim, 1960). Stage director and songwriter who introduced traditional musical forms to contemporary Assamese stage. Graduate of Edinburgh University and Trinity College, Cambridge where he studied Western music (1926). Studied film-making at UFA, Germany (1930). Prominent political activist; jailed as member of Congress Party (1931-2); resigned from Tezpur Local Board protesting Assam government's compulsory financial contributions to WW2 and was involved in CP-led uprising of 1942. President of first IPTA conference in Assam at Silchar, following 1942 struggles. Briefly edited daily newspaper Dainik Asamiya (1944). First film, Joymati, based on Sahityatri Bezbaruah's militant play, made in improvised studio adjoining his family's tea gardens near Tezpur, an event commemorated in Bhupen Hazarika's film about the director, Rupkonwar Jyotiprasad Aru Joymati (1976).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1935: Joymati; 1939: Indramalati.

Agradoot

Best-known instance of phenomenon unique to Bengali cinema: group of film technicians signing collectively as director. The Agradoot core unit, formed in 1946, consisted initially of Bibhuti Laha (cameraman born in 1915), Jatin Datta (sound), Sailen Ghosal (lab work), Nitai Bhattacharya (scenarist) and Bimal Ghosh (production). Bibhuti Laha was the driving force and after most of the other members had left the group, he continued directing under the Agradoot name while working as a cinematographer under his own name. They made several commercially successful late 50s and 60s sentimental socials starring Uttam Kumar, esp. Agni Pareeksha (remade as Chhotisi Mulaqat, 1967) and the early colour production Pathe Holo Deri). Another hit, Lalu Bhulu, was remade as Dosti (1959). Other film-makers who passed through the group include Saroj De, Salil Dutta and Aravind Mukherjee. Other well-known collectives include Sabhyasachi (cf. Ajoy Kar), Agragami, Yatrik, Chitra Rath and Chitra Sathi.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1947: Swapna-o-Sadhana; 1948: Samapika; Sabhyasachi/Pather Daabi; 1949: Sankalpa; 1951: Sahajatri; Babla; 1952: Aandhi; 1954: Agni Pareeksha; 1955: Anupama; Sabar Uparey; 1956: Trijama; 1957: Pathe Holo Deri; 1958: Surya Toran; 1959: Lalu Bhulu; 1960: Kuhak; Khokha Babur Pratyabartan; 1961: Agni Sanskar; 1962: Bipasha; Nabadiganta; 1963: Uttarayan; Badshah; 1965: Antara; Surya Tapa; Tapasi; 1967: Nayika Sangbad; 1968: Kokhono Megh; 1969: Chiradiner; 1970: Manjari Opera; 1971: Chhadmabeshi; 1973: Sonar Khancha; 1974: Sedin Du-janay; 1977: Din Amader; 1981: Surya Sakhi; 1989: Aparanher Alo.

Ahl uwal ia, Sukhdev (b. 1932)

Mainstream Punjabi director who started as assistant cinematographer at the Modern Studios. Shot a number of Hindi films directed by Suraj Prakash before turning writer-director of ruralist melodramas (e.g. Takra tells of a reformed black-marketeer accused of having killed his lover), often dealing with superstition. In Jai Mata Sheran Wali, daughter-in-law Radha overcomes oppression because of her belief in the mother goddess, but in the children's film Sajre Phool the superstitions of the oppressive landowner's wife are used to expose a crime. Currently works mainly in video. Also made Kashmeera about a lovable young tribal from Kashmir for the CFS.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1974: Do Sher; 1975: Dharamjeet; 1976: Takra; 1977: Do Sholay; 1978: Jai Mata Sheran Wali; 1979: Til Til Da Lekha; Kunwara Mama; 1980: Ambe Maa Jagadambe Maa; 1981: Sajre Phool; 1983: Kashmeera; 1984: Maanwan Thandian Chhanwan; 1985: Takraar; 1987: Maahi Mera Chann Varga; 1990: Sounh Meno Punjab Di.

Akhtar, Javed see Salim-Javed

Akhtar, Sardar (1915-84)

Aka Sardar Begum. Hindi-Urdu actress, born in Lahore. Started on the Urdu stage, which supplied the mainstream historical film with most of its acting talent. Joined films at Saroj Movietone. Early films with A.P. Kapur. Broke through in the role of the washerwoman in Pukar, where she also sang Kaheko mohe chhede. Classic screen performance as the mother in Mehboob's melodrama, Aurat. With Mukhtar Begum and Naseem Banu, she is one of the few Urdu stage actresses to make a successful transition to cinema. Her weighty, languid histrionics and gravelly voice invested her style with an earthy quality lost to the cinema after Independence. Other films in which she sang include Purnima (the bhajan Giridhar ke sang) and Piya Ki Jogan. She married Mehboob in 1942 and ran the Mehboob Studio after his death. Made a comeback with Hulchul.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1933: Id Ka Chand; Husn Ka Gulam; Malati Madhav; Naqsh-e-Sulemani; Roop Basant; 1934: Ajami; Dilara; Gafil Musafir; Hothal Padmini; Jan Nissar; Johar-e-Shamsheer; Tilasimi Talwar; 1935: Delhi Express; Dharam Ki Devi; Dhoop Chhaon; Farebi Duniya; Misar Ka Khazana; Shah Behram; 1936: Karodpati; Piya Ki Jogan; Pratima; Prem Bandhar; Sangdil Samaj; Sher Ka Panja; 1937: His Highness; Bismil Ki Arzoo; Khwab Ki Duniya; 1938: Purnima; State Express; 1939: Pukar; 1940: Alibaba; Aurat; Bharosa; Pooja; 1941: Aasra; Nai Roshni; 1942: Duniya Ek Tamasha; Ghar Sansar; Phir Milenge; Uljhar; 1943: Fashior; Masterji; 1945: Rahat; 1971: Hulchul; 1973: Bandhe Haath; 1977: Jai Mata Di.

Akhtar-ul -Iman (1915-96)

Hindi-Urdu scenarist born in Bijnor Dist., UP. Joined Filmistan Studio as dialogue writer (1945). Major Urdu writer with seven poetry anthologies (e.g. Yaadein, 1961) and one verse play, Sabrang (1948). His Urdu poetry emphasises anti-romantic humanism, moving away from the traditional ghazal into new formal and symbolic articulations of modernity, as in the encounter between traditional metres and the rhythm of everyday prose in his major poem, Ahd-e-Wafaa [Time of Promise]. Directed one film, Lahu Pukarega (1980). Wrote Hindi scripts, dialogues or both for Najam Naqvi (Actress, 1948; Nirdosh, 1950), B.R. Chopra (Kanoon, 1960; Gumrah, 1963; Hamraaz, 1967; Dastaan, 1972; Dhund, 1973), Raj Khosla (Mera Saaya, 1966; Chirag, 1969), Yash Chopra (Dharmaputra, 1961; Waqt, 1965; Ittefaq and Admi Aur Insaan, both 1969; Daag and Joshila, both 1973), Ramesh Sharma (Flat No. 9, 1961), Nandlal Jaswantal (Akeli Mat Jaiyo, 1963), A. Bhimsingh (Admi, 1968; Joru Ka Gulam, 1972) and Manmohan Desai's Roti (1974). Wrote Sunil Dutt's monologue, Yaadein (1964) and Vimal Tewari's Kunwara Badan (1973). Further dialogue credits include: Protima Dasgupta's Jharna (1948), Aspi's Barood (1960) and Shabnam (1964), Rakhan's Kalpana (1960), Ved-Madan's Neeli Aankhen (1962), Vasant Joglekar's Aaj Aur Kal (1963), Mehmood's Bhoot Bangla (1965), Chopra/Hrishikesh Mukherjee's Gaban (1966), Raja Nawathe's Patthar Ke Sanam (1967), Deven Verma's Bada Kabutar and Hari Dutt's Naya Nasha (both 1973), Raj Tilak's Chhattis Ghante (1974), Ravi Chopra's Bachchan movie Zameer (1975), Sanjay Khan's Chandi Sona (1977), Devendra Goel's Do Musafir (1978) and actor Amjad Khan's Chor Police (1983).

Al i, Muzaffar (b. 1944)

Hindi-Urdu director born in Lucknow. Eldest son of the Raja Sajid Husain of Kotwara.

Amarnath, Gel aram Khetarpal (1914-83)

Hindi and Tamil director born in Mianwali, now in Pakistan's Punjab province. Studied at the Rangmahal High School (1931) and at Craik Technical School, Lahore. Joined films as an extra in Lahore a year before moving to Calcutta (1932). Then went to Bombay (1933) and became assistant director until debuting as director in 1936, making many of his early films in Tamil, including Minnalkodi. Known as a stunt film director associated with Mohan Pics, one of the major B-movie producers and filmed often with S. Nazir (Chashmavali, Midnight Mail, Bandookwali); made the Nazir-Lalita Pawar film Captain Kishori. Bazaar, with Shyam and Nigar Sultana, was a well-known musical success. Shifted to love stories in the late 40s with e.g. Nurjehan's last big films in India (Village Girl and Mirza Sahiban, the first film he produced). In the early 50s he introduced Shammi Kapoor to films in romances such as Laila Majnu and Mehbooba. Started his own K. Amarnath Pics with Alif Laila. Directed Ajit's leading roles in Baradari (with Geeta Bali), Bada Bhai (with Kamini Kaushal), Baraat (with Shakila) and the colour film Kabuli Khan (with Helen).

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1936: Matwali Jogar; Madras Mail; 1937: Danger Signal; Minnalkodi; Pucca Rowdy; 1938: Veer Ramani; Bhagya Leela; 1939: Bahadur Ramesh; Midnight Mail; Chashmavali; 1940: Tatar Ka Chor; Captain Kishori; 1941: Bulbul-e-Baghdad; 1942: Zevar; 1943: Chhed Chhaad; 1944: Bandookwali; 1945: Village Girl; 1947: Mirza Sahiban; Roop Nagar; 1949: Shohrat (co-d N.R. Acharya); Bazaar; 1950: Beqasoor; Mehar bani; 1951: Sarkar; 1953: Alif Laila; Laila Majnu; 1954: Mehbooba; 1955: Baradari; 1956: Naya Andaz; 1957: Bada Bhai; 1960: Baraat; 1963: Kabuli Khan; 1964: Ishara; 1971: Woh Din Yaad Karo.

Amrohi, Kamal (1918-93)

Originally Syed Amir Haider Kamal. Writer, poet (Hindi-Urdu) and director. Born in Amroha, UP. Early writing was within the Shakespearean contours of the Urdu Parsee Theatre (e.g. the script for Akhtar Hussain's Romeo and Juliet, 1947). Went to Bombay in 1938; worked as writer for S. Modi (Jailor), 1938; Pukar, 1939; Bharosa, 1940), Kardar (Shahjehan), 1946), and K. Asif's spectacular Mughal-e-Azam (1960), reinvigorating the Urdu historical genre. Scenarist at Bombay Talkies which produced his feature debut, Mahal. Established his own Kamal Pics (1953) and Kamalistan Studio in Bombay (1958), leasing the Mahal Studios mainly to make Pakeezah, one of the most successful Indian films ever and a classic Urdu melodrama. Its star, Meena Kumari, was his third wife. They separated in 1964 but she nevertheless finished the film in 1971. Scripted his own films. Other scripts include Yusuf Naqvi's Shankar Hussain (1977), dialogues for Jagirdar's Main Hari (1940), Zahur Raja's Mazaaq (1943) and K. Asif's Phool (1944). Also produced Kishore

Sahu's Dil Apna Aur Preet Parayi (1960).
FILMOGRAPHY: 1949: Mahal; 1953: Daera; 1971: Pakeezah; 1983: Razia Sultan.

A. Na. Kru see Krishnarao, A. N.

Anand, Chetan (1915-97)

Hindi director, scenarist and actor; elder brother of Dev and Vijay Anand. Born in Lahore. Worked for the BBC and taught at the Doon School, Dehradun. Went to Bombay to act in Hindi films. Played the lead in the IPTA's stage production of K.A. Abbas's Zubeida directed by Balraj Sahni (1943). First film Neecha Nagar made in parallel with Abbas's IPTA-backed Dharti Ke Lal (1946) and Uday Shankar's Kalpna (1948) under government licence (required during WW2). Together with Dev Anand started Navketan Prod. (1949). Directed (and co-wrote with his ex-wife Uma) their debut film, Afsar, adapted from Gogol's The Government Inspector. With composer S.D. Burman and lyricist Sahir Ludhianvi, Navketan marked an influential transition of IPTA's socialist realism into a brand of commercial Hindi cinema that drew from King Vidor, Capra, Huston and others to define a brief but crucial populist phase in Hindi films dealing with the working class (e.g. Taxi Driver). Influenced several cineastes such as Guru Dutt, Mohan Segal, Raj Khosla and Vijay Anand. Started his own Himalaya Films (1960). After the war film Haqeeqat, about the 1962 conflict with China, Anand remained the leading director associated with that genre, extending it into serial format for TV (Param Veer Chakra). His son, Ketan Anand, also became a director (Toote Khilone, 1978; Hum Rahe Na Hum, 1984).

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* also act): 1946: Neecha Nagar; 1950: Afsar; 1952: Aandhiyan; 1953: Humsafar (act only); 1954: Taxi Driver; 1955: Joru Ka Bhai; 1956: Funtoosh; 1957: *Anjali; 1960: Kala Bazaar (act only); 1963: *Kinare Kinare; 1964: Haqeeqat; 1966: Aakhri Khat; 1967: Aman (act only); 1970: Heer Ranjha; 1973: *Hindustan Ki Kasam; Hanste Zakhm; 1976: Jaaneman; 1977: Saheb Bahadur; 1981: Kudrat; 1985: Haathon Ki Lakeerer; 1988: Param Veer Chakra (TV).

Anand, Dev (b. 1923)

Hindi star, producer and director. Born in Gurdaspur, Punjab, as Devdutt Pishorimal Anand. Arts degree from Punjabi University; went to Bombay to join elder brother Chetan Anand in the IPTA. Started acting at Prabhat (1945) where he met Guru Dutt. First hit, Ziddi, at Bombay Talkies. Launched Navketan (1949) with Chetan Anand, later (1953) joined by younger brother and star director Vijay Anand (e.g. Guide). Produced Guru Dutt's directorial debut, Baazi. Navketan spawned much new talent: directors Guru Dutt, Vijay Anand, Raj Khosla, composers S.D. and R.D. Burman, Jaidev, lyricists Sahir Ludhianvi and Neeraj, cameramen Fali Mistry, V. Ratra and D.K. Prabhakar, actors Johnny Walker,

Dev Anand shooting Loot Maar (1980)

Zeenat Aman, Ekta Sharma, Tina Munim. Top star at Filmistan; made several of his most famous hits with Subodh Mukherjee (Munimji, Paying Guest) and other Filmistan-trained directors like Nasir Hussain and Shakti Samanta. Turned director in 1970. Directed, produced and starred in film launching his son, Suneil Anand (Anand Aur Anand). Now mainly produces and directs own starring vehicles deploying a more conventional heroic persona. Together with Raj Kapoor and Dilip Kumar, he ushered in the dominant acting idiom of post-Independence Hindi cinema. His style is demarcated from the naturalist method-acting modes of Motilal, Balraj Sahni and the Ashok Kumar of Kismet (1943). Amit Khanna noted: 'Dev Anand's forte was the boy next door, part lover, part clown and part do-gooder.' Although never the reviewers' favourite, he claimed that filming 'should be brought as close as possible to the making of a newspaper'. His deliberately awkward pastiches invoke various sources (e.g. Cary Grant, Gregory Peck). With directors Chetan and Vijay Anand, Guru Dutt and Subodh Mukherjee, along with playback singer Kishore Kumar, he satirised and reconstituted generic styles such as Capra's (Nau Do Gyarah), John Huston's (Jaal), the thriller (Jewel Thief, CID), the love story (Tere Ghar Ke Saamne, Paying Guest) and the Hollywood epic in Guide. Directorial concerns include the alleged aimlessness of today's youth contrasted with the civilisational glory of the freedom struggle (e.g. Hare Rama Hare Krishna). Acted in the films he directed. Married actress Kalpna Kartik in 1954.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1946: Hum Ek Hair; 1947: Aage Badho; Mohar; 1948: Hum Bhi Insaan Hair; Vidya; Ziddi; 1949: Jeet; Namuna; Shayar; Udhaar; 1950: Afsar; Birha Ki Raat; Dilruba; Hindustan Hamara; Khel; Madhubala; Nili; Nirala; 1951: Aaram; Baazi; Do Sitare; Nadaar; Sanam; Sazaa; Stage; 1952: Aandhiyan; Jaal; Tamasha; Zalzala; Rahi/Two Leaves And A Bud; 1953: Armaan; Humsafar; Patita; 1954: Baadbaan; Kashti; Taxi Driver, 1955: Faraar; House Number 44; Insaniyat, Milap; Munimji, 1956: CID; Funtoosh; Pocketmaar; 1957: Baarish; Dushman; Nau Do Gyarah; Paying Guest, 1958: Amar Deep; Kala Pani; Solva Saal, 1959: Love Marriage; 1960: Bambai Ka Babu; Ek Ke Baad Ek; Jaali Note; Kala Bazaar; Manzil; Sarhad; 1961: Hum Dono; Jab Pyar Kisise Hota Hai; Maya; Roop Ki Rani Choron Ka Raja; 1962: Asli Naqli; Baat Ek Raat Ki; 1963: Kinare Kinare; Tere Ghar Ke Saamne; 1964: Sharabi; 1965: Guide; Teen Deviyar; 1966: Pyar Mohabbat; 1967: Jewel Thief; 1968: Duniya; Kahin Aur Chal; 1969: Mahal; 1970: Johnny Mera Naam; Prem Pujari; 1971: Hare Rama Hare Krishna; Gambler; Tere Mere Sapne; 1972: Yeh Gulistan Hamara; 1973: Chhupa Rustom; Joshila; Shareef Badmash; Banarasi Babu; *Heera Panna; 1974: *Ishq Ishq Ishq; Amir Garib; Prem Shastra; 1975: Warrant; 1976: Bullet; Jaaneman; 1977: Darling Darling; Kalabaaz; Saheb Bahadur; 1978: *Des Pardes; 1980: Man Pasand; *Lootmaar; 1982: *Swami Dada; 1984: *Anand Aur Anand; 1985: *Hum Naujawan; 1989: *Sachche Ka Bol Bala; Lashkar; 1990: *Awwal Number; 1991: *Sau Karod; 1992: Pyar Ka Tarana (only d); 1995: *Gangster.

Anand, Inder Raj

Scenarist and dialogue writer born in Miani (now Pakistan); uncle of Mukul S. Anand. Student years in Lahore and Hyderabad. Closely associated with the IPTA's Bombay branch. Major contribution as playwright for Prithviraj Kapoor's Prithvi Theatres: Deewar and Ghaddar mark its IPTA-influenced early 40s radical phase. Publicist for Minerva when Raj Kapoor hired him to write Aag (1948), leading to further collaborations: Aah (1953), Chhalia (1960), Sangam (1964), Sapnon Ka Saudagar (1968). Also scripted Mohan Segal's landmark satire New Delhi and the Dev Anand whodunit CID (both 1956). Since early 60s, worked mainly as a 'genre professional' for South Indian producers wishing to enter the Bombay-based mainstream: e.g. dialogues for the Hindi films of L.V. Prasad K. Balachander, Adurthi Subba Rao and Bharathirajaa. Regular scenarist for 80s director Rajkumar Kohli. Wrote and directed one film, Phoolon Ki Sej (1964), influenced, he claimed, by James Jones's From Here To Eternity and Doris Lessing. Other script and/or dialogue credits include: Phool Aur Kaante (1948); Birha Ki Raat (1950); Anari, Chhoti Bahen (both 1959); Sasural (1961); Dil Tera Diwana (1962); Bahurani, Hamrahi (both 1963); Beti Bete, Dulha Dulhan (both 1964); Aasmaan Mahal (1965); Chhota Bhai (1966); Vaasna (1968); Bhai Bahen, Nannha Farishta (both 1969); Devi, Safar (both 1970); Jawani Diwani, Anokha Daan (both 1972); Gaai Aur Gori, Samjhauta, Insaaf (all 1973); Prem Nagar, Shubh Din, Faasla, Aaina (all 1974); Julie, Raja, Sunehra Sansar (all 1975); Maa, Nagin (both 1976); Yahi Hai Zindagi (1977); Lovers, Yeh Ishq Nahin Aasan (both 1983); Ek Nai Paheli, Jeene Nahin Doonga, Raj Tilak (all 1984).

Anand, Mukul Sudheshwar (1951-97)

Hindi director associated with 90s Bachchan spectacles (e.g. Hum). Born in Bombay. Son of a chartered accountant and nephew of Inder Raj Anand. Former assistant of Chetan Anand and Ravi Tandon; later ghost-directed several films in Hindi, Punjabi and Gujarati. Early films are low-budget remakes of foreign hits (Kanoon Kya Karega is based on J. Lee Thompson's Cape Fear, 1961; Aitbaar on Hitchcock's Dial M for Murder, 1954). Big-budget extravaganzas since Sultanat place him in new generation of Hindi commercial film-makers. Made advertising films in between features for MAD Entertainments Ltd. (Est. 1991). First major hit, Insaaf, relaunched 70s stars Vinod Khanna and Dimple Kapadia. It created a fantasy world of sex, crime and sin despite its occasional references to the actual, widely reported death of a prostitute who 'fell' from a multi-storey block of flats belonging to a businessman suspected of criminal dealings. His films with Bachchan are also known for the star's efforts to adapt his heroic image to his advancing age (Agneepath, Hum, Khuda Gawah). Returned to features with the big-budget commercial failure Trimurti, produced by Subhash Ghai.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1984: Kanoon Kya Karega; 1985: Aitbaar; 1986: Maa Ki Saugandh; Main Balwan; Sultanat; 1987: Insaaf; 1988: Mahasangram; 1990: Agneepath; 1991: Hum; Khoon Ka Karz; 1992: Khuda Gawah; 1995: Trimurti.

Anand, Vijay (b. 1935)

Accomplished Hindi actor, director and producer; younger brother of Dev and Chetan Anand, nicknamed Goldie. Born in Gurdaspur, Punjab. Arts degree from the University of Bombay. Scripted Taxi Driver (1954) and made some of Navketan's best films with Dev Anand, shaping Dev's screen personality. Made Guide, the first Indo-American co-production (US version directed by Tad Danielewski). Made remarkable musical sequences using location-derived sets (e.g. the song inside the Qutub Minar in Tere Ghar Ke Saamne) to achieve complex interactions between music, lyrics and story, at times evoking Western novelettes (Pearl Buck, A.J. Cronin) or Hollywood (Capra). Neo-realist overtones, inherited from brother Chetan, are used mainly as ballast to release the fantasy, a technique best exemplified by Guide and in the opening song of Kala Bazaar. Wrote some of the films he directed and edited (Kala Bazaar, Chhupa Rustom, also co-lyricist for the latter) and returned to starring roles in e.g. Chor Chor, Hum Rahe Na Hum, Double Cross; also scenarist for Hum Dono (1961) and producer of Jaan Hazir Hai (1975). Played Sam the Detective in the TV series Tahqiqat, initially directed by nephew Shekhar Kapur.

FILMOGRAPHY ( also d/* only d): 1955: Joru Ka Bhai; 1957: Agra Road; Nau Do

Gyarah*; 1960: Kala Bazaar*; 1963: Tere Ghar Ke Saamne; 1964: Haqeeqat; 1965: Guide; 1966: Teesri Manzil; 1967: Jewel Thief; 1968: Kahin Aur Chal; 1970: Johnny Mera Naam; 1971: Tere Mere Sapne; 1972: Double Cross; 1973: Hindustan Ki Kasam; *Chhupa Rustom; *Blackmail; 1974: Kora Kagaz; Chor Chor; 1976: *Bullet; 1978: Main Tulsi Tere Aangan Ki; 1980: *Ram Balram; 1981: Ghunghroo Ki Awaaz; 1982: *Rajput; 1984: Hum Rahe Na Hum; 1988: *Main Tere Liye; 1994: Tahqiqat (TV).

Anjaneyul u, Chil akal apudi Seeta Rama (1907-63)

Born in Guntur Dist., AP. Actor and singer in stage mythologicals since early youth. Became one of the first major Telugu stars. Film debut as Ram in East India Film's Ramadasu. Early roles in Telugu mythologicals, esp. Krishna in Draupadi Vastrapaharanam and the title roles in Tukaram and in P. Pullaiah's Shri Venkateswara Mahatyam. Changed to socials with Raja Sandow's Choodamani, became a comic villain in L.V. Prasad's Grihapravesham, repeating the character in e.g. Appu Chesu Pappu Koodu. Other famous roles include the villainous farmer in Rajulu Marayi, Ramappa Panthulu in Kanyasulkam and Kuchela in Krishna Kuchela. Best known for K.V. Reddy's Maya Bazaar, setting the standard for the image of the popular Mahabharata character, Shakuni.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1933: Ramadasu; 1936: Draupadi Vastrapaharanam; 1937: Tukaram; 1939: Shri Venkateswara Mahatyam; Jayapradha; 1941: Choodamani; Talliprema; 1942: Sumati; 1945: Mayalokam; Paduka Pattabhishekham; 1946: Grihapravesham; 1947: Ratnamala; 1948: Bhakta Siriyala; 1949: Laila Majnu; 1950: Vali Sugriva; Paramanandayya Shishyula Katha; 1951: Saudamini; Akasharaju; Patala Bhairavi/Patala Bhairavi; Agni Pareeksha; 1952: Dharmadevata; Manavati; Prema/Katha; 1953: Devadasu; Paropakaram; Vayyari Bhama; Chandirani; 1954: Anta Manavalle; Iddaru Pellalu; Sati Sakkubai; Kanyadana/Kanyadanam; Chakrapani; 1955: Ante Kavalu; Rajulu Marayi; Kanyasulkam; 1956: Bhale Ramudu/Prema Pasam; Bhakta Markandeya; 1957: Repu Neede; Bhale Bhava; Bhale Ammayilu; Vaddante Pelli; Maya Bazaar; Suvarna Sundari; 1958: Ettuku Pai Ettu; Dongalunnaru Jagratha; Parvati Kalyanam; Appu Chesu Pappu Koodu; 1959: Pelli Sandadi; Rechukka Pagatichukka; Vachina Kodalu Nachindi; 1960: Jagannatakam; Nityakalayanam; Pachathoranam; Rani Ratnaprabha; Bhakta Raghunath; Annapurna; Runanubandham; 1961: Jagadeka Veeruni Katha/Jagathala Prathapan; Bava Maradallu; Bhakta Jayadeva; Pelli Pilupu; Krishna Kuchela; Bikari Ramudu; 1962: Kalimilemulu; Chitti Tamudu; 1963: Irugu Porugu; Savati Koduku; 1964: Peetalameeda Pelli; Babruvahana; Bobbili Yuddham; 1967: Vasantsena; 1968: Chellelikosam.

Annadurai, Canjeevaram Natarajan (1909-69)

Tamil scenarist, playwright and DMK Party politician who founded the DMK Film propaganda genre. Born in Kanjeevaram; studied at university while translating for the Justice Party and stood for them as a candidate in the Madras City elections (1936). Worked in labour unions and edited a trade union weekly, Nava Yugam. Became a disciple of Periyar E.V. Ramaswamy Naicker (1937) and was his lieutenant when Periyar started the Dravidar Kazhagam Party (1944). Wrote his first major play Chandrodayam (1943), in which both he and his later protégé M. Karunanidhi acted, as Party propaganda. Broke away from the DK to start his own Party, the Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (1949), which he led to victory in the Tamil Nadu elections (1967). As Chief Minister, his only film-related action was to reduce entertainment tax. His leadership of the DMK, often considered the golden years of the Party, included diluting Periyar's anti-brahminism and anti-religious politics, while indulging in a nationalist Tamil rhetoric identifying Hindi, North India and the Congress Party collectively as the main enemy. The DMK's main ideologue, he wrote extensively on politics, dispensing his views (in e.g. Kambarasam, critiquing the Ramayana for glorifying Aryans) by way of propagandist short stories, novels and plays. Wrote the historical play Shivaji Kanda Indhu Rajyam, propelling Sivaji Ganesan into stardom as the Maratha emperor. Started the successful DMK Film genre, writing the scripts for Velaikkari (1949; based on his own stage play) and Nallathambi (1949), followed by Ore Iravu (1951), Sorgavasal (1954) and Nallavan Vazhvan (1961). His novel Rangoon Radha was adapted to the screen by Karunanidhi (1956). His début, Velaikkari, inaugurated via its lead character, Anandan (played by K.R. Ramaswamy), the enduring convention of subjecting a poor hero to many travails, often seeing his family destroyed, until he stridently denounces his oppressors, often equating the gods with the landlords as joint exploiters of the poor. Ramaswamy and MGR, who was later named the 'Makkal Thilakam' (People's Star), later became stellar figureheads of the DMK. Although Annadurai's political standing in Tamil Nadu remains unassailable, his scripts have sometimes been seen as modelled on Hollywood's approach: cf. Nallathambi and Capra's Mr. Deeds Goes To Town (1936), Sorgavasal and Rouben Mamoulian's Queen Christina (1933), Rangoon Radha and Cukor's Gaslight (1944).

Anthony, P. J. (1923-79)

Aka P.J. Antony, born in Ernakulam, Kerala. Malayalam actor whose career illustrates that the roots of Kerala's cinema are in the theatre. Major actor-playwright in the post-WW2 era with more than 90 plays, practising an Ibsen-derived naturalism; he acted in N. Krishna Pillai's seminal adaptation of A Doll's House: Bhagnabhavanam (1942). Drew on the IPTA's radical nationalism. Ran the Pratibha Arts Club, an influential theatre group based in Ernakulam staging e.g. Cherukadu's reformist plays. In cinema, famed for playing villains, except for his best-known performance in Nirmalayam as the priest torn between religious responsibilities and the amoral duplicity of those around him. Directed, scripted, acted in and provided lyrics for Periyar. Also wrote lyrics for Suhruthu (1952), the dialogues of Kootukar (1966) and Virunnukari, and the stories of Chekuthante Kotta, A. Vincent's celebrated Nadhi and Detective 909 Keralathil (1970).

🎬 FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1958: Randidangazhi, 1961: Mudiyanaya Puthran, 1962: Kalpadukal, 1963: Ninamaninja Kalpadukal, Ammeye Kannar, 1964: Thacholi Othenan, Adya Kirananga, Bhargavi Nilayam, Kalanjukuttiya Thangam, 1965: Rosy, Rajamalli, Murappennu, 1966: Tharavatamma, Kunjali Marakkar, 1967: Irutinte Atmavu, Sheelavati, Balyakalaskh, Anveshichu Kandatiyilla, Ashwamedham, Nagarame Nandi, Pareeksha, Kavalam Chundan, Chekuthante Kotta, Mulkireedam, 1968: Karutha Pournami, Manaswini, Asuravithu, Punnappa Vyalar, Lakshaprabhu, Kayalkarayil, 1969: Anashchadanam, Veetu Mrugham, Almaram, Kattukurangu, Susie, Nadhi, Virunnukari, 1970: Pearl View, Kurukshetram, Cross Belt, Kakathampurati, Ambalpravu, 1971: CID Nazir, 1972: Manushya Bandhanga, 1973: Periyar, Masappadi Mathupilla, Nirmalayam, Dharma Yuddham, 1974: Atithi, 1975: Odakkuzhal, Priyamulla Sophia, 1976: Muthur, Nurayum Pathayum, 1978: Padasaram, Anayum Ambariyum, 1979: Manninte Maril, Chula.

Apte, Narayan Hari (1889-1971)

Marathi novelist and scenarist; key influence on the elaboration of the reformist social as a genre in the 20s and 30s. A product of 19th C. social reform movements in Maharashtra, Apte was self-taught and ran a publishing house, Apte & Co. (Est: 1924) which brought out a literary-political journal, Alhaad (started in 1915). Author of novels and short-story anthologies within the conventions of the historical (e.g. Manavi Asha, Rajputache Bhishma), or of the social (Na Patnari Goshta, the source for Kunku/Duniya Na Mane, 1937). Invented the social sub-genre of the dainik kadambari or 'daily life' novel, usually in a middle-class setting (Paach Te Paach, Waiting Room). Introduced to film by Baburao Painter writing Savkari Pash, the historical Rana Hamir (both 1925) and Pratibha (1937). Best-known film writing for Shantaram at Prabhat Studio (Amritmanthan, 1934; Kunku/Duniya Na Mane, 1937). May have provided the story, uncredited, of Phalke's Gangavataran (1937). Worked with Dharmadhikari (Kunkvacha Dhani, 1951) and Dinkar D. Patil (Umaj Padel Tar, 1960). Also wrote K.P. Bhave's Dhruva Kumar (1938), Shantaram Athavale's Bhagyarekha (1948) and Sansar Karaychay Mala (1954).

Apte, Shanta (1916?-64)

Born in Dudhni, Maharashtra. Actress-singer trained at the Maharashtra Sangeet Vidyalaya music school in Pandharpur. One of the great singing stars in the pre-playback era (with Kanan Devi). Best known work at Prabhat Studio. In Amritmanthan, as the hero's sister Sumitra, caused a box-office sensation with her songs, which became popular in the North (Amritsar and Lahore) leading to a distribution breakthrough for Prabhat. Although music director Keshavrao Bhole had doubted whether she could adapt to his light classical style (Bhole, 1964), her ability to counterpoint musical rhythm with gestural spontaneity proved a refreshing departure from the then prevalent ponderously stagey style. Best-known performance in Kunku/Duniya Na

Shanta Apte (left) and Bipin Gupta (centre) in Swayamsiddha (1949)

Mane, opposite and contrasting with Keshavrao Date, ensuring the film's reputation as a progressive social still watchable today. Apart from her Prabhat films, also worked with Bhalji Pendharkar (who introduced her to films as a child), Phani Majumdar, Master Vinayak, Nandlal Jaswantlal, Moti Gidwani and Raja Paranjpe. She featured in one Tamil film, Savithri, playing the title role alongside the singing star (and Carnatic musician) M.S. Subbulakshmi who played the male role of Narada. Wrote autobiography, Jau Mi Cinemaat? (1940). Went on a famous hunger strike at the gates of the Prabhat Studio in July 1939 in a protest over her contract.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* also music d): 1932: Shyam Sundar; 1934: Amritmanthan; 1936: Amar Jyoti; Rajput Ramani; 1937: Kunku/ Duniya Na Mane; Wahan; 1938: Gopal Krishna; 1941: Savithri; 1942: Apna Ghar/ Aple Ghar; Zamindar; 1943: Duhai; Mohabbat; 1944: Bhagya Lakshmi; Kadambari; 1945: Sawar; 1946: Paniahari; Subhadra; Uttara Abhimanyu; Valmiki; 1948: Mandir; Bhagyarekha; 1949: Main Abla Nahin Hoon; Swayamsiddha; Jaga Bhadyane Dene Aahe; Shilanganache Sone; 1950: Jara Japoor; 1951: Kunkvacha Dhani; 1953: Tai Teleen; 1955: Mulu Manek; 1957: Chandi Puja.

Arathi (b. 1954)

Kannada actress born in Aragal, Mysore, Karnataka. Star in 70s melodramas continuing Kalpana's 60s films. Best work under Puttanna Kanagal's direction in films built around her unique presence. Shot repeatedly and at length with an obsessive physical grossness, her body becomes the target of a destructive neurosis that Kanagal usually ascribes to the male lead. Her persona became an emblem elaborated over a series of films starting with Nagara Haavu and was later used by other film-makers. Her wooden acting coupled with a statuesque presence often adds a voyeurist dimension to long and complicated stories that end with the desecration of what she embodies and, sometimes, with her death (e.g. Ranganayaki). Even her absence in Kanagal's Manasa Sarovara (1982) led to speculation about the 'real' meaning of the theme of a doctor who leaves his wife to cure a mentally deranged girl, falls in love with her, and goes insane when she falls for his nephew. Directed a TV series, Namma Nammalli. Briefly a member of the Karnataka State's legislative assembly representing the fanatic BJP.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1970: Gejje Pooje; Takka! Bitre Sikka!!; 1971: Kasturi Nivasa; Anugraha; Pratidhwani; Nyayave Devaru; Shri Krishna Rukmini Satyabhama; 1972: Sipayi Ramu; Bhale Huchcha; Nagara Haavu; Kulagaurava; Vooriki Upakari; Bangarada Manushya; 1973: Mane Belagida Sose; Edakallu Guddada Mele; Muruvare Vajragalu; Bangarada Panjara; Mannina Magalu; 1974: Nanu Baalabekur; Upasane; Maha Thyaga; Bhale Bhatta; 1975: Dari Tappida Maga; Shubhamangala; Bili Hendthi; Katha Sangama; Devara Kannu; Hosilu Mettida Hennu; 1976: Premada Kanike; Punaradatta; Bahadur Gandu; Raja Nanna Raja; Phalithamsha; Balu Jenu; Aparadhi; 1977: Magiya Kanasu; Pavanaganga; Anurupa; Kudre Mukha; 1978: Hombisilu; Matu Tappada Maga; Muyyige Muiy; Paduvarahalli Pandavaru; Anuragha Bandhana; Premayana; Vasanthalakshmi; Balu Aparupa Nam Jodi; 1979: Dharmasere; Adalu Badalu; Na Niruvude Ninagangi; Manini; Nentaro Gantu Kallaro; 1980: Bhakta Siriyala; Hanthakana Sanchu; Bangarada Jinke; Nyaya Neethi Dharma; Anurakthe; 1981: Ranganayaki; Thayiya Madilalli; Nari Swargakke Dari; Ganesha Mahime; Bhagyavantha; Chadurida Chitragalu; Bhagyada Belaku; Edeyuru Siddalingeshwara; Preetisi Nodu; 1982: Pedda Gedda; Archana; Mullina Gulabi; Karmika Kallanalla; Mava Sose Saval; Parijata; Nyaya Yellide?; Kannu Terasida Hennu; Suvarna Sethuve; Hasyarathna Ramakrishna; Raja Maharaja; Parvayin Marupakkam; 1983: Tirugu Bhana; Gedda Maga; Jaggu; Nyaya Gedditu; Kalluveene Nudiyyitu; Thayiya Nudi; Sididedda Sahodara; Kranthiyogi Basavanna; Ananda Sagara; Muttaide Bhagya; Gandharvagiri; Akrosha; Chelisada Sagara; Samarpane; Premave Balina Belaku; Bekkina Kannu; 1984: Kaliyuga; Khaidi; Poojaphala; Hennina Saubhagya; Avala Antaranga; Ramapurada Ravana; Pavitra Prema; Agniyathavasa; Preeti Vatsalya; 1985: Nee Nakkaga; Sati Sakkubai; Lakshmi Kataksha; Kumkuma Thanda Saubhagya; Swabhimana; Shiva Kotta Saubhagya; Tulasi Dala; Haavu Eni Aata; Kuridoddi Kurukshetra; 1986: Bettada Thayi; Seelu Nakshatra; Tiger; 1987: Thaliye Ane; 1988: Superboy.

Aravindan, Govindan (1935-91)

Malayalam director, painter and cartoonist with an idiosyncratic style. Born in Kottayam, Kerala; son of the literary humorist, Govindan Nair. Worked as caricaturist for the Mathrubhoomi journal (1961-79), drawing the cartoon series Small Man and Big World, chronicling the adventures of Ramu, its corruptible proletarian hero, and Guruji; later did an occasional cartoon strip for the Kala Kaumudi journal, called A Bird's Eye View. His published cartoon collection (1978) highlights a change in drawing style in the early 70s, emphasising large blank spaces and characters almost disappearing below the frame. His films are known for their distinctive look, sparse naturalism, silences and long shots with darker shades of grey in b&w films. Film society activist in Kottayam and Calicut. Early work was the only consistent cinematic manifestation of late 60s Calicut-based modernism represented particularly by artist Devan, the playwright and satirist Thikkodiyam and the writer Pattathiruvila Karunakaran (who produced Uttarayanam). A major influence on this group was the spiritualism of satirist and political activist Sanjayan. Later, like the visual artists associated with the Kerala Kalapeetam in Ernakulam, Aravindan combined this influence with the new, more mystical direction taken by K.C.S. Panicker's (1911-77) paintings (cf. Kanchana Seeta). His faithful producer and distributor, Ravindran of General Pics, ran a family business in cashew nuts. Worked at the Kerala Rubber Board throughout most of his film career. Also stage director, working in association with the playwright Srikantan Nair, after which he helped start the Navarangan (in Kottayam) and Sopanam theatre groups, staging e.g. Kali (1964) and Avanavan Kadamba (1976) using musical forms derived from the work of Kavalam Narayana Panicker, who later collaborated on the scripts of Kummatty and Estheppan. Noted actors associated with this group were Gopi and Nedumudi Venu. Also trained in the Kirana-style Khayal. Occasionally music director for other film-makers: Yaro Oral (1978), Piravi and Ore Thooval Pakshikal (both 1988).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1974: Uttarayanam; 1977: Kanchana Seeta; 1978: Thampur; 1979: Kummatty; Estheppan; 1981: Pokkuvayil; 1985: Chidambaram; Viti (Doc); The Brown Landscape (Sh); 1986: Oridathu; The Seer Who Walks Alone (Doc); 1987: Contours of a Linear Rhythm (Doc); 1988: Anandi Dhara (Doc); Marattam (TV); Sahaja (Sh); 1989: Unni; 1990: Vastuhara.

Art Schools

The terms 'art school' or 'academic' aesthetic style in the visual arts refer to a series of art schools started in the mid-19th C. in Presidency cities, usually by Indian industrialists or entrepreneurs with support from the British government: the Calcutta School of Art (Est: 1854), the School of Industrial Arts in Madras (Est: 1854), the Sir Jamshedji Jeejeebhoy School of Art in Bombay (Est: 1857) and the Mayo School of Arts in Lahore (Est: 1878). Set up to provide industrial craft training (e.g. weaving, metal and wood carving, gem cutting), they became fine arts institutions modelled on the Royal Academy to train artists in 'the whole paraphernalia of European art academies: the drawing-room copies, casts from "the antique", Gothic mouldings etc. [while] at the same time it has been held as totally unnecessary, if not demoralising, for them to study the principles and methods of Indian painting and sculpture' (E.B. Havell, Principal in early 20th C. of the Government School of Art, Calcutta, 1901). A valuable account of the art schools is given by T. Guha-Thakurta (1992), who points out that by the end of the 19th C. the art schools had managed to establish the idea that art could be a respectable vocation, in terms of the status of 'high art', as well as a career in terms of the middle-class employment opportunities offered by an 'applied arts' approach: 'Art, indicating painting and sculpture, and the "applied arts", indicating technical skills of draughtsmanship, engraving, etching or lithography, were not considered two separate spheres, but two essential aspects of the same profession.' Extending the naturalist and neo-classical modes of British painting in India, the new academicism of the art schools, legitimated by e.g. portrait commissions from the British and Indian ruling classes, also fed into the diversified conventions of the Company School as Indian artists formerly under feudal patronage started selling their wares in urban market-places. The academic style, both in genre and manner, had a function analogous to that of operatic style in the Parsee Theatre: it created a new hierarchy of taste in competition with classicist brahminical aspirations while maintaining an opposition to native popular arts which sought to assimilate industrial technology differently (cf. Pat Painting and Raja Ravi Varma for alternative solutions). However, as Indian artists often found it difficult to incorporate the rules of monocular perspective, the art schools invented their own variations, reformulating the demand for verisimilitude in the painted or photographed image in terms of a naive formalism, thereby creating a peculiar genre popular with the potentially democratic and culturally eclectic urban middle classes. This institutionalised aesthetic became a conduit for theatrical and cinematic naturalism, displaced though it was into various devices that substituted for illusionistic skills. These developments prefigure the painted stage backdrops and set design, e.g. in the work of artists and art directors such as M.R. Achrekar (in Raj Kapoor films) or Kanu Desai (in Vijay Bhatt and Shantaram costume dramas). Bansi Chandragupta's work for S. Ray is also relevant in this context, although other considerations come into play in his case as well. Later, the art school aesthetic influenced the posture of actors as they formed a frontal master-shot tableau within which the film-maker would insert close-ups or over-the-shoulder shots.

Arudra (1925-98)

Telugu poet and film lyricist born in Vizag, AP, as Bhagavathula Shankara Sastry. Started publishing poetry as a teenager, e.g. Loha Vihangalu. Initially influenced by radical poet Sri Sri. After a brief stint in the army, he became a professional writer under the name Arudra. Early writing was romantic, but became more political under the influence of the Telangana anti-zamindari movements (cf. Twamevaham). Major poetry anthologies include Kunalamma Padyalu (1964), Enchina Padyalu (1965) and Intinti Padyalu (1969). Also wrote patriotic songs during the India-China war (1962). Compiled an anthology of Telugu literature (Samagrandhra Sahityam). Film debut in the Telugu version (Beedala Patlu) of Rammoth's classic Ezhai Padum Padu (1950). Made his reputation in films with Premalekhalu (1953), the Telugu dubbed version of Raj Kapoor's Aah (1953). Described as the last of the pre-rock generation film lyricists. Recently worked for Bapu (Pelli Pustakam), 1991). Classic film lyrics anthologised by V.A.K. Ranga Rao in Kondagali Tirigindi.

Arunaraje or Aruna-Vikas see Raje, Aruna

Ashwathamma, K. (1910-44)

Star Kannada and Tamil actress-singer with brief but sensational film career. Launched on the stage (1934) and in film (1935) in title role of Gubbi Veeranna's Sadarame, both with Jayamma as Draupadi. Adult stage career began with Mohammed Peer's Manolasini Nataka Sabha, which led to her career as a recording star and her biggest hit single, Ha priya prashanta hridaya (from the play Manmatha Vijaya). Her songs in Sadarame and her duet with M.K. Thyagaraja Bhagavathar in Y.V. Rao's Chintamani confirmed her as a South Indian film and recording star, although she did only one more film, Sundarrao Nadkarni's Sant Sakkubai.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1935: Sadarame; 1937: Chintamani; 1939: Sant Sakkubai.

Asif, Karimuddin (1924-71)

Urdu director born in Etawah, UP. Best known for expensive costume spectacles centred around Muslim legend (cf. S. Modli). Assistant to uncle film-maker and actor, S. Nazir (Society, 1942). Turned director in 1944 and producer in 1951 with S.K. Ojha's Hulchul. Mughal-e-Azam, one of Indian cinema's biggest blockbusters, took 9 years to make, initially starring Chandramohan, who died and was replaced by Dilip Kumar. Left two big projects unfinished at his death: Sasta Khoon Mehnga Paani (1970, which was to be shot in Jordan), and Love and God, using the Sufi legend of Laila-Majnu, started with Guru Dutt but entirely re-shot after Dutt died. Eventually released in unfinished form by producer K.C. Bokadia, starring Sanjeev Kumar.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1944: Phool; 1960: Mughal-e-Azam; 1970: Sasta Khoon Mehnga Paani; 1986: Love and God.

Athavale, Shantaram Govind (b. 1910)

Marathi and Hindi director, better known as a Marathi lyricist; born in Pune, where he saw many classic Sangeet Natak performances in his childhood. Apprenticed to novelist Narayan Hari Apte, helping him to publish the journal Madhukar in Koregaon. When Apte was invited to script Amritmanthan (1934) for Prabhat, Athavale followed his mentor as a songwriter, and achieved instant success esp. with the song Kiti sukhada. Achieved even greater renown when he wrote the only new song for Sant Tukaram (1936), the others being the saint poet's original compositions. The song in question, Adhi beej ekale, convinced many Tukaram authorities that an unknown Tukaram composition had been discovered. He wrote most of the songs of Prabhat hits such as Kunku (1937), Mazha Mulga and Gopal Krishna (both 1938), Sant Dnyaneshwar (1940), Sant Sakhu and Shejari (both 1941), Daha Wajta (1942) and Ramshastri (1944), often in partnership with composer Keshavrao Bhole. Left Prabhat (1942) to write dialogues and lyrics for Debaki Bose's Aple Ghar (1942) and lyrics for Vijay Bhatt's Bharat Bhet (1942). For his debut as director with Bhagya Rekha, he hired his former teacher N.H. Apte together with the star associated with his songs, Shanta Apte.

Athavale's Main Abha Nahin Hoon was one of Apte's better-known post-Prabhat performances. Made numerous educational shorts and documentaries, mostly in English. Wrote a history of Prabhat, 'Prabhat' Kaal (1965).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1948: Bhagya Rekha; 1949: Main Abha Nahin Hoon; 1953: Vahinichya Bangdya; 1954: Sansar Karaychay Mala; 1955: Shevgyachya Shenga; 1958: Padada; 1960: Fix it Right (Doc); Write it Right (Doc); 1961: How to Vote (Doc); Gift of Sight (Doc); 1962: Citizens and Citizens (Doc); The Homecoming (Doc); Marriage and After (Doc); 1963: Chatur Balak; 1965: Vavta; 1968: Sankat Main Swasthya Aur Safai (Doc); 1971: My Village My People (Doc).

Athreya, Acharya (1921-89)

Telugu poet, scenarist, lyricist and noted playwright. Born near Sullurpet, AP, as Kilambi Narasimhacharyulu. Wrote several plays while a student at Nellore and Chittoor and was associated with the Venkatagiri Amateurs stage group. Abandoned his studies to participate in the Quit India agitations and was imprisoned. Odd jobs including working as a clerk in a settlement office and assistant editor on the journal Zamin Raitu. Early plays in the historical genre (Gautama Buddha, 1946; Ashoka Samrat, 1947). Introduced a brand of realism on the stage, addressing contemporary political issues, e.g. N.G.O. (1949), later adapted to the screen as Gumasta (1953). Other major plays include Eenadu (1947), Vishwashanti (1953), Bhayam (1957). First film script was Samsaram (1950; uncredited), followed by H.M. Reddy's Nirdoshi (1951). Wrote lyrics for more than 250 films, starting with Deeksha (1951). Secretary of the Andhra Screen Writers Guild (1955-6). Lyrics published by the actor K. Jaggaiah. Directed one film: Vagdanam (1961).

Atma, K. P. see Pratyagatma, K.

Atma Ram (1930-94)

Hindi director born in Calcutta as Atmaram Padukone; younger brother of Guru Dutt. Did clerical work and joined the Socialist Party (1948-50); active trade unionist and secretary of the Press Workers' Union. Studied at the University of Bombay (1952); then assisted Guru Dutt. Worked for a while in London (1958-61) directing films produced by Stuart Legg and Arthur Elton for the Shell Film Unit; also scripted documentaries for James Beveridge for India's Shell Film Unit (1955-62). Turned to features, mostly musicals, after Guru Dutt's death (1964) and ran the company. Tried to go in a new direction with Umang, his first independent Atma Ram Films production, dispensing with major stars in favour of 'youth movie' ensemble play (with the then unknown Subhash Ghai as actor). His Yeh Gulistan Hamara, for Guru Dutt Films, is a nationalist movie in which Dev Anand, on behalf of the Indian government, quells the North Eastern frontier tribals with love to the tune of classic S.D. Burman numbers (Kya yeh zindagi hai, Raina soyi soyi). The Saira Banu and Vinod Khanna hit Aarop addressed corruption in journalism. Also made advertising films with his younger brother, Devi Dutt. Active in official institutions (e.g. at the FTII in the late 70s). Often worked for television.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1960: The Living Soil (Doc); 1961: The Peaceful Revolution (Doc); 1964: Kaise Kahurr; 1968: Shikar; 1969: Chanda Aur Bijli; 1970: Umang; 1971: Memsaab, Yaar Mere; 1972: Yeh Gulistan Hamara; 1973: Aarop, Resham Ki Dori; 1974: Imaan; 1975: Qaid; 1976: Ladusingh Taxiwala (TV); 1977: Aafat, Ashanti Shantidas (TV); 1978: Ramlal Shyamal (TV); 1979: Khanjar; 1982: Pyar Ke Rahi; 1988: JP (Doc); Yeh Sach Hai (Doc); 1990: Beeswa Oonth (TV); 1992: Tulsidas; 1993: Vividha (TV).

Atorthy, Premankur (1890-1964)

Bengali and Hindi director born in Faridpur (now Bangladesh). Noted novelist and playwright, author of many books including compilations of short stories, essays (e.g. on silent film, cf. Atorthy, 1990) and plays. Best-known literary work: Mahasthvir Jatak (1922), a fictional autobiography in four volumes noted for its irreverent portrayal of Calcutta's early 20th C. élites. Associated with literary journal Bharati; edited Nachghar, one of the first performing arts journals to take film seriously, with Hemendra Kumar Roy and filmmaker Pashupati Chatterjee. Founded Betar Jagat, the journal of the AIR, Calcutta (1929). Started as scenarist and actor, using the pseudonym Krishna Haldar, at Indian Kinema Arts (Punarjanma, 1927; Chasher Meye, 1931). Remade Punarjanma in 1932. Joined B.N. Sircar's International Filmcraft as writer and assistant to Prafulla Roy (Chasher Meye is based on Atorthy's novel and script). Also scripted Nitin Bose's Buker Bojha (1930). First film, Dena Paona, was New Theatres' first talkie, made in direct competition with Madan

Theatres' Jamai Sasthi (1931). Made several Urdu films as part of New Theatres' effort to enter the North Indian market, including the classic film of Aga Hashr Kashmiri's play Yahudi Ki Ladki. His film versions of literary classics, e.g. from Saratchandra Chattopadhyay (Dena Paona), Rabindranath Tagore (Chirakumar Sabha) and Bankimchandra Chattopadhyay (Kapal Kundala), established the élite literary film genre intended to distinguish New Theatres' films from routine stage adaptations and remained important signifiers of high art in Bengali cinema. First Bengali film-maker to work in Western India, e.g. for Kolhapur Cinetone (1935) and for Imperial (1936). Credited with the supervision of H.K. Shivdasani's Yasmin (1935), made by the Krishna Studio.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1931: Dena Paona; 1932: Mohabbat Ke Aansoo, Subah Ka Sitara, Zinda Lash, Punarjanma, Chirakumar Sabha; 1933: Kapal Kundala; Yahudi Ki Ladki; 1935: Bharat Ki Beti; Bhikharan, Karwan-e-Hayat; 1936: Hind Mahila; Sarala; 1937: Dhanwar; 1938: Dulhan; 1940: Kalyani; 1941: Avatar; 1942: Lajwanti; 1943: Dikshul; 1950: Sudhar Prem.

Atre, Pral had Keshav (1898-1969)

Marathi-Hindi director and controversial literary figure in post-WWI Maharashtra. Educated at the universities of Poona and London; studied experimental psychology under Cyril Burt and taught at Harrow before returning to India. Owner-editor of populist down-market Maratha newspaper; one-time Congress Party MLA. Author of 22 plays, 13 short-story collections, four books of poetry and a 4-volume autobiography (Atre, 1965-7). Teacher and producer of several school textbooks, often calling himself Principal Atre in his film credits. Aggressive polemicist remembered for famous literary battles with N.S. Phadke and Mama Warerkar. Owned Chitramandir Studio/Atre Pictures (1940), the Atre Printing Press (1944) and Atre Arts (1968). Film career began adapting his own short stories for Master Vinayak (Brahmachari, 1938; Brandichi Batli, 1939). Became a leading independent scenarist (e.g. Raja Rani, 1942) and pioneered the entry of new literary modes emerging from non-fictional prose into post-Independence Marathi film. His chosen genre was political satire, usually directed against the realist conventions of pre-WWI social reform novels with their caste biases and Anglophilia. However, his best-known film as director was the bitter-sweet melodrama Shyamchi Aai. Wrote plays in many genres: thrillers (To Mee Navhech), tragedies (rewriting the reformist Sangeet Natak playwright Ram Ganesh Gadkari and his own Udyacha Sansar) and satire. Noted scripts: Dharmaveer, Premveer, Begunah (all 1937), Ardhangi/Ghar Ki Rani, Lapandav (both 1940). Preferred to hire directors rather than to direct. Produced and wrote his own movies, often starring his wife, Vanmala, through his Atre Pics, founded in 1940.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1944: Dil Ki Baat; 1945: Parinde; 1948: Moruchi Mavshi; 1949: Brahma Ghotala; 1951: Hi Majhi Lakshmi; 1953: Shyamchi Aai; 1954: Mahatma Phule.

Aurora Film Corporation

Studio in Calcutta initially named Aurora Cinema (Est. 1911) by founders Debi Ghosh, Anadi Bose and Charu Ghosh. It ran tent shows in Howrah and around Assam, showing Western films as part of a variety bill. Started making films in 1917, having won the contract to make shorts for the army during WWI with cameras bought from Hiralal Sen. Early productions include shots of plays from Calcutta's Art Theatres (Basabadatta, Chandrasekhar) and Manmohan Theatres (Bishabriksa). Later known for major films like Surendra Narayan Roy's Ratnakar (1921) and Bidyasundar (aka The Lover's Trance, 1922) and Aurora Tuki-taki (Aurora Tidbits, compilations of clips). Converted into Aurora Film when Anadi Bose became sole proprietor, purchasing the studio premises of Barua Pics (1929). Made films in Bengali (e.g. by Niranjan Pal and Naresh Mitra), in Hindi and some in Telugu and Tamil (e.g. by Sundarrao Nadkarni). Niranjan Pal helped launch the pioneering Aurora Screen News, which shot the footage of Rabindranath Tagore's funeral later used by Satyajit Ray in his documentary (1961). The only silent Bengali studio still operating in 1992.

AVM Film Company

One of the top South Indian studios set up in 1947 by film-maker, producer and mogul A.V. Meiyappan (1907-79). Born to a family of Chettiars, Meiyappan initially ran a shop named A.V. & Sons, later expanded (1932) to include Saraswathi Stores, also distributor for the German Odeon label. Début as producer with Saraswathi Sound (Alli Arjuna, 1935). His previous companies included Saraswathi Talkies and Pragati Pics, the latter known for comedy double bills written by A.T. Krishnaswamy (Poli Panchali, 1940; Sabhapati, 1941) and for the film of R. Nagendra Rao's play, Bhukailasa (1940), directed by Sundarrao Nadkarni. Following his Tamil hit, Srivalli (1945) starring singer-musician T.R. Mahalingam, Meiyappan established his AVM Studio adapting S.V. Sahasranamam's stage hit Nam Iruvar (1947). The film was a precursor of the classic DMK Film dramas made at this studio later, e.g. Parasakthi (1952). Developed a unique production infrastructure in four Indian languages, including Hindi films starting with Bahar (1951), starring Vijayanthimala in a remake of her debut, the hit Vazhkai (1949), directed by M.V. Raman. Made films such as Bedara Kannappa (1954) and Sadarama (1956) in Kannada, the Raj Kapoor-Nargis Hindi hit, Chori Chori (1956), the Tamil films Andha Naal (1954), Server Sundaram (1964). AVM also pioneered the practice of dubbing productions. Among the directors working in the four languages at AVM were M.V. Raman, Krishnan-Panju, A. Bhimsingh, A.C. Trilogchander and S.P. Muthuraman, who worked mainly in Tamil. Meiyappan published his autobiography, Enadhu Vazhkai Anubhavangal/The Experiences of My Life (1974). He is credited with the direction of Sabhapati (1941), En Manavi (with S. Nadkarni, 1942), Srivalli (1945), Nam Iruvar (1947) and Vethala Ulagam (1948). The studio was dormant towards the end of his life, although his son Saravanan later made Murattu Kalai (1980), which confirmed Rajnikant's superstar status, and Sahakala Vallavan (1982) with Kamalhasan, both directed by S.P. Muthuraman, and seen as re-establishing the studio with themes celebrating atavistic notions of masculinity.

Vanamala in P.K. Atre's Shyamchi Aai (1953)

Azmi, Kaifi (b. 1925)

Film lyricist and scenarist born in Azamgarh as Akhtar Husain Rizvi. Urdu poet in the tradition of Josh Malihabadi and Faiz Ahmed Faiz (1911-84). Abandoned his studies of Persian and Urdu during the 1942 Quit India agitations, and shortly thereafter became a full-time Marxist activist. Went to Bombay (1945) and was for a while a trade union worker; closely involved with the PWA in Bombay. Published three anthologies of poetry (Akhini-Shab, Jhankar and Awara Sajde). Early work as story writer for Nanubhai Vakil's films (Yahudi Ki Beti, 1956; Parvin, 1957; Miss Punjab Mail, 1958; Id Ka Chand, 1964). Wrote lyrics for numerous films, most notably for Guru Dutt's Kaagaz Ke Phool (1959), Chetan Anand's nationalist war movie Haqeeqat (1964) and Kamal Amrohi's Pakeezah (1971). Established formidable reputation as perhaps the most charismatic writer in films, following the acclaim for his script, dialogue and lyrics for M.S. Sathyu's Garam Hawa (1973), based on Ismat Chughtai's story. Also wrote dialogues for Sathyu's Kanneshwara Rama (1977). Other contributions include dialogues for Benegal's Manthan (1976), lyrics for Hrishikesh Mukherjee's Bawarchi (1972) and for Kamal Amrohi's Razia Sultan (1983). Played a memorable role as the old man in Naseem (1995), Saeed Akhtar Mirza's poignant feature around the destruction of the Babri Masjid in 1992. Raman Kumar made a documentary, Kaifi Azmi (1979).

Azmi, Shabana (b. 1950)

Actress. Daughter of Kaifi Azmi and celebrated IPTA actress Shaukat. Graduate of FTII acting course (1972); feature debut in Abbas's mediocre Faasla, released after her emergence in Ankur. Became a regular presence in Benegal films (Nishant, Junoon, Mandi, Susman, Antarnaad). Together with Smita Patil, Azmi is the most prominent star spawned by the New Indian Cinema, working with e.g. Satyajit Ray (Shatranj Ke Khiladi), Mrinal Sen (Khandhar, Genesis, Ek Din Achanak), Saeed Mirza (Albert Pinto Ko Gussa Kyon Aata Hai), Gautam Ghose (Paar), Sai Paranjpye (Sparsh, Disha), Aparna Sen (Picnic, Sati), and Mahesh Bhatt films, including the notorious Arth. Also worked with Western directors (John Schlesinger's Madame Sousatzka, 1988; Roland Joffe's City of Joy, 1992). Became a major mainstream Hindi star after Fakira, working in Manmohan Desai's Amar Akbar Anthony, Parvarish and Prakash Mehra's Jwalamukhi. Initially practised, in her 'art' movies, a style of naturalist acting equated with the absence of make-up, an emphasis on regional accents (e.g. the rural Andhra accent in Ankur and Nishant or the Parsee Hindi in Pestonjee) and the theatre-derived technique of alternating the casual gesture and dramatic high points. Married scenarist Javed Akhtar. Also acted on the stage, including an acclaimed performance in the revived IPTA's 1980 Hindi version of The Caucasian Chalk Circle entitled Safed Kundali by M.S. Sathyu. First TV drama, Picnic, under Aparna Sen's direction. Briefly chairperson of the CFS. Known also as a courageous political activist associated with the Nivara Hakk Samrakshan Samiti, fighting the cause of Bombay's slum and pavement-dwellers, and with various anti-communal organisations, playing an effective, high-profile role in e.g. the 1993 communal riots in Bombay.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1973: The December Evening (Sh); Munshiji (Sh); Ankur, 1974: Parinay; Ishq Ishq Ishq; Faasla; 1975: Kadambari; Nishant, 1976: Fakira; Shaque; Vishwasghaat; 1977: Adha Din Adhi Raat; Amar Akbar Anthony; Chor Sipahi; Ek Hi Raasta; Hira Aur Patthar; Khel Khiladi Ka; Kissa Kursi Ka; Parvarish; Shatranj Ke Khiladi; Swami; Kanneshwara Rama; Karm; 1978: Atithi; Devata; Khoon Ki Pukar; Swarg Narak; Toote Khilone; Junoon, 1979: Amar Deep; Bagula Bhagat; Lahu Ke Do Rang; Sparsh; Jeena Yahar; 1980: Apne Paraye; Ek Baar Kaho; Jwalamukhi; Thodisi Bewafayi; Yeh Kaisa Insaaf; Albert Pinto Ko Gussa Kyon Aata Hai; Hum Paanch; 1981: Ek Hi Bhoof; Sameera; Shama; Raaste Pyar Ke; 1982: Anokha Bandhan; Ashanti; Namkeen; Suraag; Yeh Nazdeekiyan; Arth; Log Kya Kahenge; Masoom; 1983: Avatar; Doosri Dulhan; Mandi; Sweekar Kiya Maine; Khandhar; Pyaasi Aankher; 1984: Aaj Ka MLA Ramavatar; Bhavna; Gangvaa; Hum Rahe Na Hum; Kaamyab; Yaadon Ki Zanjeer; Kamla; Mr X; Lorie; Paar; Ram Tera Desh; 1985: Rahi Badal Gaye; Uttarayan; Khamosh; Shart; 1986: Anjuman; Ek Pal; Samay Ki Dhara; Nasihah; Susman; Genesis; 1987: Itihaas; Jallianwala Bagh; Pestonjee; 1988: Mardon Wali Baat; Ek Din Achanak; Madame Sousatzka; 1989: Oonch Neech Beech; Libaas; Jhoothi Sharm; Rakhwala; Main Azaad Hoon; Sati; 1990: Picnic (TV); Disha; Amba; Muqaddar Ka Badshah; Ek Doctor Ki Maut; 1991: Immaculate Conception; Dharavi; 1992: Adharm; Jhoothi Shaar; City of Joy; Antarnaad; 1993: In Custody; Patang.

Babu, Hanumappa Vishwanath (1903-68)

Major 30s Telugu director born in Bangalore. Studied medicine. Made mythologicals usually starring Kannamba, carrying on the genre's silent era version as practised in Bombay's studios where he began his career. Worked for Kohinoor as actor (1927), then at Imperial as actor and assistant to his brother-in-law, H.M. Reddy (1929-35). First and best-known film, Draupadi Vastrapaharanam, made in competition with a Laxmi Films production starring Bellari Raghava. It also launched the pioneering Telugu production company, Saraswathi Talkies, which introduced Gudavalli Ramabrahmam to film-making.

Shabana Azmi in Ankur (1973)

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1931: Bar Ke Pobar (St; act only); 1936: Draupadi Vastrapaharanam; 1937: Kanakataru; 1940: Bhoja Kalidasa; 1941: Mandaravathi; 1943: Krishna Prema; 1949: Dharmangada; 1952: Adarsham; 1955: Grihalakshmi; 1963: Devasundari.

Baburaj, M. S. (b. 1921)

Malayalam music composer, born in Calicut, Kerala. First associated with Nilambur Balan's stage group, working mainly in the Malabar region of North Kerala. Based in Calicut, Baburaj was one of the first composers to introduce the North Indian classical influence into the otherwise Carnatic Malayalam film music. Until his work for Kariat's films (cf. Mudiyanaya Puthran), the Northern influence had been restricted to e.g. Kozhikode Abdul Qadir's imitations of K.L. Saigal. His compositions in e.g. Vincent's Bhargavi Nilayam, working outside the routine madhya laya (middle tempo) to create a slower beat using minimal orchestration, are still remembered for the early (and for some, the finest) songs of Yesudas. Associated most closely with Bhaskaran's lyrics. Scored P.N. Menon's independent film Olavum Theeravum and Madhu's directorial debut Priya.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1957: Minnaminungu; 1960: Umma; 1961: Kandan Becha Coat; Mudiyanaya Puthran; 1962: Laila Majnu; Palattukoman; Bhagya Jatakam; 1963: Ninamaninja Kalpaduka; Moodupadam; 1964: Thacholi Othenar; Kuttikkuppayam; Karutha Kayi; Bhargavi Nilayam; Bharthavu; 1965: Zubaidda; Kadaththukaran; Porter Kunjali; Kuppivala; Ammu; Thankakudam; Kattuthulasi; Mayavi; Chettathi; Thommente Makkal; Sarpakadu; 1966: Manikya Kottaram; Pennmakkal; Kootukar; Kattumallika; Anarkali; Tharavatamma; Kanakachilanka; 1967: Irutinte Atnavu; Agniputhri; Udyogastha; Balyakalasakhi; Karutharathrigal; Kadhija; Anveshichu Kandatiyilla; Collector Malathi; Pareeksha; 1968: Manaswini; Inspector; Karthika; Lakshaprabhu; Love In Kerala; Midumidukki; Anju Sundarigal; 1969: Sandhya; Velliyazhcha; Virunnukari; Olavum Theeravum; 1970: Saraswathi; Anatha; Ambalapravu; Cross Belt; Bhikara Nimishinka; Nizhalattam; Vivaham Swargathil; Priya; 1971: Neethi; Ernakulam Junction; 1972: Sambhavami Yuge Yuge; Panimudakku; Pullimar; Azhimukham; 1973: Bhadra Deepam; Aradhika; Ladies' Hostel; Soundarya Pooja; Manasu; Kamini; Chuzhi; 1974: Nathoon; Swarna Malsiyam; 1975: Jnan

Ninne Premikkunru; Srishti; Criminals; 1976: Allah-o-Akbar; Appooppa; Dweep; Pushpa Sarem; 1977: Gandharvam; Yatheem; 1978: Bhrashtu; Yagaswam; 1979: Bharyaye Avasyamundu.

Bachchan, Amitabh (b. 1942)

Hindi cinema's biggest star actor. Born in Allahabad, son of noted Hindi poet Harivanshrai Bachchan. Former stage actor, radio announcer and freight company executive in Calcutta. Although he initially had difficulties being accepted as an actor, his productions eventually determined the health of the whole Hindi film industry. Abbas gave him his first role in Saat Hindustani, next came a voice-over for Sen's Bhuvan Shome (1969). Later, he also did the voice-over for Ray's Shatranj Ke Khiladi (1977). Eventually became the superstar of the mid-70s TV, radio and the press issued daily bulletins on his health when he suffered a near-fatal accident in 1982 while shooting Coolie. In early Gulzar-scripted and Hrishikesh Mukherjee-directed films (Anand, Namak Haram) and in Saudagar, based on Narendranath Mitra's story, Bachchan is presented as a brooding, melancholic anti-hero drawn from Bengali literary stereotypes traceable to novelist Saratchandra Chattopadhyay and brought into Hindi film by Nitin Bose, Bimal Roy and Asit Sen. In this respect, he is in the tradition of Dilip Kumar (e.g. Deedar, 1951), Sunil Dutt (Sujata, 1959; Gaban, 1966) and Dharmendra (Satyakam, 1969). His persona of the angry youth was elaborated in directly political language in Zanjeer, the first of his big vendetta films. Expanded in the films of Prakash Mehra and Yash Chopra. Bachchan's image reorganised the formulaic melodrama around the clash between the laws of kinship and the laws of the state, requiring the hero to become an outlaw governed by a higher code of conduct. In Deewar and Trishul this conflict still constituted the films' main theme but it quickly became a mere plot device, while a more directly political discourse began to insinuate itself into the films via the repeated references to the early 70s working class agitations (which culminated in the 1974 railway strike preceding the Emergency in 1975), as in e.g. Kala Patthar. Other topical and politically loaded references invoked threats of national economic destabilisation in e.g. Trishul, Shakti and Mr. Natwarlal. The melodramatic plot structure also lent itself well to the enactment of the fantasy of the lumpen rebel-vigilante who achieves great personal success, at times turning the film into a gigantic masquerade (esp. with Manmohan Desai). In addition to his own charismatic presence and his sonorous voice, an important component in several Bachchan films is the Salim-Javed script. Bachchan's persona is often defined by two female figures: the melodramatic mother who symbolises the family and the 'liberated' woman as personified by Parveen Babi (Deewar), Zeenat Aman (Don), and their clones (e.g. Amrita Singh in Mard). Inquilab was released as part of his election campaign: the climax showed him slaughtering a group of corrupt politicians. Elected MP for Allahabad supporting Rajiv Gandhi's Congress (I) in 1984, but he soon abandoned politics. After Shahenshah and his return to cinema, some of his films' unofficial budgets made them the most expensive Indian films ever. In the late 80s his popularity declined but revived with Hum (and other Mukul Anand films) showing the star coming to terms with the ageing process. His wife, the actress Jaya Bhaduri, stopped acting after their marriage, except for one noted appearance with her husband in Silsila (returning with Nihalani's Hazar Chourasi Ki Maa, 1998). In 1995, founded the controversial ABCL (Amitabh Bachchan Corporation Limited) as an entertainment conglomerate for merchandising himself and other celebrities as a brand name, creating and marketing TV software, producing and distributing films, making audio products under his 'Big-B' label, and event management. Initially billed as the first significant effort in India to corporatise India's chaotic entertainment industry (cf. Businessworld 1-14 Nov 1995 cover feature 'Bachchan's Business Blueprint'), ABCL had a major setback when the 'Miss World 1996' contest, hosted by them in Bangalore, led to a political and financial controversy. Following the disastrous reception of his 'comeback' film, Mehul Kumar's Mrityudaata (1997) produced by ABCL, the company has faced a severe crisis forcing it to sell its 'Big-B' record label and its 'Star Track' talent bank, leading to questions about the survival of the company.

Amitabh Bachchan and Sridevi in Aakhri Raasta (1986)

FILMOGRAPHY: 1969: Saat Hindustani; 1970: Anand; 1971: Parwana; Pyar Ki Kahani; Reshma Aur Shera; Sanjog; Guddi; 1972: Bombay To Goa; Bansi Birju; Ek Nazar; Raaste Ka Patthar; Jaban; 1973: Abhimaan; Bandhe Haath; Namak Haram; Saudagar; Zanjeer; Gehri Chaa!; 1974: Benaam; Kasaati; Kunwara Baap; Majboor; Roti Kapda Aur Makaan; Dost; 1975: Chupke Chupke; Deewar; Faraar; Mili; Sholay; Zameer; Chhotisi Baat; 1976: Adalat; Do Anjaane; Hera Pheri; Kabhie Kabhie; 1977: Alaap; Amar Akbar Anthony; Imaan Dharam; Khoon Pasina; Parvarish; Khatta Meetha; Charandas; 1978: Besharam; Dorr; Ganga Ki Saugandh; Kasme Vaade; Muqaddar Ka Sikandar; Trishul; 1979: Golmaal; Jurmana; Kala Patthar; Manzil; Mr Natwarlal; Suhaag; The Great Gambler; 1980: Do Aur Do Paanch; Ram Balram; Shaan; Dostana; 1981: Barsaat Ki Ek Raat; Anusandhan; Chashme Buddoor; Kaliya; Lawaris; Naseeb; Silsila; Yaarana; Satte Pe Satta; Vilayati Babu; 1982: Bemisal; Desh Premi; Khuddar; Namak Halal; Shakti; 1983: Andha Kanoon; Coolie; Mahaan; Nastik; Pukar; 1984: Inquilab; Sharabi; 1985: Giraftaar; Mard; Aakhri Raasta; 1986: Jalwa; 1987: Kaun Jeeta Kaun Hara; 1988: Shahenshah; Soorma Bhopali; Ganga Jamuna Saraswati; Hero Hiralal; 1989: Toofan; Jadugar; Main Azaad Hoon; 1990: Agneepath; Aaj Ka Arjun; Krodh; 1991: Hum; Ajooba; Indrajit; Akela; 1992: Khuda Gawah; 1994: Insaniyat.

Backer, P. A. (b. 1940-93)

Malayalam director born in Trichur, Kerala. Started as journalist for Kuttikal and Poomattuka!; then assistant to Ramu Kariat (1960), the focus of a renovatory wave in Malayalam cinema; broke away to produce P.N. Menon's Olavum Theeravum (1969), launching a second renewal. His first film, Kabani Nadi Chuvannappol, upset the censors during the Emergency. Claiming explicitly political but unaffiliated avant-gardism, his work constitutes a precedent for an independent Left cinema, e.g. of the Odessa Collective (Est: 1984 by John Abraham), Raveendran, T.V. Chandran et al. Much of Backer's cinema, like that of his successors, comes from an effort to elaborate the forms of discourse about 'independent' politics, seen as a transference of repression that is either sexual (Kabani Nadi Chuvannappol; Chuvanna Vithukal), or religious (Manimuzhakkum), or the displacement of an infantile desire for salvation (Sanghaganam).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1975: Kabani Nadi Chuvannappol; 1976: Manimuzhakkum; Chuvanna Vithukal; 1979: Sanghaganam; Manninte Mari!; Unarthupattu; 1981: Charam; 1982: Chappa; 1985: Prema Lekhanam; Shri Narayana Guru; 1987: Innalelude Baaki.

Badami, Sarvottam (b. 1910)

Hindi, Telugu and Tamil director born in Channapatna, Karnataka. Son of a revenue officer in Mysore. Worked as motor mechanic and handyman in garage owned by Ambalal Patel, then as a projectionist at Patel's Select Pictures cinema in Bangalore. When Patel partnered Ardeshir Irani and Chimanlal Desai in launching Sagar Film (1930), Badami, as the only available South Indian in the Bombay studio, was allowed to finish Harishchandra and Galava Rishi and went on to direct the Telugu Paduka Pattabhishekham. Made several socials at Sagar, usually starring Sabita Devi, including some of novelist K.M. Munshi's best-known scripts, e.g. Dr. Madhurika, Vengeance is Mine. Also adapted Hollywood films, e.g. Aap Ki Marzi, based on E. Buzzell's Paradise For Three (1938). Followed his mentor Patel to Sudama Pics. in 1939 when Sagar merged to become National Film. Worked in Famous Cine laboratory (1946-8). Chief producer (newsreel) at Films Division (1948-52) where he also made documentaries. Left Films Division in 1954 and became an industrialist based in Bangalore; also adviser to the Kamani industrial group.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1932: Harishchandra; Galava Rishi; Paduka Pattabhishekham; Shakuntala; 1933: Chandrasaha; 1934: Grihalakshmi; 1935: Dr. Madhurika; Vengeance is Mine; 1936: Jeevan Lata; Gramma Kanya; 1937: Kokila; Kulavadhu; 1938: Three Hundred Days and After; 1939: Aap Ki Marzi; Ladies Only; 1940: Chingari; Sajani; 1941: Holiday in Bombay; 1942: Khilona; 1943: Prarthana; 1944: Bhagya Lakshmi; 1945: Ramayani; 1946: Uttara Abhimanyu; 1947: Manmani; 1951: Vinoba Bhawe (Doc); 1952: Roof Over the Head (Doc).

Bagchi, Gurudas (b. 1926)

Bengali director born in Calcutta. Started as assistant to Chhabi Biswas on Jar Jetha Ghar (1949); then assisted Ardhendu Mukherjee and Chitta Bose (1954-60) before debuting as director in 1963.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1963: Dwiper Nam Tiya Rang; 1964: Ta Holey; 1969: Teer Bhoomi; 1970: Samanara; 1972: Chhandapatar; 1973: Bindur Chheley; Alo-o-Chhaya; 1975: Sristichhara; 1976: Joi; 1977: Ramer Sumati; 1978: Tusi; 1979: Chirantar; Jata Mat Tata Path; 1981: Swami Stri; 1983: Samarпита; 1989: Mahapith Tarapith.

Bakshi, Anand (b. 1920)

Prolific Hindi lyricist; wrote more than 2500 songs, averaging c.100 songs for c.20 films annually. Born in Rawalpindi (now Pakistan). Son of a bank manager; joined the army aged 18 as a field-telephone operator. Family migrated to India where he started as a scenarist for e.g. Master Bhagwan's Badla (1943). Unable to obtain sufficient film assignments, rejoined the army until 1958. Debut as lyric writer in Bhagwan's Bhala Admi (1958). Broke through with Suraj Prakash's films, esp. with the songs Kankaria more karke ishara in Mehndi Lagi Mere Haath (1962), Pardesiyon se na akhiyan milana in Jab Jab Phool Khile (1965) and Sawan ka mahina in Adurthi Subba Rao's Milan (1967). Confirmed his reputation for romantic songs with the Rajesh Khanna hit Aradhana (1969), writing most of Khanna's maudlin lyrics for several years thereafter, including Amar Prem (1971), which he considers to be his best work, esp. the song Chingari koi bhadke. One of the few songwriters of his generation to have no credentials as an independent poet. Sang two songs for Mom Ki Gudiya (1972). Consistently denies having any artistic pretensions. Recently wrote the Bachchan hit Jumma chumma in Hum (1991). Worked mainly with music directors Laxmikant-Pyarelal.

Bakshi, Shanti Prakash (1925-88)

Punjabi and Hindi director; started as scenarist and assistant to the major Punjabi cameraman-director Harcharan Singh Kwatra, scripting Pilpili Saheb (1954) and Teesmar Khan (1955). Kwatra produced Bakshi's first film Kode Shah, scored by Sardul Kwatra. Like Kwatra, Bakshi was basically a Bombay director making inexpensive Hindi films, often with Hindi stars. Also wrote Amarnath's Baradari (1955) in Hindi. Directorial debut in 1953 with Punjabi films. Made three Hindi features in the late 50s (Mr Chakram, Pataal Pari and Sun To Le Hasina).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1946: Kamli; 1953: Kode Shah; 1954: Ashtalli; 1955: Mr Chakram; 1957: Pataal Pari; 1958: Sun To Le Hasina; 1960: Heer Syal; 1962: Pardesi Dhola; 1965:

Sassi Punnu, 1986: Munda Naram Te Kudi Garam.

Bal achander, Kail asam (b. 1930)

Tamil, Telugu, Kannada and Hindi director and producer, born in Nannilam, Thanjavur. Graduated in science from Annamalai University, Madras (1951); employed as a civil servant in the Accountant General's office until 1964. Worked initially in the Tamil theatre as playwright and director. His best-known plays have been filmed: Server Sundaram by Krishnan-Panju (1964) and Major Chandrakant in Hindi by Phani Majumdar (Oonche Log, 1965) and by himself in Tamil. Film debut as scenarist with the MGR film Daivathai (1964). Adapted his own play for his directorial debut, Neer Kumizhi. Was employed by the Kalakendra Films unit for some years, before becoming an independent producer with his own company Kavithalaya. Known as the most consistent manufacturer of morality tales usually reinforcing middle-class conservatism, e.g. the joint-family structure (Bhale Kodalu/Bhama Vijayam), widow remarriage (Aval Oru Thodarkathai), the plight of divorced women (Avargal), the dowry problem (Kalyana Agathigal), Gandhian values (Punnagai), miscarriages of justice (Major Chandrakant). His emphasis on the middle class, his sentimentalism and his practice of remaking his hits in other languages recall the L.V. Prasad style. Prasad produced his major Hindi hit, Ek Duuje Ke Liye, remaking his earlier Telugu success Maro Charithra, both starring Kamalhasan. Like Prasad, he created several Tamil stars, e.g. Kamalhasan, Rajnikant, Sujata and S.V. Sekhar. Changed his idiom to make the political dramas Thanneer Thanneer, based on Komal Swaminathan's play, and his own story Achamillai Achamillai. These films, with Arangetram, telling the story of a girl from a Brahmin family who becomes a prostitute, constitute the closest that Tamil cinema came to contributing to the State-sponsored New Indian Cinema idiom. Arangetram was used by the TN government for its family-planning campaigns. His production company Kavithalaya also produced Mani Rathnam's Roja and the Rajnikant solos Annamalai (1994) and Muthu (1995). Produced the TV series Rayil Sneham.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1965: Neer Kumizhi, Naanal, 1966: Major Chandrakant, 1967: Bhama Vijayam/Bhale Kodalu, Anubavi Raja Anubavi, 1968: Ethir Neechal, Thamarai Nenjam, 1969: Poova Thalaiya, Iru Kodukal, Sattelkalapu Sattaiah, 1970: Pattam Pazhali, Ethiroli, Navagraham, Kaviya Thalavi, 1971: Bomma Borusa, Nangu Suvarkal, Nootrukku Nooru, Punnagai, 1972: Kanna Nalama, Velli Vizha, 1973: Arangetram, Sollathen Ninaikirar, 1974: Naan Avanillai, Aval Oru Thodarkathai/Aval Oru Thodarkatha/Aaina, 1975: Apoorva Ragangal, 1976: Manmatha Leelai, Moondru Mudichu, Anthuleni Katha, 1977: Avargal, Pattina Pravesham, Oka Talli Katha, Meethi Meethi Baateir, 1978: Nizhal Nijamakirathu, Thappida Tala/Thappu Thalanga, Maro Charithra, 1979:

Ninaithale Inikkum, Nool Veli, Andamaina Anubhavam, Idi Kathakadu, Edo Charithra, Guppedu Manasu, 1980: Varumayin Niram Sigappu, 1981: Akali Rajyam, Tholikodi Koonsindhi, Enga Ooru Kannagi, Thillu Mullu, Ek Duuje Ke Liye, Thanneer Thanneer, 47 Natkal/47 Rojulu, 1982: Agni Satchi, Pyara Tarana, 1983: Benki Alli Aralida Hoovu, Kokilamma, Poikkal Kuthirai, Zara Si Zindagi, 1984: Love Love Love, Achamillai Achamillai, Ek Nai Paheli, Eradu Rekhagalu, 1985: Mugila Mallige, Kalyana Agathigal, Sindhu Bhairavi, 1986: Punnagai Mannar, Sundara Swapnagal, 1987: Manadhil Urudhi Vendhum, 1988: Rudraveena, Unnal Mudiyum Thambi, 1989: Pudhu Pudhu Arthangal, 1990: Oru Veedu Iru Vasal, 1991: Azhagar, 1992: Vaname Ellai, Jathi Malli, 1994: Duet.

Bal achander, Sundar am (1927-90)

Tamil director born in Madras; son of a lawyer. Also a music composer, actor and producer, he is best known as a classical Carnatic musician and veena player. Child actor in Prabhat's Tamil mythological Seeta Kalyanam. Employed briefly by the AIR. Early work as actor and composer in Ithu Nijama (playing twins), and Rajambal (in the popular role of a debonair villain). Directorial work includes the melodrama En Kanavar and the thriller Kaidhi. First major film was the war/spy drama, Andha Naal, possibly influenced by Rashomon (1950). Another remarkable genre adaptation is Avan Amaran, made for the Leftist Peoples' Films. His own productions were often adaptations, e.g. Avana Evan from George Stevens's A Place in the Sun (1951) and the Hitchcockian Bomma. His company, S.B. Creations (1960), was known for its thrillers, e.g. Nadu Iravil based on Agatha Christie's Ten Little Niggers. Scored the music of all the films he directed, where, in contrast to his classical musical reputation, he often provided a pastiche of jazz, Latin American music, Western and Indian classical styles. Left films to devote himself more to music.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* only act/ also act): 1933: *Seeta Kalyanam; 1935: *Radha Kalyanam; 1936: *Rukmini Kalyanam; 1941: *Kamadhenu; Rishyashringar; 1942: Nandanar; 1948: *Ithu Nijama; En Kanavar, 1951: *Rajambal; *Devaki; *Kaidhi; 1952: *Rani; 1953: *Inspector; 1954: *Penn; Andha Naal; 1955: *Dr Savithri; 1958: Avan Amaran, 1959: Maragatham; 1962: Avana Evan; 1964: Bomma; 1970: *Nadu Iravil.

Bal ar amaiah, Ghantasal a (1906-53)

Telugu director born in Pottepalem village, AP. Well-known 20s Telugu stage actor, e.g. title role in Ramadasu directed by his brother Radhakrishnaiah. Started Shri Rama Films, financed by rich landlords from Nellore, with Chitrapu Narasimha Rao's Sati Tulasi, then set up Studio Kubera Pics with two Chitrapu Narayanamurthy films, Markandeya (1938) and Mahiravana (1940). Started directing after founding Pratibha Film with Parvati Kalyanam. His Garuda Garvabhangam, starring Bhanumathi and Gaggaiyah, instituted an influential variant of the mythological: a kind of heroic folklore loosely echoing forms like the Burrakatha. This trend, which he developed with the hit Swapna Sundari featuring A. Nageshwara Rao and Anjali Devi, was also continued by K.V. Reddy and provided in Gaggaiyah an early model for the NTR persona.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* only act): 1933: *Ramadasu; 1936: *Sati Tulasi; *Kabir; 1941: Parvati Kalyanam; 1942: Seeta Rama Jananam; 1943: Garuda Garvabhangam; 1946: Mugguru Maratilu; 1948: Balaraju; 1950: Shri Lakshamma Katha; Swapna Sundari; 1952: Chinnakodalu.

Bal asar aswathi, R. (b. 1928)

Telugu and Tamil singer and actress, born in Madras. Daughter of musician K. Parthasarathy. Started recording when discovered as a 6-year-old by composer-lyricist Kopperapu Subba Rao. Debut as actress in C. Pullaiah's Ansuya (as Ganga); worked with K. Subramanyam, playing Krishna in Bhakta Kuchela, followed by the major role of Sarasa in his Balayogini. Played child roles before becoming a heroine in Ramabrahmam's Illalu, acting and singing duets with Saluri Rajeswara Rao, who also composed popular non-film songs for her in the early 40s. Virtually retired from acting after she married the Rajah of Kolanka (1944), but continued as playback singer until the mid-50s. Her first playback number, Tinne meedi chinoda for Kamala Kotnis in P. Pullaiah's Bhagya Lakshmi (1943), was composed by B. Narasimha Rao and was one of the first film songs officially credited on the record label to the singer rather than the actor. Associated with some of the best compositions of music directors C.R. Subburaman (Swapna Sundari, 1950), G. Ashwathama (Chinnakodalu, 1952) and Ramesh Naidu (Dampatyam, 1957). Other classic songs include Muntha perugandoyi with comedians K. Siva Rao and Relangi Venkatramaiah in Prema (1952), Tana panthame tanadanevadu in the unusual raga Rasali, written and scored by B. Rajanikanta Rao (Manavati, 1952). Came out of retirement to sing in the film directed by her niece Vijayanirmala, Sangham Chekkina Silpalu (1979). Also remembered as a dancer in e.g. Suvarnamala's street scene.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1936: Ansuya; Bhakta Kuchela; Balayogini; 1937: Tukaram; 1939: Mahananda; Thiruneelakantar; 1940: Illalu; 1941: Chandrasasa; Apavadu; 1942: Thasipper; 1947: Radhika; 1948: Suvarnamala; Bilhana.

Bal asubramanyam, S. P. (b. 1945)

Leading South Indian film singer, actor, composer, producer and familiar dubbing voice. Born in Nellore, the son of a Harikatha performer. Studied engineering at Anantpur and Madras. First break as singer with composer Kothandapani. Sings in all four South Indian languages and in Hindi and Oriya. Broke through as singer in the MGR hit Adimai Penn (1969) and in K. Vishwanath's musical megasuccess Shankarabharanam (1979) where he sang in the classical Carnatic style. First Hindi hit was K. Balachander's Ek Duije Ke Liye (1981), starring Kamalhasan. Known increasingly in the 90s for his acting (eg. Kadhalaan, 1994).

Bal Gandharva (1888-1967)

Given name was Narayanrao Rajhans. Celebrated female impersonator on the stage, mainly in mythologicals (Swayamvar, Saubhadra) and occasionally in influential socials, e.g. the Gadkari musical Ekach Pyala. The plays had a massive impact in Maharashtra, Gujarat, Madhya Pradesh, Karnataka and in Thanjavur, TN. Also came to epitomise feminine beauty in the emerging fashion industry of these regions. His 'look' embodied the tribhangi posture from classical sculpture: a slightly inclined head and feet at an angle to the torso, also used in several Ravi Varma paintings (e.g. Lady with a Mirror). On stage, this became a tableau posture usually dividing the proscenium frame into three vertical areas offset by a gaze turned 3/4 towards the audience. Also top singing star of Marathi Sangeet Natak. Introduced by the Kirloskar Natak Mandali, but left to form his own Gandharva Natak Mandali (1913). Prabhat Studio gave great publicity to his recruitment to cinema (Dharmatma) but he left, feeling uncomfortable with film acting and with playing male roles, contrary to his public image. However, two of Prabhat's top composers, Govindrao Tembe and Master Krishnarao, were products of Bal Gandharva's troupe, and his stage idiom, emphasising a flat proscenium layered with stage backdrops, as well as the conventions of feminine beauty he incarnated, had a major influence on early Marathi talkies. Painter's Sadhvi Mirabai was a straight adaptation of a Gandharva Natak Mandali play.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1935: Dharmatma; 1937: Sadhvi Mirabai; 1951: Vithal Rakhumai.

Bal i, Geeta (1930-65)

Hindi actress, dancer and singer, originally Harikirtan Kaur. Born in Amritsar, Punjab. Started in film aged 12 in a Shorey short (The Cobbler) followed by her feature debut in Majnu's Badnami. Lively dancer, mainly in films by Kidar Sharma (Suhaag Raat was her first major film), Guru Dutt (Baazi, Baaz, Jaal, Sailaab) and Master Bhagwan (the hit musical Albela). Also featured in whodunits by Ravindra Dave and Shakti Samanta. Only occasionally successful in dramatic roles, e.g. her famous portrayal of a blind girl in Sohrab Modi's Jailor. In Sharma's Banwre Nain she used an eloquent gestural style to play the country girl betrayed by the hero, matched only by her contemporary, Nimmi. Co-starred with Raj Kapoor, Dev Anand and later with the man she would marry, Shammi Kapoor.

Died from smallpox during the filming of Rajinder Singh Bedi's classic novel Ek Chadar Maili Si, which she, by some accounts, was to have directed as well (other accounts also credit the incomplete film to R.L. Dhir). Also produced Baaz (under H.G. Films) and Raag Rang (under Bali Sisters) directed by her brother Digvijay.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1942: The Cobbler (Sh); 1946: Badnami, Kahan Gaye; 1948: Suhaag Raat, Jalsa, Nai Reet, Patjhad; 1949: Badi Bahen, Bansaria; Bholi, Dil Ki Duniya; Dulari, Garibi; Girls' School, Jal Tarang, Kinara; Neki Aur Badi; 1950: Banwre Nain, Bhai Bahen, Gulenaar, Nishana; Shaadi Ki Raat; 1951: Albela; Baazi, Bedardi; Ek Tha Ladka; Ghayal, Johari, Lachak, Nakhre, Phoolon Ke Haar; 1952: Anandmath, Bahu Beti, Betaab; Jaal, Jalpari; Najaria; Neelam Pari; Raag Rang, Usha Kiron, Zalzala; 1953: Baaz, Firdaus, Gunah, Jhamela; Naina; Naya Ghar; 1954: Ameer, Daku Ki Ladki; Kashti; Kavi; Suhagar; 1955: Albeli; Baradari; Chhora Chhori; Faraar; Jawab, Milap; Miss Coca Cola; Sau Ka Note; Vachar; 1956: Hotel, Inspector, Lalten; Pocketmaar; Rangeen Raatein; Sailaab; Zindagi; 1957: Coffee House, Jalti Nishani; 1958: Do Mastane, Aji Bas Shukriya; Jailor, Ten o'Clock; 1959: CID Girl; Mohar, Nai Raahein; 1960: Bade Ghar Ki Bahu; 1961: Mr India; Sapan Suhane; 1963: Jabse Tumhe Dekha Hai.

Bal akrishna (b. 1960)

90s Telugu star; son of N. T. Rama Rao. Introduced by the family's Ramakrishna studios in Tatamma Kala, directed by his father; minor actor in Akbar Saleem Anarkali. First lead role in Disco King, after B. Subhash's Disco Dancer (1982). Known mainly for romances and thrillers, forming a new-generation trio with Nagarjuna and Venkatesh, notably in Kodi Ramakrishna's films Mangammagari Manavadu and Muddula Mamaiah. The hit Bhairava Dweepam was a colour remake, with more special effects, of his father's megahit Patala Bhairavi (1955).

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1974: Tatamma Kala, Ram Rahim; 1975: Anna Dammula, Anubandham; Vemulavada Bhimakavi; 1977: Daana Veera Shura Karna; 1978: Akbar Saleem Anarkali; 1979: Shrimad Virata Parvam; Shri Tirupati Venkateshwara Kalyanam; 1980: Rahasya Rathri; Rowdy Ramudu Konte Krishnudu; 1982: Anuraga Devatha; 1983: Simham Navindi; 1984: Disco King, Mangammagari Manavadu; Janani Janma Bhoomi; Katha Nayakudu; Sahasame Jeevitham; Palnati Puli; Shrimad Virat Veerabrahmendra Swamy Charitra; Katha Nayakudu; 1985: Atmabalam; Babai Abba; Kathula Kondaiah; Pattabhishekham; 1986: Nippulanti Manishi; Muddula Krishnaiah; Seeta Rama Kalyanam; Ansuyammagari Alludu; Deshoddharakulu; Kaliyuga Krishnudu; Apoorva Sahodaralu; 1987: Allari Krishnayya; Bhargava Ramudu; Lorry Driver; Sahasa Samrat; Presidentgari Abba; Muvva Gopaludu; Ramu; Bhanumathigaru Mogudu; 1988: Bharatamlo Balachandrudu; Inspector Pratap; Donga Ramudu; Tiraga Bidda Telugu Bidda; Ramudu Bheemudu; Rakthabhishekham; 1989: Bhale Donga; Ashoka Chakravarthi; Bala Gopaludu; Muddula Mamaiah; Nari Nari Naduma Murari; 1990: Pranani Pranam; Muddula Menaludu; 1991: Brahmarishi Vishwamitra; Aditya 369; Talli Tanduru; 1992: Rowdy Inspector; Dharmakshetram; Ashwamedham; 1993: Nippuravva; Bangaru Bullodu; 1994: Bhairava Dweepam; Gandeevam; Bobbili Simham; Top Hero; 1995: Matho Pettukokku.

Bal krishna, T. N. (1913-1995)

Phenomenally successful Kannada comedian. Born in Arasikere, Karnataka. Was sold as a child to adoptive parents to pay his father's medical bills. Lost his hearing as a youth and dropped out of school. Acted in the play Shri Rama Paduka Pattabhishekha (1929); then apprenticed to painter of stage backdrops and later a professional sign painter. Returned to the stage as an actor in Harmonium Master

Geeta Bali in Chhora Chhori (1955)

Giri Gowda's group, the Lakshmasani Nataka company, and in Neelkantappa's Gowrishankar Nataka Mandali before joining Gubbi Veeranna's theatre company. His presence was almost mandatory in Kannada films from the early 40s where, adapting the folk form Yakshagana, he formed a bumbling comedy duo with his constant sidekick Narasimhraj. Redefined the tone of 'comedy relief' by adding his own brand of ineffectual villainy. Also wrote some plays and scripts; started the Abhimana Studio in Bangalore (1968). Also starred in some Tamil films but did not succeed because of his difficulty with the language.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1943: Radha Ramana; 1952: Dallali; 1954: Devasundari; Kanyadana; Muttidella Chinna; 1955: Ashadabhooti; Bhakta Mallikarjuna; 1956: Daiva Sankalpa; Muttaide Bhagya; Pancharathna; Sadarame; 1957: Mahiravana; Ratnagiri Rahasya; Shukradeshe; Chintamani; 1958: Anna Thangi; Mane Thumbida Henu; Mangalya Yoga; School Master; 1959: Mangalsutra; Jagajyothi Basaveshwara; 1960: Shivalinga Sakshi; Ranadheera Kanteerava; Rani Honamma; 1961: Intiki Deepam Illale; Kaivara Mahatme; Kantheredu Nodu; Kittur Chanamma; Raja Satya Vrata; Shrishaila Mahatme; 1962: Bhoodana; Daivelele; Tejaswini; 1963: Kanya Ratna; Mana Mechhida Madadi; Sant Tukaram; 1964: Chandavalliya Tota; Muriyada Mane; Mane Aliya; Nandi; 1965: Mahasati Ansuva; Satya Harishchandra; 1966: Mohini Bhasmasura; 1967: Bellimoda; Chakra Teertha; Immadi Pulakesi; 1968: Arunodaya; Gandhinagara; Manku Dinne; Bhagya Devathe; Mysore Tonga; Bhagyada Bagilu; Rowdy Ranganna; Attegondukala Sosegondukala; Hoovu Mullu; 1969: Margadarshi; Gandodu Hennaru; Mallammanna Pavada; Kappu Bilapu; Shiva Bhakta; Bhagirathi; Madhuve Madhuve; Punarjanma; Kalpa Vruksha; Uyyale; Chikamma; Manashanti; 1970: Bhale Kiladi; Anirikshita; Aparajithe; Mrityu Panjaradalli Goodachari 555; Muru Muttugalu; Bhale Jodi; Sedige Sedu; Nanna Thamma; Sukha Samsara; 1971: Signalman Siddappa; Hoo Bisilu; Kulagaurava; Namma Samsara; Amara Bharathi; Jatakarathna Gunda Joisa; Anugraha; Namma Baduku; Bhale Adrushtavo Adrushta; Pratidhwani; Sakshatkar; Mahadimane; Sothu Geddavalu; 1972: Bangarada Manushya; Nanda Gokula; Mareyada Deepavali; 1973: Devaru Kotta Thangi; Sahadharmini; Swayamvara; Bharathada Rathna; Cowboy Kulla; Setheyalla Savithri; Doorada Betta; Jaya Vijaya; Mane Belagida Sose; Gandhadagudi; Bangarada Panjara; Mannina Magalu; Bettada Bhairava; 1974: Gruhini; Urvashi; Nanu Baalabeku; Boothayana Maga Ayyu; Eradu Kanasu; Sampathige Sava; Bhakta Kumbhara; Professor Huchuraya; Anna Attige; Mahadeshwala Poojaphala; Namma Ura Devaru; 1975: Jagruthi; Nanjuda Nakkaga; Kasturi Vijaya; Mane Belaku; Koodi Balona; Kaveri; Viplava Vanithe; Onderupa Eradu Guna; Hennu Samsarada Kannu; Trimurthi; Devaru Kotta Vara; Hosilu Mettida Henu; Hoyala; Bangalore Bhotha; 1976: Premada

Kanike; Punaradatta; Bahadur Gandu; Mugiyada Kathe; Chiranjeevi; Raja Nanna Raja; Bayalu Dari; Na Ninna Mareyalare; Badavara Bandhu; Sutrada Bombe; Aparadhi; Devara Duddu; 1977: Deepa; Bayasade Banda Bhagya; Bhagyavantharu; Lakshmi Nivasa; Pavanaganga; Manasinante Mangalya; Srimanthana Magalu; Sanadhi Appanna; Sahodarara Sava; Olavu Gelavu; Galate Samsara; Ganda Hendthi; 1978: Halli Haidha; Shankar Guru; Vamsa Jyothi; Matu Tappada Maga; Sneha Sedu; Balu Aparupa Nam Jodi; Thayige Takka Maga; Jagan Mohini; 1979: Balina Guri; Na Ninna Bidalare; Asadhya Aliya; Na Niruvude Ninagangi; Huliya Halina Mevu; Nentaro Gantu Kallaro; Preeti Madu Tamashe Nodu; 1980: Kulla Kulli; Auto Raja; Vajrada Jalapata; Mugana Sedu; Swamiji; Ondu Henu Aaru Kannu; Biligiriya Bandalalli; Mayeya Musuku; Pattanacke Banda Patniyar; Anveshane; Mithuna; Nadurathri; Triloka Sundari; 1981: Tirada Bayake; Thayiya Madilalli; Anupama; Nee Nanna Gellalare; Bhagyavantha; Number Aidu Uyekka; Chadurida Chitragalu; Guru Shishyaru; Lakshmi Prasanna; 1982: Gunanodi Henu Kodu; Mullina Gulabi; Praya Praya Praya; 1983: Devara Tirpu; Kavirathna Kalidas; Benkiya Bale; Kamana Billu; Premave Balina Belaku; 1984: Gajendra; Kaliyuga; Makkalirava Mane Thumba; Ahuti; 1985: Thayi Kanasu; Bettada Hoovu; Dhruva Tare; Bhagyada Lakshmi Baramma; Hosa Baalu; Lancha Lancha Lancha; Netra Pallavi; Savira Sullu; Shabash Vikrama; Tulasi Dala; 1986: Hennina Koogu; Henne Ninagenu Bandhana; Brahmastra; Satya Jyothi; Bete; Aparoopada Kathe; 1987: Oluvina Udugore; Shruti Seridaga; Athiratha Maharatha; Thayikotta Thali; 1988: Oorigittakolli; Dada; Ondu Muthina Kathe; Devatha Manushya; 1989: Indrajit; Kalabhimani; Yuddhakanda; Hridaya Geethe; Avatara Purusha; Rudra; Samsara Nauka; Deva; 1990: Tiger Gang; Ashwamedha; Love Letter; Udbhava; Chakravarthi; Haliya Surasuraru; Prema Taranga; 1991: Garuda Dhawaja; Kalyana Mantapa; Puksatte Ganda Hotte Thumba Unda; 1992: Halli Mestru; 1994: Odahuttidavaru; Love 94; Poornasatya; Hethakaralu.

Baloch, Mohammed see Kumar, Mehul

Bannerjee, Bhanu (1920-83)

Bengali comedian, born in Dhaka (now Bangladesh). Political activist associated with the terrorist group Anushilan in the Dhaka Dist., and after the Quit India movement with the Revolutionary Socialist Party. Later founded the Kranti Shilpi Sangha with writer (later filmmaker) Salil Sen, staging the latter's landmark play Natun Yahudi (1951, filmed 1953) about East Bengal refugees for fund-raising and propaganda on their behalf in Calcutta. Briefly a government employee and then a film extra (Jagran). Broke through playing the voluble East Bengali businessman in Nirmal Dey's Basu Parivar, developing his trade mark: an idiosyncratic use of East Bengali dialect. One of Bengali film's most prolific comic actors, often partnering Jahar Roy. The duo were sometimes billed in the titles themselves (e.g. Bhanu Pelo Lottery, Bhanu Goenda Jahar Assistant). Continued as stage actor, e.g. Adarsha Hindu Hotel (1953) and esp. in Star Theatre productions (e.g. Shamoli, Tapasi, Parineeta, Dak Bungalow). Directed the play Jai Mahakali Boarding (1979). Associated with folk Jatra companies Sushil Natya and Mukta Mancha.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1947: Jagran; 1949: Ja Hoy Na; 1950: Mandanda; Tathapi; 1951: Sey Nilo Bidaya; Anuraag; Setu; 1952: Chitta Bahimari; Basu Parivar; Pasher Bari; 1953: Sharey Chuattar; Boudir Bone; Kajari; Natun Yahudi; Keranir Jibar; Sabuj Pahar; Harilakshmi; Bana Hansi; Sosur Bari; Rami Chandidas; Lakh Taka; Bastab; Bou Thakuranir Haat; Adrishya Manush; 1954: Atom Bomb; Moner Mayur; Ora Thake Odhare; Satir Dehatyaag; Vikram Urvashi; Kalyani; Ladies' Seat; Jagrihi; Mani-Aar-Manik; Sadanander Mela; Barbela; Chhaley Kaar; Nilshari; Bhanga-Gara; Balay Gras; 1955: Bratacharini; Bandish; Nishiddha Phal; Sanjher Pradeep; Chatujye-Banrujye; Rani Rashmoni; Sajghar; Chhoto Bou; Aparadhi; Durlav Janma; Bir Hambir; Jyotishi; Joymakali Boarding; Dashyumohan; Bhalobasha; Ardhangini; 1956: Mahanisha; Tonsil; Shubharatri; Savdhar; Ekti Raat; Asamapta; Mamlar Phal; Manraksha; Rajpath; Suryamukhi; Govindadas; Maa; Daner Maryada; Taka-Ana-Pai; Amar Bou; 1957: Louha-Kapat; Andhare Alo; Natun Prabhat; Kancha-Mithey; Basanta Bahar; Ogo Sunchho; Jiban Trishna; Ek Gaon Ki Kahani; 1958: Yamalaya Jibanta Manush; Manmoyee Girls' School; Nupur; Bhanu Pelo Lottery; Kalamati; Swarga Martya; Daktar Babu; Surya Toran; 1959: Nauka Bilash; Pushpadhanu; Bhranti; Chhabi; Nirdharita Silp; Anupastithi Tey; Sonar Harin; Mriter Martye Agaman; Personal Assistant; 1960: Sakher Chor; Hospital; 1961: Swayambara; Raibahadur; Mr & Mrs Choudhury; Bishkanya; Kanchanamulya; Kathin Maya; Kanamachi; 1962: Atal Jaler Ahwan; Bodhu; Mayar Sansar; Abhisarika; Dada Thakur; 1963: Dui Bari; Barnachora; Sat Bhai; High Heel; Bhranti Bilas; Dui Nari; Akash Pradeep; Hashi Sudhu Hashi Noy; Shreyasi; 1964: Jiban Kahini; Deep Nebhey Noy; Binsati Janani; 1965: Dolna; Alor Pipasa; Mahalagna; Ek Tuku Basa; Raj Kanya; Pati Sansodhini Samiti; Devatar Deep; Abhoya-o-Srikanta; Gulmohar; Mukhujey Paribar; Tapasi; Kal Tumi Aleya; 1966: Galpa Holeo Satti; Mayabini Lane; Shesh Tin Dir; 1967: Ashite Ashio Na; Hathat Dekha; Kheya; Miss Priyambada; 1968: Apanjar; Baghini; Chowringhee; Garh Nasimpur; Pathe Holo Dekha; Rakta Rekha; 1969: Shuk Sari; Dadu; Maa-o-Meye; Sabarmati; 1970: Pratham Kadam Phool; Aleyar Alo; Sagina Mahato; Rajkumari; 1971: Bhanu Goenda Jahar Assistant; Ekhane Pinjar; Malyadaan; Maha Biplabi Aurobindo; Pratham Basanta; 1972: Stree; 1973: Bindur Chheley; Nishi Kanya; Roudra Chhaya; 1974: Sangini; Swikarokti; 1975: Harmonium; Nishi Mrigaya; Priya Bandhabi; Swayamsiddha; 1976: Nidhi Ram Sardar; Nandita; Asadharan; Ek Je Chhilo Desh; 1977: Abirvab; Ramer Sumati; 1979:

Devdas, Shahar Theke Dooray, 1980: Bancharamer Bagan, Bhagya Chakra, Darpachurna; Priyatama; Pipasa; Sondhi; Matribhakta Ramprasad, 1981: Pratihodh; Father, Kapal Kundala, Subarnalata; 1982: Raj Bodhu; Amrita Kumbher Sandhaney; Matir Swarga; Prafulla; Bijoyini; Preyasi; 1984: Shorgol; Achena Mukh; 1986: Jibar; 1987: Nadiya Nagar; 1993: Amar Kahini.

Bannerjee, Durgadas (1893-1943)

Major Bengali actor in Calcutta Theatres. Born in Kalikapur, 24 Parganas District. Introduced to film by Sisir Bhaduri (Taj Mahal Film) in 1922. From his first major film, Maanbhanjan, until late 30s he was the definitive Bengali screen hero at Madan in Jyotish Bannerjee's literary films, at Arya Films, at Indian Kinema and at New Theatres, where he played the lead in Debaki Bose's epoch-making Chandidas and the king in Bidyapati. His oft-mentioned aristocratic lineage - he was born in a zamindar (landlord) family - is said to be the key to his image of dignified, heroic reserve which massively influenced the next generation of Bengali actors (cf. Chhabi Biswas). Remained major theatre star at the Star, Manmohan, Minerva and Rangmahal companies and in plays like Karnarjun (the landmark 1923 Art Theatre production of this play introduced him to the stage, and he later tackled the tough double role of both Karna and Arjun), Iraner Rani, Rishir Meye, Chirakumar Sabha. Many of these plays, later adapted to film, used performative idioms partly derived from his acting style.

by Girish Ghosh and Rabindra Mohan Moitra and a novel by Romesh Chandra Dutt (Madhabi Kankan). These were early examples of the Bengali literary film genre later incarnated into a formula by New Theatres. Went on to make one of the most successful stage adaptations in the Bengali cinema, Manmoyee Girls' School. Worked at Madan until 1933, then freelanced, notably at Radha Films, at Madan's successors Bharatlaxmi Pics and at the Indrapuri Studio.

FILMOGRAPHY (* uncertain attribution):

1922: Matri Sneh*; 1924: Mishar Rani; Veer Bharat; 1925: Premanjali; Sati Lakshmi; Jaler Meye; 1926: Dharmapatni; Joydev; Prafulla; 1927: Chandidas; 1928: Bhranti; Sasthi Ki Shanti; Bishabriksha; 1929: Indira; Rajani; 1930: Radha Rani; Rajsingha; Jugalangriya; Manik Jorh; Bharat Ramani; Mrinalini; Madhabi Kankan; 1931: Keranir Mas Kabar; Bibaha Bibhrat (all St.); Jore Barat; Rishir Prem; 1932: Vishnu Maya; Krishnakanter Will; Aankh Ka Tara; 1933: Dhruva Charitra; Dhruva; Joydev; 1934: Daksha Yagna; Nagar; 1935: Manmoyee Girls' School; Kanthahaar; 1936: Ahalya; Rajani; 1937: Ranga Bou; 1938: Bekar Nashan; Rupor Jhumko; Khana; Ekalavya; 1939: Nara Narayan; Rukmini; 1941: Karnarjun; Shakuntala; Shri Radha; 1942: Bhishma; Milar; 1943: Devar; 1945: Kalankini; 1946: Prem Ki Duniya; 1948: Banchita; Kalo Ghora; 1949: Robin Master; 1950: Sheshbesh.

Bannerjee, Kali (1921-93)

Bengali actor born in Calcutta. Professional stage actor from 1945 playing e.g. in Mahendra Gupta's Satabarsha Agey and Tipu Sultan. Joined IPTA in the late 40s, acting in Tagore's Bisarjan, staged as a riposte to the extreme Left attacks on the author. Returned to the commercial Calcutta Theatres with Adarsha Hindu Hotel (1953). Early and still best-known film roles in Ghatak's Nagarik and Ajantrik. Also played the Chinese trader in Mrinal Sen's Neel Akasher Neechey. Worked extensively with Satyajit Ray (Parash Pathar, Teen Kanya), Tapan Sinha (Louha-Kapat, Hansuli Banker Upakatha, Arohi, Harmonium), Dinen Gupta and Tarun Majumdar. Made a mainstream comeback as an aged eccentric in Anjan Choudhury's Guru Dakshina.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1947: Burmar Pathey;

1951: Barjatri; 1952: Nagarik; 1955: Rickshawala; Devimalini; Sabar Uparey; Kalindi; 1956: Aparajito; Tonsil; Shilpi; 1957: Surer Parashay; Ogo Sunchho; Ami-Baro-Habo; Louha-Kapat; Parash Pathar; Ajantrik; 1958: Dak Harkara; Nagini Kanyar Kahini; Surya Toran; Rajdhani Theke; Neel Akasher Neechey; 1959: Janmantar; Bari Theke Paliye; Agnisambhaba; Sonar Harin; 1960: Dui Bechara; Prabesh Nishedh; Khudha; Shesh Paryanta; Natun Fasal; 1961: Teen Kanya; Pankatilak; Punashcha; 1962: Hansuli Banker Upakatha; Shubha Drishti; 1963: Ek Tukro Agur; Akash Pradeep; Tridhara; Badshah; 1964: Saptarshi; Kinu Goyalar Gali; Kanta Taar; Arohi; Dui Parba; Subah-o-Debatargrash; 1965: Surer Agur; Dinanter Alo; 1966: Joradighir Choudhury Paribar; 1967: Seba; 1968: Boudi; Hansamithur; Jiban Sangeet; Kokhono Megh; Rakta Rekha; 1969: Protidari; 1970: Shasti; Aleyar Alo; Muktisnar; Rupasi; 1971: Attatar Din Pare; Janani; Nimantrari; 1972: Andha Atit; Ajker Nayak; Bighalita Karuna Janhabi Jamuna; Maa-o-Mati; Bawarchi; Subse Bada Sukh; 1973: Agni Bhramar; Pranta Rekha; 1974: Debi Choudhrani; Sangini; Natun Surya; Swikarokti; Umno-o-Jhumno; 1975: Sansar Simantey; Swayamsiddha; Hansaraj; Harmonium; 1976: Dampati; Sandhya Surya; Yugo Manab Kabir; Ek Je Chhilo Desh; 1977: Ae Prithibi Pantha Niwas; Ek Bindu Sukh; Pratima; Behula Lakhinder; 1978: Joi Ma Tara; 1979: Devdas; Nandan; Nauka Dubi; Sunayani; Ghatkali; 1980: Dadar Kirti; Batas; Bichar; Shesh Bichar; 1981: Manikchand; Maa Bhawani Maa Amar; Meghmukti; Monchor; Subarna Golak; 1982: Simanta Raag; Preyasi; Matir Swarga; Chhoto Maa; Raj Bodhu; Padachinha; 1983: Agami Ka; Arpita; Indira; Jabanbandi; Nishi Bhor; 1984: Sonar Sansar; Ahuti; Mukta Pran; Dada Moni; 1985: Devika; 1986: Urbashe; Parinati; Bouma; Prem Bandhan; 1987: Guru Dakshina; 1988: Chhoto Bou; Parasmoni; Debbarar; Anjali; 1989: Nayanmoni; Shatarupa; Mangaldip; Kari Diye Kinlam; Sati; Mahajan; Nyaya Chakra; 1990: Byabadhan; Debata; Jiban Sangeet; 1991: Ahankar; Sadharan Meye; Anand; Abhagini; Bidhili; 1992: Shaitan; Purshottam; 1993: Shraddhanjali; Arjur; 1994: Ami-o-Maa; Salma Sundari; Sudhu Asha; 1995: Boumoni; Abirbhab; Mejo Bou; Pativrata.

Bannerjee, Kanu (1905-85)

Bengali actor born in Jodhpur. Known primarily as the father, Harihar Rai, in Satyajit Ray's Apu Trilogy. Early work in plays directed by Sisir Bhaduri (Alamgir, 1932; Biraj Bou, 1934). Mainly known as a stage comedian, also celebrated for his 'realist' performance, first on stage (1947) then in film, as the hapless Jamal, wrongly accused for stealing a bag of rice during the 1943 famine and tortured by police, in Tulsi Lahiri's Dukhir Iman. Introduced into films by Phani Majumdar. Early (pre-Ray) film work with writer-film-makers Sailajananda Mukherjee (Shahar Theke Dooray) and Premendra Mitra (Kuasha) (see Kallol Group).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1938: Desher Mati; 1940:

Doctor; 1941: Epar Opar; Pratihodh; Nandini; 1942: Garmil; Pashan Devata; Avayer Biye; Mahakavi Kalidas; 1943: Sahadharmini; Swamir Ghar; Nilanguriya; Dampati; Shahar Theke Dooray; Jogajoj; 1944: Birinchi Baba; Bideshini; Pratihar; 1945: Nandita; Kato Door; Abhinay Nay; Do Tana; Path Bendhe Dilo; Bhabhi-Kaal; 1946: Natun Bou; Nivedita; Matrihara; Dukhe Jader Jiban Gara; 1947: Ratri; Chorabali; Swapna-o-Sadhana; Abhijog; Dui Bandhu; 1948: Mayer Dak; Sarbahara; Bish Bichar; Agey; Priyatama; 1949: Rangamati; Bamuner Meye; Kuasha; Parash Pathar; 1950: Mandanda; Digbhranta; 1951: Aparajito; Pandit Moshai; 1952: Ratri

Bannerjee, Jyotish (b. 1887)

Bengali and Hindi director born in Bihar. Started as a typist at Madan Theatres; later became the studio's main film-maker in silent era. Part of film-making team with Priyanath Ganguly, Jyotish Mukherjee, Amar Choudhury, B.J. Rajhans, Abdur Rehman Kabuli (later star of Indrasabha, 1932) and cameramen Jyotish Sarkar and T. Marconi. Initially worked with Eugenio De Liguoro (Dhruva Charitra, Nala Damayanti, both 1921; Ramayan, 1922) and C. Legrand (Vishnu Avatar, 1921). Early films were mainly adaptations of stage spectaculars from the Elphinstone and Corinthian companies. His late 20s silents adapted several novels of Bankimchandra Chattopadhyay owned by Madan Theatres. Also filmed plays Tapasya; Prarthana; Siraj-ud-Dowla; 1953: Haranath Pandit; Natun Yahudi; 1954: Moner Mayur; Dukhir Iman; Champadangar Bou; Kalyani; Sadanander Mela; Sati; Bhanga-Gara; Mantra Shakti; 1955: Sanjher Pradeep; Aparadhi; Bir Hambir; Jyotishi; Upahar; Pather Panchali; Bhagwan Shri Shri Ramakrishna; 1956: Govindadas; Daner Maryada; Aparajito; 1957: Punar Milan; 1958: Sadhak Bama Kshyapa; Shri Shri Tarakeshwar; Marmabani; 1959: Abhishap; 1961: Pankatilak; Kathin Maya; Aaj Kal Parshu; Madhureno; 1964: Ketumi; 1967: Mahashweta; 1969: Banajyotsna; 1970: Ae Korechho Bhalo; Diba Rattrir Kabya; 1972: Alo Amar Alo; 1973: Agni Bhramar; Janmabhoomi; 1978: Tushar Tirtha Amarnath; 1980: Shodh; 1981: Pahadi Phool.

Bapaiah, K.

Mainstream Telugu and Hindi director. Nephew of T. Prakash Rao. Started as an editor at the Vijaya Studio in the mid-60s; then assistant director and debut as solo director in 1970. Moved to low-budget Hindi remakes of Telugu hits, often starring Jeetendra, e.g. Mawaali and Himmat Aur Mehnat. Also directed Mithun Chakraborty in vendetta thrillers such as Ghar Ek Mandir and Waqt Ki Awaaz.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1970: Drohi; 1973: Memu Manushulame; 1974: Urvashi; 1975: Soggadu; Vaikunthapali; Eduruleni Manishi; 1977: Dildaar; Charitra Heenulu; Gadusu Pillodu; Indra Dhanushu; 1978: Dil Aur Deewar; Sahasavanthudu; Yuga Purushudu; 1979: Mande Gundelu; 1980: Bandish; Takkar; 1981: Sindoor Bane Jwala; Aggirava; Agni Poolu; Guru Shishyulu; 1982: Kaliyuga Ramudu; Naa Desam; 1983: Mawaali; Mundadugu; 1984: Ghar Ek Mandir; Maqsad; Dandayatra; Intiguttu; 1985: Aaj Ka Daur; Pataal Bhairavi; Chattamtho Poratam; 1986: Aag Aur Shola; Ghar Sansar; Jayam Manade; Muddat; Swarg Se Sundar; 1987: Himmat Aur Mehnat; Maavoori Maagadu; Majaal; Makutamleni Maharaju; Mard Ki Zabaan; 1988: Charnon Ki Saugandhi; Sone Pe Suhaaga; Waqt Ki Awaaz; Pyar Ka Mandir; 1989: Sikka; 1990: Pyar Ka Devata; Pyar Ka Karz; Izzatdar; 1991: Pyar Hua Chori Chori; 1992: Parda Hai Parda; Kasak.

Bapu (b. 1933)

Telugu cartoonist, designer and director, also worked extensively in Hindi film. Born in Narsapur, West Godavari, AP, as Sattiraju Lakshminarayana. Graduated as a lawyer from Madras University (1955). Collaborated with comic writer Mullapoodi Venkataramana; political cartoonist for Andhra Patrika newspaper (1955) and illustrator. Worked in advertising in the early 60s. Debut with Saakshi, a rare instance of late 60s New Indian Cinema aestheticism in Telugu. Occasionally resorted to painterly imagery in his otherwise realist approach (e.g. Muthyala Muggu). Transposed several mythological narratives into contemporary fables (Manavoori Pandavulu, remade in Hindi as Hum Paanch). Some early work invoked rationalist ideology and Hum Paanch was strongly defended by populist independent Left. Later films are unashamedly revivalist: e.g. Thyagayya, a remake of Nagaiah's 1946 film. His Hindi films are usually remakes of Telugu ones: Bezubaan is based on S.P. Muthuraman's Mayangurikal Oru Madhu (1975) but with a modified role for Naseeruddin Shah; Radha Kalyanam is adapted from Bhagyaraj's Andha 7 Naikal (1981); he remade his adaptation in Hindi as Woh Saat Din. Remade B.R. Chopra's notorious rape movie, Insaaf Ka Tarazu (1980), as Edi Nyayam Edi Dharmam.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1967: Saakshi; 1968: Bangaru Pichika; 1969: Buddhimanthudu; 1970: Inti Gauravam; Balaraju Katha; 1971: Sampurna Ramayanam; 1973: Andala Ramudu; 1974: Shri Ramanjaneya Yuddham; 1975: Muthyala Muggu; 1976: Seeta Kalyanam; Seeta Swayamvar; Shri Rajeshwari Vilas Coffee Club; Bhakta Kannappa; 1977: Sneham; 1978: Manavoori Pandavulu; Gorantha Deepam; Anokha Shivbhakt; 1979: Thoorpu Velle Railu; Rajadhi Raju; 1980: Kaliyuga Ravana Surudu; Vamsha Vriksham; Hum Paanch; 1981: Bezubaan; Thyagayya; Radha Kalyanam; 1982: Edi Nyayam Edi Dharmam; Neethi Devan Mayangurikal; Pellidu Pillalu; Krishnavataram; 1983: Woh Saat Din; Mantrigari Viyyankudu; 1984: Seetamma Pelli; 1985: Mohabbat; Bullet; Jackie; Pyari Behna; 1986: Mera Dharam; Kalyana Tambulam; 1987: Diljala; 1989: Prem Pratigya; 1990: Pelli Pustakam; 1993: Mr Pellam; Shrinatha Kavi Sarvabhowma; 1994: Pelli Koduku; Parmatma; 1995: Rambantu.

Baran, Timir (1904-87)

Aka Timirbaran Bhattacharya. Composer associated with the pioneering use of music for narrative purpose in early sound films. Born to a family of traditional Sanskrit scholars. Became a professional sarod player, studying first under Radhikaprasad Goswami and then, more extensively, with Ustad Allauddin Khan, continuing the latter's experiments with orchestral arrangements at Maihar when he joined Uday Shankar's dance troupe (1930), touring in Europe and the USA. Worked with Modhu Bose's Calcutta Art Players (1934), enhancing Bose's Orientalist plays with an eclectic amalgam of symphonic structures for Indian instruments (Alibaba, Bidyutparna). Baran extended Bose's idiom after visits to Java and Bali whence he imported the xylophone. Continued working with Bose in film (Kumkum, Raj Nartaki). Best-known work at the New Theatres, starting with his classic score for Barua's Devdas. Moved briefly to Bombay (1939) working at Sagar and Wadia Studios. Took a break from films to work e.g. for AIR, creating an orchestral score to accompany Tagore's Kshudista Pashan, a symphony on non-violence to celebrate India's first Independence Day (1947), and a 75' programme on the History of the Earth. Joined the music faculty of Tagore's Shantiniketan in the 60s.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1935: Devdas; Bijoya; 1936: Pujarin; 1938: Adhikar; 1940: Dharmapatni; Deepak; Lakshmi; Suhaag; Kumkum/ Kumkum The Dancer; 1941: Raj Nartaki/ Court Dancer; Uttarayan; 1944: Samaj; 1945: Bondita; 1949: Sampti; 1954: Baadbaan; 1955: Amar Saigal; 1959: Bicharak; 1965: Thana Theke Aschhi; 1970: Diba Rattrir Kabya; 1978: Dak Diye Jai.

Barua, Brojen (1925-72)

Assamese director, actor, stage director and singer. Former member of the Assamese IPTA. Elder brother of Nip Barua and Ramen Barua. Helped establish an Assamese film industry independent of theatrical techniques. First film Ito Sito Bohuto, was Assam's first genuine comedy. His other famous film, Dr. Bezbarua, although modelled on Hindi film formulas, was equally influential for successfully manufacturing a hit from purely local technical and performative resources, and for using outdoor locations. Acted in all his films.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1963: Ito Sito Bohuto (also act); 1969: Dr. Bezbarua; 1970: Mukuta; 1972: Opaja Sonor Mati; Lolita.

Barua, Jahnu (b. 1952)

Assamese director born in Lakowa. Graduated from Guwahati University and the FTII (1974). Joined ISRO; produced more than 100 children's science programmes for SITE in Ahmedabad (1975-6). Lives and works in Bombay, where he makes advertising and corporate films. Lectured at St Xavier's Institute of Communications. Films address the contemporary culture and politics of Assam. One of the most technically competent New Indian Cinema film-makers; deploys an almost expressionistic approach to regional reformism. Aparoopaa is the first NFDC-financed Assamese film. Chairman of the Indian Film Directors' Association (1993).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1974: The F Cycle (Sh); Diary of a Racehorse (Doc); 1976: One Hundred and Eighty Days of SITE (Doc); 1982: Aparoopaa Apeksha; 1986: Papori, Ek Kahani (TV); 1987: Halodiya Choraye Baodhan Khaye; 1988: Adhikar (TV); 1989: Banani; 1991: Firingoti; 1994: Hkhgoroloi Bohu Door.

Barua, Munin (b. 1948)

Assamese scenarist, musician and film-maker. Introduced as instrumentalist in Nalin Duara's Mamata (1973) but changed to become a scenarist. His scripts make him one of the main purveyors of middle-budget, deliberately middle-of-the-road and non-sensationalist socials of the 80s. Scripted, in addition to his own films, several productions by Siva Prasad Thakur: Bowari (1982), Ghar Sansar (1983), Son Moina (1984) and Mon Mandir (1985). Also scripted Ae Desh Mor Desh (1986), Biju Phukan's Bhai Bhai (1988), and Sewali (1989).

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1987: Pratima; Pita Putra; 1991: Pahadi Kanya; 1992: Prabhati Pokhir Gaan.

Barua, Nip (1925-92)

Best-known mainstream Assamese film-maker; younger brother of Brojen Barua. Started as cinematographer on Bengali and Assamese films. Directed the first big-budget multi-star Eastmancolor film in the language, Ajali Nabou. Before his flamboyant film career, he was a musician and flautist, a footballer of some repute (playing for the Maharana AC and Assam state) and a cartoonist for the Assam Tribune. Mainly made family socials, often coming close to home-movie levels of intimacy; also made mythologicals (Bhakta Prahlad, Narakasur). Younger brother, Ramen Barua, is a noted composer.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1955: Smritir Parash; 1957: Mak Aru Morom; 1958: Ranga Police; Bhakta Prahlad; 1959: Amar Ghar; 1961: Narakasur; 1970: Baruar Sansar; 1973: Sonetara; 1977: Sonmai; 1978: Manima (also act); 1980: Ajali Nabou; 1983: Koka Deuta Nati Aru Hati; 1984: Shakuntala Aru Shankar Joseph Ali; 1985: Dadu Nati-o-Hati; 1986: Antony Mor Naam; 1988: Ae Mor Janame Janame.

Barua, Padum (b. 1924)

Assamese director. His only film, Ganga Chiloner Pankhi (1975), took a decade to make. Hiren Gohain, one of the foremost commentators on contemporary Assamese culture, speaks of him as 'the first man to raise the standard of revolt against both the outworn theatrical mode and the slick Bombay style movie. [H]e is a director who can show us things.' Was musically inclined since childhood and an articulate cinephile since his student days at Benares Hindu University. Claims to have been influenced by John Ford, P.C. Barua, V. Shantaram and Debaki Bose.

Barua, Pramathesh Chandra (1903-51)

Major, still undervalued Bengali-Hindi director of Assamese origin, and one of the first major movie stars in India. Born into aristocratic family as the big game-hunting son of the Maharajah of Gauripur. Promising amateur sportsman and art-lover. Graduated from élite Presidency College, Calcutta (1924). Visited Europe and saw films (esp. René Clair and Lubitsch). Entered film as actor in silents; shareholder in Dhiren Ganguly's British Dominion Films (1928). Spent a few months at Elstree to learn film-making and started Barua Pics in Calcutta (1929), producing e.g. Debaki Bose's Aparadhi (1931) and Nishir Dak (1932). Joined Chittaranjan Das' Swarajya Party (1928) which represented Hindu zamindar interests after the Hindu-Muslim riots of 1926. Prominent member of Assam Legislative Assembly (1928-36) when his Party piloted the anti-tenant and anti-Muslim Tenancy Act (1928) through Bengal Legislative Council. Joined New Theatres (1932-39), freelanced thereafter. His Zindagi was remade in Bengali (1943). Making melancholic love stories set amid a nihilistically portrayed aristocracy, he evolved a unique melodramatic style, drawing from the literary traditions against which Kallol defined itself. The static stories and the mask-like actorial postures are counterpointed by the most mobile subjective camera in the Indian cinema of his time, the visual excess of his sweeping pans announcing the landscapes of later Bengal School painting. Wrote and starred in his productions, but remembered best for his Bengali version of Devdas (Saigal starred in the Hindi one), remade by Bimal Roy in 1955, and for Mukti. Died in Calcutta, leaving his last feature unfinished.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY ( also act/* only act):

1931: Aparadhi*; 1932: Bhagya Lakshmi (all St); Bengal 1983*; 1934: Rooplekha/ Mohabbat Ki Kasauti*; 1935: Abasheshe; Devdas*; 1936: Grihadah/ Manzil*; Maya; 1937: Mukti*; 1938: Adhikar*; 1939: Rajat Jayanti*; 1940: Shapmukti*; Zindagi; 1941: Mayer Pran*; Uttarayan*; 1942: Shesh Uttar/ Jawab*; 1943: Chandar Kalanka/ Ran*; 1944: Subah Shyam; 1945: Amiri; 1946: Pehchan; 1949: Iran Ki Ek Raat; 1953: Maya Kanar*.

Barua, Ramen (b. 1938)

One of Assamese cinema's main music composers. Started as playback singer to his brother Brojen Barua's music in his other brother Nip Barua's Smritir Parash (1955). Turned composer in partnership with Brojen Barua, his own songs in Amar Ghar became major hits. Despite his popular and commercially successful work, he prefers the folk-derived music he composed for Mukuta and the classical compositions of Sonmai, extending his work as composer in the theatre and his experience with the IPTA. Also set some of Jyotiprasad Agarwala's lyrics to music and re-released a series of Brojen Barua's old hits.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1959: Amar Ghar; 1969: Dr. Bezbarua; 1970: Mukuta; 1971: Jog Biyog; 1972: Lolita; Hridayar Proyojan; Opaja Sonor Mati; 1973: Sonetara; Uttaran; Parinam; 1975: Toramai; 1977: Sonmai; Moromi; 1978: Moram; Manima; 1979: Ashray; 1980: Ajali Nabou; Raja Harishchandra; 1981: Manashi; Uttar Sunya; 1982: Raja; 1983: Koka Deuta Nati Aru Hati; 1984: Shakuntala Aru Shankar Joseph Ali; 1985: Dada Nati-o-Hati; Deepjyoti; 1986: Antony Mor Naam.

Bedekar, Vishram (b. 1906)

Marathi and Hindi director, best known as a writer, born in Amravati, Eastern Maharashtra. Started with Sangeet Natak company Balwant Sangeet Mandali as playwright-lyricist. Moved to film-making when the theatre group expanded its box-office draw by producing Krishnarjun Yuddha, starring the group's writer-actor Chintamanrao Kolhatkar. Unlike other films produced by Sangeet Natak companies (e.g. Lalitkalarsh), the film succeeded commercially and he co-directed three more with the group's owner-producer Vamanrao N. Bhatt. Scripted the mythological Pundalik (1936) and, according to his autobiography, co-d the film with V.N. Bhatt. Briefly studied film-making in the UK (1938); published his first novel, Ranangan (1938), on his return. Joined Prabhat briefly to write Shantaram's Shejari/ Padosi (1941), returning to the studio to script Ramshastri (1944, a re-edited version of which, credited to him, was later released as a children's film entitled Ramshastri Ka Nyay) and to direct Guru Dutt's début, Lakhrani. Made classic melodramas for Baburao Pendharkar's New Huns, Baburao Pai's Famous Pics and Minerva Movietone. Wrote Shantaram's Amar Bhoopali (1951). Directed some of the Ramsay Brothers' early productions (Rustom Sohrab, Ek Nannhi Munnhi Ladki Thi). Works in modernist frame defined by K. Narayan Kale's generation and G.B. Shaw; most of his literary and filmic work recasts stereotypes of pre-WWI Marathi social reform novels into the declamatory style of prose melodrama with increasingly complex storylines. As playwright, works include Brahmakumari, Vaje Paool Apule and Tilak Ani Agarkar (1980). Also scripted his films. Published autobiography, Ek Jhaad Ani Don Pakshi (1985).

P. C. Barua (left), Bhanu Bannerjee (centre) and Pahadi Sanyal (right) in Rajat Jayanti (1939)

and Raj Kapoor's Ab Dilli Door Nahin (1957). Briefly director of the radio station Jammu and Kashmir Broadcasting Service. Directorial debut in 1970 in the context of New Indian Cinema. His son, Narendra Bedi, had debuted as a director one year earlier.

programme. Later features are closer to the entertainment-led 'middle cinema'. Made several features (including fiction) on commission for clients, e.g. the National Dairy Development Board in Gujarat (Manthan), the CPI(M)-led Government of West Bengal (Aarohan), the Handloom Co-operatives (Susman), Indian Railways (Yatra), an Indo-Soviet government-sponsored feature-documentary (Nehru) and the 53-episode TV serial based on Nehru's book, The Discovery of India (Bharat Ek Khoj). Influential presence in national film policy organisations.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1934: Krishnarjun Yuddha; 1935: Satteche Prayog; Thakicha Lagna; 1936: Pundalik, Andheri Duniya; 1938: Lakshmiche Kheh; 1942: Pahila Palna; 1943: Paisa Bolto Aah! Nagad Narayan; 1945: Lakhrani; 1947: Chul Ani Muk; 1948: Mera Munna; 1950: Krantiveer Vasudev Balwant; 1951: Lokmanya Bal Gangadhar Tilak (Doc); Bhola Shankar; 1956: Ramshastri Ka Nyay; 1957: Talash; 1961: Do Bhai; 1963: Vinobha Bhawe: The Man (Doc); Rustom Sohrab; 1964: All God's Children (Doc); 1968: At the Service of Small Industries (Doc); 1970: Ek Nannhi Munni Ladki Thi; 1971: Jai Jawan Jai Makar; 1972: Bharat Ke Shaheed.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1970: Dastak; 1973: Phagun; 1978: Aankhin Dekhi; Nawab Sahib.

Benegal, Shyam (b. 1934)

Hindi director born in Trimulgherry, AP; also worked in Telugu. Made first amateur film aged 12 with father's camera; nephew of Guru Dutt. Studied economics at Osmania University, Hyderabad; involved in student theatre. Founded Hyderabad Film Society. Moved to Bombay and worked for Lintas advertising agency (1959-63) and for Advertising & Sales Promotion Co. (1963-73). Made more than 900 advertisements and 11 corporate films (1959-73). Worked as documentarist; taught at the FTII (1969) and at Bhavan College (1966-73). Received Homi Bhabha fellowship (1969-72), allowing a stay in Britain and in the USA where he worked as associate producer for Boston WGBH TV and with the Children's Television Workshop in New York. First feature, Ankur, with a 10-year-old script and independently financed, uses a quasi-realist style then considered antagonistic to the Hindi film industry. Its commercial success in the wake of Bhuvan Shome (1969) spawned a new sector of film-making later known as 'middle cinema' (cf. New Indian Cinema). Early work sited in rural environment (Ankur and Nishant in AP, Manthan in Gujarat), using professional actors but with explicit references to the peasant unrest, initially CPI(ML)-led (see Naxalite) and acquiring a national dimension after the failure of the 1971-2 harvests. This work provided an early aesthetic articulation of what would soon become official government media policy towards the rural areas via the SITE

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1962: Gher Betha Ganga (Sh); 1967: A Child of the Streets (Doc); Close to Nature (Doc); 1968: Indian Youth: An Exploration (Doc); Sinhasta: Path to Immortality (Doc); Poovanam (Sh); 1969: Flower Garden (Sh); 1970: Quest for a Nation (Doc); Why Export? (Doc); 1971: Pulsating Giant (Doc); Steel: A Whole New Way of Life (Doc); 1972: Tala and Rhythm (Doc); Sruti and Graces in Indian Music (Doc); Raga and Melody (Doc); Notes on the Green Revolution (Doc); Foundations of Progress (Doc); Power to the People (Doc); 1973: Ankur; Suhani Sadak (Doc); 1974: Violence: What Price? Who Pays? (No. 5) (Doc); You Can Prevent Burns (Doc); 1975: Charandas Chor; Nishant; Epilepsy (Doc); Hero (Sh); The Quiet Revolution Pt 1 (Doc); 1976: Manthan; Tomorrow Begins Today (Doc); Bhumika; 1977: Kondura/Anugraham; 1978: Junoon; 1979: The Quiet Revolution Pt 2 (Doc); Reaching Out to People (Doc); Pashu Palan (Doc); 1980: Kalyug; 1981: New Horizons in Steel (Doc); 1982: Aarohan; Growth for a Golden Future (Doc); 1983: Mandi; Sangathan (Doc); Vardan (Doc); Animal Reproduction and Artificial Insemination in Bovines (Doc); Tata Steel: Seventy Five Years of the Indian Steel Industry (Doc); Nehru (Doc); 1984: Satyajit Ray (Doc); 1985: Trikaal; Festival of India (Doc); 1986: Susman; Yatra (TV); Katha Sagar (TV); 1988:

Bedi, Narendra (1937-82)

Hindi director born in Bombay; son of Rajinder Singh Bedi. Arts degree from Bombay University and joined film industry as part of G.P. Sippy's production team. Debut film, produced by Sippy, is a Rajesh Khanna classic renovating the ruralist melodrama (cf. Bangarada Manushya, 1972). His second film, Jawani Diwani, a megahit, contained all-time R.D. Burman hits such as Tum kahan. Went on to make teenage musical romances in the 70s.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1969: Bandhan; 1972: Jawani Diwani; 1974: Benaam, Khote Sikkay, Dil Diwana; 1975: Raffoo Chakkar; 1976: Adalat, Maha Chor; 1981: Kachche Heere; 1982: Insaan; Sanam Teri Kasam; Taaqat.

Bedi, Rajinder Singh (1915-84)

Director born in Sialkot Dist. (now Pakistan). Major short-story writer in Urdu, seen with Krishan Chander and Sadat Hasan Manto as constituting a new radical literary generation in the context of WW2, Independence and Partition, following Premchand, who introduced khari boli style of 'common man's prose' into the courtly idiom prevalent in Urdu literature. Focused on experience of being a cultural and political refugee (e.g. Garam Coat, which he adapted to the screen in 1955) and peasant life (Ek Chadar Maili Si, his novel filmed by Sukhwant Dhadha with a Bedi script in 1986). Opposed notion of creative 'spontaneity' associated with Krishan Chander and Manto, strongly asserting craftsmanship (Bedi, 1989). Stories often overlay the everyday with references to the mythological (e.g. Grahan, 1972). Entered film as scenarist and dialogue writer in late 40s, working with Sohrab Modi (Mirza Ghalib, 1954), Bimal Roy (Devdas, 1955; Madhumati, 1958) and Hrishikesh Mukherjee (Anuradha, 1960; Memdidi, 1961; Anupama, 1966). Prolific scenario and dialogue writer, including Raj Khosla's Milap (1955) and Bambai Ka Babu (1960), Nitin Bose's Dooj Ka Chand (1964)

Shyam Benegal

Bharat Ek Khoj (TV); 1990: Nature Symphony (Doc); Abode of Kings: Rajasthan (Doc); A Quilt of Many Cultures: South India (Doc); 1992: Antarnaad; Suraj Ka Satwan Ghoda; 1994: Mammo.

Betaab, Narayan Prasad (1872-1945)

Playwright for Parsee theatre and scenarist mainly for the Ranjit Studio. Early stage successes Meetha Zaher (1905) and Zehari Saap (1906), written originally for the Parsee Natak Mandali, were extensively staged and filmed. Used the mythological genre (e.g. his best-known play, Mahabharata, for the Khatau-Alfred company, 1913) and inaugurated what the critic Agyaat called the Betaab Yug (c.1910-35), consolidating 19th C. efforts to define distinctively Hindi playwriting practice. Whereas the 19th C. stage mythological mainly adapted familiar musical compositions interspersed with prose commentaries, the improvisational style of a traditional kathakaar, the Betaab style codified a more contemporary genre, determined politically by his explicitly brahminical adherences (underlined by his editorship of the journal Brahma Bhatt Darpan). His example greatly influenced the genre's cinematic form. Also created Hindi versions of original screenplays by e.g. Chandulal Shah. After working at Ranjit, Betaab wrote scripts for Madan, Ambika, Sharda and Saroj Studios. Definitive biography by Vidyavati Namra (1972). Story, dial and/or lyr credits include Chandulal Shah's Devi Devayani (1931), Radha Rani, Sati Savitri, Sheilbala (all 1932), Vishwamohini, Miss 1933 (both 1933), Barrister's Wife, Keemti Aansoo (both 1935) and Pardesi Pankhi (1937); Jayant Desai's Krishna Sudama (1933), Nadira, Sitamgarh, Veer Babruwahan (all 1934), College Girl, Noor-e-Watan (both 1935), Raj Ramani (1936) and Prithvi Putra (1938); J.J. Madan's Zehari Saap (1933); Nandlal Jaswantlal's Pardesi Preetam (1933) and Kashmeera (1934); Raja Sandow's Raat Ki Rani (1935); Gunjal's Ambarish (1934); Nanubhai Desai and J.P. Advani's Shah Behram (1935); R.S. Choudhury's Kal Ki Baat (1937); Advani's Sneh Bandhan (1940) and Parashuram by Ramnik Desai (1947).

Bhaduri, Sisir Kumar (1889-1959)

Bengali director and actor born in Howrah, Bengal. Legendary figure in early 20th C. Bengali theatre embodying the transition from the 19th C. theatre dominated by Girishchandra Ghosh to a modernist sensibility that later assimilated aspects of Meyerhold, Reinhard and Brecht. Established reputation as actor while still at university, playing role of Kedar in Rabindranath Tagore's play Boikunter Khata (1912). Lectured in English at Metropolitan Institute (later Bidyasar College) 1914-21. First professional theatre appearance in title role of the landmark Bengali play, Alamgir, produced by Bengali Theatrical Co. controlled by Madan (1921). Established own theatre company, Natyamandir (1923), with Jogesh

Choudhury's Seeta, a play redefining conventions of the mythological with greater emphasis on dramatically coherent performance idiom, elimination of stage wings and orchestra pit and a new type of background music (by Nripendra Nath Majumdar) in harmony with the songs of K.C. Dey. Best-known productions include re-edited 'traditional' plays by Girish Ghosh and D.L. Roy, influential stage interpretations of Tagore and, at the Srirangam theatre (1942-56), plays by a new generation of writers like Tulsi Lahiri (Dukhir Iman) and Premankur Atorothy (Takht-e-Taus). Several of Bengal's best-known actors, writers, musicians and technicians entered film via his theatre company and the Star Theatre. Participant in cultural anti-Fascist front and one of the very few commercial theatre personalities acknowledged by the IPTA as having influenced its own radical practice: his theatre hosted the IPTA's inaugural production, Nabanna (1943). Entered film as actor-director at Madan Theatres (1921). Founded and briefly ran his own Taj Mahal Studio (1922), returned to Madan and then worked at New Theatres and at Priyanath Ganguly's Kali Films. Best-known films (Seeta, Talkie of Talkies and Chanakya) are adapted from his stage plays. Acted in films he directed as well as in Satish Dasgupta's Poshya Putra, 1943.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1921: Mohini; 1922: Andhare Alo, Kamale Kamini; 1929: Bicharak (all St); 1932: Palli Samaj; 1933: Seeta; 1937: Talkie of Talkies; 1939: Chanakya.

Bhagavathar, C. Honnappa (1914-92)

Kannada and Tamil actor and singer born in Choudasandra village, Karnataka. Trained in classical Carnatic music by Shamanna and Sambandhamurthy Bhagavathar. Acted in Company Natak plays in Gubbi Veeranna's troupe, but his debut was in the Tamil cinema, often acting in Modern Theatres films, e.g. T.R. Sundaram's Burma Rani, Subhadra. Introduced into Kannada via Veeranna productions directed by H.L.N. Simha (Hemareddy Malamma, Gunasagari). Later played in remarkable Saint films (K.R. Seetarama Sastry's Mahakavi Kalidasa), usually providing his own music. His music, performances and acting remain definitive of the genre in Kannada and Tamil. Also produced films, e.g. Uzhavukkum Thozhilukkum Vandhanai Seivom.

FILMOGRAPHY (* also music d): 1941: Subhadra; 1942: Sati Sukanya; 1943: Arundhati, Devakanya; 1944: Burma Rani, Prabhavati, Rajarajeshwari; 1945: Hemareddy Malamma; Bhakta Kalathi; Subhadra; 1946: Kundalakesi; Shri Murugar; Valmiki; 1948: Bhakta Jana; Gokula Das; 1949: Devamanohari; 1953: Gunasagari; 1955: *Mahakavi Kalidasa; 1956: Pancharathna; 1959: *Uzhavukkum Thozhilukkum Vandhanai Seivom; Jagatjyoti Basaveshwara; 1979: Sadananda.

Bhagavathar, M. Krishnamurthy Thyagaraja (1909-59)

One of the first major Tamil singing stars, introduced in K. Subramanyam's mythological Pavalakkodi (as Arjuna). Born into a family of goldsmiths in Tiruchi; joined the theatre as a child in F.G. Natesa Iyer's troupe and went on to become the biggest Tamil stage star, sporting shoulder-length hair, diamond ear-rings and kohl around his eyes. After a successful film debut, became briefly the highest-paid actor in South India, despite appearing in only 11 films, with classic performances in Duncan's Ambikapathy, Y.V. Rao's Chintamani and Raja Chandrasekhar's Ashok Kumar, and the folk legend of the reformed saint Haridas, a major commercial hit. Helped launch the mainstream Newtone Studio (1937). As a musician, he adhered to the Tamizhisai movement, emphasising Tamil traditions as opposed to the Carnatic idiom dominated by Telugu, Kannada and Sanskrit. Arrested with N.S. Krishnan and jailed in 1945 for two years for the infamous Lakshmikantan murder (in which the two stars allegedly had a film gossip columnist, C.N. Lakshmikantan, killed). Made a high-profile comeback with two of his own productions: Chandrasekhar's Raja Mukthi failed but is remembered as the debut of playback singer M.L. Vasanthakumari. Turned to direction with his last film Pudhu Vazhvu. Biography by Vindhan (1983).

FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1934: Pavalakkodi; 1935: Sarangadhara; 1936: Satya Seelan; 1937: Ambikapathy; Chintamani; 1939: Thiruneelakantar; 1941: Ashok Kumar; 1943: Sivakavi; 1944: Haridas; 1948: Raja Mukthi; 1952: Amarakavi; 1957: *Pudhu Vazhvu; 1960: Sivagami.

Bhagwan, Master (b. 1913)

Hindi and Marathi actor and director; born Bhagwan Abhaji Palav in Bombay, the son of a mill worker. After devoting himself to body-building, he started in the silent era with his long-term partner, Chandraro Kadam, in G.P. Pawar-directed stunt movies. Co-directed first feature with Pawar (1938), then producer (1942) with Jagriti Pics and Bhagwan Art Prod.; eventually owner of Jagriti Studios, Chembur (1947). Success of Albela established him briefly as a major post-Independence producer. Starred as a dancer and naive simpleton in many stunt, adventure and comedy movies. Acting style associated mainly with the elaboration of a minimalist dance movement which arguably became a major behavioural influence on Hindi film audiences (e.g. Bachchan's dances, which today determine how people move on the streets in wedding or religious processions, bear the mark of Bhagwan's influence). Balraj Sahni wrote that while Raj Kapoor and Dilip Kumar are [m]uch more popular than he is, they do not enjoy the popularity among the poorer classes that Bhagwan Dada does. [The working class] sees in him their own image and what endears him to them is that he, a fellow member of the proletariat, should make a beauty like Geeta Bali fall in love with him.' (Sahni, 1979). Since the early 70s, he has been largely relegated to cameo roles and comedy routines.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1931: Bewafa Ashq; 1933: Daivi Khajina; Pyari Katar; Jalta Jigar; (All St); 1935: Himmat-e-Mard; 1936: Bharat Ka Lal; 1937: Chevrolet 1936; 1938: *Bahadur Kisan (co-d C. Kadam); 1939: *Criminal; *Jayakkod; 1941: *Raja Gopichand; *Vanamohini; Premabandhan; 1942: *Sukhi Jeevan; 1943: *Badla; 1944: *Bahadur; 1945: *Nagma-E-Sahra; Ji Haan; 1946: Nargis; *Dost; 1947: *Matwale; *Shake Hands; *Bahadur Pratap; Madadgaar; 1948: *Jalan; *Lalach; *Matlab; Tumhari Kasam; 1949: *Bachke Rehna; *Bhedi Bungla; *Bhole Bhale; *Jigar; Bhole Piya; Bigde Dil; Jeete Raho; Joker; Khush Raho; Pyar Ki Raat; Roop Lekha; Shaukeen; 1950: Achhaji; Aflatoon; Baksheesh; Dushmani; Jodidar; *Babuji; Jungle Man; Rangile Musafir; 1951: *Albela; Actor; Bade Saheb; Bhola Shankar; Damaad; Gazab; Ram Bharose; 1952: Baghdad; Bhoole Bhatke; Daryai Luteri; Goonj; Sinbad the Sailor; 1953: Char Chand; *Rangila; *Jhamela; Shamsheer; 1954: *Halla Gulla; 1955: Deewar; Jhanak Jhanak Payal Baaje; Oonchi Haveli; Chhabila; *Pyara Dushman; 1956: Badshah Salamat; Char Minar; Chori Chori; Mr Lambur; Sheikh Chill; *Passing Show; *Bhagambhag; *Kar Bhala; 1957: Adhi Roti; Agra Road; Beti; Coffee House; Garma Garma; Gateway of India; Raja Vikram; Ustad; Uthavala Narad; 1958: Don Ghadicha Dav; Chaalbaaz; Dulhan; Mr Q; Naya Kadam; Son Of Sinbad; *Bhala Adm; *Sachche Ka Bol Bala; 1959: Chalis Din; Chacha Zindabad; Duniya Na Mane; Kangan; Lal Nishan; Madam XYZ; Mohar; O Tera Kya Kehana; 1960: Diler Hasina; Nakhrewali; Rangila Raja; Road No. 303; Zimbo Comes To Town; 1961: Salaam Memsaab; Sapan Suhane; *Shola Jo Bhadke; Lucky Number; Stree; Teen Ustad; Zamana Badal Gaya; 1962: Baghdad Ki Raatein; Madam Zapata; Rocket Girl; Tower House; 1963: Awara Abdulla; Magic Box; Rustom-e-Baghdad; Dekha Pyar Tumhara; 1964: Aandhi Aur Toofan; Magic Carpet; Hukum Ka Ekka; Main Bhi Ladki Hoor; Tarzan and Delilah; 1965: *Hum Diwane; Adventure Of Robin Hood and Bandits; Bekhabar; Flying Man; Khakaan; Sher Dil; Sinbad Alibaba and Alladdin; Tarzan and King Kong; Tarzan Comes To Delhi; Chor Darwaza; 1966: Chale Hain Sasural; Duniya Hai Dilwalon Ki; *Labela; Daku Mangal Singh; Ladka Ladki; Veer Bajrang; 1967: Albela Mastana; Chhaila Babur; Duniya Nachegi; Gunehgaar; Hum Do Daku; Trip To The Moon; Arabian Nights; 1968: Jhuk Gaya Aasmaan; Bai Mothi Bhagyachi; 1969: Goonda; Inteqam; The Killers; Raat Ke Andhere Mein; 1970: Geet; Mangu Dada; Choron Ka Chor; Night in Calcutta; Suhana Safar; Lakshman Resha; 1971: Aag Aur Daag; Guddi; Hangama; Joi Bangla Desh; Mera Gaon Mera Desh; Tere Mere Sapne; 1972: Putli Bai; Aan Baan; Tangewala; Sultana Daku; Gaon Hamara Shaher Tumhara; Do Chor; Raaste Ka Patthar; 1973: Taxi Driver; Chhaila; Barkha Bahar; Banarasi Babu; Chori Chori; Shareef Badmash; Mahasati Savitri; 1974: Badhti Ka Naam Daadhi; Balak Dhruv; Imaan; Tarzan Mera Saathi; Aarop; Badla; Paap Aur Punya; Aparadhi; Dulhan; 1975: Faraar; Jaun Hazir Hai; Kala Sona; Maze Le Lo; Natak; Zindagi Aur Toofan; Daku Aur Bhagwan; Ek Gaon Ki Kahani; Jaggu; Mazaq; Raffoo Chakkar; Zorro; Bhoola Bhatka; Shantata!; Khoon Jhala Aahe; 1976: Naag Champa; Sangram; Alibaba; Toofan Aur Bijli; 1977: Banyabapu; Bhingri; Navara Mazha Brahmachari; Ram Ram Gangaram; Chakkar Pe Chakkar; Jai Vijay; Khel Khiladi Ka; Agent Vinod; Mandir Masjid; Saheb Bahadur; Mukti; 1978: Azad; Darwaza; Kasme Vade; Khoon Ka Badla Khoon; Main Tuli Tere Aangan Ki; Sampoorna Sant Darshan; Ganga Sagar; Sawan Ke Geet; Bhairu Pahelwan Ki Jai; 1979: Aitya Bilavar Nagoba; Apli Manse; Ahimsa; Do Hawaldar; Gawah; Heera Moti; Naya Bakra; Jaun-e-Bahar; Raja Harishchandra; 1980: Asha; Karwa Chouth; Mera Salaam; Phatakadi; Hyoch Navara Pahije; Sharan Tula Bhagavanta; Aap To Aise Na The; Badrinath Dham; Bombay 405 Miles; Bulandi; Do Premi; Ganga Aur Suraj; Jyoti Bane Jwala; Khoon Kharaba; Nazrana Pyar Ka; Phir Wohi Raat; Yeh Kaisa Insaaf; Choravar Mor; 1981: Chanwa Ke Take Chakor; Ganga Aur Sarju; Biwi-o-Biwi; Chalti Ka Naam Zindagi; Fifty-Fifty; Gehra Zakhm; Qatilon Ke Qatil; Kranti; Lubna; Sahas; Ustadi Ustad Se; Do Posti; Shitala Mata; Commander; Chhupa Chhupi; Govinda Ala Re Ala; Laath Marin Tithe Pani; 1982: Honey; Ali Angavar; Preet Na Jaane Reet; 1983: Dard-e-Dil; Bindiya Chamkegi; Aao Pyar Karen; Bekhabar; Jai Baba Amarnath; Kaise Kaise Log; 1984: Bhatke Rahee; Bhool; Love Marriage; Mera Dost Mera Dushman; Meri Kahani; Jhootha Sach; Yaadgaar; Ali Lahar Kela Kahar; Bahurupi; Chorachya Manaat Chandani; Gulchhad; 1985: Pyari Bhabhi; 1986: Andheri Raat Mein Diya Tere Haath Mein; Bijli; Dhondi Dhondi Pani De; 1987: Bola Dajiba; Chhakke Panje; Prem Karuya Khullam Khulla; Diwana Tere Naam Ka; Tarzan and Cobra; 1988: Halaal Ki Kamai; Khatarnak; 1989: Ilaaka; Ina Mina Dika; Navara Baiko; 1990: Naache Nagin Gali Gali; 1992: Sagale Sarkhech.

Bhagyaraj, Krishnaswamy (b. 1953)

Top Tamil director once declared by MGR to be his cinematic heir. Dropped out of colleges in Coimbatore; was a rickshaw puller and a circus clown in Kakinada. In Madras, became assistant to G. Ramakrishna and Bharathirajaa, debuting in the latter's films as actor (first major role in Puthiya Varpugal) and scenarist (Kizhakke Pokum Rayil, Sigappu Rojakkal, both 1978; Niram Maratha Pookal, 1979; Oru Kaithiyin Diary, 1985) originally starring Kamalahasan. Directorial debut with the hit Suvar Illatha Chitrangal established a distinctive style, with the director usually playing the comic underdog in rural dramas, often with a comic sidekick who undermines his pretensions to heroism. Also scored some of his films. Several were remade in Hindi, often by Bapu: (e.g. Andha 7 Natkal remade as Woh Saat Din, 1983; Thooral Ninnu Pochu as Mohabbat, 1985). Other remakes include Mundhanai Mudichu as K. Raghavendra Rao's Masterji (1985) and Enga Chinna Raja as Indra Kumar's 90s hit Beta (1992). Bhagyaraj's big-budget Hindi Bachchan film Aakhri Raasta is a remake of Oru Kaithiyin Diary (1984). Made an abortive effort to enter politics (1989). Married Hindi/Tamil actress Poornima Jayaram. Edits and publishes the tabloid journal Bhagya.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* only act): 1979: *Puthiya Varpugal; *Kanni Paruvathinile; Suvar Illatha Chitrangal; 1980: *Bhama Rukmini; *Kumari Pennin Ullathiley; Oru Kai Osai; 1981: Mouna Geethangal; Indru Poyi Nalai Vaa; Veedyum Varai Kathiru; Andha Ezhu Natkal; 1982: Thooral Ninnu Pochu; Darling Darling Darling; Poyi Satchi; 1983: Mundhanai Mudichu; Thavani Kanavukal; 1984: *Oomai Janangal; Mayadari Mogudu; 1985: Chinna Veedu; Chithirame Chithirame; Aakhri Raasta; *Naan Sigappu Manithan; 1987: Enga Chinna Rasa; 1988: Vaddante Pelli; *Idu Namma Alu; 1989: Araro Ariraro; 1990: Avasara Police 100; Sundara Kandam; 1991: Pavunnu Pavanuthan; *Rudra; 1992: *Ammavandachu; Rasakutty; 1993: Veetile Visheshanga; 1995: Oru Oorile Oru Rajakumari.

Bhanumathi, Pal uvayi (b. 1924)

Aka Bhanumathi Ramakrishna. Born in Guntur Dist., AP. Actress-director and grande dame of the Telugu and Tamil cinemas. Her now legendary performances at the Vauhini and Gemini Studios were among their earliest post-WW2 bids for All-India Film industrial status. Major singing star of 40s/50s; later studio owner with her husband P.S. Ramakrishna Rao (Bharani Studios, 1947), scenarist, music composer, film-maker and popular author of 'mother-in-law' short stories (the Attagari Kathalu series). Film debut as teenager in C. Pullaiah's reformist melodrama Varavikrayam as Kalindi, a daughter who commits suicide because her parents cannot afford her wedding dowry. Her first major success came in the bizarre role of a village girl who grows into a 'society lady' in B.N. Reddi's Swargaseema. Mid-40s Telugu films, in addition to conventional mythologicals by Balaramaiah and Babu (Krishna Prema), often cast her in comedies dealing with anxieties about traditional (sometimes rural) cultures assimilating aspects of Western modernity, a subject central to much popular reform literature: in Y.V. Rao's Tehsildar she wears high heels and attends a British tea party; Prasad's 'feminist' Grihapravesham opens with her playing badminton and confronting the misogynist hero. This context, and her unique ability to function simultaneously in the reformist-social and the traditional mythological genres, was later used to remarkable effect in Nallathambi, the seminal DMK Film, and in the Gemini trilingual adventure drama, Apoorva Sahodarargal. Her incarnation of 'tradition', exemplified and stressed by her music, was later put to ideological use in the genre still most closely associated with her: 'damsel-in-distress' performances in MGR's Robin Hood-derived vigilante films (Malaikallan, Alibabavum Narpatha Thirudargalum, Madurai Veeran). Her music drew on C. Ramchandra, Arabian folk (Swargaseema, Laila Majnu) and even Pat Boone, but she is best remembered for her versions of Thyagaraja's kirtis and Purandaradasa's bhajans, which led to her being nominated Principal of the Government College of Music in Madras in the mid-80s. Her songs and dances are featured in the compilation film, Chitramala (1985). Wrote her autobiography Naalo Neno (1993).

FILMOGRAPHY (* also d/ also music d):

1939: Varavikrayam, 1940: Malathi Madhavam, Dharmapatni, 1941: Bhaktimala, 1943: Garuda Garvabhangam, Krishna Prema, 1944: Tehsildar, 1945: Swargaseema, 1946: Grihapravesham, 1947: Ratnamala, 1948: Rajamukthi, 1949: Laila Majnu, Raksharekha, Ratnakumar, Apoorva Sahodarargal/ Nishan, Nallathambi, Devamanohari, 1950: Apoorva Sahodarulu, 1951: Mangala, Malleeswari, 1952: Prema/ Kathal, Rani, 1953: Shamsheer, Chandiran, 1954: Malaikallan, Aggiramudu, Chakrapani*, Vipranarayana*, 1955: Kalvanin Kadhal, Alibabavum Narpatha Thirudargalum, 1956: Rambayin Kadhal, Sadaram, Thaikku Pinn Tharam, Tenali Ramakrishna/Tenali Ramar, Madurai Veeran, Rangoon Radha, Chintamani*, 1957: Ambikapathy, Makkalai Petra Maharasi, Nala Damayanti, Sarangadhara, Rani Lalithang, Varudukavali/Manamagal Thevai*, 1958: Nadodi Mannan, 1959: Mani Mekalai, Bandaramudu/Adisaya Thirudan, 1960: Raja Bhakti, Raja Desingu, 1961: Batasari/Kanal Neer*, 1962: Annai/ Penchina Prema, 1963: Anuragam, Arivali, Kalai Arasi, Kanchi Thalavai, 1964: Bobbili Yuddham, Vivahabandham*, 1965: Sarasa BA, Todu Needa, Antastulu, 1966: Palnati Yuddham, 1967: Pattathu Rani, Grihalakshmi, Punyavati, Nai Roshni, 1970: Kadhal Jyothi, 1971: Mattilo Manikyam, 1972: Anta Mana Manchike*/, 1973: Vichitra Vivaham, Kattilla Thottilla, 1974: Tatamma Kala, Mangalya Bhagyam, Ammayi Pelli, Pathumatha Bandham, Swathi Nakshatram, Thayi Pirandhal, 1975: Pandanti Samsaram, Eduppar Kayi Pillai, Ippadiyum Oru Penn/, 1976: Manamara Vazhthungal, Vanga Sambandhi Vanga/, Manavadi Kosam/, 1980: Rachayithri/, Oke Naati Rathri/, 1982: Bhakta Dhruva Markandeya/, 1984: Mangammagari Manavudu, 1985: Muddula Manavaralu, 1986: Attagaru Swagatham, 1987: Mandala Dheesudu, 1988: Attagaru Zindabad, 1989: Bammamata Bangaru Pata, 1992: Periamma/*, Samrat Ashok, Peddarikam, 1993: Asadhuralu.

Bharathan, B. G. (1946-98)

Successful Malayalam and Tamil director and nephew of P.N. Menon. Had a substantial art-house following in his early career. Born in Vadakkancheri, Trichur Dist., Kerala. Graduate of Trichur School of Art; professional painter before he joined films as a set designer and publicist. Produced his debut feature from his own story, later also composing the lyrics and the music for his own features. His films often draw their iconography from Padmarajan's writings, depending on few characters, addressing sexuality set in a bleak moral landscape that metes out primal justice (e.g. the snakebite and divine intervention in Rathi Nirvedham). The format was extended into an indigenous version of the western with the big-budget CinemaScope film Thazhvaram, in which a stranger (Mohanlal) appears in the frontier town to settle a long-standing feud. Changed his idiom for his major hit, Thevar Magan, written and produced by Kamalhasan and devoted to the star's self-image.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1975: Prayanam, 1977: Guruvayoor Kesavan, Aniyara, 1978: Aravam, Rathi Nirvedham, 1979: Thakara, Chamaram, 1980: Lorry, Savithri, 1981: Chatta, Nidra, Palangal, Parvathi, Parankimala, Rani, 1982: Ormakkayi, Marmaram, 1983: Eenum, Sandhya Mayungam Neram, Kattathe Kilikoodu, 1984: Ente Upasana, Ithiri Poove Chuvannapoove, 1985: Kathodu Kathoram, Ozhivukalam, Unjaladum Uravugal, 1986: Chilampur, Pranamam, Nilakurinhi Poothappol, 1987: Oru Minnamingunte Nurungu Vettam, 1988: Oru Sayahnathinte Swapnam, Vaishali, 1989: Thazhvaram, 1990: Malootty, 1991: Amaran, 1992: Thevar Magan, Avarampu, Vengalam, 1993: Chamayam, Padhayam.

Bharatidasan (1891-1964)

Major Tamil poet, playwright and scenarist. Seminal figure in the Tamil nationalist movement, prefiguring the regional political ideology of the Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (cf. DMK Film). Changed his name in 1908 from Kanaka Subburathnam to Bharatidasan, 'disciple of Bharati', in honour of his mentor, the poet Subramanya Bharati. Wrote religious poems and was briefly a follower of Gandhi; later became an atheist under the influence of Periyar E.V. Ramaswamy Naicker and joined the Dravidar Kazhagam. Published his first anthology, Bharatidasan Kavitaikal in 1938 (collected works published in 1977). Mounted several attacks on religious brahminism using a demotic Tamil; militantly affirmed a Tamil identity against Northern hegemony. Film debut in P.V. Rao's Balamani (1937) as dialogue writer-lyricist. His dialogues for Duncan's Kalamegham (1940) led to a long-term association with Modern Theatres where he wrote e.g. T.R. Sundaram's Subhadra (1945) and Sulochana (1946), achieving mass popularity with Sundaram's Apoorva Chintamani (1947), followed by the story/dialogue/lyrics of Duncan's Ponmudi (1949). Also wrote Sundaram's Valayapathi (1952). Poems have been used as lyrics in numerous Tamil films, notably P. Neelakantan's Ore Iravu (1951).

Bharathirajaa (b. 1944)

Real name Chinnaswamy. Successful Tamil director and scenarist; also worked extensively in Hindi and Telugu. Born in Allinagaram, Madurai, TN. Joined films having apparently been obsessed with Sivaji Ganesan's movies during his childhood in a peasant family. Assisted K.S. Sethumadhavan (1968), P. Pullaiah and Puttanna Kanagal (whose influence he acknowledges). Debut with Pathinaru Vayathinile, scored by his childhood friend Ilaiyaraja, establishing both composer and lead star Sridevi in the Tamil cinema. It was remade in Hindi as Solva Sawan. Went on to adapt the middle-class melodramas of C.V. Sridhar and K. Balachander into a new genre of the rural 'realist' film based on folk ritual (often featuring the local village deity as dramatic pivot, as in Vedham Pudithu), while introducing technocentric fantasy elements. His reliance on emotionally heightened psychodrama, with nature itself or its invocation through ritual playing a crucial part in the narrative, elaborates the Kanagal style, as at the end of Kizhakke Pokum Rayil when, in the nick of time, the hero saves the heroine from being sacrificed to placate the flooding river. This work, notably after the controversial and critically acclaimed Karuthamma (1994), has been recently revalued in the context of the relative absence of a New Indian Cinema in Tamil. Most of his non-Tamil films are remakes of Tamil hits (e.g. Lovers remakes Alaigal Oyvathillai, Savere Wali Gadi remakes Kizhakke Pokum Rayil). Best-known work, Sigappu Rojakkal, is a slasher film directed against women. It was remade with Rajesh Khanna in Hindi as Red Rose and triggered protests from feminists in Bombay and Delhi. Introduced several new actors in Tamil, e.g. Radha, Revathi, Radhika, Rekha, Bhagyaraj and Karthik.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1977: Pathinaru Vayathinile, 1978: Kizhakke Pokum Rayil, Sigappu Rojakkal, Solva Sawan, 1979: Puthiya Varpugal, Niram Maratha Pookal/ Niram Maradha Pushpangal, Yar Gulabi, 1980: Red Rose, Kallukkul Eram, Nizhalgal, Kotha Jeevithulu, 1981: Alaigal Oyvathillai, Tik Tik Tik, Seethakoka Chilaka, 1982: Kathal Oviyam, Valibame Vaa, 1983: Mann Vasana, Lovers, Pudhumai Penn, 1984: Oru Kaithiyin Diary, 1985: Ee Tharam Illalu, Muthal Mariyathai, Savere Wali Gadi, Yuvatharam Pilichindi, 1986: Kadalora Kavathaikal, 1987: Vedham Pudithu, Aradhana, 1988: Jamadagni, Kodiparakkuthu, 1989: En Uyir Thozham, 1991: Pudhu Nello Pudhu Nathu, 1992: Nadodi Thendra, Captain Magal, 1993: Kizhakku Seemayile, 1994: Karuthamma, 1995: Pasumponn, Anthimantharai.

Bhasi, Adoor (1929-90)

Malayalam cinema's best-known film star in the 60s and 70s after Prem Nazir. Until 1980, he starred in a third of all films made in Malayalam. Born in Adoor, originally named K. Bhaskaran Nair. A former textile technologist and stage performer, he went into films when he moved to Madras and worked briefly as production manager on Tamil films. A renowned comedian, he continued the slapstick style introduced into Malayalam cinema by S.P. Pillai. His first major role was as Anachal Krishna Pillai in P. Bhaskaran's Adya Kiranangal. Later developed the persona of the wide-eyed, wooden-faced and sometimes unsmiling figure delivering lines in a staccato rhythm, which recalled the literary satires of his father, E.V. Krishna Pillai (1894-1938), especially in Kavya Mela, where he plays a poet directly reminiscent of Krishna Pillai's Kavitakkesu (1929). His style evoked the major tradition of Malayalam farces pioneered by the plays of C.V. Raman Pillai, later used to parody the romantic poetry of the post-Vallathol era. As such, Bhasi functions as the satirical, even cynical, counter to Prem Nazir's extension of the romantic tradition as he mouths the lyrics of Vyalar Rama Varma. Bhasi's best-known performance outside Kerala is in John Abraham's Cheriyachente Kroora Krithyangal, masterfully cast as the cowering Cherian consumed by guilt. Also remembered for his out-of-character 'serious' role as the father in Aravindan's Uttarayanam, and for his triple role in Padunna Puzha. Also directed four films. Contested the Trivandrum Corp elections as an Independent candidate backed by the Left parties, but lost.

Adoor Bhasi and Manorama in Vidyarthikale Ithile Ithile (1971)

Odeyil Ninnu, Kadattukaran; Porter Kunjali; Inapravugal; Muthalaly, Kalyanaphoto; Ammu; Thankakudam; Kattuthulasi; Mayavi; Jeevitha Yatra; Rajamalli; Kattupookal; Kathiruna Nikkah; Kochumoni; Bhoomiyile Malakha; Shakuntala; Pattu Thoovala; Chettathi; Kavya Mela; Murappennu; Thommente Makkal; Sarpakadu; 1966: Kalithozher; Kusirihikuttan/Anni; Archana; Station Master; Pakal Kinavu; Rowdy; Pinchu Hridayam; Jail; Kootukar; Kalyana Rathriyil; Kayamkulam Kochunni; Tharavatamma; Kanmanikal; Puchakanni; Kallipennu; Kanakachilanka; Karuna; Sthanarathi Saramma; Tilottama; Priyatama; Mayor Nair; Kunjali Marakkar; 1967: Ashwamedham; Ramanar; Sahadharmini; Jeevikan Anuvadhikuka; Irutinte Atmavu; Agniputhri; Kottayam Kola Case; Udyogastha; Postmar; Kudumbam; Mainatharuvi Kola Case; Madatharuvi; Aval; Bhagyamudra; Kannatha Veshankal; Anveshichu Kandatiyilla; Chitramela; Nagarame Nandi; Pavapettava; Pareeksha; Cochin Express; N.G.O.; Kavalam Chundan; Nadan Pennu; Kasavuthattam; Swapnabhoomi; 1968: Thirichadi; Viruthan Sanku; Manaswini; Inspector; Dial 2244; Asuravithu; Vazhipizhacha Santhathi; Karthika; Padunna Puzha; Punnapra Vyalar; Lakshaprabhu; Love in Kerala; Kaliyalla Kalyanam; Yakshi; Thulabharam; Midumidukki; Anju Sundariga; Aparadhini; Kodungalluramma; Velutha Kathrina; Agni Pareeksha; Kayalkarayil; Bharyamar Sukshikuka; 1969: Vila Kuranja Manushyar; Anashchadanam; Padicha Kallan; Veetu Mrugham; Almaram; Kattukurangu; Mr Kerala; Rahasyam; Susie; Adimagal; Kannur Deluxe; Sandhya; Kadalpalam; Mooladhanam; Jwala; Vilakkapetta Bandhangal; Nadhi; Danger Biscuit; Kootu Kudumbam; Virunnukari; Rest House; 1970: Ambalapravu; Kurukshetram; Moodalamanju; Pearl View;

Saraswathi; Amma Enna Stree; Anatha; Palunku Pathram; Kalpana; Stree; Vazhve Mayam; Cross Belt; Ezhuthatha Katha; Bhikara Nimishankal; Dattuputhran; Rakta Pushpam; Vivaham Swargathil; Othenente Makar; Kuttavali; Vivahitha; Kakathampurati; A Chitrashalabham Paranotte; Priya; Lottery Ticket; Triveni; Tara; Aranazhikaneram; 1971: Abhijathyam; Line Bus; Achante Bharya; Neethi; CID Nazir; Moonnupukkal; Inquilab Zindabad; Marunattil Oru Malayali; Karakanakadal; Ummachu; Vilakku Vangiya Veena; Shiksha; Oru Penninte Katha; Lanka Dahanam; Vidyarthikale Ithile Ithile; Vithuka; 1972: Sambhavami Yuge Yuge; Nadan Premam; Aradi Manninte Janmi; Kandavarundo; Pushpanjali; Devi; Maya; Manthrakodi; Manushya Bandhangal; Aromalunni; Taxi Car; Mayiladam Kunnu; Omana; Kalippava; Ini Oru Janmam Tharu; Chemparathi; Achannum Bappayum; Oru Sundariyude Katha; Miss Mary; Punarjanmam; Maraivil Thiruvu Sukshikuha; Gandharvakshetram; Nrithyasala; Azhimukham; Anveshanam; Snehadeepame Mizhi Thurakku; Brahmachari; Ananthasayanam; Putrakameshti; Shakti; Sathi; Postmane Kananilla; Chhayam; Teerthayatra; Maram; 1973: Police Ariyaruthu; Football Champion; Agnathavasam; Enippadikal; Panchavati; Bhadra Deepam; Thiruvabharanam; Masappadi Mathupilla; Kalachakram; Udayam; Ponnapuram Kotta; Aradhika; Kavitha; Kaliyugam; Chenda; Veendum Prabhatam; Manushya Puthran; Rakkuyil; Thani Niram; Ladies' Hostel; Darshanam; Achan; Soundarya Pooja; Urvasi Bharathi; Thenaruvi; Pacha Nottuka; Pavangal Pennungal; Nakhangal; Kapalika; Dharma Yuddham; Prethangalude Thazhvara; Chukku; Driksakshi; Sastram Jayichu Manushyan Thottu; Interview; Poyi Mukhangal; Manasu; Thottavadi; Divya Darshanam; Ithu Manushiano?; Checkpost; Thekkan Kattu; Madhavikutty; Padmavyuham; Angathattu; 1974: Manyashri Vishwamithram; Chanchala; Oru Pidi Ari; Pattabhishekham; Shapamoksham; Chandrakantham; Suprabhatam; Nathoor; Panchatanthram; Rahasya Rathri; Durga; Setu Bandhanam; Nellu; Alaka; Poonthenaruvi; Neela Kannukal; Chattakkari; Night Duty; Nagaram Sagaram; Aswathi; College Girl; Swarna Vigramam; Ayalathe Sundari; Kalyana Saugandhikam; Chakravakam; Thacholi Marumagan Chandu; Thumbolarcha; Nadhi Nadanmare Avasiandumu; Raja Hamsam; Sapta Swaranga; Uttarayanam; Bhoomidevi Pushpinnyayi; Arakallan Mukkal Kallan; Chief Guest; Swarna Malsiyam; 1975: Abhimanam; Alibaba and Forty-one Thieves; Aranyakandam; Babu Mor; Boy Friend; Cheenavala; Chumadu Thangi; Chuvanna Sandhyaka; Criminals; Dharmakshetre Kurukshetre; Hello Darling; Kottaram Vilakkanundu; Kuttichathan; Love Marriage; Madhura Pathinezhur; Makkal; Manishada; Mattoru Seeta; Mucheettu Kalikarante Magal; Neela Ponmar; Omana Kunju; Padmaragam; Palazhi Madhanam; Pennpada; Picnic; Pravaham; Ragam; Sammanam; Surya

FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1961:

Mudiyanaya Puthran; Gnana Sundari; 1962: Veluthampi Dalawa; Bhagya Jatakam; Viyarppinte Vila; 1963: Ninamaninja Kalpadukal; Moodupadam; Satyabhama; Chilampoli; Ammeye Kannar; 1964: Devalayam; Thacholi Othenar; Kuttikkuppayam; School Master; Atom Bomb; Oralkoodi Kalanayi; Karutha Kayi; Adya Kiranangal; Bhargavi Nilayam; Bharthavu; Kalanjukuttiya Thangam; Kudumbini; Althara; 1965: Devatha; Shyamalachechi;

Vamsam; Thamarathoni; Thiruvonam; Tourist Bungalow; Ullasa Yathra; Velicham Akale; 1976: Abhinandanam; Ajayanum Vijayanum; Amma; Ammini Ammavar; Amritha Vahini; Anubhavam; Appooppam; Ayalakkari; Chennai Valarthiya Kutty; Chottanikara Amma; Dweep; Kamadhenu; Kanyadanam; Kayamkulam Kochunnyude Maghar; Light House; Manasa Veena; Mallanum Mathevanum; Mohini Attam; Muthu; Nee Ente Lahari; Neelasaree; Nurayum Pathayum; Ozhukkinethire; Panchami; Panchamrutham; Parijatham; Pickpocket; Ponn; Prasadam; Priyamvadha; Pushpa Sarem; Rathriyile Yathrakar; Rajayogam; Seemantha Puthran; Sexilla Stuntilla; Thuruppu Gulam; Vanadevatha; Vazhi Vilakku; Yakshaganam; Yuddha Bhoomi; 1977: Suryakanthi; Acharam Ammini Osaram Omana*; Adyapadam*; Akale Akasam; Akshaya Pathram; Ammayi Amma; Anjali; Aparajitha; Bharya Vijayam; Chakravarthini; Chaturvedam; Gandharvam; Guruvayoor Kesavar; Itha Ivide Vare; Jalatarangam; Kaduvaye Pidicha Kiduva; Kannappanunni; Lakshmi; Madanolsavam; Makam Piranna Manka; Minimol; Mohamum Mukthiyum; Mutthate Mulla; Nalumani Pookkal; Nirai Kudam; Parivarthanam; Rathi Manmatham; Rendu Lokam; Samudram; Satyavan Savithri; Sneham; Sujatha; Sukradasa; Tholkkann Enikk Manassilla; Varadakhshina; Veedu Oru Swargam; Vishukkani; 1978: Anappachari; Aarum Anniyaralla; Adimakachavadam; Anubhoothikalude Nimisham; Ashokavanam; Aval Vishwasthayayirunnu; Balapareekshanam; Bharyayum Kamukiyum; Ee Ganam Marakkumo; Itha Oru Manushyan; Jayikkanai Janichavan; Kadathanattu Makam; Kalpa Vruksha; Kanalkkattakal; Kudumbam Namakku Sreekovil; Mannu; Mattoru Karnar; Nakshatrangale Kaval; Nivedyam; Onappudava; Rathi Nirvedham; Raghuvamsam*; Shathru Samharam; Snehathinte Mukhangal; Thampuratti; Vadagaikku Oru Hridayam; Vyamoham; Yagaswam; Theerangal; Bandhanam; 1979: Ward No. 7; Cheriyachente Kroora Krithyangal; Kathirmandapam; Kaumarapayam; Manushyan; Prabhu; Rathammillatha Manushyan; Thuramukham; Vellayanni Paramu; 1980: Ammayum Makkalum; Anthappuram; Digvijayam; Ithikkara Pakki; Kalika; Karimbana; Meer; Nayattu; Rajanigandhi; 1981: Ilakkangal; Ellam Ninakku Vendi; Kallan Pavithran; Kodumudikal; Munnettam; Pathiya Suryam; Sahasam; Thakilukottampuram; Theekali; 1982: Ganam; Chillu; Chiriyo Chiri; Ente Mohanangal Poovaninjur; Enikkum Oru Divasam; Irattimadhuram; Jambulingam; Kattile Pattu; Keni; Koritharicha Naal; Mayilanji; Nagamadhathu Thampuratti; Olangal; Ormakkayi; Oru Kunji Janikkunnu Mathurka Kutumbam; Snehapoorvam Meera; 1983: Mahabali; Adhyathe Anuragam; Adhipathyam; Arodam; Ashtapadi; Eenum; Ente Katha; Guru Dakshina; Himavahini; Justice Raja; Kuyiline Thedi; Maniyara; Nanayam; Onnu Chirikkur; Oomakuyil; Pinnivalu; Sandhyakku Virinja Poovu; Sandhya Vandanam; Yangana Nee

Marakkum; 1984: Alkoottathil Thaniye; April 18; Athirathram; Ente Kalithozher; Etha Ennumuthal; Jeevitham; Koottinilangili; Lakshmana Rekha; Manithali; Muthodu Muthu; Onnanu Nammal; Pavam Poornima; Saundamevide? Bandamevide?; Thathamme Poocha Poocha; Vellom; Vepralam; Vettal; 1985: Anakkorumma; Avidathepole Ivideyum; Eeran Sandhya; Ee Thanalil Ithirineram; Kilippattu; Kochuthemmad; Madhu Vidhurathri; Manya Mahajangale; Mulamoottil Adima; Nerariyum Nerathu; Orikkal Oridathu; Pachavelicham; Principal Olivil; Yathra; 1986: Vaiki Odunna Varathi; 1987: Sarvakalasalala; Manivathoorile Ayiram Sivarathrikal; Purushartham.

Bhasi, Thoppil (1925-92)

Malayalam director and prolific scenarist born in Vallikunnam, Alleppey. Often used the pseudonym Soman. Major literary and political figure in the Kerala CPI. Starting out as an activist for the state Congress, he became politicised and joined the CPI after being accused of murder and having to go underground for three years. Became a playwright, later adapting several of his best-known plays as film scripts: Ramu Kariat's Mudiyanaya Puthran (1961), A. Vincent's Ashwamedham (1967) and Thulabharam (1968), P. Bhaskaran's Mooladhanam (1969), and his own Sarvekkalu. His most famous play, and later his directorial debut, Ningalenne Communistaki (You Made Me a Communist, 1952) launched the Kerala Peoples' Arts Club (see IPTA) and became emblematic of the influential literary socialist-realist tradition in post-Independence Kerala. The leading figure of Kerala's CPI(M) later described the play's lead character as the 'worst and most inane [i]n all of Kerala's radical theatre' (E.M.S. Namboodiripad, 1974). Bhasi also wrote many scripts for the Malayalam studio magnate, Kunchako, and for Sethumadhavan, Vincent and Bhaskaran. Was a member of the Travancore-Cochin State Legislature (1954) and, later (1956), of the Kerala State Legislature. His autobiography is one of the more detailed chronicles of the Party's late 40s movement against the erstwhile Travancore State ruled by Dewan C.P. Ramaswamy Aiyer. His son, Ajayan, made a promising debut directing the critically acclaimed Perumthachan (1990).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1970: Ningalenne Communistaki; 1971: Sarasayya; 1972: Oru Sundariyude Katha; 1973: Enippadikal; Madhavikutty; 1974: Chakravakam; 1975: Muheettu Kalikarante Magal; 1976: Sarvekkalu; Ponn; Missi; 1977: Yuddha Kandam; 1978: Ente Neela Akasham; 1979: Mochanam.

Bhaskara Das (1892-1952)

aka Madhurakavi Bhaskara Das. Born in Madurai as Vellaisamy Thevar. First Tamil film lyricist, writing the songs for the first Tamil talkie, H.M. Reddy's Kalidas (1931). Already known for several records of his lyrics sung by K.B. Sundarambal, M.S. Subbulakshmi, et al. Worked with the stage group Madurai Balaranjani Sangeeta Sabha, producing many successful Company Natak plays. Turned to politics with his Khilafat agitational songs (1919), later writing songs about e.g. the Jallianwala Bagh massacre (1919), many of which were banned by the British government. Wrote musical plays like Usha Parinayam, released as 78rpm disc sets by the Broadcast Gramophone Co. Wrote film songs, many addressing reformist themes like temperance and child marriage, for P.V. Rao's Prahlada and Valli Thirumanam (both 1933), Raja Chandrasekhar's Raja Desingu (1936) and A. Narayanan's Rajasekharan (1937).

Bhaskaran, P. (b. 1924)

Malayalam director, songwriter and poet. Born in Kodungallour, Kerala. Debuted with Kariat (Neelakuyil). Associated with 40s/50s cultural movements affiliated to the CPI in Kerala. Newspaper journalist for Deshabhimani and Jayakeralam. Producer at AIR in Calicut (1959) and briefly editor of Kottayam-based weekly, Deepika. Best known as a poet (c.20 books) and songwriter (more than 3000 lyrics in Malayalam) with strong roots in a 30s/40s literary tradition of romantic pastoralism exemplified by major 30s poet Changampuzha. First film as lyricist: Chandrika (1950). Acted in his first feature, co-d with Ramu Kariat. Early films attempted a hard-hitting realism but later work was mainly love stories and melodramas with social concerns. Made some revivalist mythologicals in the 70s (e.g. Srimadh Bhagavad Geeta and the Saint film, Jagadguru Adi Shankaran). Also made shorts, e.g. Nattarangu. Acted in and provided lyrics for Manoratham (1978). Currently associated with ASIANET, a privately owned satellite channel in Malayalam.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1954: Neelakuyil; 1956: Rarichan Enna Pauram; 1958: Nair Pidicha Pulivalu; 1962: Laila Majnu; Bhagya Jatakam; 1963: Ammeye Kannan; 1964: Adya Kiranangal; 1965: Shyamalachechi; 1966: Tharavatamma; 1967: Irutinte Atmavu; Balyakalaskhi; Anveshichu Kandatiyilla; Pareeksha; 1968: Manaswini; Lakshaprabhu; Aparadhini; Kattukurangu; 1969: Mooladhanam; Kalli Chelamma; 1970: Kurukshetram; Stree; Ambalapravu; Thurakatha Vathil; Kakathampurati; 1971: Moonnupukkal; Navavadhu; Vithukal; Muthassi; Ummachu; Vilakku Vangiya Veena; 1972: Aradi Manninte Janmi; Snehadeepame Mizhi Thurakku; 1973: Udayam; Veendum Prabhatam; Rakkuyil; 1974: Oru Pidi Ari; Arakallan Mukkal Kallan; Thacholi Marumagan Chandu; 1975: Chumadu Thang; Mattoru Seeta; 1976: Appooppam; Vazhi Vilakku; Srimadh Bhagavad Geeta; 1977: Jagadguru Adi Shankaran; 1978: Vilakkum Velichavum; 1983: Enikk Visakkun; 1984: Guruvayoor Mahatmiyam; 1987: Nattarangu (Doc); 1989: Vikasikkunna Chirakukal (Sh); Puthiya Chakravalangal (Sh); 1991: Keli.

Bhatavdekar, Harishchandra Sakharam (b. 1868)

Aka Save Dada. Almost certainly the first Indian film-maker. Professional still photographer often portrayed as an amateur, but, in fact, a businessman trading in cameras and film equipment on a nationwide basis. Made several shorts, including one on a wrestling match and one on the antics of monkeys. Best-known footage shows the return from England of R.P. Paranjpye, Minister of Education in Bombay Presidency, which he exhibited with imported shorts in a tent bioscope in Bombay. Sold equipment to Karandikar of S.N. Patankar's company and retired from cinema in 1907. Interviewed in Screen, Bombay (30 April 1954).

♣️ FILMOGRAPHY: 1899: The Wrestlers, Man and Monkey; 1901: Landing of Sir M.M. Bhowmuggree; Atash Behram; 1902: Sir Wrangler Mr R.P. Paranjpye; 1903: Delhi Durbar of Lord Curzon (all St).

Bhatia, Vanraj (b. 1926)

One of the few Hindi composers trained in classical Western music. Educated in Bombay. Studied at the Royal Academy of Music, London (1950). Travelled extensively in Europe listening to opera. Tried to become a professional composer in Europe but eventually returned to Bombay. Provided music for documentaries and advertising films, and some incidental music for Merchant-Ivory's The Householder (with Jyotirindra Moitra). Made professional feature debut for Benegal's Ankur. Best-known work for Benegal and Kumar Shahani (Tarang, Kasba). One of the finest composers fusing Indian classical ragas with Western harmonics; his music for Tarang was performed as a concert by a chamber orchestra. Often expressed a desire to have his music played on every street corner of Bombay, but is also working on a full opera.

♣️ FILMOGRAPHY: 1963: The Householder; 1967: Moving Perspective (Doc); 1973: Ankur; 1975: Nishant; 1976: Manthan, Bhumika; 1977: Kondura/Anugraham; 1978: Junoon; 1980: Kalyug; 1981: Sazaaye Maut; 36 Chowringhee Lane; 1983: Mandi, Jaane Bhi Do Yaaron, Mohan Joshi Haazir Ho; 1984: Tarang, Hip Hip Hurray, Khandaan (TV); 1985: Surkhiyaar, Aaghat, Trikaal, Khamosh; 1986: Yatra (TV); Susmar; 1987: Pestonjee, Tamas (TV); Mohre; 1988: Bharat Ek Khoj (TV); 1989: Khandaan (TV); Percy; 1990: Lifeline (TV); Kasba; 1992: Suraj Ka Satwan Ghoda; Antrnaad; Beta; 1993: Sardar, Damini; 1994: Mammo, Drohkaal; 1995: Bangarwadi, Naseem.

Bhatt, Balwant N. (1909-65)

Hindi director associated with stunt film genre; elder brother of Nanabhai Bhatt and uncle of Mahesh Bhatt. Born in Porbandar, Gujarat. Assisted Naval Gandhi (1930-31) and N.B. Vakil at Sagar (1932). Then turned director during the last days of silent cinema at Royal Art, the predecessor of Prakash Pics. Moved to Royal Cinetone with the advent of sound and subsequently to Prakash Pics with Actress. Although working mostly in Hindi, made some Gujarati films as well (e.g. Sansar Leela, Seth Sagalsha, Divadandi and a version of Snehlata). Became a producer in 1942 (Dillagi).

♣️ FILMOGRAPHY: 1932: Chalta Purza; 1933: Gunehgaar (all St); Alif Laila (co-d Shanti Dave); 1934: Actress, Nai Duniya; 1935: Sansar Leela; 1936: Tope Ka Gola; Snehlata; 1937: Challenge; His Highness; 1938: Purnima; 1939: Hero No. 1; Bijli; 1940: Shamsheerbaaz; Suhaag; 1941: Circus Ki Sundari; Madhusudhan; 1942: Dillagi; 1943: Aankh Ki Sharam; 1944: Collegian; 1946: Her Highness; 1947: Seth Sagalsha; 1949: Delhi Express; Joker; 1950: Circuswale; Jodidar; Divadandi; 1951: Hamari Shaan; 1952: Mordhwaj; 1953: Khoj; 1955: Shahi Mehmaan; 1957: Hazaar Pariyar; 1966: Nagin Aur Sapera.

Bhatt, Batuk see Bhatt, Nanabhai N.

Bhatt, Mahesh (b. 1949)

Hindi director born and educated in Bombay. Son of film-maker Nanabhai Bhatt whose Jeevan Rekha (1974) he scripted. Dropped out of college in 1970. Former assistant to Raj Khosla. Along with N. Chandra and J.P. Dutta, one of an aggressive new generation of commercial Hindi film-makers whose early work was marked by psychological violence. Debut film, Manzilein Aur Bhi Hain, was banned for 14 months by the censors, allegedly for mocking the 'sacred institution of marriage'. His melodramas about illegitimacy and extra-marital affairs are more successful on video than as theatrical releases. Soap-opera sentimentalism is often given a voyeuristic edge by claiming autobiographical sources (notably his breakthrough film, Arth). His successful 90s films are often love stories starring daughter Pooja Bhatt (Dil Hai Ke Maanta Nahin). Shifted increasingly to Doordarshan (e.g. Daddy) and made the first film production of STAR's Hindi channel Zee-TV, Phir Teri Kahani Yaad Aayi. Wrote a biography of U.G. Krishnamurthi. Currently editor of a video film magazine, and the TV series Swabhimaan written by pulp novelist Shobha De.

♣️ FILMOGRAPHY (* act only): 1973: Manzilein Aur Bhi Hain; 1976: Vishwasghaat; 1978: Naya Daur; 1979: Lahu Ke Do Rang; 1980: Abhimanyu; 1982: Arth; 1984: *Saaransh; Sheeshe Ka Ghar; 1985: Janam; 1986: Ashiana; Naam; 1987: Kaash; Thikana; Aaj; 1988: Kabzaa; 1989: Daddy; Zameer; 1990: Awaargi; Jurm; Aashiqui; 1991: *Haq; *Deshwasi; Dil Hai Ke Maanta Nahin; Swayam; Saathi; Sadak; 1992: Saatwan Asmaan; Junoon; Tadipaar; 1993: Gumrah; Gunah; Sir; Phir Teri Kahani Yaad Aayi; Hum Hain Rahi Pyar Ke; 1994: Milari; Naraaz; Gentleman; Criminal; 1995: Najayaz; Papa Kehte Hain; 1995-: Swabhimaan (TV).

Bhatt, Nanabhai N. (b. 1915)

Hindi-Gujarati director, aka Batuk Bhatt. Born as Yeshwant Bhatt in Porbandar, Gujarat. Seminal influence on the post-WW2 Hindi B-movie. Entered films as sound recordist at Prakash Pics where his elder brother Balwant Bhatt worked. Early career as director with stunt-movie producer Chandrarao Kadam. With Babubhai Mistri, was briefly employed in Homi Wadia's Basant Pics (1942), then owned Deepak Pics in Bombay (1946). Début with the classic Nadia double-role crime movie Muqabala. Films often based on cheaper variations of Prakash Pics megabudget mythologicals featuring tales from the Ramayana (Ram Janma). Also known for Arabian Nights fantasies (Baghdad, Baghdad Ki Raatein, Arabian Nights). Has often presented elaborate special effects, e.g. the famous scene of the sword fight between two invisible men in Sinbad the Sailor. Also made crime movies (Kangan, Police Detective). Appeared in the documentary about Nadia, Fearless - The Hunterwali Story (1993). Father of film-maker Mahesh Bhatt.

♣️ FILMOGRAPHY: 1942: Muqabala; 1943: Hunterwali Ki Beti; Mauj; 1945: Chalis Karod; 1946: Maa Baap Ki Laaj; 1947: Meerabai; 1949: Shaukeen; Veer Ghatotkach; Sudhaar; 1950: Hamara Ghar; Janmashthami; Veer Babruwahan; 1951: Lakshmi Narayan; Damar; Lav Kush; Ram Janma; 1952: Apni Izzat; Baghdad; Sinbad the Sailor; 1954: Toote Khilone; Watar; 1956: Kismet; 1957: Mr X; Ustad; 1958: Chaalbaaz; Son of Sinbad; 1959: Bazigar; Daaka; Kangan; Madam XYZ; Naya Sansar; 1960: Lal Qila; Police Detective; Zimbo Comes to Town; 1961: Teen Ustad; 1962: Baghdad Ki Raatein; Rocket Girl; 1963: Alapiranthavan; Bhootnath; Cobra Girl; 1964: Samsar; 1965: Adhi Raat Ke Baad; Bekhabar; 1966: Shankar Khan; 1967: Arabian Nights; 1968: Jung Aur Aman; 1974: Jeevan Rekha; 1975: Balak Aur Jaanwar; 1976: Dharti Mata; 1981: Gajara Maru; 1982: Jaya Parvati Vrat.

Bhatt, Vijay Jagneshwar (1907-93)

Hindi and Marathi director born in Palitana, Saurashtra, best known for classic Ramayana extravaganzas with Shobhana Samarath. Educated in Gujarat and Bombay. Studied electrical engineering. Started as playwright (e.g. successful Gujarati play Lakho Phulani) and writer in silent era. Provided stories for silent films, e.g. Nagendra Majumdar's Panima Aag, Fearless Phantom and K.P. Bhav's Vanthe Veshya (all 1926), R.S. Choudhury's Heer Ranjha (1929) and Moti Gidwani's Gulam (1931). Partner with his elder brother Shankarbai J. Bhatt in Royal Films (1928), later also distributor (Royal Pictures Corp). Founded Prakash Pics, later Prakash Studio (1933-71), also with his brother Shankarbai as producer. Their younger brother Harsukh Jagneshwar Bhatt assisted Vijay for a while (1947-52) before co-directing three films with Bhalchandra Shukla and eventually going solo in 1957. Vijay started in stunt films (e.g. State Express and Leatherface) and in socials (notably Samaj Ko Badal Dalo). Launched his Ramayana series with the Samarth hit Bharat Milap, consolidated with Ramrajya, attempting a Hindu version of the costumed Urdu historical, rather than the more conventional special-effects mythological, although Ramrajya's climax uses special effects in plenty. Followed this with Rambaan and a second Ramrajya. Made melodramas incorporating the legend of classical Indian music, e.g. the major hit Baiju Bawra and Goonj Uthi Shehnai. Sometimes claimed that his interest in Hindu fantasy movies was a logical extension of his Gandhian sympathies. His autobiography was serialised in the journal Janmabhoomi (1968).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1937: Khwaab Ki Duniya; 1938: State Express; 1939: Leatherface; 1940: Ek Hi Bhool; 1942: Narsi Bhagat; 1942: Bharat Milap/Bharat Bhet; 1943: Ramrajya; 1945: Vikramaditya; 1947: Samaj Ko Badal Dalo; 1948: Rambaan; 1952: Baiju Bawra; 1953: Shri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu; 1956: Patrani; 1959: Goonj Uthi Shehnai; 1960: Angulimala; 1962: Bapu Ne Kaha Tha (Doc); Hariyali Aur Raasta; 1965: Himalay Ki God Meir; 1967: Ramrajya; 1971: Banphool; 1977: Heera Aur Patthar.

Bhattacharya, Abhi (1922-93)

Lead actor in late 40s Bengali melodramas, debuting in Bengali version of Nitin Bose's bilingual Nauka Dubi/Milan (Dilip Kumar took the role in Hindi). Worked at New Theatres (Yatrik) and in independent productions of former New Theatres directors Nitin Bose, Debaki Bose and Bimal Roy (Biraj Bahu). Played the upright hero, evoking the Westernised liberal stereotype often used to characterise pre-WW2 Bengali urban upper middle class. Introduced this image into the Hindi cinema, notably in Hrishikesh Mukherjee films (e.g. Anuradha), extending it into a tragic dimension (e.g. Sohrab Modi's Jailor). This image was later used to devastating effect by Ghatak in Subarnarekha, where he played the upright Ishwar. Acted extensively with Satyen Bose as well as in Shakti Samanta's Aradhana and his Hindi-Bengali bilinguals (e.g. Amanush). Also featured regularly in mythologicals by S. Fattalal (Jagadguru Shankaracharya, Ayodhyapati), Babubhai Mistri (Mahabharat, Har Har Gange) and Ashish Kumar devotionals.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1946: Nauka Dubi/Milan; 1948: Mayer Dak; 1949: Bisher Dhoan; 1950: Sheshbesh; 1951: Bhairab Mantra; Paritrans; Ratnadeep/Ratnadeepam; 1952: Chitta Banhimani; Yatrik; 1953: Naina; Rami Dhobani; Bhor Hoye Elo; 1954: Ankush; Amar Prem; Biraj Bahu; Jagriti; Parichay; Shobha; 1955: Jagadguru Shankaracharya; Naata; 1956: Ayodhyapati; Gauri Puja; Keemat; Sailaab; Suryamukhi; 1957: Aparadhi Kauri; Chhote Babu; Ek Gaon Ki Kahani; Madhu Malati; 1958: Jailor; Teesri Gali; 1959: Deep Jalta Rahe; Fashionable Wife; Hum Bhi Insaan Hain; Love Marriage; 1960: Anuradha; Bade Ghar Ki Bahur; Trunk Call; 1961: Do Bhai; Ramleela; Madhya Rater Tara; Shola Aur

Shabnam; 1962: Aashiq; Subarnarekha; Vallah Kya Baat Hai; 1964: Daal Mein Kala; Dosti; Kohraa; 1965: Mahabharat; 1966: Hum Kahan Ja Rahe Hain; Mere Lal; Netaji Subhashchandra Bose; Pinjre Ke Panchhi; Pari; 1967: Badrinath Yatra; Ghar Ka Chirag; Jab Yaad Kisiki Aati Hai; Milan Ki Raat; Nauniha; 1968: Ashirwad; Har Har Gange; Jyot Jale; 1969: Aradhana; Balak; Dharti Kahe Pukar Ke; Ek Masoom; Jyoti; Maha; Meri Bhabhi; Prarthana; Ram Bhakta Hanuman; Sambandh; 1970: Aan Milo Sajna; Bhagwan Parashuram; Maa Ka Anchal; Pavitra Papi; Puraskaar; Sharafat; 1971: Amar Prem; Andaz; Door Ka Rahi; Dushman; Hathi Mere Saathi; Kal Aaj Aur Kal; Mata Vaishno Devi; Memsaab; Parwana; Paraya Dhan; Mere Apne; Maryada; Sansar; Seema; Tulasi Vivah; 1972: Anuraag; Hari Darshari; Anokhi Pehchan; Savera; Seeta Aur Geeta; Anokha Milar; Bankela; Samadhi; 1973: Kahani Hum Sub Ki; Jhoom Utha Akash; Mera Desh Mera Dharam; Kahani Kismat Ki; Mehmaan; 1974: Phir Kab Milogi; Ganga; Bhagat Dhanna Jat; Kasauti; Dost; Har Har Mahadev; Imtehan; Kisan Aur Bhagwan; Prem Shastra; Amanush; Balak Dhruv; 1975: Chaitali; Keh-te Hain Mujhko Raja; Maya Machhindra; Pratigya; Badnaam; Phanda; 1976: Bhagwan Samaye Sansar Meir; Do Anjaane; Dus Numbr; Meera Shyam; Sharafat Chhod Di Maine; Phool Aur Insaan; 1977: Behula Lakhinder; Aankh Ka Tara; Anurodh; Gayatri Mahima; Hatyara; Khel Kismat Ka; Ooparwala Jaane; Solah Shukrawar; 1978: Ganga Sagar; Dil Se Mile Dil; Mera Rakshak; 1979: Dil Ka Heera; Raja Harishchandra; Aangan Ki Kali; Chhat Maiya Ki Mahima; 1980: Angar; Taxi Chor; Anchal; Badla Aur Balidan; Chaalbaaz; 1981: Ganga Maang Rahi Balidan; Barsaat Ki Ek Raat/Anusandhan; Commander; Dhuaan; 1982: Lekhne Mathe Mekh; 1983: Bekhabar; Gumnaam Hai Koi; Sant Ravidas Ki Amar Kahani; Dhat Tere Ki; Navratri; 1984: Shravan Kumar; Sulagte Arman; Harishchandra Shaibya; 1985: Mayuri (H); 1986: Woh Din Aayega; 1987: Daku Hasina; Sadak Chhaap; Khudgarz; Mera Karam Mera Dharam; 1989: Sansar; Santosh; Swarna Trishna.

Bhattacharya, Ardhendu (1955-92)

Khasi-Assamese director born in Shillong. Postgraduate in philosophy at Shantiniketan; then joined FTII. Worked in Bombay, later in Gauhati. Made documentaries while lecturing in philosophy. His only feature, Manik Raitong (1984), is in Khasi, a North Eastern tribal language. Died before finishing a TV series based on Birendra Kumar Bhattacharya's novel, Mrityunjaya.

Bhattacharya, Basu (1934-97)

Bengali director born in Murshidabad, West Bengal, into Brahmin family which provided hereditary priests to the Cossimbazar royal family. Educated in Behrampur. Moved to Calcutta to attend college, then to Bombay in the early 50s. Started as assistant to Bimal Roy (1958); married Roy's daughter Rinki, a noted critic. First film, the Raj Kapoor and Waheeda Rehman musical Teesri Kasam, has several major 60s song hits. Anubhav and Avishkar represent stereotypical Hindi New Indian Cinema products of the 70s, a 'realist' emphasis being reduced to a concern with marital problems of upper-class couples. Served on several influential governmental committees concerning film policy, including the Working Group on National Film Policy (1980) and the board of the NFDC. Produced Sai Paranjpye's Sparsh (1979). President of Indian Film Directors Association (1976-9). Father of director Aditya Bhattacharya (Raakh), 1988).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1966: Teesri Kasam; Uski Kahani; 1971: Anubhav; 1973: Avishkar; 1975: Daku; Tumhara Kallo; Sangat; 1977: Known Yet Not Known (Doc); 1978: Madhu Malati; 1979: Grihapravesh; 1982: Science India (Doc); 1983: Horky Podzim S Vuni Manga (co-d Jiri Sequens); 1985: Anveshan (TV); 1986: Panchavati; Solar Energy (Doc); 1991: Ek Saas Zindagi; 1996: Astha.

Bhattacharya, Bijon (1917-78)

Actor, playwright, writer, scenarist, composer of stage music, singer and theatre director. Born in Faridpur (now Bangladesh). Teenage years strongly influenced by Gandhi's Satyagraha agitations. Became a Marxist during WW2. Part of radical literary group, the Agami Chakra, and joined CPI in 1942. Founder member of IPTA for which he wrote Aagun (based on Binoy Ghosh's novel, Laboratory), Jaban Bandi, and one of modern Indian theatre's most influential plays, Nabanna. Dealing with the experience of the 1943 famine, the play as first staged by Bhattacharya and Sombhu Mitra (1943) tried to define post-WW2 documentary realism, which had a major impact later in theatre and cinema, in e.g. Ghatak, Mrinal Sen and K.A. Abbas's Dharti Ke Lal (1946). Acted in Nemai Ghosh's Chinnamul. Left IPTA in 1948. Scenarist at Filmistan (1948-50). Wrote Jaswantlal's mammoth hit Nagin (1954), loosely adapting his play Jiyankanya. Returned to Calcutta where he ran his Calcutta Theatres (1950-70) and the Kabach Kundal (1970-7). Did the classic scripts for Nirmal Dey's Uttam Kumar movies (Basu Parivar, 1952; Sharey Chuattar, 1953). Wrote the story of Binu Das Gupta's Daktar Babu (1958), dialogues for Asit Sen's Trishna, in which he also acted, and story/dial. for Piyush Ganguly's Debigarjan (1984). Featured regularly in Ghatak's films, e.g. as father in Meghe Dhaka Tara, Ishwar's friend Harprasad in Subarnarekha, the Sanskrit scholar in Jukti Takko Aar Gappo. His presence and performance in Sen's Padatik helped set the tone of the film's political address. His interest in religious motifs, which eventually turned into obscurantism, earned him criticism from former Marxist colleagues.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1950: Tathapi; Chinnamul; 1954: Haan; Shoroshi; 1959: Bari Theke Paliye; 1960: Meghe Dhaka Tara; 1961: Komal Gandhar; 1962: Subarnarekha; 1964: Kashtipathar; 1965:

Trishna; 1966: Swapnaniye; 1969: Parineeta; 1971: Nabaraag; Pratham Basanta; Sona Boudi; 1972: Archana; Bohurupee; 1973: Padatik; 1974: Jukti Takko Aar Gappo; 1975: Arjun; 1977: Bhola Moira; Swati; 1978: Dooratwa.

Bhattacharya, Dhiraj (1905-59)

Actor born in Jessore (now Bangladesh). Degree in literature. Started as a policeman, then Bengali film star from the 20s to the 50s. Began at Madan Theatres in Jyotish Bannerjee silents. Worked with Modhu Bose in Giribala and with Priyanath Ganguly (Kal Parinaya, Jamuna Puliney). Developed his reputation as actor in films like Charu Roy's seminal Bangalee. Ardhendu Sen's Adarsha Hindu Hotel (having earlier done the role of Hajari Prasad on stage, at the Rungmahal Theatre, 1953), and several Premendra Mitra films, including Samadhan, Kuasha, Kankantala Light Railway, Moyla Kagaj. Known later for his refined villain roles. One of the few Bengali stars not to emerge from the Calcutta Theatres stage, he turned to the theatre later as an established film star, acting in plays like Sindhu Gaurab (1932) and Charitraheen (1935). His autobiography was published in two volumes, one dealing with his life as a policeman, the other, on his film career, came out in 1956.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1925: Sati Lakshmi; 1930: Giribala; Kal Parinaya; Mrinalini; 1932: Nauka Dubi (all St); Krishnakanter Will; 1933: Jamuna Puliney/Radha Krishna; Annapurna (St); 1934: Chand Saudagar; Daksha Yagna; Rajnati Basantsena; Seeta; 1935: Kanthahaar; Satya Pathe; Basabdatta; 1936: Krishna Sudama; Bangalee; Sonar Sansar; Bala Ki Raat; *Joyar Bhanta; Chino Haar; 1937: Rajgee; Mandir; 1938: Sarbajanin Bibahotsab; Abhinaya; Rupor Jhumko; 1939: Pathik; Nara Narayan; Parasmani; 1940: Kumkum/Kumkum the Dancer; Byabadhar; Rajkumarer Nirbashar; 1941: Epar Opar; Nandini; Banglar Meye; 1942: Pashan Devata; Milar; Avayer Biye; 1943: Sahadharmini; Swamir Ghar; Samadhan; Dwanda; Shri Ramanuja; Nilanguriya; Daabi; Shahar Theke Dooray; Wapas; 1944: Bideshini; Iraada; 1945: Kato Door; Mane Na Mana; Kalankini; 1947: Natun Khabar; Giribala; 1948: Pratibad; Jayjatra/Vijay Yatra; Kalo Chhaya; Sankha Sindoor; Taruner Swapna; 1949: Kuasha; 1950: Rakter Tan; Kankantala Light Railway; Eki Gramer Chhele; Kankal; Pattharar Kahini; 1951: Chiner Putul; Niyati; Sparshamani; Setu; 1952: Rani Bhabani; 1953: Chirantan; Chikitsa Sankat; Dui Beyai; 1954: Maa-o-Chhele; Moyla Kagaj; Ora Thake Odhare; Maraner Pare; Sati; Amar Prem; 1955: Sanjher Pradeep; Dakinir Char; 1956: Mahanisha; He Maha Manab; Manraksha; Amar Bou; Rajpath; 1957: Bardidi; Adarsha Hindu Hotel; Raat Ekta; Neelachaley Mahaprabhu; Shrimatir Sansar; Tamasha; 1958: Manmoyee Girls' School; Bagha Jatir; Leela Kanka; Dhoomketu; 1960: Gariber Meye; Aparadh.

Bhavnani, Mohan Dayaram (1903-62)

Hindi director born in Hyderabad, Sind. Studied at College of Technology, Manchester (1921-4), then studied film-making in Germany at UFA (1924). Contracted to Kohinoor (1925-6) where his Sulochana films were the earliest efforts in the Indian cinema to create a Hollywood-type movie star, e.g. Cinema Ni Rani where she plays a famous actress with whom the painter hero falls in love, or Wildcat of Bombay where she played multiple roles. Joined Imperial (1927-9), where he made Khwab-e-Hasti, adapted from the novel Dreamland (later also adapted by N. Turog's Strike me Pink, 1936). Scripted by A.S. Desai, this film is not to be confused with Kashmiri's play of the same title. Vasantsena was the first Kannada intertitled film. Became independent producer with Indian Art Prod. (1931-2). Returned to Germany to study sound film technique. Started Ajanta Cinetone (1933-4) and his own Bhavnani Prod. (1935-48). Sound début was a flop, but it introduced Durga Khote. Hired Premchand to script Mazdoor, representing the author's only direct encounter with film, following it with the unemployment melodrama Jagran. Produced and directed the first full-length colour film shot on 16mm Kodachrome and blown up to 35mm, Ajit. Joined Films Division and became its first Chief Producer (1948-55). In 1958 Bhavnani followed up an invitation from Zhou En-Lai to make a documentary on China and travelled extensively throughout the country shooting with cameramen Kishore Rege and S.K. Kulkarni. His wife Enakshi Rama Rao, who acted in Vasantsena, had earlier played the lead in Shiraz (1928) and became a noted dancer and author of the book The Dance of India (1965).

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1925: Cinema Ni Rani; Matri Prem; Veer Bala; Seth Sagalsha; 1926: Pagal Premi; Diwan Bhamasha; Mena Kumari; Ra Kawat; Samrat Shiladitya; Bhamto Bhoot; 1927: Naseeb Ni Lili; Daya Ni Devi; Trust Your Wife; Wildcat of Bombay; Gamdani Gori; 1929: Hawai Swar; Khwab-e-Hasti; Mysore; Gem City of India (Doc); Khedda (Doc); 1930: Vasantsena (all St); 1931: Shakuntala; Farebi Jaal; Lafanga Langoor (Sh); 1932: Veer Kunal; 1933: Afzal; Rangila Rajput; 1934: Dard-e-Dil; Mazdoor; Sair-e-Paristan; 1935: Jung Bahadur; Navjeevan; Shadi Ki Raat; 1936: Dilawar; Garib Parwar; Jagran; Wrestling (Doc); 1937: Zambo the Ape Mar; 1938: Double Cross; Himalay Ki Beti; Yangrilla; 1939: Zambo Ka Beta; 1940: Jhoothi Sharm; Prem Nagar; 1945: Biswi Sadi; 1946: Rang Bhoomi; 1948: Ajit; 1949: Vale of Kashmir (Doc); 1950: The Private Life of a Silkworm (Doc); 1951: Lest We Forget (Doc); 1952: Kumaon Hills (Doc); 1953: Folk Dances of India (Doc); Republic Day Record (Doc); 1955: Republic Day 1955 (Doc); 1956: Operation Khedda (Doc); 1957: The Himalayan Tapestry (Doc).

Bhimsingh, A. (1924-78)

Tamil director; also worked in other South Indian languages and in Hindi. Born in Chittoor, AP. Started as proofreader for the Telugu newspaper Andhra Prabha. Assistant to Krishnan-Panju in late 40s at AVM. First film, Ammayappan, was major Tamil hit. Raja Rani, scripted by Karunanidhi, consolidated the strong bid for a politically interventionist melodrama sponsored by the DMK movement (see DMK Film). Set up Buddha Pics (1956) with Pati Bhakti and introduced a commercially successful formula centred around family plots, often the disintegration of the joint family under the pressures of urbanisation, usually with Ganesan, lyricist Kannadasan and composers Vishwanathan-Ramamurthy. Later also worked at the Newton Studio in Madras. From the early 60s, concentrated as much on Hindi films as on Tamil, often adapting his own and other directors' work, e.g. his best-known Hindi film Admi, which borrows from the Ganesan hit Alayamani. Pasamalar was remade as Bhai

Molina Devi and Dhiraj Bhattacharya in Abhagin (1938)

Bahen. Made the bizarre comedy Sadhu Aur Shaitan, featuring the uninhibited duo of Kishore Kumar and Mehmood. Later films include the Jayakantan scripts Sila Nerangalil Sila Manithargal and Oru Nadigai Nadagam Parkiral representing Tamil actress Laxmi's best-known work. Many of his film titles, for superstitious reasons, begin with the Tamil syllable 'Pa' and show a statue of the Buddha.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1954: Ammaiyappar; 1956: Raja Rani; Nane Raja; 1958: Thirumanam; Pati Bhakti; 1959: Bhagapirivina; Ponnu Vilayam Bhoomi; President Panchacharam; Sahodari; 1960: Padikkatha Methai; Kalathur Kannamma; Aai Phirse Bahar; Petra Manam; 1961: Maavoori Ammayi; Palum Pazhamum; Pavamanippu; Pasamar; 1962: Pavitra Prema; Parthal Pasi Theerum; Main Chup Rahungi; Raakhi; Senthamarai; Bandha Pasam; Padithal Mattum Pothuma; 1963: Paar Magale Paar; 1964: Pooja Ke Phool; Pachai Vilakku; 1965: Khandaan; Pazhani; 1966: Papa Pariharam; 1967: Meharbaan; Paladai; 1968: Admi; Gauri; Sadhu Aur Shaitan; 1969: Bhai Baher; Manasichina Maguva; 1970: Oke Kutumbam; Gopi; Pathukappu; 1972: Joru Ka Gulam; Malik; Sub Ka Saathi; Maa Inti Jyothi; 1973: Loafer; 1974: Naya Din Nayi Raat; Patha Poojai; 1975: Bhagasthulu; Ragam; Amanat; 1976: Bangaru Manishi; Chiranjeevi; Kanavan Manaivi; Sila Nerangalil Sila Manithargal; 1977: Evaru Devudu; Nee Vazhavendum; Yaaron Ka Yaar; Nirai Kudam; Sneham; 1978: Vamsa Jyothi; Karunamayudu; Oru Nadigai Nadagam Parkiral; Iraivan Kodutha Varam; Karunai Ullam; Kayi Pidithava; Mattoli.

Bhole, Keshavrao Vaman (1896-1967)

Music director born in Amravati, Maharashtra. Exposure to Western orchestras accompanying silent films prompted him to experiment successfully with orchestral compositions: 'The tones of the instruments, their timbre and how such diverse instruments could play together without sounding atonal, engaged my mind,' he wrote in his book Mazhe Sangeet: Rachana Ani Digdarshan (1964). First introduced piano, Hawaiian guitar and violin for Vartak's vanguard play Andhalyanchi Shala, staged by the Natyamanwantar group (1933). The music also performed the unusual function of tying the play to a fixed running time. Moved to Prabhat Studio (1933), replacing the more orthodox Govindrao Tembe, and scored some of the studio's best-known hits. For Amritmanthan, the actors rehearsed to a score played live, tuning their performance rhythm to the music. The scales were also chosen to counterpoint the actors' speaking voices. Bhole's impact on performance idioms is most evident in Sant Tukaram, where Vishnupant Pagnis's outstanding achievement owes much to the score. Left Prabhat with Raja Nene, Dharmadhikari et al., working with them independently for some years.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1932: Sant Sakhubai; Krishnavatar; 1934: Amritmanthan; 1935: Chandrasena; 1936: Rajput Ramani; Sant Tukaram; 1937: Kunku/Duniya Na Mane; 1938: Mazha Mulga/Mera Ladka; 1940: Sant Dnyaneshwar; 1941: Sant Sakhu; 1942: Daha Wajta/Dus Baje; 1944: Ramshastri; 1945: Taramati; 1947: Kuber; 1948: Bhagyarekha; 1951: Parijata/Shri Krishna Satyabhama.

Bhole, Asha (b. 1933)

Singer born in Satara, Maharashtra. Trained by her father, Dinanath Mangeshkar. With her sister, Lata Mangeshkar, she dominated Indian film (playback) singing for more than three decades, releasing 20,000-plus songs in more than 14 languages. Introduced to film in Ravindra Dave's Chunaria (1948). First solo number in Jagdish Sethi's Raat Ki Rani (1949). Best-known early work with music director O.P. Nayyar, continuing Geeta Dutt's singing style and borrowing from Latin American dance music as well as from North American big band pop featuring large brass sections. Two songs in 1957, Mister John (in Shankar Mukherjee's Baarish) and Ina mina dika (in M.V. Raman's Aasha) were landmarks in the Benny Goodman-style swing music pioneered by C. Ramchandra. The jazz influence was transformed into popular electronic music mainly through several 70s duets with Kishore Kumar, often composed by R.D. Burman. Remixed several Burman classics in a posthumous tribute, Rahul & I.

Bilimoria, Dinshaw (b. 1904)

Actor-director born in Kirkee. Usually described as the highest-paid silent star in India. Formed the celebrated lead couple with Sulochana esp. at Imperial. Introduced in stunt movie-derived historicals and mythologicals adapting Maratha legends at N.D. Sarpotdar's United Pics. First two films at Imperial, Bhavnani's Wildcat of Bombay and Choudhury's Anarkali, were massive hits for him and Sulochana. His John Barrymore-style image was born in elaborate costume fantasies opposite Sulochana's Orientalised 'Queen of Romance', a reference elaborated later by some of the biggest directors of the silent era, e.g. Choudhury, Chandulal Shah, Homi Master, Jaswantlal and Nanubhai Vakil. Several of his silent hits were remade as sound films, notably Indira MA and Anarkali. Acted in some films at Ranjit. Azadi-e-Watan (1940), advertised as directed by him, is probably a dubbed version of an American import.

FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1925: Chhatrapati Sambhaji; 1926: Dha Cha Ma; Tai Teleer; Umaji Naik; 1927: Wildcat of Bombay; Vilasi Kanta; Daya Ni Devi; 1928: Anarkali; Qatil Kathiyani; Madhuri; Rajrang; 1929: Khwab-e-Hasti; Mewad Nu Moti; Punjab Mail; Heer Ranjha; Rajputani; Hawai Swar; 1930: Pahadi Kanya; Rasili Radha; Diwani Dilbar; 1931: Baghdad Nu Bulbul; Mojili Mashuq; Noor-e-Alam; Premi Jogan (all St); Devi Devayani; 1932: Sati Madalasa; 1933: Daku Ki Ladki; Saubhagya Sundari; Sulochana; 1934: Gul Sanobar; Indira MA; Khwab-e-Hasti; Piya Pyare; Devaki; 1935: Anarkali; Do Ghadi Ki Mauj; Pujarini; 1936: Bambai Ki Billi; Jungle Queen; Shaan-e-Hind; 1937: Jagat Kesari; New Searchlight; Wah Ri Duniya; 1939: Prem Ki Jyot; 1942: *Jawani Ki Pukar.

Bilimoria, Fali (b. 1923)

Born in Bombay; son of a lawyer. Abandoned medical studies (1946) and went into politics. Documentary director and producer since late 40s. Early career with P.V. Pathy and Paul Zils. Established Documentary Unit: India (1947) and later the Art Films of Asia (1952), both in partnership with Zils. When Zils returned to Germany, started his own Fali Bilimoria Prod. (1959). Best-known films on agricultural technology on behalf of US Technical Co-operation Missions in the context of the controversial Green Revolution promised by imported fertiliser, and also on American Public Law 480 aid to India. Also made films on co-operative movements in handloom, fisheries, housing, agriculture etc. supporting the 'Colombo Plan' foreign aid to India. Clients include Shell, British Transport, Deutsche Condor, the USIS and private American sponsors for whom, on one occasion, he filmed an interview with Jawaharlal Nehru to prove to the US State Department that Nehru was not a Communist (1958). Several noted films blur the distinction between documentary and fiction narrative by introducing professional actors (e.g. A Tiny Thing Brings Death, documentary on malaria starring Sombhu Mitra). Some titles in the filmography, all documentaries, were probably only produced by Bilimoria. Also made numerous advertising films. Retired in 1987.

FILMOGRAPHY (* co-d Paul Zils): 1947: Congress Session 1947; 1948: Congress Session 1948; *Mother/Child/Community; 1949: *White Magic; *The Last Jewel; Flying Goods Wagon; *General Motors in India; *A Tiny Thing Brings Death; 1954: *Ujala; 1956: Textiles; A Village in Travancore; Iron and Steel; 1957: The Land of Bengal; *Fifty Miles from Poona; 1958: *The Vanishing Tribe; Interview with Jawaharlal Nehru; 1960: Four Families; 1961: Rivers of Life/Jeevan Ki Nadiyan; Coir Worker; New Marketplace; 1962: Comparative Religions; 1965: The Weavers; 1966: US Vice President Humphrey Visits India; 1967: The House that Ananda Built; 1968: Water; 1972: Last Raja; 1974: Look At Us Now; 1975: Women of India; 1976: A Small Family; There is Another Way; 1980: Warning Signal; 1982: The Ganga Bridge; People of India: The Anglo-Indians.

Biswas, Anil (b. 1914)

Bengali and Hindi composer born in Barisal (now Bangladesh). A talented tabla player since infancy, he worked in amateur theatre as child singer. Became a political activist as a student and was associated with terrorist insurgency movements in Bengal. Repeatedly jailed in early 30s. Received early assignments as musician from Kazi Nazrul Islam at the Megaphone gramophone company; then scored and acted in several commercial Calcutta Theatres stage productions, notably in the Rangmahal theatre. Moved to Bombay (1934) where he was first employed by Ram Daryani's Eastern Art Syndicate, then by Sagar and its successor National Studio (1940-2) and finally by Bombay Talkies (1942-6) before turning freelance. Best-known compositions are among the most effective film adaptations of theatrical music, with 12-piece orchestras and full-blooded choral effects in e.g. the Amirbai Karnataki songs of Gyan Mukherjee's Kismet and even more so in Mehboob's early films. His recitative prose songs in Roti helped give the film its parable dimension and came close to an indigenous Brechtian mode. His work is a rare effort in popular Hindi film to define a cultural-political avant-garde. Later composed music for K.A. Abbas's films (e.g. the famous 'songless' Munna) and for Mahesh Kaul. Music co-d for Begunah, using the name Haribhai. Scored Doordarshan's pioneering TV series Humlog (1984-5) and a number of Films Division documentaries (e.g. Controlling Aphids in Mustard Crop, 1979; Development of Inland Fisheries, 1988; Modern Seeding and Planting Equipment, 1991, etc.) .

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* also act): 1935: Bal Hatya; Bharat Ki Beti; Dharam Ki Devi; 1936: Fida-e-Watar; Piya Ki Jogan; Pratima; Prem Bandhan; Sangdil Samaj; Sher Ka Panja; Shokh Dilruba; 1937: Bulldog; Dukhiari; Gentleman Dakur; Insaaf; Jagirdar; Kokila; Mahageet; 1938: Three Hundred Days and After; Dynamite; Gramophone Singer; Hum Tum Aur Woh; Nirala Hindustan; Abhilasha; Watar; 1939: Jeevan Saathi; Ek Hi Raasta; 1940: Alibaba; Aurat; Pooja; 1941: Aasra; Bahen; Nai Roshni; 1942: Apna Paraya; Garib; Jawani; Roti; Vijay; 1943: Hamari Baat; Kismet; 1944: Char Aankher; Jwar Bhata; Lady Doctor; 1945: Pehli Nazar; 1946: Darban; Nauka Dubi; Milan; 1947: Bhookh; Manjdhar; Naiya; 1948: Anokha Pyar; Gajre; Veena; 1949: Girls' School (with C. Ramchandra); Jeet; Laadli; Begunah; 1950:

Arzoo; Begasoor; Lajawaab; 1951: Aaram; Badi Bahu; Do Sitare; Tarana; 1952: Do Raha; Rahi; 1953: Akash; Faraib; Humdard; Jallianwala Bagh Ki Jyot; Mehmaan; 1954: Maar; Mahatma Kabir; Munna; Naaz; Waris; 1955: Faraar; Du-janay; Jasoos; 1956: Heer; Paisa Hi Paisa; 1957: Abhimaan; Jalti Nishani; Pardesi; 1958: Sanskar; 1959: Char Dil Char Raaheir; 1960: Angulimal; Return of Mr Superman; Meera Ka Chitra; 1961: Lucky Number; Savitri; 1962: Hame Khelne Do; Sautela Bhai; 1964: Raju Aur Gangaram; 1965: Chhoti Chhoti Baatein.

Biswas, Sachindranath [Chhabi] (1900-62)

Actor born in Calcutta. Best-known outside Bengal for his two major performances in Satyajit Ray's Jalsagar and Kanchanjungha. Epitomises the Bengali literary (and visual: cf. Company School Painting) late 19th C. fascination with the colonial 'gentleman' (culminating with Kanchanjungha) as well as the feudal Zamindar. Used in a variety of ways to comment on the Westernising strand of 19th C. reform movements, or to parody Calcutta's urban élite (see Dhiren Ganguly, with whom Biswas acted in Daabi) in the form of the bhadralok stereotype elaborated at various times by all the major actors in 20th C. Bengal: Sisir Bhaduri; Durgadas Bannerjee; Ahindra Choudhury; P.C. Barua; Pahadi Sanyal. Before entering film, did amateur theatre while at Presidency College, Calcutta, in association with Bhaduri and Naresh Mitra (e.g. Nemai Sanyas), and Jatra performances. Turned professional at Natyaniketan (1938). Title roles in stage productions of Devdas; Kashinath; Siraj-ud-Dowla et al. are considered definitive performances in the era after Sisir Bhaduri and Ahindra Choudhury. Switched from early lead roles to successful 'character' roles, notably in Kabuliwala; Shashi Babur Sansar; Headmaster and Dada Thakur. Other classic roles include the exploitative father-in-law in Devi.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1936: Annapurnar Mandir; 1937: Haranidhi; 1938: Chokher Bali; 1939: Sharmistha; Chanakya; 1940: Swami Stri; Nimai Sanyasi; Nartaki; 1941: Epar Opar; Pratishodh; Pratisruti; Karnarjun; Banglar Meye; 1942: Mahakavi Kalidas; Garmi; Jiban Sangini; Milar; Ashok; Parineeta; Pativrata; Bondi; Avayer Biye; Shodhbodh; Nari; Saugandh; Pashan Devata; 1943: Dampati; Aleya; Samadhan; Dwanda; Nilanguriya; Daabi; Devar; Dikshul; 1944: Pratikar; Matir Ghar; Chhadmabeshi; 1945: Bondita; Raj Lakshmi; Path Bendhe Dilo; Stree Durga; Dui Purush; 1946: Prem Ki Duniya; Sat Number Bari; Biraj Bou; Vande Mataram; Sangram; Nivedita; Tumi Aar Ami/ Tum Aur Main; 1947: Mandir; Pather Daabi; Abhijog; Nurse Sisi; Chandrasekhar; 1948: Anirban; Nandaranir Sansar; Sadharan Meye; Sankha Sindoor; Shesh Nibedan; Umar Prem(?); 1949: Jar Jetha Ghar; Manzoor; Bhuler Baluchare; Debi Choudhrani; Singhdwar; 1950: Mandanda; Mahasampad; Garabini; Vidyasagar; 1951: Durgesh Nandini; Maldar; Aparajito; 1952: Krishnakanter Will; Ratri Tapasya; 1953: Sat Number Kayedi; Boudir Bone; Makarshar Jaal; Sabuj Pahar; Jog Biyog; Lakh Taka; Raja Krishna Chandra; Blind Lane; Sati Behula; 1954: Shobha; Maa-o-Chhele; Ora Thake Odhare; Naa; Kalyani; Prafulla; Dhuli; Banglar Nari; Sadanander Mela; Chheley Kaar; Shoroshi; Jadubhatta; Bhangar-Gara; 1955: Sanjher Pradeep; Rani Rashmoni; Dattak; Pather Sheshey; Jharer Parey; Joymakali Boarding; Katha Kao; Prashna; Hrad; Upahar; Kalo Bou; Devimalini; Bratacharini; Drishti; Shribatsa-Chinta; Sabar Uparey; 1956: Bhola Master; Kirti Garh; Asabarna; Saheb Bibi Golam; Shubharatri; Shankar Narayan Bank; Asamapta; Trijama; Mamlar Phal; Manraksha; Ek Din Raatre; Rajpath; Chhaya Sangini; Suryamukhi; Govindadas; Madan Mohar; Putrabadhu; Falgu; Daner Maryada; Sinthir Sindoor; Raat Bore; Kabuliwala; 1957: Shesh Parichaya; Bardidi; Ghoom; Bara Maa; Ektara; Tapasi; Adarsha Hindu Hotel; Prithibi Amar Chay; Natun Prabhat; Neelachaley Mahaprabhu; Surer Parashey; Rastar Chhele; Kancha-Mithey; Chhaya Path; Abhishek; Sandhar; Abhoyer Biye; Mathur; Baksiddha; Antariksha; Garer Math; Kari-o-Komal; Madhabir Jonye; Pathe Holo Deri; Louha-Kapat; Parash Pathar; 1958: Yamalaya Jibanta Manush; Priya; Bandhu; Nupur; Daily Passenger; O Amar Desher Mati; Tansen; Nagini Kanyar Kahini; Sadhak Bama Kshyapa; Jalsagar; Indrani; Dhoomketu; Surya Toran; Marmabani; 1959: Bicharak; Thakur Haridas; Derso Khokhar Kando; Shashi Babur Sansar; Bhranti; Gali Theke Rajpath; Chhabi; Amrapali; Nirdharita Silpir Anupastithi Tey; Khelaghar; Agnisambhaba; Nriyter Tale Tale; Headmaster; Rater Andhakare; Shubha Bibaha; Mriter Martye Agaman; Kshaniker Atithi; 1960: Maya Mriga; Debarshi Narader Sansar; Raja-Saja; Devi; Haat Baraley Bandhu; Kshudista Pashan; Chupi Chupi Ashe; Sakher Chor; Gariber Meye; Hospital; Smriti Tuku Thak; Shesh Paryanta; Ajana Kahini; Nader Nimai; Surer Pyasi; Suno Baro

Chhabi Biswas (left) in Maa-o-Chhele (1954)

Nari, 1961: Manik, Carey Shaheber Munshi, Bishkanya; Agni Sanskar, Madhya Rater Tara, Swayambara, Necklace, Kanchanmulya, Dainee, Ashay Bandhinu Ghar, Madhureno, Saptapadi; Maa, 1962: Sorry Madam, Bipasha, Kancher Swarga, Suryasnar, Shilubar; Kanchanjungha; Atal Jaler Ahwar, Agnisikha, Bodhu, Kajal, Mayar Sansar, Shubha Drishti, Dada Thakur, Dhoop Chhaya; 1963: High Heel, Surya Sikha; 1964: Kanta Taar; 1976: Shri Shri Maa Lakshmi.

Bombay Tal kies

Film studio set up by Himansu Rai in 1934. Among the biggest pre-WW2 talkie studios, it was the only major one launched as a fully fledged corporate body with a board of directors including F.E. Dinshaw, Sir Chimanlal Setalvad, Sir Chunilal Mehta, Sir Pheroze Sethna and Sir Cowasji Jehangir as some of the 'dozen individuals who, by their control over banks, insurance companies and investment trusts, occupy commanding positions in the industrial life of Bombay' (A.R. Desai, 1948). It was one of the first studios with backing from major financial institutions, paying a regular dividend from the third year onwards. The resident star was Devika Rani. The scenarists were Niranjan Pal and J.S. Casshyap. The technical team was imported from Europe, including director Franz Osten, cameraman Josef Wirsching, set designer Carl von Spreti (later Count Carl von Spreti, the West German ambassador murdered in Guatemala in 1970) and soundman Len Hartley. The studio had three major phases. The first, the Rai-Osten era (Achhut Kanya, 1936; Kangan, 1939) ended with Osten's arrest at the beginning of WW2 and, later, Rai's death (1940). The second saw Devika Rani, as production controller, split the studio into two production groups, one led by Amiya Chakravarty (best-known film of this period: Jwar Bhata, 1944, introducing Dilip Kumar) and the other led by S. Mukherjee with Rai Bahadur Chunilal. The latter group broke away to start Filmistan (1942). The formal orthodoxy of Chakravarty's work (Basant, 1942) is clearly counterposed by a series of influential films, from N.R. Acharya's Naya Sansar (1941) to Kismet (1943), all direct precedents of the Filmistan signature style. This included the early films of Gyan Mukherjee, Nazir Ajmeri and the writer Manto. The third phase began when star Ashok Kumar, who had moved to Filmistan, and sound recordist Savak Vacha returned and took over the studio (1947); it includes the early work of stars Dev Anand and Shyam, along with films by Kamal Amrohi, Shaheed Latif, Bimal Roy, Nitin Bose and Phani Majumdar. In the early 50s the studio declined despite efforts by the workers' association to save it, and it made only one more film, Majumdar's Baadbaan (1954).

Boral, Rai Chand (1903-81)

Music director aka Raichand Boral, born in Calcutta. Son of classical musician Lalchand Boral (spelled L. Bural in early 1910s record labels). Producer of Indian music programmes on Indian Broadcasting Co. in Calcutta (1927). Joined New Theatres during silent era, creating live score for Charu Roy's Chhokanta (1931) and Prafulla Roy's Chasher Meye (1931), and remained the studio's top composer into the 40s. Although less associated with the dominant Rabindra Sangeet (Tagore's lyrics) than e.g. Pankaj Mullick, his adaptations of the ghazal style into light classical, emotionally charged music were influential in the recording industry, esp. as interpreted by his famous protégé, actor-singer Kundanlal Saigal, in e.g. the Saigal-Umasashi duet Prem nagar mein banaoongi ghar main from Nitin Bose's Chandidas, Balam aaye and Dukh ke in Barua's Devdas, Ek bangla bane nyaara in President, all remaining perennial hits. Other legendary compositions include Phani Majumdar's Street Singer, Debaki Bose's Bidyapati, and Nitin Bose's Lagan and Dhoop Chaon (claimed by some as the first use of playback in India), songs by Pahadi Sanyal, Kanan Devi and, in Hindi, by the ghazal exponent Talat Mahmood. Worked extensively with the early Bimal Roy, (Udayer Pathy, Anjangerh, Maa). His musical style rested heavily on songs with large string sections, with e.g. sitar and violins. In many of the songs he combined forms like Thumri, Keertan, Akhrai and the Kabigan, invoking a 19th C. Bengali tradition of cultural fusion in popular music associated with immigrants to Calcutta who brought musical forms from the North and the East. Also directed an animated short, Pear Brothers. Formed the independent MLB Prod. with actor Shyam Laha and Amar Mullick.

FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1931: Dena Paona; 1932: Mohabbat Ke Aansoo, Chirakumar Sabha; Chandidas, Subah Ka Sitara; Zinda Lash; Punjarjanma; Palli Samaj; 1933: Puran Bhakt, Meerabai/Rajrani Meera; Kapal Kundala; Mastuto Bhai; 1934: Excuse Me, Sir, Rooplekha/Mohabbat Ki Kasauti; Chandidas; Daku Mansoor; *Pear Brothers (Sh); 1935: Devdas; Dhoop Chhaon/Bhagya Chakra; Inquilab; 1936: Karodpati; Grihadah/Manzil; Maya; 1937: Barababur; Anath Ashram; Didi/President; Bidyapati/Vidyapati; 1938: Abhigyan/Abhagin; Street Singer/Saathi; 1939: Sapurey/Sapera; Jawani Ki Reet/Parajay; Rajat Jayanti; 1940: Abhinetri/Haar Jeet; 1941: Parichay/Lagan; Pratisrutti; 1942: Nari; Saugandh; 1943: Daabi; Wapas; 1944: Udayer Pathy/Hamrahi; 1945: Vasiyatnama; 1946: Biraj Bour; 1948: Anjangerh; 1949: Bishnupriya; Mantramughda; Swami/Swami Vivekananda; 1950: Bara Bour; Pehla Admi; 1951: Sparshamani; Paritrar; 1952: Maa; 1953: Dard-e-Dil; Shri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu; 1955: Amar Saigal; 1957: Neelachaley Mahaprabhu; 1959: Sagar Sangamey; 1960: Natun Fasal.

Bordoloi, Atul (b. 1938)

Assamese playwright and director born in Jorhat; initially a teacher after graduating from Gauhati University (1962). Author of 15 full-length and about 20 one-act plays in Assamese.

Worked as journalist for the daily, Natun Asomiya. First film, Aparajeya, was the unremarkable result of a remarkable film-making experiment sponsored by poet-playwright Phani Talukdar and made by a group, Chaturanga, including Gauri Burman and Munin Bayan. Bordoloi's films, set in deprived milieus, are known mainly for their multi-layered sense of reality achieved by suppressing narrative progression. Best-known film: Kallol.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1970: Aparajeya; 1973: Banaria Phool, Anutaap; 1978: Kallol; 1979: Megh; 1990: Graham, Drishti; 1991: Sinyor.

Bose, Debaki Kumar (1898-1971)

Bengali and Hindi director born in Akalpoush, Burdwan Dist., West Bengal; also worked in Tamil and in Marathi. Son of a noted solicitor, Madhusudhan Bose. Influenced by Sisir Bhaduri, his teacher at Bidyasagar College, Calcutta (1920). Left university to join non-cooperation movement after Calcutta Congress (1920). Edited journal, Shakti, from Burdwan (1927-8). Hired by Dhiren Ganguly as actor and scenarist for Dinesh Ranjan Das' Kamaner Aagun (1930). Devotee of Vaishnava evangelical movement. Joined British Dominion Films (1927) as scenarist, then director. Joined P.C. Barua's Barua Pics (1930), then entered New Theatres (1932-4) together with Barua, directing the studio's first hit, Chandidas. Its cinematic validation of a major stage genre - the quasi-legendary biographical - helped lessen Bengali cinema's dependence on the Calcutta Theatres for its themes as well as its literary, musical and acting talent. Early work known mainly for his free and inventive approach to established genres, esp. the mythological and the Saint film, creating a Bengali quality cinema (e.g. Aparadhi and Chandidas). Went to East India Film (1934-6) where he made the lyrical Seeta which launched Prithviraj Kapoor and Durga Khote as a star duo. Returned to New Theatres (1937-41), making the classic Bidyapati. His independent Debaki Bose Prod. (1945) with stars from the Hindi and Marathi cinemas paved the way for other Calcutta cineastes after the decline of New Theatres in the early 40s. Made Arghya, a documentary on the caste system, based on four narrative poems by Tagore to celebrate the centenary of his birth.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1930: Kamaner Aagun (only act); Panchasar (also act); 1931: Aparadhi, Shadows of the Dead; 1932: Nishir Dak (all St); Chandidas; 1933: Puran Bhakt; Meerabai/Rajrani Meera; Dulari Bibi; 1934: Seeta; 1935: Inquilab, Jeevan Natak; 1936: Sonar Sansar/Sunehra Sansar; 1937: Bidyapati/Vidyapati; 1939: Sapurey/Sapera; 1940: Nartaki, Abhinav; 1942: Apna Ghar/Aple Ghar; 1943: Shri Ramanuja; 1945: Meghdoot, Swarg Se Sundar Desh Hamara; 1946: Krishna Leela; 1947: Chandrasekhar; 1948: Sir Shankarnath; 1949: Kavi; 1951: Ratnadeep/Ratnadeepam; 1953: Pathik; 1954: Kavi; Bhagwan Shri Krishna Chaitanya; 1955: Bhalobasha; 1956:

Chirakumar Sabha; Nabajanma; 1958: Sonar Kathi; 1959: Sagar Sangamey; 1961: Arghya.

Bose, Modhu (1900-69)

Bengali and Hindi director-scenarist born in Calcutta; grandson of the historian R.C. Dutt. Studied at Shantiniketan and Bidyasagar College, Calcutta, under Sisir Bhaduri. Entered film briefly as actor at Madan Theatres (1923). Assisted J.J. Madan on the making of Turki Hoor (1924); assisted on Himansu Rai's Prem Sanyas (1925). Went to London and assisted cameraman Baron Gaetano Ventigmilia on a Hitchcock film for Balcon/Gainsborough (1926; probably The Mountain Eagle) and worked briefly with Karl Freund at UFA (probably on Lang's Metropolis, 1925). Shot a Burmese film for the London Film Company, Rangoon, in 1927. Started the Calcutta Amateur Players (CAP) theatre group (1927). Production manager and actor in Prapancha Pash (1929). Married actress Sadhona Bose. Early films produced by Madan Theatres. Made Khyber Falcon for the Punjab Film Corp. in Lahore. Best-known work for Bombay-based Wadia Movietone and Sagar. Developed an influential generic hybrid from Rabindranath Tagore's ballets (Dahlia) and Khirode Prasad Vidyavinode's Alibaba, both starring his wife, Sadhona Bose. Made Orientalist song-dance-adventure spectacles, indigenous variants of British 19th C. Ruritanian comedies (Selima, Kumkum, Raj Nartaki) and several Tagore adaptations. After 1936, when the CAP turned professional, concentrated mainly on stage work, e.g. Niranjan Pal's Zarina, Manmatha Ray's The Dreams of Omar Khayyam. Also film biographical of Girishchandra Ghosh, Michael Madhusudhan Dutt and Swami Vivekananda. Wrote autobiography: Amar Jeeban (1967).

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1930: Giribala; Dahlia; 1932: Khyber Falcon (all St); 1935: Selima; 1936: Bala Ki Raat; 1937: Alibaba (also act); 1938: Abhinaya; 1940: Kumkum/Kumkum the Dancer; 1941: Raj Nartaki/Court Dancer; 1942: Meenakshi; 1947: Giribala; 1950: Michael Madhusudhan; 1953: Raakhi; Shesher Kabita; 1954: Vikram Urvashi; 1956: Mahakavi Girishchandra; Paradhira; Shubha Lagna; 1964: Bireswar Vivekananda.

Bose, Nitin (1897-1986)

Bengali and Hindi director, cameraman and producer; cousin of Satyajit Ray. Born in Calcutta. Learned still photography from his father, Hemendra Mohan Bose, owner of the famous Kuntalin Press and of Talking Machine Hall (distributor of Pathéphone recording systems). Acquired movie camera in his teens and became proficient in shooting home movies which he developed himself. Made newsreels in 1921-2 (the chariot festival at Puri, the elephant hunt of the Maharaja of Tripura) which he sold to the International Newsreel Corp. and to Fox Kinogram. First feature as cinematographer: Jaigopal Pillai's Punarjanma (1927). Cameraman on features for Aurora, Indian Kinema Arts, Sisir Bhaduri and International Filmcraft. Chief technical adviser and head of the camera department at New Theatres (1930). Shot many films for Debaki Bose (e.g. Chandidas, 1932; Meerabai, 1933) and Atorthy (e.g. Dena Paona, 1931; Mohabbat Ke Aansoo, Subah Ka Sitara, Punarjanma, all 1932); also shot Shakuntala for Bhavnani (1931). Directorial debut when Debaki Bose left the studio in 1933. A key figure in the New Theatres organisation and maker of some of its most successful films. His early work continued in the vein of Debaki Bose (first feature was remake of Bose's Chandidas). Later introduced a 'realist' element (Didi/President, Deshar Mati/Dharti Mata) foreshadowing the films of his own student and cameraman Bimal Roy (Udayer Pathay, 1944), and probably Mrinal Sen's early films. Also made successful films after he left New Theatres in 1941 (e.g. Ganga Jumna in Hindi and Bhojpuri was one of the biggest hits of post-Independence cinema). Worked with major producers in Bombay: Bombay Talkies (Nauka Dubi) and Minerva. Started his own production company with Dard-e-Dil in 1953. When A. Chakravarty died, Bose finished Kathputli. Set up Guwahati Studio in Assam.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1921: Belgian Emperor's Visit to India (Doc); 1930: Buker Bojha (all St); 1934: Chandidas; Daku Mansoor; 1935: Dhoop Chhaon/Bhagya Chakra; 1937: Didi/President; 1938: Desher Mati/Dharti Mata; Dushman/Jiban Maran; 1941: Parichay/Lagar; 1943: Kashinath, Bichar/Paraya Dhar; 1944: Mujrim; 1945: Mazdoor; 1946: Nauka Dubi/Milan; 1948: Drishtidaar; 1950: Mashaal/Samar; 1951: Deedar; 1953: Dard-e-Dil; 1954: Waris; 1955: Amar Saiga; 1956: Char Dost; 1957:

Madhabir Jonye; Kathputli; 1958: Jogajog; 1961: Ganga Jumna; 1962: Ummeed; 1963: Nartaki; 1964: Dooj Ka Chand; 1966: Hum Kahan Ja Rahe Hair; 1972: Samanata.

Bose, Sadhona (1914-73)

Actress born in Calcutta. Some sources give 1903 as year of birth. Granddaughter of 19th C. reformist leader Keshub Chunder Sen. Participated in her husband Modhu Bose's dance spectacles (Kumkum, Raj Nartaki) which helped convert the late 19th/early 20th C. Parsee Theatre-influenced operatic mode into popular Bengali and Hindi films. A classically trained dancer (Kathak dance under Taraknath Bagchi and Manipuri under Guru Senarik Rajkumar) and musician (studied under Inayat Khan, Timir Baran and, briefly, S.D. Burman; piano with musician Franco Polo), her early work included ballets supervised by Rabindranath Tagore (one of which later became the film Dahlia, 1930). In the 1929 stage version of Alibaba, met and briefly worked with Anna Pavlova. A classicist ideology was attributed to her work with Modhu Bose for the Calcutta Amateur Players and later in film. Her best-known play, Alibaba (1934; filmed 1937), helped translate the musical style of Calcutta Theatres, originating with Khirode Prasad Vidyavinode, into Broadway/Hollywood inspired Orientalist spectacles. Introduced these into Hindi cinema, via directors like Chaturbhuj Doshi (Shankar Parvati) and Kidar Sharma (Vish Kanya). In her autobiography (Sadhona Bose, 1963), plays like Theme Songs of Omar Khayyam and Hindu Dance Dramas, Birth of Freedom, Samarpan and Ajanta are described as 'neo-classical ballets' while her later films are called 'film ballets', adhering to all the tenets of traditional art. Produced the show Rhythm of Victory as a political spectacular with more than 40 dancers. An English version of her best-known film, Raj Nartaki, was distributed in the USA as Court Dancer.

Sadhona Bose in Raj Nartaki (1941)

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1937: Alibaba; 1938: Abhinaya; 1940: Kumkum/ Kumkum the Dancer; 1941: Raj Nartaki/ Court Dancer; 1942: Meenakshi; 1943: Paigham; Shankar Parvati; Vish Kanya; 1945: Neelam; 1951: Bhola Shankar; For Ladies Only; Nand Kishore; 1952: Shin Shinaki Boobla Boo; 1953: Shesher Kabita; 1954: Maa-o-Chhele; Vikram Urvashi.

Bose, Satyen (1916-93)

Bengali and Hindi director born in Purnea, Bihar. Commerce graduate from Bidyasagar College, Calcutta (1941). Worked on the railways and in a bank. Participant in amateur theatre as student. With friends set up National Progressive Pics (1948) and produced Hemen Gupta's Bhuli Naai in Bengali. Early films contextualised by post-Partition Bengal, addressing the fragmentation of the traditional middle class (e.g. Bhor Hoye Elo) under different social and political pressures, e.g. the schoolboy movie Paribartan. Combined realism with comedy, esp. Barjatri, which was praised by S. Ray for its typically Bengali spirit, humorous dialogue and spontaneous acting style. Moved to Bombay late in 1953 to make Parichay. Then worked mainly with the brothers Kishore, Anoop and Ashok Kumar in the sadly comic Bandi and the one slapstick classic of Hindi cinema, Chalti Ka Naam Gaadi. Also directed Nargis's last film, Raat Aur Din.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* also act): 1949: *Paribartan; 1951: *Barjatri; 1953: Bhor Hoye Elo; 1954: Jagriti; Parichay; 1955: Rickshawala; Bandish; 1957: Bandi; 1958: Chalti Ka Naam Gaadi; Savera; Sitaron Se Aage; 1960: Masoom; Girl Friend; 1964: Daal Mein Kala; Dosti; 1966: Aasra; Mere Lal; 1967: Bhagya; Raat Aur Din; 1968: Jyot Jale; 1969: Wapas; Aansoo Ban Gaye Phool; 1970: Jeevan Mrityu; 1972: Sa Re Ga Ma Pa; Anokhi Pehchan; Mere Bhaiya; 1977: Mastan Dada; 1978: Anmol Tasveer; 1979: Saanch Ko Aanch Nahin; Bin Maa Ke Bachche; 1980: Payal Ki Jhankaar; 1982: Tumhare Bina; 1983: Kaya Palat; 1986: Woh Din Aayega.

Bose, Tapan (b. 1946)

Documentary director; part of Cinemart Foundation with actress Suhasini Mulay (Bhuvan Shome, 1969, Bhavni Bhavai, 1980) and Salim Shaikh. Started as assistant to Sukhdev. Controversial cineaste, often hampered by officialdom. Independent debut, An Indian Story, featured the infamous Bhagalpur incident in which prison inmates were blinded as part of police torture. Co-d his second film examining the consequences of the Bhopal gas disaster (1984). From Behind the Barricade attacks the central government's repression in Punjab. The film was banned for its overt support of separatist militants. An appellate tribunal revoked the ban, imposing other strictures such as the unprecedented requirement that 'In all interviews, so as to ensure the genuineness of the interviews and interviewees, except where the interviewee is a known public character, there shall, throughout the interview, be a subtitle ... depicting the name and address of the interviewee and the location where the interview was taken. In default, such interview to be deleted in its entirety' (see A.G. Noorani, 1993). Also works on video.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1981: An Indian Story; 1986: Bhopal: Beyond Genocide; 1991: The Vulnerable Road User; 1993: From Behind The Barricade; Jharkhand.

Bourne & Shepherd

Calcutta-based company; oldest and most prominent still photography dealers in India, set up in 1840 as a studio by Samuel Bourne. Charles Shepherd and A. Robertson started a Photographic Artists Studio in Agra (1862) which became Howard & Bourne in Simla (1863) and finally Bourne & Shepherd in Calcutta (1868). Both were photographers, making portraits of political and arts personalities, urban scenes of Calcutta and royal Durbars and were dealers in equipment and stock. They produced photographic variants of Company School painting for the popular art market: Hiralal Sen's career started when he won a Bourne & Shepherd photography competition in 1887. Their nationwide distribution and processing/printing network was one of the first to expand into film (by 1900) when, with the Bombay-based Clifton & Co., they started showing movies in their studios. Mainly sold or hired out equipment by Pathé-Freres, Gaumont and the Barker Motion Picture Co., aggressively marketing their services and making professional cameramen and crews available to shoot events of state or private importance on commission from the government, Indian royalty or business magnates (e.g. Pundalik, 1912). Until the establishment of Pathé (India) in 1907, companies like Bourne & Shepherd occasionally worked as agents for the Pathé Exchange, the International Newsreel Corp. and Fox Films, purchasing locally made documentaries for them as 'News' films, or the cheaper 'Review' films. The first extensively filmed public event in India, the British Royal Family's visit in 1911 (shot by Patankar, Hiralal Sen, Madan Theatres and others) was also shot by the company: Their Imperial Majesties in Delhi (1911).

British Dominion Films

Dhiren Ganguly's third and best-known silent studio, set up in 1929 in Dum Dum, Calcutta. Board of directors comprised P.C. Barua, the Rajahs of Puri, Khadia and Patna, Tarubala Sen, N.N. Mukherjee and K.C. Roy Choudhury with Ganguly as managing director. Financially supported by royalty, it also sought colonial state support. Productions include first films by Debaki Bose, writer-film-maker Dinesh Ranjan Das and cameramen Sainen Bose and Dronacharya. Made only eight films. Closed down in 1930 as victim of the change to sound.

Burma, Phani (b. 1897)

Bengali director born in Calcutta. Started as actor (e.g. Naresh Mitra's Devdas, 1928; also Bangabala, 1929 and Bigraha and Mrinalini, both 1930). Turned director while starring in Shesh Path on location in Burma. Concentrated on direction from 1936 onwards. Co-directed Kamale Kamini with Nirmal Goswami.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1930: Shesh Path (St); 1936: Krishna Sudama; Jhinjhinyar Jer; Bishabriksha; Prabas Milan; 1939: Janak Nandini; Debjani; 1940: Kamale Kamini; Byabadhar; Nimai Sanyasi; 1947: Mandir; 1952: Prahlad; Vishwamitra; 1954: Joydev; 1955: Shribatsa Chinta; 1957: Harishchandra; Onkarer Joy Jatra; Data Karna.

Burman, Rahul Dev (1939-94)

Hindi composer aka Pancham. Entered films as assistant to his father S.D. Burman, often playing the mouth organ in his father's orchestras. Trained under Ali Akbar Khan. Independent career coincided with the wave of early 70s Rajesh Khanna love stories (esp. Kati Patang, Amar Prem, Apna Desh) and the new lease of life they offered to singer Kishore Kumar. Informally assisted his father in composing the seminal Khanna-Kumar combination, Shakti Samanta's Aradhana (1969). Breakthrough in Nasir Hussain musicals, starting with Baharon Ke Sapne and consolidated by the classic Zeenat Aman rock music teen-movie Yaadon Ki Baraat, having earlier scored her debut Hare Rama Hare Krishna. Some of his best music is associated with Gulzar's lyrics, e.g. Parichay and Aandhi. Brought Hindi film music into the era of electronic rock with a series of enormously popular youth movies, e.g. Narendra Bedi's Jawani Diwani. Worked mostly with singers Asha Bhosle and Kishore Kumar, providing much of the music that defines their reputations. Also produced independent albums, including one based on the samba and one with British pop star Boy George. Occasionally sang his own songs in a unique, grunting bass (e.g. the Mehbooba mehbooba number in Sholay). 1942: *A Love Story, his last film released after his death, was a major musical success.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* also act): 1961: Chhote Nawab; 1965: *Bhoot Bangla; Teesra Kaur; 1966: Pati Patni; Teesri Manzil; 1967: Baharon Ke Sapne; Chandan Ka Palna; 1968: Abhilasha; Padosan; 1969: *Pyar Ka Mausam; Waris; 1970: Rajkumari; Ehsan; Kati Patang; Puraskaar; Raaton Ka Raja; Saas Bhi Kabhi Bahu Thi; The Train; 1971: Adhikar; Amar Prem; Buddha Mil Gaya; Caravan; Hangama; Hare Rama Hare Krishna; Lakhon Mein Ek; Mela; Paraya Dhan; Pyar Ki Kahani; Hulchul; Sanjog; 1972: Apna Desh; Bombay To Goa; Dil Ka Raja; Do Chor; Garam Masala; Gomti Ke Kinare; Jawani Diwani; Mere Jeevan Saathi;

Parichay, Parchaiyan; Raakhi Aur Hathkadi; Rampur Ka Lakshmar; Rani Mera Naam; Samadhi; Savera; Seeta Aur Geeta; Shehzada; Double Cross; 1973: Aa Gale Lag Jaa; Anamika; Bada Kabutar; Bandhe Haath; Chhailia; Do Phool; Heera Panna; Hifazat; Jaise Ko Taisa; Jheel Ke Us Paar; Joshila; Nafrat; Namak Haram; Paanch Dushman; Raja Rani; Rickshawala; Shareef Badmash; Yaadon Ki Baraat, Mr Romeo; 1974: Aap Ki Kasam; Ajnabi; Benaam; Charitraheer; Dil Diwana; Doosri Seeta; Goonj; Humshakal; Imaan; Ishq Ishq Ishq; Khote Sikkay; Madhosh; Manoranjan; Phir Kab Milog; Shaitan; Trimurti; Ujala Hi Ujala; Zehreela Insaan; 1975: Aandhi, Dewar; Dharam Karam; Kala Sona; Khel Khel Mein; Khushboo; Mazaq; Raja; Sholay; Warrant; Keh-te Hain Mujhko Raja; 1976: Balika Badhu; Bandalbaaz; Bhanwar; Bullet; Khalifa; Maha Chor; Mehbooba; Nehle Pe Dehla; Vishwasghaat; Dhongee; 1977: Chala Murari Hero Banne; Chalta Purza; Chandi Sona; Darling Darling; Hum Kisise Kum Nahin; Jeevanmukt; Karm; Kinara; Kitaab; Mukti; 1978: Azad; Bhola Bhala; Chor Ho To Aisa; Devata; Ghar; Heeralal Pannalal; Naukri; Kasma Vade; Naya Daur; Phandebaa; Shalimar; 1979: Bhala Manus; Golmaal; The Great Gambler; Hamare Tumhare; Jhootha Kahin Ka; Jurmana; Manzil; Naukar; Ratnadeep; Salaam Memsaab; 1980: Aanchal; Abdullah; Alibaba Aur Chalis Chor; The Burning Train; Dhan Daulat; Jal Mahal; Khubsoorat; Phir Wohi Raat; Red Rose; Shaan; Sitara; Takkar; Bulandi; Gunehgaar; Qatil Kaur; 1981: Barsaat Ki Ek Raat; Anusandhan; Basera; Biwi-o-Biwi; Dhuaan; Gehra Zakhm; Ghunghroo Ki Awaaz; Harjaai; Jail Yatra; Kaliya; Kudrat; Love Story; Mangalsutra; Naram Garam; Raksha; Shaukeen; Rocky; Zamane Ko Dikhana Hai; Satte Pe Satta; Kachche Heere; Daulat; Angoor; Kalankini Kankabati; 1982: Aamne Samne; Ashanti; Bemisal; Ganga Meri Maa; Namkeen; Sanam Teri Kasam; Shakti; Swami Dada; Teri Kasam; Yeh To Kamaal Ho Gaya; Yeh Vaada Raha; Dard Ka Rishta; Masoom; Trayi; Aparoop; 1983: Namumkin; Agar Tum Na Hote; Betaab; Chor Police; Jaan-e-Jaan; Kaun?; Kaise?; Lovers; Mahaan; Main Awara Hoon; Mazdoor; Pukar; Qayamat; Rang Birangi; Romance; Shubh Kaamna; Farishta; Boxer; Bindiya Chamkegi; Bade Dil Wala; Aan Aur Shaan; 1984: Anand Aur Anand; Andar Bahar; Awaaz; Bheema; Duniya; Hum Hain Lajawaab; Jagir/Teen Murti; Jawani; Sunny; Jhootha Sach; Karishma; Mati Mange Khoor; Manzil Manzil; Yeh Desh; Zameen Aasmaan; Hum Dono; Musafir; 1985: Aar Paar/Anyay Abichar; Alag Alag; Amir Admi Gareeb Admi; Arjun; Awara Baap; Ek Se Bhale Do; Lava; Oonche Log; Rahi Badal Gaye; Ram Tere Kitne Naam; Joshilay; Sagar; Shiva Ka Insaaf; Sitamgarh; Zabardast; Savere Wali Gadi; Hum Naujawan; Rusvai; 1986: Bond 303; Anokha Rishta; Ek Main Aur Ek Tu; Jeeva; Palay Khan; Samundar; Shatru; Zindagani; 1987: Apne Apne; Dacait; Hifazat; Inaam Dus Hazaar; Ithaas; Jallianwala Bagh; Ekanto Apor; Ijaazat; Belagaam; 1988: Agur; Mardon Wali Baat; Zalzala; Rama-o-Rama; Mil Gayi Manzil Mujhe; Chatran; Faisla; Libaas; 1989: Aag Se

Khelenge; Dost; Parinda; Aakrosh; Jankar; Jurrat; Bahurani; Ladaai (B); Shatarupa; 1990: Ekhan Amar Swarga*; Jeene Do; Dushman; Chor Pe Mor; Apon Amar Apon; Debata; 1991: Gunehgaar Kaur; Indrajit; Bourani; Nawab; Ananda Niketan; 1992: Jhoothi Shaan; Sarpheera; Siyasat; Drohi; Khule Aam; Shet Patharer Thala; Krodhi; Adhikar; Maa; Purshottam; 1993: Gurudev; Gardish; Tum Karo Vaada; Puraskaar; Kanyadaan (only act.); Bhranta Pathik (only act.); Shradhanjali; 1994: 1942 : A Love Story; Sukhi Sansarachi Bara Sutre; Janam Se Pehle; Shesh Chitthi; Ajana Path.

Burman, Sachin Dev (1906-75)

Music director born in Tripura. Classical training by his father, sitarist and Dhrupad singer Nabadwipchandra Dev Burman; later with Ustad Badal Khan and Bhishmadev Chattopadhyay. Early work for radio was based on East Bengali and North Eastern folk-music. In early 30s made a reputation in Bengal as singer of folk and light classical music, e.g. at the Allahabad Sangeet Sammelan (Music Conference) in 1935. First record was of a Nazrul Islam composition, leading to a long and productive relationship with the writer/composer. Film debut singing for Pankaj Mullick in Atorothy's Yahudi Ki Ladki (1933) but the songs were scrapped and re-sung by Pahadi Sanyal. First film as singer: Tinkari Chakraborty's Sanjher Pidim (1935); also acted in Dhiren Ganguli's Bidrohi (1935). Music director from 1939 onwards in Calcutta. Moved to Bombay (1944) and worked at Filmistan (Eight Days, Shabnam), Navketan (Afsar, Taxi Driver, Funtoosh, Guide) and for Guru Dutt (Baazi, Jaal, Pyaasa, Kaagaz Ke Phool). Remained Dev Anand's key composer for several years (Paying Guest, Tere Ghar Ke Saamne, Jewel Thief, Prem Pujari). Also worked on films for Bimal Roy (Devdas, Sujata, Bandini). Film compositions often influenced by his huge repertory of folk-tunes from the Bengali Bhatiali, Sari and Dhamaal traditions of the North East. As a singer, his thin but powerful, accented voice was often used as a bardic commentary: e.g. the Wahan kaun hai tera musafir number in Guide, Safal hogi teri aradhana in the hit Rajesh Khanna movie Aradhana. Wrote an autobiography: Sargamer Nikhad.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1937: Rajee; 1939: Jakher Dhan; 1940: Amar Geeti; Rajkumarer Nirbharan; 1941: Pratishodh; 1942: Mahakavi Kalidas; Avayer Biye; Milan; Jiban Sangini; Ashok; 1943: Jajsaheber Nathni; 1944: Chhadmabeshi; Matir Ghar; Pratikar; 1945: Kalankini; 1946: Matrihara; Shikari; Eight Days; 1947: Chittor Vijay; Dil Ki Rani; Do Bhai; 1948: Vidya; 1949: Kamal; Shabnam; 1950: Afsar, Mashaal Samar, Pyar; 1951: Baazi, Bahar, Buzdil, Ek Nazar, Naujawan, Sazaa, Babla; 1952: Jaal, Lal Kunwar; 1953: Armaan; Jeevan Jyoti; Shahenshah; 1954: Angarey; Chalis Baba Ek Chor; Radha Krishna; Taxi Driver; 1955: Devdas, House Number 44, Madh Bhare Nair, Munimji, Society; 1956: Funtoosh; 1957: Miss India;

Nau Do Gyarah, Paying Guest, Pyaasa; 1958: Chalti Ka Naam Gaadi, Kala Pani, Lajwanti, Sitaron Se Aage; Solva Saat; 1959: Insaan Jaag Utha; Kaagaz Ke Phool, Sujata; 1960: Apna Haath Jagannath, Bambai Ka Babu; Bewaqoof; Ek Ke Baad Ek; Kala Bazaar; Manzil; Miya Bibi Razi; 1962: Baat Ek Raat Ki; Dr Vidya; Naughty Boy; 1963: Bandini; Meri Soorat Teri Aankhen; Tere Ghar Ke Saamne; 1964: Benazir; Kaise Kahun; Ziddi; 1965: Guide; Teen Deviyar; 1967: Jewel Thief; 1969: Aradhana; Jyoti; Talash; 1970: Ishq Par Zor Nahin, Prem Pujari; 1971: Gambler; Naya Zamana; Sharmilee; Tere Mere Sapne; 1972: Anuraag; Yeh Gulistan Hamara; Zindagi Zindagi; 1973: Abhimaan; Chhupa Rustom; Jugnu; Phagur; 1974: Prem Nagar; Sagina; Us Paar; 1975: Chupke Chupke; Mili; 1976: Arjun Pandit; Barood; Deewangee; Tyaag.

Calcutta Theatres

Commercial theatre movement in late 19th and early 20th C. Calcutta, drawing on 18th C. British amateur theatricals, Gerasim Lebedeff's (1749-1817) influential Bengally Theatre (Est: 1795) and 'private' theatres from which emerged the first major Bengali playwright, Michael Madhusudan Dutt (1824-73). Cultural and economic pinnacle coincided with the career of writer-actor Girishchandra Ghosh (1844-1912), first at National Theatre and later Minerva Theatre (1893-1912), including Ghosh's mythologicals, Dwijendralal Roy's historicals and Khirode Prasad Vidyavinode's musicals (notably Alibaba). Influenced by the Shakespearean Parsee Theatre, a realist current contemporaneous with the reformist Bengali novel (e.g. Dinabandhu Mitra's Nildarpan, staged by National in 1872, about the condition of peasants in Bengal's indigo plantations) and by operatic ballet in the Madan repertoires. Also significant was the mediation of amateur theatre in Shantiniketan and Jorasanko: Rabindranath Tagore's musical theatre (Tasher Desh, Balmiki Pratibha) and dance dramas (Chandalika, Chitrangada), e.g. by Modhu Bose's Calcutta Amateur Players. Early 20th C. stage industry counted many very successful companies usually owned by rich financiers and run by manager-impresarios. They had a determinating impact on the early Bengali film industry (see Hiralal Sen and Madan Theatres). Conventionally, modern 20th C. Bengali theatre dates back to Star Theatres' 1923 production of Karnarjun (starring Ahindra Choudhury, Naresh Mitra and Durgadas Bannerjee). Sisir Bhaduri's plays at Natyamandir later provided a generic backdrop to radical 'group' theatre movements launched in early 40s (see Utpal Dutt). The era of the great public theatres was later often evoked in films as pre-war nostalgia or as the nascent origin of Bengal's mass-culture industry (e.g. the New Theatres' Abhinetri/Haar Jeet, 1940 and Meri Bahen, 1944). Established several key genres, including the historical and mythological, for the cinema as much as for the popular Jatra theatre.

Chakraborty, Madhabi see Mukherjee, Madhabi

Chakraborty, Mithun (b. 1956)

Bengali-Hindi actor. Major hits B. Subhash's Disco Dancer and Dance Dance earned him a major following in India and abroad, esp. in the USSR. Early work in realist 'political' films, e.g. Mrigaya, The Naxalites and Hum Paanch. Later achieved a brand image with gangland thrillers, indigenous Westerns and love stories for mid-level producers like Raveekant Nagaich, offering cheaper variants of what Bachchan was doing in the top bracket. Late 80s marketing strategies often cast him alongside Bachchan, playing second lead (Manmohan Desai's Ganga Jamuna Saraswati, Mukul Anand's Agneepath). Regarded in the late 80s as the 'safest' investment in Hindi cinema, although he had no major hits until Vijay Sadanah's Pyar Jhukta Nahin, because he appealed to the semi-urban and rural audiences which sustained long-term distribution. Changed his image in Buddhadev Dasgupta's Tahader Katha to win the national acting award.

Pasand Apni Apni, Taqdeer, Woh Jo Haseena; Boxer, Lal Chunaria; 1984: Baazi, Ghar Ek Mandir, Pyar Jhukta Nahin, Jhootha Sach, Jaag Utha Insaan; Jagiri, Teen Murti; Kasam Paida Karne Wale Ki, Rakta Bandhan; Tarkeeb, Hanste Khelte; Sharara, Teri Baahon Mein; 1985: Aandhi Toofan, Aar Paar, Anyay Abichar, Badal, Bepanah, Char Maharathi; Ghulam, Karishma Kudrat Ka, Karm Yudh; Maa Kasam, Pyari Behna; Yaadon Ki Kasam; Ek Aur Sikandar; 1986: Aisa Pyar Kahar, Amma, Avinash, Baat Ban Jaye, Dilwala; Jaal, Karamdata, Kismatwala; Main Balwar, Nasihah, Pyar Ke Do Pal, Sheesha; Swarg Se Sundar, Zindagani, Muddat; 1987: Dance Dance, Diwana Tere Naam Ka, Hawalaat, Hirasat, Mera Yaar Mera Dushman, Param Dharam, Parivar, Watan Ke Rakhwale; 1988: Charnon Ki Saugandh, Commando, Jeete Hain Shaan Se, Pyar Ka Mandir, Rukhsat, Waqt Ki Awaaz, Saazish, Sagar Sangam, Ganga Jamuna Saraswati, Agni, Bees Saal Baad, Mar Mitenge, Meri Zabaan, Mil Gayi Manzil Mujhe; 1989: Guru, Hum Intezar Kareenge, Ilaaka, Prem Pratigya, Garibon Ka Daata, Daata, Aakhri Gulam, Hisab Khoon Ka, Mujrim, Dost, Dana Pani, Ladaai, Bhrashtachar, Swarna Trishna, Galiyon Ka Badshah, Aakhri Badla; 1990: Pyar Ke Naam Qurban, Agneepath, Gunahon Ka Devta, Humse Na Takrana, Paap Ki Kamaai, Pati Patni Aur Tawaiif, Roti Ke Keemat, Pyar Ka Karz, Pyar Ka Devata, Dushman, Shandaar; 1991: Swarg Yahan Narak Yahan, Trinetra, Pratigyabadh, Pyar Hua Chori Chori, Shikari, Numbri Admi, Dil Ashna Hai; 1992: Tahader Katha, Mere Sajna Saath Nibhana, Raju Dada, Jhoothi Shaan, Pitambar, Ghar Jamai; 1993: Yugandhar, Phool Aur Angaar, Krishan Avatar, Meharbaan, Pardesi, Jeevan Ki Shatranj, Admi, Dalaal, Tadipaar, Shatranj; 1994: Parmatma, Cheetah, Kranti Kshetra, Rakhwale, Yaar Gaddar, Teesra Kaun?; 1995: Ab Insaaf Hoga, Gunehgaar, Nishana, The

Dorr, Zakhmi Sipahi, Ahankaar, Jallad, Diya Aur Toofan, Bhagyadevata.

Chakraborty, Tul si (1899-1961)

Actor born in Calcutta. Acted the gormless fool in dozens of Bengali comedies in the 30s, an image used by Satyajit Ray in Parash Pathar casting him as Paresch Dutta, a middle-aged bank clerk who discovers the philosopher's stone. His image, characterised by his bald head, bulging eyes and a remarkable sense of timing is an enduring icon of early Bengali cinema. Known initially as a singer and dancer on the stage, e.g. in his major stage debut for Star Theatres, Jaidev. Film debut in Atorothy's Punarjanma, also in a singing role. Acted in several New Theatres productions, e.g. by Hemchandra Chunder (Wapas, Meri Bahen) and Kartick Chattopadhyay (Ramer Sumati, Mahaprasthan Pathey). Bimal Roy mobilised his earthy caricature of the Bengali middle class in a 'realist' context (Udayer Pathey, Anjagarh, Naukri). Premendra Mitra (Moyla Kagaj), Tapan Sinha and Ray (in Pather Panchali, where he played the schoolteacher) extended this vein. Other classic roles incl. the villain in Mejdid and the central character of the landlord in the hit Sharey Chuattar. He demonstrated his musical abilities only occasionally in his later career, e.g. in Debaki Bose's Kavi, singing his own compositions. Continued acting in theatre until 1961 (last play: Shreyasi) working with Star, Natyaniketan (e.g. Maa) and at Natyabharati and Rungmahal companies.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1976: Do Anjaane, Mrigaya; 1977: Mukti; 1978: Hamara Sansar, Mera Rakshak, Tere Pyar Mein, Kasturi, Phool Khile Hain Gulshan Gulshan, Nadi Theke Sagare; 1979: Amar Deep, Bhayanak, Prem Vivah, Suraksha, Tarana, The Naxalites, Chameli Memsahib; 1980: Aakhri Insaaf, Bansari, Beshaque, Patita, Sitara, Taxi Chor, Unees Bees, Khwab, Kismet, Hum Paanch, Ghamandi; 1981: Dhuaar, Humse Badhkar Kauri, Jeene Ki Arzoo, Laparwah, Main Aur Mera Hathi, Sahas, Wardat, Kalankini Kankabati, Pahadi Phool, Upalabdh, Sameera, Shaukeer; 1982: Aadat Se Majboor, Aamne Samne, Ashanti, Disco Dancer, Heeron Ka Chor, Sun Sajna, Swami Dada, Taqdeer Ka Badshah, Ustadi Ustad Se, Trayi; 1983: Faraib, Humse Hai Zamana, Karate, Kaun? Kaise?, Mujhe Insaaf Chahiye, Marriage Bureau, ♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1932: Punarjanma; 1933: Shri Gauranga; 1934: Dhruva, Sachidulal, Daksha Yagna, Rajnati Basantsena; 1935: Manmoyee Girls' School, Kanthahaar; 1936: Krishna Sudama, Kritimarr, Prabas Milan, Chino Haar; 1938: Halbangala, Bekar Nashar, Abhinaya, Ekalavya; 1939: Nara Narayan, Parasmani, Rikta, Vaman Avatar, Janak Nandini; 1940: Kamale Kamini, Nimai Sanyasi; 1941: Shri Radha, Uttarayan, Pratisrut; 1942: Meenakshi, Shesh Uttar/Jawab, Garmil, Saugandh; 1943: Jogajog/Hospital, Shri Ramanuja, Wapas, Swamir Ghar, Aleya, Poshya Putra, Dampati, Dikshul; 1944: All-Star Tragedy, Meri Bahen, Subah Shyam, Takraar, Udayer Pathey/Hamrahi, Sondhi/Sandhi; 1945: Vasiyatnama, Path Bendhe Dilo, Mane Na Mana, Bhabhi-Kaal, Dui Purush; 1946: Biraj Bour, Vande Mataram; 1947: Giribala, Jharer Parey, Alaknanda, Abhijog, Dui Bandhu, Gharoa, Ramer Sumati/Chhota Bhai; 1948: Samapika, Anjagarh, Anirban, Bhuli Naa, Bankalekha, Priyatama, Sankha Sindoor, Taruner Swapna, Sir Shankarnath, Umar Prem(?), Mati-o-Manush; 1949: Satero Bachhar Pare, Kavi, Bishnupriya, Swami, Manzoor; 1950: Radha Rani, Rupkatha/Roop Kahani, Mejdid, Kuhelika; 1951: Biplabi Kshudiram, Ratnadeep/Ratnadeepam, Babla; 1952: Mahaprasthan Pathey/Yatrik, Patri Chai, Abu Hossain, Chhoti Maa; 1953: Bana Hansi, Nabin Yatra/Naya Safar, Sharey Chuattar, Shri Shri Satyanarayan, Chirantani, Chikitsa Sankat, Jhakmari; 1954:

Mithun Chakraborty in Dushman (1990)

Maa-o-Chhele; Atom Bomb; Moyla Kagaj; Moner Mayur; Ora Thake Odhare; Narmedh Yagna; Champadanga Bou; Prafulla; Ladies' Seat; Jagrihi; Sadanander Mela; Annapurnar Mandir; Chheley Kaar; Bokul Bakul; Shoroshi; Grihapravesh; Jadubhatta; Naukrî; 1955: Shribatsa-Chinta; Nishiddha Phal; Chhoto Bou; Aparadhi; Jharer Parey; Joymakali Boarding; Katha Kao; Upahar; Pather Panchali; Godhuli; Devimalini; Paresh; Du-Janay; Sabar Uparey; Kalindi; Sanjher Pradeep; 1956: Shyamali; Saheb Bibi Golam; Savdhan; Chirakumar Sabha; Ekti Raat; Asamapta; Rajpath; Nagardola; Chore; Amar Bou; Nabajanma; Asha; 1957: Sindoor; Ektara; Adarsha Hindu Hotel; Abhishek; Abhoyer Biye; Baksiddha; Madhabir Jonye; Tamasha; Janmatithi; Parash Pathar; Ajantrik; Kancha-Mithey; Ogo Sunchho; Chandranath; 1958: Meja Jamai; Yamalaya Jibanta Manush; Sonar Kathi; Rajalakshmi-o-Shrikanta; Nupur; Swarga Martya; Jonakir Alo; Sadhak Bama Kshyapa; Indrani; Joutuk; Surya Toran; Shri Shri Tarakeshwar; Rajdhani Theke; 1959: Chaowa-Pawa; Thakur Haridas; Derso Khokhar Kando; Deep Jewley Jai; Gali Theke Rajpath; Nirdharita Silpir Anupastithi Tey; Abak Prithvi; Mriter Martye Agaman; Personal Assistant; 1960: Maya Mriga; Kuhak; Akash-Patal; Bhoy; Dui Bechara; Khokha Babur Pratyabartan; Khudha; Kono-Ek-Din; Shesh Paryanta; Ajana Kahini; Nader Nimai; Suno Baro Nari; Gariber Meye; 1961: Sandhya Raag; Manik; Sadhak Kamalakanta; Lakshmi Narayan; Mr & Mrs Choudhury; Bishkanya; Swayambara; Kanchanmulya; Aaj Kal Parshu; Madhuren; Saptapadi; Dui Bhai; Kanamachi; 1962: Mon Dilona Bandhu; Suryasnan; Shasti; Agun; Kajal; Shesh Chinha; Banarasi; 1963: Dui Bari; High Heel.

Chakraborty, Utpal endu (b. 1948)

Bengali director, musician and novelist. Born in Pabna Dist. (now Bangladesh). Was influenced in early youth by his uncle, Communist writer Swarnakamal Bhattacharya who wrote Chinnamul and Tathapi (both 1950). Master's degree in modern history from University of Calcutta (1967) and associated with CPI(ML)-led student agitations. Published emphatically emotive short stories in anthology Prasab under the name of Swaranamitra. Worked as informal teacher among the tribals of Bengal, Bihar and Orissa until ill health forced his return to Calcutta (1971). Taught at higher secondary school. First film was 16mm documentary Mukti Chai made during the Emergency, campaigning for the release of political prisoners. Subsequent features, made with reluctance given his often-declared mistrust of both state and private funding agencies, continue his emphatic discursive style. Worked for TV (inc. Chaturtha Panir Pather Yuddha, Shatabarshe Mohun Bagan); also made a documentary on S. Ray.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1977: Mukti Chai (Doc); 1980: Moyna Tadanta; 1982: Chokh; 1983: Debabrata Biswas (Doc); 1984: Music of Satyajit Ray (Doc); 1985: Debshishur; 1986: Aparichita (TV); Rang (TV); 1988: Bikalpa (TV); 1989: Phansi; Janani (TV); Dwibachan

(TV); Sonar Chheye Dami (TV); Chhandaneer; 1994: Prasab.

Chakrapani (?-1975)

Legendary Telugu scenarist, producer and journalist; co-owner of the Vijaya Studio with B. Nagi Reddy. Born as Aluri Venkata Subba Rao in Tenali, Guntur Dist., AP. Became a Hindi scholar and briefly started a Hindi school. Participated in Gandhi's salt agitations. Started a literary career translating Saratchandra Chattopadhyay into Telugu. First script: P. Pullaiah's Dharmapatni (1940); first success with B.N. Reddi's melodrama Swargaseema (1945) based on his story. Joined Nagi Reddy as a partner at Vijaya, scripting all its influential early L.V. Prasab hits: Shavukaru (1950), Pelli Chesi Choodu (1952), Missamma (1955), Appu Chesi Pappu Koodu (1958). Started, on behalf of Nagi Reddy's BNK Press, the children's monthly Chandamama (1947), now published in 14 languages. Also started the popular journal Yuva. Credited himself with the direction of Manithan Maravillai, which is the Tamil version of K. Kameshwara Rao's Chakrapani-scripted hit Gundamma Katha (1962), as well as Shri Rajeshwari Vilas Coffee Club (1976), remaking the Malayalam film Marunattil Oru Malayali (1971). He is satirised in the film Chakrapani (1954).

Chakravarthy, Amiya (1912-57)

Hindi director born in Rangpur. Child actor-singer on stage. Full-time political activist in early 30s, arrested during the Salt Satyagraha (1930) and forced to leave Bengal in 1935. Joined Bombay Talkies apparently as Bengali tutor to Niranjan Pal's son. Scenarist of Najam Naqvi's Punar Milan (1940, with Gyan Mukherjee) and Sushil Majumdar's Char Aankhen (1944). Assigned by Devika Rani to direct her and Ashok Kumar (in Anjaan) when she took over studio management following Himansu Rai's death. The split that followed with the establishment of Filmistan (1942), and the major success of Basant (introducing Mumtaz Shanti) and Jwar Bhata (Dilip Kumar's debut) made him the studio's top director in its most controversial period. With N.R. Acharya (Naya Sansar, 1941), pioneered a new generation of film-making at Bombay Talkies, but adhered more to the Osten-Rai orthodoxy, especially in scripts and performances. Formed production company Mars & Movies, e.g. the successful Dilip Kumar film Daag. His last feature was completed by Nitin Bose.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1941: Anjaan; 1942: Basant; 1944: Jwar Bhata; 1947: Mera Suhaag; 1949: Girls' School; 1950: Gauna; 1951: Badal; 1952: Daag; 1953: Patita; Shahenshah; 1954: Badshah; 1955: Seema; 1957: Dekh Kabira Roya; Kathputli.

Chanakya, Tapi (1925-73)

Telugu director born in Vizianagaram, Andhra Pradesh. Son of scenarist/lyricist Tapi Dharma Rao. Early interests in Telugu theatre. Was a radio telegraphist, also in the Army. Assistant in the sound department at Shobhanachala Studios, Madras (1947). Début at the Sarathi Studios where his first film, Anta Manavalle, was a hit. His next one, Rojulu Marayi, was even bigger. It had an anti-feudal ruralist theme, Waheeda Rehman's screen debut as a dancer and a score that was widely imitated in 50s Telugu film music. Later worked at Vijaya Studios and also in Tamil (the MGR hit Enga Veetu Pillai), Hindi (e.g. Ram Aur Shyam). His Bangaru Talli was a Telugu remake of Mother India (1957) starring Jaggiah, Jamuna (in Nargis's role) and Shobhan Babu.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1954: Anta Manavalle; 1955: Rojulu Marayi/Kalam Maripochu; 1957: Peddarikalu; 1958: Ettuku Pai Ettu; 1959: Bhagya Devatha/Bhagya Devathai; Kalisivunte Kaladu Sukham; 1960: Kumkumarekha; Jalsarayudu; Pudhiya Pathai; 1962: Constable Koothuru; 1964: Varasatwam; Ramudu Bheemudu; 1965: CID; Enga Veetu Pillai; Enga Veetu Penn; 1966: Adugu Jadal; Naan Anaittal; 1967: Ram Aur Shyam; 1968: Oli Vilakku; Pudhiya Bhoomi; 1969: Madhavi; 1970: Vidhi Vilasam; 1971: Bangaru Talli; Man Mandir; Bikhare Moti; 1972: Jaanwar Aur Insaan; Bandhipotu Bhayankara; Manavata; Subah-o-Shyam; 1973: Ganga Manga.

Chander, Krishan (1914-77)

One of the main modern Urdu writers. Regarded, with Sadat Hasan Manto and Rajinder Singh Bedi, as the literary generation that revolutionised post-war fiction, esp. the short story. Author of c.30 short-story anthologies and 20 novels. Best-known early writing set in native Kashmir, often elaborating strong contrasts between social oppression and the fertility of surrounding nature (e.g. Tilism-e-Khayal). Short satire, Annadata, adopted multiple pov narrative to describe the 1943 Bengal famine and was an important source for Abbas's Dharti Ke Lal (1946). His major novel, Jab Khet Jaaga, situated in the 1949 Telangana peasant uprising, was adapted by Gautam Ghose's Maabhoomi (1979). Employed in early 40s as dialogue writer at Shalimar Cinetone, Pune, along with other noted Hindi/Urdu writers. Josh Malihabadi records their collective experiences there in his book Yaadon Ki Baraat (published in Pakistan). Also worked at Sagar. Wrote scripts and dialogue, e.g. for K.B. Lall and Kardar. Adapted Minoo Masani's Our India to the screen for Zils (Hindustan Hamara, 1950); also scripted his Zalzala (1952). Directed one film he didn't write: Private Secretary (1962).

Chandra, N. (b. 1952)

Hindi director. Full name: Chandrasekhar Narvekar. Born in Bombay. One of the most commercially successful directors in late 80s Hindi cinema. Former film editor and assistant to Gulzar; also assisted Bapu. His Shiv Sena propaganda film Ankush and his first independent production Tezaab relied on violence and recognisably Bombay settings. Claims to have first-hand experience of his plot-lines in his own working-class antecedents. The dialogue and several visual references, evoking Bombay's encoded and highly communal inner-city speech forms, are a brutalised yet more complex version of Manmohan Desai's style (e.g. Tezaab, which contained the megahit song Ek Do Teen). Scripts and edits his own films.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1985: *Ankush; 1987: *Pratighaat; 1988: *Tezaab; 1991: *Narasimha; 1993: *Yugandhar.

Chandrakant Gaur (b. 1929)

Hindi B-movie director of action films and mythologicals. His work extends the Babubhai Mistri tradition, featuring Dara Singh (who also worked for Mistri) and Marathi star Jayshree Gadkar. Made Punjabi hits (e.g. Bhagat Dhanna Jat) reviving the Punjabi cinema. Also made Gujarati mythologicals.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1951: *Riding Hero; 1955: *Ganga Maiya; 1956: *Delhi Durbar; 1957: *Adhi Raat; 1958: *Circus Sundari; 1959: *Jaggu Daku; 1961: *Ramleela; 1962: *Jadugar Daku; 1963: *Maya Mahal; 1964: *Badshah; 1964: *Roop Sundari; 1964: *Veer Bhimsen; 1968: *Balaram Shri Krishna; 1970: *Tarzan 303; 1971: *Tulasi Vivah; 1971: *Kabhi Dhoop Kabhi Chhaon; 1972: *Hari Darshan; 1973: *Mahasati Savitri; 1974: *Kisan Aur Bhagwan; 1974: *Har Har Mahadev; 1974: *Bhagat Dhanna Jat; 1976: *Bajrang Bali; 1977: *Bolo He Chakradari; 1977: *Shri Krishna Sharanam Mama; 1979: *Shankar Parvati; 1984: *Shravan Kumar; 1986: *Krishna Krishna.

Chandrakant Sangani see Sangani, Chandrakant

Chandramohan (1905-49)

Actor born in Narasingpur. Employed by Prabhat's distributors, Famous Pics. Cast by Shantaram in Amritmanthan mainly for his one physical characteristic: unusually large grey eyes, used to advantage in the film's famous opening sequence. Subsequently cast as elaborately costumed villain in several films, e.g. the Macbeth figure in Jwala, the evil Ravana in Vijay Bhatt's mythological Rambaan. Mostly acted in mythologicals and historicals (the Emperor Jehangir in Sohrab Modi's Pukar, and Randhir Singh in Mehboob's Humayun) but best remembered as the rapacious industrialist Seth Dharamdas in Mehboob's Roti.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1934: *Amritmanthan; 1935: *Dharmatma; 1936: *Amar Jyoti; 1937: *Wahan; 1938: *Jwala; 1939: *Pukar; 1940: *Bharosa; 1942: *Apna Ghar/Aple Ghar; 1943: *Fashior; 1943: *Naukar; 1943: *Shakuntala; 1944: *Bade Nawab Saheb; 1944: *Draupadi; 1944: *Mumtaz Mahal; 1944: *Raunaq; 1945: *Humayun; 1945: *Pannadai; 1945: *Preet; 1945: *Ramayani; 1946: *Magadhraj; 1946: *Shalimar; 1946: *Shravan Kumar; 1948: *Dukhiari; 1948: *Rambaan; 1948: *Shaheed; 1950: *Chocolate; 1954: *Ramayan; 1955: *Bal Ramayan; 1971: *Pakeezah.

Chandrashankar, Raja (1904-71)

Tamil and Kannada director born in Tiruchirapalli, TN; aka Raja C. Sekhar. Former textile engineer. Started in film in Bombay (1926). Assistant to Fatma Begum (1929). Later with General Pics and East India Film. First film adapted Veeranna's stage hit Sadarame. Early practitioner of Tamil costume dramas derived from Bombay version of Douglas Fairbanks movies. Was the film-maker who (with Duncan) gave Tamil superstar MGR his breaks (Dakshayagnam, Maya Machhindra, Ashok Kumar). May have co-directed Badami's debut, Harishchandra at Sagar Film, although some sources credit co-direction of the film to T.C. Vadivelu Naicker.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1932: *Harishchandra; 1935: *Sadarame; 1935: *Gnanasoundari; 1936: *Chandramohana; 1937: *Raja Desingu; 1937: *Bhakta Tulsidas; 1938: *Dakshayagnam; 1939: *Maya Machhindra; 1941: *Ashok Kumar; 1943: *Arundhati; 1948: *Raja Mukthi.

Chatterjee, Anil (b. 1928)

Actor born in Calcutta. Degree in literature and stage actor (e.g. in Eric Elliot's Shakespeare Group). Introduced in Ritwik Ghatak films and later, with Bijon Bhattacharya and Kali Bannerjee, featured in several roles (e.g. as Rishi in Komal Gandhar and singer Shankar in Meghe Dhaka Tara). Central to Ghatak's integration of folk/popular and classical performance styles. Best-known early 60s films with Satyajit Ray: *Teen Kanya (the postmaster), Kanchanjungha (flirtatious photographer Anil), Mahanagar (lead role of Subrata Majumdar), Devi. Played numerous lead and supporting roles in Bengali films by Tapan Sinha, and in socials pioneered by the Agradoot and Yatrik units. Other major roles are that of the psychopath in Agni Sanskar, the title role in Deshbandhu Chittaranjan and the negative character taking on Dilip Kumar in Sagina Mahato. Recent films include those of Utpalendu Chakraborty (Chokh), Gautam Ghose (Paar) and Aparna Sen (Paroma). Music director for Mayabini Lane (1966); also worked as assistant director (e.g. Jog Biyog, Dhuli, Asabarna).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1952: *Nagarik; 1953: *Jog Biyog; 1954: *Moyla Kagaj; 1955: *Dhuli; 1955: *Sajghar; 1955: *Bidhilipi; 1956: *Asabarna; 1957: *Garer Math; 1957: *Ulka; 1957: *Abhishek; 1958: *Ajantrik; 1958: *Priya; 1958: *Rajalakshmi-o-Shrikanta; 1958: *Kalamati; 1959: *Marutirtha Hinglaj; 1959: *Chaowa-Pawa; 1959: *Shri Shri Nityananda Prabhu; 1960: *Deep Jewel Jay; 1960: *Rater Andhakare; 1960: *Kshaniker Atithi; 1960: *Akash-Patal; 1960: *Dui Bechara; 1960: *Devi; 1960: *Meghe Dhaka Tara; 1960: *Gariber Meye; 1960: *Kono-Ek-Din; 1960: *Smriti Tuku Thak; 1961: *Aparadh; 1961: *Mr & Mrs Choudhury; 1961: *Komal Gandhar; 1961: *Agni Sanskar; 1961: *Swaralipi; 1961: *Teen Kanya; 1961: *Megh; 1961: *Kanchanmulya; 1962: *Ahwan; 1962: *Kancher Swarga; 1962: *Suryasnari; 1962: *Kanchanjungha; 1962: *Agun; 1962: *Bandhan; 1962: *Shesh Chinha; 1962: *Kumari Mor; 1962: *Rakta Palash; 1963: *Dui Bari; 1963: *Barnachora; 1963: *Uttarayan; 1963: *High Heel; 1963: *Nirjan Saikate; 1963: *Mahanagar; 1964: *Kaalsrote; 1964: *Jotugriha; 1964: *Sindoore Megh; 1964: *Ashanta Ghoorni; 1964: *Sandhya.

Deeper Sikha; 1965: *Faraar; 1965: *Jaya; 1965: *Ghoom Bhangar Gaar; 1966: *Devatar Deep; 1966: *Ashru Diye Lekha; 1966: *Nutan Jibari; 1966: *Sannata; 1967: *Akash Chhoar; 1967: *Mahashweta; 1968: *Baluchari; 1968: *Boudi; 1968: *Jiban Sangeet; 1968: *Panchasar; 1969: *Protidar; 1969: *Teer Bhoomi; 1970: *Samanara; 1970: *Muktisnari; 1970: *Sagina Mahato; 1971: *Deshbandhu Chittaranjan; 1971: *Khunje Bera; 1971: *Pratham Basanta; 1971: *Sona Boudi; 1972: *Bohurupee; 1972: *Bilet Pherat; 1972: *Duranta Jay; 1972: *Chhandapatar; 1973: *Andhar Periye; 1973: *Bon Palashir Padabali; 1973: *Alo Andhare; 1973: *Megher Pare Megh; 1974: *Alor Thikana; 1974: *Sujata; 1974: *Sagina; 1974: *Amanush; 1974: *Phulu Thakurma; 1974: *Raja; 1975: *Ami Sey-o-Sekha; 1975: *Phool Sajya; 1975: *Bandi Bidhata; 1975: *Sabhyasachi; 1975: *Harmonium; 1976: *Mom Batti; 1976: *Ajasra Dhanyabad; 1976: *Nayar; 1976: *Aguner Phulki; 1976: *Asomoy; 1976: *Ek Je Chhilo Desh; 1976: *Samrat; 1977: *Avatar; 1977: *Kabita; 1977: *Pratima; 1977: *Shesh Raksha; 1978: *Dhanraj Tamang; 1978: *Maan Abhiman; 1978: *Singhdwar; 1978: *Striker; 1978: *Tusi; 1978: *Chameli Memsahab; 1978: *Hirey Manik; 1978: *Lattu; 1978: *Parichay; 1979: *Dour; 1979: *Jiban Je Rakam; 1979: *Chameli Memsahab; 1980: *Byapika Biday; 1980: *Kalo Chokher Tara; 1981: *Saheb; 1981: *Upalabdh; 1982: *Chokh; 1982: *Swarna Mahal; 1982: *Prahar; 1982: *Bandini Kamala; 1982: *Shubha Rajani; 1982: *Bijoyini; 1982: *Trayi; 1982: *Sati Savitri Satyavari; 1982: *Sonar Bangla; 1982: *Agradani; 1983: *Mukhtir Din; 1983: *Aloye Phera; 1983: *Sagar Balaka; 1983: *Jay Parajay; 1983: *Mohoner Dike; 1983: *Banashree; 1984: *Debigarjan; 1984: *Didi; 1984: *Anveshan; 1984: *Ankahee; 1984: *Surya Trishna; 1984: *Andhi Gal; 1984: *Paar; 1984: *Mukta Pran; 1984: *Sonar Sansar; 1984: *Ajantay; 1984: *Jog Biyog; 1985: *Amar Prithibi; 1985: *Paroma/Paroma; 1985: *Putulghar; 1986: *Ashirwad; 1986: *Atanka; 1986: *Madhumoy; 1986: *Artanad; 1987: *Bandoobaj; 1987: *Rudrabina; 1987: *Mahamilan; 1987: *Aaj Ka Robin Hood; 1988: *Boba Sanai; 1988: *Apaman; 1988: *Surer Sathi; 1988: *Ek Din Achanak; 1988: *Tumi Koto Sundar; 1989: *Bandhobi; 1989: *Chokher Aloye; 1989: *Amar Shapath; 1989: *Aghaton Ajo Ghatay; 1989: *Swarna Trishna; 1989: *Aakhri Badla; 1989: *Nyaya Chakra; 1989: *Shubha Kamana; 1989: *Natun Surya; 1990: *Agnikanya; 1991: *Kagajer Nauka; 1991: *Prashna; 1991: *Anand; 1991: *Palatak; 1991: *Bourani; 1992: *Rupaban Kanya; 1992: *Indrajit; 1992: *Ananya; 1993: *Rangbaj; 1993: *Amar Kahini; 1993: *Shakti; 1993: *Tomar Rakte Amar Sohag; 1994: *Mahabharati; 1995: *Mejo Bou.

Chatterjee, Basu (b. 1930)

Hindi director born in Ajmer, Rajasthan. Arrived in Bombay in the 50s and worked for 18 years as cartoonist-illustrator for weekly tabloid Blitz. Helped found the Film Forum Society (1959). Assisted Basu Bhattacharya on Teesri Kasam (1966). Worked in western region of Federation of Film Societies of India and on editorial board of Close Up, published by Film Forum in the 70s. First film Sara Akash noted for award-winning work of cinematographer K.K. Mahajan. Second film, Piya Ka Ghar, adapted Raja Thakur's Marathi melodrama Mumbaicha Javai (1970), set in a lower-class tenement in Bombay. Moved to low-budget middle class comedies starring Amol Palekar (Rajanigandha, Chhotisi Baat), which he adapted into a formula of rapidly shot sentimental low budget films. Made 4 TV serials (1985-9), shooting and editing 30' episodes in two days each. Best known for Rajani (about consumer rights), Darpan (a dramatisation of well-known short stories) and Kakkaji Kahin, a satire about politicians. Like Hitchcock, the director appears in very minor parts in his own films.

♣️ FILMOGRAPHY: 1969: Sara Akash; 1971: Piya Ka Ghar; 1974: Us Paar; Rajnigandha; 1975: Chhotisi Baat; 1976: Chit Chor; 1977: Swami, Safed Jhooti; Priyatama; 1978: Khatta Meetha; Chakravayuha; Dillagi; Tumhare Liye; Do Ladke Dono Kadke; 1979: Manzil; Baaton Baaton Meir; Prem Vivah; Ratnadeep; Jeena Yahar; 1980: Man Pasand; Apne Paraye; 1981: Shaukeer; Hamari Bahu Alka; 1983: Pasand Apni Apni; 1984: Lakhon Ki Baat; 1985: Rajani (TV); Darpan (TV); Ek Ruka Hua Faisla (TV); 1986: Sheesha; Chameli Ki Shaadi; Kirayedaar; Bhim Bhawani (TV); 1987: Zavar; 1988: Kakkaji Kahin (TV); 1989: Kamala Ki Maut; Durga; 1990: Hamari Shaadi; 1993: Byomkesh Bakshi (TV).

Chatterjee, Dhritiman (b. 1946)

Actor. Played the unemployed youth, Siddhartha, in Ray's *Pratidwandi and the Naxalite in Sen's *Padatik, making him the icon of Calcutta's middle-class sense of uncertainty after the late 60s agitations of the CPI(ML), echoing Bikash Bhattacharya's paintings of aimless youths wandering through Calcutta and Mahashweta Devi's fictional descriptions of the time. Acted in Aparna Sen's *36 Chowringhee Lane and in Ray's *Ganashatru and Agantuk. Does films as amateur alongside a career in advertising.

♣️ FILMOGRAPHY: 1970: Pratidwandi; 1972: Picnic; 1973: Padatik; 1974: Jadu Bansha; 1977: Abirvab; 1980: Akaler Sandhaney; 1981: 36 Chowringhee Lane; 1982: Canvas; 1983: Tanaya; Ka Lawei Ha Ki Ktjong Ngj (also d); 1989: Ganashatru; 1991: Agantuk; 1993: Sunya Theke Suru.

Chatterjee, Nabyendu (b. 1937)

Bengali director who started out, unsuccessfully, as an actor. Then assistant to Aravind Mukherjee (1962-5). Directorial debut with an experimental Hindi film, followed by a hit Bengali film and continued directing in that language, bemoaning the passing of his notion of village life in Bengal (Aaj Kal Parshur Galpa) and the Calcutta middle-class sense of disorientation which turns politically and economically weak men into violent oppressors of women (Chopper). The women in his films tend to stand for the values of a pre-modern patriarchal order. Unsuccessfully tried to extend Mrinal Sen's early-70s approach in the 80s.

♣️ FILMOGRAPHY: 1967: Naya Raasta; 1968: Adwitiya; 1972: Chitthi; Ranur Pratham Bhaag; 1981: Aaj Kal Parshur Galpa; 1985: Chopper; 1987: Sarisreep; 1989: Parashuramer Kuthar; 1990: Atmaya; 1993: Shilpi.

Chatterjee, Pashupati (1906-91?)

Bengali director born in Chandernagore, West Bengal. Graduated from Calcutta University and became a photo-journalist. Worked with Premankur Atorthy on the journal Nachgar. Assisted Debaki Bose (1934) on Inquilab, then joined New Theatres (1935) where he worked with Amar Mullick (e.g. lyrics for Bardidi, 1939; dialogues for Abhinetri, 1940). Became an independent producer with Swami and was active in trade organisations. Early films based on Saratchandra's fiction. He edited a number of journals including the literary journal Natun Lekha and wrote extensively on film history, e.g. in the Calcutta Film Society journal Chitravash.

♣️ FILMOGRAPHY: 1942: Parineeta; 1944: Shesh Raksha; 1948: Priyatama; Arakshaniya; 1949: Swami; 1951: Nastaneer; 1953: Niskriti; 1954: Shoroshi; 1955: Nishiddha Phal; 1956: Mamlar Phal; 1959: Mriter Martye Agaman.

Chatterjee, Sabitri (b. 1937)

Bengali actress born in Comilla (now Bangladesh). Migrated to Calcutta at an early age; joined films as an extra, usually in dance sequences (e.g. Anuraag; Alladdin-o-Ashcharya Pradeep), while doing realistic theatre (e.g. Salil Sen's Natun Yahudi, 1951, filmed in 1953). Début as lead actress in Pasher Bari. Following Nirmal Dey's *Basu Parivar and Niren Lahiri's *Subhadra, gained a reputation for comedy. Developed, along with actresses like Anubha Gupta and Manju Dey, an unorthodox style departing from the melodramatic mode of 40s Bengali film heroines. Also worked on stage, e.g. in Adarsha Hindu Hotel (with Bhanu Bannerjee and Dhiraj Bhattacharya) and in Shyamali (with Uttam Kumar). She starred with Uttam Kumar in 60s films (e.g. Bhranti Bilas). Acted in early Mrinal Sen films (Raat Bhore, Abasheshe) and produced his Pratinidhi.

♣️ FILMOGRAPHY: 1951: Anuraag; 1952: Alladdin-o-Ashcharya Pradeep; Pasher Bari; Basu Parivar; Subhadra; 1953: Boudir Bone; Kajari; Natun Yahudi; Keranir Jibari; Sosur Bari; Rami Chandidas; Lakh Taka; Sitar Patal Prabesh; Adrishya Manush; Blind Lane; 1954: Atom Bomb; Moyla Kagaj; Champadangar Bou; Bhanga-Gara; Kalyani; Annapurnar Mandir; 1955: Pather Sheshey; Bidhilipi; Upahar; Godhuli; Dui Bone; Bratacharini; Pareshr; Drishti; Kalindi; Ardhangini; Anupama; Raikamal; 1956: Raat Bhore; Paradhin; Mamlar Phal; Chalachal; Govindadas; Maa; Daner Maryada; Sinthir Sindoor; Nabajanma; Savdhan; 1957: Shesh Parichaya; Ektara; Natun Prabhat; Taser Ghar; Kancha-Mithey; Punar Milan; Basanta Bahar; Abhishek; Abhoyer Biye; Baksiddha; Adarsha Hindu Hotel; 1958: Priya; Megh Malhar; Dak Harkara; Nupur; Daktar Babu; Marmabani; 1959: Nauka Bilash; Marutirtha Hinglaj; Shashi Babur Sansar; Gali Theke Rajpath; Abak Prithvi; Rater Andhakare; 1960: Raja-Saja; Kuhak; Haat Baraley Bandhu; Khudha; Gariber Meye; 1961: Dui Bhai; Kanamachi; 1962: Khana; Nav Diganta; Abasheshe; 1963: Uttarayan; Bhranti Bilas; Akash Pradeep; Shreyasi; 1964: Pratinidhi; Marutrishya; Momer Alo; 1965: Antara; Jaya; Pati Sansodhini Samiti; Dinanter Alo; Gulmohar; Kal Tumi Aleya; 1966: Joradighir Choudhury Paribar; Susanta Sha; 1967: Grihadah; 1968: Baluchari; Pathe Holo Dekha; 1970: Shasti; Aleyar Alo; Kalankita Nayak; Muktisnar; Sheela; Nala Damayanti; Nishipadma; Manjari Opera; 1971: Dhanyi Meye; Pratham Pratisrutit; Sansar; Sona Boudi; 1972: Natun Diner Alo; Sapath Nilam; Shesh Parba; 1973: Bhangan; 1974: Umno-o-Jhumno; Mouchak; Swikarokti; 1975: Phool Sajya; Sei Chokh; 1976: Aguner Phulki; 1977: Brajabuli; Mantramugdha; Shesh Raksha; 1978: Hirey Manik; 1980: Raj Nandini; 1981: Pratishodh; 1984: Anveshan; 1985: Hulusthul; Till Theke Tal; 1986: Cheleta; 1987: Nadiya Nagar; Tunibour; 1988: Tumi Koto Sundar; 1989: Amar Shapath; 1991: Abhagini; Ananda Niketan; 1992: Priya; Bahadur; 1993: Maya Mamata; Puraskaar; 1994: Geet Sangeet; Salma Sundari; Abbajan.

Chatterjee, Soumitra (b. 1934)

Bengali star. Started as radio announcer. Trained as actor under Ahindra Choudhury while still a student. Wrote, directed and acted in plays like Rajkumar and Naam Jiban. Also a poet and initiator of one of Bengal's best-known literary journals, Ekshan, which he co-edited with Nirmalya Acharya. With Uttam Kumar the major 60s and 70s star of Bengali film. Début with Ray's *Apur Sansar; has thereafter remained associated with Ray, and was described by Pauline Kael as his 'one-man stock company'. Chidananda Das Gupta (Talking About Films, 1981) suggested Ray cast him so often because of a distinct physical resemblance to the young Tagore. Repeated aspects of his most famous Ray role in Charulata as a leitmotiv in Kapurush and Aranyer Din Ratri, of the brash but insecure hero. Also played the detective Felu in children's films (Sonar Kella, Joi Baba Felunath) and several 'character' roles, including the rough taxi driver in Abhijaan and the famine-stricken Brahmin in Ashani Sanket. The hit Jhinder Bandi featured a rare joint appearance with Uttam Kumar (they also did Stree together). Other major roles in Tapan Sinha's *Kshudista Pashan, Mrinal Sen's *Akash Kusum, several Ajoy Kar films (Saat Pake Bandha, Kanch Kata Hirey) and Majumdar's *Sansar Simantey and Ganadevata. Since Ghare Baire spent more time on the stage and doing poetry readings. Published Swagato, an anthology of essays on cinema, theatre and acting (1996).

♣️ FILMOGRAPHY: 1959: Apur Sansar; 1960: Dev; Kshudista Pashan; 1961: Swaralipi; Teen Kanya; Swayambar; Jhinder Bandi; Punashcha; 1962: Shasti; Atal Jaler Ahwar; Agur; Banarasi; Abhijaan; 1963: Saat Pake Bandha; Shesh Prahar; Barnali; 1964: Pratinidhi; Charulata; Kinu Goyalar Gali; Ayananta; 1965: Baksha Badal; Ek Tuku Basa; Raj Kanya; Kapurush; Akash Kusum; Eki Ange Eto Rup; 1966: Joradighir Choudhury Paribar; Kanch Kata Hirey; Manihar; 1967: Ajana Shapath; Hathat Dekha; Mahashweta; Prastar Swakshar; 1968: Baghini; Parishodh; 1969: Aparichita; Chena Achen; Parineeta; Teen Bhubhaner Parey; Aranyer Din Ratri;

Sandhya Roy and Soumitra Chatterjee in Ek Tuku Basa (1965)

1970: Aleyar Alo; Padmagolap; Pratham Kadam Phool; 1971: Khunje Berai; Malyadaan; Sansar; 1972: Jiban Saikate; Natun Diner Alo; Stree; Basanta Bilap; Bilet Pherat; 1973: Ashani Sanket; Epar Opar; Nishi Kanya; Shesh Pristhay Dekhur; Agni Bhramar; 1974: Asati; Jadi Jantem; Sangini; Sonar Kella; Chhutir Phande; 1975: Nishi Mrigaya; Sansar Simantey; Sudur Niharika; 1976: Datta; Nandita; 1977: Babu Moshai; Mantramugdha; Pratima; 1978: Nadi Theke Sagare; Ganadevata; Job Charnaker Bibi; Joi Baba Felunath; Pronoy Pasha; 1979: Devdas; Nauka Dubi; 1980: Darpachurna; Gharer Baire Ghar; HIRAK RAJAJ DESHE; Pankhiraj; 1981: Father; Nyay Anyay; Khelar Putul; Pratishodh; 1982: Bijoyini; Rashmayir Rashikala; Preyasi; Matir Swarga; Agradani; Simanta Raag; 1983: Indira; Chena Achena; Amar Geeti; 1984: Achena Mukh; Kony; Lal Golap; Ghare Baire; Vasundhara; 1985: Baikunther Will; Tagori; Sandhya Pradeep; 1986: Urbashe; Shyam Saheb; Atanka; 1987: Raj Purush; Nyay Adhikar; Sukumar Ray; Amor Sangi; 1988: Channachara; Agaman; Agni Sanket; Agur; Debibarar; Anjali; Pratik; 1989: Maryada; Amar Shapath; Ganashatru; Ladaai (B); Shatarupa; 1990: Anuraag; Ekti Jiban; Chetana; Jwar Bhata; Abhimanyu; Manasi; Ekhan Amar Swarga; Apon Amar Apon; Shakha Proshakha; 1991: Mahaprithibi; Abhagini; Ek Pashla Brishti; Antardhan; 1992: Raktalekha; Indrajit; 1993: Uttoran; Mon Mane Na; Puraskaar; Sampark; Pashanda Pandit; Ghar Sansar; Prajapati; 1994: Wheel Chair; Sopan; Shesh Chitthi; Gajamukta; 1995: Kumari Maa; Shesh Pratiksha; Boumoni; Mashaal; Kakababu Here Geler; Mejo Bou; Ujan; Bhagyadevata.

Chattopadhyay, Kartick (1912-89)
Bengali-Hindi director best known for late 40s New Theatres films e.g. Mahaprasthanar Pathy. Début with Rural Life in Bengal. First feature, Ramer Sumati, based on Saratchandra Chattopadhyay's story; launched K.C. Prod. (1954) with Arun Choudhury's Ladies' Seat. His Saheb Bibi Golam, adapted from Bimal Mitra's novel and starring Uttam Kumar was later re-adapted by Guru Dutt.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1947: Rural Life in Bengal (Doc); Ramer Sumati/ Chhota Bhai; 1952: Mahaprasthanar Pathy/ Yatrik; 1953: Bana Hansi; 1955: Godhuli; 1956: Saheb Bibi Golam; Chore; 1957: Neelachaley Mahaprabhu; Chandranath; 1959: Jal-Jangal; 1965: Gulmohar.

Cherian, P. J. (1891-1981)

Actor-producer, born in Ernakulam Dist., Kerala. Produced P.V. Krishna Iyer's Nirmala (1948), the first Malayalam sound film made in Kerala. Regarded as the founder of the Malayalam film industry. Owned the Royal Dramatic Co. (later Royal Cinema & Dramatic Co.), the main professional stage company in 30s Kerala, known mainly for its staging of Christian themes (e.g. Parudisa Nashtam, adapting Paradise Lost). Known also as a painter in the Raja Ravi Varma tradition and was awarded the title of Artist Chevalier by the Pope. Acted in S.S. Rajan's Snehaseema (1954). Wrote his autobiography Ente Kala Jeevitham (1964).

Chinnappa, Pudukottai Ul aganathan (1915-51)

Major 40s Tamil star born in Pudukottai, the son of a stage actor. Joined the Madurai Original Boys' Co. aged 8; later known as actor and singer, releasing several records many of which (along with his subsequent film music) have remained popular. Trained in Carnatic music by Nannaya Bhagavathar and Karaikal Vedachala Bhagavathar; simultaneously trained in traditional martial arts (e.g. silambam) and gymnastics. Début at Jupiter Pics in Raja Sandow's Chandrakantha; broke through with a double role in T.R. Sundaram's Uthama Puthran based on A. Dumas's The Man in the Iron Mask. Displayed his musical abilities as well as those of actor and stuntman in Sundaram's Manonmani; also remembered for his acting and clear diction as Kovalan in T.R. Mani's Kannagi.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1936: Chandrakantha; 1937: Rajamohan; 1938: Anadhai Pennr; Punjab Kesari; Yayati; 1939: Mathru Bhoomi; 1940: Uthama Puthran; 1941: Kacha Devayani; Aryamala; Dharmaveerari; Dayalan; 1942: Kannagi; Prithvirajan; Harishchandra; 1943: Kubera Kuchela; Manonmani; 1944: Jagathala Prathapan; Mahamaya; 1945: Ardhanari; 1946: Pankajavalli; Vikatakavi; 1947: Tulasi Jalandhar; 1948: Krishna Bhakti; 1949: Mangayar Karasi; Ratnakumar; 1951: Vanasundari; Sudarshan.

Children's Film Society

Set up in 1955 as an autonomous body under the Central Government's Information & Broadcasting Ministry's control. Produced films by e.g. Ezra Mir, Kidar Sharma, Tapan Sinha, Sai Paranjpye and Shyam Benegal. Although it has no independent distribution, it makes 16mm prints of its own productions and of imported children's films available to educational institutions for nominal fees. Current annual production budget is c.Rs 5 million. Organises a biennial competitive international children's film festival. Renamed the National Centre of Films for Children and Young People in 1992. 1993 chairperson is Jaya Bhaduri-Bachchan, who presided over a fundamental reshaping of the organisation.

Chiranjeevi (b. 1955)

Macho 80s Telugu megastar. Born in Narasapuram taluk, AP, as Shivashankara Varaprasad. Student at the Madras Film Institute and amateur stage actor. First public performance in the Republic Day parade ballet of AP (1976). Early films with Bapu (Manavoori Pandavulu) and K. Balachander (Idi Kathakadu, 47 Rojulu), and more recently, Rudraveena, produced by his brother-in-law and regular producer Allu Aravind). Routine career in late 70s films was transformed by the spectacular success of his negative role in Kodi Ramakrishna's Intilo Ramayya Vidhilo Krishnayya. Developed his main reputation in violent gangster thrillers, a genre pioneered by A. Kodandarami Reddy (Khaidi, Goonda, Challenge, Vijeta, Marana Mridangam, Trinetrudu etc.), Vijaya Babineedu (Khaidi No. 786, Gang Leader) and more recently, Raviraja Pinisetty (Jwala, Chakravarthi). Much of his character impersonates the 'rowdysheeteer', a legal term of colonial vintage, indicating a potentially violent person who's on a police list and gets rounded up when violence is anticipated. The term is referred to in titles like B. Gopal's State Rowdy. Hindi debut with Pratibandh, followed by Aaj Ka Goonda Raj, both directed by Pinisetty (aka Ravi Raja), have established him as one of the highest-paid stars in the country in the early 90s. Alluda Majaaka led to a major censorship controversy because of its alleged lewdness and recourse to violence.

Goonda; Devanthakudu; Mahanagaramlo Mayagadu; Challenge; Intiguttu; Naagu; Agni Gundam; Rustom; 1985: Chattamtho Poratham; Donga; Chiranjeevi; Jwala; Puli; Raktha Sindooram; Adavi Donga; Vijeta; Kirathakudu; 1986: Kondaveeti Raja; Mahadheerudu; Veta; Chantabbayi; Rakshasudu; Dhairyavanthudu; Chanakya Sapatham; 1987: Donga Mogudu; Aradhana; Chakravarthi; Pasivadi Pranam; Swayamkrushi; Jebu Donga; Manchi Donga; 1988: Rudraveena; Yamudiki Mogudu; Khaidi No. 786; Marana Mridangam; Trinetrudu; 1989: Attaku Yamudu Ammayiki Mogudu; State Rowdy; Lankeshwarudu; Kondaveeti Donga; 1990: Jagadeka Veerudu Atilokasundari; Kodama Simham; Raja Vikramarka; Pratibandh; Stuvartpuram Police Station; 1991: Gang Leader; Rowdy Alludu; Aaj Ka Goonda Raj; 1992: Gharana Mogudu; Mutha Mestri; Apathbandhavudu; 1993: Shivanna; Military Mava; Mechanic Alludu; 1994: Mugguru Monagallu; S.P. Parashuram; Gentleman; 1995: Alluda Majaaka; Big Boss.

Chitnis, Leela (b. 1912)

Actress born in Dharwar, Karnataka. Best known for her mother roles in 60s/70s Hindi cinema. She brought to Hindi film a performative idiom developed in Marathi stage melodramas by the Natyamanwantar group's introduction of Ibsenite naturalism (see K. Narayan Kale). Early stage work in the Natyamanwantar group itself (e.g. the prose comedy Usna Navra, 1934) and with her theatre group Naytasadhana in P.K. Atre's Udyacha Sansar. Wrote and directed the stage adaptation of Somerset Maugham's Sacred Flame (Ek Ratra Ardha Diwas), 1957). Entered films as extra at Sagar; later in B-grade mythologicals and Ram Daryani stunt pictures. In Daryani's Gentleman Daku, playing the elegant thief dressed in male costume, she was advertised in the Times of India (1938) as 'the first graduate society-lady on the screen from Maharashtra'. Worked at Prabhat (Wahan). First major role in Ranjit's Saint film, Sant Tulsidas as Vishnupant Pagnis's wife Ratnavali. Romantic lead opposite Ashok Kumar in major Bombay Talkies films Kangan, Bandhan and Jhoola made her briefly one of the top stars of the early 40s. Played the mother (of hero Dilip Kumar) for the first time in Shaheed and consolidated her image in her famous portrayal of Raj Kapoor's mother in Awara and, later, in the famous role of the mother of the warring brothers in Ganga Jumna. Also acted key roles in Master Vinayak (Chhaya, Ardhang) and Raja Paranjpe (Jara Japoon, Adhi Kalas Mag Paya) films in Marathi. Produced Kisise Na Kehna (1942) and directed Aaj Ki Baat. Her autobiography was published in 1981.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1978: Punadhirallu; Pranam Khareedu; Manavoori Pandavulu; Thayamma Bangaraiyah; Priya; 1979: Kukkakatuku Cheppu Debba; Idi Kathakadu, I Love You; Kotha Alludu; Shri Rama Bantu; Kotala Rayudu; 1980: Kothapeda Rowdy; Chandi Priya; Arani Mantulu; Jataru; Punnani Mogudu; Nakili Manishi; Love in Singapore; Prema Tarangulu; Mogudu Kavali; Raktha Bandham; Tathaiah Prema Leelalu; 1981: Ranuva Veeran; Rani Kasularangamma; Adavallu Meeku Joharlu; Parvati Parameshwarulu; Todu Dongalu; Tiruguleni Manishi; Prema Natakam; Nyayam Kavali; Urikichina Mata; Rani Kasularangamma; 47 Rojulu; Sirirasthu Subhamasthu; Chattaniki Kallulevu; Kirai Rowdylu; Intilo Ramayya Vidhilo Krishnayya; 1982: Bandipotu Simham; Shubhalekha; Idi Pellantara; Seeta Devi; Radha My Darling; Tingu Rangadu; Patnam Vachina Pativrathalu; Billa Ranga; Yamakinkarudu; Mondighatam; Manchu Pallaki; 1983: Bandhalu Anubandhalu; Prema Pichollu; Palletooru Monagallu; Abhilasha (Tel); Alayashikharam; Sivudu Sivudu Sivudu; Puli Bebbuli; Goodachari No. 1; Maha Maharaju; Rosha Gadu; Maa Inti Premayanam; Simhapuri Simham; Khaidi; Mantrigari Viyyankudu; Sangharshana; Hero (Tel); Yuddha Bhoomi; 1984: Allulostunnaru; FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1935: Dhuwandhaar; Shri Satyanarayam; 1936: Berozgar; Chhaya; 1937: Insaaf; Gentleman Daku; Wahan; 1938: Chhote Sarkar; Jaijor; Ustad; Vijay Danka; 1939: Chhotisi Duniya; Sant Tulsidas; Kangan; 1940: Azad; Bandhan; Ardhang/ Ghar Ki Rani; 1941: Jhoola; Kanchan; 1942: Kisise Na Kehna; 1943: Rekha; 1944: Kiran; Char Aankher; Manorama; 1945: Ghazal; 1946: Bhakta Prahlad; Devkanya; Shatranj; 1947: Andhon Ki Duniya; Ghar Ghar Ki Kahani; 1948: Lakhpati; Shaheed; 1949: Namuna; Aakhri Paigham; 1950: Saudamini; Jara Japoon; 1951: Awara; Saiyan; 1952: Maa; Ek Hota Raja; Sangdil; 1953: Rami Dhoban; Hari Darshan; Naya Ghar; 1954: Baadbaan; 1955: Aaj Ki Baat*; 1956: Basant Bahar; Awaaz; 1957: Naya Daur; 1958: Phir Subah Hogi; Post Box 999; Sadhana; 1959: Barkha; Dhool Ka Phool; Kal Hamara Hai; Main Nashe Mein Hoon; Ujala; 1960: Apna Haath Jagannath; Ghunghat; Hum Hindustani; Kohinoor; Bewaqoof; Maa Baap; Parakh; Kala Bazaar; Umaji Naik; Sakhya Savara Mala; 1961: Aas Ka Panchhi; Batwara; Kaanch Ki Gudiya; Char Diwari; Ganga Jumna; Hum Dono; Ramleela; Adhi Kalas Mag Paya; 1962: Aashiq; Prem Andhala Asta; Asli Naqli; Dr Vidya; Manmauji; Naag Devata; 1963: Dil Hi To Hai; Pahu Re Kiti Vaat!; 1964: Dosti; Aap Ki Parchhaiyan; Pooja Ke Phool; Shehnai; Suhagar; Zindagi; 1965: Johar Mehmood In Goa; Mohabbat Isko Kehne Hain; Nai Umar Ki Nai Fasa; Waqt; Guide; Faraar; 1966: Dulhan Ek Raat Ki; Phool Aur Patthar; 1967: Gunahon Ka Devta; Aurat; Manjhli Did; 1969: Inteqam; Prince; Badi Did; The Killers; Ram Bhakta Hanumar; 1970: Man Ki Aankher; Jeevan Mrityu; Bhai Bhai; 1977: Palkon Ki Chhaon Mein; 1978: Satyam Shivam Sundaram; 1979: Janata Havaladar; Aangan Ki Kali; Bin Maa Ke Bachche; 1980: Takkar; 1985: Dil Tujhko Diya.

Leela Chitnis and Bharat Bhushan in Maa (1952)

Chopra, Bal dev Raj (b. 1914)

Hindi director and producer born in Ludhiana, Punjab. He is the elder brother of Yash Chopra. Studied at the University of Lahore. Worked on fringe of Lahore-based film industry with Pancholi group and later as film journalist. Edited the Cine Herald (1937-47) at Lahore. After Partition moved to Delhi where he was briefly assistant editor of The Listener (1947), then to Bombay. Started as a producer for Shri Gopal Pics (Karwat, 1949, apparently also directing the film). The success of Chandni Chowk allowed him to found B.R. Films (1956). One of the most influential émigrés from Lahore (with A.R. Kardar and Roop K. Shorey) who imported their lumpenised versions of Hollywood suspense thrillers and melodrama. Since the mid-70s the Hindi film industry's senior spokesman and a regular contributor to Screen (Bombay) in late 60s and 70s, influencing the film-financing policy of the NFDC. Now concentrates on the business affairs of his company, leaving direction to his son Ravi who is credited as co-director on the 94 episodes of the TV serial Mahabharat, running on Doordarshan in 1988-90, with peak audience at 75% of the urban adult population and over Rs 10 million advertising revenue per episode. Also co-directed Kal Ki Awaaz with Ravi Chopra.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1949: Karwat (uncredited); 1951: Afsana; 1953: Sholay; 1954: Chandni Chowk; 1956: Ek Hi Raasta; 1957: Naya Daur; 1958: Sadhana; 1960: Kanoon; 1963: Gumrah; 1967: Hamraaz; 1972: Dastaar; 1973: Dhund; 1977: Karni; 1978: Pati Patni Aur Woh; 1980: Insaaf Ka Tarazu; 1982: Nikaah; 1985: Tawaif; 1986: Bahadur Shah Zafar (TV); 1987: Awaam; 1988: Mahabharat (TV); 1992: Kal Ki Awaaz, Sauda (TV).

Chopra, Yash (b. 1932)

Hindi director and producer born in Jullundur, Punjab. Started as assistant to elder brother B.R. Chopra and then made several films for his company. Became independent producer with Daag, working mostly with distributor Gulshan Rai. His B.R. Films are low-budget genre movies (e.g. suspense thrillers: Waqf, Ittefaq) but his own productions are plushy, soft-focus upper-class love stories (Kabhi Kabhie), battles over family honour (embodied by the mother: Deewar, Trishul) and the conflict between the laws of kinship and those of the State. Amitabh Bachchan made some of his best-known films with Chopra. In the 90s, he adapted his style to the image of Shah Rukh Khan for the hit Darr. Produced his son Aditya's megahit Dilwale Dulhania Le Jayenge (1995) and directed the 1997 success Dil To Pagal Hai, upgrading his trademark love story into a theme featuring teen aerobics.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1959: Dhool Ka Phool; 1961: Dharmaputra; 1965: Waqf; 1969: Admi Aur Insaan; 1973: Daag; 1975: Deewar; 1976: Kabhi Kabhie; 1978: Trishul; 1979: Kala Pathar; 1981: Silsila;

1984: Mashaal; 1985: Faasle; 1988: Vijay; 1989: Chandni; 1991: Lamhe; 1992: Parampara; 1993: Darr.

Choudhury, Ahindra (1897-1974)

Actor born in Calcutta. Major Calcutta Theatres stage star launched with key role of Arjun in epochal production of Karnarjun at Star Theatre (1923). Stagework in e.g. Iraner Rani, Bandini, Chirakumar Sabha, Mishar Rani etc. had impact comparable to that of Sisir Bhaduri, who had a similar career. Early films at Madan Theatres, usually by Jyotish Bannerjee who continued to direct him into the talkie era, included stage successes like Mishar Rani and Karnarjun. At Madan also filmed scenes from his stage plays in early sound experiments. In 1928 attempted, unsuccessfully, to start the Ahindra Film Studio at Ultadanga, North Calcutta. Then directed some Telugu films for Aurora (Ansuya, Vipranarayana). Was a regular genre actor in Bengali cinema, notably in films by Sailajananda Mukherjee, P.C. Barua and Modhu Bose, until he retired in mid-50s. Wrote a two-volume autobiography, Nijere Haraye Khunji (1945). His collection of theatre and film memorabilia forms the Ahindra Choudhury Archives at Chetla, Calcutta.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1922: Soul of a Slave; 1924: Mishar Rani; 1925: Premanjali; 1926: Krishna Sakha (only d.); 1927: Durgesh Nandini; 1928: Sasthi Ki Shanti; 1930: Rajsingha (all St); 1931: Rishir Prem, Prahlad; 1932: Vishnu Maya, Krishnakanter Will; 1933: Seeta; 1934: Chand Saudagar, Rooplekha Mohabbat Ki Kasauti, Mahua, Daksha Yagna, Bhakta Ke Bhagwan; 1935: *Ansuya, Devadasi, Prafulla, Kanthahaar, Balidar; 1936: Tarubala, Krishna Sudama, Paraparey, Rajani, Sarala, Sonar Sansar, Dalit Kusum, Prabas Milar, Chino Haar; 1937: *Vipranarayana, *Rukmini Kalyanam; Talkie Of Talkies: Haranidhi, Indira, Samaj Patari; 1938: Abhinaya, Devifullara, Khana; 1939: Janak Nandini, Jakher Dhan, Nara Narayan, Rikta, Rukmini, Sharmistha, Chanakya, Vaman Avtar; 1940: Tatinir Bichar, Kamale Kamini, Suktara, Doctor, Amar Geeti, Rajkumarer Nirbashar; 1941: Raj Nartaki/Court Dancer, Uttarayan, Doctor, Avatar, Nandini, Karnarjun; 1942: Jiban Sangini, Ashok, Pativrata, Avayer Biye, Shesh Uttar/Jawab, Meenakshi; 1943: Jogajog/Hospital, Janani, Dwanda, Devar; 1944: Matir Ghar, Sandhya, Sondhi/Sandhi, Shesh Raksha; 1945: Amiri, Banphool, Vasiyatnama, Abhinay Nay, Mane Na Mana; 1946: Grihalakshmi, Bondita, Nandita, Dui Purush; 1947: Pehchar, Prem Ki Duniya, Pather Sathi, Natun Bou, Nivedita, Dukhe Jader Jiban Gara; 1948: Roy Choudhury, Mandir, Alaknanda, Giribala, Abhijog, Burmar Pathey; 1949: Jayjatra/Vijay Yatra, Bicharak, Ghumiye Ache Gram, Nandaranir Sansar, Priyatama, Sir Shankarnath, Swarnaseeta; 1949: Abhijatya, Bisher Dhoan, Niruddesh, Pratirodh, Nirdosh Abla, Grihalakshmi; 1950: Kuhelika, Michael Madhusudhan, Pattharar Kahini, Sanchali, Vidyasagar, Mahasampad; 1953: Mushkil Ashan, Chirantani; 1954: Maa-o-Chhele;

Mantra Shakti; 1955: Devatra, Pratiksha, Bir Hambir, Kankabatir Ghat, Bratacharini; 1956: He Maha Manab, Chirakumar Sabha, Paradhin, Mahakavi Girishchandra, Shyamali, Rajpath, Bhola Master; 1957: Tapasi, Neelachaley Mahaprabhu; 1973: Shravan Sandhya.

Choudhury, Basanta (b. 1928)

Aka Vasant Choudhury; Bengali actor born in Nagpur known for refined accent and romantic looks. Entered film at New Theatres with Mahaprasthan Pathey. Played the title role in Debaki Bose's Bhagwan Shri Krishna Chaitanya, and the mentally ill Tapash in Deep Jweley Jai. Was a romantic lead in the pre-Uttam Kumar era. Title role in Raja Rammohun, providing the definitive image of the 19th C. reformer. Shifted to character roles including villains (e.g. Baidurya Rahasya). Known best for his aristocratic rendition of characters, relying on his unique stage voice. In later films often played the villain. Known also as a radio star and stage actor with the best-known Jatra group, the Natya Company. Recent work mainly in Dinen Gupta and Tapan Sinha films; cameo appearance in Gautam Ghose's Antarjali Jatra.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1952: Mahaprasthan Pathey/Yatrik; 1953: Nabin Yatra/Naya Safar, Bhagwan Shri Krishna Chaitanya; 1954: Jadubhatta, Bokul/Bakul; 1955: Aparadhi, Pather Sheshey, Bhalobasha, Du-Janay, Devimalini; 1956: Shubharatri, Shankar Narayan Bank, Chhaya Sangini, Govindadas, Rajpath; 1957: Shesh Parichaya, Madhu Malati, Andhare Alo, Basanta Bahar, Haar Jeet, Khela Bhangaar Khela; 1958: Jogajog; 1959: Deep Jweley Jai, Shashi Babur Sansar; 1960: Khudha, Parakh; 1962: Sancharini, Agnisikha, Bodhur, Nabadiganta; 1963: Shreyasi; 1964: Kashtipathar, Anustup Chhanda; 1965: Alor Pipasa, Raja Rammohun, Abhoya-o-Srikanta, Eki Ange Eto Rup, Gulmohar; 1966: Sankha Bela, Susanta Sha, Uttar Purush; 1970: Diba Ratriir Kabya, Megh Kalo; 1971: Pratham Pratisrutti, Sansar, Graham; 1973: Pranta Rekha; 1974: Debi Choudhrani, Jadi Jantem, Sangini; 1975: Nishi Mrigaya; 1976: Sankhabish; 1977: Babu Moshai; 1978: Parichay, Mayuri; 1979: Chirantar, Jiban Je Rakam; 1980: Bhagya Chakra; 1981: Kalankini; 1982: Sonar Bangla; 1983: Indira, Deepar Prem; 1985: Baidurya Rahasya, Putulghar; 1987: Antarjali Jatra/Mahayatra; 1988: Antaranga, Sankhachur; 1990: Raktarin, Ek Doctor Ki Maut; 1990: Sankranti; 1991: Raj Nartaki; 1992: Hirer Angti, Apon Ghar, Satya Mithya; 1993: Kacher Prithvi.

Choudhury, Kosaraju Raghavaiah see Kosaraju Raghavaiah Choudhury

Choudhury, Rama Shankar (1903-72)

Hindi director born in Benares, UP. Graduated from J.J. School of Art (1922). Entered films as art director and designer of publicity pamphlets. Did remarkable covers for Gujarati film journal Mouj Majah. Assisted Manilal Joshi at Laxmi Film. First film at Laxmi is Sandow's hit costume spectacular, Neera. Best-known films at Imperial and Sagar, where he made several classics in historical genre, e.g. Anarkali, Shirin Khushrau, Shaan-e-Hind, often using the legendary epic as a nationalist allegory. Films often starred Sulochana and Zubeida. Regarded as teacher by Mehboob for whom he later scripted Roti (1942), Aan (1952) and Son of India (1962). Also scripted, in addition to his own films, e.g. Kardar's Pehle Aap (1944), M. Sadiq's hit Rattan (1944) and several films for Ravindra Dave. Continued writing scripts until the 70s.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* also act): 1926: Neera; Asha; 1927: Karmayili Kali; 1928: Anarkali; Pita Ke Parmeshwar; *Sarovar Ki Sundari; Madhuri; 1929: Maurya Patari; Heer Ranjha; Indira; Punjab Mail; Shirin Khushrau; Talwar Ka Dhan; 1930: Hamarun Hindustan; 1931: Badmash; Khuda Ki Shaan (all St); 1932: Madhuri; 1933: Sulochana; Daku Ki Ladki; 1934: Aaj Kal; Piya Pyare; 1935: Anarkali; 1936: Hamari Betiyar; Shaan-e-Hind; 1937: Kal Ki Baat; 1938: Rifle Girl; 1939: Sach Hai; 1942: Ankhi Micholi; 1943: Adab Arz; 1944: Gaali; 1946: Magadhraj; 1953: Jallianwala Bagh Ki Jyot.

Choudhury, Salil (1925-95)

Self-trained composer and music director. Activist among peasantry in 24 Parganas Dist., Bengal. Did music for IPTA plays and musical squads performing in Bengali countryside, calling for cultural internationalism as opposed to an emphasis on regional folk traditions (cf. Bhupen Hazarika; also Choudhury's Modern Bengali Music in Crisis, 1951). His influences in songs that have remained enduring favourites with Left cultural groups all over India include Mozart, Hanns Eisler and contemporary Latin American forms, such as Abak prithibi (written by Sukanta Choudhury and sung by Hemanta Mukherjee) and Kono ek gayer bodhu (written by Choudhury himself). Ghatak, in Komal Gandhar (1961), and Mrinal Sen, in Akaler Sandhaney (e.g. Hai sambhalo dhan ho! on the 1943 famine) used his music to typify the spirit of 40s Bengali agitational theatre movements, which he also extended to cover other genres, like Zia Sarhadi's Awaaz and Tarafdar's Ganga. Entered films with Satyen Bose. First major hit was Bimal Roy's Do Bigha Zameen, based on his own story, with full-blooded choral compositions celebrating peasant vitality (monsoon song Hariyala sawan), a form still most associated with him. Went on to score the pathbreaking soundtrack of Roy's Madhumati. Also did notable work for Hrishikesh Mukherjee films, e.g. his debut Musafir and the 70's hit Anand. The only front-line Hindi composer to work in several languages: Assamese (the experimental Aparajeya by the Chaturanga collective), Kannada (A.M. Samiulla's films, including Samshayaphala, Onderupe Eradu Guna etc., and Balu Mahendra's debut Kokila), Tamil (Doorathu Idhi Muzhakkam) and Telugu (Chairman Chalamayya). Most spectacular work outside Bengali and Hindi is, however, for Ramu Kariat, scoring the several hits in his breakthrough Chemmeen, followed by Ezhu Rathrikal, Abhayam, Nellu etc.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d/ also lyr): 1949: Paribartan; 1951: Barjatri; 1953: Do Bigha Zameen; Banser Kella; Bhor Hoye Elo; 1954: Aaj Sandhya; Mahila Mahal; Biraj Bahur; Naukri; 1955: Amanat; Tangewali; Rickshawala; 1956: Raat Bhore; Awaaz; Parivar; Jagte Raho/ Ek Din Raate; 1957: Aparadhi Kaun; Gautama The Buddha (Doc); Ek Gaon Ki Kahani; Lal Batt; Musafir; Zamana; 1958: Madhumati; 1959: Bari Theke Paliye; 1960: Ganga; Sunehri Raateir; Jawahar; Kanoon; Parakh; Usne Kaha Tha; 1961: Char Diwari; Chhaya; Kabuliwala; Maya; Memdid; Sapan Suhane; Raibahadur; 1962: Half Ticket; Jhoola; Prem Patra; Sunbai; 1964: Kinu Goyalar Gali; Ayananta; Lal Patthar; 1965: Chand Aur Suraj; Poonam Ki Raat; Chemmeen; 1966: Pinjre Ke Panchhi*; Netaji Subhashchandra Bose; *Par; 1968: Ezhu Rathrikal; Jawab Ayega; 1969: Ittefaq; Sara Akash; 1970: Anand; Abhayam; Aparajeya; 1971: Gehra Raaz; Mere Apne; Samshayaphala; 1972: Annadata; Anokha Daar; Anokha Milan; Mere Bhaiya; Subse Bada Sukh; *Marjina Abdallah; 1973: Swapnam; 1974: Rajanigandha; Nellu; Chairman Chalamayya; 1975: Chhotisi Baat; Sangat; Onderupa Eradu Guna; Neela Ponmar; Ragam; Rasaleela; Thomasleela; 1976: Aparadhi; Thulavarsham; Jeevan Jyoti; Mrigaya; Uranchoo; 1977: Kabita*; *Sister; Minoo; Chinna Ninna Muddaduve; Kokila; Madanolsavam; Vishukkanni; 1978: Paruvamazhai; Ee Ganam Marakkumo; Etho Oru Swapnam; Samayamayilla Polam; Naukri; 1979: Jiban Je Rakam*; *Srikanter Will; Kala Patthar; Jeena Yahan; Chuvanna Chirakukal; Pratiksha; Puthiya Velicham; Azhiyada Kolanga; 1980: Chehre Pe Chehra; *Byapika Biday; Kuhasa; Room No. 203; Air Hostess; *Paribesh; Akaler Sandhaney; Doorathu Idhi Muzhakkam; Chirutha; Nani Maa; 1981: Plot No. 5; Agni Pareeksha; Batasi Jhada; Monchor; 1982: Andhiveyilille Ponnur; Dil Ka Saathi Dil; Darpok Ki Dosti (Sh); 1984: Kanoon Kya Karega; 1985: Pratigya; Devika; Manas Kanya; 1986: Jiban; 1988: Trishagni; 1989: Swarna Trishna; Jawahar; Kamala Ki Maut; 1990: Triyartri; Vastuhara; 1991: Netraheen Sakshi; 1994: Mahabharati.

Choudhury, Santi P. (1929-82)

Major independent documentary film-maker. Educated at Presidency College, Calcutta, and Glasgow University. Active participant in British film society movement (1954). Worked with Satyajit Ray (1955-7). Founded Little Cinema film unit in Calcutta (1958) which made over 100 shorts independent of government support, influencing the younger generation of documentarists. Also made children's films. Except for Dakather Hatey Bulu and Heerer Prajapati, all titles are documentaries.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1957: Songs of Bengal; 1958: Virsa and the Magic Doll; 1959: Their

New Roots; 1960: Rabindranath's Shantiniketan; 1961: Lokeshilpay Terracotta Ramayan; Banglar Mandirey Terracotta; 1962: Rabindranath Chitrakala; 1963: Your Home Defence: Home Guards; They Met the Challenge; Science for Children; Dakather Hatey Bulu; 1964: Handicrafts of Assam; To Light a Candle; Madhabir Biya; 1965: Song of Punjab; Folk Instruments of Rajasthan; 1966: A City in History; Calcutta; Electrocine; 1967: To Share and to Learn; Handicrafts of Rajasthan; 1968: Benarasi's Secret; Heerer Prajapati; Entertainers of Rajasthan; 1969: Secularism; 1971: Biju in Hyderabad; The Other Calcutta; Seeds of the Green Revolution; An Indian Journey; Working Together; Action for Calcutta; 1972: Janasanth; Indian Engineering; Dakshina Haryana; Mughal Gardens Pinjore; Green Horizon; ITC Tube: The Lifetimer; 1973: An Environment; After Ten Years; 1974: Asia '72; Silent Service; A Painter of Our Times; 1975: Search for Self-Reliance; 1976: We're Building an IOL Pipeline For You; 1977: Parvati; 1978: Banglar Kabigan; The Magic Hands; 1980: Husain; Region of Harmony; Sever; Pahar Theke Shahar; 1981: Subho Tagore; 1982: Racing in India.

Choudhury, Supriya

Actress. Bengali star of 60s socials best known as romantic lead opposite Uttam Kumar (with whom she apparently featured in 33 films). Spent some of her childhood in Rangoon; introduced into films by veteran Bengali actress Chandrabati Devi. Debut in Nirmal Dey's Basu Parivar, after which she married and retired from films for some years. Incarnated the 'heroine' of reformist middle-class pulp fictions. Adhered more to melodramatic orthodoxy than her chief rival, Suchitra Sen, evoking e.g. Jamuna's acting in P.C. Barua productions and generating a sense of nostalgia for pre-Independence middle-class Bengali melodrama, thus providing a kind of cultural legitimation to the weepies of the Agradoot/Aragami/Yatrik units and film-makers like Piyush Bose. Known outside Bengal for her extraordinary performance as the heroine in Ghatak's Meghe Dhaka Tara and Komal Gandhar. These, and Ajoy Kar's Suno Baro Nari, were rare instances in which she stepped out of her star image. Turned producer with the commercial flop Uttar Meleni.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1952: Basu Parivar; Prarthana; Madhurati; 1959: Amrapali; Ae Jahar Sey Jahar Noy; Sonar Harin; Shubha Bibaha; 1960: Uttar Megh; Meghe Dhaka Tara; Kono-Ek-Dir; Ajana Kahini; Surer Pyasi; Natun Fasal; Suno Baro Nari; 1961: Komal Gandhar; Bishkanya; Agni Sanskar; Swaralipi; Swayambara; 1962: Kaja; Abhisarika; 1963: Begana; Nisithe; Uttarayan; Dui Nari; Surya Sikha; 1964: Aap Ki Parchhaiyan; Door Gagan Ki Chhaon Meir; Ayananta; Lal Patthar; 1965: Kal Tumi Aleya; 1966: Harano Prem; Sudhu Ekti Bachhar; 1967: Akash Chhoan; Jiban Mrityu; 1968: Teen Adhyay; 1969: Chiradiner; Mon-Niye; Sabarmati; 1970: Bilambita Lay; 1971: Jiban

Jignasa; 1972: Andha Atit, Chinnapatra; 1973: Bon Palashir Padabali; 1974: Jodi Jantem, Rakta Tilak; 1975: Bagh Bandi Khela; Nagar Darpane, Sanyasi Raja, Sabhyasachi; 1976: Samrat, Banhi Sikha; Mom Batti; 1977: Bhola Moira; Sister; 1978: Dui Purush; 1979: Devdas; 1980: Dui Prithibi; 1981: Kalankini Kankabati; 1982: Uttar Meleni; Iman Kalyan; 1983: Raat Dastay; 1984: Anveshan; 1989: Kari Diye Kinlam; 1992: Honeymoon.

Chughtai, Ismat (1915-91)

Born in Badaun. The only major woman writer in 40s radical Urdu literary movements (see Manto and Krishan Chander). Her most famous stories are set in middle-class, often orthodox Muslim society and strongly imbued with sexual symbolism informed by Freudian psychoanalysis (see Tahira Naqvi in Chughtai, 1990). Some of her writing caused major controversy for its violation of traditional morality codes: Lihaaf (1942) provoked obscenity trial in Lahore. Married to film-maker Shaheed Latif and was closely involved with the making of Ziddi (1948), Dev Anand's first major hit. Worked as scenarist and occasionally as producer with Latif (Arzoo, 1950; Darwaza, 1954; Society, 1955; Sone Ki Chidiya, 1958). Involved as dialogue writer and actress in Benegal's Junoon (1978). Wrote the story for Sathyu's Garam Hawa (1973) and the dialogues of Amar Kumar's films Barkha Bahar (1973) and Mehfil (1978). Wrote and co-directed Faraib (1953). Directed the children's film Jawab Ayega (1968) and the documentary My Dreams (1975).

Chunder, Hemchandra (b. 1907)

Aka Hem Chunder. Hindi-Bengali director. Début in B.N. Sircar's International Filmcraft. Acted in Prafulla Roy's silent Chasher Meye (1931). Major films with New Theatres, where he was its principal Hindi director (1935-48) in its attempts to enter the Western Indian market. Second film, Karodpati, was one of Saigal's best-known musicals. Anath Ashram, starring Prithviraj Kapoor and scripted by novelist Sailajananda Mukherjee, made an influential intervention in the Bengali genre of the literary melodrama. Turned independent producer in collaboration with actress Meera Mishra (H.M. Prod.).

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1935: Karwan-e-Hayat; 1936: Karodpati; 1937: Anath Ashram; 1939: Jawani Ki Reet/Parajay; 1941: Pratisruti; 1942: Saugandh; 1943: Wapas; 1944: Meri Baheer; 1948: Pratibad/Oonch Neech; 1949: Bishnupriya; 1952: Chhoti Maa; 1954: Chitragada; 1955: Madh Bhare Nain; Teen Bhai; 1956: Bandhan; 1958: Manmoyee Girls' School; 1960: Natun Fasal.

Chunder, Krishan see Chander, Krishan (1914-77)

Company Natak

Popular theatre movement in late 19th C. Karnataka, predominantly around the Mysore court, contemporaneous with similar movements in Telugu (cf. Surabhi Theatres) and Tamil (see TKS Brothers). Performed as night-long shows by travelling groups in tents, it evolved from the Yakshagana folk theatre and its variants, Dashavtara and Bailatta, and helped codify the mythological. Gubbi Veeranna's company was its best-known exponent. The form assimilated aspects of Parsee theatre (e.g. versions of Gul-e-Bakavali and Indrasabha) and Sangeet Natak. As a folk-inspired genre, it allowed for a freewheeling, open-ended adaptation of speech and musical modes: Veeranna writes of using Urdu and pidgin Hindi phrases in Kannada texts while the numerous songs, using over 50 verses as bases for improvisation, could be accompanied by pedal-harmonium and clavolin as well as the traditional tabla, violin and sota. In the early 20th C., direct sponsorship from feudal élites helped imbue the form with a caste-conscious classicism usually signified by a recourse to translations of Sanskrit texts (e.g. Kalidasa) and Shakespeare, paralleling the increased emphasis on classical Bharat Natyam gestures in Yakshagana dance and dialogue-delivery, and on Carnatic music in the songs. In the late 30s some of the major groups moved into film, following Veeranna's Gubbi Co. which converted its stage hits into the first Kannada films. Mohammed Peer's Chandrakala Nataka Co. yielded two major 60s Kannada film-makers, H.L.N. Simha and B.R. Panthulu, while the Sahitya Samrajya Nataka Mandali run by film-maker R. Nagendra Rao and M.V. Subbiah Naidu converted their hit plays Yachhamanayika and Bhukailasa (1938, 1940) into successful films. The Company Natak provided virtually all the major talent for the early Kannada film, e.g. Honnappa Bhagavathar, megastar Rajkumar, B. Jayamma and K. Ashwathamma as well as scenarists B.N. Sastry and B. Puttaswamaiah. It defined the economic distribution infrastructure for a regional film industry and, crucially, paved the way for the political use of the mythological and the historical genres (see A.N. Krishnarao, Rajkumar and G.V. Iyer).

Company School Painting

An 18th and 19th C. painting style geared to the British presence. According to Mildred Archer, 'the favourite subjects were costumes, methods of transport and festivals, [H]indu deities and temples. Such subjects, arranged in sets, provided a conspectus of social life in India and, whether harsh and garish in the South or mild and soft as in the North East, the pictures recorded in pseudo-British terms the exotic environment in which [East India] Company officers and their successors lived. In these sets, each trade, craft or occupation was shown with identifying attributes - a bricklayer with measure and trowel, a shoemaker with awl and shoe, a cook with chicken and kettle' (Archer, 1977). Guha-Thakurta (1992) noted that with the dwindling of court patronage, court painters became reduced to the state of bazaar painters, 'a new colonial category that underlined their displacement and forced exposure and adjustment to Western demands in an open market. European paintings and engravings of Indian scenes began to be supplanted, more cheaply and abundantly, by the pictures produced by this pool of displaced artists. In commissioning pictures from these "bazaar" painters, the British preferred those with hereditary links with old painting ateliers. Yet the skills of these miniature artists were valued primarily for their adaptability to Western naturalistic conventions and the flair for precision and detail in the pictures and diagrams ordered of them.' From the middle of the 18th C., numerous British artists, both professional (the best known are William Hodges, Tilly Kettle, George Chinnery and John Zoffany) and sketch-book amateurs recorded scenes from India. Some of them were in the employ of Indian nobility and trained or otherwise influenced Indian artists, while numerous others simply imitated the style. The Company School mode, which usually functioned as a cheaper and barely legitimate version of European naturalism, established an influential visual lexicon of stereotypes used for a variety of purposes: parodies of the British and Indian gentry, local fashion primers, visual anthropology and some of the earliest examples of the mythological iconography later adopted by the cinema. Early documentaries in India, e.g. Bourne & Shepherd's actuality and review films, F.B. Thanawala's Splendid New Views of Bombay (1899) and Taboot Procession at Kalbadevi (1900) as well as footage bought for c.10 cents to a dollar per foot by e.g. the Pathé Exchange, International Newsreel Corp. and Fox Films, inherited the disingenuous Orientalism of the Company School painters once Parsee businessmen, the Indian aristocracy and British multinationals like Warwick Trading in Calcutta (Panorama of Calcutta, 1898) shifted their patronage to film production.

Cooper, Patience (1905?-?)

Top star of silent cinema before Sulochana. Contracted to Madan Theatres. Started as a dancer in Bandmann's Musical Comedy, a Eurasian troupe; later employed by Madan's Corinthian Stage Co. Played title roles in two major Sisir Bhaduri films, Mohini and Kamale Kamini. Dominant character in several films by Jyotish Bannerjee and Priyanath Ganguly: played Leelavati in Pati Bhakti, Sushila in Nartaki Tara, the title role in Noorjehan and perhaps the earliest double roles in Indian film in Patni Pratap (where she played two sisters) and Kashmiri Sundari (as mother and daughter). Often cast as the sexually troubled but innocent heroine at the centre of moral dilemmas represented by male protagonists, foreshadowing Nargis's performances three decades later in Mehboob's films (e.g. Humayun, 1945). A major aspect of her star image was the successful achievement of the Hollywood look in spite of vastly different light and technical conditions. Her dark hair, sharp eyes and skin tone allowed technicians to experiment with the imported convention of eye-level lighting.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1920: Nala Damayanti; 1921: Behula; Vishnu Avatar; Mohini; Dhruva Charitra; 1922: Ratnavali; Nartaki Tara; Raja Bhoj; Sati; Bhagirathi Ganga; Pati Bhakti; Matri Sneh; Laila Majnu; Ramayana; Kamale Kamani; Princess Budur; 1923: Patni Pratap; Noorjehan; 1924: Turki Hoor; 1925: Kashmiri Sundari; Sati Lakshmi; Adooray Chheley; Sansar Chakra; 1926: Dharmapatni; Prafulla; Joydev; Krishnakanter Will; 1927: Chandidas; Jana; Durgesh Nandini; 1928: Bhranti; Ka Nasha; Hoor-e-Arab; 1929: Kapal Kundala; 1930: Kal Parinaya; Rajsingha; Ganesh Janma; Vaman Avatar; 1931: Bibaha Bibhrat; Alladdin and the Wonderful Lamp (all St); Bharati Balak; Samaj Ka Shikar; 1932: Bilwamanga; Chatra Bakavali; Hathili Dulhar; Alibaba and the Forty Thieves; Pati Bhakti; Educated Wife; 1933: Madhur Murali; Naqli Doctor; Zehari Saap; Dhruva Charitra; 1934: Anokha Prem; Kanya Vikraya; Kismet Ka Shikar; Sakhi Luteri; 1935: Asmat Ka Moti; Dil Ki Pyaas; Mera Pyara; Sulagto Sansar; Prem Ki Ragini; Khudadad; 1936: Baghi Sipahi; Khyber Pass; Noor-e-Wahadat; 1937: Fakhr-e-Islam; 1943: Rani; 1944: Iraada.

Dakshinamurthy, V. (b. 1919)

Malayalam film music director and composer, born in Alleppey, Kerala. Regarded as a 'classicist'. Concert singer in 50s/60s. Trained by Venkatachalam Potti; practised at the Vaikom temple. At their best, his Carnatic-inspired scores are deceptively simple (e.g. when putting G. Sankara Kurup's lyrics to music), trying to adapt the recitative rhythms to given raga patterns. Nearly all his work is raga-based, notably in Khamboji, Sahana (e.g. the musical leitmotif in Kavya Mela), Todi and Charukesi. His compositions are a major influence on singers P. Leela and Vasanthakokila. Credits after 1978 and for films other than Malayalam are likely to be incomplete.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1950: Chandrika (with Govindarajulu Naidu); Nallathanka; 1951: Jeevitha Nauka; Navalokam; 1952: Amma; 1953: Velaikkaran; Lokaneethi; Sario Thetto; Asha Deepam; 1954: Avan Varunnu; Snehaseema; 1955: Kidappadam; 1956: Atmarpanam; 1959: Nadodikal; 1960: Seeta; 1961: Umminithanka; Gnana Sundari; 1962: Veluthampi Dalawa; Sreekovil; Vidhithanna Vilakku; Viyarppinte Vila; 1963: Satyabhama; Sushila; Chilampoli; 1964: Devalayam; Shri Guruvayoorappan; Bharthavu; (with Baburaj); 1965: Inpravugala; Kavya Mela; 1966: Pinchu Hridayam; Kadamattathachari; 1967: Indulekha; Lady Doctor; Mainatharuvi Kola Case; Cochin Express; 1968: Padunna Puzha; Adhyapika; Bharyamar Sukshikuka; 1969: Kannur Deluxe; Poojapushpam; Danger Biscuit; 1970: Kalpana; Stree; Ezhuthatha Katha; Kuttavali; Lottery Ticket; Sabarimala Shri Dharmasastha; Palunku Pathram; 1971: Muthassi; Marunattil Oru Malayali; Achante Bharya; 1972: Maya; Manushya Bandhangal; Nadan Premam; Shri Guruvayoorappan; Nrithyasala; Putrakameshti; Shakti; Sathi; Brahmachari; 1973: Football Champion; Udayam; Veendum Prabhatam; Police Ariyaruthu; Urvashi Bharathi; Driksakshi; Sastram Jayichu Manushyan Thottu; Interview; Poyi Mukhangal; 1974: Alakai; Night Duty; Aswathi; Bhugolam Thiriyunnu; Thacholi Marumagan Chandu; Sapta Swarangal; Arakallan Mukkal Kallan; Yauvanam; 1975: Chumadu Thangi; Mattoru Seeta; Sammanam; Sathyathinde Nizhali; 1976: Neelasari; Prasadam; Priyamvada; Sexilla Stuntilla; Srimadh Bhagavad Geeta; Thulavarsham (with Salil Choudhury); Thuruppu Gulam; Vazhi Vilakku; Oru Udhappu Kann Simittukirathur; 1977: Nanda Enn Nilla; Jagadguru Adi Shankaram; Kaduvaye Pidicha Kiduva; Makam Piranna Manka; Muttathe Mulla; Niraparayum Nilavilakkum; Shri Chottanikkara Bhagavathi; Thalappoli; 1978: Ashtamudikayal; Ashokavanam; Kalpa Vruksha; Kanalkattakal; Kudumbam Namakku Sreekovil; Manoratham; Ninakku Jnanum Enikku Neeyum; Prarthana; Prema Shilpi; 1979: Jimmy; Kannukal; Kathirmandapam; Manushyan; Oru Koyil Eru Deepangal; 1980: Ambala Vilakku; Bhakta Hanuman; 1981: Ampal Poovu; Arikkari Ammu; Ellam Ninakku Vendi; Pathiya Suryar; Sambhavam; 1982: Ente Mohanangal Poovaninjur; Priyasakhi Radha; 1984: Guruvayoor Mahatmiyam; Krishna Guruvayoorappa; 1985: Madhu Vidhurathri; Navadaku Paniyedukku; 1987: Idanazhiyil Oru Kalocha; 1989: Season.

Damle, Vishnupant Govind (1892-1945)

Marathi director and producer born in Pen, Raigad Dist., Maharashtra. Like his long-term collaborator, Fattalal, was apprenticed to Anandrao, the artist-technician cousin of Baburao Painter, helping to construct theatrical backdrops. Became expert set designer and cinematographer, making his own camera and processing film. Co-founded Maharashtra Films (1918) with Painter and Fattalal. With Shantaram, they broke away and established Prabhat in 1929. Damle took charge of the sound department and is credited with introducing the playback technique. Took over management of Prabhat after Shantaram left (1942) but without success. Best known for the classic Sant Tukaram and subsequent Saint films (co-d with Fattalal). Last film, Sant Sakhu, co-d with Raja Nene and Fattalal.

FILMOGRAPHY (co-d with S. Fattalal): 1928: Maharathi Karna (St); 1936: Sant Tukaram; 1938: Gopal Krishna; 1940: Sant Dnyaneshwar; 1941: Sant Sakhu.

Das, Jharana (b. 1945)

Major 60s Oriya actress in melodramas like Amada Bata, Abhinetri and esp. the classic Malajanha. Born in a Christian family; a noted child artist on AIR, Cuttack. Learnt dance from Guru Kelucharan Mahapatra, the main dance teacher in the classical form of Odissi. Returned to radio work and achieved immense popularity in radio plays before joining films with Amada Bata. Appointed assistant station director for Cuttack Doordarshan and acted in TV programmes e.g. Ghare Bhada Diya Jiba and Manisha, while continuing her film career. Directed a documentary on the Orissa politician H.K. Mahtab. Married Bengali cameraman Dipak Das.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1964: Amada Bata; Nabajanma; 1965: Abhinetri; Malajanha; 1970: Adina Megha; 1979: Shri Jagannath; 1981: Tike Hasa Tike Luha; 1982: Samaya Bada Balabaan; Hisab Nikas; Jwain Pua; 1983: Mahasati Sabitri; 1984: Ninad; 1985: Pooja Phula; Hakim Babu; 1987: Kasturi; 1988: Lal Pan Bibi; 1989: Topaye Sindoor Deepata Sankha.

Dasgupta, Buddhadev (b. 1944)

Bengali poet and director born in Anara, Purulia (Bengal). Former lecturer in economics at Calcutta University (1968-76) and Bengali poet since 1961, published in journals like Kabita, Ekshan and Desh; wrote many anthologies (Govir Arieley, 1963; Coffin Kimba Suitcase, 1972; Him Jug, 1977; Chhata Kahini, 1981; Roboter Gaan, 1985). Gave up academic post to extend poetic work into cinema. Early film-making (Dooratwa) attempted a didactic variation on S. Ray's type of urban lyrical realism. With the thriller Grihajuddha and melodrama Andhi Gali, both adapting novelist Dibyendu Palit, he tried new forms of addressing the contemporary situation in Bengal after the Naxalite movements, usually from the view of a guilt-ridden middle class. From this perspective, revisits established literary traditions, including the writings of Kamal Kumar Majumdar (Neem Annapurna), Narendranath Mitra (Phera) et al. Published a book of film essays, Swapna Samay Cinema (1991).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1968: Samayer Kache (Sh); 1969: Continent of Love (Doc); 1970: Fishermen Of Sundarban (Doc); 1973: Dholer Raja Khirode Natta (Doc); 1974: Saratchandra (Doc); 1978: Dooratwa; 1979: Neem Annapurna; 1980: Vigyan O Tar Avishkar; (Doc); 1981: Rhythm of Steel (Doc); 1982: Grihajuddha; Sheet Grishmer Smriti (TV); 1984: Andhi Gali; Indian Science Marches Ahead (Doc); 1985: Story of Glass (Doc); India on the Move (Doc); 1986: Ceramics (Doc); Phera; 1987: Contemporary Indian Sculpture (Doc); 1989: Bagh Bahadur; 1990: History of Indian Jute (Doc); 1992: Tahader Katha; 1993: Charachar.

Das Gupta, Chidananda (b. 1921)

Noted Indian film critic committed to a realist aesthetic and humanist philosophy best exemplified by Satyajit Ray. Born in Shillong. Founded with Ray et al. the Calcutta Film Society (1947) and the Federation of Film Societies of India (1960), functioning as its secretary until 1967. Editor of the Indian Film Review and Indian Film Culture and widely published film and arts journalist. Published The Cinema of Satyajit Ray and the anthology Film India: Satyajit Ray (both 1981) in addition to numerous essays. Extended his argument for an organic film culture beyond Ray to cover mainstream Indian cinema, launching the notion of the All-India Film with a culturally integrative role in nationalist terms (see the essay 'The Cultural Basis of Indian Cinema', 1968). Recent essays collected in his The Painted Face (1991) describe the realist and the All-India Film as committed to, respectively, a cinema of fact and of myth. For some years editor of the journal Span published by the USIS. Also known as the director of the critically acclaimed feature Bilet Pherat (1972), and of the documentary about Ananda Coomaraswamy, The Dance of Shiva (1968). Other documentaries include Portrait of a City (1961), The Stuff of Steel (1969), Birju Maharaj (1972) and Zarorat Ki Purti (1979). Father of Bengali star Aparna Sen, scored his daughter's film Sati (1989).

Dasgupta, Harisadhan (b. 1923)

Bengali documentary and fiction director born in Calcutta. Studied film-making first at USC and later at UCLA (1945). Apprenticed to Hollywood film-maker Irving Pichel and present during the making of RKO's They Won't Believe Me (1947) and Universal's Mr Peabody and the Mermaid (1948). Founder member with S. Ray, C. Das Gupta, Asit Sen et al. of the Calcutta Film Society (1947). Assisted Jean Renoir in making The River (1951) and shot best-known documentary Konarak (1949) with Renoir's brother Claude. The film was partly remade in a 'popular version' by his brother Bulu for Films Division (1958). Début, A Perfect Day, is a featurette promoting cigarettes sponsored by the National Tobacco Co. scripted by Ray, produced by C. Das Gupta and shot by Ajoy Kar. It combined a vérité style with a fictional script, announcing e.g. Ray's 50s realism. Later made the classic documentary The Story of Steel sponsored by Tata Steel, India's largest private sector corporation. It was scripted by Ray, shot by Claude Renoir and edited by Hrishikesh Mukherjee with music by Ravi Shankar. It became a model for the type of Nehruite nation-building socialist-realism later associated with Films Division. Best-known films with the Shell Film Unit. Dasgupta and Ray planned to film Tagore's Ghare Baire, a project realised 30 years later by Ray in 1984. Made two features, Kamallata and the critically acclaimed Eki Ange Eto Rup. He is regarded as Sukhdev's teacher, later contributing to Nine Months To Freedom (1972). His son Raja Dasgupta is now a documentary director. Also made several 30' films for USIS, the Ford Foundation, UNESCO etc. 1956-60 as well as for Hindustan Motors (1968).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1948: A Perfect Day; 1949: Konarak: The Sun Temple; 1953: Weavers of Mairdargi, Shaher Ki Jhalak, Gaon Ki Kahani; 1955: Panchthupi: A Village in West Bengal; 1956: The Story of Steel; 1960: Our Children Will Know Each Other Better; 1961: Panorama of West Bengal; Acharya Prafulla Chandra Ray; 1964: Bade Ghulam Ali Khan Saheb; 1965: Baba; Malabar Story, Eki Ange Eto Rup, Glimpses of India; Quest for Health; 1969: Kamallata; The Automobile Industry in India; 1970: Terracotta Temples; 1971: The Tale of Two Leaves and a Bud; Port of Calcutta; 1973:

Engineers (India) Limited; 1976: Preservation of Ancient Monuments; 1977: Bagha Jatin; 1978: Haldia Dock Complex; The Brave Do Not Die; 1981: The ITA Story; 1982: This Land is Mine, Mizoram; 1984: Acharya Nandalal.

Dasgupta, Kamal (?-1974)

Bengali composer born in Dhaka (now Bangladesh). Début with the Gramophone Company of India. Became widely known when his music was performed by the popular singer Juthika Roy and provided the definitive musical arrangements for some of Kazi Nazrul Islam's compositions. His use of orchestration typifies the Nazrul gharana, which he helped popularise in the early years of the gramophone industry. Along with Anupam Ghatak and Anil Bagchi, one of the most popular composers in the interwar years. Worked with Barua (e.g. Shesh Uttar/Jawab, Pehchan) and extensively with Niren Lahiri (Garmil, Jayjatra). Also scored Modhu Bose's Tagore-derived Giribala. Worked with Sagar directors Luhar (Bindiya) and Badami (Manmani) and later with Pranab Roy, also producing Roy's Prarthana. Later years in Bangladesh where he married the singer Feroza Begum.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1936: Pandit Moshai; 1938: Sarbajanin Bibahotsab; 1939: Debjanî; 1942: Shesh Uttar/Jawab, Garmil; 1943: Sahadharmini, Jogajog/Hospital, Chandar Kalanka/Rani, Dampati; 1944: Bideshini; 1945: Nandita, Meghdoot, Bhabhi-Kaal; 1946: Bindiya, Krishna Leela, Pehchan, Zameen Aasmaan; 1947: Faisla, Giribala, Manmani, Chandrasekhar; 1948: Jayjatra/Vijay Yatra; 1949: Iran Ki Ek Raat, Rangamati, Anuradha; 1951: Phulwari; 1952: Prarthana; 1953: Malancha; 1954: Nababidhar, Bhagwan Shri Krishna Chaitanya; 1955: Bratacharini; 1956: Manraksha, Govindadas; 1957: Madhu Malati, Sandhan; 1967: Bodhu Baran.

Dasgupta, Protima (b. 1922)

Hindi actress, producer and director born in Bhavnagar into wealthy family. Studied briefly in England; then at Tagore's Shantiniketan where she was apparently a favoured student. Début in Naresh Mitra's film of Tagore's Gora, her role apparently satisfying the author. Hindi début in Modhu Bose's trilingual Raj Nartaki. Acted in three films directed by Kishore Sahu. Turned film-maker with Chhamia followed by the comedy Pagle, both with leading stars Begum Para and David. Her Jharna got into trouble when the Chief Minister of Bombay Presidency, Morarji Desai, banned it for what he felt were sexually explicit scenes. The film was a financial disaster and she retired from the cinema.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: (* also d): 1938: Gora; 1940: Path Bhoole, Suktara, Byabadhan; 1941: Raj Nartaki/Court Dancer; 1942: Kunwara Baap; 1943: Namaste, Raja; 1944: Shararat; 1945: *Chhamia; 1948: *Jharna; 1950: *Pagle.

Dasgupta, Sukumar (b. 1907)

Bengali director born in Calcutta. Started as scenarist for Prafulla Roy's Abhishek (1931) and P.C. Barua's Maya (1936). Comedy director in the ensemble format popularised by Nirmal Dey. Known mainly for having introduced Suchitra Sen (Sat Number Kayedi) and for early Uttam Kumar comedies (notably Sadanander Mela, adapting Roy del Ruth's It Happened on Fifth Avenue, 1947) and Abhoyer Biye.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1936: Ashiana; 1937: Rajgee; 1940: Rajkumarer Nirbashar; 1941: Epar Opar; 1942: Pashan Devata; 1945: Nandita; 1946: Sat Number Bari; 1949: Abhijayta; 1950: Banprastha; 1951: Pratyabartan; 1952: Sanjibani; 1953: Sat Number Kayedi; 1954: Ora Thake Odhare; Sadanander Mela; 1955: Parishodh; 1956: Mahanisha; 1957: Abhoyer Biye; 1960: Haat Baraley Bandhu; 1961: Sathi Hara.

Date, Keshavrao (1889-1971)

Major Marathi stage actor born in Adivare, Ratnagiri Dist., Maharashtra; one of the first practitioners of naturalist prose theatre at Maharashtra Natak Mandali (e.g. Agryahun Sutka and Bebandshahi) in an era dominated by Sangeet Natak musicals. Key participant, with writer-actor K. Narayan Kale and composer Keshavrao Bhole, of Natyamanwantar group's production of Andhalyanchi Shala (1933), a pinnacle of Stanislavsky (and Ibsen/Shaw) inspired naturalism in Marathi theatre, prompting Shantaram to hire all three for Prabhat. Kale suggests that Date's constant effort to reconcile reformist-social literature's stereotypes with European theatrical styles inevitably led to the expressionist technique of fragmenting characters into certain gestures and a speaking style, construed as an 'entry into the character's mind' (Kale, 1950). Best-known film work with Shantaram at Prabhat (e.g. the classic Kunku and Shejari) and Rajkamal (Dahej, Toofan Aur Diya), where his declamatory speech and gesture fitted Shantaram's expressionist inclinations. Date's style remains a characteristic of Shantaram's influential variant of melodrama. Also directed some films at Rajkamal. Biography by V.V. Jog (1976).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1934: Amritmanthan; 1936: Savkari Pash; 1937: Kunku/Duniya Na Mane; Pratibha; 1938: Umaji Naik; 1939: Sant Tulsidas; Adhuri Kahani; 1940: Chingari; Diwali; Holi; 1941: Shejari; 1942: *Kisise Na Kehna; 1944: *Bhakticha Mala/Mal; 1946: Dr Kotnis Ki Amar Kahani; 1947: *Andhon Ki Duniya; 1948: Bhool; 1949: Apna Desh/Nam Naadu; 1950: Dahej; Jara Japoor; 1951: Kunkvacha Dhani; Sharada; 1953: Teen Batti Char Raasta; Maisaheb; Surang; 1955: Jhanak Jhanak Payal Baaje; 1956: Toofan Aur Diya; 1957: Do Aankhen Barah Haath; 1958: Mausi; 1959: Navrang; 1961: Stree; 1963:

Keshavrao Date in Kunku (1937)

Sehra, 1964: Geet Gaya Pattharone; 1965: Iye Marathyachi Nagari/Ladki Sahyadri Ki.

Datta Keshav Kul karni (b. 1932)

Marathi director and playwright born in Bombay. Assistant to Dharmadhikari (1952) before going to Filmistan as scenarist and director. Often also provided the lyrics for his own films.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1966: Ati Shahana Tyacha; 1968: Bai Mothi Bhagyachi; Yethe Shahane Rahataat; 1970: Meech Tujhi Priya; 1971: Dher Chalaki Jin Kara; Asel Mazha Hari; 1973: Mala Dev Bhetla; 1974: Bayano Navare Sambhala; Ovalite Bauraya; 1977: Badla; Bhingri; Navara Mazha Brahmachari; 1980: Phatakadi; Savli Premachi; Jidda; 1981: Mosambi Narangi; 1982: Vishwas; 1983: Kashala Udyachi Baat; Ranine Dav Jinkala; 1985: Saubhagya Lene; 1987: Porichi Dhamal Bapachi Kamal; Prema Saathi Vatelte; Sant Gajanan Shegavicha; 1989: De Taali; 1990: Dhamal Bablya Ganpyachi; 1991: Yeda Ki Khula.

Dave, Mohanlal G.

Top silent cinema scenarist; first scenarist to get his name above the title (see e.g. the publicity pamphlets of Kohinoor Film which often give no other credits). Started as an accountant; then publicist for Imperial Theatre in Bombay. Apparently honed his craft writing lively synopses in publicity hand-outs for Pathé's imports. Entered films with S.N. Patankar and moved to National Studio (where he was already paid Rs 10,000 a year to write a minimum of 15 stories) and Kohinoor, where he made his reputation and wrote about one screenplay a week. Thereafter worked at Jayant Pics. and at Imperial with the coming of sound, where he often teamed up with director Jaswantlal. As a professional, he handled all genres, but his narrative style is related to the then emerging popular Gujarati fiction as introduced to the cinema by ex-novelists like Naranji Vassanji Thakkar, Gopalji Delwadekar, Shaida etc. His scripts are said to have included detailed camera movements, fades etc., as in Rathod's complicated Gul-e-Bakavali (1924), written in 92 scenes. Major early scripts: the politically controversial Bhakta Vidur (1921), the Rathod hit Kala Naag (1924), Chandulal Shah's debut film Panchdanda (1925) and Homi Master's Fankdo Futuri (1925). His sound films were often rewrites of his own silent hits with dialogue. His major successes were with V.M. Vyas, including the Gujarati film Ranakdevi (1946). Remained a popular writer until the 60s.

Dave, Ravindra (1919-92)

Hindi and Gujarati director born in Karachi. Started as cinema manager in the Pancholi distribution empire. Later learnt editing under director Shaukat Hussain; also scenarist until 1941. Early films for Pancholi. 50s films were usually cop thrillers and murder mysteries (Moti Mahal, CID Girl, Guest House). Post Box 999 adapted plot of Call Northside 777 (1947). Shifted to Gujarati cinema with the folk fantasy Jesal Toral, a major hit. Thereafter worked mainly in the same genre and language. Also scripted Mohan Segal's Sajan (1969).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1943: Poonji; 1945: Dhamki; 1948: Chunaria; Patjhad; 1949: Naach; Sawan Bhadon; 1950: Meena Bazaar; 1951: Nagina; 1952: Lal Kunwar; Moti Mahal; 1953: Naina; 1954: Bhai Saheb; 1955: Shikar; Lutera; 1956: Char Minar; 1957: Agra Road; 1958: Farishta; Post Box 999; 1959: CID Girl; Ghar Ghar Ki Baat; Guest House; Satta Bazaar; 1962: Aankh Micholi; Girls' Hostel; 1963: Band Master; 1964: Tere Dwar Khada Bhagwan; Dulha Dulhar; Punar Milan; 1967: Raaz; 1969: Road to Sikkim; 1971: Jesal Toral; 1973: Raja Bhartrahari; 1974: Hothal Padmini; Kunwarbainu Mameru; 1975: Sant

Surdas; Shetalne Kanthe; Bhadar Tara Vehta Pani; 1976: Bhaibandhi; Malavpati Munj; 1977: Jai Randalma; Maa Avret Jivrat; Paiso Bole Chhe; Son Kansari; 1978: Chundadi Odhi Tara Namni; Patali Parmar; Bhagya Lakshmi; 1979: Suraj Chandra Ni Sakhe; Preet Khandani Dhar; 1980: Koino Ladakvayo; Virangana Nathibai; 1981: Jagya Tyanthi Savar; Seth Jagadusha; Dukhda Khame Ee Dikri; 1983: Palavade Bandhi Preet; 1984: Nagmati Nagvalo; 1985: Malo Naagde.

Debi, Suprabha (b. 1939)

Assamese writer, distributor and first woman director. Born into an established family from Golaghat, Upper Assam. Married the journalist and cineaste D.N. Debi. Involved in the films of Rajendra Chalachitra. After her husband's death, became distributor and producer, eventually directing as well.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1983: Nayanmoni; 1985: Sarbajan.

Desai, Dhirubhai B. (1908-90)

Hindi and Gujarati director born in Kaliawadi, near Navsari, Gujarat. Started at Sharda Studio (1927); assisted A.P. Kapur. Completed Maya Na Rang, left unfinished by P.V. Chavan and Sundarrao Nadkarni when Bhogilal Dave took over his United Pics Syndicate in 1929. Early work marked by the Sharda genre of action films and later by Indulal Yagnik's politically informed melodrama. Also worked for Nanubhai Desai's Saroj Film. Set up own talkie studio, Vishnu Cinetone (with Surya Kumari, 1933), with Natwar Shyam Maniar and Chaturbhai Patel. Later also owned Chandrakala Pics. One of the few silent film-makers with a long career in Hindi and Gujarati B-movies. Post-40s films mainly cheap mythologicals, often remakes of silent hits.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1928: Maya Na Rang; 1929: Kusum Lata; Nishan Danka; Mayavi Nagari; Bahadur Baharvatiyo; 1930: Abad Veer; Chittor Ni Veerangana; Komalner Ni Kusum; Bhawani No Bhog; 1931: Lal Panjo; Aatishe Ishq; Jawahir-e-Hind; Kanak Kesari; Dariyai Devangana; Alakh Kishori; 1932: Gurjar Veer; Sinh Santaan (all St); 1933: Surya Kumari; 1934: Bulbul-e-Paristan; 1935: Dard-e-Ulfat; Delhi Ka Thug; Lal Chitta; 1936: Hoor-e-Samundar; 1937: Vanraj Kesari; 1938: Fashionable Wife; Talwar Ka Dhan; 1939: Baghi; Payame Haq; 1940: Pyar; Rani Saheba; 1941: Chandar; 1942: Bolti Bulbul; Seva; 1944: Maya Nagari; 1946: Bhakta Prahlad; Devkanya; 1947: Saat Samundaron Ki Mallika; 1948: Satyavadi Harishchandra; 1949: Bhakta Pundalik; 1951: Jai Mahakali; 1952: Bhakta Puran; Neelam Pari; 1953: Shuk Rambha; 1954: Durga Puja; Shiv Kanya; 1955: Mastani; Oonchi Haveli; 1956: Sati Ansuya; 1957: Paristan; Raja Vikram; 1958: Harishchandra; 1959: Maa Ke Ansoo; 1960: Saranga; 1961: Jai Bhawan; 1962: Kailashpati; 1964: Bhakta Dhruvakumar; 1965: Mahasati Ansuya; 1967: Badrinath Yatra; 1968: Mata Mahakali; 1969: Pujarin; 1970: Sampoorna Teerth Yatra; 1972: Narad Leela; 1975: Daku Aur Bhagwan.

Desai, Jayantilal Zinabhai (1909-76)

Hindi director born in Surat, Gujarat. Entered films initially as Surat-based exhibitor, later scenarist for London Film, Rangoon, and for Krishna and Sharda Studios. Assisted Chandulal Shah (Rajputani, 1929). Turned director completing Nandlal Jaswantlal's Pahadi Kanya (1930). Front-line Ranjit filmmaker until 1943, then independent producer, owner of Jupiter Studio, Jayant Desai Prod. (1943) and Hemlata Pics. Also had exhibition interests with Hindmata Talkies and Star Theatres in Bombay and operated as a distributor in the 50s with his Jupiter Films. Directed K.L. Saigal's last films. Desai's devotionals (e.g. Har Har Mahadev) and historicals (Tansen) show how these genres were inflected towards neo-traditional melodrama (including his several Saint films and mythologicals) by a growing urban working-class audience and an economy determined by WW2.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1930: Pahadi Kanya (uncredited); Noor-e-Watar; Jawan Mard; Joban Na Jadu; 1931: Mukti Sangram; Banka Savaria; Vilasi Atma; Qatil Katari; Vijay Lakshmi; Fauladi Pahalwan; 1932: Lal Swar; Sipahsalaar (all St); Bhutia Mahal; Char Chakram; Do Badmash; 1933: Bhola Shikar; Bhool Bhulaiyan; Krishna Sudama; 1934: Nadira; Sitamgarh; Toofan Mail; Veer Babruwahan; 1935: College Girl; Noor-e-Watar; 1936: Laheri Lala; Matlabi Duniya; Raj Ramani; Rangila Raja; 1937: Toofani Toli; Mitti Ka Putla; Zameen Ka Chand; 1938: Ban Ki Chidiya; Billi; Prithvi Putra; 1939: Sant Tulsidas; 1940: Aaj Ka Hindustan; Diwali; 1941: Beti; Shadi; 1942: Chandni; Fariyad; 1943: Bansari; Bhakta Raaf; Tansen; Zabaan; 1944: Lalkaar; Manorama; 1945: Samrat Chandragupta; Tadbir; 1946: Maharana Pratap; 1950: Har Har Mahadev; Shaan; Veer Bhimsen; 1951: Dashavtar; Shri Ganesh Janma; 1952: Amber; Nishan Danka; Shivashakti; 1953: Hazaar Raatein; Manchala; Naya Raasta; 1954: Miss Mala; Shiv Ratri; 1955: Sati Madalasa; 1956: Basant Panchami; Hamara Watar; 1957: Lakshmi Pooja; 1961: Zamana Badal Gaya.

Desai, Manmohan (1936-94)

Hindi director born in Bombay. Son of Kikubhai Desai, founder of the Paramount Studio which later housed Filmalaya (Est: 1958). Elder brother of the producer Subhash Desai. Started as assistant director to Babubhai Mistri in the late 50s; 60s work in line with Shammi Kapoor's films at Filmistan (Bluff Master, Badtameez). Although the films rely on Hollywood models (esp. Elvis Presley) introduced into Hindi film by Subodh Mukherjee and Nasir Hussain, they also jettison some of the narrative ballast that e.g. Hussain puts into his romances. The narratives in the 70s films with Rajesh Khanna

Shammi Kapoor (centre) in Manmohan Desai's Bluff Master (1963)

(Sachcha Jhutha) and Jeetendra (Bhai Ho To Aisa) develop a series of autonomously packaged sequences emotionally complete in themselves. Desai formula plots deploy good guy-bad guy dual roles or lost-and-found brother stories first elaborated by Tamil films (e.g. Parasakthi, 1952), removing the political aspects from their populist approach and replacing them with a more diffuse, less targeted aggressiveness. Turned independent producer with Amar Akbar Anthony, often financed by industrial family of Hinduja. Leading director in the 70s. Desai's best-known films, Naseeb and Coolie, have Bachchan continuing the MGR mode of presenting himself in the guise of the oppressed subaltern. But Desai adds a celebration of lumpen power charged with communal references. Publicly announced his retirement as a director after Ganga Jamuna Saraswati. Recently, the resemblance between Desai's formula plots and the structure of US TV series caused his work to be associated with notions of postmodernism. His son Ketan Desai now makes films for MKD Films (e.g. Allah Rakha, 1986; Toofan, 1989).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1960: Chhalia; 1963: Bluff Master; 1966: Badtameez; 1968: Kismet; 1970: Sachcha Jhutha; 1972: Bhai Ho To Aisa; Rampur Ka Lakshman; Shararat; 1973: Aa Gale Lag Jaa; 1974: Roti; 1977: Amar Akbar Anthony; Chacha Bhatija; Dharam Veer; Parvarish; 1979: Suhaag; 1981: Naseeb; 1982: Desh Premi; 1983: Coolie; 1985: Mard; 1988: Ganga Jamuna Saraswati.

Desai, Nanubhai B. (1902-67)

Born in Kaliawadi, near Navsari, Gujarat. Major producer and director of pioneering action and stunt films characteristic of the Sharda Studio style. Joined Ardesher Irani's Star Film; later partnered Dorabsha Kolha, Nowroji Pavri and his mentor Bhogilal Dave in Saraswati Film (Est: 1924), from which emerged the nucleus of Sharda started by Desai and Dave (1925). Founded Saroj Film (1929), later Saroj Movietone. Ran Amar Pics, which replaced the earlier Sagar Film when it split. Produced films by R.S. Choudhury et al. Ended up as production manager at the Pakshiraja Studio (e.g. for their Hindi film Azad, 1955).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1923: Champraj Hado; 1924: Razia Begum; Sati Sardarba; Vikram Charitra; 1925: Saurashtra Veer; Bhadra Bhamini; Mumbai Ni Mohini; Bajirao Mastani; 1926: Vasant Bala; Dil Aram; 1927: Bhedi Trishul; Gulzar; Kailash Kumari; Reshmi Sari; Asuri Lalsa; Jaan-e-Alam Anjuman Ara; Kala Pahad; 1928: Maya Mahal (all St).

Desai, Vasant (1912-75)

Music director born in Kudal, Maharashtra. Employed at Prabhat as actor and studio-hand from 1929. Assistant to composers Tembe, Krishnarao and Bhole and actor-singer with successful solos in Ayodhyecha Raja and Amar Jyoti. Music director at Rajkamal, where he was a regular in Shantaram films for over three decades starting with Shakuntala. Best-known work mainly adapting traditional Maharashtrian musical modes of Powada and Lavni (e.g. in Lokshahir Ramjoshi and Amar Bhoopali). Made several polemical statements calling for Marathi cinema's return to regional music traditions (e.g. Desai, 1950). Scored several mythologicals by Vijay Bhatt and Babubhai Mistri and two major Sohrab Modi films: Sheesh Mahal and Jhansi Ki Rani. Later scored for Hrishikesh Mukherjee (Ashirwad, Guddi) and Gulzar (Achanak).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* act only): 1932: *Ayodhyecha Raja; 1935: *Dharmatma; 1936: *Amar Jyoti; 1937: *Wahan; 1940: *Sant Dnyaneshwar; 1942: Shobha; 1943: Aankh Ki Sharam; Mauj; Shakuntala; 1944: Parbat Pe Apna Dera; 1946: Dr Kotnis Ki Amar Kahani; Jeevan Yatra; Subhadra; 1947: Andhon Ki Duniya; Lokshahir Ramjoshi; Matwala Shayar Ramjoshi; 1948: Mandir; Sona; 1949: Narasinh Avatar; Udhaar; Sakharpuda; Nai Taleem; 1950: Krantiveer Vasudev Balwant; Dahej; Hindustan Hamara; Sheesh Mahal; 1951: Jeevan Tara; Amar Bhoopali; Hi Majhi

Lakshmi; 1952: Hyderabad Ki Nazneer; 1953: Anand Bhavan; Dhwaan; Jhansi Ki Rani, Majhi Zameer; Shyamchi Aai; 1954: Kalakaar; Savdhari; Suhagan (all 3 with C. Ramchandra); Kanchanganga; 1955: Ye Re Majhya Maglya; Jhanak Jhanak Payal Baaje; 1956: Toofan Aur Diya; 1957: Do Aankhen Barah Haath; 1958: Do Phool; Mausi; 1959: Ardhangini; Do Behner; Goonj Uthi Shehnai; Samrat Prithviraj Chouhan; 1960: Umaji Naik; 1961: Pyar Ki Pyaas; Sampoorna Ramayan; 1962: Baap Mazha Brahmachari; 1963: Chhota Jawan; Molkarin; 1964: Swayamvar Jhale Seeteche; Rahul; Yaadein; 1965: Amar Jyoti; Bharat Milap; Iye Marathyachi Nagari/Ladki Sahyadri Ki; And Miles To Go...; 1967: Ramraja; 1968: Dhanya Te Santaji Dhanaji; Ashirwad; 1970: Lakshman Resha; 1971: Guddi; 1972: Grahan; 1973: Achanak; 1974: Jai Radhe Krishna; Bayano Navre Sambhala; Raja Shivachhatrapati; 1975: Rani Aur Lalpari; 1976: Shaque; Tuch Majhi Rani.

Devarajan, Paravur

Prolific 60s and 70s Malayalam film composer. Established reputation with songs for plays of the left Kerala Peoples' Arts Club (see IPTA), esp. the O.N.V. Kurup lyric sung by K.S. George and Sulochana invoking the graves of the Communist rebels of Punnapra-Vyalar (1946), set to a militant rendition of the raga Hamsadhwani. Extensively associated with Vyalar Rama Varma's lyrics. Like Dakshinamurthy, was trained in classical Carnatic music but, unlike him, often borrowed extensively from folk influences. Early scores in Puttanna Kanagal's Malayalam films (School Master, Kalanjukuttiya Thangam); broke through with Sethumadhavan's 60s films, remaining his regular composer for several years (e.g. Odeyil Ninnu, Daham, Adimagal, Aranazhikaneram). Worked on several major Vincent films including Ashwamedham, Thulabharam and Nadhi. In the 70s, was associated with independent breakthroughs including Menon's Kabani Nadi Chuvannappol and Backer's work (e.g. Charam), while simultaneously working on I.V. Sasi's mainstream productions. Composed Aravindan's Chidambaram as well. Reputedly the first composer in Malayalam film to make sense of the non-verbal background score, with a bias for violin effects.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1955: Kalam Marunnu; 1958: Chadarangam; 1962: Bharya; 1963: Nithya Kanyaka; Doctor; Kadamma; 1964: Anna; School Master; Manavatti; Omanakuttar; Kalanjukuttiya Thangam; 1965: Odeyil Ninnu; Kaliyodam; Kattupookal; Kathiruna Nikkal; Daham; Shakuntala; Pattu Thoovala; 1966: Kalithozher; Rowdy; Jail; Kalyana Rathriyil; Kanmanikal; Karuna; Tilottama; 1967: Swaprabhoom; Sheelavati; Arakillam; Aval; Ashwamedham; Chitramela; Pooja; Kavalam Chundan; Nadan Pennu; Kasavuthattam; 1968: Viplavakarikal; Thokkukal Katha Parayunnu; Hotel Highrange; Yakshi; Thulabharam; Velutha Kathrina; Agni Pareeksha; 1969: Anashchadanam; Padicha Kallam; Veetu

Mrugham; Kattukurangu; Susie; Adimagal; Urangatha Sundari; Kadalpalam; Mooladhanam; Jwala; Nadhi; Kootu Kudumbam; Kumara Sambhavam; 1970: Mindapennu; Nishagandhi; Vazhve Mayam; Dattuputhran; Othenente Makar; Abhayam (with Salil Choudhury); Ningalenne Communistaki; Vivahitha; Nilakatha Chalanangal; Swapnangal; A Chitrashalabham Paranotte; Triveni; Tara; Aranazhikaneram; Pearl View; 1971: Shiksha; Oru Penninte Katha; Thettu; Kalithozhi; Inquilab Zindabad; Sarasayya; Karakanakadal; Line Bus; Puthanveedu; Avalappam Vaikippoi; Sindooracheppu; Anubhavgal Palichaka; 1972: Mayiladum Kunnu; Devi; Professor; Aromalunni; Omana; Chemparathi; Achannum Bappayam; Akkarapacha; Oru Sundariyude Katha; Punarjanmam; Maraivil Thiruvu Sukshikuha; Gandharvakshetram; Postmane Kananilla; Chhayam; Maram; 1973: Enippadikal; Kalachakram; Ponnapuram Kotta; Gayatri; Manushya Puthran; Thani Niram; Darshanam; Achani; Thenaruv; Pavangal Pennungal; Nakhangal; Dharma Yuddham; Prethangalude Thazhvara; Chukku; Madhavikutty; Swargaputhri; Angathattu; Masappadi Mathupilla; Kaliyugam; Chenda; Vijaya; 1974: Chattakkari; Paruvakalam; Shapamoksham; Suprabhatam; Panchatanthram; Durga; Setu Bandhanam; Neela Kannukal; Nagaram Sagaram; Thumbolarcha; Devi Kanyakumari; Raja Hamsam; Vishnu Vijayam; Bhoomidevi Pushpinnyayi; Atithi; Mazhakkaru; 1975: Alibaba and Forty-One Thieves; Ayodhya; Bharya Illatha Rathri; Boy Friend; Chalanam; Chuvanna Sandhyaka; Kabani Nadi Chuvannappol; Kottaram Vilakkanundu; Makka; Manishada; Mucheettu Kalikarante Magal; Palazhi Madhanam; Priyamulla Sophia; Swami Ayyappan; Antharangam; 1976: Kumara Vijayam; Amba Ambika Ambalika; Ammini Amman; Anavaranam; Aruthu; Ayalakkari; Colonel and Collector; Hridayam Oru Kshetram; Manimuzhakkum; Missi; Mohini Attam; Nee Ente Lahari; Nurayum Pathayam; Panchamrutham; Ponn; Rathriyile Yatrakar; Romeo; Sarvekkalu; Udyanalakshmi; Vanadevatha; Chuvanna Vithuka; 1977: A Nimisham; Acharam Ammini Osaram Omana; Agni Nakshatram; Akale Akasam; Anandam Paramanandam; Anjali; Chakravarthini; Chaturvedam; Guruvayoor Kesavar; Innale Innu; Itha Ivide Vare; Karnaparvam; Kavilamma; Lakshmi; Minimol; Nalumani Pookkal; Needhi Peedham; Oonjal; Pennpuli; Rajani; Rendu Lokam; Rowdy Rajamma; Saghakkale Munottu; Samudram; Satyavan Savithri; Shri Murugan; Sridevi; Varadakshina; Veedu Oru Swargam; Vidarunna Mottugal; Aniyara; 1978: Nakshatrangale Kaval; Anappachan; Aazhi Alayazhi; Adimakachavadam; Amarsham; Ammuvinte Atinkutty; Avalakku Maranamilla; Avar Jeevikkunur; Ee Manohara Theeram; Jnan Jnan Mathram; Iniyum Puzha Ozhukum; Kadathanattu Maakkam; Mudra Mothiram; Nivedyam; Padasaram; Rappadigalude Gatha; Rajan Paranja Katha; Rathi Nirvedham; Satrathil Oru Rathri; Snehikkan Oru Pennu; Thampuratti; Tharu Oru Janmam Koodi; Vadagaikku Oru Hridayam; Vayanadan

Thampar; Vilakkum Velichavum; Yeetta; 1979: Sanghaganam; Allavudeenum Albutha Velakkum/Allavudeenum Arputha Vilakkum/Alladdin and the Wonderful Lamp; Anubhavgale Nandi; Iniyethra Sandhyaka; Hridayathinte Nirangal; Lahari; Manavadharmam; Manninte Maril; Mochanam; Nilathamara; Ormayil Nee Mathram; Sharapanjaram; Thirayum Thiravum; Veerabhadrar; Vellayanni Paramu; Ward No. 7; 1980: Akalangalil Abhayam; Chakara; Chora Chuvanna Chora; Digvijayam; Evar; Ishtamanu Pakshe; Kalika; Lava; Meer; Nattuchakkiruttu; Palattu Kunjikannan; Pavizha Muthu; Prakatanam; Rajanigandhi; Salini Ente Kuttukari; Suryadaham; Swathu; 1981: Ira Thedunna Manushyan; Kathayariyathe; Maniyan Pillai Athava Maniyan Pillai; Nidra; Parankimala; Swarangal Swapnangal; Thalam Manasinte Thalam; Theekali; Vayal; Charam; 1982: Amritha Geetham; Angachamayam; Asthi; Ken; Madrassille Mohan; Odukkam Thudakkam; Swapname Ninakku Nandi; Veedu; 1983: Eetapuli; Himavahini; Kattaruv; Oru Madaupravinte Katha; Thimingalam; Kodugal Illatha Kolam; Pudhiya Varavu; Villainpur Matha; 1984: Ningalil Oru Stree; Poomadathu Pennu; Vellom; Vikatakavi; 1985: Ee Thalamura Inganna; Kochuthemmadi; Shri Narayana Guru; Chidambaram; 1987: Ivide Ellavarkkum Sukham; Thoranam; 1988: Innale yude Baaki; 1989: Utsavapittennu; Thangachi Kalyanam.

Devare, Narayan Gopinath (1899-1954)

Bombay-based cinematographer and director of the silent period; born in Bombay. Son of the court photographer Gopinath Devare. Studied photography and cinematography in Europe (1918-20); returned to India (1921) and worked briefly in his father's studio before joining Kohinoor as a technician in the early 20s, where he worked with his cousin Gajanan Shyamrao Devare, also a cameraman and director. N.G. Devare has been credited with directing films he shot for Kanjibhai Rathod and Homi Master. He also shot Telephone Ni Taruni (1926), pioneering location shooting at the Grant Road Telephone Exchange in Bombay, and Bhaneli Bhamini and Gunsundari (both 1927). Turned director in 1927. Virtually ran Kohinoor when it became the employee-run Kohinoor U.A. (1928), establishing his own N.G. Devare Prod. in 1933, but the venture collapsed. Several filmmakers were apprenticed to him, e.g. the then-cameraman V.M. Vyas for Zakhmi Jigar and Jaswantlal for Ulfat-e-Mohammed. Recorded his version of this controversial period in Kohinoor's history and of the silent studios in the film Daily Mail. Co-directed a few Hindi and Marathi films in the late 30s and 40s with Homi Master (e.g. Punjab Lancers) and Sarpotdar (Sant Janaba). His cousin G.S. Devare had become a prominent cameraman with films such as Bhakta Vidur (1921), Kala Naag (1924), Fankdo Fituri and Lanka Ni Laadi (both 1925). As a director, G.S. Devare was associated with J.B.H. Wadia and later ran a film processing laboratory. The two Devares co-directed the Marathi film Raigad.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1927: Be Ghadi Mouj; Sati Madri; 1928: Naag Padmini; Tajayali Taruni; Bharmayalo Bharthar; Princess Rajba; 1929: Baghdad Nu Baharvatiyo; Zakhmi Jigar; Ulfat-e-Mohammed; Mumbaino Satodio; Nirdoshi Abla; 1930: Daily Mail; Baharvatiyo Ni Beti; 1931: Afghan Abla (all St); 1934: Sant Tulsidas; Neki Ka Taj; 1935: Rang Bhoomi; 1937: Punjab Lancers; 1938: Sant Janabai; 1939: Saguna Sarasa; 1940: Raigad; 1947: Ghar Ki Bahu.

Devi, Anjali (b. 1927)

Telugu/Tamil/Hindi actress born in Peddapuram, East Godavari Dist. as Anjali Kumari. Started on the Telugu stage aged 10 under her future husband, composer Adi Narayana Rao, who instructed her in music and dance. Also stage actress with the Young Men's Happy Club. Performed in plays like Srinivasa Kalyanam and Premavijayam and gave live dance shows. Film debut in C. Pullaiah's Gollabhama playing the vamp Mohini. Early roles continued the 'vamp' image (e.g. Balaramaiah's Balaraju, Keelugurram, R. Padmanabhan's Raksharekha, T.R. Sundaram's Sarvadhikari). These directors, and Raghavaiah, were associated with her early career, and her best-known screen image, e.g. in the famous Swapna Sundari playing a heavenly damsel descending to earth, followed by hits like Raghavaiah's Anarkali (which ran for 100 weeks) and Suvarna Sundari, T.R. Raghunath's Kanavane Kan Kanda Daivam and P. Neelakantan's Chakravarthi Thirumagal, which made her a top female Telugu and Tamil star for several years. Often acted with Telugu superstars A. Nageshwara Rao and NTR and, in Tamil, with MGR and Gemini Ganesh. Started Ashwini Pics in 1949 in partnership with A. Nageshwara Rao and Gopala Rao which in 1951 became Anjali Pics Studio, in partnership with her husband Adi Narayana Rao debuting with Prasad's Poongothai/Paradesi. In the 70s mainly played mother roles. Vice-president of the South Indian Film Chamber of Commerce (1950-51).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1947: Gollabhama; Mahatma Udhagar; 1948: Balaraju; Madalasa; Adithan Kanavu; 1949: Raksharekha; Keelugurram/Maya Kudhirai; Kanniyin Kathali; Mangayar Karasi; Mayavathi; 1950: Maya Rambha; Palletoori Pilla; Shri Lakshamma Katha; Swapna Sundari; Praja Rajyam; 1951: Srisahasam; Mayalamari/ Mayakkari; Nirdoshi/Niraparadhi; Tilottama/ Mayamalai; Sarvadhikari; Marmayogi/ Ek Tha Raja; 1952: Pedaraitu; 1953: Pakkinti Annayi; Poongothai/ Pardesi; Ladki; Shuk Rambha; 1954: Annadata; Ponnavaayal/ Bangaru Bhoomi; Rechukka; Sangham; Sorgavasa; Ratha Pasam; 1955: Anarkali; Jayasimha/ Jaisingh; Santosham/ Naya Admi; Vadinagari Gajulu; Kanavane Kan Kanda Daivam; Mudhal Thedi; Town Bus; 1956: Naga Panchami; Jayam Manade; Ilavelpu; Mathar Kula Manikam/ Charanadasai; Devata; 1957: Ustad; Peddarikal; Allavudeenum Arputha Vilakkum/ Allauddin Adbhuta

Deepam/ Alladdin Ka Chirag; Suvarna Sundari/ Manalane Mangayin Bhagyam; Sati Ansuya; Panduranga Mahatyam; Chakravarthi Thirumagal; 1958: Chenchulakshmi; Shobha; Raja Nandini; Aadapettanam; Bhuloka Rambha/ Bhuloka Rambhai/ Pareeksha; 1959: Pelli Sandadi/ Kalyana Penn; Jayabheri; Balanagamma; Naan Sollum Rahasiyam; Kalaivanar; Pachai Malai Kurathi; 1960: Kuladaivam; Rani Ratnaprabha; Bhatti Vikramarka; Runanubandham; Adutha Veetu Penn; Advantha Daivam; Engal Selvi; Mannathai Mannan; 1961: Shanta; Sati Sulochana; Bhakta Jayadeva; Saugandh; Pachani Samsaram; Pankalikal; 1962: Bhishma; Swarnamanjari/ Mangayir; Ullam Mangada Selvam; Naag Devata; 1963: Lavakusa; Paruvu Pratishtalu; Raj Maha; 1964: Varasatwam; En Kadamai; Sati Savitri; Phoolon Ki Sej; 1965: Poomalai; Ennathan Mudivu; Sati Sakkubai; 1966: Palnati Yuddham; Chilaka-Gorinka; Bhakta Potana; Hantakulostunnaru Jagratha; Shri Krishna Tulabharam; Dr Anand; Rangula Ratnam; 1967: Bhakta Prahlada; Chadarangam; Kambojaraju Katha; Nirdoshi; Private Master; Rahasyam; Sati Sumati; Stree Janma; Vasantsena; 1968: Lakshminivasam; Challani Needa; Kumkumabharina; Mana Samsaram; Sati Arundhati; Veeranjanya; 1969: Adarsha Kutumbam; Shri Rama Katha; Bhale Mastaru; Bandhipotu Bhimanna; 1970: Amma Kosam; Desamante Manushulo; Agni Pareeksha; Raithe Raju; 1971: Suputhrudu; Bangaru Kutumbam; Pagabattina Paduchur; Kalyana Mandapam; Vikramarka Vijayam; Raitu Kutumbam; 1972: Mathru Murthi; Vamsodharakudu; Manchi Roju Lostai; Kodalu Pilla; Vichitra Bandham; Maa Inti Velugu; Badi Panthulu; Kalam Marindi; Vooriki Upakari; Tata Manavadu; Shanti Nilayam; Bava Diddina Kapuram; Akka Tammudu; Bala Bharatam; 1973: Kanna Koduku; Talli Kodukulu; Nindu Kutumbam; Sreevaru Maavaru; Bhakta Tukaram; Minor Babu; Mayadari Malligadu; Abhimanavanthulu; Vakkuruthi; 1974: Intinti Katha; Manchi Manushulu; Deeksha; Peddalu Marali; Manushilo Devudu; Uttama Illalu; Krishnaveni; Chakravakam; Palle Paduchur; Urmai Kural; 1975: Gunavanthudu; Raktha Sambandhalu; Challani Talli; Gajula Kishthayya; Soggadu; Pichimaraju; 1976: Monagadu; Vadhu Varulu; Mahakavi Kshetrayya; Magaadu; Devude Gelichadu; Raja; 1977: Kurukshetramu; Sati Savitri; Seeta Rama Vanavasur; Ee Tharam Manishi; Bangaru Bommalu; Geetha Sangeetha; 1978: Allari Bullodu; Anna Dammula Savai; Ramakrishnulu; Dudubasavanna; Simha Baludu; Anukunnadhi Sadhishta; Angadi Bomma; K.D. No. 1; Kannavari Illu; Simha Garjana; 1979: Shri Tirupati Venkateswara Kalyanam; Amma Evarikaina Amma; Judagadu; Tiger; Sangham Chekkina Silpalu; Annai Oru Alayam; Mande Gundelu; 1980: Adrushatavandhudu; Devudichina Koduku; Shri Venkateshwara Vrata Mahatyam; Bhale Krishnudu; Chandi Priya; Ram Robert Rahim; Shri Vasavi Kannika Parameshwari Mahatyam; 1981: Guru Shishyulu; Puli Biddu; Jeevitha Ratham; Bhogimanthulu; 1982:

Swayamvaram; 1983: Amayukudu Kadhu Asadhyudu; Lanke Bindelu; Poratham; 1984: Pozhudu Vidinachur; Dongalu Baboi Dongalu; 1985: Atmabalam; Kutumba Bandham; Shri Shirdi Saibaba Mahatyam; Surya Chandra; Mangalya Balam; 1989: Krishnagari Abbayi; Chinnari Sneham; Ashoka Chakravarthi; 1992: Brindavanamu; 1993: Anna Vadina;

Devi, Arundhati (1923-90)

Aka Arundhati Mukherjee (when married to film-maker Prabhat Mukherjee). Bengali actress, director and musician born in Barisal (now Bangladesh). Studied music at Shantiniketan, and acted as a child aged 6 in several Tagore plays directed by the poet himself (Dakghar; Mayar Khela; Tasher Desh et al.). Promising singer of the Rabintra Sangeet, trained by Sailajaranjan Majumdar; also featured in the stage production of Tagore's Balmiki Pratibha (1943). Film debut as actress in Kartick Chattopadhyay's travelogue Mahaprasthan Pathey/ Yatrik. As an actress, her poised self-assertiveness was often used to exemplify the 'strong-willed' characteristics of e.g. Bankimchandra Chattopadhyay's 'nobina' or 'new woman', e.g. playing the hero's wife in Jotugriha. Best-known screen role: Bhagini Nivedita, a nationalist biopic about Sister Nivedita. The film used the actress's bhadralok image to convert its subject into a chaste Hinduised martyr. Turned director with Chhuti; directed, scripted and scored films from well-known literary works. Her last film, Gokul was a TV featurette. Became an independent producer with her Anindiya Chitra (1969). Later married Tapan Sinha and acted in several of his films, e.g. Kshudista Pashan; Jhinder Bandi and Jotugriha; also costume designer for Sinha's Adalat-o-Ekti Meye.

FILMOGRAPHY: (* only d/ also music d)
1952: Mahaprasthan Pathey/ Yatrik;
1954: Naad-o-Nadi; Sati; Bokul/ Bakul; Shoroshi; 1955: Prashna; Godhuli; Dashyumohan; Du-Janay; 1956: Taka-Ana-Pai; Chalacha; Maa; Nabajanma; 1957: Mamata; Panchatapa; 1958: Shikar; Kalamati; 1959: Janmantar; Bicharak; Shashi Babur Sansar; Pushpadhanu; Kichhukshar; 1960: Akash-Patal; Kshudista Pashan; Indradhanu; 1961: Jhinder Bandi; 1962: *Bhagini Nivedita; Shiulibari; 1963: Nyayadanda; 1964: Jotugriha; 1965: Surer Agur; 1967: *Chhuti; 1969: *Megh-o-Roudra; 1972: *Padi Pishir Barmi Baksha; 1975: Harmonium; 1983: *Deepar Prem; 1985: *Gokul.

Devi, B. Saroja (b. 1945)

Top 60s star in Tamil, Telugu and Kannada cinemas. Associated mainly with sentimental melodrama. Also worked in several Hindi films. Early career in mythologicals after she was spotted by Honnappa Bhagavathar who cast her in Mahakavi Kalidasa. Telugu debut with NTR in the National Art Theatres' mythological, K. Kameshwara Rao's Panduranga Mahatyam; later acted with NTR in several Yamadharma Raju, 1991: Alludu Diddina Kapuram; 1992: Apathbandhavudu; 1993: Paramparyam; 1994: Mahashakti Maye; 1995: Puttmalli.

Devi, Chhaya (b. 1914)

Bengali actress, born in Bhagalpur; her family was associated with the performing arts. Related to Hindi star Ashok Kumar. Early lessons in classical Hindustani music from Bundi Ustad and in Calcutta from K.C. Dey who introduced her in Debaki Bose films. First lead role in Sonar Sansar. Achieved a national reputation as Rani Lakshmbai in Bidyapati. Performed on AIR as a singer. Her demure but seductive style managed to convey sexually charged messages through devotional gestures. Early films mainly with Jyotish Bannerjee. Often formed a screen pair with Chhabi Biswas. Later developed a formidable actorial presence, notably in Tapan Sinha films (Nirjan Saikate, Hatey Bazarey, Apanjan) and Arundhati Devi's Padi Pishir Barmi Baksha. Acted in early Mrinal Sen (Raat Bhore, Abasheshe). Also sang in some films, e.g. Rikta, Amar Geeti, Harmonium.

B. Saroja Devi and Ajit in Opera House (1961)

other Telugu films. Became a superstar with the MGR Tamil hit Nadodi Mannan, after which she did many films with him, incl. a few in which she played the dominant role (e.g. Thayi Sollai Thatthathe). Acted in over 160 films in four languages. Was Chairperson of the Karnataka Film Development Corp. and the Kanteerava Studios, Bangalore. Her main directors include Panthulu (School Master, Ratnagiri Rahasya, Kittur Chanamma), K.V. Reddy and A. Bhimsingh.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1955: Mahakavi Kalidasa; Ashadabhooti; Shrirama Pooja; 1956: Kacha Devyani; Kokilavani; Pancharathna; 1957: Chintamani; Ratnagiri Rahasya/Tangamalai Rahasyam; Manalane Mangayin Bhagyam; Panduranga Mahatyam; 1958: Illarame Nallaram; Manamulla Maratharam; Nadodi Mannan; Shabash Meena; Sengottai Singam; Thedi Vantha Selvam; Thirumanam; Bhukailasa; Bhuloka Rambha/Pareeksha; Anna Thangi; School Master/Badi Panthulu; 1959: Jagajyothi Basaveshwara; Paigham; Pelli Sandadi/Kalyana Penn; Bhagapirivanai; Kalyana Parisu; Kudivazhanthal Kodi Nanmai; Ore Velaiyadu Papa; President Panchatcharam; Vazha Vaitha Daivam; 1960: Ellorum Innattu Mannar; Irumputhirai; Kairasi; Parthiban Kanavu; Vidiveli; Yanai Pagan; Pelli Kanuka; Bhakti Mahima; 1961: Seeta Rama Kalyanam; Intiki Deepam Illale; Jagadeka Veeruni Katha/Jagathala Prathapan; Mahout; Opera House; Sasural; Kittur Chanamma/Rani Chanamma; Vijayanagarada Veeraputra; Palum Pazhamun; Panithirai; Thyai Sollai Thatthathe; Thirudathe; Krishna Kuchela; 1962: Adiperaku; Alayamani; Kudumba Thalavar; Madappura; Pasam; Parthal Pasi Theerum; Thayai Katha Thanayan; Valar Pirai; Devasundari; Hong Kong; Shri Krishnarjuna Yuddham; 1963: Pyar Kiya To Darna Kya; Manchi Chedu;

Iruvar Ullam; Kalyanin Kanavar; Kulamangal Radhai; Needukkupin Pasam; Panathottam; Periya Idathu Penn; 1964: Daivathai; En Kadamai; Padakotti; Panakara Kudumbam; Pasamum Nesamun; Pudhiya Paravai; Thayin Madiyil; Vazhkai Vazhvaradarke; Atmabalam; Dagudu Moothulu; Beti Bete; Dooj Ka Chand; Amarashilpi Jakanachari/Amarashilpi Jakanna; 1965: Prameelarjuneyam; Beretha Jeeva; Todu Needa; Asai Mukham; Enga Veetu Pillai; Kalankari Vilakkam; 1966: Anbe Vaa; Nadodi; Naan Anaittal; Parakkum Pava; Petral Than Pillayya; Thali Bhagyam; Shakuntala; Preet Na Jane Reet; 1967: Arasa Kattali; Penn Entral Penn; 1968: En Thambi; Panama Pasama; Thamarai Nenjam; Umachandi Gauri Shankarula Katha; Arunodaya/ Arunodhayam; 1969: Mallammanna Pavada; Anbalipu; Thanga Malar; Odum Nadi; Anjal Petty 520; Kulavilakku; Aindhu Laksham; 1970: Kanmalar; Sinehithi; Malathi; Lakshmi Saraswati; Vijayam Mande; Mayani Mamata; 1971: Purnima; Papa Punya; Thande Makkalu; Nyayave Devaru; Shri Krishna Rukmini Satyabhama; Thenum Palum; Uyir; 1972: Shakti Leela; Hari Darshan; Pandanti Kapuram; Mathru Murthi; 1973: Sahadharmini; 1974: Pathumatha Bandham; Chamundeswari Mahime; Gruhini; Shri Srinivasa Kalyana; Manushilo Devudu; Shri Ramanjaneya Yuddham; 1975: Gunavanthudu; Bhagya Jyothi; Katha Sangama; 1976: Chiranjeevi; 1977: Daana Veera Shura Karni; Seetarama Vanavasur; Babruvahana; Bhagyavantharu; Shri Renukadevi Mahatme; Shani Prabhava; 1978: Parsuraman; 1980: Guru Sarvabhowma Shri Raghavendra Karune; 1981: Nammina Thyai Annamma; 1984: Guru Bhakti; Yarivanu?; Rudranaga; 1985: Thayi Thande; 1988: Poovukkul Pookambalam; Ladies' Hostel; 1989: Ponmana Selvan; Ore Thyai Ore Kulam; Dharma Devan; Guru; 1990: Bhale Chatura;

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1936: Pather Sheshey; Sonar Sansar/Sunehra Sansar; Prabas Milan; Chino Haar; 1937: Ranga Bou; Bidyapati/Vidyapati; 1938: Bekar Nashan; Halbangala; Khana; 1939: Tumhari Jeet; Janak Nandini; Debjani; Rikta; Vaman Avatar; Jakher Dhan; 1940: Abhinetri/Haar Jeet; Swami Stri; Amar Geeti; 1941: Banglar Meye; 1942: Chowringhee; Pativrata; Avayer Biye; Mera Gaon; 1943: Shri Ramanuja; Samadhan; 1944: Bideshini; Samaj; 1945: Stree Durga; Bondita; 1946: Uttara Abhimanyu; 1947: Jharer Parey; Burmar Pathey; 1948: Anirbar; Bish Bichar Agey; Dhatri Debata; Mahakal; 1949: Abhijatya; Abhimaan; 1950: Indranath; Apabaad; Sati Simantini; Mahasampad; 1951: Ratnadeep/Ratnadeepam; 1953: Chirantani; 1954: Maa-o-Chhele; 1955: Sanjher Pradeep; Bratacharini; Era Bator Sur; 1956: Raat Bhore; Saheb Bibi Golam; Sadhana; He Maha Manab; Shankar Narayan Bank; Trijama; Rajpath; Daner Maryada; Shubha Laguna; 1957: Bardidi; Shesh Parichaya; 1958: Bagha Jatir; Marmabani; 1959: Shri Radha; Gali Theke Rajpath; Bhranti; Shubha Bibaha; 1960: Saharer Itikatha; 1961: Manik; Sadhak Kamalakanta; Agni Sanskar; Swayambara; Pankatilik; Saptapadi; 1962: Bipasha; Kancher Swarga; Atal Jaler Ahwan; Dada Thakur; Abasheshe; 1963: Nisithe; Saat Pake Bandha; Nirjan Saikate; Shesh Parhar; Uttar Falguni; Deya Neyi; Kanchan Kanya; Barnali; 1964: Bibhas; Natun Tirtha; Arohi; 1965: Thana Theke Aschhi; Antara; Raja Rammohun; Surya Tapa; Mukhujey Paribar; Eki Ange Eto Rup; Tu Hi Meri Zindagi; 1966: Galpa Holeo Satti; Harano Prem; Kanch Kata Hirey; Manihar; Pagal Thakur; Mamata; 1967: Akash Chhoan; Ajana Shapath; Antony Firingee; Hatey Bazarey; Kedar Raja; Mahashweta; 1968: Apanjan; Baghini; Charan Kabi Mukundadas; Neel Kamal; 1969: Andhar Surya; Arogyaniketan; Balak Gadadhar; Chena Acheni; Maa-o-Meye; Mon-

Niye; Parineeta; Pita Putra; Protidan; Sabarmati; 1970: Kalankita Nayak; Muktisnar; Pratham Kadam Phool; Duti Morr; Megh Kalo; Rajkumari; 1971: Kuheli; 1972: Padi Pishir Barmi Baksha; Shesh Parba; Zindagi Zindagi; Haar Mana Haar; 1973: Roudra Chhaya; Shesh Pristhay Dekhun; 1974: Alor Thikana; Debi Choudhrani; Sujata; 1975: Chhoto Nayak; Harmonium; Kajal Lata; Nagar Darpane; Harano Prapti Niruddesh; Swayamsiddha; Sei Chokh; Phool Sajya; 1976: Ek Je Chhilo Desh; Pratisrutu; Rajbansha; Mom Batti; 1977: Brajabuli; Babu Moshai; Ae Prithibi Pantha Niwas; Jaal Sanyasi; Pratima; Proxy; Alaap; 1978: Dhanraj Tamang; Maan Abhimar; Nadi Theke Sagare; Singhdwar; Karunamayi; Pronoy Pasha; 1979: Arun Barun-o-Kiranmala; Nabadiganta; Mother; Samadhar; 1980: Aro Ekjar; Raj Nandini; Pipasa; Bandhan; 1981: Surya Sakhi; Faisla; Samarpan; Manikchand; Nyay Anyay; Subarnalata; Kalankini; 1982: Raj Bodhu; Bandini Kamala; Simanta Raag; Agradani; 1983: Chena Achena; Rang Birangi; Prayashchitta; Deepar Prem; Srinkhal; 1984: Didi; Lal Golap; Rashifa; 1985: Hulusthul; Kenaram Becharam; 1987: Apan Ghare; Pratikar; Swarnamoir Thikana; 1988: Boba Sanai; 1993: Tomar Rakte Amar Sohag.

Devi, Kanan (1916-92)

Actress and singer; started with the name Kananbala. Début as child actress in Joydev. Later contracted to Radha Films where she acted in Jyotish Bannerjee films (e.g. Manmoyee Girls' School). P.C. Barua was unable to obtain her for the role of Paro in Devdas (1935) but she played the lead in his next film, Mukti, which made her a star and launched her long association with New Theatres. The success of Bidyapati, esp. her duets with K.C. Dey, made her the top star of this studio 1937-40. An untrained singer when she entered films, she later studied briefly with Ustad Allah Rakha at Lucknow. Employed as singer at Megaphone Gramophone receiving further training from Bishmadev Chatterjee, possibly responsible for her distinctive Bengali style. Later learnt Rabindra Sangeet with Anadi Dastidar. She considered Rai Chand Boral to be her real teacher. One of the few New Theatres lead players not to have a stage background, her impact on Bengali film paralleled Shanta Apte's on Marathi cinema, departing from proscenium frontality and privileging synchronous speech. Her singing style, usually in rapid tempo, is still identified with some of the biggest studio era hits (esp. Bidyapati, Street Singer, Sapurey). Resigned from New Theatres (1941) and freelanced in Bengali and Hindi films. Turned producer with Shrimati Pics (1949); later launched the Sabhyasachi collective with the film Ananya (cf. Ajoy Kar). Wrote an autobiography, Sabare Ami Nomi (1973). The Marxist economist and noted columnist Ashok Mitra took her as an example to comment on the élitism of pre-Independence Calcutta society in his 'Calcutta Diary' (Economic and Political Weekly, 1-8 August 1992), describing her 'Eliza Doolittle' transformation from the illegitimate Kananbala into the glamorous Kanan Devi, stardom and her first marriage to the brother-in-law of the economist Prasanta Chandra Mahalanobis making her a member of Calcutta's cultural élite.

♣️ FILMOGRAPHY: 1926: Joydev (St); 1931: Jore Barat; Rishir; Prem; 1932: Vishnu Maya; 1933: Char Darvesh; Shri Gouranga/Shri Gouranga Leela; 1934: Maa; 1935: Basabdatta; Manmoyee Girls' School; Kanthahaar; 1936: Krishna Sudama; Khooni Kaur; Bishabriksha; 1937: Mukti; Bidyapati/ Vidyapati; 1938: Street Singer/ Saathi; 1939: Sapurey/ Sapera; Jawani Ki Reet/ Parajay; 1940: Abhinetri/ Haar Jeet; 1941: Parichay/ Lagar; 1942: Shesh Uttar/ Jawab; 1943: Jogajog/ Hospital; 1944: Bideshini; 1945: Banphool; Raj Lakshmi; Path Bendhe Dilo; 1946: Arabian Nights; Krishna Leela; Tumi Aar Ami/ Tum Aur Mair; 1947: Faisla; Chandrasekhar; 1948: Anirban; Bankalekha; 1949: Ananya; Anuradha; 1950: Mejdidi; 1951: Darpachurna; 1954: Nababidhan; 1955: Devatra; 1956: Asha; 1959: Indranath Srikanta-o-Annadadidi.

Devi, Saraswati (1912-80)

Music director born as Khursheed Manchershah Minocher-Homji. Student of V.N. Bhatkhande's music school, Sharada Sangeet Vidyalyaya. Specialised in Dhrupad and Dhamar music. Ran popular late 20s orchestra group, Homji Sisters, performing on Indian Broadcasting Company, Bombay, where she sang to the accompaniment of sitar, mandolin, dilruba and organ. These instruments also feature prominently in her film compositions. Associated mainly with Bombay Talkies. In her first film she refused to appear as a singer, dubbing her elder sister Manek instead. Her major achievement was probably to persuade star Devika Rani to sing. Several of her best-known songs, rendered in film by amateur singers Ashok Kumar and Rani, succeeded because of their nursery rhyme simplicity (e.g. Main ban ka panchi in Achhut Kanya, Chali re meri nao in Jhoola). Worked briefly with Sohrab Modi after leaving Bombay Talkies. Also scored Jaswantal's hit musical Amrapali. Collaborated at times with Ramchandra Pal on music.

♣️ FILMOGRAPHY: 1935: Jawani Ki Hawa; 1936: Achhut Kanya; Janmabhoomi; Jeevan Naiya; Mamata; Miya Bibi; 1937: Izzat; Jeevan Prabhat; Prem Kahani; Savitri; Nirmala; 1938: Bhabhi; Vachar; 1939: Durga; Kangan; Navjeevan; 1940: Azad; Bandhan; Punar Milan; 1941: Jhoola; Naya Sansar; 1943: Bhakta Raidas; Prarthana; Prithvi Vallabh; 1944: Dr Kumar; Parakh; 1945: Amrapali; 1946: Maharani Meenal Devi; 1947: Khandani; 1948: Naqli Heera; 1949: Usha Haran; 1950: Kunwara Pati; 1961: Babasa Ri Laadi.

Devi, Seeta (b. 1912)

Stage name of actress Renee Smith. Became a star as the exotic Oriental in Himansu Rai's Prem Sanyas. Played the 'other woman' in Shiraz and the heroine in Prapancha Pash. Thereafter worked with Priyanath Ganguly and Madan Theatres films. Also worked with Niranjan Pal and Naval Gandhi. The silent cinema scholar Virchand Dharamsey suggests that both Renee Smith and her sister Percy Smith may have appeared as 'Seeta Devi'.

♣️ FILMOGRAPHY: 1925: Prem Sanyas; 1926: Krishnakanter Will; 1927: Durgesh Nandini; 1928: Sarala; Shiraz; The Loves of a Mughal Prince; 1929: Kapal Kundala; Prapancha Pash; 1930: Naseeb Ni Balihari; Kal Parinaya; Bharat Ramani; 1931: Kashmir Nu Gulab (all St); 1932: Shikari.

Devi, Sitara (b. 1919)

Actress born in Calcutta. One of the foremost exponents of classical Kathak dance, with notable appearances as a dancer in early Mehboob films. Daughter of Sukhdev Maharaj of Benares, former court musician at Nepal, she was trained by her father and by Achan Maharaj at the palace of the Rajah of Mymensingh and later by Kathak maestros Shambhu and Lachhu Maharaj. Entered films as a child actress at Sagar where she first worked with Mehboob, with whom she later did her best-known films. Turned lead player with his Watan. Salaried artist at Ranjit Studio, working with Chandul Shah (Achhut) and on some famous films by Kardar (Holi, Pagal, Pooja). Her amazingly lively performance as a 'tribal' practising primitive communism and Anil Biswas' music were responsible for the successful use of the parable form in Roti. Married K. Asif and acted in his Phool.

♣️ FILMOGRAPHY: 1931: Digvijay (St); 1933: Aurat Ka Dil; 1934: Anokhi Mohabbat; Shaher Ka Jadoo; Vasantsena; 1935: Azad Abli; Judgement of Allah; Vengeance is Mine; Registan Ki Rani; 1936: Grihadah/ Manzil; Prem Bandhan; Zan Mureed; 1937: Begunah; Calcutta after Midnight; Jeevan Swapna; Kokila; Mahageet; 1938: Baghban; Professor Waman M.Sc.; Watan; 1939: Meri Aankhen; Nadi Kinare; Pati Patni; 1940: Achhut; Aaj Ka Hindustan; Haiwan; Holi; Pooja; Pagal; Zindagi; 1941: Swami; 1942: Dhiraj, Dukh

Sitara Devi in Hulchul (1951)

Sukh, Kalyug, Roti, Society, 1943: Aabroo, Andhera; Bhalai; Chhed Chhad; Najma; Salma; 1944: Chand; Dr Kumar; Phool; 1945: Badi Maa; Parinde; 1947: Amar Asha; 1949: Lekh; 1950: Bijli; 1951: Hulchul; 1957: Anjali.

Devika Rani see Rani Choudhury, Devika

Dey, Krishna Chandra (1893-1962)

Music director and actor born in Calcutta, mostly credited as K.C. Dey. Blind from age of 14. Taking advantage of e.g. the 19th C. playwright Girish Ghosh's use of blind and mad characters as a kind of chorus, following a convention in Bengali Jatra theatre, Dey often played an itinerant blind singer in New Theatres films (e.g. Chandidas, Bidyapati, Devdas). He was trained in classical music but was considered mainly a master of the keertan form. Major stage reputation with Sisir Bhaduri, with whom he first appeared in 1924 in Basanta Leela (role of Basant-doot or the Herald of Spring) and Seeta (as Baitalik). Partner in Rungmahal Theatre with actor Rabindra Mohan Roy (1931-41) where he scored several plays such as Bhaduri's Shri Shri Vishnupriya (1932). Early films include A.R. Kardar's productions at East India Film. Worked in several Hindi films in Bombay as actor and music composer. Hit solos in Devdas, Bidyapati and Dhoop Chhaon rank as all-time favourites. Nephew is playback singer Manna Dey.

FILMOGRAPHY (* act only/ also act):
1932: Chandidas*; 1933: Nala Damayanti; Puran Bhakt; Sabitri; Abe Hayat, 1934: Kismet Ki Kasauti*; Seeta*; Chandragupta; Shaher Ka Jadoo*; Grihalakshmi; 1935: Inquilab; Devdas; Dhoop Chhaon/Bhagya Chakra; Bijoya; Biraha; Bidrohi; Bidasundar; Prafulla; 1936: Sonar Sansar/Sunehra Sansar; Paraparey; Maya; Pujarin; Grihadah/Manzil; 1937: Ambikapathy; Bidyapati/Vidyapati; Milap; Ranga Bou; 1938: Desher Mati/Dharti Mata; 1939: Sapurey/Sapera; Sharmistha; Chanakya*; 1940: Alohchaya/Aandhi*; 1942: Mera Gaon*; Tamanna; Meenakshi; Nari; 1943: Andhera; Mohabbat; Badalti Duniya*; 1944: Suno Sunata Hoor*; Insaan; 1945: Devadas*; 1946: Insaar; Shravan Kumar; Door Chalein*; 1948: Anirban; 1953: Raakhi*; 1957: Madhu Malati; Ektara.

Dey, Nirmal (b. 1913)

Bengali director born in Mymensingh (now Bangladesh). Graduate in fine arts. Published short fiction in the 30s. Assisted Bimal Roy at New Theatres as cameraman, later sharing joint screenplay credit with him for Udayer Pathy (1944). Turned director when Murlidhar Chatterjee of MP Prod. persuaded him to give up his self-imposed retirement at Shantiniketan to make Basu Parivar. Debuted with the unfinished but important Bedeni based on a Tarashankar Bannerjee story (Ghatak took it over for a while before it was abandoned). His Sharey Chuattar launched the screen duo of Uttam Kumar and Suchitra Sen, followed by Champadangar Bou and a string of successes. Satyajit Ray rated Sharey Chuattar among the most important early Bengali sound films, regarding the director as the first genuine purveyor of Bengali social comedies. His formal training in the visual arts, literature and photography often yielded dexterous combinations of witty dialogue, inventive acting and a fluid narrative style that rarely resorted to middle-class sentimentalism while evoking, with a sense of self-mockery, its manners and conversational culture. Despite their success, Dey made only a few more films, scripting other film-makers's work instead, including Gurudas Bagchi's Samanaral (1970).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1952: Bedeni (incomplete); Basu Parivar; 1953: Sharey Chuattar; 1954: Champadangar Bou; 1955: Du-Janay; 1959: Nirdharita Silpir Anupastithi Tey.

Dhaiber, Keshavrao (1890-1978)

Marathi and Hindi director, cameraman and actor born in Kurukali, Kolhapur. After a brief military career as a Lancer and employment as a tax inspector, befriended Baburao Painter and joined Maharashtra Films as a technician in Painter's Sinhagad (1923). Apprenticed to Damle, co-directed Shantaram's directorial debut Netaji Palkar (1927) and was cameraman for many Shantaram classics. Joined the breakaway Prabhat Film in 1929 as cameraman, e.g. Sinhagad, in which he also acted, and, also in 1933, a colour version of Sairandhri. His best-known Prabhat film is Rajput Ramani, although he remained the least successful of the studio's regular film-makers. Married the actress Nalini Tarkhad and briefly had his own Jayshri Films (1935) before joining Minerva Movietone as a director (e.g. Akrava Avatar, Ulti Ganga) before rejoining Prabhat as production supervisor (1943-6). Then worked at Famous Studios (1946-7). Tried to start a new independent company at Lucknow, but the business soon collapsed. Made some documentaries, e.g. of the coronation of the Maharaja of Baroda (1940) and assignments for the Maharashtra and Gujarati state governments. Published an autobiography, Eka Zindagichi Patkatha (1967).

FILMOGRAPHY (* act only/ also act):
1925: Savkari Pash*; 1927: Netaji Palkar (co-d V. Shantaram); 1929: Baji Prabhu Deshpande; 1930: Khooni Kharjar, Rani Saheba* (co-d V. Shantaram); Udaykal (co-d V. Shantaram); 1931: Zulm (all St); 1933: Sinhagad; 1936: Rajput Ramani; 1938: Nandakumar; 1939: Akrava Avatar*; 1942: Ulti Ganga; 1943: Bhakta Raidas; 1949: Ahimsapath; 1958: Sudamyache Pohe.

Dharmadhikari, Dattatreya Jagannath (1913-82)

Marathi and Hindi producer-director born in Kolhapur. Doorkeeper at Prabhat (1934), then bit player (1936) and assistant to K. Narayan

Kale (Mazha Mulga, 1938), Damle and Fattelal, and V. Shantaram. One of the younger cineastes (e.g. Raja Nene, editor Anant Mane, scenarist Shantaram Athavale and musician Keshavrao Bhole) who left Prabhat (1944) to work collectively in Bombay. Assisted Raja Nene at Mohan Studios, then at Balasaheb Pathak's Manik Studios. Made first film for Raja Nene's company, probably co-directed by Nene. Launched Alhaad Chitra (1951-4) which revitalised the Marathi cinema converting the social into very successful stage-inspired weepies (e.g. Chimni Pakhare/Nannhe Munne, Stree Janma Hi Tujhi Kahani), often ending with funerals. This style was continued by e.g. Anant Mane, Datta Mane and Datta Keshav (all from Alhaad Chitra), grafting Hindi All-India film norms on to Marathi cinema. Also worked in Hindi for Homi Wadia's Basant Studio and at Filmistan. Appeared as actor in Sant Dnyaneshwar (1940). His son Alhaad Dattatreya Dharmadhikari, aka Master Alhaad (b. 1947) became a noted child actor in Hindi and Marathi films.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1947: Shadi Se Pehle; 1949: Maya Bazaar; Bala Jo Jo Re; 1951: Kunkvacha Dhani; 1952: Akher Jamla; Chimni Pakhare/Nannhe Munne; Stree Janma Hi Tujhi Kahani; 1953: Bhagyavaan; Saubhagya; Mahatma; 1954: Savdhar; 1956: Sudarshan Chakra; 1957: Aliya Bhogasi; 1959: Deep Jalta Rahe; Pativrata; 1961: Ek Dhaga Sukhacha; Kalanka Shobha; 1962: Kshan Aala Bhagyacha; Saptapadi; Vithu Mazha Lekurvala; 1963: Subhadra Haran; 1964: Vaishakh Vanava; 1967: Thamb Lakshmi Kunku Lavte; 1969: Saticha Vaan; Mujhe Seene Se Laga Lo; 1973: Nasti Uthathev; 1975: Bhakta Pundalik; 1978: Dhakti Mehuni; 1980: Satichi Punyayi.

Dharmaraj, Rabindra (1949-82)

Documentarist and Hindi director. Former journalist (e.g. Vietnam War from US perspective) and radio newsreader whose 'BBC voice' was later used extensively for strident commentaries by Films Division productions. Joined Pentecostal Church. Moved to Bombay (1971) and assisted Fali Bilimoria, Benegal et al. Did short course in film and video in California. Bombay-based executive in advertising agencies Lintas and Hindustan Thompson (as film-maker). Died soon after the first screening of his only feature, Chakra.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1971: Crisis on the Campus (Sh); 1974: No Tree Grows (Sh); 1976: Indian Airlines ... Pride of India (Sh); 1980: Chakra.

Dharma Rao, Tapi (1887-1973)

Telugu scenarist-lyricist, poet, journalist and literary critic born in Behrampur. Influenced as a student by the historian Gidugu Ramamurthy Panthulu, who advocated a vyavaharika (or demotic) Telugu. Was personal secretary to the Rajah of Bobbili, a Justice Party ideologue for the interests of the zamindar class and Chief Minister of Madras Presidency in the early 1930s. Pursued the notion of a people's language in his poetry (esp. in Dyayonam, Bhikshapatram, Andhra Tejam) and in plays like Vilasarjunam, Taptashrukanam and Avanni Kannellena. Wrote essays on historical and cultural issues, e.g. in journals like Samadarshini and Janavani, later collected in his Kottapali Onamalu Sahitya Mormaralu. Worked on films by Ramabrahmam (Malapilla, 1938; Raitu Bidda, 1939). Wrote scripts and lyrics for e.g. L.V. Prasad's Drohi (1948), B.A. Subba Rao's Palletoori Pilla (1950) and K.S. Prakash Rao's Deeksha (1951). A major advocate of a separate state for Telugu-speaking people prior to the formation of Andhra Pradesh. Wrote c.40 scripts and several very popular lyrics. Father of film director Tapi Chanakya.

Dharmendra Deol (b. 1935)

Actor born in Phagwara, Punjab. Former mechanic in a factory. Top Hindi star for three decades. Created an influential image as a markedly North Indian, even specifically Punjabi macho man devoted to his mother and committed to upholding the honour of the family or of the village. Since the mid-70s, after Bachchan's impact, mainly in action films, occasionally using complicated gadgetry but always emphasising peasant simplicity and beating the villain in physical combat. Since mid-80s, notably in T. Rama Rao's films but also in other Madras-based Hindi productions, his presence is used mainly to ensure a film's nationwide distribution in a respectable economic category. His early 60s films, in sharp contrast to his current post-Sholay image, presented a secularised Hindustani version of Bengali literary stereotypes, launched by Bimal Roy's Bandini and continued in Hrishikesh Mukherjee's 60s socials (Anupama, Manjhli Didi, Satyakam) and in Phani Majumdar's Akashdeep. Early 70s work transposed this image into tales of existential suffering (Mohan Segal's Raja Jani) and into Mukherjee's whimsical comedies (Guddi, Chupke Chupke) made alongside Pramod Chakravarty and Arjun Hingorani thrillers and films like Vijay Anand's Blackmail. Currently promoting his son Sunny Deol (e.g. Sunny, Ghayal, 1990); best-known performances of the 90s in J.P. Dutta films.

Meena Kumari and Dharmendra in Purnima (1965)

1970: Ishq Par Zor Nahin, Jeevan Mrityu, Kab Kyon Aur Kahar, Man Ki Aankher; Mera Naam Joker, Sharafat, Tum Haseen Main Jawan; 1971: Guddi, Mera Gaon Mera Desh, Naya Zamana, Rakhwala; 1972: Do Chor, Lalkaar, Raja Jani, Seeta Aur Geeta, Samadhi, Jibar, Anokha Milar; 1973: Blackmail, Jheel Ke Us Paar, Jugnu, Jwar Bhata, Kahani Kismat Ki, Keemat, Loafer, Phagun; Yaadon Ki Baraat; 1974: Dost, International Crook, Kunwara Baap, Patthar Aur Payal, Pocketmaar, Resham Ki Dori, Do Sher; 1975: Teri Meri Ik Jindri, Apne Dushman, Chaitali, Chupke Chupke, Dhoti Lota Aur Chowpatti, Ek Mahal Ho Sapnon Ka, Kehte Hain Mujhko Raja, Pratigya, Saazish; Sholay; 1976: Charas, Maa; 1977: Chacha Bhatija, Do Sholay, Dream Girl, Khel Khiladi Ka, Chala Murari Hero Banne, Dharam Veer, Do Chehre, Tinku, Charandas, Kinara; Swami; 1978: Azad, Dillagi, Phandebaaz, Shalimar; 1979: Dil Ka Heera, The Gold Medal, Kartavya, Chunauti; 1980: Alibaba Aur Chalis Chor, Ram Balram, The Burning Train, Aas Paas; 1981: Qatilon Ke Qatil, Krodhi, Professor Pyarela, Khuda Kasam; Naseeb; 1982: Badle Ki Aag, Baghavat, Do Dishayen, Ghazab, Main Inteqam Loonga, Meharban, Rajput, Samrat, Teesri Aankh; 1983: Naukar Biwi Ka, Andha Kanon, Putt Jattan De, Jaani Dost, Qayamat, Razia Sultan; 1984: Dharam Aur Kanon, Jagir/Teen Murti, Jeene Nahin Doonga, Jhootha Sach, Raj Tilak, Sunny, Baazi; 1985: Ghulam, Karishma Kudrat Ka, Sitamgarh; 1986: Begana, Main Balwan, Mohabbat Ki Kasam, Savere Wali Gadi; Sultanat, Insaniyat Ke Dushman, Loha; 1987: Aag Hi Aag, Dadagiri, Hukumat, Insaaf Kaun Karega; Insaaf Ki Pukar, Jaan Hatheli Pe, Mard Ki Zabaar, Mera Karam Mera Dharam, Watan Ke Rakhwale; 1988: Khatron Ke Khiladi, Mardon Wali Baat, Soorma Bhopali, Zalzala, Mahaveera, Paap Ko Jalakar Raakh Kar Doonga, Ganga Tere Desh Mein, Sone Pe Suhaaga, Vardi, Aakhri Muqabala; Yateem; 1989: Kasam Suhaag Ki, Nafrat Ki Aandhi, Sachai Ki Taaqat, Batwara, Elaan-e-Jung, Sikka, Shehzade; Hathyar, Ilaaka; 1990: Pyar Ka Karz, Nakabandi, Humse Na Takrana, Veeru Dada, Sher Dil, Kanon Ki Zanjeer, Paap Ki Aandhi; 1991: Kaun Kare Qurban, Mast Kalandar, Dushman Devata, Farishte, Trinetra, Hamla, Kohraa; 1992: Virodhi, Zulm Ki Hukumat, Tahalka, Kal Ki Awaaz, Khule Aan, Kshatriya, Waqt Ka Badshah; 1993: Superman, Kundan, Aag Ka Toofan; 1994: Maha Shaktishali, Juari, Rakhwale; 1995: Maidan-e-Jung, Azmayish, Taaqat, Paapi Devata, Veer, Hum Sub Chor Hair, Fauji, Binani Hove To Isse.

Dixit, Madhuri (b. 1967)

Hindi actress born in Ratnagiri. The youngest of a Bombay engineer's four children. Mother was trained in classical music. As a biology student at the Parle College, Madhuri agreed to act in the Hindi film Abodh, which flopped. Also appeared in some episodes of a Doordarshan TV series, Bombay Meri Hai. Her breakthrough came with N. Chandra's Tezaab, in which she introduced a novel kind of sensuality, mainly via the song 'Ek do teen', choreographed by Saroj Khan. Her sensual dances, often exuding sexuality more overtly than had been the convention in Hindi films, ♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1955: Railway Platform; 1960: Dil Bhi Tera Hum Bhi Tere; 1961: Boy Friend, Shola Aur Shabnam; 1962: Anpadh, Shadi; 1963: Soorat Aur Seerat; Bandini, Begana; 1964: Aap Ki Parchhaiyan, Aayi Milan Ki Bela, Ganga Ki Lehren; Haqueeqat, Main Bhi Ladki Hoon, Mera Kasoor Kya Hai, Pooja Ke Phool; 1965: Akashdeep, Chand Aur Suraj, Kajak, Neela Akash, Purnima; 1966: Anupama, Aaye Din Bahar Ke, Baharen Phir Bhi Aayengi, Devar, Dil Ne Phir Yaad Kiya, Dulhan Ek Raat Ki, Mamata, Pari, Mohabbat Zindagi Hai, Phool Aur Patthar; 1967: Ghar Ka Chirag, Chandan Ka Palna, Jab Yaad Kisiki Aati Hai, Manjhli Didi; 1968: Aankher, Baazi, Baharon Ki Manzil, Izzat, Mere Humdum Mere Dost, Shikar; 1969: Soldier, Admi Aur Insaan, Aaya Sawan Jhoom Ke, Pyar Hi Pyar, Satyakam, Yakeen, Khamoshi; guaranteed mass appeal. Performed the suggestive 'Dhak dhak' song in Beta and her reputation culminated with the controversial 'Choli ke peeche' in S. Ghai's Khalnayak, which included the piquant question: 'What's beneath the blouse?' Considered by many as the leading female star of the 90s after she catapulted to mega-stardom following Hum Aapke Hain Koun...!, followed by Raja.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1984: Abodh; 1986: Swati; 1987: Hifazat; Uttar Dakshin; Mohre; 1988: Dayavan; Mahasangram; Khatron Ke Khiladi; Vardi; Tezaab; 1989: Ilaka; Mujrim; Paap Ka Ant; Parinda; Prem Pratigya; Tridev; Ram Lakhan; Kanoon Apna Apna; 1990: Diwana Mujhsa Nahin; Dil; Jamai Raja; Jeevan Ek Sangharsh; Izzatdar; Kishan Kanhaiya; Sailaab; Thanedar; Khilaaf; Pyar Ka Devata; 1991: 100 Days; Prahaar; Pratihar; Dharavi; Saajan; 1992: Beta; Sangeet; Zindagi Ek Jua; Prem Diwan; Khel; 1993: Khalnayak; Phool; Prem Pooja; Sahibar; Dil Tera Aashiq; Aansoo Bane Angarey; 1994: Anjaam; Hum Aapke Hain Koun...!; 1995: Raja; Paapi Devata; Yaarana.

DMK Film

Unique and extraordinarily influential type of propaganda cinema pioneered in Tamil Nadu by the Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (DMK). Histories of the DMK trace the party's ancestry to 19th C. reform literature in the erstwhile Madras Presidency, where writers like Subramanya Bharati (1882-1921; sometimes considered the greatest modern Tamil poet) extended their reformist politics to advocate a specifically Tamil nationalism. After the establishment of the Justice Party aka the South Indian Liberation Federation (Est: 1917), this nationalism retained a strongly anti-Aryan thrust in its claim to represent the indigenous cultures of South India, attempting e.g. to rewrite Indian history to trace the Tamil influence back to the Indus Valley civilisation. The Justice Party had a strategic alliance with the pro-imperialist landed élite but also advocated bourgeois-democratic reformism opposing e.g. caste oppression. The party broadened its base in Kerala and Andhra Pradesh, esp. when contesting the provincial elections after the Montagu-Chelmsford reforms (1919) on an anti-Brahmin platform. The Party was transformed in the post-WW2 era by one of the most influential politicians in 20th C. Tamil Nadu, Periyar E.V. Ramaswamy Naicker (1879-1973), a former Congress Party member who founded the Self-Respect Movement (1926), a social action group aimed at eradicating Untouchability and caste and advocating an atheist politics. According to Charles Ryerson, at that time the movement deployed five principles: no God, no religion, no Gandhi, no Congress and no Brahmins. In 1944, Periyar transformed the Justice Party into the separatist Dravidar Kazhagam (DK) and later called for India's first Independence Day in 1947 to be declared a day of mourning, since his demand for an independent Dravida Nadu or Tamil state remained unrealised. In 1949, his chief disciple, the playwright and scenarist C.N. Annadurai broke away to found the DMK. The DMK was elected to the TN state assembly in 1967, mainly on an anti-Hindi platform, repeating their victory in 1971 through a conditional alliance with Indira Gandhi's Congress. The DMK split once again when its most famous member, film star MGR, was expelled for indiscipline and launched the Anna-DMK (ADMK) in 1972, which later became the All-India Anna Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (AIADMK), winning power along with the Congress in 1977 and making MGR the Chief Minister. The DMK under Karunanidhi returned to power in 1988 after MGR died, but was dismissed by the Congress (I)-backed minority government in 1990 and then decimated in the 1991 elections following Rajiv Gandhi's assassination which brought into power MGR's former heroine Jayalalitha as the new AIADMK leader and Chief Minister. The DMK Film genre is the most spectacular of the party's propaganda fronts and helped make five film personalities Chief Ministers (Annadurai, Karunanidhi, MGR, his wife and former star V.N. Janaki, and Jayalalitha) since 1967. Annadurai launched the genre adapting his own play Velaikkari to the screen, followed by his script for Nallathambi (both 1949). The films, esp. Nallathambi, were major hits and spawned many more as the party decided to use film as its main propaganda medium with writers like A.V.P. Asaithambi (dialogue for T.R. Sundaram's Sarvadhikari, 1951), A.K. Velan and the DMK poet Kannadasan who also produced the propaganda hit Sivagangai Seemai (1959). Karunanidhi scripted Manthiri Kumari (1950) as MGR's first folk legend for directly political purposes. He also wrote and contributed lyrics for the most famous DMK film, Parasakthi (1952), Sivaji Ganesan's début. A string of hits followed, often starring MGR or Ganesan: Marmayogi and Sarvadhikari (both 1951), Sorgavasal (1954), and the MGR-directed Nadodi Mannan (1958). Annadurai had codified an elaborately plotted and highly charged melodramatic idiom promoting an iconoclastic 'rationalism' and an anti-Brahmin, Tamil-nationalist ideology. The films incorporated numerous references to Party symbols and colours, anagrams of Party leaders' names and characters reciting whole passages from Annadurai's speeches (cf. Pandharibai in Parasakthi). These devices are part of a very rhetorical visual and literary style as the hero, usually in the courtroom at the end of the film, presents his (and his Party's) case in a speech that could last up to 30'. The success of the DMK Film idiom has been linked (see Bhaskaran and Sivathamby) to the fact that the cinema was an important social equaliser in Tamil Nadu, where the other performing arts traditions were rigidly demarcated along class/caste lines. The old Congress Party's attempt (e.g. by C. Rajagopalachari) to continue that élitism in the cinema allowed its DMK opponents to present cinema as a people's art. Numerous studies have been devoted to the DMK Film: K. Sivathamby's The Tamil Film as a Medium of Political Communication (1981); Robert Hardgrave's When Stars Displace the Gods: The Folk Culture of Cinema in Tamil Nadu (1975); Hardgrave and Anthony Neidhart, Film and Political Consciousness in Tamil Nadu (1975); S. Theodore Baskaran's The Message Bearers (1981) which deals with the pre-DMK history of political film; Ka. Thirunavukkarasu's Dravidar Iyakkamum Thiraiyada Ulagamum (1990); M.S.S. Pandian's The Image Trap: M.G. Ramachandran in Film and Politics (1992). For histories of the DMK Party and Tamil politics, see Margaret Ross-Barnett's The Politics of Cultural Nationalism in South India (1976) and Charles Ryerson's Regionalism and Religion: The Tamil Renaissance and Popular Hinduism (1988).

Madhuri Dixit and Sanjay Kapoor in Raja (1995)

Doordarshan

Official title for state-owned Indian television, after it was delinked from the AIR and established as an independent corporation under the Ministry of Information & Broadcasting (1976). TV was introduced experimentally in 1959, supported by UNESCO, the US government and Philips, with a weekly half-hour service covering a radius of 40km centred on Delhi. With Indira Gandhi as the new Information & Broadcasting Minister, this became a daily service (1965). In 1972, a station was established in Bombay, then in Srinagar (1973) followed by Calcutta and Madras, with 39 more centres set up in the 80s. In 1975, the Satellite Instructional Television Experiment (SITE) was launched with support from NASA using Delhi and Ahmedabad as ground stations to broadcast 'instructional programmes' to 2500 villages in six states (Bihar, MP, Orissa, Rajasthan, AP and Karnataka). The programme was briefly accompanied by a much smaller but arguably more significant experiment at Pij, in Gujarat, where a 1-kV transmitter addressed 750 community sets in 350 villages: several major film-makers produced programmes and discussed them with the villagers. Colour programmes were introduced, controversially, in 1982, to telecast the Asian Games in New Delhi with imported outside broadcast and electronic news-gathering units using Soviet satellite services while setting up 20 low-power transmitters. The first Indian telecommunications satellite assembled at the ISRO failed; the second, INSAT 1B, launched in 1983, also inaugurated the Special Plan for the Expansion of the Television Network. The Plan claimed to be unique in the history of TV expansion, eventually installing 13 high-power and 113 low-power transmitters, linking them up to make terrestrial broadcasts available to 70% of the population within a period of 18 months (1983-4). The Seventh Five-Year plan doubled its communications media investment to Rs 150 billion, 49% of this sum going to Doordarshan alone. Although advertising had been allowed since 1977, Doordarshan went commercial only in 1982, also making New Delhi the centre of a daily 'national programme' dominating peak-hour viewing. Initially, its commercial shows were predominantly film-based, such as the Chitrahaar series (stringing together song sequences from Indian movies) and the weekend feature films. Started selling 30' slots for independently made TV serials sponsored by advertisers with the serial Hum Log (We, the People, 1984-5), a 'developmental' soap opera sponsored by Colgate-Palmolive and Nestlé. In 1987, advertising revenue topped Rs 10 billion with 65% coming from only six multinational corporations. Best-known serials were the Hindu epics, Ramayana (by Ramanand Sagar, 1986-8) and Mahabharat (by B.R. Chopra, 1988-90). Doordarshan's monopoly over both advertising and news and its role as the ruling government's most effective propaganda platform was often criticised. The Janata Party's 1977 election manifesto promised to make Doordarshan fully autonomous and set up the B. G. Verghese Working Group on Autonomy for Akashvani and Doordarshan (1978) to work out the logistics of such a move. However, the Prasar Bharati bill presented in 1979 offered a vastly watered-down version of the promised autonomy. The report of the government-appointed Working Group on Software for Indian TV, aka the P.C. Joshi Committee Report (1984), was extremely critical of Doordarshan's 'Delhi-centrism', its mode of introducing consumerism in the countryside and its dependence on foreign networks for programme ideas. The report appeared only in excerpts in independent journals. Doordarshan started collaborating with the NFDC (1988), producing films by e.g. Aravindan, Adoor Gopalakrishnan, Girish Kasaravalli, Mira Nair and Mani Kaul, initially to reduce its massive dependence on the film industry. The results were mostly telecast in late-night film slots. In 1992-3 the Hong Kong-based STAR-TV cable network (subsequently bought by Rupert Murdoch) challenged Doordarshan's monopoly. It heralded a major boom in commercial satellite channels both in English and Hindi (the latter led by STAR subsidiary ZEE-TV). Between 1993-5 the proliferation of cable channels spread to other languages (Malayalam with ASIANET, Tamil with SUN), depending on a parallel, mainly multinational, satellite services industry (e.g. the Pan American Satellite-4, Asiasat etc.), which provides increasingly cheaper beaming facilities over the South Asian footprint. Doordarshan's political control over the Indian territory was legally challenged when a Supreme Court ruling (13 February 1995) declared the Air Waves to be public property. In response to the changing situation, Doordarshan introduced the commercial Metro Channel in 1993, and DD-3 in 1995, as well as several regional channels.

Doshi, Chaturbhuj Anandji (1894-1969)

Hindi and Gujarati director born in Kathiawar, Gujarat. Journalist for progressive daily Hindustan (1926) under editor Indulal Yagnik. Silent era scenarist (1930) for Jayant Desai, Nandlal Jaswantal, Nanubhai Vakil etc. Wrote several Ranjit films. One of the top Gujarati scenarists; scripted the key Punatar productions that launched a Gujarati film industry (Gunsundari, Nanand Bhojai, both 1948) and Raskapur's Mehndi Rang Lagyo (1960); at times considered a successor to scenarist Mohanlal Dave. As film-maker, he is known for devising a more rationalist interpretation of the mythological.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1938: Gorakh Aya; Secretary; 1939: Adhuri Kahani; 1940: Musafir; 1941: Pardesi; Sasural; 1942: Bhakta Surdas; Dhiraj; Mehmaan; 1943: Chhoti Maa; Shankar Parvati; 1944: Bhartrahari; 1945: Murti; 1946: Phulwari; 1947: Bela; Kaun Hamara; 1948: Jesal Toral; Karaiyavar; Sati Sone; 1949: Bhakta Puran; Vevishal; 1950: Akhand Saubhagya; Kisi Ki Yaad; 1954: Aurat Teri Yahi Kahani; 1956: Aabroo; Dassehra; 1957: Khuda Ka Banda; Shesh Naag; 1958: Sanskar.

Duncan, Ellis R. (b. 1908)

Tamil director and American cinematographer aka Dungan. Born in Ohio; graduate of UCLA and the American Institute of Cinematography and worked in Hollywood as a cameraman (1927). Came to India (1935) to sell camera equipment and stayed for 17 years making several major Tamil films, starting with Sati Leelavathi, based on S.S. Vasan's novel and introducing MGR. M.L. Tandon, who had earlier met Duncan at UCLA, got him to direct films. Iru Sahodarargal, also with MGR, made him the top director of a nascent Tamil film industry, also editing his own work and integrating music and comedy routines into the plot, which was perhaps his most influential contribution. A series of hits followed: Ambikapathy with M.K. Thyagaraja Bhagavathar at Salem Shankar Films; Shakuntalai and the memorable Meera with the singer M.S. Subbulakshmi at Chandraprabha Cinetone. Best-known work at Modern Theatres: Ponnudi and the seminal MGR hit Manthiri Kumari (which was completed by T.R. Sundaram). Although Duncan did not know Tamil (his interpreters were known as 'rush directors'), his work is remembered for its emphasis on Tamil dialogue: the famed scenarist Elangovan débuted in his Ambikapathy while Ponnudi remains one of the poet Bharatidasan's best-known scripts; Manthiri Kumari was Karunanidhi's first major literary contribution to cinema. Duncan worked with well-known actor-singers such as G.N. Balasubramanyam, M.S. Subbulakshmi (the two acting together in Shakuntalai), and T.N. Rajarathnam Pillai (who featured in Kalamegham). Credited with co-direction of an Indo-US co-prod. The Jungle (William Berke, 1952), starring Rod Cameron, Marie Windsor and Caesar Romero, later dubbed into Tamil as Kaadu. During WW2 made propaganda shorts (e.g. Returning Soldier with T.S. Balaiah), and after Independence was commissioned by the government to film the transfer of power ritual. In the 50s returned to live in Wheeler city, West Virginia, occasionally working in India, e.g. as a 2nd unit photographer for Hugo Fregonese's Harry Black (1958) and John Guillermin's Tarzan Mera Saathi (1962).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1936: Sati Leelavathi; Simantini; Iru Sahodarargal; 1937: Ambikapathy; 1940: Shakuntalai; Suryaputri; Kalamegham; 1943: Daasi Penn; 1945: Valmiki; Meera; Returning Soldier; 1949: Ponnudi; 1950: Manthiri Kumari; 1952: Kaadu.

Durai

Prominent 70s independent Tamil director. Former assistant to Yoganand and G.V. Iyer (Hamsa Geethe, 1975). First film, Avalum Penn Thaane, is a tragic portrayal of an orphaned woman saved from a vice den who sacrifices her life to protect another woman from being trapped into prostitution. It attracted some critical attention as one of the better mid-70s commercial films engaging with the feminist movement. However, he went on to make a formula of this theme, featuring a series of florid female characters such as the tragic heroine who marries her lover's son in Oru Veedu Oru Ulagam. Best-known film is Pasi, which redeems its sentimentalism through a realistic usage of dialect and a number of well-sketched characterisations. Worked in Hindi, Kannada, Telugu and Malayalam. Also scripted his films.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1974: Avalum Penn Thaane; 1975: Oru Kudumbathin Kathai; 1976: Mugiyada Katha; Asai Arubathu Naal; 1977: Raghupati Raghava Rajaram; 1978: Aval Thantha Uravu; Chadarangam; Pavathin Sambalam; Ayiram Janmanga; Oru Veedu Oru Ulagam; 1979: Kadamai Nenjam; Pasi; Neeya; Needhikku Mun Neeya Nana; Malligai Mohini; Priya Bandhavi; Pathai Marinal; 1980: Kaadu; Maria My Darling; Pennukku Yar Kaval; Enga Vathiar; Porkalam; Thani Maram; Oli Pirandathu; 1981: Aval Oru Kaviyam; Vadagai Veedu; Mayil; Kilinjalgai; 1982: Ruby My Darling; Velicham Vitharunna Pennikutty; Nalanthana; Thunai; Theerpugal Thirutha Padalam; 1983: Do Gulab; 1984: Pet Pyar Aur Paap; 1985: Veli; 1986: Oru Manithan Oru Manavi; 1987: Veera Pandian; 1988: Palaivanathil Pattampoochi; 1990: Pudhiya Athiyayam.

Dutt, Geeta (1930-72)

Aka Geeta Roy. Singer born in Faridpur (now Bangladesh). Trained under composer Hanuman Prasad who launched her in Bhakta Prahlad (1946). First major hit in Filmistan production Do Bhai (1947) where, to S.D. Burman's music, she sang Mera sundar sapna. Although an orthodox rendition compared with her later work, it pioneered a move away from the ghazal-inflected folk style inherited from the studio era represented by e.g. Amirbai Karnataki or by Shamsad Begum's Pancholi songs. She had hits in Jogan (1950), composed by Bulo C. Rani (e.g. Ghunghat ke pat khole re) and Anarkali (1953), but is best remembered for her Guru Dutt films (she was married to the director) like Baazi (1951: she introduced a crooning style with her hit Tadbir se bigdi here), Mr and Mrs '55 (1955), Pyasa (1957), Kaagaz Ke Phool (1959) and Sahib Bibi Aur Ghulam (1962). The songs of these films remain among the biggest successes in post-Independence Hindi cinema.

Dutt, Guru (1925-64)

Hindi film director and actor. Born in Bangalore as Gurudatta Padukone. Educated in Calcutta. Studied dance at Uday Shankar's India Cultural Centre, a dance academy, in Almora (1942-4). Telephone operator in Calcutta before joining Prabhat Studio (1944) as actor (Lakhrani), then choreographer and assistant director (Hum Ek Hain, 1946). Met Dev Anand and was part of an informal group of ex-IPTA members at Navketan, the company that produced his first film, Baazi. Set up own production house with Baaz. Introduced Waheeda Rehman in CID (1956), propelling her to stardom through his films.

Made adventure films, comedies (also starring in Twelve O'Clock) and love stories. Films often referred to social issues and exploitation, partly following Chetan Anand's version of John Huston-type realism but imbuing them with thematic layers amid complex, richly stylised imagery (courtesy of cinematographer V.K. Murthy) and exquisite songs. Made India's first CinemaScope film, Kaagaz Ke Phool, which flopped. Refused to sign his films after that but continued as producer and actor. Sahib Bibi Aur Ghulam was credited to his co-scenarist Abrar Alvi but is attributable to Dutt. His premature death by suicide was foreshadowed in the autobiographical Kaagaz Ke Phool. His last film, Baharen Phir Bhi Aayengi, was finished by his brother Atma Ram in 1966, with Dharmendra in the role Dutt had played. A 2nd film left unfinished, K. Asif's Love and God, was eventually released in 1986 in a completely reshot and recast version. As producer, launched the career of his assistant Raj Khosla with CID. With the darkly romantic Pyasa, almost certainly inspired by Saratchandra's novel Srikanta, muted social critique suddenly veers to tragedy as Dutt launched a cycle of films that have remained India's most spectacular achievement in melodrama. His work encapsulates with great intensity the emotional and social complexities affecting the artist when the reformism associated with Nehruite nationalism disintegrated under the pressures of industrialism and urbanisation, creating the space for Indian modernism but also generating immense social dislocation. Dutt's work, like his life, is located on the faultline of those conflicting forces and his supreme achievement is to have succeeded, at times, in both using and modifying available aesthetic modes to represent a profoundly contradictory experience, often via a focus on his extraordinary female figures (e.g. Waheeda Rehman) who are made to represent the conflictual dynamics of history. Book-length analysis of his films by Arun Khopkar (1985).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* also act/ act only): 1945: Lakhrani*; 1951: Baazi; 1952: Jaal; 1953: Baaz; 1954: Aar Paar; 1955: Mr and Mrs '55; 1956: Sailaab; 1957: Pyasa; 1958: Twelve O'Clock*; 1959: Kaagaz Ke Phool; 1960: Chaudhvin Ka Chand*; 1962: Sahib Bibi Aur Ghulam*; Sautela Bhai*; 1963: Bahurani*; Bharosa*; 1964: Sanjh Aur Savera*; Suhagan*.

Dutt, Sunil (b. 1929)

Hindi star and director born in Khurd, Jhelum Dist. (now Pakistan) as Balraj Dutt. Former announcer on Radio Ceylon. Best known in his early career as the outlaw hero of Mother India, playing the son of his future wife Nargis. Then shifted to the image of the clean-cut modern youth in late 50s socials (Bimal Roy's Sujata). Continued with both images throughout his career. Also played remarkable comedy roles, e.g. the bumbling lover in Padosan. Best work with B.R. Chopra. Recently, like Dilip Kumar, specialises in larger-than-life roles (Shaan). Directorial début, Yaadein, is an overtly experimental one-man show. Launched his son Sanjay Dutt to Hindi stardom with Rocky. Became MP representing Congress (I) in North Bombay constituency in 1979, playing a heroic role in the 1993 communal riots in Bombay.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1955: Kundan; Railway Platform; 1956: Ek Hi Raasta; Kismet Ka Khel; Rajdhani; 1957: Mother India; Payal; 1958: Post Box 999; Sadhana; 1959: Didi; Insaan Jaag Utha; Sujata; 1960: Duniya Jhukti Hai; Ek Phool Char Kaante; Hum Hindustani; Usne Kaha Tha; 1961: Chhaya; 1962: Jhoola; Main Chup Rahungi; 1963: Aaj Aur Kal; Gumrah; Mujhe Jeene Do; Yeh Raaste Hain Pyar Ke; Nartaki; 1964: Beti Bete; Ghazal; Yaadein; 1965: Khandaan; Waqt; 1966: Amrapali; Gaban; Mera Saaya; 1967: Hamraaz; Meharbaan; Milan; 1968: Gauri; Padosan; Sadhu Aur Shaitan; 1969: Bhai Bahen; Chirag; Meri Bhabhi; Pyaasi Shyam; 1970: Darpan; Bhai Bhai; Jwala; 1971: Reshma Aur Shera; 1972: Jai Jwala; Zameen Aasmaan; Zindagi Zindagi; 1973: Heera; Pran Jaye Par Vachan Na Jaye; Man Jeete Jag Jeet; 1974: Chhattis Ghante; Geeta Mera Naam; Kora Badan; 1975: Himalay Se Ooncha; Neelima; Umar Qaid; Zakhmi; 1976: Nagin; Nehle Pe Dehla; 1977: Sat Shri Akal; Ladki Jawan Ho Gayi; Aakhri Goli; Darinda; Gyaniji; Paapi; Charandas; 1978: Jindri Yar Di; Kala Admi; Ram Kasam; Daku Aur Jawan; 1979: Ahimsa; Jaani Dushman; Muqabala; 1980: Ek Gunah Aur Sahi; Ganga Aur Suraj; Lahu Pukarega; Shaan; Yari Dushmani; 1981: Rocky (d. only); 1982: Badle Ki Aag; Dard Ka Rishta; 1984: Laila; Raj Tilak; Yaadon Ki Zanjeer; 1985: Faasle; 1986: Kala Dhandha Goray Log; Mangal Dada; 1987: Watan Ke Rakhwale; 1988: Dharamyudh; 1991: Yeh Aag Kab Bujhegi; Qurban; Pratigyabadh; Hai Meri Jaan; 1992: Virodhi; Kshatriya; Parampara; 1993: Phool.

Shyama and Sunil Dutt in Duniya Jhukti Hai (1960)

Dutt, Utpal (1929-93)

Prolific Bengali and Hindi actor born in Shillong, Assam; also director and a major Marxist theatre personality in Bengal. After 1977 associated with the CPI(M). Started career in the 40s with Geoffrey Kendall's theatre group performing Shakespeare, later directing Shakespeare for the Little Theatre Group. Formed his own group in 1949, then joined the Bengal unit of IPTA (1950-1) doing agitational plays staged on street corners and occasionally during political rallies to massive audiences, such as Chargesheet (1950), written overnight following the arrest of CP members and performed next day at Hazra Park. The Special Train was performed on behalf of striking workers of the Hindustan Automobile Factory, Uttarpara (1961). Also did theatrical spectacles: Angar (1959), Kallol (1965); a play about the Royal Indian Navy mutiny of 1946, sparking off political rallies), Din Badaler Pala (1967, written for the CPI(M)'s electoral campaign) and Tiner Talwar (1970). Barricade (1972) and Dushwapner Nagari (1975) were staged in the context of the Emergency. Also made major interventions in the Jatra form (e.g. Rifle, Sanyasir Tarabari). Claims influence of Erwin Piscator to 'create proletarian myths of revolution' (cf. Dutt, 1984). His work, comprising mostly historical reconstructions, was criticised by the Left for its determinism and the recourse to the 'great man' theory of history. Prolific film actor with a spectacular début as Michael Madhusudhan, a legendary 19th C. Bengali poet, repeating the role several times on the stage. After Mrinal Sen's Bhuvan Shome, shifted to Hindi films, often playing retired soldiers or bluff comedian fathers (Guddi) in melodramas. Also important comedy roles in Bengali, e.g. Mohan Baganer Meye, Shriman Prithviraj et al. Claimed to act in films mainly to finance his theatrical work. Played key roles in recent Satyajit Ray films, e.g. the king in Hirak Rajar Deshe and the stranger in Agantuk. Directorial work extends his theatrical work. Autobiography, including his views on theatre, published in 1982. Stridently populist essays on film, often targeting the New Indian Cinema were published after his death as Towards A Heroic Cinema (1994).

✦ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1950: Michael Madhusudhan, Vidyasagar, Jaan Pehchar, 1952: Siraj-ud-Dowla, 1953: Maharaj Nandakumar, 1954: Vikram Urvashi, Chitragada, 1955: Rani Rashmoni, 1956: Kirti Garh, Shubha Lagna, Mahakavi Girishchandra, 1958: Jogajog, Rajdhani Theke, 1960: Uttar Megh, Kuhak, 1961: Megh, Pankatilak, Dilli Theke Kolkata, Saptapadi, 1962: Kancher Swarga, Abasheshe, Sakshi, 1963: Shesh-Anka, Maniram Dewar, Surya Sikha, 1964: Momer Alo, 1965: Ghoom Bhangar Gaan, Shakespeare Wallah, 1966: Sankha Bela, 1967: Mahashweta, 1968: Chowringhee, 1969: Aparichita, Bibaha Bibhrat, Bhuvan Shome, Saat Hindustani, The Guru, 1970: Bombay Talkie, Kalankita Nayak, Interview, Heer Ranjha, 1971: Fariyad, Khunje Bera, Kuheli, Ek Adhuri*

Kahani, Guddi, 1972: Calcutta '71, Shesh Parba, Mere Jeevan Saathi, Sabse Bada Sukh, Marjina Abdallah, Shriman Prithviraj, Parivartan; 1973: Mr Romeo, Agni Bhramar, Honeymoon, Shravan Sandhya, Rodon Bhora Basanta, Shesh Pristhay Dekhur; 1974: Amanush, Asati, Charitraheen, Bisarjan, Bikele Bhorer Phool, Chorus, Phuleshwari, Sadhu Judhishthirer Karcha, My Friend, Thagini, Alor Thikana, Sedin Du-janay, Jukti Takko Aar Gappo, Chhutir Phande, Swikarokti; 1975: Palanka, Sansar Simantey, Swayamsiddha, Salaam Memsaab, Nishi Mrigaya, Julie, Anari, Aparajito, Sei Chokh, Ek Hans Ka Joda, Jana Aranya, Mohan Baganer Meye; 1976: Ananda Mela, Dampati, Sandhya Surya, Datta, Kitne Paas Kitne Door, Raees, Yugo Manab Kabir, Nidhi Ram Sardar, Do Anjaane, Shaque, Santar, Asadharan, Pratisruti, Jatayu; 1977: Anand Ashram, Anurodh, Farishta Ya Qatil, Ek Hi Raasta, Babu Moshai, Mantramugdha, Sister, Swati, Imaan Dharam; Kissa Kursi Ka, Kotwal Saab, Priyatama, Lal Kothi, Safed Hathi, Swami, Yahi Hai Zindagi, Sanai; 1978: Moyna, Tilottama, Dhanraj Tamang, Bandi, Atithi, Toote Khilone, Striker, Joi Baba Felunath, Chakravayuha, Niskriti; 1979: Jhor, Nauka Dubi, Golmaal, Kartavya, Prem Vivah, The Great Gambler, Bayan, Naya Bakra; 1980: Bandhan, Gharer Baire Ghar, Hirak Rajar Deshe, Paka Dekha, Pankhiraj, Shesh Bichar, Agreement, Apne Paraye, Khwab, Nishana, Ram Balram, Asha; 1981: Baisakhi Megh, Kalankini, Subarna Golak, Saheb, Barsaat Ki Ek Raat, Anusandhan, Naram Garam, Shaukeen, Meghmukti, Angoor, Raaste Pyar Ke, Chaalchitra, Agni Pareeksha; 1982: Raj Bodhu, Matir Swarga, Hamari Bahu Alka, Pratiksha, Prateeksha; 1983: Rang Birangi, *Maa, Achha Bura, Kisise Na Kehna, Pasand Apni Apni, Shubh Kaamna, Agami Kal, Indira, Jay Parajay, Duti Pata, Srinkhal, Prayashchitta; 1984: Ahuti, Harishchandra Shaibya, Madhuban, Pujarini, Rashifal, Inquilab, John Jani Janardan, Lakhon Ki Baat, Paar, Bandh Honth, Yeh Desh, Love Marriage, *Inquilab Ke Baad, Shapath, Ulta Seedha; 1985: Aar Paar, Anyay Abichar, Bhalobasha Bhalobasha, Pratigya, Putulghar, Tagori, Bandhan Anjana, Saheb; 1986: Uttar Lipi, Jiban, Pathbhola, Aap Ke Saath, Baat Ban Jaye, Kirayedaar, Main Balwar, Sada Suhagar, Lal Mahal; 1987: Aaj Ka Robin Hood, Pyar Ke Kabil, Sukumar Ray (Sh), Samrat-o-Sundari, Pratihar, Jar Je Priyo; 1988: Prati Paksha, Agun, Agaman, Mahaveera, Sagar Sangam, Pratik, Parasmoni, Jyoti; 1989: Asha-o-Bhalobasha, Biday, Gili Gili Ge, Bahurani, Judge Saheb, Aakrosh, Angar, Kari Diye Kinlam, Libaas, Shubha Kamana, Ladaai (B), Mahajan, Garmil; 1990: Mera Pati Sirf Mera Hai, Raktorin, Agnikanya, Triyatri, Jawani Zindabad, Qaidi, Nyayadanda; 1991: Agantuk, Ahankar, Path-o-Prasad, Maan Maryada, Pati Param Guru, Sajani Go Sajani, Nawab; 1992: Padma Nadir Majhi, Manikanchan, Pennam Calcutta, Mayabini; 1993: Bhranta Pathik, Mishti Madhur; 1994: Ajana Path, 1995: Kecho Khurte Keute, Pratidhan, Abirbhab.

Dutta, J. P. (b. 1949)

Hindi director born in Bombay. Son of cineaste O.P. Dutta. Belongs to late 80s generation of Hindi commercial film-makers (e.g. Vinod Chopra, N. Chandra) aiming for a realist surplus through the sensory intensification of established film genres, as in 70s Hollywood films (e.g. Scorsese). Locates all his scripts in feudal Rajasthan, among conflicts featuring the Jat and the immensely powerful Thakur zamindars. His début, Sarhad (1978) was to star Vinod Khanna but remained unfinished. Faced major controversy when his next film, Ghulami, sparked off communal violence in Rajasthan. Best-known film Hathyar extended the ancestral conflict into Bombay's gang wars.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY : 1985: Ghulami, 1988: Yateem, 1989: Hathyar, Batwara, 1992: Kshatriya.

East India Film Company

Est: 1932 in Calcutta. One of the first sound studios in Bengal, set up with RCA-Photophone equipment and Mitchell cameras. Owned by B.L. Khemka. Bengali productions include films by Tulsi Lahiri (Jamuna Puliney, 1933), Naresh Mitra's Sabitri (1933), Dhiren Ganguly (Bidrohi, 1935) and Debaki Bose (Sonar Sansar, 1936). Most prominent in-house director was Hindi film-maker A.R. Kardar (1933-6). The studio branched out into Tamil (e.g. K. Subramanyam's Bhakta Kuchela, 1936) and Telugu films (e.g. Pullalaha's Savithri, 1933). Until the mid-40s it was the only fully equipped sound studio available to Tamil film-makers and was a major reason for numerous Bengali film technicians, particularly cameramen (best known: Jiten Bannerjee) working in the South, a tradition later continued by Gemini Studios.

Ekalavya see Ghosh, Robi

El angovan (1913-71)

Tamil script and dialogue writer in the 40s, originally named T.K. Thanikachalam. Début with Duncan's seminal Ambikapathy (1937), followed by several story and script credits for films which established a new style in film melodrama: Raja Chandrasekhar's Ashok Kumar (1941), R.S. Mani's Kannagi (1942), Central Studios' Sivakavi (1943), R.S. Mani's Mahamaya (1944: some accounts credit him with direction as well), K. Subramanyam's Gokula Dasi (1948), S.M. Sreeramulu Naidu's Pavalakkodi (1949), and especially Rammoth's epic Ezhai Padum Padu (1950). Formerly associated with the journal Manikodi whose literary idiom he transferred to cinema (cf. Kannamba's monologues in Kannagi). Critic and film-maker K. Hariharan writes: 'He breathed new fire into film dialogues [with] a passion quite removed from the standard mythologicals' and quotes popular scenarist A.L. Narayanan as saying that Elangovan and P. Neelakantan, 'were the first real screen writers in Tamil'. The literary scripting style was adopted later by e.g. A.S.A. Samy in Valmiki (1946) and S.D. Sundaram in Kanniyin Kathali (1949). It was also an important precursor of Annadurai's later declamatory scripts. Wrote Raja Sandow's Thiruneelakantar (1939), Raja Chandrasekhar's Arundhati (1943), S. Nottani's Inbavalli (1949), K.S. Gopalakrishnan's Parijatham (1950) and many others.

Empire Films

The Imperial Conference (1926) resolved to reserve 7.5% of screen time in the British Empire for films made within the Empire. This measure was intended to privilege the British film industry as opposed to the US industry in the Indian market, helping to revitalise the post-WWI British cinema in the process. However, although the idea was initially welcomed by organisations like the Bombay Cinema and Theatres Association and the Indian Motion Picture Producers Association, such organisations soon raised the demand, that as the Empire's main film industry, 50% of the quota should be reserved for Indian cinema. Whereas the first result of the Conference was to limit Hollywood's access to the Indian market, the Indian demands effectively ended up regulating British access to the Indian market as well, favouring indigenous production. In the context of the Swadeshi polemic, the Indian Merchants Chamber led by Seth Walchand Hirachand argued that the only answer to combat Hollywood (and, implicitly, Britain) in India was a combination of tax incentives and the tenfold escalation of customs duty on imported films. Many of these debates informed the Indian Cinematograph Committee's work (1928), published in 5 volumes.

Esoofal Iy, Abdul al Iy (1884-1957)

Exhibitor born in Surat, Gujarat. Travelled 1908-14 with tent bioscope through large parts of the Far East, including Burma, Singapore and Indonesia, introducing the cinema to these regions. In 1914 he settled in Bombay where he partnered Ardeshir Irani in an exhibition concern based on the acquisition of the Alexandra Theatre and later of the Majestic. Remained Irani's partner for over 40 years. Active member of the Cinema Exhibitors Association of India since 1946.

Fatma, Begum

Probably first woman director in India. Married the Nawab of Sachin and mother of silent superstars Sultana and Zubeida as well as of Shahzadi. Career on Urdu stage, then film actress in Irani's Star Film (Veer Abhimanyu); set up Fatma Film (1926), later Victoria-Fatma Film (1928). Actress at Kohinoor and Imperial Studios while producing, writing and directing (often also acting in) her own films at the Fatma Co. Continued acting in the 30s, e.g. for Nanubhai Vakil and Homi Master.

Mohini; Gaud Bangal; 1926: Khubsorat Bala; Indrajal; Panna Ratna; Bulbul-e-Paristan (only d.); 1928: *Chandravali; *Heer Ranjha; 1929: *Kanakatar; *Milan Dinar; *Naseeb Ni Devi; *Shakuntala; Mahasundar.

Fattel al , Sheikh (1897-1964)

Marathi director and technician. Real name: Yashin Mistri, aka Saheb mama Fattelal also spelt Fatehlal. Born in Kagal, Kolhapur. Belonged to hereditary artisanal caste (Mistri means 'carpenter', although his father was a stonemason). Apprenticed to the Kolhapur artist Abalal Rehman. Lifelong partner of Vishnupant Damle. Co-disciple with Damle of Baburao's technician-artist cousin, Anandrao Painter. Co-founder of and all-round technician at Maharashtra Film. Partner and head of art department at Prabhat where he organised spectacular sets (e.g. Amritmanthan, 1934). Debut as co-dir of his only silent film, Maharathi Karna (1928). Co-directed Saint films with Damle, including Sant Tukaram (1936) (for Filmography, see Damle). Also major achievements as art director: e.g. Ayodhyecha Raja/Ayodhya Ka Raja, Maya Machhindra (both 1932), Amar Jyoti (1936), Kunku/Duniya Na Mane (1937), Mazha Mulga/Mera Ladka (1938), Manoos/Admi (1939), Shejari/Padosi (1941) and Ramshastri (1944). Produced a film after Damle's death (1945) for Prabhat; then solo direction of two features.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1955: Jagadguru Shankaracharya; 1956: Ayodhyapati.

Fazil (b. 1953)

Successful Malayalam director, and one of the first to make the transition into big-budget Tamil films. Born in Alleppey, Kerala; theatre director and actor while at university. Degree in literature; later worked with Kavalam Narayana Panicker's theatre group Thiruvarung. Film debut assisting A. Vincent. Directorial debut: the musical Manjil Virinja Pookkal which he also scripted and produced. Since then has been associated with the urban middle-class family musical melodrama, e.g. the Ilaiyaraja musical hit Poove Poo Chooda Va. His Tamil films are sometimes adapted from his own Malayalam hits (e.g. the melodrama Ente Mamattukuttiamma remakes En Bommu Kutti Ammavukku), although the incisiveness of the original (according to critic K. Hariharan) is usually diluted to suit the populist tastes of Tamil distributors. Varusham 16 was the Tamil debut of major star Khushboo. Co-directed the widely discussed Manichitratharazu.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1980: Manjil Virinja Pookkal; 1981: Dhanya; 1983: Eettillam; Marakkailo Rikalum; Ente Mamattukuttiamma; 1984: Nokketha Dhoorathu Kannum Nattu; 1985: Poove Poo Chooda Va; 1986: Ennennum Kannettante; Poovinnu Puthiya Poonthenna; 1987: Poovizhi Vasalile; Manivathoorile Ayiram Sivarathrika; 1988: En Bommu Kutti Ammavukku; 1989: Varusham 16; 1990:

Arangetra Velai; 1991: Ente Suryaputhrikku; Karpura Mullai; 1992: Killer; Papayude Sontham Appoose; 1993: Kilipetchu Ketkava; 1993: Manichitratharazu; 1994: Manathe Vellitheru.

Film Advisory Board

Est. 1940. First instance of direct state production of documentary film in India. Started as part of the Dept of Information to advise on the making of propaganda shorts during WW2 under chairmanship of Alexander Shaw (formerly associated with John Grierson in the Empire Marketing Board and later producer with Crown Film Unit). J.B.H. Wadia, V. Shantaram and Ezra Mir worked briefly as chief producers (1942). The FAB was intended to collaborate with independent producers/financiers, co-ordinating and overseeing the distribution of indigenous and imported war propaganda films. Initial productions included documentaries and newsreels made at Wadia Movietone (e.g. early work of documentarist P.V. Pathy), films commissioned from the advertising agency D.J. Keymer and localised versions of newsreels by 20th Century-Fox. Replaced in 1943 by Information Films of India.

Film and Television Institute of India

India's premier training institute for film-making, cinematography, editing and sound-recording. Founded in 1960, a decade after the S.K. Patil Film Enquiry Committee's recommendations, as the Film Institute of India. It was established in Pune using the premises of the former Prabhat Film. Became an autonomous organisation funded by the Ministry of Information & Broadcasting in 1974, simultaneously expanding to include a TV section in the context of Doordarshan's development plans. The FTII's history is most closely associated with Ritwik Ghatak who joined as Professor of Film and Vice-Principal (1966-7) and formed several of the New Indian Cinema pioneers, such as Kumar Shahani, Mani Kaul, Adoor Gopalakrishnan et al., as well as numerous key technicians, e.g. cinematographer K.K. Mahajan. The FTII produced two feature films, Raakhi Raakhi (Mahesh Kaul, 1969) and Jai Jawan Jai Makan (Vishram Bedekar, 1971).

Film Finance Corporation see National Film Development Corporation

Filmistan

Bombay-based studio; Est. 1943-44 leasing the former premises of the Sharda studio. Launched by major breakaway group from Bombay Talkies led by their production controller Rai Bahadur Chunilal and producer Shashadhar Mukherjee. Their first film was Gyan Mukherjee's Chal Chal Re Naujawan (1944, with Ashok Kumar). The studio continued more or less from S. Mukherjee's two influential Bombay Talkies productions: Naya Sansar (1941) and the colossal hit Kismet (1943). Its subsequent output elaborated these into the first consistent generic codification and regulation of a post-Independence All-India Film market-place. By the early 50s, the 'film factory' (as B.R. Chopra, who worked there briefly, called it) had revolutionised distribution with mid-budget genre productions selling mainly on their star value and their music. The approach was exemplified by Gyan Mukherjee himself and extended by P.L. Santoshi, Subodh Mukherjee, Nasir Hussain and Najam Naqvi, with stars Ashok Kumar, Dev Anand, Dilip Kumar, Shammi Kapoor and Nalini Jaywant, and music directors C. Ramchandra and S.D. Burman. Following the hits Shaheed (1948), Shabnam (1949: establishing the famous star pair of Dilip Kumar and Kamini Kaushal and featuring Burman's music) and Samadhi (1950), Filmistan's style arguably had the largest impact of any studio on later independent commercial film-making in Hindi. This is evident e.g. in Manmohan Desai's cinema. Other notable Filmistan cineastes are P.L. Santoshi, Nandlal Jaswantlal, Kishore Sahu and Ramesh Saigal. The studio yielded yet another mutation when Shashadhar Mukherjee moved out to start Filmalaya (1958).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1922: Veer Abhimanyu; 1924: Prithvi Vallabh; Gul-e-Bakavali; Kala Naag; Sati Sardarba; 1925: Naharsinh Daku; Devadas; Mumbai Ni

Films Division

Est: 1949. A 'mass-media unit' run by the Ministry of Information & Broadcasting, it is 'the central film-producing organisation responsible for the production and distribution of newsreels, documentaries and other films required by the Government of India for public information, education and for instructional and cultural purposes' (UNESCO report, 1973; quoted in Jag Mohan, 1990). Until the post-Emergency period which saw, for the first time, the independently made documentary (cf. Anand Patwardhan), the Films Division had the monopoly on documentary cinema in India, making upwards of 200 shorts/documentaries and weekly newsreels (Indian News Review). Each film had over 9000 prints and was dubbed into 18 Indian languages and exhibited through compulsory block booking in every permanent cinema in the country. Its early work used imagery today considered typical of the iconography of the Nehru era, such as N.S. Thapa's documentary on the Bhakra Nangal dam (1958), and connects via the war propaganda productions of the Film Advisory Board with the British documentary tradition pioneered by John Grierson, a link further strengthened by film producers Jean Bhowmery, James Beveridge (Shell Film Unit) and, briefly in the late 60s, film-maker Basil Wright working at Films Division on loan from UNESCO. Best-known 70s work was by Sukhdev. Recent productions include Shyam Benegal's feature-length documentaries Nehru and Satyajit Ray (both 1984) and Mani Kaul's Siddheshwari (1989). However the bulk of the Films Division's enormous output is by in-house film-makers.

Gadkar, Jayshree (b. 1942)

Actress born in Karwar Dist., Karnataka. Introduced into films by Raja Paranjpe as child actress. Major 60s and 70s star in Marathi film, imaged repeatedly as innocent and tearful daughter-in-law in some of the longest and most sentimental Marathi socials/melodramas (e.g. Bhalji Pendharkar's Mohityanchi Manjula). Early work strongly influenced by Hansa Wadkar who played her foster-mother in her first major hit, Sangtye Aika. Played Tamasha dancing-girl in several Anant Mane and Dinkar D. Patil rural melodramas in the 60s, when Dhirubhai Desai and Babubhai Mistri also cast her in Hindi mythologicals. Now associated with roles opposite stunt star Dara Singh in Chandrakant films (Har Har Mahadev, Kisan Aur Bhagwan). Published autobiography in 1986.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1956: Dista Tasa Nasta; Gaath Padli Thaka Thaka; 1957: Aliya Bhogasi; Aai Mala Kshama Kar; Pahila Prem; Devagharcha Lena; Utavala Narad; 1958: Sanskar; Padada; 1959: Sangtye Aika; Yala Jeevan Aise Nav; Pativrata; Ek Armaan Mera; Madari; Do Gunde; Charnon Ki Dasi; 1960: Avaghachi Sansar; Lagnala Jato Mi; Saranga; Paishyacha Paos; Pancharati; Bindiya; Police Detective; 1961: Kalanika Shobha; Manini; Rangapanchami; Shahir Parashuram; Vyjayanti; Jai Bhawani; Ramleela; Sasural; 1962: Baap Mazha Brahmachari; Bhagya Lakshmi; Preeti Vivah; Sukh Ale Majhya Daari; Private Secretary; 1963: Mohityanchi Manjula; Naar Nirmite Nara; Subhadra Haran; Sukhachi Savli; Yeh Dil Kisko Door; Mere Arman Mere Sapne; 1964: Ek Don Teen; Kai Ho Chamatkar; Saval Mazha Aika; Sundara Manamadhya Bharli; Vaishakh Vanava; Sati Savitri; Seeta Maiya; 1965: Gopal Krishna; Mahasati Ansuya; Aai Kuna Mhanu Mi; Malhari Martand; Sadhi Manse; Yugo Yugo Mi Vat Pahili; Kadhi Karishi Lagna Mazhe; 1966: Toofan Mein Pyar Kahan; Hi Naar Rupasundari; Hirva Chuda; Patlachi Soon; Pavanakathcha Dhondi; Veer Bajrang; 1967: Poonam Ka Chand; Baharon Ke Sapne; Bai Mi Bholi; Sangu Kashi Mi; Shrimant Mehuna Pahije; Thamb Lakshmi Kunku Lavte; Suranga Mhantyat Mala; Lav Kush; 1968: Balaram Shri Krishna; Har Har Gange; Mata Mahakali; Ek Gao Bara Bhangadi; Jivhala; 1969: Dongarchi

Jayshree Gadkar in Patlachi Soon (1966)

Maina; Gan Gaulan; Murali Malhari Rayachi; Tila Lavite Mi Raktacha; Ram Bhakta Hanuman; 1970: Bhagwan Parashuram; Dagabaaz; Shri Krishna Leela; Gharkul; Veer Ghatotkach; Meech Tujhi Priya; 1971: Tulasi Vivah; Aai Ude Ga Ambabai; Lakhat Ashi Dekhan; Ashich Ek Ratra Hoti; Mata Vaishno Devi; 1972: Naag Panchami; Hari Darshan; Kasa Kai Patil Bara Hai Ka?; Kunku Mazha Bhagyacha; Pathrakhir; Soon Ladki Hya Gharchi; Shiv Bhakt Baba Balak Nath; 1973: Mi Tuzha Pati Nahi; Mahasati Savitri; 1974: Har Har Mahadev; Dawat; Balak Dhruv; Kisan Aur Bhagwan; Soon Majhi Savitri; Sugandhi Katta; Bhagat Dhanna Jat; 1975: Paach Rangachi Paach Pakhare; Ek Gaon Ki Kahani; Maya Machhindra; Ghar Gangechya Kathi; 1976: Mazha Mulga; Bajrang Bali; 1977: Gayatri Mahima; Bolo He Chakradhari; 1978: *Chandoba Chandoba Bhaglas Ka?; 1979: Har Har Gange; Lagebandhe; 1980: Savat; Jidda; Kadaklakshmi; Saubhagyavar; Shiv Shakti; Nishana; 1981: Jiyo To Aise Jiyo; Soon Majhi Lakshmi; Baine Kela Sarpanch Khula; Jai Tulaja Bhawani; Alakh Niranjan; 1982: Jaya Parvati Vrat; Lekhne Mathe Mekh; Avhaan; Farz Aur Kanoon; Sati Naag Kanya; 1983: He Daan Kunkvache; Thorli Jaur; 1984: Attaracha Phaya; Gangavatarana; Rath Jagannathacha; Jakhmi Vaghin; Naya Kadam; Sulagte Arman; Shraavan Kumar; Sindoor Ka Daan; Maya Bazaar; 1985: Masterji; Veer Bhimsen; Khichadi; Devashapath Khara Sanger; 1986: Bijali; Krishna Krishna; Patton Ki Baazi; Ramayan (TV); 1987: Bhatak Bhawani; Poorna Satya; Sher Shivaji; Nazrana; 1988: Mar Mitenge; Eeshwar; Pandharichi Vari; Shiv Ganga; 1989: Mal Masala; Kanoon Apna Apna; 1990: Amiri Garibi; 1991: Mumbai Te Mauritius; Yeda Ki Khula?; 1994: Sasar Maher (also d.); 1995: Gandha Matila Aala; He Geet Jeevanache.*

Gaggaiah, Vemuri (1895-1955)

Noted Telugu stage and film actor of the 40s. Legendary stage star with an imposing presence and loud voice, which suited demonic roles in mythologicals, e.g. Yama and Kans. Film debut with East India Film's production of Savithri playing Yama, god of death. Known mainly as one of the first actors to define a performative idiom tailored to the mythological.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1933: Savithri; 1935: Shri Krishna Leelalu; 1936: Draupadi Vastrapaharanam; Sati Tulasi; 1937: Mohini Rugmangada; 1938: Markandeya; 1940: Chandika; Mahiravana; 1941: Dakshayagnam; 1942: Bhakta Prahlada; 1943: Garuda Garvabhangam; 1948: Bhakta Siriyala.

Gandhi, Naval (b. 1897)

Hindi director born in Karachi. Graduated in Ahmedabad (1919) and went on European study tour. Joined Irani's Majestic (1923). Later worked at Orient Pics where he made one of the most discussed quality films of the silent era, Balidan, adapted from Tagore. Went on to direct its star, Zubeida, at Orient and at Kohinoor UA. Worked at the Directorate of Services Kinematography, the film wing of the armed forces during WW2, where he produced P.V. Pathy's documentaries. Went into radio in the early 50s.

FILMOGRAPHY : 1924: Chandan Malayagiri, Mumbai Ni Sethani, Paap No Pashchatap, Shahjehan, Paap No Fej, Sanyasi; 1926: Yauvan Chakra; 1927: Balidar; 1930: Devadas, Veer Rajput; 1931: Nadira, Diwani Duniya (all St); 1932: Shikari.

Ganesan, Sivaji (b. 1927)

Tamil superstar, originally Viluppuram Chinniahpillai Ganesan but best known as Sivaji. Born in Sirkali, TN, into the peasant Kallar caste although his father worked on the railways. According to the official biography, the day he was born his father was jailed for participating in the Independence movement in Nellikuppam. Enjoyed a fitful education and joined theatre groups. Made his reputation as actor in C.N. Annadurai's play Sivaji Kanda Indhu Rajyam, a historical on the Maratha Emperor Shivaji which also gave him his screen name. He followed Annadurai when the latter started the DMK (1949), and his debut, in the wordy role of Gunasekharan in Parasakthi, made him the official icon of the Party for some years (cf. DMK Film). He started distancing himself from the DMK in the mid-50s, joining E.V.K. Sampath's Tamil Nationalist Party (1961), then joined Congress and wound up supporting the opposition Janata Dal. Moving away from the early DMK's atheistic politics, he acted in several mythologicals, esp. Sampoorna Ramayanam and Thiruvillaiyadal, in nationalist historicals (his most famous film Veerapandiya Kattaboman) and in biographicals (Kappalotiya Thamizhan, a film on V.O. Chidambaram Pillai, a 19th C. anti-imperialist who defied the British to start the Steam Navigation Co.). Was associated in his middle period mainly with the films of A. Bhimsingh and A.P. Nagarajan. Played the negative role of the womaniser in Thirumbi Paar and then some years later, more famously, in Rangoon Radha. According to K. Sivathamby (1981), Ganesan and his main rival, MGR (with whom he acted in one film, Kundukkili), dominated the Tamil cinema to such an extent that the two automatically demanded Madras distribution rights in their contracts and could bankrupt a producer by causing production delays, a power the stars used to further their political ambitions. Their power base is buttressed by several fan clubs and the Ganesan Rasikar Manram. Rajya Sabha Member of Parliament (1982-8). However it is maintained that Ganesan had a more significant iconic presence among the Tamil middle-class, leading to his 1980s-90s deification, than MGR could ever acquire. His younger brother ran Sivaji Prod. and his son Prabhu was propelled to stardom in the 80s in films like Kozhi Kuvutthu (1982) and Vetri Vizha (1989, adapting Robert Ludlum's The Bourne Identity).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1952: Parasakthi, Panam; 1953: Poongothai/Pardesi, Anbu, Kanga, Thirumbi Paar, Manithanum Mrigamum, Pempudu Koduku; 1954: Andha Naal, Illara Jyothi, Ethirparadathu, Kalyanam Panniyum Brahmachari, Kundukkili, Thuli Visham, Thooku Thooki, Manohara/Manohar; 1955: Ulagam Palavitham, Kalvanin Kadhal, Kaveri, Koteswarar, Mangayar Thilakam, Mudhal Thedi/Modalatedi, Pennin Perumai; 1956: Amara Deepam, Tenali Raman, Naney Raja, Nalla Veedu, Raja Rani, Naan Petra Selvam, Rangoon Radha, Vazhvile Oru Naal; 1957: Pudhuvayal, Tangamalai Rahasyam, Makkalai Petra Maharasi, Manamagal Thevai, Bhagyavati, Vanangamudi, Rani Lalithangi, Ambikapathy, Sarangadhara; 1958: Annaiyin Aanai, Uthama Puthran/Sitamgarth, Kathavarayan, Shabash Meena, Sampoorna Ramayanam, Pati Bhakti, Bommalapelli/Bomma Kalyanam, School Master; 1959: Aval Yar, Thangapathumai, Naan Sollum Rahasyam, Bhagapirivinai, Maragatham,

Veerapandiya Kattaboman/Amar Shaheed; 1960: Daiva Piravi, Kurvanji, Irumputhirai, Padikkatha Methai, Petra Manam, Pavai Vilakku, Raja Bhakti, Makkala Rajya/Kuzhandaigal Kanda Kudiyarasu, Vidiveli; 1961: Ellam Unnakkaga, Kappalotiya Thamizhan, Pasamalar, Punarjanmam, Pavamanippu, Marudu Nattu Veerar, Palum Pazhamum, Srivalli; 1962: Alayamani, Senthamarai, Nishchaya Thambulam, Padithal Mattu Pothuma, Bale Pandian, Bandha Pasam, Parthal Pasi Theerum, Vadivukku Valai Kappu, Valar Pirai; 1963: Arivali, Annai Illam, Iruvar Ullam, Raktha Tilakam, Kulamagal Radhai, Chittoor Rani Padmini, Kumkumam, Paar Magale Paar, Naan Vanangum Daivam, Kalyanin Kanavar, Mamakaram; 1964: Karnam, Pachai Vilakku, Andavan Kathali, Kaikodutha Daivam, Pudhiya Paravai, Muradhan Muthu, Navarathri, School Master; 1965: Pazhani, Anbukkarangal, Shanti, Thiruvillaiyadal, Neelavanam; 1966: Motor Sundaram Pillai, Mahakavi Kalidas, Saraswathi Sabatham, Selvam, Thaye Unakkaga; 1967: Kandan Karunai, Nenjirukumvarai, Pesum Daivam, Thanga, Paladai, Thiruvarut Selvar, Iru Malargal, Ootivarai Uravu; 1968: Thirumal Perumai, Harishchandra, Enga Ooru Raja, Galatta Kalyanam, En Thambi, Thillana Mohanambal, Lakshmi Kalyanam, Uyarnta Manithan, Arunodhayam; 1969: Anbalipu, Thanga Surangam, Kaval Daivam, Gurudakshinai, Anjal Petty 520, Nirai Kudam, Daivamagan, Thirudan, Sivantha Mann; 1970: Enga Mama, Vilayattu Pillai, Vietnam Veedu, Ethiroli, Raman Ethanai Ramanadi, Dharti, Sorgam, Engiruthu Vandhal, Pathukappu; 1971: Iru Thuruvam, Thangaikkaga, Kulama Kunama, Sumathi En Sundari, Praptham, Savale Samali, Thenum Palum, Moondru Daivangal, Babu; 1972: Raja, Gnana Oli, Pattikada Pattanama, Dharmam Engay, Thavaputhalvar, Vasantha Maligai, Neethi, Maa Inti Jyothi; 1973: Bharatha Vilas, Raja Raja Chozhar, Ponnunnjal, Engal Thanga Raja, Gauravam, Manithiral Manikam, Raja Part Rangadurai, Ranganna Sabatham, Bhakta Tukaram; 1974: Sivakamyin Selvar, Thayi, Vani Rani, Thanga Padakkam, En Magar, Anbai Thedi, Gauravam; 1975: Manithanum Daivamagalum, Avanthan Manithan, Mannavan Vandana, Anbe Aruyere, Vaira Nenjam, Doctor Siva, Pattam Bharathamum; 1976: Unakkaga Naar, Grihapravesham, Sathyam, Uthaman, Chitra Pournami, Rojavin Raja, Avan Oru Charitram, Ilaya Thalaimurai, Ennai Pol Oruvar; 1977: Deepam, Naam Pirandha Maar, Annan Oru Koyil, Andaman Kathali, Chanakya Chandragupta, Jeevana Theeralu; 1978: Thyagam, Punya Bhoomi, General Chakravarthi, Thacholi Ambu, Pilot Premnath, Justice Gopinath; 1979: Thirisulam, Emayam, Kavarimar, Nallathoru Kudumbam, Naan Vazhavippen, Pattakathi Bhairavan, Vetrikku Oruvar; 1980: Dharma Raja, Yamanukku Yamar, Ratha Pasam, Rishi Moolam, Vishwa Roopam; 1981: Amarakaviyam, Sathyam Sundaram, Mohana Ponnagai, Kalthoor, Lorry Driver Rajakannu, Madi Veetu Ezhai, Kizhvanam Sivakkam; 1982: Hitler Umanath, Oorukku Oru Pillai,

Sivaji Ganesan and Helen in Uthama Puthran (1958)

Vaa Kanna Vaa; Garuda Sowkiyama; Sangili; Vasanthathil Oru Naal; Theerpu; Thyagi; Paritchaikku Neramchu; Oorum Uravum; Nenjangal; Nivurigappina Nippu; Thunai; 1983: Neethipathi; Imaigal; Sandhippu; Mridanga Chakravarthi; Sumangali; Vellai Roja; Uruvavugal Maralam; Bezwada Bebbuli; 1984: Thiruppam; Chiranjeevi; Tharasu; Vazhka; Charitra Nayakan; Simma Soppanam; Ezhuthantha Sattangal; Iru Methaigal; Vamsa Vilakku; Thavani Kanavuka; 1985: Bandham; Nam Iruvar; Padikkatha Panayar; Neethiyin Nizhal; Nermai; Muthal Mariyathai; Raja Rishi; Padikkadhavar; 1986: Sadhanai; Marumagal; Ananda Kannir; Viduthalai; Thaikkuru Oru Thalattu; Maaveerar; Lakshmi Vandhachur; 1987: Veerapandian; Mutukkal Moonru; Anbulla Appa; Thambathiyam; Vishwanatha Nayakudu; Agni Putrudu; 1988: En Thamil En Makkal; Marmagal; Pudhiya Vanam; 1991: Gnana Parava; 1992: Muthal Kural; Thevar Magan; Nangal; Chinna Marumagal; 1993: Paramparyam; 1995: Pasumponn.

Ganesh, Gemini

Aka Ramaswamy Ganesan, known in Tamil as Kadhal Mannan (King of Romance). Tamil star also known for performances in Telugu, Malayalam and Hindi. Graduated in chemistry and worked at the Madras Christian College. Joined the Gemini Studio in 1946 as casting assistant. Became a star with his double role in Manampola Mangalyam, during the making of which he met Telugu and Tamil star Savitri, whom he married. Known mainly for soft romantic roles (e.g. Kalyana Parisu), or Vanjikottai Valiban (where he played opposite two female leads, Padmini and Vyjayanthimala); also for love stories in which he plays the loser. Later played in mythologicals, e.g. A.P. Nagarajan's Kandan Karunai and several P. Subramanyam films in Malayalam such as Kumara Sambhavam; the melodramatic lead with Sowcar Janaki in Panthulu's Tamil remake of School Master. Father of Hindi star Rekha.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1947: Miss Malini; 1952: Thayi Ullam; 1953: Avvaiyyar; Manampola Mangalyam; 1954: Penn; 1955: Maheshwari; Valliyin Selvam; Maman Magal; Kanavane Kan Kanda Daivam; Kalam Maripochu; Pennin Perumai; Missamma; 1956: Prema Pasam; Asai; Devata; Mathar Kula Manikam; Sadaram; 1957: Miss Mary; Manalane Mangayin Bhagyam; Mallika; Maya Bazaar; Yar Paiyan; Saubhagyavati; Karpurakarasi; Kutumba Gauravam; 1958: Thirumanam; Vanjikottai Valiban; Raj Tilak; Pati Bhakti; Kadan Vangi Kalyanam; School Master/Badi Panthulu; Bhuloka Rambha/Bhuloka Rambhai/Pareeksha; 1959: Kalyana Parisu; Veerapandiya Kattaboman/Amar Shaheed; Vazha Vaitha Daivam; Nalla Theerpu; Adisaya Thirudar; Bhagya Devatha/Bhagya Devathai; Ponnu Vilayam Bhoomi; 1960: Kalathur Kannamma; Parthiban Kanavu; Pudhiya Pathai; Meenda Sorgam; Ellorum Innattu Mannar; Kairasi; 1961: Kappalotiya Thamizhar; Pasamalar; Nazrana; Saugandh; Bhagya

Lakshmi; Thennilavu; Pavamanippu; Panithirai; 1962: Kathirunda Kanka; Konjum Salangai; Adiperaku; Parthal Pasi Theerum; Sumaithangi; Manithan Maravillai; Patha Kannikka; Swarnamanjari/Mangaiyar Ullam Mangada Selvam; 1963: Lavakusa; Idayathil Nee; Karpagam; Ezhai Pangalan; 1964: Oralkoodi Kalanayi; Pasamum Nesamum; Vazhka Vazhvaradarke; 1965: Hello Mister Zamindar; 1966: Ramu; Chinnachiru Ulagam; Thene Mazhai; 1967: Kandan Karunai; Pattathu Rani; Seeta; Padhyam; Penn Entral Penn; 1968: Balaram Shri Krishna; Panama Pasama; Thamarai Nenjam; 1969: Kumara Sambhavam; Avare En Daivam; Iru Koduka; Kuzhandai Ullam; Thanga Malar; Porsilai; Aindhu Laksham; Manaivi; Shanti Nilayam; Kulavilakku; 1970: Ethirkalam; Tapalkaran Thangai; Sorgam; Sinehithi; Kanmalar; Kaviya Thalaivi; Malathi; 1971: Punnagai; 1972: Kanna Nalama; Enna Mudalali Sowkiyama; Appa Tata; Kurathi Magar; Ellai Kodu; Velli Vizha; Daivam; Shakti Leela; Professor; Shri Guruvayoorappan; 1973: Ganga Gauri; Nalla Mudivu; School Master; Thirumalai Daivam; Malai Nattu Mangai; Kattilla Thottilla; Jesus; 1974: Manikka Thothil; Nan Avanillai; Devi Shri Karumariammar; Devi Kanyakumari; 1975: Swami Ayyappan; Uravukku Kaya Koduppam; 1976: Dashavatharam; Idaya Malar; Lalitha; Unakkaga Naam; 1977: Naam Pirandha Maar; Shri Murugar; Oka Thalli Katha; 1978: Shri Kanchi Kamakshi; Bhrashthu; 1979: Allavudeenum Albutha Velakkum/Allavudeenum Arputha Vilakkum/Alladdin and the Wonderful Lamp; Gnana Kuzhandhai; 1983: Oppantham; Soorakottai Singhakutty; 1988: Rudraveena; Unnal Mudiyyum Thambi; Ponmana Selvan.

Ganguly, Dharendraanath (1893-1978)

Bengali director, painter and actor born in Calcutta. Studied in Shantiniketan, graduated from the Government School of Art, Calcutta (1915); art teacher in the Nizam's Art College, Hyderabad. Successful portrait painter and sought to extend his oil painting techniques into photography. Published 2 collections of photographic self-portraits, Bhaber Abhiyakti and Biye (1922), as photo montages with Ganguly himself modelling all the characters. Set up Indo-British Film (1918) in Calcutta with Nitish Lahiri. First film, Bilet Pherat, was probably ready in 1919. Returned to Hyderabad and set up Lotus Film (1922-4) on the Nizam's invitation. Went back to Calcutta, after a short stay in Bombay, and started British Dominion Films Studio (1929) together with P.C. Barua. Remained ardent supporter of Empire Films concept. Unable to sustain his studio into the sound era, he went freelance in 1934, including two separate periods at New Theatres. With Bilet Pherat introduced a type of satire into film (continued in The Marriage Tonic, Takay Ki Na Hay) analogous to 19th C. tradition of Naksha satirical literature, drawing on Pat painting and the musical satires of Calcutta Theatres. Among his later films were adaptations of Premendra Mitra's novels (e.g. Ahuti, Daabi).

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* act only): 1921: Bilet Pherat; Shri Radha Krishna; 1922: Sadhu Aur Shaitan; Indrajit; Lady Teacher; Hara Gauri; Chintamani; Bimata; 1923: The Marriage Tonic; Yayati; 1927: Shankaracharya; 1930: Panchasar; Kamaner Aagun; Alik Babu; 1931: Takay Ki Na Hay; Charitraheen; Maraner Pare (all St); 1933: Mastuto Bhai; 1934: Excuse Me, Sir; Night Bird; Halkatha; 1935: Bidrohi; 1936: Country Girl; Dwipantar; 1938: Halbangala; Achin Priya; Abhisarika; 1940: Path Bhoole; Karmakhali; 1941: Pratishodh; Ahuti; 1943: Daabi; 1947: Srinkhal; 1948: Shesh Nibedan; 1949: Cartoon; 1962: Abhisarika; Rakta Palash.

Ganguly, Jahar (1904-69)

Actor born in 24 Parganas Dist., Bengal. Major stage actor, dancer and singer in Calcutta Theatres, e.g. as Fatikchand in Poshyaputra (1932) and as Bhola Moira in Anthony Kabial in the late 60s. Broke through in film with Premankur Atorthy's Dena Paona. Cast in almost 1/3 of Bengali films in 40s and 50s as a character actor in comedy counterparts to the dramatic lead. A crucial mediator between the Calcutta Theatres style and popular cinema (e.g. his Jyotish Bannerjee and Naresh Mitra films). Best-remembered lead role as Manas opposite Kanan Devi's Niharika in Manmoyee Girls' School, a part reprised from his 1932 Art Theatres production. Also major role in Shahar Theke Dooray, and remarkable cameos in Satyajit Ray's Parash Pathar and Chidiakhana. Continued as stage actor until the 60s.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1931: Geeta (St); Dena Paona; 1934: Tulsidas; 1935: Manmoyee Girls' School; Mantra Shakti; Payer Dhulo; Kanthahaar; 1936: Pather Sheshey; Kal Parinaya; Mahanisha; Bishabriksha; 1937: Talkie of Talkies; 1938: Sarbajanin Bibahotsab; Bekar Nashar; Ekalavya; 1939: Janak Nandini; Jakher Dhar; Nara Narayan; Sharmistha; Vaman Avatar; 1941: Kavi Joydev; Bijoyini; Pratishodh; Shri Radha; Nandini; Pratishrut; Karnarjur; 1942: Nari; Bhishma; Garmi; Milar; Bondi; Pashan Devata; Shesh Uttar/Jawab; 1943: Shahar Theke Dooray; Sahadharmini; Jogajog/Hospital; Dwanda; Poshya Putra; Nilanguriya; Jajsaheber Nathni; Paper Pathey; Dampati; Rani; Priya Bandhabi; 1944: Matir Ghar; Samaj; Shesh Raksha; Chhadmabeshi; Sandhya; 1945: Bondita; Kato Door; Do Tana; Path Bendhe Dilo; Mane Na Mana; Kalankini; Grihalakshmi; Dui Purush; Raj Lakshmi; 1946: Pather Sathi; Sat Number Bari; Ae To Jibar; Natun Bow; Bande Mataram; Matrihara; Tumi Aar Ami; Dukhe Jader Jiban Gara; 1947: Pather Daabi; Abhiyatri; Srinkhal; Ratri; Jharer Parey; Mandir; Swapna-o-Sadhana; Tapobhanga; Ramer Sumati; 1948: Anirban; Bankalekha; Nandaranir Sansar; Narir Rup; Sadharan Meye; Samapika; 1949: Rangamati; Sankalpa; Anuradha; Abhijaty; Abhimaan; Kamana; Mahadan; Niruddesh; Singhdwar; 1950: Bires Lahiri; Indranath; Mahasampad; Kankantala Light Railway; Eki Gramer Chhele; Banprastha; Garabini; Gipsy Meye; Mejdidi; Sahodar, 1951: Kulhara; Babla, 1952: Meghmukti; 1953: Sat Number Kayedi; Makarshar Jaal; Keranir Jibar; Harilakshmi; Sitar Patal Prabesh; Niskriti; 1954: Maa-o-Chhele; Nababidhan; Naa; Kalyani; Mani-Aar-Manik; Sati; Barbela; Agni Pareeksha; Nilshari; Shivashakti; Grihapraves; Mantra Shakti; 1955: Nishiddha Phal; Devatra; Parishodh; Bidhilipi; Kalo Bour; Godhuli; Dui Bone; Mejo Bour; Bhagwan Shri Shri Ramakrishna; Bhalobasha(?); 1956: Sagarika; Asabarna; Saheb Bibi Golam; He Maha Manab; Chirakumar Sabha; Paradhir; Asamapta; Trijama; Mamlar Phal; Rajpath; Nabajanma; Bandhan; Chhaya Sangini(?); Asha; 1957: Bara Maa(?); Tapasi; Madhu Malati; Ghoom; Baksiddha; Adarsha Hindu Hotel; Chhaya Path; Parer Chheley; Punar Milan; Ogo Sunchho; Abhoyer Biye; Ami-Baro-Habo; Madhabir Jonye; Chandranath; Parash Pathar; 1958: Shri Shri Maa; Bandhu; Manmoyee Girls' School; Kangsa; Dak Harkara; Jogajog; O Amar Desher Mati; Purir Mandir; 1959: Janmantar; 1960: Khokha Babur Pratyabartan; Chhupi Chhupi Ashe; Gariber Meye; Ajana Kahini; Nader Nimai; Biyer Khata; 1961: Manik; Raibahadur; Kathin Maya; 1962: Bandhan; Nabadiganta; 1963: Dui Bari; Barnachora; Sat Bhai; Nirjan Saikate; Palatak; Tridhara; Nyayadanda; Uttar Falguni; 1964: Jiban Kahini; Bireswar Vivekananda; Kanta Taar; Natun Tirtha; Dui Parba; 1965: Dinanter Aor; Raja Rammohur; Mukhuje Paribar; 1966: Ramdhakka; Shesh Tin Din; Sudhu Ekti Bachhar; 1967: Mahashweta; Chidiakhana; 1968: Charan Kabi Mukundadas; Hansamithun; 1969: Arogyaniketan; Pita Putra; Protidan.

Gangul y, Jiban (1905-53)

Calcutta Theatres stage star, e.g. as Lav in Sisir Bhaduri's Natyamandir production of Seeta (1924). Lead role in the film of Atorthy's novel Chasher Meye made a substantial impact on New Theatres' early style of 'following the path of literature' (B.N. Sircar, 1952; cf. B. Jha, 1990). Played several literary roles, e.g. in Sailajananda Mukherjee's novel Pataal Puri filmed by Priyanath Ganguly and in Tagore's Gora filmed by Naresh Mitra.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1927: Shankaracharya; 1930: Bigraha; 1931: Chasher Meye; Abhishek; 1932: Sandigdha (all St); 1933: Sabitri; 1934: Taruni; 1935: Pataal Puri; Swayambara; 1936: Kal Parinaya; Sonar Sansar; 1937: Ranga Bour; Muktisnar; 1938: Sarbjanan Bibahotsab; Abhigyan; Gora; 1939: Parasmani; Parajay; 1940: Tatinir Bichar; Shapmukti; Thikadar; 1941: Mayer Pran; 1943: Paper Pathey; 1949: Samarpar; Pratirodh; 1950: Krishan; Panchayat; 1951: Kulhara; 1954: Vikram Urvashi; Narmedh Yagna; Chitragada.

Gangul y, Priyanath N. (1887-1956)

One of Madan's top silent directors together with Jyotish Bannerjee. Started working for Madan in 1904. Directorial debut with experimental comedy short Bear-scare in the Rajah's Garden Party. Embarked on a series of documentaries, Swadeshi Films, for Madan's Elphinstone Bioscope, made with Kumar Gupta and covering e.g. the Prince of Wales's visit (1905), the Grand Masonic Procession (1906), etc. Started Asiatic Cinematograph Co. in Calcutta, a production and distribution concern that built two theatres in the city and shot Indian visit of George V in direct competition with the Madan unit and Hiralal Sen (1911). Early features at Madan included versions of Bankimchandra Chatterjee's novels (Krishnakanter Will, Durgesh Nandini and Debi Choudhrani). Manager of Madan's Elphinstone Picture Palace in the early 30s. Joined East India Film and took over Kali Films/India Film Industry (1935) where he hired Sisir Bhaduri, Satu Sen, Sushil Majumdar, Tulsi Lahiri and encouraged the post-Kallol generation of film-makers (esp. novelist-film-maker Sailajananda Mukherjee, filming his novel Pataal Puri). Kali Films also produced the first film in Oriya, the mythological Seeta Bibaha (1934).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1926: Krishnakanter Will; 1927: Jana; Durgesh Nandini; 1929: Kapal Kundala; 1930: Kal Parinaya; 1931: Debi Choudhrani (all St); Prahlad; 1933: Jamuna Puliney Radha Krishna; 1934: Taruni; 1935: Pataal Puri; Bidyasundar; 1936: Kal Parinaya.

Gemini Pictures

Aka Gemini Studios. Best-known Madras studio in the 40s for redefining the concept of mass entertainment with Chandralekha (1948), the first Madras film to break successfully into the Hindi cinema. S.S. Vasam started Gemini as a distribution agency, the Gemini Pics Circuit, distributing and partly financing films by K. Subramanyam's Motion Pics Producers Combine. When the Combine went bankrupt, Vasam bought the studio in 1939 at public auction for a mere Rs 86,427-11 (Annas)-9 (Paise) (according to Randor Guy). The studio's debut feature was probably Balkrishna Narayan Rao's Madanakamarajan (1941), but it only took off when cameraman-scenarist K. Ramnoth joined it along with his Vauhini partner, art-director A.K. Sekhar. This team made most of Gemini's early features: Mangamma Sapatham (1943), Kannamma En Kadhali (1945) and Miss Malini (1947) before the Chandralekha blitz catapulted it on to the national stage. In the early days, the most important event in the studio was Uday Shankar's dance extravaganza Kalpna (released 1948) which also provided training for most of Gemini's technicians as well as providing the model for an Orientalist dance idiom later associated with influential Tamil choreographers like Hiralal and Chopra Master. A few minor hits followed Chandralekha before the studio's second major onslaught on the national box office with Apoorva Sahodarargal (1949), a trilingual that established the studio's dominance in the genre of the costumed adventure movie. Although its Hindi version Nishan was not a major success, Vasam continued making Hindi films, often signing them himself: e.g. the Dilip Kumar and Dev Anand film Insaniyat (1955), Vyjayanthimala's Raj Tilak (1958) and Paigham (1959) starring Dilip Kumar, Raaj Kumar and Vyjayanthimala. They also made the megabudget Tamil classic Avvaiyyar (1953). An important later production was Motor Sundaram Pillai (1966), Sivaji Ganesan's only film at this studio. In 1958 the studio expanded into the Gemini Colour lab, licensed by Eastmancolor Kodak film. After Vasam's death, his son S.S. Balasubramanyam produced the unsuccessful Ellorum Nallavare (1975). Gemini's productions declined in the 70s, although it remained successful as a studio and equipment rental business now taken over by the Anand Cine Services.

General Pictures Corporation

First professional film studio in Madras; Est: 1929 at Tondiarpet by film-maker A. Narayanan after visiting Universal City in Hollywood. It was linked to a distribution-exhibition network extending into Burma and Singapore. Prominent film-makers included R.S. Prakash, C. Pullaiah (as cameraman) and Y.V. Rao (initially as actor). General Pics consolidated the pioneering work of R. Venkaiah and Prakash with Star of the East Film and made 18 features and a number of shorts commissioned by e.g. the Health Department and by Imperial Chemical Industries (Burma Oil Company Fire, The Spirit of Agriculture, etc.). It closed in 1933, being replaced by the Srinivasa Cinetone sound studio in 1934.

George, Kul akkatil Geevarghese (b. 1945)

Malayalam director born in Tiruvalla, Kerala, into Syrian Christian family; son of a signboard painter. Graduate in political science from University of Kerala (1967). Diploma from FTII (1971), then for three years assistant to Kariat (e.g. on Maya, 1972) contributing substantially to some documentaries credited to Kariat (e.g. Manavallakurchi: My Village, 1973). Films often use contemporary political or social issues as a pivot for thriller-like plots (e.g. Yavanika). Controversial film Lekhayude Maranam Oru Flashback (Lekha's Death is a shorter version by c.40') faced legal controversy for allegedly exploiting the suicide of actress Shobha. Commercially successful films also enjoy a large art-house following in Kerala. Produced the film Mahanagaram (Rajeev Kumar, 1992).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1971: Faces (Sh); Health in the Village (Doc); 1975: Swapnadanam; 1977: Vyamoham; 1978: Onappudava; Rappadigalude Gatha; Mannu; Ini Aval Urangatte; 1979: Ulkada; 1980: Mela; Kolangal; 1982: Yavanika; 1983: Lekhayude Maranam Oru Flashback; Adaminte Variyellu; 1984: Panchavadippalam; 1985: Irakal; 1987: Kathakku Pinnil; 1988: Mattoral; Yathrayude Anthyam (TV); 1990: Ee Kanni Koodi.

Ghai, Subhash (b. 1943)

Hindi director born in Nagpur. Along with Manmohan Desai and Ramesh Sippy, one of the top producer-directors of 80s Hindi cinema. Graduated as actor from the FTII (1968), then actor and scenarist, collaborating with B.B. Halla (e.g. Khan Dost, 1976). Directorial debut produced by N.N. Sippy. Broke through with Karz. Lavish song picturisations underline his commitment to big-screen spectaculars. Claims independence from the star system but relies on it for his extravagant marketing campaigns, regularly using Dilip Kumar, Anil Kapoor and Jackie Shroff. Also acted in a number of films (Aradhana, 1969; Umang, 1970; Bharat Ke Shaheed and Do Bachche Dus Haath, 1972; Grahan, 1972; Dhamki, 1973; Natak, 1975). Became independent producer with his own Mukta Arts (1983). His most recent feature, Khalnayak, attracted censorship problems because of Madhuri Dixit's performance of the provocative song Choli ke peeche. The film also featured Sanjay Dutt who was arrested shortly before its release charged with being implicated in the bomb explosions in Bombay in March 1993. Also produced Uttar Dakshin (1987) and Mukul Anand's Trimurti (1995).

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1976: Kalicharan; 1978: Vishwanath; 1979: Gautam Govinda; 1980: Karz; 1981: Krodhi; 1982: Vidhata; Meri Jung; 1983: Hero; 1986: Karma; 1989: Ram Lakhar; 1991: Saudagar; 1993: Khalnayak.

Ghantasala Venkateswara Rao (1923-74)

Telugu and Tamil composer and also singer. Legendary name in popular Telugu music who sang over 10,000 songs in his career, and composed, apparently, for over 125 films. Born in Chautapelle, Gudivada Taluk, AP, the son of a musician. Orphaned as a child. Child actor, in near slavery conditions, in plays like Chintamani and Sant Sakkubai. Apprenticed to the school of Susarla Krishna Brahma Sastry; graduated from the music school at Vijayanagar while earning a living as an itinerant singer and beggar. Received the title of Vidwan in 1941. Was arrested and imprisoned in the Alipore jail for singing patriotic songs during Gandhi's Satyagraha agitations (1942). Went to Madras (1945); cast in small film roles, e.g. Balaramaiah's Seeta Rama Jananam (1942) and Thyagayya (1946), while occasionally recording for AIR. Broke through in Swargaseema (1945), singing duets with Bhanumati to Nagaiiah's score. Turned composer for L.V. Prasad's Mana Desam. Known mainly for love duets (recently released on cassette by HMV, titled Divyaprema). Combined native idioms with classical Carnatic styles, e.g. in compositions for Chiranjeevulu and Rahasyam, set to the lyrics of Malladi Ramakrishna Sastry. His work in these two films was, to V.A.K. Ranga Rao, his best film work although both films flopped. Also produced Paropakaram (1953). Made a rare screen appearance in the hit Shri Venkateswara Mahatyam (1960).

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* act only): 1949: Mana Desam; Keelugurram/Maya Kudhirai; 1950: Shavukaru; Lakshamma; 1951: Nirdoshi/Niraparadhi; Patala Bhairavi; 1952: Palletooru; Pelli Chesu Choodu; 1953: Chandraharam; Paropakaram; Bratuku Theruvu; 1955: Kalvanin Kadhali; 1956: Chiranjeevulu; 1957: Maya Bazaar; Thodi Kodallu; Vinayaka Chaviti; 1958: Manchi Manushuku Manchi Roju; 1959: Shabash Ramudu; 1960: Shantinivasam; Shri Venkateswara Mahatyam; 1961: Raktha Sambandham; 1962: Gundamma Katha; 1963: Lavakusa; Veera Kesari/Bandhipotu; Valmiki; Paruvu Pratishtalu; Anuragam; 1964: Satyanarayana Mahatyam; 1965: Simhachala Kshetram; Pandava Vanavasam; Madhuvu Madi Nodu; CID; 1966: Paramanandayya Sishyula Katha; 1967: Peddakayya; Rahasyam; Punyavati; Nirdoshi; 1968: Veerapooja; Govula Gopanna; Pantalu Pattimpulu; 1969: Jarigina Katha; 1970: Nanna Thamma; 1971: Ramalayam; 1972: Menakodalu; Vamsodharakudu; 1973: Poola Mala; 1974: Ammayi Pelli; Tulasi; 1977: Sati Savitri; Vasthade Maa Bava.

Ghatak, Anupam (1911-47)

Second-generation Bengali-Hindi composer (after Rai Chand Boral and Pankaj Mullick) born in Mymensingh (now Bangladesh). Studied music under his father Atul Ghatak and later under Keshab Ganesh Dhekan, becoming a noted flautist. Sang on radio (1930). Assisted composer Bishen Chand Boral in Hiren Bose's Mahua (1934) at New Theatres, and then Rai Chand Boral for the classic Bidyapati/Vidyapati (1937). First independent film score: Payer Dhulo. Later worked at Sagar Film in Bombay, composing Zia Sarhadi's Bhole Bhale and a series of films for Badami, Luhari et al. (1939). Returned to Calcutta, notably for Barua's Shapmukti; thereafter had assignments in both Calcutta and Lahore. Known for his wide range, from the sentimental Ekti paisa dao go babu in Shapmukti to the experimental Gane more kon indradhanu in Agni Pareeksha.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* act only): 1934: *Mahua; 1935: Payer Dhulo; *Bidrohi; 1936: *Grihadah; 1939: Bhole Bhale; Ladies Only; Sadhana; Seva Samaj; Uski Tamanna; 1940: Shapmukti; Civil Marriage; 1941: Karnarjuri; Mayer Pran; 1942: Pashan Devata; 1943: Shri Ramanuja; 1945: Champa; 1946: Ayi Bahar; Badnami; Khush Naseeb; Shalimar; 1947: Aisa Kyon; Faisla; 1948: Banjare; 1949: Abhishapta; 1950: Shri Tulsidas; 1953: Shamsheer; 1954: Kalyani; Agni Pareeksha; 1955: Anupama; Devimalini; Pareshi; Drishhti; 1956: Kirti Garh; Ekti Raat; Shankar Narayan Bank; Asamapta; Nagardola; 1957: Madhabir Jonye; Ektara; Surer Parashey; Parer Chheley.

Ghatak, Ritwik Kumar (1925-76)

Bengali director born in Dhaka. Left East Bengal (now Bangladesh) in early youth when family migrated to Calcutta. Became politically active (1946) and joined the IPTA as playwright, director and actor (1948-54), including Bijon Bhattacharya's production of Nabanna (1948) and his Jwala (1950) and Officer (1952). Set up Natyachakra Theatre Group, then broke away to work with Sombhu Mitra's Bohurupee Group (1949). Entered film as assistant to Manoj Bhattacharya (Tathapi, 1950). Acted and was generally involved in the making of Chinnamul, helping to transform documentary film into committed fiction cinema, an effort extended into Nagarik (1952, released in 1977). Continued street theatre work and was voted best theatre actor and director at all-India IPTA conference, Bombay (1953). Forced out of IPTA because of ideological differences and set up Group Theatre (1954) animated by his interpretation of Stanislavski's approach. Purged from CPI (1955). Joined Filmistan in Bombay as scenarist; scripted Bimal Roy's Madhumati (1958) and collaborated with Hrishikesh Mukherjee on Musafir (1957). Professor of Film Direction and Vice-Principal of the FTII (1966-7). Wrote the play Sei Meye while in a mental asylum and staged it there with doctors and patients (1969). Suffered increasingly from alcoholism. Active in cine technicians' unions throughout his career. Authored numerous short stories, at least eight plays including Bengali adaptations of Gogol and Brecht. Among his published writings on film are Chalachitra Manash Ebam Aro Kichhu (1975) and Cinema and I (1987, the first volume of a collected works project by the Ritwik Memorial Trust). Anthologies of critical writings on Ghatak by Shampa Bannerjee (1982), Haimanti Bannerjee (1985) and Rajat Roy (1979, 1983). Also scripted Swaralipi (1961), Kumari Mon (1962), Dwiper Nam Tiya Rang (1963) and Raj Kanya (1965). Within the political framework of WW2, the 1943 famine and Partition, Ghatak launched with Ajantrik a new investigation into film form, expanding the refugee experience into a universalised leitmotiv of cultural dismemberment and exile evoking an epic tradition drawing on tribal, folk and classical forms (Buddhist sculpture, Baul music, the khayal). As a film-maker investigating cinema's image-sound dialectic in epic constructs, Ghatak's unconventional, even idiosyncratic use of e.g. Tagore in his films - evoking the character of Shakuntala from Prachin Sahitya in Komal Gandhar, and the Shishu Tirth sequence in the bar in

Ritwik Ghatak in his Jukti Takko Aar Gappo (1974)

Subarnarekha - has been analysed in contrast to the assimilation of Tagore in other Bengali films. Aesthetically his work can be placed alongside that of Bengali novelist Manik Bandyopadhyay (1908-56) and the teachings of his musical forbear Ustad Allauddin Khan. His influence has been most fundamental on his FTII students (1964-5), e.g. Kumar Shahani, Mani Kaul and John Abraham.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* act only): 1950:

Tathapi*; Chinnamul; 1952: Bedeni (incomplete); Nagarik; 1954: Naramedh Yagya; 1955: Adivasiyon Ka Jeevan Srot (Doc); Bihar Ke Darshaniya Sthan (Doc); 1957: Ajantrik; 1959: Bari Theke Paliye, Kata Ajanare (incomplete); 1960: Meghe Dhaka Tara; 1961: Komal Gandhar; 1962: Subarnarekha; Scissors (Sh); 1963: Ustad Allauddin Khan (Doc) (uncredited); 1964: Bagalar Bangadarshan (incomplete); 1965: Fear (Sh); Rendezvous (Sh); 1967: Scientists of Tomorrow (Doc); 1968: Raunger Gholam (incomplete); 1970: Puruliar Chhou Nriya (Doc); Amar Lenin (Sh); Yeh Kyun? (Sh); 1971: Durbargati Padma (Sh); 1972: Indira Gandhi (Doc) (incomplete); 1973: Titash Ekti Nadir Naam; 1974: Jukti Takko Aar Gappo; 1975: Ramkinker (Doc) (incomplete).

Ghose, Gautam (b. 1950)

Bengali director born in Faridpur, East Bengal (now Bangladesh). Father was a professor of English literature. Active in student politics in Calcutta. Freelance journalist and fringe theatre director. Made early documentaries as extension of his photojournalism. Influenced in this early practice by documentarist Sukhdev, who inspired him to do his own screenplays, camerawork, music and editing (in his early films). First feature, Maabhoomi, based on the Telangana uprising of 1941, imbues fiction with semi-documentary mode influenced by Solanas/Getton films of the 60s and by the folk Burrakatha form. Later moved to more conventional forms. Often places his stories in conditions of extreme social marginality, presented through his actors as physical, primitive and elemental battles of survival (Dakhal Paar). Worked with the writings of Bengali novelist Kamal Kumar Majumdar (e.g. Antarjali Jatra). Most recent film Padma Nadir Majhi is an ambitious and expensive Indo-Bangladesh co-production adapting a classic novel by Manik Bandyopadhyay. Also directed a TV series adapting famous Bengali short stories (1986). Acted in Buddhadev Dasgupta's Grihajuddha (1982), playing the reporter Sandipan who is killed, and composed the music for Agni Sanket (Sanjib Chattopadhyay, 1988).

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1973: New Earth (Doc); 1976: Hungry Autumn (Doc); Chains of Bondage (Doc); 1979: Maabhoomi; 1981: Dakhal; Development in Irrigation (Doc); 1984: Paar; 1985: Parampara (Doc); 1986: The Land of Sand Dunes (Doc); A Tribute to Odissi (Doc); 1987: Ek Ghat Ki Kahani (Doc); Antarjali Jatra; Mahayatra; 1989: Sange Meel Se Mulaqat (Doc); 1990: Mohor (Doc); 1991: The Bird of Time (Doc); 1992: Padma Nadir Majhi; 1993: Patang.

Ghosh, Kal iprasad (b. 1889)

Bengali director educated at Calcutta University. Started as theatre director with Calcutta Theatres Minerva Company. Established Indian Kinema Arts (1927) with Minerva proprietor Ghanshyamdas Chokhani. Joined East India Film in 1932 and Bombay's Sagar Movietone in 1934 before returning to Calcutta (1936).

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1927: Shankaracharya; 1928: Nishiddha Phal; 1929: Apahrita; 1930: Kanthahaar; 1932: Bhagya Lakshmi (all St); 1934: Shaher Ka Jadoo; 1936: Lagna Bandhan; 1943: Jajsaheber Nathni; 1948: Dhatri Debata; 1950: Vidyasagar; 1952: Kar Papey; 1955: Rani Rashmoni; 1958: Shri Shri Maa.

Ghosh, Nachiketa (1924-76)

Bengali and Hindi composer. A doctor by training; also known as an accomplished tabla player. Trained in music by Anathnath Basu and Latafat Hussain. Worked briefly in radio. His compositions recall Hemanta Mukherjee's work in defining a typically post-Independence 'adhunik' (modern/contemporary) popular idiom characterised by eclecticism and its sentimental address to an urban middle class. Popular compositions in Joydev and in 70s films like Bilambita Lay, Nishipadma, Dhanyi Meye and Stree. Also set nursery rhymes to music which remained popular.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1953: Boudir Bone; 1954: Joydev; 1955: Nishiddha Phal; Pather Sheshey; Jharer Parey; Bhalobasha; Ardhangini; 1956: Trijama; Nabajanma; 1957: Tapasi; Prithibi Amar Chai; Harishchandra; Natun Prabhat; Rastar Chhele; 1958: Bandhu; Bhanu Pelo Lottery; Indrani; Rajdhani Theke; Jonakir Alo; 1959: Chaowa-Pawa; Swapna Puri; Derso Khokhar Kando; Kichhukshar; Nirdharita Silpir Anupastithi Tey; Personal Assistant; 1960: Akash-patal; Haat Baraley Bandhu; Khudha; Biyeer Khata; 1961: Kanamachi; 1964: Kanta Taar; 1968: Chhoto Jignasa; Rakta Rekha; 1969: Chiradiner; Shesh Theke Shuru; 1970: Nishipadma; Bilambita Lay; 1971: Fariyad; Dhanyi Meye; 1972: Chinnapatra; Natun Diner Alo; Stree; Sabari; 1973: Agni Bhramar; Bon Palashir Padabali; Nakal Sona; Nani Gopaler Biye; Shravan Sandhya; 1974: Alor Thikana; Asati; Sujata; Mouchak; 1975: Chhutir Phande; Kajal Lata; Nagar Darpane; Priya Bandhabi; Sanyasi Raja; Swayamsiddha; Sei Chokh; 1976: Mom Batti; Ananda Mela; Hotel Snow Fox; 1976: Asadharan; 1977: Brajabuli; 1984: Abhishek.

Ghosh, Nemai (1914-88)

Bengali and Tamil director/cameraman. Born in Calcutta. Assistant to Bibhuti Das at the Aurora Studio (1932); resigned following a trade union dispute. For several years involved with a cine-technicians' union. Member of the Calcutta Film Society from the outset (1943) and was considered by Ray as his first-choice cameraman for Pather Panchali (1955). Member of the IPTA, acting in its seminal play Nabanna. First film: Chinnamul, a classic of IPTA-inspired socialist realism, admirably reviewed by Pudovkin in Pravda (1951). Moved to Madras (1951) where he worked as cameraman on Tamil and Kannada films, e.g. G.V. Iyer's Hamsa Geethe (1975). Key member of a Marxist collective, the Kumari Films Co-op, which produced Padhai Theriyudu Paar. Also made documentaries, e.g. Light and Candle and Mysore University. Vice-President of the Federation of Film Societies for several years and a Naxalite sympathiser in the 70s.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1950: Chinnamul; 1960: Padhai Theriyudu Paar; 1981: Sooravalli.

Ghosh, Parbati (b. 1944)

Oriya actress and director. Started as actress aged 6. Known mainly as producer, with husband Gaura Ghosh, producing seminal films in the early history of the Oriya cinema, e.g. Bhai Bhai (1956); Lakshmi (1962); Kaa (1966). Turned to direction with Sansar (with her husband), and then adapted Fakir Mohan Senapati's classic 19th C. novel, Chamana Atha Guntha for directorial comeback.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1971: Sansar; 1986: Chamana Atha Guntha.

Ghosh, Robi (1931-97)

Major Bengali comedian. Best known in the role of Bagha in Satyajit Ray's fantasy, Goopy Gyne Bagha Byne, repeating the character in Hirak Rajar Deshe and in Sandeep Ray's sequel Goopy Bagha Phere Elo, as well as for the unemployed youth in Aranyer Din Ratri. Stage actor with Utpal Dutt's Little Theatre Group (1953-60), e.g. Chhayanat and Angar. 60s films continued in the line of Bengali film comedians (e.g. Tinkari Chakraborty, Indu Mukherjee, Amar Mullick, etc.). Ghosh regarded Tulsi Chakraborty, along with Harold Lloyd and Harry Langdon, as his main influence. Also acted in other Ray films (Abhijaan, Mahapurush, Aranyer Din Ratri, Jana Aranya), for Tapan Sinha (Apanjan, Sabuj Dwiper Raja) and Mrinal Sen (Abasheshe, Chorus). Also acted in almost all Dinen Gupta films between 1972-85. His small body, mobile face and extraordinary timing was acclaimed by his stage mentor, Utpal Dutt, for its Brechtian ability to slip in and out of the characters and stereotypes (used subversively in the role of Mr Mitter in Jana Aranya). Ghosh regards the comedian as uniquely able to communicate with diverse audiences, having assimilated both the boisterous folk comedy and the urbane comedy of manners. Ran the amateur stage group, Chalachal, which closed in 1970. Returned to the professional stage with e.g. Bibar (1973), Shrimati Bhayankari (1980), Kane Bibhrat (1983) and Sabash Peto Panchu (1988). Also directed two films, one (1974) under the pseudonym Ekalavya.

FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1959:

Kichhukshar; 1961: Megh; 1962: Hansuli Banker Upakatha; Abhijaan, Agur, Abasheshe; 1963: Nirjan Saikate; Palatak; Shesh Prahar; Chhaya Surya; Binimoy; Nyayadanda; 1964: Saptarshi; Kashtipathar; Natun Tirtha; Momer Alo; Lal Patthar; Subah-o-Debatargrash; 1965: Ek Tuku Basa; Surer Agur; Kal Tumi Aleya; 1966: Dolgoinder Karcha; Galpa Holeo Satti; Griha Sandhaney; Manihar; Swapnaniye; Uttar Purush; 1967: Ashite Ashio Na; 1968: Apanjan; Baghini; Baluchari; Hansa Mithur; Panchasar; Goopy Gyne Bagha Byne; 1969: Arogyaniketan; Bibaha Bibhrat; Teen Bhubhaner Parey; Satyakam; Aranyer Din Ratri; Teer Bhoomi; 1970: Sheela; Ae Korechho Bhalo; Rupasi; 1971: Dhanyi Meye; Kuheli; Pratibad; 1972: Ajker Nayak; Chhayatir; Padi Pishir Barmi Baksha; Shesh Parba; Basanta Bilap; Chitthi; Marjina Abdallah; Shriman Prithviraj; Alo Amar Alo; Maa-o-Mati; Subse Bada Sukh; Calcutta '71: 1973: Megher Pare Megh; Achena Atithi; Daabi; Pranta Rekha; 1974: *Sadhu Judhishthirer Karcha; Bikele Bhorer Phool; Chorus; Jadu Bansha; Phuleshwari; Rakta Tilak; Sangini; Thagini; Chhutir Phande; Mouchak; Premer Phande; 1975: Raag Anuraag; Sansar Simantey; Salaam Memsaab; Jana Aranya; Mohan Baganer Meye; Sudur Niharika; Harano Prapti Niruddesh; 1976: *Nidhi Ram Sardar; Ek Je Chhilo Desh; Ananda Mela; Dampati; Era-Ek-Jug; Jatayu; Samrat; Sankhabish; 1977: Abirvab; Brajabuli; Mantramugdha; Pratima; Proxy; Bar Bodhu; 1978: Nadi Theke Sagare; Ganadevata; Lattu; Charmurti; Tilottama; 1979: Jhor; Chirantan; Malancha; Nauka Dubi; Ghatkali; Sabuj Dwiper Raja; Samadhar; Satma; Shahar Theke Dooray; Sonay Suhaga; Krishna Sudama; 1980: Kuhasa; Bandhan; Bancha-ramer Bagan; Ae To Sansar; Gopal Bhanar; Hirak Rajar Deshe; Paka Dekha; Priyatama; Batasi; 1981: Baisakhi Megh; Kalankini; Pahari Phool; Subarna Golak; Meghmukti; Swami Stri; Maa Bipat Tarini Chand; Pratishodh; 1982: Amrita Kumbher Sandhaney; Rashmayir Rashikala; Raj Bodhu; Matir Swarga; Simanta Raag; 1983: Aparoopaa; Ae Chhilo Mone; Amar Geeti; Din Jay; Indira; Jay Parajay; Jiban Maran; Robi Shom; Kauke Bolo Na; Aloye Phera; Samarpita; Srinkhal; Banashree; Duti Pata; Mohaney Dike; 1984: Prarthana; Rashifal; Shorgol; Uncle; Vasundhara; Inquilab Ke Baad; 1985: Abasheshe; Hulusthu; Kenaram Becharam; Pratigya; Tagori; 1986: Abhishap; Abhimaan; Bouma; Jibar; 1987: Lalan Fakir; Aaj Ka Robin Hood; Bidrohi; Antarjali Jatra; Mahayatra; Raj Purush; Samrat-o-Sundari; Amor Sangi; 1988: Agni Sanket; Koroti; Antaranga; Ora Charjor; Madhuganjer Sumati; 1989: Shubha Kamana; Amar Tumi; 1990: Chakranta; Chetana; Jwar Bhata; Abhimanyu; 1991: Prashna; Amar Saathi; Palatak; Antarer Bhalobasha; Goopy Bagha Phera Elo; Agantuk; 1992: Padma Nadir Majhi; Anutap; Priya; Gunjan; Shaitan; Ananyi; Adhikar; 1993: Mon Mane Na; Kuchbaron Kanya; Maya Mamata; Krantikaal; Shanka; Prajapati; 1994: Tobu Mone Rekho; Geet Sangeet; Sagar; Phiriye Dao; 1995:

Kahini; Mohini; Pratidhani; Kumari Maa; Mejo Bou.

Gidwani, Moti B. (b. 1905)

Hindi director born in Karachi. Studied film-making in Britain (1926-7) and returned to make his first feature, which failed and helped close down Maharashtra Film. Went on to direct for Imperial and Sagar and made a name as a 'safe' freelance director. Evidence suggests he co-operated with Irani on making of Alam Ara (1931). Major successes in collaboration with Dalsukh Pancholi: the Punjabi film Yamla Jat, the musical thriller Khazanchi that lifted Lahore's local film industry into national prominence, and Zamindar. His Kisan Kanya was India's first colour production using Cinecolour process (Sairandhri, 1933, was processed in Germany).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1929: Nisha Sundari; 1930: Josh-e-Jawani; Veer Na Ver; Dav Pech; 1931: Gulam (all St); Anangsenaa; 1932: Niti Vijay; 1933: Daku Ki Ladki; Insaan Ya Shaitan; 1934: Manjari; Noor Mahal; 1936: Gulam Daku; 1937: Kisan Kanya; Do Auratein; 1940: Yamla Jat; 1941: Khazanchi; 1942: Zamindar; 1945: Kaise Kahur; 1946: Khamosh Nigahen.

Gohar Kayoum Mamajawal a (1910-85)

Mainly silent Hindi actress often billed as the Glorious Gohar. Born in Lahore. Daughter of actress; started on the stage as a child. Major star at Kohinoor. Left with Chandulal Shah to form Jagdish Film and then Ranjit. Her first hit was Homi Master's Lanka Ni Laadi. Acted in several Master films in roles especially scripted for her by Mohanlal Dave with strong roots in popular Gujarati serial novels. Shah later used her screen persona for his famous satires on Gujarat's urban business communities in Gohar's best-known silents, Typist Girl/Why I Became a Christian and Gunsundari/Why Husbands Go Astray. Some later films, esp. those alongside Raja Sandow, developed mythological associations, e.g. Betaab's scripts (Sati Savitri, Vishwamohini). Other films, in which she plays the upper-class socialite opposite the suave heroics of the brothers Bilimoria (Toofani Taruni, Barrister's Wife) were important items in Ranjit's popular film-novelettes.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1925: Baap Kamai; Ghar Jamai; Lanka Ni Laadi; 1926: Briefless Barrister; Lakho Vanjaro; Mumtaz Mahal; Prithvi Putra; Ra Kawat; Samrat Shiladitya; Sati Jasma; Shirin Farhad; Telephone Ni Taruni; Delhi No Thug; Typist Girl; Mena Kumari; 1927: Bhaneli Bhamini; Gunsundari; Sati Madri; Sindh Ni Sumari; 1928: Grihalakshmi; Vishwamohini; 1929: Bhikharan; Chandramukhi; Pati Patni; Rajputani; 1930: Pahadi Kanya; Raj Lakshmi; Diwani Dilbar (all St); 1931: Devi Devayani; 1932: Radha Rani; Sati Savitri; Sheilbala; 1933: Miss 1933; Vishwamohini; 1934: Tara Sundari; Toofani Taruni; Gunsundari; 1935:

Barrister's Wife; Desh Dasi; Keemti Aansoo; 1936: Prabhu Ka Pyara; Sipahi Ki Sajni/Sipahini Sajni; 1937: Pardesi Pankhi; 1940: Achhut.

Gopal akrishnan, Adoor (b. 1941)

Malayalam director born in Adoor, Kerala. Stage debut as actor aged 8. Graduated from Gandhigram Rural University (1960) having produced over 20 plays, including ones he wrote himself. Notable among these was Godothe Kathe, adapting Beckett's Waiting For Godot, with Gopi. Resigned from government job and graduated from the FTII (1965). Founder and president of the Chitrakala Film Co-op in Trivandrum (1965), the first of its kind in India, set up by FTII graduates as a production-distribution centre for personal films outside the commercial sector. In the mid-70s, a laboratory was added to the Trivandrum studio. Writes his own scripts, two of which (Elippathayam and Mukha Mukham) were published in English by Seagull Books in Calcutta (1985). Films show an emphasis on psychology depicted through gesture (cf. S. Ray). Theorised his approach in Cinemayude Lokam (1983). The reformist dimension of his work achieves an extra edge given the relative absence of that tradition in Travancore's literature. Travancore's delayed entry into the nationalist mainstream and its sudden transformation from a feudal state ruled by Dewan C.P. Ramaswamy Aiyer into one run by a CPI government, created a break in Kerala's history which animates his films: e.g. his portrayal of the Nair community of former rent collectors in Elippathayam and of the Communist movement itself in Mukha Mukham and Mathilukal.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1965: A Great Day (Sh); 1968: And Man Created (Doc); Danger At Your Doorstep (Doc); 1969: Towards National STD (Doc); 1972: Swayamvaram; 1974: Guru Chengannur (Doc); 1975: Past in Perspective (Doc); 1977: The Myth (Doc); Kodiyettam; 1979: Yakshagana (Doc); 1980: The Chola Heritage (Doc); 1981: Elippathayam; 1982: Krishnattam (Doc); 1984: Mukha Mukham; 1987: Anantaram; 1989: Mathilukal; 1993: Vidheyar; 1995: Kathapurushan.

Gopal akrishnan, K. S.

Tamil director. Originally a playwright, started as actor in Nawab Rajamanikkam Co. Later production manager for Venus Pics. Scripted Bhimsingh's Padikkatha Methai (1960) and later Krishnan-Panju's Annai (1962). Commercially successful middle-budget director in 60s/70s Tamil cinema, initially making theatrical melodramas (debut feature, Sharada, is about a man with sexual problems). Shifted to mythologicals with the hit Adi Parasakthi after A.P. Nagarajan revived the genre. Adi Parasakthi is sometimes seen as the first mythological hit to revive the famous 'little' tradition of 50s Tamil cinema: films featuring local deities rather than stories from pan-Indian epics. Launched his own studio after the success of Karpagam, naming it after the film. He is not to be confused either with an earlier Tamil director who worked at the Gemini Studios in the 40s, or with the more recent Malayalam director with the same name.

Yajjukam (dir. Aravindan) and in folk-dominated plays of Kavalam Narayana Panicker's Thiruvavurung (e.g. Avanevan Kadamba), before Adoor Gopalakrishnan cast him in Swayamvaram and Kodiyettam. His theatrical experience of stylised choreography, Kalaripayattu-derived footwork, complex incantatory speech and folk percussion patterns, provided him with unique skills to internalise the rhythm of a shot (cf. the raising of the circus tent scene in Thampu, or the tea-stall scene in Mani Kaul's Satah Se Uthata Admi). Played several straight dramatic roles, e.g. as the government co-ordinator Mamachen in George's Adaminte Variyellu, the drunk in Neram Pularumbol and the corrupt trade union leader in Nihalani's Aaghat. Suffered a partial paralysis in the late 80s forcing him to suspend his acting career for some years. He turned to direction having debuted earlier with Njattadi, a jaundiced view of Leftist activists deploring the blind adventurism besetting the movement. Recently also worked as a theatre director (e.g. Kavalam Narayana Panicker's Thirumudi). Published autobiography Abhinayam Anubhavam (1994).

FILMOGRAPHY (* d only): 1972: Swayamvaram; 1974: Thumbolarcha; 1976: Choondakari; 1977: Kodiyettam; 1978: Aaru Manikkur; 1979: Peruvazhiyampalam; Njattadi (also d); 1980: Satah Se Uthata Admi; Greeshamam; 1981: Kallan Pavithran; Palanga; 1982: Alolam; Champalakadur; Snehapoorvam Meera; Thuranna Jail; Ormakkayi; Yavanika; Marmaram; 1983: Adaminte Variyellu; Akkare; Ashtram; Lekhayude Maranam Oru Flashback; Nizhal Moodia Niranga; Rachana; Ashtapadi; Kattathe Kilikoodu; Ente Mamattukuttiamma;

Sandhya Mayungam Neram; 1984: Aduthaduthu; Appunni; April 18; Arorumariyathe; Oru Painkillikatha; Panchavadippalam; Swantham Sarika; 1985: Chidambaram; Aaghat; Archana Aradhana; Kanathaya Pennkutti; Karimbin Poovinakkare; Kayyum Thalayum Purathidaruthu; Neram Pularumbol; Onathumbikorunjal; Punnaram Cholli Cholli; Scene No. 7; Irakal; Meenamasaathile Sooryan; 1986: Nilavinte Nattil; 1988: *Ulsavapittenu; 1991: *Yamanam; 1994: Swaham; 1995: Ormakalunda-yirikkanam.

Gopichand, Tripuraneni (1910-62)

Telugu director born in Telangana, AP. Wrote c.300 Telugu short stories, two major novels (Parivartana, 1942; Asamarthuni Jiva Yatra, 1945) and essays on political theory, e.g. Marxism Ante Emiti? (1954). Was briefly the Secretary of the Andhra Radical Democratic Party (1954). Arguments for ideology of rational reformism were presented in his literary column 'Ubhaya Kushalopari' for Ramabrahmam's journal Prajamitra. Wrote scripts for L.V. Prasad, P. Pullaiah and Adurthi Subba Rao. First film as director, Lakshamma, made in direct competition to a Balaramaiah film on a Telugu folk ballad. Made only two more films, both based on his own literary fiction.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1950: Lakshamma; 1951: Perantalu; 1952: Priyuralu.

Gopi (b. 1937)

Aka Bharath Gopi. Malayalam actor and more recently director, born in Chirayankil near Trivandrum. Full name: V. Gopinathan Nair. Known mainly as stage actor before joining films. Discovered by noted playwright and director of the Trichur School of Drama, G. Shankara Pillai; then lead actor of the Prasadhana Little Theatre. Achieved a major reputation on the stage, notably in roles like that of Shandilyan in the farce Bhagavatha

Gopi in Kodiyettam (1977)

Govinda (b. 1963)

90s Hindi star specialising in dance and comedy movies often marketed in terms of his modest origins in the Bombay suburb of Virar. Born Govind Ahuja, the son of film producer and former actor Arun Ahuja (who played the role of Shamu in Mehboob's Aurat, 1940) and bhajan singer Nirmala Devi. Debut in the musical Love 86. After working mainly as a low-budget star in the tradition of Mithun Chakraborty, the success of Aankhen and Raja Babu defined his distinct comedy persona, usually featuring comic sidekicks Shakti Kapoor and Kadar Khan, the heroine Karishma Kapoor and numerous songs, including controversially lewd ones such as the 'Sarkailo khatia' number in Raja Babu.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1986: Love 86; Tan Badar; Ilzaam; Sada Suhagan; Duty; 1987: Marte Dam Tak; Khudgarz; Mera Lahu; Dadagiri; Pyar Karke Dekho; Sindoor; Dariya Dil; Ghar Mein Ram Gali Mein Shyam; 1988: Jeete Hain Shaan Se; Shiv Shakti; Pyar Mohabbat; Hatya; Ghar Ghar Ki Kahani; Tohfa Mohabbat Ka; Halaal Ki Kamai; Paap Ko Jalakar Raakh Kar Doonga; Farz Ki Jung; Khatarnak; Mahasangram; 1989: Dost Garibon Ka; Gharana; Do Qaidi; Aasman Se Oncha; Gair Kanooni; Biloo Badshah; Aakhri Baazi; Jaisi Karni Waisi Bharni; Jungbaaz; Taaqatwar; Sachai Ki Taaqat; Gentleman; Paap Ka Ant; Kali Ganga; Mastan; 1990: Taqdeer Ka Tamasha; Awaargi; Naya Khoon; Izzatdar; Swarg; Apmaan Ki Aag; Raeeszada; 1991: Hum; Bhabhi; Kaun Kare Qurbani; 1992:

Govinda and Karishma Kapoor in Coolie No. 1 (1995)

Shola Aur Shabnam; Jaan Se Pyara; Zulm Ki Hukumat; Radha Ka Sangam; Baaz; Muqabala; 1993: Aankhen; Prateeksha; Zakhmon Ka Hisab; Admi Khilona Hai; Bhagyavaan; Teri Payal Mere Geet; 1994: Raja Babu; Dulara; Prem Shakti; Khuddar; Ekka Raja Rani; Aag; Brahma; Rakhwale; Beta Ho To Aisa; 1995: Andolan; Hathkadi; Kismet; Coolie No 1; Rock Dancer; Gambler.

Gul zar, Sampooran Singh (b. 1936)

Mainstream Hindi-Urdu director and writer born in Deena, Jhelum Dist. (now Pakistan). Started as a poet associated with the PWA; became Bimal Roy's lyricist (Mora gora ang lai in Bandini, 1963), then his full-time assistant. Wrote scripts and lyrics for several film-makers (Hrishikesh Mukherjee, Asit Sen, Basu Chatterjee, Buddhadev Dasgupta, Kumar Shahani etc.). First film: Mere Apne, a remake of Tapan Sinha's Apanjan (1968). Though himself an Urdu writer, claims strong influence of Bengali literature. Made one film based on a Saratchandra Chattopadhyay novel (Khushboo) and two on Samaresh Basu's writing (Kitaab, Namkeen). Finished S. Sukhdev's last film Shaira, a documentary on Meena Kumari. He describes his cinema as a 'study of human beings ... interesting human relationships in different aspects, different situations' (Vasudev and Lenglet, 1983). Has published three anthologies of poetry (Janam, Ek Boond Chand, Kuch Aur Nazme) and several books for children including verse tales from the Panchtantra in Hindi. Writes his own scripts and prolific dialogue writer as well as lyricist (e.g. Ashirwad, 1968; Khamoshi, 1969; Safar, 1970; Gharonda and Khatta Meetha, both 1977; Masoom, 1982).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1971: Mere Apne; 1972: Koshish; Parichay; 1973: Achanak; 1975:

Khushboo; Mausam; Aandhi; 1977: Kinara; Kitaab; 1979: Meera; 1980: Shaira; 1981: Angoor; 1982: Namkeen; 1984: Suniye/ Aika (Sh); 1985: Ek Akar (Doc); 1987: Ijaazat; 1988: Mirza Ghalib (TV); Libaas; 1990: Lekin ...; Ustad Amjad Ali Khan (Doc); 1992: Pandit Bhimsen Joshi (Doc).

Gummadi see Venkateswara Rao, Gummadi

Gupta, Dinen (b. 1932)

Bengali director and cameraman born in Calcutta into a family in the film business. Member of the 50s generation of Calcutta cineastes (Ghatak, Sen et al.) influenced by the IPTA, the Calcutta Film Society (Est: 1941) and Italian neo-realism (screened in India at the International Film Festival in 1952). Early work as assistant to cameraman Ramananda Sengupta: shot some of Ghatak's early films (e.g. Ajantrik, 1957; Bari Theke Paliye, 1959), Tarafdar's Ganga (1960) and Harisadhan Dasgupta's work. Directorial debut with Natun Pata locates him, somewhat belatedly, in the post-Pather Panchali (1955) tradition of rustic lyricism. Pratham Pratisruti was based on Ashapurna Devi's famous novel. Ajker Nayak belonged to the 'lumpen rebel' genre that emerged in 70s Bengali cinema after the Naxalite uprising, but it stuck closer to e.g. Sinha's version of events rather than the better-known M. Sen iconography. Later made some comic melodramas (e.g. Basanta Bilap, Raag Anuraag, etc.). Shoots his own films as well as those of other film-makers.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1969: Banajyotsna; Natun Pata; 1971: Pratham Pratisruti; 1972: Ajker Nayak; Basanta Bilap; Marjina Abdallah; 1973: Pranta Rekha; 1974: Debi Choudhrani; Sangini; 1975: Raag Anuraag; Nishi Mrigaya; 1977: Rajani; Sana; Proxy; 1978: Tilottama; 1979: Srikanter Will; 1980: Priyatama; 1981: Kalankini; 1982: Sathe Satyam; Jwain Pua; 1983: Indira; Sagar Balaka; 1984: Rashifal; 1985: Abasheshe; 1987: Mahamilan; Sargam; 1988: Antaranga; 1990: Bakulbasar (TV); Tero Sandhyar Galpo (TV); 1991: Kato Bhalobasha; 1994: Nati Binodini.

Gupta, Hemen (1914-67)

Bengali-Hindi director born in Rajasthan. Degree in literature from Calcutta University. Private secretary of Subhashchandra Bose; full-time radical activist in 1930-2 Civil Disobedience movement and in terrorism around Midnapore Dist., Bengal. Arrested, jailed (1932-8) and allegedly sentenced to death. This period is commemorated in two of his best-known films, Bhuli Naai and '42. His film project on the Bengal famine (1945) was banned by the British government. Moved to Bombay in 1951 and made several Hindi films for Filmistan and for Bimal Roy, e.g. the classic adaptation of Tagore's Kabuliwala. His Insaaf Kahan Hai was never released. Raj Kamal was left incomplete (1957), as was his last film, Anamika (1967).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1943: Dwanda; 1944: Takraar; 1947: Abhiyatri; 1948: Bhuli Naai; 1949: '42; 1952: Anandmath; 1954: Kashti; Meenar; 1956: Taksaa!; 1959: Insaaf Kahan Hai; 1960: Babar; 1961: Kabuliwala; 1966: Netaji Subhashchandra Bose.

Haider, Ghulam (1908-53)

Music composer born in Hyderabad (Sind, Pakistan). Studied dentistry. Leading composer from the Lahore group with e.g. Shyam Sundar, Khurshid Anwar and S.D. Batish. With Naushad initiated a musical revolution helping to institutionalise an All-India Film aesthetic in the 40s. Learnt music from Babu Ganeshlal, with whom he worked in theatre playing harmonium in Calcutta. Briefly composer for the Jenaphone recording label. Broke into films in Lahore with Shorey; then worked for Pancholi starting with the Punjabi film Gul-e-Bakavali featuring Nurjehan as a child actress. Regular composer for Pancholi until Poonji. His score for Khazanchi led to a series of Pancholi hits pioneering new marketing strategies. Best-known compositions, often sung by Shamsad Begum, invoke Punjabi folk rhythms and extensively feature percussion instruments like the dholak. Moved to Bombay in 1944 where he worked in Filmistan (Chal Chal Re Naujawan) and Minerva. Composed one successful Mehboob film (Humayun) and gave Lata Mangeshkar her first big break in playback singing (Majboor, in duets with Geeta Dutt and Mukesh). Returned to Lahore after Partition, where he started Filmsaz with director S. Nazir Ajmeri and actor S. Gul, making Beqaraar. Also scored Akeli, Bheegi Palkein and the two Nurjehan films Gulenaar (1953) and Laila.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1934: Thief of Iraq; 1935: Majnu 1935; Swarg Ki Seedhi; 1939: Gul-e-Bakavali; 1940: Yamla Jat; 1941: Choudhury; 1942: Khazanchi; 1942: Khandaan, Zamindar; 1943: Poonji; 1944: Bhai; 1945: Chal Chal Re Naujawan; 1945: Humayun; 1946: Behram Khan; Jag Biti; Shama; 1947: But Tarash; Manjdhari; Mehndi; 1948: Barsaat Ki Ek Raat; Majboor; Padmini; Patjhad; Shaheed; 1949: Kaneez; 1950: Do Saudagar; Putli; 1953: Aabshar.

Haldar, Krishna see Atorthy, Premankur

Hamsal ekha (b. 1951)

Star Kannada music composer and lyric writer also active in Tamil and Telugu films. Born Govindaraju Gangaraju in Bangalore. Employed in his father's printing press and, later, as a member of his brother G. Balakrishna's orchestra. Film debut as songwriter in Triveni (1973). Started his theatre group Vivekaranga (1974) staging musicals. Directed, wrote and composed the apparently unreleased film Rahu Chandra (1981). Film career actually began writing dialogues and lyrics for Nanu Nanna Hendthi (1985). Broke through with his next film, Ravichandran's rock musical Premaloka and became part of the Kannada film boom in the late 80s. Scored some 150 films over the next decade. Mostly writes both dialogues and lyrics for his Kannada films.

FILMOGRAPHY (* also lyr): 1986: Henne

*Ninagenu Bandhana; 1987: Premaloka; *Mr Raja; *Antima Theerpu; *Digvijaya; *Bedi; *Sangrama; *Divyashakti; 1988: Avale Nanna Hendthi; Ranadheera; *Prema Tapaswi; Vijaya Khadga; Sangliana; Matrudevobhava; *Anjada Gandu; *Balodu Bhavageethe; Jadiketha Moodi; *Ranaranga; Dharmapatni; Pelli Chesi Choodu; Kodiparakkuthur; Pudhiya Vanam; *Kirataka; 1989: Mutyamanta Muddu; Anantana Avanthara; *Yuddhakanda; Idhu Ungal Kudumbam; *Avane Nanna Ganda; *Amanusha; *Yuga Purusha; *Sura Sundaranga; *Indraji; Arthanadam; *CBI Shankar; *Kindara Jog; Singari Bangari; *Onti Salaga; Neram Nadhi Kadhu; Agni; *Narasimha; *Parashurama; *Poli Huduga; *Premagni; 1990: Kaliyuga Abhimanyudu; *Nammoora Hemmira; *SP Sangliana; *Kempu Gulabi; *Trinetra; *Avesha; Velai Kidaichiruchur; *Bannada Gejje; Prema Uddham; *Hosa Jeevana; Muthina Hara; *Sididedda Gandu; *Abhimanyu; *Rani Maharani; *Pratap; *Aata Bombata; *Ananta Prema; *Challenge Gopalakrishna; *Nighooda Rahasya; *College Hero; *Bhujangayana Dashavatara; 1991: Hatyakanda; *Ajagajanthara; *Punda Prachanda; Neenu Nakkare Haalu Sakkare; *Ide Police Belt; *Garuda Dhawa; *Navatara; *SP Bhargavi; *Ramachari; Shanti Kranti; Puksatte Ganda Hotte Thumba Unda; Rowdy and MLA; Veera Deera; Anatharakshaka; Teja; Shivaraj; Kaliyuga Bhima; Nayaka; 1992: Ankuram; Belli Kalungara; Chaitrada Premanjali; Chitralekha; Entede Bhanta; Halli Mestru; Ksheera Sagara; Vajrayudha; Purushottama; Solillada Saradada; Gopi Krishna; Sahasi; Nanna Thangi; Hosa Kalla Hale Kulla; Police File; Guru Brahma; Gandharva; Chikka Yajamanaru; Mannina Doni; Marana Mridanga; Jhenkara; Shri Ramchandra; Rajakiya; Atanka; 1993: Mangalya Bandhana; Gadbidu Ganda; Anuraghada Alegalu; Shringara Kavya; Sarkarakke Savai; Annaya; Akasmika; Midida Hridayagalur; Hridaya Bandhana; Chirabandhavya; Mane Devaru; Hoovu Hannu; Kadambari; Munjaneya Manju; Shringara Raja; Golibar; Kalyana Rekha; Wanted; Kumkumabhagya; Mojina Madhuvu; Jailor Jagannath; Apoorva Jodi; Ba Nalle Madhuchandrakke; Bevu Bella; Kempaiiah IPS; Rupayi Raja; Karulina Koogu; 1994: Chinna; Musuku; Time Bomb; Sammilana; Rasika; Samrat; Mahakshatriya; Gopikalyana; Meghamale; Chinna Nee Naguthiru; Sididedda Pandavaru; Makkala Sakshi; Halunda Thavaru; Lockup Death; Hongirana; Muthanna; Jana; Shri Gandha; 1995: Puttnanja; Professor; Muthinantha Hendthi; Kone Edaithe; Mojugara Sogasugara; Thayi Illada Thavaru; Deergha Sumangali; Omr; Eshwar; Kalyanotsava; Tungabhadra; Madhura Maitri; Ganayogi Panchakshara; Police Power; Chiranjeevi Rajegowda; Dore; Mr Abhishek.

Hariharan, T.

Malayalam director born in Calicut. Arts teacher in Kerala and film critic; also associated with the theatre. Became assistant to M.S. Mani in Madras (1960) and to M. Krishnan Nair. Continued as assistant until successful directorial debut in 1973 with a hit about a wealthy young woman who returns from Singapore and is sought after for her money. Panchagni was a major hit, as was Sargam, starring Manoj K. Jayan. Films often written by M.T. Vasudevan Nair addressing the latter's favoured themes revisiting the condition of a declining feudal Nair community (e.g. Parinayam). Made one Hindi film, Anjaam. Along with I.V. Sasi, represents a cinema implicated in the economy of Kerala's migrant workers in the Middle East in the 1980s.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1973: Ladies' Hostel; 1974: College Girl; Raja Hamsam; Ayalathe Sundari; Bhoomidevi Pushpinayayi; 1975: Babu Mori; Love Marriage; Madhura Pathinezhur; 1976: Panchami; Rajayogam; Themmadi Velappari; Kanyadanam; Ammi Ammavar; 1977: Ivanente Priyaputhran; Sujatha; Sangamam; Tholkkkan Enikku Manassilla; 1978: Adimakachavadam; Kudumbam Namakku Sreekovil; Snehathinte Mukhangal; Yagaswami; 1979: Edavazhiyile Pucha Mindappucha; Sharapanjarum; 1980: Muthichippikal; Lava; 1981: Valartha Mruganga!; Pucha Sanyasi; Shriman Shrimati; 1982: Ankuram; Anuraga Kodathi; 1983: Varanmare Avashyamundu; Evedayo Oru Sathru; 1984: Poomadathu Pennu; Vikatakavi; Vellom; 1986: Panchagni; Nakhakshathangal; Anjaam; 1987: Amritam Gamaya; 1988: Aranyakam; 1989: Oru Vadakkan Veeragatha; Charan Data; 1990: Oliyambugal; 1992: Sargam; 1994: Parinayam.

Hazarika, Bhupen (b. 1926)

Born in Sadiya, Assam. Most important Assamese singer and composer in post-Independence period. Deeply influenced by Paul Robeson. Child actor in Agarwala's second film, Indramalati (1939). Degree from Benares University (1946); doctorate at Columbia University with a thesis on the role of mass communication in India's adult education (1952). Returned to lecture at Gauhati University, but resigned (1955) in favour of film-making and music. Member of Assam's first IPTA provincial committee (with Agarwala, Bishnu Rabha and Phani Sarma, 1946). Released first record, Mahatmer Mahaprayam, in 1948. Major intervention in musical forms like Bihu (spring festival music), Ban-geet and Bar-geet (devotionals written by medieval Saint poets Shankara Deb and Madhab Deb), and plantation workers' music. Toured Assam's riot-affected areas with Hemango Biswas and their musical troupe (1960). Early films as music director were part of continuing collaboration with IPTA colleagues Rabha and Sarma, as was his directorial debut, Era Bator Sur, starring Balraj Sahni. His Shakuntala starred the popular singer Khagan Mahato. His films are noted for tremendously popular music, often with singers from Bombay, e.g. Lata Mangeshkar in Era Bator Sur; Talat Mahmood in Pratidhwani and Asha Bhosle, Kishore Kumar and Mukesh in Chik Mik Bijuli. Mera Dharam Meri Maa was the first production of the newly formed state of Arunachal Pradesh. Member of Assamese State Legislative Assembly (1967-72). Edited art journal Gati (1964-7), columnist on Amar Pratinidhi (1963-80). Published several books of essays and anthologies of songs. Wrote and scored his own films, music director only on the others. Equally popular as a Bengali singer. In the 1990s associated mainly with the films/TV productions of Kalpana Lajmi.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1948: *Siraj, Sati Behula; 1955: Pioli Phukan, Era Bator Sur; 1957: *Dhumuha; Kari-o-Komal, Jiban Trishna; 1958: *Jonakir Alo; 1959: Mahut Bandhu Re; 1960: *Dui Bechara; 1961: Shakuntala; 1963: *Maniram Dewar; 1964: Pratidhwani/Ka Swarati; 1966: Lati Ghati; 1969: Chik Mik Bijuli; 1971: *Ekhane Pinjar; 1973: *27 Down; 1974: Aarop, Bristi, For Whom the Sun Shines (Doc); 1975: *Chameli Memsaab, Khoj; 1976: Dampati, Mera Dharam Meri Maa; 1977: Rupkonwar Jyotiprasad Aru Joymati; 1977: *Palasor Rong; 1977: Banahansa, Through Melody and Rhythm (Doc); 1978: *Banjoi; 1979: Mon Prajapati; 1980: *Chameli Memsahib, Chhat Maiya Ki Mahima; 1980: *Akar; 1981: *Nagpash; 1982: *Aparoop/Apeksha; 1983: *Deepar Prem (only act.); 1985: *Angikar; 1986: Sankalpa; Ek Pal, Swikarokti (Sh); 1988: Siraj; 1988: *Lohit Kinare (TV); 1992: *Rudali; 1994: *Sopar, Gajamukta; 1995: *Boumoni.

Hebl ikar, Suresh (b. 1945)

Kannada director and actor born in Dharwar. Studied economics at Karnatak University and advertising in Bombay. Worked in a bank and performed on the amateur stage in English and in Kannada. Hired to play the lead in Kankana (1975) and continued as a screen actor, appearing in Rushya Shringa (1976), Khandavideko Mamsavideko (1979), Vatsalya Patha (1980), Aleman (1981), Amara Madhura Prema and Jyoti (1982), Matte Vasantha (1983), Kanoonige Saval (1984), Chukki Chandramma (1991), Shh...! (1993) and Murder (1994). Turned director in 1983. Recent film Aaghata is produced by psychiatrist Ashok Pai, fictionalising a real-life case study with the intention of popularising psychiatry. The producer has made other films on similar lines, usually featuring Girish Karnad as the problem-solving doctor.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1983: *Antarala; 1984: *Ecology of the Western Ghats (Doc); 1984: *Energy (Doc); 1985: *Agantuka; 1988: *Kadina Benki; 1989: *Prathama Usha Kirana; 1992: *Chamatkar; 1994: *Aaghata (also act.).

Hema Malini see Malini, Hema

Hindustan Cinema Films Company

Est: 1918 in Nasik, Maharashtra. First purely indigenous film studio with corporate shareholding. Started by Phalke to replace the ailing Phalke Films with partners Waman Shridhar Apte, Mayashankar Bhatt (later financier for Sharda Studio), Gokuldas Damodar and Madhavji Jessing. Phalke resigned from the Board (1919) but returned to become its chief producer and technical adviser (1923) as well as its main film-maker, directing 43 of its 96 films. 35 of the films were directed by G.V. Sane, 11 by Shinde (including Tukaram, 1921); other directors include V.S. Nirantar (4), Kashinath Bharadi, Munshi Abbas and Abhaychand Lahiri who each made one film there. The first studio to have its own distribution operation (run briefly by Bhogilal Dave) with offices in Bombay and Madras. Started offshoot Bharat Film (1919). Its last film, Phalke's Setu Bandhan (1932), was post-synchronised for sound but the studio failed in 1933.

Historicals

Like the reformist social, the historical genre derived from late 19th C. novel and theatre writing. Used mainly to glorify epochs of regional (usually military) power, it incorporated 'Tipu Sultan in Kannada, Shivaji in Marathi, Pratapaditya or Siraj-ud-Dowla in Bengali - although Maratha and Rajput history transcended all bounds to gain an all-India popularity' (Meenakshi Mukherjee, 1985). Often the language of the most spectacular historicals (see K. Asif, Sohrab Modi and Kamal Amrohi) was Urdu and the favourite settings were the Caliphates, the Delhi Sultanate (13th-16th C.) or the Mughal empire (16th C.). As Mukherjee points out via novelist Abdul Halim Sharar, the 'Muslim evocation of a glorious past could hark back to the days of Moorish domination of Spain and other Mediterranean lands'. Generally, the genre was invented to represent the 'moment of departure' for Indian nationalism (Partha Chatterjee, 1986), resurrecting national or regional glory to create allegories for communal and regional difference and to consolidate the reform movements' new historiography. The specific functions of the genre varied from region to region: in conditions where royalty had been reduced to a largely ceremonial role (e.g. South India), it was a specific response to imperialist domination: e.g. in Travancore where the first major novel by C.V. Raman Pillai (1858-1922), Martanda Varma (1891; filmed in 1931) resurrected the 18th C. emperor; in the old Mysore province several Company Natak plays returned to the glory of the Vijayanagar Empire (14th C.). The early cinema takes off directly from the stage historical (cf. Baburao Painter). The most evident influence was the Parsee theatre, where the genre was interpreted entirely as a play about feudal power and therefore a crucial mediation of kinship relations (see Aga Hashr Kashmiri, Mehboob). Influential regional imitations of this mode included the Bengali plays of Dwijendralal Roy (Mewar Patan, 1909), interpreted by Parthasarathy Gupta in the context of Swadeshi (cf. Gupta, 1988), and the famous Shahjehan (1909) or those of Khirode Prasad Vidyavinode (e.g. Alamgir, 1921, staged by Sisir Bhaduri). Imperial Studio re-coded the genre along Cecil B. DeMille lines. Bhalji Pendharkar and G.V. Iyer (in his Rajkumar films) used the genre for directly ideological ends. In most instances where the cinema took off from folk or popular theatre (as in Telugu), early historicals are usually blurred into other genres like the mythological or the Saint film (e.g. Vel Pics) and are conventionally referred to as 'costume' dramas, a tradition later continued by Gemini's adventure films and politicised as an imaginary pseudo-history by MGR.

Hublikar, Shanta (1914-92)

Actress born in Hubli, Karnataka. Entered films at Kolhapur, where she worked with Torney and Bhalji Pendharkar. Became an icon in Marathi cinema with her popular role as the prostitute Maina in Shantaram's Manoos/Admi and esp. with the song Ab kis liye kal ki baat, one of the biggest hits in the Prabhat repertoire. Its Marathi version, Kashalya Udyachi Baat (Why speak of tomorrow?) became the title of her autobiography (1990). Also played the rich Nalini who discovers higher moral principles through meeting the poor but honest Diwakar (Shahu Modak) in K. Narayan Kale's Mazha Mulga/Mera Ladka at Prabhat. Later acted in Hindi films (e.g. by V.M. Vyas), one Kannada film opposite Kemparaj Urs (Jeevana Nataka) and did some stage roles in Sangeet Natak musicals.

Shahu Modak and Shanta Hublikar in Mazha Mulga (1938)

◆ FILMOGRAPHY: 1934: Bhedi Rajkumar/Thaksen Rajputra; 1937: Kanhopatra; 1938: Mazha Mulga/Mera Ladka; 1939: Manoos/Admi; 1941: Ghar Ki Laaj; Prabhat; 1942: Malari; Pahila Palna; Jeevana Nataka; 1945: Kul Kalank; 1958: Ghar Grihasthi; Saubhagyavati Bhava.

Husnl al -Bhagatram (Husnl al : ?-1968; Bhagatram: ?-1973)

Music composer duo. First instance of two composers working together and signing all their work jointly. Popular in Hindi film in late 40s/50s, esp. Pyar Ki Jeet (e.g. the Mohammed Rafi hit Ik dil ke tukde), Badi Bahen, Adhi Raat, Afsana, Sanam. Suraiya sang several of their compositions and some of their hits were popularised over Radio Ceylon. Later became members of Laxmikant-Pyarelal's orchestra. Har Mandir Singh's Geet Kosh credits them with the music of Bambi in the 40s (probably a dubbed version of David Hand's Walt Disney film of 1942).

◆ FILMOGRAPHY: 1944: Chand; 1946: Hum Ek Hain; Nargis; 1947: Heera; Mirza Sahiban; Mohari; Romeo and Juliet; 1948: Aaj Ki Raat; Lakhpati; Pyar Ki Jeet; 1949: Amar Kahani; Balam; Badi Bahen; Bansaria; Hamari Manzil; Jal Tarang; Naach; Raakhi; Sawan Bhadon; 1950: Adhi Raat; Apni Chhaya; Birha Ki Raat; Chhoti Bhabhi; Gauna; Meena Bazaar; Pyar Ki Manzil; Sartaj; Surajmukhi; 1951: Afsana; Sanam; Shagun; Stage; 1952: Kafila; Raja Harishchandra; 1953: Aansoo; Farmaish; 1954: Shama Parwana; 1955: Adle-Jehangir; Kanchan; Mr Chakram; 1956: Aan Baar; 1957: Dushman; Jannat; Krishna Sudama; 1958: Trolley Driver; 1961: Apsara; 1963: Shaheed Bhagat Singh; 1965: Tarzan And The Circus; 1966: Sher Afghan.

Hussain, Anwar (b. 1929)

Assamese director. Completed first film, the formally and ideologically orthodox Sarapat, aged 26: a resigned tale of human failure and family disaster. Later work is an early use in Assamese cinema of the language of mythology, both secular and religious, seen most notably in Tejimola.

◆ FILMOGRAPHY: 1955: Sarapat; 1958: Natun Prithibi; 1963: Tejimola; 1977: Paap Aru Prayashchitta; 1983: Shri Shri Maa Kamakhya.

Hussain, Nasir (b. 1931)

Hindi director born in Bhopal, MP. Briefly worked for A.R. Kardar, then joined Filmistan as scenarist (1948); wrote some of Subodh Mukherjee's films starring Dev Anand: Munimji (1955), Paying Guest (1957). First film, Tumsa Nahin Dekha, was Shammi Kapoor's first big hit and inaugurated a new type of 60s musicals with Mohammed Rafi's singing clearly influenced by rock and roll. Independent producer with his own Nasir Hussain Films (1960). Made some of the most popular and frequently imitated love stories: Jab Pyar Kisise Hota Hai, the Zeenat Aman hit Yaadon Ki Baraat, Hum Kisise Kum Nahin starring Rishi Kapoor, and Qayamat Se Qayamat Tak (1988), produced and scripted by him, directed by his son Mansoor, which launched his nephew and 90s star Aamir Khan. The film spearheaded the return of the teenage love theme. Since then produces his son's films.

◆ FILMOGRAPHY: 1957: Tumsa Nahin Dekha; 1959: Dil Deke Dekho; 1961: Jab Pyar Kisise Hota Hai; 1963: Phir Wohi Dil Laya Hoon; 1967: Baharon Ke Sapne; 1969: Pyar Ka Mausam; 1971: Caravan; 1973: Aangan; Yaadon Ki Baraat; 1977: Hum Kisise Kum Nahin; 1981: Zamane Ko Dikhana Hai; 1984: Manzil Manzil; 1985: Zabardast.

Il aiyaraja

Prolific Tamil composer with a legendary reputation. Born as Daniel Rajayya, the 8th son of an estate supervisor in Pannaipuram, TN. Joined his stepbrother Varadarajan, a CP member, to form a music group, Pavalari Brothers, staging live concerts often as election propaganda for Left groups. Went to Madras as a teenager, where he learnt Western classical music and the Western technique of writing musical scores. Learnt Carnatic music from singer and mridangam performer T.V. Gopalakrishnan. Joined films as a member of various film orchestras. Sensational debut as composer in Annakkili, using rural folk melodies. Introduced fusion effects into Tamil cinema combining Carnatic, Western classical and pop (cf. Raja Parvai). Early hits for the films of his childhood friend Bharathirajaa (Pathinaru Vayathinile). Extensively associated with playback singer S.P. Balasubramanyam and, for a while, lyricist Vairamuthu. Recent music hits notably in Mani Rathnam's films, e.g. Raja rajadhirajan indha raja in Agni Nakshatram, followed by the songs of Anjali, etc. Commanded fees equalling those of the highest-paid actors in Tamil and was an independent star attraction until he was partially eclipsed by A.R. Rahman. Made two independent music albums, How to Name It and Nothing but Wind, both continuing his fusion experiments, as in the composition I Love You, Mozart in which he has flautist Hariprasad Chaurasia playing the raga Kalyani with a violin evocation of Mozart's 40th Symphony. Occasionally provided lyrics and sang his compositions. Composed music apparently for c.700 films in five languages (the exhaustive filmography is virtually impossible to compile). Published two books, the European travelogue Sangeetha Kanavugal, and Vettaveliyil Kotti Kidakkudhu, addressing his philosophical preoccupations. In an essay (1996) M.S.S. Pandian demonstrates that Ilaiyaraja's popularity represented 'a moment of great anxiety for the musical elite'.

◆ FILMOGRAPHY: 1976: Annakkili; Bhadrakali; Paluti Valartha Kili; Uravadum Nenjam; 1977: Alukkoru Asai; Avar Enakke Sontham; Bhuvana Oru Kelvi Kuri; Deepam; Durga Devi; Gayatri; Kavikuyil; Odi Vilayadu Thatha; Penn Janmam; Sainthadamma Sainthadu; Pathinaru Vayathinile; Thunai Eruppal Meenakshi; 1978: Achan; Aval Appadithan; Aval Oru Pachchai Kuzhandhai; Bhairavi; Chattam En Kaiyil; Chittu Kuruvi; Elamai Vunjaladugiradhu; Ithu Eppadi Irukku; Kannan Oru Kai Kuzhanthai; Katrinile Varum Geetham; Kizhakke Pokum Rayil; Mariamman Thiruvizha; Mullum Malarum; Sigappu Rojakkal; Sondhadu Needana; Thirukalyanam; Thyagam; Vattathukkul Chaduram; Vazha Ninaithal Vazhalam; Matu Tappada Maga; Aaru Manikkur; Vyamoham; Vayasu Pilichindi; Priya; 1979: Urvashi Neenu Nanna Preyasi/ Urvashi Nive Naa Preyasi; Yugandhar; Azhage Unnai Aradikirar; Akal Vilakku; Annai Oru Alayam; Azhiyada Kolangal; Aarilirunthu Arubathu Varai; Udhiri Pookal; Kalyanaramar; Kavarimar; Kuppattu Raja; Chella Kili; Dharma Yuddham; Thayillamal Nannilai; Naan Vazhaviper; Niram Maratha Pookal/ Niram Maradha Pushpangal; Pagalil Oru Iravu; Puthiya Varpugal; Poonthalar; Ponnu Urukku Puthusu; Mudhal Iravu; Anbe Sangeetha; Kadavul Amaitha Medai; Lakshmi; Mugathil Mugam Parkalam; Nadhiyai Thedi Vandha Kadai; Nallathoru Kudumbam; Pattakathi Bhairavar; Rosappu Ravikkaikari; Sakkalathi; Vetrikku Oruvan; Amma Evarikaina Amma; Pancha Bhoothalu; 1980: Janma Janmada Anubandha; Anbukku Naan Adimai; Ilamaikolam; Ullasa Paravaigal; Enga Oor Rasathi; Kallukkul Eram; Kannil Theriyum Kathaigal; Kali; Gramathu Adhiyayam; Guru; Samanthi Poo; Savithri; Soolam; Sundarime Varuga Varuga; Thayi Pongal; Nadhiyai Thedi Vandha Kadai; Nizhalgal; Nerjathai Killathay; Poottadha Poothukkal; Ponnagaram; Murattu Kalai; Moodupani; Rishi Moolam; Rusi Kanda Poonai; Johnny; Sridevi; Dooram Arike; Manju Moodal Manju; Ayiram Vasal Ithayam; Ellam En Kairasi; Ithayithal Oru Edam; Naan Potta Sava; Ore Mutham; Oru Iravu Oru Parava; Kotha Jeevithulu; Pasidi Mogalu; 1981: Raja Parvai; Geetha; Nee Nanna Gellalare; Bhari Bharjari Bete; Shikari; Do Dil Diwane; Alaigal Oyvathillai; Aradhanai; Ellam Inbamayam; Idru Poyi Nalai Vaa; Enakkaga Kathiru; Garjanai/ Garjanam/ Garjane; Kadai Meengal; Kariyellam Shenbagappu; Kalthoor; Kazhagu; Royil Pura; Shankarai; Tik Tik Tik; Nandu; Netrikkar; Panneer Pushpangal; Balanagamma; Pennin Vazhkai; Madhumalar; Meendum Kokila; Rajangam; Rama Lakshmar; Ranuva Veeran; Veediyum Varai Kathiru; Seethakoka Chilaka; Echil Iravugal; Kanni Theevu; Nallathu Nadanthe Theerum; Nandu; Rattha Katteriyin Marma Maligai; 1982: Kanya Dweep; Azhagiya Kanney; Archanai Pookal; Ilanjodigal; Echil Iravugal; Engayo Ketta Kural; Kalyana Kalam; Kanne Radha; Kathal Oviyam; Kozhi Kuvutthu; Sahalakala Vallavan; Sangili;

Thanikatu Raja; Thai Moogambikai; Marumagaley Varuga; Thyagi; Theerpu; Thoorai Ninnu Pochu; Nalanthana; Nizhal Thedum Nenjalgal; Nenaivellam Nithya; Nenjalgal; Payanangal Mudivathillai; Pakkathu Veetu Raja; Paritchaikku Neramchu; Pannaipurathu Pandavugal; Puthu Kavithai; Boom Boom Madu; Pookkari Raja; Magane Magane; Moondram Pirai; Metti; Ranga; Rani Theni; Lottery Ticket; Valibame Vaa; Vaa Kanna Vaa; Hitler Umanath; Agaya Gangai; Alolam; Era Vizhi Kaviyanga; Gopurangal Saivathillai; Kavithai Malar; Kelvium Nane Bathilum Nane; Mangal Nila; Poolapallaki; 1983: Adutha Varisu, Anandakummi; Andha Sila Natka; Anney Anney; Ayiram Nilave Vaa; Bhagavathipuram Railway Gate; Devi Sridevi; Ennaipar En Azhagai Paar; Ethanai Konam Ethanai Parvai; Ilamai Kalanga; Indru Nee Nalai Naar; Inimai Idho Idho; Jyothi; Kan Sivanthal Man Sivakkum; Kokkarako; Malaiyur Mambattiyar; Manavi Solle Mandiram; Mann Vasana; Mellappesunga; Mundhanai Mudichu; Muthu Engal Sotthu; Oru Odai Nadhiyagiradhu; Payum Pul; Ragangal Maruvathillai; Sattai Illatha Pambaram; Soorakottai Singhakutty; Thanga Magar; Thoongathe Thambi Thoongathe; Urangatha Ninaivugal; Veetile Raman Veliyale Krishnan; Vellai Raja; Yuga Dharmam; Pallavi Anupallavi; Nyaya Gedditu; Aa Rathri; Oomakuyil; Pinninvalu; Sandhyakku Virinja Poovu; Sadma; Abhilasha (Tel); Mantrigari Viyyankudu; Rajakumar; Sagara Sangamam; Oppantham; 1984: Alaya Deepam; Ambigai Neril Vandha; Anbe Odi Vaa; Anbulla Malare; Anbulla Rajnikant; Pudhumai Penn; Dhavani Kanavugal; Enakkul Oruvan; Ezhuthantha Sattanga; Ingeyum Oru Gangai; January 1; Kayi Kodukkum Kayi; Kairasikaran; Komberi Mookar; Kuva Kuva Vathuka; Magudi; Meendum Oru Kadhal Kadai; Mudivalla Arambham; Nalai Onadu Naal; Naan Mahaan Alla; Naan Padum Pada; Nalla Naal; Nallavanukku Nallavar; Neengal Kettavai; Nee Thodum Pothur; Neram Nalla Neram; Nilavu Suduvathillai; Nyayam; Nooravathunaal; O Mani Mane; Poovilangu; Pozhodu Vidinachu; Sanganatham; Thalainya Mandiram; Thambikku Entha Ooru; Thangamdi Thangam; 24 Mani Neram/ 24 Hours; Unnai Naan Santhithar; Vaidehi Kathirunthal; Vazhka; Vellai Pura Ondru; Nagara Mahime; Accident; Mangalam Nerunne; My Dear Kuttichathan/ Chhota Chetan; Onnanu Namma; Unaroo; Challenge; Gadusu Pindam; Ithe Naa Sava; Jalsarayudu; Mayadari Mogudu; Merupu Dadi; Noorava Roju; Nuvva Nena/ Neeya Nanna; Prema Sangamam; Sahasame Jeevitham; Sitara; Takkari Donga; Tiger Rajani; Veerabhadralu; Etho Mogam; Kalyana Kanavugal; Thavani Kanavuka; 1985: Aan Pavam; Aduthathu Albert; Alai Osa; Amudha Ganam; Anbin Mukavari; Andha Oru Nimidam; Annai Bhoomi; Chinna Veedu; Eetti; En Selvame; Hello Yaar Pesarathu; Idaya Koyil; Japanil Kalyanaraman; Kakki Chatta; Kanni Rasi; Ketti Malam; Kumkuma Chimizh; Malargal Naniginrana; Muthal Mariyathai; Nane Raja Nane Mandiri; Naan Sigappu Manithar; Nallathambi; Neethiyin Marupakkam; Oru

Kaithiyin Diary; Padikkadhavar; Padikkatha Panayar; Pagal Nilavu; Pillai Nila; Pudhiya Theerpu; Raja Rishi; Selvi; Sindhu Bhairavi; Shri Raghavendrar; Thanga Mana; Thendrale Ennai Thodu; Udaya Geetham; Unnai Thedi Varuven; Un Kannil Neer Vazhinda; Urimai; Uyarntha Ullam; Ajeya; Namma Bhoomi; Mera Inteqam; Anveshana; Illali Sapadham; Jalsa Bullodu; Khooni; Kirathakudu; Mangalya Bandham; Monagadu Mosagadu; Muthyala Jallu; Jwala; Praja Poratam; Preminchu Pelladu; Rahasya Hanthakudu; Shivabhakta Naga Shakti; Shri Shirdi Saibaba Mahatyam; Geetanjali; Poove Poo Chooda Va; Yathra; Namma Bhoomi; 1986: Satya Jyothi; Jadu Nagari; Amman Koil Kizhakkale; Aruvadainal; Ananda Kannir; Iravu Pookkal; Isai Padum Thendrai; Unakkagave Vazhkirar; Enakku Nane Needipathi; Engal Thaikulame Varuga; Kannukku Mai Ezhuthu; Karimedi Karivayar; Kalamellam Un Mediyil; Kodai Malai; Sadhana; December Pookkal; Dharmapatni; Thaluvatha Kaikal; Thaikku Oru Thalattu; Nam Ooru Nalla Ooru; Natpu; Nanum Oru Thozhilal; Neethana Anda Kuyil; Punnagai Mannar; Paru Paru Pattinam Paru; Palaivana Rojakkal; Maragatha Veenai; Mandhira Punnagai; Maaveeran; Mr Bharat (Ta); Mudhal Vasantham; Murattu Karangal; Mella Thirandathu Kathavu; Mouna Ragam; Yaro Ezhuthia Kavithai; Vikram; Vidunja Kalyanam; 1987: Poovizhi Vasalile; Ninaikka Therindha Maname; Ullam Kavarntha Kalvar; Teertha Karayanile; Vazhgai Valarga; Nayagam; Puyal Padum Pattu; Kalyana Kacheri; Anand; Iniya Uravu Poothathu; Manadhil Urudhi Vendhum; Sankeerthana; Aradhana; Khaidi; Andarikante Ghanudu; Rendu Thokala Titta; Kamagni; Ore Oru Gramathile; Veedu; Idhu Oru Thodarkathai; Enga Ooru Pattukaran; Kadama Kanniyam Kattupadu; Kadhal Parisu; Krishnan Vandhan; Sirai Paravai; Chinna Kuyil Padhuthu; Ninaive Oru Sangeetham; Theorathu Pachai; Padu Nilave; Persollum Pillai; Mangai Oru Gangai; Irattaiyal Kuruvi; Velaikkarar; Jalli Kattu; 1988: Shenbagame Shenbagame; En Uyir Kannamma; Rasave Unnai Nambi; Satya; Irandil Onru; Oruvar Vazhum Alayam; Solla Thudikuthu Manasu; En Jeevan Paduthu; En Bommu Kutti Ammavukku; Guru Shishyar; Agni Nakshatram; Therkkithi Kallan; Pasaparaivaigal; Parthal Pasu; Poonthotha Kavalkaran; Soora Samharam; Ennai Veetu Pogathe; Naan Sonnadhe Sattam; Unnal Mudiyyum Thambi; Illam; Enga Ooru Kavalkaran; Idhu Engal Needhi; Manamagale Vaa; Dharmathin Thalivan; Padatha Thenikkal; Thayam Onnu; Moonnam Pakkam; Maharshi; Rudraveena; Abhinandana; Shri Kanakamahalaxmi Recording Dance Troupe; Jamadagni; Swarna Kamalam; Varasoduchadu; Rakthabhisekham; En Vazhi Thani Vazhi; 1989: Ennai Petha Rasa; En Purushanthan Enakkum Mattumthar; Varusham 16; En Uyir Thozhar; Rajadhi Raja; Thenral Sudum; Pongivarum Kaveri; Pattukoru Thalivan; Pandinarattu Thangam; Apoorva Sahodarargal/ Appu Raja; Ninaivu Chinna; Shiva (Ta); Shiva (Te); Enga Ooru Mappillai; Poruthanthu Potham; Annanukkey Jay; Raja Rajathar; Kadhal Oyvathillai;

Pickpocket; Chinnappadas; Karagatta Karan; Ponmana Selvar; Dharmam Vellum; Vadhiyar Veetu Pillai; Mappillai; Pasa Mazhai; Anbu Kattalai; Padicha Pullai; Kaiveesu Amma Kaiveesu; Pudhu Pudhu Arthangal; Thiruppumunai; Vetri Vizha; Thangamana Rasa; Mahadev; Garjinchina Ganga; Prema; Chettukinda Pleader; Geetanjali; Rudra Neta; Gopalraogari Abbayi; Ashoka Chakravarthi; Indrudu Chandrudu; Kondaveeti Donga; 1990: Anjali; Arangetra Velai; Adisaya Piravi; Urudhimozi; Ooru Vittu Oru Vandhu; Engatta Modathe; En Oyir Tholar; Oru Pudhiya Kadhai; Kavalukku Kettikaran; Kizhakku Vasal; Kiladi Kanmani; Jagadeka Veerudu Atilokasundari; Kshatriyan; Thalattu Padava; Nadigan; Nilapennay; Panakkarar; Pudhu Pattu; Pattukku Naan Adimai; Pulan Visaranai; Periaveetu Pannaikaran; Pondatti Thevai; Michael Madana Kamarajan; My Dear Marthandan; Mounam Sammadham; Raja Kaiye Vacha; Vellaya Thevar; Velai Kidaichiruchur; Bobbili Raja; 1991: Aditya 369; Nirnayam; Chinna Gounder; Chinna Thambi; En Rasavin Manisile; 1992: Thevar Magan; A Okati Adakku; Killer; Papayude Sontham Appoose; 1994: Magalir Mattum; Sammohanam; Adharma; Mogha Mull; 1995: Sati Leelavathi.

Ilangoan see Elangovan

Imperial Films Company

Est: 1926. Successor to the Majestic and Royal Art Film companies set up by Ardeshir Irani as a diversification of his exhibition interests in partnership with Esoofally, Mohammed Ali and Dawoodji Rangwala. Organised as a vertically integrated combine with its own exhibition infrastructure. Started following the decline of Kohinoor, it continued many of the latter's Mohanlal Dave-inspired genres, often with the same stars and film-makers. Imperial became closely associated with the costumed historical genre launched with Anarkali (1928), shot and released almost overnight in direct competition to Charu Roy's The Loves of a Mughal Prince (1928). Irani also rushed out Alam Ara (1931), released as India's first full talkie narrowly beating Madan Theatres' Shirin Farhad (1931). Imperial was the first studio to shoot scenes at night (in Khwab-e-Hasti, 1929) using incandescent lamps. It owned India's top silent star, Sulochana, and promoted her along with Zubeida, Jiloo and, for a while, the young Prithviraj Kapoor. This was perhaps the first major instance of a deliberate manufacturing of a star-cult as a marketing strategy. Top Imperial film-makers include R.S. Choudhury, B.P. Mishra and Mohan Bhavnani, whose film-making set the house style, as did Nandlal Jaswantlal's sound films. A fair number of the studio's talkies were remakes of its own silent hits with Sulochana (Anarkali, 1928 & 1935), Wildcat of Bombay (1927) became Bambai Ki Billi (1936), etc. It made films in at least nine languages: Hindi, Gujarati, Marathi, Tamil, Telugu, Burmese, Malay, Pushtu and Urdu. The first Iranian sound film, Dukhtar-e-Lur (aka Dokhtare Lor Ya Irane Diruz Va Emruz, 1932) was also made here. Kisan Kanya (1937) by Gidwani was India's first indigenously manufactured colour film, made with the Cinecolour process. When it closed in 1938, its economic and generic inheritance was continued by Sagar Movietone.

Indian Kinema Arts

Silent studio; Est: 1927 in Calcutta by exhibitor Ghanshyamdas Chokhani. First film was the influential Punarjanma (1927) scripted by Premankur Atorthy and shot by Nitin Bose, the début of a combination that later launched International Filmcraft with Chasher Meye (1931). With P.C. Barua's Barua Pics and Dhiren Ganguly's British Dominion Films, this studio is a direct predecessor of the New Theatres. Following the advent of New Theatres (1931), it was taken over by B.D. Rawal and converted into a studio facility for hire.

Indian Peoples' Theatre Association

Theatre movement informally affiliated to the CPI; launched as an All-India front in Bombay (1943) with a manifesto calling for a 'defence of culture against Imperialism and Fascism'. While its immediate antecedents were in the PWA (1936) and thus in the European anti-Fascist movements of the 30s, the front found its identity with Sombhu Mitra's staging of Bijon Bhattacharya's play Nabanna (1943) and with Jyotindra Moitra's song series Nabajibaner Gaan (1944). Both works were based on the Bengal famine of 1943. Subsequent work included travelling musical and theatre groups, predominantly in context of 40s CPI-led struggles in Bengal, Andhra (Telangana) and Kerala. Through the 40s and early 50s, it grew into the only instance of a cultural avant-garde in contemporary Indian history. It was active also in Punjab, Assam (see Jyotiprasad Agarwala and Bhupen Hazarika), Orissa (see K. Pattanayak) and AP (the Praja Natya Mandali, which also made one film, Raja Rao's Puttillu, 1953), despite a near-programmatic emphasis on reclaiming the popular vernacular by using local folk and occasionally popular modes of performance. The strategy's major strength lay in enabling several regional movements to forge new links and to reinvent their own local traditions, e.g. in Kerala, where the Kerala Peoples' Arts Club (KPAC) played a key role in the CP's organisation of the peasantry in Malabar and North Travancore leading to the insurrection against the erstwhile Travancore State (1946-50). Radical theatre movements around e.g. Thoppil Bhasi's plays also traced an ancestry via the Young Namboodiri movements of the 30s (with V.T. Bhattathirippad) to the Yogakshema Sabha (Est: 1908) and to the major early 20th C. poet Kumaran Asan. The less activist but equally influential aspect of the front was in the major urban centres with e.g. the work of playwright-film-maker K.A. Abbas and dancer Uday Shankar. For a brief period following WW2 and in the early years of Independence, virtually the entire cultural intelligentsia was associated with or influenced by IPTA/PWA initiatives, possibly because it was seen as the 'only cultural organisation engaged in serious creative activity' (Sudhi Pradhan, 1979). The IPTA's impact on cinema includes the collective effort of Dharti Ke Lal (1946) mobilising actors Balraj Sahni and Sombhu Mitra, musician Ravi Shankar and writer-scenarist Krishan Chander; Neecha Nagar (1946: cf. Chetan Anand); the plays of Inder Raj Anand staged by Prithviraj Kapoor which led to Raj Kapoor's film team with e.g. scenarist Abbas and music directors Shankar-Jaikishen. The IPTA also supported some independently made films: e.g. Shantaram's Dr Kotnis Ki Amar Kahani (1946). In Bengal, its influence on film was mediated through Manoj Bhattacharya's Tathapi and Nemai Ghosh's Chinnamul (both 1950), which represent Ghatak's and Bijon Bhattacharya's first encounters with film. Other Bengali films connected with the IPTA include Bimal Roy's Udayer Pathey/Hamrahi (1944); Satyen Bose's Bhor Hoye Elo (1953) and Rickshawalla (1955) and Sushil Majumdar's Dukhir Iman (1954). In Kerala, the key event for the IPTA style's transition to film was Neelakuyil (1954) by Ramu Kariat and P. Bhaskaran though the KPAC tradition itself was best exemplified by Thoppil Bhasi's films and scripts.

Information Films of India

Est: 1943 as a successor to the Film Advisory Board. Launched as producer of war propaganda documentaries, shorts and the Indian News Parade (ancestor to Films Division's current Indian News Review). Started by the British-Indian government, it required all exhibitors to include up to 2000 ft of 'Government-approved film' in each screening. This law was incorporated as an amendment to the Defence of India Act (Rule 44A). In the four years when the IFI was in force (i.e. before it yielded to the Films Division), its chief producer was Ezra Mir and the producer of the Indian News Parade was William J. Moylan. It produced c.170 shorts in addition to the newsreels before it closed in 1946.

Irani, Ardeshir Marwan (1886-1969)

Director and producer in several languages; born in Pune. Studied at the J.J. School of Art in Bombay; teacher and kerosene inspector before joining his father in the phonograph and musical instruments trade in Bombay. Entered film as exhibitor representing Western Indian interests of Universal Film. Partnered Abdulally Esoofally in exhibition interests launched with acquisition of Alexandra and Majestic theatres (1914). The partnership lasted 55 years. Initially went into film production to keep distribution outlets supplied. Launched Star Film (1920) in partnership with Bhogilal K.M. Dave, releasing their first film, Manilal Joshi's Veer Abhimanyu in 1922. They became Majestic Film (1923), then Royal Art Studio (1925) and finally the major silent era studio, Imperial Film (1926). A 'mogul' in the mould of the big Hollywood studio bosses; credited with between 225 and 250 productions in his lifetime, about half in the silent era, and talkies in nine languages including Farsi (Dukhtar-e-Lur, the first Iranian sound film). Early screen directions often jointly credited to Naval Gandhi but took rare solo directorial credit for India's first full sound feature, Alam Ara, for which, having imported a sound technician from Hollywood (Wilford Deming), he finally recorded most of the sound himself. Bought rights to Cinecolour process and set up colour laboratory, producing India's first indigenously processed colour film Kisan Kanya (1937). Produced only one film after Imperial went into liquidation in 1938 (Pujari, 1946) but remained active member of the Indian Motion Picture Producers Association (IMPPA) of which he had been, in 1933, its first president. In 1974, Kennedy Bridge in Bombay was renamed Ardeshir Bridge and his Jyoti Studios (Est: 1939) passed to his son, Shapur A. Irani.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1924: Mumbai Ni Sethani; Shahjehan; Paap No Fej. 1925: Navalsha Hirji (all St); 1931: Alam Ara; 1933: Dukhtar-e-Lur.

Ishara, Babu Ram

Hindi director born in Una, Himachal Pradesh, as Roshanlal Sharma. Went to Bombay aged 16 to enter the film industry. Late 60s scenarist and dialogue writer in Hindi for Dulal Guha, B.K. Adarsh, etc. Early 70s films (Chetna, Charitra) sparked major censorship debates over nudity and 'artistic licence' of exploitation cineastes, particularly because of their art-house claims (cf. New Indian Cinema). His work indirectly led to the governmental guidelines addressed to the Censor Board (1979) directing the deletion of 'scenes which have the effect of justifying or glorifying drinking [and of] vulgarity, obscenity and depravity'. Prolific scenarist; also wrote his own films.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1969: Insaaf Ka Mandir; 1970: Chetna; Gunah Aur Kanoor; 1971: Man Tera Tan Mera; 1972: Ek Nazar; Maan Jaiye; Milap; Zaroorat; 1973: Charitra; Dil Ki Raaheir; Ek Nao Do Kinare; Hathi Ke Daant; Nai Duniya Naye Log; 1974: Bazaar Band Karo; Dawat; Prem Shastra; 1975: Kaagaz Ki Nao; 1978: Pal Do Pal Ka Saath; Rahu Ketu; 1979: Ghar Ki Laaj; 1980: Jise Tu Kabool Karle; Kaaran; 1981: Khara Khota; 1982: Log Kya Kahenge; 1983: Jai Baba Amarnath; 1984: Hum Do Hamare Do; Aurat Ka Inteqam; 1985: Sautela Pati; 1986: Aurat; 1987: Besahara; Sila; 1988: Woh Phir Aayegi; 1994: Janam Se Pehle; 1995: Hukumnama.

Isl am, Kazi Nazrul (1889-1976)

Composer and songwriter born in Burdwan Dist., Bengal. With Tagore he was the major influence on popular Bengali music in the 20th C. Known as the Bidrohi Kavi or Rebel Poet and directly associated with radical nationalist movements (e.g. through the journal Dhoomketu which he edited in 1922, leading to his imprisonment on a charge of sedition), his poetry constitutes the first radical intervention into Hindu and Muslim devotional music, e.g. his famous addresses to the goddess Kali, his ghazal compilations (Chokher Chatak, 1929) and Islamic devotionals (Zulfikar, 1932). Much of his music, continued by the IPTA's Bengali song repertoire, was polemically seen as a radical-romantic use of the 'tradition' (e.g. Salil Choudhury, 1955). One of the first composer-writers to sign contracts with major record companies in Bengal (for Megaphone and Senola and later HMV) and with the Indian Broadcasting Corp., opening up new employment opportunities to a generation of younger composers such as Anil Biswas, S.D. Burman, Kamal Dasgupta and even Kishore Kumar (whose song Ai ek dui tran char gili gili/bam chick boob chick badhke bol in Kehte Hain Mujhko Raja, 1975, adapts Islam's famous Cham chiki ude gelo). Created an urban variation of tribal jhumur music for Sailajananda Mukherjee's Pataal Puri and wrote the songs for Nandini (1941) and Dikshul (1943). Some sources credit him as director for Dhruva, in which he played the Hindu sage Narad. Started Bengal Tiger Pics with Abbasuddin Ahmed. Their film of Islam's novel Madina remained unfinished.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* also act): 1934: *Dhruva; 1935: Pataal Puri; 1936: Graher Pher; 1938: Gora; 1942: Chowringhee.

Iyer, Ganapathy Venkatramana (b. 1917)

Kannada director born in Nanjangud, Karnataka. Also major lyricist, scenarist, producer and actor, nicknamed 'the barefoot director'. Belongs to family of temple priests in old Mysore. Started in theatre in 1928. Career in two phases: actor-playwright for Gubbi Veeranna, scenarist for several key historicals starring Rajkumar, film-maker (usually with co-director T.V. Singh Thakore) and sought-after lyricist-scenarist for c.65 Kannada films; then, after Reddy's Samskara (1970), promoter of art-house cinema. Produced Karnad and Karanth's Vamsha Vriksha (1971); directed Hamsa Geethe and first Sanskrit feature, Adi Shankaracharya. Later made another, Bhagavad Geeta. Culturally the two periods are closely linked: his recent Saint films argue for a revival of brahminical orthodoxy and Advaita philosophy to recover 'ancient truths', thus returning to themes inherent in mythologicals derived from feudal-brahminical literature, music and theatre under royal patronage around the turn of the century. Early scripts for Rajkumar (e.g. Ranadheera Kanteerava, 1960) were part of a populist effort to reposition South India's feudalism in terms of Karnataka's regional-chauvinist movements from mid-40s onwards. His wordy prose socials, e.g. Bhoodana, and the use of classical Carnatic music in Hamsa Geethe are part of an effort to update old Mysore's brahminical art forms seen as the pinnacle of achievement in conservative views of Karnataka's cultural history. Also acted in e.g. Radha Ramana (1943), Bedara Kannappa (1954), Bhakta Mallikarjuna, Mahakavi Kalidasa, Sodari (all 1955), Sadarama/Sadarama (1956), Kantheredu Nodu (1961), and Hemavathi (1977). Published Mooru Chitra Mooru Daari (1984).

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1962: Bhoodana; Thayi Karulu/Thayin Karunai; 1963: Lawyara Magalu; Bangari; 1964: Post Master; 1966: Kiladi Ranga; 1967: Rajashekhara; 1968: Mysore Tonga; Nane Bhagyavati; 1969: Chowkada Deepa; 1975: Hamsa Geethe/Aakhri Geet; 1976: Nalegalannu

Maduvavaru; 1977: Kudre Motte; 1983: Adi Shankaracharya; 1986: Madhvacharya; 1989: Shri Ramanujacharya; Wall Poster; 1992: Bhagavad Geeta.

Jaddanbai (b. 1892)

Hindi-Urdu director, singer, composer and actress born in Allahabad, UP. Joined Playart Phototone in Lahore (1932); later set up Sangeet Films (1936), writing, scoring and directing its films. Sang in Hindi and in Punjabi films such as Insaan Ya Shaitan, Seva Sadan, Talash-e-Haq and Raja Gopichand, also scoring the last two films. Scripted Anjuman (1948). Mother of 50s/60s Hindi superstar Nargis.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* act only): 1933: *Raja Gopichand; *Insaan Ya Shaitan; 1934: *Prem Pareeksha; *Seva Sadan; *Naachwali; 1935: *Talash-e-Haq; 1936: Hridaya Manthar; Madam Fashion; 1937: Jeevan Swapna; Moti Ka Haar.

Jaffrey, Saeed (b. 1929)

Internationally successful actor born in Maler Kotla in Punjab. His father worked in the Indian Medical service. Degree in history in Allahabad; worked for AIR (1951-6); formed English theatre company, the Unity Theatre, in New Delhi (1951). Worked for TV in India (1955-6). Studied at RADA in London (1956) and at the Catholic University of America. Worked for United Nations Radio and at the India Tourist Office in the USA (1958-60). Toured Shakespeare across the USA and joined the Actors' Studio in New York. Extensive stage career in the USA and in Great Britain (1966). Cartoonist for New York Mirror. Wrote, produced and narrated Reflections of India for WQXR radio (1961-2). Made a recording of his poetry readings, Adventures in Appreciation. Hindi debut in Ray's Shatranj Ke Khiladi. Acts in many commercial Hindi films often using the Lucknowi dialect. Narrated early Merchant-Ivory shorts and appeared in their features. Numerous TV appearances in Britain, including his own series Tandoori Nights (1985-7). Made a big impact in the innovative TV series Gangsters and in the British TV film, My Beautiful Launderette.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1969: Callan: The Worst Soldier I Ever Saw (TV); The Guru; View from the Window (TV); The Perfumed Garden; 1971: The Horsemen; 1972: The Sun Rises in the East (TV); 1974: The Wilby Conspiracy; 1975: The Man Who Would Be King; 1976: Gangsters (TV); 1977: Shatranj Ke Khiladi; 1978: Hullabaloo over Georgie and Bonnie's Pictures; The Last Giraffe; Destiny (TV); 1979: Tales of the Unexpected: Poison (TV); Minder: The Bengal Tiger (TV); Ek Baar Phir; 1980: We Think the World of You (TV); Staying On (TV); 1981: Chashme Buddoor; Sphinx; 1982: Star; Gandhi; Courtesans of Bombay; Masoom; 1983: The Jewel in the Crown (TV); Kisise Na Kehna; Romance; Romance; Agamam; Ek Din Bahu Ka; Mandi; Cricketer; 1984: A Passage to India; The Far Pavilions

Rajkumar (right) in G.V. Iyer's Kiladi Ranga (1966)

(TV); Mashaal, Bhavna, The Razor's Edge, Le Soleil se leve a l'est, 1985: Sagar, Phir Aayi Barsaat, My Beautiful Laundrette (TV); Far from the Kama Sutra (TV); White Lies (TV); Down With Oswald Pick (TV); Far from the Ganges (TV); Film Fare (TV); Ram Teri Ganga Maili, Jaano, Karishma Kudrat Ka, Tandoori Nights (TV); 1986: Mohammed's Daughter (Sh); Qati, Jalwa, Kala Dhandha Goray Log, 1987: Awaam, Khudgarz, Aulad, Adalat, Isi Bahane (TV); Tamas (TV); Killing on the Exchange (TV); 1988: Vijay, Khoon Bhari Maang, Just Ask for Diamond, Eeshwar, Kab Tak Chup Rahungi, Hero Hiralal, The Deceivers, Partition (TV); 1989: Ram Lakhan, Daata, Aakhri Gulam, Hisab Khoon Ka, Chaalbaaz, Hard Cases (TV); Manika, Une vie plus tard, Romancing the Taj (TV); 1990: Aandhiyan, Yaadon Ka Mausam, Sindoor Ki Awaaz, Solah Satra, Diwana Mujhsa Nahir, Di, Naya Khoon, Shaandaar, After Midnight, Ghar Ho To Asia, Patthar Ke Insaan, 1991: Ajooba, Masala, Harum Scarum (TV); Rumpole and the Quacks (TV); Gunehgaar Kaur, Henna, Indrajit, Yaara Dildara, 1992: Vartmaan, Suryavanshi, Laatsaab, Nishchay, 1993: Balma, Guddu, Anmol, Chalte Chalte (TV); Aashiq Awara, Aaina, 15th August, Ek Hi Raasta, Aulad Ke Dushman, Little Napoleons (TV); 1994: Param Veer Chakra, Dilwale, Bali Umar Ko Salaam, Salami, Yeh Dillagi, 1995: Sauda, Vartaman, Jai Vikranta, Param Veer Chakra, Prem, Saajan Ki Baahon Meir, Veergati, Kartavya, Angrakshak, Gambler, Trimurti.

Jaggaiiah, Kongara (b. 1926)

Telugu actor born in Morampudi, Tenali taluk, AP. Graduated from Andhra Christian College, Guntur, where he staged amateur plays with NTR. Schoolteacher in Duggirala while working with NTR's National Art Theatre, e.g. his best-known play, Chesina Papam (1946). Sanskrit scholar and student of Jampala Venkata Narasimham. Activist with the Navya Sahitya Parishat (1942) and the PWA (until 1949). Telugu newsreader at AIR, New Delhi. Debut in H.V. Babu's Adarsham. Lead role in Gopichand's Priyuralu. Appeared regularly in Telugu films mainly playing the second lead to heroes like A. Nageshwara Rao (Ardhangi, Dr Chakravarthi) until the 70s. Known for his classically accented oratory. Character actor in 80s melodrama, often in heavily made up grandfather roles. Produced two films Padandi Munduku and Shabash Papanna. Also known for translations of Rabindra Sangeet into Telugu and for his compilation of Acharya Athreya's work. Member of Parliament representing the Congress (O) from the Ongole constituency, AP, in 1967.

◆ FILMOGRAPHY: 1952: Adarsham, Priyuralu; 1954: Bangaru Papa; 1955: Ante Kavali, Beedala Asti; Ardhangi Pennin Perumai, Pasupu Kumkuma, Santosham/Naya Admi, Donga Ramudu; 1956: Muddubidda, Melukolupu, Balasanyasamma Katha; 1957: Repu Neede, Aalu Magalu, Peddarikalur, Veera Kankanam, Bhale Bhava, Varudukavali/Manamagal Thevai, Bhale Ammayilu, MLA; 1958: Anna Thamudu, Atta Okinti Kodale, Shri Krishna Garudi, Dongalunnaru Jagratha, Mundadugu; Appu Chesu Pappu Koodu/Kadan Vangi Kalyanam, 1959: Koothuru Kapuram, Bhagya Devatha; 1960: Renukadevi Mahatyam, Kuladaivam, Dharmane Jayam, Pelli Kanuka, Kumkumarekha, Jalsarayudu, Annappurna, Samajam; 1961: Velugu Needulu, Kanna Koduku, Taxi Ramudu, Intiki Deepam Illale, Pellikani Pillalu; 1962: Padandi Munduku, Gali Medalu, Aradhana, Appagintalu, Chitti Tamudu, Constable Koothuru; 1963: Eedu Jodu, Anubandhalu, Manchi Rojulu Lostai, Thobuttuvulu; 1964: Poojapalam, Atmabalam, Gudigintalu, Peetalameeda Pelli, Dr Chakravarthi; 1965: Uyyala Jampala, Chaduvukonna Bharya, Keelu Bommalu, Antastulu, Preminchi Choodu, Manasulu Mamathalu, Veelunama; 1966: Manase Mandiram, Ame Evaru, Astiparulu; 1967: Pranamithrulu, 1968: Bandhipotu Dongalu, Chinnari Papalu, Chuttarikalu, Gramadevathulu, Kalasina Manushulu, Papakosam, Veeranjaneya; 1969: Ardha Rathri, Dharmapatni, Jarigina Katha, Sepoy Chinnaiah; 1970: Talli Tandurulu, Yamalokapu Goodachari, Kodalu Diddina Kapuram, Drohi, Manasu Mangalyam; Maro Prapancham, 1971: Jeevitha Chakram, Vintha Samsaram, Suputhrudu, Patindalla Bangaram, Raitu Bidda, Bangaru Talli, Naa Thammudu, Chinnanati Snehitulu, Ramalayam, Talli Kuthulu, Kalyana Mandapam, Bharya Biddalu; 1972: Collector Janaki, Shabash Papanna, Prajanayakudu, Shabash Baby, Badi Panthulu, Koduku Kodalu, Balamithrula Katha, Bangaru Babu; 1973: Ramrajyam, Nindu Kutumbam, Devudu Chesina Manushulu, Ramude Devudu, Vintha Katha, Memu Manushulame, Kaidi Baba, Marapurani Manishi, Meena; 1974: Mangalya Bhagyam, Bhoomikosam, Manchi Manushulu, Devadasu, Deeksha, Gali Patalu, Kode Naagu, Peddalu Marali, Alluri Seetaramaraju, Tulasi, Manushulu Matti Bommalu, Harathi, Dora Babu; 1975: Eduruleni Manishi, Kavitha, Pellikani Thandri, Ramuni Minchina Ramudu, Samsaram, Manasakshi; 1976: Aradhana, Rama Rajyamlo Raktha Pasam, Oka Deepam Veligindhi, Devude Gelichadu, Raja, Peddannayya, Muthyala Pallaki, Shri Rajeshwari Vilas Coffee Club, Uttamuralu; 1977: Bangaru Bommalu, Adavi Ramudu, Raja Ramesh, Jeevana Theeralu, Panchayathi, Premalekhalu, Edureetha, Gadusu Ammayi, Jeevithamlo Vasantham; 1978: Dongala Veta, KD No. 1, Karunamayudu, Lambadolla Ramadasu, Sahasavanthudu, Vichitra Jeevitham, Ramakrishnulu, Yuga Purushudu, Shri Rama Raksha, Moodu Puvvulu Aaru Kayalu; 1979: Ramanam, Maavari Manchithanam, Judagadu, Yugandhar, Samajaniki Sava, Mangala Toranalu, Vetagadu, Ra Ra Krishnaiah; 1980: Edantastulamedu, Bhale Krishnudu, Kalyana Chakravarthi, Ram Robert Rahim, Shri Vasavi Kannika Parameshwari Mahatyam, Sandhya, Ragile Jwala, Srishti Rahasyulu, Manavude Mahaniyudu, Aatagadu, Bommala Koluvu; 1981: Talli Kodakala Anubandham, Guru Shishyulu, Tiruguleni Manishi, Nyayam Kavali, Jeevitha Ratham, Rani Kasularangamma; Seethakoka Chilaka, Lakshmi, Aggirava, Antham Kadidi, Arambham, Mayadari Alludu, Ramakrishnamanulu; 1982: Megha Sandesam, Gopala Krishnudu, Dharma Vadi, Bobbili Puli, Edi Nyayam Edi Dharmam, Eenadu, Jagannatha Rathachakralu, Naa Desam, Prema Sankellu, Madhura Swapnam, Tingu Rangadu, Yamakinkarudu; 1983: Agni Samadhi, Chanda Sasanudu, Dharma Poratam, Koteeshwarudu, Poratham, Rama Rajyamlo Bheemaraju, Sivudu Sivudu Sivudu, Yuddha Bhoomi, Bandhulu Anubandhulu; 1984: Kanchu Kagada, Suvarna Sundari, Anubandham, Babulugadi Debba, Disco King, Grihalakshmi, Jagan, Mr Vijay, Naagu, Palnati Puli, Raaraju, Ramayanamlo Bhagavatham, Sahasame Jeevitham; Swati, Udanthudu, Alaya Deepam; 1985: Kirathakudu, Krishnagaradi, Uriki Soggadu, Palnati Simham, Thirugubatu, Agni Parvatham, Nyayam Meere Cheppali, Maha Sangramam, Lanchavatharam, Rechukka, Bharya Bharthala Bandham, Maharaju, Pachani Kapuram, Illale Devata, Adavi Donga, Vijeta, Mahamanishi, Edadugula Bandham; 1988: Inspector Pratap, Tiraga Bidda Telugu Bidda, Prema Kiritam, Ashwathama, Jeevana Ganga, Ramudu Bheemudu, Rakthabhisekham, Dharma Teja; 1989: Mamatala Kovela, Bala Gopaludu, Adarshavanthudu, Ajatashatru; 1990: Alludugaru.

Jagirdar, Gajanan (1907-88)

First major freelance director-character actor in Marathi and Hindi cinema. Born in Amravati. Child actor on amateur stage. Started Arun Players in Pune and staged Chekov's Cherry Orchard and Harindranath Chattopadhyay's Returned from Abroad. Claimed Ernst Lubitsch's The Patriot (1928) as a major influence. Started in films as writer of English intertitles at Prabhat; then bit actor. Apprenticed to Bhalji Pendharkar. Made films for Master Vinayak's Huns Pictures, briefly at Minerva Movietone as scenarist for Sohrab Modi (Meetha Zaher, Talaaq, etc.) and at P.K. Atre's company. Best-known film: Ramshastrī (at Prabhat), taking over the direction from Raja Nene and Bedekar as well as playing the lead role. Main performance was as the Muslim patriarch in Shantaram's Shejari. Appointed first director of the FTII (1960) and became well-known pedagogue applying e.g. Stanislavski's theories to local conditions in a book about acting (1983). Published two autobiographies (1971 & 1986). Made a TV serial, Swami, on the life of Madhavrao Peshwa, celebrating Marathi chauvinism.

◆ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d/ only d): 1932: Jalti Nishani Agnikankan; 1934: *Sinhasan>; 1936: *Honhar; Aseer-e-Hawas, 1937: *Begunah>; 1938: *Umaji Nalk>; Meetha Zaher, Talaaq; 1940: *Main Hari>; 1941: Payachi Dasi/*Charnon Ki Dasi>; Shejari Padosi; 1942: *Vasantsena; 1943: Kanoor; 1944: Ramshastrī; *Kiran; Anbar; 1945: Kaise Kahun; 1946: Jhumke; Shatranj; *Behram Khar; 1947: *Jail Yatra; 1948: *Dhanyavaad; 1950: *Birha Ki Raat; Sabak, Gajanan Jagirdar in Ramshastri (1944)

Pagle, 1952: Chhatrapati Shivaji, 1953: Armaan, Mahatma, 1954: Maan, Mallika-e-Alam Nurjehan, Oon Paos, Angarey, *Mahatma Kabir, 1955: Ghar Ghar Mein Diwali, 1956: Chhoo Mantar, Zindagi Ke Mele, Dassehra, 1957: Paying Guest, Aparadhi Kaur, Talash, Yahudi Ki Ladki, Zamana, 1958: Taxi Stand*, *Trolley Driver, Dulhan, Karigar, Raj Tilak, 1959: Qaidi No. 911, Chacha Zindabad, 1960: Babar, Hum Hindustani, *Umaji Naik, 1961: Shahir Parashuram, *Vaijayanti, Hum Dono, Tanhaa, 1962: Main Chup Rahungi, Aarti, 1963: Chhota Jawan, *Sukhachi Savli, Grihasthi, 1964: Ek Don Teer, Sarfaroosh, 1965: Yugo Yugo Mi Vaat Pahili, Ek Saal Pachele, Guide, Kajal, Main Hoon Alladdin, Tu Hi Meri Zindagi, 1966: Dillagi, Suraj, Amrapali, Chhota Bhai, Hum Kahan Ja Rahe Hain, Shankar Khan, Bandar Mera Saathi, 1967: Mera Munna, 1968: Farishta, Dil Aur Mohabbat, Humsaya, Mangalsutra, Jhuk Gaya Aasmaan, 1969: Admi Aur Insaan, Beti Tumhare Jaisi, Saajan, Anmol Moti, Ittefaq, Nai Zindagi, Paisa Ya Pyar, 1970: Insaan Aur Shaitan, Poraki, Ti Mi Navhech, Dr X, Devi, Ghar Ghar Ki Kahani, Jeevan Mrityu, Raaton Ka Raja, Jwala, 1971: Nate Jadle Don Jivache, *Donhi Gharcha Pahuna, Hulchul, 1972: Sub Ka Saathi, Aai Mi Kuthe Jau?, Zindagi Zindagi, 1973: Aa Gale Lag Jaa, Bandhe Haath, Chori Chori, Garibi Hatao, Naina, Sona, 1974: Raja Shivachhatrapati, Ashiana, Badi Maa, Hamrahi, Woh Main Nahin, Mera Vachan Gita Ki Kasam, 1975: Badnaam, Mutthi Bhar Chawal, 1976: Aaj Ka Yeh Ghar, Gumrah, Meera Shyam, Raksha Bandhan, 1977: Admi Sadak Ka, Aankh Ka Tara, Paradh, Imaan Dharam, Ram Bhurose, Chhota Baap, Dhoop Chhaon, Do Dilwale, Mandir Masjid, Naami Chor, Shankar Hussain, 1978: Anjaam, Des Pardes, Karmayogi, Dost Asava Tar Asa, 1979: Maan Apmaan, Naiya, Saanch Ko Aanch Nahin, 1980: Deva Pudhe Manoos, Mantryanchi

Soon, Paij, 1981: Umrao Jaan, Dahshat, Sher Shivaji, 1983: Rishta Kaagaz Ka, Lal Chunaria, Love In Goa, 1984: Bhool, 1986: Aap Ke Saath, Yeh Preet Na Hogi Kam, Sutradhar, 1988: Swami* (TV).

Jamuna, Nippani (b. 1937)

Telugu actress, also worked in Hindi, Tamil and Kannada. Born in Hampi, Karnataka; educated in Duggirala. Associated with the stage group Praja Natya Mandali, e.g. the play Maabhoomi. Screen debut in her colleague Raja Rao's film, Puttillu. Early films with Tilak and Chanakya (e.g. Anta Manavalle). Famous roles in Missamma, and in Bangaru Talli, the Telugu remake of Mehboob's opus Mother India (1957). First Hindi starring role in Prasad's comedy, Miss Mary.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1953: Puttillu, 1954: Anta Manavalle, Iddaru Pellalu, Maa Gopi, Menarikam, Nirupedalu, Vaddante Dabbu, Bangaru Papa, 1955: Santosham/Naya Admi, Vadinagari Gajulu, Donga Ramudu, Missamma/Missamma, 1956: Tenali Ramakrishna, Chintamani, Nagula Chaviti, Adarshasati, 1957: Bhagya Rekha, Veera Kankanam, Dongalo Dora, Vinayaka Chaviti, Sati Ansuya, Miss Mary, Tangamalai Rahasyam, 1958: Bhukailasa, Bommalapelli, Bommai Kalyanam, Pellinati Pramanalu, Shri Krishnamaya, Appu Chesu Pappu Koodu, 1959: Koothuru Kapuram, Maa Inti Mahalakshmi/Enga Veetu Mahalakshmi, Sipayi Kooturu, Vachina Kodalu Nachindi, Vazhkai Oppantham, Nalla Theerpu, Naradhar Kalyanam, Kanniraindha Kanavan, Thayi Magalukku Kattiya Thali, 1960: Kadavunin Kuzhandai, Dharmane Jayam, Mahakavi Kalidasa, Annapurna, Jalsarayudu, 1961: Usha Parinayam, Krishna Prema, Pellikani Pillalu, 1962: Gul-e-Bakavali Katha, Pelli Thambulam/Nishchaya Thambulam, Gundamma Katha/Manidan

Maravalli, 1963: Thobuttuvulu, Nadi Aada Janma, Moogamanasulu, 1964: Murali Krishna, Manchi Manishi, Bobbili Yuddham, Poojapalam, 1965: CID, Dorikite Dongalu, Mangamma Sapatham, Keelu Bommalu, Todu Needa, 1966: Shri Krishna Pandaviyam, Palnati Yuddham, Navarathri, Srikakula Andhra Mahavishnu Katha, Sangeetalakshmi, Shri Krishna Tulabharam, Letamanasulu, Adugu Jadal, Ramu, 1967: Chadarangam, Poolarangudu, Upayamlo Apayam, 1968: Paala Manasulu, Sati Arundhati, Amayukudu, Chinnari Papalu, Challani Needa, Bangaru Sankellu, Pelliroju, Bandhipotu Dongalu, 1969: Ekaveera, Muhurtabalam, 1970: Aada Janma, Manasu Mangalyam, Maro Prapancham, 1971: Bangaru Talli, Mattilo Manikyam, Pavitra Hridayalu, Ramalayam, Sati Ansuya, Shrimanthudu, 1972: Atthanu Diddina Kodalu, Collector Janaki, Maa Inti Kodalu, Vintha Dampathulu, Sampoorna Ramayanam, Menakodalu, Pandanti Kapuram, 1973: Pasi Hridayalu, Mamatha, Dabbuku Lokam Dasoham, Bangaru Manushulu, Dhanama? Daivama?, Inti Dongalu, Memu Manushulame, Nindu Kutumbam, Snehabandham, 1974: Peddalu Marali, Manushulu Matti Bommalu, Deergha Sumangali, Deeksha, Gauri, Bhoomiksam, 1975: Vanaja Girija, Moguda Pellamma, Yashoda Krishna, Parivarthana, Bharati, Anuragalu, Samsaram, Ee Kalam Dampathulu, 1976: America Ammayi, Manishi Mrugham, Seeta Kalyanam, 1977: Chanakya Chandragupta, Gadusu Pillodu, Sati Savitri, Seeta Rama Vanavasur, 1978: Akbar Saleem Anarkali, Shri Rama Pattabhishekham, Katakatala Rudraiah, 1979: Bangaru Chellalu, Shrimad Virata Parvam, 1980: Shri Vinayaka Vijayam, 1987: Mandala Dheesudu.

Janaki, S. (b. 1938)

South Indian singer born in Pallapatla, Guntur Dist., AP. Made her reputation with an AIR prize (1956) and became a staff artist at AVM (1957). Broke through in Tamil cinema under T. Chalapathi Rao and in Telugu via a duet with singer Ghantasala performing under the musical direction of Pendyala. Has sung over 13,000 songs in 12 languages.

Janaki, Sowcar (b. 1922)

Telugu, Tamil, Kannada and Hindi actress, originally Shankaramanchi Janaki. Born in the 24 Parganas Dist., Bengal. Acted in several radio plays when a child. Married aged 15; separated soon after and sought a career in films as a single parent. Discovered by L.V. Prasad, whom she considers her mentor, and made her debut in Shavukaru. Although the film wasn't a hit, she appended its title to her name ever since. Made her Tamil debut at Modern Theatres, in the Bharatidasan scripted Valayapathi. Often paired in 50s Tamil films with M.R. Radha (e.g. Nalla Idathu Sambandham). Also acted in Tamil plays, e.g. by K. Balachander. Produced and acted in Balachander's melodrama Kaviya Thalaivi, followed by Krishnan-Panju's Ranga Rattinam. Her sister, Krishnakumari, was also a noted Tamil, Kannada and Telugu star, and granddaughter Vaishnavi joined films in the late 80s.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1950: Shavukaru, 1952: Adarsham; Valayapathi, 1953: Prapancham; Pichhipullaiyah, 1954: Vaddante Dabbur; Devasundari, 1955: Cherapakura Chedevu; Kanyadanam, Pasupu Kumkuma; Rojulu Marayi/Kalam Maripochu; Kanyasulkam, 1956: Nagula Chaviti/Adarshasati; Bhagya Chakra; Bhagyodaya; Sadarama/Sadarama; 1957: Aalu Magalu; Bhale Bhava; Ratnagiri Rahasya/Tangamalai Rahasyam; Bhagya Rekha, 1958: Nalla Idathu Sambandham; School Master/Badi Panthulu, Anna Thamudu; Ganga Gauri Samvadam; Ettuku Pai Ettu, 1959: Abalai Anjugam; Mahishasura Mardini/Durga Mata, 1960: Naan Kanda Sorgam; Kodeduddulu Ekaramnela; Mohabbat Ki Jeet, 1961: Batasari/Kanal Neer, 1962: Manchi Manushulu/Penn Manam; Daivaleele; Parthal Pasi Theerum, 1963: Kanya Ratna; Gauri; Malli Madhuve; Sati Shakthi; Paar Magale Paar; Saaku Magalu/Pempudu Koothuru; Savati Koduku; Devasundari, 1964: Deshadrohulu; Peetalameeda Pelli; Dr Chakravarthi; Navakoti Narayana, 1965: Naana, 1966: Motor Sundaram Pillai; Mahakavi Kalidas, 1967: Thaikkuthalaimagan; Bhama Vijayam/Bhale Kodalu, 1968: Manchi Kutumbam; Teen Bahuraniyan; Chinnari Papalu; Undamma Bottupeduta; Ethir Neechal; Lakshmi Kalyanam; Uyarntha Manithan; Chakram, 1969: Kaval Daivam; Thunaivan; Iru Kodukal, 1970: Rendu Kutumbala Katha; Nadu Iravil; Kasturi Tilakam; Kaviya Thalaivi, 1971: Ranga Rattinam, 1972: Prajanayakudu; Appa Tata; Thiruneelakantar; Daivam; Thanga Thurai; Neethi, 1973: Prarthana; School Master; Engal Thanga Raja; Khaidi Baba; Padmavyuham, 1974: Sorgathil Thirumanam; Kaliyuga Kannar, 1975: Cinema Paithiyam; Manithanum Daivamagalam; Nalla Marumaga; Uravukku Kayi Koduppam; Balipeetam; Devudulanti Manishi; Naaku Swatantram Vachindi; Vemulavada Bhimakavi, 1976: Manasakshi; Premabandham; Athirishtham Azhaikkirathu; Dashavatharam; Idaya Malar; Nalla Penmani; Perum Pukazhum, 1977: Olimayamana Ethirkalam; Adrushtavanthuralu; Oka Talli Katha, 1978: Anbin Alaigal; Kannan Oru Kai Kuzhanthai, 1979: Pattakathi Bhairavar; Samajaniki Sava, 1980: Arada Gaya; Ellam En Kairasi; Shanti, 1981: Thillu Mullu; Jagamondi; Varaala Abbayi, 1982: Mamiyara Marumagala, 1983: Rajakumar; Engalalum Mudiyyum, 1984: Chiranjeevi; Kayi Kodukkum Kayi, 1987: Brahma Nayudu; Sardar Krishnama Nayudu; Gauthami; Vairagyam, 1988: Murali Krishnudu; Adade Adharam, 1989: Geetanjali.

Jaswantlal, Nandlal (1906-61)

Hindi director born in Bardoli, Surat. Son of Jaswantlal Mehta, administrative officer at Kohinoor. Started career as Kohinoor Studio employee (1924). Assisted Chandulal Shah (1926-9) and directed films for Ranjit Studio (1929-33). Silent star scenarist Mohanlal Dave apparently joined Ranjit solely to be able to work with Jaswantlal. Left to make a tour of Europe (1934); then joined Imperial (1934-6) where he directed Sulochana in several remakes of her own R.S. Choudhury and Bhavnani silent hits. Worked briefly in Madras running a film laboratory (1937), then returned to direction. Silent work influenced by Gandhian nationalism. Best known for his later Filmistan musicals: Anarkali (with Bina Rai and music by C. Ramchandra) and Nagin (with Vyjayanthimala), one of the biggest post-Independence musical hits. Admired for his sophisticated lighting (with cameraman Pandurang Naik). Used extreme close-ups and unusual angles creating disjointed but dramatic and sensual spaces (e.g. the beginning of Anarkali). Last film Akeli Mat Jaiyo was completed by Chandulal Shah. Apparently filmed many of the famous song sequences of M. Sadiq's musical Taj Mahal (1963).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1929: Jawani Diwani; Pardesi Saiyan, 1930: Pahadi Kanya, 1931: Premi Jogan; Ghunghatwali (all St); 1933: Pardesi Preetam, 1934: Indira MA; Kashmeera, 1935: Pujarini, 1936: Bambai Ki Billi; Jungle Queen, 1939: Jeevan Saathi, 1941: Kamadhenu, 1943: Pratigya, 1944: Kadambari, 1945: Amrapali, 1947: Sati Toral; Veerangana, 1951: Sanam, 1953: Anarkali, 1954: Nagin, 1956: Taj, 1957: Champakali, 1963: Akeli Mat Jaiyo.

Jayalalitha Jayaram (b. 1948)

Tamil, Telugu and Kannada star, now better known as a politician. Born in Mysore, the daughter of screen star Sandhya. Learnt the Bharat Natyam. Claims that she wanted to study law, but dropped out of school to follow her aunt Vidyavati (who acted in e.g. En Veedu/Naa Illu, 1953) into films to support her family. Début in Shankar V. Giri's English film Epistle. Early career in Kannada where her second film, Chinnada Gombe, was a major hit. Introduced to Tamil by C.V. Sridhar (Vennira Adai). Telugu début in Manasulu Mamathalu, but became a star in that language playing the vampish lead in G. Krishna's James Bond-type hit Goodachari 116. First film with MGR, the star most closely associated with both her cinematic and political careers, is Panthulu's Ayirathil Oruvan, followed by M.A. Thirumugham's Kannithai. She is a crucial element in MGR's films, esp. 1968-70 when she was at the pinnacle of her career and featured in almost every MGR film, usually to allow the proletarian hero to move across class barriers (e.g. Nam Naadu, Mattukkara Velan). Left films about the same time as MGR, after which she wrote for Cho's fortnightly Tughlaq until MGR made her an important member of his All-India Anna Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (1981). After MGR's death became embroiled in a bitter rivalry with MGR's wife V.N. Janaki over the leadership of the party, which she eventually led to victory, becoming Chief Minister (1991-6). She was briefly imprisoned after her electoral defeat in 1996 for possessing 'wealth disproportionate to her known sources of income'. Made a comeback in films playing 'herself' (as a politician/Chief Minister) in Neenga Nalla Erukkanum, delivering a message on prohibition.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1961: Epistle, Shrishaila Mahatme, 1963: Manchi Roju Lostai, 1964: Chinnada Gombe, Mane Aliya; Amarashilpi Jakanachari, 1965: Vennira Adai; Nanna Kartavya; Ayirathil Oruvan, Nee; Manasulu Mamathalu, Kannithai; Mavana Magalu, 1966: Motor Sundaram Pillai; Muharassi; Yar Nee; Kumari Penn; Chandrodyam; Thanipiravi; Major Chandrakant; Gauri Kalyanam; Mani Makudam; Badukuva Daari; Goodachari 116; Ame Evaru; Astiparalu; Navarathri; Kanni Pilla(?); 1967: Thaikkuthalaimagan, Kandan Karuna; Arasa Kattali; Madi Veetu Mappilai; Raja Veetu Pillai; Kavalkaran; Naar; Gopaludu Bhoopaludu; Chikkadu Dorakudu, 1968: Rahasiya Police 115; Andru Kanda Mukham; There Thiruvizha; Kudiruntha Koi; Galatta Kalyanam; Panakara Pillai; Kannan En Kathalar; Moonrezuthu; Bommalattam; Pudhiya Bhoomi; Kanavan; Muthu Chippi; Enga Ooru Raja; Kadhal Vaghanam; Oli Vilakku; Sukha Dukhalu; Niluvu Dopidi; Brahmachari; Tikka Shankaraiah; Baghdad Gajadonga; Izzat; Attagaru Kottakodalu, 1969: Adimai Penn; Surudakshinai; Daivamagan; Nam Naadu; Shri Rama Katha; Adrushtavanthalu; Katha Nayakudu; Gandikota Rahasyam; Adarsha Kutumbam; Kadaladu Vadaladu; Mattukkara Velan, 1970: Enga Mama; En Annan; Engal Thangam; Engiruthu Vandhai; Theedi Vantha Mappillai; Anadhai Anandan; Pathukappu; Akkachellelu; Alibaba 40 Dongalu; Shri Krishna Vijayam; Dharmadatha, 1971: Kumari Kottam; Sumathi En Sundari; Savale Samali; Thanga Gopuram; Annai Velanganni; Adi Parasakthi; Neerum Neruppum; Oru Thai Makka; Bharya Biddalu; Shri Krishna Satya, 1972: Raja; Thikkutheriyatha Kattil; Raman Thediya Seethai; Pattikada Pattanam; Dharmam Engay; Annamitta Kai; Shakti Leela; Neethi; Akka Tammudu; Devudamma, 1973: Ganga Gauri; Vandhale Magarasi; Suryakanthi; Pattikatu Ponnaiyah; Baghdad Perazhagi; Devudu Chesina Manushulu; Dr Babu; Jesus, 1974: Thirumangalyam; Thayi; Vairam; Anbu Thanga; Anbai Thedi; Premalu Pellilu, 1975: Avalukku Ayiram Kanga; Avanthan Manithan; Pattam Bharathamum; Yarukkum Vetkamillai, 1976: Chitra Pournami; Kanavan Manaivi, 1977: Shri Krishna Leela; Annai Chutrumugalam, 1980: Nadhiyai Thedi Vandha Kadal, 1992: Neenga Nalla Erukkanu.

Jayamma, B. (1915-88)

First star of Kannada cinema and singer with classical training. Born in Chikmagalur, Karnataka. Started aged 7 on the Company Natak stage in Gubbi Veeranna's theatre troupe, where she worked with her niece, B. Sundaramma, the group's star actress. Became lead actress in 1928 and played Draupadi on stage in their big-budget spectacular, Kurukshetra (1934). Entered films in Veeranna-produced films directed by Belgian Raphael Algoet, Y.V. Rao, S. Soundararajan and H.L.N. Simha, mostly in adaptations of the Gubbi Co. stage mythologicals. Also played major roles in 40s Vauhini films in Telugu. Made a late 60s comeback, playing e.g. the haughty queen mother of hero Rajkumar in Immadi Pulakesi.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1931: His Love Affair; 1932: Hari Maya (both St); 1935: Sadarame; 1938: Gul-e-Bakavali; 1941: Subhadra; 1942: Jeevana Nataka; 1944: Bhartrahari (Ta); 1945: Hemareddy Mallamma; Swargaseema; 1946: Lavangi; Thyagayya; 1947: Brahma Ratham; 1949: Natya Rani; Mangayar Karasi; 1950: Raja Vikrama; 1951: Mantradandam; 1953: Gunasagari/Sathya Shodhanai; Gumasta; Jaladurga/Karkottai; 1958: Anna Thangi; 1965: Mavana Magalu; 1966: Prema Mayi; 1967: Immadi Pulakesi; 1968: Anna Thamma; Bedi Bandhavalu; 1970: Mukti; 1971: Sakshatkara.

Jayoo Nachiket see Jayoo and Nachiket Patwardhan

Jaywant, Nal ini (b. 1926)

Actress born in Bombay; cousin of Shobhana Samarth. Début aged 13. In Mehboob's Bahen she sang the Wajahat Mirza duet, Nahin khate hain bhaiyya mere paan, with Sheikh Mukhtar, central to the film's incest theme. A Filmfare cameramen's poll voted her the most photogenic Indian actress ever. In her best-known work she usually functioned as the one who embraces life in counterpoint to the otherwise 'realistic' melodrama of R.S. Choudhury, Mehboob and Mahesh Kaul (e.g. Naujawan). Later she developed a curiously autonomous, guilt-free performative style (e.g. the Navketan thriller Kala Pani). Her association with realism was extended by Ramesh Saigal, Bimal Roy and most notably Zia Sarhadi's Awaaz, while films with Kardar (Jadu), Mahesh Kaul (Naujawan) and Subodh Mukherjee developed the alternate musical persona exemplified by the 50s Filmistan musicals with Dev Anand (e.g. Munimji). Often partnered Ashok Kumar in 1950-2 after their success in Filmistan's Samadhi and Sangram at Bombay Talkies.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1941: Radhika; Nirdosh; Bahen; 1942: Aankh Micholi; 1943: Adab Arz; 1946: Phir Bhi Apna Hai; 1948: Anokha Pyar; Gunjar; Varasdar; 1949: Chakori; 1950: Aankher; Hindustan Hamara; Muqaddar; Samadhi; Sangram; 1951: Ek Nazar; Jadu;

Nand Kishore; Naujawan; 1952: Do Raha; Kafila; Naubahar; Saloni; Jalpari; Rahi; 1953: Shikast; 1954: Baap Beti; Kavi; Lakeereri; Mehbooba; Naaz; Nastik; 1955: Chingari; Jai Mahadev; Lagar; Munimji; Railway Platform; Raj Kanya; 1956: Aan Baar; Awaaz; Durgesh Nandini; Fifty-Fifty; Hum Sub Chor Hair; Insaaf; Twenty-Sixth January; Sudarshan Chakra; 1957: Kitna Badal Gaya Insaan; Miss Bombay; Mr X; Neel Mani; Sheroo; 1958: Kala Pani; Milar; 1959: Maa Ke Ansoo; 1960: Mukti; 1961: Amar Rahe Yeh Pyar; Senapati; 1962: Girls' Hostel; Zindagi Aur Hum; 1965: Bombay Race Course; 1980: Bandish; 1983: Nastik.

Jeetendra (b. 1942)

Major 70s Hindi star with Rajesh Khanna in an era dominated by love stories preceding Bachchan. Original name Ravi Kapoor. Introduced in Shantaram's late 50s/60s musicals, his early work was in mid-budget B-productions, often dancing in white, patent-leather shoes. He made a serious attempt to change his image by sticking on a moustache in 70s Gulzar films (e.g. Kinara and Khushboo) and playing a male Julie Andrews in the Sound of Music adaptation, Parichay. Later work pioneered a more financially efficient but formally impoverished industrial cinema in Madras, e.g. films by K. Raghavendra Rao (Himmatwala, Jaani Dost), K. Bapaiah (Mawaali, Maqsad) and Dasari Narayana Rao (Justice Choudhury, Prem Tapasya).

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1959: Navrang; 1963: Sehra; 1964: Dulha Dulhar; Geet Gaya Pattharone; 1966: Dillagi; 1967: Boond Jo Ban Gaye Moti; Farz; Gunahon Ka Devta; Parivar; 1968: Aulad; Mere Huzoor; Suhaag Raat; 1969: Anmol Moti; Badi Didi; Dharti Kahe Pukar Ke; Do Bhai; Jeene Ki Raah; Jigri Dost; Vishwas; Waris; 1970: Himmat; Humjoli; Maa Aur Mamta; Naya Raasta; Mere Humsafar; Khilona; Jawab; 1971: Chahat; Kathputli; Banphool; Bikhare Moti; Caravan; Ek Nari Ek Brahmachari; Yaar Mere; 1972: Bhai Ho To Aisa; Ek Bechara; Ek Hasina Do Diwane; Parichay; Roop Tera Mastana; Shadi Ke Baad; Saza; 1973: Anokhi Ada; Chori Chori; Gehri Chaal; Jaise Ko Taisa; 1974: Bidaai; Dulhar; Roti; 1975: Aakhri Dao; Khushboo; Rani Aur Lalpari; Umar Qaid; 1976: Sankoch; Santar; Udhaar Ka Sindoor; Nagir; 1977: Palkon Ki Chhaon Mein; Apnapar; Dharam Veer; Ek Hi Raasta; Dildaar; Jai Vijay; Kasam Khoon Ki; Kinara; Priyatama; Zamanat; 1978: Badalte Rishte; Chowki No. 11; Dil Aur Deewar; Karmayogi; Swarg Narak; Tumhari Kasam; Nalayak; 1979: Love In Canada; Aatish; Hum Tere Aashiq Hair; Jaani Dushman; Khandaar; Lok Parlok; Jaandaar; Naya Bakra; The Gold Medal; 1980: Aap Ke Diwane; Asha; Jal Mahal; Judaai; Jyoti Bane Jwala; Maang Bharo Sajana; Neeyat; Nishana; Waqt Ki Deewar; Takkar; The Burning Train; 1981: Ek Hi Bhool; Jyoti; Khoon Aur Pani; Khoon Ka Rishta; Raaste Pyar Ke; Meri Awaaz Suno; Pyaasa Sawar; Raksha; Shaaka; Sharada; Chorni; Mosambi Narangi; 1982: Jeevan Dhara; Anokha Bandhan; Apna Bana

Ashok Kumar and Nalini Jaywant in Kafila (1952)

Lo, Badle Ki Aag, Deedar-e-Yaar, Farz Aur Kanoor, Dharam Kanta; Insaan; Jiyo Aur Jeene Do, Mehndi Rang Layegi, Samrat, Justice Choudhury, 1983: Arpan; Himmatwala; Jaani Dost, Mawaali, Nishari, Prem Tapasya; 1984: Akalmand, Haisiyat, Kaamyaaab, Maqsad, Qaidi, Tohfa; Yeh Desh; Zakhmi Sher; 1985: Balidan; Haqeeqat; Hoshiyar; Locket; Mera Saathi; Pataal Bhairavi; Sanjog; Sarfarosh; 1986: Aag Aur Shola; Aisa Pyar Kahar; Bond 303; Dosti Dushmani; Dharam Adhikari; Ghar Sansar; Jaal; Sada Suhagar; Sinhasan; Suhagar; Swarg Se Sundar; 1987: Apne Apne; Aulad; Himmat Aur Mehnat; Insaaf Ki Pukar; Jaan Hatheli Pe; Khudgarz; Madadgaar; Majaal; Sindoor; New Delhi; 1988: Mulzim; Tamacha; Kanwarlal; Sone Pe Suhaaga; Mar Mitenge; 1989: Aag Se Khelenge; Nafraat Ki Aandhi; Aasmaan Se Ooncha; Dav Pech; Kasam Vardi Ki; Souten Ki Beti; Majboor; 1990: Taqdeer Ka Tamasha; Zehreelay; Amiri Garibi; Hatimtai; Mera Pati Sirf Mera Hai; Shesh Naag; Nyay Anyay; Agnikaal; Aaj Ka Shahenshah; Thanedar; 1991: Shiv-Ram; Ranabhoomi; Sapnon Ka Mandir; Maa; Dil Ashna Hai; 1992: Insaaf Ki Devi; Sone Ki Lanka; Yeh Raat Phir Na Aayegi; 1993: Aaj Ki Aurat; Prateeksha; Geetanjali (H); Bhookamp; Rang; Admi Khilona Hai; Tahqiqaat; Aansoo Bane Angarey; Khalnayika; Santan; Chauraha; 1994: Udhaar Ki Zindagi; Ghar Ki Izzat; 1995: Janam Kundali; Paapi Devata; Zamana Dewana; Kalyug Ke Avatar; Hum Sub Chor Hain.

Jha, Prakash (b. 1952)

Hindi director born in Champaran, Bihar. Briefly trained as editor at the FTII (1976), dropped out and made documentaries. Faces after the Storm, on Biharsharif riots, was unofficially banned. First feature Hip Hip Hurray within 60s Hollywood schoolboy-cheerleader genre. Sees himself as a political film-maker. Briefly married to the actress Deepti Naval (1984).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1976: Rhythms of a Land and its People (Doc); 1977: Darpok Ki Dosti (Sh); 1978: Friends Together (Doc); 1979: Ode to the Child (Sh); 1981: Pas de deux (Doc); 1982: Faces after the Storm (Doc); 1983: Shri Vatsa (Sh); May I Think Sir? (Doc); 1984: Hip Hip Hurray; Damul; 1987: Ek Aur Itihas (Doc); Looking Back (Doc); Parinati; 1988: An Expression (Sh); 1989: Katha Madhopur Ki (Sh); 1990: Mungerilal Ke Haseen Sapne (TV); Tribal Festival (Doc); 1994: Didi.

Joshi, Manilal (1893-1927)

Major silent director and one of the first to stand up for authorial rights of film directors. Also initiated the convention of giving on-screen credit to cast and crew. Former schoolteacher in Bombay, apprenticed to cameraman V.B. Joshi at Kohinoor Studio (1920). Turned film-maker at Ardeshir Irani's Star Film (1922) with Veer Abhimanyu, apparently containing Indian cinema's first flashbacks. His first independent production house (Swastika Film; Est: 1923) failed; then set up Ashoka Pics (1924) and made Prithvi

Vallabh. Its success encouraged others to go independent as well. Worked for Kohinoor and took over production of its sister company, Laxmi Films (1925). Major film directors who worked with him around this time inc.

B.P. Mishra and R.S. Choudhury (with Prithvi Vallabh and until the closure of Laxmi), and Chandulal Shah (who joined films at Laxmi). Made Mojili Mumbai, about the decadence of the urban Westernised bourgeoisie, one of the first films in a contemporary setting. Also worked briefly at Sharda Studio and at Vazir Haji's Excelsior Film (1927). Films distinguished by careful cinematography and for 'popularising the social' (Bharucha, 1938).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1922: Veer Abhimanyu; Raja Parikshit; Ratnavali; 1923: Sati No Sraap; Kirat Arjun; 1924: Prithvi Vallabh; 1925: Indrasabha; Raj Yogi; Desh Na Dushman; Veer Kunal; Mojili Mumbai; Devadas; Suvarna; Khandani Khavis; Kala Chor; Sati Simantini; 1926: Jungle Ni Jadibuti; Ajabkumari; Ratan Manjari; Dulari; Kashmeera; 1927: Nanand Bhojai; Parsa Eblis; Shrimati Nalini; Laila Majnu; Lohika Lilam; Prem Ni Pratima (all St).

Kal e, Keshav Narayan (1904-74)

Marathi and Hindi director born in Dayal, Ratnagiri Dist., Maharashtra. Studied English at St. Xavier's College, Bombay (1924-8). Started as a journalist. Noted Marathi literary and theatre critic associated with radical journals Ratnakar, Yashwant and Pratibha. Co-founded vanguard theatre group Natyamanwantar (cf. Date and Bhole) in 1933, claiming influence of Ibsen, Shaw and Stanislavski (whose theoretical writings he translated into Marathi). As the group's ideologue, actor and playwright, emphasised the absence of a performance theory in Marathi theatre and sought to rewrite its history in terms of acting and emotionality. Joined cinema as actor (1926) with S.N. Patankar, later worked at Imperial and Ranjit Studios. Left cinema to study law (1931-4). Hired as scenarist for Prabhat (1934). Wrote dialogue and lyrics for Dharmatma, giving this Saint film a political thrust by drawing analogies between Sant Eknath and Gandhi and by deflecting the mandatory miracle scenes towards more social concerns. Provided the lyrics for Chandrasena and the script for Amar Jyoti. Turned director at Prabhat in 1937 and made best-known film Mazha Mulga as fictional autobiography about the struggles of a young radical writer. Worked with humourist P.K. Atre and filmed two of his screenplays (Lapandav, Baelweda). Devoted himself to the theatre (1943-53) before making more films. Published a number of books, e.g. several essays on film theory and a volume of poetry, Sahakarmanjari (1932). First Professor of Film Appreciation at the FTII in early 60s. Worked on the Marathi journal, Sahitya Patrika.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* act only): 1926: *Satyavijaya; 1928: *Pataal Ketu; *Jagadguru Shrimad Shankaracharya; 1929: *Bhikharan; *Jai Somnath; *Pati Patni (all St); 1932: *Marathyatil Dulhi/Amar Shaheed; 1935: *Dharmatma; 1936: *Amar Jyoti; 1937: Wahan; 1938: Mazha Mulga/Mera Ladka; 1940: Lapandav; 1943: Baelweda; 1953: Ammaldar; *Bolavita Dhani; 1959: Didi.

Kal ingrao, P. (1914-81)

Singer and music director. Major influence on the introduction of bhava geet (light classical music) into popular Kannada music with several HMV and Columbia singles using the medieval Saint poetry of Purandaradasa and contemporary poetry including Masti Venkatesha Iyengar, Ku.Vem.Pu. and D.R. Bendre. The son of Yakshagana performer Pandaveshwara Puttaiah, he worked since childhood on the Company Natak stage with the Ambikaprasada Natak Mandali. Composed film music for H.L.N. Simha (Abba! A Hudgi, 1959), Kemparaj Urs (Bhakta Ramadas, 1948), and C.V. Raju (Krishnaleele, 1947; Shri Krishna, 1953; Natashekhara, 1954). Also acted in the Kannada film Vasantsena (1941) and scored the Malayalam one, Sasidharan (1950).

Kal ki (1899-1954)

Pen name of the noted Tamil novelist R. Krishnamurthy. Left school to join Gandhi's non-co-operation agitations (1921) and was jailed several times by the British. Journalist for Navashakti, then for the famous Ananda Vikatan owned by S.S. Vasana, where he published some of his best-known stories. Scripted K. Subramanyam's seminal Thyagabhoomi (1939), simultaneously publishing a novelised version in Ananda Vikatan with stills of the film and a racy text about 'a thwarted woman dishing it back to her husband in later years' (C.S. Lakshmi, 1984). His many contributions to the journal and to his own periodical, Kalki, are mainly reformist stories and Walter Scott-type historicals, largely determining the iconography of Gemini's historicals. Apparently, M.S. Subbulakshmi used her earnings from Savithri (1941) to finance Kalki. Several of his novels were filmed, e.g. Kalvanin Kadhali (1955), Ponvayal (1954) and Parthiban Kanavu (1960). As a popular lyricist, he wrote songs for M.S. Subbulakshmi in Duncan's Meera (1945), including the song Katrinile varum geetham. Together with writers of the famous Manikodi group (e.g. B.S. Ramaiah) and with director K. Subramanyam, Kalki is one of the pro-Congress film people in the pre-DMK Film period to call for a more responsible attitude to film and to draw attention to the medium's political potential. His reviews of early Tamil films are collected in his book Kalaichelvam (1956).

Kallol Group

The first literary collective to influence cinema in Bengal was the group around the journal Bharati (Est: 1877). Founded by Dwijendranath Tagore and others as the Tagore clan's house journal, it published a history of the Bengali cinema in 1923. The journal's writers Premankur Atorthy, Hemendra Kumar Roy, Narendra Dev and Sourindramohan Mukherjee were the first to write seriously for and about cinema, eventually becoming film-makers. The second group, launched in 1923 by the Bengali journal Kalol, came to be known as the Kallol Group. Its immediate predecessor was the Four Arts Club which published Jharer Dola (1922) with stories by Dinesh Ranjan Das, Gokulchandra Nag, Suniti Devi and Manindralal Basu. Kalol, edited by Dinesh Ranjan Das, was followed by other journals, notably Kalikalam (1926) and Pragati (1927). Collectively they defined a literary realism contextualised by 20s peasant agitations and urban unemployment, self-consciously transgressive of the middle-class norms, e.g. through their interest in popular industrialised fictional forms. In Tagore's Shesher Kabita (1929) he summarised their critique of his work via the Westernised wastrel Amit Raye, who attacks Tagore for his inability to show the cruel aspects of sexuality, and his limitations in portraying the dispossessed in their true colours (allegations attributed to poet Buddhadev Bose). Malini Bhattacharya wrote (1988) that their 'sound and fury [d]id not produce anything like a formal breakthrough leading to a fictional discourse [other than] demanding a greater representation in fiction of problems pertaining to [p]leasants, workers and women'. However the movement signified an era that also saw the first Bengali translations of Thomas Mann, Tolstoy, Proust, Romain Rolland, Gorky and Knut Hamsun, and the emergence of writers like Jibanananda Das, Bishnu Dey and Buddhadev Bose. The movement directly touched the cinema when Dinesh Ranjan Das became a film-maker at British Dominion (Kamaner Aagun, 1930) and later at New Theatres (Abasheshe, 1935), followed by writers Premendra Mitra and Sailajananda Mukherjee, first as scenarists and then as successful directors. The realist emphasis in some of their films has been seen as a precedent for IPTA-inspired films in 50s Bengal. The modernist tendency in Kalol's work was later consolidated by the journals Parichay (1931) and Kavita (1935).

Kal pana (?-1979)

60s Kannada star who formed the top screen duo with Rajkumar in Kannada film history. Born in Mangalore. Trained in classical dance by Shri Vittal Shetty; stage actress while at university in Mangalore with the Bellari Lalithamma Nataka Mandali. Started under Panthulu's direction (Saaku Magalu, Chinnada Gombe) but Puttanna Kanagal moulded her career after her breakthrough in his Bellimoda. In several key roles she embodied the 'woman' as imaged in the Kannada author Triveni's romantic fictions. Her tragic roles (Geje Pooje, Sharapanjara, in Lakshminarayan/Chaduranga socials) helped define a cinema derived from popular literature (cf. Navya Movement) and pulp fiction. Also acted in mythologicals by Hunsur Krishnamurthy where her distinctive tragic style, (e.g. Shri Kannika Parameshwari Kathe) departs from the norms set by her predecessor, Leelavathi. Committed suicide in a lonely traveller's bungalow in Gotur, Karnataka.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1963: Saaku Magalu, 1964: Chinnada Gombe; Nandi, 1965: Kavaleraadu Kulavondur, 1966: Mantralaya Mahatme, Shri Kannika Parameshwari Kathe, Sadhu Mirandal, Madras To Pondicherry, Mayor Nair, 1967: Pattathu Rani, Padavidhara; Bellimoda; Bangarada Hoovu; Dhanapishachi; Immadi Pulakesi; Premakku Permitte, 1968: Gandhinagara; Mahasati Arundhati; Sarvamangala; Hannele Chiguridaga; Anandakanda; Anna Thamma; Hoovu Mullu; Manninamaga; 1969: Odahuttidavaru; Kappu Bilapu; Uyyale; Mathru Bhoomi; Kaanike; Mukunda Chandra; Brindavana; 1970: Geje Pooje; Arishina Kumkuma; Anirikshita; Pratikara; Karulina Kare; Lakshmi Saraswathi; Vagdhana; Namma

Mane, Seeta; Devara Makkalu; Mukti, 1971: Ondekula Ondedaiva; Sharapanjara; Bhale Aadrushtavo Aadrushta; Sothu Geddavalu; Kulagaurava; 1972: Nari Munidare Mari; Subhadra Kalyanam; Uttara Dakshina; Yavajanmada Maitri; Na Mechida Huduga; Jeevana Jokaali; Goodu Putani; Menakodalu; Mareyada Deepavali; 1973: Bidugade; Triveni; Gandhadagudi; Kesarina Kamala; Andala Ramudu; 1974: Tulasi; Eradu Kanasu; Idu Namma Desha; 1975: Dari Tappida Maga; Beluvalada Madilalli; Nireekshe; Asthi Kosam; Kotalo Paga; Maya Machhindra (Tel); Ramuni Minchina Ramudu; 1976: Bayalu Dari; Vijayavani; Rajanarthakiya Rahasya; 1978: Sandarbha; Vamsa Jyothi; Maleya Makkalu.

Kal yanasundaram, Pattukotai (1930-59)

Tamil lyricist, born in Pattukotai, TN. Son of folk composer Arunachalam Pillai. Worked as farmer and labourer in salt flats, later as organiser of the peasantry in the Thanjavur delta. One of his early poems was used in a play, Kannin Manigal, staged at the Tamil Nadu Farmers' Conference, Dindigul (1954). His best-known work was in C.V. Sridhar's Kalyana Parisu (1959). His last film was A. Kasilingam's Kalai Arasi (1963). Wrote 196 often propagandist songs in over 55 films in a brief 9-year career, many of them for MGR's films. Although his lyrics bore the stamp of Pa. Jeevanandan's brand of Marxism, they also showed the vitality of the folk idiom and the reformist ardour derived from poets like Subramanya Bharati and Bharatidasan. Published his poetry extensively in journals like Janasakthi. His biography is by P.E. Balakrishnan (1965).

Kal yanji-Anandji

aka Kalyanji Veerji Shah (b. 1928) and Anandji Veerjee Shah (b. 1933). Music composers; started career as musicians in film orchestras and conductors of live bands. The elder brother, Kalyanji, a freelance musician, pioneered a virtual revolution in film music when he imported a clavichord and first played it to get the sinuous snake music composed by Hemanta Mukherjee in Nagin (1954), the first instance of electronic instrumentation in Hindi film. He started as music director for Babubhai Mistri and Ravindra Dave. Subsequent electronics-dominated music for films by Dave, Manmohan Desai and Prakash Mehra was central to musicals with Shammi Kapoor (Bluff Master), Rajesh Khanna (Sachcha Jhutha, Bandhan) and Bachchan (Don, Muqaddar Ka Sikandar, Zanjeer), preceding e.g. Bappi Lahiri and Ilaiyaraaja. Their music for Saraiya's Saraswatchandra was a big hit. Currently known more for their live concerts in India, at Madison Square Garden in New York, the Wembley Arena in London and in South Africa, often featuring Bachchan in stage extravaganzas. Had a major recent success with Rajiv Rai's Tridev, its song Oye oye becoming one of the most popular in 80s Hindi cinema.

Kalpana in Geje Pooje (1970)

FILMOGRAPHIES: Kalyanji: 1958: Samrat Chandragupta; Post Box 999: 1959: Bedard Zamana Kya Jaane, Chandrasena, Ghar Ghar Ki Baat, O Tera Kya Kehana. Kalyanji-Anandji: 1959: Madari, Satta Bazaar, 1960: Chhaldia, Delhi Junction, Dil Bhi Tera Hum Bhi Tere; 1961: Passport, Pyaase Panchhi; 1962: Gangu, Mehndi Lagi Mere Haath; 1963: Bluff Master, Kahin Pyar Na Ho Jaye, Phool Bane Angarey, Sunehri Nagin; Akhand Saubhagyavati, 1964: Birju Ustad, Dulha Dulhan, Ishara, Ji Chahta Hai, Majboor; 1965: Himalay Ki God Meir, Jab Jab Phool Khile, Johar Mehmood In Goa, Purnima; Saheli; 1966: Johar In Kashmir, Preet Na Jane Reet; 1967: Aamne Samne, Dil Ne Pukara, Mera Munna; Parivar, Raaz; Upkaar; 1968: Baazi, Hasina Maan Jayegi, Juari, Saraswaticandra; Suhaag Raat, Teen Bahuraniyan; 1969: Bandhan, Ek Shriman Ek Shrimati, Mahal, Nannha Farishta, Raja Saab, Tamanna; Vishwas; 1970: Aansoo Aur Muskaan; Geet, Ghar Ghar Ki Kahani, Gopi, Holi Aayee Re; Johnny Mera Naam, Kab Kyon Aur Kahin, Mere Humsafar, Priya, Purab Aur Paschim, Sachcha Jhutha; Safar; Yaadgaar; 1971: Chhoti Bahur, Hum Tum Aur Woh; Joi Bangla Desh, Johar Mehmood In Hong Kong, Kathputli, Maryada, Paras, Preet Ki Dori, Rakhwala, Upaasna, Kangari; 1972: Anokhi Pehchan, Aparadh, Ek Hasina Do Diwane, Hari Darshan, Jaanwar Aur Insaan, Joru Ka Gulam, Lalkaar, Malik, Manavata, Sub Ka Saathi, Victoria No 203; 1973: Agni Rekha, Banarasi Babu, Blackmail, Ek Kunwari Ek Kunwara, Gulam Begum Badshah, Heera, Kahani Kismat Ki, Kashmakash, Samjhauta; Zanjeer; Raja Kaka; 1974: Albeli, Anjaan Raaheir, Chattan Singh, Five Rifles, Haath Ki Safai, Har Har Mahadev, Hamrahi, Jeevan Sangram, Kasauti, Kora Kagaz, Paap Aur Punya, Patthar Aur Payal, Shubh Din, Vardar, Vachar; 1975: Anokha, Apne Dushman, Bhoola Bhatka, Chori Mera Kaam, Dharmatma, Do Thug, Faraar, Himalay Se Ooncha, Mouno, Raffoo Chakkar, Uljhan, Zorro; 1976: Adalat (H); Bairaag, Do Anjaane, Do Shatru, Bajrang Bali, Ek Se Badkhar Ek, Hera Pheri, Kabeela, Kalicharan, Khan Dost, Lagaam, Rangila Ratan, Sankoch, Shankar Shambhu; 1977: Aakhri Goli, Chakkar Pe Chakkar, Chalu Mera Naam, Darinda, Farishta Ya Qatil, Hatyara, Hira Aur Patthar, Kalabaaz, Kasam Khoon Ki, Khel Khiladi Ka, Khel Kismat Ka, Khoon Pasina; Kulavadhu, Naami Chor, Yaaron Ka Yaar; 1978: Aakhri Daku, Anjaam, Anjane Meir, Atithi, Besharam, Chor Ke Ghar Chor, Do Musafir, Dorr, Ganga Ki Saugandh, Karmayogi, Muqaddar Ka Sikandar, Nasbandi, Rahu Ketu, Trishna, Nalayak; 1979: Ahimsa, Bagula Bhagat, Guru Ho Jaa Shuru, Jaandaar; 1980: Qurban, Desh Drohi, Bombay 405 Miles, Jwalamukhi, Kashish, Neeyat, Sau Din Saas Ke; 1981: Aakhri Mujra, Commander, Haqdaar, Itni Si Baat, Qatilon Ke Qatil, Khoon Ka Rishta, Krodhi, Lawaris, Main Aur Mera Hathi, Professor Pyarela, Yeh Rishta Na Toote; 1982: Khush Naseeb, Raj Mahal, Rustom, Vidhata; Log Kya Kahenge; 1983: Ghungroo; Haadsa; Kalakra; Nastik, Taqdeer; 1984: Dharam Aur Kanoor, Raj Tilak, Yahan Wahar, Bandh Honth, Ek Chitthi Pyar Bhari; 1985: Karishma Kudrat Ka, Pighalta Aasmaar, Yudh, Pahunche Huye Log; 1986:

Baat Ban Jaye, Chameli Ki Shaadi, Jaanbaaz, Mangal Dada, Nasihat, Sultanat, Jhanjhar, Imaandar; 1987: Hirasat, Kalyug Aur Ramayan, Thikana; 1988: Falak, Sherni, Mohabbat Ke Dushman, Rukhsat, Mahaveera; Saazish; 1989: Izhaar, Daata, Tridev, Jadugar; 1990: Pyar Ka Toofan; CID, Naache Nagin Gali Gali, Ghar Parivar, Iraada; 1991: Kaun Kare Qurban, Pratigyabandh, Dharam-Sankat; 1994: Ulfat Ki Nayi Manzilen.

Kamal abai, Surabhi (b. 1913)

Telugu actress born in the famed Surabhi Theatres troupe of AP: her mother developed labour pains during a show, absented herself briefly and then the troupe presented the newly born infant to the audience. Kamalabai became a top actress with Surabhi; film debut when H.M. Reddy hired the troupe for Telugu cinema's first sound film, Bhakta Prahlada. Worked in the Telugu films of the Sagar Studio (Bombay) and East India Film (Calcutta). Also in the film version of Bellari Raghava's stage classic Draupadi Manasamrakshanam. Starred alongside C.S.R. Anjaneyulu in the Saint film, Tukaram. Later acted middle-aged women in Telugu and Tamil films.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1931: Bhakta Prahlada; 1932: Paduka Pattabhishekharam, Shakuntala; 1933: Savithri, Prithvi Putra; 1936: Draupadi Manasamrakshanam; 1937: Tukaram; 1938: Bhakta Jayadeva; 1942: Patni; 1948: Chandralekha; 1949: Keelugurram/Maya Kudhirai; 1951: Patala Bhairavi/Pataal Bhairavi; Mangala; 1952: Manavati; Prema Kathal; 1953: Rohini, Vayyari Bhama; Ammalakalu/Marumagal; 1955: Vijayagauri; 1959: Shabash Ramudu; 1961: Velugu Needalu; 1968: Umachandi Gauri Shankarula Katha.

Kamal ahasan (b. 1954)

Tamil star and a major figure in Malayalam, Telugu and briefly in Hindi cinemas. Born in Paramakudi near Madurai Dist., TN. Joined films aged 6 in Bhimsingh's Tamil films (Kalathur Kannamma, Parthal Pasi Theerum) and in Sethumadhavan's Malayalam Kannum Karalum. Rediscovered as an adult by K. Balachander (Arangetram), featuring regularly in the director's 70s films, in his Telugu hit Maro Charithra, and in its equally successful Hindi remake (Kamalhasan's Hindi debut) Ek Duuje Ke Liye. Tried to shift to Hindi cinema, playing the Chaplinesque hero in Ramesh Sippy's love triangle Sagar, but was not successful. Acted in some of I.V. Sasi's Malayalam films but broke away from his established image in K. Vishwanath's Sagara Sangamam, astounding viewers with his dancing skills in the difficult Bharat Natyam style (he was trained as a dancer by K.J. Sarasa and had worked as a choreographer in films). Following the ribald, wordless comedy Pushpak, he imposed yet another image with the Brando-inspired starring role in Nayakan. Since then performed, like De Niro, major physical transformations (e.g. the dwarf in Apoorva Sahodarargal), combining a light 'heroic' style with a heavier naturalism for older characters. Started his own production unit with Raja Parvai. Has produced some (under his Rajkamal prod.) and scripted or shared script credit for several of his recent films: (Apoorva Sahodarargal, Guna, Mahanadhi). Acted with Sivaji Ganesan in another Godfather adaptation, Thevar Magan, which he scripted and produced as well. The film allowed Kamalhasan to return to the theme of feudal landlords in his native Madurai landscape which, he claimed, recalls Sicily.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1960: Kalathur Kannamma; 1961: Thayilla Pillai; 1962: Parthal Pasi Theerum; Patha Kannikka; Kannum Karalum; 1963: Vanambadi; Ananda Jyoti; 1972: Kanna Nalama; 1973: Arangetram; Sollathen Ninaikiran; 1974: Paruvakalam; Gumastavin Magal; Nan Avanilla; Panathukkaga; Aval Oru Thodarkatha; Kanyakumari; Vishnu Vijayam; 1975: Ayirathil Oruthi, Antharangam; Apoorva Ragangal; Cinema Paithiyam; Malai Sooda Va; Melnattu Marumagal; Pattam Poochi; Pattikatu Raja; Thangathile Vairam; Then Sindhuthu Vanam; Jnan Ninne Premikkunru; Thiruvonam; Mattoru Seeta; Rasaleela; 1976: Idaya Malar; Kumara Vijayam; Lalitha; Manmatha Leelai; Moham Muppathu Varusham; Moondru Mudichu; Oru Udhappu Kann Simittukirathu; Sathyam; Unarchikal; Agnipushpar; Appooppa; Aruthu; Samasya; Swimming Pool; Ponn; Nee Ente Lahari; Sivathandavam; Ashirvadam; Madhura Swapnam; Kuttavam Sishayam; Anthuleni Katha; 1977: Aadu Puli Atham; Avargal; Naam Pirandha Maan; Pathinaru Vayathinile; Uyarnthavargal; Unnai Chutrumugalam; Sridevi; Ashtamangalyam; Nirai Kudam; Ormakal Marikkumo; Anandam Paramanandam; Satyavan Savithri; Adyapadam; Madanolsavam; Kokila; Kabita; 1978: Aval Appadithan; Chattam En Kaiyil; Elamai Vunjaladugiradhu; Manitharil Ithanai Nirangala; Nizhal Nijamkirathu; Paruvamazhai; Sigappu Rojakkal; Maro Charithra; Vayasu Pilichindi; Sommokadidhi Sokokadidhi; Kathrina Nimisham; Anumodhanam; Vayanadan Thampar; Yeetta; Padakkudhira; Thappu Thalanga; 1979: Azhiyada Kolanga; Neeya; Sigappukkal Mookuthi; Ninaithale Inikkum; Thayillamal Nannila; Kalyanaramam; Mangala Vadyam; Neela Malargal; Allavudeenum Albutha Velakkum/Allavudeenum Arputha Vilakkum; Andamaina Anubhavam; Idi Kathakadu; 1980: Ullasa Paravaigal; Guru; Varumayin Niram Sigappu; Maria My Darling; Kalyana Jyothi; Satyavanthudu; Natchatiram; 1981: Meendum Kokila; Rama Lakshman; Raja Parvai; Kadal Meengal; Ellam Inbamayan; Tik Tik Tik; Sava; Akali Rajyam; Ek Duuje Ke Liye; Do Dil Diwane; Prema Pichhi; Shankaral; Thillu Mullu; 1982: Simla Special; Pagadai Pannirendu; Vazhve Mayam; Moondram Pirai; Sahalakala Vallavan; Sanam Teri Kasam; Yeh To Kamaal Ho Gaya; Dil Ka Sathi Dil; Pyara Tarana; Andhivevilile Ponnur; Ezham Rathri; Afsana Do Dilon Ka; Agni Satchi; Mattuvin Chattangale; Premabhishekharam; Nandri Meendum Varuga;

Rani Theni, 1983: Thoongathe Thambi Thoongathe, Uruvavugal Maralam, Chattam, Sagara Sangamam, Snehabandham, Zara Si Zindagi, Sadma, Snehabhishekham, Benki Alli Aralida Hoovu, Poikkal Kuthirai, 1984: Ek Nai Paheli, Enakkul Oruvar, Yeh Desh, Yaadgaar, Raj Tilak, Karishma, Jalsarayudu, Sahasa Simham, Oru Kaithiyin Diary, 1985: Andha Oru Nimidam, Japanil Kalyanaraman, Kakki Chattai, Mangamma Sapatham, Meendum Parasakthi, Uyarntha Ullam, Sagar, Giraftaar, Swati Muthyam, Jalsa Bullodu, Dekha Pyar Tumhara, 1986: Manakanakku, Vikram (Tam), Punnagai Mannar, Oka Radha Idduru Krishnulk, Nanum Oru Thozhilali, December Pookkal, 1987: Persollum Pillai, Nayakar, Vrutham, Pushpak/ Pushpak Vimana/ Pesum Padum, Kathal Parisu, Kadamai Kanniyam Kattupadu, 1988: Sathya, Soora Samharam, Unnal Mudiym Thambi, 1989: Apoorva Sahodarargal Appu Raja, Vetri Vizha, Indrudu Chandrudu, Chanakyam/ Chanakyar, 1990: Michael Madana Kamarajan, My Dear Marthandan, 1991: Guna, Singaravelan, Sivaranjani, 1992: Thevar Magar, 1993: Maharasan, Kalaingnan, Mahanadhi, 1994: Nammavar, Magalir Mattum, 1995: Kurudhippunal, Shubha Sankalpam, Sati Leelavathi.

Kambadasan

Tamil lyricist; born as C.S. Rajappa in Villayanur near Pondicherry. Stage actor, musician and lyric writer introduced to the theatre by P. Sambandam Mudaliar. Film debut in Fram Sethna's Vamana Avataram (1939), and wrote dialogue/lyrics for Balkrishna Narayan Rao's Salivahanan (1944). Became a leading lyricist with the success of Arul tharum deva mathave in Nagoor/Taliath's Gnanasoundari (1948) and with Jiten Bannerjee's Mangayar Karasi (1949), esp. the song Parthal pasi theerum sung by P.U. Chinappa. These and other songs were among the early musical hits to achieve an independent popularity on disc. Also wrote the hits of Vanaratham (1956), a dubbed Tamil version of S.U. Sunny's Udan Khatola (1955) with Naushad's music.

Kambhar, Chandrasekhar (b. 1937)

Kannada director born in Belgaum Dist., Karnataka. Noted Kannada poet, folklorist and playwright (Jokumaraswamy, 1972; Sambhasiva, 1985; Siri Sampige, 1986, written in the Yakshagana idiom); author of a dictionary of Kannada folklore (1984). Fulbright Scholar (1968) and lecturer at the Universities of Chicago and Bangalore. Vice-Chancellor of the newly established university at Hampi, Karnataka. Advocate of a depoliticised folk revivalism particularly strong in Karnataka theatre (cf. B.V. Karanth) and literature since the early 70s. Extended his views into features and documentaries when, with other Kannada writers and theatre directors, he turned to film in the late 70s (cf. Navya Movement).

FILMOGRAPHY (* also act/ only music):
 1977: *Udugore; 1978: *Sandarbha, Kaadu

Kudure*; 1981: *Sangeetha; 1989: *Kote Udugore; 1990: Hasiru Kaibisi Karedavo.

Kameshwara Rao, Kamalakara see Rao, Kamalakra Kameshwara

Kanagal, Subraveshti Ramaswamy Puttanna (1933-85)

Kannada director born in Kanagal, Karnataka; also worked in Malayalam (signing S.R. Puttanna) and in Hindi. Graduated in Mysore. Younger brother of noted Kannada theatre personality Kanagal Prabhakara Sastry. Later employed as an actor in Soorat Ashwath's Kala Sangha stage company. Also worked as still photographer in Mysore. Joined Panthulu as assistant (Ratnagiri Rahasya, 1957). Successful Kannada cineaste in the late 60s and 70s, and the first to achieve a mass audience among the urban middle class. Sometimes hailed as predecessor to 70s Navya Movement-inspired cinema that followed Samskara (1970). Early work in Malayalam elaborated Panthulu's definition of the progressive social (e.g. the remake of School Master). After the first Kannada film, Bellimoda, this was modulated into a variant of reformist fiction drawn from sentimental novellas and short stories: writers like M.K. Indira (Geje Pooje) Ta Ra Su, Triveni, etc. Classic formula usually privileges family unit shown coping with traumatic crises, often focusing on women characters. Later work, in colour and post-Nagara Haavu (remade in Hindi as Zehreela Insaan) developed hallucinatory psychodrama, psychological realism being replaced by a destructive passion often characterised as a sense of being 'possessed' from within. The sheer duration of his films (averaging over 3 hrs) reinforces the sense of heightened emotionality, juxtaposed with very mobile, often highly subjective camera movements. Noted for authoritarian directorial style and for introducing new acting talent (Kalpana, Arathi, Shivaram, etc). Set up his own company in 1977.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1964: School Master, Kalanjukuttiya Thangam, 1965: Chettathi, Pakkalo Bellem; 1966: Puchakanni, Mayor Nair; 1967: Swapnabhoomi, Bellimoda; 1968: Teacheramma; 1969: Mallamma Pavada, Kappu Bilapu; 1970: Geje Pooje, Karulina Kare, Iddaru Ammayilu; 1971: Sharapanjara, Sakshatkar, Sudurum Sudavallyum, Irulum Valiyum; 1972: Nagara Haavu; 1973: Edakallu Guddada Mele; 1974: Upasane, Zehreela Insaan; 1975: Shubhamangala, Bili Hendthi, Katha Sangama; 1976: Collegeranga, Phalithamsha; 1978: Paduvarahalli Pandavaru; 1979: Dharmasere; 1981: Ranganayaki; 1982: Manasa Sarovara; 1983: Dharanimandala Madhyadolage; 1984: Amrutha Galige, Runamukthalu; 1985: Masanada Hoovu.

Kanam, E. J. (1926-87)

Malayalam writer born in Kottayam, Kerala. Schoolteacher; later journalist; known mainly for introducing sentimental middle-class pulp fiction known as paingili into Malayalam, which became a staple source for the work of e.g. Kunchako, P. Subramanyam, M. Krishnan Nair and P.A. Thomas. Film debut at Kunchako's Udaya Studios with the story for Bharya (1962). Other notable films include Kunchako's Thirichadi (1968) and Dattuputhran (1970); P. Subramanyam's Kaliyodam (1965), Puthri, Kattumallika and Priyatama (all 1966), Adhyapika (1968) and Swargaputhri (1973). Worked for P.G. Vishwambaran in the early 80s: Himavahini (1983), Sandhyakenthinu Sindhuram and Thirakkil Alpa Samayam (both 1984).

Kanchanmal a (1923-81)

Telugu actress born in coastal AP. Stage star in Telugu; then entered cinema at Sagar Studio, Bombay, with a minor role in Veer Abhimanyu. After her 2nd film, at Calcutta's Aurora, Ahindra Choudhury's Vipranarayana, broke through in H.M. Reddy's Grihalakshmi, where her sexually charged performance as the dancer Madhuri next to Kannamba's role as the suffering wife solicited a kind of male voyeurism later exploited in Vauhini's 40s socials. Played the victimised wife in B.N. Reddi's nationalist Vande Mataram, also appeared in reformist socials by e.g. Ramabrahmam (Malapilla, Illalu) and sang duets with composer Ogirala in Y.V. Rao's Malli Pelli. Played the major role of the wicked stepmother in Gemini's Balangamma, after which a legal dispute with the studio boss S.S. Vasan effectively put her career in limbo for almost a decade. Her acting style was later extended by stars like Kamala Kotnis and Bhanumati.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1935: Shri Krishna Tulabharani; 1936: Veer Abhimanyu; 1937: Vipranarayana; 1938: Grihalakshmi, Malapilla; 1939: Vande Mataram, Malli Pelli; 1940: Mahiravana, Illalu; 1942: Balanagamma; 1963: Nartanasala.

Kannadasan (1927-81)

Prodigious Tamil poet, lyricist (over 5000 film songs) and producer. Key figure in the early DMK Film propaganda genre, often credited with reintroducing a classical Tamil literary 'tradition' to contemporary film audiences. Born as A.S. Muthaiah in Amaravati, TN. Joined the journal Tirumakal (1944) which published his first poems. Published his own journals, the weekly Tenral, the monthly Mullai and the film journal Tenral Tirai; also edited the monthly Kannadasan and newspaper Katitam. Joined Modern Theatres' story department (1947). Debut as lyricist for Ramnoth's Kanniyin Kathali (1949) but worked mainly as a dialogue writer until G.R. Rao's Illara Jyothi (1954). Joined the DMK (1947-64); responsible for some of their main propaganda lyrics in e.g. N.S. Krishnan's Panam (1952), T.R. Sundaram's Thirumbi Paar (1953) and Yoganand's MGR classic Madurai Veeran (1956). Founded Kannadasan Pics producing Malai Itta Mangai (1958), Sivagangai Seemai (1959), Kavalai Illatha Manithan (1960), Vanambadi (1963), etc. Became an independent star attraction after his successful lyrics in Bhimsingh's early films, usually set to music by the Vishwanathan-Ramamurthy team (e.g. Ponal pokattum poda in Palum Pazhamum, 1961). Left the DMK after an argument with Karunanidhi, an incident often cited to indicate the degree to which personal rivalries between film people affected the DMK Party structure. Kannadasan later became a member of the Tamil Nadu Congress Committee. One of his last films is Balu Mahendra's Moondram Pirai (1982). Other writings include 21 novels, 10 volumes of religious discourses and over 4000 poems (cf. Kannadasan, 1970).

Kannamba, Pasupul eti (1912-64)

Telugu and Tamil actress and singer. Started on the stage at the Rajarajeshwari Natya Mandali and was largely responsible for the group's initial popularity along with her mentor (and later husband), stage and film director Kadaru Nagabhushanam. Film debut in the screen version of their play Harishchandra, initially filmed by Prafulla Ghosh and remade by Nagabhushanam himself in 1943. Continued in film versions of their plays with acclaimed music scores: H.V. Babu's Draupadi Vastrapaharanam and Kanakatara. Played the destitute wife in H.M. Reddy's Grihalakshmi, incarnating its rational reformism with her passionate denunciation of God and religious notions of truth. Later associated with emphatic acting in e.g. Talliprema and Mayalokam, also playing Sivaji Ganesan's mother in Manohara and MGR's mother in Thaikupinn Tharam. Best known for the title role in Kannagi. Some of her still popular music has been reissued by the musicologist V.A.K. Ranga Rao.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1935: Harishchandra; 1936: Draupadi Vastrapaharanam; 1937: Kanakatara; 1938: Grihalakshmi; 1940: Chandika; Bhoja Kalidasa; Krishnan Thoothur; 1941: Ashok Kumar; Talliprema; 1942: Kannagi; Sumati; 1943: Harishchandra; 1944: Mahamaya; 1945: Mayalokam; Maya Machhindra; Paduka Pattabhishekham; 1947: Daiva Neethi; Tulasi Jalandhar; Palnati Yuddham; Nam Iruvar; 1949: Mangayar Karasi; Navajeewanam; 1950: Laila Majnu; 1952: Pedaraitu; Moonru Pillaigal; Mugguru Kodukulu; 1954: Manohara; Sati Sakkubai; 1955: Anarkali; Vadina; 1956: Naga Panchami; Thaikku Pinn Tharam; 1957: Makkalai Petra Maharasi; Kutumba Gauravam; 1958: Aadapettanam; Avan Amaran; 1959: Pelli Meeda Pelli; Uzhavukkum Thozhilukkum Vandhanai Seivom; Vazha Vaitha Daivam; Raja Sevai; Raja Mukutam; 1960: Dharmane Jayam; Jalsarayudu; Abhimanam; 1961: Usha Parinayam; Intiki Deepam Illale; Pelli Pilupu; Krishna Kuchela; Jagadeka Veeruni Katha; Jagathala Prathapan; 1962: Pelli Thambulam; Dakshayagnam; Swarnamanjari; Nuvva Nena; Atmabandhuvu; 1963: Paruvu Pratishthalu; Apta Mithrulu; 1964: Bangaru Timmaraju; Ramadasu; 1965: Keelu Bommalu.

Kapoor, Prithviraj (1906-72)

Revered actor born in Peshawar (now Pakistan) as Prithvinath Kapoor. Son of a police officer. Earned a major reputation on the amateur stage in Lyallpur and Peshawar. Interrupted law studies to join Imperial (1929). Acted in several B.P. Mishra adventure and love stories (e.g. Cinema Girl, opposite Ermeline, India's version of Clara Bow). Starred in India's first sound film, Alam Ara. He impressed with a perfect speaking voice (he never sang). Then joined the Grant Anderson theatre company and performed Shakespeare in English, with special acclaim for his Laertes in Hamlet. Worked in New Theatres (1933-9), playing the hero in Hindi versions (Durgadas Bannerjee often playing the same role in Bengali) of its hit bilinguals. Broke through with Debaki Bose's Rajrani Meera and as Rama in Seeta opposite Durga Khote. Vidyapati was his crowning achievement in Calcutta. Chandulal Shah hired him for the Ranjit Studio (1938-40) in Bombay, where he acted in some remarkable melodramas with Kardar (e.g. Pagal) and Chaturbhuj Doshi (Adhuri Kahani). Best-known performance as freelance actor was in the title role of Alexander the Great in Sohrab Modi's military epic Sikandar. The film heightened his enduring reputation, enhanced by the role of Emperor Akbar in Mughal-e-Azam, as the embodiment of Mughal royalty in Hindi-Urdu cinema (spoofed by K. Shankar's Rajkumar). Invested his earnings in the Hindi theatre, setting up Prithvi Theatres (1944) where he produced plays while shooting films at night. Mounted a major play against Partition, Inder Raj Anand's Dewar (1945) which earned him death threats from Islamic fundamentalists. He persisted with anti-sectarian politics, producing the technically and artistically masterful plays Pathan (1947) and Gaddar (1948). Launched many new talents through Prithvi Theatres, including Ramanand Sagar (Kalakaar), 1952), music directors Shankar-Jaikishen and Ram Ganguly (who scored Aag, 1948), all of whom were later key members of Raj Kapoor film units. Also launched his sons Raj, Shammi and Shashi. His main performances of the 50s: in Shantaram's Dahej and in his son's Awara, which ended on a dramatic confrontation between the fictional father and son played by a real father and son. Kal Aaj Aur Kal featured three generations of Kapoors in a celebration of feudal patriarchy. While directing Paisa, adapted from a Prithvi Theatres play of 1954, he lost his voice, which never regained its full sonorousness. Had to close his theatre and reduce his film work. In the late 60s and 70s acted in several Hindi and some Punjabi mythologicals. Played the patriarchal lead in the Saint film Nanak Naam Jahaaz Hai, credited with the revival of the Punjabi film industry. Died of cancer in 1972.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1930: Cinema Girl; Prince Vijaykumar; Sher-e-Arab; 1931: Namak Haram Kor; Bar Ke Pobar; Golibar; Toofan (all St); Alam Ara; Draupadi; 1932: Dagabaaz Ashiq; 1933: Rajrani Meera; 1934: Daku Mansoor; Ramayari; Seeta; 1935: Inquilab; Josh-e-Inteqam; Swarg Ki Seedhi; 1936: Grihadah/Manzil; 1937: Milap; President; Vidyapati; Jeevan Prabhat; Anath Ashram; 1938: Abhagin; Dushman; 1939: Adhuri Kahani; Sapera; 1940: Aaj Ka Hindustan; Deepak; Chingari; Pagal; Sajani; 1941: Raj Nartaki/Court Dancer; Sikandar; 1942: Ujala; Ek Raat; 1943: Aankh Ki Sharam; Bhalai; Gauri; Ishara; Vish Kanya; 1944: Maharathi Karna; Phool; 1945: Devadas; Nala Damayanti; Shri Krishnarjun Yuddha; Vikramaditya; 1946: Prithviraj Samyukta; Valmiki; 1947: Parashuram; 1948: Azadi Ki Raah Par; 1950: Dahej; Hindustan Hamara; 1951: Awara; Deepak; 1952: Anandmath; Chhatrapati Shivaji; Insaam; 1953: Aag Ka Dariya; 1954: Ehsan; 1957: *Paisa; Pardesi; 1958: Lajwanti; 1960: Mughal-e-Azam; 1961: Senapati; 1963: Harishchandra Taramati; Pyar Kiya To Darna Kya; Rustom Sohrab; Gujree; 1964: Ghazal; Jahan Ara; Rajkumar; Zindagi; 1965: Aasmaan Mahal; Jaunwar; Jahan Sati Wahan Bhagwan; Khakaar; Lutera; Shri Ram Bharat Milap; Sikandar-e-Azam; 1966: Daku Mangal Singh; Insaaf; Lal Bangla; Love And Murder; Shankar Khar; Sher Afghan; Yeh Raat Phir Na Aayegi; 1967: Shamsheer; 1968: Balaram Shri Krishna; Teen Bahuraniyan; 1969: Insaaf Ka Mandir; Nai Zindagi; Sati Sulochana; Nanak Naam Jahaaz Hai; 1970: Ek Nannhi Munnhi Ladki Thi; Gunah Aur Kanoor; Heer Ranjha; 1971: Kal Aaj Aur Kal; Padosi; Sakshatkar; Nanak Dukhiya Sab Sansar; 1972: Mele Mitran De; Bankelal; Naag Panchami; 1973: Naya Nasha; 1976: Bombay By Nite.

Kapoor, Raj (1924-88)

Hindi megastar, producer, director and all-round showman. Born in Peshawar (now Pakistan) as Ranbirraj Kapoor; son of actor Prithviraj Kapoor. Worked with his father as stage actor, prod. manager and art director. First film role aged 11. Started as clapper-boy at Bombay Talkies; then assistant director there and at Ranjit (1946). Set up R.K. Films (1948) to make Aag. Expanded into a full-scale studio at Chembur in Bombay (1950), continuing with Mehboob, Kardar and Sohrab Modi the studio tradition into the post-Independence period. Screen persona makes repeated references to Chaplin's tramp, but Kapoor also asserted his debt to Capra (their first meeting is recorded in Capra's autobiography) and to De Sica (esp. Miracolo a Milano, 1950). The earlier films, esp. Awara and Shri 420 scripted by K.A. Abbas, evince a sentimental approach to social reform, presenting political Independence as a loss of innocence in exchange for stability, condensed into the persona of the mother/lover as played by Nargis. With their elaborate sets, fine camerawork and music (usually composed by Shankar-Jaikishen and written by Shailendra and Hasrat Jaipuri), the films achieved immense popularity throughout India, in the USSR and in the Middle East. Although Boot Polish was credited to Prakash Arora, one of his assistants, most of the film's final version was attributable to Kapoor. Also produced his classic performance in Jagte Raho/Ek Din Raatre. Sangam, his first colour film, used locations in exotic Europe. Became more sexually explicit in the 70s after the box-office failure of his ambitious Mera Naam Joker; a maudlin epic inspired by Limelight (1951) which took 6 years to make. Bobby introduced Dimple Kapadia as star opposite Rishi Kapoor. The combination of sentimentalism with lush stylisation and steamy sexuality (presented with moral indignation) in his later work recalls Cecil B. DeMille. Kidar Sharma (1952) described Raj Kapoor as an example of 'The director with the Cave Man conception of love.' Mahesh Bhatt (1993) described him as 'An audacious film-maker who displayed the feverish carnality of a schoolboy in most of his films.' Produced his own directions.

Raj Kapoor in Main Nashe Mein Hoon (1959)

Kapoor, Shammi (b. 1931)

Originally Shamsher Raj Kapoor. Actor born in Bombay, younger brother of Raj Kapoor. Employed in his father Prithviraj Kapoor's Prithvi Theatres 1948-52. Introduced in mildly successful swashbuckling imitations of Errol Flynn in a phase that he later described as 'playing a male starlet'. With Tumsa Nahin Dekha he shaved his pencil moustache and started evoking James Dean and Elvis Presley (e.g. Baar baar dekho in China Town) following the more freewheeling approach elaborated by Dev Anand. This style set the tone for Filmistan's late 50s films, e.g. Shakti Samanta's b&w whodunits and colour romances, laying the foundations for Manmohan Desai's later appeal to an urban lumpen culture in e.g. Bluff Master. Kapoor often played a spoiled, rich lad who wins over the girl but also gets embroiled in gang rackets or family feuds, all of which are solved by beating up the villain. Most remarkable performance in Jungle. Presided over the Hindi cinema's first consistent attempts to address a Westernised teenage audience with songs invoking Western rock, often pictured in discotheques. These were the prototypes of a 60s consumerist cinema that, in Manmohan Desai's words, consisted entirely of 'highlights', i.e. loosely strung together, dramatically self-contained episodes. His 70s directorial efforts include a Hindi remake of Irma La Douce, 1963 (Manoranjan). Married Geeta Bali in 1955. Remarried after her death. Since the mid-70s has often appeared in bearded, middle-aged character parts and also in television serials. Produced a video entertainment magazine called 'Shammi Kapoor Presents Manoranjan'. Chairman of the Internet Users Club of India.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d/ only d): 1935: Inquilab; 1943: Hamari Baat, Gauri; 1946: Valmiki (H); 1947: Neel Kamal, Dil Ki Rani, Chittor Vijay, Jail Yatra; 1948: Gopinath, Amar Prem, Aag; 1949: Barsaat; Andaz, Sunehre Din, Parivartan; 1950: Banwra, Banwre Nair, Dastaan, Jaan Pehchan, Pyar, Sargam; 1951: Awara; 1952: Amber, Ashiana, Anhonee, Bewafa; 1953: Dhur, Paapi, Aah; 1954: Boot Polish; 1955: Shri 420; 1956: Jagte Raho/Ek Din Raatre, Chori Chori; 1957: Sharada; 1958: Parvarish, Phir Subah Hogi; 1959: Anari, Char Dil Char Raahein, Do Ustad, Kanhaiya, Main Nashe Mein Hoor; 1960: Jis Desh Mein Ganga Behti Hai, Chhalia, Shriman Satyavadi; 1961: Nazrana; 1962: Aashiq; 1963: Dil Hi To Hai, Ek Dil Sau Afsane; 1964: Sangam; Dulha Dulhan; 1966: Teesri Kasam; 1967: Around the World, Diwana; 1968: Sapnon Ka Saudagar; 1970: Mera Naam Joker; 1971: Kal Aaj Aur Kal; 1973: Bobby*; Mera Desh Mera Dharam; 1975: Do Jasoos, Dharam Karam; 1976: Khan Dost; 1977: Chandi Sona; 1978: Satyam Shivam Sundaram*; Naukri; 1980: Abdullah; 1981: Naseeb, Gopichand Jasoos, Vakil Babu; 1982: Chor Mandli, Prem Rog*; 1985: Ram Teri Ganga Maili*; 1990: Dhadaka.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1953: Gul Sanobar, Jeevan Jyoti, Laila Majnu, Rail Ka Dibba, Thokar; 1954: Chor Bazaar, Ehsan, Mehbooba, Shama Parwana; 1955: Daku, Miss Coca Cola, Naqab, Tangewali; 1956: Hum Sub Chor Hair, Mem Sahib, Rangan Raatein, Sipahsalaar; 1957: Coffee House, Mirza Sahiban, Maharani, Tumsa Nahin Dekha; 1958: Mujrim; 1959: Dil Deke Dekho, Mohar, Raat Ke Rahi, Ujala, Char Dil Char Raahein, Sahil; 1960: Basant, College Girl, Singapore; 1961: Boy Friend, Jungle; 1962: China Town, Dil Tera Diwana, Professor, Vallah Kya Baat Hai; 1963: Bluff Master, Pyar Kiya To Darna Kya, Shaheed Bhagat Singh; 1964: Kashmir Ki Kali, Rajkumar; 1965: Jaanwar; 1966: Badtameez, Teesri Manzil, Preet Na Jane Reet; 1967: An Evening in Paris, Laal Saheb; 1968: Brahmachari; 1969: Prince, Sachaa, Tumse Achha Kaun Hai; 1970: Pagla Kahin Ka; 1971: Andaz, Jaane Anjane, Preetam, Jawan Mohabbat; 1974: Manoranjan; Chhote Sarkar; 1975: Salaakher, Zameer; 1976: Bandalbaaz; 1977: Mama Bhanja, Parvarish; 1978: Shalimar; 1979: Ahsaas, Meera; 1981: Ahista Ahista, Armaan, Harjai, Professor Pyarelal, Naseeb, Rocky, Biwi-o-Biwi; 1982: Yeh Vaada Raha, Desh Premi, Prem Rog, Vidhata; 1983: Betaab, Ek Jaan Hain Hum, Hero, Romance, Aan Aur Shaan, Wanted; 1984: Sohni

Mahiwal (H); 1985: Badal, Balidan, Ek Se Bhale Do, Ram Tere Kitne Naam; 1986: Allah Rakha, Kala Dhandha Goray Log, Karamdaata, Ghar Sansar; 1987: Himmatt Aur Mehnat, Hukumat, Ijaazat; 1989: Daata, Bade Ghar Ki Beti, Mohabbat Ka Paigam, Batwara; 1990: Dhadaka; 1991: Ajooba, Mast Kalandar, Lakshmanrekha; 1992: Nishchay, Humshaka, Tahalka, Chamatkar (H); Heer Ranjha, Khule Aam, Mahashay; 1993: Gardish, Aaja Meri Jaar, Dosti Ki Saugandh, Tum Karo Vaada; 1994: Pyar Ka Rog, Premyog, Rock Dancer.

Kapoor, Shashi (b. 1938)

Hindi star, producer and director; son of Prithviraj Kapoor and younger brother of Raj and Shammi Kapoor. Started on the stage aged 6 in his father's production of Shakuntala (1944). Also acted the child, Raj, in Aag and in Awara. Abandoned studies and worked for Prithvi Theatres; then met Geoffrey Kendall's touring theatrical group Shakespeareana (which toured India between 1953-6) and joined them in Bangalore, playing Shakespeare in English and eventually marrying actress Jennifer Kendall. Turned to film in 1960. Started working with Merchant-Ivory prod. with The Householder (1963). Achieved a reputation in the West (which peaked as he played the title role in Conrad Rooks's Siddhartha) and stardom in Indian love stories after Jab Jab Phool Khile, often starring opposite Asha Parekh and Sharmila Tagore. Increasingly caught up in dramatically undemanding films and later played the second principal role in a series of Bachchan films following the success of their Deewar (Kabhi Kabhie, Trishul, Kala Patthar, Shaan). Set up his own company, Film-Valas, to distribute Merchant-Ivory's Bombay Talkie, branching into production in 1978 with Benegal's Junoon and Kalyug as well as Aparna Sen's 36 Chowringhee Lane (1981) and Girish Karnad's Utsav. Regularly acted in British productions. As an actor he was not often given the chance to stretch himself and his image remains that of a lighthearted, slightly cynical seducer. His major cultural achievements are the works he produced and the revival of the Prithvi Theatre in Bombay in honour of his father. Directed one film, Ajooba, an Indo-Soviet production starring Bachchan in an Arabian Nights spectacular. Returned from semi-retirement to play the ageing Urdu poet in Ismail Merchant's In Custody. Appeared in episodes of the satirical TV series Siyasat as a Chief Minister. Not to be confused with the older Hindi actor, Shashi Kapoor, who acted mostly in mythologicals.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1948: Aag; 1950: Sangram, Samadhi; 1951: Awara; 1961: Char Diwari, Dharmaputra; 1962: Prem Patra, Mehndi Lagi Mere Haath; 1963: Holiday In Bombay, The Householder, Yeh Dil Kisko Door; 1964: Benazir; 1965: Jab Jab Phool Khile, Mohabbat Isko Kehte Hair, Waqt, Shakespeare Wallah; 1966: Biradari, Neend Hamari Khwab Tumhara, Pyar Kiye Jaa; 1967: Pretty Polly, Aamne Samne, Dil Ne Pukara; 1968: Hasina Maan Jayegi, Juari, Kanyadaan; 1969: Ek Shriman Ek Shrimati;

Jahan Pyar Mile, Pyar Ka Mausam, Raja Saab, 1970: Bombay Talkie; Abhinetri, My Love, Rootha Na Karo, Suhana Safar, 1971: Patanga; Sharmilee, 1972: Jaanwar Aur Insaar, 1973: Aa Gale Lag Jaa; Chori Chori; Naina, Mr Romeo, 1974: Chor Machaye Shor; Insaniyat, Jeevan Sangram; Paap Aur Punya; Vachan; Roti Kapda Aur Makaar, 1975: Anari; Chori Mera Kaam, Deewar, Prem Kahani, Salaakher, 1976: Aap Beeti, Deewangee; Fakira; Koi Jeeta Koi Haara; Shankar Dada; Naach Utha Sansar, Kabhi Kabhie, 1977: Chakkar Pe Chakkar, Chor Sipahi, Doosra Admi; Farishta Ya Qatil, Heera Aur Patthar, Imaan Dharam; Mukti (H); 1978: Ahuti; Amar Shakti; Apna Khoon; Atithi; Do Musafir; Heeralal Pannalal; Muqaddar; Phaansi; Rahu Ketu; Satyam Shivam Sundaram; Trishna; Trishul, Junoon, Siddhartha, 1979: Ahsaas, Kali Ghata; Duniya Meri Jeb Mein; Gautam Govinda; Kala Patthar; Suhaag, 1980: Do Aur Do Paanch; Ganga Aur Suraj; Kala Pani; Neeyat; Shaar; Swayamvar; Kalyug, 1981: Basera; Ek Aur Ek Gyarah; Kranti (H); Krodhi; Maan Gaye Ustad; Silsila; Vakil Babu, 1982: Bezubaan; Namak Halal; Saval (H); Vijeta; 1983: Bandhan Kachche Dhaagon Ka; Ghunghroo; Heat And Dust, 1984: Pakhandi; Ghar Ek Mandir; Zameen Aasmaan; Swati (H); Yaadon Ki Zanjeer; Utsav; Bandh Honth; 1985: Aandhi Toofan; Alag Alag; Bepanah; Bhawani Junction; Pighalta Aasmaan; New Delhi Times, 1986: Anjaam; Aurat; Door Desh; Pyar Ki Jeet; Karamdata; Ek Main Aur Ek Tu; Ilzaam; 1987: Maa Beeti; Ijaazat; Naam-o-Nishar; Sindoor; Ghar Ka Sukh; Sammy And Rosie Get Laid; Chakma; 1988: Commando; Hum To Chale Pardes; Farz Ki Jung; The Deceivers; Meri Zabaan; Aakhri Muqabala; 1989: Bandoon Dahej Ke Seene Par; Apna Ghar; Desh Ke Dushman; Mera Muqaddar; Mera Farz; Tauheer; Oonch Neech Beech; Gair Kanooni; Clerk; 1991: Ajooba; Raeeszada; Akela; 1992: Siyasat; 1993: In Custody/ Muhafiz.*

Kapur, Shekhar (b. 1945)

Aka Chandrasekhar Kapur; actor and director born in Lahore. Nephew of Dev and Vijay Anand. Educated in New Delhi. Chartered accountant and management consultant in London. Entered Hindi films as actor. Directorial debut with Masoom, a low-budget, Hollywood-inspired melodrama using techniques derived from advertising films. Also directed the 'curry' western, Joshilay (resigning before it was complete; final version, released in 1989, was credited to the producer, Sibte Hasan Rizvi) and the special-effects-laden Mr India. Compered a controversial Channel 4 (UK) TV discussion programme, On The Other Hand. Made many advertising films and is a noted fashion model. Several of his big Hindi productions have been delayed, leading to a reputation for an expansive, slow-working style. However, Bandit Queen, constituting a departure from his earlier work, fictionalised the life of Phoolan Devi for Channel 4 in London, based on Mala Sen's book. The film caused a major censorship controversy, following accusations of defamation by Phoolan Devi herself and of exploitation by feminist and other independent groups. Also directed the first episodes of the TV series Tahqiqat, starring Vijay Anand as Sam the Detective.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* only d): 1974: Ishq Ishq Ishq, 1975: Jaan Hazir Hai, 1978: Pal Do Pal Ka Saath, Toote Khilone, 1979: Jeena Yahar, 1980: Bhula Na Dena, 1982: Masoom; *Bindiya Chamkegi, 1985: Joshilay; *Khandaan (TV); 1987: Mr India; 1988: Swayamsiddha (TV); Falak, 1989: Gawahi, Udaan (TV); Mahanagar (TV); 1989: Nazar, 1990: Drishti, 1992: Saatwan Asmaan, 1994: Bandit Queen; Tahqiqat (TV).

Kar, Ajoy (1914-85)

Bengali director and cameraman born in Calcutta. Left college to become a professional photographer (1931); assistant cameraman to Jatin Das at East India Film (1935) and cinematographer at Indrapuri Studios, Calcutta (1938). Shot over 80 features. Became director in the Sabhyasachi collective with Binoy Chatterjee (scripts), Jatin Datta (sound), Kamal Ganguly (editor), Bishnu Chakraborty (art d), Bimal Ghosh (prod. controller) and actress Kanan Devi. Signed first 3 films as Sabhyasachi. Made several films based on Rabindranath Tagore and Saratchandra Chatterjee novels. Crucial figure in reformist Bengali prose cinema of late 50s and 60s surrounding Uttam Kumar (cf. the classic Saptapadi). Founded India Film Laboratory in Calcutta (1957). Studied colour film technology in the USA (1976). Work often located on the cusp between literary respectability and broad melodrama (e.g. Malyadaan, adapting Tagore to tell the story of a dull orphan girl growing into womanhood).

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1949: Ananya; Bamuner Meye, 1950: Mejdidi, 1951: Jighansa, 1954: Grihapravesh, 1955: Sajghar; Paresb, 1956: Shyamali, 1957: Bardidi; Harano Sur, 1959: Khelaghar, 1960: Suno Baro Nari, 1961: Saptapadi, 1962: Atal Jaler Ahwar, 1963: Saat Pake Bandha; Barnali, 1964: Prabhater Rang, 1966: Kanch Kata Hirey, 1969: Parineeta, 1971: Malyadaan, 1973: Kaya Hiner Kahini, 1976: Datta, 1979: Nauka Dubi, 1984: Bishabriksha; Madhuban.

Karant, Babukodi Venkatramana (b. 1929)

Kannada director born in Bangalore. Aged 7, acted the title role in Kuvempu's play Nanna Gopala. Joined Gubbi Veeranna's Gubbi Company in 1944. Embarked on a post-graduate degree in Hindi and studied music in Benares. Also studied at the National School of Drama (1963). School teacher in Delhi while working with the Dishantar theatre group. Stage productions in Kannada of Oedipus (adapted by P. Lankesh), Girish Karnad's Hayavadana and Kambhar's Jokumaraswamy (all in 1971) for his own theatre group Benaka. Introduced folk idioms borrowed from the Yakshagana to the stage, pioneering a trend later associated with cultural indigenism. Director of the National School of Drama (1978-81), and of Repertory at Bharat Bhavan, Bhopal (1981-6). He had to leave following allegations of having tried to burn alive one of the company's actresses. Returned to his native Karnataka where he runs the state's repertory company, Rangayana. Most of his film-making was partnered by Karnad, except for Chomana Dudi. Scored several films, e.g. G.V. Iyer's Hamsa Geethe (1975), Mrinal Sen's Parashuram (1978), Ek Din Pratidin (1979) and Kharaj (1982), M.S. Sathyu's Kanneshwara Rama (1977, also act), Girish Kasaravalli's Ghattashraddha (1977), Akramana (1980), Mooru Darigalu (1981), Tabarana Kathe (1986) and Bannada Vesha (1988), Katte Ramachandra's Arivu (1979), the children's film Hangama Bombay Ishtyle (1978) and his wife Prema Karant's Phaniyamma (1982).

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* also act): 1971: Vamsha Vriksha; 1975: Chomana Dudi; Kalla Kalla Bachitko/ Chor Chor Chhupja; 1977: Tabbaliyu Neenade Magane/ Godhuli.

Karant, Prema (b. 1936)

Kannada director born in Bangalore. Brought up by grandparents in a small Karnataka village in Kolar District. Wrote stories and articles for children's magazine, Chandamama. Well-known director on Kannada stage noted particularly for children's theatre (e.g. Kambhar's Alibaba and the Forty Thieves, 1978). Studied at Benares University and graduated in direction at National School of Drama (1971), worked in Delhi-based theatre groups Yatrik and Dishantar, and in husband B.V. Karant's Benaka in Bangalore (1975). Did costumes for over 120 plays in English, Hindi and Kannada. Assisted Karnad and Karant on Tabbaliyu Neenade Magane/ Godhuli (1977), G.V. Iyer on Kudre Motte, in which she also acted. Worked at the Adarsh Film Institute with Kasaravalli.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* only act): 1977: Kudre Motte; 1982: Amara Madhura Prema; Phaniyamma, 1983: Simhasana; 1985: The Jewel of Manipur. Part 1 (Doc); 1986: The Jewel of Manipur. Part 2 (Doc); 1988: Appiko (Doc); 1989: Nakkala Rajkumari, 1990: Sapne Huye Sakaar (Doc).

Kardar, Abdul Rashid (1904-89)

Hindi-Urdu director born into Lahore's landed gentry; affectionately known as 'Miyanjii'. Considered a promising painter and still photographer. Moved to Bombay (1922) to work at Kohinoor. Did poster-paintings at Sharda Studio. Acted in a few films but, unable to get directorial assignment, returned to Lahore. Joined B.R. Oberai's Pioneer Prod. as actor. Started United Players Corp. (1928), which, with partners Kardar and Hakim Ramprasad, grew into Playart Phototone. Although an important event in the early history of Lahore cinema, Kardar made only one film there (Heer Ranjha). Moved to Calcutta (1933) and became top director for East India Film (1933-6); then to Bombay (Ranjit and National Studios). Bought CIRCO Studio to launch the Kardar Studios with Sharada. It closed in 1968 despite an all-industry rescue effort. Started Musical Pics (1950). Launched directors M. Sadiq (who later directed Guru Dutt in Chaudhvin Ka Chand, 1960) and S.U. Sunny. Made his best-known films in 1940, a series of psychodramas attempting to match the realism of Urdu literature (Pagal, Holi, Pooja). Then moved to portmanteau musicals featuring his regular composer Naushad, including comedy spoofs with Kishore Kumar (Baap Re Baap). Apparently Dastaan was based on the US film Enchantment (1948), Jadu on Raoul Walsh's The Loves of Carmen (1927) and Baghi Sipahi on R.V. Lee's Cardinal Richlieu (1935). His comeback with Dil Diya Dard Liya went wrong and Dilip Kumar ended up directing the movie credited to Kardar.

FILMOGRAPHY (* also act/ act only): 1929: *Husn Ka Daku; *Heer Ranjha; 1930: Sarfarosh; Safdar Jung; Farebi Shahzada; 1931: *Khooni Katar; Awara Raqasa; *Kismet ki Hera Pher; Farebi Daku (all St); 1932: Heer Ranjha; 1933: Aurat Ka Pyar; *Abe Hayat; 1934: *Seeta; Chandragupta; Sultana; 1935: 1936: Baghi Sipahi; 1937: Mandir; Milap; 1938: Baghbar; 1939: Thokar; 1940: Holi; Pagal; Pooja; 1941: Swami; 1942: Nai Duniya; Sharada; 1943: Kanoor; Sanjog; 1944: Pehle Aap; 1945: Sanyasi; 1946: Shahjehan; 1947: Dard; 1949: Dillagi; Dulari; 1950: Dastaan; 1951: Jadu; 1952: Diwana; 1953: Dil-e-Nadaar; 1955: Baap Re Baap; Yasmin; 1958: Do Phool; 1966: Dil Diya Dard Liya; 1975: Mere Sartaj.

Kariat, Ramu (1927-79)

Malayalam director born in Engandiyur, Trichur Dist., Kerala, into a farming family. Started writing poetry and prose as a teenager for the weekly Mathrubhoomi. Assisted Vimal Kumar and P.R.S. Pillai on Thiramala (1953). First film, Neelakuyil (co-d with P. Bhaskaran), started independent cinema in Kerala. Member of the CPI. Early work is in context of the broad cultural renaissance spearheaded by the Kerala Peoples' Arts Club (see IPTA), indebted to the 40s CPI-led uprising against Travancore State. Several major writers entered film through Kariat, e.g. Thakazhy Shivashankar Pillai (author of Chemmeen), Uroob (who scripted Neelakuyil), playwrights Thoppil Bhasi, K.T. Mohammed and S.L. Puram Sadanandan. Opened up new areas in Malayalam film with work strongly imbued with lyrical, even mystical feelings about a newly discovered sense of community through subjects often placed among fisherfolk and villagers. Briefly a Kerala MP. Finished shooting the Telugu film Kondagali before his death, but it remained unedited. His Chemmeen was later re-released in a Hindi-dubbed version called Chemmeen Lahren (1980). Acted in Bhaskaran's Rarichan Enna Pauran (1956). Also produced M. Lakshmanan's Tamil film Kannamma (1972). His last film, Karumbu, was completed later by K. Vijayan and released in 1984.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1954: Neelakuyil; 1956: Bharata Natyam (Doc); 1957: Minnaminungu; 1961: Mudiyanaya Puthran; 1963: Moodupadam; 1965: Chemmeen; 1968: Ezhu Rathrikal; 1970: Abhayam; 1972: Maya; 1973: Manavallakurchi: My Village (Doc); 1974: Nellu; 1976: Dweep; 1978: Ammuvinte Attinkutty, Kondagali; 1979: Karumbu; 1980: Malankattu.

Karnad, Girish Raghunath (b. 1938)

Kannada and Hindi actor and director. Born in Matheran, Maharashtra, into medical family. Educated in English and Marathi but wrote in Kannada. Graduated in mathematics and statistics (1958). Rhodes Scholar, Oxford University (1960-3), later President of the Oxford Union Society (1963). Wrote first play Yayati (1961) in England. Manager of Oxford University Press in Madras (1963-70). Known mainly as playwright (also wrote: Tughlaq, 1964; Hayavadana, 1971; Anjumallige, 1977; Hittina Hunja, 1980; Nagamandala, 1986), where he is often considered part of a new post-Independence theatre movement with Badal Sircar, Mohan Rakesh and Vijay Tendulkar. Unlike the others, his plays are generally mythologicals informed by psychoanalytic symbology (Hayavadana, Nagamandala). Homi Bhabha fellowship for creative work in folk theatre (1970-2). Joined film as scenarist and lead actor for Samskara. First film as director, Vamsha Vriksha (with B.V. Karanth, the director of his stage plays), in the wake of Samskara's success. Moved to Hindi film to work with Benegal as actor and scenarist (Nishant, 1975; Manthan, 1976, and the script of Kalyug, 1980). Since then has been a prolific actor in Hindi film and on television. Made one big-budget Hindi film for Shashi Kapoor, Utsav. First director of autonomous FTII (1974-5). President of the Karnataka State Nataka Akademi (1976-8) and of the Sangeet Natak Akademi (1988-93). His best-known film, Kaadu, placed him, with Benegal, squarely within New Indian Cinema's ruralism, although he also made the martial-arts adventure movie Ondanondu Kaladalli inspired by Kurosawa. Scripted his own films.

FILMOGRAPHY (* only d/ also d): 1970: Samskara; 1971: *Vamsha Vriksha; 1973: *D.R. Bendre (Doc); *Kaadu; Jadu Ka Shankh; 1975: Nishant; 1976: Manthan; Kanakambara; 1977: Swami; Jeevanmukt; *Tabbaliyu Neenade Magane/ Godhuli; 1978: *Ondanondu Kaladalli; 1979: Ratnadeep; 1980: Anveshane; Asha; Apne Paraye; Man Pasand; 1981: Paanch Qaidi; Shama; Umbartha/Subah; Kitapatti; 1982: Teri Kasam; Aparooa/Apeksha; 1983: Ananda Bhairavi; Ek Baar Chale Aao; Sampark; Divorce; 1984: *Utsav; Tarang; *Woh Ghar (TV); Khoon Aur Saza; 1985: Meri Jung; Sur Sangam; Nee Thanda Kanike; Khandaan (TV); Pyari Bhabhi; 1986: Nilakurinihi Poothappol; Naan Adimai Illai; Sutradhar; Nenapina Doni; 1987: Swami; 1988: Akarshan; Kadina Benki; *Kanaka Purandaradasa (Doc); Mil Gayi Manzil Mujhe; 1989: *Lamp in the Niche (Parts 1&2) (Doc); 1990: Santha Shishunala Shareefa; Sara Jahan Hamara (TV); 1991: Swami and Friends (TV); Mysore Mallige; Jawahar; Guna; 1992: *Cheluvu; 1994: Kadhalar; Poornasatya.

Karnataka, Vinayak see Vinayak, Master

Karun, Shaji Narayanan (b. 1952)

Malayalam director born in Perinad Taluk, Quilon district, Kerala. Well-known cameraman, notably for Aravindan's films but also for K.G. George and M.T. Vasudevan Nair. Graduate from the FTII's cinematography course (1974). Directorial debut, Piravi, was widely discussed in India and abroad. His camerawork (e.g. for Aravindan) virtually defines the look of Kerala's New Indian Cinema with its soft, half-light effects that, in the black and white period, played a role reminiscent of Subrata Mitra's work in 60s Bengali film. Colour work tends to suppress primary colours, their harsh introduction symbolising degeneracy or corruption. Also made several documentaries, e.g. Kerala Carnival, Manishada, Drishya Kerala, Kannikal etc.

Girish Karnad in Swami (1977)

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1974: *Lady of the Landing (Sh); 1988: *Piravi, 1994: *Swaham.

Karunanidhi, Muthuvel (b. 1924)

Tamil scenarist and DMK politician born in Tirukkuvalai, Tanjore Dist., TN. Political activist with the Dravidar Kazhagam (DK) from the age of 14; left school to become C.N. Annadurai's assistant and worked on Periyar E.V. Ramaswamy Naicker's paper, Kudiarasu. Led the 1953 Kallakkudi riots in which the DMK protested against the renaming of a railway station after a North Indian industrialist. Elected to the Tamil Nadu State Assembly in 1957 on a DMK ticket. Key figure in the anti-Hindi agitation of 1965, for which he was imprisoned. Minister for Public Works and Transport under Annadurai when the DMK was elected in 1967. Chief Minister in 1969 following Annadurai's death; defeated by his former protégé MGR in 1977. Returned to power (1988), but was dismissed by the Congress (I)-backed minority government in 1990; in the 1991 election, following Rajiv Gandhi's assassination, his party lost every seat in the state assembly except his own. Defeated Jayalalitha and returned to power in 1996. Film debut at the Jupiter Studio, co-scripting A. Kasilingam's Abhimanyu (1948) with A.S.A. Sami. First DMK film: *Manthiri Kumari for T.R. Sundaram (1950). Wrote Kasilingam's Maruthanattu Ilavarasi (1950), three films for L.V. Prasad (Manohara, 1954; Thayilla Pillai, 1961; Iruvar Ullam, 1963) and his best-known film, Krishnan-Panju's *Parasakthi (1952). According to Ka. Thirunavukkarasu (1990), he scripted 57 films, e.g. S.M. Sreeramulu Naidu's MGR hit Malaikallan (1954), Kasilingam's Sivaji Ganesan film Rangoon Radha (1956) based on Annadurai's novel, and P. Neelakantan's *Poompuhar (1964) and Poomalai (1965). Also wrote c.50 short stories (e.g. Kuppai Thothi/Dustbin), many speeches, commentaries on Tamil literature and a speculative archaeology of the Tamil language tracing it to the Sangam poets and the Indus Valley. Columnist for the daily Murasoli and the journal Kumkumam. Turned producer with Mekala Pics, initially with MGR, MGR's wife V.N. Janaki and P.S. Veerappa (Naam, 1953); the partnership soon broke up leaving Karunanidhi proprietor with Murasoli Maran, the duo later expanding into the popular SUN-TV Tamil cable channel.

Kasaravalli, Girish (b. 1949)

Kannada director born in Kasaravalli village, Karnataka. Degree in pharmacology (1971). Even before graduating from the FTII (1975) had virtually taken over direction of Nagabharana's *Grahana (1978). First feature, Ghattashraddha, in the wake of Samskara (1970) and based on U.R. Ananthamurthy's writing, extended the anti-brahminism of the literary Navya Movement. Principal of Adarsh Film Institute, Bangalore; edited a Kannada anthology on film theory with essays by Eisenstein, Kracauer, Bazin, Metz, Wollen et al (1983).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1975: *Avashesh (Sh); Anya (Sh); 1977: *Ghattashraddha; 1980: *Akramana; 1981: *Mooru Darigalu; 1986: *Tabarana Katha; Glowing Embers (Doc); 1988: *Bannada Vesha (TV); 1989: *Mane/Ek Ghar.

Kashmiri, Aga Hashr (1879-1935)

Scenarist and best-known early 20th C. Urdu-Hindi playwright of enormously influential Parsee theatre plays. On contract to the Alfred Theatre in Bombay (1901-5) and then (after 1916) to the Madan Theatres' Elphinstone and Corinthian companies in Calcutta, providing adaptations of Shakespeare (A Winter's Tale became Mureed-e-Kash, 1899; Measure for Measure became Shaheed-e-Naaz aka Achhuta Daman in Hindi, 1902; King John became Saeed-e-Havas, 1907; Macbeth was Khwab-e-Hasti). Made a big impact with his linguistic transpositions of Shakespearean tragedy's feudal elements of blood ties and blood feuds, honour, sacrifice and destiny into Farsi, Arabic (he knew both languages) and Moorish legends, simultaneously taking on board the European baroque's Orientalist treatment of such sources. He extended his Shakespearean matrix to several partially original plays like Meethi Churi (1902), Safed Khoon (influenced by King Lear, 1907) and his best-known play, Yahudi Ki Ladki (1915), all of which were repeatedly filmed in the silent and early sound periods. His initial writing style followed the post-Indrasabha convention of mixing Urdu prose and poetry with Hindustani music. Later, with plays like Pehla Pyar (1911) and Van Devi (1916), he started writing in Hindustani, shifting away from historicals into socials and Pauranic mythologicals treated in the social genre: Bhishma (1925: filmed under his direction in 1933s), Seeta Banwas (1927). This linguistic and generic convergence helped, through his scripts, shape the films of Madan Theatres (Pati Bhakti, 1922; Paper Parinam, 1924; Dharmapatni, 1926; Aankh Ka Nasha, 1928 and Bharati Balak, 1931, which he also directed) and formed the persona of New Theatres' famed tragedian, K.L. Saigal, scripting his influential Chandidas (1934), Yahudi Ki Ladki (1933) and writing his lyrics (e.g. Prem nagar mein banaoongi ghar main and Dukh ab din beetat nain). Turki Hoor, staged 1922 and filmed by J.J. Madan (1924), cast the male Narmada Shankar in the female lead, leading to censorship and the deletion of one scene.

Kathavachak, Radheshyam

(b. 1890)

Writer born in Bareilly. Major 1920s Parsee theatre playwright, e.g. for New Alfred Co. In plays like Shri Krishnavtar (1926), Rukmini Mangal (1927) and Shravan Kumar (1928) he more or less invented the mythological in its familiar Hindi film version, still practised in e.g. Sagar's TV serial, Ramayan (1986-8). Established as the most successful playwright of his generation with the hit Abhimanyu (New Alfred, 1916), whose book was a bestseller. He drew upon his strong familial roots in the performative traditions of the Ramleela and pioneered the mediation of Northern and Central Indian folk performances into the later mass cultural manifestation of the genre in Hindi cinema. Unlike e.g. Betaab, he made few claims for classicism beyond that of writing in 'pure' Hindi (as distinct from Urdu). He attempted to link up with the devotional rather than with the spectacular and addressed a proletarian audience through the publications of his Radheshyam Press in Bareilly. Worked briefly for Madan Theatres as scenarist and songwriter and freelanced often for former New Alfred colleagues. His autobiography (1957) is considered a classic description of the early 20th C. commercial theatre and also gives a first-hand description of the Madan film factory. Also scripted or wrote lyrics for Bhavnani's *Shakuntala (1931), Dhruvad Rai's Shri Satyanarayan (1935), Varma's Usha Haran (1940), Sohrab Modi's *Jhansi Ki Rani (1953) and Sharad Desai's Shravan Kumar (1960).

Kaul, Mahesh (1911-72)

Hindi director born in Lahore. Educated at Moni College, Nagpur, and worked as a journalist and as branch manager of a bank. Entered films as lyricist and dialogue writer. Debut as actor in Abbas-scripted Naya Sansar. Played Dronacharya in Altekar's mythological, Mahatma Vidur. Also produced his third film as director, Gopinath, featuring Raj Kapoor in one of his first major roles alongside IPTA actress Tripti Mitra. The film presents an influential version of a starkly realist acting idiom in 40s Hindi political melodrama. Worked briefly in Filmistan in mid-50s. Directed Guru Dutt in Sautela Bhai and played the crusty colonial father-in-law in Kaagaz Ke Phool. Scripted Daryani's Dukh Sukh (1974). Uncle of Mani Kaul.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* act only): 1941: Naya Sansar; 1942: Apna Ghar/Aple Ghar; 1943: Mahatma Vidur; Angoori; 1944: *Paristan; 1948: *Gopinath; 1951: *Naujawan; 1953: *Jeevan Jyoti; 1957: *Abhimaan; 1958: *Aakhri Dao, Talaag; 1959: Kaagaz Ke Phool; 1961: *Pyar Ki Pyaas; 1962: *Sautela Bhai; 1967: *Diwana, Palki; 1968: *Sapnon Ka Saudagar; 1969: *Raakhi Raakhi; 1971: Tere Mere Sapne; 1973: *Agni Rekha.

Kaul, Mani R. (b. 1942)

Director born in Jodhpur, Rajasthan. Graduate from University of Jaipur (1963) and from the

Mani Kaul working on Idiot (1991)

FTII (1966) where he was taught by Ghatak. Nephew of Mahesh Kaul. Often acted in Film Institute student films in the mid-60s, and appeared as actor in Basu Chatterjee's Sara Akash (1969). Received Jawaharlal Nehru Fellowship (1974-6). Part of the YUKT Collective that made Ghashiram Kotwal. Prominent cultural activist and organiser, often making common cause with Shahani in efforts to extend the range of Indian film cultures, and significant teacher of a new generation of FTII graduates, some of whom became key members of his film unit. First film, Uski Roti, is a cinematic exploration of narrative space and volume, defining much of New Indian Cinema's formal vocabulary. Since Satah Se Uthata Admi, based on Hindi poet G.M. Mukhtibodh, made features on e.g. Dhrupad music and on terracotta artisans, emphasising improvised reconstruction of available material. Edits his colour films first in b&w, having printed every single take. Later work strongly influenced by his study of Dhrupad music with Ustad Zia Mohiyuddin Dagar and of Anandvardhan's Dhwanyaloka, a 9th C. Sanskrit text on aesthetics exploring states of conscious perception while positing language as possessing a specific, suggestive dimension beyond its denotative or metaphoric faculties. Developing aspects of classical music theories, particularly the Sangeet Samay Saar (14th C.), Kaul emphasises the value of what is absent - the varjit, the forbidden - as perennially in 'argument' (vivadhi) with what is narratively present. The evanescent moment of creation is posed at the point where human action simultaneously registers what exists and in the process, produces something unprecedented. His elaborate theory of contemporary aesthetic practice, 'Seen From Nowhere', was presented in the cultural historian Kapila Vatsyayan's seminar Inner Space, Outer Space (Indira Gandhi National Centre For Art) and published in the book Concepts of Space: Ancient and Modern. Among various non-Indian sources, has drawn from haiku poetry, the nouveau roman, mannerist painting, Bresson and Ozu. Recent return to fiction cinema draws mainly from Dostoevsky (Nazar, Idiot). Refused to sign the documentary Historical Sketch of Indian Women during the Emergency when its producers, Films Division, required him to change the last shot and the commentary.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1967: Yatrik (Sh); 6.40 p.m. (Sh); Homage to the Teacher (Sh); 1968: Forms and Design (Doc); 1969: Uski Roti; 1970: During and after Air Raid (Doc); 1971: Ashad Ka Ek Din; 1973: Duvidha; 1974: The Nomad Puppeteers (Doc); 1975: Historical Sketch of Indian Women (Doc; uncredited); 1976: Chitrakathi (Doc); Ghashiram Kotwal; 1979: Arrival (Doc); 1980: Satah Se Uthata Admi; 1981: Desert of a Thousand Lines (Sh); 1982: Dhrupad; 1984: Mati Manas; 1988: Before My Eyes (Doc); 1989: Siddheshwari; Nazar; 1991: Idiot; 1994: The Cloud Door (Sh).

K.D. Brothers

Often described as India's largest film importers in the early silent era, the company, not well documented because of its early closure, was apparently owned by Krishnadas Dwarkadas. By 1917 the company was well known as importers of projectors and raw stock, with branches in Calcutta and Benares. Its advertised film imports in the Bombay Chronicle include William Fox's A Wife's Sacrifice (1919), the Gaumont Gazette and, in 1921, independently made newsreels showing events connected with the Swadeshi agitations: e.g. Collecting Foreign Clothes in the Streets of Bombay, Enthusiasts on their way to the Bonfire near the Elphinstone Mills and several shots of Gandhi and Maulana Shaukat Ali. By the early 20s, K.D. Brothers mainly dealt with newsreels such as Chimanlal Luhar's early work. Probably starting with tent bioscopes, by the early 20s their interests expanded to include two of Bombay's front-line theatres, the Globe and the West End. An advertisement saying that the West End would release 'no serial and no Indian film' while the Globe would show the 'best of serial chapter plays and the pick of Indian productions', clearly reveals their twin distribution interests. Among the Indian films they distributed, within India and abroad (foreign distribution was for a while controlled by A. Narayanan) were Hindustan Cinema and Bharat films, the first two Dhiren Ganguly films and Suchet Singh's Narasinh Mehta (1920).

Khan, Shah Rukh (b. 1965)

Major 90s Hindi star. Former stage actor in New Delhi, debuted on television in the serial Circus. First screen role playing Raghujan in Mani Kaul's Idiot. In his early starring roles he often played unconventional 'negative' roles, e.g. in Bazigar and Darr. Alongside his mainstream productions, also acts regularly features in Ketan Mehta, Aziz Mirza and Kundan Shah films, some of which he has also distributed.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1991: Idiot, Dil Ashna Hai; 1992: Diwana; Chamatkar, Raju Ban Gaya Gentleman; 1993: King Uncle; Bazigar; Darr; Kabhi Haan Kabhi Naa; 1994: Anjaam; 1995: Karan Arjun, Zamana Deewana; Oh Darling Yeh Hai India!; Guddu; Dilwale Dulhania Le Jayenge; Ram Jaane; Trimurti.

Khandekar, Vishnu Sakhar am (1898-1976)

Influential Marathi writer and essayist born in Sangli, Maharashtra. Closely associated with the progressive, secular tradition of the reformist G.G. Agarkar. A former schoolteacher, his best-known novels (Ulka, 1934; Hirva Chafa, 1938; Pandhre Dhag, 1939) are often deliberately pedagogical, with characters presented as social 'types' in situations devised as guides to morally correct behaviour. Wrote several original scripts, e.g. for Master Vinayak (Jwala), 1938; Amrit and Junnarkar's Sangam, both 1941) some of which he later novelised (Rikama Devhara based on Devata, 1939; Sukhacha Shodh, etc.). His literary world is 'peopled on the one side by ambitious men who have lost their humanity and, on the other, by the poor [w]ho suffer but never lose their humaneness; poverty is always perceived as a social consequence of crippling ambition' (Mordekar, Aug 1941). His stories are high melodrama full of sacrifices bravely borne, passionate revenge and holy sin in extraordinarily convoluted plots (Chhaya, 1936; Mazhe Bal, 1943), exerting a strong influence in Marathi cinema, e.g. on Raja Paranjpe/G.D. Madgulkar. Based scripts on C.V. Joshi's popular political satires featuring the bumbling duo Gundyabhau and Chimanrao: Lagna Pahave Karun (1940) and Sarkari Pahune (1942). Scripted C. Raghuvir's Soneri Savli (1953), Madhav Shinde's Antaricha Diva (1960), Mansala Pankh Astaat (1961) and Sunbai (1962; also providing the lyrics together with Shanta Shelke).

Khanna, Rajesh (b. 1942)

Originally Jatin Khanna. The first of the late 60s/early 70s Hindi superstars with a big impact on the industry, later equalled only by Bachchan. His late 60s roles were often low-budget genre films (e.g. Yash Chopra's thriller Ittefaq). Broke through in two popular love stories made and released simultaneously: Aradhana and Do Raaste, which shaped his film persona, later elaborated by Shakti Samanta. His image is traceable to Gulshan Nanda's novelettes generated in the context of the industrialisation of 60s Hindi publishing pioneered by Mitra Prakashan's best-selling journal, Manohar Kahaniyan, in Allahabad, and its numerous imitations aiming serials at less-educated readers. In the 70s, he often played a social orphan (Hathi Mere Saathi) deprived of maternal love and stricken by some existential malaise (Amar Prem) driving him to depravity (Dushman, Kati Patang) from which the heroine and foster-mother rescue him, usually by naming him as their protector. Often partnered by Sharmila Tagore or Mumtaz in his best-known films. His image of the innocent in a big bad world extended also to famous roles as a man who laughs to cover up some internal tragedy (Anand, Andaz). This approach influenced film-makers like Yash Chopra, but it was quickly overtaken in the mid-70s by Bachchan, making Khanna's style an anachronism in the 80s. Stood for election as a Congress (I) candidate in Delhi, almost defeating the right-wing BJP leader, L.K. Advani. In a by-election he defeated the film star Shatrughan Sinha (who now represented the BJP) and became an MP.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1966: Aakhri Khat, 1967: Baharon Ke Sapne, Raaz, Aurat, 1969: Aradhana; Bandhan, Do Raaste; Doli; Ittefaq; Khamoshi, 1970: Aan Milo Sajna; Anand; Kati Patang; Sachcha Jhutha; Safar; The Train, 1971: Amar Prem; Andaz; Badnaam Farishte; Chhoti Bahu; Dushman; Hathi Mere Saathi; Maryada; Mehboob Ki Mehndi, 1972: Apna Desh; Anuraag; Bawarchi; Dil Daulat Duniya; Joru Ka Gulam; Malik; Mere Jeevan Saathi; Shehzada, 1973: Avishkar; Daag; Namak Haram; Raja Rani, 1974: Aaina; Aap Ki Kasam; Ajnabi; Humshakal; Prem Nagar; Roti, 1975: Akramar; Prem Kahani, 1976: Bandalbaaz; Maha Chor; Mehbooba; Tyaag; Ginny Aur Johnny, 1977: Anurodh; Chalta Purza; Chhaila Babu; Karm; Palkon Ki Chhaon Meir; Tinku; Aashiq Hoon Baharon Ka, 1978: Bhola Bhala; Prem Bandhan; Chakravyuha; Naukri, 1979: Amar Deep; Janata Havaladar; Muqabala, 1980: Bandish; Phir Wohi Raat; Red Rose; Thodisi Bewafayi; Aanchal, 1981: Dard; Dhanwan; Fifty-Fifty; Kudrat; Dil-e-Nadaan, 1982: Ashanti; Dharam Kanta; Rajput; Suraag; Jaanwar, 1983: Agar Tum Na Hote; Avatar; Nishar; Souter; Babur, 1984: Aaj Ka MLA Ramavatar; Asha Jyoti; Awaaz; Maqsad; Naya Kadam; Paapi Pet Ka Sawaal Hai; Durga; Hum Dono; Dharam Aur Kanoor, 1985: Alag Alag; Aakhir Kyon; Awar Baap; Bewafai; Insaaf Main Karoonga; Masterji; Oonche Log; Zamana, 1986: Adhikar; Amrit; Angarey; Anokha Rishta; Mohabbat Ki Kasam; Nasihat; Shatru, 1987: Gora; Awaam; Nazrana; Seetapur Ki Geeta, 1988: Vijay; Woh Phir Aayegi, 1989: Paap Ka Ant; Mamata Ki Chhaon Meir; Main Tera Dushman; Ghar Ka Chirag, 1990: Ghar Parivar; Swarg, 1991: Rupaye Dus Karod.

Khayyam, Mohammed Zahur (b. 1927)

Hindi music director born in Jullundur. Studied for a while with Pandit Amarnath and with music directors Husnlal-Bhagatram. Went to Bombay to become a film actor, then worked in Lahore. Early films composed in association with Aziz Khan, Bulo C. Rani et al. Worked at Ranjit Studio. Sang a duet in Akhtar Hussein's Romeo and Juliet (1947) and acted in S.D. Narang's Yeh Hai Zindagi (1947). First independent composing assignment, Zia Sarhadi's Footpath, including the hit Shyam-e-gam ki kasam sung by Talat Mahmood. Worked extensively in the traditional ghazal format. His collaboration with Sahir Ludhianvi on songs satirising Nehruite politics in Phir Subah Hogi (Chin-o-Arab hamara and Woh subah kabhi to aayegi) are definitive of 50s Hindi cinema's engagement with existential realism. Made a comeback with the hit love songs of Yash Chopra's Kabhi Kabhie and Muzaffar Ali's Urdu period movie, Umrao Jaan. Also did music for Esmayeel Shroff's love stories in the 80s. Credited as 'Sharmaji' on his first 4 films. Har Mandir Singh's Geet Kosh suggests he also scored a film called Hum Hain Rahi Pyar Ke in the 60s.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1948: Heer Ranjha, 1949: Parda, 1950: Biwi, 1951: Pyar Ki Baatein, 1953: Footpath, 1954: Dhobi Doctor; Gul Bahar, 1955: Tatar Ka Chor, 1958: Lala Rukh; Phir Subah Hogi, 1960: Barood; Bambai Ki Billi, 1961: Shola Aur Shabnam, 1964: Shagun, 1965: Mohabbat Isko Kehne Hair, 1966: Aakhri Khat, 1967: Mera Bhai Mera Dushman, 1974: Pyaase Dil; Sankalp, 1975: Sandhya; Mutthi Bhar Chawal, 1976: Kabhi Kabhie, 1977: Shankar Hussain, 1978: Trishul, 1979: Meena Kumari Ki Amar Kahani; Noorie; Khandaan; Chambal Ki Kasam, 1980: Thodisi Bewafayi, 1981: Ahista Ahista; Dard; Nakhuda, Umrao Jaan; Dil-e-Nadaan, 1982: Bazaar; Banwri; Dil Aakhir Dil Hai; Saval (H), 1983: Mehndi; Razia Sultan, 1984: Lorie; Bepanah; Tere Shaher Mein, 1986: Anjuman, 1988: Parbat Ke Us Paar; Ek Naya Rishta, 1989: Jaan-e-Wafaa, 1990: Jawani Zindabad.

Khosla, Raj (1925-91)

Hindi director born in Ludhiana, Punjab. Family moved to Bombay (1934). Studied music from an early age and learned singing under Pandit Jagannath Prasad. Graduated in history and economics from Elphinstone College; arts degree from Bombay University. Joined AIR as singer (1946). Dev Anand made him assistant to Guru Dutt who gave him first major directorial assignment, CID. Acted a small role in Dutt's Jaal (1952). Worked for Navketan and Filmalaya. Production partnership with cameraman Jal Mistry, Naya Films (e.g. Bambai Ka Babu, about incest). Then solo with Raj Khosla Films (1967). His Do Raaste helped make Rajesh Khanna a superstar. Returned in late 70s to the themes of bravely borne suffering, mainly addressing female audiences, which is unusual in recent Hindi cinema (Main Tulsi Tere Aangan Ki; Teri Maang Sitaron Se Bhar Doon, etc.). Known for inventive song picturisations, a skill he learnt from Guru Dutt. Also producer (e.g. Do Chor, 1972).

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1955: Milap, 1956: CID, 1958: Kala Pani; Solva Saat, 1960: Bambai Ka Babu, 1962: Ek Musafir Ek Hasina, 1964: Woh Kaun Thi, 1966: Do Badar; Mera Saaya, 1967: Anita, 1969: Chirag; Do Raaste, 1971: Mera Gaon Mera Desh, 1973: Kachche Dhaage; Shareef Badmash, 1975: Prem Kahani, 1976: Nehle Pe Dehla, 1978: Main Tulsi Tere Aangan Ki, 1980: Do Premi; Dostana, 1981: Daasi, 1982: Teri Maang Sitaron Se Bhar Door, 1984: Mera Dost Mera Dushman; Sunny; Mati Mange Khoon, 1988: Naqab.

Khote, Durga (1905-91)

The first Marathi star to catapult to All-India film popularity. Born into an elite Maharashtra family in Bombay; educated in Cathedral School and influenced by Avantikabai Gokhale who helped put feminist issues on to the nationalist agenda. Her class background, unusual for an actress, allowed her to assume different images from the conventional Sangeet Natak stereotypes. Acted in Bhavnani's Farebi Jaal but effectively introduced in Prabhat's first sound film, Ayodhyecha Raja/Ayodhya Ka Raja. She then shifted to New Theatres to work with Debaki Bose, being the only actress featuring simultaneously in the two leading studios. As the queen in Shantaram's Maya Machindra, with the Cheetah at her feet or in her most famous early role as the pirate in Amar Jyoti, she recalled the Talmadge sisters or Mary Pickford. Following her role in Atre's Payachi Dasi, she settled down to a long career as character actress (e.g. as queen mother in Mughal-e-Azam) and did some theatre, being associated for a while with the IPTA (she acted in their production of Andolan to replenish the Gandhi Fund). Also acted in and directed some Marathi plays, starting with Bhaubandhaki. Started Durga Khote Prod. for advertising and short films, run by her daughter-in-law, Tina Khote. Wrote an autobiography, Mee Durga Khote (1982).

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1931: Farebi Jaal, 1932: Ayodhyecha Raja/Ayodhya Ka Raja; Maya Machindra, 1933: Patit Pawan;

Durga Khote in Bharat Bhet (1942)

Rajrani Meera; 1934: Seeta; 1935: Jeevan Natak, Inquilab; 1936: Amar Jyoti; 1937: Pratibha; Kal Ki Baat; 1938: Nandakumar (Mar); Savangadi/Saathi; 1939: Adhuri Kahani; 1940: Narsi Bhagat, Geeta, Raigad; 1941: Payachi Dasi/ Charnon Ki Dasi; 1942: Bharat Milap/ Bharat Bhet, Vijay; 1943: Qurbani, Mahasati Ansuya; Prithvi Vallabh, Tasveer, Zameer, Mahatma Vidur; 1944: Dil Ki Baat, Maharathi Karni; Phool; 1945: Lakhrani, Pannadai, Veer Kunak, Village Girl; 1946: Rukmini Swayamvar, Daasi Ya Maa; Hum Ek Hair, Maharani Meenal Devi; 1948: Anjuman, Moruchi Mavshi, Seeta Swayamvar; 1949: Maya Bazaar, Jeet, Singaar; 1950: Alakh Niranjani, Hamara Ghar, Magroor, Mi Daru Sodli, Shri Krishna Darshan, Surajmukhi; Har Har Mahadev, Hindustan Hamara, Nishana; Veer Bhimsen, Beqasoor, Kalyan Khajina; 1951: Jashaas Tase, Aaram, Hamari Shaan; Humlog, Malati Madhav, Muraliwala, Nai Zindagi, Nand Kishore, Sagar, Sazaa; 1952: Aandhiyan, Hyderabad Ki Nazneer, Lal Kunwar, Indrasan, Mordhwaj, Sandesh, Narveer Tanaji; 1953: Anand Bhavan, Chacha Choudhury, Dharmapatni, Mashuqa, Naulakha Haar, Shikast, Naag Panchami, Shri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu, Malkin; 1954: Laila, Ramayan, Lakeeren; Mirza Ghalib, Khel Chalala Nashibacha, Jhanjavaat; 1955: Hasina, Adl-e-Jehangir, Madh Bhare Nain, Shri Ganesh Vivah, Jagadguru Shankaracharya; 1956: Dwarkadheesh, Insaaf, Parivar, Patrani, Harihar Bhakti, Rajdhani; 1957: Bade Sarkar, Bhabhi, Mera Salaam; Musafir, Ram Hanuman Yuddha, Talash; 1958: Gopichand, Raj Tilak; 1959: Ardhagini, Maine Jeena Seekh Liya, Ghar Ghar Ki Baat; 1960: Love in Simla; Mughal-e-Azam, Parakh; Usne Kaha Tha; Umaj Padel Tar; 1961: Bhabhi Ki Chudiyar, Do Bhai, Ek Ladki Saat Ladke, Senapati, Kismat Palat Ke Dekh; 1962: Main Shaadi Karne Chala; Manmauji, Rangoli; 1963: Mujhe Jeene Do, The Householder; 1964: Benazir, Door Ki Awaz, Kaise Kahun; Tere Dwar Khada Bhagwan; Masterji (also d); 1965: Do Dil, Raigadacha Rajbandi, Kajal, Purnima; Janam Janam Ke Saathi; 1966: Anupama; Dadi Maa; Devar, Pyar Mohabbat, Sagaa; 1967: Chandan Ka Palna; 1968: Jhuk Gaya Aasmaan; Sangharsh; Sapnon Ka Saudagar; 1969: Dharti Kahe Pukar Ke; Jeene Ki Raah; Mera Dost, Pyar Ka Sapna, Ek Phool Do Mali; 1970: Dharti Ki Lekre; Gopi, Dev Manoos, Khilona; Umang; 1971: Banphool; Dharti Ki God Mein; Ek Nari Ek Brahmachari; 1972: Bawarchi; Mangetar, Mere Bhaiya; Shararat; Raja Jani; 1973: Abhimaan; Agni Rekha; Bobby, Door Nahin Manzil; Namak Haram, Sone Ke Haath; Paanch Dushman; 1974: Insaniyat; Bidaai; Dil Diwana; 1975: Biwi Kiraye Ki, Chaitali; Do Thug; Kala Sona; Khushboo; Vandana; 1976: Bajrang Bali; Jaaneman; Rangila Ratar; Shaque; 1977: Chacha Bhatija; Chor Sipahi; Darling Darling; Do Chehre; Naami Chor; Paheli; Paapi; Saheb Bahadur; 1980: Karz.

Kohinoor Film Company

Est: 1919. India's largest and most influential silent studio. Preceded by S.N. Patankar's Patankar Friends & Co., where Kohinoor proprietor D.N. Sampat (1884-1958) entered film production, and followed by the Krishna, Sharda and Imperial Studios, it was until 1928 the place where Indian cinema turned professional. Launched in partnership with Maneklal Patel, then an Ahmedabad exhibitor, some of the studio's first films were documentaries informed mainly by Sampat's Gandhian adherences, e.g. the film of the Ali brothers' arrival (1920) and Horniman's return to Bombay after release from prison (1925). Also known in this period for topicals and newsreels, incl. e.g. Bodhgaya-Benares, Taj Mahal and St. Xavier's Exposition. Early Kanjibhai Rathod films were restricted to Bombay and Western Indian exhibition outlets but the studio made a national impact in the wake of the notoriety generated by the banning of the nationalist Bhakta Vidur (1921), followed by the success of Gul-e-Bakavali and Kala Naag (both 1924), all aimed at a pan-Indian audience. The big breakthrough was the appointment of independent distribution agents, Bachubhai Bhagubhai, who bought rights to all their films. By 1925 the studio's monthly booking revenue exceeded Rs 50,000. The idea of the Hollywood-style film factory with several simultaneous productions, of story sessions and the building of star careers, transformed the production practices of the till then Phalke-dominated notion of a studio as a family-based cottage industry. Early cameramen incl. V.B. Joshi and D.D. Dabke. Although Kohinoor's surviving publicity pamphlets indicate only one overdetermining authorial presence, writer Mohanlal Dave (until Manilal Joshi shifted the practice by writing his own screenplays and giving a full list of credits, even the actors were rarely mentioned and almost never the director), it was nevertheless the place where the star system was born with Moti and Jamna and where the silent cinema's most successful filmmaker, Homi Master, did his best-known films. Tara, Khalil, Raja Sandow and Zubeida started there, as did Sulochana in Bhavnani's Veer Bala (1925). Other major Kohinoor figures include Chimanlal Luhar, Harshadrai Mehta, cameraman Pandurang Naik, Gohar, V.M. Vyas, Haribhai Desai (later of Surya Film) and Ranjit proprietor Chandulal Shah. Virtually the entire Imperial stable of directors, including R.S. Choudhury, Bhavnani, Nandlal Jaswantlal and R.N. Vaidya came from Kohinoor. After a fire virtually destroyed the studio in 1923, Maneklal Patel pulled out to start Krishna, and after 1928 Devare was mostly responsible for the studio's new incarnation as the employee-run co-operative venture Kohinoor United Artists. A key figure in the studio's later years was cameraman-director N.G. Devare. It closed in 1932.

Koirala, Manisha

Hindi actress of Nepali origin; grand-daughter of former Nepali Prime Minister G.P. Koirala.

Debut in Subhash Ghai's *Saudagar made her a star, but she only consolidated her reputation as an actress following performances in 1942: *A Love Story and Bombay. Has performed in several late 90s films with equal fluency in both the Hindi commercial mainstream as well as in challenging roles (e.g. in Akele Hum Akele Tum, adapting Robert Benton's Kramer Versus Kramer, 1979).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1991: Saudagar, First Love Letter; 1992: Yalgaar; 1993: Dhanwan; Insaniyat Ka Devata; Anmol; 1994: Milan; 1942: A Love Story, Sangdil Sanam; Criminal; Manjdhara; 1995: Bombay; Anokha Andaz; Guddu; Ram Shastra; Akele Hum Akele Tum; Ramshastra.

Kolhapur Cinetone

A rare instance of a film studio funded directly by feudal royalty. Amid the popular cultural renaissance in the first decades of the 20th C. around the court of the Shahu Maharaj at Kolhapur, Baburao Painter's Maharashtra Film was already a showpiece. When V. Shantaram, Damle-Fattelal and Baburao Pendharkar left to start Prabhat in 1929, and later when Painter himself resigned to seal the fate of Maharashtra Film, numerous efforts were made by the Shahu Maharaj himself to continue the tradition that had earned Kolhapur the title of the 'Hollywood of Marathi film'. The family started the Shalini Cinetone exclusively to keep Painter employed. In 1933, when Prabhat moved to Pune, they launched Kolhapur Cinetone as its rival, enticing Baburao Pendharkar, Bhalji Pendharkar and Master Vinayak to quit Prabhat and to take over this new venture. Apart from Bhalji Pendharkar's mythological, Akashwani (1934) and Vinayak's debut feature Vilasi Ishwar (1935), the other notable production before the studio closed is Dadasaheb Phalke's only sound film, his intended magnum opus, Gangavataran (1937).

Komala, A. P. (b. 1934)

One of the most popular singers in Telugu, Tamil, Malayalam and Kannada film. Classically trained in the Carnatic style. Debut with Chittor V. Nagaiah's film, Thyagayya (1946).

Kondke, Dada (1932-98)

Marathi and Hindi director-actor born in Bombay. Employed as a millworker. Started in Vidushaka roles ('the fool') in Marathi lok natya, a bawdy working-class adaptation of Tamasha, e.g. his classic performance in the most famous play of the genre, Vasant Sabnis's Vichha Majhi Puri Kara (1965). The Tamasha was first adapted to film in 40s Marathi cinema (Lokshahir Ramjoshi, 1947; Sangtye Aika, 1959) but Kondke took it to extremes. His film titles and dialogues are famous for their vulgarity and inventiveness. Often cast Usha Chavan as his leading lady. Debut with Bhalji Pendharkar in Tambdi Mati. Started producing films with Govind Kulkarni's Songadya (1971). Turned director in 1975.

Had censorship trouble during the Emergency with Ram Ram Gangaram (originally called Gangaram Veeskalmi), intended as a spoof of the Twenty-point Economic Programme. It was remade by Mehul Kumar in Gujarati as Ram Ram Amtharam, as was Pandu Havaladar, which became Chandu Jamadar. Currently a vocal supporter of the Hindu communalist party based in Bombay, Shiv Sena. Acted in his own directions.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* act only): 1969: *Tambdi Mati; 1971: *Songadya; 1972: *Ekta Jeev Sadashiv; 1973: *Andhala Marto Dola; 1975: Pandu Havaladar; 1976: Tumcha Amcha Jamla; 1977: *Ram Ram Gangaram; Chandu Jamadar; 1978: Bot Lavin Tithe Gudgudlya; 1980: Hyoche Navara Pahije; 1981: *Ram Ram Amtharam; *Ganimiti Kava; 1982: Ali Angavar; 1984: Tere Mere Beech Mein; 1986: Andheri Raat Mein Diya Tere Haath Mein; 1987: Muka Ghya Muka; 1988: Mala Gheon Chala; Aage Ki Soch; 1989: Khol De Meri Zabaan; 1990: Palva Palvi; 1992: Yevu Ka Gharat; 1994: Sasarcha Dhotar.

Kosaraju Raghavaiah Choudhury (1905-87)

Prolific Telugu lyricist born in Appikata, Guntur Dist., AP. Influenced by Kondamudi Narasimham Panthulu, in whose play based on the Ramayana he acted when still in his teens. Worked as a journalist in the Raitu Patrika where he met the composer Samudrala Raghavacharya and the director Ramabrahmam. Published his first poetry anthology, Kadagandlu. Turned to film lyrics with Raitu Bidida (1939), including the song Nidramelkonara tammuda. Returned to films with humorous lyrics for K.V. Reddy's *Pedda Manushulu (1954), followed by one of his most famous songs, Jebulu bomma je jela bomma (in B.A. Subba Rao's Raju Peda, 1954). Known for his earthy poetry, often referring to popular morality tales. Wrote lyrics for c.350 films.

Kottarakkara, Kuttan Pillai (b. 1924)

Scenarist, dialogue writer and one of the most successful producers in 70s Malayalam cinema. Born in Kottarakkara, Kerala. Stage actor aged 8. Debut in 1950 as film actor (Atmasakhi, 1950; Ponkathir, 1953; Avakash, 1954). Dialogues for Ponkathir were followed with scripts for over 25 films, after which he debuted as producer with the Tamil film Parisu (1963), directed by Yoganand and starring MGR. Concentrated on producing films which he scripts himself, making c.50 films in three languages (Malayalam, Kannada and Tamil), mainly love stories and suspense dramas. Noted scripts include the Sivaji Ganesan hit Pasamalar (1961).

Kottarakkara Sridharan Nair see Nair, Kottarakkara Sridharan

Krishen, Pradip (b. 1949)

Hindi and English director born in New Delhi. Educated at Mayo College and St. Stephen's College (1966-9), then at Balliol, Oxford (1969-71). Taught history at Ramjas College, New Delhi (1971-6). Started his film career when he bought a Bell & Howell 16mm camera (1973); briefly apprenticed to Shyam Benegal (1973). Assisted Georges Luneau (Ballade de Babuji, 1975); then worked with the private Delhi-based TVNF company producing 81 popular sci-fi films of 15' each, shooting and directing some of them himself. Freelance documentarist with Grapevine Media. Debut feature in Hindi, Massey Sahib, which was four years in the making; next two films were in English, sponsored by TV and aimed at an international market. Edited a special issue of the India International Centre Quarterly (March 1980) on cinema. Electric Moon is a UK production, mainly for Channel 4 in London.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1977: The Social Life of the Honey Bee; Medicinal Drugs; Reinventing the Wheel; King Coal; Reading the Moon Rocks; 1978: The Birth of the Himalayas; The Silicone Chip; Lovesongs; Nestmates; 1979: Glass; Why Birds Sing; The Age of the Earth; 1981: By Word of Mouth (all Sh); 1985: Massey Sahib; 1988: In Which Annie Gives It Those Ones (TV); 1991: Electric Moon (TV).

Krishna Film Company

Silent studio; Est: 1924 as a diversification of the Krishna Film Laboratory in Bombay by Maneklal Patel, a former exhibitor in Ahmedabad, scenarist (usually under name of Krishna Kumar), film-maker and partner in the Kohinoor Studio. Among the most successful of Kohinoor's offshoots, they made 44 films 1925-31, including works by Luhar's partner Harshadrai Mehta, Kanjibhai Rathod, Mohanlal Shah, A.P. Kapur and Prafulla Ghosh, cameramen Gordhanbhai Patel and Ambalal Patel and actors such as Gulab, Ermeline, Nandram and Rampiary. Its most famous silent productions were Prafulla Ghosh's mammoth 4-part serial, Hatimtai (1929), the much-discussed (e.g. by the 1928 Cinematograph Committee) Janjirne Jankare (1927) and the K.M. Munshi story Kono Vank? The studio made a major financial investment in sound as Krishnatone, making 5 talkies in 1931 (4 by Rathod), but it closed in 1935 following major litigation concerning their last film, Fashionable India (1935), with financiers Kapurchand & Co. and the agency supplying imported film stock. In the silent days, Krishna filmed the work of several noted Gujarati novelists, e.g. Narayanji Vassanji Thakker, Gopalji Delwadakar, Shaiba, K.M. Munshi, Champshi Udeshi and Ramanlal Desai, and also hired some of them as scenarists.

Krishna, Ghantamneni sivarama (b. 1943)

Telugu actor, producer and director born in Tenali taluk, Guntur, AP. Educated in Tenali; graduated from the Eluru C.R. Reddy College.

Stage actor before joining films. First break in Adurthi Subba Rao's all-new-faces film Thene Manasulu, playing the second lead. Achieved critical acclaim in Bapu's Saakshi, working for the first time with his future wife, actress-filmmaker Vijayanirmala. Became a top Telugu star with the influential hit, Goodachari 116 (remade in Hindi as Farz, 1967), a James Bond-type thriller. Known mainly for thrillers and police dramas, including remakes of Hollywood films. In the 70s he starred in over a dozen films annually. Established the Padmalaya Films prod. co. which grew into the famous Padmalaya Studio in Hyderabad, one of the largest and most elaborately equipped studios in the country. With Mosagalluku Mosagadu, he introduced aspects of the Italian western into Telugu cinema. Ventured successfully into Hindi with the Jeetendra and Sridevi film Himmatwala (1983), but could not repeat the success with Sinhasan/Simhasanam, a big-budget flop starring Jeetendra in the Hindi and himself in the Telugu versions. Elected MP in 1989 for the Congress (I), but lost his seat in 1991. Made Praja Pratinidhi and Sahasame Naa Upiri as campaign films, attacking his former colleague NTR's rule in AP.

FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1965: Thene Manasulu; 1966: Kanne Manasulu; Goodachari 116; 1967: Iddaru Monagallu; Saakshi; Marupurani Katha; Stree Janma; Upayamlo Apayam; Private Master; Ave Kallu; 1968: Asadhyulu; Niluvu Dopidi; Manchi Kutumbam; Sircar Express; Amayukudu; Attagaru Kottakodalu; Lakshminivasam; Nenante Nene; Undamma Bottupeduta; Chellelikosam; Vintha Kapuram; 1969: Manchi Mithrulu; Love in Andhra; Bhale Abbayilu; Bommalu Cheppina Katha; Mahabaludu; Shabash Satyam; Astulu Antastulu; Takkaridonga Chakkanichukka; Vichitra Kutumbam; Muhurtabalam; Jarigina Katha; Jagath Kiladilu; Anna Dammulu; Karpura Arathi; Bandhipotu Bhimanna; 1970: Akkachellelu; Maa Nanna Nirdoshi; Malli Pelli; Vidhi Vilasam; Amma Kosam; Talli Bottu; Pelli Sambandham; Pelli Koothuru; Maa Manchi Akkaiyah; Pagasadhishtha; Agni Pareeksha; Akhantudu; Pachani Samsaram; Rendu Kutumbala Katha; Alludu Menalludu; 1971: Andariki Monagadu; Prema Jeevalu; Master Kiladi; Attalu Kodallu; Pattu Kunte Laksha; Nammaka Drohulu; Anuradha; Bangaru Kutumbam; Mosagalluku Mosagadu; Nenu Manishine; Chalaki Rani Kiladi Raja; James Bond 777; 1972: Monagadosthunnadu Jagratha; Raj Maha!; Anta Mana Manchike; Maavoori Monagallu; Goodu Putani; Hanthakulu Devanthakulu; Kodalu Pilla; Menakodalu; Bhale Mosagadu; Pandanti Kapuram; Nijam Nirupishtha; Abbaigaru Ammaigaru; Kathula Rathaiah; Maa Inti Velugu; Prajanayakudu; Marapurani Talli; Illu Illalu; Manchivallaku Manchivadu; 1973: Mamma Katha; Talli Kodukulu; Nindu Kutumbam; Sreevaru Maavaru; Puttinillu Mettinillu; Snehabandham; Neramu Siksha; Devudu Chesina Manushulu; Mamatha; Mayadari Malligadu; Pasi Hridayalu; Vintha Katha; Ganga Manga; Meena; 1974: Gali Patalu; Peddalu Marali; Uttama Illalu; Alluri

Seetaramaraju; Manushulu Matti Bommalu; Radhamma Pelli; Adambaralu Anubandhalu; Gauri; Deergha Sumangali; Intinti Katha; Dhanavanthulu Gunavanthulu; Satyaniki Sankellu; Devadasu; 1975: Raktha Sambandhalu; Santhanam Saubhagyam; Abhimanavathi; Kotha Kapuram; Saubhagyavathi; Chikati Velugulu; Gajula Kishtayya; Devudulanti Manishi; Padi Pantalu; 1976: Shri Rajeshwari Vilas Coffee Club; Manavoori Katha; Rama Rajyamlo Raktha Pasam; Kolleti Kapuram; Bhale Dongalu; Devude Gelichadu; Manasakshi; 1977: Kurukshetramu; Savasagallu; Eenati Bandham Yenatido; Janma Janmala Bandham; Panchayathi; Dongalaku Donga; Manushulu Chesina Dongalu; Indra Dhanushu; 1978: Patnavasam; Allari Bullodu; Anna Dammula Sava!; Agent Gopi; Dongala Dopidi; Mugguru Muggure; Chal Mohanaranga; Dongala Veta; Simha Garjana; Cheppindi Cheshta; Kumara Raja; Atanikante Ghanudu; Moodu Puvvulu Aaru Kayalu; 1979: Viyalavari Kayalu; Hema Hemeelu; Dongalaku Sava!; Kotha Alludu; Evadabba Somu; Mande Gundelu; Muthaiduva; Sankhu Teertham; Buripalem Bullodu; Captain Krishna; Samajaniki Sava!; Hum Bhi Kuch Kam Nahir; 1980: Bhale Krishnudu; Devudichina Koduku; Kothapeda Rowdy; Gharana Donga; Mama Allula Sava!; Adrushtavanthudu; Ram Robert Rahim; Sirimalle Navindi; Chuttalunnaru Jagratha; Ragile Hrudayalu; Kiladi Krishnudu; Bandodu Gundamma; Hare Krishna Hello Radha; Maa Inti Devatha; Ammayi Mogudu Mamaku Yamadu; Allari Bhava; Bangaru Bhava; Raktha Sambandham; 1981: Urinki Monagadu; Todu Dongalu; Guru Shishyulu; Bhogimanthulu; Boga Bhagyalu; Gadasari Attaha Sogasari Kodalu; Jatagadu; Antham Kadidi Arambham; Mayadari Alludu; Nayadugarabba!; Rahasya Koduchari; 1982: Bangaru Bhoomi; Bangaru Koduku; Krishnarajunulu; Doctor Cineactor; Nivurigappina Nippu; Prema Nakshatram; Vayyari Bhamulu Vagalamari Bharthulu; Jagannatha Rathachakralu; Pagabattina Simham; Krishnavataram; Ekalavya; Shamsher Shankar; Kalavari Samsaram; Eenadu (Tel); *Kannodu Kann; 1983: Bezwada Bebbuli; Urantha Sankranthi; Mundadugu; Kirai Kotigadu; Chattaniki Veyi Kallu; Adavi Simhalu; Siripuram Monagadu; Amayakudu Kadhu Asadhyudu; Rama Rajyamlo Bheemaraju; Shakti; Praja Rajyam; Lanke Bindelu; Poratham; 1984: Iddaru Dongalu; Yuddham; Puljudam; Mukhya Mantri; Nayakulaku Sava!; Kirai Alludu; Bangaru Kapuram; Udanthudu; Kanchu Kagada; Dongalu Baboi Dongalu; 1985: Agni Parvatham; Maha Sangramam; Andarikante Monagadu; Palnati Simham; Vajrayudham; Pachani Kapuram; Surya Chandra; Krishnagaradi; *Devalayam; Mahamanishi; *Vande Mataram; 1986: Brahmasthanam; *Sinhasan/Simhasanam; Khaidi Rudraiah; Krishna Paramatma; Pratibhavanthudu; Jayam Manade; Parasuramudu; *Naa Pilupe Prabhanjanam; Shantinivasam; 1987: Sardar Krishnama Nayudu; Muddayi; Dongoduchhadu; Makutamleni Maharaju; Dongagaru Swagatham; Muddubidda; Maavoori Maagadu; Thene Manasulu; Vishwanatha Nayakudu; *Savkharavam; 1988: Dorakani Donga; *Kaliyuga Karnudu; Chuttalabba!; Rowdy No. 1; Jamadagni; Ashwathama; Agni Keratalu; Maharajashri Mayagadu; Praja Pratinidhi; *Mugguru Kodukulu; 1989: *Prajala Manishi; Rajakiya Chadarangam; Atta Mechina Alludu; Manchi Kutumbam; Goodachari 117; Sahasame Naa Upiri; Ajatashatru; Sarvabhovmudu; *Rickshawala; Goonda Rajyam; Parthudu; *Koduku Diddina Kapuram; *Inspector Rudra; 1990: *Anna Thamudu; 1991: Paramashivudu; Naa Ille Naa Swargam; *Nagastharam; *Indra Bhavanam; *Alludu Diddina Kapuram; 1992: Pachani Samsaram; 1993: Varasudu; 1994: Gharana Alludu; Doragariki Donga Pellam; Yes Nenante Nene; Hello Alludu; Police Alludu; 1995: Amma Donga; Super Mogudu; Dear Brother; Real Hero.

Krishnakant (b. 1922)

Gujarati and Hindi actor and director born in Howrah, Bengal, as Krishnakant Maganlal Bukhanwala. Son of a textile engineer; educated in Surat and in Bombay. Obtained a diploma in radio and electrical engineering (1940); then joined the Roptara Studio in Bombay, working in the sound department. Assisted Nitin Bose for five years, then worked with Aravind Sen on Muqaddar (also acting in it) and with Subodh Mukherjee (Paying Guest, 1957). First major acting role in Phani Majumdar's Andolan; other notable roles are a paralytic in Amiya Chakravarty's Patita and the villain in Shakti Samanta's Detective. Left films in the late 50s to concentrate on Gujarati theatre work (e.g. Pravin Joshi's Manas Name Karigar) mainly with Harkrishen Mehta's group. Returned to cinema in the early 70s; turned to direction with Dakurani Ganga, adapting Mehta's novel Pravaha Paltavyo. Directed a series of Gujarati films based on plays or films from other languages: e.g. Visamo based on Harkrishen Mehta's play, in which he acted the role of an old teacher, recalling Paranjpe's Oon Paos (1954) and Panthulu's School Master (1958). Also adapted Anant Mane's Manini (1961) as Maa Dikri. With these films he introduced a novel style of urban entertainment to Gujarati cinema, although relying on conventional reformist melodrama plots about the joint family, the generation gap and the exploitation of women. Also noted actor on Hindi and Gujarati television.

FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1943: Paraya Dhan; 1950: Chor; Muqaddar; Mashaal; 1951: Andolan; 1952: Daag; Tamasha; Zalzala; 1953: Patita; 1954: Baadbaan; Dhobi Doctor; Naukri; 1955: Faraar; Subse Bada Rupaiya; Ghar Ghar Mein Diwali; Seema; 1956: Sailaab; Jagte Raho; Patrani; Sudarshan Chakra; Dhola Maru; 1957: Agra Road; Bandi; Begunah; Hum Panchhi Ek Dal Ke; Yahudi Ki Ladki; Bhabhi; 1958: Ghar Sansar; Detective; Howrah Bridge; Mehndi; Parvarish; Post Box 999; Delhi Ka Thug; 1959: Insaan Jaag Utha; Satta Bazaar, Madhu; Ghar Ghar Ki Baat; Jaalsaz; 1960: Jaali Note; 1961: Tanhaai; 1963: Jivno Jugari; Vanraj Chavdo; 1969: Do Raaste; Kanku; 1971: Duniya Kya Jaane; Hathi Mere Saathi; Pyar Ki Kahani; Sharmilee; Paraya Dhan; 1972: Mere Jeevan Saathi; Do Chor; Annadata; Gunsundari No Ghar Sansar; 1973: Gaai Aur Gori; Suraj Aur Chanda; Mr Romeo; Manchali; 1974: Parinay; Ajnabi; Trimurti; Vardan; Aarop; 1975: Anari; Kala Sona; Sant Surdas; 1976: Deewangee; Koi Jeeta Koi Haara; Sajjo Rani; *Dakurani Ganga; 1977: Jagriti; Kulavadhu; 1978: Khoon Ki Pukar; *Visamo; *Maa Dikri; *Ghar Sansar; 1979: *Sonba Ane Rupba; 1980: *Maniyaro; *Meru Mulande; *Jog Sanjog; 1981: Hotel; 1982: *Prem Lagna; *Dharmo; *Jawabdaar; 1983: Main Awar Hoor; Poojana Phool; 1986: *Teesra Kinara; *Chhota Admi; 1988: Kharidar.

Krishnamurthy, Hunsur (b. 1914)

Born in Hunsur, Karnataka. Kannada and Telugu director of stage-inspired mythologicals, often starring Rajkumar. While writing Company Natak plays (e.g. Swarga Samrajya) for Bangalore-based Bharat Natak, also worked as scenarist, esp. for Vijaya Studio, remaking L.V. Prasad's hit Pelli Chesu Choodu (1952) in Kannada as Madhuve Madi Nodu. Began as bit actor at Bombay Talkies; briefly with Bal Gandharva's theatre troupe, then with Veeranna and Mohammed Peer's Chandrakala Natak where, with Panthulu, he assisted Simha on Samsara Nauka (1936). Like Panthulu, from 1958 directed mid-budget morality plays. Claimed that mythological genre commanded better budgets, allowed greater emotional freedom and called for more directorial inventiveness than the socials. Helped redefine the Rajkumar persona from his earlier historicals into narratively freer near mythic fantasies ruled by destiny and the individual quest for eternal goodness. Script credits include: Hemareddy Malamma (1945; also act); Krishnaleele (1947); Jagan Mohini (1951); Nala Damayanti (1957); Bangarada Manushya (1972) and Boothayana Maga Ayyu (1974). Also acted in Muttaide Bhagya (1956). His biography was written by Shyama Sundar Kulkarni (1988).

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1958: Shri Krishna Garudi; 1960: Ashasundari/Ramasundari; 1961: Mera Suhaag; 1962: Ratnamanjari; 1964: Veera Sankalpa; 1965: Satya Harishchandra; Madhuve Madi Nodu; 1966: Shri Kannika Parameshwari Katha; 1967: Devuni Gelichina Manavudu/Devara Gedda Manava; 1968: Addadari; 1971: Vishakanya; 1972: Jaga Mechida Maga; 1974: Bhakta Kumbhara; 1975: Mantra Shakti; 1977: Babruvahana; Veera Sindhoora Lakshmana; 1979: Kurubara Lakkanu Elizabeth Raniau; 1980: Bhakta Siriyala; Guru Sarvabhowma Shri Raghavendra Karune; 1981: Edeyuru Siddhalingeswara/Siddhalingeswara Mahima; Shiva Mahima; 1982: Bhakta Dnyanadeva; 1984: Shivakanya/Shivakanye; 1985: Shiva Kotta Saubhagya.

Krishnan, Nagerkoyil Sudal aimuthu (1905-57)

Legendary Tamil film comedian, stage actor and political activist. Born in Nagerkoyil, in former Travancore. Joined the TKS Brothers drama troupe aged 17, replacing the comedian and film star M.R. Swaminathan (seen in e.g. 1000 Thalaivangi Apoorva Chintamani, 1947). Was already a noted stage star when debuting in the TKS Brothers production of Raja Sandow's Menaka. Early films with Sandow (Vasantsena, Chandrakantha) where he met his wife and long-term comedy partner T.A. Mathuram (1918-1974). Played the lead role in Alibabavum 40 Thirudargalum, establishing his distinctive brand of comedy. Classic screen image developed Kattiyankaran folk theatre conventions with a separate sub-plot and spoken dialect as opposed to the high-flown Elangovan-type language (e.g. playing fishermen with T.S. Dorairaj in Shakuntalai; Mudhal Thedi). In this style, the comedian can address the audience directly and allude to topical events (e.g. his funny song in Paithiakaran, referring to his jail sentence; his lines in the costumed period movie Amarakavi referring to a recent visit to the USSR). The style is enhanced by the comic but politically strident lyrics of Udumalai Narayana Kavi, written specially for Krishnan (e.g. Nallathambi). Initially a Marxist sympathiser and a friend of Pa. Jeevanandan (whom he sheltered when the CP was banned), Krishnan became first a nationalist and then a DMK supporter, producing C.N. Annadurai's DMK Film Nallathambi, directing Panam and acting in the Karunanidhi-scripted Raja Rani and Rangoon Radha. Together with M.K. Thyagaraja Bhagavathar, he was convicted of murdering the gossip columnist Lakshmikanthar although he proclaimed his innocence all his life. His wife started the N.S.K. Nataka (aka Eneskay Nataka Sabha) staging plays mainly directed by and featuring the star S.V. Sahasranamam. Their best-known play is P. Neelakantan's nationalistic Nam Iruvar, later filmed (1947) by the AVM Studio. The company debuted in film production with Paithiakaran; their best-known productions are Nallathambi and the Krishnan-directed Manamagal and Panam. Panam, a major DMK film, featured the Parasakthi (1952) combination of writer Karunanidhi and star Ganesan while Krishnan sang a pro-DMK song. It also featured documentary footage of a DMK Party conference. Biography by Narayanan (1992).

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1935: Menaka; 1936: Vasantsena; Chandrakantha; Sati Leelavathi; 1937: Ambikapathy; Balamani; 1938: Dakshayagnam; 1939: Thiruneelakantar; Maya Machhindra; Manikavasagar; Ramalinga Swamigal; Rambayin Kadhal; Sirikathe; Ananda Ashramam; Prahlada; 1940: Bhakta Tulsidas; Naveena Tenali Ramar; Parasuramar; Naveena Vikramadithar; Budhiman Balwan Ivar; Kalamegham; Mani Mekalai; Bhuloka Rambha; Shakuntalai; Uthama Puthran; 1941: Alibabavum 40 Thirudargalum; Ezhanda Kadai; Ashok Kumar; Vedavathi; Aryamala; Krishnapidaran; Chandrahari; 1942: Kannagi; Prithvirajar; Sivalinga Satchi; Manonmani; 1943: Arundhati; Sivakavi; Mangamma Sapatham; Bhagya Lakshmi; 1944: Burma Rani; Mahamaya; Bhartrahari (Tam); Jagathala Prathapan; Prabhavati; Poompava; Raja Rajeshwari; Haridas; Salivahanar; Kalikala Minor; Palli Natakam; Soora Pul; 1945: Paranjoti; Bhakta Kalathi; Srivalli; 1946: Pankajavalli; 1947: Paithiakaran; Kannika; 1948: Devadas; Chandralekha; Krishna Bhakti; 1949: Nallathambi; Ratnakumar; Mangayar Karasi; Inbavalli; Pavalakkodi; 1950: Laila Majnu; Parijatham; 1951: *Manamagal/ Pelli Koothuru; Vanasundari; 1952: *Panam; Amarakavi; 1954: Nallakalam; 1955: Mudhal Thedi; Kaveri; Nam Kuzhandai; Dr Savithri; Stree Ratna; 1956: Raja Rani; Nannambikka; Asai; Madurai Veeran; Kannin Manigal; Kudumba Vilakku; Rangoon Radha; 1957: Chakravarthi Thirumagal; Pudhu Vazhvu; Yar Paiyan; Ambikapathy; 1959: Thangapathumai; 1960: Raja Desingu; Thozhar; 1961: Arasilankumari.

Krishnan-Panju: R. Krishnan (b. 1909) and S. Panju (b. 1915)

Duo of Tamil melodrama directors and producers. Krishnan was born in Madras, Panju in Umayalapuram, Thanjavur. Krishnan began as a laboratory assistant in 1934 while Panju assisted Duncan on Sati Leelavathi (1936). Both left Duncan for Premier Cinetone in Coimbatore, where Panju also worked independently as an editor. They made their joint debut in Coimbatore (Poompava). Their third film was for N.S. Krishnan with S.V. Sahasranamam's script (Paithiakaran), followed by Krishnan's major DMK Film, Nallathambi, and the even more significant Parasakthi. Mainly associated with the AVM Studio, directing some of its main Hindi hits, e.g. Bhabhi, Barkha, Bindiya, Shadi etc. Also worked in Telugu.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1944: Poompava; 1946: Pankajavalli; 1947: Paithiakaran; 1949: Nallathambi; Ratnakumar; 1952: Parasakthi; 1953: Kangal; 1954: Ratha Kanneer; 1955: Sant Sakhu; 1956: Kuladaivam; 1957: Bhabhi; Puhuvayal; 1959: Barkha; Mamiyar Meetriya Marumagal; 1960: Bindiya; Daiva Piravi; Thilakam; 1961: Suhaag Sindoor; 1962: Manmauji; Shadi; Annai/ Penchina Prema; 1963: Kumkumam; 1964: Mera Kasoor Kya Hai; Server Sundaram; Vazhkai Vazhvadarke; 1965: Kuzhanthiyum Daviamum; 1966: Laadla; Letamanasulu; Petral Than Pillaya; 1968: Do Kaliyan; Uyarnta Manithar; 1969: Annaiyum Pithavum; 1970: Anadhai Anandan; Engal Thangam; 1971: Main Sundar Hoor; Ranga Rattinam; 1972: Akka Tammudu; Idaya Veenai; Pillaiyo Pillai; 1973: Pookkari; 1974: Shandaar; Kaliyuga Kannan; Pathumatha Bandham; 1975: Kashmir Bullodu; Anaya Vilakku; Vazhanthu Kattukirar; 1976: Enna Thavam Saither; Ilaya Thalaimurai; Vazhvu En Pakkam; 1977: Chakravarthi; Sonnathai Seivar; 1978: Annapoorni; Pare Solla Oru Pillai; 1979:

Nadagame Ulagam, Neela Malarga, Velli Ratham, Nenjukku Needhi; 1980: Mangala Nayaki; 1985: Malarum Ninaivugal.

Krishnarao, Arakal agudu Narasinga Rao (1908-71)

Aka A.Na.Kru; scenarist and prolific Kannada novelist, playwright and essayist with c.250 published titles. A major regional chauvinist ideologue in Karnataka. Initially associated with the professional Company Natak. After books like Udayaraga (1924), a thinly disguised fictional biography of Bengal School painter Nandalal Bose, and several others featuring anxiety-ridden artists as central protagonists, he tended more towards the 'modern' within the anglophile Amateur Dramatic Association and the literary Pragatisila movement derived from the PWA. Used influential cultural platforms such as the Madhol conference (1945) of the Kannada Ekikaran Parishat (the Kannada unification movement) to deflect most debates about progressivism and modernism towards discussions of Karnatakava ('Kannada-ness'), usually by appealing to 'the masses' whose 'point of view' was said to be ignored by writers speaking about and addressing an urban middle class (Krishnarao, 1944). This equation of political regionalism with cultural populism was later developed most notably by the films of Rajkumar. Wrote a major Veeranna film, Jeevana Nataka (1942), the original book on which the Kannada film Sandhya Raga (1966) is based, and the script of B.R. Panthulu's historical Shri Krishnadevaraya (1970). Wrote a novel about his experiences in the film industry, Chitra Vichitra (1952) and a critical study of Ravi Varma (1932). Also scripted Stree Ratna for K. Subramanyam (1955).

Krishnarao Phul ambrikar, Master (1891-1974)

Music composer and actor born in Alandi, Maharashtra. Trained by Bhaskarbua Bakhle in music school Bharat Gayan Samaj. Employed by Bal Gandharva's Gandharva Natak Mandali as male lead and composer. With Govindrao Tembe, he helped shape Bal Gandharva's enormously influential populist versions of North Indian classical music. Entered film at Prabhat Studio with Bal Gandharva in Shantaram's Dharmatma and stayed on to do several films, developing a reputation as an orthodox Sangeet Natak classicist, distinguishing him from his Prabhat contemporary, Keshavrao Bhole. His songs for Manoos/Admi (esp. Hublikar's seduction number, Ab kis liye kal ki baat) and the musical spoofs of Bombay Talkies and New Theatres were among the few original compositions when, particularly at Prabhat, most songs drew on the repertoire of traditional gharanas (notably the Jaipur gharana). His only success after the studio era was at Rajkamal in Mali, also playing the lead role.

Sadhvi Meerabai; Wahan; 1938: Gopal Krishna; 1939: Manoos/Admi; 1941: Shejari/Padosi; 1942: Vasantsena; 1944: Bhakticha Mala/Mali*; 1945: Lakhrani; 1947: Meri Amanat (act only); 1949: Sant Ramdas; 1953: Tai Teleer; 1959: Keechaka Vadha; 1962: Vithu Mazha Lekurvala.

Krishna Shastry, Devulapalli see Sastry, Devulapalli Krishna

Krishnaveni, C. (b. 1924)

Telugu/Tamil actress and producer born in Rajahmundry, AP. Child actress in stage plays. Debuted in the title role of C. Pullaiah's children's film, Ansuya. Acted in Telugu and Tamil films, but it was again Pullaiah who cast her in Gollabhama. Actorial reputation based mainly on roles in Lakshamma, Mana Desam and Perantalu. Married the Rajah of Mirzapur (1941), founder of the Jaya Films Studio (1940) in Teynampet, Madras. This later became the famous Shobhanachala Studio, launched with L.V. Prasad's political melodrama Mana Desam. Turned producer with MRA Prod. Only Tamil film is Kamavalli. Introduced composers Ghantasala Venkateshwara Rao (Mana Desam) and Ramesh Naidu (Dampatyam, 1957). Sang classic songs in Gollabhama (Bhoopati jampitiyin, Ravoyi jeevanajyoti) and a hit duet with M.S. Rama Rao in Mana Desam (Emito ee anubandham). Sang playback in Keelugurram, 1949, directed by her husband. Produced several films, e.g. Lakshamma, Perantalu, Dampatyam and Yamanukku Yaman (1980). Returned to the stage in the late 50s.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1936: Ansuya; Dhruva; 1937: Mohini Rugmangada; 1938: Kacha Devayani; 1939: Mahananda; 1940: Jeevana Jyoti; 1941: Dakshayagnam; 1944: Bhishma; 1947: Gollabhama; 1948: Madalasa; Kamavalli; 1949: Dharmangada; Mana Desam; 1950: Lakshamma; 1951: Perantalu; 1952: Savasam.

Kulkarni, Datta Keshav see Datta Keshav Kulkarni

Kumar, Anup (b. 1932)

Bengali actor born in Calcutta; son of singer and stage composer Dhirendranath Das. Debut as child actor in Dhiren Ganguly's unreleased Halkatha. First major role in Kaliprasad Ghosh's Dhatri Debata. A prolific genre performer, often as the hero's comic counterpart. Belongs to the second generation of Bengali comedians with Bhanu Bannerjee, Robi Ghosh and Jahar Roy. Acted with Tapan Sinha (Tonsil, Kalamati, Ek Je Chhilo Desh) in early Mrinal Sen films (Abasheshe, Pratinidhi), and for Tarafdar (Agnisikha, Jiban Kahini). A regular member of the Tarun Majumdar and Dinen Gupta film units. Routine career occasionally enlivened by critically acclaimed roles, e.g. in Yatrik's Palatak and Majumdar's Balika Bodhu. Stage debut at Star Theatres (1949) in Bejoynagar and Samudragupta. Acted with Sisir Bhaduri in the play Takht-e-Taus (1951). Later worked at the Bishwaroopa theatre. Also directed plays, e.g. Aghatan (1978). Not to be confused with the popular Hindi comedian Anoop Kumar, the brother of Ashok and Kishore Kumar.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1934: Halkatha; 1946: Sangram; 1948: Dhatri Debata; Bankalekha; 1949: Sankalpa; Krishna Kaveri; Sakshigopal; 1950: Vidyasagar, Maryada; 1951: Bhakta Raghunath; Barjatri; 1952: Pasher Bari, Rani; 1953: Banser Kella; Sosur Bari; Rami Chandidas; Adrishya Manush; 1954: Aaj Sandhya; Mahila Maha; Ae Satyi; Annapurnar Mandir; Agni Pareeksha; Nilshari; 1955: Rani Rashmoni; Bidhillipi; Joymakali Boarding; Kankabatir Ghat; Mejo Bou; Anupama; 1956: Sinthir Sindoor; Sagarika; Tonsil; Ekti Raat; Asamapta; Shyamali; Madan Mohan; Nagardola; 1957: Ulka; Ratri Sheshey; Adarsha Hindu Hotel; Prithibi Amar Chai; Surer Parashay; Rastar Chhele; Kancha-Mithey; Punar Milan; Ogo Sunchho; Garer Math; Pathe Holo Deri; Janmatithi; 1958: Priya (B); Kalamati; Daktar Babu; Leela Kanka; Marmabani; 1959: Nauka Bilash; Derso Khokhar Kando; Shashi Babur Sansar; Gali Theke Rajpath; 1960: Dui Bechara; Prabesh Nishedh; Biyer Khata; Natun Fasal; Baishey Shraavan; 1961: Mr & Mrs Choudhury; Bishkanya; Arghya; Kanchanmulya; Kathin Maya; Aaj Kal Parshu; Ahwar; Maa; Kanamachi; 1962: Agnisikha; Shesh Chinha; Abhisarika; Banarasi; Shubha Drishti; Abasheshe; 1963: Barnachora; Sat Bhai; High Heel; Palatak; Dui Nari; Kanchan Kanya; Shreyasi; 1964: Pratinidhi; Ta Holey; Jiban Kahini; Kashtipathar; Binsati Janani; 1965: Alor Pipasa; Mahalagna; Antara; Jaya; Ek Tuku Basa; Dinanter Alo; Dolna; Mukhujey Paribar; Tapasi; 1966: Kalanki Raat; Nutan Jiban; Shesh Tin Din; Uttar Purush; Rajdrohi; Mayabini Lane; 1967: Hathat Dekha; Kheya; 1968: Baluchari; Boudi; Chhoto Jignasa; Garh Nasimpur; Jiban Sangeet; Teen Adhyay; 1969: Bibaha Bibhrat; Dadu; Duranta Charai; Panna Hirey Chunni; Pita Putra; 1970: Samanara; Aleyar Alo; Kalankita Nayak; Ae Korechho Bhalo; Nishipadma; Manjari Opera; 1971: Anya Mati Anya Rang; Nimantran; Pratham Basanta; Attatar Din Pare; 1972: Jiban Sangram; Basanta Bilap; Biraj Bou; Naya Michhil; Shesh Parba; Natun Diner Alo; Sabari; 1973: Pranta Rekha; Daabi; Ek Je Chhilo Bagh; 1974: Phuleshwari; Sangini; Thagini; Mouchak; Phulu Thakurma; Swikarokti; 1975: Nishi Mrigaya; Raag Anuraag; Sei Chokhr; Phool Sajya; Tin Pari Chhoy Premik; Harano Prapti Niruddesh; 1976: Chander Kachhakachhi; Ajasra Dhanyabad; Ek Je Chhilo Desh; Pratisrutit; Ananda Mela; Mrigaya; 1977: Baba Taraknath; Babu Moshai; Bhola Moira; Ae Prithibi Pantha Niwas; Pratima; Sana; Proxy; Golap Bou; 1978: Dak Diye Jai; Nadi Theke Sagare; Tusi; Niskriti; Tilottama; 1979: Devdas; Chirantar; Ghatkali; Pipasa; Shahar Theke Dooray; 1980: Dadar Kirti; 1981: Pratishodh; Swami Stri; Sei Sur; Subanralata; Meghmukti; Khelar Putul; Maa Bhawani Maa Amar; Rabibar; 1982: Sathe Satyam; Bodhar; Preyasi; Mayer Ashirbad; Amrita Kumbher Sandhaney; Iman Kalyan; Sonar Bangla;

FILMOGRAPHY (* also act): 1935: Dharmatma; 1936: Amar Jyoti; 1937:

Prafulla; 1983: Abhinay Nay, Ae Chhilo Mone, Amar Geeti; Arpita; Indira; Jiban Maran; Jyotsna Ratri; Nishi Bhor; Prayashchitta; Samapti; Srinkhal; Sansarer Itikatha; Mohaney Dike; 1984: Harishchandra Shaibya; Lal Golap; Rashifal; Shatru; Shorgol; Agni Shuddhi; Ahuti; Surya Trishna; 1985: Amar Prithibi; Baikunther Will; Bhalobasha Bhalobasha; Neelkantha; Putulghar; Sandhya Pradeep; Till Theke Tal; 1986: Swarga Sukh; Anurager Choa; Urbashe; Ashirwad; Daktar Bou; Abhishap; Dui Adhyay; 1987: Bidrohi; Raj Purush; Swarnamoir Thikana; Radha Rani; Sargam; Abir; Dabar Chal; Arpari; Lalan Fakir; Mahamilar; Mouna Mukher; Ekanto Apori; Dolonchapa; 1988: Kalankini Nayika; Channachara; Boba Sana; Kidnap; Antaranga; Tumi Koto Sundar; Debibarari; Agamari; Surer Akashe; Dena Paona; 1989: Shatarupa; Mangaldip; Aparanher Alo; Asha; Abhisar; Jankar; Amar Shapath; Aghaton Ajo Ghaty; Chhandaneer; Asha-o-Bhalobasha; Garmil; 1990: Anuraag; Apon Amar Apori; Raktorin; Debata; 1991: Ahankar; Raj Nartaki; Nilimai Neel; Path-o-Prasad; Bourani; Abhagini; Pati Param Guru; Sajani Go Sajani; Ek Pashla Brishti; 1992: Anutap; Rupaban Kanya; Pennam Calcutta; Priya; Indrajit; Mahashay; Satya Mithya; Nabarupa; 1993: Mon Mane Na; Maya Mamata; Krantikaal; Bhranta Pathik; Shraddhanjali; Prithibir Shesh Station; Tapasya; 1994: Tobu Mone Rekho; Atikram; Geet Sangeet; Ami-o-Maa; Kothachilo; Lal Pan Bibi; 1995: Sangharsha; Mashaal; Mejo Bou; Sansar Sangram.

Kumar Gangul y, Ashok (b. 1911)

Hindi star and producer; nicknamed Dadamoni. Born in Bhagalpur, Bihar; the son of a lawyer and deputy magistrate. Originally called Kumudlal Kunjilal Ganguly. Grew up in Khandwa. Briefly studied law in Calcutta, then joined his mentor and future brother-in-law, Shashadhar Mukherji, at Bombay Talkies, first as laboratory assistant. He was cast in the lead opposite Devika Rani in Jeevan Naiya and Achhut Kanya. Acted in several notable films with her and then with Leela Chitnis (the hits Bandhan, Kangan and Jhoola). After Himansu Rai's death (1940), he enjoyed the protection of Mukherji, who co-managed the studio with Devika Rani. Broke through as the Bogartian journalist in the Abbas-scripted Naya Sansar. Other classic roles include the title role in Mehboob's Humayun and the double role of magistrate and playboy in Afsana. His most famous role was in Kismet as the gracefully cigarette-smoking anti-hero, showing that Hindi cinema had quickly assimilated Hollywood's film noir style. Set up Filmistan (1943) with S. Mukherji, Gyan Mukherjee and Rai Bahadur Chunilal. He later returned to Bombay Talkies as production chief. Directed some of their films (e.g. Eight Days) but never took the official credit. Joined with his brothers Kishore and Anup Kumar in the comedies Chalti Ka Naam Gaadi and Chalti Ka Naam Zindagi. In the 60s freelanced as character actor, often playing a sympathetic parent (e.g. Mili). According to Tapan Sinha, with whom he first acted in Hatey Bazarey, 'he was the first to apply "normal" acting in our industry; until Ashok Kumar we had jatra-style acting or screen acting that followed theatrical trends. [H]e is the man who showed that film acting is something else. He began to speak and to behave normally.' He excelled in Robin Hood-type roles with sparse dialogues and his way of holding a cigarette in Kismet became a trade-mark. He anchored the TV soap Humlog and appeared in many TV serials. His image is a generic icon virtually autonomous from the plot, at first representing Bombay Talkies' version of Indian modernity and then underpinning Filmistan's commitment to the mass entertainment formula.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1936: Jeevan Naiya; Achhut Kanya; Janmabhoomi; 1937: Izzat; Prem Kahani; Savitri; 1938: Nirmala; Vachan; 1939: Kangan; 1940: Azad; Bandhan; 1941: Anjaan; Jhoola; Naya Sansar; 1943: Angoothi; Kismet; Najma;

1944: Chal Chal Re Naujawan; Kiran; 1945: Begum; Humayun; 1946: Eight Days; Shikari; Uttara Abhimanyu; 1947: Saajar; Chandrasekhar; 1948: Padmini; 1949: Mahal; 1950: Adhi Raat; Khiladi; Mashaal; Nishana; Samadhi; Sangram; 1951: Afsana; Deedar; 1952: Betaab; Bewafa; Jalpari; Kafila; Naubahar; Poonam; Raag Rang; Saloni; Tamasha; 1953: Nagma; Parineeta; Shamsheer; Sholay; 1954: Baadbaan; Lakeereri; Naaz; Samaj; 1955: Bandish; Sardar; 1956: Bhai Bhai; Ek Hi Raasta; Inspector; Shatranj; 1957: Bandi; Ek Saal; Jeevan Saathi; Mr X; Sheroo; Talaash; Ustad; 1958: Chalti Ka Naam Gaadi; Farishta; Howrah Bridge; Karigar; Night Club; Ragini; Saveri; Sitaron Se Aage; 1959: Baap Bete; Bedard Zamana Kya Jaane; Daaka; Dhool Ka Phool; Kangan; Naach Ghar; Nai Raaheir; 1960: Aanchal; Kala Admi; Kalpana; Kanoon; Masoom; Hospital; 1961: Dark Street; Flat No. 9; Warrant; 1962: Aarti; Bezubaan; Burma Road; Hong Kong; Isi Ka Naam Duniya Hai; Mehndi Lagi Mere Haath; Naqli Nawab; Private Secretary; Raakhi; Ummeed; 1963: Aaj Aur Kal; Bandini; Grihasthi; Gumrah; Mere Mehboob; Meri Soorat Teri Aankheri; Ustadonke Ustad; Yeh Raaste Hain Pyar Ke; 1964: Benazir; Chitralakha; Dooj Ka Chand; Phoolon Ki Sej; Pooja Ke Phool; 1965: Shevatcha Malusara; Adhi Raat Ke Baad; Akashdeep; Bahu Beti; Bheegi Raat; Chand Aur Suraj; Naya Kanoon; Oonche Log; 1966: Afsana; Dadi Maa; Mamata; Yeh Zindagi Kitni Haseen Hai; Toofan Mein Pyar Kahar; 1967: Jewel Thief; Meharbaan; Bahu Begum; Nai Roshni; Hatey Bazarey; 1968: Aabroo; Ashirwad; Dil Aur Mohabbat; Ek Kali Muskayi; Sadhu Aur Shaitan; 1969: Aradhana; Aansoo Ban Gaye Phool; Bhai Baheri; Do Bhai; Inteqam; Paisa Ya Pyar; Pyar Ka Sapna; Satyakam; 1970: Jawab; Maa Aur Mamta; Purab Aur Paschim; Safar; Sharafat; 1971: Adhikar; Door Ka Rahi; Naya Zamana; Ganga Tera Pani Amrit; Hum Tum Aur Woh; Kangan; Pakeezah; Guddi; 1972: Rani Mera Naam; Anuraag; Dil Daulat Duniya; Malik; Raakhi Aur Hathkadi; Sa Re Ga Ma Pa; Sazaa; Victoria No. 203; Zameen Aasmaan; Zindagi Zindagi; 1973: Bada Kabutar; Dhund; Do Phool; Hifazat; Taxi Driver; 1974: Do Aankheri; Dulhan; Khoon Ki Keemat; Paise Ki Gudiya; Prem Nagar; Ujala Hi Ujala; Badhti Ka Naam Daadhi; 1975: Love in Bombay; Akramari; Chhotisi Baat; Chori Mera Kaam; Dafa 302; Ek Mahal Ho Sapnon Ka; Mili; Uljhan; 1976: Aap Beeti; Arjun Pandit; Barood; Bhanwar; Ek Se Badkhar Ek; Harfan Maula; Mazdoor Zindabad; Rangila Ratar; Shankar Dada; Santari; 1977: Anand Ashram; Anurodh; Chala Murari Hero Banne; Dream Girl; Hira Aur Patthar; Jadu Tona; Khatta Meetha; Mastan Dada; Prayashchit; Safed Jhooth; Premi Gangaram; 1978: Anmol Tasveer; Anpadh; Apna Khoon; Chor Ke Ghar Chor; Dil Aur Deewar; Do Musafir; Mehfil; Phool Khile Hain Gulshan Gulshan; Tumhare Liye; 1979: Bagula Bhagat; Guru Ho Jaa Shuru; Janata Havaladar; Amar Deep; Salaam Memsaab; 1980: Khwab; Aakhri Insaaf; Aap Ke Diwane; Judaa; Khubsoorat; Nazrana Pyar Ka; Sau Din Saas Ke; Saajan Mere Main Saajan Ki; Takkar; Jyoti Bane Jwala; 1981:

Ashok Kumar in Isi Ka Naam Duniya Hai (1962)

Chalti Ka Naam Zindagi; Jyoti; Jail Yatra; Maan Gaye Ustad; Yeh Kaisa Nasha Hai; Shaukeer; 1982: Sambandh; Anokha Bandhan; Chor Mandli; Dial 100; Dushmani; Heeron Ka Chor; Mehndi Rang Layegi; Patthar Ki Lakeer; Dard Ka Rishta; 1983: Haadsa; Bekaraar; Farishta; Raja Aur Rana; Love In Goa; Farz Ki Keemat; Mahaan; Chor Police; Prem Tapasya; Shilalipi; Kaya Palat; Pasand Apni Apni; 1984: Hum Rahe Na Hum; Akalmand; Duniya; Grihasthi; Durga; Humlog (TV); Ram Tera Desh; 1985: Bhago Bhoot Aaya; Ek Daku Shaher Meir; Tawaif; Phir Aayi Barsaat; 1986: Amma; Inteqam Ki Aag; Pyar Kiya Hai Pyar Karengi; Shatru; Qatl; Dada Dadi Ki Kahaniyan (TV); Pyar Ki Jeet; Woh Din Aayega; Bhim Bhawani (TV); 1987: Awaam; Hifazat; Mr India; Watan Ke Rakhwale; Jawab Hum Denge; 1988: Inteqam; 1989: Clerk; Sachai Ki Taaqat; Mamata Ki Chhaon Meir; Maut Ki Sazaa; Dana Pani; Majboor; 1991: Hamla; 1994: Yuhi Kabhi; 1995: Jamla Ho Jamla.

Kumar, Dil ip (b. 1922)

Hindi-Urdu cinema's top 50s and 60s star. Born in Peshawar (now Pakistan) as Yusuf Khan in a Pathan family of 12 children. They moved to Maharashtra as fruit merchants. Worked in a British army canteen in Bombay (1940).

Devika Rani claimed to have recruited him for Bombay Talkies. A noted Hindi novelist, Bhagwati Charan Varma, renamed him Dilip Kumar. Attained stardom with Jugnu. Achieved an enduring reputation for naturalist acting although he claims to have followed in the footsteps of Motilal. Andaz brought him superstardom and he acted again with Nargis in Jogan. Presented, e.g. in Footpath, as an exponent of indigenous neo-realism. His style developed tragic dimensions, e.g. in the Oedipal drama Deedar, where he blinds himself, and in Devdas, as the lovesick aristocrat. Eventually decided to change to a more swashbuckling image with Aan. Azad. Insaniyat. Kohinoor, etc., apparently on advice of his psychoanalyst, although he kept his romantic image going as well. Like his contemporary Raj Kapoor, his filmic identity offered a complex cultural/psychological terrain displaying the anxieties of Independence and the nostalgias of a pre-Partition childhood. Unlike Kapoor, Dilip Kumar's naturalist underplaying often presented him as an innocent loner caught in and destroyed by conflicting social pressures, as in the only film he did with Raj Kapoor, Andaz, a classic drama of male guilt paid for by the woman. His acting was used mainly to address issues of identity in the Hindi films of Bengali directors: Nitin Bose's Deedar and Ganga Jumna, Bimal Roy's Madhumati and Tapan Sinha's Sagina Mahato, after which he stopped acting for 8 years. Married actress Saira Banu of Junglee (1961) fame. Made a comeback with Kranti and esp. with Shakti, starring opposite Bachchan in a larger-than-life role confirming his legendary star status. Recent films with Subhash Ghai (Karma, Saudagar). Although he virtually directed some of his films (e.g. Ganga Jumna, Dil Diya Dard Liya) his first official directorial credit is for Kalinga (in prod.).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1944: Jwar Bhata; 1945: Pratima; 1946: Milan; 1947: Jugnu; 1948: Anokha Pyar; Ghar Ki Izzat; Nadiya Ke Paar; Mela; Shaheed; 1949: Andaz, Shabnam; 1950: Arzoo, Babul, Jogan; 1951: Hulchul, Tarana; Deedar; 1952: Aan, Daag, Sangdil; 1953: Footpath; Shikast; 1954: Amar; 1955: Azad, Devdas, Insaniyat, Udan Khatola; 1957: Musafir, Naya Daur; 1958: Madhumati, Yahudi; 1959: Paigham; 1960: Kohinoor, Mughal-e-Azam; 1961: Ganga Jumna; 1964: Leader; 1966: Dil Diya Dard Liya; Par; 1967: Ram Aur Shyam; 1968: Sadhu Aur Shaitan; Admi; Sangharsh; 1970: Gopi, Sagina Mahato; 1972: Anokha Milar; Dastaan; 1974: Sagina; Phir Kab Milogi; 1976: Bairaag; 1981: Kranti; 1982: Shakti; Vidhata; 1983: Mazdoor; 1984: Duniya, Mashaal; 1986: Dharam Adhikari, Karma; 1989: Kanoon Apna Apna; 1990: Izzatdar; 1991: Saudagar.

Kumar, Hemant see Mukherjee, Hemanta

Kumar, Kal yana (b. 1936)

Kannada star; also acted in Telugu and Tamil films. Original name: Chokkanna. Born in Bangalore. Achieved stardom with his first film, Natashekhara. Hero in 60s Kannada-Telugu bilinguals by B. Vittalacharya, Nagendra Rao and Panthulu. Regular actor in early G.V. Iyer films (Bhoodana, Thaiy Karulu, Lawyara Magalu, Bangari). Most famous Kannada roles in Amarashilpi Jakanachari and Bellimoda; best-known Tamil role: Nenji Ore Alayam. Turned director in the late 60s; also produced and directed stage plays (e.g. Ramu Nanna Thamma, Chikamma), often written by his wife, Revathi. Directed Love in Bangalore under the pseudonym Sampath Kumar.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1954: Natashekhara; 1956: Bhagya Chakra, Muttaide Bhagya, Ohileshwara, Sadarame; 1957: Bettada Kalla, Premada Putri, Rayara Sose; 1958: Bhukailasa; 1959: Manegebanda Mahalakshmi; 1960: Kadavunin Kuzhandai; 1961: Thayilla Pillai; 1962: Nenji Ore Alayam, Bhoodana, Daivaleele; Devasundari; Galigopura/Gali Medalu, Thaiy Karulu/Thaiy Karunai, Thendral Veelum, Shriman Petra Selvanga, Azhagu Nila, Pasam; 1963: Lawyara Magalu, Bangari, Kaduvulai Kandari, Mani Osa, Nenjam Marappathillai, Neenkada Ninaivu, Yarukku Sontham; 1964: Amarashilpi Jakanachari, Chinnada Gombe, Mane Aliya; 1965: Beretha Jeeva, Nanna Kartavya, Balarajana Kathe, Mavana Magalu; 1966: Endu Ninnavane; *Love in Bangalore; Badukuva Daari, Subba Sastry; 1967: Bellimoda, Muddu Meena, Premakku Permitte, Kallu Sakkare; 1968: Pravasi Mandira; Arunodaya, Manku Dinne, Mysore Tonga, Mammathe, Bedi Bandhavalu, Anandakanda, Anna Thamma, Nane Bhagyavati, Attegondukala Sosegondukala; 1969: Odahuttidavaru, Niraparadhi, Kannu Muchale, Mukunda Chandra; 1970: Arishina Kumkuma, Aparajithe; 1971: Papa Punya, Sedina Kidi, Amara Bharathi; 1974: Avalukku Nihar Avale; 1975: Katha Sangama; 1976: Collegeranga, Tulasi; 1977: Mugdha Manava;

Banashankari, Subhashaya, Udugore; 1978: Anuragha Bandhana; 1979: Maralu Sarapani; 1980: Mother; 1983: Thaiyia Nudi, Chinnadanta Maga, Simha Garajane; 1984: Nagabekamma Nagabeku, Shubha Muhurta, Guru Bhakti, Police Papanna, Avala Antaranga, Marali Goodige; 1985: Pudhu Yugam, Thaiy Thande, Kiladi Aliya, Bangalooru Rathriyalli, Devarelliddane, Lakshmi Kataksha; 1986: Thavaru Mane, Usha; 1987: Thaliya Aane; 1988: Sarkarai Panda, Oorigittakolli; 1989: Thaligagi, Shri Satyanarayana Poojaphala; 1990: Bannada Gejje; 1992: Mana Gedda Maga; 1994: Mahashakti Maye; 1995: Ganayogi Panchakshara, Puttmalli, Hethavaru.

Kumar, Kishore (1929-87)

Actor, singer, director, music director and producer born in Khandwa, MP. Moved to Bombay and featured occasionally in Saraswati Devi's chorus at Bombay Talkies where elder brother Ashok Kumar was the top star. Imitated his hero, K.L. Saigal, e.g. in the Khemchand Prakash song in Rimjhim (1949). Early reputation as an actor who sang his own songs mostly in slapstick comedies, often playing the unemployed youth (Musafir, Naukri). After New Delhi and Chalti Ka Naam Gaadi, gained recognition for off-beat humour and for providing a new musical sound. His career as India's most famous male playback singer, certainly in the 70s, was effectively launched when he became Dev Anand's singing voice with Ziddi (Marne ki duaayen) and Munimji (1955: Jeevan ke safar). Formally untrained, he assimilated jazz-scat fragmented musical notes into a rhythmic sequence and, once its beat was established, departed from the pattern and combined notes and words/syllables into new kinds of musical harmony in the 50s (largely restricted to melody with the singer following the instrumentation). Composer Kalyanji, with whom Kishore Kumar pioneered the use of electronic music, said that his riyaz (practice) lay more in his skills as a mimic rather than in technique. His songs spanned many genres: Ina mina dika was the pinnacle of a US-derived popular song introduced by C. Ramchandra in the 50s; he sang several 'sad' numbers, esp. in films he directed and which, contrary to his image, were often tragedies (e.g. the song A chal ke tujhe in Door Gagan Ki Chhaon Mein); practised yodelling in the title song of Jhumroo and continued in later films; sang about his income-tax harassment during the Emergency and once, the legend goes, he set the Malthusian theory of population to music. Also evoked a tradition of Bengali comic songs of e.g. comedians Nabadwip Haldar and Tulsi Chakraborty, some of Kazi Nazrul Islam's compositions, and later music of Ranjit Roy. The unpredictability of his musical sequencing was translated into his performances where the slapstick comedy of Baap Re Baap, Half Ticket, New Delhi and Chalti Ka Naam Gaadi have been seen as one of the Hindi cinema's precedents of postmodernism: the apparently 'tribal' music of Jhumroo is a pastiche of Tequila; in Half Ticket, the classic chase sequence has hero and villain dancing in Nautanki garb and in a freewheeling Slavic harvest number. His approach echoes Danny Kaye's style of comedy, but the performative idiom is largely original although he refused to claim auteur status. The songs, however, fall into two fairly distinct periods: one as Dev Anand's singing voice, the other as Rajesh Khanna's playback voice after Aradhana (1969), leading to classic Bachchan numbers including the Don (1978) song, Khaike pan banaraswala. In the 80s gave huge public concerts in India and abroad. His Madison Square Garden concert became a best seller on cassette. His son, Amit Kumar, is currently a top singer in Hindi films.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d & music d/ also music d): 1946: Shikari; 1947: Shehnai; 1948: Sati Vijaya; Ziddi; 1950: Muqaddar; 1951: Andolan; 1952: Cham Chama Cham; Tamasha; 1953: Faraib; Ladki; Lehren; 1954: Adhikar; Dhobi Doctor; Ilzaam; Miss Mala; Naukri; Pehli Jhalak; 1955: Baap Re Baap; Char Paise; Madh Bhare Nair; Rukhsana; 1956: Aabroo; Bhagambhag; Bhai Bhai; Dhake Ki Malma; Mem Sahib; Naya Andaz; New Delhi; Parivar; Paisa Hi Paisa; 1957: Miss Mary; Aasha; Bandi; Begunah; Musafir; 1958: Chalti Ka Naam Gaadi; Chandar; Delhi Ka Thug; Kabhi Andhera Kabhi Ujala; Ragini; Lookochuri; 1959: Chacha Zindabad; Jaalsaaz; Shararat; 1960: Apna Haath Jagannath; Bewaqoof; Girl Friend; Mehlon Ke Khwab; 1961: *Jhumroo; Karodpati; Madhya Rater Tara; 1962: Bambai Ka Chor; Half Ticket; Manmauji; Naughty Boy; Rangoli; 1963: Ek Raaz; 1964: *Door Gagan Ki Chhaon Mein; Baghi Shahzada; Mr X In Bombay; Daal Mein Kala; Ganga Ki Lehren; 1965: Hum Sub Ustad Hain; Shriman Funtoosh; Ek Tuku Chhoya Lage; 1966: Akalmand; Ladka Ladki; Pyar Kiye Jaa; 1967: *Hum Do Daku; Dustu Prajapati; Albela Mastana; Duniya Nachegi; 1968: Do Dooni Char; Hai Mera Dil; Padosan; Sadhu Aur Shaitan; Shrimanji; Payal Ki Jhankaar; 1970: Aansoo Aur Muskaan; 1971: *Door Ka Rahr; Hangama; 1972: Pyar Diwana; Bombay To Goa; *Zameen Aasmaan; 1974: *Badhti Ka Naam Daadhi; 1978: Ek Baap Chhe Bete; *Shabash Daddy; 1981: *Chalti Ka Naam Zindagi; 1982: *Door Wadiyon Mein Kahin; 1989: Mamata Ki Chhaon Mein (d only, completed by Amit Kumar).

Kumar, Manoj (b. 1937)

Hindi actor, director and producer born in Abbotabad, North West Frontier Province (now Pakistan) as Hari Krishna Goswami. Went to India on Partition and lived in a refugee camp near Delhi. Début as actor in his cousin Lekhraj Bhakri's films. Broke through with Kaanch Ki Gudiya and Hariyali Aur Raasta. Well-known hero in 60s commercial Hindi socials, e.g. as Bhagat Singh in the biopic Shaheed. Worked as a ghost director before his official début. Described his directorial début, Upkaar, as a '16000-foot-long celluloid flag of India'. Indulges in national chauvinism, contrasting son-of-the-soil goodness with Western evil, providing moral lessons together with the commercially attractive scenes of the abhorred debauchery (e.g. Purab Aur Paschim). Prominent campaigner for the fanatic Hindu communalist Bhartiya Janata Party in 1991 elections. Also acted in his productions.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1957: Fashior; 1958: Panchayat; Sahara; 1959: Chand; 1960: Sunehri Raatein; 1961: Kaanch Ki Gudiya; Piya Milan Ki Aas; Reshmi Ruma; Suhaag Sindoor; 1962: Apna Banake Dekho; Banarasi Thug; Dr Vidya; Hariyali Aur Raasta; Maa Beta; Naqli Nawab; Shadi; 1963: Ghar Basake Dekho; Grihashti; 1964: Apne Huye Paraye; Phoolon Ki Sej; Woh Kaun Thi; 1965: Bedaag; Gumnaam; Himalay Ki God Meir; Poonam Ki Raat; Shaheed; 1966: Picnic; Do Badan; Sawan Ki Ghata; 1967: *Upkaar; Anita; Patthar Ke Sanam; 1968: Admi; Neel Kama; 1969: Saajar; 1970: *Purab Aur Paschim; Mera Naam Joker; Pehchar; Yaadgaar; 1971: Balidan; 1972: *Shor; Beimaan; 1974: *Roti Kapda Aur Makaan; 1975: Sanyasi; Amanat; 1976: Das Numbr; 1977: Shirdi Ke Sai Baba; 1981: *Kranti; 1987: Kalyug Aur Ramayan; 1989: *Clerk; Santosh; Deshwasi; 1995: Maidan-e-Jung.

Kumar, Mehul (b. 1949)

Gujarati and Hindi director, aka Mohammed Baloch. Born in Jamnagar; graduated from Bombay University and worked as a journalist, including film reviews in the magazine Chitarang. Involved in Gujarati theatre (1974-5), then assistant to Chandrakant Sangani (1975-6) and to Tahir Hussain. His début is a Gujarati remake of Dada Kondke's spectacularly successful lowbrow Marathi comedy, Pandu Havaldar (1975). 80s work mainly in mid-budget Hindi masala films, introducing this formula into Gujarati and achieving a broader acceptance and larger budgets. Marte Dam Tak, featuring the senior star Raaj Kumar alongside Govinda, made him one of the best-known vendetta action directors. He then yoked this genre successfully to a highly rhetorical story about nationalism to make the biggest Hindi hit of 1992, Tiranga, getting Raaj Kumar to act with the younger character actor, Nana Patekar.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1977: Chandu Jamadar; Janam Janamna Saathi/Phir Janam Lenge Hum; 1978: Kanchan Ane Ganga; 1979: Rajputani; 1981: Ranchandi; Garvi Naar Gujaratni; Gamdeni Gori; Kanchan Aur Ganga; 1982: Maa Vina Suno Sansar; Dholi; Anokha Bandhan; Naseeb No Kheh; 1983: Dhola Maru; Maradno Mandvo; 1984: Hiranne Kanthe; Love Marriage; 1985: Meru Malan; Preet Na Karsho Ko; Bhauji Maay; 1986: Sayba Mora; Ujali Meraman; 1987: Marte Dam Tak; 1989: Na Insaafi; Nafrat Ki Aandhi; Jungbaaz; Aasmaan Se Ooncha; 1990: Paap Ki Aandhi; Mandano Mor; 1991: Meet Mere Man Ke; 1992: Tiranga; 1993: Aansoo Bane Angarey; 1994: Krantiveer.

Kumar, Rajendra (b. 1929)

60s Hindi film star, esp. in musical romances. Born R.K. Tuli in Sialkot, West Punjab. Film début as assistant to director H.S. Rawail and played a small role in his Patanga. Introduced by Kidar Sharma in Jogan, followed by a leading part in Awaaz, first major starring role in the V. Shantaram production Toofan Aur Diya. Early films capitalised on his resemblance to Dilip Kumar. In his early films, he is remembered as the straight man who throws into relief the histrionics of the other actors: e.g. Mala Sinha as the betrayed woman in Dhool Ka Phool, the rebellious Sunil Dutt contesting familial authority along with feudal oppression in Mother India; Ashok Kumar as the court judge suspected of murder in Kanoon, the other man in the Raj Kapoor love triangle, Sangam, the doctor who treats the cancer-affected husband (Raaj Kumar) of his former lover Meena Kumari in Sridhar's Dil Ek Mandir. However, his musicals in the 60s were more popular and he was often called 'the Jubilee hero' because his films would have a 'jubilee' run. In the 80s he launched his son Kumar Gaurav, effectively directing his debut feature, Love Story (1981).

Mala Sinha and Rajendra Kumar in Dhool Ka Phool (1959)

♣️ FILMOGRAPHY: 1949: Patanga; 1950: Jogar; 1955: Vachan; 1956: Awaaz, Toofan Aur Diya; 1957: Duniya Rang Rangili; Mother India; Ek Jhalak; 1958: Devar Bhabhi; Ghar Sansar, Khazanchi, Talaaq; 1959: Chirag Kahan Roshni Kahan; Do Behnen; Dhool Ka Phool, Goonj Uthi Shehnai; Santan; 1960: Kanoon, Maa Baap, Patang, Mehndi Rang Lagyo; 1961: Aas Ka Panchhi; Amar Rahe Yeh Pyar, Gharana; Pyar Ka Sagar; Sasural; Zindagi Aur Khwab; 1963: Akeli Mat Jaiyo; Dil Ek Mandir, Gehra Daag, Hamrahi; Mere Mehboob; 1964: Aayi Milan Ki Bela; Sangam, Zindagi; 1965: Arzoo; 1966: Suraj; 1967: Amar; Palki; 1968: Jhuk Gaya Aasmaan; Saathi; 1969: Anjaana; Shatranj, Talash; 1970: Dharti; Ganwaar; Geet; Mera Naam Joker; 1971: Aap Aye Bahar Aye; 1972: Aan Baan; Gaon Hamara Shaher Tumhara; Gora Aur Kala; Lalkaar, Tangewala; 1975: Do Jasoos; Rani Aur Lalpari; Sunehra Sansar; 1976: Mazdoor Zindabad; 1977: Shirdi Ke Sai Baba; Daku Aur Mahatma; Do Sholay; 1978: Ahuti; Saajan Bina Suhagan; Sone Ka Dil Lohe Ke Haath; 1979: Bin Phere Hum Tere; 1980: Badla Aur Balidan; Dhan Daulat; O Bewafa; Gunehgaar; Saajan Ki Saheli; 1981: Love Story, Yeh Rishta Na Toote; 1982: Rustom; 1983: Lovers; 1988: Main Tere Liye; 1989: Clerk; 1993: Phool.

Kumar, Sampath see Kumar, Kalyana

Kumar, Udaya (1930-86)

Kannada actor, originally named Suryanarayana, born in Palkad, Salem. Worked for several years in the Gandhian Bharat Seva Dal. Employed as a physical training teacher. Joined Gubbi Veeranna's stage company. Early heroic roles in Kannada films later became more nuanced villainous characters, often counterpointing Rajkumar's heroic persona in historicals and mythologicals. Produced Ide Mahasudina and scripted C.S. Rao's Shri Renukadevi Mahatme. Also known as playwright (e.g. Bhakta Kanakadasa, Tapasvi Ravana, Inspector Taranath, etc.), novelist and essayist with 8 prose anthologies (e.g. Akshara Brahma, Kavi Charithre). Started the Udaya Kala Niketan acting school (1983).

♣️ FILMOGRAPHY: 1956: Bhagyodaya; Daiva Sankalpa; Panchrathna; 1957: Bettada Kalla; Premada Putri/Preme Daivam; Ratnagiri Rahasya; Varadakshine; 1958: Bhakta Prahlada; Mane Thumbida Hennu; School Master/Badi Pantalu; 1959: Mahishasura Mardini; Veer Bhaskaradu; 1960: Shivalinga Sakshi; Bhakta Kanakadasa; Dashavatara; Ivan Avaneethan; Yanai Pagari; 1961: Raja Satya Vrata; Vijayanagarada Veeraputra;

Mahout; 1962: Bhodana; Ratnamanjari; Thai Karulu; Vidhi Vilasa; 1963: Nanda Deepa; Malli Madhuve; Bevu Bella; Veera Kesari/Bandhipotu; Mana Mechhida Madadi; Chandrakumara; Sant Tukaram; Shri Ramanjaneya Yuddha; 1964: Chandavalliya Tota; Kalavati; Amarashilpi Jakanachari; Nandi; 1965: Kavaleraadu Kulavondu; Chandrasaha; Vatsalya; Satya Harishchandra; Veera Vikrama; Ide Mahasudina; Bettada Huli; Sati Savitri; Miss Leelavathi; Madhuve Madi Nodu; Pativrata; 1966: Mane Katti Nodu; Mantralaya Mahatme; Kathari Veera; Badukuva Daari; Deva Manava; Madhu Malathi; Mohini Bhasmasura (K); Sandhya Raga; 1967: Padavidhara; Parvathi Kalyana; Sati Sukanya; Rajashekhar; Rajadurgada Rahasya; Bangarada Hoovu; Chakra Teertha; Immedi Pulakesi; 1968: Jedara Bale; Matheya Maha Mandira; Arunodaya; Mahasati Arundhati; Mysore Tonga; Anna Thamma; Namma Ooru; Nane Bhagyavati; Dhumketu; Simha Swapna; Hoovu Mullu; 1969: Odahuttidavaru; Madhura Milana; Shiva Bhakta; Bhagirathi; Makkale Manege Manikya; Madhuve! Madhuve!!; Kalpa Vruksha; Ade Hridaya Ade Mamathe; Mathru Bhoomi; Chaduranga; Mukunda Chandra; Bhale Basava; 1970: Mukti; Rangamahala Rahasya; Pratikara; Kallara Kala; Hasiru Thorana; Takka! Bitre Sikka!; Mrityu Panjaradalli Goodachari 555; Modala Rathri; Sedige Sedu; Aaru Mooru Ombattu; 1971: Sidila Mari; Purnima; Signalman Siddappa; Samshayaphala; Jatakathana Gunda Joisa; Kasidre Kailasa; Bhale Bhaskar; Mahadimane; Bhale Rani; 1972: Nari Munidare Mari; Kulla Agent 000; Kaanch Aur Heera; 1973: Triveni; Bharathada Rathna; Cowboy Kulla; Mannina Magalu; Premapasha; Bettada Bhairava; 1974: Chamundeshwari Mahime; Nanu Baalabeku; 1975: Jagruthi; Sarpa Kavalu; Mantra Shakti; Ashirwada; Bili Hendhi; 1976: Sutradra Bombe; Rajanarthakiya Rahasya; 1977: Shri Renukadevi Mahatme; Girikanye; Srimanthana Magalu; Hemavathi; Shani Prabhava; Banashankari; 1978: Devadasi; Matu Tappada Maga; Bhale Huduga; Madhura Sangama; Parasuramar; 1979: Putani Agents 1-2-3/Agent 1-2-3; Bhoolokadalli Yamaraja; 1980: Maria My Darling; Vajrada Jalapata; Mugana Sedu; 1981: Thaiya Madilalli; Kulaputra; Garjane; 1982: Kempu Hori; Sahasa Simha; Mava Sose Sava; Chellida Rakta; 1983: Devara Tirpu; Kalluveene Nudiyitu; Nodi Swamy Navirodu Hige; Maha Maharaju; Bhayankara Bhasmasura; 1984: Maryade Mahalu; Agni Gundam; Bharyamani; 1985: Pitamah; Vish Kanya; Lakshmi Kataksha.

Kumar, Uttam (1926-80)

Bengali superstar who at times was the Tollygunge-based Bengali film industry. Real name: Arun Kumar Chatterjee. Employed as a clerk in the port commissioner's office, Calcutta, before joining films. Briefly stage actor at the Star Theatre (e.g. in Shyamali, 1953, filmed in 1956). Debut as extra in uncompleted Mayadore. Broke with the prevailing theatrical acting styles and achieved stardom with Nirmal Dey's Sharey Chuattar, which also initiated his famed co-starring films with Suchitra Sen: they featured in some of the most spectacular Bengali melodramas made by Naresh Mitra, Sushil Majumdar, Ajoy Kar and the Agradoot and Aragami units, epitomising the genre of the soft-focus musical romance (with Hemanta Mukherjee as his regular playback voice). Melodramas of suffering, betrayal and the struggle for truth (cf. Sagarika, Saptapadi) made an embattled literary tradition (with a bhadralok middle-class identity and an apolitical humanist philosophy) popular again after a long history of radical attacks on the Bengali novel. In e.g. Kartick Chattopadhyay's Saheb Bibi Golam and in the Ajoy Kar and Tapan Sinha films, the Uttam Kumar persona abandoned many conservative tenets of this tradition while receiving an unprecedented degree of mass adulation. S. Ray presented his version of the phenomenon in Nayak, which many saw as the star's autobiography. The two also worked together in Chidiakhana. His biographer Gourangaprasad Ghosh claimed that when his effort to go 'national' with the Hindi film Chotisi Mulaqat proved a failure, he finally turned into an actor of mass-produced romances. Except for Amanush, his Hindi films were mostly unsuccessful. His last film, Ogo Bodhu Sundari, a version of My Fair Lady, was completed with another actor. Wrote his autobiography (1979).

♣️ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d/ also music d): 1948: Drishtidaar; 1949: Mayadore (incomplete); Kamana; 1950: Maryada; 1951: Ore Jatri, Sahajatri, Nastaneer; 1952: Sanjibani; Basu Parivar; Kar Papey; 1953: Sharey Chuattar; Lakh Taka; Nabin Yatra; Bou Thakuranir Haat; 1954: Moner Mayur; Ora Thake Odhare; Champangar Bou; Kalyani; Maraner Pare; Sadanander Mela; Annapurnar Mandir; Agni Pareeksha; Bokul; Grihapravesha; Mantra Shakti; 1955: Sanjher Pradeep; Anupama; Raikamal; Devatra; Shap Mochar; Bidhilipi; Hrad; Upahar; Kankabatir Ghat; Bratacharini; Sabar Uparey; 1956: Raat Bhore; Sagarika; Saheb Bibi Golam; Laksha-Hira; Chirakumar Sabha; Ekti Raat; Shankar Narayan Bank; Shyamali; Trijama; Putrabadhu; Shilpi; Nabajanma; 1957: Haar Jeet; Bardidi; Yatra Holo Suru; Prithibi Amar Chai; Taser Ghar; Surer Parashey; Punar Milan; Harano Sur; Abhoyer Biye; Chandranath; Pathe Holo Deri; Jiban Trishna; 1958: Rajalakshmi-o-Shrikanta; Bandhu; Manmoyee Girls' School; Daktar Babu; Shikar; Indrani; Joutuk; Surya Toran; 1959: Marutirtha Hinglaj; Chaowa-Pawa; Bicharak; Pushpadhanu; Gali Theke Rajpath; Khelaghar; Sonar Harin; Abak Prithvi; 1960: Maya Mriga; Raja-Saja; Kuhak; Uttar Megh; Haat Baraley Bandhu; Khokha Babur Pratyabartan; Sakher Chor; Saharer Itikatha; Suno Baro Nari; 1961: Sathi Hara; Agni Sanskar; Jhinder Bandi; Necklace; Saptapadi; Dui Bhai; 1962: Bipasha; Shiulibari; Kanna; 1963: Shesh-Anka; Nisithe; Uttarayan; Bhranti Bilas; Surya Sikha; Deya Neya; 1964: Bibhas; Jotugriha; Natun Tirtha; Momer Alo; Lal Patthar; 1965: Thana Theke Aschhi; Raj Kanya; Surya Tapa; Kal Tumi Aleya; 1966: Sudhu Ekti

*Bachhar; Nayak; Rajdrohi; Sankha Bela; 1967: Antony Firingee; Chidiakhana; Grihadah; Jiban Mrityu; Nayika Sangbad; Chhotisi Mulaqat; 1968: Chowringhee; Kokhono Megh; Teen Adhyay; Garh Nasimpur; 1969: Aparichita; Chiradiner; Kamallata; Mon-Niye; Sabarmati; Shuk Sari; 1970: Kalankita Nayak; Bilambita Lay; Duti Mori; Nishipadma; Manjari Opera; Rajkumari; 1971: Chhadmabeshi; Dhanyi Meye; Ekhane Pinjar; Jay Jayanti; Jiban Jignasa; Nabaraag; 1972: Alo Amar Alo; Andha Atit; Biraj Bou; Chinnapatra; Haar Mana Haar; Memsahib; Stree; 1973: Kaya Hiner Kahini; Rater Rajanigandha; Roudra Chhaya; Sonar Khancha; Bon Palashir Padabali; Rodon Bhora Basanta; 1974: Alor Thikana; Amanush; Bikele Bhorer Phool; Jadu Bansha; Jadi Jantem; Rakta Tilak; Mouchak; 1975: Ami Sey-o-Sekha; Agniswar; Bagh Bandi Khela; Kajal Lata; Nagar Darpane; Priya Bandhabi; Sanyasi Raja; Sei Chokh; *Sabhyasachi; 1976: Banhi Sikha; Chander Kachhakachhi; Mom Batti; Nidhi Ram Sardar; Rajbansha; Hotel Snow Fox; Ananda Mela; Asadharan; 1977: Bhola Moira; Jaal Sanyasi; Sister; Anand Ashram; Kitaab; Brajabuli; 1978: Bandi; Dhanraj Tamang; Dui Purush; Nishar; 1979: Dooriyar; Devdas; Nabadiganta; Samadhar; Srikanter Will; Sunayani; 1980: Aro Ekjar; Darpachurna; Dui Prithibi; Pankhiraj; Raja Saheb; Raj Nandini; 1981: Plot No 5; *Kalankini Kankabati; Khana Baraha; Pratishodh; Ogo Bodhu Sundari; Surya Sakhi; 1982: Desh Premi; Iman Kalyan; 1987: Mera Karam Mera Dharam.

Kumaran, K. P. (b. 1938)

Malayalam director born in Kathuparamba, North Kerala. Actively associated with the experimental theatre movements of the early 60s, staging and acting in C.J. Thomas' plays;

Master Aziz and Meena Kumari in Bhabhi Ki Chudiyar (1961) helped found the Chitralakha Film Society (1965). Film debut with an experimental 100-second short, Rock, made for Asia '72. Co-scripted Adoor Gopalakrishnan's Swayamvaram (1972). Feature debut Atithi adapted his own play. Also made several documentaries (Oru Chuvadu Munnottu, Kerala Thanimayude Thalam, Oru Thuli Velicham and the video film An Unmistakable Identity, aka India: Continuity and Change). and TV programmes for PTI-TV (New Delhi).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1972: Rock (Sh); 1974: Atithi; 1976: Lakshmi Vijayam; 1979: Thenthulli; Adipapam; 1982: Kattile Pattu; 1985: Neram Pularumbo; 1988: Rukmini.

Kumari, Meena (1933-72)

Hindi-Urdu star born in Bombay; daughter of the Parsee theatre actor, singer and music teacher Ali Bux and the dancer Iqbal Begum. Having hit upon hard times and living near the Rooptara Studios, Ali Bux sought to get his three daughters into films. The middle daughter, Mahajabeen, was hired aged 6, re-named Baby Meena and cast by Vijay Bhatt in Leatherface. Later, for Bhatt's big musical Baiju Bawra, she was named Meena Kumari. Acted in mythologicals by e.g. Homi Wadia and Nanabhai Bhatt. Best known in the 50s for comedies (Miss Mary) and socials (Parineeta), even appearing in Do Bigha Zameen. Her main persona was constructed via Kamal Amrohi's Daera, Bimal Roy's Yahudi and Guru Dutt's Sahib Bibi Aur Ghulam, culminating in her most famous film, Pakeezah. Deploying the image of the 'innocent' courtesan first developed by Zubeida, her arched body, limpid eyes and tremulous voice combined with the lavish sets and costumes to create the classic image of the exotic Oriental, an icon achieved by mixing the Urdu stage historical with European neo-classical ornamentation (cf. Aga Hashr Kashmiri), e.g. in the mise en scene of the Na jao saiyar song in Sahib Bibi Aur Ghulam. Married Amrohi, director of her best work, but then broke with him in 1964. The couple eventually completed the film they had jointly conceived, Pakeezah, in 1971 just before her death. Her off-screen life extended her image as the lovelorn woman who drowns her passion in drink. Wrote poems in Urdu using the pen-name Naaz, a collection of which, Tanha Chand [The Solitary Moon], compiled by Gulzar, was published after her death. In their Women Writing in India (vol. 2, 1993), which includes one of the star's poems, Susie Tharu and K. Lalitha describe her as 'an exceptionally beautiful and talented actress, always dressed in white', and they quote Afeefa Banu's comment that she is 'an object of fantasy and a motif of melancholy'.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1939: Leatherface; 1940: Ek Hi Bhool; Pooja; 1941: Kasauti; Bahen; Nai Roshni; 1942: Garib; 1943: Pratigya; 1944: Lal Haveli; 1946: Bachchon Ka Khe; Duniya Ek Sarai; 1947: Piya Ghar Aaja; 1948: Bichhade Balam; 1949: Veer Ghatotkach; 1950: Magroor; Shri Ganesh Mahima; Hamara Ghar; 1951: Hanuman Pataal Vijay; Lakshmi Narayan; Madhosh; Sanam; 1952: Alladdin And The Wonderful Lamp; Baiju Bawra; Tamasha; 1953: Daera; Dana Pani; Do Bigha Zameen; Footpath; Naulakha Haar; Parineeta; 1954: Baadbaan; Chandni Chowk; Ilzaam; 1955: Adl-e-Jehangir; Azad; Bandish; Rukhsana; 1956: Bandhan; Ek Hi Raasta; Halaku; Mem Sahib; Naya Andaz; Shatranj; 1957: Miss Mary; Sharada; 1958: Farishta; Sahara; Savera; Yahudi; 1959: Ardhangini; Chand; Char Dil Char Raaheer; Chirag Kahan Roshni Kahan; Jagir; Madhu; Satta Bazaar; Shararat; 1960: Bahana; Dil Apna Aur Preet Parayi; Kohinoor; 1961: Bhabhi Ki Chudiyar; Pyar Ka Sagar; Zindagi Aur Khwab; 1962: Aarti; Main Chup Rahungi; Sahib Bibi Aur Ghulam; 1963: Akeli Mat Jaiyo; Dil Ek Mandir; Kinare Kinare; 1964: Benazir; Chitralakha; Ghazal; Main Bhi Ladki Hoon; Sanjh Aur Savera; 1965: Bheegi Raat; Kajal; Purnima; 1966: Phool Aur Patthar; Pinjre Ke Panchhi; 1967: Bahu Begum; Chandan Ka Palna; Manjhli Did; Noorjehar; 1968: Abhilasha; Baharon Ki Manzil; 1970: Jawab; Saat Phere; 1971: Dushman; Mere Apne; Pakeezah; 1972: Gomti Ke Kinare.

Kumari, Usha see Vijayanirmala

Kunchako (1912-76)

Malayalam director and major producer born in Alleppey. One of the founders of the Kerala film industry when he set up his Udaya Studio (1947) in Alleppey and made Vellinakshatram (1949). Scripted M.R.S. Mani's Kidappadam (1954). Long-time partner K.V. Koshy (they ran K & K Prod.) claimed in his autobiography (1968) to have followed the Telugu film-maker B.N. Reddi's example and brought respectability to Malayalam cinema mainly by distancing themselves from Tamil film's dominant genre conventions. Collaborated closely with scenarists Muthukulam Raghavan Pillai and K.P. Kottarakkara. This period provided the first Malayalam film stars, including Augustine Joseph and Sebastian Kunju Kunju Bhagavar (actor-singers from the professional theatre), Thikkurissi Sukumaran Nair and Kottarakkara Sridharan Nair. In the 60s the earlier stage-inspired cinema was replaced by megastar Prem Nazir's work. Films directed ranged across genres such as thrillers with barely concealed references to major scandals (Mainatharuvu Kola Case), political films (Pazhassi Raja, Jail, Punnappa Vyalar) and S.P. Pillai comedies (Neelisally et al., forerunners of the Adoor Bhasi style). Later films referred to literary melodrama tradition known in local parlance as the paingili novel. Also made and produced mythologicals.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1960: Umma; Seeta; Neelisally; 1961: Unniyarcha; Krishna Kuchela; 1962: Palattukoman; Bharya; 1963: Kadalamma; Rebecca; 1964: Pazhassi Raja; Ayesha; 1965: Inaprayugal; Shakuntala; 1966: Jail; Anarkali; Tilottama; 1967: Mainatharuvu Kola Case; Kasavuthattam; 1968: Thirichadi; Punnappa Vyalar; Kodungalluramma; 1969: Susie; 1970: Pearl View; Dattuputhran; Othenente Makar; 1971: Panchavan Kadal; 1972: Aromalunni; Postmane Kananilla; 1973: Ponnapuram Kotta; Thenaruvu; Pavangal Pennungal; 1974: Durga; Thumbolarcha; 1975: Neela Ponmar; Cheenavala; Dharmakshetre Varukshetre; Manishada; 1976: Chennai Valarithiya Kutty; Mallanam Mathevanum; 1977: Kannappanunni.

Kurup, O. N. V. (b. 1931)

Songwriter. With Vyalar Rama Varma and P. Bhaskaran, he formed the troika ruling Malayalam film song since the early 50s. Like the others, he was rooted in the Kerala Peoples Arts Club's radical theatre, for which he wrote some of its most famous songs: Balikutterangale, Aa malar poikayil (both scored by Devarajan) and Madala poopoloru (scored by Sailil Choudhury). Although he shares the pervasive influence of post-Changampuzha 'romantic' poetry, his best-known early work in both his independent poetry (e.g. the anthologies Samarattinte Santatikala/ Offspring of the Revolution, 1951; Mattuvin Chattangale/ Change the Laws, 1955) and in his film writing, is more militant than that of his 2 colleagues.

Lahiri, Bappi

Extremely prolific music composer sometimes referred to as the R.D. Burman of B movies. Early work in Bengali cinema. Had a major success with Mithun Chakraborty's disco films directed by B. Subhash (Disco Dancer, Dance Dance). His scores, including for all the Ramsay horror films (Aur Kaun, Saboot) rely on electronic instrumentation and display an open rejection of originality. His work, often made on a shoestring for South Indian directors, is cited as the emblem of bad taste in mass culture. In some Bengali films, notably Anjan Choudhury's Guru Dakshina, he caused a sensation with compositions based on classical Indian music.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1969: Dadu; 1972: Janatar Adalat; 1973: Nannha Shikari; Charitra; 1974: Bazaar Band Karo; 1975: Zakhmi; 1976: Chalte Chalte; Sangram; 1977: Aap Ki Khatir; Haiwan; Paapi; Phir Janam Lenge Hum; Pratima Aur Payal; 1978: College Girl; Dil Se Mile Dil; Khoon Ki Pukar; Toote Khilone; Tere Pyar Meir; 1979: Shiksha; Aangan Ki Kali; Ahsaas; Aur Kaun; Do Hawaldar; Iqraar; Jaan-e-Bahar; Lahu Ke Do Rang; Suraksha; Manokamna; 1980: Apne Paraye; Agreement; Ek Baar Kahoi; Humkadam; Kismet; Morcha; Patita; Pyara Dushman; Saboot; Taxi Chor; Bhula Na Dena; Guest House; 1981: Armaan; Dahshat; Jeene Ki Arzoo; Jyoti; Laparwah; Paanch Qaidi; Sahas; Wardat; Maa Bipat Tarini Chand; Ogo Bodhu Sundari; Nai Iमारत; Josh; Hathkadi; Dulha Bikta Hai; 1982: Gumsum; Dial 100; Disco Dancer; Do Ustad; Namak Halal; Sambandh; Saugandh; Suraag; Taqdeer Ka Badshah; Farz Aur Kanon; Pyaas; Justice Choudhury; Shiv Charan; 1983: Do Gulab; Doosri Dulhan; Faraib; Film Hi Film; Himmatwala; Humse Na Jeeta Koi; Jaani Dost; Jeet Hamari; Karate; Kisise Na Kehna; Lalach; Love in Goa; Mawaali; Naukar Biwi Ka; Pasand Apni Apni; Wanted; Raja Aur Rana; Ek Din Bahu Ka; Du-Janay; Protidan; Apoorva Sahodarigaal; 1984: Tarkeeb; Aaj Ka MLA Ramavatar; Bhavna; Gangvaa; Haisiyat; Hum Rahe Na Hum; Kaamyaab; Kasam Paida Karne Wale Ki; Maqsad; Meri Adalat; Naya Kadam; Pet Pyar Aur Paap; Qaidi; Shapath; Sharabi; Tohfa; Yaadgaar; Waqt Ki Pukar; Kamla; Teri Baahon Meir; Shravan Kumar; Sheeshe Ka Ghar; 1985: Thavam; Uttarayan; Aaj Ka Daur; Aandhi Toofan; Aitbaar; Badal; Balidan; Bandhan Anjana; Bewafai; Bhawani Junction; Giraftaar; Haqeeqat; Haveli; Hoshiyar; Insaaf Main Karoonga; Karm Yudh; Lover Boy; Maa Kasam; Maha Shaktiman/ Maharudra; Mahaguru; Masterji; Mera Saathi; Mohabbat; Pataal Bhairavi; Pyari Behna; Saamri; Saheb; Salma; Tarzan; Wafadaar; Antaraley; Shart; Locket; Kala Suraj; 1986: Urbashe; Jhoothi; Adhikar; Avinash; Dharam Adhikari; Dilwala; Ilzaam; Insaaf Ki Awaaz; Kirayedaar; Kismatwala; Main Balwar; Mera Dharam; Muddat; Sheesha; Sinhasan; Suhagar; 1987: Thene Manasulu; Savkharavam; Samrat; Pratikar; Amor Sangi; Guru Dakshina; Aag Hi Aag; Dak Bangla; Dance Dance; Diljala; Himmat Aur Mehnat; Majaal; Mera Yaar Mera Dushman; Param Dharam; Pyar Karke Dekho; Pyar Ke Kabil; Sadak Chhaap; Satyamev Jayate; Sheela; Muqaddar Ka Faisla; Collector Vijaya; 1988: Manmadha Samrajyam; Antaranga; Debibaran; Pratik; Aaj Ke Angarey; Ghar Ghar Ki Kahani; Hatya; Kab Tak Chup Rahungi; Kasam; Mulzim; Paap Ki Duniya; Tamacha; Veerana; Waqt Ki Awaaz; Commando; Kanwarlal; Halaal Ki Kamai; Mardangi; Sone Pe Suhaaga; Gunahon Ka Faisla; Sagar Sangam; Zakhmi Aurat; Mera Shikar; Farz Ki Jung; 1989: Sachche Ka Bol Bala; Guru (H); Gair Kanonni; Hum Intezar Karengi; Kahan Hai Kanonni; Paanch Paapi; Prem Pratigya;

Garibon Ka Daata; Hum Bhi Insaan Hain; Na-Insaafi; Aakhri Gulam; Mitti Aur Sona; Gentleman; Love Love Love; Mohabbat Ka Paigam; Sikka; Gola Barood; Khoj; Kasam Vardi Ki; Kanon Apna Apna; Zakhm; Paap Ka Ant; Nafrat Ki Aandhi; Asha-o-Bhalobasha; Sansar; Amar Tumi; Agni Trishna; Mangaldip; Amor Prem; Pronami Tomai; Ghar Ka Chirag; Aag Ka Gola; Khooni Murda; Kali Ganga; Saaya; Tauheen; Chokher Aloye; Nayanmoni; 1990: Aandhiyan; Pyar Ke Naam Qurban; Shandaar; Shaitani Ilaaka; Awaragardi; Ghar Ho To Aisa; Nakabandi; Awwal Number; Shera Shamshera; Ghayal; Haar Jeet; Aaj Ka Arjun; Sailaab; Roti Ki Keemat; Aaj Ka Shahenshah; Karishma Kali Ka; Thanedar; Din Dahade; Raktori; Mandira; Badnaam; Patthar Ke Insaan; Raeeszada; Balidan; Dokyala Taap Nahi (also act.); 1991: Dushman Devata; Hafta Bandh; Naachnewale Ganewale; Phool Bane Angarey; Pratikaar; Pratigyabadh; Farishte; Yodha; Numri Admi; First Love Letter; Vishkanya; Kohraa; Hai Meri Jaar; Jungle Beauty; Rupaye Dus Karod; Swarg Jaisa Ghar; Sau Karod; Gang Leader; Ahankar; Antarer Bhalobasha; 1992: Insaaf Ki Devi; Shola Aur Shabnam; Sanam Tere Hain Hum; Naseebwala; Zindagi Ek Jua; Tyaagi; Police Aur Mujrim; Isi Ka Naam Zindagi; Kisme Kitna Hai Dum; Geet; Raktalekha; Apon Ghar; Anutap; Surer Bhubane; Priya; 1993: Kundari; Aaj Ki Aurat; Aankhen; Aaj Ki Taaqat; Bomb Blast; Geetanjali (H); Izzat Ki Roti; Policewala; Veerta; Aag Ka Toofan; Dalaal; Rakter Saad; Tomar Rakte Amar Sohag; 1994: Thanedarni; Aag Aur Chingari; Bali Umar Ko Salaam; Andaz; Parmatma; Pyar Ka Rog; Janata Ki Adalat; Brahma; Amanat; Mr Azad; Pratyaghat; Kothachilo; Raktanadir Dhara; Phiriye Dao; Dhurar Godhuli; Neelanjana; Lal Pan Bibi; 1995: Maidan-e-Jung; Policewala Gunda; Aatank Hi Aatank; Diya Aur Toofan; Hum Sub Chor Hair; Rock Dancer; Sangharsha; Prem Sanghat.

Lahiri, Nirendranath (1908-72)

Bengali and Hindi director born in Calcutta. Started as actor in P.C. Barua's studio (Ekada, 1932); assisted Barua at New Theatres. Music director for Ashiana, Tarubala and Annapurnar Mandir (all 1936), and acted in Debaki Bose's Abhinav (1940) before turning director. Best-known films based on writers associated with progressive Kallol literature (e.g. Bhabhi-Kaal by Premendra Mitra). Themes often invoke nationalist idealism (Garmil, Bhabi-Kaal). Also filmed Saratchandra Chatterjee's novels (e.g. Palli Samaj, Subhadra).

✦ FILMOGRAPHY (* also music d):

1940: Byabadhan; 1942: Mahakavi Kalidas; Garmil; 1943: Sahadharmini; Dampati; 1944: Anbar; 1945: Bhabhi-Kaal; Banphool; 1946: Arabian Nights; 1948: Sadharan Meye; Jayjatra/ Vijay Yatra; 1949: Niruddesh; Singhdwar; 1950: Garabini; 1952: Palli Samaj; Subhadra; 1953: Kajari; Lakh Taka; 1954: Shobha; Kalyani; Jadubhatta; 1955: Devimalini; 1956: Bhola Master; Shankar Narayan Bank; 1957: Madhu Malati; Bara Maa; Prithibi Amar Chai; 1958: Tansen; Indrani; 1959: Chhabi; 1966: Rajdrohi; 1983: Raat Dastay.

Lajmi, Kal pana (b. 1954)

Hindi director based in Bombay; niece of Guru Dutt. Assistant to Benegal (1974-82). Started assisting Bhupen Hazarika (1977) and has consistently collaborated with him since then, managing his career from 1982 onwards. Directorial debut with a portrait of Dhiren Ganguly; made several documentaries and promotionals before her feature debut with Ek Pal. Directed the 13-episode TV series Lohit Kinare, adapting Assamese short stories.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1978: D.G. Movie Pioneer (Doc); 1979: A Work Study in Tea Plucking (Doc); 1981: Along the Brahmaputra (Doc); 1986: Ek Pal; 1988: Lohit Kinare (TV); 1992: Rudaali.

Lakshminarayan see Laxmikant-Pyarelal

Lakshminarayan, N. (?-1991)

Kannada director born in Srirangapatna, Karnataka. First explicitly experimental filmmaker in Kannada with wordless short Bliss. Studied cinematography in Bangalore. Early career as apprentice to his uncle, B.R. Krishnamurthy; then to R. Nagendra Rao. Claimed influence of De Sica and Satyajit Ray in first attempts at art cinema in Kannada, prior to the Navya Movement-inspired notion of film as an extension of literature. His melodramatically inclined work claims roots in psychological realism. His Nandi was a big success and launched Kalpna as a star.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1961: Bliss (Sh); 1964: Nandi; 1969: Uyyale; 1970: Mukti; 1973: Abachurina Post Office; 1979: Muyyi; 1985: Bettada Hoovu; 1987: Belaku.

Lakshminarayan, Sattiraju see Bapu

Lakshmirajyam (1922-87)

Telugu actress and producer born near Vijaywada, AP, into a family of stage performers. Joined the Ramatilakam-Pulipati stage company in Vijaywada. Studied music, including the folk Harikatha style, from composer Saluri Rajeswara Rao. First break in Calcutta in C. Pullaiah's Shri Krishna Tulabharam. Acted in mythologicals, e.g. Radha in Shri Krishna Leelalu, Maya Bazaar, etc. After Illalu, was associated prominently in melodramas by Ramabrahmam in e.g. Apavadu and Panthulamma, L.V. Prasad and K.V. Reddy. Turned producer with Rajyam Prod. (1952) and made films like Daasi, Nartanasala, Shakuntala and Rangeli Raja.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1935: Shri Krishna Tulabharam; Shri Krishna Leelalu; 1936: Maya Bazaar; 1939: Amma; 1940: Illalu; 1941: Apavadu; 1943: Panthulamma; 1946: Mangalsutram; Narada Naradi; 1948: Drohi; 1949: Gunsundari Katha; 1950: Paramanandayya Sishyulu Katha; Samsaram; 1951: Agni Pareeksha; Akasharaju, Mayalamari, Mayapilla; 1952: Daasi, Prajaseva; 1954: Raju Peda; 1956: Harishchandra; 1958: Ettuku Pai Ettu; 1960: Vimala; 1963: Nartanasala; Iruvar Ullam; 1966: Shakuntala; 1968: Govula Gopanna; 1971: Rangeli Raja.

Lankesh, P. (b. 1935)

Kannada director born in Shimoga Dist., Karnataka. Also major Kannada novelist, poet and playwright. His novel, Biruku (1967), ranks with Ananthamurthy's Samskara (1966) as the pinnacle of the Navya Movement. Acted in film version of Samskara (1970). Other noted works: Kereya Niranu Kerege Chelli (short stories, 1964), Bitchhu (poems, 1967), Sankranthi (play, 1973). Films continue his literary enterprise. Co-scripted Kambhar's Sangeetha (1981). Vociferous political commentator and owner-editor of the down-market weekly tabloid Lankesh Patrike (Est: 1980). Established his own political party to fight the general elections of 1989.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* also act): 1976: Pallavi; 1977: Anurupa; 1979: Khandavideko Mamsavideko; 1980: Ellindalo Bandavaru.

Laxmikant-Pyarelal [Laxmikant Shantarām Kudal kar (1937-98)] and Pyarelal Ramprasad Sharma (b. 1940)

Music composers at the top of their profession in the 70s and 80s. Composed the two biggest hit songs of the late 80s, Ek do teen (from Tezaab) and the Bachchan number Jumma chumma (from Hum). Both musicians started as performers in orchestras, becoming arrangers for Hindi film music, which often included ghosting for composers. Laxmikant learnt the violin with Husnlal while Pyarelal learnt music from the Goan music teacher, Anthony Gonsalves (a memory celebrated in his score for Amar Akbar Anthony). Pyarelal assisted Bulo C. Rani at Ranjit; both assisted Naushad, C. Ramchandra and Kalyanji-Anandji. Their first film as music directors, Parasmani, yielded a major hit, Hansta hua nurani chehra. Broke through with Milan and the Lata Mangeshkar/Mukesh hit, Sawan ka mahina. Real success came in the 70s with their Rajesh Khanna films (Dushman, Hathi Mere Saathi, Do Raaste) and with Raj Kapoor's Bobby. Since then they have worked on many Manmohan Desai films (Dharam Veer, Naseeb), Shekhar Kapur's Mr India and the film that breathed new life into their career, Tezaab, followed by Hum. They tend to ascribe their success to their integration of classical Indian and folk rhythms with electronic synthesizers. The lyrics of their songs are frequently written by Anand Bakshi.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1963: Parasmani; Harishchandra Taramati; 1964: Aaya Toofan; Dosti; Mr X in Bombay, Sant Dnyaneshwar; Sati Savitri; 1965: Boxer; Hum Sub Ustad Hain; Lutera; Shriman Funtoosh; 1966: Aasra; Aaye Din Bahar Ke; Chhota Bhai; Daku

Mangal Singh; Dillagi; Laadla; Mere Lal; Naag Mandir; Pyar Kiye Jaa; Sau Saal Baad; 1967: Anita; Milan Ki Raat; Chhaila Babu; Duniya Nachegi; Farz; Jaak; Milan; Night in London; Patthar Ke Sanam; Shagird; Taqdeer; 1968: Baharon Ki Manzil; Izzat; Mere Humdum; Mere Dost; Raja Aur Runk; Sadhu Aur Shaitan; Spy in Rome; 1969: Aansoo Ban Gaye Phool; Anjaana; Aaya Sawan Jhoom Ke; Dharti Kahe Pukar Ke; Do Bhai; Do Raaste; Inteqam; Jeene Ki Raah; Jigri Dost; Madhavi; Mera Dost; Meri Bhabhi; Pyaasi Shyam; Saajan; Satyakam; Shart; Wapas; 1970: Aan Milo Sajna; Abhinetri; Bachpan; Darpan; Devi; Himmat; Humjoli; Jawab; Jeevan Mrityu; Khilona; Maa Aur Mamta; Man Ki Aankhen; Mastana; Pushpanjali; Sharafat; Suhana Safar; 1971: Aap Aye Bahar Aye; Banphool; Bikhare Moti; Chahat; Dushman; Hathi Mere Saathi; Haseenon Ka Devta; Jal Bin Machhli; Nriya Bin Bijli; Lagan; Man Mandir; Mehboob Ke Mehndi; Mera Gaon Mera Desh; Uphaar; Woh Din Yaad Karo; 1972: Buniyaad; Dastaan; Ek Bechara; Ek Nazar; Gaon Hamara Shaher Tumhara; Gora Aur Kala; Haar Jeet; Jeet; Mom Ki Gudiya; Piya Ka Ghar; Raaste Ka Patthar; Raja Jani; Shadi Ke Baad; Shor; Subah-o-Shyam; Wafaa; Roop Tera Mastana; 1973: Anhonee; Anokhi Ada; Barkha Bahar; Bobby; Daag; Gaddar; Gaai Aur Gori; Gehri Chahat; Insaaf; Jalte Badar; Jwar Bhata; Kachche Dhaage; Kahani Hum Sub Ki; Loafer; Manchali; Nirdosh; Keemat; Suraj Aur Chanda; Sweekar; 1974: Amir Garib; Badla; Bidaai; The Cheat; Dost; Dulhan; Duniya Ka Mela; Free Love; Geeta Mera Naam; Imtehan; Jurm Aur Sazaa; Majboor; Naya Din Nayi Raat; Nirmaan; Pagli; Paise Ki Gudiya; Prem Shastra; Roti; Roti Kapda Aur Makaar; Shandaar; Vaada Tera Vaada; Pocketmaar; Sauda; 1975: Aakhri Dao; Akraman; Anari; Apne Rang Hazaar; Chaitali; Dafaa 302; Lafange; Mere Sajna; Ponga Pandit; Pratigya; Prem Kahani; Sewak; Zinda Dil; Zindagi Aur Toofan; Natak; 1976: Aaj Ka Mahatma; Aap Beeti; Charas; Do Ladkiyan; Das Numbr; Jaaneman; Koi Jeeta Koi Haara; Maa; Nagin; Santan; Naach Utha Sansar; 1977: Adha Din Adhi Raat; Aashiq Hoon Baharon Ka; Amar Akbar Anthony; Anurodh; Apnapan; Chacha Bhatija; Chhaila Babu; Chhota Baap; Chor Sipahi; Dharam Veer; Dildaar; Dream Girl; Imaan Dharam; Jagriti; Kachcha Chor; Kali Raat; Mastan Dada; Ooparwala Jaane; Palkon Ki Chhaon Mein; Parvarish; Thief of Baghdad; Tinku; Prayashchit; 1978: Ahuti; Amar Shakti; Badalte Rishte; Daku Aur Jawan; Dil Aur Deewar; Kala Admi; Main Tulsi Tere Aangan Ki; Phansi; Phool Khile Hain Gulshan Gulshan; Prem Bandhan; Satyam Shivam Sundaram; Sawan Ke Geet; Chakravyuha; 1979: Amar Deep; Dil Ka Heera; Gautam Govinda; Jaani Dushman; Kartavya; Lok Parlok; Maan Apmaan; Magroor; Muqabala; Prem Vivah; Sargam; Suhaag; Yuvraaj; Zalim; Kali Ghata; Chunauti; 1980: Asha; Bandish; Berahem; Choron Ki Baraat; Do Premi; Dostana; Ganga Aur Suraj; Gehrayee; Judaai; Jyoti Bane Jwala; Kala Pani; Karz; Maang Bharo Sajana; Nishana; Patthar Se Takkar; Ram Balram; Yari Dushmani; Hum Paanch; Waqt Ki Deewar; Aas Paas; 1981: Ek Aur Ek Gyarah; Ek Duuje Ke Liye; Ek Hi Bhool; Fifty-

Fifty, Khoon Aur Pani, Khuda Kasam, Kranti, Krodhi, Ladies' Tailor, Meri Awaaz Suno, Naseeb, Pyaasa Sawan, Sharada, Wakil Babu, Raaste Pyar Ke, 1982: Apna Bana Lo, Badle Ki Aag, Baghavat, Deedar-e-Yaar, Do Dishayen, Desh Premi; Ghazab; Insaar; Jeevan Dhara; Jiyo Aur Jeene Do, Main Inteqam Loonga; Mehndi Rang Layegi, Prem Rog, Rajput, Samrat, Taaqat, Teesri Aankh, Teri Maang Sitaron Se Bhar Doon, Davedar, Farz Aur Kanon; Jaanwar, 1983: Andha Kanon; Arpan; Avatar, Bekaraar, Coolie, Hero, Mujhe Insaaf Chahiye, Prem Tapasya, Woh Saat Din, Yeh Ishq Nahin Asaan, Zara Si Zindagi, Agami Kal, 1984: Asha Jyoti, Akalmand, All Rounder, Baazi, Ek Nai Paheli, Ghar Ek Mandir, Inquilab; Jeene Nahin Doonga, John Jani Janardhan, Bad Aur Badnaam; Do Dilon Ki Dastaan; Mera Faisla; Sharara; Zakhmi Sher, Utsav, Pyar Jhukta Nahin, Mera Dost Mera Dushman; Khazana; Pakhandi; Kahan Tak Aasmaan Hai, 1985: Dekha Pyar Tumhara; Ghulam; Jaano; Jawab; Kali Basti; Mera Ghar Mere Bachche; Mera Jawab; Meri Jung; Patthar Dil; Sanjog; Sarfarosh; Sur Sangam; Teri Meherbanian; Yaadon Ki Kasam; Triveni; Aakhri Raasta; 1986: Swati; Aag Aur Shola; Aap Ke Saath; Aisa Pyar Kahan; Amrit; Anjaam; Asli Naqli; Dosti Dushmani; Kala Dhandha Goray Log; Love 86; Mazloom; Naache Mayuri; Naam; Nagina; Naseeb Apna Apna; Pyar Kiya Hai Pyar Kareng; Qati; Sada Suhagar; Swarg Se Sundar; Karma; Loha; 1987: Sansar; Aulad; Hukumat; Insaaf; Insaaf Kaun Karega; Insaaf Ki Pukar; Jaan Hatheli Pe; Jawab Hum Denge; Kudrat Ka Kanon; Madadgaar; Mard Ki Zabaan; Mera Karam Mera Dharam; Mr India; Nazrana; Parivar; Sindoor; Uttar Dakshin; Watan Ke Rakhwale; 1988: Charnon Ki Saugandh; Khatron Ke Khiladi; Pyar Ka Mandir; Pyar Mohabbat; Ram Avatar; Shoorveer; Hamara Khandaan; Biwi Ho To Aisi; Dayavan; Ganga Tere Desh Meir; Tezaab; Janam Janam; Mar Mitenge; Agni; Do Waqt Ki Roti; Inteqam; Qati; Bees Saal Baad; Eeshwar; Yateem; 1989: Gharana; Oonch Neech Beech; Elaan-e-Jung; Nigahen; Santosh; Shehzade; Bhrashtachar; Chaalbaaz; Do Qaidi; Hathyar; Main Tera Dushman; Suryaa; Dost Garibon Ka; Ram Laxhan; Kasam Suhaag Ki; Pati Parmeshwar; Bade Ghar Ki Beti; Paraya Ghar; Sachai Ki Taaqat; Batwara; Naag Nagin; Majboor; Sahebzade; Deshwasi; 1990: Paap Ki Aandhi; Krodh; Pyar Ka Devata; Pyar Ka Karz; Pyar Ka Toofan; Sanam Bewafa; Sher Dil; Shesh Naag; Azad Desh Ke Gulam; Hatimtai; Jeevan Ek Sangharsh; Izzatdar; Krodh; Amiri Garibi; Atishbaaz; Agneepath; Pati Patni Aur Tawaif; Humse Na Takrana; Veeru Dada; Amba; Jamai Raja; Qayamat Ki Raat; Khilaaf; Kanon Ki Zanbeer; 1991: Ajooba; Benaam Badshah; Do Matwale; Pyar Hua Chori Chori; Qurban; Hum; Narasimha; Khoon Ka Karz; Mast Kalandar; Ranabhoomi; Shankara; Akela; Banjarar; Sapnon Ka Mandir; Lakshmanrekha; 1992: Prem Diwani; Humshakal; Heer Ranjha; Angar; Aparadhi; Tiranga; Kshatriya; Roop Ki Rani Choron Ka Raja; 1993: Dil Hi To Hai; Yugandhar; Aashiq Awara; Badi Bahar; Khamnayak; Dil Hai Betaab; Gumrah; Chahoonga Main Tujhe;

Bedardi, 1994: Insaaf Apne Lahoo Se; Tejaswini; Chauraha; Mohabbat Ki Arzoo; 1995: Prem; Paapi Devata; Dilbar; Trimurti.

Leel a, P. (b. 1933)

Together with P. Susheela, Leela is one of the main South Indian singers, with many hits since the late 40s in Tamil, Malayalam, Telugu and Kannada. Born in Chittoor, North Kerala. Film debut in Kankanam (1947); broke through with songs in Gunsundari Katha (1949). Playback singer in more than 400 films. Has been on a long-term contract with Columbia Gramophone, releasing over 250 records for their label. Made numerous radio appearances in Madras.

Leel avathi (b. 1938)

Versatile Kannada actress born in Mangalore, Karnataka. Joined M.V. Subbaiah Naidu's stage group aged 3. Was a well-known Kannada stage actress when she debuted in film as the comedienne in Bhakta Prahlada. Her first lead role was in Mangalya Yoga. Achieved stardom as Rani Honamma, her first film with Rajkumar, going on to do c.20 more films with him, dominating Kannada cinema for over a decade. Acted in melodramas for Kanagal (Gejje Pooje, Sharapanjara) and developed into a dramatically intense actress, often cast as a mother; also known for light comedy.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1958: Bhakta Prahlada; Mangalya Yoga; 1959: Dharma Vijaya; Raja Malaya Simhan; Jagajyothi Basaveshwara; Abba! A Hudgi; 1960: Ranadheera Kanteerava; Dashavtara; Rani Honamma; 1961: Kaivara Mahatme; Kantheredu Nodu; Kittur Chanamma; 1962: Bhoodana; Galigopura; Karuney Kutumbada Kannu; Ratnamanjari; Vidhi Vilasa; Valar Pirai; Sumaithangi; 1963: Nanda Deepa; Kanya Ratna; Jeevana Taranga; Malli Madhuve; Kulavadhu; Kalitharu Henne; Bevu Bella; Veera Kesari/Bandhipotu; Valmiki; Mana Mechhida Madadi; Sant Tukaram; 1964: Marmayogi; Shivarathri Mahatme; Tumbidakoda; 1965: Naga Pooja; Chandrasaha; Vatsalya; Veera Vikrama; Ide Mahasudina; Madhuve Madi Nodu; 1966: Thoogu Deepa; Prema Mayi; Paduka Pattabhishekham; Mohini Bhasmasura; 1967: Gange Gauri; 1968: Bhagya Devathe; Mammathe; Anna Thamma; Attegondukala Sosegondukala; 1969: Kalpa Vruksha; Brindavana; 1970: Gejje Pooje; Aparajite; Boregowda Bangaloruge Banda; Sukha Samsara; Aaru Mooru Ombattu; 1971: Sharapanjara; Signalman Siddappa; Sothu Geddavalu; Sipayi Ramu; 1972: Naa Mechhida Huduga; Nagara Haavu; Dharmapatni; 1973: Sahadharmini; Muruvare Vajragalu; Premapasha; 1974: Upasane; Maha Thyaga; Bhakta Kumbhara; Professor Huchuraya; Maga Mommaga; Naan Avaniilai; Aval Oru Thodarkathai; Aval Oru Thodarkatha; Devara Gudi; Idu Namma Desha; 1975: Koodi Balona; Kalla Kulla; Bhagya Jyothi; Bili Hendthi; Henu Samsarada Kannu; Katha Sangama; Hosilu Mettida Henu; 1976: Makkala

Bhagya; Bangarada Gudi; Collegeranga; Na Ninna Mareyalare; Phalithamsha; 1977: Deepa; Dhanalakshmi; Mugdha Manava; Kumkuma Rakshe; Veera Sindhoora Lakshmana; Avargal; 1978: Devadas; Kiladi Kittu; Matu Tappada Maga; Kiladi Jodi; Gammathu Goodacharulu; Vasanthalakshmi; 1979: Karthika Deepam; Idi Kathakadu; Na Ninna Bidalare; Pakka Kalla; Vijaya Vikram; Savathiya Neralu; 1980: Nanna Rosha Nooru Varusha; Kulla Kulli; Auto Raja; Subbi Subakka Suvvalali; Namma Mane Sose; Simha Jodi; Vasantha Geethe; Nyaya Neethi Dharma; Jata; Kappu Kola; Mr Rajanikant; 1981: Thaiya Madilalli; Kulaputra; Hana Balavo Jana Balavo; Edeyuru Siddhalingseshwara/ Siddalingseshwara Mahima; Leader Vishwanath; Bhoomige Banda Bhagavanta; Devara Aata; Galimathu; Garjane; Mane Mane Kathe; Mareyada Haadu; Muniyana Madari; Prema Pallavi; Shikari; Snehitara Sava; Bhagyavanthedi; 1982: Chellida Rakta; Gunanodi Henu Kodu; Then Sittukka; 1983: Sididedda Sahodara; Mududida Tavare Aralitu; Samarpane; 1984: Shrivana Banthu; Endina Ramayana; Chanakya; Olavu Moodidaga; 1985: Balondu Uyyale; Ajeya; Nanu Nanna Hendthi; Pudhir; Hosa Baalu; Savira Sullu; Balondu Uyyale; Giri Bale; Jwalamukhi; Lakshmi Kataksha; Sneha Sambandha; 1986: Bettada Thai; Katha Nayaka; KD No 1; Mrigalaya; Seelu Nakshatra; 1987: Premaloka; Olavina Udugore; Huli Hebbuli; 1988: Varna Chakra; 1989: Yuga Purusha; Gagana; Abhimana; Doctor Krishna; 1990: Golmaal Radhakrishna; Tiger Gangu; Golmaal Bhaga II; 1992: Nanjunda.

Ludhianvi, Sahir (1921-80)

Urdu lyricist and major poet born in Ludhiana. Originally called Abdul Hayee. Author of two anthologies (Talkhian, 1945, and Parchaiyan) and several books, including Ao Koi Khawab Banen and Gaata Jaye Banjara. Member of the PWA. Worked extensively as a journalist, editing the journal Adab-e-Latif, and briefly Pritlari and Shahrab in Delhi. Moved to Bombay (1949) and debuted in films with Mahesh Kaul's Naujawan (1951). First major success was with Guru Dutt's Baazi (1951). Worked with Navketan productions and formed a team with composer S.D. Burman (e.g. Taxi Driver, 1954). Transferred the progressive Urdu literature exemplified by poet Faiz Ahmed Faiz to the Hindi film lyric, e.g. the songs in Naya Daur (1957, esp. Saathi haath badhana), Phir Subah Hogi (1958, esp. Woh subah kabhi to aayegi) and all the classic songs of Pyaasa (1957). Also claimed the influence of Mayakovsky and Neruda. His songs continue to influence all forms of radical music (e.g. that of street theatre groups) while remaining popular favourites.

Luhar, Chimanlal Muljibhoy (1901-48)

Hindi director. Chemistry graduate from Bombay University. Noted author and critic in early 1920s, e.g. in journals like Vismi Sadi, Navchetan and Bombay Chronicle. Started career as laboratory assistant at Kohinoor Studio in the 20s. Became noted cameraman working e.g. for several documentaries with Bombay-based production unit K.D. Brothers, apparently under tutelage of an English cameraman affiliated to the Prince of Wales's official entourage during his tour of India. Following a brief stint at Saurashtra Film in Rajkot (1925), and a longer one at Krishna Film, where he shot around 20 films, he joined Sharda with Dagabaz Duniya (1926). His later films at Sharda included several Master Vithal stunt movies (e.g. Gul Badan, Kanak Kanta, both 1928). Wrote and shot Harshadrai Mehta's costumed spectacle Janjirne Jankare (1927), praised by the ICC Report. Turned producer (1931) with partner Harshadrai Mehta (Mehta-Luhar Prod.) continuing in the Master Vithal vein of stunt and adventure thrillers starring Navinchandra. Then a partner in Sharda (1933) and a director at Sagar (1934-40), where he began signing his name to his films and introduced the stunt genre. Later directed Prakash Pics (1941-6).

📌 FILMOGRAPHY: 1932: Sassi Punnu, 1935: Silver King, Talash-e-Haq, 1936: Do Diwane/Be Kharab Jar, 1937: Captain Kirti Kumar, 1938: Dynamite, 1939: Kaun Kisika, Seva Samaj, 1940: Saubhagya, 1941: Darshan, 1942: Station Master, 1943: School Master, 1944: Us Paar, 1946: Bindiya.

Madan Theatres

Giant distribution corporation and studio which dominated India's silent cinema. Built by Jamshedji Framji Madan (1856-1923) into one of the country's premier Parsee theatre companies. J.F. Madan came from a middle-class Bombay Parsee family of theatre enthusiasts: his brother Khurshedji was a partner in the Original Victoria Theatrical Club while Jamshedji and another brother, Pestonji, started as actors. Jamshedji acted in Nusserwanji Parekh's Sulemani Shamsher (1873, produced by Elphinstone), while Pestonjee played lead roles in two famous plays, Eduljee Khori's Gul-e-Bakavali and Jehangir, staged by Dadabhai Thunthi. In the 1890s, J.F. Madan bought two prominent theatre companies, the Elphinstone and the Khatau-Alfred, including their creative staff and the rights to their repertoire. Shifted his base to Calcutta in 1902, establishing J.F. Madan & Sons (maintaining his other interests like pharmaceuticals). By 1919, J.F. Madan & Sons had become the joint stock company Madan Theatres, running the Elphinstone Theatrical Co. (expanding from the Elphinstone Picture Palace and the ancestor of the Elphinstone Bioscope) and its flagship organisation, the Corinthian Theatre. They employed several of the leading Urdu-Hindi playwrights (Kashmiri, Betaab) and stars (Patience Cooper, Seeta Devi). Some historians claim that J.F. Madan started showing films in a tent bioscope in 1902 on the Calcutta maidan, but it is more likely that the Madans did not seriously get into film until 1905, financing some of Jyotish Sarkar's documentaries (e.g. Great Bengal Partition Movement, 1905) which they presented at the Elphinstone. In 1907 the Elphinstone followed the Minerva and Star theatres (see Hiralal Sen) and went into exhibition and distribution, winning the agency rights for Pathé, who also represented First National. They expanded by buying or leasing theatres located in urban areas with European residents, commanding higher ticket prices and catering to the British armed forces before and during WW1. On J.F. Madan's death, the third of his five sons, Jeejeebhoy Jamshedji Madan, took over and expanded the empire, continuing to direct some of the company's films. By 1927 the Madan distribution chain controlled c.1/2 of India's permanent cinemas. At their peak they owned 172 theatres and earned half the national box office. Up to WW1 they showed mainly British films supplied by the Rangoon-based London Film, but after the war they imported Metro and United Artists product, mostly bought 'blind' with rights for the entire subcontinent. Many of these they appear to have distributed as their own productions, e.g. Wages of Sin (1924) and Flame of Love (1926), which Virchand Dharamsey's recent filmography of silent cinema (Light of Asia, 1994) identifies as imports, contrary to the claims made in their initial advertising. By the mid-20s they were the first of the five major importers of Hollywood films, followed by Pathé, Universal, Globe and Pancholi's Empire distributors. In the silent era, their exhibition and distribution were more important than their production work, mainly making shorts for export until Satyavadi Raja Harishchandra (1917) and Dotiwala's Bilwamangal (1919; the first Bengali feature) both proved successful. Their early features were mainly filmed plays, converting their playwrights into scenarists and their actors into stars. Many were directed by C. Leland, formerly a Pathé man, and later by Jyotish Bannerjee. Claimed to have done international co-productions, although Savitri (1923) made by Giorgio Mannini for Cines in Rome and starring Rina De Liguoro opposite Angelo Ferrari, probably was not co-produced but only released by Madan. However, he did work with the Italian cineaste E.D. Liguoro and cameraman T. Marconi. In the early 20s, the Madans also acquired the rights to the major 19th C. Bengali novelist Bankimchandra Chattopadhyay's writings, forming the basis of their 'literary film' genre which came to dominate Bengali cinema for several decades. By the end of the silent era the group had become too large for its managerial structure. It invested heavily into sound after it premiered Universal's Melody of Love at the Elphinstone Bioscope (1928) and made the expensive Shirin Farhad (1931, narrowly beaten by Alam Ara as India's first sound film), Amar Choudhury's Jamai Sasthi (1931, the first Bengali sound feature) and Indrasabha (1932). Their closure in the late 30s is usually blamed on a failed deal with Columbia but this may only have put the final seal on a decline caused by crippling sound conversion costs, the stabilisation of film imports and the spread of the more efficient managing-agency system able to attract more speculative financing.

Madgul kar , Gajanan Digambar (1919-77)

Marathi scenarist, songwriter, actor and poet. First film as lyric writer: Bedekar's Pahila Palna (1942), which was also his acting debut. Achieved prominence in the 50s via his popular film songs on the radio and on discs which, following the spread of playback, evolved the bhava geet: orchestrated songs of about three minutes duration using simple emotive lyrics. His texts were mainly sung and orchestrated by Sudhir Phadke, their Geet Ramayan record series of 1957 remaining very popular with the Marathi middle class and a precursor of the 70s bhajan craze. Often wrote for Raja Paranjpe (Jivacha Sakha, 1948; Pudhcha Paool, 1950; Lakhachi Goshta and Pedgaonche Shahane, both 1952; Oon Paos, 1954; Ganget Ghoda Nhala, 1955; Andhala Magto Ek Dola and Deoghar, both 1956; Pathlaag, 1964). This work dominated the Marathi cinema in the 50s and 60s and is associated with the shift, on the formation of the state of Maharashtra, to a concern with Marathi identity accompanied by the creation of industrial infrastructures (and audiences) based on regional capital. First script, Shantaram's Lokshahir Ramjoshi/Matwala Shayar Ramjoshi (1947; also act), launched the gamin chitrapat genre of 'rural' film typically using dialect, located in a village and telling of a power struggle between a good peasant lad and an evil sarpanch (village elder). Also wrote scripts for Dinkar D. Patil, the best-known Marathi director in the genre (Baap Mazha Brahmachari and Prem Andhala Asta, both 1962). However, where Patil used the genre as an indigenous version of the western, Madgulkar's scripts conveyed a sense of political awareness in line with e.g. Vyankatesh Madgulkar's stories about rural characters. Wrote prose melodramas, e.g. for Dharmadhikari (e.g. Bala Jo Jo Re, 1951; Stree Janma Hi Tujhi Kahani, 1952). Also adapted mythologicals and historicals to the studios' industrial requirements (e.g. Maya Bazaar, 1949; Shri Krishna Darshan, 1950; Narveer Tanaji, 1952). Acted in e.g. Pedgaonche Shahane, Jeet Kiski (both 1952), Banwasi, Adalat (both 1948).

Madhu

Malayalam actor and director introduced by Kariat and Bhaskaran in the early 1960s. Originally Madhavan Nair, born in Trivandrum, Kerala. Graduate of the Benares Hindu University, later diploma in acting from the National School of Drama. Together with Sathyan and Prem Nazir, he defined Malayali machismo in commercial productions, often playing the sad and suffering lover. After Chemmeen, which gave him a reputation as a character actor, acted regularly in independent productions (e.g. P.N. Menon's Olavum Theeravum, Adoor Gopalakrishnan's Swayamvaram). In recent films like Ottayadi Paathakal he became better known for his emphatic playing than for his more numerous conventional starring roles. His 'offbeat' reputation was enhanced by his first directorial effort, Priya, featuring Bengali actress Lili Chakraborty, which received much critical attention in Kerala. An admirer of Bengali culture, he chose to play the Bengali commando in Abbas' national integration war movie Saat Hindustani. Founded the Uma Studio, Trivandrum. Known in the 90s for producing children's films.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1963:

Moodupadam, Ninamaninja Kalpadukal, Ammeye Kannan; 1964: Thacholi Othenan, Kuttikkuppayam, Manavatti, Adya Kiranangal; Bhargavi Nilayam; 1965: Zubaida, Kaliyodam, Kalyanaphoto, Ammu, Mayavi, Jeevitha Yatra; Kattupookal, Pattu Thoovala; Murappennu, Thommente Makkal, Sarpakadu; Chemmeen; 1966: Manikya Kottaram, Puthri, Archana, Karuna, Tilottama; 1967: Ramanar, Udyogastha, Lady Doctor, Karutharathrigal, Aval, Kadhija, Anveshichu Kandatiyilla, Ashwamedham, Nagarame Nandi, Chekuthante Kotta, Ollathu Mathi; 1968: Viplavakarikal, Karutha Pournami, Manaswini, Vazhipizhacha Santhathi, Kadal, Thulabharam, Ragini, Adhyapika; 1969: Vila Kuranja Manushyar, Veetu Mrugham, Almaram, Janmabhoomi, Kuruthikalam, Nadhi, Velliyazhcha, Virunnukari, Saat Hindustani, Olavum Theeravum; 1970: Ambalapravu, Palunku Pathram, Stree, Bhikara Nimishankal, Thurakatha Vathil, Abhayam, Nilakatha Chalanangal, Swapnangal, Kakathampurati, Priya; 1971: Karakanakadal, Line Bus, Ummanchu, Sindooracheppu, Vilakku Vangiya Veena, Kochaniyathi, Vithukal, Moonnupukka, Abhijathyam, Inquilab Zindabad, Sarasayya; 1972: Preethi, Chemparathi, Aradi Manninte Janmi, Panimudakkur, Devi, Manushya Bandhangal, Nadan Premam, Pulliman, Ini Oru Janmam Tharu, Gandharvakshetram, Azhimukham, Snehadeepame Mizhi Thurakku, Swayamvaram, Putrakameshti, Lakshyam, Teerthayatra, *Sathi; 1973: Enippadikal, Thiruvabharanam, Udayam, Chenda, Manushya Puthran, Police Ariyaruthu, Swapnam, Soundarya Pooja, Kaadu (Mal), Nakhangal, Chukku, Yamini, Divya Darshanam, Thekkan Kattu, Madhavikutty, Swargaputhri; 1974: Oru Pidi Ari, Yauvanam, Bhoomidevi Pushpiniyayi, Swarna Malsiyam, *Manyashri Vishwamithran, *Neela Kannukal, Mazhakkaru; 1975: Sammanam, Sindhu, *Akkaldama, *Kamam Krodham Moham, Omana Kunju; 1976: *Dheere Sameere Yamuna Theere, *Theekkanal, Amma, Aparadhi, Hridayam Oru Kshetram, Kanyadanam, Manasa Veena, Muthu, Nurayum Pathayum, Samasya, Themmedi Velappan, Yakshaganam; 1977: A Nimisham, Akale Akasam, Itha Ivide Vare, Jalatarangam, Kaithapoova, Kavilamma, Nalumani Pookkal, Needhi Peedham, Poojakkedukatha Pookkal, Rowdy Rajamma, Santha Oru Devatha, Saritha, Vidarunna Mottugal, Yuddha Kandam, *Aradhana; 1978: Agni, Asthamayam, Avar Jeevikkunu, Beena, EE Manohara Theeram, Inan Inan Mathram, Ithanende Vazhi, Itha Oru Manushyar, Kanyaka, Randu Penkuttikal, Rowdy Ramu, Simantini, Snehathinte Mukhangal, Snehikkan Samayamilla, Society Lady, Uthrada Rathri, Vadagaikku Oru Hridayam, Yeetta; 1979: Ward No. 7, Kaliyankattu Nili, Sudhikalasham, Edavazhiyile Pucha Mindappucha, Enikku Inan Swantham, Hridayathinte Nirangal, Kayalum Kayarum, Krishna Parunthu, Simhachanam, Oru Ragam Pala Thalam, Jeevitham Oru Ganam, Pratiksha, Anubhavangale Nandi, Agni Parvatham, Iniyethra Sandhyakal, Kathirmandapam, Manushiyam, Prabhata Sandhya, Pushyaram, Venalil Oru Mazha; 1980: Pratishodhi, Muthichippikal, Ambala Vilakku, Akalangalil Abhayam, Rajanigandhi, Ithile Vannavar, Meer, Swantham Enna Padam, Deepam, Theeram Thedunnavar, Vaiki Vanna Vasantham, Enna Inan Thedunnu, Theekadal, Yagam; 1981: Pinnenyum Pookunna Kadu, Arikkari Ammu, Dhandha Gopuram, Thusharam, Archana Teacher, Orikkalkoodi, Akramanam, Grihalakshmi, Ira Thedunna Manushyar, Kolilakkam, Raktham, Sambhavam, Tharavu; 1982: Kartavyam, Inan Ekananu, Arambham, Ayudham, Padayottam; 1983: Bandham, Ana, Adhipathyam, Angam, Arabikadal, Kodungattu, Mortuary, Nanayam, Paalam, Passport, Pinninvalu, Rathi Layam, Samrambham, Yuddham; 1984: Alakadalinnakkare, Ariyatha Veethigal, Attuvanchi Ulanjappol, Chakkarauama, Edavellakku Sesham, Ithiri Poove Chuvannapoove, Jeevitham, Kurisuyuddham, Manase Ninakku Mangalam, Oru Painkillikatha; Thirakkil Alpa Samayam, Vellom; 1985: Ayanam, Chorakku Chora, Evide Ee Theerath, Guruji Oru Vakkur, Janakeeya Kodathi, Kannaram Pothi Pothi, Katha Ithuvare, Orikkal Oridathu, Pachavelicham; 1986: *Oru Yuga Sandhya, *Udayam Padinjaru; 1988: Simon Peter Ninakku Vendi, Aparan, Oozham, Witness, Athirthigal, Oru Sayathnathinte Swapnam, Unnikrishnante Adyathe Christmas, Ayarthi Thollayirathi Irupathomnu; 1989: Mudra, Devdas, Jathakam, Naduvazhigal, *Adikkurippu; 1990: Ottayadi Paathakal, *Mounam Sammadham; 1991: Kadalora Kattu, Abhayam, Gothram; 1992: Chambalkulam Thachan; 1993: Ekalaivar, Sabarimalayil Thanka Sooryodhayam; 1994: Malappuram Haji Mahanaya Joji; 1995: Simhavaalan Menon, Manikya Chempazhukka, Kattile Thadi Thevarude Aana.

Madhubal a (1933-69)

Screen name of the Hindi-Urdu actress Begum Mumtaz Jehan. Born in Delhi, she started as Baby Mumtaz at Bombay Talkies (Basant). Her first major hit was in Kidar Sharma's Neel Kamal, starring opposite Raj Kapoor, but her distinct persona was concretised in Lal Dupatta and in Kamal Amrohi's ghost story, Mahal, playing the gardener's daughter. Often acted with Dilip Kumar, e.g. Amar and her most famous performance as Anarkali, 'the living creation of Mughal sculptors', in Mughal-e-Azam. Her most durable reputation rested on musical comedies, esp. with her husband Kishore Kumar (Chalti Ka Naam Gaadi, Madhubala and Raj Kapoor in Do Ustad (1959)

Dhake Ki Malma, Half Ticket, Jhumroo) and in Guru Dutt's Mr and Mrs '55. Also played in Shakti Samanta (Howrah Bridge) and Dev Anand (Kala Pani) whodunits. Produced D.N. Madhok's Naata through her own Madhubala Co. Often nostalgically considered the greatest and most glamorous star of the 50s Hindi musical, probably because she died before she was relegated to supporting roles like Nutan and Waheeda Rehman. Had started directing Farz Aur Ishq just before she died.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1942: Basant, 1944:

Mumtaz Mahal; 1945: Dhanna Bhagat; 1946: Phulwari, Pujari; 1947: Khubsoorat Duniya, Neel Kamal, Chittor Vijay, Dil Ki Rani, Mere Bhagwan; 1948: Amar Prem, Lal Dupatta, Parai Aag; 1949: Daulat, Dulari, Imtehan, Aparadhi, Mahal, Paras, Neki Aur Badi, Singaar, Sipahiya; 1950: Beqasoor, Hanste Aansoor, Madhubala, Nirala, Nishana, Pardes; 1951: Aaram, Badal, Khazana, Nadaam, Nazneer, Saiyan, Tarana; 1952: Sangdil, Saqi; 1953: Armaan, Rail Ka Dibba; 1954: Amar, Bahut Din Huye; 1955: Mr and Mrs '55, Naata, Naqab, Tirandaz; 1956: Dhake Ki Malma, Rajhaath, Shirin Farhad; 1957: Ek Saal, Yahudi Ki Ladki, Gateway of India; 1958: Baghi Sipahi, Chalti Ka Naam Gaadi, Howrah Bridge, Kala Pani, Phagur, Police; 1959: Do Ustad, Insaan Jaag Utha, Kal Hamara Hai; 1960: Barsaat Ki Raat, Jaali Note, Mehlon Ke Khwab, Mughal-e-Azam; 1961: Boy Friend, Jhumroo, Passport; 1962: Half Ticket; 1964: Sharabi; 1970: Jwala.

Mahapatra, Manmohan (b. 1951)

First Oriya art-house director; later made ruralist melodramas. Graduate from Utkal University, then from the FTII (1975). Début feature was a critical success, establishing the landscape of feudal Orissa as the setting for most of his films. His most acclaimed films are Neerab Jhada and Klanta Aparanha. Early films present a bleak and cynically tragic view which, according to the director, emanates from local conditions, although the cinematic idiom deployed is similar to that of the Assamese director Bhabendranath Saikia.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1975: Anti-Memoirs (Sh); 1982: Seeta Raati, Voices of Silence (Sh); 1983: Konarak: The Sun Temple (Sh); 1984: Neerab Jhada; 1985: Klanta Aparanaha; 1986: Trisandhya; Kuhuri; 1987: Majhi Pahacha; 1988: Kichu Smriti Kichu Anubhooti; Nishitha Swapna; 1989: Tathapi; Andha Diganta; 1990: Agni Veena; 1992: Bhinna Samaya;

Mahapatra, Nirad

Oriya director born in Bhadrak. Educated in Bhubaneswar. Interrupted his studies in political science to attend the FTII. Graduated (1971) and returned to Orissa but found no opportunity to make films. Lectured at the FTII (1972-4). Writer and film society organiser in Pune, Bombay and Orissa. Editor of Oriya film journal, Mana Phasal. Returned to live in Bhubaneswar, where his first feature Maya Miriga was a major critical success.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1971: Sunmica (Sh); Confrontation (Doc); 1975: Dhauligiri Shantistupa (Sh); 1978: The Story of Cement (Doc); 1983: Maya Miriga; 1986: Chhau Dances of Mayurbhanj (Doc); 1987: Pat Paintings of Orissa (Doc); 1988: The Vanishing Forests (Doc); 1990: New Horizon (Doc); 1991: Aparajita (Doc).

Maharashtra Film Company

Set up in 1918 by Baburao Painter in Kolhapur with a home-made camera, initial capital of Rs 15,000 from Tanibai Kagalkar and a dedicated team of disciples. Their first successful production was Sairandhri (1920), eliciting praise from B.G. Tilak. Sardar Nesrikar persuaded the Shahu Maharaj to give him land, an electric generator and equipment. A contemporary of Phalke's Hindustan Film, Maharashtra Film made a greater impact on the Marathi cinema with the first films of V. Shantaram (Netaji Palkar, 1927), Damle-Fattelal (Maharathi Karna, 1928) and Bhalji Pendharkar (Rani Rupmati, 1931). After 26 films, the studio lost Shantaram, Damle, Fattelal and Baburao Pendharkar who set up Prabhat in 1929. Painter left in 1930 and joined Shalini Cinetone, set up for him by the Kolhapur royal family. The company closed in 1932 after some expensive disasters: Moti Gidwani's Nisha Sundari (1929) and Baburao Patel's Kismet (1932).

Mahendra, Balu (b. 1946)

Tamil cameraman and director, born in Sri Lanka as Benjamin Mahendra. Son of a college professor. Voracious film viewer; developed an early interest in photography. Graduated from London University and from the FTII (1969) as cinematographer, going on to shoot Nellu (1974) for Kariat. Pioneered innovative camera style for colour in South India. Worked mainly in the Malayalam avant-garde shooting films for Sethumadhavan and P.N. Menon, Telugu directors Bapu and K. Vishwanath and Tamil director J. Mahendran. Made his first film in Kannada (Kokila); later work mainly in Malayalam and Tamil. Regards his Malayalam films, made with greater freedom in a less demanding economic system, as his personal work. Pioneered a new brand of Tamil art cinema with Veedu and Sandhya Ragam. Films have a strong literary base but rely on sharply defined visuals (often using natural light) sparse dialogue and few characters. The greater emphasis on cinematicism, making dialogue secondary to visual, cleared the way for Mani Rathnam's films. Shot Rathnam's debut Pallavi Anupallavi. His moral tales are often concerned with the status of women (Kokila), the aged (Sandhya Ragam), sexual violence (his most famous film, Moondram Pirai) or bureaucracy (Veedu). Although he claims an affiliation with the realism of De Sica and Satyajit Ray, film-maker and critic K. Hariharan points to similarities with the French New Wave's fascination with the American cinema from which Mahendra borrowed themes and stylistic devices: Moodupani was based on Psycho (1960); Olangal borrows from Dick Richards' Man, Woman and Child (1982); Irattaival Kuruvi is based partly on Blake Edwards's Micki and Maude (1984) and Azhiyada Kolangal borrows from Summer of '42 (1971). The emphasis on psychological realism at times combines with popular elements such as calendar art and novelettes (e.g. the climactic scene of Moondram Pirai). Writes, edits and shoots own films as well as closely controlling make-up, costumes, etc.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1977: Kokila; 1979: Azhiyada Kolangal; 1980: Moodupani; Manju Moodal Manju; 1982: Moondram Pirai; Nireekshana; Olangal; 1983: Sadma; Oomakuyil; 1984: Neengal Kettava; 1985: Un Kannil Neer Vazhinda; Yathra; 1987: Rendu Thokala Titta; Irattaival Kuruvi; Veedu; 1989: Sandhya Ragam; 1991: Vanna Vanna Pookkal; Chakravyuham; 1993: Marupadiyam; 1995: Sati Leelavathi.

Mahendran, J. (b. 1939)

Popular 80s Tamil playwright and director, originally J. Alexander; born in Madras. Graduated from Madras University. Assistant editor of Cho Ramaswamy's political fortnightly Tughlaq; author of stage hits Thanga Padakkam and Rishimoolam (1978). His story Sivakamiyin Selvan was filmed by C.V. Rajendran (1974). Script debut adapting Thanga Padakkam, filmed by P. Madhavan (1974). Assisted director A. Kasilingam. First film: Mullum Malarum, shot by Balu Mahendra from a story by Umachandran in which hero Rajnikant exerts an infantile domination over his sister's life. Early work, including adaptations from Tamil literature (e.g. Udhiri Pookal is based on Pudumaipithan's story Sittrana), often portrayed women facing loveless marriages (cf. Puttadha Poothukkal, in which a married woman has an affair and gets pregnant, her child being accepted by her impotent husband).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1978: Mullum Malarum; 1979: Udhiri Pookal, Puttadha Poothukkal; 1980: Nenjathai Killathe; Johnny; 1981:

Nandu; 1982: Azhagiya Kanney; Metti; 1984: Kayi Kodukkum Kayi; 1986: Kannukku Mai Ezhuthu; 1992: Oor Panjayathu.

Majid, Abdul (b. 1932)

Assamese director. Started as playwright with Banchita, Dhuli Makoti, Char, Sihat Ahise, Chor et al. Entered films as actor in Nip Barua's Ranga Police (1958). Produced, wrote and directed his films, acting in c.25. Best-known film: Chameli Memsaab, deploying a staid narrative progression weaving romance into clearly defined themes.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1968: Maram Trishna; 1975: Chameli Memsaab; 1977: Banahansa; 1978: Banjui; 1981: Ponakan; 1990: Uttarkaal.

Majumdar, Nagendra (b. 1894)

Hindi director and actor born and educated in Baroda, Gujarat. Employed as a policeman in Baroda, he became involved in the amateur theatre (1923-5) and directed Gujarati plays. Made his debut at Laxmi, acting in R.S. Choudhury's Asha (1926), then joined Royal Art Studio as director. Directed some Indulal Yagnik productions (Kalina Ekka, Rasili Rani), worked at Imperial directing Qatil Kathiyani, at the Kaiser-e-Hind production house and at Sharda studio. Made several love stories at Ranjit with the studio's leading stars E. Bilimoria and Madhuri. His sound films are mainly in the stunt genre, adapting Arabian Nights-type adventures, but he also made some Marathi films such as the historical Shatakarta Shivaji. Set up Pratima Pics (1933) and Honey Talkies (1934). Scripted K.B. Athavale's Sant Tukaram at Sharda Movietone (1932). Illness forced him to retire. His son Ninu Majumdar became a film composer.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1926: Panima Aag; 1928: Pavagarh Nu Patan; Punarlagnani Patni; Qatil Kathiyani; Vasavadatta; Pandav Patrani; 1929: Jayant; 1930: Albelo Sawar; Jagmagti Jawani; Kalina Ekka; Khandana Khe; Rasili Rani; 1931: Diwano; Gwalax; Kashmir Nu Gulab; Premi Pankhida; Pardesi Ni Preet; 1932: Bahuroopi Bazaar; Khubsoorat Khawasar; Matrubhoomi; Ranghelo Rajput (all St); Raas Vilas; 1933: Mirza Sahiban; Patit Pawar; 1934: Kala Wagh; Mera Imaan; Shatakarta Shivaji; 1935: Alladdin-II; Rangila Nawab; 1936: Kimiagar; 1937: Laheri Lutera; 1946: Swadesh Seva; Talwarwala.

Majumdar, Phani (1911-94)

Hindi and Bengali director born in Faridpur (now Bangladesh). Also worked in other languages. Graduated from Carmichael College (1930); worked as a typist. Employed by P.C. Barua (1931-7) as stenographer and later as assistant director and scenarist for Mukti (1937). Also scripted Prafulla Roy's Abhigyan (1938). First film: Street Singer, a big New Theatres hit which added a new dimension to the K.L. Saigal persona initially moulded by Barua. Kanan Devi is the female lead and Rai Chand Boral's music included Saigal's biggest hit song, Babul Mora. Doctor is based on a Sailajananda Mukherjee story and scored by Pankaj Mullick. Moved to Bombay (1941) and worked at Laxmi Prod. making musicals. Associated with New Maharashtra Film as producer; also made films at Bombay Talkies, at Ranjit and as a freelancer. Late 40s work became more 'socially conscious' (Insaaf, Hum Bhi Insaan Hain, Andolan). Baadbaan is the last film of Bombay Talkies, financed by the studio's employees in an attempt to stave off bankruptcy. Like Balkrishna Narayan Rao, he made several features for Shaws Malay Film Prod. (1956-9) in Singapore, starring e.g. the singer P. Ramlee in Hang Tuah, one of the earliest Malay colour features, and in Kaseh Sayang, a successful war movie about the Japanese invasion; also made Long House/ Rumah Panjang, an English-Malay bilingual about Borneo headhunters shot on location, and his last film before returning to India, Circus, a Chinese-Malay bilingual. The prominent Malaysian film-maker Jamil Sulong assisted Majumdar on 6 of the 8 films. Later wrote the travelogue Borneo Ke Naramund Shikari (1983). Also made films in less familiar Indian languages: Magadhi (Bhaiya) and Maithili (Kanyadaan), having already made a Punjabi film (Chambe Di Kali) while still in Calcutta. Also made several documentaries and children's shorts, such as Saral Biswas based on a Tagore poem, Veer Purush and TV series such as Bulbul and the 52-episode Our India (1993). Best-known films include Tamasha and Baadbaan, starring Ashok Kumar. Script credits include Sharan Agarwal's Pratima Aur Payal (1977) and Raghunath Jhalani's Badalte Rishte (1978).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1938: *Street Singer/ Saathi; 1939: *Kapal Kundala; 1940: *Doctor; 1941: *Chambe Di Kali; 1942: *Aparadh; 1943: *Mohabbat; 1944: *Meena; 1945: *Devadasi; 1946: *Door Chalein; Insaaf; 1948: *Hum Bhi Insaan Hain; 1951: *Andolan; 1952: *Goonj; Tamasha; 1954: *Baadbaan, Dhobi Doctor, Two Worlds (Doc); 1955: *Faraar; 1955: *Hang Tuah; 1956: *Anakku Sazali; 1957: *Kaseh Sayang, Long House/ Rumah Panjang; 1958: *Masyarakat Pincang, Sri Menanti, Doctor; 1959: *Circus, Saral Biswas; 1960: *Veer Purush; 1961: *Bhaiya, Savitri; 1962: *Aarti; 1965: *Birthday, Akashdeep, Oonche Log, Kanyadaan, Mamata; 1966: *Toofan Mein Pyar Kahan; 1968: *Apna Ghar Apni Kahani; 1969: *Munna; 1975: *Shri Aurobindo. Glimpses of His Life (Doc/3 parts); 1989: *Babul; 1990: *Fire (Sh); 1990: *Common Accidents (Doc).

Majumdar, Sushil (1906-88)

Bengali and Hindi director born in Komilla, Tripura (now Bangladesh). Educated at Shantiniketan (1911-21) and at Kashi Vidyapeeth, Benares, and studied engineering at Jadavpur. Participated in non-co-operation agitations (1922). Actor for the amateur University Institute theatre group, then in the Calcutta Theatres stage company Manmohan Theatres (1927). Manager of touring company in Chittagong. Joined Bengal Movie & Talkie Film (e.g. Jeevan Prabhat), and then P.C. Barua's studio (1930). Directed Barua's short comedy Ekada and Debaki Bose's Aparadhi and Nishir Dak. Early work strongly influenced by Calcutta theatres' stage conventions (e.g. Tarubala), but also moved into new directions, e.g. Muktisnani's depiction of political corruption. Later work, esp. Tulsi Lahiri's scripts, moved closer to IPTA-influenced film (Dukhir Iman). The only Bengali director from the 30s to retain his popularity for over 40 years, e.g. with the Ashok Kumar starrer, Hospital, and one of Uttam Kumar's best-known performances in Lal Patthar. His Rikta was re-edited and reissued in 1960. Turned producer with Digbhranta.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* also act/ act only): 1931: *Jeevan Prabhat; 1932: *Nishir Dak; 1932: Ekada (all St); 1933: *Bengal 1983; 1936: *Tarubala; 1937: *Muktisnani; Basanti Purnima; 1939: Rikta; 1940: *Tatinir Bichar, Abhinav; 1941: *Pratishodh; 1942: *Avayer Biye; 1943: *Jogajog/ Hospital; 1944: *Char Aankher; 1945: *Begum; 1947: Abhijog; 1948: *Soldier's Dream; Sarbahara; 1950: Digbhranta; 1952: *Ratir Tapasya; 1954: Moner Mayur, Dukhir Iman; 1954: *Bhangagara; 1955: *Aparadhi; 1956: *Shubharatri; Daner Maryada; 1957: *Shesh Parichaya; 1958: *Marmabani; 1959: *Pushpadhanu; Agnisambhaba; 1960: Hospital; 1961: *Kathin Maya; 1962: *Sancharini; 1964: Kaalsrote; Lal Patthar; 1966: *Dolgobinder Karcha; 1969: *Shuk Sari; 1971: Lal Patthar; 1979: *Samadhan; 1980: *Dui Prithibi; 1982: *Uttar Melen**.

Majumdar, Tarun (b. 1932)

Bengali director born in Bogra, now Bangladesh. Moved to Calcutta in 1946. Trained as a scientist. Assistant director at Rupasree Studio (1952-9), then made advertising films. Début with Kanan Devi's film unit. Formed the Yatrik Film collective with Dilip Mukherjee and Sachin Mukherjee (1959-63, including his first four films). His Palatak, credited to Yatrik and produced by V. Shantaram, marked the comedian Anup Kumar's change to a heroic image. The film was remade in Hindi as Rahgir. With his best-known film, the romantic musical Balika Bodhu, revitalised the genre of the rustic lyrical melodrama assisted by Hemanta Mukherjee's music and one song hit originally from D.L. Roy. Made some 70s hits such as Nimantran, Phuleshwari and a Hindi remake of Balika Bodhu, causing a renewed 80s interest in the theme of the country-city divide as representing a conflict of morality, with Dadar Kirti. It has, however, proved unsuccessful with later films, e.g. Parasmoni, Agaman et al. Changed genre for the Rajen Tarafdar-scripted Sansar Simantey. One of the last commercial Bengali directors to trace his ancestry to Debaki Bose, P.C. Barua, Bimal Roy and 50s art-house cinema (cf. Tapan Sinha) rooted in popular Bengali literature: e.g. Ganadevata, based on a Tarashankar Bannerjee novel. Explicitly refers to this tradition in the opening song of Phuleshwari, contrasting his simpler populism with 'Godard and Satyajit Ray'.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1959: *Chaowa-Pawa; 1960: *Smriti Tuku Thak; 1962: *Kancher Swarga; 1963: *Palatak; 1965: *Alor Pipasa; Ek Tuku Basa; 1967: *Balika Bodhu; 1969: *Rahgir; 1971: *Nimantran; 1972: *Shriman Prithviraj; 1974: *Phuleshwari; Thagini; 1975: *Sansar Simantey; 1976: *Balika Badhu; 1978: *Ganadevata; 1979: *Shahar Theke Dooray; 1980: *Dadar Kirti; 1981: *Meghmukti; Khelar Putul; 1983: *Amar Geeti; 1985: *Bhalobasha Bhalobasha; Aranya Amar (Doc); 1986: *Pathbhola; 1988: *Parasmoni; Agamar; 1990: *Apon Amar Apon; 1991: *Path-o-Prasad; Sajani Go Sajani; 1994: *Kothachilo; Akuha Katha.

Mal ayil, Sibi

Successful Malayalam director. Started as assistant in Appachan's Navodaya Studio, later assisting Fazil and Priyadarshan. Worked mainly with sentimental dramas, within the context of the 80s Malayalam film industry. Bharatham, a musical, was one of his best known hits of this time.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1986: *Chekkaran Oru Chilla; Doore Doore Koodu Kottam; Rareeram; 1987: *Ezhuthapuranga; Thaniyavartanam; 1988: *August 1; Mudra; Vicharana; 1989: *Dasharatham; Kireedam; 1990: *His Highness Abdullah; Radha Madhavar; Kshanakathur; Parampara; Adhipathi; 1991: *Bharatham; Dhanam; Sadayam; 1992: *Kamalathalam; Valayam; 1993: *Maya Mayuram; Akshadhoodu; Manichithratharazu; Chenkol; 1994: *Sagaram Sakshi; 1995: *Aksharam; Sindoor Rekha.

Mal ini, Hema (b. 1948)

Hindi star born in Madras. After Vyjayanthimala, Hema Malini is only the second major South Indian actress to become successful in Hindi films. Like her predecessor, she was trained in Bharat Natyam dance. Starring début with Raj Kapoor in Sapnon Ka Saudagar. Received top billing for her double role in Ramesh Sippy's Seeta Aur Geeta. Established herself mainly in Pramod Chakravarty films (e.g. Naya Zamana) which promoted her as a 70s 'dream girl' (cf. the title of Chakravarty's 1977 film with her). Associated in this period mainly with crime thrillers and love stories starring opposite Dev Anand (e.g. the hit Johnny Mera Naam followed by Tere Mere Sapne, Chhupa Rustom, Amir Garib) and Dharmendra (Tum Haseen Main Jawan, the epic Sholay). Tried to change her glamorous image via Gulzar's lyrically realist films (Kinara, Khushboo and in the title role of the saint film Meera) and then in Basu Chatterjee's art-house movie which she produced, Swami. Cast opposite Bachchan in the late 70s (Naseeb, Satte Pe Satta). Then concentrated on 'character' roles, often with feminist undertones (e.g. Rihaee). The TV series Noopur, which she directed, was designed to re-establish her as a classical dancer, playing a female star who abandons her career to return to her guru in Tanjore. Also directed Dil Ashna Hai. Most recent direction, Mohini, sponsored by a cable channel, ran into legal problems when the original author, Malayattoor Ramakrishnan, on whose novel Yakshi the film was based, alleged breach of contract. Married to Dharmendra.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1968: Sapnon Ka Saudagar; 1969: Jahan Pyar Mile; Waris; 1970: Abhinetri; Aansoo Aur Muskaan; Johnny Mera Naam; Sharafat; Tum Haseen Main Jawan; 1971: Andaz; Lal Patthar; Naya Zamana; Paraya Dhan; Tere Mere Sapne; 1972: Babul Ki Galiyan; Bhai Ho To Aisa; Gora Aur Kala; Raja Jani; Seeta Aur Geeta; 1973: Chhupa Rustom; Gehri Chhaal; Joshila; Jugnu; Shareef Badmash; 1974: Amir Garib; Dost; Dulhan; Haath Ki Safai; Kasauti; Kunwara Baap; Patthar Aur Payal; Prem Nagar; 1975: Dharmatma; Do Thug; Kehte Hain Mujhko Raja; Khushboo; Mrig Trishna; Pratigya; Sanyasi; Sholay; Sunehra Sansar; 1976: Aap Beeti; Charas; Das Numbr; Ginny Aur Johnny; Jaaneman; Maa; Mehbooba; Naach Utha Sansar; Sharafat Chhod Di Maine; 1977: Chacha Bhatija; Chala Murari Hero Banne; Dhoop Chhaon; Dream Girl; Kinara; Palkon Ki Chhaon Meir; Shirdi Ke Sai Baba; Swami; Tinku; 1978: Azad; Apna Khoor; Cinema Cinema; Dillagi; Trishul; 1979: Dil Ka Heera; Hum Tere Aashiq Hair; Janata Havaladar; Meera; Ratnadeep; 1980: Aas Paas; Alibaba Aur Chalis Chor; Bandish; Do Aur Do Paanch; The Burning Train; 1981: Dard; Jyoti; Kranti; Krodhi; Kudrat; Maan Gaye Ustad; Meri Awaaz Suno; Naseeb; Satte Pe Satta; 1982: Baghavat; Desh Premi; Do Dishayen; Justice Choudhury; Farz Aur Kanoon; Meharban; Rajput; Samrat; Suraag; 1983: Andha Kanoon; Babu; Ek Naya Itihaas; Nastik; Razia Sultan; Taqdeer; 1984: Durga; Ek Nai Paheli; Hum Dono; Phaansi Ke Baad; Qaidi; Raj Tilak; Ram Tera Desh; Sharara; 1985: Aandhi Toofan; Ramkali; Yudh; 1986: Anjaam; Ek Chadar Maili Si; 1987: Apne Apne; Hirasat; Jaan Hatheli Pe; Kudrat Ka Kanoon; Seetapur Ki Geeta; 1988: Mohabbat Ke Dushman; Mulzim; Rihaae; Tohfa Mohabbat Ka; Vijay; 1989: Desh Ke Dushman; Deshwas; Galiyon Ka Badshah; Paap Ka Ant; Sachche Ka Bol Bala; Santosh; 1990: Jamai Raja; Lekin ...; Shadayantra; *Noopur (TV); 1991: *Dil Ashna Hai; Hai Meri Jaan; Indira; 1992: Aman Ke Farishte; Marg; 1994: Param Veer Chakra; Mohini (only d.).

Mal vankar, Damuanna (1893-1975)

Portly Marathi comedian with a squint. Started in Keshavrao Date's 'naturalist' Maharashtra Natak Mandali. Worked with the Sangeet Natak group, Balwant Sangeet Mandali, and entered cinema when they moved into film with Bedekar. His major films were with Vinayak and Atre, playing the caricature of a Marathi gentleman (Brandichi Batli Brandy Ki Botal, Brahmachari). His image became identified with the part of Chimanrao, the middle-aged householder of C.V. Joshi's political satires, partnered by Vishnupant Jog's Gundyabhau (Lagna Pahave Karun, Sarkari Pahune). They remained partners for many years. Other directors filmed Joshi stories with them (e.g. Raja Thakur's Gharcha Jhala Thoda) but never with Vinayak's incisiveness. Malvankar went on to play many stereotyped character parts, usually as the foil to the lead actor, and one major 'serious' role, the lead character of Gajabhau.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1934: Krishnarjun Yuddha; 1935: Thakicha Lagna; Satteche Prayog; 1936: Pundalik; Andheri Duniya; 1938: Brahmachari; Lakshmi Khe; 1939: Brandichi Batli Brandy Ki Botal; Devata; Sukhacha Shodh; Mera Haq; 1940: Ardhangi Ghar Ki Rani; Lagna Pahave Karun; 1941: Amrit; Gharjavai; Sangam; 1942: Tuzhach; Pahili Mangalagaur; Sarkari Pahune; 1943: Chimukla Sansar; Mazhe Bal; 1944: Gajabhau; 1945: Badi Maa; 1946: Jeevan Yatra; Subhadra; 1947: Chul Ani Mul; Main Tera Hoor; 1948: Moruchi Mavshi; 1949: Brahma Ghotala; Galyachi Shapath; Sakharpuda; 1950: Baiko Pahije; Chaltil Shejar; Dev Pavla; Ram Ram Pahuna; 1952: Devacha Kau; 1954: Purshachi Jaat; Taraka; 1955: Varaat; Ye Re Majhya Maglya; 1956: Vakda Paool; 1957: Pahila Prem; Gharcha Jhala Thoda; Jhakli Mooth; 1958: Choravar Mor; Dhakti Jau; Don Ghadicha Dav; Guruchi Vidya Gurula?; Raja Gosavichi Goshta; 1959: Satajanmacha Sobti; Pativrata; Rajmanya Rajashri; Yala Jeevan Aise Nav; 1960: Avaghachi Sansar; Lagnala Jato Mi; Paishyacha Paoos; Sangat Jadli Tujhi An Majhi; Duniya Jhukti Hai; Vanakesari; 1961: Ek Dhaga Sukhacha; Matlabi Duniya; 1962: Baap Mazha Brahmachari; Bhagya Lakshmi; Char Divas Sasuche Char Divas Suneche; Drishti Jagachi Aahe Niral; Gariba Gharchi Lek; Nandadeep; Preeti Vivah; Saptapadi; Sonyachi Paoole; Varadakshina; 1963: Pahu Re Kiti Vaat; Vaibhav; 1964: Vaat Chuklele Navre; 1965: Kama Purta Mama; Sudharlelya Baika; 1966: Chala Utha Lagna Kara; 1967: Chimukla Pahuna; Daiva Janile Kuni; Shrimant Mehuna Pahije; Sukhi Sansar; 1968: Bai Mothi Bhagyachi; Mangalsutra; 1970: Ti Mi Navhech; 1971: Bahaklela Brahmachari; Bhagyavati Mi Hya Sansari; Mihi Manoosach Aahe.

Mammootty (b. 1953)

Malayalam star of the 80s. Born Mohammed Kutty in Chembu. Former lawyer practising in Manjiri. Discovered by the writer-director M.T. Vasudevan Nair, who cast him as the lead in the unfinished Devalokam. Formal debut in Vilkannudu Swapnangal and Mela. Was associated in the early 80s mainly with low-budget art-house films, e.g. Akkare, Koodevide?, Lekhayude Maranam Oru Flashback. Together with a new generation of directors like I.V. Sasi (America America; Alkootathil Thaniye; Angadikkapurathu; Ayarthi Thollayirathi Irupathonnu), Jesey (Akaththe Ambili), P.G. Vishwambaran (Sagaram Shantham) et al., he signalled a new era in Malayalam cinema after Sathyan and Prem Nazir's work of the 70s. The 80s in Kerala are marked by the 'Gulf money' remitted by expatriate workers, spawning a 'newly rich' consumerist sector and fostering a lumpenised urban mass culture. Mammootty's films, like those of the other main star in Kerala, Mohanlal, were often financed by 'Gulf money' and played to the new audience of Gulf migrants. His best-known films repeatedly feature the hero as victim in violent vendetta stories (often with explicit caste overtones), evoking political and economic corruption and condemning the good hero either to cultural exile or to a violent death while defending his and his kinfolk's honour. Dislocations within Kerala's culture give new, local meanings to vigilante figures modelled on e.g. Bronson or Eastwood. Unlike Bachchan's vigilante roles of the early 70s, Mammootty's films stress religion and caste and often have a tragic ending. Classic roles include the forest conservator in Yathra, the misunderstood Kalaripayattu martial-arts exponent in Oru Vadakkan Veeragatha, the Moplah freedom fighter in Ayarthi Thollayirathi Irupathonnu and his cop roles in Oru CBI Diary Kuruppu and Avanazhi. His reputation spread beyond Kerala with Adoor Gopalakrishnan's Anantaram and Mathilukal (playing the Malayalam writer Vaikom Mohammed Basheer in the latter film). Although he has done several Tamil films (inc. Mani Rathnam's Dalapathi), has been established as a Tamil star only with the success of Makkal Aatchi. Published his autobiography: Chamayangalillathe.

Mammootty (2nd from right) in Aarthi Thollayirathi Irupathonnu (1988)

✚ FILMOGRAPHY: 1980: Vilkannudu Swapnanga; Mela; 1981: Trishna; Ahimsa; Munnettam; Oothikachiya Ponn; 1982: Eenadu; Thadagam; Pooviriyum Pulari; Yavanika; Balloor; A Divasam; Amritha Geetham; Champalakadu; Enthino Pookunna Pookal; Idiyum Minnalum; Innalenkil Nale; John Jaffer Janardhan; Ken; Komaram; Padayottam; Ponnu Poovum; Post Mortem; Saravarsham; Sindooru Sandhyakku Mounam; Thadagam; Veedu; Vidhichathum Kothichathum; 1983: Adaminte Variyellu; A Rathri; Akkare; America America; Asthrum; Chakravalam Chuvannapo; Chengathem; Coolie (Mal); Eettillam; Ente Katha; Guru Dakshina; Himavahini; Iniyenkilum; Kattaruvi; Kodungattu; Koodevide?; Lekhayude Maranam Oru Flashback; Manasi Oru Mahasamudram; Maniyara; Nadhi Muthal Nadhi Vare; Nanayam; Onnu Chirikku; Oru Madaupravinte Katha; Oru Mugham Pala Mugham; Oru Swakariam; Pinninvalu; Pratigna; Rachana; Rukma; Sagaram Shantham; Sandhyakku Virinja Poovu; Sesham Kazhchayil; Theeram Thedunna Thira; Visa; 1984: Alkoottathil Thaniye; Ayiram Abhilashanga; Adiyozhukkukal; Aksharanga; Alakadalinakkare; Anthi Chuvappu; Ariyatha Veethiga; Arorumariyathe; Athirathram; Attuvanchi Ulanjappol; Chakkarauma; Edavellakku Sesham; Enganeundasane; Ente Upasana; Etha Ennumuthal; Ethirpukkal; Ithiri Poove Chuvannapoove; Kaanamarayathu; Kodathi; Koottinilangili; Lakshmana Rekha; Mangalam Nerunne; Manithali; Onnanu Namma; Onnum Mindatha Bharya; Oru Kochu Katha Arum Parayatha Katha; Pavam Poornima; Sandhyakenthinu Sindhuram; Sannarbhram; Thirakkil Alpa Samayam; Veendum Chalikulna Chakram; Vettal; Vikatakavi; 1985: A Neram Alpa Dooram; Akalathe Ambili; Angadikkapurathu; Anubandham; Arappatta Kettiya Gramathil; Avidathepole Ivideyum; Ayanam; Ee Lokam Ivide Kure Manushyar; Eeran Sandhya; Ee Shabdham Ennath Shabdham; Ee Thanalil Ithirineram; Ente Kannakuyil; Ida Nilanga; Iniyum Katha Thudarum; Kanathaya Pennkutty; Kandu Kandarinja; Karimbin Poovinakkare; Katha Ithuvare; Kathodu Kathoram; Kochuthemmadi; Makan Ente Makar; Manya Mahajanangale; Muhurtam At 11.30; Neram Pularumbo; Nirakkootte; Oduvil Kittiya Vartha; Onningu Vannengil; Oru Nokku Kannan; Oru Sandesha Koodi; Parayanumvayya Parayathirikkanumvayya; Puli Varunne Puli; Puzhayozhukum Vazhi; Thammil Thammil; Thinkalazhcha Nalla Divasam; Upaharam; Vilichu Vilikettu; Yathra; 1986: Avanazhi; Oru Katha Oru Nunakkatha; Ithile Iniyum Varum; Pranamam; Shyama; Alorungi Arangorungi; Vartha; Kariyala Kattu Pole; Malarum Kiliyum; Padayani; Poovinnu Puthiya Poonthenal; Gandhinagar 2nd Street; Prathyekam Sradhikkuka; Shaminchu Ennoruvakku; Poomugappadiyil Ninneyum

Kathu; Rakkuyilin Rajassadasil; Alorungi Arangorungi; 1987: Kathakku Pinnil; Nombarathi Poovu; Adimagal Udumagal; Athinumappuram; New Delhi; Thaniyavartanam; Manivathoorile Ayiram Sivarathrikal; Ankiliyude Tharattu; Anantaram; Nalkawala; 1988: Vicharana; Dinarathrangal; Oru CBI Diary Kuruppu; Manu Uncle; Abkari; Sangham; Mattoral; August 1; Ayarthi Thollayirathi Irupathomu; Thanthram; Mukti; Shankhanadam; 1989: Charithram; Mudra; Adikkurippu; Uttaram; Oru Vadakkan Veeragatha; Jagratha; Artham; Carnival; Nair Saab; Mahayanam; Mathilukal; Mrigaya; Purappad; Mrigaya; Adharvam; 1990: Triyatri; Mounam Sammadham; Adhipathi; No. 20 Madras Mail; 1991: Azhagar; Swati Kiranam; Dalapathi; Amaran; Nayam Vethamakkunnu; Inspector Balram; Adhayalam; Kanal Katru; Anaswaram; Neelagiri; Swati Kiranam; 1992: Gauravar; Johnny Walker; Suryamanasam; Papayude Sontham Appoose; Kizhakkam Pathrose; Dhruvam; Ayirappara; 1993: Valsalyam; Jackpot; Sarovaram; Kilipetchu Ketkava; Dhartiputra; Padhayam; Golandhara Vartha; Vidheyar; Ponthan Mada; 1994: Vishnu; Sainyam; Sagaram Sakshi; Sukrutham; 1995: Makkal Aatchi; Ormakalundayirikkanam.

Mane, Anant (1915-1995)

Marathi and Hindi director born in Kolhapur. Started as editor at Prabhat (1930-44) on films like Ramshastr (1944); left with Raja Nene, Datta Dharmadhikari, Bhole, etc. to work independently. Editor of Nene-Dharmadhikari films, including (uncredited) Daha Wajta (1942). In his autobiography, 'Anant' Athvani (1987), claims to have ghost-directed several Nene hits (e.g. Patthe Bapurao, 1950) and Dharmadhikari productions. Early work continues Dharmadhikari-style melodrama scripted by G.D. Madgulkar, occasionally abandoning literary sources for original screenplays (e.g. Paidali Padleli Phule). Helped graft All-India Film commercial formulas on to Marathi cinema. Set up Chetana Chitra (1956) for production. Pioneered the producer-director's move into distribution with Chandravilas Films (1968). Best known for musical Tamasha films, e.g. the classic Sangtye Aika, one of Marathi cinema's biggest successes. Introduced several new actors (Raja Gosavi, Nilu Phule, Sharad Talwalkar) and developed Loknatya-style ribald comedy genre. Among his script credits are Dharmadhikari's Chimni Pakhare/Nannhe Munne (1952), Shantaram's Pinjra (1972) and Kulkarni's Tamasgeer (1981).

✚ FILMOGRAPHY: 1949: Jai Bhim; 1950: Ketakichya Banaat; 1953: Aboli; 1954: Kalakaar; Ovalani; Shubhamanga; Suhagar; 1955: Punavechi Raat; 1956: Paidali Padleli Phule; 1957: Jhakli Mooth; Preetisangam; 1958: Dhakti Jau; Don Ghadicha Dav; 1959: Sangtye Aika; Satajanmacha Sobti; 1960: Avaghachi Sansar; Paishyacha Paos; 1961: Manini; Rangapanchami; Shahir

Parashuram; 1962: Bhagya Lakshmi; Chimnyanchi Shala; Preeti Vivah; 1963: Mazha Hoshil Ka?; Naar Nirmite Nara; 1964: Kai Ho Chamatkar; Saval Mazha Aika; 1965: Kela Ishara Jata Jata; 1967: Sangu Kashi Mi; 1968: Ek Gao Bara Bhangadi; 1969: Dongarchi Maina; Gan Gaular; 1971: Aai Ude Ga Ambabai; Ashich Ek Ratra Hoti; 1973: Mi Tuzha Pati Nahi; 1975: Paach Rangachi Paach Pakhare; 1976: Pahuni; 1977: Asla Navara Nako Ga Bai; 1978: Kalavanteer; Lakshmi; Sushila; 1979: Duniya Kari Salaam; Haldi Kunku; 1980: Savaj; 1981: Aai; Pori Jara Japoor; Totaya Amdaar; 1982: Don Baika Phajiti Aika; Galli Te Dilli; 1983: Sansar Pakharancha; 1984: Jagavegali Prem Kahani; Kulaswamini Ambabai; 1985: Gao Tasa Changla Pan Veshila Tangla; 1991: Bandhan; ZP; 1993: Lavanyavati.

Mangeshkar, Lata (b. 1929)

Prolific megastar playback singer central to Hindi film music for the past four decades. Allegedly recorded over 25000 songs in 14 Indian languages, although Nerurkar's compilation (1989) lists a total of 5066 Hindi songs between 1946 and 1989, which should be the bulk of her output. Born in Indore, MP. Daughter of noted Sangeet Natak actor-singer, Dinanath Mangeshkar, started as a child actress in Master Vinayak films. Sang her first song in Vasant Joglekar's Marathi film Kiti Hasaal (1942), but the song was dropped, making her real debut with Joglekar's Aap Ki Sewa Mein (1947). Came to prominence with Ghulam Haider's score in Majboor (1948). Worked with all leading music directors, including Anil Biswas, Naushad, Shankar-Jaikishen and C. Ramchandra. Occasionally composed for Marathi films, starting with Dinkar D. Patil's Ram Ram Pahuna (1950) and then, under the pseudonym Anandaghan, only for Bhalji Pendharkar (Mohityanchi Manjula, 1963; Maratha Tituka Melavava, 1964; Sadhi Manse, 1965; Tambdi Mati, 1969). Turned producer with the Marathi films Vadal and Jhanjhar (both 1953), Kanchan (1955) and Lekin ... (1990). Since the 50s, possibly following Bhai Bhai (1956), she perfected her apparently effortless, high-pitched voice projection, usually in C sharp, a technique said to overcome the crude sound reproduction on rickety gramophones and in suburban and rural cinemas. Until the late 80s, recorded about 2 songs a day, featuring in almost every Hindi and most other language films. The major Khayal performer, Neela Bhagwat, commented that Mangeshkar's performances regrettably became the norm for the Indian middle-class notion of feminine beauty in music. Kumar Shahani suggested that only she could have sung the difficult Ektaal-based song, Sangh so javo in his Tarang (1984). She appeared as actress in Pahili Mangalagaur (1942), Mazhe Bal and Chimukla Sansar (1943), Gajabhau (1944), Badi Maa (1945), Jeevan Yatra and Subhadra (both 1946), Mandir (1948) and Chhatrapati Shivaji (1952).

Manirathnam see Rathnam, Mani

Manto, Sadat Hasan (1912-55)

Major Urdu writer and scenarist whose work has defined the literary and the filmic iconography of Partition (e.g. in his most famous story, Toba Tek Singh, cf. Manto, 1987), of the urban dispossessed and of the post-Independence political and bureaucratic ruling class. Often wrote diary or travelogue-type fictions with himself as observer or in conversation with his protagonist. A journalist in Aligarh, he went to Bombay to edit the film weekly Mussawar (1936). Joined Imperial as storywriter; in 1943 joined Filmistan, injecting some contemporary consciousness into its largely apolitical productions (e.g. Dattaram Pai's Eight Days, 1946). Later, with Ashok Kumar, rejoined Bombay Talkies and in 1948 migrated to Lahore to get away from the persecution of Muslims in Bombay. His published writings include 15 short-story anthologies, one novel (Baghair Unwan Ke, 1940), a play (Teen Auratein, 1942), essays (Manto Ke Mazamin, 1942) and a famous autobiographical account of his years in films, Meena Bazaar (1962/1984). His work was the basis of the British TV film Partition (1987), followed by the publication of his Kingdom's End and Other Stories, acclaimed by Salman Rushdie as the 'master of the modern Indian short story'. Among the main films he scripted are Gidwani's Kisan Kanya (1937), Dada Gunjal's Apni Nagariya (1940), Shaukat Hussain's Naukar (1943), Gyan Mukherjee's Chal Chal Re Naujawan (dial), Harshadrai Mehta's Ghar Ki Shobha (both 1944), Eight Days, J.K. Nanda's Jhumke (st), Savak Vacha's Shikari (dial; all 1946) and Sohrab Modi's Mirza Ghalib (st; 1954).

Marudakasi, Ayyamper umal (1920-89)

Tamil film lyricist born in Melakudikadu, TN; farmer's son. Influenced by musician Rajagopala Iyer, brother of composer Papanasam Sivan. Worked as a village official; left his government job to join the famous Tamil theatre troupe TKS Brothers. Also worked in Nawab Rajamanikkam's theatre group and for Devi Drama, for which he wrote his first songs. Film debut as songwriter in T.R. Sundaram's Mayavathi (1949). First hit number is Varai ... varai in Manthiri Kumari (1950). Wrote over 3000 songs in c.300 Tamil films, reaching the pinnacle of his career in the 50s and 60s. At this time, his lyrics were often sung by playback singer T.M. Soundararajan and composed by M.S. Vishwanathan. Known mainly for his use of rural and folk idioms. A compilation of his film songs was published in 1988.

Master, Homi (?-1949)

Top Kohinoor director in the 20s, esp. 1924-6: Lanka Ni Laadi, Fankdo Futuri, The Telephone Girl were big silent hits. Joined leading Parsee theatre company Baliwala aged 13; became very popular stage actor, notably in Pakzaad Parveen. Employed briefly at Hindustan Film and was by some accounts sent abroad to market Phalke's films in Europe. Joined Kohinoor as actor (he played Duryodhan in Bhakta Vidur, 1921; the lead in Kala Naag, 1924) and as assistant to Kanjibhai Rathod. As director created one of the most successful teams of 20s Indian film with scenarist Mohanlal Dave and cameraman D.D. Dabke. Described by silent star Gohar as perhaps the most 'dramatic' film-maker she worked with, contrasting with e.g. the 'realism' of Bhavnani and Chandulal Shah. Made several B films in Hindi and in Gujarati. Ended his career as production manager at Kardar's Studio in Bombay.

♣️ FILMOGRAPHY (* also act): 1924: Bismi Sadi, Kanya Vikraya; Manorama; Ra Mandlik; Sati Sone; Veer Ahir; 1925: Ghar Jamai; Kunj Vihari; Lanka Ni Laadi; Sansar Swapna; *Fankdo Futuri; Hirji Kamdar; Kulin Kanta; Mari Dhaniyani; Rajnagarni Rambha; 1926: The Telephone Girl, Briefless Barrister; Lakho Vanjaro; Mumtaz Mahal; Sati Jasma; Shirin Farhad; Delhi No Thug; 1927: Rangmahal Ni Ramani, *Return Of Kala Naag; The Mission Girl; Bhaneli Bhamini; Surat No Sahukar; 1928: Lekh Par Mehr; Gul Sanobar; Veerangana; Rajani Bala; Sarojini; 1929: Bilwamangal; Lanka Lakshmi; Punjab Kesari; Punya Prabhav; Sinh Ka Bachha Sinh; Lutaru Lalna; 1930: Mast Fakir, Shoorveer Sharada; Ranchandi; Patan Ni Paniari; 1931: Rao Saheb; Shahi Firman; Dushman-e-Imar; Bulbul-e-Shiraz; 1932: Ranadevata; Mahiari; Hind Kesari; Jai Bajrang; Prabhu Na Chor (all St); Hoor-e-Misar; 1933: Jagat Mohini (St); Misar Nu Moti (St); Saubhagya Sundari; 1934: Samaj Ki Bhoof; Gul Sanobar; Khwab-e-Hasti; 1935: Do Ghadi Ki Mauj; Ghar Jamai; Naya Zamana; 1936: Akkal Na Bardan; Zaat-e-Sharif; 1937: Jagat Kesari; New Searchlight; Punjab Lancers; 1938: Chhote Sarkar; 1939: Fankdo Futuri; 1940: Neelamalai Kaidhi; 1946: Chamakti Bijli; 1948: Bhaneli Vahu; Gharwali; Jai Ranchhod; Lagan Na Umedvar; 1949: Shethno Salo.

Mathur, Vishnu (b. 1944)

Hindi director born in Ahmedabad. Graduated from the FTII (1970). Assisted Mani Kaul and Mrinal Sen. Employed by Films Division (1975-8) but resigned over directorial freedom. Feature debut, Pehla Adhyay, pioneered a complex and innovative approach to cinematic space and rhythm, also in evidence in his unconventional portrait of the Carnatic veena-player Savithri Rajan (Flying Bird). Works in collaboration with noted Tamil writer and feminist intellectual C.S. Lakshmi (aka Ambai).

♣️ FILMOGRAPHY: 1969: Wardrobe (Sh); 1970: In Panchgani (Sh); Film Gaze (Doc); 1973: This Our Only Earth (Doc); Small-Scale Industries of India (Doc); Drought in Maharashtra (Doc); President Nyerere's Visit to India (Doc); 1975: Discipline on the Road (Doc); 1976: Sharing Experience (Doc); Sixth International Film Festival of India (Doc); 1977: Communication Security/Sanchar Suraksha (Doc); 1978: Surdas (Sh); 1981: Pehla Adhyay; 1983: Towards Zero Population Growth in Kerala (Doc); 1985:

Through the Looking Glass (Doc); 1989: The Flying Bird (Doc); 1994: Mere Appa (Sh).

Mazumdar see Majumdar

Mehboob (1906-64)

Aka Mehboob Khan. Hindi-Urdu director regarded as one of the most important influences on post-50s cinema. Born as Ramjan Khan in Bilimoria, Gujarat. Ran away to Bombay to join film industry. Started as extra and factotum in Imperial Studio where he met director R.S. Choudhury (later scenarist for Roti and Aan) and cameraman Faredoon A. Irani. Acted as one of the thieves in Alibaba and the Forty Thieves. Directorial debut at Sagar (1935). Worked in National Studios (1940-2) along with Kardar. Founded Mehboob Prod. in 1942 (established as studio in 1952) using a hammer and sickle emblem even though formally unassociated with the CP. Acclaimed first as heir to Imperial's historicals (Judgement of Allah, Humayun); he continued its trend of merging DeMille with the conventions of the Urdu stage but brought to the formula a greater self reflexivity (Roti). His Mother India (a subcontinental equivalent of Gone with the Wind which has been declared India's most successful film ever) also evoked Dovzhenko's lyricised socialist-realist imagery. Immensely successful on an international scale, Mehboob's films often derive from a clash between pre-capitalist ruralism (with its blood feuds, debts of honour, kinship laws etc.) and an increasingly modernised state with its commercial-industrial practices and values. His elaboration of political themes within popular generic conventions provides the bridge between the pre-Independence cinema of e.g. Bhavnani (Mazdoor, 1934) and the social critiques attempted by Raj Kapoor in the post-1947 industrial mainstream. With Andaz he made what was regarded as the first Indian film set in 'modern times' among an affluent middle class, exerting an enormous influence on later films (e.g. Awara, 1951).

♣️ FILMOGRAPHY (* only act): 1927: Alibaba and the Forty Thieves; *Allah Ka Pyara; 1929: Shirin Khushrau; 1930: Mewad No Mawali; 1931: Raj Tilak; *Dilawar (all St); *Meri Jaan; *Veer Abhimanyu; 1932: Bulbul-e-Baghdad; 1933: Chandrhasa; *Pandav Kaurav; *Mirza Sahiban; *Premi Pagal; 1934: Grihalakshmi; *Naachwali; *Sati Anjan; 1935: Vengeance Is Mine; Judgement of Allah; 1936: Deccan Queen; Manmohan; 1937: Jagirdar; 1938: Hum Tum Aur Woh; Watan; 1939: Ek Hi Raasta; 1940: Alibaba; Aurat; 1941: Bahen; 1942: Roti; 1943: Najma; Taqdeer; 1945: Humayun; 1946: Anmol Ghadi; 1947: Elaan; 1948: Anokhi Ada; 1949: Andaz; 1952: Aar; 1954: Amar; 1957: Mother India; 1962: Son of India.

Mehra, Krishna Dev (1907-95)

Punjabi/Hindi filmmaker often considered the 'father' of the Punjabi cinema. Born in Sarsa (now Haryana). Early career in Punjab Film Corporation. Migrated to Calcutta (1933) where he was technical advisor and helped script Joymati (1935). Debut with Sheila (aka Pind Di Kudhi), adapted from Tolstoy's Resurrection, and the first major success in Punjabi. The film was supported by Madan Theatres, as was his second, Heer Syal, both featuring Nurjehan. Moved to Bombay after Partition, later working with B. R. Chopra's B. R. Films.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1935: Sheila; 1938: Heer Syal; 1939: Surdas (?); 1940: Mera Punjab; 1944: Bhai; 1950: Posti.

Mehra, Prakash (b. 1939)

Hindi director and producer born in Bijnaur, UP. Assistant to Dhirubhai Desai at Vishnu Cinetone (1958-9). Worked as a lyricist in the 60s, then director. Made Bachchan's first major hit, Zanjeer and launched the star's image as a lumpen-vigilante hero, an orphaned (Zanjeer) or illegitimate (Muqaddar Ka Sikandar) outsider. Also made some of Bachchan's best-known buddy films, usually co-starring Vinod Khanna (Muqaddar Ka Sikandar, Hera Pheri).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1968: Hasina Maan Jayegi; 1971: Mela; 1972: Aan Baan, Samadhi; 1973: Ek Kunwari Ek Kunwara; Zanjeer; 1974: Haath Ki Safai; 1976: Hera Pheri, Khalifa; 1978: Aakhri Dakur, Muqaddar Ka Sikandar; 1980: Desh Drohi, Jwalamukhi; 1981: Lawaris; 1982: Namak Halal; 1984: Sharabi; 1987: Muqaddar Ka Faisla; 1988: Mohabbat Ke Dushman; 1989: Jadugar; 1992: Zindagi Ek Jua.

Mehta, Harshadrail Sakerlal

Pioneer Hindi and Tamil director born in Mota, Bardoli Dist., Gujarat. Started as a painter, editor and cameraman at Kohinoor (1919), but made his debut for Krishna Film (Ver Ni Vasulat). At Krishna he began his association with long-time partner and cameraman Luhar (e.g. Be Din Ni Badshahi, Amar Asha) making melodramas often starring the Anglo-Indian star Ermeline. Best-known film of this period is Janjirne Jankare, the much-acclaimed Rajput romance scripted and shot by Luhar. Made his most influential films with the famous Mehta-Luhar Prod. set up in 1931 with Babubhai Desai and the informal support of the Sharda Studio. Made several Sharda-type stunt movies featuring e.g. Navinchandra. Moved to Coimbatore's Premier Cinetone (1937) and made a number of Tamil films.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1925: Swapna Sundari, Ver Ni Vasulat, Chandrakant, Hothal Padmini, Jal Kumari, Krishna Kumar; 1926: Be Din Ni Badshahi, Amar Asha, Panna Ratna, Ram Bharose, Bhool No Bhog, Panch Kalyani; 1927: Janjirne Jankare, Keemti Ansoo, Roop Sundari, Sharad Purnima, Keshvankant BA, Vadia Dhor; 1928: Gul Badar, Karuna Kumari, Raj Tarang, Saundarya Sura, Sassi Punnu; 1929: Dilruba, Miss Dolly, Jai Somnath, Satta No Mad, Pataal Padmini, Ranagarjana; 1930: Talwar Ka Pani, Daku Ke Dilbar, Soneri Khanjar; 1931: Kala Wagh, Raj

Bhakta, Priyatama, Ronak Mahal, Tirandaz, Solanki Shamsher, Dharti Kaamp; 1932: Kalo Sawar, Hoor-e-Hind, Vanraj Kesari, Bharat Veer; 1933: Jallad (all St); Sohni Mahiwal, Vikram Charitra, Rambha Rani; 1934: Veerangana Panna; 1935: Meethi Nazar; 1936: Pahadi Kanya; 1938: Eknath, Shri Kanda Leela; 1939: Shakti Maya; 1940: Parasuramar; 1942: Alli Vijaam; 1944: Ghar Ki Shobha.

Mehta, Ketan (b. 1952)

Gujarati and Hindi director born in Navsari, Gujarat. Educated in New Delhi where he graduated in economics. Extensive theatre work: acted for Dishantar group, New Delhi, directed English plays Zoo Story and The Lesson for Motley, Bombay (1976-7), and staged Channas, a Gujarati adaptation of One Flew over the Cuckoo's Nest, for Indian National Theatres, Bombay (1983); also did stage lighting for dancers Birju Maharaj and Kumudini Lakhia. Graduated from the FTII (1975). Worked in Space Application Centre, Ahmedabad (1975-6). Made controversial TV serial on Ahmedabad TV, Wat Tamari, on landless labourers and Untouchables in Gujarat. First feature Bhavni Bhavai, dedicated to Brecht, comic-strip authors Goscinny and Uderzo and to Asait Thakore, pioneer of the Bhavai form, is a rare successful filmic adaptation of folk theatre. Work thereafter has increasingly concentrated on adapting popular art conventions rather than folk, occasionally evoking the action and stunt genres of 50s Hindi film. Opposed to earlier notions of self-conscious art-cinema, he believes in the creative potential of explicitly lumpen cultures while also chronicling their power to destroy (Holi). Recent films include adaptation of Madame Bovary (Maya Memsaab) and a biographical on Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel (Sardar). Married to Maya Memsaab's lead actress Deepa Sahi.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1975: Madhsurya (Sh); Coolies at Bombay Central (Doc); 1977-8: Wat Tamari (TV); 1977: Experience India (Doc); 1980: Bhavni Bhavai/Andher Nagari; 1982: Fair Folk at Tarnetar (Doc); 1983: Holi; 1985: Mirch Masala, Ba Ki Yaad Mein (Doc); Kisi Ek Phool Ka Naam Lo (TV); 1987: Bandhani (Doc); 1988: Hero Hiralal, Pehla Kadam (Sh); 1989: Mr Yogi (TV); 1992: All in the Family (Doc); Maya Memsaab; 1993: Sardar; 1995: Oh Darling Yeh Hai India.

Mehta, Vijaya (b. 1934)

Actress and director born in Baroda, Gujarat. Graduated from Bombay University; studied theatre with E. Alkazi in Delhi and with Adi Marzban. Was Durga Khote's daughter-in-law, then widowed at 27 and re-married Farrokh Mehta who was active on the English amateur stage. Became a major figure in 60s Marathi experimental theatre. Founder member of Rangayan (Est: 1960) with playwright Vijay Tendulkar, Arvind Deshpande and Shreeram Lagoo. Stage production of C.T. Khanolkar's Ek Shoonya Bajirao (1966) is a landmark in contemporary Indian theatre. Claims to have introduced Brecht into Marathi theatre with adaptation of Caucasian Chalk Circle (Ajab Nyay Vartulacha), and Ionesco with Chairs (1962). Helped launch the 70s Chhabildas theatre movement with her Mahesh Elkunchwar plays Sultan, Yatanaghar and Holi (all 1970). Collaborated on Indo-German theatre projects with German director Fritz Bennewitz including a traditional performance of Bhasa's Mudrarakshasa with German actors. Except Pestonjee, most of her work consists of film and TV adaptations of her stage plays: Haveli Bulund Thi adapted Mahesh Elkunchwar's play Wada Chirebandi, and Rao Saheb is from Jaywant Dalvi's play Barrister (1977).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1980: Kalyug; 1983: *Smritichitre (TV); 1984: Party; 1986: *Rao Saheb; *Shakuntala (TV); 1987: Pestonjee (d only); *Sher Shivaji, Hamidabai Ki Kothi (TV); *Haveli Bulund Thi (TV); 1990: Lifeline (TV).

Meiyappan Chettiar, A. V. see AVM Film Company.

Melodrama

Defined in the Indian context mainly as a 'musical dramatic' narrative in accordance with its original generic meaning. From c.1912, when the Indian cinema first attempted cinematic fiction as an indigenous economic enterprise, it relied on the melodramatic mode to narrativise the moving image and to give a sequential logic to the convention of frontal address central to India's performative and visual art traditions. Melodrama drew from the same sources as e.g. the mythological but functioned as the aesthetic regime accompanying the socio-economic transition from feudal-artisanal practices to industrial ones, both formally and in its content matter (e.g. Painter's Savkari Pash, 1925 & 1936). It recomposed traditional performative idioms and themes, drawing on Western narrative forms and similarly negotiating modernisation tensions. Often aligned with the reformism of the literary social reform movement, esp. in the inter-war period when it was mobilised to recast modernisation in nationalist terms by e.g. V. Shantaram and B.N. Reddi, continuing into the work of B.R. Panthulu and Puttanna Kanagal. The classic example of this development was the DMK Film which provided Indian cinema with some of its most spectacular melodramas. After Independence, the genre received a new, intense and conflict-ridden inflection in the work of Raj Kapoor and Guru Dutt in the 50s, generating a social-critical type of melodrama. In their work, the negative sides of capitalist modernisation propel a darkly romantic narrative isolating the tragic hero as an individual. Ravi Vasudevan (1989) noted that this period of Hindi melodrama was overdetermined by the Oedipal triangle of the fearsome father, the nurturing mother and the traumatised son who could deal with these tensions either through renunciation or lawlessness. After WW2, the reformist melodramatic current was deployed to elaborate a pan-Indian narrative regime (see All-India Film) culminating in Mehboob's influential Mother India (1957), restating the priority of kinship relations and parental/state authority. This later yielded Amitabh Bachchan's or Uttam Kumar's hero-as-outlaw, upholding an imaginary past's 'traditional' values in the face of a degenerated modernity. In Maharashtra, melodrama was used to legitimate a growing regional market (Bhalji Pendharkar, scenarist G.D. Madgulkar). In Bengal, where a cinema had developed which was economically strong but culturally subservient to the novel, melodrama acquired an oppositional force, e.g. in Barua's work which subverted the literary, and in the Kallol film-makers where it later found new alignments with the IPTA's formal emphasis on the folk theatre. Bengal also saw the only instance in Indian film where melodrama became the site where popular and classical idioms of performance merged with a Brechtian aesthetic, yielding a unique authorial practice: the work of Ritwik Ghatak, massively influential on the films of e.g. Kumar Shahani and the early Mani Kaul. Classic melodramas include: Savkari Pash (1925), Devdas (1935), Kunku/Duniya Na Mane (1937), Swargaseema (1945), Andaz (1949), Ezha Padum Padu (1950), Awara (1951), Parasakthi (1952), Mother India and Pyaasa (both 1957), Kaagaz Ke Phool (1959), Meghe Dhaka Tara (1960), Nagara Haavu (1972), Muqaddar Ka Sikandar (1978), Tarang (1984). See also Social.

Menon, P. N. (b. 1928)

Malayalam director born in Malchad, Trichur. Studied at Trichur School of Art. Went to Madras (1957), worked at Vauhini Studio as painter of sets; later at Salem-based studios. Freelance visual artist in theatre (1960); made publicity posters and hand-outs for Tamil, Telugu and Malayalam cinema. First major film Olavum Theeravum launched the loose collective headed by the film's producer Backer, breaking with Kerala cinema's studio and stagebound conventions. This helped pave the way for e.g. Adoor Gopalakrishnan's early films. Later cloaked his anti-feudal politics in existential mysticism (e.g. Malamukalile Daivam).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1965: Rosy, 1969: Olavum Theeravum, 1971: Kuttiedathi, Mappusakshi, 1972: Panimudakku, Chemparithi, Chhayam, 1973: Darshanam, Gayatri, 1974: Mazhakarar, 1975: Odakkuzhal, 1976: Udhayam Kizhakku Thanne, 1977: Taxi Driver, 1979: Devathai, 1981: Archana Teacher, 1982: Anu, Kadamba, 1983: Asthram, Glimpses of Kerala (Doc); Malamukalile Daivam, 1988: Padippura, 1990: Money Order (TV).

Menon, S. Balachandra (b. 1954)

Malayalam director and actor born in Ernakulam, Kerala. Journalist for the magazine Nana. Failing admission at the FTII, started as an independent low-budget film-maker. Début Uthradha Rathri was a dark comedy about a hypochondriac doctor who commits suicide after making love to a colleague dying of cancer. Acts in all his films, but started playing the lead following his successful April 18.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1978: Uthradha Rathri, 1979: Radha Enna Pennkutti, 1980: Aniyatha Valakkal, Ishtamanu Pakshe, Kalika, Vaiki Vanna Vasantham, 1981: Maniyan Pillai Athava Maniyan Pillai, Prema Geethangal, Tharattu, 1982: Chiriyo Chiri, Ithiri Neram Othiri Karyam, Kelkatha Shabdnam, Kilukilukkam, 1983: Kariyam Nisaram, Prashnam Gurutharam, Sesham Kazhchayil, 1984: April 18, Arante Mulla Kochu Mulla, Oru Painkilli Katha, 1985: Ente Ammu Ninte Thulasi Avarude Chakki, Menechippu Thurannapol, Parvathi, 1986: Thaikka Oru Thalattu, Vivahitare Itihile, 1987: Achuvettante Veedu, Ruthubhedam (act only); Oru Maymasappularayil (act only); Vilambaram, 1988: Kandatham Kettatham, 1991: Nayam Vethamakkunnu, 1993: Ammayana Sathyam, 1994: Sukham Sukhakaram, Sandhanagopalam (act only); 1995: Avittam Thirunal Arogya Shriman (act only).

Minerva Movietone

Est: 1936 by Sohrab Modi and his brother Rustom. It emerged from Stage Films, set up in 1935 to film the stage repertoire of Rustom's group, Arya Subodh Natak Mandali. Renowned for big-budget historicals, the studio benefited from the Modi family's existing distribution interests in Gwalior, expanded by the third brother, Keki Modi, into Western India Theatres, owning a chain of 27 theatres in 10 cities. Set up the first Technicolor laboratory (1952) with Film Group and made Jhansi Ki Rani (1953).

Mir, Ezra (1903-93)

Hindi director born as Edwin Myers in Calcutta. Actor on the Madan stage (played Khusro in Noorjehan and later filmed the play) and in two silent Madan films (1922-3). Sailed to New York in 1924 and worked as extra in Rudolph Valentino's A Sainted Devil (1924). Worked in editing and story departments of Universal (1925-7) and moved to United Artists (1927-9). Made short film, The Symbolesque. Returned in 1930 to Imperial and made Noorjehan (he had acted in a 1923 version). Moved to Sagar (1932-4) where he made e.g. the Zubeida film Zarina, adapting Niranjan Pal's play, before returning to Madan (1935). Their Kajjan starrers helped delay the studio's demise. After a European voyage, he went to Bombay to make the Kidar Sharma-scripted Rickshawala for Ranjit Studio. Set up Everest Pics in 1939 (Sitara). During the war, inspired by the March of Time series, turned to documentary: Road to Victory used newsreel material lent by Universal and 20th Century-Fox. Joined the Film Advisory Board (1940-1) and produced over 175 films for its successor Information Films of India 1942-6. Took over Films Division in 1956 and was chief producer until 1961, moulding that institution into its current shape. Also ran the CFS (1962-4).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1929: The Symbolesque (Sh) (St); 1931: Noorjehan, 1932: Zarina, 1933: Premi Pagal, 1934: Farzande Hind, 1935: Mera Pyara, Rashida, 1936: Parivartan, Shaitan Ka Pash, Jeevan Sangram, Rajdulari, 1938: Rickshawala, 1939: Sitara, Road to Victory (Doc); 1941: Voice of Satan (Sh); 1942: Whispering Legend (Doc); 1947: Beete Din, 1954: Pamposh, 1958: Do You Know? (Doc); 1964: Raju Aur Gangaram.

Mirza, Saeed Akhtar (b. 1943)

Hindi-Urdu director born in Bombay. Son of noted scenarist Akhtar Mirza. Worked in advertising before joining the FTII (1973-6). Co-founder of Yukt Film Co-op with K. Hariharan, Mani Kaul, Kamal Swaroop et al., where he made Arvind Desai Ki Ajeeb Dastaan. Early films attempt a free-flowing narrative style claiming partial influence of Brazilian Cinema Novo, using vérité shots usually of Bombay's working class. Started Iskra in collaboration with Kundan Shah, producing major TV series with each episode directed in turn by Mirza, Shah and colleagues like Raman Kumar and brother Aziz Mirza. Directed 17 of Nukkad's 39 episodes, a drama series set on a Bombay street corner. Made 11 of Intezaar's 26 episodes, a drama series about life in Kamalpura, a very small town. The group faced censorship trouble when Kundan Shah's serial Police Station was denied telecast permission by Doordarshan. Stated that his TV work was aimed at 14-year-olds 'because the medium is geared to that age level.'

FILMOGRAPHY: 1976: Corpses (Doc); Actor Prepares (Doc); 1977: The Problem of Urban Housing (Doc); 1978: Slum Eviction (Doc); Arvind Desai Ki Ajeeb Dastaan, 1980: Albert Pinto Ko Gussa Kyon Aata Hai, 1982: Piparsod (Sh); 1983: Mohan Joshi Haazir Ho, 1984: Rickshaw Pullers of Jabalpur (Doc); 1986: Nukkad (TV); 1987: Is Anybody Listening (Doc); 1988: We Shall Overcome (Doc); Intezaar (TV); 1989: Salim Langde Pe Mat Ro; 1992: Ajanta and Ellora (Doc); 1995: Naseem.

Mishra, Bhagwati Prasad (1896-1932)

Hindi director, actor and producer born and educated in Benares. Achieved some renown as photographer and painter; apprenticed to painter Hussain Bux (1916-21). Worked in theatre group Vyakul Bharat Natak Mandali in Meerut. Joined Star Film as poster designer (1921). Directorial début: Razia Begum, causing communal controversy in Hyderabad (see Dhiren Ganguly). Worked with Ardeshir Irani's Star, Majestic, Royal and Imperial Studios as actor-director, making some of the latter's big-budget sequels to Alam Ara (1931). Promoted independent companies Indian Pic. Corp. and Zarina Pics. Then worked in Sharda and Sagar Studios until his death. His films, with those of colleague R.S.

Choudhury, are often cited among the first silent productions to stress the visual rather than the plot. Did several covers and illustrations for press books, including the striking designs for Naharsinh Daku.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* also act/ act only):

1924: Razia Begum; Veer Durgadas; Paap No Fej; *Mumbai Ni Sethani; *Shahjehan; Vijaya; 1925: Kangal Qaid Naharsinh Daku; Noor-e-Deccan; Devi Ahalyabai; Rana Pratap; Amarsinh Daggar; Paisa Ni Khumari; Kali Nagin; Ra Navghar; Ujain Kumar; 1926: *Indrajai; Slaves of Custom; Pahadi Pindharo; Sheesh Mahal; Pyari Mamta; Pagal Premi; 1927: Alladdin and the Wonderful Lamp; Gutter Nu Gulab; Poonam No Chand; Alibaba and the Forty Thieves; 1928: Hoor-e-Baghdad; Ek Abla; Haiyan No Haar; Kamala Kumari; Rajrang; Samrat Ashok; 1929: Anarbala; Mirza Sahiban; Jai Bharati; Be Dhari Talwar; Mewad Nu Moti; Raj Ramani; Shashikala; 1930: Cinema Girl; Nai Roshni; Sher-e-Arab; Arunodaya; 1931: Golibar; Toofani Taruni; Toofan (all St); Draupadi; 1932: Zalim Jawani; Sati Madalasa.

Mishra, Sisir (b. 1942)

Oriya and Hindi director; lecturer in physics at Bhadrak College, Orissa. Went to Bombay to make films (1965) and after a decade of assisting various directors, made his debut with the melodrama Sindura Bindu, a melancholic tale of childhood lovers who reunite only when the hero's wife dies of cancer. Best-known Hindi film is Bheegi Palkein, an art-house film with Smita Patil and Raj Babbar. His Samay Ki Dhara is a remake of his own Samaya Bada Balabaan.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1976: Sundura Bindu; 1978: Suna Sansar; 1982: Bheegi Palkein; Samaya Bada Balabaan; 1983: Subarna Seeta; 1986: Samay Ki Dhara; Ei Aama Sansar; 1989: Billoo Badshah; 1991: Bastra Haran.

Mistri, Babubhai (b. 1919)

Hindi and Gujarati director and cameraman born in Surat, Gujarat; also worked in Telugu film. India's first and most influential special-effects expert. Early career in Prakash Pics (1933-7) and Filmco (1938-45). Then went to Madras to work on Ellis Duncan's Meera (1945). Returned to Bombay and, as director and art director, helped establish Homi Wadia's Basant Studio (1942). Made a crucial contribution to the iconography of the post-war B-movie mythological, e.g. the miracle sequences of Nanabhai Bhatt and Wadia films (Jungle Princess, 1942; Husn Ka Chor, 1953; Hatimtai, 1956). Pioneering special effects include the invisible man in Vijay Bhatt's Khwab Ki Duniya (1937) and the travelling matte shots showing the genie lifting the palace and flying through the air in Nanubhai Vakil's Alladdin (1945). These sequences were admired by Pudovkin when he visited the studio. Also worked as art director at CIRCO. Directed several mythologicals and the stunt classic King Kong. Later films often feature wrestler Dara Singh. Continued working as a special-effects consultant for many productions, including the mammoth TV serial Ramayan (1986-8).

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1942: Muqabala; 1943: Mauj; 1945: Ji Haan; 1953: Nav Durga; 1954: Tilottama; 1955: Shri Krishna Bhakti; 1956: Sati Naagkanya; 1957: Naag Lok; Pawan Putra Hanuman; 1958: Maya Bazaar; Samrat Chandragupta; 1959: Bedard Zamana Kya Jaane; Chandrasena; Madari; Veer Ghatotkajan; 1960: Hanuman Pathal Vijayan; Maya Machhindra; 1961: Sampoorna Ramayan; 1962: King Kong; Maya Jaal; 1963: Kan Kan Mein Bhagwan; Parasmani; Sunehri Nagin; 1964: Magic Carpet; 1965: Bharat Milap; Mahabharat; Sangram; 1967: Sardar; Shamsheer; 1968: Har Har Gange; 1969: Anjaan Hai Ko; Sansar Leela; 1970: Bhagwan Parashuram; Naag Lok; 1971: Brahma Vishnu Mahesh; Saat Sawaal; Shri Krishna Arjun Yudh; Daku Mansingh; 1972: Naag Panchami; 1973: Ranakdevi; 1974: Hanuman Vijay; Harishchandra Taramati; 1975: Maya Machhindra/Alakh Niranjari; 1976: Veer Mangdaval; 1978: Jai Mahakali; Amar Suhagin; 1979: Pati Parmeshwar; Har Har Gange; Amarsinh Rathod; 1980: Mahabali Hanuman; 1982: Sati Naagkanya; 1983: Sant Ravidas Ki Amar Kahani; Kurukshetra; Sampoorna Mahabharat; 1984: Maya Bazaar; Gangavatarana; 1987: Kalyug Aur Ramayan; 1990: Hatimtai; 1991: Mahamayi.

Mitra, Kamal (1911-93)

Bengali actor born in Burdwan. Started in amateur theatre. Film debut with Gunamoy Bannerjee and in Debaki Bose's Hindi films. First major hit: Sat Number Bari, coinciding with his successes on the professional Calcutta stage (Seetaram, Tipu Sultan, etc). Acted with Minerva, Star and Srirangam theatres and in jatra groups. His tall stature and deep voice made him a natural for aristocratic patriarchal roles, e.g. already in his early career he continued the stereotype of the pipe-smoking father established by Chhabi Biswas. Later played several roles as screen villain but acted heroic roles in mythologicals (e.g. Kangsa, Mahishasur Badh). Retired in 1981. Autobiography: Flashback (1989).

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1943: Nilanguriya; Shri Ramanuja; 1945: Swarg Se Sundar Desh Hamara; Banphool; 1946: Sat Number Bari; Sangram; Dukhe Jader Jiban Gara; Nivedita; Tumi Aar Ami; 1947: Tapobhanga; Ratri; Abhiyatri; Roy Choudhury; Purbaraag; 1948: Samapika; Bankalekha; Sabhyasachi/Pather Daabi; 1949: Samarpan; Pratirodh; Sankalpa; Krishna Kaveri; Abhijaty; Ananya; 1950: Indira; Jagrata Bharat; Apabaad; Banprastha; Vidyasagar; Roopkatha; Maryada; Sahodar; Panchayat; 1951: Kulhara; Aparajito; Abhishapta; Sahajatri; Ananda Math; Minoti; Ratnadeep; 1952: Alladdin-o-Ashcharya Pradeep; Mahaprasthan Pathey/Yatrik; Madhurati; Bhuler Sheshe; Mahishasur Badh; 1953: Rami Chandidas; Shri Shri Satyanarayan; 1954: Maa-o-Chhele; Atom Bomb; Satir Dehatyaag; Maa Annapurna; Nababidhar; Prafulla; Mani-Aar-Manik; Sati; Amar Prem; Agni Pareeksha; Shoroshi; 1955: Sajghar; Pratiksha; Shap Mochan; Bir Hambir; Bidhilipi; Kankabatir Ghat; Devimalini; Bhalobasha; Pares; Drishti; Shribatsa Chinta; Sabar Uparey; Atmadarshari; Kalindi; 1956: Sagarika; Kirti Garh; Laksha-Hira; Ekti Raat; Asamapta; Trijama; Rajpath; Shilpi; Sinthir Sindoor; Amar Bou; Asha; 1957: Parash Pathar; Haar Jeet; Shesh Parichaya; Sindoor; Ulka; Tapasi; Panchatapa; Yatra Holo Suru; Punar Milan; Chandranath; Data-Karna; Louha-Kapat; 1958: Yamalaya Jibanta Manush; Nupur; Daily Passenger; Bhanu Pelo Lottery; Doktor Babu; Purir Mandir; Joutuk; Surya Torar; Shri Shri Tarakeshwar; Kangsa; 1959: Derso Khokhar Kando; Amrapali; Ae Jahar Sey Jahar Noy; 1960: Uttar Megh; Dui Bechara; Sakher Chor; Kono-Ek-Dir; Hospital; Surer Pyasi; 1961: Lakshmi Narayan; Kanchanmulya; Mithun Lagna; Ashay Bandhinu Ghar; 1962: Bipasha; Bodhu;

Kamal Mitra (centre) and Nirmal Kumar (right) in Louha-Kapat (1957)

Khana; Mayar Sansar, Shesh Chinha; Rakta Palash; Dhoop Chhaya; 1963: Shesh-Anka; High Heel; Deya Neyra; Barnali; Shreyasi; 1964: Bibhas; Agni Banya; Kashtipathar; Sandhya Deeper Sikha; 1965: Thana Theke Aschhi; O'Kay?; Raja Rammohurr; Mukhujey Paribar; Tapasi; Kal Tumi Aleya; 1966: Angikar; Firey Chalo; Joradighir Choudhury Paribar; Manihar; Rajdrohi; Ramdhakka; Susanta Sha; 1967: Ashite Ashio Na; Jiban Mrityu; 1968: Boudi; Chowringhee; Garh Nasimpur; 1969: Andhar Surya; Chiradiner; Parineeta; Pita Putra; Sabarmati; Teen Bhubhaner Parey; 1970: Samanarak; Muktsinan; 1971: Trinayani Maa; 1972: Biraj Bou; Chinnapatra; 1973: Agni Bhramar; Roudra Chhaya; Alo Andhare; Jiban Rahasya; 1974: Jodi Jantem; Phulu Thakurma; 1975: Amriter Swad; 1976: Yugo Manab Kabir; Asadharan; Shri Shri Maa Lakshmi; 1977: Din Amader; Jaal Sanyasi; 1979: Jata Mat Tata Path; 1980: Aro Ekjar; Bhagya Chakra; Daksha Yagna; Kalo Chokher Tara; 1981: Pahadi Phool; Khelar Putul; Surya Sakhi; 1982: Faisla; 1987: Khyapa Thakur.

Mitra, Naresh Chandra (1888-1968)

Bengali actor and director born in Agartala, Tripura. Law graduate from Calcutta University but became a major stage star, starting at Minerva Theatre (1922) with Chandragupta; joined Star Theatre with Karnarjun (1923). Acted in several plays for different companies, mostly playing villains. Entered film to complete Andhare Alo, begun by Sisir Bhaduri. Then actor-director, first at the Taj Mahal company, later at East India Film and Priyanath Ganguly's Kali Films. Style dominated by Calcutta Theatres conventions in themes commonly drawn from plays/novels based on Rabindranath Tagore (e.g. Nauka Dubi and Gora), Saratchandra Chattopadhyay (Devdas), Anuroopa Devi and on his own stage hits (e.g. Mahanisha, Banglar Meye, Pather Sathi etc). Later films starring Uttam Kumar (e.g. Bou Thakuranir Haat, Annapurnar Mandir) provide rare examples of a 30s stage style continued into post-Independence Bengali film. Acted in several films, such as those by younger Kallol directors like Sailajananda Mukherjee (e.g. Shahar Theke Dooray, Roy Choudhury). Towards the end of his life, was most closely associated with the folk Jatra.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1922: Andhare Alo; 1923: Maanbhanjan; 1924: Chandranath; 1927: Durgesh Nandini; 1928: Devdas; 1929: Kapal Kundala; 1930: Giribala; Kal Parinaya; 1931: Debi Choudhrani; Bibaha Bibhrat; 1932: Nauka Dubi (all St); 1933: Sabitr; 1935: Prafulla; 1936: Mahanisha; Pather Sheshay; Chino Haar; 1938: Gora; 1939: Sharmishtha; Chanakya; 1941: Kavi Joydev; Pratishodh; Banglar Meye; 1942: Pativrata; Bondi; Meenakshi; 1943: Swamir Ghar; Shahar Theke Dooray; 1944: Samaj; 1945: Bondita; 1946: Nivedita; Pather Sathi; 1947: Swayamsiddha; Roy Choudhury; Swapna-o-

Sadhana; 1949: Bidushi Bharya; 1950: Kanka; 1951: Niyati; Pandit Moshai; 1953: Bou Thakuranir Haat; 1954: Annapurnar Mandir; 1955: Kalindi; 1957: Ulka; 1960: Khudha; 1961: Maa; 1968: Parishodh.

Mitra, Premendra (1904-88)

Bengali director and writer born in Benares, UP. Major short story writer, poet and novelist of Kallol era, associated with journal Kalikalam (Est: 1926). One of the main Bengali literary figures to move to film, first as scenarist, then as director (others were Sailajananda Mukherjee and Dinesh Ranjan Das). Studied briefly at Shantiniketan and later at Dhaka. Worked as journalist on Banglar Katha; later edited the children's journal, Rangmashal (1933), and worked on Nabashakti (1936). First major novel, Pank (Mud, 1924), published by journal Kallol in 1926 and criticised by Rabindranath Tagore for obscenity, was an important event in articulating the journal's anti-romantic stance. Wrote c.150 books, including novels, essay collections, short stories and poems. Entered film as scenarist, writing the dialogue for Charu Roy's Graher Pher (1936). Best-known work for Dhiren Ganguly, Niren Lahiri and Sushil Majumdar. Considered his film scripts sentimental and not representative of his best writing, and later disowned his cinema entirely. His own films, introducing a sentimentalised socialist realism to the traditional social, combined aspects of pre-WW2 Bengali modernist fiction, IPTA influences (Moyla Kagaj) and the post-WW2 assimilation of melodramatic Italian neo-realism. Wrote all his own films; provided scripts and at times dialogues and lyrics for e.g. Ganguly's Ahuti (1941) and Daabi (1943), Sushil Majumdar's Rikta (1939), Pratishodh (1941), Avayer Biye (1942), Jogajog (1943) and Digbhranta (1950), Phani Burma's Byabadhan (1940) and Debaki Bose's Sagar Sangamey (1959). Also dialogues for Prafulla Roy's Nari (1942) lyrics for Jyotish Bannerjee's Milan (1942). Many of his stories have been filmed, e.g. Mrinal Sen's Khandhar (1983). An English anthology of short stories was published in 1990.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1943: Samadhar; 1944: Bideshini; 1945: Path Bendhe Dilo; Raj Lakshmi; 1947: Natun Khabar; 1948: Kalo Chhaya; 1949: Kuasha; 1950: Kankantala Light Railway; 1951: Setu; 1952: Hanabari; 1953: Dui Beyai; 1954: Moyla Kagaj; 1955: Dakinir Char; 1960: Chhupi Chhupi Ashey.

Mitra, Sombhu (1916-97)

Bengali-Hindi actor and director born in Hooghly Dist., Bengal. One of the most significant figures of 20th C. Indian theatre. The first play he staged, Bijon Bhattacharya's Nabanna (1943), based on the 1943 Calcutta famine, was seminal to realist political theatre and a reference-point for the IPTA. He made his film debut in K.A. Abbas's IPTA-sponsored film version of the play Dharti Ke Lal. Set up his own theatre group, Bohurupee (1948), pioneering indigenous variations of Ibsen's naturalist idiom (Dashachakra, adapting An Enemy of the People; Putulkhela, adapting Doll's House; Badal Sircar's Evam Indrajit) in tandem with stylised performances of Rabindranath Tagore's Dak Ghar, Raktakarabi and Raja. Later theatre work includes exploration of Greek tragedy (Oedipus) and Brecht (Galileo). Invited by Raj Kapoor to direct Jagte Raho. Considered the greatest Bengali actor after Sisir Bhaduri, along with contemporaries Ajitesh Bandyopadhyay and Utpal Dutt.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* only d/ also d): 1946: Dharti Ke Lal; 1947: Abhiyatri; 1949: Abarta; 1950: Hindustan Hamara; 1953: Maharaj Nandakumar; Pathik; Bou Thakuranir Haat; 1954: Maraner Pare; Shivashakti; 1955: Durlav Janma; 1956: Jagte Raho/ Ek Din Raatre*; 1959: Shubha Bibaha; 1961: Manik; 1962: Suryasnar; 1967: Panna; 1969: Natun Pata; 1971: Nishachar.

Modak, Shahu (1918-93)

Marathi-Hindi star born in Ahmednagar, Maharashtra, in Christian family. Introduced by Bhalji Pendharkar together with Shanta Apte, as child star (Shyam Sundar). Double role in second film Aut Ghatkecha Raja. Top Marathi star following his role as the upright policeman Ganpat in Shantaram's Manoos/ Admi. Earlier reputation in contemporary socials (e.g. Mazha Mulga) was later superseded by Sant Dnyaneshwar after which, for several decades, he played mainly Saint films and mythologicals by e.g. V.M. Vyas, Dhirubhai Desai and Vijay Bhatt. Apparently played Krishna in 29 mythologicals, in Marathi, Hindi and Bhojpuri films.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1932: Shyam Sundar; 1933: Awara Shehzada/ Aut Ghatkecha Raja; Bulbul-e-Punjab; 1934: Radha Mohan/ Nand Ke Lala; Seva Sadar; 1936: Honhar; Hind Mahila; 1937: Begunah; 1938: Mazha Mulga/ Mera Ladka; 1939: Manoos/ Admi; 1940: Sant Dnyaneshwar; 1942: Bharat Milap/ Bharat Bhet; Apna Paraya; Pahili Mangalagaur; Shobha; Vasantsena; 1943: Dulhar; Kanoor; Ladaai Ke Baad; Mahasati Ansuya; 1944: Geet; Maharathi Karna; 1945: Meghdoot; Shri Krishnarjun Yuddha; 1946: Daasi Ya Maa; Uttara Abhimanyu; 1947: Seedha Raasta; 1948: Mandir; 1949: Nara Narayan; Maya Bazaar; Veer Ghatotkach; Sant Namdev; 1950: Bhagwan Shri Krishna; Bhishma Pratigya; Shri Ram Avatar; 1951: Jai Mahakali; Hi Majhi Lakshmi; Parijataki/ Shri Krishna Satyabhama; Vithal Rakhumai; 1952: Bhakta Puran; Draupadi Vastraharan; 1954: Durga Puja; Chakradhari; Ramayan; Amar Keertan; 1955: Mastani; Shiv Bhakta; Mi Tulas Tujhya Angani; Bal Ramayan; 1956: Aastik; Dassehra; Dwarkadheesh; Harihar Bhakti; Sudarshan Chakra; 1957: Uthavala Narad; Bhakta Dhruva; Lakshmi Puja; Mohini; Naag Lok; Narsi Bhagam; Raja Vikram; Ram Lakshman; Shyam Ki Jogan; Shesh Naag; 1958: Sudamyache Pohe; Gopichand; Harishchandra; Ram Bhakta Vibhishan; Gaja Gauri; 1959: Grihalakshmi; 1960: Bhakta

Raaj, 1962: Rangalya Ratri Asha; Sunbai, Vithu Mazha Lekurvala; 1963: Subhadra Haran; 1964: Bhakta Dhruvakumar; Sant Dnyaneshwar; Tere Dwar Khada Bhagwan; Veer Bhimser; 1965: Mahasati Ansuya (H); Shankar Seeta Ansuya; Sant Tukaram; 1968: Balaram Shri Krishna; Jyot Jale; Mata Mahakali; 1970: Sampoorna Teerth Yatra; Jhala Mahar Pandharinath; 1972: Sant Tulsidas; Hari Darshan; Narad Leela; 1973: Shri Krishna Bhakti; Vishnu Puran; 1974: Har Har Mahadev; 1975: Daku Aur Bhagwan; Mahapavan Teerth Yatra; Shri Satyanarayan Ki Mahapooja; 1976: Bajrang Bali; 1977: Jai Ambe Maa; 1978: Ashapura Matani Chundadi; 1979: Ashta Vinayak; Chhat Maiya Ki Mahima; Meera; 1980: Bhalu; 1981: Sampoorna Santoshi Maa Ki Mahima; 1983: Razia Sultan.

Modern Theatres

Angel Films, started in 1934 by T.R. Sundaram in partnership with S.S. Velayudham Pillai, became the Modern Theatres Studio in 1937, soon one of South India's most influential and busiest studios before the WW2 period, at its peak making films in Tamil, Telugu, Kannada, Hindi, Sinhalese and Malayalam. Located in Salem, over 300km from Madras, it related to the vast Southern hinterland largely ignored by Madras and Bombay. It created a Malayalam film industry, producing its first sound film, Nottani's Balan (1938) and Sundaram's Kandam Becha Coat (1961), the first Malayalam colour film. The studio did the same for Telugu productions in the 40s, introducing megastars Anjali Devi and S.V. Ranga Rao (in B.V. Ramanandam's Varudhini, 1946). Film-makers working in Tamil, the studio's native language, include Ellis R. Duncan, C.V. Raman, K. Ramnoth, T.R. Raghunath etc., while among the Tamil stars introduced there was M.R. Radha (in Santhanathevam, 1939). Also sponsored the early DMK Films mainly because of their financial success. The poet and scenarist Bharatidasan was employed here, and the studio later produced the Karunanidhi-scripted Manthiri Kumari (1950). Nevertheless, the studio claimed ideological neutrality, unlike the major Madras studios led by e.g. K. Subramanyam and later S.S. Vasan. Its commitment to pure entertainment allowed for tighter budgets and the Modern formula was later replicated by several studios in Salem itself as well as in nearby Coimbatore, making these regions into Southern production centres rivalling Madras.

Modi, Sohrab Merwanji (1897-1984)

Hindi-Urdu director, actor and producer; born in Bombay. Son of a civil servant; after education in Rampur, UP, and in Bombay, started as a travelling exhibitor in Gwalior (1914) with brother K.M. Modi. Elder brother Rustom Modi, together with Ittefaq, set up Arya Subodh Natya Mandali theatre group (1923). Sohrab played Jehangir (Hamlet) opposite Naseem Banu (Ophelia) in Khoon Ka Khoon, one of the biggest Urdu stage hits of the 20s.

Rustom Modi started Stage Films (1935) mainly to adapt their plays to the cinema. The film version of Khoon Ka Khoon was followed by Aga Hashr Kashmiri's Shakespeare adaptation, Saeed-e-Havas. Broke away to found Minerva Movietone (1936). Although Modi went beyond the Parsee theatre for his choice of themes, his formal approach remained tied to it and evokes the way Parsee theatre looked and sounded, using frontal composition and staging the narrative in spatial layers. Also copious use of Urdu dialogues. Regarded as the man who brought Shakespeare to the Indian screen. Best-known for his spectacular costumed historicals (together with Asif and Amrohi), which, after Pukar, he alternated with contemporary psychodramas that often dealt with marital problems from a misogynist viewpoint (e.g. Jailor: Talaaq, Bharosa). Acted in all the films he directed and wrote most of them. Started acting for other directors after Bimal Roy's Yahudi.

FILMOGRAPHY (* only act): 1935: Khoon Ka Khoon; 1936: Saeed-e-Havas; 1937: Atma Tarang; Khan Bahadur; 1938: Jailor; Talaaq; Meetha Zaher; 1939: Pukar; 1940: Bharosa; 1941: Sikandar; 1942: Phir Milenge; 1943: Prithvi Vallabh; 1944: Parakh; 1945: Ek Din Ka Sultan; 1947: Manjdhari; 1949: Daulat; Narasinh Avatar; 1950: Sheesh Mahal; 1953: Jhansi Ki Rani; 1954: Mirza Ghalib; 1955: Kundan; 1956: Rajhaath; 1957: Nausherwan-e-Adil; 1958: Jailor; *Farishta; Yahudi; 1959: Minister; *Pehli Raat; 1960: Ghar Ki Laaj; Mera Ghar Mere Bachche; 1965: Bharat Milap; 1967: Woh Koi Aur Hoga; 1969: Samay Bada Balwan; 1970: Jwala; 1971: Ek Nari Ek Brahmachari; 1975: Tanariri; 1979: Ghar Ki Laaj; Meena Kumari Ki Amar Kahani; 1981: Ganga Maang Rahi Balidan; 1982: Rustom; 1983: Razia Sultan.

Mohanan, K. R. (b. 1947)

Malayalam director born in Trichur Dist., Kerala. Graduated in zoology; then diploma in direction at the FTII. Known mainly as director of shorts and documentaries, often for the Kerala State Film Development Corp. where he worked for several years. Feature debut: Ashwathama, updating the Mahabharata legend into the present, is based on the lead player Madampu Kunjukuttan's novel and was widely acclaimed. However, a decade elapsed before his second film.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1978: Ashwathama; 1987: Purushartham; 1992: Swaroopam.

Mohan Kohli, Madan (1924-75)

Hindi film composer born in Baghdad. Son of Rai Bahadur Chunilal, the production controller of Bombay Talkies and founder of Filmistan. Joined the army in WW2. Employed in the Lucknow station of AIR (1946) where he received his only musical education in the company of singers like Faiyaz Khan, Bade Ghulam Ali Khan and Begum Akhtar. First film: Devendra Goel's Aankhen, where singer Lata Mangeshkar apparently refused to sing for him, considering him an untrained newcomer. However, they became close friends and his second film, J.B.H. Wadia's Madhosh, features both Mangeshkar and Talat Mahmood, the latter singer being most closely associated with his compositions. Madhosh included the hit Talat song Meri yaad mein. Wrote some of Hindi cinema's most famous compositions, such as Geeta Dutt's Ai dil mujhe bata de in M.V. Raman's Bhai Bhai, Mangeshkar's Lag ja gale and Naina barase in Woh Kaun Thi and several ghazals, like Aapki nazaron ne samjha in Mohan Kumar's Anpadh. Was Chetan Anand's regular composer following the popularity achieved by the songs from Haqueeqat. In the 70s worked with Hrishikesh Mukherjee (Bawarchi) and Gulzar (Koshish, Mausam). Apparently also scored the following films which remained uncensored: Jahan Mile Dharti Akash, Jahan Tum Wahan Hum, Ummeed Pe Duniya Jeete Hain, Maine To Mohabbat Ki Hai, Naya Janam Phir Wohi Shyam, Rehnuma and Salma. See Raju Bharatan, 'Those Madanutties' (1995).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1950: Aankhen; 1951: Ada; Madhosh; Shabistari; 1952: Anjaam; Ashiana; Khubsoorat; Nirmohi; 1953: Baghi; Chacha Choudhury; Dhurr; Dana Pani; 1954: Ehsan; Ilzaam; Mastana; 1955: Railway Platform; Santosham/Naya Admi; 1956: Bhai Bhai; Fifty Fifty; Mem Sahib; Pocketmaar; 1957: Beti; Chhote Babu; Dekh Kabira Roy; Gateway of India; Samundar; Sheroo; 1958: Aakhri Dao; Adalat; Chandari; Ek Shola; Jailor; Khazanchi; Khota Paisa; Night Club; 1959: Baap Bete; Bank Manager; Chacha Zindabad; Duniya Na Mane; Jagir; Minister; Mohar; 1960: Bahana; 1961: Sanjog; Senapati; 1962: Anpadh; Manmauji; 1963: Akeli Mat Jaiyo; 1964: Aap Ki Parchhaiyan; Ghazal; Haqueeqat; Jahan Ara; Pooja Ke Phool; Sharabi; Woh Kaun Thi; Suhagan; 1965: Bombay Race Course; Naya Kanoon; Neela Akash; Rishte Naate; Dak Ghar; 1966: Dulhan Ek Raat Ki; Ladka Ladki; Mera Saaya; Neend Hamari Khwab Tumhare; 1967: Ghar Ka Chirag; Jab Yaad Kisiki Aati Hai; Naunihaal; Nawab Siraj-ud-Dowla; 1968: Ek Kali Muskayi; 1969: Chirag; 1970: Dastak; Heer Ranjha; Maa Ka Aanchal; Maharaja; 1971: Parwana; 1972: Bawarchi; Koshish; Sultana Daku; 1973: Dil Ki Raaheir; Ek Mutthi Aasmaan; Hanste Zakhm; Hindustan Ki Kasam; Prabhat; 1974: Asliyat; Chowkidar; 1975: Mausam; 1976: Laila Majnu; Sharafat Chhod Di Maine; 1977: Saheb Bahadur; 1978: Jalan; Inspector Eagle; 1980: Chaalbaaz.

Mohanlal (b. 1962)

Malayalam star born in Trivandrum, Kerala. Unlike his contemporary Mammootty, with whom he dominated Kerala's cinema in the 80s, his bulky physique makes for an unusual heroic figure. Moved to Madras where he acted in Thirannotam, an amateur production by actors and directors trying to get a break into films. Started professional acting career at Navodaya Studio. A villain in his early work (cf. his noted debut in the love story and stunt film

Mohanlal in Rachana (1983)

Manjil Virinja Pookkal, and Attakkalasangam starring Prem Nazir). Shifted to his best-known 80s genre, musical comedy, with Engane Nee Marakkum. Was later associated closely with the foremost director of this genre, Priyadarshan (cf. their hits Chithram and Kilukkam). His films privilege comic routines, a Trivandrum-Malayalam accent and dances where the star often shows amazing agility. Director Priyadarshan says that in a Mohanlal dance, 'I do not go in for well-rehearsed and conducted steps of dancing, but instead make the camera move according to the music.' Mohanlal's slightly spoofy, satirical musicals and romance dramas (which often end tragically) are sometimes contrasted with Mammooty's grim, songless vendetta thrillers (New Delhi, 1987; Oru CBI Diary Kuruppu, 1988). Both stars often acted together, e.g. the hit Gandhinagar 2nd Street and I.V. Sasi's political drama Vartha. Shifted his style to play an Eastwood-Leone figure in Bharathan's Thazhvaram and a very unheroic officer in the rehabilitation ministry in Aravindan's Vastuhara.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1980: Manjil Virinja Pookkal; 1981: Ahimsa; Attamar; Dhanya; Dhruva Sangamam; Oothikachiya Ponnur; Sanchari; Thakilukottampuram; 1982: Padayottam; A Divasam; Akrosham; Ente Mohanangal Poovaninjur; Enikkum Oru Divasam; Enthino Pookunna Pookal; Football; Kaliyamardhanam; Kelkatha Shabdham; Gnan Oru Parayatte; Sindooru Sandhyakku Mounam; Shri Ayyappanum Vavarum; 1983: Engane Nee Marakkum; Attakkalasangam;

Adhipathyam; Akkare; Arabikada; Asthram; Bhukambam; Chakravalam Chuvannappol; Ente Katha; Ente Mamattukuttiamma; Guru Dakshina; Hello Madras Girl; Himavahini; Iniyenkilum; Kattathe Kilikoodu; Kola Kombar; Kuyiline Thedi; Marakkailo Rikalum; Naseema; Nanayam; Oru Mugham Pala Mugham; Pinnivalu; Sesham Kazhchayil; Visa; Yangana Nee Marakkum; 1984: Vanitha Police; Alkoottathil Thaniye; Adiyozhukkukal; Aduthaduthu; Appunni; Ariyatha Veethigal; Athirathram; Etha Ennumuthal; Ivide Thodangannu; Kaliyil Alpam Karyam; Kilikonchal; Kurisuyuddham; Lakshmana Rekha; Manasariyathe; Nayakar; Nokketha Dhoorathu K annum Nattu; Onnanu Namma; Oru Kochu Swapnam; Pavam Poornima; Poochakkoru Mookuthi; Saundamevide? Bandamevide?; Shri Krishnaparunthu; Thirakal; Unaroo; Uyyarangelil; Vettah; 1985: Adhiyayam Odhu Mudhal; Angadikkapurathu; Anubandham; Aram Aram = Kinnaram; Avidathepole Ivideyum; Azhiyatha Bandhanga; Boeing Boeing; Ezhamuthal Onpathuvare; Guruji Oru Vakkur; Ida Nilanga; Jeevante Jeevan; Kandu Kandaninjur; Karimbin Poovinakkare; Koodum Thedi; Mulammoottil Adima; Neram Pularumbo; Inan Piranna Nattil; Omanikkan Ormavaikkar; Onnanam Kunnil Oradi Kunnil; Pathamudayam; Parayanumvayya Parayathirikkanumvayya; Rangam; Uyarum Inan Naale; Vasantena; 1986: Vartha; Pappan Priyapetta Pappan; Oppom Oppathinoppam; Mazha Peyyunnu Maddalam Kottunnu; Panchagni; Abhayam Thedi; Desadanakkili Karayilla; Ninnishtam

Ennishtam; Kunjatta Kiligal; Revathikkoru Pavakkutty; Hello My Dear-Wrong Number; Iniyum Kurukshetram; Kaveri; Gandhinagar 2nd Street; Doore Doore Koodu Kootam; Thalavattam; Sanmanassu Illavakkaru Samadhanam; Namukku Parkkan Munthiri Thoppukal; 1987: Abhimanyu; January Oru Orma; Amritam Gamaya; Adimagal Udumagal; Sarvakalasala; Unnikale Oru Katha Parayam; Thoovana Thumbigal; Vazhiyora Kazhchagal; Ivide Ellavarkkum Sukham; Cheppur; Nadodikattu; Irupatham Nootandu; 1988: Kilukkam; Mukunthetta Sumitra Vilikkunnu; Ayitham; Orkapurathu; Padamudra; Pattana Praveshanam; Anuragi; Aryan; Moonnam Mura; Chithram; Manu Uncle; 1989: Utsavapittennur; Lal Americayil; Dauthiyam; Season; Varavelpu; Naduvazhigal; Kireedam; Vandanam; Dasharatham; Adipar; Thazhvaram; 1990: Vastuhara; Indrajalam; His Highness Abdullah; Akkareakkareakkare; Aye Auto; No. 20 Madras Mail; 1991: Dhanam; Vishnulokam; Ulladakkam; Kizhakkunarum Pakshi; Advaitam; Rajashilpi; Sadayam; Bharatham; Uncle Burr; 1992: Kamalathalam; Agam; Yodha; Nadodi; Vietnam Colony; 1993: Midhunam; Devasuram; Butterflies; Maya Mayuram; Gandharvam; Chenkol; Kalippattam; Manichithratharazu; 1994: Pavithram; Thenmavin Kombath; Pingami; Pakshey; Minnaram; 1995: Nirnayam; Spatikam; Thacholi Varghese Chevakar.

Mohapatra see Mahapatra

Motilal Rajvansh (1910-65)

Hindi actor born in Simla; best known as the gentleman crook in Gemini's Mr Sampat, based on R.K. Narayan's famous novel, and as the tragic hero's city friend in Bimal Roy's 1955 version of Devdas. Played several roles as the urbane city-bred sophisticate, e.g. in Mehboob's Taqdeer, and most notably in Hrishikesh Mukherjee's Anari, where his suave performance as a business magnate counterpoints Raj Kapoor's awkward Oedipal rebellion. Also played a spectacular antipathetic role in Kardar's Holi. Together with Sabita Devi, he formed a top 30s screen couple in Sagar's socials, e.g. Badami's K.M. Munshi-scripted Dr Madhurika. Later worked at Ranjit in Chandulal Shah's Achhut, in Jayant Desai's Diwali and Shadi and in Chaturbhuj Doshi's Pardesi and Sasural, usually with Madhuri. Elaborated a realistic acting style relying on casual dialogue delivery, often hailed as the first example of naturalistic film acting in India. His style marked the early work of Mehboob (Jagirdar, Hum Tum Aur Woh, Taqdeer) and Kidar Sharma (Armaan, Kaliyan) and was acknowledged by Dilip Kumar as a significant predecessor. Cousin of playback singer Mukesh.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1934: Shaher Ka Jadoo; 1935: Silver King; Dr Madhurika; 1936: Jeevan Lata; Lagna Bandhan; Do Diwane; 1937: Captain Kirti Kumar; Jagirdar; Kokila; Kulavadhu; 1938: Three Hundred Days And After, Hum Tum Aur Woh, 1939: Aap Ki Marzi, Sach Hai, 1940: Achhut, Diwali, Holi, 1941: Pardesi, Sasural, Shadi, 1942: Armaan, Iqraar, 1943: Muskurahat, Prarthana, Pratigya, Taqdeer, Tasveer, Vijay Lakshmi, Aage Kadam, 1944: Dost, Kaliyar, Mujrim, Pagli Duniya, Raunaq, Umang, 1945: Biswi Sadi, Murti, Pehli Nazar, Piya Milan, Sawar, 1946: Phulwari, 1947: Beete Dir, Do Dil, 1948: Aaj Ki Raat, Gajre, Mera Munna, 1949: Ek Thi Ladki, Lekh, Parivartan, 1950: Hanste Aansoo, Hamari Beti, Sartaj, 1952: Apni Izzat, Betaab, Kafila, Mr Sampat, 1953: Dhuan, Ek Do Teen, Jhanjhar, Pehli Shaadi, 1954: Khushboo, Mastana, Savdhan, 1955: Devdas, Shri Naqad Narayan, 1956: Bandhan, Guru Ghanta, Jagte Raho, Lalter, 1957: Ab Dilli Door Nahin, 1958: Hathkadi, Do Mastane, 1959: Anari, Paigham, 1960: Mukti, Parakh, Zameen Ke Tare, 1963: Yeh Raaste Hain Pyar Ke, 1964: Leader, Ji Chahata Hai, 1965: Chhoti Chhoti Baatein*, Waqt, 1966: Duniya Hai Dilwalon Ki; Yeh Zindagi Kitni Haseen Hai.

Mudal iar, Pammal Vijayaranga Sambandham (1872-1964)

Influential Tamil director; former lawyer and dramatist. Founded the amateur theatre group Suguna Vilas Sabha (1904), staging e.g. Shakespeare and Sanskrit classics in the Victoria Public Hall, Madras. Wrote c.68 plays staged for the city's political and cultural élite. Many of his plays were filmed, often directly from the stage: e.g. Sarvottam Badami's Galava Rishi (1932), the second Tamil sound feature, and Mudaliar's own directions Sati Sulochana and Manohara. Other films based on his plays, setting the norms for an élite, 'apolitical' entertainment, include Prafulla Ghosh's Ratnavali (1935), M.L. Tandon's Yayati (1938), T.R. Raghunath's Ramalinga Swamigal (1939), K.S. Mani's Chandrahari (1941), Murugadasa's Urvashi Sahasam (1940), Duncan's Daasi Penn (1943), A.V. Meiyappan's Sabhapati (1941) and Vethala Ulagam (1948). Published two books on Tamil film in 1937.

FILMOGRAPHY (* also act): 1934: Sati Sulochana; 1936: Manohara.

Mudal iar, R. Nataraja (1885-1972)

Pioneer cineaste of South India born in Vellore. Initially in the cycle business (1906), then the car trade (1911). Apprenticed in 1912 to a Mr Stewart, the official cinematographer of Lord Curzon's 1903 durbar. Set up India Film in Madras (1915) with a second-hand Williamson camera and finance from businessman S.M. Dharmalingam. The studio was set up in a makeshift space on Miller's Road where he made Keechaka Vadham, intertitled in Tamil, Hindi and English. Reputed to have made an earlier film, Gopal Krishna. Draupadi Vastrapaharanam featured an Anglo-Indian actress, Violet Berry, as Draupadi. Made his other features, all mythologicals, around his home town of Vellore. In 1923, his studio burnt down and his son died, prompting him to retire.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1915: Gopal Krishna; 1916: Keechaka Vadham; 1917: Draupadi Vastrapaharanam; 1918: Mayil Ravana; 1919: Lavakusa; 1920: Kalinga Mardanam; 1921: Rukmini Kalyanam; 1923: Markandeya.

Mukherjee, Gyan (1909-57)

Hindi director born in Benares. Graduated as a scientist; editor of journal Science and Culture. Joined Bombay Talkies as a supervising technician. Wrote script for Bandhan (1940) and collaborated with Abbas on script of Naya Sansar (1941). Directed Ashok Kumar at Bombay Talkies (Jhoola, Kismet) and Filmistan, creating a new image for him with a big impact on later Hindi film (e.g. on the image of Dilip Kumar). His Chal Chal Re Naujawan launched Filmistan. Style drawn largely from 30s Warner Bros with naturalist underplaying for greater psychological complexity (e.g. the seminal Kismet and Sangram). Guru Dutt dedicated Pyasa (1957) to him.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1941: Jhoola; 1943: Kismet; 1944: Chal Chal Re Naujawan; 1950: Sangram; 1953: Shamsheer; 1955: Sardar; 1956: Shatranj; 1959: Madhu.

Mukherjee, Hemanta Kumar (1920-89)

Aka Hemant Kumar. Bengali-Hindi composer and singer. Born in Varanasi. Left school to become a professional singer. Studied under Phani Bannerjee and Shailendraprasad Gupta. Early songs for radio. Released his first record in 1937, with the still-popular numbers Janite jodi go and Balogo more. One of the most popular Rabindra Sangeet singers of his time, starting under the tutelage of Anadi Dastidar, initially singing mainly in the tradition of Pankaj Mullick. Changed his style in context of a brief but fruitful collaboration with composer Salil Choudhury (1949-52) associated with the IPTA. Début as singer in Bengali film with Phani Burma's Nimai Sanyasi (1940) and in Hindi with Iraada (1944). Early compositions for Hemen Gupta (Bhuli Naai, '42, Anandmath, Kashiti). Established himself as a Bengali composer with Ajoy Kar's Jighansa. Although he went on to become one of the most popular Bengali film composers, his main fame derives from playback singing for Uttam Kumar, his baritone becoming a key ingredient of the star's romantic dramas: e.g. classic hits Jhor utteche in Sudhir Mukherjee's Shap Mochan, Nir chhoto khati nei in Niren Lahiri's Indrani (1958); Ei path jodi na shesh hoi in Ajoy Kar's Saptapadi, etc. Often partnered Sandhya Mukherjee, female playback usually for Suchitra Sen. From the 50s onwards his voice incarnated Bengali middle-class romanticism, having an enduring influence on all male playback singers in the language ever since. Became a star singer in Hindi with the classic Yeh raat yeh chandni in Guru Dutt's Jaal (1952), picturised on Dev Anand on the beach among the fishing nets. Collaborated extensively with Dutt, e.g. Jaane woh kaise log the in Pyasa (1957) and scored the hauntingly beautiful numbers of Sahib Bibi Aur Ghulam. First Hindi hit as composer is Nagin, adapting a tune from Bijon Bhattacharya's play Jiyankanya for the sinuous snake dance number Man dole, a landmark in the introduction of electronics into Hindi film music. Composed regularly for Tarun Majumdar and for the early Mrinal Sen, producing Sen's Neel Akasher Neechey. As producer he often worked with set designer turned director Biren Nag, showing a penchant for thrillers like Bees Saal Baad (adapting The Hound of the Baskervilles), and Kohraa, borrowed from Daphne du Maurier's (and Hitchcock's) Rebecca. Also produced Pinaki Mukherjee's Faraar, Hrishikesh Mukherjee's Biwi Aur Makaan, Tarun Majumdar's Rahgir and Asit Sen's Rajesh Khanna psychodrama Khamoshi. Autobiography Amar Ganer Swaralipi (1988).

FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1947: Purbaraag; Abhiyatri; 1948: Bhuli Naai; Padma Paramatti Nadi; Priyatama; 1949: Diner Par Dir; '42: Sandipan Pathshala; Swami; 1951: Jighansa; 1952: Anandmath; 1954: Daku Ki Ladki, Kashti, Jagriti; Nagin; Samrat, Shart; 1955: Bahu; Bandish; Bhagwat Mahima; Lagar; Shap Mochan; 1956: Suryamukhi; Anjaar; Arab Ka Saudagar; Bandhan; Durgesh Nandini; Ek Hi Raasta; Hamara Watan; Inspector; Lalter; Taj; 1957: Bandi; Champakali; Ek Jhalak; Fashion; Hill Station; Kitna Badal Gaya Insaan; Miss Mary; Payal; Yahudi Ki Ladki; Shesh Parichaya; Taser Ghar; Harano Sur; Naikinichi Sajja; 1958: Lookochuri; Shikar; Joutuk; Surya Toran; Do Mastane; Police; Sahara; Neel Akasher Neechey; 1959: Chand; Hum Bhi Insaan Hain; Marutirtha Hinglaj; Deep Jweley Jai; Khelaghar; Sonar Harin; Kshaniker Atithi; 1960: Kuhak; Khokha Babur Pratyabartan; Baishey Shraavan; Gariber Meye; Shesh Paryanta; Duniya Jhukti Hai; Girl Friend; 1961: Sathi Hara; Agni Sansar; Swaralipi; Madhya Rater Tara; Saptapadi; Dui Bhai; 1962: Hansuli Banker Upakatha; Atal Jaler Ahwar; Agur; Dada Thakur; Nabadiganta; Bees Saal Baad; Maa Beta; Sahib Bibi Aur Ghulam; 1963: Bin Badal Barsaat; Ek Tukro Agur; Barnachora; Saat Pake Bandha; High Heel; Palatak; Shesh Prahar; Tridhara; Badshah; 1964: Kohraa; Pratinidhi; Bibhas; Swarga Hotey Biday; Sindoore Megh; Prabhater Rang; Natun Tirtha; Arohi; 1965: Alor Pipasa; Ek Tuku Basa; Surya Tapa; Ek Tuku Chhoya Lage; Do Dil; Faraar; 1966: Anupama; Biwi Aur Makaan; Sannata; Kanch Kata Hirey; Manihar; 1967: Balika Bodhu; Dustu Prajapati; Nayika Sangbad; Manjhli Did; Ajana Shapath; 1968: Do Dooni Char; Adwitiya; Baghini; Hansamithur; Jiban Sangeet; Panchasar; Parishodh; 1969: Chena Achen; Mon-Niye; Parineeta; Shuk Sari; Khamoshi; Rahgir; 1970: Deshbandhu Chittaranjan; Us Raat Ke Baad; Duti Mor; 1971: Kubeli; Malyadaar; Nabaraag; Nimantran; Sansar; 1972: Bees Saal Pehle; Anindita*; Shriman Prithviraj; 1974: Bikele Bhorer Phool; Thagini; Phuleshwari; 1975: Agniswar; Nishi Mrigaya; Raag Anuraag;

Sansar Simantey, Mohan Baganer Meye; 1976: Banhi Sikha; Datta; Sankhabish; Pratisruti; 1977: Rajani; Din Amader; Hatey Roilo Tin; Mantramugdha; Pratima; Sanai; Shesh Raksha; Swati; Proxy; 1978: Nadi Theke Sagare; Ganadevata; Pronoy Pasha; Do Ladke Dono Kadke; 1979: Love in Canada; Shahar Theke Dooray; Nauka Dubi; 1980: Bandhan; Dadar Kirti; Paka Dekha; Pankhiraj; Shesh Bichar; 1981: Subarna Golak; Kapal Kundala; Meghmukti; Khelar Putul; 1982: Chhoto Maa; Chut; Pratiksha; Uttar Meleni; 1983: Amar Geeti; Rajeshwari; 1984: Agni Shuddhi; Ajantay; Bishabriksha; Didi; Madhuban; Surya Trishna; 1985: Bhalobasha Bhalobasha; Tagori; 1986: Pathbhola; Ashirwad; 1987: Pratibha; Tunibou; 1988: Boba Sanai; Parasmoni; Surer Sathi; Agaman.

Mukherjee, Hrishikesh

(b. 1922)

Hindi director and editor born in Calcutta. Studied science at Calcutta University; then a teacher and a freelance artist at AIR. Joined New Theatres (1945) as laboratory assistant, then editor. First full editing assignment: Tathapi (1950). Worked as assistant director and editor for Bimal Roy; later also edited films by R. Kariat and R. Tarafdar. Renowned for introducing editing conventions basic to Hindi film: e.g. insertion of close-up as bridge between incompatible shots. Acquired reputation of being able to salvage films that went out of control during shooting (e.g. Kariat's Chemmeen, 1965). First film as director in collaboration with Ritwik Ghatak and Salil Choudhury (Musafir). 60s films continue in the vein of Bimal Roy's socials. Introduced 'cancer films' with Anand, a very popular type of melodrama with terminally ill characters, which featured the reigning 70s superstars Rajesh Khanna and Bachchan. Repeated the duo in Namak Haram. Later films often produced by N.C. Sippy are low-budget family melodramas. Chairman of Central Board of Film Certification and of the NFDC.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1957: Musafir; 1959: Anari; 1960: Anuradha; 1961: Chhaya; Memdid; 1962: Ashiq; Asli Naqli; 1964: Sanjh Aur Savera; 1965: Do Dil; 1966: Anupama; Biwi Aur Makaan; Gaban; 1967: Manjhli Didi; 1968: Ashirwad; 1969: Pyar Ka Sapna; Satyakam; 1970: Anand; 1971: Buddha Mil Gaya; Guddi; 1972: Bawarchi; Subse Bada Sukh; 1973: Abhimaan; Namak Haram; 1974: Phir Kab Milogi; 1975: Chaitali; Chupke Chupke; Mili; 1976: Arjun Pandit; 1977: Alaap; Kotwal Saab; 1978: Naukri; 1979: Jurmana; Golmaal; 1980: Khubsoorat; 1981: Naram Garam; 1982: Bemisa; 1983: Namumkin; Achha Bura; Kisise Na Kehna; Rang Birangi; 1986: Jhoothi; Hum Hindustani (TV); 1988: Lathi; 1992: Talash (TV).

Mukherjee, Madhabi (b. 1943)

Bengali actress, originally Madhuri Mukherjee. Worked on stage with e.g. Sisir Bhaduri, Madhabi Mukherjee in Streer Patra (1972)

Ahindra Choudhury, Nirmalendu Lahiri and Chhabi Biswas. Acted in plays like Naa (at the Kashi Vishwanath Manch) and Kalarab (at the Netaji Manch) before debuting as child actress in films with Premendra Mitra's Kankantala Light Railway. Achieved an exemplary Tagore characterisation in Satyajit Ray's Charulata. When Ray later returned to Tagore with Ghare Baire (1984), his heroine, Swatilekha Chatterjee, bears a striking resemblance to Madhabi. Ritwik Ghatak also extensively alludes to her way of performing literary figures, e.g. in Subarnarekha: the way Seeta flicks her long hair dry or sits on the runway or by the river after eloping with Abhiram. Her first major film was Mrinal Sen's Baishey Shraavan. For Ray she played the housewife who becomes a saleswoman in Mahanagar. Also acted in Harisadhan Dasgupta's first foray into fiction, Eki Ange Eto Rup. Later work includes Purendu Pattrea's Swapnaniye and 70s Tagore adaptations Streer Patra and Malancha. Apart from Tagore, also played Saratchandra characters, e.g. in Ramer Sumati, Bindur Chheley, Biraj Bou et al. Wrote her autobiography, Ami Madhabi (1995).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1950: Kankantala Light Railway; 1952: Prarthana; 1956: Tonsi; 1960: Baishey Shraavan; 1961: Aaj Kal Parshu; 1962: Subarnarekha; 1963: Mahanagar; 1964: Swarga Hotey Biday; Godhuli Belaye; Charulata; Sindoore Megh; Binsati Janani; 1965: Thana Theke Aschhi; Ghoom Bhangar Gaar; Kapurush; Eki Ange Eto Rup; Devatar Deep; 1966: Joradighir Choudhury Paribar; Sankha Bela; Swapnaniye; 1967: Ajana Shapath; Kheya; 1968: Adwitiya; Chhoto Jignasa; Garh Nasimpur; Parishodh; 1969: Agni Yuger Kahini; Duranta Charai; Teer Bhoomi; 1970: Swarna Sikhar Pranganey; Samanara; Diba Ratri; Kabya; 1971: Chhadmabeshi; 1972: Biraj Bou; Calcutta '71; Chinnapatra; Archana; Chhayatir; Streer Patra; 1973: Andhar Periye; Bindur Chheley; Bon Palashir Padabali; Haraye Khunji; Jiban Rahasya; 1974: Chhutih Ghanta; Natun Surya; 1975: Agniswar; Phool Sajya; Amriter Swad; 1976: Yugo Manab Kabir; 1977: Avatar; Ramer Sumati; 1978: Ganadevata; 1979: Shuparna; Malancha; 1980: Moyna Tadanta; Bancharamer Bagan; 1981: Manikchand; Subarnalata; Saheb; 1982: Matir Swarga; Prafulla; Chhoto Maa; Bandini Kamala; Chokh; Durer Nadi; 1983: Kauke Bolo Na; Samapti; 1984: Jog Biyog; 1985: Bhalobasha Bhalobasha; Jiban Sathi; Antaraley; Dadu Nati-o-Hati; Putulghar; 1986: Anurager Choa; Artanad; Uttar Lipi; Madhumoy; Jibar; 1987: Arpar; Bandookbaj; Rudrabina; Pratkar; 1988: Hirer Shika; Maa Ek Mandir; Anjali; Dipshikha; Kalankini Nayika; Surer Sathi; 1989: Kari Diye Kinlam; Aghaton Ajo Ghatey; Chhandaneer; Agni Trishna; Bandhobi; Shubha Kamana; 1990: Manasi; Ekti Jibar; 1991: Sadharan Meye; Antarer Bhalobasha; Antardhan; 1993: Mon Mane Na; Shrimati; Prithibir Shesh Station; Ishwar Parameshwar; 1994: Atikram; Bidrohini; 1995: Boumoni; Rangeen Basanta.

Mukherjee, Sail ajananda

(1901-76)

Bengali director born in Andal, Burdwan District. Noted Bengali novelist and contemporary of Kallol Group. Closely associated in early youth with writer-musician Kazi Nazrul Islam. Worked in Raniganj collieries, the location of his first major literary work, Koila Kuthi, published in the journal Basumati (1922). The story later gave its name to a sub-genre of literary realism: a starkly realist manner, relying on personal experience and dialects (commonly those of the Dhanbad and Raniganj collieries and of Birbhum) violating the novelistic tradition that valued linguistic purity. Early writings include Atmaghatir Diary (Diary of a Suicide) published in Bansari journal, viewed as a violation of the prevailing norms of literary decency. Went to Calcutta where he met Premendra Mitra, Prabodh Kumar Sanyal, Achintyakumar Sengupta and Kallol writer and film-maker Dinesh Ranjan Das. Briefly edited the Kalikalam journal. Later also edited the journals Shahana and Bioscope. Started in films as scenarist for Hemchandra Chunder (Anath Ashram, 1937). Also wrote scripts, in collaboration with Binoy Chatterjee, for New Theatres while assisting Nitin Bose (e.g. Dushman/Jiban Maran, 1938). Directed works are early instances of a commercially successful cinema set among peasantry and urban working class, mostly based on his own writings (e.g. Mane Na Mana). During shooting, he would often close his eyes, only listening to the dialogues in the long, static takes, permitting no deviation from the script. Published autobiography, Je Katha Bola Hoy Ni (1968). Scripted his own films as well as contributing stories or scripts to Ae To Jiban and Santi (1946), the Oriya film Lakhmi (1962), Rup Sanatan (1965) and Anand Ashram (1977).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1941: Nandini; 1942: Bondi; 1943: Shahar Theke Dooray; 1945: Abhinay Nay; Mane Na Mana; Stree Durga; 1947: Roy Choudhury; 1948: Ghumiye Ache Gram; Rang Berang; 1950: Sandhya-Belar Rupkatha; Eki Gramer Chhele; 1953: Blind

Lane; 1954: Banglar Nari; Mani-Aar-Manik; 1955: Katha Kao; 1957: Ami-Baro-Habo.

Mukherjee, Subodh (b. 1921)

Hindi director and producer born in Jhansi, UP. Younger brother of Filmistan boss Shashadhar Mukherjee. Assistant to Gyan Mukherjee for Chal Chal Re Naujawan (1944). Début film Munimji is best illustration of Dev Anand's use of the masquerade, continued in Paying Guest (one of Anand's most spectacular hits of the 50s). Continued and sharpened the Gyan Mukherjee-Ashok Kumar strategy of making blatant (male) star performance vehicles (e.g. Jungle, starring Shammi Kapoor). Continued by Nasir Hussain's films, they can be seen as precedents for Manmohan Desai's films with Shammi Kapoor (Bluff Master, 1963) and Bachchan (Amar Akbar Anthony, 1977). Also wrote Vrajendra Gaud's Kasturi (1954).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1955: Munimji; 1957: Paying Guest; 1959: Love Marriage; 1961: Jungle; 1964: April Fool; 1966: Saaz Aur Awaz; 1970: Abhinetri; 1982: Teesri Aankh; 1984: Ulta Seedha.

Mukkamala, Krishnamurthy (1920-87)

Telugu actor, producer and film-maker born in Guntur Dist., AP, where he was educated at Andhra Christian College. Worked with the theatre group run by NTR. K. Jaggaiah, etc., appearing in e.g. Shakespeare plays. Wrote plays while a student at the Law College, Madras. Joined films as assistant to C. Pullaiah in Maya Machhindra, in which he also played the role of Gorakhnath. Turned full-time actor thereafter. Started his own M.K.M. Prod. (1951), and produced/directed Maradalu Pelli. In the 70s, often appeared in Bapu's films, e.g. Shri Ramanjaneya Yuddham, Seeta Kalyanam, Sneham.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1945: Maya Machhindra; 1949: Laila Majnu; 1950: Adrusha Deepudu; Swapna Sundari; 1951: Nirdoshi/Niraparadhi, Mayalamari/Mayakkari, Perantalu; 1952: Dharmadevata; Prema/Katha, *Maradalu Pelli; 1953: Paropakaram; 1954: Aggiramudu, Rechukka; Palle Paduchur; 1956: Tenali Ramakrishna/Tenali Raman; 1957: Maya Bazaar; Nala Damayanti; 1958: Shobha; Shri Ramanjaneya Yuddham, Karthavarayan Katha; 1959: Jayavijaya; 1960: Jalsarayudu, Annapurna; 1961: *Rushyashrungal/Rishyashringar; Varalakshmi Vratam; Jagadeka Veeruni Katha/Jagathala Prathapan; 1962: Gul-e-Bakavali Katha; Mohini Rugmangada; Mahamantri Timmarasu; 1963: Guruvuniminchina Shishyudu; 1964: Navagraha Pooja Mahima; Aggipidugur; Babruvahana; Bobbili Yuddham; 1965: Jwaladeepa Rahasyam; Pandava Vanavasam; Satya Harishchandra; 1966: Shakuntala; Potti Pleader; Vijayasankalpam; Goodachari 116; Aduga Jadalu; 1967: Satyame Jayam; Bhama Vijayam/Bhale

Kodalu; Shri Krishnavataram; 1968: Mana Samsaram; Umachandi Gauri Shankarula Katha; Chellelikosam; 1969: Nam Naadu; 1970: Janmabhoomi; Marina Manishi; Vijayam Mande; 1971: Katha Nayakuralu; 1972: Hanthakulu Devanthakulu; Kiladi Bullodu; Korada Rani; Maa Inti Kodalu; Anta Mana Manchike; Goodu Putani; Shri Krishnanjaneya Yuddham; Manavudu Daanavudu; Shanti Nilayam; Vintha Dampathulu; Neethi; 1974: Kode Naagu; Andaru Dongale; Vijaya Ramudu; Manchi Manushulu; Theerpu; Shri Ramanjaneya Yuddham; 1975: Jeevana Jyoti; Pandanti Samsaram; Amma Nana; Pichimaraju; Muthyala Muggu; 1976: Kolleti Kapuram; Neram Nadhikadu Akalidi; Seeta Kalyanam; 1977: Daana Veera Shura Karna; Edureetha; Jeevitha Nauka; Kurukshetramu; Maa Iddari Katha; Sneham (Tel); 1978: Jagan Mohini; Karunamayudu; 1979: Lakshmi Pooja; Shri Rama Bantu; 1982: Mantralaya Shri Raghavendra Vaibhavam; Radhamma Mogadu.

Mullick, Amar (1899-1972)

Bengali actor and director born in Calcutta. Actor and film-maker associated with New Theatres style. Civil engineer by profession, he started as actor at International Filmcraft, encouraged by B.N. Sircar. With Atorthy, Nitin Bose and I.A. Hafiz, was one of the first to join New Theatres (1932) where he acted in the Bengali versions of several classic bilinguals, usually playing the 'lighter' roles, as well as being production chief. Formed his own A.M. Prods. Known as director of literary adaptations from Saratchandra (Bardidi, Biraj Bou) and as character actor. Married the actress Bharati Devi.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1931: Chorekanta; Chasher Meye (all St); Dena Paona; 1932: Sandigdha (St); Punarjanma; Chirakumar Sabha; Chandidas; 1933: Meerabai; Kapal Kundala; 1935: Devdas; Abasheshe; Bhagya Chakra; Bijoya; 1936: Karodpati; Grihadah; 1937: Didi; Mukti; Bidyapati; 1938: Deshar Mati; Saathi; 1939: *Bardidi/Badi Didi; Parajay; 1940: *Abhinetri/Haar Jeet; Doctor; 1941: Doctor; 1943: Kashinath; 1944: Sandhya; Shesh Raksha; 1945: Bhabhi Kaal; Nandita; 1946: *Biraj Bou; 1947: Ratri; Mandir; Chandrasekhar; Natun Khabar; 1949: *Swami Swami Vivekananda; *Samapti; 1951: *Durgesh Nandini; 1952: *Bhuler Sheshe; 1954: *Sati; Naad-o-Nadi; Chheley Kaar; 1955: Shap Mochan; Ardhangini; 1956: Mahanisha; 1957: Louha-Kapat; Parash Pathar; 1958: Sonar Kathi; Jogajog; Purir Mandir; Rajdhani Theke; 1959: Chaowa-Pawa; Shashi Babur Sansar; Pushpadhanu; Agnisambhaba; Rater Andhakare; Mriter Martye Agaman; Personal Assistant; 1960: Prabesh Nishedh; Ajana Kahini; Biyer Khata; Natun Fasal; 1961: Kathin Maya; 1962: Kancher Swarga; Abhisarika; 1963: Nirjan Saikate; 1966: Sudhu Ekti Bachhar; Susanta Sha; Uttar Purush; 1967: Seba; 1968: Pathe Holo Dekha; 1969: Chena Achen; Shuk Sari.

Mullick, Pankaj (1905-78)

Bengali composer, singer and actor born in Calcutta. Left college to concentrate on music; trained by Durgadas Bannerjee and then by Dinendranath Tagore. Released his first record for Vielophone (1926) and made his debut on radio at the Indian Broadcasting Co. in its inaugural year (1927). Associated for several years with radio as producer, musician and educator e.g. in the popular programme Sangeet Shikshar Asar (from Sept. 1929) and the annual Mahishamardini broadcast. Film debut conducting the live orchestra for International Filmcraft's silents Chasher Meye and Chorekanta (both 1931). Joined New Theatres, composing Atorthy's epic Yahudi Ki Ladki. Scored several films with R.C. Boral, e.g. Barua's Devdas, Grihadah and Maya, Chunder's Karodpati and Nitin Bose's Didi/President. Achieved fame for Mukti, where he composed one Tagore song, Diner sheshe ghumer deshe, with the poet's endorsement, and for popularising Rabindra Sangeet in Hindi. After Mukti's success he concentrated for some years on playback singing (e.g. Anjangarh, 1948) and on acting. Returned to composition for Kartick Chattopadhyay's films and Paul Zils's Zalzala. Released a record singing the songs he composed for Saigal in Meri Bahen, e.g. Chupo na, Do naina matwale et al. Published his memoirs, Ganer Surer Asanakhani, in a special issue of Desh (1973) and his autobiography under the title Amar Jug Amar Gaan (1980).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* also act/ act only): 1933: Yahudi Ki Ladki; 1935: Bhagya Chakra; Devdas; 1936: Karodpati; Maya; Grihadah; 1937: Didi/President; *Mukti; 1938: *Adhikar; *Abhigyan; *Deshar Mati; Dharti Mata; Dushman/Jiban Maran; 1939: Bardidi/Badi Didi; *Kapal Kundala; 1940: Zindagi; *Nartaki; *Alochhaya/Aandhi; *Doctor; 1941: *Doctor; 1942: Meenakshi; 1943: Kashinath; Dikshu; 1944: Meri Bahen; 1945: Dui Purush; 1947: Nurse Sisi; Ramer Sumati/Chhota Bhai; 1948: Pratibad/Oonch Neech; 1949: Manzoor; 1950: Roopkatha/Roop Kahani; 1952: Mahaprasthanar Pathay/Yatrik; Chhoti Maa; Zalzala; 1953: Bana Hansi; Nabin Yatra/Naya Safar; 1954: Chitrangada; 1955: Amar Saigal; Raikamal; 1957: Louha-Kapat; 1961: Ahwan; 1972: Bighalita Karuna Janhabi Jamuna.

Munshi, Kanhaiyalal Maneklal (1887-1971)

Major Gujarati novelist, playwright, essayist and social reformer. Worked briefly at Sagar where his scripts were a seminal generic influence on its reformist socials, esp. Dr Madhurika and Vengeance is Mine (both 1935, the latter based on his story Ver Ni Vasula), feeding into Mehboob's historicals. Early writings were reformist socials following in the wake of the most significant novelist in modern Gujarati, Govardhanram Tripathi (1855-1907). Became popular with historicals and period fables often set in the Solanki period (AD 961-1242): e.g.

Patanant Prabhuta (1916), Gujarat No Natha (1917), Rajadhi Raja (1922). Author of the spectacularly successful historical Prithvi Vallabh (1920), filmed in the silent era by Manilal Joshi (1924) and later by Sohrab Modi (1943). In later years better known as a lawyer and politician, co-founding the right-wing Swatantra Party and briefly as a cabinet minister in the Congress.

Murugadasa (b. 1900)

Pioneering Tamil director and producer, originally A. Muthuswamy Iyer. Graduate from St Joseph's College, Tiruchi; journalist for The Mail, Madras; edited the film journal Sound and Shadow, one of South India's first English film journals. Assisted Baburao Pendharkar in Prabhat's Tamil film Seeta Kalyanam (1933), making his debut with cameraman Ramnoth and set designer A.K. Sekhar. The trio then started the influential Vel Pics in Adyar, Madras: e.g. Markandeya and later Paduka Pattabhishekham (co-d Ramnoth), which introduced the actor, musician and director S. Balachander who played a magician in the film. Started the Karthikeya Films Studio (1937) but returned to journalism when it burnt down. His best-known film is Nandanar, a reform drama addressing Untouchability and featuring the Carnatic musician Dandapani Desigar. Worked with the Cine Technicians' Association, editing their journal, apparently living on Union premises.

traditional discipline, but they were also free from the conservatism of gharana ideology. They usually found their way into the recording industries of Lahore, Karachi and Calcutta, into the Sangeet Natak and Company Natak troupes and, after 1932, into film. Master Krishnarao was trained at the Bharat Gayan Samaj, actress Shanta Apte at the Maharashtra Sangeet Vidyalaya, Pandharpur. The parent school in Lahore also produced several musicians and composers central to the Lahore-based film industry: Rafiq Ghaznavi, an extremely popular ghazal singer with best-selling records in Karachi and an actor-music director in films like Prithviraj Sanyogita (1933), Bahen Ka Prem (1935) and later in some Mehboob and Sohrab Modi films. Prof. B.R. Deodhar, disciple of Paluskar and key ideologue for the music school aesthetic, stated in 1933 a position closely analogous to that prevalent in the art schools. In his opinion, the major issues facing classical Indian music were those of voice production and the antithetical relationship between Indian music and Western principles of notation, which made it difficult to arrive at indigenous systems of orchestration as well as to find equivalents for perceiving pure sound effects (like thunder or rain sounds). His polemical view was that these could only be solved through borrowing from Western classical musical systems (Deodhar, 1933).

Muthuswamy, A. see Murugadasa
Muzumdar see Majumdar

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1935: Bhakta Ramadasa; Markandeya; 1936: Paduka Pattabhishekham; Pattinathar; 1937: Sundaramurthy Nayanar; 1940: Urvashi Sahasam; Bhakti; 1941: Venuganam; 1942: Nandanar; 1948: Gnanasoundari.

Music Schools

In 1896, Vishnu Digambar Paluskar ran away from his teacher Pandit Balkrishnabua Ichalkaranjekar, a court musician at Miraj. Like his contemporary, Ravi Varma, in the visual arts, Paluskar wanted to move away from feudal patronage and address the market-places of growing urban centres. He started a music school, the Gandharva Mahavidyalaya, at Lahore in 1901. Over the next thirty years, dozens of similar schools spread throughout Northern and Western India, e.g. the Saraswati Sangeet Vidyalaya in Karachi (1916), the Gopal Gayan Samaj in Pune (1918), the Gandharva Mahavidyalaya in Kolhapur (1920) and the School of Indian Music in Bombay (1925). Paluskar's action stemmed from a nationalistic disaffection from the feudal gharana system which was then sponsored and owned by the nobility who kept its repertory available only to the Guru's kinsmen. His colleague, V.N. Bhatkhande, compiled and published all the available classical musical compositions in an accessible textbook, Hindustani Sangeet Paddhati (1921). Equally influential was the simultaneous effort to define a primitive notation system capable of recording the complex performance codes. Barring a few notable exceptions, the bulk of the students in the new system lacked the rigour of the

Mythological s

The Malayalam cinema has a tradition of Biblical mythologicals traceable to P.J. Cherian's stage work (e.g. Snepaka Yohannan, 1963; P.A. Thomas' Jesus, 1973; the biblical epic shot in 1991 for TV by Appachan), but the genre effectively refers to the Hindu mythological and is also known as the Pauranic genre. 'Puranas' or 'ancient stories' have become mere religious fables and cant, whatever historical content they once possessed having become encrusted with myth and diluted with semi-religious legends. The stories were collected and elaborated into the Mahabharata, a text going back to 400 BC and undergoing a series of mutations until c.AD400. This process, which saw the rise of a caste system in India, also evolved a textual hierarchy with the 'official' Sanskritised text repeatedly rewritten to justify the accumulation of agrarian surplus by the Brahmins (priest caste). There are several popular versions presented for the benefit of the lower classes but these also continued the oral and pictorial traditions of the 'heroic lays of ancient war' (Kosambi, 1962). Major historical interventions include the Buddhist revolution and the regional linguistic proliferation leading to the medieval Bhakti and Sufi movements. Industrial genres immediately preceding film are evidenced in the visual arts (see Pat Painting and Ravi Varma) and in the theatre (see Radheshyam Kathavachak and Betaab). An economically developed commercial stage in most urban centres often adapted modes of folk performance to the European proscenium, creating technical precedents for several of the earliest conventions of film shooting and editing (see Phalke). The most famous traditions are the Ramleela and Raasleela (later assimilated into Parsee theatre; cf. Indrasabha, 1932), the Yakshagana, Nautanki, Bhavai, Burrakatha and Jatra. The form has been and continues to be used for explicitly ideological ends. Among its first industrialised manifestations were Ravi Varma's self-conscious appropriation of Brahminical 'classicism' for the benefit of his royal patron and the Mysore court (cf. G.V. Iyer). The stories were also used as encoded messages of nationalist patriotism (e.g. Phalke's work, or Bhakta Vidur, 1921), as a way of conveying 'Gandhian' national chauvinism in Vijay Bhatt's films, to bolster regionalist separatism in Rajkumar's Kannada films or simply to shore up temple cults with a mass following (e.g. the films on the Guruvayoor and Sabarimalai icons in Kerala). Recently, mythologicals have been used to propagate Hindu chauvinism, e.g. in Ramanand Sagar's TV Ramayan (1986-8). The genre can also be seen in terms of its performative traditions shading into the melodramatic idiom, condensing complex contemporary tensions and codes in its figures. Ritwik Ghatak mobilises this dimension as do Raj Kapoor and several others, e.g. in their references to the goddess Seeta when wives and mothers are at issue. In spite of the pervasive references to the myths in Indian cinema, mythologicals cannot be regarded as a matrix or a master text for Indian narrative art in general, but rather as a nationally familiar and flexible stock of figures and topoi which can be used as shorthand to register more immediate historical issues (cf. Bhakta Vidur, 1921). The invocation of myths is less important than the way the stories are treated as a genre, modified as narratives or formally deployed as allegorical relays within a conservatively constructed notion of the social as a cinematic genre.

Nadia (1908-1996)

Aka 'Fearless' Nadia. Indian cinema's most famous stunt actress was born Mary Evans in Perth, Australia. She worked in Zacko's Russian circus before touring the Asian subcontinent with Madame Astrova's ballet group, doing live shows in between silent films for British and Indian troops. She joined Wadia Movietone as chorus girl for Lal-e-Yaman. Hunterwali, the first of her highly successful films usually directed by her husband Homi Wadia, launched her as 'India's Pearl White' in action films set in an unspecified period or in Tarzaland (Jungle Princess) or in a fantasy version of Hollywood gangster movies. She was always accompanied by her horse, Punjab Ka Beta, except when swinging from one building to another or through high-domed halls via chandeliers (Hunterwali), fighting the villain atop a rolling carriage (Diamond Queen) and, most popular of all, jumping from roof to roof on a moving train. She made several 'train' films, esp. Miss Frontier Mail, to show off this talent. The villain was always the devious Sayani and her (usually masked) hero was initially Boman Shroff who started the Wadia stunt tradition in silent films playing Fairbanks roles. After Punjab Mail, John Cawas replaced him as her leading man. Riyad Vinci Wadia, J.B.H. Wadia's grandson and the current owner of Wadia Movietone, made a documentary about the star, Fearless: The Hunterwali Story (1993).

Habib and Fearless Nadia in Jungle Queen (1956)

the Sundaram Sound Studio where he made his first Tamil films (Raja Bhakti, Bhasmasur Mohini, Bhukailasa). Later worked at Jupiter Studio (Valmiki, Krishna Vijayam). Started his own Shri Ganesh Prasad Movies (1955) with Koteswaram starring Sivaji Ganesan. Best known for his Telugu and Tamil film of R. Nagendra Rao's hit play Bhukailasa. His last films were in Kannada.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1933: Lal-e-Yaman; 1935: Desh Deepak; Noor-e-Yaman; Hunterwali; 1936: Miss Frontier Mail; Pahadi Kanya; 1937: Hurricane Hansa; 1938: Lutaru Lalna; 1939: Punjab Mail; 1940: Diamond Queen; 1941: Bambaiwali; 1942: Jungle Princess; Muqabala; 1943: Hunterwali Ki Beti; Mauj; 1946: Flying Prince; Lady Robin Hood; Sher-e-Baghdad; Toofan Queen; 1947: Himmatwali; Stunt Queen; Toofani Tirandaz; Chabuk Sawar; 1948: Eleven O'Clock; Jungle Goddess; Tigress; 1949: Delhi Express; Dhoomketur; Maya Mahal; Billi; 1950: Circuswale; 1952: Jungle Ka Jawahar; 1953: Shamsheerbaaz; 1954: Sher Dil; 1955: Carnival Queen; 1956: Baghdad Ka Jadu; Fighting Queen; Jungle Queen; 1957: Diler Dakur; 1959: Circus Queen; 1968: Khiladi; 1993: Fearless: The Hunterwali Story (Doc).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* act only): 1924: Poona Raided; 1925: Chandrarao More; *Chhatrapati Sambhajir; 1928: Maya Na Rang; 1929: Julia Dalia; *Mard Ki Zabaan; *Kodandhari Ram; *Raktacha Sood; 1930: Dhoomketur; Randhir; Kalika No Kop; 1931: Baaz Bahadur; Ishq No Anjam; Zindagi Nu Jugar; Qurbani; Taj Ke Talwar; Teer-e-Qatil; Aseer-e-Hirs (all St); 1934: Sakkubai; 1936: Raja Bhakti; 1937: Bhasmasur Mohini; 1938: Bhukailasa; 1939: Sant Sakkubai; 1940: Bhukailasa; 1942: En Manaivi; 1944: Haridas; 1946: Valmiki; 1949: Krishna Vijayam; 1951: Sudarshan; 1952: Krishna Kanhaiya; 1953: Azhagi; 1955: Koteswaram; 1957: Mahadevi; 1963: Sant Tukaram; 1968: Gauri Ganda.

Nadkarni, Sundarrao

Tamil director; also worked in Telugu and Kannada. Drawn to cinema apparently by watching Eddie Polo silents in his native Shimoga, Karnataka. Started as actor with Sarpotdar at Deccan Pics, United Pics and Aryan. Début as director was left unfinished when United Pics was sold; the film was completed by Dhirubhai Desai. Became the top director of Surya Film (1930), set up in Bangalore to replicate the Sharda Studio's Master Vithal stunt films with Ganpat Bakre and Zunzharrao Pawar. Turned to Tamil cinema with sound, mostly making mythologicals. Briefly worked as cameraman for Fazalbhoy's Film City (1934); then went to

Nag, Anant (b. 1948)

Actor born in Bombay as Anant Nagarkatti. One of the better-known New Indian Cinema actors committed to psychological characterisation. Bank employee while doing amateur theatre in Marathi and Kannada. Introduced by Shyam Benegal's début feature, Ankur; in Hindi and by G.V. Iyer's revivalist musical Hamsa Geethe in Kannada cinema. Became a major Kannada star although, unlike his younger brother Shankar Nag, he tended to restrict himself to 'complex' character roles. Acted regularly for Benegal in the 70s. Other roles include the legendary Kannada brigand Kanneshwara Rama and the 19th C. Travancore musician-king, Swathi Thirunal. Also acted in most films and TV serials directed by Shankar Nag. Member of the Karnataka Legislative Council for the Janata Dal; thereafter elected to the state Legislative Assembly (1993) and Minister for Urban Development.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1972: Sankalpa; 1973: Ankur; 1975: Hamsa Geethe; Nishant; Devara Kannur; 1976: Bayalu Dari; Manthan; Bhumika; 1977: Kanneshwara Rama; Anurupa; Premalekhalu; Kondura/Anugraham; Kudre Mukha; 1978: Sandarbha; Matu Tappada Maga; Premayana; Madhura Sangama; 1979: Na Ninna Bidalare; Chandanada Gombe; Muttu Ondu Muttu; Dhairyalakshmi; 1980: Minchina Ota; Ondu Henu Aaru Kannur; Narada Vijaya; Janma Janmada Anubandha; Premajwale; Gehrayee; Kalyug; Bara/Sookha; Anveshane; 1981: Mangalsutra (K/H); Anupama; Mareyada Haadu; Jivakke Jiva; Shrimar; 1982: Anandada Aramane; Bhadada Hoo; Mullina Gulabi; Nanna Devaru; Hasyarathna Ramakrishna; Bettale Seve; Phaniyamma; 1983: Lalach; Simhasana; Benkiya Bale; Hosa Teerpu; Kamana Billur; Bhakta Prahlada; Ebbani Karagitu; Mududida Tavare Aralitu; Gayatri Madhuve; Makkale Devaru; Cheliseda Sagara; Nodi Swamy Navirodu Hige; Premave Balina Belaku; 1984: Sukha Samsarakke Hanneradu Sutragalu; Premasakshi; Ramapurada Ravana; Olave Bedaku; Accident; Olavu Moodidaga; Makkaliralavva Mane Thumbu; 1985: Bidugadeya Bedi; Haavu Eni Aata; Sedina Hakk; Koogu; Hosa Neeru; Parameshi Prema Prasanga; Shweta Gulabi; Shabdagal; Hendthi Beku Hendthi; 1986: Nenapina Doni; Maneye Manthralaya; Premajala; Anuragha; 1987: Thayi; Agni Parva; Avasthe; Kurukshetra; Athiratha Maharatha; Divyashakti; Swathi Thirunal; Antima Ghatta; 1988: Ranadheera; Shanti Nivasa; Varna Chakra; Shri Venkateshwara Mahime; Balodu Bhavageethe; Muttaide; Dharmatma (K); Brahma Vishnu Maheshwara; Shri Venkateshwara Mahime; 1989: Amanusha; Hendthige Helabedi; Idu Saadhya; Gagana; 1990: Jurm; Golmaal Radhakrishna; Ramrajyadalli Rakshasar; Swarna Samsara; Challenge Gopalakrishna; Udbhava; Mathe Hadithu Kogile; Ganeshana Madhuve; Golmaal Bhaga II; Aata Bombata; Ivalantha Hendthi; Maneyalli Illi Beediyailli Huli; 1991: Rollcall Ramakrishna; Gauri Ganesha; Shanti Kranti; Ratri/Raat; Nagini; Undoohoda Kondoohoda; 1992: Undu Roda Konda Hoda; Vajrayudha; Ganesha Subramanya; Ondu Cinema Kathe; Shakti Yukti; Atanka; Mangalya Bandhana; Marana Mridanga; Jhenkara; Rajakiya; 1993: Kadambari; Nishkarsha; Thooguve Krishna; 1994: Yarigu Helbedi; Nilukada Nakshatra; 1995: Beladingala Bale.

Nag, Shankar (1954-90)

Kannada actor and director born in Udupi, Karnataka, as Shankar Nagarkatti. Educated in Bombay. Encouraged by his brother, Anant Nag, to work in Bombay on Marathi experimental stage where he directed e.g. Sartre's No Exit and Vijay Tendulkar's Ashi Pakhare Yeti. Also active on Hindi, English and Gujarati stage. Assistant of Sai Paranjpye

Shankar Nag and Sujatha in Akrosha (1983)

(1976-7). Entered film as hero of Girish Karnad's martial-arts film Ondanondu Kaladalli. Best known as actor in action thrillers and rogue cop films. Karnad provided the script for his debut feature as director, Minchina Ota, produced by Sanket Films, which he helped set up (1980). Known for his TV adaptation of R.K. Narayan's novels (e.g. Malgudi Days). Ran amateur theatre group Sanket. Starred with his brother in many Kannada films, often playing brothers in family dramas (e.g. Ramrajyadalli Rakshasaru). Died in a road accident.

FILMOGRAPHY (* also d/ only d): 1978: Ondanondu Kaladalli, Sarvasakshi; 1979: Seeta Ramudaithe, I Love You, Preeti Madu Tamashe Nodu, Madhuchandra; 1980: Auto Raja, Haddina Kannur, Mugana Sedu, Ondu Henu Aaru Kannur, Arada Gaya, Rustom Jodi, *Minchina Ota, *Janma Janmada Anubandha; 1981: *Geetha, Karinaga, Thayiya Madilalli, Kulaputra, Hana Balavo Jana Balavo, Devara Aata, Bhari Bharjari Bete, Muniyana Madari, Jivakke Jiva; 1982: Archana, Benki Chendu, Karmika Kallanalla, Dharma Dari Tappitu, Nyaya Yellide?; 1983: Gedda Maga, Nyaya Gedditu, Chandi Chamundi (K); Keralida Henu, Akrosha, Rakta Tilaka, Nagabekamma Nagabeku, *Hosa Teerpu, *Nodi Swamy Navirodu Hige, *Lalach; 1984: *Accident, Thaliya Bhagya, Ganda Bherudi, Benki Birugali, Kalinga Sarpa, Indina Bharatha, Bedaru Bombe, Shapatha, Pavitra Prema, Makkaliralavva Mane Thumba; Utsav, Asha Kirana, Apoorva Sangama; 1985: Thayi Kanasu, Manava Danava, Thayiye Nanna Devaru, Kiladi Aliya, Vajra Mushti, Parameshi Prema Prasanga, Mohan Murali; 1986: Bettada Thayi, Na Ninna Preetisuve, Raste Raja, Samsarada Guttu, Agni Pareekshe; 1987: *Ondu Muthina Kathe, *Swami (TV); *Malgudi Days (TV); Thayi, Ee Bandha Anubandha, Huli Hebbuli, Antima Ghatta, Digvijaya, Lorry Driver; 1988:

Shakti, Navabharata; Sangliana; Thayi Karulu, Dharmatma (K); 1989: Tarka, Maha Yuddha, Antinta Gandu Naanalla; CBI Shankar, Rajasimha, Narasimha, Idu Saadhya, Rajasimha, Jayabheri, Nakkala Rajkumari; 1990: Pundara Ganda, Maheshwara, Hosa Jeevana, Bhale Chatura, Aata Bombata, Nighooda Rahasya, Ramrajyadalli Rakshasaru, S.P. Sangliana, Trinetra, Avesha, Haliya Surasuraru, Ananta Prema; 1991: Punda Prachanda, Sundara Kanda, Nagini, Hridaya Hadithu; 1992: Prana Snehiitha; 1993: Shivanna.

Nagabharana, T. S. (b. 1953)

Kannada director born in Bangalore. Started in theatre in 1969 as apprentice to noted Kannada playwright and director Adya Rangacharya. Directed several short plays for B.V. Karanth's theatre group Benaka (1970-5) and participated in their major productions of Hayavadana, Oedipus and Jokumaraswamy. Assisted Karanth and Karnad in their early films (cf. Kaadu, 1973). Debut Grahana in the context of the 70s art film movement in Kannada adapted from literary and theatre movements (see Navya Movement). Was the only filmmaker from the group to make a successful transition to the commercial mainstream. Continues as theatre director and actor with the Benaka and Rangasampada theatre groups. Made several documentaries and promotional shorts.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1978: Grahana; 1980: Anveshane, Bangarada Jinke; 1982: Praya Praya Praya; 1983: Banker Margayya, Onti Dhvani, Prema Yuddha; 1984: Makkaliralavva Mane Thumba, Ahuti, Sedina Sanchu, Hoysala and Chalukyan Architecture of Karnataka (Doc); 1985: Netra Pallavi; 1986: Nenapina Doni, Namma Mali (TV); 1986-1987: Shriman Shrimanya (TV); 1987:

Ravana Rajya; 1988: Aasphota; 1989: Premagni, Sura Sundaranga; 1990: Santha Shishunala Shareefa, Tenali Raman (TV); 1991: Mysore Mallige, Stone Boy (TV); 1992: Thirugubana (TV); 1993: Akasmika, Chinnari Mutha; 1994: Sagara Deepa; 1995: Naviddive Etcharikke, Americadalli Gorur (TV); Sansmaran (TV); Naviddive Etcharikke; 1996: Janmadada Jodi, Nagamandala.

Nagabhushanam, Kadaru (b. 1902)

Telugu and Tamil director born in Krishna Dist., AP. Prominent theatre personality with Rajarajeshwari Nataka Mandali. Married its lead star Kannamba. Together they expanded it into Rajarajeshwari Film (1941), initially filming their own stage hits. Produced and directed 35 films under this banner, mainly mythologicals. Probably starred in E. Nagabhushanam's Sampoorna Ramayanam (1936).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1942: Sumati; 1943: Harishchandra; 1945: Paduka Pattabhishekham; 1947: Tulasi Jalandhar; 1949: Navajeevanam; 1951: Saudamini; 1952: Pedaraitu, Enzhai Vazhavar; 1953: Lakshmi; 1954: Sati Sakkubai; 1955: Shri Krishna Tulabharam; 1956: Naga Panchami; 1957: Sati Savitri, Sati Ansuya; 1959: Veer Bhaskaradu; 1960: Dharmane Jayam; 1961: Usha Parinayam; 1962: Dakshayagnam; 1963: Apta Mithrulu; 1965: Chaduvukonna Bharya; 1966: Thali Bhagyam, Usha Kalyanam.

Nagaiah, Chittoor V. (1904-73)

Actor, singer and composer born in Repalle, Guntur, AP; later settled at Chittoor. One of the first major stars of the Telugu and, after Ashok Kumar, Tamil cinemas. Renowned stage actor and recording star in Telugu, launched as a youth in the Surabhi theatre group. Later associated with Bellari Raghava (playing Kabir in Ramadasu), the Madras-based Suguna Vilas Sabha and Chennapuri Andhra Mahasabha. Staged the mythological Shri Krishna Leelalu as an independent production. Early screen career mainly in B.N. Reddi films at Vauhini Studios where his 'humanist' performances - e.g. in Sumangali, partly based on the life of the reformer Kandakuri Veeresalingam Panthulu (1848-1919) - were central to the studio's revivalist nationalist melodrama contrasting 'ancient' civilisation with decadent modernity. His later and most successful work was in the Saint film genre with Thyagayya and Bhakta Potana, two of the biggest South Indian hits in the 40s associating a revivalist Hindu asceticism with 'Gandhian' moralism as in Ramnoth's mammoth Ezhai Padum Padu, an adaptation of Les Misérables. In early films at Vauhini he composed the music of Vande Mataram, Sumangali, Devatha and Bhakta Potana as well as acting in them. These compositions are still remarkable for their extreme simplicity and the ease with which they are integrated into the narrative. From the mid-50s on he appeared in smaller roles in Telugu and Tamil films, also directing one last Saint film, Ramadasu. Ran Renuka Films in Madras. Published his autobiography, Swiya Charitra in 1983.

FILMOGRAPHY (* also d & music d/ also music d): 1938: Grihalakshmi; 1939: Vande Mataranam*; 1940: Sumangali*;
Vishwamohini; 1941: Devatha*;
Ashok Kumar; 1942: Bhakta Potana*;
1943: Bhagya Lakshmi, Chenchulakshmi; 1945: Swargaseema*;
Meera, Hemareddy Mallamma (music d only); 1946: Thyagayya;
1947: Yogi Vemana;
1948: Bhakta Jana, Chakradhari; 1949: Mana Desam, Navajeevanam; 1950: Ezhai Padum Padu/Beedala Patlu; 1951: Sarvadhikari; 1952: Thayi Ullam; 1953: Inspector, Jataka Phala/Jatakaphalam/Jatakam, Panakkari, Ulagam, En Veedu/Naa Illu;
Gumasta; Penn/ Ladki/Sangham; Prapancham; 1954: Maa Gopi; Thuli Visham; Ethirparadathur; Nanbar; Viduthalai, Rihae; 1955: Kanavane Kan Kanda Daivam, Nam Kuzhandai, Anarkali, Ardhangi/ Pennin Perumai; 1956: Bhakta Markandeya, Muddubidda, Tenali Ramakrishna/ Tenali Ramani, Naga Panchami (Tel); Amara Deepam; Asai; Marmaveerar; 1957: Vanagamudi/ Tala Vanchani Veerudu, Ambikapathy, Nala Damayanti, Sati Savitri, Panduranga Mahatmyam; 1958: Bommalapelli/ Bommai Kalyanam, Ettuku Pai Ettu, Ganga Gauri Samvadam, Shri Ramanjaneya Yuddham, Parvati Kalyanam, Manamalai, Naan Valartha Thangai, Pati Bhakti, Sampoorana Ramayanam, Thirumanam, Piya Milan; 1959: Kalaivanar, Mala Oru Mangala Vilakku, Manaiyiye Manithanin Manikkam, Nalla Theerpu, Sahodari, Jayabheri, Veerapandiya Kattaboman, Sipayi Kooturu, Bandaramudu, Mahishasura Mardini, Raja Makutam; 1960: Abhimanam, Bhakta Raghunath, Bhakta Shabari, Maa Babu, Samajam, Shantinivasam, Shri Ventakeswara Mahatmyam, Thangarathinam, Ramayan; 1961: Anbu Magar, Ellam Unnakkaga, Manappandanai, Pavamanippu, Thirudathe, Bhakta Jayadeva, Intiki Deepam Illale, Seeta Rama Kalyanam, Vagdanam, Pelli Pilupu, Nagarjuna; 1962: Dakshayagnam, Aradhana, Swarnamanjari, Alayamani, Nagamalai Azhgai, Valar Pirai, Constable Koothuru, Siri Sampadalu; 1963: Mani Osai, Veera Kesari/ Bandhipotu, Anuragam, Lavakusa, Idu Sathiyam, Karpagam, Nanum Oru Penn, Naan Vanangum Daivam, Kubera Theevu; 1964: Atmabalam, Kaikodutha Daivam, Vengai Nattu Veeran(?); Pachai Vilakku, Ramadasu; Aggididugur, Vivahabandham, Amarashilpi Jakanna, Gudigantal, Dagudu Moothulu; 1965: Prachanda Bhairavi, Chaduvukonna Bharya, Devatha, Shri Simhachala Kshetra Mahatmyam, Vishala Hridayalu, Satya Harishchandra, Pandava Vanavasam, Todu Needa, Shanti, Enga Veetu Penn; 1966: Motor Sundaram Pillai, Ramu, Sadhu Miranda, Saraswathi Sabatham, Selvam, Parakkum Pava, Astiparulu, Adugu Jadalur, Navarathri, Paramanandaya Sishyula Katha, Shakuntala, Shrimati, Kumari Penn; 1967: Private Master, Kanchukoti, Punyavati, Maa Vadina, Stree Janma, Bhakta Prahlada, Thangai, Iru Malarga, Poolarangadu, Shri

Krishnavataram; 1968: Sati Arundhati, Tikka Shankaraiyah, Bharya, Thillana Mohanambal, Mana Samsaram, Nindu Samsaram, Undamma Bottupeduta; 1969: Ardha Rathri, Muhurtabalam, Bandhipotu Bhimanna, Jarigina Katha, Mooganomu, Prema Kanuka, Annaiyum Pithavom, Manasakshi, Ulagam Ivvalavuthar, Nam Naadu; 1970: Tapalkaran Thangai, Pattam Pazhali, Daiva Penn, Aada Janma, Amma Kosam, Kodalu Diddina Kapuram, Malli Pelli; 1971: Maa Ilavelupu, Jeevitha Chakram, CID Raju, Vintha Samsaram, Shri Krishna Satya, Anuradha, Iru Thuruvam, Mayakkum Mohini, Kulagaurava/ Kulagauravam; 1972: Ganga, Mohammed-bin-Tughlaq, Raja (Ta/Te), Shri Krishnanjaneya Yuddham, Anta Mana Manchike, Maa Inti Kodalu, Maa Inti Velugu, Neethi Nijayathi, Nijam Nirupistha, Shabash Baby, Vichitra Bandham, Vintha Dampathulu, Vooriki Upakari, Goodu Putani, Jakkamma, Neethi, Amma Mata, Rocket Rani, Pedda Koduku, Monagadosthunnadu Jagratha, Beedala Patlu, Sampoorana Ramayanam, Shabash Papanna, Papam Pasivadu, Shakti Leela; 1973: Pattikatu Ponnaiah, Pennai Nambungal, Malamma Katha, Vishali, Panjaramlo Pasipapa, Jeevitham, Deshodharakulu, Puttinillu Mettinillu, Jagame Maya, Mahishasura Mardini; 1974: Inti Kodalu, Anaganaga Oka Thandri; 1976: Ennai Pol Oruvan; 1977: Evaru Devudu.

Nagalingam, P. K. see Sandow, P. K. Raja

Nagarajan, A. P.

Tamil director and scenarist. Considered one of the pioneering new generation of scenarists in the mid-50s in context of the anti-religious thrust of the DMK Film. Playwright and actor associated with the TKS Brothers; debut in film adapting the play Nalvar into a script (1953; he also acted in the film). Like the DMK writers and directors, he tried to go beyond what film-maker and critic K. Hariharan calls the 'Therukoothu vaudeville'. A crucial political shift, accompanying the forming of the Thamizharasu Party, which rejected the DMK's emphasis on atheism, informs his revival of the discredited mythological genre with K. Somu's hit Sampoorana Ramayanam (1958) which Nagarajan scripted. The film had a major impact on Sivaji Ganesan's political career, helping the star to overcome his earlier association with the atheist DMK. Also edited the Thamizharasu journal Sattai. Started his own production company with actor V.K. Ramaswamy, scripting and producing Somu's Nalla Idathu Sambandham (1958). His early films as director are melodramas often bewailing, like the DMK films, the loss of 'tradition' and the 'decadence' of modern times. e.g. in Navarathri, a woman runs away from home and meets nine different men on nine consecutive nights, apparently experiencing each of the nine rasas of Indian aesthetic theory in the process; in Vaa Raja Vaa, a boy ekes out a living as a tourist guide in Mahabalipuram; Thillana Mohanambal, one of his bigger hits, is set in Thanjavur and features a dancer and musician. Best known for a series of 60s mythologicals: Thiruvillaiyadal, Saraswathi Sabatham, Kandan Karunai, Thirumal Perumai, etc., reinventing the stage-derived conventions he had earlier opposed, mobilising their kitschy inventiveness as in Saraswathi Sabatham where Shiva is dressed as a Greek general, and hiring retired stage actors from the 50s. His films often starred Ganesan.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1962: Vadivukku Valai Kappu; 1963: Kulamagal Radhai; 1964: Navarathri; 1965: Thiruvillaiyadal; 1966: Saraswathi Sabatham; 1967: Kandan Karunai, Seeta, Thiruvarut Selvar; 1968: Thillana Mohanambal, Thirumal Perumai; 1969: Gurudakshinai, Vaa Raja Vaa; 1970: Thirumalai Thenkumari, Vilayattu Pillai; 1971: Kankatchi; 1972: Agathiar, Tirupati Kanyakumari Yatra; 1973: Karaikkal Ammayar, Raja Raja Chozhan, Thirumalai Daivam; 1974: Gumastavin Magal; 1975: Melnattu Marumagal; 1977: Navarathnam, Shri Krishna Leela.

Nagarjuna, Akkineni (b. 1959)

Telugu and Hindi star; son of Akkineni Nageshwara Rao (ANR). Abandoned management course in the USA to act in Vikram, a version of Subhash Ghai's Hero (1983) made by his family's Annapurna Prods. especially to launch him. Became a star mainly with Mani Rathnam's Geetanjali, followed by Ram Gopal Varma's Shiva. Initially played 'the angry youth', but shifted to comedy and dance musicals after Hello Brother. Produced Sisindri, starring his son Akhil. Married to actress Amala.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1986: Vikram, Captain Nagarjuna; 1987: Aranyakanda, Collectorgari Abbayi, Majnu, Sankeerthana, Agni Putrudu; 1988: Aakhari Poratam, Chinababu, Murali Krishnudu, Janaki Ramudu; 1989: Geetanjali, Shiva, Vicky Dada, Vijay, Agni; 1990: Neti Siddhartha, Iddaru Iddare; 1991: Nirnayam, Chaitanya, Shanti Kranti, Jaitra Yatra; 1992: Antham/Drohi, Khuda Gawah, Presidentgari Pellam, Killer; 1993: Allari Alludu, Varasudu, Rakshana; 1994: Govinda Govinda, Criminal, Hello Brother; 1995: Gharana Bullodu, Sisindri, Vajram.

Nagendra Rao, Pingali see Rao, Pingali Nagendra

Nagendra Rao, R. see Rao, Nagendra R.

Nageshwara Rao, Akkineni see Rao, Akkineni Nageshwara

Nageshwara Rao, Pendyala see Pendyala Nageshwara Rao

Nageshwara Rao, Rajanala see Rao, Rajanala Nageshwara

Naik, Prabhakar see Nayak, Prabhakar

Nair, Kottarakkara Sridharan (1922-86)

Malayalam theatre star born in Kottarakkara, Kerala. Major actor over four decades in Malayalam cinema. His single most famous role was that of the father in Kariat's Chemmeen. Tended to play a tradition-bound villain but his main impact was in shaping the iconography of the extreme right-wing Nair Service Society (NSS), the political voice of the formerly dominant Nair caste which later joined with Christian groups to create the militant Vimochana Samara to oppose the Communist government of Kerala by appealing to the military glories of this once-ruling warrior caste. Gave a high-flown, declamatory performance as Veluthampi Dalawa, the legendary Nair diwan who fought the British and later defied his own king. This figure became the subject of several stage and literary historicals (e.g. a play by Kainikkara Padmanabha Pillai) and was integrated into Kerala Congress rhetoric. This role and others like that of Kunjali Marakkar, a Muslim nationalist who joined the Zamorins in fighting the Portuguese in Malabar, defined the Rajapart, i.e. the image of the royal costumed hero on the Malayalam stage and later in film. Another famous Kottarakkara role is that of the old and lonely man who feels death to be 'half an hour away' in K.S. Sethumadhavan's Aranazhikaneram.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1950: Sasidharan; Chechi; Prasanna; 1951: Yachakan; 1952: Atmashanti; 1953: Lokaneethi; 1954: Avakash; Avan Varunnu; Manasakashi; Snehaseema; Kidappadam; 1955: Kalam Marunnu; CID; 1956: Atmarpanam; Manthravadi; 1957: Padatha Paingili; Jailpully; 1958: Thaskara Veeran; Randidangazhi; 1959: Nadodikal; Minnal Padayali; 1960: Poothali; 1961: Christmas Rathri; Bhakta Kuchela; Umminithanka; Shri Sabarimalai Shri Ayyappan; 1962: Veluthampi Dalawa; Sneha Deepam; Sreekovil; Puthiya Aksham Puthiya Bhoomi; Shri Rama Pattabhishekham; Bhagya Jatakam; 1963: Nithya Kanyaka; Snapaka Yohannan; Satyabhama; Kadalamma; Rebecca; 1964: Anna; Pazhassi Raja; Althara; Devalayam; 1965: Shyamalachechi; Inapravugal; Thommente Makka; Kalyanaphoto; Kattuthulasi; Mayavi; Shakuntala; Pattu Thoovala; Sarpakadu; Chemmeen; 1966: Rowdy; Jail; Pennmakka; Kootukar; Kalyana Rathriyil; Anarkali; Kanmanikal; Tilottama; Mayor Nair; Kunjali Marakkar; 1967: Jeevikan Anuvadhikuka; Kottayam Kola Case; Balyakalaskhi; Lady Doctor; Mainatharuvi Kola Case; Collector Malathi; Cochin Express; Pooja; Kasavuthattam; Ollathu Mathi; 1968: Thirichadi; Viruthan Sanku; Hotel Highrange; Punnapra Vyalur; Midumidukki; Adhyapika; Kodungalluramma; 1969: Vila Kuranja Manushyar; Almaram; Janmabhoomi; Nurse; Susie; Jwala; Kootu Kudumbam; Kumara Sambhavam; 1970: Pearl View; Kurukshetram; Cross Belt; Kakathampurati; Sabarimala Shri Dharmasastha; Detective 909 Keralathil; Aranazhikaneram; 1972: Puthanveedu; Ananthasayanam; Chhayam; Panimudakku; Professor; Chemparathi; Achannum Bappayam; Thottilla; Shri Guruvayoorappan; 1973: Enippadikal; Nirmalayam; Gayatri; Swapnam; Darshanam; Achani; Kaadu (Mal); Driksakshi; Thottavadi; Yamini; Chuzhi;

Checkpoint; Thekkan Kattu; Swargaputhri; Padmavyuham; 1974: Chanchala; Nelli; Devi Kanyakumari; Atithi; Mazhakkaru; 1975: Akkaldama; Kamam Krotham Moham; Palkadal; Prayanam; 1976: Amba Ambika Ambalika; Colonel and Collector; 1977: Shri Murugan; Vezhambal; 1978: Padasaram; Priyadarshini; 1979: Kayalum Kayarum; Radha Enna Pennkutti; 1980: Kadalkattu; Kalika; Ragam Thanam Pallavi; Vedikkettu; 1981: Parvathi; Tharattu; 1982: Ithum Oru Jeevitham; Snehapoorvam Meera; 1984: My Dear Kuttichathan/ Chhota Chetar; 1985: Daivathe Orthu.

Nair, Madathu Thekepattu Vasudevan (b. 1934)

Malayalam director born in Kodaloor, Kerala. Major Malayalam novelist and scenarist. His first major novel, Nalukettu (1958), contributed to the renewal of a literary tradition initiated by Thakazhy Shivashankar Pillai, Basheer and Uroob in the 50s. Sub-editor of the influential literary journal Mathrubhoomi (1956); later its editor (1968-81). Best-known writing addresses the tensions, incarnated by a central character, between traditional family structures in the declining feudal system of the Tharavad (non-Brahminic matrilineal castes) and economic development (e.g. Appunni in Nalukettu, 1958, Govindakutty in Asuravithu, 1962, or Sethu in Kalam, 1969). The melodrama of feudal nostalgia, ambivalently presented, had a major influence on 70s Malayalam cinema (e.g. Vincent and Sethumadhavan) and was one of the major forces behind the P.N. Menon/P.A. Backer breakthrough into realist cinema with Olavum Theeravum (1969). First film as director, Nirmalayam, is an influential contribution to the 'literary' version of 70s New Indian Cinema. He directed only four more films, all based on his own stories. Currently top Malayalam scenarist with independent star status. Script credits include Murappennu (1965), Nagaram Nandi (1967) and Asuravithu (1968) for Vincent; S.S. Rajan's Pagal Kinavu (1966); Bhaskaran's Irutinte Atmavu (1967); P.N. Menon's Kuttiyedathi (1971); Sethumadhavan's Kanyakumari (1974) and Oppol (1980). Scripted Hariharan's Edavazhiyile Pucha Mindappucha (1979), Valarthu Mrugangal (1981), Evedayo Oru Sathru (1983), Vellom (1984), Panchagni (1986), Nakhakshathangal (1986), Amritam Gamaya (1987) and Oru Vadakkan Veeragatha (1989). Also wrote several films for I.V. Sasi including Aroodam (1983), Alkootathil Thaniye (1984), Adiyozhukkukal (1984), Uyyarungalil (1984); and Prathap Pothan's Ruthubhedam (1987). Recently returned to directing with Kadavu. Aravindan Vallachira (1991) has a book-length analysis of his films.*

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1973: Nirmalayam; 1977: Mohini Attam (Doc); 1978: Bandhanam; 1982: Manju; Varikkuzhi; 1991: Kadavu.

Nair, Mira (b. 1957)

English and Hindi director born in Bhubaneswar, Orissa; daughter of a civil servant. Educated at the Irish Catholic School in Simla and at the University of New Delhi. Active as an actress in repertory theatre in India. Went to Harvard (1976) where she graduated in sociology (1979). Started making films in the USA for R. Leacock and D.A. Pennebaker. Produced her own documentaries and short films. Achieved major international success with India Cabaret and Salaam Bombay. Works mainly in the USA. Made a cameo appearance as a gossip in her Mississippi Masala.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1979: Jama Masjid Street Journal (Sh); 1982: So Far from India (Doc); 1985: India Cabaret (TV); 1987: Children of Desired Sex (TV); 1988: Salaam Bombay; 1991: Mississippi Masala; 1995: The Perez Family; 1996: Kama Sutra.

Nair, Thikkurisi Sukumaran (1917-97)

Actor, scenarist, lyricist, playwright and director born in Thikkurisi, Kerala. Major Malayalam star since 1950. Known more recently for elderly 'character' roles. Wrote five plays 1944-9, the best known being Stree, the film version of which was also his acting debut. His early work helped the Malayalam stage and cinema move away from the pervasive influence of the Tamil stage by eliminating the musical conventions of the Tamil Bhagavathars' (actor-singers) hour-long invocations, their emphasis on the high scale and the use of the pedal-organ. He kept his accompanists behind the stage curtain and recited his own Malayalam compositions in metrical structures closer to lyric poetry than to Carnatic forms. Extended this style in his early films, e.g. Jeevitha Nauka, the Koshy-Kunchako production that tried to establish an indigenous Kerala film culture. Directed many remakes of Tamil hits, rewritten and reperformed to address a local milieu: e.g. Palunku Pathram remade K.S. Gopalakrishnan's Kaikodutha Daivam (1964). One of the three stars (with Prem Nazir and comedian Adoor Bhasi) who dominated Malayalam films in the 60s and 70s. In addition to his big Udaya Studio films, famous roles include key films by Kariat (e.g. Maya), Bhaskaran (Irutinte Atmavu) and Vincent (Abhijathyam). Also wrote dialogues and lyrics for Devasundari (1957), dialogues for Sabarimalai Shri Ayyappan (1962) and Muthalaly (1965), and st/dial for P. Subramanyam's Ana Valarthiya Vanampadi (1971).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1950: Stree; Chandrika; 1951: Jeevitha Nauka; Navalokam; 1952: Amma; Visappinte Vili; Achan; Andaman Kaithi; 1953: *Sario Thetto (also music d); 1954: Puthradharam; Kidappadam; 1955: Harishchandra; Kalam Marunnu; 1956: Atmarpanam; 1957: Achannum Maganam; 1958: Thaskara Veeran; Mariakutty; Randidangazhi; 1960: Umma; Seeta; Poothali; 1961: Christmas Rathri; Kandam Becha Coat; Unniyarcha; Shri Sabarimalai Shri Ayyappan; Bhakta Kuchela; Gnana Sundari; 1962: Laila

Majnu; Veluthampi Dalawa; Sneha Deepam; Sreekovil; Shri Rama Pattabhishekham; Viyarppinte Vila; 1963: Nithya Kanyaka; Doctor; Snapaka Yohannan; Satyabhama; Chilampoli; Kaleyum Kaminiyum; 1964: Devalayam; School Master; Atom Bomb; Karutha Kayi; Shri Guruvayoorappan; Omanakuttan; Kalanjukuttiya Thangam; Kudumbini; 1965: Odeyil Ninnu; Inapravugal; Kaliyodam; Muthalaly; Rosy; Mayavi; Jeevitha Yatra; Kattupookal; Kathiruna Nikkah; Kochumori; Bhoomiyile Malakha; Shakuntala; Chettathi; 1966: Kusirthikuttan/Anni; Kadamattathachan; Jai!; Kootukar; Kayamkulam Kochunni; Puthri; Anarkali; Tharavatamma; Kanmanikal; Puchakanni; Kallipennu; Kanakachilanka; Karuna; Tilottama; Priyatama; Mayor Nair; 1967: Irutinte Atmavu; Postman; Madatharuvu; Anveshichu Kandatiyilla; Chitramela; Pareeksha; Nadan Pennu; 1968: Vidyarthi; Viruthan Sanku; Manaswini; Inspector; Vazhipizhacha Santhathi; Kadal; Hotel Highrange; Punnappa Vyalar; Thulabharam; Adhyapika; Aparadhini; Kodungalluramma; 1969: Ballathapahayan; Chattambi Kavala; Nadhi; Kumara Sambhavam; *Nurse; *Poojapushpam; 1970: Amma Enna Stree; Cross Belt; Ezhuthatha Katha; Nizhalattam; Vivaham Swargathil; Triveni; Tara; *Saraswathi; *Palunku Pathram; 1971: Abhijathyam; *Achante Bharya; Puthanveedu; 1972: Maya; Thavaputhalvar; Professor; Aromalunni; Shri Guruvayoorappan; Maraivil Thiruvu Sukshikuha; Swayamvaram; Shakti; 1973: Thiruvabharanam; Ponnapuram Kotta; Kavitha; Chenda; Thani Niram; Kattu Vithachavan; Kaadu (Mal); Nakhangal; Prethangalude Thazhvara; Sastram Jayichu Manushyan Thottu; Divya Darshanam; Checkpost; Swargaputhri; Asha Chakram; Jesus; Angathattu; *Urvashi Bharathi; Pacha Nottukal; 1974: Suprabhatam; Nathoor; Yauvanam; Nellu; Nagaram Sagaram; Swarna Vighram; Ivide Thodangannu; Kalyana Saugandhikam; Thumbolarcha; Devi

Kanyakumari; Nadhi Nandanmare; Avasiamundu; Vishnu Vijayam; Sapta Swarangal; Swarna Malsiyam; 1975: Abhimanam; Alibaba and Forty-One Thieves; Aranyakandam; Bharya Illatha Rathri; Cheenavala; Dharmakshetre Kurukshetre; Manishada; Padmaragam; Sammanam; Surya Vamsam; Swami Ayyappan; Thomasleeha; Sathyathinde Nizhalil; Neela Ponmar; 1976: Ammini Ammavar; Amritha Vahini; Appooppa; Chennai Valarthiya Kutty; Chirikuduka; Dheere Sameere Yamuna Theere; Kayamkulam Kochunniyude Maghar; Mallanum Mathevanum; Romeo; Sarvekkalu; Srimadh Bhagavad Geeta; Swimming Pool; Thuruppu Gulam; Vazhi Vilakku; Yakshaganam; 1977: Aparajitha; Chaturvedam; Harsha Bhashpam; Kannappanunni; Kavilamma; Kodiyettam; Madanolsavam; Manas Oru Mayil; Minimol; Niraparayum Nilavilakkum; Parivarthanam; Rathi Manmathar; Saghakkale Munottu; Satyavan Savithri; Vishukkani; Yatheem; Suryakanthi; 1978: Kanyaka; Ashtamudikayal; Asthamayam; Avar Jeevikkunu; Chakrayudham; Jayikkanai Janichavan; Kadathanattu Maakkam; Kalpa Vruksha; Kanalkkattakal; Madhurikuna Rathri; Manoratham; Snehikkan Oru Pennu; Society Lady; Sundari Marudde Swapnangal; Thacholi Ambu; 1979: Allavudeenum Albutha Velakkum/Allavudeenum Arputha Vilakkum/Alladdin and the Wonderful Lamp; Ajnatha Theerangal; Iniyethra Sandhyakal; Hridayathinte Nirangal; Iniyum Kanam; Mamankam; Manushiyar; Pennoruppatal; Ponnil Kulicha Rathri; Prabhata Sandhya; Pratiksha; Puthiya Velicham; Sayujiyam; Valaduthavan Valal; 1980: Seeta; Adhikaram; Ambala Vilakku; Oru Nimisham Tharu; Palattu Kunjikannan; Swathu; 1981: Balloor; Grihalakshmi; Sanchari; Thalam Manasinte Thalam; Ayudham; 1982: Ithum Oru Jeevitham; Ithu Gnangalude Katha; Padayottam; 1983: Ahankaram; 1984: Attahasam; Oodarathuammava Alariyum; Oru Sumangalivuda Katha; 1985: Azhivatha

Bandhangal; Ee Thalamura Inganna; 1986: Avanazhi; 1988: Mukunthetta Sumitra Vilikkunnu; Oru Muthassi Katha; Aryan; 1989: Purappad; 1990: Aye Auto; His Highness Abdullah; 1991: Advaitam.

Nanda, Prashanta (b. 1947)

Major Oriya actor, director and producer. Acting debut in Prabhat Mukherjee's Oriya films (Dasyu Ratnakara). Became a star with Mrinal Sen's *Matir Manisha. Studied arts and law while pursuing acting career in Orissa. Made some major films with Nitai Palit (Bandhan, Dharitri, Mana Akasha) before turning producer with Byomkesh Tripathi's seminal hit Mamata (also contributing the story). Turned director the following year with the tragic melodrama Shesha Shrabana; since then acted only in his own films. Made three films in Hindi and the Oriya-Bengali bilingual, Jaa Devi Sarva Bhuteshu/Nyaya Chakra.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1962: Dasyu Ratnakara; Nua Bour; 1964: Jeevana Sathi; Nabajanma; 1966: Matir Manisha; 1969: Bandhar; 1970: Adina Megha; 1972: Dharitri; 1973: Ghara Sansara; 1974: Mana Akasha; 1975: Samaya; Mamata; 1976: Krishna Sudama; Sindura Bindu; Shesha Shrabana; 1977: Naga Phasha; *Paheli; 1978: Taapoi; *Balidan; 1979: Gauri; *Naiya; 1980: *Maa-o-Mamata; 1981: *Pooja; 1982: *Hisab Nikas; 1983: *Swapna Sagara; 1984: *Dora; *Jaga Balia; *Grihasthi; 1985: Heera Lila; 1986: *Bagula Baguli; *Paka Kambala Poota Chhata; 1987: *Golamgir; 1988: *Lal Pan Bibi; 1989: *Jaa Devi Sarva Bhuteshu/Nyaya Chakra; 1990: Kandhei; Je Devi Sarva Bhutesu; 1991: Loot Taraj; 1992: *Maa; 1993: *Ghar Sansar; 1994: *Lal Pan Bibi; Emitti Bhai Jagate Nahin.

Narasaraju, Datla Venkata (b. 1920)

Telugu screenwriter born in Talluri village, AP. Educated in Guntur, Vijaywada and Madras. Started a drama troupe for which he wrote plays and often acted. First play was Antarvani; achieved a reputation as humorist with his hit play, Natakam (1951), based on P.G. Wodehouse's The Play's the Thing. Best-known plays are situated in the everyday, e.g. Yee Illu Ammabadunu. Film debut scripting Pedda Manushulu (1954) based on Ibsen's Pillars of Society. Wrote over 100 scripts, including Donga Ramudu (1955), Gundamma Katha (1962) and Nirdoshi (1967).

Narasimha Rao, Bhimavarapu see Rao, Bhimavarapu Narashimha

Narasimha Rao, Chitrapu see Rao, Chitrapu Narasimha

Narasimha Rao, Bongu see Rao, Bongu Narasimha

Narayana Rao, Adi see Rao, Adi Narayana

Sheila (left), Thikkurisi Sukumaran Nair (Centre) and Adoor Bhasi (right) in Almaram (1969)

Narayana Kavi, Udumalai (1899-1981)

Tamil lyric writer. Born in a merchant (Chettiar) family; learnt music from theatre songwriter Udumalai Sarabam Muthusami Kavi. Adopted part of his teacher's name as a tribute. Early work for gramophone companies like Tasophone, Odeon and HMV, often writing comic songs. Employed as lyric writer by theatre groups, e.g. Arya Gana Sabha, where he also occasionally acted. Film debut in Krishna Leela (1934). Worked at Angel Films, Salem (Draupadi Vastrapaharanam, 1934; Thooku Thooki, 1935). Campaigned in 1937 for the Congress Party and wrote several nationalistic songs for films like Maya Jyothi (1941), elaborating his characteristic type of humorous propaganda songs. A Dravidar Kazhagam ideologue and early follower of Periyar. Best-known work in the propaganda genre with the comedian N.S. Krishnan, adopting a rationalist atheism also found in the DMK Film. Wrote several propaganda songs for DK films, starting with Ezhanda Kadal (1941). The most famous one was Nallathambi (1949), scripted by C.N. Annadurai and starring Krishnan. Also wrote classic verse opposing the brahminical clergy in Sorgavasa (1954). Songs were often in the old popular Company Natak style, with simple rhymes. His lyrics and poetry were compiled by the Dravidar Kazhagam (1986, edited by Sanghai Velavan).

Narayanamurthy, Chitrapu (1913-85)

Telugu director born in Masulipatnam, AP. Early work on Telugu stage in National Theatres troupe which staged mythologicals, including Bhakta Markandeya, the subject of his first film. Introduced to films by Pinapala Venkatadasu, founder of Vel Pics Studio. Worked as assistant and later as film editor in brother Chitrapu Narasimha Rao's films. First break with G. Balaramaiah's Kubera Studio (1938), but made best-known films at Shobhanachala Studio until mid-40s as the studio's top director of Burrakatha-inspired folklore movies. Attempted independent production with Venkatramana Pics (1944). By early 50s had moved largely into the more lucrative Tamil industry where, in addition to freelancing for smaller producers, he worked at AVM which produced his last film, a Telugu-Tamil remake of his 1942 hit Bhakta Prahlada.

Narayanan, A. (1900-39)

Director, producer and exhibitor in Tamil film. Former insurance agent; worked for the distribution wing of K.D. Brothers. Manager of Queen's Cinema, Calcutta (1922) and started Popular Cinema in Triplicane, Madras. Started Exhibition Film Services (1927), later with branches in Bombay, Delhi, Rangoon and Singapore, and made extensive efforts to find an American market for Indian films, including a USA visit with a print of Naval Gandhi's Balidan (1927) and Imperial's Anarkali (1928), during which he befriended Carl Laemmle and Douglas Fairbanks Sr. Started influential General Pics in Madras (1929) with film-makers such as R.S. Prakash, Y.V. Rao and C. Pullaiah. Its sound version, Srinivasa Cinetone (1934), is claimed as South India's first sound studio. Nationalist activist, committed participant in Swadeshi agitations; influenced by the Tamil Manikodi writers group; associated with leaders of the freedom struggle in Madras such as C. Rajagopalachari, the chief minister, and S. Satyamurthy, the Congress leader. Also made several documentaries, e.g. Maternity and Child Welfare, Venereal Diseases (both for health dept. and the govt); Unfurling the National Flag, Burma Oil Company Fire, The Spirit of Agriculture (for Imperial Chemical Industries), etc.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1927: Indian National Congress at Gauhati (Doc); 1928: Kovalan; 1929: Dharmapatni, Garuda Garvabhangam, Gnana Sundari; 1930: King Bhoj; 1931: Nara Narayana (all St); 1934: Draupadi Vastrapaharanam, Srinivasa Kalyanam; 1935: Krishna Arjuna, Rajambal; 1936: Indrasabha, Mahatma Kabirdas, Mandayarkal Sandhippu, Meerabai, Tara Sasankam, Vishwamitra; 1937: Krishna Tulabharam, Rajasekharan, Virata Parvam; 1938: Mada Sambrani, Tenali

Narayana Rao, Adi see Rao, Adi Narayana

Narayana Rao, Dasari see Rao, Dasari Narayana

Narayan Kale, K. see Kale, K. Narayan

Narayan Rao, Balkrishna see Rao, Balkrishna Narayan

Nargis (1929-81)

Hindi-Urdu megastar born in Allahabad as Fatima A. Rashid. Daughter of actress, singer and film-maker Jaddanbai who introduced her to films aged 5 as Baby Rani in Sangeet Films' Talash-e-Haq. Early films with Mehboob including her first lead role in Taqdeer and as Hamida Bano in Humayun. Best known as Raj Kapoor's romantic lead in some of Indian cinema's most enduring melodramas: Barsaat, Andaz, Awara, Shri 420, and Anhonee in which she played a double role. Kapoor used a suggestive image from their Barsaat as the emblem for his R.K. Films. Both Kapoor and Mehboob in their later films built upon her early screen image in historicals and indigenised Shakespearean love tragedies (e.g. the Kamal Amrohi-scripted Romeo and Juliet) where she was often presented as the femme fatale doomed to destruction by her beauty, an updated version of a stereotype from Islamic literature and music. Her performances in e.g. Babul and Jogan also remained the model for that stereotype. From the beginning, Nargis's performances were authentic to a degree unprecedented in Indian cinema, giving the Imperial and Sagar Studios' Arabian Nights fantasies new layers of meaning. Mehboob used her as the pivotal figure in his attempts to merge the symbolologies of feudal patriarchy into those of capitalism (Andaz) while Raj Kapoor injected Oedipal impulses into his encounters with 'tradition'. The pinnacle of her career was Mother India, an epic pot-pourri of psychoanalytic, historic and technological symbols condensing the All-India Film's post-WW2 nationalist sentiment. Turned producer with Nargis Art, producing films directed by Akhtar Hussain. Married actor Sunil Dutt (1959) who played her son in Mother India. Then virtually retired but remained an important public figure, becoming a Congress (I) MP in the early 80s, at one time using that platform for a scathing attack on Satyajit Ray's films for exporting images of India's poverty. She was much honoured by the Indian and Soviet governments. Died of cancer shortly after seeing her and Sunil Dutt's son, Sanjay, in his screen debut in Rocky (1981).

Nargis in Jogan (1950)

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1938: Markandeya; 1940: Mahiravana; 1941: Dakshayagnam; 1942: Bhakta Prahlada; 1944: Bhakta Kabir, Bhishma, Samsara Naradi; 1947: Brahma Ratham; 1948: Madalasa; 1949: Brahma Ratham; 1952: En Thangai; 1953: Naa Chellelu; 1954: Ethirparadathu; 1956: Nagula Chaviti/Adarshasati, Naga Panchami; 1957: Pathni Daivam; 1958: Manamalai, Annaiyin Aana, Naan Valartha Thangai; 1959: Daivame Thunai; 1960: Bhakta Shabari; 1961: Krishna Kuchela, Tallichina Ajna; 1963: Chittor Rani Padmini; 1964: Pativrata; 1967: Bhakta Prahlada

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* as Baby Rani): 1934: *Naachwali; 1935: *Talash-e-Haq; 1936: *Hridaya Manthan; *Madam Fashion; 1937: *Moti Ka Haar; 1942: Tamanna; Pardanasheer; 1943: Taqdeer; 1944: Anbar; Ismat; 1945: Biswi Sadi; Humayun; Ramayani; 1946: Nargis; 1947: Mehndi; Romeo and Juliet; 1948: Aag; Anjuman; Anokha Pyar; Mela; 1949: Andaz; Barsaat; Darogaji; Lahore; Rumal; 1950: Adhi Raat; Babul; Bhishma Pratigya; Birha Ki Raat; Chhoti Bhabhi; Jaan Pehchan; Jogan; Khel; Meena Bazaar; Pyar; 1951: Awara; Deedar; Hulchul; Pyar Ki Baatein; Sagar; 1952: Amber; Anhonee; Ashiana; Bewafa; Sheesha; 1953: Aah; Dhur; Pehli Shaadi; Paapi; 1954: Angarey; 1955: Shri 420; 1956: Chori Chori; Jagte Raho/Ek Din Raate; 1957: Miss India; Mother India; Pardesi; 1958: Adalat; Ghar Sansar; Lajwanti; 1967: Raat Aur Din.

National Film Development Corporation

The Film Finance Corporation was set up in 1960 on the recommendation of the S.K. Patil Film Enquiry Committee Report (1951). Initially controlled by the Ministry of Finance, it was transferred to the Ministry of Information & Broadcasting in 1964. Its original objective was to promote and assist the mainstream film industry by 'providing, affording or procuring finance or other facilities for the production of films of good standard'. In its first six years, it extended production loans for c.50 films, notably Ray's Charulata (1964), Nayak (1966) and Goopy Gyne Bagha Byne (1968). Under the direct influence of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, the FFC initiated the New Indian Cinema with Mrinal Sen's Bhuvan Shome and Mani Kaul's Uski Roti (both 1969). In 1971, the I & B Ministry laid down, as part of the FFC's obligations, the directive that it 'develop the film in India into an effective instrument for the promotion of national culture, education and healthy entertainment [b]y granting loans for modest but off-beat films of talented and promising people in the field'. The new policy yielded instant results as a whole generation of new film-makers was allowed to emerge. However, both the terms on which loans were granted (usually requiring collateral from producers) and the limited distribution outlets, exacerbated by the FFC/NFDC's apparent inability to build its own exhibition network, gave their films a reputation for lacking 'financial viability'. In 1968 the FFC's remit was extended to include distribution and export. In 1973 it became the channelling agency for imported raw stock, and in 1974 (after the withdrawal of the MPEAA from the Indian market) it started importing foreign films for local distribution. These activities soon became the FFC's major profit centres leading to an increasing marginalisation of its film production/financing responsibilities. By 1976, the FFC's independent cinema policy came under withering attack from various quarters. The Committee on Public Undertakings issued a Report (79th Report, 1976) on the FFC arguing that 'there is no inherent contradiction between artistic films of good standard and films successful at the box office [and] the Corporation should [s]atisfy itself in all possible ways that the films [h]ave a reasonable prospect of being commercially successful'. In 1980 the current NFDC was established by amalgamating the FFC with the partially state-owned Indian Motion Pictures Export Corporation (IMPEC), making it the sole canalising agent for the import of all foreign films, with incentives to non-resident Indians to buy, import and distribute foreign films in India. Between 1981 and 1988 the NFDC was also the parent organisation for the Directorate of Film Festivals. With the haphazard extensions of its remit and the repeated policy shifts imposed on it, the absence of a clear definition of the NFDC's responsibilities to the Indian cinema has remained a persistent problem. In spite of its monopolistic privileges in the 80s the NFDC continued to describe itself as a victim of state policies on e.g. taxation. The 1983-4 chairman, Hrishikesh Mukherjee, stated in the 1984 report that 'Unhealthy and underhand dealings particularly in the big cities are a part of the national distribution and exhibition system. Unless and until one becomes a part of this racket, it is practically impossible to operate in this area.' Consequently, the NFDC sought to institutionalise a confused desire for 'good' cinema, measured mainly in terms of national film awards and international film festival exposure, that should be able to make a profit in a market where it could not compete with the industrial cinema's levels of expenditure on exhibition, production and promotion. In the early 90s the NFDC changed again, its co-production policy with Doordarshan effectively shielding it from most industrial pressures. In 1993 the NFDC took over Doordarshan's private Metro Channel and later its 'Movie Club' film channel.

Naushad Ali (b. 1919)

Hindi-Urdu composer born in Lucknow. One of the most spectacular products of the 40s Hindi cinema, he was one of the first to introduce sound mixing and the separate recording of voice and music tracks in playback singing. Also known for using a mammoth orchestra with over 100 musicians for Mehboob's Aan. Since early childhood he was an avid listener to the live orchestras accompanying silent films. Studied under Ustad Ghurbat Ali, Ustad Yusuf Ali and Ustad Babban Saheb. Before moving to Bombay in 1937, he composed for amateur theatricals such as the Windsor Music Entertainers, a group he helped set up. In Bombay, he worked as a pianist in composer Mushtaq Hussain's orchestra; later assisted Khemchand Prakash (whom he considers his teacher) at Ranjit Studio. Employed by Kardar as in-house composer at Kardar Studio after Nai Duniya; composed some of his most memorable music for Kardar and his disciple, M. Sadiq (e.g. Rattan, Naushad's breakthrough film). Scored Mehboob's films after Anmol Ghadi, including Anokhi Ada, Andaz and Mother India. Partner in Sunny Art Prod., producing e.g. Udan Khatola. Other classic compositions include Baiju Bawra (using the eminent Khayal singer Amir Khan along with D.V. Paluskar), Asif's epic Mughal-e-Azam (where Ustad Bade Ghulam Ali Khan sang), Nitin Bose's Ganga Jumna. The music for Kamal Amrohi's Pakeezah is credited to Ghulam Mohammed but Naushad also contributed to it.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1940: Prem Nagar; 1941: Kanchan; Darshan; Mala; 1942: Nai Duniya; Sharada; Station Master; 1943: Kanoor; Namaste; Sanjog; 1944: Geet; Jeevan; Pehle Aap; Rattan; 1945: Sanyasi; 1946: Anmol Ghadi; Keemat; Shahjehan; 1947: Dard; Elaan; Natak; 1948: Anokhi Ada; Mela; 1949: Andaz; Chandni Raat; Dillagi; Dulari; 1950: Babul; Dastaan; 1951: Deedar; Jadu; 1952: Aar; Baiju Bawra; Diwana; 1953: Char Chand; 1954: Amar; Shabab; 1955: Udan Khatola; 1957: Mother India; 1958: Sohni Mahiwal; 1960: Kohinoor; Mughal-e-Azam; 1961: Ganga Jumna; 1962: Son of India; 1963: Mere Mehboob; 1964: Leader; 1966: Dil Diya Dard Liya; Saaz Aur Awaz; 1967: Palki; Ram Aur Shyam; 1968: Admi; Saathi; Sangharsh; 1970: Ganwara; 1971: Pakeezah; 1972: Tangewala; 1974: My Friend; Aaina; 1975: Sunehra Sansar; 1979: Chambal Ki Rani; 1982: Dharam Kanta; 1986: Love and God; 1988: Dhwani; 1989: Dhwani; 1990: Awaaz De Kahan Hai; 1993: Teri Payal Mere Geet; 1995: Guddu.

Navketan see Chetan Anand

Navya Movement

Influential modernist literary movement in Kannada initiated by Gopalakrishna Adiga's two poetry collections, Nadedu Banda Dari (1952) and Bhumigita (1959). The movement is described in G.B. Joshi and Kirtinath Kurthakoti's major rewriting of Kannada literary history in a 3-volume book with the same title as Adiga's anthology, Nadedu Banda Dari (1959). Navya represented a departure from Navodaya's transcendental romanticism, emphasising instead a more limited protagonist placed within contemporary mass-culture and consumerism. It acknowledged the influence of Kafka, Camus, Sartre and Freud. The movement reached its creative pinnacle in the late 60s with U.R. Ananthamurthy's fiction (Samskara, 1966) and developed an uncompromising political opposition to the hegemonic Brahmin élite. It extended directly into the cinema with Pattabhi Rama Reddy's film of Samskara (1970), encouraging modernist writers, playwrights and stage directors to turn to the cinema (e.g. P. Lankesh, Girish Karnad, Chandrasekhar Kambhar, B.V. Karanth, Baraguru Ramchandrapappa, actor C.R. Simha et al.). The shift into cinema perpetuated the belief that film is an extension of literature, spawning many adaptations of the writings of e.g. Masti Venkatesha Iyengar, Chaduranga, Triveni, T.R. Subba Rao and S.L. Bhairappa. In retrospect, only three films - Samskara, Lankesh's Pallavi (1976) and Girish Kasaravalli's Ghattashraddha (1977) - have direct political and formal links with Navya. Later, many 'kalatmaka' (artistic) or 'Prayogika' (experimental) films claimed to derive e.g. from Chaduranga's novels (the writer filmed his own novel Sarvamangala, 1968), while directors like N. Lakshminarayan, G.V. Iyer and Putanna Kanagal went on to formulate an art-house aesthetic quickly enshrined in Karnataka film and TV policies.

Navyug Chitrapat

The first film production company to market its shares directly to the public. Started in 1940 by P.K. Atre with a 'Managing Agency' comprising Master Vinayak, Baburao Pendharkar and cameraman Pandurang Naik. The business was based on the assets of Huns Pics, enhanced by Rs 100 shares sold via advertisements in English and Marathi papers and journals. Atre also toured large parts of Maharashtra hawking the shares. Worries about the risks of investing in the film industry were partially offset by Huns' previous successes and by Atre and Vinayak's reputations. Enough finance was raised to make two of Vinayak/Khandekar's classic films: Lagna Pahave Karun (1940) and Sarkari Pahune (1942). When Pendharkar and Naik resigned and Vinayak formed Prafulla Pics, Navyug closed down (1942).

Naxalite

Term used to refer to members of the extreme Left CPI(ML) launched by Charu Majumdar in 1969. The word refers to the site of the party's first major political action (1967), the village of Naxalbari in Bengal. Following the split in the CPI (1964), several members of the breakaway CPI(M) turned to a Maoist, cadre-based mass-action programme among the peasantry leading to the nationwide crackdown on the Party ordered by prime minister Lal Bahadur Shastri. The schisms between Left and Right within the CPI(M), the latter insisting on the parliamentary road, were aggravated by the victory of United Fronts in Kerala and West Bengal in the 1967 State Assembly elections. Although the Naxalbari insurrection itself, in which peasant groups seized land, held people's courts and dispensed 'justice' to landlords and hoarders, was rapidly quelled, it had widespread and long-term consequences. The CPI(M)'s withdrawal of support in protest against Chief Minister Ajoy Mukherjee's use of the police against their members eventually brought down the United Front government. In August 1967, two months after Naxalbari, Girijan tribals led a similar insurrection in Srikakulam, evoking the CPI-led Telangana uprising (1946-51). The All India Co-ordination Committee of Communist Revolutionaries (AICCCR) was established as the apex body for all extra-parliamentary Left activity. Organisations affiliated to it, as well as several others, launched armed movements in parts of Uttar Pradesh, Bihar, Punjab, Kerala and Tamil Nadu. In 1969 the AICCCR was replaced by the CPI(ML), immediately recognised by the Chinese government. In 1970, actions sympathetic to the Naxalites were initiated by student groups in Calcutta and spawned major debates about revolutionary cultural aesthetics, often emphasising an anarchist iconoclasm (e.g. Saroj Dutta's essay 'In Defence of Iconoclasm', 1970; cf. Samar Sen, 1978). In November 1970 the West Bengal Prevention of Violent Activities Bill gave the central government complete control over law and order in West Bengal, and the student movements in Calcutta as well as the peasant actions in e.g. Debra and Gopiballapur were brutally suppressed by the police and the army. This suppression, coupled with the splintering of the movement itself, effectively ended Naxalite activity as an all-India phenomenon by 1972. The CPI(ML) survived mainly in Andhra Pradesh with the activities of the Peoples' War Group. Culturally, however, its critique of the parliamentary system as well as the ideological and moral divides it caused within the Left movement as a whole, found an echo among independent film-makers, as in Mrinal Sen's Calcutta Trilogy (see esp. Calcutta '71, 1972), in Satyajit Ray's Calcutta Trilogy, Tapan Sinha's Apanjan (1968), Ghatak's Jukti Takko Aar Gappo (1974), Benegal's Nishant (1975), Nihalani's Aakrosh (1980) and Shahani's Tarang (1984). The Naxalite movement's emphasis on agitation around civil liberties opened up a major space for independent documentary film-making (cf. Anand Patwardhan, Tapan Bose) and for Left political and aesthetic discourses. Other film-makers influenced by these currents include John Abraham, the musical, theatre and poetic sources of B. Narasinga Rao, and Utpalendu Chakraborty's rhetoric about acceptable and unacceptable capital resources for film-making. In Andhra Pradesh, where the movement is currently the strongest, campaign films featuring exaggerated plotlines and emphatic performances, an idiom associated in that state with Naxalite aesthetics, were financially backed by media baron and producer Ramoji Rao in the mid-80s, continuing into e.g. R. Narayanamurthy's commercially popular Lal Salaam (1992) and Erra Sainyam (1994).

Nayak, Prabhakar Manajirao (1920-86)

Marathi director born in Nanded Dist. Joined Navyug in Bombay in the 30s as a projectionist. Assisted Naqvi (1942-5), Pendharkar and Raja Paranjpe, debuting as director in 1958. Made melodramas and comedies adapting the style of the ribald urban Tamasha. His best-known films include Pathrakhin, a classic Jayashree Gadkar weepie, and Thapadya, a parable about honesty in which a chronic liar reforms and claims the sexy Tamasha dancer. Often cast stars from the Loknatya tradition, e.g. Usha Chavan, Sarla Yevlekar, Nilu Phule and Ram Nagarkar. Occasionally acted, e.g. in Y. Pethkar's Keechaka Vadha (1959) and in many of his own films. Produced his own last film. Also lyricist.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1958: Punarjanma; 1960: Sangat Jadli Tujhi An Majhi; 1965: Sudharlelya Baika; Chala Utha Lagna Kara; 1966: Hi Naar Rupasundari; 1968: Khandobachi Aar; 1970: Aai Aahe Shetad; 1971: Dam Kari Kaam; 1972: Pathrakhin; 1973: Patla Tar Vhay Mhana; Thapadya; 1974: Tevdha Sodun Bola; 1975: Pandoba Porgi Phasli; Varaat; 1977: Manasa Paris Mendhre Bari; Padarachya Savleet; 1978: Chandal Chaukadi; 1979: Baelweda; 1981: Laath Marin Tithe Pani.

Nayyar, Omkar Prasad (b. 1926)

Composer born in Patiala, Punjab. Employed by AIR, Jullundur. Début scoring the background music for Kaneez. First break as composer for Pancholi films (Aasmaan). Scored very popular music for many 50s films such as early Guru Dutt (Baaz, Aar Paar, Mr and Mrs '55) and Kishore Kumar films (P.L. Santoshi's Cham Chama Cham and Kardar's Baap Re Baap). Late 50s films include Tumsa Nahin Dekha, the film in which Shammi Kapoor changed into his Presley image, and Howrah Bridge, with the most famous song, Mera naam Chin Chin Choo. Also scored the biggest film in Kapoor's 'Yahoo' image, Kashmir Ki Kali. A characteristic scene of his b&w films is a cabaret dancer performing - often to a Rhumba rhythm - in front of the Boss in a nightclub (Twelve O'Clock, Aar Paar). Introduced several Punjabi rhythms, esp. from the Bhangra folk dances, into Hindi film as well as producing 'light' popular music with rock overtones for Geeta Dutt and Asha Bhosle's early hits. Returned to score a Telugu film, Neerajanam, after a decade out of work.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1949: Kaneez; 1952: Aasmaan; Cham Chama Cham; 1953: Baaz; 1954: Aar Paar; Mangu; Mehbooba; 1955: Baap Re Baap (with C. Ramchandra); Miss Coca Cola; Mr and Mrs '55; Musafirkhana; Subse Bada Rupaiya; 1956: Bhagam bhag; CID; Chhoo Mantar; Dhake Ki Malma; Hum Sub Chor Hair; Mr Lambu; Naya Andaz; Shrimati 420; 1957: Bade Sarkar; Duniya Rang Rangili; Johnny Walker; Mai Baap; Naya Daur; Qaidi; Tumsa Nahin Dekha; Ustad; 1958: Farishta; Howrah Bridge; Kabhi Andhera Kabhi Ujala; Mr Qartoon MA; Mujrim; Phagun; Ragini; Sone Ki Chidiya; Twelve O'Clock; 1959: Do Ustad; 1960: Basant; Jaali Note; Kalpana; Mitti Mein Sona; 1962: Ek Musafir Ek Hasina; Hong Kong; 1963: Phir Wohi Dil Laya Hoon; 1964: Kashmir Ki Kali; 1965: Mere Sanam; 1966: Akalmant;

Baharen Phir Bhi Aayengi; Do Dilon Ki Dastaar; Love and Murder; Mohabbat Zindagi Hai; Sawan Ki Ghata; Yeh Raat Phir Na Aayegi; 1967: CID 909; Nasihat; 1968: Dil Aur Mohabbat; Humsaya; Kahin Din Kahin Raat; Kismet; Shrimanjit; 1969: The Killers; Sambandh; 1971: Aisa Bhi Hota Hai; 1972: Ek Baar Muskurado; 1973: Taxi Driver; Pran Jaye Par Vachan Na Jaye; 1978: Khoon Ka Badla Khoon; 1979: Heera Moti; Bin Maa Ke Bachche; 1989: Neerajanam; 1992: Nishchay; 1994: Zid.

Nazir, Prem (1928-89)

Aka Chiriyinkil Abdul Kader. Actor born in Chiriyinkil, South Kerala, and graduated from St Berchman's College, Changanassery. Biggest star in Malayalam film history. Started in Kunchako's Excel company. The bulk of his prodigious output was for the Udaya and Merryland Studios where he was the first of a new generation of stars manufactured to bolster specifically Malayalam film genres. Nazir, the oldest of the generation (cf. Sathyan and Madhu), resembles e.g. Gemini Ganesh. His image merged with what Ayyappa Panicker (1987) called 'the second generation of romantics', poets working within a tradition framed largely by Vallathol (1878-1958) and exemplified by 'pastoral' poets Changampuzha and G. Sankara Kurup. Most famous Malayalam film lyricists emerged from that tradition (Vyalar Rama Varma, O.N.V. Kurup, P. Bhaskaran) and Nazir's acting is a performative counterpart to their imagery. His embodiment of the ideal male is usually seen as more accessible than e.g. Sathyan's remoteness, and at its best it drew attention to exploitative aspects of social and religious systems (Padatha Paingili), the breakdown of the joint family (e.g. Kariat's Maya) and the modern engagement with folk narratives (e.g. Unniyarcha). With the new generation of 60s film-makers such as Vincent (the ghost story Bhargavi Nilayam) and K.T. Mohammed (Nazir's classic village simpleton in Thurakatha Vathil), the films tend to elaborate a strangely intermediate world between fantasy and the contemporary, culminating in his consecration as a totally self-contained icon, a development evoked in Lenin Rajendran's Prem Nazirine Kanmanilla with Nazir, playing himself, kidnapped by tribals and 'forgotten' by the outside world as he matches his unreality with that of tribals living outside his definitions of the world. Wrote a book on the film characters he played, Enne Thediya Kathapatrangal.

Satyabhama; 1964: Kuttikkuppayam; Devalayam; School Master; Oralkoodi Kalanayi; Pazhassi Raja; Ayesha; Kudumbini; Althara; Karutha Kayi; Bhargavi Nilayam; 1965: Devatha; Odeyil Ninnu; Porter Kunjali; Inapravugal; Kaliyodam; Muthalaly; Kuppivala; Thankakudam; Rosy; Mayavi; Jeevitha Yatra; Rajamalli; Kathiruna Nikkah; Kochumon; Bhoomiyile Malakha; Shakuntala; Chettathi; Kavya Mela; Murappennu; 1966: Kalithozher; Station Master; Pinchu Hridayam; Pennmakka; Kootukar; Kalyana Rathriyil; Anarkali; Kanmanika; Puchakanni; Kanakachilanka; Sthanartha Saramma; Tilottama; Priyatama; Kunjali Marakkar; 1967: Ramanar; Jeevikan Anuvadhikuka; Irutinte Atmavu; Agniputhri; Kottayam Kola Case; Udyogastha; Balyakalasakhi; Kudumbam; Bhagyamudra; Kannatha Veshanka; Collector Malathi; Ashwamedham; Chitramela; Nagaram Nandi; Pareeksha; Cochin Express; Pooja; NGO; Nadan Pennu; Kasavuthattam; Ollathu Mathi; Swapnabhoomi; Pathirapattu; 1968: Thirichadi; Vidyarthi; Thokkukal Katha Parayunnu; Inspector; Dial 2244; Asuravithu; Padunna Puzha; Punnappa Vyalal; Lakshaprabhu; Love In Kerala; Thulabharam; Anju Sundarigal; Kodungalluramma; Velutha Kathrina; Agni Pareeksha; Kayalkarayil; Bharyamar Sukshikuka; 1969: Anashchadanam; Padicha Kallar; Vila Kuranja Manushyar; Almaram; Ballathapahayan; Mr Kerala; Rahasyam; Susie; Adimagal; Kannur Deluxe; Poojapushpam; Kadalapalam; Mooladhanam; Jwala; Vilakkapetta Bandhanga; Nadhi; Danger Biscuit; Kootu Kudumbam; Virunnukari; Rest House; 1970: Aranazhikaneram; Moodalamanju; Mindapennu; Pearl View; Amma Enna Stree; Anatha; Palunku Pathram; Kalpana; Nazhikakallu; Ezhuthatha Katha; Dattuputhran; Rakta Pushpam; Nizhalattam; Vivaham Swargathil; Thurakatha Vathil; Othenente Makar; Ningalenne Communistaki; Vivahitha; Kakathampurati; A Chitrashalabham Paranotte; Lottery Ticket;

Triveni; Tara; Saraswathi; 1971: Anubhavangal Palichaka; CID Nazir; Lanka Dahanam; Muthassi; Neethi; Shiksha; Moonnupukkal; Kalithozhi; Marunattil Oru Malayali; Puthanveedu; Ernakulam Junction; Vilakku Vangiya Veena; 1972: Sambhavami Yuge Yuge; Aradi Manninte Janmi; Pushpanjali; Devi; Maya; Manthrakodi; Manushya Bandhanga; Aromalunni; Taxi Car; Mayiladam Kunnu; Omana; Oru Sundariyude Katha; Miss Mary; Punarjanmam; Maravil Thiruvu Sukshikuha; Gandharvakshetram; Nrithyasala; Adhyathe Katha; Anveshanam; Brahmachari; Postmane Kananilla; Pani Teertha Veedu; Maram; 1973: Police Ariyaruthu; Football Champion; Agnathavasam; Panchavati; Bhadra Deepam; Thiruvabharanam; Kalachakram; Ponnapuram Kotta; Veendum Prabhatam; Thani Niram; Ladies' Hostel; Achani; Urvashi Bharathi; Thenaruvu; Pacha Nottukal; Pavangal Pennungal; Dharma Yuddham; Sastram Jayichu Manushyan Thottu; Interview; Azhakulla Saleena; Poyi Mukhanga; Manasu; Thottavadi; Padmavyuham (Mal); Angathattu; 1974: Chanchala; Pattabhishekham; Chandrakantham; Suprabhatam; Panchatanthram; Rahasya Rathri; Pathiravum Pakalvelichavum; Durga; Setu Bandhanam; Nelli; Poonthenaruvu; Night Duty; College Girl; Ayalathe Sundari; Chakravakam; Thacholi Marumagan Chandur; Thumbolarcha; Raja Hamsam; Honeymoon; Bhoomidevi Pushpinneyi; Arakallan Mukkal Kallar; Chief Guest; 1975: Abhimanam; Alibaba and Forty-One Thieves; Aranyakandam; Ashtami Rohini; Ayodhya; Babu Mori; Cheenavala; Chumadu Thangi; Dharmakshetre Kurukshetre; Hello Darling; Kottaram Vilakkanundu; Love Marriage; Manishada; Neela Ponmar; Padmaragam; Palazhi Madhanam; Picnic; Pravaham; Priyamulla Sophia; Pulival; Sammanam; Sindhu; Surya Vamsam; Thamarathoni; Thiruvonam; Tourist Bungalow; 1976: Ayiram Janmanga; Ajayanum Vijayanum; Ammini Ammavar; Amritha Vahini; Aparadhi; Chennai Valarthiya Kutty; Chirikuduka; Kamadhenu; Kanyadanam; Kayamkulam Kochunniyude Maghan; Light House; Mallanum Mathevanum; Ozhukkinethire; Panchami; Panchamrutham; Parijatham; Pickpocket; Prasadam; Pushpa Sarem; Rajayogam; Seemantha Puthran; Themmedi Velappan; Thulavarsham; Thuruppu Gulam; Vanadevatha; Vazhi Vilakku; 1977: Suryakanthi; Acharam Ammini Osaram Omana; Akshaya Pathram; Anjali; Anugraham; Aparajitha; Aval Oru Devalayam; Chaturvedam; Gandharvam; Haridhayame Sakshi; Innale Innu; Ivanente Priyaputhran; Kaduvaye Pidicha Kiduva; Kannappanunni; Lakshmi; Minimo; Mohamum Mukthiyum; Muttathe Mulla; Parivarthanam; Rathi Manmathar; Rendu Lokam; Saghakkale Munottu; Samudram; Sujatha; Tholkan Enikku Manassilla; Varadakshina; Veedu Oru Swargam; Vishukkani; 1978: Anappachan; Amarshan; Ashtamudikaya; Bharyayum Kamukiyum; Ee Ganam Marakkum; Jayikkanai Janichavar; Kadathanattu Maakkam; Kalpa Vruksha; Kanalkkattakal; Kudumbam Namakku Sreekovil; Liza; Mudra

Prem Nazir in Lottery Ticket (1970)

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1952: Marumagal; Visappinte Vili; Achar; 1954: Avakashi; Avan Varunnu; Manasakshi; Balya Sakhi; Kidappadam; 1955: Anujathi; CID; 1956: Atmarpanam; Manthravadi; Avarunarunnu; 1957: Devasundari; Padatha Paingili; Jailpully; 1958: Lily; Mariakutty; Chadarangam; 1960: Seeta; 1961: Krishna Kuchela; Gnana Sundari; Unniyarcha; 1962: Laila Majnu; Kalpadukal; Shri Rama Pattabhishekham; 1963: Ninamaninja Kalpadukal; Snapaka Yohannan; Kattu Maina; Chilampoli; Kaleyum Kaminiyum;

Mothiram; Ninakku Inanum Enikku Neeyum; Nivedyam; Prarthana; Raju Rahim; Shathru Samharam; Snehathinte Mukhangal; Sundari Marudde Swapnangal; Thacholi Ambur; Tharu Oru Janmam Koodi; Vilakkum Velichavum; Yagaswam; 1979: Ward No. 7; Kalam Kathu Ninilla; Irumpazhiga; Vijayanum Veeranum; Mamankam; Prabhu; Pamparam; Tharangam; Thirayum Thiravum; Indradhanush; Iniyum Kanam; Kathirmandapam; Manavadharam; Ormayil Nee Mathram; Pichathikkuttappan; Sarpam; Valaduthavan Valal; Vellayanni Param; 1980: Air Hostess; Kari Puranda Jeevithangal; Agni Kshetram; Ithikkara Pakki; Theekadal; Mr Michael; Digvijayam; Chandrasaham; Palattu Kunjikannan; Lava; Pralayam; Anthappuram; Nayattu; Love in Singapore; Theeram Thedunnavar; 1981: Charam; Areyappedatha Rahasyam; Thadavara; Thalam Manasinte Thalam; Theekali; Sanchari; Choothatham; Kodumudikal; Ellam Ninakku Vendi; Kilungatha Changanal; Pathiya Suryan; Sangharsham; Attamari; Raktham; Vida Parayum Munpe; Itihasam; Parvathi; Dhruva Sangamam; Adimachangala; Kadathu; Itha Oru Dhikkari; Kadathu; Kahalam; Kattukallar; Thakilukottampuram; Thenum Vayampum; 1982: Idiyum Minnalum; Ivan Oru Simham; Angachamayam; Mayilanji; Jambulingam; Oru Thira Pinneyum Thira; Maruppacha; Panchajanyam; Champalakadu; Padayottam; Arambham; Akrosham; Shri Ayyappanum Vavarum; Raktha Sakshi; Adarsham; Ankuram; Drohi; Irattimadhuram; Keni; Mazhanilavu; Nagamadhathu Thampuratti; Post Mortem; 1983: Bandham; Adhyathe Anuragam; Attakkalasar; Adhipathyam; Angam; Ashrayam; Bhukambam; Chakravalam Chuvannappol; Deeparadhana; Ee Yugam; Ente Katha; Himam; Justice Raja; Kariyam Nisaram; Kodungattu; Mahabali; Markkailo Rikalum; Mortuary; Oru Madaupravinte Katha; Passport; Prashnam Gurutharam; Pratigna; Prem Nazirine Kanmanilla; Theeram Thedunna Thira; Yuddham; 1984: Makale Maapu Tharu; Alakadalinnakkare; Amme Narayana; Ente Nandini Kutty; Inakkilli; Kadamattathachar; Krishna Guruvayoorappa; Kurisuyuddham; Madhu Vidhu Theerum Munpe; Manase Ninakku Mangalam; Manithali; Ningalil Oru Stree; Oru Thettinde Katha; Piriya Naam; Poomadathu Pennu; Vanitha Police; Vellom; Vikatakavi; 1985: Daivathe Orthu; Manya Mahajanangale; Mukhya Manthri; Nerariyum Nerathu; Orikkal Oridathu; Orunal Innorunal; Ozhivukalam; Sannaham; Snehicha Kuttathinu; Uyirthezhunnelpu; Shatru; 1986: Ayalvasi Oru Dharithavasi; 1988: Dhwani; 1989: Lal Americayil.

Neel akantan, P. (b. 1916)

Tamil director associated mainly with MGR's persona; also worked in Sinhalese (Suneetha and Sujake Rahase) and Kannada. Born in Villuppuram. Congress Party worker aged 15. Former journalist (with Jeevamani in 1935, Vijayan in 1936, Indira in 1940 and established his own journal Kalaivani in 1940) and radio playwright. Broke through with two famous plays, Mullil Roja, performed by the TKS Brothers and attacking the Devadasi system, and Nam Iruvar, staged by N.S. Krishnan's theatre troupe (Krishnan was in jail at the time and the play was done by T.A. Mathuram and S.V. Sahasranamam). Nam Iruvar was later filmed by A.V. Meiyappan (1947) as a stridently nationalist drama with Neelakantan's script (he was also asst. d). Its success established AVM and was followed by other scripts for Meiyappan, including the hits Vethala Ulagam (1948) and Vazhakai (1949). Directorial debut: Ore Iravu, based on a noted play by the DMK's founder, C.N. Annadurai, who also scripted the film. Shifted briefly to Kannada to direct two films produced by and starring B.R. Panthulu (Modalatedi and Shivasharane Nambekka), before returning to the DMK film idiom with Tamil hits like Ambikapathy with Sivaji Ganesan. Directed two films with Karunanidhi scripts, Poompuhar and Poomalai. Was a partner in Panthulu's Padmini Pics before starting his own Arasu Prod. (1957). Most of his films star MGR. According to M.S.S. Pandian (1992), the hit Thirudathe inaugurated the MGR persona of a subaltern in the service of society. This trend continued in Mattukkara Velan with MGR playing the double role of the cowherd and the lawyer, and in Ninaithathai Mudippavan with MGR demonstratively consuming proletarian food and displaying an inability to eat peas with a fork.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1951: Ore Iravu; 1954: Kalyanam Panniyum Brahmachari; 1955: Gomathiyin Kathali; Modalatedi/Mudhal Thedi; Shivasharane Nambekka; 1957: Ambikapathy; Chakravarthi Thirumagal; 1958: Thedi Vantha Selvam; 1960: Advantha Daivam; 1961: Nallavan Vazhvan; Thirudathe; 1962: Ethayum Thangam Idayam; 1963: Koduthu Vaithaval; Raj Mahal; 1964: Poompuhar; 1965: Anandi; Poomalai; 1966: Avan Pithana; 1967: Kavalkaran; 1968: Kanavan; Kannan En Kathalan; 1969: Mattukkara Velan; 1970: En Annan; 1971: Neerum Neruppum; Oru Thai Makkal; Kumari Kottam; 1972: Raman Thediya Seethai; Sangey Muzhangu; 1974: Netru Indru Nalai; 1975: Ninaithathai Mudippavan; 1976: Needhikku Thalai Vanangu; 1981: Daiva Thirumanangal.

Neerja see Vijayanirmala

Nene, Raja (1912-75)

Hindi and Marathi director, actor and producer originally called Gajanan Hari Nene. Nephew of Vishnupant Damle who got him a job at Prabhat Studio as assistant director. Assisted Shantaram on Chandrasena (1935) and Amar Jyoti (1936); he was a key figure in the making of Sant Tukaram (1936) and of the subsequent Damle-Fattalal films, receiving co-d credit for Sant Sakhu. Played the part of the boorish Pandit, son of Kakasaheb, in Shantaram's classic Kunku/Duniya Na Mane. Directed the successful Daha Wajta at Prabhat. Together with Athavale, Datta Dharmadhikari and Keshavrao Bhole, he walked out of the studio shortly afterwards, leaving the studio's magnum opus Ramshastri (1944) incomplete. The group joined Mohan Studio to make Taramati. Started his own Raja Nene Prod. (1947) co-directing Dharmadhikari's first film, Shadi Se Pehle. After Rajkamal Kalamandir, Nene Prod. was the second major production house to emerge from the Prabhat Studio and was followed by Dharmadhikari's Alhaad Chitra. Nene's next production was the classic Tamasha musical Pathe Bapurao, reserving the lead part for himself. Anant Mane later claimed to have ghost-directed this hit as well as Ketakichya Banaat. Pehli Tareekh, Nene's most successful Hindi film, was remade in Kannada and Tamil by P. Neelakantan as Modalatedi (1955).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* also act/ act only): 1937: Kunku/Duniya Na Mane; 1941: Sant Sakhu; 1942: Daha Wajta/Das Baje; 1944: Ramshastri; 1945: Taramati; 1946: Bachchon Ka Khel; Phir Bhi Apna Hai; 1947: Lalat; Shadi Se Pehle*; 1949: Sant Ramdas*; 1950: Ketakichya Banaat*; Pathe Bapurao*; 1951: Shri Vishnu Bhagwan; 1952: Indrasari; Lanka Dahari; Rajrani Damayanti; 1954: Hanuman Janma; Pehli Tareekh; Radha Krishna; 1957: Pahila Prem*; 1958: Gauri Shankar; 1959: Yala Jeevan Aise Nav; 1964: Tuka Jhalase Kalasa.

New Indian Cinema

Promotional label for a sector of state sponsored film-making said to have originated either with Mrinal Sen's Bhuvan Shome (1969) or Mani Kaul's Uski Roti (1969). Associated in the late 60s/early 70s with financial support from the FFC (see NFDC), making it the first major result of governmental support for feature-film production outside the industrial mainstream. Among its beneficiaries were FTII graduates like Kumar Shahani, Mani Kaul, Saeed Mirza and Ketan Mehta. It also generated technicians who pioneered aesthetic and technological innovations which had a substantial impact on the technical standards of the film industry itself: the camerawork of K.K. Mahajan in Hindi, Venu in Malayalam and Ramchandra in Kannada cinemas, the sound recording of Kuldeep Sud and later Hitendra Ghosh and P.C. Padmanabhan. Described by the popular press as a 'new wave' in a facile comparison with the French nouvelle vague, prompting Satyajit Ray to issue a somewhat dismissive response to the sector, 'An Indian New Wave?' (1971: cf. Ray, 1976). What shaped the new cinema most decisively was the cultural and political dynamic sparked by the mainstream industry's massive opposition to it. While attacking 'financially unviable' films, the industry also sought to exploit its aura of cultural value for its own purposes (cf. B.R. Ishara). The films that articulated an 'official' agenda were Pattabhi Rama Reddy's Samskara (1970) and Shyam Benegal's Ankur (1973). Both, like Bhuvan Shome and M.S. Sathyu's Garam Hawa (1973), were low-budget box-office successes. Samskara gave a new dimension to the predominantly literary movements in Kannada (see Navya Movement) and encouraged the notion of 'regional realism', claiming Satyajit Ray as its major progenitor (a role Ray was happy to play) although Tendulkar's theatre work offered a more credible source. This development was extended into the Malayalam cinema by Adoor Gopalakrishnan and Aravindan. In its later, post-Benegal phase, New Indian Cinema often drew on advertising capital and aesthetics for art-house film-making, legitimating a new definition enshrined in e.g. the parliamentary committee's instructions, during the Emergency, to the FFC to grant loans on the following criteria: '1. Human interest in the story; 2. Indianness in theme and approach; 3. Characters with whom the audience can identify; 4. Dramatic content and 5. Background and capability of the applicant' (Committee On Public Undertakings Report, 1976). This ideology became official cultural policy in the 7th Five-Year Plan and had a decisive impact on Doordarshan as well as shaping the NFDC's and the Directorate of Film Festivals' institutional priorities.

New Theatres

Main Bengali studio and one of the elite banners in pre-Independence Indian cinema. Set up by Birendra Nath Sircar (1901-80) in 1931 as a sound studio in Tollygunge, Calcutta, following on from Sircar's silent International Filmcraft (Est: 1930 in association with Charu Roy and Prafulla Roy). New Theatres acquired Tanar equipment and the services of Wilford Deming, a Hollywood sound technician imported by Ardeshir Irani. The studio attracted major technical and creative talent from several smaller silent studios then on the verge of collapse: Indian Kinema provided Nitin Bose, the writer, scenarist and film-maker Premankur Atorthy, the stars Durgadas Bannerjee, Amar Mullick, Jiban Ganguly, etc.; from Barua Pics came P.C. Barua himself and Sushil Majumdar; British Dominion Films supplied Dhiren Ganguly. Sircar aimed for a cinematic equivalent of literature: 'Immediately after the establishment of New Theatres, the first film I made was Saratchandra [Chatterjee]'s Dena Paona (1931). The first director of New Theatres was Premankur Atorthy, the famed litterateur. The film was not a success. Yet, I could perceive that following the path of literature would lead to the discovery of the right path. Seven subsequent films met with the same fate but each film pointed to the ultimate way' (1961, in Jha, 1990). This formula had been launched at Madan Theatres when they purchased exclusive film rights to all of Bankimchandra Chatterjee's prose and was followed by New Theatres, leading to such cinematic oddities as the big-budget Natir Puja (1932), credited with Rabindranath Tagore's direction. New Theatres then opted for a more melodramatic mode with Debaki Bose's Chandidas (1932). The most famous New Theatres productions were the P.C. Barua and Nitin Bose films and its major star was K.L. Saigal. The studio had many directors on its payroll (most studios managed with one in-house director, using B-films made by assistants or other employees to keep the production flow going) and invested massively in technological innovation (e.g. the work of sound recordist Mukul Bose). The decline of the studio is usually linked to the resignation in 1941 of Nitin Bose, one of their top directors and head of the technical units. Its fall is also connected with the rise of the Western and Southern Indian markets during and immediately after WW2, as the studio had never established its own outlets and was increasingly at the mercy of professional distributors charging crippling commissions. There are several accounts of the studio's outright sale of film rights to groups like the Kapurchands, often at a loss. In 1944 Bimal Roy made an influential debut (Udayer Pathy) initiating a trend mainly realised in Bombay (e.g. Hrishikesh Mukherjee). The studio finally closed in 1955, although Sircar remained closely involved with film industry organisations, being on the board of the FFC for some years.

Nihal ani, Govind (b. 1940)

Hindi director born in Karachi (now Pakistan) into a merchant family. During Partition, his family fled to Udaipur (1947) and then to Delhi. Studied cinematography at S.J. Polytechnic, Bangalore (1959-62). Assisted cameraman V.K. Murthy in Bombay (1962-71). An early and influential colleague was Bombay-based playwright and theatre director Satyadev Dubey, whose Shantata! Court Chalu Aahe (1971) was Nihalani's first feature as cameraman. Shot over 200 advertising films and documentaries, directing 100 more for Krishna Movies in Bombay. Also shot Benegal's early films. Turned director in 1980. Made Tendulkar-scripted political films dealing with urban crime and official corruption. Did 2nd unit work for Attenborough's Gandhi (1982). His box-office hit Ardh Satya, used a Dirty Harry plot which was familiar in Hindi and regional commercial cinemas (e.g. Prakash Mehra's Zanjeer, 1973, in Hindi, and S.V. Rajendra Singh's Anth, 1981, in Kannada). Ardh Satya itself was adapted into Tamil by K. Vijayan (Kaval, 1985). Takes politically sensational topics and turns them into individual moral dilemmas, usually enacted by Om Puri. His TV serial Tamas, set during Partition, proved controversial and resulted in a court ruling asserting the right to freedom of expression on TV. Recent work mainly adaptations of stage plays to TV (Ibsen, Strindberg and Lorca). A book-length interview with Nihalani was published in 1992 (ed. Samik Bandyopadhyay).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1980: Aakrosh; 1982: Vijeta; 1983: Ardh Satya; 1984: Party; 1985: Aaghat; 1986: Tamas (TV); 1989: Jazeerey (TV); 1990: Drishti; 1991: Pita; Rukmavati Ki Haveli.

Nurjehan (b. 1929)

Hindi-Urdu and Punjabi actress and singer born in Kasur village, Punjab. Studied music under Ghulam Mohammed Khan. Stage actress in Calcutta as a child, and introduced to films apparently by Sukhlal Karnani of Indra Movietone. Joined films when still a child in Punjabi productions of K.D. Mehra and featured prominently in Pancholi's hit musical Gul-e-Bakavali. Married film-maker Shaukat Hussain and acted in many of his films, including Khandaan, Naukar and Jugnu, the latter co-starring Dilip Kumar and produced by their own Shaukat Art Prod. V.M. Vyas brought her to Bombay (1942) to act in Duhai. She returned to Lahore after Partition, acting in e.g. Imtiaz Ali Taj's Gulnar and Shaukat Hussain's Laila, both scored by Ghulam Haider; she also produced Chanway. Known as the Melody Queen, almost all her Bombay films were hits with extremely popular music, and she remained a leading playback singer in Pakistan, notably in Punjabi productions. Best remembered for her songs Awaaz de and Jawan hai mohabbat in Mehboob's Anmol Ghadi and for Yahan badala wafa ka in Jugnu. As a singer, she is often considered Lata Mangeshkar's predecessor. Recorded two parts of the musical series 'Taranum' in the 1980s/90s in Pakistan.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1935: Gaibi Gola; Misar Ka Sitar; Azadi; Sheila; 1936: Nariraj; 1937: Mr 420; Taranhar; Fakhr-e-Islam; Kiski Pyari; 1938: Heer Syal; 1939: Gul-e-Bakavali; Sassi Punnu; 1940: Yamla Jat; 1941: Choudhury; 1942: Khandaan; 1943: Naukar; Duhai; 1944: Dost; Lal Haveli; 1945: Badi Maa; Bhaijan; Village Girl; Zeenat; 1946: Anmol Ghadi; Di; Humjoli; 1947: Jugnu; Mirza Sahiban; 1951: Chanway; 1952: Dupatta; 1953: Gulnar; 1955: Patey Khar; 1956: Lakht-e-Jigar; Intezaar; 1957: Nooran; 1958: Chhoo Mantar; Anarkali; 1959: Pardesar; Neend; Koel; 1961: Ghalib; 1963: Baji.

Nutan Samarth (1936-91)

Top Hindi 60s star, introduced to films by her mother, Shobhana Samarth, in Hamari Beti. Her screen image was moulded by Bimal Roy (Sujata, Bandini) and by those who continued in the Roy tradition: Hrishikesh Mukherjee (Anari), Bimal Dutt (Kasturi) and Sudhendu Roy (Saudagar). Her persona, confirmed in e.g. Saraiya's Saraswatichandra and in Raj Khosla's melodramas (Teri Maang Sitaron Se Bhar Doon), developed a naturalism borrowed from reformist Bengali and Gujarati novels, constituting an indigenised variant of neo-realism. This aspect of her acting, anticipating Smita Patil's image, became crucial to e.g. the iconography of the New Indian Cinema's notion of 'Indianness'. In her best-known films she performed with a frothy uninhibitedness comparable to Madhubala: the Filmistan musical Paying Guest and Navketan's Vijay Anand hit Tere Ghar Ke Saamne are fine examples of the romantic duo she formed with Dev Anand. In later years she acted mother roles.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1945: Nala Damayanti; 1950: Hamari Beti; 1951: Humlog; Nagina; 1952: Hangama; Nirmohi; Parbat; Shisham; 1953: Aaghosht; Laila Majnu; Malkin; 1954:

Nutan (centre) in Bandini (1963)

Shabab; 1955: Seema; 1956: Heer; 1957: Baarish; Paying Guest; 1958: Aakhri Dao, Chandar, Delhi Ka Thug, Kabhi Andhera, Kabhi Ujala; Sone Ki Chidiya, Zindagi Ya Toofan; 1959: Anari, Kanhaiya; Sujata; 1960: Basant, Chhabili, Chhalia, Manzil; 1963: Soorat Aur Seerat, Bandini, Dil Hi To Hai; Tere Ghar Ke Saamne; 1964: Chandi Ki Dewar; 1965: Khandaar, Rishte Naate; 1966: Chhota Bhai, Dil Ne Phir Yaad Kiya, Dulhan Ek Raat Ki; 1967: Laat Saheb, Meharbaar, Mera Munna, Milar; 1968: Gauri, Saraswathichandra; 1969: Bhai Baher; 1970: Devi, Maa Aur Mamta, Maharaja, Yaadgaar; 1971: Lagan; 1972: Anuraag, Mangetar, Graham; 1973: Saudagar; 1976: Zid, Ginny Aur Johnny; 1977: Duniyadari, Jagriti, Mandir Masjid, Paradh; 1978: Anjaam, Ek Baap Chhe Bete, Hamara Sansar, Main Tulsi Tere Aangan Ki, Saajan Bina Suhagan, Kasturi; 1980: Saajan Ki Saheli, Sanjh Ki Bela; 1982: Jiyo Aur Jeene Do, Teri Maang Sitaron Se Bhar Doon; 1983: Rishta Kaagaz Ka; 1984: Yeh Kaisa Farz; 1985: Aar Paar/Anyay Abichar, Meri Jung, Paisa Yeh Paisa, Yudh, Mayuri (H); Mujrim Hazir (TV); Pyari Bhabhi, Ricky; 1986: Karma, Naam; 1987: Hifazat; 1988: Sone Pe Suhaaga; 1989: Guru (H); Mujrim, Kanoon Apna Apna; Aulad Ki Khatir; 1992: Naseebwala; 1994: Insaniyat.

Osten, Franz (1876-1956)

Hindi director born in Munich as Franz Ostermayer, the elder brother of successful producer Peter Ostermayer. They set up a travelling cinema, Original Physograph (1907) and founded Munchner Kunstfilm (1909) after Osten had been making shorts for Pathé, Gaumont and Eclair. Their first feature: Die Wahrheit (1910). Osten's debut as director: Erna Valeska (1911). War correspondent in 1915. Joined Peter's company Emelka (later Bavaria Film) in 1918. Made Der Ochsenkrieg (1920) with young cameraman Frank Planer of later Hollywood fame, one of Osten's several contributions to a budding genre that after WW2 became known as the Heimatfilm. In fact, the Ostermayer/Osten brothers claimed to be the originators of the genre. When Himansu Rai and Emelka made a deal to produce Prem Sanyas aka Light of Asia, Osten was assigned to direct. Continued directing Rai's productions, often shooting in India as well as in Europe, in addition to directing for numerous companies in Berlin. Moved with cameraman Josef Wirsching and set designer Karl von Sprei to India to work at Himansu Rai's Bombay Talkies (1934). While in Bombay, became a member of the Nazi Party (1936). Interned by the British at the outbreak of WW2 while shooting his last film there, Kangan. Released and allowed to return to Germany (1940). Employed by Bavaria Film until 1945, for casting and setting up its film archive. In addition to Indian films, directed 33 silent features and 10 sound films. After WW2 became manager of a Bavarian spa. His Indian films, following UFA tradition, were huge Orientalist spectacles with elephants, camels and expansive vistas often shot in deep focus. Effective authorship shared by producer Rai and scenarist Niranjan Pal. Adopted European conventions to introduce main actors, e.g. backlit mid-shots in soft focus gradually becoming more contrasted; also used mobile outdoor shots as in the railway-crossing sequence of Achhut Kanya. Strongly influenced younger Bombay Talkies film-makers Amiya Chakravarty and Gyan Mukherjee, though they used his techniques for very different purposes.

FILMOGRAPHY (Indian films): 1925: Prem Sanyas; 1928: Shiraz; 1929: Prapancha Pash (all St); 1935: Jawani Ki Hawa; 1936: Achhut Kanya, Janmabhoomi, Jeevan Naiya; Mamata, Miya Bibi; 1937: Izzat, Jeevan Prabhat, Prem Kahani, Savitri; 1938: Bhabhi, Nirmala, Vachan; 1939: Navjeevan, Durga, Kangan.

Pachajanya see Mahapatra, Nirad

Padmanabhan, R. (b. 1896)

One of the pioneer Tamil producer-directors. Son of a Sivagangai-based lawyer, entered films as distributor (1926) of Indian and imported films and retailer of cinema equipment. Set up the Madras-based Associated Films Studio (1928) with financial support from K.S. Venkatramani Iyer (father-in-law of K. Subramanyam). The studio's early work includes Raja Sandow's first films. In the silent era, run by technicians imported from Bombay, it was the biggest South Indian production centre after General Pics. With the coming of sound, Padmanabhan first returned to distribution; then director for Oriental Films, a partnership involving Ramalinga Mudaliar.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1935: Maya Bazaar, Dhruva, Nalla Thangal, Subhadra Haran; 1936: Nalayini, Garuda Garvabhangam; 1937: Setu Bandhanam, Asai; 1940: Meenakshi Kalyanam; 1941: Maya Jyothi, Appothi Adigal; 1943: Devakanya; 1945: Bhakta Kalathi; 1946: Setu Bandhanam, Sakata Yogam; 1949: Raksharekha; 1952: Kumari, Rajeshwari; 1955: Ellam Inbamayam; 1962: Indra En Selvam.

Padmarajan, P. (1936-91)

Malayalam writer, scenarist and director. Studied chemistry in Trivandrum, where he also worked as an AIR announcer. Author of 15 novels and scenarist before becoming a director. Considered a leading member of a second generation of modernist writers, following M.T. Vasudevan Nair and O.V. Vijayan. Several of his anarchist novels, often about people on the margins, crime and sexual jealousy, have been the sources for e.g. Bharathan's and I.V. Sasi's films. His own films have however seldom adapted his own published fiction, although based on his own screenplays. Best-known film is Koodevide?, a psychological drama about the violence simmering underneath polite discourse. His folk parable Oridathoru Phayalwan is about the rise and fall of a childish simple wrestler who makes a success of his sport, marries the prettiest woman in the village but finds himself a loser in life. Script credits include: Bharathan's Prayanam (1975), Rathi Nirvedham (1978), Thakara (1979), Lorry (1980) and Eenum (1983); I.V. Sasi's Itha Ivide Vare (1977), Vadagaikku Oru Hridayam (1978), Kaikeyi (1983) and Kaanamarayathu (1984); K.S. Sethumadhavan's Nakshatrangale Kaval (1978); K.G. George's Rappadigalude Gatha (1978); Mohan's Salini Ente Kuttukari (1980).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1979: Peruvazhiyampalam; 1981: Oridathoru Phayalwan, Kallan Pavithran; 1982: Novemberinte Nashtam; 1983: Koodevide?; 1984: Parannu Parannu Parannu; 1985: Thinkalazhcha Nalla Divasam, Arappatta Kettiya Gramathil; 1986: Desadanakkili Karayilla, Namukku Parkkan Munthiri Thoppukal, Kariyila Kattu Pole; 1987:

Nombarathi Poovu, Thoovana Thumbigal,
1988: Aparan; Moosnam Pakkam; 1989:
Innale; 1991: Jnan Gandharvan.

Padmini, S. (b. 1934)

Malayalam, Tamil, Hindi and Telugu star and classical dancer born in Trivandrum. Second, and best-known, of the 3 famed Travancore sisters (Ragini and Lalitha). Dance training under Guru Gopinath. Début in Uday Shankar's dance spectacular Kalpana, followed by roles in S.M. Sreeramulu Naidu and Sundarrao Nadkarni's productions. Then acted in several Tamil films, with both MGR (Madurai Veeran) and Sivaji Ganesan (Verapandiya Kattaboman, Thillana Mohanambal, Vietnam Veedu). First major Hindi role in Gemini's Mr Sampat but mainly associated with Raj Kapoor (Jis Desh Mein Ganga Behti Hai, Mera Naam Joker). Known mainly as a Bharat Natyam dancer (cf. Thillana Mohanambal) and actress in sentimental melodramas (typically Adhyapika). Left films briefly in the late 70s when she moved to the USA, making her comeback in 1984. Thereafter known for her Fazil films. Probably made more Tamil films than are listed in her filmography.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1948: Kalpana; Bhakta Jana; Gnanasoundari; Mahabali; 1949: Velaikkari; Devamanohari; Geetha Gandhi; Krishna Vijayam; Vinodini; Mayavathi; Natya Rani; Pavalakkodi; Pommudi; Laila Majnu; 1950: Ezhai Padum Padu/Beedala Patlu; Laila Majnu; Manthiri Kumari; Maruthanattu Ilavarasi; Parijatham; Prasanna; 1951: Jeevan Tara; Navvitte Navarathrulu; Singari; 1952: Krishna Kanhaiya; Mr Sampat; Kanchana; Velaikkarar; 1953: Asha Deepam; Ammalakalu/Marumaga; Oka Talli Pillalu; 1954: Ethirparadathu; Snehaseema; Illara Jyothi; Thooku Thooki; Sorgavasal; 1955: Rajkumari; Shiv Bhakta; Mangayar Thilakam; Vijayagauri; Kathanayaki; Kaveri; Koteswaram; 1956: Madurai Veeran; Amara Deepam; Raja Rani; Kannin Manigal; Verum Pechalla; 1957: Payal; Pardesi; Qaidi; 1958: Amar Deep; Ragini; Raj Tilak; Uthama Puthran/Sitamgarh; Chadarangam; Sampoorana Ramayanam; 1959: Veerapandiya Kattaboman/Amar Shaheed; Thangapathumai; Maragatham; Daivame Thunai; Ponnun Vilayum Bhoomi; Minnal Padayali; 1960: Bindiya; Jis Desh Mein Ganga Behti Hai; Kalpana; Maya Machhindra; Ramayan; Singapore; Daiva Piravi; Meenda Sorgam; Raja Desingu; Mannathi Mannar; 1961: Ummiinthanka; Apsara; Shri Sabarimalai Shri Ayyappan; 1962: Aashiq; Meri Bahen; Rani Samyuktha; Senthamarai; Vikramadithan; 1963: Kattu Roja; Naan Vanangum Daivam; Veera Dalapathi Veluthambi; 1964: Shri Guruvayoorappan; 1965: Kalyanaphoto; Kaja; Mahabharat; 1966: Afsana; Kanakachilanka; Chitthi; Thaye Unakkaga; 1967: Aurat; Irutinte Atmavu; Pareeksha; Pooja; Pesum Daivam; Engalukam Kalamvayam; Kan Kanda Daivam; Iru Malargal; 1968: Love in Kerala; Adhyapika;

Aparadhini; Vaasna; Thillana Mohanambal; Thirumal Perumai; Kuzhandaikaka; 1969: Kumara Sambhavam; Chanda Aur Bijli; Madhavi; Nannha Farishta; Bhai Bahen; Gurudakshina; Mr Kerala(?); Adimagal; 1970: Penn Daivam; Vietnam Veedu; Aansoo Aur Muskaan; Mastana; Mera Naam Joker; Vivahitha; Vilayattu Pillai; Ethirkalam; 1972: Appa Tata; Vasantha Maligai; Maa Inti Jyothi; 1973: Veetu Mappillai; Pillai Selvam; 1974: Kadavul Mama; Thayi; Thirudi; Roshakkari; Devi Shri Karumariamman; 1975: Engalukkum Kathal Varum; Oru Kudumbathin Kathai; 1976: Ungalil Oruthi; Uzhaikum Karangal; 1977: Navarathnam; 1978: Padakkudhira; 1979: Ezham Kadalinnakkare; 1982: Chilanthivala; 1984: Nokketha Dhoorathu Kannum Nattu; 1985: Poove Poo Chooda Va; 1986: Thaikkuru Oru Thalattu; 1990: Vastuhara.

PAG see Progressive Artists Group

Pagnis, Vishnupant (1892-1943)

Professional actor on the Marathi Sangeet Natak from the age of 10; part of Kolhapur's Swadeshi Hitchantak Natak Mandali where he played the female roles of Sharada and Shakuntala in command performances for the Shahu Maharaj. Appeared in some silent Maharashtra Film movies but became known for his female roles in Mama Warkar's first play, Kunjvihari (1908), and in Tembe's Shivraj Natak where he played the heroine in the Hindi version of Siddhasansar. His style is said to have been strongly influenced by the Gujarati actor of female roles, Jaishankar Sundari. He became a music teacher in a municipal school when his stage career flagged and was a last-minute casting decision in the lead of Sant Tukaram (1936). Apparently remained under the spell of the great saint-poet whom he played. Was thereafter in some demand as a keertan singer. He did four more films, all in the Saint films genre, with Jayant Desai and Vjay Bhatt. Functioned as music director for Sant Janabai (1938). His performance as Tukaram has become a major reference-point in debates about Indian performance idioms: e.g. Kumar Shahani's essay The Saint Poets of Prabhat, 1981; Geeta Kapur's Mythic Material in Indian Cinema, 1987.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* also music d): 1921: Surekha Harar; 1924: Poona Raided; 1936: Sant Tukaram; 1938: Sant Janabai (music d only); 1939: Sant Tulsidas; 1940: Narsi Bhagat; 1943: Mahatma Vidur; Bhakta Raaj.

Painter, Baburao (1890-1954)

Marathi-Hindi director born Baburao Krishnarao Mestri in Kolhapur, into family of traditional craftsmen. Taught himself to paint (hence his name) and sculpt in academic art-school style. He and his artist cousin Anandrao Painter were, between 1910 and 1916, the leading painters of stage backdrops in Western India, doing several famous curtains for Sangeet Natak troupes (esp. Bal Gandharva and Tembe's companies) but also for Gujarati Parsee theatre. Became avid filmgoers after seeing Raja Harishchandra (1913). Perceiving its theatrical limitations, they turned to cinema, first as exhibitors (Shivaji theatre, Kolhapur) while trying to assemble their own camera. Anandrao died in 1916. Baburao and his main disciple, Damle, eventually put together a working camera in 1918. With financial support from local nobility, started Maharashtra Film with Seeta Swayamvar, although that film was later abandoned. Remained head of studio until 1932, launching many talented cineastes, including the group that later left to set up Prabhat: Damle, Fattelal and Shantaram. Resigned following Lanka, producing Prem Sangam for Anand Pics. Later ran Shalini Cinetone (1932-8). Then occasional freelance director (e.g. Lokshahir Ramjoshi on Shantaram's invitation, although Shantaram finished the film himself). Added a Marathi soundtrack to his Prem Sangam and re-released it in 1934 as his first sound film. Practised cinema as a continuation of earlier craft traditions, seen as a contribution to Swadeshi, legitimated by nationalist leader B.G. Tilak's public commendation of his achievements (1918). Developed sophisticated art direction and shooting techniques, e.g. the use of backdrops in red and yellow to register the right shades of grey on film, the manufacture of primitive filters with tinted glass, the first use of indoor electric lighting with generators, use of fades, etc. Also used costume design and art direction to relate to characters' spaces, reserving elaborate sets and design for fantasy films. Helped codify the mythological and founded the social (Savkari Pash) and the historical (Sinhagad, Baji Prabhu Deshpande) as film genres.

Vishnupant Pagnis in Sant Tukaram

FILMOGRAPHY: 1919: Congress Session in Bombay (Doc); 1920: Sairandhri, 1921: Surekha Haran, 1922: Bhagwata Bhakta Damaji, 1923: Sinhagad, Shri Krishna Aavtar, 1924: Sati Padmini, Kalyan Khajina; 1925: Shahala Shah, Rana Hamir, Maya Bazaar, Savkari Pash, 1926: Gaja Gauri, Bhakta Prahlad, 1927: Muraliwala, Sati Savitri, 1929: Baji Prabhu Deshpande, 1930: Lanka, 1932: Prem Sangam (all St); 1935: Usha, 1936: Savkari Pash, 1937: Pratibha, Sadhvi Meerabai, 1946: Rukmini Swayamvar, 1947: Lokshahir Ramjoshi/Matwala Shayar Ramjoshi, 1952: Vishwamitra, 1953: Mahajan.

Pal, Niranjana (1889-1959)

Director and scenarist born in Calcutta. Son of nationalist leader Bipin Chandra Pal. Participated marginally in early youth in terrorist action around Calcutta (1908). Sent to Marseilles and to London where he lived until 1929. Met Veer Savarkar, leader of the extreme right-wing Hindu Mahasabha, and was linked with the assassination of William Hutt Curzon Wyllie (achieved at the Imperial Institute in London on 1 July 1909). In London, worked with the Natural Color Kinematograph Co. (1913); wrote short stories, plays and sold several scripts such as Faith of a Child (F. Martin Thornton, 1915) and A Gentleman of Paris (Sinclair Hill, 1931), based on his own novel His Honour the Judge. Started Indian Players group and staged plays like Bluebottle and The Goddess. Met Himansu Rai, an actor in The Goddess, and discussed making Prem Sanyas (1925). Pal claims in his unpublished memoirs, Such is Life, that the film was his idea as well as his script. Collaborated as scenarist on all Himansu Rai's silent productions (Shiraz, 1928; Prapancha Pash, 1929). Revived Indian Players and The Goddess on stage in Calcutta with participation of Premankur Atorthy, Modhu Bose and Charu Roy. His play Zarina, staged by Bose's Calcutta Amateur Players, was later filmed by Ezra Mir (1932). Made promotional films for a French motor car company and Imperial Tobacco, exhibited with Chaplin films in tent shows around Calcutta (1930-3). Made newsreels for Aurora called Aurora Screen

News (1938-42) and occasional features for Aurora, including the children's film Hatekhari. Rejoined Rai at Bombay Talkies (1934-7) as chief scenarist and wrote some of the studio's biggest hits (Jeevan Naiya and Achhut Kanya, both 1936; Izzat and Savitri, both 1937). Made documentaries for Punjab government and worked in the Film Advisory Board as chief scriptwriter (1942). Also wrote the story of Modhu Bose's Khyber Falcon (1932) and Jayant Desai's Qatil Katari (1931).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1930: Naseeb Ni Balihari; 1931: Sui Ka Naka, Pardesia, Pujari; 1932: Dardi (all St); 1939: Hatekhari, Amma; 1940: Suktara, Ditiya Path; 1941: Rashpurnima, Chitthi, Brahman Kanya; 1951: Bodhodaya.

Pal ekar, Amol (b. 1944)

Actor and director born in Bombay, where he attended the J. J. School of Arts (1965). Noted director on Marathi experimental stage with Satyadev Dubey (1968-72) and with his own Aniket group set up in 1972, e.g. Sadanand Rege's Gochee (1972) and Badal Sircar's Juloos (1975). Introduced theatre of the absurd in Maharashtra and a street theatre-inspired practice of performing plays in the round. Employed as bank clerk in Bombay when he was cast as actor by Basu Chatterjee in Rajanigandha (1974), which led to many parts in middle-class comedies, usually as the blundering lover. Also known for his remarkable performance as the scheming Rahul in Kumar Shahani's epic melodrama Tarang. Was a well-known Bengali star after he did Narayan Chakraborty's Mother, followed by Dinen Gupta's Kalankini and Abasheshe and Pinaki Choudhury's Chena Achena. Also starred in one Malayalam film, Balu Mahendra's Azhiyada Kolangal. Became director with Marathi film Aakriet, casting himself as a psychotic serial killer. Directed two more films, Ankahee and Thodasa Rumani Ho Jaye, and several TV serials.

FILMOGRAPHY (* also d/ only d): 1971: Shantata! Court Chalu Aahe, Bajiravacha Beta; 1974: Rajanigandha; 1975: Chhotisi Baat; 1976: Chit Chor, Tuch Majhi Rani, Bhumika; 1977: Kanneshwara Rama, Agar, Taxi Taxi, Safed Jhooth, Gharonda; 1978: Damaad, Do Ladke Dono Kadke, Solva Sawar; 1979: 22 June 1897, Baaton Baaton Meir, Golmaal, Meri Biwi Ki Shaadi, Mother, Azhiyada Kolangal; 1980: Apne Paraye, Chehre Pe Chehra, Aanchal; 1981: *Aakriet; Naram Garam, Plot No. 5, Sameera; Kalankini, Agni Pareeksha; 1982: Jeevan Dhara, Ramnagari, Shriman Shrimati, Olangal, Sringara Masa; 1983: Rang Birangi, Chena Achena, Pyaasi Aankher, Nirvana; 1984: Prarthana, *Ankahee, Ashray, Tarang; Admi Aur Aurat, Mr X, Saleysaab (TV); 1985: Abashashe, Khamosh; 1986: Baat Ban Jaye, Jhoothi; 1987: *Kachhi Dhoop (TV); 1988: *Naqab (TV); 1989: Fitness for Fun, *Fitness for Everyone (Doc); 1990: *Thodasa Rumani Ho Jaye; 1991: *Mrignayani (TV); 1993: *Paoolkhuna (TV); 1995: *Bangarwadi; 1996: *Daera.

Pal it, Nitai (b. 1923)

Best-known Oriya director, born in Cuttack. Playwright and theatrical producer; vice-president of the IPTA's Utkal branch. Started in film as actor (Vinay Bannerjee's Amari Gaan Jhua, 1953), then directed Kedar Gouri, a tragic love story. Broke through with Malajanha, based on Upendra Das's novel, featuring the Oriya star Jharana Das. Admires the Bengali masters Ray, Ghatak and Sen.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1954: Kedar Gouri (also act); 1956: Bhai Bhai; 1959: Maa; 1965: Malajanha; 1968: Kie Kahara; 1969: Bandhan (O); 1972: Dharitri; 1974: Mana Akasha; 1976: Krishna Sudama; 1977: Bandhu Mohanty; 1980: Anuraag; 1981: Kiye Jite Kiye Hare.

Pancholi, Dal suk M. (1906-59)

Hindi director. Exhibitor and Punjabi-Hindi producer born in Karachi. Studied scriptwriting and cinematography in New York. Inherited cinema network built by Rewashankar Pancholi during WW1. Expanded Empire Film Distributors (1922) into Empire Talkie Distributors (1931), established in Lahore and the largest importer of American films in Northern and Western India (approx 24 films annually). Exclusive contract with RKO gave them access to Photophone sound equipment. Made some documentaries, including footage on the Karachi Congress session (1931). Entered film production relatively late, but early productions in Punjabi (Gul-e-Bakavali, 1939, Yamla Jat, 1940) and Hindi (Khazanchi, 1941) were instrumental in bringing Lahore's film industry into the national mainstream. Built his studio Pancholi Art Pics in Lahore with five floors but abandoned everything to migrate to Bombay following Partition (1946), apparently taking only the negative of his unfinished film, Patjhad (1948). For some years his team of film-makers (e.g. Gidwani and Ravindra Dave), actors (Ramola, Nurjehan, Smriti Biswas, Om Prakash, etc.) and composers (Ghulam Haider, O.P. Nayyar) were very influential in shaping a hybrid mass cultural film formula for a growing migrant working class in North India. Usually credited himself for his productions' stories and scripts.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1952: Aasmaan.

Pande, Vinod

Hindi director. Worked in London where he had an advertising agency, Image Enterprises, for which he made two documentaries, several commercials and the first Hindi film made entirely in the UK, Ek Baar Phir. Also worked for AIR and as newsreader for the BBC. Made Star, an attempt to work in the Barbra Streisand-style musical.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1979: Ek Baar Phir; 1982: Yeh Nazdeekiyan; Star; 1988: Ek Naya Rishta; 1989: Sach; 1994: Reporter (TV).

PANDHARIBAI (B. 1930)

Kannada cinema's first film heroine. Her early work was mainly in Company Natak-derived mythologicals by Simha and Kemparaj Urs. Also on the Tamil stage with S.V. Sahasranamam (e.g. Seva Samaja). Became a front-line star when she featured opposite Rajkumar in Bedara Kannappa, one of Kannada cinema's earliest successes. Sant Sakhu, the first film of her own Shri Panduranga Prod., emphasised her 'progressive' image as a woman assuming the burdens of a feudal patriarchy, an image continued by e.g. Rayara Sose and by her films with G.V. Iyer and T.V. Singh Thakore. It is exemplified by the seminal DMK Film Parasakti, where she became the voice of C.N. Annadurai's political philosophy. Bellimoda was a key moment for her later mother image: most unusually for the stereotype, she gives birth to a male heir in the story, triggering an inheritance crisis for the heroine. Her later films establish her as South Indian cinema's counterpart to Nirupa Roy's many mother roles (e.g. Ramrajyadalli Rakshasaru), although after 1985 her roles began diminishing.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1943: Vani; 1947: Bhakta Gora Kumbhara; 1951: Raja Vikrama; Marmayogi/Ek Tha Raja; Babar; 1952: Parasakti; 1953: Gunasagari; Gumasta; Poongothai/Paradesi; 1954: Bedara Kannappa; Manohara; 1955: Bhakta Mallikarjuna; Sant Sakhu; Sodari; Vadina; 1956: Bhakta Vijaya; Hari Bhakta; Renuka Mahatme; Kuladativam; 1957: Rayara Sose; Sati Nalayini; Bhabhi; 1958: Panchayat; Anbu Engay; 1959: Chand; Pathirai Matru Thangam; Nattukoru Nallavan; Alli Petra Pillai; Naalu Veli Neelam; Aval Yar; Engal Kula Daiyi; Abba! A Hudgi; Grihalakshmi; Paigham; 1960: Bhakta Shabari; Thanthaikupin Thamayan; Anbukkor Anni; Kurvanji; Ivan Avaneethan; Raja Bhakti; Pavai Vilakku; 1962: Tejaswini; Indra En Selvam; Punithavathk?; 1963: Shri Ramanjaneya Yuddha; 1964: Navajeevana; Annapurna; Muriyada Mane; Pratigne; Pathiye Daiva; Shri Guruvayoorappan; 1965: Satya Harishchandra; Mabasati Anusya; Bettada Huli; Chandrabasa; CID; 1966: Shri Kannika Parameshwari Katha; Sandhya Raga; Laadla; Motor Sundaram Pillai; 1967: Anuradha; Bellimoda; Shri Purandaradasaru; Premalopramadam; Punyavati; 1968: Amma; Paala Manasulu; Pudhitya Bboomit; 1969: Suvarnabhoomi; Odabuttidavaru; Madhura Milana; Namma Makkalu; Bhagirathi; Manashanti; Chowkada Deepa; Nannha Farishta; Nam Naadu; 1970: Aparajithe; Mooru Muttugal; Bhale Jodi; Namma Mane; Gejje Poofe; 1971: Anugraha; Namma Baduku; Pratidhwani; Mahadimane; Rakhwala; Ganga Tera Pani Amrit; Bhale Rani; Bandhavaya; 1972: Janma Rahasya; Hridayasangama; Bandagi; Rivaaji; Shebzada; Sampoorna Ramayanam; Ranganana Sabatham; Nijam Nripustha; Kodaldu Pilla; Pandanti Kapuram; Matbru Murthi; Marapurani Talli; Daiva Sankalpam; Thavaputhalvan; Aval; Annamitta Kai; Vasantha Maligai; Dbakam; 1973: Nee Ulla Varai; Gauravam; Neramu Siksha; Vaade

Veedu; Stree Gauravam; Palletoori Chinnodu; Hemareddy Mallamma; 1974: Peddalu Marali; Ramaiah Thandri; Devadasu; Krisbnaveni; Thirumangalyam; Gumastavin Magal; Onne Onnu Kanne Kannu; Netru Indru Nalati; Patha Poojai; Thayi Pirandhal; Avalum Penn Thaane; Alluri Seetaramaraju; 1975: Doctor Siva; Ibbayakkani; Pallandhu Vazhga; Pattikatu Raja; Padmaragam; Asbi Kosam; Anna Dammula Katha; Katha Nayakuni Katha; Moguda Pellamma; Ruttinti Gauravam; Raktha Sambandhalu; Ramuni Minchina Ramudu; Santhanam Saubhagyam; Tbota Ramudu; 1976: America Ammayi; Bangaru Manishi; Maa Daivam; Manavadi Kosam; Muthyala Pallaki; Neram Nadhikadu Akalidi; Raju Vedale; Seetamma Santhanam; Swami Drohulu; Mugiyada Kathe; Colonel and Collector; Athirishatam Azhaikkirathu; Avan Oru Charitram; Etharkum Thuninbavan; Lalitha; Muthana Muthallava; Perum Pukazhum; Uthaman; Uzbaikum Karangal; Bhadrakali; 1977: Aaru Pushpangal; Indru Pol Endrum Vazhga; Palabhisekham; Punitba Anthoniar; Punniyam Seithaval; Thaliya Salangaiya; Thani Kudithanam; Uyarthavargal; Dongalaku Donga; Eenati Bandham Yenatido; Geetha Sangeetha; Janma Janmala Bandham; Maa Iddari Katha; Oke Raktam; Seeta Rama Vanavasam; 1978: Devadas; Bandhithiputi Mutha; Dongala Veta; Dudubasavanna; Kalanthakulu; Lambadolla Ramadasu; Lauyer Vishwanath; Moodu Puuvulu Aaru Kayalu; Nindu Manishi; Prema Chesina Pelli; Sahasavanthudu; Sommokadidhi Sokokadidhi; Suvaraseema; Kamatchiyin Karunai; Kumkumam Kadhai Solgiradhu; Makkal Kural; Oru Veedu Oru Ulagam; Chadarangam; Taxi Driver; Unakkum Vazhvu Varum; Vazhthungal; 1979: Vetagadu; Kadamai Nenjam; Naan Vazhavippen; Buripalem Bullodu; Dongalaku Savai; Hema Hemeelu; Priya Bandhavai; Sankhu Teertham; Shringara Ramudu; 1980: Jyoti Bane Jwala; Mother; Guru; Naan Potta Savai; Oru Iravu Oru Paravai; Pennukku Yar Kaval; Raman Parashuraman; Triloka Sundari; Yamanukku Yaman; Bangaru Lakshmi; Dharma Chakram; Kiladi Krishnudu; Kothapeda Rowdy; Mr Rajanikant; Sardar Paparayudu; Superman; Gajadonga; 1981: Chhaya; Keralida Simha; Antha; Main Aur Mera Hath; Kanneer Pookal; Rama Lakshman; Sathyam Sundaram; Chattaniki Kallulevu; Daari Thappinte Manishi; Ramakrishnamanuli; Taxi Driver; 1982: Ajit; Chelisuva Modagalu; Thyagi; Kalavari Samsaram; Radha My Darling; Vayyari Bhamulu Vagalamaru Bharthulu; 1983: Adadani Savai; Amarajeevi; Amayakudu Kadhu Asadhyyudu; Dharma Poratam; Kaliyuga Daivam; Koteeshwarudu; Lalitha; Mayagadu; Palletoori Pidugu; Pralaya Garjanai; Raghu Ramudu; Shri Ranganeethulu; Ennaiyar En Azbagai Paar; Malargalile Aval Malligal; Ragangal Maruvathillai; Saatchi; Sasthi Viratam; Vellai Roja; 1984: Vetri; Amayakudu Kadu Aggi Bharothalu; Ilthe Naa Savai; Naga Bhairava; Vasantha Geetam; 1985: Ragile Gundelu; Andha Oru Nimidam; Arthamulla Asaigal; Jhansi Rani; Ketti Malam; Mel Maruvathur Adi Parasakti; Pudhu Yugam; Shri Raghavendrar; Hosa Neeru; Nyayada Kannu; 1986: Henne Ninagenu Bandhana; Anuragha

Aralithu; 1987: Beralge Korai; Karunamayi; Aaseya Bale; Shruti Seridaga; 1988: Vijaya Khadga; Shri Venkateshwara Mahime; 1989: Ondagi Baalu; Avatara Purusha; Indrajit; Samsara Nauka; Yaru Hone; 1990: Ramrajyadalli Rakshasaru; 1993: Vasantha Purnima; Manikanta Mahime; 1994: Kuntiputra; Halunda Thavaru; Mahashakti Maye.

PANTHULU, BUDUGURRAMAKRISHNAIAH (1911-74)

Kannada director and actor also associated with Tamil and Telugu theatre. Born in Budugur, AP. Studied in Madras. Worked as schoolteacher, apparently using this experience to make his best-known film, the social School Master. Simultaneously acted in several plays, eventually turning professional actor with the Chandrakala Nataka Sabha (1932) in productions including Samsara Nauka, Sadarame, Gul-e-Bakavali, etc. Worked with Veeranna in plays Asha Pasha and Shri Krishna Garudi. Then started his own stage company, Kala Seva Mandali, in partnership with stage (later film) actor Dikki Madhava Rao. Joined films when Devi Films, Madras, commissioned H.L.N. Simha to adapt Chandrakala's stage hit Samsara Nauka. Partnered music maestro T.R. Mahalingam in a stage company that later became Sukumar Prod. with P. Pullaiah's Macbarekhai. Started Padmini Pics with writer-publisher P. Neelakantan (first film: Kalyanam Panniyum Brahmchari); later became the company's sole proprietor. First film as director, Ratnagiri Rahasya, was a hit. Films usually continued the Chandrakala Sabha's anti-mythological emphasis on social relevance. Made some spectacular period films with Sivaji Ganesan, e.g. Veerapandiya Kattaboman, Kappalotiya Thamizban, Karnan. The Kurukshetra battle scenes of Karnan were shot at Jaipur with troops of the 61st Cavalry regiment, using 80 elephants, 400 horses and three camera units. Made 12 Tamil films, some featuring MGR (e.g. the hit Nadodi and the spectacular Ayirathil Oruvan, in which MGR plays a pirate who leads galleon slaves to an anti-British insurrection). Best-known films are lower-budget socials claiming realist values inspired by B.N. Reddi. Panthulu remade School Master in Tamil; Puttanna Kanagal then remade it again in Malayalam. Kanagal, who was his assistant, developed this genre into a brand of psychological melodrama. Panthulu's films often starred M.V. Rajamma.

FILMOGRAPHY ( also act/* act only):

1936: *Samsara Nauka; *Raja Bhakti; 1940: *Daana Shura Karna; *Tilottama; 1941: *Bhaktimala; 1943: *Radha Ramana; 1944: *Tebisildar; 1946: *Vijayalakshmi; *Lavangi; 1947: *Nam Iruvar; 1948: *Bhakta Jana; *Samsara Nauka; 1950: *Macbarekhai; 1953: *Ammalaku/Marumagal; 1954: *Kalyanam Panniyum Brahmchari; 1955: *Modalatedi/Mudhal Thedi; *Shivasarane Nambekka; *Vadina; 1957: *Ratnagiri Rahasya/Tangamalai Rahasyam; 1958: *School Master/Badi Pantalu; Engal

Kudumbam Parisu, Shabash Meena, 1959: Veerapandiya Kattaboman/Amar Shabeeed; Abba! A Hudgi; Shabash Pilla, 1960: Sangaili Thevan, Makkala Rajya/Pillalu Technina Chhallani Rajyam/Kuzhudaigal Kanda Kudiyarasu, 1961: Kappalotiya Thamizhan; Kittur Chanamma Rani Cbanamma, 1962: *Galigopura/Gali Medalu; Dil Tera Diwana, Bhale Pandian; 1963: Saaku Magalu/Pempudu Koothuru; 1964: *Chinnada Gombel/Muradban Mutbu; Karnan/Karna/Daanveer Karna, 1965: Ayirathil Oruvan; Katha Nayakudu Katha, 1966: Enga Papa, Nadodi, Nammaveeti Lakshmi, *Dudde Doddappa; Emme Thamanna, 1967: Gange Gauri, Beedhi Basavanna, 1968: *Chinnari Puttana, *Amma; Rahasiya Police 115, 1969: Gandodu Hennaru; 1970: Sbri Krishnadevaraya; Tbedi Vantha Mappillai, 1971: Aliya Geleya, *Malathi Madhava; 1972: Ondu Hennina Kathe; 1973: Ganga Gauri, School Master.

PARANJPE, RAJA (1910-79)

Prolific Marathi actor and genre director born in Miraj, Maharashtra. Started as organ player and bit actor in Natyamanwantar productions Andhalyanchi Shala (1933) and Lapandav. A protégé of Keshavrao Date, obtained an acting role in Painter's remake of Saukari Pash. Became known as comedy actor. Assisted and acted in films by Bhalji Pendharkar (Kanhopatra, Gorakbmath, Sunbai) and Master Vinayak productions. Directorial début in 1948. Strongly influenced by Vinayak's screenplay-dominated prose melodrama and socials. Regular collaborators on his films were scenarist-lyricist Madgulkar and music director Sudhir Phadke. Claimed that the bulk of his work was vinodi, not vidushaki (based on literate humour rather than folk clowning), a claim exemplified by the comedy Lakhachi Goshta. The rest were kautumbik, i.e. morality tales of everyday life: demonstrated by films like Oon Paos and Pedgaonche Shabane. Unlike Datta Dharmadhikari cathartic weepies, Paranjpe shared Khandekar's strong commitment to a social morality and to the use of cinematic plotting as a means of creating exemplary characters. By the mid-60s, the Tamasha-derived musical comedies of e.g. Anant Mane and Kondke had displaced both idioms by addressing larger audiences than the urban middle class to which Paranjpe restricted himself. Though he resisted pressures to blur the distinctions, his disciple Rajdutt managed to do so successfully. Autobiography excerpted in Rudravani (1975).

✦ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d/ only d): 1936: Saukari Pash; 1937: Kanhopatra; Pratibha; 1938: Dbruva Kumar; 1940: Gorakbmath/Alakb Niranjan; 1942: Sunbai, Tuzbach; 1943: Ladaai Ke Baad, Naya Tarana; 1944: Swarna Bhoomi, Panna, Pundalik; 1945: Din Raat; 1946: Room Number Nine, Sasurvas; 1947: Karasthan; 1948: *Balidani Do Kaliyan; *Jivacha Sakha; 1949: Jaga Bhadyane Dene Aabe, Main Abla Nahin

Hoon; 1950: *Jara Japoon; Pudhcha Paool; Var Pabije; 1951: Jasbaas Tase, Parijataki/Sbri Krishna Satyabhama; 1952: Lakhachi Goshta; Pedgaonche Shabane; Akher Jamla; Stree Janma Hi Tujhi Kabani; 1953: Bolavita Dhani; *Chacha Choudhury; 1954: Oon Paos; Een Meen Sadeteen; Ovalani; Pursbachi Jaat; 1955: Rainaghar; *Ganget Ghoda Nbala; 1956: *Andhala Magto Ek Dola; *Deoghar; *Gaath Padli Thaka Thaka; *Pasant Aabe Mulgi; 1958: Punarjanma; 1959: *Baap Bete; 1960: Jagachya Pathivar; 1961: *Adbi Kalas Mag Paya; *Suvasini; 1962: *Sonyachi Paole; Baikocha Bhau; Kshan Aala Bhagyacha; 1963: Bandini; Te Mazhe Ghar; *Baiko Maberii Jaate; Ha Mazha Marg Ekala; 1964: Pathlaag; 1965: *Padchaya; 1966: *Gurukilli; *Love And Murder; 1967: *Kaka Mala Vachva; Madhuchandra; Santha Vabate Krishnamai; 1968: Yethe Shabane Rahataat; Preet Shikva Mala; 1969: *Adbaar; Aparadb; 1971: Jal Bin Machbhi Nriya Bin Bijli; Tithe Nandate Lakshmi; 1972: Piya Ka Ghar; 1973: Nasti Uthathev; Varbadi Ani Vajantri; 1974: Us Paar; 1975: Preet Tujhi Majhi; Shantata! Khoon Jhala Aabe; Ya Sukhano Ya; 1979: The Gold Medal.

PARANJPYE, SAI (B. 1936)

Hindi director born to Russian/Marathi parents in Lucknow into an illustrious family associated with social reform movements (cf. Shakuntala Paranjpe's role in Shantaram's Kunku/Duniya Na Mane, 1937). Educated in Australia where her grandfather was High Commissioner. Published collection of fairy tales in Marathi when 8 years old. Well-known Marathi playwright and stage director, famous for spoofs on middle-class Maharashtrian conservatism, and for her children's plays. Introduced the stage revue form (e.g. Nanda Saukhyia Bhare, Sakkbe Shejari) into Marathi theatre. Started directing for TV (1965), then in charge of CFS productions (1974-5). Producer for Doordarshan in early 70s. Films offer moral tales (Katha), situated in Bombay's middle class, is based on the story of the hare and the tortoise) spiced with comedy routines. Translated the TV script of Sparsb into a film released in 1984. With the commercialisation of Doordarshan in the mid-80s, has concentrated mainly on independent TV serials, e.g. Ados Pados.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1972: The Little Tea Shop (TV); 1973: Jadu Ka Shankb; 1975: Begaar (Sh); 1976: Sikandar, Dabcherry Milk Project (Doc); 1977: Captain Laxmi (Sh); 1978: Freedom from Fear (Doc); 1979: Sparsb; 1981: Chashme Buddoor; Books that Talk (Doc); 1982: Katha; 1985: Ados Pados (TV serial); Chbote Bade (TV); 1988: Angootha Chhaap (Sh); 1990: Disba; 1993: Chudiyani; Papeeha.

PARSEE THEATRE

Commercial theatre movement sponsored by the Parsees, Zoroastrian traders of Persian origin who settled largely on India's Western coast. Traditionally involved in shipbuilding and shipping, by the early 19th C. they were the dominant mercantile community (mainly as traders and brokers) in the Bombay Presidency in collaboration with the British Free Traders (cf. A. Guha, 1970). By the mid-19th C. they had become India's first commercial bourgeoisie, going into banking and setting up the Bombay Chamber of Commerce (1836). The Bombay Theatre, built in 1776 as a copy of London's Drury Lane and performing English plays mainly for British soldiers and East India Co. bureaucrats, was bought in 1835 by Sir Jamsheedjee Jeejeebhoy who also set up the Sir J. J. School of Arts in 1857. In 1846, the Grant Road Theatre came to prominence under the businessman Jagannath Shankarshet, staging plays in English, then in Marathi, Gujarati and Hindi, performed mainly by Parsee amateur troupes (the first professional company was Kaikushroo Kabraji's Victoria, Est: 1868). Recent work emphasises Kabraji's seminal role in this period, when he staged Ranchhodhbhai Udayram's Raja Harishchandra. The play subsequently yielded landmark adaptations into Urdu (Vinayak Prasad 'Talib', 1884; cf. Raja Harishchandra, 1917) and Hindi (Bhartendu, 1885). Other important figures incl. playwrights Eduljee Khori, who popularised the Urdu language among the Parsee repertoires, Nusserwanji Khansaheb 'Arman' and Dhanjibhai Naoroji Patel, who wrote the opera Rustom Sobrab. Many of the plays merged diverse influences from Persian lyric poetry (Firdausi's Shahnama), deploying themes of heroism and love legends (Sbirin Farbad), with local folk forms. Its dominant language combined a rhetorical prose with musical forms such as Thumri, Dadra and Jhinjhoti sung in Brijbhasha, a hybrid form with roots in the play Indrasabha by Syed Aga Hasan 'Amanat' (1852) at Wajid Ali Shah's court in Lucknow (see Indrasabha, 1932). Another big influence which migrated via the Parsee theatre into regional stage traditions like the Sangeet Natak, the Kannada/Tamil Company Natak and the Bengali Calcutta Theatres was the European opera. By the 1890s the troupes employed full-time writers; copyright legalities began to be established and groups started publishing plays as well as building their own theatres, almost all of which later switched to film. Parsee mercantile capital underpinned India's entertainment industry until the 1930s and substantially founded the early film distribution infrastructure (see Madan Theatres) together with at least three major silent and sound studios: Imperial Film, Minerva Movietone and Wadia Movietone. Major theatre groups included the Parsee Stage Players (Est: 1853) with Dadabhai Naoroji as chief patron; the Victoria Co. (Est: 1867, which built the Victoria Theatre in 1868 later bought by Madan); the Elphinstone Dramatic Club (Est: 1863); the Zoroastrian Theatrical Club (Est: 1866); the Empress Victoria Natak Mandali (1876) with major shareholding by Lalsingh Dulhasingh of Delhi; the Alfred Co. (1871) which split into the Parsee Alfred and New Alfred companies and built the Tivoli Theatre in Bombay. Calcutta was dominated by Madan Theatres with the Corinthian Theatre as the , showpiece and the Parsee Imperial and Elphinstone companies. By the turn of the century, there were groups in Karachi (e.g. New Shining Star), Jodhpur, Agra, Aligarh, Hyderabad, Meerut, Lucknow and Lahore. Major playwrights include Aga Hashr Kashmiri, Narayan Prasad Betaab, Radheshyam Kathavachak and Ahsan Lucknowi. The dominant genres of the Parsee theatre were the historical, the romantic melodrama and the mythological, with a major influence being the 17th C. Elizabethan theatre, esp. via translations and adaptations of Shakespeare, a tradition that fed into film through Kashmiri's scripts and Sohrab Modi and Prithviraj Kapoor's films. The Anglophile Parsee repertoire's 'classicism', comparable to 'academic' naturalism in the visual arts, substantially determined the transformation of classical and popular music into urban stage (and later recording) modes, a transition assimilated into the early sound cinema.

PATANKAR, SHRI NATH (?-1941)

Pioneer producer-director-cameraman with an impact on early Indian film equivalent to Phalke's. Fragments of biographical information suggest that he was born in the early 1880s and became a still photographer who bought a film camera from Bhatavdekar and filmed the great Delhi Durbar (1911) also shot by Hiralal Sen, Madan Theatres and others. Started Patankar Union in partnership with V.P. Divekar and A.P. Karandikar (1913) and made some films mainly to raise funds. They were helped by nationalist leader Lokmanya Tilak, who persuaded financiers Bhagwandas Chaturbhuj and Dharamdas Narayandas to invest in the company. His second feature, Narayanrao Peshwa, is almost certainly India's first historical. The company only took off in 1917 with the entry of Dwarkadas Sampat into Patankar-Friends & Co. Films made 1918-20, usually scripted by Mohanlal Dave, prepared the emergence of the Kohinoor Studio. Following Sampat's exit (1920), Patankar started a third studio, National Film (1922), financed by Thakurdas Vakil and Harilal, and then a fourth, Pioneer Film financed by Vazir Haji, which was also the parent company of the Excelsior Studio. His historicals and mythologicals were among the most professionally made films before the studio era (pre-1925). With the transformation of Pioneer into the Excelsior Studio, freelanced for a while as cameraman and art director in Bombay. Shot all the films he directed.

✚ FILMOGRAPHY: 1912: Savitri; 1913: Jaimini and Vyas; 1915: The Death of Narayanrao Peshwa; 1916: Prabhad Charitra; 1918: Raja Shriyal; Ram Vanvas; 1919: Kacha Devayani; Kabir Kamal; Narasimb Avatar; 1920: Sati Madalasa; Shakuntala; Seeta Suayamwar; Vichitra Gutika; Katorabhar Khoon; 1922: Bhakta Bodana; Jadunath; Karna; King Bhartrahari; Mahashweta Kadambari; Kalidas; Sati Anjani; Shri Markandeya Avatar; 1923: Durvas Shaap; Guru Machbindranath; Krishna Satyabhama; Ranakdevi; Sati Veermati; Shri Dnyaneshwar; Shri Krishna Bhakta Peepaji; Vanraj Chavdo; Videhi Janak; Vaman Avatar; 1924: Karan Ghelo; 1926: Abola Rani (?); Chatra Bakavali; Dorangi Duniya; Kacha Devayani; Manovijaya; Paanch Mahabhoos; Satyavijaya (all St).

PATEKAR, NANA (B. 1951)

Hindi/Marathi actor, originally Vishwanath Patekar, born in Murud-Janjira, Maharashtra. Studied at the J. J. School of Arts and performed menial jobs while acting in amateur theatre with the Avishkar group in Vijay Tendulkar's Pabije Jatiche (1976) and other plays, such as Jaywant Dalvi's controversial political drama Purush. Became the model 90s 'anti-hero', emphasising his background as a cynical, streetwise member of the underclass (e.g. in Mehul Kumar's films) attacking political and cultural hypocrisy. Following the success of N. Chandra's Ankush, often played the local working-class misfit, extending the localised realism of 70s New Indian Cinema into dangerously simplified and polarised representations of conflicts with 'outsiders' (e.g. his own Prahaar and Kumar's Krantiveer).

✚ FILMOGRAPHY: 1978: Gaman; 1979: Sinhasan; 1980: Bhulu; 1981: Nagin; 1982: Avbaan; 1983: Raghumaina; Savitri; 1984: Aaj Ki Awaaz; Giddh; 1985: Ankush; Gad Jejuri Jejuri; 1986: Nasamajb; Sutradhar; Maphicha Sakshidar; Phaansi Ka Phanda; 1987: Aaj Ka Robin Hood; Awaam; Pratighaat; Sheela; Mohre; 1988: Andha Yudh; Sagar Sangam; Salaam Bombay; Trishagni; 1989: Karam Kasauti; Parinda; Suryodaya; 1990: Thodasa Rumani Ho Jaye; Disha; 1991: Prahaar (also d.); Deeksha; 1992: Angar; Tiranga; Raju Ban Gaya Gentleman; 1994: Krantiveer; Abhay; 1995: Hum Dono.

Nana Patekar in Krantiveer (1994)

PATEL, JABBAR (B. 1942)

Marathi film director and paediatrician. Born in Pandharpur, Maharashtra. Together with his wife, a gynaecologist, runs a clinic in Daund near Pune. Founded the best-known Marathi experimental theatre group, Theatre Academy. Landmark stage production of Vijay :

Tendulkar's play Ghashiram Kotwal (1972). Also adapted Brecht's Threepenny Opera (Teen Paisbacha Tamasha, 1974) to the stage in Marathi, using rock music and conventions from Hindi commercial cinema. His films, often scripted by Tendulkar (e.g. Saamna, Sinbasan), rely on topical political references and theatrical acting styles. Best-known feature is Umbartha, representing Smita Patil's most renowned screen performance.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1975: Saamna; 1977: Jait Re Jait; 1979: Sinbasan; 1981: Umbartha/ Subab; 1986: Musafir, Maharashtra (Doc); 1987: Mi SM (Doc); 1988: Indian Theatre (Doc); Pathik (Doc); 1989: Lakshman Joshi (Doc); 1990: Sea Forts (Doc); 1991: Dr Babasaheb Ambedkar (Doc); 1992: Ek Hota Vidushak; 1994: Mukta.

PATHY, P. V. (1906-61)

Born in Madras as Pithamandalam Venkatachalapathy. Major documentarist; originator of ethnographic film-making which developed into a politically relevant mode of pseudo-historical films associated with Films Division. Wrote thesis on The Contemporary Theatre of the Andhras (1927). Studied at the Sorbonne (1933) where he met Indologists : Sylvain Lévy and Louis Renou. Later, at the : école Technique de Photographie et : Cinématographie (ETPC) in Paris, he made : some shorts apparently influenced by : Cavalcanti. Travelled in North Africa with : American explorer Horace Ashton. Indian : correspondent for Universal News and British Paramount News, filming e.g. the Quetta : Earthquake (1935). Collaborated with Wadia Movietone on India's first newsreel series sponsored by the Film Advisory Board, the Indian Screen Gazette (1938), including a 3-reeler on the historic Haripura Congress. Cameraman for A.K. Chettiar's seminal documentary on Gandhi (Mahatma Gandhi Vazbkai, 1940), reissued in 1948 and sometimes credited to Pathy. Set up Motion Picture Society of India with K.S. Hirlekar and D.G. Tendulkar. War effort films for Information Films of India and Naval Gandhi's Directorate of Services Kinematography. Assisted and did camerawork for Paul Zils in several documentaries. He was one of the two film-makers who filmed the transfer of power to the Indian government at midnight, 15 August 1947; later worked with his own production unit. All his films are shorts and/or documentaries. Biography by Jag Mohan (1972).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1934: Paris by Night; Colonial Exposition: Paris; 1938: Indian Screen Gazette; 1940: He's in the Navy Now; The Planes of Hindustan; 1941: In Self Defence; 1942: The Golden Grain of Bharatkband; 1943: Home Front; 1946: Along the Jumna; 1954: The Golden River; 1956: The Etawah Story; Earth and Water; 1957: Shipyards to Seaways; Look to the Sky; 1958: Bases of Progress; 1960: Pen to People.

PATIL, DINKAR DATTAJI RAO (B. 1915)

Successful Marathi director-producer born in Belgaum near Kolhapur, Maharashtra. Assistant to Master Vinayak (1941-8). Started as director by completing Mandir following Vinayak's death. Set up Sural Chitra (1952) with Lata Mangeshkar and Shinde; then founded his own Dinkar Chitra (1953). Famous for work in the gramini chitrapat genre, rural blood and gore dramas with vendetta motifs, evil moneylenders or zamindars, poor peasant heroes, demure housewives, Tamasha dancing-girls, etc. Written usually by himself or with scenarist-lyricist G.D. Madgulkar, the films mark both an economic and a cultural shift in addressing a specifically Marathi audience, and in constructing an imaginary Marathi countryside which appears to resemble the Vidarbha region in the state. Prolific writer for other film-makers (e.g. Madhav Shinde, Datta Keshav). Wrote several plays, a biography of Master Vinayak (1971) and an autobiography, Patlacha Por (1986). Script credits include, in addition to most of his own films: Jai Malbar (1947); Mayecha Pazbar (1952); Vadal (1953); Shiklile Baiko (1959); Pancharati (1960); Bhintila Kan Astaat (1962); Sudharlelya Baika (1965); Patlachi Soon (1966); Pathcha Bhau (1967); Janaki (1969); Murali Malbari Rayachi (1969); Pathrakbin (1972); Soon Ladki Hya Gharchi (1972); Kartiki (1974); Jyotibacha Navas (1975); Netaji Palkar (1978); Darodekhor (1980); Patleen (1981); Mosambi Narangi (1981); Chorachya Manaati Chandana (1984).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1948: Mandir; 1950: Ram Ram Pabuna; 1951: Sharada; Patlacha Por; 1952: May Babini; 1953: Gharbar; 1954: Taraka; 1955: Muthbhar Chane, Kuladaivat; 1956: Dista Tasa Nasta; 1957: Dev Jaga Aabe; Navara Mbanu Naye Aapla; 1960: Bhairavi; Umaj Padel Tar; 1961: Majhi Aai; 1962: Varadaakshina; Baap Mazha Brabmachari; Prem Anbala Asta; 1965: Kama Purta Mama; Malbari Martand; 1967: Suranga Mbhantyat Mala; 1968: Dhanya Te Santaji Dhanaji; 1970: Kali Baiko; Kortachi Pairi; 1971: Adbikar; Mibi Manoosach Aabe; 1972: Kunku Mazha Bhagyacha; 1979: Sunbai Oti Bharun Ja; 1980: Mantryanchi Soon; Sava; Sulavarchi Poli; 1981: Kunkvacha Tila; 1982: Bhanta; 1985: Sulakshana; 1987: Bhatak Bhawani; 1992: Sona Ani Mona; 1993: Shivrayachi Soon Tararani.

PATIL, SMITA (1955-86)

Powerful yet subtle actress in many languages as well as on the stage. Born in Pune, the daughter of a government minister of Maharashtra. Studied literature at Bombay University. Worked briefly as a TV announcer. First role in Arun Khopkar's student film at the FTII; then in Benegal's children's film, Charandas Chor. First major role in Mantban as the Harijan woman who leads the revolt of the milk co-operative, earning her an international reputation. Major performances in Bhumika (the fictionalised life story of actress Hansa Wadkar) and as the uninhibited tribal in Ketan Mehta's Bhavni Bhavai. Acquired a unique status as an actress equally at home in the 'realistic' New Indian Cinema (Chakra,

Smita Patil in Tarang (1984)

Sadgati) and in cinephile fantasies (Mandi, Mehta's Gujarati fables and many B-films, e.g. Dance Dance, Badle Ki Aag). Trained largely in Pune's experimental theatre (the source of Jabbar Patel's early cinema, in which she also acted, e.g. Saamna). Her amazingly versatile performances developed alongside and in rivalry with those of Shabana Azmi, the only other Hindi actress of her generation with a similar range. Notable performances in Kumar Shahani's Tarang, as the social worker Sulabha in Patel's Umbartba/Subab and the legendary Sonbai who single-handedly defies the authoritarian subedar in Mirch Masala. Also acted in Bengali (Mrinal Sen's Akaler Sandhaney), Malayalam (Aravindan's Chidambaram), and Kannada (T.S. Nagabharana's Anveshane). Her work has been celebrated at the festival of La Rochelle and by the French cinémathèque (1984). An activist on behalf of women and a member of the feminist Women's Centre in Bombay. She died shortly after giving birth to a son. Developed a posthumous reputation as a photographer (cf. the 1992 exhibition of her photographic portraits, Through the Eyes of Smita, at the National Centre For Performing Arts, Bombay).

↑ FILMOGRAPHY: 1974: Teevra Madhyam (Sh); Raja Shivachhatrapati; 1975: Saamna; Charandas Chor; Nishant; 1976: Mantban; Bhumika; 1977: Kondura/Anugrabam; Jait Re Jait; 1978: Sarvasakshi; Gaman; 1979: The Naxalites; 1980: Bhavni Bhavai/Andher Nagari; Ashwamedher Ghora; Akaler Sandhaney; Aakrosh; Albert Pinto Ko Gussa Kyon Aata Hai; Chakra; Anveshane; 1981: Sadgati (TV); Tajurba; Umbartba/Subab; Dil-e-Nadaan; 1982: Badle Ki Aag; Bazaar; Bheegi Palkein; Namak Halal; Shakti; Sitam; Arth; Chatpatee; Dard Ka Rishba; Naseeb Ni Balibari; 1983: Ardh Satya; Ghungroo; Qayamat; Haadsa; Mandi; Farishta; 1984: Aaj Ki Awaaz; Anand Aur Anand; Giddh; Kanoon Meri Mutthi Mein; Kasam Paida Karne Wale Ki; Mera Dost Mera Dushman; Pet Pyar Aur Paap; Ravan; Shapatb; Tarang; Hum Do Hamare Do; 1985: Aakhr Kyon; Gbulami; Jawab; Kabhi Ajnabi The; Mera Ghar Mere Bachche; Chidambaram; Mirch Masala; Debsishu; Abhinetri (TV); Tere Shaber Mein; 1986: Debleez; Oont; Rahi; Aap Ke Saath; Amrit; Angarey; Anokha Rishta; Dihwala; Kaanch Ki Deewar; Teesra Kinara; Insaniyat Ke Dushman; Sutradhar; 1987: Awaam; Dance Dance; Nazrana; Sher Shivaji; Thikana; Aaj; 1988: Akarshan; Hum Farishte Nabin; Waris; 1989: Oonch Neech Beech; Galiyon Ka Badshah.

PAT PAINTING

'Chitra-pat', the Hindi term for 'cinema', actually means 'mural' and refers to several traditions of folk painting practised in Bengal, Orissa, Rajasthan, Maharashtra and Gujarat. The Pat is the surface as well as the material support of a painting, e.g. a cloth or paper scroll depicting a fable or myth, unrolled while a singer shaman pointed out the images accompanying his narration (e.g. the bhopa in the Rajasthani Pabuji-no-pad or the badvo in the Chhota Udaipur Pithoro form). This combination of performance and narrative imagery had been preceded by a variety of mural traditions. Towards the end of the 19th C., many painters moved to the cities and invented variants of the Pat styles adapted to mass-production, such as catchpenny prints to compete with lithography, photography and the printed news-sheet in the urban bazaar. The most famous manifestation of this practice was around the Kalighat temple in Calcutta. Though now contested, it was maintained for a long time that the bazaar pictures of Kalighat were the result of British influence: 'In place of tempera, the British medium of water-colour was adopted as more suitable to flowing brush strokes. The use of blank background, as in British natural history paintings, economised time. Folio-sized sheets [were] convenient for a popular market. Shading, as used by the British, emphasised volume' (W.G. Archer, 1962). It has been pointed out that visual techniques to produce volume and rhythm for voluptuous figuration had long been part of the interaction between classical and folk traditions in India. However, a narrative shift did occur as the voice and the performance of the narrator/storyteller was inscribed into a serial production process, prefiguring the practices of mechanical reproduction (photography, silent cinema).

PATTANAYAK, KABICHANDRA KALICHARAN (B. 1900)

Noted Oriya poet, composer and writer, born in the former Baramba State of Orissa. Major stage personality associated with the Utkal Natya Sangh and the Orissa wing of the Bhartiya Natya Sangh; pioneering scenarist and producer of early Oriya cinema. Proprietor of Suralekha Record Prod. for which he made several short films. Made notable contributions to Kalyan Gupta's early films as the scenarist of Lalita (1949), the Oriya cinema's second film, and writing the story of Rolls-28 (1951). Also wrote the lyrics for Nitai Palit's Kedar Gouri (1954), the script of Shiba Bhattacharya's Jayadeb (1963) and provided the music for Trilochan's Nari (1963). Also associated with AIR, Cuttack.

PATWARDHAN, ANAND (B. 1950)

Documentarist born in Bombay. Worked on a voluntary rural education and development project in MP (1972-3) where he made a tape-slide show on tuberculosis treatment. Graduate of Brandeis University, Boston, where he made his first film Business as Usual. Worked for JP Movement in Bihar (1974) and made Super-8 film about the period. Postgraduate sociology thesis at McGill University, Montreal, on Guerrilla Cinema: Underground and in Exile (1982). Made clandestine documentary during Emergency, Prisoners of Conscience, shown 3 years later. Co-d a film about Indian farm workers' strike in Canada. Returned to Bombay (1982) and continued making courageous, cinematically challenging films about key social-political issues. Set up a mobile cinema group, Samvad (Dialogue) taking films into squares and villages in context of political action. Recent work displays great mastery of documentary form, without sloganising, allowing the complexities of social situations, people's behaviour, film-making and political action to inform the filming as well as the presentation of issues. Currently addressing communal questions in different parts of India. The respect for the people he films extends to his heterogeneous soundtracks: Una Mitterandi Yaad Pyari has a soundtrack spoken in English, Punjabi and Hindi; Hamara Shaber uses Hindi, Marathi, Tamil and English.

↑ FILMOGRAPHY: 1972: Business as Usual; 1975: Waves of Revolution; 1978: Prisoners of Conscience; 1981: A Time to Rise; 1985: Hamara Shaber; 1989: Una Mitterandi Yaad Pyari; 1992: Ram Ke Naam; 1993: The Other Side (Sh); Nabi Ambhi Vanar Bannar (Sh); 1994: Pitru Putra aur Dharamyudh; 1995: Narmada Diary.

PATWARDHAN, NACHIKET (B. 1948)

PATWARDHAN, JAYOO (B. 1949)

Husband and wife team of directors, architects and art directors. Graduated together from M.S. University, Baroda, in architecture. Started with art direction and costumes for Ghashiram Kotwal (1976). Have worked with Saeed Mirza, Girish Karnad (e.g. art direction for Utsav, 1984, Cheluvu, 1992).

↑ FILMOGRAPHY: 1979: 22 June 1897; 1985: Anantayatra; 1995: Limited Manuski.

PAVITHRAN, VATTAPARAMBIL KRISHNAN (B. 1950)

Malayalam director. Born in Kandanassery, Trichur Dist., Kerala. Studied at Christ College, Iranjalakuda, and at Maharaja's College, Cochin. Was a well-known Marxist activist while a student. Tried to enter the FTII but failed, enrolled in nearby Law College, Pune, instead, spending his time at the FTII. During Emergency produced P.A. Backer's acclaimed film Kabani Nadi Chuvannappol (1975). Indira Gandhi's followers tried to destroy it. Made the experimental Yaro Oral with music by Aravindan. Scored T.V. Chandran's Malayalam film Krishnankutty (1980). With Chandran, represents a continuation of Backer's style of independent film.

↑ FILMOGRAPHY: 1978: Yaro Oral; 1986: Uppu; 1989: Uttaram; 1990: Kallinde Kaiba (Doc); 1991: Bali.

PAWAR, LALITA (1916-98)

Hindi and Marathi actress born in Indore as Lalitabai Hanuman Prasad. Early career as child star at Sarpotdar's Aryan Film. Used stage name Ambu. Married stunt film-maker G.P. Pawar who directed most of her later silents and early sound films. One of those silents, Diler Jigar, still exists. Pawar's partner

Lalita Pawar in Mahatma Kabir (1954)

Chandraro Kadam usually played the hero (e.g. Daiji Khajina, Jalta Jigar, Nek Dost, Pyari Katar, Himmat-e-Mard), producing through his Chandra Arts Co. She briefly turned producer (Duniya Kya Hai). Played lead roles in early 40s films opposite Nazir (Rajkumari, Captain Kishori), E. Bilimoria (Nirali Duniya), Trilok Kapoor (Nari). Developed her best-known persona of the vamp-like, scheming mother in Ramsbastri, turning her slightly defective left eye into a trademark (e.g. as Madhubala's guardian in Mr and Mrs '55). She apparently developed her slight squint in an accident on the set of an early stunt movie. Remembered also as a compassionate foster-mother in several Raj Kapoor films, e.g. the banana seller in Sbri 420 and the landlady Mrs D'Sa in Anari.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1928: Patitoddhar, Ganimi Kava, Raja Harishchandra, Arya Mahila; 1929: Dasharathi Ram, Parijataak, Prem Pasb, Prince Thaksen, Prithviraj Sanyogita, Shri Balaji, Subhadra Haran; 1930: Chatur Sundari, Shamsber Bahadur, Song of Life, Subramanyam; 1931: Diler Jigar, Sbri Krishna Maya; 1932: Bhawani Talwar, Kailash, Mastikhor Masbuq; 1933: Daiji Khajina, Jalta Jigar, Nek Dost, Pyari Katar (all SD); 1935: Himmat-e-Mard, Qatili Katar; 1937: Chevrolet 1936, Duniya Kya Hai; 1938: Rajkumari; 1939: Netaji Palkar; 1940: Captain Kishori, Nirali Duniya; 1941: Amrit; 1942: Bhakta Damaji, Gora Kumbhar, Kirti, Mamaji, Nari (H); 1943: Asbirwad, Bhakta Raidas; 1944: Ramsbastri; 1945: Yateem; 1946: Behram Khan, Santan, Jhunka; 1947: Jai Malhar, Janata, Wob Zamana; 1948: Dhanyavaad, Grihasthi, Phool Aur Kaante, Rang Mahal; 1949: Dil Ki Basti, Sant Namdev, Manacha Pan; 1950: Bahurani, Banwra, Dabej; 1951: Jai Mahakali, Nand Kishore, Sazaa, Amar Bhoopali; 1952: Cbbhatrapati Shiwaji, Mayecha Pazhar, Aasmaan, Bhakta Puran, Daag; Parchain, Raja Harishchandra, Sandesb, Usha Kiron; 1953: Sant Babinabai, Aabsbar, Faraib, Patita, Firdaus, Shuk Rambha, Thokar; 1954: Bahut Din Huye, Mahatma Kabir, Shiv Kanya; 1955: Khandaan, Do Dulbe, Miss Coca Cola, Mr and Mrs '55, Navratri, Oonchi Haveli, Patii

Pawan, Sbri 420, Shri Krishna Bhakti, Ratnagar, Kalagi Tura; 1956: Gauri Puja, Heer, Jayashree, Pocketmaar, Rajrani Meera, Sajani, Zindagi Ke Mele, Paidali Padleli Phule; 1957: Aasba; Alladdin Laila, Baarish, Ek Gaon Ki Kahani, Ek Jhalak, Nau Do Gyarab; Neel Mani, Paristan, Ram Lakshman, Sant Raghbu, Devagharba Lena; 1958: Balyogi Upamanyu, Kabhi Andhera Kabhi Ujala, Karigar, Malik, Mehndi, Naag Champa, Naya Kadam; Parvarish, Raj Tilak; Taxi 555, Samrat Chandragupta, Sukhache Sobti; 1959: Anari; Baap Bete, Didi, Grihalakshmi; Guest House, Kanhaiya, Maa Ke Aansoo, Mohar, Mr John, Pehli Raat, Sati Vaishalini, Sujata; 1960: Jis Desh Mein Ganga Behti Hai; Aanchal, Bhakta Raaj, Bindiya, Chand Mere Aaja, Sarbad, Qatili; 1961: Chhaya, Gharana, Hum Dono, Jbunroo, Jungle; Main Aur Mera Bhai, Maya, Memdidi, Opera House, Sampoorna Ramayan, Sasural; 1962: Banarasi Thug, Maa Beta, Professor, Raakhi; 1963: Akela, Bahurani, Band Master, Bbarosa, Bluff Master, Ek Dil Sau Afsane, Ek Raaz, Gebra Daag, Ghar Basake Dekho, Grihasthi, Hamrahi, Mummy Daddy, Sehra; 1964: Apne Huye Paraye, Kobraa; Mabasati Behula, Majboor, Phoolon Ki Sej, Sangam; Sharabi, Tere Dwar Khada Bhagwan, Sundara Manamadhye Bbarli; 1965: Bedaag, Janam Janam Ke Saathi, Khandaan; 1966: Biradari, Chbota Bhai, Insaaf, Love In Tokyo, Phool Aur Pathbar, Suraj, Tasveer; 1967: Patitbar Ke Sanam, Aurat, Babu Begum, Boond Jo Ban Gaye Moti, Diwana, Hare Kaanch Ki Chudiyar, Laat Saheb, Manjhi Didi, Noorjehan; 1968: Aabroo, Aankhen, Duniya, Ek Kali Muskayi, Izzat, Neel Kamal, Teen Baburaniyan; 1969: Chirag, Hum Ek Hain, Khamoshi, Meri Bhabhi, Road To Sikkim, Tumse Achha Kaun Hai, Saticha Vaan, Tambdi Mati; 1970: Anand; Darpan, Devi, Gopi, Man Ki Aankhen, Naya Raasta, Pushpanjali, Saas Bhi Kabhi Babu Thi, Subana Safar, Jwala; 1971: Buddha Mil Gaya, Jaane Anjane, Lakhon Mein Ek, Mela, Naya Zamana, Parwana, Preet Ki Dori; 1972: Bombay To Goa, Bees Saal Peble, Gaon Hamara Shaber Tumbara, Ye Gulistan Hamara; 1973: Hifazat, Jugnu, Do Phool, Ek Mutthi Aasmaan, Kahani Hum Sub Ki; 1974: Goonj, Hamrahi, Naya Din Nayi Raat, Doosri Seeta, Kunwara Baqar, Aaina; 1975: Khel Khel Mein, Tapasya; 1976: Aaj Ka Yeh Ghar, Alibaba, Bandalbaaz, Do Anjaane, Khalifa, Raksha Bandhan, Sangram, Shankar Shambhu, Choricha Mamlu; 1977: Chakkar Pe Chakkar, Dream Girl, Jai Vijay, Kali Raat, Mama Bhanja, Mandir Masjid, Niyaz Aur Namaaz, Prayashchit, Taxi Taxi; 1978: Dil Se Mile Dil, Ganga Sagar, Prem Bandhan, Tumhari Kasam, Vishwanath, Sasurvashreen; 1979: Naukar, Raja Harishchandra, Duniya Meri Jib Mein, Jaan-e-Bahar, Janata Havaladar, Manzik, Kali Ghata; 1980: Badrinath Dham, Do Aur Do Paanch, Phir Wobi Raat, Sau Din Saas Ke; 1981: Naseeb; Sannata, Yaarana; 1982: Chatak Chandani; 1983: Ek Din Babu Ka, Kaise Kaise Log, Nastik; 1984: Apna Bhi Koi Hota, Jhootha Sach, Gharba Bhedi, Kulaswamini Ambabai, Ram Tera Desh; 1985: Ram Tere Kitne Naam, Pyari Bhabhi; 1986: Ghar Sansar, Love and God, Pyar Ke Do Pal

Ram Milai Jodi; 1987: Madadgaar, Hifazat, Watan Ke Rakhwale, Uttar Dakshin; 1988: Bai Chali Sasariye, Kali Ganga, Zalzala, Sherni, Bhakti Jawani, Pyaasi Aima; 1989: Garibon Ka Daata; 1990: Hatyare; 1993: Shiv Teri Mahima Nyari, Saibaba; 1995: Limited Manuski.

PENDHARKAR, BABURAO (1896-1967)

Pioneer Marathi actor and producer born in Kolhapur. Actor-manager of Maharashtra Film (1919); then a manager in Prabhat (1929); manager and main star at Kolhapur Cinetone (1933) and for several years associated with Master Vinayak at Huns Pics (1936) and Navyug Chitrapat; then producer with Navhans (1943). Best-known work after the mid-40s was with V. Shantaram at Rajkamal Kalamandir, including the classic role of the Chinese general in Dr Kotnis Ki Amar Kabani, and with his brother, the director Bhalji Pendharkar. Noted actor as a villain in mythologicals (e.g. in Shantaram's Ayodhyecha Raja/Ayodhya Ka Raja, Kans in Vasant Joglekar's Nand Kishore, and Keechaka in Pethkar's Keechaka Vadha) and for character roles in socials by Atre (the crotchety grandfather in Shyamchi Aai; the title role of Mahatma Phule). Directed Prabhat's only major Tamil film, Seeta Kalyanam, a landmark in Tamil cinema. Also a noted stage actor. His autobiography (1961/1983) is also an important record of Marathi film history.

FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1920:

Sairandri; 1921: Surekha Haran; 1922: Bhagwata Bhakta Damaji; 1926: Vande Mataram Asbram; 1930: Rani Sabeha; Udaykal; 1931: Zulm (all SD); 1932: Ayodhyecha Raja/Ayodhya Ka Raja; Jalti Nishani/Agnikankan; Maya Macbbindra; 1933: *Seeta Kalyanam; Sinbagad; 1934: Akaswani; 1935: Vilasi Ishwar/Nigab-e-Nafra; 1936: Chhaya; 1937: Dharmaveer; Begunab; 1939: Devata; Sukhacha Shodh/ Mera Haq; 1940: Ardbangi/Ghar Ki Rani; Lapandav; 1941: Amrit; 1942: Bhakta Damaji, Pabila Palna; 1943: Paisa Bolto Aabe/Nagad Narayan; 1945: Pehli Nazar, Vikramaditya, Parinde; 1946: Dr Kotnis Ki Amar Kabani; Jeevan Yatra; Valmiki, Jeena Seekho, Magadbraj, Rukmini Swayamvar; 1947: Jai Malhar; 1948: Adalat, Bhagyarekha; 1949: Meeth Bhakar; Shilanganache Sone, Sakharpada, Nara Narayan, Manacha Pan, Mazha Ram; 1950: Mi Daru Sodli, Kalyan Khajina, Sant Kanbopatra, Chaltili Shejari; 1951: Jasbaas Tase, Nand Kishore; 1952: Cbbhatrapati Shiwaji; May Babini, Devyani, Jeet Kiski; 1953: Shyamchi Aai; 1954: Mahatma Phule, 1955: Kalagi Tura, Ye Re Majhya Maglya, Punavechi Raat; 1956: Pavankbind, Pasant Aabe Mulgi, Jagavegali Goshta, Gaath Padli Thaka Thaka, Deoghar, Paidali Padleli Phule; 1957: Preetisangam, Dev Jaga Aabe, Naikimichi Sajja; Do Aankhen Barab Haath; Devagharba Lena; 1958: Mausi; 1959: Navrang, Keechaka Vadha, Baap Bete; 1961: Stree; 1963: Baiko Maberijate, Te Mazhe Ghar, Thoratanchi Kamala; Sehra; 1966: Amrapali.

PENDHARKAR, BHALCHANDRA GOPAL
[BHALJI] (1898-1994)

Marathi and Hindi director, producer, scenarist and lyricist born in Kolhapur, the son of King Shahu's court physician. Committed from early years to Hindu and Marathi regional chauvinism. Younger brother of cineaste Baburao Pendharkar and V. Shantaram's cousin. Disciple of Veer Savarkar and founder of Kolhapur branch of Hindu Mahasabha, functioning as its regional director for a while. Worked for Lokmanya Tilak's political journal Kesari; started film journal Cinema Samachar. Started in theatre; wrote six plays, notably Sangeet Kaydebbhang, and acted in Krantikarak. As film-maker, found support among local nobility and sought to achieve an economically autonomous Marathi cinema. Acted in Manilal Joshi's Pritivi Vallabh (1924), then made his directorial debut at Sharda. Wrote all the early Shantaram films: Udaykal, Rani Sabeba and Khooni Khanjar (all 1930), and Zulm (1931). Scenarist for Prabhat (1932-3), before he moved to Kolhapur Cinetone (Akashwani). Started his own studios, Arun Pics (1939) in Pune, later the Famous-Arun Studio in partnership with Shiraz Ali Hakim. Also helped start the Jayaprabha Studio in Kolhapur. His historicals, usually starring the brothers Chandrakant and Suryakant, often exploit the 17th C. Marathi empire of Shivaji, the figurehead of the Hindu chauvinist Shiv Sena party in Maharashtra. His Vande Mataram Asbram was banned by the British and triggered a major censorship case in 1927-8. Also made ruralist socials. Tamasha star Dada Kondke made his debut in Tambdi Mati. Nearly always wrote his own scripts, dialogues and lyrics. Other script credits include Shantaram's Sairandhri (1933), Nimbalkar's Swarajya Seemavar (1937), Jaishankar Danve's Jai Bhawani (1947), Master Vithal's Swarajyacha Shiledar (1951: using the pseudonym Shyam Sundar), Dinkar D. Patil's May Babini (1952), Raja Paranjpe's Gaath Padli Thaka Thaka (1956), Rajdutt's Gharchi Rani (1968), Govind Kulkarni's Sakhyi Sajana (1972); and his son Prabhakar Pendharkar's films Bal Shivaji (1981) and Shabas Sunbai (1986). Autobiography Sadha Manoos (1993).

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1924: Pritivi Vallabh (only act.); 1925: Bajirao Mastani; 1926: Vande Mataram Asbram; 1931: Rani Rupmati (all St); 1932: Shyam Sundar; 1934: Akashwani; Paribakumar; 1935: Kaliya Mardani/Muraliwal; 1936: Savitri; Rukmini Kalyanam; 1937: Kanhopatra; 1938: Raja Gopichand; 1939: Netaji Palkar; 1940: Gorakhnath/Alakh Niranjan; 1941: Thoratanchi Kamala; 1942: Sunbat; Bhakta Damaji; 1943: Babirji Naik; 1944: Mabarathi Karn; Suarna Bhoomi; 1946: Sasurvas; Valmiki; 1949: Meeth Bhakar; Shilanganache Sone; 1950: Mi Daru Sodli; 1952: Chhatrapati Shivaji; 1953: Majhi Zameen; 1954: Mabarani Yesubai; 1955: Ye Re Majhya Maghya; 1956: Pavankhind; 1957: Naikinichi Sajja; 1959: Akashganga; 1963: Mohityanchi Manjula; 1964: Maratha Tituka Melavava; 1965: Sadhi Manse; 1969: Tambdi Mati; 1981: Ganimi Kava.

PENDYALA NAGESHWARA RAO
(1924-84)

Telugu composer born in Kattur, coastal AP. Son of a music teacher. Harmonium accompanist in the theatre; joined films as a musician, playing the harmonium in Jyotish Sinha's Talliprema (1941). First break as composer in L.V. Prasad's Drohi. Early films mainly with K.S. Prakash Rao. Best-known work associated with the lyrics of Arudra, e.g. in K.B. Tilak's and K.V. Reddy's films. Regarded as the one who introduced rural folk music into the Telugu film song, influencing contemporaries like Ghantasala. Singers P. Susheela and S. Janaki both debuted with him. Scored most of NTR's big 70s mythologicals (Chanakya Chandragupta, Sbri Rama Pattabhisekham).

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1948: Drohi; 1950: Modathi Rathri; 1951: Deeksha; 1953: Kanna Talli/Petrathai; 1954: Balanandam; Jyoti Illara Jyoti; Menarikam; 1955: Donga Ramudu; 1956: Muddubidda; Melukolupu; Penki Pellam; 1957: Bhagya Rekha; MLA; Saubhagyavati; 1958: Sbri Krishna Garudi; 1959: Jayabheri; 1960: Sbri Venkateswara Mahatyam; Mahakavi Kalidasa; Nityakalayanam Pachathoranam; Bhatti Vikramarka; Kadedullu Ekaram Nela; Bhakta Shabari; 1961: Velugu Needalu; Krishna Prema; Jagadeka Veeruni Katha/Jagathala Prathapan; Vagdanam; Bava Maradallu; 1962: Mahamantri Timmarasu; Chitti Tamudu; Sbri Krishnarajuna Yuddham; 1963: Paruu Pratishta; Eedu Jodu; Anuragam; 1964: Ramudu Bheemudu; Raktha Tilakam; Shabash Soori; 1965: Uyyala Jampala; Satya Harishchandra; Prameelarjuneyam; Prachanda Bhairavi; 1966: Srikakula Andhra Mahavishnu Katha; Sbri Krishna Tulabharanam; 1968: Bandhipotu Dongalu; Bhagya Chakram; Gramadevatulu; Pantalu Pattimpulu; Papakosam; Umachandi Gauri Shankarula Katha; 1970: Maa Nanna Nirdosbi; Pelli Sambandham; Sbri Krishna Vijayam; Manasu Mangalyam; 1971: Naa Thammudu; Sbri Krishna Satya; 1972: Matbru Murti; 1974: Kode Naagu; Dhanavanthulu Gunavanthulu; Bhoomikosam; Deeksha; 1975: Vemulavuda Bhimakavi; 1976: Kolleti Kapuram; Sbri Rajeshwari Vilas Coffee Club; Suprabhatam; 1977: Koilamma Koonsindi; Chanakya Chandragupta; Sati Savitri; 1978: Sbri Rama Pattabhisekham; 1979: Sbri Tirupati Venkateswara Kalyanam; Galivana; Priya Bandhavi; Srishti Rabasyulu; 1982: Dharma Vadi; 1984: Kala Ranjani; 1985: Kondi Kshetraya; 1987: Prema Deepalu.

PHADKE, SUDHIR VINAYAK (B. 1919)

Marathi-Hindi singer and composer born in Kolhapur, Maharashtra. Started at Prabhat (Pethkar's Aage Badho); later associated mainly with the lyrics of G.D. Madgulkar, which he set to music in numerous films, esp. by Raja Paranjpe. Also recorded Madgulkar's rewritten version of the Ramayana in simple Marathi verse, one of the most enduringly popular pieces of Marathi devotional music. Hindi compositions include Kishore Kumar's hit number Pehli tareekh hai yeh pabeli tareekh hai from Pehli Tareekh.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1946: Gokul; Rukmini Swayamvar; 1947: Aage Badho; 1948: Seeta Swayamvar; Jivacha Sakha; Vande Mataram; 1949: Aparadhi; Jai Bhim; Maya Bazaar; Ram Pratigya; Sant Janabai; 1950: Sbri Krishna Darshan; Johar Maibaap; Pudhcha Paool; 1951: Malati Madhav; Muraliwal; Jasbaas Tase; 1952: Lakhachi Goshta; May Babini; Narveer Tanaji; Pratapgad; 1953: Bolavita Dhani; Kon Kunacha; Kuberache Dhan; Saubhagya; Vahinichya Bangdy; 1954: Pehli Tareekh; Een Meen Sadeteen; Mabarani Yesubai; Oon Paos; Ovalani; Postatil Mulgi; Reshmachya Gaathi; 1955: Ratnagar; Ganget Ghoda Nhal; Mi Tulas Tujhya Angani; Sbergayachya Shenga; 1956: Sajani; Andhala Magto Ek Dola; Deoghar; Mazhe Ghar Majhi Manse; 1957: Devagharacha Lena; Gharacha Jhala Thoda; 1958: Gaja Gauri; 1959: Gokul Ka Chor; 1960: Jagachya Pathivar; Umaj Padel Tar; 1961: Adhi Kalas Mag Paya; Kalanka Shobha; Majhi Aai; Nirupama Ani Parirani; Prapancha; Suvasani; Bhabhi Ki Chudiyani; 1962: Bhintila Kan Astaat; Char Divas Sasuche Char Divas Suneche; Chimnyanchi Shala; Gariba Gharchi Lek; Sonyachi Paool; 1963: Baiko Maheri Jaate; Ha Mazha Marg Ekala; Te Mazhe Ghar; 1964: Dawacha Kbel; 1966: Gurukilli; 1967: Sant Gora Kumbhar; 1968: Ambi Jato Amuchya Gava; Ekati; 1969: Adhaar; 1970: Dev Manoos; Dhakti Babin; Mumbaicha Juwai; Jhala Mahar Pandharinath; 1971: Bajiravacha Beta; Jhep; Lakhat Asbi Dekhani; Mibi Manoosach Aabe; 1972: Daraar; 1973: Anolkbi; Juwei Vikat Ghene Aabe; 1974: Kartiki; 1975: Jyotibacha Navas; 1976: Aram Haram Aabe; 1978: Chandra Hota Sakshila; Dost Asava Tar Asa; 1982: Aplech Daat Aplech Oth; Shapit; 1983: Thorli Jau; 1984: Chorachya Manaat Chandana; Maberbchi Manse; 1986: Dhakti Soon; Pudhcha Paool; 1987: Sher Shivaji; 1988: Reshim Gaathi.

PHALKE, DHUNDIRAJ GOVIND
(1870-1944)

Pioneering director aka Dadasaheb Phalke. Born in Trymbakeshwar, Nasik. Claimed to have started the film industry in India with Raja Harishchandra. Saw his cinema as a direct contribution to Swadeshi. Son of Sanskrit scholar. Studied at J.J. School of Art (1885) and at Kala Bhavana, Baroda (see art schools). Then studied architecture. Became proficient as landscape painter of academic nature studies. Worked in photographic studio and learnt to develop and print negative film. At Ratlam studied three-colour blockmaking, photolithography and ceramics (1890). Worked as portrait photographer, stage make-up man, assistant to a German illusionist and as a magician (as Professor Kelpha). Started Phalke's Art Printing & Engraving Works at Lonavala (1908), later Laxmi Art Printing Works. Did photolitho transfers of Ravi Varma oleographs. Sailed to Germany to obtain three-colour printing equipment (1909). Saw The Life of Christ around Christmas 1910 in a Bombay cinema, an event he describes with great passion although contemporary notices suggest it must have been around Easter 1911. Strongly moved by the 'magic' of cinema, also dedicated himself to bringing Indian images to the screen. Raised finance from Yeshwant Nadkarni, a photographic equipment dealer, with short trick film, Birth of a Pea Plant, shooting one frame a day to show a plant growing. Went to London in February 1912 to familiarise himself with film technology and to acquire equipment. Bought a Williamson camera, Kodak negative and a perforator. Cecil Hepworth tutored him at Walton Studios. Returned to establish Phalke Films on Dadar Main Road in Bombay (1912) for which he made five films, starting with Raja Harishchandra. Went to England again in 1914 to organise trade shows and received many offers to remain in Europe. Returned to India with new equipment, closed Phalke Films and set up the Hindustan Cinema Films (1918). Resigned briefly from Hindustan to write the Marathi play Rangbhoomi (1922) in Benares. Made c.44 silent features, several shorts and one talkie, Gangavataran. The films introduced the mythological genre to Indian cinema, allowing him to merge his notion of Swadeshi with an industrial practice and a politico-cultural aesthetic. Satish Bahadur compiled the film D.G. Phalke, the First Indian Film Director for the FIH (1964); the film contains the only existing footage of How Films Are Made, footage of himself directing Raja Harishchandra, and Setu Bandhan, and is a tribute not only to the founder of the Indian film industry but also to a daring experimenter with animation techniques (including match-sticks), inventor of promotional films and of documentaries, creator of special effects and codifier of a new generic form, the mythological film. Essays on film, 'Bharatiya Chitrapat', were published in Navyug (1917-8).

D. G. Phalke in How Films Are Made

✦ FILMOGRAPHY 1913: Birth of a Pea Plant (Sh); 1914: Pithache Panje (Sh); Scenes of the River Godavari (Sh); Mohini Bhasmasur, Satyavan Savitri; 1915: Glass Factory at Talegaon (Sh); 1916: Dhumrapan Leela (Sh); Lakshmicha Galicha (Sh); Sanlagna Ras (Sh); Swapna Vihar (Sh); Professor Kelpba's Magic (Sh); Kartiki Purnima Utsav (Sh); 1917: Aagkadyancha Mauja (Sh); Dhandhal Bhatjiche Gangasnaan (Sh); How Films Are Made (Sh); 1918: Raja Harishchandra; Lanka Dahan; 1918: Sbri Krishna Janma; 1919: Sinhabstha Parvati (Sh); Kaliya Mardan; 1922: Gajandravache Bhagya (?Sh); Patwardhan's Royal Circus (Sh); Sant Namdev (?); 1923: The Thirty-Seventh Gaya Congress (?) (Doc); Unusual Scenes from Bodhgaya (?) (Doc); Jarasandha Vadha; Mahananda; Babruvahani; Buddhadhev; Ashwathama; Guru Dronacharya; 1924: Shivajichi Agryahun Sutaka, Municipal Elections, Vinchucha Dansh; 1925: Ganesh Utsav (?) (Sh); Ellora Caves (Sh); Vichitra Shilpa (Sh); Khod Modali (Sh); Vachanbbang (Sh); Khandalyacha Ghat (Sh); Simantak Mani; Hidimb Bakasur Vadha; Kakasabebanchya Dolyat Jhanjhanit Anjan; Chaturbhicha Chandra, Satyabhama; 1926: Nashikcha Panjarpol (Sh); Sant Eknath, Janaki Swayamvar; Bhakta Prahlad; Bajaji Nimbalkar; 1927: Rugmangad Mohini; Nala Damayanti; Hanuman Janma; Draupadi Vastrabaran; Bhakta Sudama, Rukmini Haran; 1928: Kumari Millche Shuddhikaran (Sh); Sbri Krishna Shishtai; Parashuram; Bhakta Damaji; 1929: Malavikagnimitra; Chandrabasa; Vasantsena; Bolki Tapeli; Sant Meerabai; Kacha Devayani; Malati Madhav; 1932: Setu Bandhan (all SD); 1937: Gangavataran.

PHALKE FILMS COMPANY

One of the founding institutions of Indian cinema. Set up by Dadasaheb Phalke and his family at Dadar Main Road, Bombay (1912). Initial capital came from a loan against his insurance policy and the main equipment was imported from London. Staffed by Phalke's family and friends, e.g. Trymbak B. Telang, whom he trained to use the Williamson camera. Mrs Phalke (Saraswati aka Kaki) was an essential partner who took upon herself the managerial and technical tasks, included perforating raw Kodak stock. The family kitchen was turned into a laboratory. The first production, Raja Harishchandra (1913), was a success released at the Coronation Cinematograph and Variety Hall in Bombay as part of a programme with Miss Irene Del Mar in a duet and dance number, a comical sketch by the McClements, Alexandroff the Wonderful Foot Juggler and Tip-Top Comics. In 1913 the company moved to Nasik for easier access to locations Phalke deemed essential for cinema: rivers, mountains, and several famous shrines (locations where popular superstition placed some of the Ramayana stories). After four films, it became evident that a familial-artisanal set-up could not cope with the administration for production, processing, distribution and exhibition. In 1918 the company folded and was replaced by the more professional partnership enterprise Hindustan Cinema Films.

PHOTOGRAPHY

Established as an industry in India c.1840 when Thacker & Co. advertised the sale of imported daguerreotypes in Calcutta. In the 1850s, several photography studios sold equipment and took portraits on commission (e.g. Bourne & Shepherd), providing an infrastructure later extended into film. Earliest British uses of photography include journalism (e.g. the Robertson and Beato partnership which covered the last days of the 1857 Mutiny), military expeditions, surveys and, after 1861, the Central Directorate of Archaeology's records for the preservation of ancient monuments. Encouraged as an amateur practice by the founding of the Photographic Societies of Bombay (1854), Calcutta and Madras (1856). Although there were Indian photographers in the 1850s (e.g. Narayan Dajee, the Merwanjee and Bomanjee company in Bombay) and some Indian aristocrats sponsored the practice (esp. Maharaja Sawai Ram Singh II of Jaipur), the technology became popular among Indians only after the 1880s with the introduction of dry-plate printing. It developed into a popular bazaar art alongside lithographs and woodcut prints, becoming the main medium through which the conflict was played out between traditional Indian aesthetic practices and the Western representational conventions deploying a renaissance 'vanishing-point' perspective. Indian usage almost uniformly emphasised surface rather than depth, working mainly through flattened planar effects. The best-known Indian photography pioneer was Lala Deen Dayal (1844-1905), employed by Tukoji Rao II, the Maharaja of Indore and, after 1885, the court photographer of the Nizam of Hyderabad. He had studios in Secunderabad and Indore, a 'zenana' studio for women in Hyderabad and a major workshop in Bombay. His numerous still photographs attempt several innovations vis-à-vis the portraiture conventions of easel paintings, often suppressing perspective lines and temporal moulding while reintroducing narrative devices from earlier pictorial techniques. This was further emphasised in most bazaar photographs by tinting, painting or sticking things on to the photographic print, often adding theatrical backdrops and three-dimensional objects to give contextualised 'grandeur' to the sitter who commissioned the portrait photograph. Several techniques as well as modes of signification were invented in the process, such as e.g. stage backdrops which sometimes duplicated photographs on massive stage curtains to anchor the enacted fiction in a sense of reality. Like the urban Pat Painting and Company School painting genres, the illusion of photographic verisimilitude was used to suggest an 'objective' reproduction transcending human fallibility, offering a promise of immortality to the photographed/painted subject. One of the most famous forms of hybrid photography-painting combinations developed as the Manoratha in the temples of Nathdwara, where, as a record of their presence and devotion, photographs of devotees would be glued on to the lower part of a painting of Krishna in the place where formerly small figures of devotees would be painted. Several of these forms later influenced the framing and editing conventions adopted in the early silent cinema (see Phalke and Ravi Varma).

PILLAI, MUTHUKULAM RAGHAVAN (B. 1909)

Malayalam playwright, actor, one of Kerala's first scenarists and well-known lyricist (Balan, 1938). Scripted e.g. Krishna Iyer's Nallathanka (1950), K. Vembu's Jeevitha Nauka (1951), E.R. Cooper's Velaikkaran and Velappan's Lokaneethi (both 1953). Wrote the dialogues for K.S. Sethumadhavan's Dabam (1965). Turned actor with Jeevitha Nauka, later playing small roles in e.g. Navalokam (1951) and Snehaseema (1954). Author of 127 plays, including Manushyan on which K. Ramnoth's Manithan (1953) is based.

POTHAN PRATHAP K. (B. 1952)

Malayalam and Tamil director and actor; educated in Madras. Theatre actor associated with the Madras Players, adapting Shaw, Sartre and Beckett. Brother of producer Hari Pothan (cf. Tbulabbaram, 1968). Started as actor in Bharathan's Aravam and broke through in Balu Mahendra's Azhiyada Kolangal, often playing obsessive characters. Turned to direction in 1984 while continuing his acting career (acting credits are incomplete). Was married to Tamil actress Radhika.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY (* act only): 1978: Aravam; 1979: Thakara; Chamaram; Azhiyada Kolangal; 1980: Lorry; Varumayin Niram Sigappu; Nenjathai Killathay; Moodupani; Arohanam; Chandrahimbam; Manju Moodal Manju; Ormakale Vida Tharu; Pappu*; Pavizha Muthu; 1981: Aparna; Akali Rajyam; Echil Iravugal; Karaiyellam Shenbagappu; Kudumbam Oru Kadambam; Madhumalar; Nenjil Oru Mul; Panneer Pushpangal; Rani; Jai Gantalalu; 1982: Vazhve Mayam; Novemberinte Nashtam; Priyasakbi Radha; Nandri Meendum Varuga; Vasantam Varum; 1984: Meendum Oru Kadhal Kadai; 1985: Sindhu Bhairavi; 1987: Ruthubbedam; Pushpak/Pushpak Vimana; 1988: Daisy; Jeeva; Penmani Aval Kanmani; 1989: Vetri Vizha; 1990: My Dear Marthandan; 1991: Chaitanya; 1992: Magudam; 1993: Atma; 1994: Sivalaperi Pandian; 1995: Lucky Man.

PRABHAT FILM COMPANY

Est. 1929 in Kolhapur as partnership by five key figures from Maharashtra Film: V. Shantaram, Vishnupant Damle, Fattelal, Keshavrao Dhaiber and Sitarampant Kulkarni. Baburao Pendharkar joined as manager. Moved to Pune in 1933 where it became Western India's elite studio with a national reputation comparable only to Calcutta's New Theatres. It had the largest stage floor in India and an art department under Fattelal regarded as the country's finest. Like New Theatres, Prabhat had many stars on the payroll, well-equipped sound and editing departments and its own laboratory. Early films were mainly remakes of Maharashtra Film productions. Their first major hit was Shantaram's Amritmantan (1934). The studio's success benefited from astute distribution arrangements, first with Baburao Pai's Famous Pics and long-term contracts with exhibitors, later taking on distribution itself through its Central Film Exchange and building theatres in Bombay, Pune and Madras. This made them fairly independent from managing-agency financiers for production capital. The studio also benefited from its cultural policies in the wake of significant developments in popular theatre, music and literature. Apart from its Maharashtra Film inheritances, the studio's repertoire was crucially shaped by two major stage phenomena: Sangeet Natak superstar Bal Gandharva, whose Gandharva Natak Mandali provided its two most famous music composers Govindrao Tembe and Master Krishnarao, and the vanguard Natyamanwantar group whose Andhalyanchi Shala (1933) led to K. Narayan Kale, composer Keshavrao Bhole and star Keshavrao Date joining the studio. Untroubled by New Theatres' type of classical aspirations, Prabhat pioneered new popular forms such as the Bhakti biographicals or Saint films by Damle-Fattelal and socials by Shantaram. Other major Prabhat film-makers include K. Narayan Kale, Raja Nene, Keshavrao Dhaiber, Vishram Bedekar and Gajanan Jagirdar. Master Vinayak started at Prabhat as an actor, and an influential post-Independence generation of Marathi film-makers led by Anant Mane and Datta Dharmadhikari began their careers as technical assistants there. The studio closed in 1953. A.V. Damle is presently constructing a video collection of the classic Prabhat films. Shantaram Athavale wrote a history of the company, Prabhat Kaal (1965).

PRAKASH, KHEMCHAND (1907-50)

Composer associated mainly with the Ranjit Studio which he joined in 1940 and where he scored music for Kardar (Holi, Pagal), Jayant Desai's Saigal film Tansen and some Kidar Sharma films (Gauri, Vish Kanya, Bhanwara). Born in Jaipur. Son of Pandit Govardhan Prasad, court singer at the Jaipur palace. Learnt kathak for a while. Aged 19, was appointed court singer by the Maharaja of Bikaner, and later also served under the Nepal royalty. Radio artist in Calcutta; later worked with Timir Baran at New Theatres. Scored the classic soundtrack of Amrohi's Mahal at Bombay Talkies, with his most memorable song Ayega anevala sung by Lata Mangeshkar. Introduced Kishore Kumar as playback for Dev Anand in Shaheed Latif's Ziddi. His last film, Tamasha, was the studio's last production.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1939: Gazi Salauddin; Meri Aankhen; 1940: Aaj Ka Hindustan; Diwali; Holi: Pagal; 1941: Holiday in Bombay; Pardesi; Pyaas; Sbadi; Ummeed; 1942: Baraat; Chandni; Dukk Sukh; Fariyad; Iqraar; Khilona; Mehmaan; 1943: Chirag; Gauri; Qurbani; Tansen; Vish Kanya; 1944: Bhanwara; Bhartrabari; Mumtaz Mahal; Shabenshab Babar; 1945: Dhanna Bhagat; Prabhu Ka Ghar; 1947: Chalte Chalte; Gaon; Mera Suhaag; Mulaqat; Samaj Ko Badal Dalo; Sindoor; 1948: Asha; Ziddi; 1949: Mahal; Rimjhim; Sawan Aya Re; 1950: Bijli; Jaan Pebchan; Muqaddar; Sati Narmada; 1951: Jai Shankar; Shri Ganesh Janma; 1952: Tamasha.

PRAKASH, RAGHUPATI SURYA (1901-56)

Full name: Raghupati Surya Prakasha Rao. South Indian pioneer director and cinematographer. Worked in Tamil and Telugu. Born in Madras, son of Raghupathi Venkaiah, a wealthy Andhra businessman and photographer who started film exhibition in South India around 1910 and built the first cinema in Madras (1914). Educated by Christian missionaries in Vepery. Sent overseas to learn film-making, he went to London and joined Barkers Motion Photography in Ealing (1918), then went to Germany (where he saw Murnau at work) and to Hollywood. He travelled to various European countries, bringing a 35mm camera home to Madras (1920). The faulty camera ruined his first feature, Meenakshi Kalyanam. Set up Star of the East Studio, known as the Glass Studio, in Purasawalkam, Madras (1921), owned by his father R. Venkaiah, where he made Bhishma Pratigya. A. Narayanan, C. Pullaiah and other pioneers worked with him there. The films were distributed throughout the subcontinent with intertitles in various languages. Probably directed the Catholic propaganda film, The Catechist of Kil-Arni, produced and written by the Irish priest Thomas Gavin Duffy together with Bruce Gordon as a fund-raiser for the Paris Foreign Mission Society in Pondicherry. Operated as distributor (1924-5) and founded Guarantee Pics (1926) with backing from the merchant-landlord Moti Narayana Rao, but it also went bankrupt. Helped Narayanan to set up the famous General Pics (for which he made the hit Leila the Star of Mingrelia) and Srinivasa Cinetone Studio (1928-39). Started a laboratory (1930). Separated from Narayanan in the mid-30s and joined Sundaram Sound Studio. Worked with Govardhan Film Distributors, owning 3 cinemas in Madras. Shot, developed and edited all his early films. Known as a brilliant technician: in Draupadi Vastrapaharanam he managed to make one actor appear in 5 places within one image, apparently without resorting to optical effects. Freelance director from mid-30s. Influenced Y.V. Rao who acted in his Gajendra Moksham. Associated mostly with mythologicals, often shot at the Gingee Fort near Madras. His Tamil reformist social, Anadhai Penn, is an early instance of nationalist propaganda just before WW2. There is contradictory evidence about some of Prakash's early Tamil sound films, which some sources ascribe to Prakash and others to his collaborator Narayanan; e.g. Draupadi Vastrapaharanam, Krishna Arjuna, Indrasabha and Rajasekharan. We have credited them to both film-makers. Also, the Telugu film Bondam Pelli (1940), made at the Madras United Artists and officially credited to H.M. Reddy, is at times credited to Prakash.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1921: Bhisma Pratigya; 1923: The Catechist of Kil-Arni; Gajendra Moksham; Bhakta Nandan; Samudra Madanam; 1926: Mohini Avatar; 1929: Dashavtar; Stage Girl; 1930: Gajendra Moksham; Lanka Dabanu; Gandhariyin Pulambai; 1931: Pavalakkodi; Leila the Star of Mingrelia; Rose of Rajasthan; 1932: Vishnu Leela (all St); 1934: Draupadi Vastrapaharanam; 1935: Lanka Dahanam; Thooku Thooki; Krishna Arjuna; 1936: Krishna Naradi; Nalayini; Indrasabha; 1937: Andal Thirukalyanam; Soldier's Wife; Rajasekharan; 1938: Anadhai Penn; Porveeran Manavi; 1939: Sirikathe; 1940: Cbandika; 1941: Tara Sasankam; 1942: Babruvabana; 1951: Mayapilla; 1956: Moondru Pennal.

PRAKASH RAO, KOVALAPATI SURYA (1914-96)

Telugu director, also worked in Tamil. Born in Kolavennu, Krishna Dist., AP. Employed briefly as an insurance agent and by a gold jewellery firm. Associated with the Praja Natya Mandali, the Telugu wing of the IPTA. Started in films as lead actor in Ramabrahmam's Apaudu (1941) and Patni (made in 1940, released in 1942: he played Kovalan); acted in R.S. Prakash's Babruvabana (1942); produced and acted in L.V. Prasad's Drobi (1948) for Swatantra Pics, which he replaced by his own Prakash Prod. (1949), producing and directing Modathi Rathri and Deeksha. Expanded this company into the Prakash Studio. 50s films were melodramas which later became psychological fantasies: e.g. Prem Nagar, a story of unrequited love drowned in liquor written by Kousalya Devi, and Kode Naagu, a remake of Kanagal's demented love story Nagara Haavu (1972). Made Kannada films in the late 70s. His son K. Raghavendra Rao is a mainstream Telugu director of action fantasies.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1950: Modathi Rathri; 1951: Deeksha/Anni; 1953: Kanna Talli/Petrathai; 1954: Balanandam; 1955: Ante Kavali; 1956: Melukolupu/Marumalarchi; 1960: Renukadevi Mahatyam; 1961: Gullopelli; 1962: Mohini Rugmangada; 1966: Badukuva Daari; 1967: Stree Janma; 1968: Bharya; Harishchandra; Bandhipotu Dongalu; 1969: Vichitra Kutumbam; 1971: Naa Thammudu; Bhale Papa; Prem Nagar; Tehsildarugari Ammayi; 1972: Pedda Koduku; Vasanthi Maligai; 1973: Jeevitbam; Ida Lokam; 1974: Kode Naagu; Satyaniki Sankellu; Prem Nagar; 1975: Chikati Velugulu; 1976: Secretary; Suprabhatam; Avan Oru Cbaritram; 1977: Ganda Hendhbi; 1979: Balina Guri; 1982: Garuda Soukiyama; Kotba Neeru; 1983: Muddula Mogudu.

PRAKASH RAO, TATINENI (1924-92)

Telugu, Tamil and Hindi director born in Kapileshwaram village, Krishna Dist., AP. Member of the CPI before Independence and associated with the radical theatre movements in Telugu. Joined L.V. Prasad as assistant director (1947-51). Début Palleteooru, starring NTR, a strident but influential ruralist melodrama in which the hero represents the grandeur of the Andhra people when he confronts the village moneylender. Later work continues the Prasad tradition of the mid-budget family drama and musical, often remade from other languages: e.g. Illarikam, produced by Prasad, adapted Ch. Narayanamurthy's Tamil film Ethirparadathu (1954) and starred Telugu cinema's leading star duo of the 50s, A. Nageshwara Rao and Anjali Devi, as stepson and stepmother. The film was remade again, by L.V. Prasad, in Hindi as Sharada (1957).

Prakash Rao took over Prasad Art Pics, running it with Pratyagatma. Made several Hindi films, e.g. the Rajendra Kumar and B. Saroja Devi hit Sasural, which included the calendar art Garden of Eden hit song Teri pyari pyari soorat ko sung by Mohammed Rafi. Directed Sivaji Ganesan (Uthama Puthran) and MGR (Padakotti). Also made children's films (Ganga Bhawani, Engalalum Mudiyyum).

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1952: Palleteooru; 1953: Picbbipullaiah; 1954: Nirupedalu; Parivarthana; 1956: Jayam Manade; Mathar Kula Manikam/Charanadasa; Amara Deepam; 1958: Amar Deep; Uthama Puthran/Sitambar; 1959: Kanniraindha Kanavan; Nalla Theerpu; Illarikam; 1960: College Girl; Maa Babu; Ellorum Innattu Mannar; 1961: Anbu Magan; Sasural; 1962: Kalbirunda Kankal; 1963: Baburani; Hamrabi; 1964: Padakotti; 1965: Babu Beti; 1966: Suraji; 1968: Duniya; Izzat; Vaasna; 1969: Namha Farishta; 1970: Ghar Ghar Ki Kahani; 1972: Rivaaj; 1973: Minor Babu; 1974: Gali Patalu; 1975: Samsaram; 1976: Pogaribottu; 1977: Chiranjeevi Rambabu; 1978: Ganga Bhawani; Hamara Sansar; 1981: Asha Jyoti; 1983: Engalalum Mudiyyum; 1988: Kab Tak Chup Rabungi.

PRASAD, L. V. (1908-94)

Full name Akkineni Lakshmi Vara Prasad Rao. Telugu, Tamil and Hindi producer and director born in Elluru, TN. Actor and studio hand in Bombay-based studios (1930), including a small role in Imperial's Alam Ara (1931). Assisted and acted for H.M. Reddy in the first Telugu sound film, Bhakta Prablada (1931) and in the Tamil Kalidas (1931). Starred in several other Reddy films. Occasionally acted in Prithvi Theatres plays. Directorial debut for the Sarathi Studio with a Tripuraneni Gopichand script,

Sivaji Ganesan (Centre) in L. V. Prasad's Manohara (1954)

Grihapravesham, stressing comic routines instead of the story's reformism. Palnati Yuddham completed Ramabrahmam's dream project: a big-budget historical with allusions to India's Independence struggle. Made his mark at the Vijaya Studio with Shavukaru and Samsaram, remaining the studio's top director for five years with successful domestic melodramas and ensemble comedies consistently featuring the urban middle class, a new departure for Telugu cinema. Elaborated this genre into a distinctive set of mid-budget soap-operas produced and distributed by Prasad Art Pics (1956), which assigned a group of younger directors to these multilinguals, often remaking hits from other languages. In the Prasad school of film-makers are his former assistants T. Prakash Rao and K. Pratyagatma who, together, briefly ran Prasad Art Pics in the early 60s; Yoganand, K.B. Tilak, Adurthi Subba Rao, Ranganath Das and Rajanikant. Shifted to Tamil in the late 50s and 60s, directing films scripted, surprisingly, by the DMK politician Karunanidhi (Manobara, Thayilla Pillai and Iruvar Ullam). Hindi debut in 1957 with the melodrama Sharada, a remake of the Tamil Ethirparadathu (1954) and the Telugu Ilavelpu (1956), in which Raj Kapoor finds that he has become the stepson of his beloved, Meena Kumari. The comedy Miss Mary is the Hindi version of two previous hits: Missamma (Tamil) and Missamma (Telugu). His third Hindi film, Chhott Baben, remade the Tamil film En Thangai (1952). Launched the Prasad Studio (1965) and the Prasad Film laboratory (1976), currently considered India's finest lab. After Beti Bete, signed only his Hindi films. Scripted Udhaar Ka Sindoor (1976). Persuaded by Kamalahasan to return to acting, aged 73, for Raja Parvai. Biography by K.N.T. Sastry (1993).

FILMOGRAPHY (* also act/ only act):
1931: Alam Ara; Kalidas*; Bhakta Prahlada*; 1933: Seeta Swayamvar*; 1940: Barrister Parvatisham*; Bondam Pelli*; Chaduvukonna Bharya*; 1941: Tenali Ramakrishna*; 1942: Gharana Donga*; 1946: Grihapravesham; 1947: Palnati Yuddham; 1948: Drohi; 1949: Mana Desam; 1950: Shavukaru; Samsaram; 1952: Pelli Chesu Choodu/ Kalyanam Panni Paar; Rani; 1953: Poongothai/Paradesti; Pempudu Koduku; 1954: Manobara/Manobara; 1955: Missamma/Missamma; Mangayar Thilakam; 1957: Bhagyavati; Miss Mary; Sharada; 1958: Appu Chesu Pappu Kood/Kadan Vangi Kalyanam; 1959: Chhott Baben; 1961: Thayilla Pillai; 1963: Iruvar Ullam; 1964: Beti Bete; 1966: Dadi Maa; 1969: Jeene Ki Raah; 1972: Shadi Ke Baad; 1974: Bidaai; 1977: Jai Vijay; 1981: Raja Parvai*.

(1946-8) and later editor and publisher of Madras-based film journal Juala (Est: 1951). Early work in films as scenarist in L.V. Prasad's Prasad Art Prod, e.g. for T. Prakash Rao with whom he later took over the company. Best known as manufacturer of L.V. Prasad-derived family melodramas, often remade in Hindi. Started independent production company Atma Arts (1966) signing as K.P. Atma. Wrote his own films as well as Nirupedalu (1954), Maa Inti Mahalakshmi (1959) and Tandrulu Kodukulu (1961).

FILMOGRAPHY (* as K.P. Atma): 1961: Bharya Bartulu; 1962: Kulagobhratu; 1963: Punarjanma; 1964: Manchi Manishi; 1965: Manasulu Mamathalu; 1966: Chilaka-Gorinka; Chhota Bhai; 1967: Maa Vadina; 1968: Raja Aur Runk; 1969: Tamanna; Adarsha Kutumbam; 1970: Bachpan; Manasu Mangalyam; 1971: Shrimanthudu; Ek Nari Ek Brahachari; 1973: Mehmaan; Palletoori Bhava; Stree; 1974: Deeksha; Mugguru Ammayilu; 1976: Do Ladkiyan; Alludochadu; Attavarillu; 1977: Gadusu Ammayi; 1978: Kannavarillu; Manchi Manasu; 1979: Kamalamma Kamatam; 1980: Nayakudu Vinayakudu.

PRIYADARSHAN

Malayalam director trained at Appachan's Navodaya Studio in Kerala. Started as scenarist (e.g. M. Mani's Kuyiline Theedi, 1983). Early films were domestic comedies. After the musical hit Rakkuyilin Rajassadasil, shifted into a series of musicals, as well as psychological dramas, associated mainly with megastar Mohanlal; the pair started working together with Priyadarshan's second film Puchakkoru Mookuthi, but hit their most successful formula with a string of late 80s hits Thalavattam, Chithram and Kilukkam. Made a high-profile entry into Hindi films with the Jackie Shroff movie Gardish. His Malayalam hit Thenmavin Kombath was remade with Rajnikant as Muthu (1995).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1984: Oodarathuammava Alariyum; Puchakkoru Mookuthi; 1985: Parayanumvayya Parayathirikkanumvayya; Boeing Boeing; Aram+Araram = Kinnaram; Onnam Kunnil Oradi Kunnil; Punnaram Cholli Cholli; 1986: Ayalvasi Oru Dharithavasi; Dheem Tharikita Thom; Hello My Dear-Wrong Number; Mazha Peyyunnu Maddalam Kottunnu; Ninnishatam Ennishtam; Rakkuyilin Rajassadasil; Thalavattam; 1987: Cheppu; Abhimanyu; 1988: Aryan; Chithram; Kilukkam; Mukunthetta Sumitra Vilikkunnu; Vellankalude Naatil; Oru Muthassi Katha; Vellankalude Naatil; 1989: Vandanam; 1990: Akkareakkarekkare; 1991: Nirnayam; Gopura Vasalile; Advaitam; 1992: Muskurabat; 1993: Gardish; Midhunam; Manichithratharazu; 1994: Gandeevam; Mimaram; Thenmavin Kombath; 1995: Kalapani.

Souza (b. 1924). Visual art precedents include the pro-CPI Calcutta Group (Prodosh Dasgupta, Nirode Majumdar, Gopal Ghosh, Gobardhan Ash and Rathin Maitra) formed in 1943; and the Progressive Painters Association initiated in Madras by K.C.S. Panicker in 1944, although the title referred to the PWA. Souza, briefly a CPI member, had been expelled by the British Principal of the J.J. School of Art for his nationalist demonstrations. The first PAG show (1947), featuring S.H. Raza, M.F. Husain, K.H. Ara, H.A. Gade and Bakre, published an exhibition manifesto attempting to define a socially responsive aesthetics for the visual arts. However, the very next year the group distanced itself from these aims, with Souza claiming to have 'changed all the chauvinist ideas and the Leftist fanaticism which we had incorporated in our manifesto at the inception of the group. [T]he gulf between the so-called people and the artists cannot be bridged' (cf. Kapur, 1978). The PAG broke up shortly thereafter, most of the artists migrating to Paris or London except Husain. A second phase of the Bombay Progressives included Akbar Padamsee, Krishen Khanna and Tyeb Mehta as affiliates. Subsequently, a series of Progressive groups were started in Kashmir, Andhra Pradesh and Karnataka. More than in its political thrust, the Bombay group's major impact lay in Souza's oft-repeated claim that the PAG introduced modernism into Indian art. Although this claim is partially belied by subsequent art-historical revaluations of Tagore, Binode Behari Mukherjee and Amrita Sher-Gil as formidable antecedents, the PAG's work certainly adheres to the Western modernist canon in presenting an ideology of high art as opposed to the popular. Their consciously stated disaffiliation after Independence from nationalism informed the first significant expressionist current in India (although expressionism had been used sporadically in e.g. Ram Kinker Baij's work). The group made an existential as well as a more painterly alliance with expressionism, foregrounding figural motifs through pigment and brushwork as well as through the use of a compact figure-ground composition.

PROGRESSIVE WRITERS ASSOCIATION

Movement of Indian writers launched in London (1935) in the wake of the meeting in Paris of the International Association of Writers for the Defence of Culture against Fascism led by Gorky, Gide, Malraux et al. It became a broadly based cultural movement after the first All-India Congress in Lucknow (1936) with Munshi Premchand as President. As the first major cultural initiative involving the independent Left and the CPI, the PWA made a formidable impact, introducing a politically aware realism into the predominantly feudal and reformist traditions of Urdu, Punjabi, Hindi, Bengali, Marathi, Telugu and Malayalam literatures. However, it was overshadowed by its theatrical successor, the IPTA. The PWA's influence on film was both formal, signifying a populist vanguardism for the commercial industry (e.g. Bhavani's Mazdoor, 1934, scripted by Premchand) and economic, giving virtually all the progressive Hindi-Urdu writers

PRATYAGATMA, KOTAYYA (b. 1915)

... as K.P. Atma, Telugu and Hindi director born in Gudivada, AP. Political activist in the Congress-affiliated Andhra Youth ...

ARTISTS GROUP

... and arts launched in ...

employment as scenarists in Bombay: Krishan Chander, Rajinder Singh Bedi, Sadat Hasan Manto, Ismat Chughtai, Amritlal Nagar and Josh Malihabadi, poets-songwriters Kaifi Azmi, Sahir Ludhianvi et al.

PULLAIAH, CHITTAJALLU (1895-1967)

Telugu director born in Kakinada, AP. Started in 1921 as camera apprentice at R. Venkaiah's Star of the East (Madras), and at Kohinoor (Bombay). Playwright for the important Kakinada Young Men's Happy Club, for whom he wrote the play Veedhi Gayakalu, starring the then-unknown S.V. Ranga Rao and Anjali Devi. Toured Kakinada exhibiting films and later ran the permanent Minerva theatre. East India Film in Calcutta, then attempting to enter the South Indian market, invited him (1933) to make Telugu films. Directed the hit Savithri and four more films for the Calcutta studio. Made double bill Ansuya and Dhruva starring his son C. Srinivasa Rao for its rival studio, Aurora. Best-known work at Gemini, including the highly successful Balanagamma, virtually redefining the Telugu 'folklore' film genre and the adventure saga Apoorva Sabodarulu adapting Dumas's The Corsican Brothers. The latter was remade into successful Tamil and Hindi versions in the same year. Known as Star-Brahma (God of the Stars) for having introduced several of Telugu's best-known actors to film, such as Bhanumati (Varavikrayam), Anjali Devi (Gollabbama) and Pushpavalli (Chal Mohanaranga). His last Lavakusa was an elaborate NTR-Anjali Devi remake of the 1934 film made at East India, co-d with his son C. Srinivasa Rao.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1933: Savithri; 1934: Lavakusa; 1935: Sbri Krishna Tulabharam; 1936: Ansuya; Dhruva; 1937: Dasavataramulu; 1938: Satyanarayana Vratam; Kasulaperu; Chal Mohanaranga; Mohini Bhaskasura; 1939: Varavikrayam; 1940: Malaibi Madhavam; 1942: Balanagamma; 1946: Narada Naradi; 1947: Gollabbama; 1948: Vindhyarani; 1950: Apoorva Sabodarulu; 1952: Sankranti; 1953: Pakkinti Ammayi; 1960: Devanbhakudu/Naan Kanda Sorgam; 1963: Lavakusa; 1966: Paramanandayya Sishyulu Katha; 1967: Bhama Vijayam; Bhuvana Sundari Katha.

PULLAIAH, P. (1911-85)

Telugu and Tamil director born in Nellore, AP. Actor and singer on stage. Graduate from Madras University. Had several successful song and recitation records released by Gramophone Company and worked for them as a talent scout. Assistant to Baburao Painter at Shalini Cinetone (1934), leading to a long-standing engagement with Marathi cinema: cf. Dharmapatni, shot in Kolhapur and based on a V.S. Khandekar story; or Jayabheri, adapted from V. Shantaram's Tamasha classic Lokshabir Ramjoshi (1947). Turned producer investing in Star Combines (launched with the Kannamba film Harishchandra). Set up the successful mid-budget Tamil company Ragini Films (Est: 1948) in partnership with Bhimavarapu and Chandrababu Naidu (Bhakti Jana). Started East India Film in Madras. Made the very successful NTR mythological Sbri Venkateswara Mabatyam, sometimes seen as launching NTR's political career. Many of his films starred Shantakumari, whom he married.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1935: Harishchandra; 1937: Sarangadbara; 1939: Sbri Venkateswara Mabatyam; 1940: Dharmapatni; 1941: Premabandhan; Subhadra; 1943: Bhagya Lakshmi; 1945: Maya Machhindra; 1948: Bhakti Jana; 1950: Macharekhubi; Veetukkari; Thirugubatu; 1952: Dharmadevata; 1953: Manampola Mangalyam; 1954: Rebukka; 1955: Ardbangi/Pennin Perumai; Kanyasulkam; 1956: Umasundari; 1957: Vanangamudi/Tala Vanchani Veerudu; 1958: Illarame Nallaram; 1959: Kalawanani; Jayabheri; Bandaramudu/Adisaya Thirudan; 1960: Sbri Venkateswara Mabatyam; 1962: Siri Sampadalu; 1964: Murali Krishna; 1965: Preminchhi Choodu; Asai Mukham; 1966: Thaye Unakkaga; 1967: Pranamithrulu; 1970: Alludu Menalludu; 1972: Koduku Kodalu; 1975: Andaru Bagundali.

PUNATAR, RATILAL HEMCHAND

(B. 1913)

Gujarati-Hindi director aka Ratibhai Punatar. Born in Jamnagar, Gujarat. Production manager at Ranjit. Directorial debut when, following the spectacular success of Ranakdevi (1946), Ranjit started subsidiary Ajit Pics to exploit the interest in Gujarati films. First major film, Gunsundari, remade Chandulal Shah's pathbreaking silent film and remains, with Mehndi Rang Lagyo (1960) and Jesal Toral (1971), one of the Gujarati cinema's biggest hits, the first one to tap a substantial urban audience for a Gujarati cinema until then restricted to semi-urban B film circuits. Third film Mangalfera was also very successful, and continued the Gunsundari and Nanand Bhojai theme of a crumbling joint-family system faced with the values of a mercantile economy. Also made films based on the great Dwivedi's folk theatre (Gadano Bel) and on e.g. D.N. Madhok's popular novels.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1948: Gunsundari; Nanand Bhojai; 1949: Mangalfera; 1950: Man Ka Meet; Nili; Gadano Bel; 1953: Babadur; 1961: Chundadi Chokha.

PUNJAB FILM CORPORATION

Est: 1926 as fully equipped studio in Lahore under the technical supervision of R.L. Shorey, marking the beginning of a Punjabi film industry. Ironically, the pioneers of the Lahore-based industry (Shorey, Pancholi) started with a reputation for making educational films even though they were adapting Universal's 'epics' and RKO's Westerns imported by Pancholi's Empire distributors. The educational films were mainly sponsored documentaries by e.g. the Rural Community Board, the Peninsular Railway Board and the Punjab Directorate of Industries. In the silent era, these were the only agencies sponsoring film production in a region where finance was concentrated in the exhibition sector. The Punjab Film Corp. was intended as a co-operative organisation supported by the government providing facilities for the nearly 40 registered production companies in Punjab. Its objective was to further the 'educational' film in the region. With the coming of sound and the establishment of independent studios like Kardar's Playart Phototone, Shorey's Kamla Movietone effectively took over Punjab Film; the 'educational' notions faded away but the facilities remained crucial to the growing industry until Partition (1946) shifted the Punjabi industry to Bombay.

PURI, OM (B. 1950)

Character actor, born in Ambala, Punjab, who shot to stardom in Govind Nihalani's Aakrosb followed by his best-known screen role, the police officer in Ardb Satya. A former student of the National School of Drama (1970-

Satish Kumar (left) and Om Puri in Dharavi (1991)

Telugu versions of hits in other languages, e.g. Jaswantal's Anarkali (1953), Bhale Ramudu (adapted from Kismet, 1943, and using Ghantasala's music). These films opened up new directions for Telugu cinema displacing its dominant mythological genre. Made the Anjali Devi hit Suvarna Sundari, but its big-budget sequel Suvarnamanjari failed.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY (* act only): 1943: *Garuda Garvabhangam; 1945: *Swargaseema; 1949: *Raksharekha; 1951: Srisahasam; 1952: Sbanti; 1953: Devadasu; 1954: *Vipranarayana; Anmadata; 1955: Anarkali; 1956: Bhale Ramudu/Prema Pasam; Chiranjeevulu; 1957: Suvarna Sundari/Manalane Mangayin Bhagyam; Bhale Ammayilu/Iru Sabodarigal; 1958: Raja Nandini; Intiguttu; 1959: Balanagamma; Jai Bhawani; 1960: Adutha Veetu Penn; Runarubandham; Mamaku Tagga Alludu; 1962: Swarnamanjari/Mangayir Ullam Mangada Selvam; 1965: Nanna Kartavya; Sati Sakkubai; Aadabrathuku; 1967: Rabasyam; Sati Sumati; 1968: Kumkumabbarina; 1969: Saptaswarulu; Ulagam Ivulavuthan; 1970: Bhule Ebu Chivaraku Chittu.

RAGHAVENDRA RAO, K.

Successful mainstream Telugu director, son of K.S. Prakash Rao. Makes action fantasies and romances; broke through in the 80s. Announced his intentions with the NTR and Sridevi cop movie Vetagadu. Known mainly for his megahit Himmatwala, marking Sridevi's transition into the Hindi cinema opposite Jeetendra. He repeated both stars in several heavily melodramatic romance movies (Tohfa; Dharam Adhikari with Dilip Kumar), usually adapting into Hindi the plots of established Telugu hits. The father-and-son double role in Justice Choudhury was played by NTR in the Telugu and Jeetendra in Hindi version. Made the extremely successful Chiranjeevi and Sridevi film Jagadeka Veerudu Atiloka Sundari (which was a hit even in dubbed Hindi version), and NTR's comeback movie as the florid Telugu nationalist Major Chandrakant.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1975: Babu; 1976: Jyoti; Raja; 1977: Amara Deepam; Ame Katha; Adavi Ramudu; Kalpana; Premalekhalu; 1978: Radha Krishna; Simba Baludu; KD No 1; 1979: Driver Ramudu; Nindu Noorellu; Vetagadu; 1980: Gajadonga; Gharana Donga; Bhale Krishudu; Nippulanti Nijam; Prema Kanuka; Ragile Juvala; Rowdy Ramudu Konte Krishudu; Nishana; 1981: Tiruguleni Manishi; Urinki Monagadu; Satyabhama; Satyam Shivam; Kondaveeti Simbam; 1982: Thirisoolam; Justice Choudhury; Devatha; Farz Aur Kanoo; Madhura Swapnam; 1983: Himmatwala; Jaani Dost; Shakti; Adavi Simbalu; Yuddha Bhoomi; 1984: Kaamyaa; Naya Kadam; Tohfa; Bobbili Brahmana; Iddaru Dongalu; 1985: Hoshiyar; Masterji; Mera Saathi; Adavi Donga; Agni Parvatham; Pattabisbekham; Vajrayudham; 1986: Dharam Adhikari; Subagan; Chanakya Sapatham; Kondaveeti Raja; Ravana Brahma; Apoorna Sabodarulu; 1987: Manchi Donga;

Agni Putrudu; Bharatamlo Arjundu; Sabasa Samrat; 1988: Dil Lagake Dekho; Aakbari Poratam; Janaki Ramudu; Donga Ramudu; 1989: Rudra Neta; Vontari Poratham; Agni; 1990: Jagadeka Veerudu Atiloka Sundari; Alludugaru; 1991: Rowdy Alludu; Coolie No 1; 1992: Allari Mogudu; Sundara Kanda; Ashwamedham; Gharana Mogudu; 1993: Allari Priyudu; Major Chandrakant; 1994: Mugguru Monagalli; Allari Premikudu; Muddula Priyudu; 1995: Gharana Bullodu; Pelli Sandbadi; Raja Simban.

RAGHUNATH, T. R. (1912-90)

Tamil director born in Trivandrum, Kerala. Assisted Raja Chandrasekhar on Gnanasoundari (1935); sound recordist with Narayanan at Srinivasa Cinetone (e.g. Tara Sasankam, 1936). Directorial debut: the 3-reeler Kizhattu Mappillai, followed by Ramalinga Swamigal, made in Calcutta. MGR appeared, mainly in minor roles, in his 40s films: Vedavathi, Thasippen. Later made Raja Desingu with MGR, adapting Raja Chandrasekhar's 1936 version. Best-known work in the 60s with all-star adventure films packed with sword fights, songs and dances, e.g. Kanavane Kan Kanda Daivam. Later technical adviser at Karpagam Studios, Madras. Appointed President of the Films Division, Madras, by his former protégé, MGR.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1936: Kizhattu Mappillai; 1939: Ramalinga Swamigal; 1941: Vedavathi; 1942: Thamizharyum Perumal; Thasippen; 1944: Mahamaya; Prabhavati; 1945: Ardhanari; Paranjoti; 1946: Udayanan Vasavadattha; 1951: Singari; Vanasundari; 1952: Mappillai; 1954: Vilayattu Bommai; 1955: Kanavane Kan Kanda Daivam; Mabeswari; Rajkumari; 1956: Marmaveeran; 1957: Rani Lalithangai; Yar Paiyan; Allavudeenum Arputha Vilakkum/Allauddin Adbhuta Deepam; Alladdin Ka Chirag; 1958: Kanniyin Sabatham; Mangalya Bhagyam; Priya Milan; 1959: Vannakkili; 1960:

Anbukkor Anni; Raja Desingu; 1961: Marudu Nattu Veeran; Naga Nandini; 1962: Kavitha; Vikramadithan; 1971: Lora Nee Evide; 1972: Mappillai Azhappu; 1973: Angathattu.

RAGHURAMAIAH, KALYANAM (1915-68)

Telugu singing star, born in Guntur, AP. Original name: Venkatasubbaiah. Developed a characteristic singing style combining it with whistling (later even whistling classical Carnatic tunes, which gave him his popular name of 'Elapata' Raghuramaiah). Joined Telugu theatre aged 8, playing Raghurama in the mythological play Bhakta Ramadas. In 1928 he acted the female role of Shakuntala in front of Rabindranath Tagore, who called him Andhra Nataka Kokila. With his second film, Kuchela, became known for acting Krishna, later adding the role of Narada to his repertoire.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1933: Pritivi Putra; 1935: Kuchela; 1936: Lanka Dahanam; 1937: Rukmini Kalyanam; 1939: Pasupatastrama; 1941: Apavadu; Talliprema; 1947: Gollabbama; Brahma Ratnam; Radhika; 1948: Madalasa; 1950: Maya Ramba; 1951: Agni Pareeksba; Chandrawanka; Mayapilla; 1952: Aadabrathuku; 1953: Prapancham; 1954: Sati Sakkubai; 1955: Sbri Krishna Tulabharan; 1956: Bhakta Markandeya; Chintamani; Nagula Chaviti; 1958: Sbri Ramanjaneya Yuddham; Sbri Krishna Maya; 1959: Bhakta Ambarish; 1960: Devanthakudu; 1961: Usba Parinayam; Nagarjuna; Rushyasbrunga/Rishyasringar; Krishna Kuchela; 1963: Valmiki; Sbri Somavara Vratba Mahatmyam; Vishnu Maya; 1966: Mobini Bhasmasura.

RAI, HIMANSU (1892-1940)

Film producer and actor; founder and chief of Bombay Talkies. Born into a wealthy Bengali family with a private theatre. Law degree from the University of Calcutta and studied with Rabindranath Tagore. Trained as a lawyer in London in the early 20s where he also acted in the theatre and worked as a consultant for films with an Oriental theme. Acted in the London run of Niranjan Pal's play The Goddess. With Pal's script adapted from Edwin Arnold's poem The Light of Asia, went into partnership with the major German producer Peter Ostermayer whose brother (Franz Osten) directed the film (Prem Sanyas) co-financed by the Delhi-based Great Eastern Film Corp. owned by Sir Moti Sagar and Prem Sagar. Rai played the lead: the Buddha. To overcome distribution problems in Britain, he screened the film for the Anglo-German Royal family at Windsor Castle. The film was fairly successful in Central Europe and launched Rai on a series of international co-productions on Orientalist themes. His next film, Shiraz, was pre-sold to UFA and to British Instructional Films. Prapancha Pash was co-financed by UFA and Harry Bruce Woolfe in London and introduced Devika Rani, married to Rai in 1929. Osten directed all the Pal scripts as Orientalist exotica, claiming Prem Sanyas to be the 'first authentically Indian film'. British support for the films made it seem that Rai and Pal were working within the terms of the objectives of Empire Films as established at the 1926 Imperial Conference. Since the films were pre-sold, Rai made no money from their success. His next production, Karma (1933), was in English, directed by J.L. Freer Hunt and wholly produced by Rai. Although critically acclaimed, it flopped. The introduction of sound and the Nazi's seizure of power in Germany persuaded Rai to abandon international co-productions and to concentrate on the domestic market. With Devika Rani, he set up Bombay Talkies (1934) relying on his European collaborators and on the support of wealthy financiers such as Sir Cowasji Jehangir and Sir Chunilal Mehta. After 3 years, Rai was able to pay dividends to his backers. His main artistic achievement is the story and production of Achhut Kanya (1936), starring Devika Rani as an Untouchable. The outbreak of WW2 meant that the German technicians and director were interned by the British, crippling the studio. Rai died in 1940. After his death, Devika Rani took over the studio.

Himansu Rai (right) in Prem Sanyas (1925)

↑ FILMOGRAPHY: 1925: Prem Sanyas; 1928: Shiraz; 1929: Prapancha Pash; 1933: Karma/Nagan Ki Ragini.

RAJALAKSHMI, T. P. (?-1964)

Actress, producer and first Tamil woman director. Born in Salaimangalam near Thanjavur; married and separated when aged 7. Learnt dance and music, and made her stage debut under the tutelage of the famous Sankaradas Swamigal, considered the father of the modern Tamil theatre. Acted in silents directed by Raja Sandow, and then in the first Tamil feature, H.M. Reddy's Kallidas, where she also sang a nationalist song in praise of Gandhi. Major star with R. Prakash's Anadhai

Penn. Became a novelist (Kamalavalli and Vimala), then a director adapting her first novel as Miss Kamala.

↑ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1930: Rajeshwari; Sati Usha Sundari (all St.); 1931: Kalidas; 1935: Gul-e-Bakavali, Lalithangi, Poornachandra; 1936: *Bhakta Kuchela; Bhama Parinayam; Miss Kamala; Simantini; 1937: Kausalya Parinayam; 1938: *Madurai Veeran; Nandakumar; Anadhai Penn; 1939: Bhakta Kumaran; Saguna Sarasa; Tamil Thayi; 1943: Uthami; 1945: Paranjoti; 1947: Jeevajyoti; 1950: Ibhaya Geetham.

RAJAMMA, M. V. (B. 1923)

Kannada, Tamil and Telugu actress born in Agandanahalli, TN. Associated mostly with B.R. Panthulu's films, with whom she started her stage career at Chandrakala Natak Mandali. First film: the lead role in Simha's Samara Nauka. Established her own production company, Vijaya Films, for Radha Ramana (1943), later merged into Panthulu's Padmini Pics. Her acting remains the most distinctive element of Panthulu's influential brand of melodrama, both in its reformist-realist aspect (School Master) and in its historical-spectacular avatar (Kittur Chanamma, Shri Krishnadevaraya). Acted in K. Subramanyam's films Anantbasayanam, Bhaka Prahlada and Gokula Dasi and in the seminal DMK Film Velaikkari. She was a star in 3 languages and made over 100 films.

↑ FILMOGRAPHY: 1936: Samsara Nauka; 1938: Krishna Jarasandha; Yayati; 1940: Uthama Putran; 1941: Gumastavin Penn; Madanakamarajan; 1942: Anantbasayanam; Bhakta Prahlada (K); 1943: Radha Ramana; 1945: Mayalokam; Ardbhanari; 1946: Vijayalakshmi; 1947: Yogi Vemana; 1948: En Kanavar; Gnanasoundari; Gokula Dasi; 1949: Kanakangi; Laila Majnu; Velaikkari; 1950: Parijatam; Raja Vikrama; 1952: Puuiyal; Penn Manam; Thayi Ullam; 1954: Iddaru Pellalu; 1955: Modalatedi; Shivasbarane Nambiyakka; 1956: Kudumba Vilakku; Kannin Manigal; 1957: Manalane Mangayin Bbagyam; Rainagiri Rabasya; Tangamalai Rabasyam; 1958: School Master/Badi Pantalu; 1959: Abba! A Hudgi; 1960: Makkala Rajya/Pillalu Techina Challani Rajyam; Kuzhandaigal Kanda Kudiyarasu; 1961: Pavamanippu; Thayilla Pillai; Kittur Chanamma; 1962: Galigopura/Gali Medalu; Thayi Karulu/Thayin Karunai; 1963: Sati Shakthi; 1964: Chinnada Gombel/Muradban Muthu; Karnan/Karna/Daanveer Karna; 1965: Aadabrabhuku; 1966: Dudde Doddappa; Emme Thammanna; 1968: Amma; 1970: Theedi Vantha Mappillai; Shri Krishnadevaraya; 1971: Thayi Devaru; Malathi Madhava; 1972: Ondu Hennina Kathe; 1973: Bangarada Panjara; 1974: Sampathige Savai; 1975: Dari Tappida Maga; 1976: Besuge; Vijayavani; 1989: Kamabbhimani.

Rajanikant see Rajnikant

RAJAN-NAGENDRA (RAJAN, B. 1933 NAGENDRA, B. 1935)

Composer duo mainly in Kannada cinema; dominated popular music since the early 50s (with G.K. Venkatesh). They are brothers, both born in Mysore, taught by their father, Rajappa, a classical musician who also worked in live orchestras for silent films. Rajan was trained as a violinist, Nagendra, who also sang, on jaltarang. Learned classical Carnatic music under Bidaram Krishnappa. They went to Madras and worked under Tamil film composer H.R. Padmanabha Sastry. Returned to Mysore to record with singer P. Kalingrao for AIR. Nagendra first sang in Sbri Srinivasa Kalyana (1952) by B. Vittalacharya, who then gave them their first break as composers in Chanchala Kumari. The bulk of their music used traditional instruments and evoked diluted versions of Carnatic music. They claim their more recent work introduced sophisticated recording devices and instruments in Kannada, including stereophony in Singaporenalli Raja Kulla, recorded in Singapore. Important predecessors of a former assistant, Ilaiyaraaja.

↑ FILMOGRAPHY: 1953: Saubhagya Lakshmi; Chanchala Kumari; 1954: Kanyadana; Rajalakshmi; 1956: Muttaide Bhagya; 1958: Mane Thumbida Henu; Mangalya Yoga; 1959: Manegebanda Mahalakshmi; 1961: Nagarjuna; 1962: Ratnamanjari; 1964: Mangala Muburta; Veera Sankalpa; Navajeevana; Annapurana; 1965: Patala Mohini; 1966: Endu Ninnavane; Mantralaya Mahatme; Shri Kannika Parameshwari Kathe; 1967: Anuradha; Sati Sukanya; Devara Gedda Manava; Bangarada Hooru; 1968: Addadari; Pravasi Mandira; 1969: Mayor Muthanna; 1970: Kanneeru; Aparajithe; Mooru Muttugalu; Boregowda Bangaloruge Banda; 1971: Ondekula Ondedaiva; Bethaalá Gudda; Anugraba; Nyayave Devaru; Vishakanya; Darde Budedi; 1972: Nari Munidare Mari; Kulla Agent 000; Bbale Huchcha; Dharmapatni; Pagetba Puge; 1973: Premapasha; Beesida Bale; Swayamvara; Cowboy Kulla; Gandhadagudi; 1974: Eradu Kanasi; Maha Thyaga; Professor Huchuraya; Shri Srinivasa Kalyana; Devara Gudi; 1975: Kalla Kulla; Mantra Shakti; Beluvalada Madilalli; Pooja; 1976: Mugiyada Kathe; Bayalu Dari; Vijayavani; Na Ninna Mareyalare; Mangalya Bhagya; Devara Duddu; Phoenix; 1977: Bayasade Banda Bhagya; Bhagyavantharu; Pavanaganga; Girikanya; Thyagintu Devarilla; Kittu Puttu; Pantbulamma; 1978: Hombisilu; Anuragha Bandhana; Parasangada Gendethimma; Kiladi Jodi; Madhura Sangama; Singaporenalli Raja Kulla; Sommokadidhi Sokokadidhi; 1979: Na Ninna Bidalare; Putani Agents 1-2-3; Preeti Madu Tamashe Nodu; Na Niruvude Ninangangi; Chandanada Gombel; Dangeyedda Makkalu; Nanobba Kalla; Maralu Sarapani; Intinti Ramayanam; Veetuku Veedu Vasappadi; 1980: Point Parimala; Rama Parasburama; Kulla Kulli;

*Auto Raja; Rama Lakshmana; Biligiriya Bandalalli; Mankutimbma; Allari Bhava; Naga Malli; Tutbaiah Prema Leelalu; 1981: Galimatbu; Kudi Balidare Swargasukha; Yava Hoovu Yara Mudigo; Premanu Bandha; Muniyana Madari; Chadurida Chitragalu; Jivakke Jiwa; Prema Pallavi; Avala Hejje; Addala Meda; Pranaya Geetham; 1982: Archana; Parijata; Tony; Nanna Devaru; Chelisuwa Modagalu; Bettale Seve; Nagalu Stambalata; Maa Intiyina Katha; Manchu Pallaki; Vayyari Bhamulu Vagalamari Bharthulu; 1983: Onde Guri; Jaggu; Benkiya Bale; Prema Parva; Ibbani Karagitu; Gayatri Madhuve; Kotikokkadu; Lanke Bindelu; Moodu Mullu; Pili Bebbuli; Raju Rani Jackie; 1984: Mareyade Mahalu; Premasakshi; Kalinga Sarpa; Mooru Janma; Yarivanu?; Rampurada Ravana; Premigala Sava; Onde Raktha; Preeti Vatsalya; Marali Goodige; Olavu Moodidaga; 1985: Anuragabandham; Bidugadeya Bedi; Bettada Hoovu; Kadina Raja; Giri Bale; Sedina Hakti; Shabdagalu. Jeevana Chakra; 1986: Usha; Prema Gange; Mrigalaya; Guri; Mathondu Charithre; 1987: Karunamayi; Inspector Krantikumar; Apath Bandhava; Raga Leela; 1988: Sambhavame Yuge Yuge; Nammoora Raja; Jana Nayaka; Suprabhata; Dharmatma (K); 1989: Hridaya Geethe; Gagana; Doctor Krishna; 1990: Chappala Channigaraya; Kempu Soorya; Shiva Shankar; Mathe Hadithu Kogile; Bare Nanna Muddina Rani; Ganeshana Madhuve; 1991: Gandanige Thakka Hendthi; Modada Mareyalli; Gauri Ganesha; Nagunagutha Nali; Jagadeka Veera.****

RAJARATHNAM, BEZAWADA (B. 1921)

Actress and singer in Telugu film. Born in Tenali, AP. Studied music under Tenali Saraswathi and Jonavittula Sheshgiri Rao. Started recording through Lanka Kameshwara Rao and became a known recording star, esp. for the number Subba gopala, set to lyrics by actor-singer Kopparapu Subba Rao. Also known for her music in plays like Rukmini Kalyanam (in the role of Rukmini), Pundarika (as the courtesan), Radha Krishna (as Radha), the title role of Meera, etc. Film star after Malli Pelli, with hit singles like Eepoo podarinta (from Viswamobini), Rade cheli (from Devatba). Playback singer in the late 40s in e.g. Bhakta Potana (1942) and Mobini (1948). After a major performance in Balaramaiah's Mugguru Marathlu, then returned to film singing after a gap of 22 years with Jagadeka Veeruni Katha (1961).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1934: Seeta Kalyanam;

1939: Malli Pelli; 1940: Viswamobini; 1941: Devatba; Dakshayagnam; 1942: Jeevanmukti; 1946: Mugguru Marathlu; 1947: Yogi Vemana; Shanbagavalli.

Raja Sandow see Sandow, P. K. Raja

RAJDUDD (B. 1932)

Aka Rajdutt Mayalu. Marathi director and actor born in Dhamangaon, Vardha District. Studied commerce, then worked as theatre reviewer and sub-editor of the Tagore magazine in Bharat. Assistant of Raja Paranjpe for 12 years, acting in some of his films; later remade Paranjpe's Pudhcha Paool. Continued the tradition of Marathi prose melodrama, flavoured, after 1970, with notions of social relevance as promoted by the New Indian Cinema (e.g. Shapit, based on a novel by Marathi writer Arun Sadhu. The film was originally started by the noted experimental theatre director Arvind Deshpande, and completed by Rajdutt when he died). Regarded, with Raja Thakur, as part of the 'decent' middle-class 60s orthodox preceding the trend exemplified by Dada Kondke and the Mahesh Kothare-Lakshmikant Berde comedies (e.g. Tharbaraat, 1989). Divorced from the literary and theatrical moorings of the Paranjpe and Madgulkar films, his work tends to present the exhaustion of established Marathi genres like the Saint film (Devaki Nandan Gopala) or his revisiting of the traditional genre of the urban-rural divide in the comedy Mumbaicha Fauzdar.

FILMOGRAPHY (* act only): 1960: Jagachya

*Patbivar; 1961: *Suvasini; 1966: *Gurukilli; 1967: Madhubandha; 1968: Gharchi Rani; 1969: *Aparadh; Adhaar; 1970: Dev Manoo; Dhakti Bahin; 1971: Jhep; 1973: Bholi Bhabdi; Varbadi Ani Vajantri; 1975: Ya Sukhano Ya; 1977: Devaki Nandan Gopala; 1978: Chandra Hota Saksbila; 1979: Ashta Vinayak; 1980: Bhalu; 1981: Are Sansar Sansar; 1982: Aplech Duat Aplech Oth; Shapit; 1983: Raghumaina; Sasu Varchad Javai; 1984: Hech Mazha Maher; Mumbaicha Fauzdar; 1985: Ardhang; 1986: Aajbhale Mukti Mi; Mazhe Ghar Mazha Sansar; Pudhcha Paool; Maphicha Saksbidar; 1987: Anandi Anand; Sarja; 1990: Phaansi Ka Phanda.

RAJE, ARUNA (B. 1946)

Hindi director born in Pune. Graduated as editor from the FTII (1969). Early features co-d. with Vikas Desai, jointly signed Arunavikas. First solo feature, Ribaee, was a commercial hit. Also makes ads, promotional films and TV serials (most recently, the documentary series Shadi Ya ... for the cable channel Zee-TV).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1976: Sbaque; 1980:

Gebrayee; 1982: Sitam; 1988: Ribaee; 1992: Patit Pawan; 1993: Shadi Ya ... (TV).

RAJENDAR, THESINGU (B. 1955)

Successful Tamil director and star who claims to be the writer, composer, director, cameraman, lead star, publicist and distributor of all his films. Born in Mayavaram, Tanjore Dist. in a family of musicians; entered films as scenarist and lyricist of E.M. Ibrahim's Oru Thulai Ragam (1980). Director-critic K. Hariharan writes about his 6th successive hit, En Thangai Kalyani: 'Everything he does is against all reasonable and accepted methods of presentation. From the casting of himself as the hero, to the indiscriminate use of trolleys and cranes, from his bizarre, opulent sets to the cacophonous background scores, his cinema defies logic... yet, almost the entire population of Tamil Nadu must have seen his films.' Hariharan suggests their strong counter-cultural thrust is due mainly to the overturning of the DMK Film's conventions: women cause the problems in his films, his use of rhyming dialogue and puns contrasts with the DMK film's emphasis on rhetoric, and he eliminates all location shooting while using psychedelic lighting patterns. En Thangai Kalyani, notably, took the alliterative dialogue popularised by the DMK to its extreme limit, extended even into English dialogue. He publicly rebuffed megastar and chief minister MGR in a dispute over the distribution rights of Urvai Katha Kili, using the rival DMK platform. Introduced several young actors such as Amala and Anand Babu. His son Silambarasan acts in all his films. Became a DMK supporter in 1984, but then started his own Party for the Resurgence of the Motherland, contesting and losing the state assembly elections to the star and future chief minister, Jayalalitha (1991). Later rejoined the DMK as its Propaganda Secretary. Runs his own journal T. Rajendarin Usha.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1980: Vasantha

Azhaippukkal; 1981: Rail Payanangalil; 1982: Ragam Thedum Pallavi; Nenjil Oru Ragam; 1983: Uyir Ulla Varai Usha; Thangaikor Geetham; 1984: Urvai Katha Kili; Prema Prema Prema; 1986: Maitthili Ennai Kathali; 1987: Oru Thayin Sabbatham; 1988: En Thangai Kalyani; 1989: Samsara Sangeetham; 1991: Shanti Enathu Shanti; 1992: Enga Veetu Velan; 1993: Shabash Babu (act only); 1994: Oru Vasantha Geetham; 1995: Thayi Thangai Pasam.

RAJENDRAN, LENIN (B. 1952)

Malayalam director born in Trivandrum, Kerala. Started as P.A. Backer's assistant. Worked in several genres including love stories and the elaborately mounted period film Swathi Thirunal. Best-known work tries to rewrite Kerala's political history informed by CPI(M) positions, e.g. on the 19th C. feudal history of Travancore and the agrarian reform struggles in the 40s (see Meenamasatbile Sooryan). Contested 1989 and 1991 General Elections as CPI(M)-sponsored independent candidate. Also made documentaries, e.g. Uppukattu, Nervazhi and Badratha. Employed in the Kerala State Film Development Corp.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1981: Venak; 1982: Chillu;

1983: Prem Nazirine Kanmanilla; 1985: Meenamasatbile Sooryan; 1987: Swathi Thirunal; 1988: Puravrutnam; 1989: Vachanam; 1992: Daivathinte Vikritikal.

Rajendra Singh, S. V. see Singh, S. V. Rajendra Rajeswara Rao, Saluri see Rao, Saluri Rajeswara

RAJKAMAL KALAMANDIR

Studio started by V. Shantaram in the former Wadia Movietone buildings in Bombay (1942). Debut feature was Shakuntala (1943), and the fourth film here was Dr Kotnis Ki Dhruva Tare, Bhagyada Lakshmi Baramma, 1986: Anuragha Aralitu; Guri, 1987: Ondu Muthina Kathe; Shruti Seridaga, 1988: Shiva Mechida Kannappa; Devatha Manushya, 1989: Parashurama, 1992: Jeevana Chaitra, 1993: Akasmika, 1994: Odabuttidavaru, Gandada Gudi II.

RAJNIKANT (B. 1950)

80s-90s Tamil megastar; also worked in Hindi, Telugu and Kannada films. Born as Shivajirao Gaekwad in Bangalore, the son of a police constable; employed as a bus-conductor in the city before he joined the Madras Film Institute. Debut in a brief role in Puttanna Kanagal's Katha Sangama, in the Munithayi episode; broke through in K. Balachander's Apoorva Ragangal. A fanatic film viewer since childhood, his unique acting style is characterised by a trade-mark gesture: flipping a cigarette in the air before he catches it with his mouth. Claims to 'explode like a tiger on screen'. In his early films he often played controversial heroic figures, violating the prohibitions of morality set in place by the MGR persona. Often played negative roles (Apoorva Ragangal, Patbinaru Vayathinile; Priya where he plays the producer of soft-porn films). First Hindi success: Andha Kanoon, trying to out-swagger Bachchan: they acted together again in Girafaar and in Hum; and Rajnikant featured in Tamil remakes of Don and Trishul (both 1978). With make-up covering his dark skin, making it look slightly purple, heavy-lidded eyes affecting a 'macho' gaze and a manic, infantile energy, his acting can appear embarrassing but is much appreciated by teenagers. However no movie star in Tamil Nadu with the exception of MGR has approached the degree of fanatic popularity Rajnikant enjoyed in the late 80s and 90s. A trade paper described him as prey to 'faulty diction, unconventional looks and flashy overacting'. The style, evoking a childish delight in film acting, is aptly mobilised in Mani Rathnam's Dalapathi. Acted in one Hollywood production, Dwight D. Little's Bloodstone (produced by Ashok Amritraj).

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1975: Katha Sangama; Apoorva Ragangal; 1976: Moondru Mudichu; Katha; 1977: Aadu Puli Atham; Aaru Pushpangal; Avargal; Bhuvana Oru Kelvi Kuri; Gayatri; Kavikuyil; Raghupati Raghava Rajaram; Patbinaru Vayathinile; Chilakamma Cheppindi; Ame Katha; Sabodarara Sava; Kumkuma Rakshe; Galate Samsara; Tholireyi Gadichindi; 1978: Ayiram Janmangal; Aval Appadithan; Bhairavi; En Kelvikku Enna Bathil; Iravan Kodutha Varam; Elamai Vinjaladugiradhu; Justice Gopinath; Mangudi Minor; Mullum Malarum; Pavathin Sambalam; Chadarangam; Shankar Saleem Simon; Thayi Meetu Satyam; Thappida Tala/Thappu Thalanga; Vanakathukuria Kathaliye; Priya; Anna Dammula Sava; Kiladi Kittu; Matu Tappada Maga; 1979: Kuppathu Raja; Ninaitthale Inikkum; Thayillamal Nannilai; Dharma Yuddham; Arulirundhu Arupadhu Vari; Amma Evarikaina Amma; Naan Vazhavippen; Anni Oru Alayam;

Allavudeenum Alubtha Velakkum/ Allavudeenum Arputha Vilakkum; Tiger; Andamaina Anubhavam; 1980: Billa; Anbukku Naan Adimai; Ram Robert Rahim; Naan Potta Sava; Kali; Johnny; Ellam En Kairasi; Polladhavan; Murattu Kalai; Mayadari Krishnu; Mr Rajnikant; Kurinchi Malar; 1981: Thee; Thillu Mullu; Kazbugu; Netrikkam; Garjanai; Ranuva Veeran; 1982: Agni Satchi; Pookkari Raja; Puthu Kavithai; Ranga; Thanikatu Raja; Engeyo Ketta Kurai; 1983: Payum Puli; Adutha Varisu; Sasthi Viratam; Sigappu Suryan; Thayi Veedu; Thanga Magan; Thudikkum Karangal; Uruvavugal Malarum; Moondru Mugam; Prema Pariksha; Andha Kanoon; Jeet Hamari; 1984: Anbulla Rajanikant; Kayi Kodukkum Kayi; Naan Mahaan Alla; Nallavanukku Nallavan; Thambikku Entba Ooru; Tiger Rajani; Takkardonga; Rowdycaku Sava; Nuva Nena; Ithe Naa Sava; Meri Adalat; Gangvaa; John Jani Janardan; Aakbri Sangram; Zulm Ki Zanjeer; 1985: Chithirame Chithirame; Padikkadhavan; Shri Raghavendrar; Naan Sigappu Manithan; Un Kannil Neer Vazhinda; Mahaguru; Wafadaar; Bewafai; Girafaar; Aaj Ka Duda; Mera Inteqam; Nyayam Meere Cheppali; Yaar; 1986: Naan Adimai Illai; Viduthalai; Maaveeran; Jeevana Poratam; Mr Bharat; Bhagwan Dada; Asli Naqli; Dosti Dushmani; 1987: Velaikkaran; Insaaf Kaun Karega; Uttar Dakshin; Oor Kavalan; Manithan; Saitam Oru Vilayattu; Daku Hasina; Manadhil Urudbi Vendhum; 1988: Guru Shishyan; Dharmathin Thalaivan; Kodiparaku; Tamacha; 1989: Rajadhi Raja; Shiva (Ta); Raja Chinna Raja; Mappillai; Bhrashtachar; Chhaalbaaz; Gair Kanoo; En Purushanthan Enakkum Mattumthar; Bloodstone; 1990: Panakkaran; Dharmadurai; Adisaya Piravi; 1991: Dalapathi; Mannan; Hum; Phool Bane Angarey; Shanti Kranti; Nattukoru Nallavan; Farishte; Khoon Ka Karz; Sivaranjani; 1992: Annimalai; Pandian; Tyaagi; 1993: Yujaman; Uzhappali; Valli; Insaniyat Ka Devata; 1994: Veera; Badsba; 1995: Peda Rayudu; Aatank Hi Aatank; Bhagyadevata; Muthu.

RAJU, THOTAKURA VENKATA (1921-73)

Telugu-Tamil composer; also worked on Kannada films. Originally called T. Venkataraju. Born in Rajahmundry taluk, AP. Learnt music in his native village from Nallan Chakravarthula Krishnamacharyulu. Stage actor in Madras under the name Master Venkataraju. Harmonium accompanist for Anjali Devi's dance performances. Assisted Adi Narayana Rao on Palletoori Pilla (1950). His first film was B.A. Subba Rao's Tinguranga. Also scored films by Yoganand, Raghavaiah, K. Kameshwara Rao, NTR and K. Vishwanath's early 70s films.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1952: Tinguranga; 1953: Pichhipullaiyah; 1954: Todu Dongalu; Nirupedalu; 1955: Jayasimba; Aadabidda; 1957: Panduranga Mahatyam; 1958: Raja Nandini; Shri Krishna Maya; 1959: Balanagamma; 1961: Taxi Ramudu; 1963: Savati Koduku; 1965: Vishala Hridayalu; Shri

Simbachala Kshetra Manatmyam; Mangamma Sapatham; 1966: Shri Krishna Pandaviyam; Bhimanjaneya Yuddham; 1967: Ummadi Kutumbam; Shri Krishnavataram; Chadarangam; Bhama Vijayam; Nindu Manasulu; Kambojaraju Katha; 1968: Tikka Shankaraiyah; Baghdad Gajadonga; Devakanya; Kalisochina Adrushtam; Varakatnam; 1969: Tara Sasankam; Katha Nayakudu; Bhale Mastaru; Vichitra Kutumbam; Karpura Harati; Bandhipotu Bhimanna; Gandikota Rabhasyam; Saptaswarulu; Kadaladu Vadaladu; Bhale Tammudu; Nindu Hridayalu; 1970: Marina Manishi; Kodalu Diddina Kapuram; Talla Pellama; 1971: Chinnanati Snehitulu; Nindu Dampatulu; 1972: Raj Mahal; Shri Krishnanjaneya Yuddham; Rani Yar Kulandai?; Kanimuthu Papa; 1973: Dhanama? Daivama?; 1977: Ella Hanakkagi.

RAMABRAHMAN, GUDAVALLI (1902-46)

Telugu director born in Nandamuru, AP. Educated at National College, Masulipatnam (1918). Early films were seminal influences on the political preoccupations of 40s Telugu film. Started in literature and theatre, influenced by the Telugu poet Vishwanatha Satyanarayana. Theatre critic for nationalist journal Swarajya. Established his own theatre group, Bharatamuni Brundam, in Masulipatnam (1929), employing e.g. S. Raghavacharya as a writer; then went into politics, first with the Justice Party and later Congress (1931). Editor of Samadarshini (1930) and helped start the Madras-based journal Prajamitra (1932). Publicity adviser to Vel Pics. Joined Saraswathi Cinetone as production manager and supervised H.V. Babu's Draupadi Vastrapaharanam (1936). Early work at Sarathy Films (Est: 1936) includes Malapilla and Raitu Bidda, directly alluding to topical politics. Both films show how Telugu folk performance idioms (cf. Burrakatha) were adapted into film, combining their political usage by the Kisan Sabhas with Basavaraju Apparao's lyrics. The films also provided a start for V. Raghavaiah's career as a choreographer. Films influenced by the politics of the Telugu reformists Kandakuri Veeresalingam (1848-1919) and Kaviraj Ramaswamy Choudhury, and by Gandhi's anti-Untouchability campaign. Raitu Bidda, his best-known film, faced major opposition from the Andhra landed elite and is dedicated to the Maharaja of Travancore, who opened temples to people of all castes. His last, and most ambitious, film was completed by L.V. Prasad.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1938: Malapilla; 1939: Raitu Bidda; 1940: Illalu; 1941: Apavadi; 1942: Patni; 1943: Panthulamma; 1945: Mayalokam; 1947: Palmati Yuddham.

RAMACHANDRAN, MARUDUR GOPALAMENON (1917-87)

Aka MGR. Tamil megastar since 1950 and populist politician; one of the most controversial figures in Indian cinema. Born in Kandy, Sri Lanka (possibly in 1912). Legend has it that his birth coincided with his father's death, and the family moved to Tamil Nadu where they lived poorly. Three siblings died as well. Aged 6, joined a theatre group, the Madurai Original Boys, where he learned dancing, acting and swordplay. Screen debut for Ellis R. Duncan (1936); first major starring role in A.S.A. Sami's Rajakumari (1947). Joined the DMK Party (1953), having featured in the Karunanidhi scripted Mantthiri Kumari. Apparently modelled on Douglas Fairbanks, his 50s screen persona in adventure films directed by T.R. Sundaram, Ramanna, Yoganand and P. Neelakantan constructed an image of political as well as physical invincibility (vanquishing tigers with his bare hands in Gul-e-Bakavali and righting all wrongs) identified with 'the people' and promoting his political programme. In the 60s, esp. after Thirudathe, he turned to more 'realistic' fantasies in a contemporary setting, often playing a saintly member of an oppressed class: e.g. a peasant, fisherman, rickshaw-puller, gardener and taxi driver. Member of the DMK (1953-72), including a brief stint in the Madras Legislative Council (1962-4); member of the Legislative Assembly (1967) when the Party won the state elections. DMK Party Treasurer (1970); fell out with the DMK's boss, Karunanidhi, and used the DMK Film's propaganda idiom against the DMK itself in Nam Naadu. Set up the rival Anna-DMK (1972), claiming allegiance to the DMK's founder, Annadurai, who had died in 1969. In 1977, his party, renamed the All-India Anna Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (AIADMK), won the state elections in alliance with Indira Gandhi's Congress; became chief minister and was re-elected for three consecutive terms, organising a totalitarian crackdown on all political dissent while introducing populist schemes like the Chief Minister's Nutritious

MGR in Nadodi Mannan

Meal Programme and taxing the poor to subsidise the rural rich. Having survived a bullet wound when he was shot by fellow actor M.R. Radha in 1967 (affecting his speech), he achieved demi-god status following a paralytic stroke in 1984 which he survived for three years, acquiring the label 'thrice-born' in the process. Last film released in 1978. Thousands of fan clubs provide a political and promotional support structure with a constant stream of e.g. lithographs depicting the star as a godlike figure. Ganesan, who acted with MGR in Kundukkili, became an opposition MP. MGR developed a fantasy land via his movies, playing numerous double roles and borrowing as much from stage historicals as from pamphleteering rhetoric. M.S.S. Pandian's The Image Trap: M.G. Ramachandran in Film and Politics (1992) noted: 'The social universe of the MGR films is a universe of asymmetrical power. [T]hus we have landlords who try to grab peasants' land (Vivasayee), rural rich who wield whips on farm hands (Enga Veetu Pillai), moneylenders who bleed the poor (Padakotti), industrialists who dismiss workers at their whim (Thozhilali), avaricious men who desire others' property (Mubarassi, Madappura, Aytrathil Oruvan), city slickers who leave poor rural girls pregnant (There Thiruvizha), married men who desire other women (Genova, Asai Mukham, Mahadevi). The conflict between these upper caste/class oppressors and MGR as a subaltern, and its resolution, form the core of his films. MGR, in the course of the conflict, appropriates several signs or symbols of authority or power from those who dominate. Three such symbols that repeatedly and prominently appear are the authority to dispense justice and exercise violence, access to literacy/education and access to women. [T]he hero's invincibility on the screen acquires a certain authenticity and appears credible not merely because of the dreamlike experience of film-watching but equally because the subaltern consciousness most often dwells between the impossible religious myth and possible history.' To construct this impossible myth, MGR used food (Mattukkara Velan, Ninaitthathi Mudippavan), colour patterns (black and red, symbols of the DMK), masquerades (often through double roles of oppressor and oppressed), etc. Viewing an MGR film has been promoted as a ritual, with stories of poor people selling their blood to get money to see his films on first release. His funeral procession was attended by over 2 million people. A temple has been built in Madras with MGR as the deity.

- ✱ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1936: Sati Leelavathi; Iru Sabodarargal; 1938: Daksabayagnam; Veer Jagdish; 1939: Maya Machhindra; Prabhadra; 1941: Asbok Kumar; Vedavathi; 1942: Thasippen; Thamizharyum Perumal; 1943: Harishchandra; 1944: Salivabanan; 1945: Meera; 1946: Sri Murugan; 1947: Paithiakaran; Rajakumari; 1948: Abhimanyu; Mobini; Raja Mukthi; 1949: Ratnakumar; 1950: Mariuthanattu Ilavarasi; Mantthiri Kumari; 1951: Marmayogi Ek Tha Raja; Sarvadbikari; 1952: Andaman Kaitthi; Kumari; En Thangai; 1953: Genova; Naam; Panakkari; 1954: Malaikallan; Kundukkili; 1955: Gul-e-Bakavali; Alibavum Narpatha Thirudargalum; 1956: Madurai Veeran; Thaikku Pinn Tharam; 1957: Chakravarthi Thirumagal; Mahadevi; Pudumaipitban; Rajarajan; 1958: *Nadodi Mannan; 1959: Thayi Magalukku Kattiya Thali; 1960: Baghdad Thirudan; Mannathi Mannan; Raja Desingu; 1961: Arasilankumari; Nallavan Vazhvan; Shabbash Mappillai; Thayi Sollai Thattathe; Thirudathe; 1962: Kudumba Thalaiyan; Madappura; Pasam; Rani Samyuktha; Thayai Katha Thanayan; Vikramadithan; 1963: Ananda Jyoti; Dharmam Thalai Kaku; Kalai Arasi; Kanchi Thalaiyan; Koduthu Vaitthaval; Needbikkupin Pasam; Panathottam; Parisi; Periya Idathu Penn; Raj Mahal; 1964: Daivathai; En Kadamai; Padakotti; Panakara Kudumbam; Thayin Madiyil; Thozhilali; Vettaikaran; 1965: Asai Mukham; Ayirathil Oruvan; Enga Veetu Pillai; Kalankari Vilakkam; Kannithai; Panam Padaithavan; Thazampoo; 1966: Anbe Vaa; Naan Anaittal; Mubarassi; Nadodi; Chandrodyam; Parakkum Pava; Petral Thani Pillaya; Thali Bhagyam; Thani Piravi; 1967: Arasa Kattalai; Kavalkaran; Thaikku Thalaimagam; Vivasayee; 1968: Rabasiya Police 115; There Thiruvizha; Kudiruntha Koil; Kannan En Kathalan; Pudhiya Bhoomi; Kanavan; Oli Vilakku; Kathal Vagbanam; 1969: Adimai Penn; Nam Naadu; Mattukkara Velan; 1970: En Annan; Thalaiyan; Thedi Vantha Mappillai; Engal Thangam; 1971: Kumari Kottam; Rickshawkaran; Neerum Neruppin; Oru Thai Makkal; 1972: Sangey Muzhangu; Nalla Neram; Raman Thediya Seethai; Annamitta Kai; Naan En Pirandem; Idaya Veenai; 1973: *Ulagam Sutrum Valiban; Pattikatu Ponnaiah; 1974: Netru Indru Nalai; Urimai Kural; Sirithu Vazha Vendum; 1975:

*Ninaitbhai Mudippavan; Nalai Namadbe, Idayakkani; Pallandhu Vazhga; 1976: Needbikku Thalai Vanangu; Uzhaikum Karangal; Oorukku Uzhaippavan; 1977: Navarathnam; Indru Pol Endrum Vazhga; Meenava Nanban; Maduraiyai Meeta Sundara Pandian.

RAMAIYADAS, THANJAI (1914-69)

Popular 50s Tamil lyricist. Former schoolteacher in Thanjavur, resigned when his pro-Congress affiliations prevented him from working, and joined the theatre. Music teacher with the Sudarshana Gana Sabha; later started his own stage company, the Jayalakshmi Gana Sabha (e.g. Macharekhai). Film debut in T.R. Sundaram's 1000 Thalavangi Apoorva Chintamani (1947). Became known for his Tamil dialogues for the Vijaya Studio's hit Patala Bhairavi (1951); went on to write songs (and sometimes dialogue) for several Vijaya productions (e.g. the song Varayo vennilave for Missamma, 1955). Also wrote lyrics for R.M. Krishnaswamy's Thooku Thooki (1954) and acted in Jambulingam's Nam Naadu (1969).

Ramakrishna Rao, P. S. see Rao, P. S. Ramakrishna

RAMAN, MAHALINGAM VENKAT (B. 1913)

Tamil, Telugu and Hindi director born on Tiruchirappalli, TN. Graduated as an accountant but became cameraman, sound recorder and editor at Srinivas Studio in Madras (1936). Directorial debut in 1945, breaking through with Vazhkai and his Hindi remake Babar. These films established the AVM Studio, and also introduced the future Hindi star Vijayanthimala. Founded his own Raman Prod. in the 50s, making e.g. the Kishore Kumar and Vijayanthimala hit, Aasha, scored by C. Ramchandra and featuring Asha Bhosle's hit song, Ina mina dika, a landmark in the introduction of Benny Goodman-style jazz into Indian music. Apparently directed two unreleased films Raja Beta (in Hindi) and Lankeshwaran (in Tamil) for his own production house in the 1950s.

◆ FILMOGRAPHY: 1945: Parvati Kalyanam; 1949: Vazhkai/Jeevitham; 1951: Babar; 1953: Penn/Ladki/Sangham; 1954: Pehli Jhalak; 1955: Vadina/Chellappillai; 1956: Bhai Bhai; 1957: Aasha; 1958: Chandan; 1959: Athisaya Penn; 1962: Konjum Salangai; 1967: Pattanathil Bhootham; 1968: Payal Ki Jhankaar; 1970: Jwala.

RAMA RAO, NANDAMURI TARAKA (1923-96)

Aka NTR. Telugu megastar, producer, director and politician. Born into farming family in Gudivada Dist., AP. Studied in Vijaywada, where he started acting in and directing college plays, often playing female roles. Attracted attention for his role as Prince Salim in Muddu

Krishna's Anarkali. Staged plays with K. Jaggaiah at the Andhra Christian College (e.g. Chesina Papam, 1946) and at the amateur National Art Theatre group, which he set up (1946). It was also an effective fund-raiser for drought and famine relief in AP in the early 50s. With Todu Dongalu (1954), it became N.A.T. Film run by Rama Rao's brother, Trivikrama Rao. Worked briefly as a clerk in the Registrar's office at Guntur (1947). Film debut with L.V. Prasad (Mana Desam). First heroic lead in B.A. Subba Rao's Palletoori Pilla. Broke through with Prasad's Shavukaru and had a two-year contract with the Vijaya Studio (hits include Patala Bhairavi, Malleeswari and Pelli Chesu Choodu), making him the top star of Telugu cinema along with Akkineni Nageshwara Rao. First mythological is Vijaya's Maya Bazaar, playing Krishna, a role he played in 17 films (typically in those by K. Kameshwara Rao) and often invoked in his political career. His 'living god' persona took off with P. Pullaiah's hit, Sbri Venkateswara Mahatyam, playing the deity of the Tirupati temple. He cultivated this identification, even publicly receiving devotees from Tirumala in front of his Madras house. Often directed himself in mythologicals playing multiple roles, e.g. Daana Veera Shura Karna (triple role) and Sbri Rama Pattabhisekham. Started in melodrama (e.g. Palletooru) and folk fantasies, later modulated, often via younger actresses like Sridevi, into vigilante characters facing a corrupt society, adapting e.g. the Prakash Mehra-type movie into Telugu (Yugandhar, Vetagadu, Bobbili Puli, etc.). Set up the populist regional Telugu Desam Party in 1982 which unseated Congress in AP for the first time since Independence. Chief minister of the state until 1989 when his party was defeated. His reign as chief minister has been extensively analysed by civil liberties activist K. Balagopal (1988), linking his films with his populist politics representing a Telugu regional bourgeoisie. Returned to film-making in 1990 to direct and act as Brahmarishi Vishwamitra, an unsuccessful campaign film for the 1991 General elections. Biography by S. Venkatnarayan (1983).

◆ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1949: Mana Desam; 1950: Palletoori Pilla, Shavukaru; Samsaram; Maya Rambha; 1951: Patala Bhairavi/Patala Bhairavi; Malleeswari; 1952: Pelli Chesu Choodu/Kalyanam Panni Paar; Palletooru; Daasi; 1953: Picbbhipullaiah; Chandirani; Ammalakalu/Marumagal; Chandrabaram; 1954: Todu Dongalu; Aggiramuudu; Vaddante Dabbu; Sangham; Rechukka; Raju Peda; Iddaru Pellalu; Parivarthana; 1955: Missamma; Jayasimba/Jaisingh; Santosham/Naya Admi; Vijayagauri; Cherapakura Chedevu; Kanyasulkam; 1956: Chintamani; Jayam Manade; Charanadasa; Umasundari; Chiranjeevulu; Sbri Gauri Mahatyam; Sontavooru; Tenali Ramakrishna/Tenali Raman; Penki Pellam; 1957: Panduranga Mahatyam; Bhagya Rekha; Sarangadhara; Veera Kankanam; Kutumba Gauravam; Vinayaka Chaviti; Sati Ansuya; Sankalpam; Maya Bazaar; 1958: Anna Thamudu; Shobha; Bhukailasa; Raja Nandini;

Karthavarayan Katha; Manchi Manasuku Manchi Rojulu; Intiguttu; Sampoorna Ramayanam; Appu Chesu Pappu Koodu; 1959: Rechukka Pragaticbukka; Vachina Kodalu Nachindi; Shabash Ramudu; Daitubalam; Bandaramudu; Balanagamma; Kalasivunte Kaladu Sukham; Raja Sevai; Raja Makutam; 1960: Sbri Venkateswara Mahatyam; Devanthakudu; Deepavali; Rani Ratnaprabha; Bhatti Vikramarka; Kadedullu Ekaram Nela; Vimala; Bbakta Raghunath; 1961: *Seeta Rama Kalyanam; Intiki Deepam Illale; Jagadeka Veeruni Katha; Shanta; Taxi Ramudu; Pelli Pilupu; Sati Sulochana; Raktha Sambandham; 1962: Gul-e-Bakavali Katha; Gali Medalu; Tiger Ramudu; Bhishma; Dakshayagnam; Gundamma Katha; Mahamantri Timmarasu; Swarnamanjari; Atmahandhuvu; Sbri Krishnarajuna Yuddham; 1963: Irugu Porugu; Pempudu Koothuru; Valmiki; Savati Koduku; Lavakusa; Paruvu Pratishtha; Apta Mithrulu; Bandhipotu; Lakshadbhikari; Tirupatham Katha; Nartanasala; Manchi Chedu; Sbri Somavara Vratba Mahatmyam; Nadi Aada Janme; 1964: Gudigantalu; Marmayogi; Kalavari Kodalu; Deshadrohulu; Ramudu Bheemudu; Satyanarayana Mahatyam; Aggipidugu; Dagudu Moothulu; Shabash Soori; Babruvahana; Vivabandham; Manchi Manishi; Varasatvam; Bobbili Yuddham; Karna; 1965: Pandava Vanavasam; Dorikite Dongalu; Mangamma Sapatham; Satya Harishchandra; Todu Nela; Prameelarjuneyam; Devatha; Veera Abhimanyu; Vishala Hridayalu; CID; Aadabrathuku; 1966: *Sbri Krishna Pandaviyam; Palnati Yuddham; Shakuntala; Srikakula Andhra Mahavishnu Katha; Paramanandayya Sishyula Katha; Mangalsutram; Aggibarata; Sangeetalakshmi; Piduguramuudu; Adugu Jadalu; Dr Anand; Sbri Krishna Tulabharam; Ramu; 1967: Gopaludu Bhoopaludu; Nirdoshi; Kanchukota; Bhuvana Sundari Katha; Ummadi Kutumbam; Bhama Vijayam; Nindu Manasulu; Stree Janma; Sbri Krishnavataram; Punyavati; Aada Paduchu; Chikkadu Dorakudu; 1968: Umachandi Gauri Shankarula Katha; Niluvu Dopidi; Talliprema; Tikka Shankaraiab; Kalisochina Adrushtam; Ninne Pelladuta; Bhagya Chakram; Nene Monaganni; Baghdad Gajadonga; Nindu Samsaram; Varakatnam; 1969: Katha Nahakudu; Bhale Mastaru; Gandikota Rahasyam; Vichitra Kutumbam; Kadaladu Vadaladu; Nindu Hridayalu; Bbale Tammudu; Aggieveerudu; Matbrudevata; Ekaveera; 1970: *Talla Pellamma; Lakshmi Kataksham; Alibaba 40 Dongalu; Pettandarulu; Vijayam Mandi; Chitti Chellalu; Mayani Mamata; Marina Manishi; Kodalu Diddina Kapuram; Oke Kutumbam; Sbri Krishna Vijayam; Kannan Varuvan; 1971: Nindu Dampatulu; Jeevitha Chakram; Rajakota Rahasyam; Raitu Bidda; Adrushta Juthakudu; Pavitra Hridayalu; Chimnanati Snehitulu; Sbri Krishna Satya; Kulagauravam; 1972: Sbri Krishnanjaneya Yuddham; Badi Pantalu; Shanti Nilayam; 1973: Dabbuku Lokam Dasoham; Deshodharakulu; Dhanama? Daivama?; Devudu Chesina Manushulu; Vaade Veedu; Errakota Veerudu; Palletoori Chinmodu; 1974: Tatamma Kala; Ammayi Pelli; Manushullo Devudu; Nippulanti Manishi; Deeksha; Shri Ramanjaneya Yuddham; Theerpu; 1975: Katha Nayakuni Katha; Maya Macchindra (Te); Samsaram; Ramuni Minchina Ramudu; Anna Dammula Anubandham; Edukuleni Manishi; Vemulavada Bhimakavi; 1976: Aradhana; Manushulanta Okkate; Magaadu; Neram Nadhikadu Akalidi; Bangaru Manishi; Maa Daivam; Manchiki Maro Peru; 1977: Adavi Ramudu; Edureetha; Sati Savitri; Evaru Devudu; Maa Iddari Katha; Yama Gola; *Chanakya Chandragupta; Daana Veera Shura Karni; 1978: Akbar Saleem Anarkali; Shri Rama Pattabhisbekham; Melukolupu; Ramakrishnu; Yuga Purushudu; Rajaputra Rabasyam; Simba Baludu; Sahasavanthudu; Lawyer Vishwanath; K.D. No. 1; 1979: Shrimad Virata Parvam; *Shri Tirupati Venkateswara Kalyanam; Driver Ramudu; Maavari Manchithanam; Vetagadu; Tiger; Shringara Ramudu; Yugandhar; 1980: Aatagadu; Gajadonga; Challenge Ramudu; Circus Ramudu; Superman; Roudy Ramudu Konte Krishnu; Sardar Paparayudu; Sharada Ramudu; 1981: Prema Simhasanam; Tiruguleni Manishi; Satyam Shivam; Vishwa Roopam; Aggirava; Kondaveeti Simham; Maha Purushudu; 1982: Kaliyuga Ramudu; Anuraga Devatha; Justice Choudhury; Bobbili Puli; Vajrayi Bhamulu Vagalamari Bharthulu; Naa Desam; 1983: Simham Navindi; *Chanda Sasanudu; 1984: Shrimad Virat Veerabrahmendra Swami Charitra; 1991: Brahmarishi Vishwamitra; 1992: Samrat Ashok; 1993: Major Chandrakant; Shrinatha Kavi Sarvabhouma.

RAMA RAO, TATINENI (B. 1938)

Telugu and Hindi director born in Kapileswaram, AP. Assisted his cousin T. Prakash Rao and later K. Pratyagatma at Prasad Art Prod. Début remade the Sivaji Ganesan hit Navarathri (1964) into Telugu with A. Nageshwara Rao, and Jayalalitha in a small role. Became a major Telugu director with his crude variations upon L.V. Prasad-Pratyagatma's family drama theme, relying on dialogue, rapid cutting and spectacle. Introduced the genre into Hindi with his Jeetendra films. First Hindi feature Lok Parlok was a hit, and he repeated the formula with Judaai and Maang Bharo Sajana, along with violent Bachchan movies Andha Kanoon and Inquilab. A virtually uninterrupted run of success, establishing a distinct trend of the 'Madras movie' - replicating successful plots and cheaper shooting styles from South Indian films into Hindi - came to an end with the failure of the Dharmendra movie Sachai Ki Taaqat, followed by Pratihar.

↑ FILMOGRAPHY: 1966: Navarathri; 1968: Brahmachari; Challani Needa; Nadamantrapu Siri; 1969: Manchi Mithrulu; Bhale Rangadu; 1971: Suputbrudu; Bharva Biddalu; Raitu Kutumbam; 1973: Jeevan; Manangitlu; Marapurani Manishi; 1974: Dora Babu; Devudu Chesina Pell; 1975: Raja Kodaka; 1977: Aalu Magalu; Athmyudu; 1978: Akbar Saleem Anarkali; 1979: Shrimad Virata Parvam; *Shri Tirupati Venkateswara Kalyanam; Driver Ramudu; Maavari Manchithanam; Vetagadu; Tiger; Shringara Ramudu; Yugandhar; 1980: Aatagadu; Gajadonga; Challenge Ramudu; Circus Ramudu; Superman; Roudy Ramudu Konte Krishnu; Sardar Paparayudu; Sharada Ramudu; 1981: Prema Simhasanam; Tiruguleni Manishi; Satyam Shivam; Vishwa Roopam; Aggirava; Kondaveeti Simham; Maha Purushudu; 1982: Kaliyuga Ramudu; Anuraga Devatha; Justice Choudhury; Bobbili Puli; Vajrayi Bhamulu Vagalamari Bharthulu; Naa Desam; 1983: Simham Navindi; *Chanda Sasanudu; 1984: Shrimad Virat Veerabrahmendra Swami Charitra; 1991: Brahmarishi Vishwamitra; 1992: Samrat Ashok; 1993: Major Chandrakant; Shrinatha Kavi Sarvabhouma.

1978: Amara Prema; Shri Rama Raksha; 1979: Lok Parlok; 1980: Judaai; Maang Bharo Sajana; Aatagadu; 1981: Ek Hi Bhook; Illalu; 1982: Anuraga Devatha; Jeevan Dhara; Main Inteqam Loonga; Yeh To Kamaal Ho Gaya; 1983: Andha Kanoon; Mugguru Monagallu; Mujhe Insaaf Chahiye; 1984: Inquilab; John Jani Janardan; Yeh Desh; 1985: Pachani Kapuram; Haqeeqat; 1986: Dosti Dushmani; Naache Mayuri; Naseeb Apna Apna; Sada Subagan; 1987: Presidentgari Abbayi; Insaaf Ki Pukar; Sansar; Watan Ke Rakhwale; 1988: Khatron Ke Khiladi; Nyayaniki Siksha; Agni Keratalu; 1989: Sachai Ki Taaqat; Majboor; Laila; 1990: Muqaddar Ka Badshah; 1991: Pratihar; Talli Tandrulu; 1992: Golmaal Govindan; Muqabala; 1994: Mr Azad; 1995: Hathkadi; Ravan Raaj.

RAMCHANDRA, NARHAR CHITALKAR (1918-82)

Composer born in Punatambe, Maharashtra. Best known as C. Ramchandra but also signed his name as Annasaheb (Bahadur Pratap, Matwale, Madadgaar), Ram Chitalkar (Sukhi Jeevan, Badla, Mr Jhatpat, Bahadur, Dosti), Shyamoo (Yeh Hai Duniya). Often sang and acted in Marathi films under the name R.N. Chitalkar. Music student under Vinayakbua Patwardhan at Gandharva Mahavidyalaya music school. Joined films playing the lead in Y.V. Rao's flop, Naganand. Then bit roles at Minerva Movietone (Saeed-e-Havas, Atma Tarang). Became harmonium accompanist for Minerva composers Bundu Khan and Habib Khan. Début as music director in Tamil films with Jayakkodi and Vanamohini. Broke through as composer in Master Bhagwan's Sukhi Jeevan, establishing a long-term association that culminated with the musical megahit Albela. Influenced by Benny Goodman, he introduced e.g. the alto sax in combination with guitar and harmonica, also whistling in one of his most famous songs, Aana meri jaan Sunday ke Sunday in Shehnai. Used a bongo, oboe, trumpet, clarinet and sax combination for Shola jo bhadke in Albela. Shin Shinaki Boobla Boo featured him singing the title song with Lata Mangeshkar assimilating some rock rhythms. Introduced scat singing for Ina mina dika in Aasha. Worked on Marathi, Telugu, Tamil and Bhojpuri films. Briefly turned producer with New Sai Prod. in 1953 (Jhanjhar, Lehren, Duniya Gol Hai). To overcome a fallow period in the late '60s, he relaunched himself as music director, producer and actor in successful Marathi films: Dhananjay, Gharkul. Autobiography published in 1977.

↑ FILMOGRAPHY (* also act/ act only): 1935: Naganand*; 1936: Saeed-e-Havas*; 1937: Atma Tarang*; 1939: Jayakkodi; 1941: Vanamohini; Narad Naradi; 1942: Hanso Hanso Ai Duniyawaalon; Sukhi Jeevan; 1943: Badla; Bhakta Raaj; Mr Jhatpat; Muskurabat; Zabaan; 1944: Bahadur; Dil Ki Baat; Lalkaar; Lal Haveli (with Mir Saheb); Manorama; Romance; 1945: Nagma-e-Sabara; Samrat Chandragupta; Sensar; 1946: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1947: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1948: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1949: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1950: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1951: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1952: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1953: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1954: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1955: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1956: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1957: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1958: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1959: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1960: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1961: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1962: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1963: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1964: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1965: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1966: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1967: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1968: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1969: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1970: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1971: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1972: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1973: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1974: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1975: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1976: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1977: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1978: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1979: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1980: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1981: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar; 1982: Bachchon Ka; Chandragupta; Sensar.

Pratap; Leela; Madadgaar; Matwale; Sajaan; Shadi Se Pehle (with Pandit Ramakant Karnad); Shehnai; *Chul Ani Mul; 1948: Jalan; Khidki; Lalach; Mullabi; Mera Munnna; Nadiya Ke Paar; Tumhari Kasam; Yeh Hai Duniya (with Payami); 1949: Bachke Rehna; Bhedi Bungla; Bhole Bhale; Duniya; Girls' School (with Anil Biswas); Jigar; Namuna; Patanga; Roshti; Sanwaria; Sipahiya; 1950: Babuji; Baksheesh; Nirala; Rupaiya; Samadhi; Sangeeta; Sangram; Sargam; 1951: Albela; Khazana; Sagaai; Shabistan; Saudagar (with Anil Biswas); Ustad Pedro; Nadaan (uncredited); 1952: Chhatrapati Shivaji; Ghungbroo; Hangama; Parbain; Shin Shinaki Boobla Boo; Saqi; Rangili (uncredited); Zamindar; 1953: Anarkali (with Basant Prakash); Jhamela; Jhanjhar; Ladki (with Dhaniranj/R. Sudarshan); Lehren; Shagufa; 1954: Kalakaar; Suhagan; Savdhan (all 3 with Vasant Desai); Kavi; Meenan; Nastik; Pehli Jhalak; Suhah Ka Tara; 1955: Azad; Baap Re Baap (with O.P. Nayyar); Duniya Gol Hai; Insaniyat; Lutera; Tirandaz; Yasmin; 1956: Twenty-Sixth January; Devata; Satranj; 1957: Aasha; Baarish; Nausarvan-e-Adil; Sharada; Talash; 1958: Raj Tilak; Amar Deep; Karigar; Talaaq; 1959: Navrang; Paigham; 1960: Aanchal; Sarbad; 1961: Amar Rahe Yeh Pyar; Stree; 1963: Baburani; 1964: Sant Nirvutti; Dnyande; Daal Mein Kala; Veer Bhimsen; 1965: Hum Diwane; Sher Dil Zindagi Aur Maut; 1966: Dhananjay; Labela; Tasveer; Mitwa; 1967: Wahan Ke Log; 1968: Balaram; Shri Krishna; *Dharmapatni; Payal Ki Jhankaar; 1970: Rootha Na Karo; Gharkul; 1971: Patondru Ketten; Tulasi Vivah; 1973: Nijam Cheppithe Nammaru; 1978: Akbar Saleem Anarkali; Toofani Takkar.

RAMNATH, K. (1912-56)

Tamil director and cameraman born in Trivandrum. Key technician in pre-50s Tamil and Telugu film. Started as apprentice at Kodak (Madras) in 1930. Part of Sound and Shadow's editorial team. First film as cameraman is Prabhat's Tamil Seeta Kalyanam (1933), assisting cinematographer V. Avadhoot. Helped set up Vel Studio (1933) with Murugadasa, the co-director of his earliest films, and set designer A.K. Sekhar. Then joined the newly established Vauhini launched by B.N. Reddi, where he became a key scenarist and cameraman. Scripted and shot Reddi's early films Vande Mataram (1939), Sumangali (1940) and Devatha (1941). Joined Gemini as production chief (1942-8). Believed to have worked closely with Uday Shankar on Kalpna (1948); shot the famed drum dance in Chandralekha (1948) inspired by Kalpna's choreography. Apparently directed Gemini's Mangamma Sapatham (1943) credited to Raghavacharya, Miss Malini (1947) credited to Kothamangalam Subbu, and Mohini (1948) at Jupiter Studio credited to Lanka Sathyam. Best-known films as director are the epic melodrama Ezhai Padum Padu at the Pakshiraja Studio, based on Victor Hugo's Les Misérables, and the seminal MGR hit Marmayogi, a key DMK Film. Founded the Cine Technicians Association in Madras (1943). Made one film in Hindi, Ribaae, unreleased.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1935: Markandeya; 1936: Paduka Pattabhishekham; 1949: Kanniyin Kaibali; 1950: Ezba Padum Padu/Beedala Patlu; 1951: Marmayogi/Ek Tha Raja; 1952: Thayi Ullam; 1953: Manithan; 1954: Ribaee, Sugam Engay; Viduthalai; 1955: Katbanayaki.

RAMSAY BROTHERS

Family of film-makers, until recently the only makers of horror films in India. After producing a Sindhi film, Nakuli Sbaan, and Vishram Bedekar's later, unremarkable genre films, Rustom Sobrab (1963) and Ek Nannbi Munni Ladki Thi (1970), the family hit gold with Do Gaz Zameen Ke Neeche, starting an extraordinary B film formula with minimal budgets, no stars and mixing conventional horror plots with mythological overtones and various other genres (e.g. adventure films, action thrillers and romances). Their films exude a sense of delight in cinema itself which, combined with the obsessive energies which animate the fantasy genre, lends a fascination to their work often missing from both commercial and 'quality' cinema. They have built up committed small-town and rural audiences. The family consists of father F.U. Ramsay (1917-1989), a radio manufacturer and producer, and his seven sons, of which Kumar, Shyam, Keshu, Tulsi and Gangu Ramsay are actively associated with film. Most of the films have been directed by Tulsi (b. 1944) and Shyam (b. 1952) as a team, both having been Bedekar's assistants. Keshu, who branched out as a solo director, does not make horror films. Kumar, the eldest, produced e.g. Raj Sippy's Kali Ganga (1989). Kiran, the youngest, traditionally in charge of the crucial (for the genre) department of sound recording, debuted as director with Sbaitani Ilaaka. The Tulsi/Shyam duo moved to TV with the best-selling late-night serial, the Zee Horror Show, on the Zee cable channel.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1971: Nakuli Sbaan; 1972: Do Gaz Zameen Ke Neeche (Tulsi); 1975: Andhera; 1978: Darwaza; 1979: Aur Kaun; 1980: Saboo; Guest House; 1981: Sannata; Dabshat; Hotel; Gbhunghroo Ki Awaaz; 1984: Purana Mandir (Tulsi); 1985: Saamri; Haveli (Keshu); Telephone; Veerana; 1986: Tabkhana; 1987: Dak Bangla (Keshu); 1988: Mera Shikar (Keshu); 1989: Purani Haveli; Anokha Darr; Saaya (Keshu); Khoj (Keshu); Mabal (Keshu); 1990: Sbaitani Ilaaka (Kiran); Bandh Darwaza; Aakbri Cheekh; 1991: Ajooba Kudrat Ka; Inspector Dhanush/Police Mattu Dada; 1993: Mabakaal; The Zee Horror Show (TV); Ashanti (Keshu).

RANGA, B. S. (B. 1918)

Tamil, Telugu and Kannada director and cameraman born in Madras, TN. Started as assistant to Krishna Gopal (1937); then went to Gemini (1941) as cameraman and lab technician. Shortly after directing his first Tamil feature, Bhakta Tulsidas (which he remade a few years later), his first assignment as cinematographer was Soundararajan's Tamil film, Bhakta Naradar (1942). Often worked with the Bombay-based Balkrishna Narayan Rao. Broke through with the bilingual Tenali Ramakrishna/Tenali Raman, following this with a trilingual. Set up the Vikram Studios in Madras and, later, the Vasanth Colour Laboratories in Bangalore, enabling him to make the first colour film in Kannada, the hit Amarashilpi Jakanachari.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1940: Bhakta Tulsidas; 1947: Bhakta Tulsidas; 1954: Maa Gopi; 1955: Jaya Gopi; 1956: Tenali Ramakrishna/Tenali Raman; Bhakta Markandeya; 1957: Kutumba Gauravam; 1959: Raja Malaya Simhan; Mahishasura Mardini/Durga Mata; 1960: Mohabbat Ki Jeet; Gunavathi; 1961: Pelli Thambulam/Nishchaya Thambulam; 1962: Ashajeevulu; Thendral Veelum; 1963: Pyar Kiya To Darna Kya; 1964: Amarashilpi Jakanachari/Amarashilpi Jakanna; Pratigne; 1965: Mabasati Ansuya; Chandrabasa; 1967: Parvathi Kalyanam; Vasantsena; 1969: Bbale Basava; 1970: Mr Rajkumar; 1971: Sidila Mari; 1973: Mannina Magalu; Pattikatu Ponmaiab; 1975: Ganga Ki Kasam; 1978: Suli; 1981: Bhagyavantha; 1982: Hasyarathna Ramakrishna; 1984: Huliyada Kala.

RANGA RAO, SAMARLA VENKATA (1918-74)

Telugu actor born in Nuzvid, AP. Educated in Madras, in Visakhapatnam and Kakinada. Acted in plays staged by the Kakinada Young Men's Happy Club, often along with Anjali Devi (e.g. Nalgo Pelli, Lobbi, Veedhi Gayakalu). Was a fire inspector until he broke through in the role of Pravarakhya in Varudhini. After Shavukaru, where he played the villain, he regularly acted in Vijaya Studio productions, whose bilinguals introduced him to the Tamil film industry (Patala Bhairavi, which featured one of his best known roles as a sorcerer). Known for emotion-charged roles like Keechaka in Nartanasala and Koliah, the criminal who undergoes a spiritual transformation in Bangaru Papa.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1946: Varudhini; 1949: Mana Desam; 1950: Palletoori Pilla; Thirugubatu; Shavukaru; 1951: Patala Bhairavi/Patala Bhairavi; 1952: Pelli Chesu Choodu/Kalyanam Panni Paar; Daasi; Palletooru; 1953: Bratuku Theruvu; Chandirani; Devadasu; Poongotbai/Paradesi; Robini; Jataka Pabala/Jatakaphalam/Jatakam; Pempudu Koduku; Chandrabaram; 1954: Annadaita; Anta Manavalle; Raju Peda; Sangbam; Raji En Kanmani/Raji Naa Pranam; Bangaru Papa; Thuli Visbam; Rajaguru; 1955: Anarkali; Jayasimba/Jaisingb; Missamma/Missamma; Santbanam; Gunsundari; Ardhangi/Pennin Perumai; Donga Ramudu; 1956: Harishchandra; Chintamani; Kanakatara; Naan Petra Selvam; Mathar Kula Manikam/Charanadas; 1957: Saubhagyavati; Repu Neede; Sati Savitri; Pathni Daivam; Maya Bazaar; Sarangadhara; Thodi Kodallu; Allavudeenum Arputha Vilakku/Allauddin Adhbuta Deepam/Alladdin Ka Chirag; 1958: Anbu

Engay; Annaiyin Aanai; Shabash Meena; Thirumanam; Bbukailasa; Bommalapelli/Bomma Kalyanam; Chenchulaksbmi; Pellinati Pramanalu; Appu Chesu Pappu Koodu/Kadan Vangi Kalyanam; 1959: Mangalya Balam/Manjal Magimai; Balanagamma; Bhakta Ambarish; Krishna Leelalu; Rechukka Pragaticbukka; Jayabberi; Kalasiunte Kaladu Sukbam; Maa Inti Mahalaksbmi/Enga Veetu Mahalaksbmi; Vazbkai Oppanibam; Kalaivanam; Aval Yar; Raja Sevai; 1960: Naminabani/Pattayilin Vetri; Bhatti Vikramarka; Mamaku Tagga Alludu; Mabakavi Kalidasa; Deepavali; Devanibakudu; Irumputhirai; Padikkatba Methai; Partbiban Kanavu; Petra Manam; Naan Kanda Sorgam; Vidiveli; 1961: Velugu Needalu/Thooya Ullam; Krishna Prema; Sati Sulochana; Usba Parinayam; Ellam Unmakaga; Kappalotiya Thamizban; Pankalikal; Kumudam; 1962: Pelli Thambulam/Nishchaya Thambulam; Tiger Ramudu; Gali Medalu; Padandi Munduku; Atmabandhu; Manchi Manusbulu/Penn Manam; Gundamma Katha/Maniban Maravillai; Daksbayagnam; Kaibirunda Kankal; Padithal Mattum Potuma; Kavitha; Sbarada; Muthu Mandapam; Annai/Penchina Prema; Daivathin Daivam; 1963: Thobuttuvulu; Nartanasala; Iruvar Ullam; Kalyanin Kanavan; Kumkumam; Needbikkupin Pasam; Annai Illam; Karpagam; 1964: Ramudu Bheemudu; Murali Krishna; Bobbili Yuddham; Kaikodutha Daivam; Pachai Vilakku; 1965: Paditha Manai; Naanum Oru Penn/Nadi Aada Janme; Pandava Vanavasam; 1966: Atabommalu; Monagalluku Monagadu; Srikakula Andhra Mahavishnu Katha; Bhakta Potana; Mobini Bhasmasura; Kumari Penn; Ramu; 1967: Thaikku Thalaimagan; Kan Kanda Daivam; Bhakta Pralada; Maa Vadina; *Chadarangam; Vasantsena; Rabasyam; Madi Veetu Mappillai; Punyavati; Bbale Kodalu; 1968: *Bandhavyalu; Sukha Dukhalu; Chinnari Papalu; Laksbminivasam; Kumkumabharina; Veeranjaneya; Amayukudu; 1969: Nam Naadu; Mamaku Tagga Kodalu; Jagath Kiladilu; Bandhipotu Bhimanna; 1970: Desamante Manushuloi; Iddaru Ammayilu; Shri Krishna Vijayam; Basti Kiladilu; 1971: Kiladi Singanna; Vikramarka Vijayam; Roudy Rangadu; Dasara Bullodu; Jagath Jentreehu; Bbale Papa; Debakku Thba Dongala Muttha; Shri Krishna Satya; Vidyarthikale Itbile Itbile; 1972: Mohammed-bin-Tughlaq; Bala Bbaratam; Shri Krishnanjaneya Yuddham; Shanti Nilayam; Tata Manavadu; Kathula Rathaiab; Vamsodharakudu; Vazbai Yadi Vazbai; Vasanthi Maligai; Sampoorna Ramayanam; Pandanti Kapuram; Bava Diddina Kapuram; Papam Pasivadu; Vichitra Bandham; Kalam Marindi; Bangaru Babu; Koduku Kodalu; 1973: Anbu Sabodarargal; Pillai Selvam; Devudu Chesina Manusbulu; Marapurani Manishi; Samsaram Sagaram; Ramrajyam; Dabbuku Lokam Dasobam; Abhimanavanthulu; Dr Babu; Nija Roopalu; Palletoori Chinmodu; Ramude Devudu; Varasuralu; 1974: Jeevithasayam; Sivakamiy Selvar; Premalu Pellilu; Jeevitha Rangamu; Gali Patalu; Andaru Dongale; Bangaru

Paradesi; 1954: Annadata; 1955: Anarkali; 1957: Suvarna Sundari/Manalane Mangayin Bbagyam; 1960: Runanubandham; Adutha Veetu Penn; 1962: Suvarnamanjari/Mangayir Ullam Mangada Selvam; 1964: Phoolon Ki Sej; 1965: Sati Sakkubai; 1967: Sati Sumati; 1970: Amma Kosam; Agni Pareeksha; 1971: Kalyana Mandapam; 1972: Pedda Koduku; 1973: Bhakti Tukaram; 1974: Alluri Seetaramaraju; 1976: Mahakavi Ksbetrayya; 1978: Kannavarillu.

RAO, AKKINENI NAGESHWARA

(B. 1924)

Telugu megastar with NTR since 1950s. Born in Venkatraghavapuram, Krishna Dist., AP. Child stage actor playing e.g. the female lead in Harishchandra aged 12. Later played several female roles with Excelsior Dramatic Assoc. in Gudivada, establishing a substantial reputation. His second film, playing the male lead, Rama, in Balaramaiah's Seeta Rama Jananam, launched his career in mythologicals, which required him to unlearn several of his (female) stage mannerisms. Top hero of 40s Telugu film fantasies, often playing folk heroes (e.g. Balaraju, Keelugurram). Following the success of Laila Majnu, was often paired with Bhanumati in Bharani Studio productions. Changed his persona with Samsaram followed by a series of melodramas, culminating in his highly successful rendition of Saratchandra's Devdas (Devadasu). Acted in several Adurthi Subba Rao films, and set up Annapurna Pics (1957) where Subba Rao and later K. Vishwanath made some of their art-house socials. The company diversified, e.g. into agriculture and insecticide manufacture, and became a full-scale film studio in 1976. Continued the melodramatic style into the films of T. Rama Rao and Dasari Narayana Rao, notably the latter's Megha Sandesam. His son, Nagarjuna, became a major Telugu star in the 80s (e.g. Shiva, 1989). Biography by Krishnakumari (1984/1992).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1940: Dbarmapatni; 1942: Seeta Rama Jananam; 1945: Mayalokam; 1947: Palnati Yuddham; Ratnamala; 1948: Balaraju; 1949: Keelugurram/Maya Kudhirai; Laila Majnu; Raksharekha; 1950: Palletoori Pilla; Sbri Lakshmmamma Katha; Swapna Sundari; Samsaram; Paramanandayya Sishyula Katha; 1951: Mantradandam; Mayalamari; Mayakkari; Saudamini; Srisabasam; Tilottama; Mayamalai; Ore Iruvu; 1952: Prema/Kathal; 1953: Bratuku Theruvu; Devadasu; Kanna Talli/Petrathai; Poongotbai/Paradesi; Vayyari Bhama; 1954: Chakrapani; Annadata; Nirupedalu; Parivarbhana; Vipranarayana; 1955: Anarkali; Ardhangi/Pennin Perumai; Missamma/Missiamma; Rojulu Marayi; Santbanam; Vadina; Donga Ramudu; 1956: Tenali Ramakrishna; Bhale Ramudu; Ilavelpu; Matbar Kula Manikam/Charanadasa; 1957: Thodi Kodallu; Sati Savitri; Maya Bazaar; Allavudeenum Arputha Vilakkum/Allauddin Adbhuta Deepam/Alladdin Ka Chirag; Suvarna Sundari; Dongalo Dora; 1958: Bbukailasa;

Chenchulakshmi; Sbri Krishnamaya; Aadapettanam; Pellinai Pramanalu; 1959: Mangalya Balam/Manjal Magimai; Pelli Sandadi/Kalyana Penn; Athisa Penn; Jayabheri; Kalyana Parisu; Illarikam; Kalaivanan; Vazhakai Oppantham; Daivame Thunai; Naradhar Kalyanam; Kanniraindba Kanavan; Enga Veetu Mahalakshmi; 1960: Shantinivasam; Nammirabanalu/Pattayilin Vetri; Mahakavi Kalidasa; Pelli Kanuka; Engal Selvi; Abhimanam; Runanubandham; Maa Babu; 1961: Velugu Needalu/Thooya Ullam; Anbu Magan; Bharya Bartulu; Bhakta Jayadeva; Batasari/Kanal Neer; Vagdanam; Sbabash Raja; Iddaru Mitbralu; 1962: Aradhana; Manchi Manusbulu/Penn Manam; Gundamma Katha/Manithan Maravillai; Kalimilemulu; Kulagotbralu; Siri Sampadalu; Sbri Krishnarjuna Yuddham; 1963: Chaduvukonna Ammayilu; Punarjanma; Moogamanasulu; 1964: Poojaphalam; Atmabalam; Murali Krishna; Amarashilpi Jakanna; Dr Chakravarthi; 1965: Sumangali; Antastulu; Preminchhi Choodu; Manasulu Mamathalu; 1966: Zamindar; Atmagauravam; Navarathri; Manase Mandiram; Astiparulu; 1967: Gribalukshmi; Pranamithrulu; Vasantsena; Rahasyam; Poolarangadu; Sudigundalu; 1968: Brahmachari; Manchi Kutumbam; Govula Gopanna; Bandhithu Dongalu; Bangaru Gajulu; 1969: Adrushtivanthalu; Mooganomu; Adarsha Kutumbam; Atmiyulu; Bhale Rangadu; Buddbimantbudu; Sepoy Chinnaiab; 1970: Akkacbelletu; Jai Jawan; Maro Prapancham; Dharmadatha; Manasu Mangalyam; Iddaru Ammayilu; 1971: Dasara Bullodu; Pavitra Bandham; Rangeli Raja; Suputbrudu; Amayakuralu; Sbrimantbudu; Prem Nagar; Bharya Biddalu; Raitu Kutumbam; 1972: Beedala Patlu; Manchi Roju Lostai; Daitaputbrudu; Vichitra Bandham; Koduku Kodalu; Bangaru Babu; 1973: Kanna Koduku; Bhakta Tukaram; Palletoori Bhava; Andala Ramudu; Marapurani Manishi; Manchi Vadu; 1974: Premalu Pellilu; Bangaru Kalalu; Dora Babu; 1976: Mahakavi Ksbetrayya; Secretary; Mahatmudu; 1977: Chakradhari; Aalu Magalu; Bangaru Bommalu; Raja Ramesh; Chanakya Chandragupta; Athmiyudu; 1978: Chilipi Krishnudu; Devadasu Malli Puttadu; Vichitra Jeevitham; Ramakrishnudu; Sbri Rama Raksba; 1979: Ravanude Ramudaithe; Hema Hemeelu; Muddula Koduku; Andaman Ammayi; 1980: Edantastulamedu; Nayakudu Vinayakudu; Buchi Babu; Pilla Zamindar; Prema Kanuka; Pratibimbalu; Sreevari Muchaitu; Premabhishekkham; Manavude Mahaniyudu; 1981: Guru Shishyulu; Satyam Shivan; Prema Mandiram; Prema Simbasanam; 1982: Raga Deepam; Bangaru Kanuka; Gopala Krishnudu; Megha Sandesam; Yuvaraju; 1983: Muddula Mogudu; Urantha Sankranthi; Ramudu Kadu Krishnudu; Babudoorapu Batasari; Amarajeivi; Sbri Ranganeebthulu; Koteeshwarudu; 1984: Tandava Krishnudu; Anubandham; S.P. Bhayankar; Vasantha Geetam; Justice Chakravarthy; Sangeetha Samrat; 1985: Bharya Bharthala Bandham; Dampatyam; Illale Devatha; 1986: Aadi Dampathulu; Brahma Rudrulu; Captain Nagarjuna; Guru Brahma; 1987: Collectorgari

Abbayi; Agni Putrudu; Atma Bandhavulu; 1988: Raugarillu; 1989: Rajakiya Chadarangam; Bhale Dampathulu; Sutradharulu; Adarshavanthudu; 1990: Iddaru Iddare; 1991: Ragulatunnna Bharatamu; Seeta Ramaigari Manavarulu; Pranadata; 1992: College Bullodu; Rajeswari Kalyanam; 1993: Radhasarathi; Mechanic Alludu; 1994: Bangaru Kutumbam; Theerpu; Godfather; 1995: Maya Bazaar.

Rao, A. Subba see Subba Rao, A.

RAO BALKRISHNA NARAYAN (B. 1909)

Tamil director and actor born in Tellicherry, Kerala. Also worked in Hindi and in Telugu. Started acting at Imperial (1926); assisted R.S. Choudhury and the cameraman Adi and Rustum Irani. Went to East India Co. (1933) and later to Madan in Calcutta, where he debuted as director with Hindi films. In 1937, moved to the Central Studios in Coimbatore; then to Gemini in Madras (1940) where he directed what is taken to be the studio's debut feature, Madanakamarajan. Established himself as a successful director in the late 40s; then left to work for Shaws Malay Film Prod. (1953-6) making films starring P. Ramlee, and for Cathay Keris Film Studio (1957-64) in Singapore, directing e.g. Maria Menado, Nordin Ahmad and Latifah Omar. Returned to India for one more feature and retired in Madras.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1935: Veer Kumari; Keemti Qurbani; 1938: Tukaram; 1939: Rambayin Kadhal; Prahlada; 1940: Bhuloka Rambha; Sati Murali; 1941: Madanakamarajan; 1944: Duasi Aparanji; Salivabanan; 1947: Ekambavanam; 1948: Bilhana; 1949: Natya Rani; 1953: Putus Harapan; Hujan Panas; Siapa Salab; 1954: Gelora Hidup; Perjodohan; Merana; 1955: Abu Hassan Pencuri; Rob Membela; 1956: Adikku; 1957: Pontianak; Dendam Pontianak; 1958: Sumpab Pontianak; Mabsuri; 1959: Jula Juli Bintang Tiga; 1960: Yatim Mustafa; 1961: Siti Zubaidah; 1962: Laila Majnun; 1963: Gul Bakawali; Putri Cempaka Biru; 1964: Pontianak Gua Musang; 1974: Nitya Sumangali.

RAO, BHIMAVARAPU NARASIMHA

(?-1957)

Composer in Telugu cinema. Regarded as the first composer in the current sense (previous ones were mostly conductors of orchestras of popular stage and folk music). He used the independently composed lyrics of Basavaraju Apparao for Malapilla, achieving an unprecedented success in Telugu film. Some of the songs (Nallavade gollapilivade, Aa Mabbu eemabbu) have remained popular hits. Also did music for Ramabrahmam's Raitu Bidda and for P. Pullaiah's 50s films.

FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1936: Sati Tulasi; Draupadi Vastrapabaranam; 1937: Mohini Rugmangada; Kanakatara; 1938: Malapilla; 1939: Raitu Bidda (also act); 1940: Meerabai; 1941: Apavadu; 1943:

Bhagya Lakshmi; 1946: Bhakta Tulsidas, 1950: Thirugubatu; 1955: Ardbangi/Pennin Perumat; 1958: *Dongalunnaru Jagratha/Thirudargal Jagirathai.

RAO, BONGU NARASINGA (B. 1946)

Telugu director, writer, painter and musician born in Pragnapur, Medak Dist., AP. Arts graduate studies in Hyderabad. Photographer and theatre activist associated with cultural front of Naxalite peasant agitations in North Andhra in mid-70s. Produced Gautam Ghose's debut Maabhoomi (1979), one of the first full-length fiction films in India made and shown in the Solanas-Getino sense of Third Cinema. First film was a fictionalised autobiography chronicling the politicisation of a young painter (played by himself) racked by moral doubt. Rangula Kala. All his features and documentaries are contextualised by the radical political traditions of Andhra: e.g. Daasi is located within the oppressive feudal conditions opposed by the historic Telangana movement of 1946-51. Mostly scripts and composes the music for his films. Published four volumes of poetry and researcher in Andhra folk art and music.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1983: Rangula Kala (also act); 1984: The Carnival (Doc); 1985: The City (Doc); 1987: Maa Ooru (Doc); 1988: Daasi (TV); 1990: Matti Manushulu.

RAO, CHITRAPU NARASIMHA (B. 1911)

Telugu director born in Masulipatnam, AP. Owner of a family printing press in Masulipatnam printing a.o. cheap calendar art and film publicity leaflets. Pioneer director of mythologicals codifying the genre at Vel Pics. Assisted H.M. Reddy on Telugu film's first talkie, Bhakta Prahlada (1931), and then Baburao Pendharkar in Prabhat Studio's first foray into Tamil cinema, Seeta Kalyanam (1933), remaking it the following year in Telugu. His version was Vel's inaugural production. After working with Prabhat's technical units, he stressed the importance of sound technology, influencing Vel Studio's pioneering shift to sound production. Younger brother Chitrapu Narayanamurthy also became a film director.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1934: Seeta Kalyanam; 1935: Sbri Krishna Leelalu; 1936: Sati Tulasi; 1937: Mohini Rugmangada; 1938: Jarasandha; 1939: Jayapradha.

RAO, CHITTAJALU SRINIVASA (B. 1924)

Born in Kakinada, AP. Mainstream Telugu filmmaker of sentimental dramas, mythologicals and contemporary socials. Also worked in Kannada. Son of C. Pullaiah, in whose children's films Dhruva and Ansuya (both 1936) he acted. Sponsored commercial Telugu theatre group Navagraha Kootam. Joined Gemini as assistant director (1946) and worked with Pullaiah, Ramnoth, A.K. Sekhar and on Uday Shankar's Kalpna (1948). A major figure in perpetuating the cultural orthodoxy of e.g. Vel Pics and the early Gemini in combining values of entertainment with sentimental moralism, a trend continued by his assistants A. Sheshgiri Rao. Ramchandra Rao, etc. Married actress Rajasulochana, a consistent presence in his work since the late 50s.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1953: Ponni; 1954: Pona Machan Thirumbi Vandhan; 1955: Sbri Krishna Tulabharam; 1958: Anna Thumudu. Manchi Manasuku Manchi Rojulu, Sbri Krishna Maya; 1959: Shabash Ramudu/Shabash Ramu, Naradhar Kalyanam; 1960: Abhimanam; Shantiniwasam; 1961: Pelikani Pillalu; 1962: Tiger Ramudu; 1963: Lavakusa; Valmiki; 1965: Keelu Bommalu; Prachanda Bhairavi; Pratignapalana; 1967: Kanchukota/Pallava Sevanga; 1968: Niluvu Dopidi; Govula Gopanna; Mana Samsaram; Bangaru Gajulu; Nindu Samsaram; Gramadevathulu; 1969: Mamaku Tagga Kodalu; Ekaaveera; 1970: Desamante Manushuloi; Malli Pelli; Pettandarulu; Marina Manishi; Rendu Kutumbala Katha; 1971: Rangeli Raja; Jeevitha Chakram; Bhagyavanthudu; 1972: Sbri Krishnanjaneya Yuddham; 1973: Desboddharakulu; Dhanama? Davama?; 1974: Bandhulu Anubandhulu; Anaganaga Oka Thandri; Adambaralu Anubandhulu; 1975: Yashoda Krishna; Devudulanti Manishi; 1976: Mabakavi Kshetravya; Manchiki Maro Peru; Punardatta; 1977: Sbri Renukadevi Mahatme; 1978: Allari Pillalu; Parasuraman; 1982: Radhamma Mogudu; 1983: Maro Maya Bazaar; Bhayankara Bhasmusura; 1984: Satya Harishchandra/Raja Harishchandra; 1985: Grihalakshmi; 1988: Yogi Vemana.

RAO, DASARI NARAYANA (B. 1947)

Telugu and Hindi director, writer and actor; born in Palakollu, AP. Started as a child actor on the stage. Graduated from Andhra University, then theatre director, playwright and actor. Went to Madras and joined the film industry as assistant to Bhavanarayana and Padmarajan in the 60s. Assisted scenarist Palagummi Padmaraju in Madras in late 60s; then became a successful freelance scenarist writing for e.g. K. Raghava and Bhavanarayana. Directorial debut in 1972. Best known for late 80s Hindi Jeetendra potboilers. Early films (e.g. Tata Manavadu) were notoriously sentimental weepies, later extended (Devadasu Malli Puttadu, Premabhishekkham) into a Devdas-like love-triangle formula. Comedies often feature himself (e.g. Peddillu Chinnillu) and are also presented as political satires; mid-budget quickies often star Krishnamraju and Mohan Babu. Filmed his autobiography in Addala Meda (1981), playing himself. One-time owner of the mainstream 3-edition Telugu newspaper, Udayam (1984). In 1988, directed Congress(I) supporter G. Krishna in Praja Pratidinhi, explicitly critiquing the political rule of NTR.

FILMOGRAPHY (* also act/ act only): 1972: Tata Manavadu; 1973: Samsaram Sagaram; 1974: Banbrotu Bharya; Radhamma Pelli; Tirapathi; Evariki Vare Yamuna Theree; 1975: Balipeetam; Devude

*Digivaste, Bharatamlo Oka Ammayi, Swargam Narakam; 1976: Yavanam Katesindi; Manushulanta Okkate, Muddabanthi Puuvu; Padavoyi Bharatbeeyuda; Thooru Padamara; O Manishi Thirigi Chudu; 1977: Chilakamma Cheppindi*; Kanya Kumari; Bangarakka; Idekaddi Nyayam; Chillarakottu Chittamma; Jeevithame Oka Natakam; 1978: Sivaranjanu; Katakatala Rudraiah; Swarg Narak; Devadasu Malli Puttadu; 1979: *Korikile Gurralaite; Ravanude Ramudaithe, Peddillu Chinnillu; Kalyani; Needa; Rangoon Rowdy; Gorintaku; 1980: *Natchatiram; Edantastulameda; Circus Ramudu; Buchi Babu; Seeta Ramulu; Ketugadu; Bandodu Gundamma; Sardar Paparayudu; Swapna; Premabhishekkham; Deeparadhana; Paalu Neelu; *Jyoti Bane Jwala; Yeh Kaisa Insaaf; Sreevari Muchattu; Bhola Shankarudu; 1981: Pyaasa Sauvan; Prema Mandiram; Addala Meda; Vishwa Roopam; Adatallu Meeku Jobarlu; Prema Simhasanam; 1982: *Yuvaraju; Jagannatha Rathachakralu; Krishnarajumulu; Bobbili Puli; Golkonda Abhulu; Swayamvaram; Jayasudha; Raga Deepam; Mehndi Rang Layegi; Sivametina Satyam; Megha Sandesam; O Adadi O Magadu; 1983: *Prem Tapasya; Babudoorapu Batasari; *MLA Yedukondalu; *Urantha Sankranthi; *Police Venkataswamy; Ramudu Kadu Krishnudu; Rudrakali; 1984: Abhimanyudu; Justice Chakravarthy; Aaj Ka MLA Ramavatar; Asba Jyoti; Haisiyat; Yaadgaar; Zakhmi Sher; Police Papanna; Jagan; Yuddham; 1985: *Lanchavatharam; *Pelli Meeku Akshintalu Naaku; *Brahma Mudi; Thirugubatu; Edadugula Bandham; Sarfarosh; Wafadaar; Paari Poyina Kaidih; 1986: Aadi Dampathulu; Dharma Peetam Daddarillindi; Ugranarasimham; Tandara Paparayudu; 1987: *Majnu; Nene Raju Nene Manthri; Brahma Nayudu; Vishwanatha Nayakudu; Atma Bandhavulu; *Rotation Chakravarthi; 1988: Kanchana Seeta; Praja Pratidinhi; Brahma Puthrudu; Intinti Bhagavatham; 1989: Naa Mogudu Nanke Sontham; Black Tiger; Lankeshwarudu; Two Town Rowdy; 1990: Mama Alludu; 1991: *Ramudu Kadu Rakeshasudu; Mamagaru; *Niyantha; Amma Rajinama; Seetharamalabhari Manavaralu; 1992: *Abankari; Venkanna Babu; *Soori Gadu; Parvathalu Panakalu; *Pellam Chattu Mogudu; Subbarayudu Pelli; 1993: *Santana; Mama Kodali; Akka Pettanam Chelleli Kapuram; Kunti Puthrudu; 1994: *Nannagaru; Bangaru Kutumbam; 1995: Vishwamitra (TV); Kondapalli Rathaiab; Maya Bazaar; Ore Rickshaw.

Rao, Ghantasala Venkateshwara see Ghantasala Venkateshwara Rao

RAO, KAMALAKARA KAMESHWARA (B. 1911)

Telugu director born in Masulipatnam, AP. Former film critic, writing under pseudonym Cine Fan for journal Krishna Patrika. Possibly assisted on the writing of H.M. Reddy's Grihalakshmi (1938); later assistant director to B.N. Reddi (Devatha, 1941) and K.V. Reddy (Bhakta Potana, 1942). Worked on scripts for Vauhini films, influencing their verbose reformist dramas. Director at the Vijaya Studio. Début film, Cbandrabaram, designed as big-budget successor to Vasan's Cbandralekha (1948), defined Vijaya's 50s economic ambitions. Best known as maker of mythologicals (only four films in other genres) emphasising the heroic, often derived from folk legends. Responsible for introducing many of the genre's political references later used by his main star NTR.

✚ FILMOGRAPHY: 1953: Cbandrabaram; 1955: Gunsundari; 1956: Penki Pellam; 1957: Panduranga Mahatyam; 1958: Shobha; 1959: Rechukka Pragatichukka; Pachai Malai Kurathi; Raja Seva; 1960: Mahakavi Kalidasa; 1962: Mabamantri Timmarasu; Gundamma Katha/Maniiban Maravillai; 1963: Nartanasala; 1965: Pandava Vanavasam; 1966: Shakuntala; Shri Krishna Tulabharam; 1967: Sbri Krishnavataram; Kambojaraju Katha; 1968: Veeranjaneya; Kalasina Manushulu; 1969: Shri Seeta Rama Hanuman; 1970: Shri Krishna Vijayam; Mayani Mamata; 1972: Bala Bharatam; 1974: Jeevitbasayam; 1977: Kuruksbetramu; Seeta Rama Vanavasam; 1979: Gnana Kuzhandhai; 1980: Shri Vinayaka Vijayam; Shri Vasavi Kannika Parameshwari Mahatyam; 1981: Daiva Thirumanangal; 1982: Ekalavya; 1983: Santoshi Mata Vratba Mahatyam; 1985: Shri Datta Darshanam; Badarinatha Darshanam; 1986: Devi Navagraha Nayaki; Ashtalakshmi Vubhavamu; 1991: Edu Kondalaswamy.

Rao, Pendyala Nageshwara see Pendyala Nageshwara Rao

RAO, PINGALI NAGENDRA (1901-71)

Telugu scenarist-lyricist, born in Razole, AP. Educated and railway clerk in Bunder; also active in a trade union. Influenced as writer by the poets Tirupati Venkata Kavulu. Congress Party worker during freedom struggle and wrote several nationalist poems, e.g. Jannabhoomi (1940), which got him imprisoned by the British. Worked on Kauta Shrirama Sastry's journal, Sbarada, while translating Hindi plays into Telugu. Following the success of his play Vindhyarani (filmed by C. Pullaiah in 1948), turned scenarist with Bhale Pelli (1941). Employed by Vauhini and Vijaya Studio where he scripted several K.V. Reddy films (Gunsundari Katha, 1949; Patala Bhairavi, 1951; Maya Bazaar, 1957, etc). Also wrote popular lyrics for classic L.V. Prasad films e.g. Pelli Chesu Choodu (1952), Missamma (1955). Considered a major stylist in his use of popular Telugu speech forms.

Rao, Prakash see Prakash Rao, K. S.

Rao, Raghavendra see Raghavendra Rao, K.

RAO, R. NAGENDRA (1896-1977)

Born in Holalkere, Karnataka. Kannada actor, singer, playwright and director. Worked in Kannada Company Natak, first with A.V. Varadacharya's Ratnavali Nataka Mandali and later with Mysore-based Chamundeshwari Company. Worked briefly in Bombay making Tamil and Telugu films at Imperial, then went back to the stage to start the Shri Sahitya Samrajya Nataka Mandali with M.V. Subbaiah Naidu, which had a major impact on Kannada cinema: its first talkie, Y.V. Rao's Sati Sulochana, was drawn from their stage repertoire and Nagendra Rao acted in and scored the film. His mythological play Bbukailasa, a perennial hit on the Kannada stage, was filmed repeatedly, by Sundarrao Nadkarni (1938, 1940) and as a trilingual by K. Shankar (1958). His play Yachbamanayika also became a film hit. Joined Gemini (1947) as actor and director. Left to form his own company R.N.R. Prod. (1951-64). Then continued as character actor playing roles of the good but confused father facing moral dilemmas posed by unconventional offspring (Shri Kannika Parameshwari Kathe, Karulina Kare, etc.). Has three sons in the film business: the actor-singer R. Sudarshanam, the lyricist, director and actor R.N. Jayagopal, and cameraman R.N.K. Prasad. Published his autobiography as told to C. Sitharam, Idu Nanna Kathe (1974). Acted in films he directed.

✚ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1932: Ramadastu; Parijata Pushpabaranam; 1933: Kovalam; 1934: Sati Sulochana (also music d); 1935: Naveena Sadarame; 1940: Bbukailasa; 1941: Vasantsena; 1943: Satya Harishchandra; 1947: Mabatma Kabir; 1949: Apoorva Sabodarargal/Nisban; 1950: Apoorva Sabodarulu; 1952: Moonru Pillaigal/Mugguru Kodukulu; 1953: Chandirani; Jataka Phala/Jatakaphalam/Jatakam; 1955: Santosham/Naya Admi; 1956: Nagula Chaviti/Adarshasati; Renuka Mahatme; Bhakta Markandeya; 1957: Bettada Kalla; Mahiravana; Premada Putri/Preme Daivam/Anbe Daivam; 1959: Anudhavalli; 1960: Ranadbeera Kanteerava; 1961: Vijayanagarada Veeraputra; 1962: Galigopura/Gali Medalu; 1963: Veera Kesari/Bandhipotu; Ananda Basha; 1964: Patbiye Daiva; 1965: Nanna Kartarya; Balurajana Kathe; Madhuve Madi Nodu; 1966: Thoogu Deepa; 1967: Shri Kannika Parameshwari Kathe; Premakku Permitt; Nakkare Ade Swarga; Shri Purandaradasaru; Janara Janu; 1968: Hannele Chigiridaga; Attegondukala Sosegondukala; 1969: Kannu Muchale; Grihalakshmi; Namma Makkalu; Makkale Manega Maniky; 1970: Nadina Bhagya; Shri Krishnadevaraya; Lakshmi Saraswathi; Karulina Kare; 1971: Aliya Geleya; Sakshatkaru; Kulagaurava; 1972: Kalavari Kutumham; Na Mechida Huduga; 1973: Mannina Magalu; Premapasha; 1974: Professor Huchuraya.

RAO, RAJANALA NAGESHWARA (1926-59)

Telugu actor, known mainly for villain roles in 50s films. Born in coastal AP. Graduate of the Aligarh Muslim University. Joined films as employee of distribution co. Premium Distr. Centre and later worked as manager of Paramount theatre, Secunderabad. Début with P. Pullaiah. Established reputation in B.A. Subba Rao's Raju Peda in the role of Vikram. Often acted alongside A. Nageshwara Rao in the 50s. Known mainly as R. Nageshwara Rao, he is not to be confused with the well known screen villain Rajanala.

✚ FILMOGRAPHY: 1952: Sankranti; 1953: Kanna Talli; Paropakaram; Devadasu; 1954: Raju Peda; Aggiramu; 1955: Cherapakura Chedevu; Donga Ramudu; Santosham/Naya Admi; 1957: Maya Bazaar; Sankalpam; Dongalo Dora; Vinayaka Chaviti; 1958: Pellinati Pramanalu; Anna Thamudu; Raja Nandini; Mundadugu; Intiguttu; Shri Ramanjaneya Yuddham; Bbuloka Rāmbha;

(From left) Baby Uma Rani, Sriranjani, R. Nagendra Rao and Sandhya in Premada Putri (1957)

Appu Chesi Pappu Koodu; 1959: Shabash Ramudu; 1960: Jagannatakam; Bhakta Shabari; Anna Chellelu; Pillalu Techna Challani Rajyam; Shri Venkateswara Mahatyam.

Rao, Rama see Rama Rao, N. T. or Rama Rao, T.

RAO, P. S. RAMAKRISHNA (1918-86)

Telugu and Tamil director and producer born in Kurnool, AP. Entered films as assistant editor at Vel Pics (1936); later worked with H.V. Babu at Star Combines. Married actress and director Bhanumathi (1943). They set up Bharani Pics to produce their own films, later expanding the enterprise into Bharani Studios (1952-7) where he produced her trilingual film Chandirani (1953). Co-directed her hit Gribalakshmi (1967) and is often assumed to have co-directed the films which he produced and she directed.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1947: Ratnamala; 1949: Laila Majnu; 1952: Prema/Katbal; 1953: Bratuku Theruvu; 1954: Chakrapani; Vipranarayana; 1956: Cbintamani; 1957: Varudukavali/Manamagal Thevai; 1961: Batasari/Kanal Neer, Shabash Raja; 1962: Atma Bandhuvu; 1963: Anubandhalu; 1964: Vivabandham; 1967: Gribalakshmi.

Rao, Ranga see Ranga Rao, S. V.

RAO, SALURI RAJESWARA (b. 1922)

Composer; son of Sanyasiraju, a music teacher at the maharaja's court in Vijayanagar. Achieved some success as a child performer of the folk Harikatha at festivals and was recorded by the Hutchins Gramophone company. Introduced into Telugu films as child actor in Vel Pics Shri Krishna Leelalu for his ability to sing and play harmonium and tabla. First composed music for Jayapradha and, according to music historian V.A.K. Ranga Rao, was the first Telugu composer to use a Western conception of orchestral harmony. His second film, Ramabrahmam's Illalu, aimed for a sense of modernity, e.g. assimilating styles associated with R.C. Boral and Timir Baran. However the music was not a commercial success. Ranga Rao described their compositions for R. Balasaraswathi, released on disc in the 40s, as 'more sophisticated music [which didn't] find its way into films but established [h]ow the Telugu lyric could be coupled with Western craft'. This approach made a big impact, including the epochal Chandralekha, helping the studio's aim to conquer the All-India film market. His song Koyalokasarochi koosi poyindi (in Apavadu), with Basavaraju Apparao's lyrics, is considered especially significant in this context. Scored the music for B.S. Ranga's Kannada and Telugu films in the 60s, and was associated with Adurthi Subba Rao and K. Vishwanath's art-house musicals. His brother Saluri Hanumantha Rao is a noted Telugu film composer. His son Koti also scored Telugu films from the 80s in collaboration with Raj, son of the composer

FILMOGRAPHY (* also act/ act only):

1935: *Shri Krishna Leelalu; 1936: *Maya Bazaar; 1939: *Jayapradha; 1940: *Illalu; 1941: Apavadu; 1942: Balanagamma; Jeevanmukti; Nandanar; 1943: Mangamma Sapatham; 1944: Daasi Aparanji; 1945: Kannamma En Kadhal; Paduka Pattabishekham; 1948: Chandralekha; 1949: Apoorva Sabodarargal/Nisban; 1950: Vali Sugriya; 1951: Malleeswari; 1952: Priyuralu; 1953: Vayyari Bhama; Pempudu Koduku; 1954: Raju Peda; Vipranarayana; 1955: Missamma/Missiamma; 1956: Bhale Ramudu; 1957: Allaudeennum Arputha Vilakum/Allauddin Adbhuta Deepam/Alladdin Ka Chirag; Bhale Ammayilu/Inu Sabodarigal; Sati Savitri; 1958: Chenchulakshmi; Aadapettanam; Appu Chesi Pappu Koodu/Kadan Vangi Kalyanam; 1959: Rechukka Pragatichukka; 1960: Rani Ratnaprabha; 1961: Iddaru Mitralu; Bhakta Jayadeva; 1962: Kulagothralu; Aradhana; Manchi Manushulu/Penn Manam; 1963: Chaduvukonna Ammayilu; 1964: Amarashilpi Jakanachari/Amarashilpi Jakanna; Dr Chakravarthi; Bobbili Yuddham; Mahiravana; Poojaphalam; 1965: Dorikite Dongalu; Bangaru Panjaram; 1966: Palnati Yuddham; Chilaka-Gorinka; Sangeetalakshmi; Bhakta Potana; Mohini Bhasmasura; Rangula Ratnam; 1967: Bhakta Prahlada; Raktha Sindooram; Poolarangadu; Vasantasena; 1968: Veeranjaneya; 1969: Mamaku Tagga Kodalu; Adarsha Kutumbam; Atmiyulu; Dharmapatni; 1970: Desamante Manushuloi; Jai Jawan; Chitti Chellalu; Mr Rajkumar; 1971: Amayukuralu; Bangaru Talli; Pavitra Bandham; Shri Venkateswara Vaibhavam; 1972: Bala Bharatam; Kalam Marindi; Neethi Nijayathi; 1973: Desboddharakulu; Mannina Magalu; Neramu Siksha; Nindu Kutumbam; 1974: Ram Rabim; Jeevitthasayam; Jeevittha Rangamu; Bangaru Kalalu; Tatamma Kala; Palle Paduchu; Nitya Sumangali; 1975: Challani Talli; Anna Dammula Katha; Bharatamlo Oka Ammayi; Yashoda Krishna; 1976: Manchiki Maro Peru; Manushulanta Okkate; Dashavataram; 1977: Idekaddi Nyayam; Eenati Bandham Yenatido; Kurukshetramu; 1978: Prema Pada; Devadasu Malli Puttadu; Lambadolla Ramadasu; Radha Krishna; Sneha Sedu; 1980: Ondu Henu Aaru Kannu; Manavude Mahaniryudu; Bommala Koluuvu; Shri Vasavi Kannika Parameshwari Mahatyam; 1982: Katha Marindi; 1983: Muddula Mogudu.

RAO, SINGEETHAM SRINIVASA

Successful Telugu director; born in Nellore Dist., AP. Worked extensively in Tamil, Kannada, Malayalam and Hindi. Studied physics in Madras. Amateur playwright and theatre director. Started as unpaid assistant to K.V. Reddy (1955-7). Early work in Telugu assistant in Pattabhi Rama Reddy and K.V. Reddy's Jayanthi Pics. Following the critical success of Samskara (1970), made his own art-house film Dikkatra Parvatibi, based on a novelette by former TN Chief Minister C. Rajagopalachari, 'dressing the evils of Parvai, extend the work of Tamil megastar Kamalahasan: in Pushpak, he plays an unemployed man dreaming of wealth. The film has no dialogue and opened up a new dimension in art-house entertainment, consolidated later by Apoorva Sabodarargal (released in a Hindi dubbed version as Appu Raja). Made most of his Kannada films with Rajkumar (notably Halu Jenu, Eradu Nakshatragalu and Bhagyada Lakshmi Baramma). Has a characteristic shooting style of rapid and rough-edged pans, extensive use of zoom lenses, and extremely brief shots that eliminate virtually everything except the plot from his films. Also composer for K.N. Chandrasekhar Sharma's Samyukta (1988). Biography by Satyamurthy Anand (1988).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1972: Neethi Nijayathi; 1973: Dikkatra Parvatibi; 1975: Zamindarugari Ammayi; 1976: America Ammayi; Oka Deepam Veligindhi; 1977: Niraparayam Nilavilakum; Andame Anandam; Panthulamma; Tbaram Marindi; 1978: Gammathu Goodacharulu; Ramachilaku; Sommokadidibi Sokokadidibi; 1979: Mangala Toranalu; 1980: Triloka Sundari/Trilok Sundari; Pilla Zamindar; Gandhara Golam; 1981: Jai Gantalu; Raja Parvai; 1982: Halu Jenu; Chelisuva Modagalu; 1983: Eradu Nakshatragalu; Raju Rani Jackie; 1984: Sbravana Bantbu; Sangeetha Samrat; Vasantha Geetam; 1985: Bhagyada Lakshmi Baramma; Jualamukhi; Mayuri; 1986: Ananda; 1987: Pushpak/ Pushpaka Vimana / Pesum Padum; America Abhayi; 1988: Chiranjeevi Sudhakara; Devatha Manushya; 1989: Apoorva Sabodarargal/ Appu Raja; 1990: Michael Madana Kamarajan; 1991: Aditya 369; 1992: Brindavanamu; Ksheera Sagara; 1993: Phool; 1994: Bhairava Dweepam; Madam; Magalir Mattum; 1995: Chinna Vathiyar.

Rao, T. Prakash see Prakash Rao, Tatineni

RAO, YARAGUDIPATI VARADA (1903-73)

Tamil and Telugu director born in Nellore, AP. Medical student at Madras University. Went to Bombay and acted in Manilal Joshi's Laxmi Pics (1925) and Ardeshir Irani's Royal Art Studio before joining General Pics (Madras) as art director and actor, notably in R.S. Prakash's silents. Directorial debut in 1929 and started his own Chintamani Pics (1939) and Shri Varuna Films (early 50s). The only filmmaker to work in all major West and South Indian film centres (Bombay, Kolhapur, Madras and Mysore) and to make films in seven languages including Marathi, Kannada and Konkani (one film, Jeevit Amche Ashe). Best-known films were a major influence upon filmic conversion of stage Company Natak traditions, e.g. Hari Maya (for Gubbi Veeranna), Sati Sulochana (first Kannada talkie starring M.V. Subbaiah Naidu and R. Nagendra Rao) and Chintamani (made in Calcutta but based on Kallakuri Narayana Rao's noted Telugu saint biographical play). His multilingual talkies pioneered a cultural hybrid, e.g. in cross-breeding regional conventions of language, gesture and costume, crucial to the economic amalgamation of a unified South Indian film industry. His wife, Rukmini, was a noted star, as is their daughter Laxmi in Tamil and Telugu films, and their granddaughter Aishwarya.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY (* also act/ act only):

✦ 1929: *Garuda Garvabhangam; 1930: *Gajendra Moksham; *Gandhariyin Pulambai; *Pandava Agyathavas; Sarangadbara; King Bhoj; 1931: *Rose of Rajasthan; *Nara Narayana; 1932: Hari Maya (all St); 1934: *Sati Sulochana; 1935: Naganand; 1936: Bhama Parinayam; 1937: *Chintamani; 1938: *Bhakti Meera; *Swarnalatha; 1939: *Malli Pelli; 1940: *Vishwamobini; 1941: *Savitri; 1942: *Satyabhama; 1944: *Tevsildar; 1946: *Lavangi; 1948: *Ramadas; 1950: *Lavangi; Jeevit Amche Ashe; 1952: Manavati; 1953: Manjari; 1956: Bhagya Chakra; 1958: Shri Krishna Garudi; 1961: Nagarjuna; 1963: *Hennina Balu Kanneru.

RASKAPUR, MANHAR (1922-80)

Major Gujarati director; born in Surat. Insisted on using the language in the late 40s during the post-WW2 boom in Hindi films. For several years, Raskapur and producer Champsibhai Nagda were the only team consistently making Gujarati films with their Rop Chhaya company (1947). Following the success of his debut feature, Jogidas Khuman, he remade the film twice and was planning a third remake when he died. Best-known film: Mehndi Rang Lagyo, a perennial hit. Introduced Shanta Apte in Gujarati with Mulu Manek. Made the Rajput war sagas into anti-imperialist fables (Kadu Makrani, Mulu Manek), and fantasies of Gujarat's history and traditions (Mehndi Rang Lagyo). Filmed major novels (e.g. Pannalal Patel's Malela Jiv) and made a biopic of the popular early 20th C. Gujarati poet Kalapi. A strongly committed genre cineaste, he made socials (Santu Rangili), dacoit and children's films (Miya Fuski 007).

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1948: Jogidas Khuman; 1950: Kabyagaro Kantb; 1951: Kanyadaan; 1955: Mulu Manek; 1956: Malela Jeev; 1960: Kadu Makrani; Mehndi Rang Lagyo; 1962: Jogidas Khuman; 1963: Akband Saubhagyavati; 1966: Kalapi; 1971: Upar Gagan Vishal; 1973: Vala Taro Deshma Danko; 1975: Jai Ranchhod; Jogidas Khuman; 1976: Santu Rangili; 1977: Bhrashtachar Murdabad; Mari Hel Utaro Raj; 1978: Miya Fuski 007; Nari Tu Narayani; 1980: Saurashtrano Sinh-Chhelbhai.

RATHNAM, MANI (B. 1956)

Major commercial Tamil director; born in Madras, the son of the producer 'Venus' Gopalathnam. Studied at Madras University and then received a management degree at the Bajaj Institute, Bombay. Worked as a management consultant. Started his career with a Kannada film (Pallavi Anupallavi), then a Malayalam one (Unaroo). His initial, heavily melodramatic style (cf. Mouna Ragam) together with an unusual awareness of Hollywood's generic conventions culminated in his breakthrough film, Nayakan, relocating The Godfather (1972) in Bombay's Tamil underclass. Went on to make India's first music video-inspired feature, Agni Nakshatram, using extensive soft focus, flare filters, back-lighting, seductive camera movement and extensive dissolves. The music TV style also marks his Telugu film Geetanjali, mostly shot in the misty landscape of Ooty, and Anjali, in which a group of children perform several elaborately choreographed breakdance numbers. Works with major stars (e.g. Kamalahasan in Nayakan; the Tamil star Rajnikant and his Malayalam counterpart Mammootty in Dalapathi), but transforms their images with a style involving, according to critic and director K. Hariharan, 'a strong violation of tonal, focal and colour continuity ... intercutting between sharply focused and soft images and a total denial (in the later musicals) of any image which could remotely call itself "natural"'. Received a nationwide release for Roja unprecedented in recent Tamil cinema, and also sparked off a major political controversy. This was then overshadowed by the nationwide debate over his next film Bombay, addressing the 1992-3 riots, and his first authorised multilingual production. Represented by G.V. Films, a public limited company owned by his brother G. Venkateswaran, the films are apparently sold against sealed tenders invited from distributors. With Bombay, he launched his own company, Aalayam, which has also produced Indira directed by his wife and Tamil star Suhasini, and Asai (both 1995). In addition to MTV and Coppola, with whom he shares a tendency to celebrate the machinic aspects of cinema, the director acknowledges the influence of Ramesh Sippy.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1983: Pallavi Anupallavi; 1984: Unaroo; 1985: Idaya Koyil; Pagal Nilavu; 1986: Mouna Ragam; 1987: Nayakan; 1988: Agni Nakshatram; 1989: Geetanjali; 1990: Anjali; 1991: Dalapathi; 1992: Roja; 1993: Thiruda Thiruda; 1995: Bombay.

RATHOD, KANJIBHAI J.

Often considered the first professional director in Bombay cinema. Former still photographer, he joined Suchet Singh as an actor (1919), appearing in Mrichbhakatik and playing the lead in Narasinh Mehta; probably completed the unfinished films of Singh's Oriental Film with G.S. Devare. Joined Kohinoor (1920) and remained top director with the 20s hit Gul-e-Bakavali and the celebrated Bhakti Vidur, banned for political reasons. Then worked in Saurashtra Film in Rajkot (1924-5). Returned to Bombay and became the force behind Krishna Studio after 1925 (barring a brief stint at the Kohinoor United Artists), making five sound-films for Krishna Movietone in 1931. His Kono Vak?, from a story by Munshi, was a radical social for its time and confirmed his authorial signature. Briefly worked in talkies at Sagar, then made a few inexpensive films in Hindi and Gujarati as freelancer. Towards the end of his career was employed as production manager in Dhirubhai Desai's Chandrakala Pics, even as the latter remade several Rathod silents, including Bolti Bulbul (1942), Devkanya and Bhakti Prabhad (both 1946).

✦ FILMOGRAPHY (* act only): 1920:

*Mrichbhakatik; *Narasinh Mehta; Vikram Urvashi; *Sbakuntala; 1921: Meerabai; Pundalik; Mahasati Ansuya; Subhadra Haran; Bhakti Vidur; Krishna Maya; Rukmini Haran; Chandrabasa; 1922: Bhakti Ambarish; Malati Madhav; Sati Toral; Shri Satyanarayan; Ajami; Devi Tod; Parashuram; Sukanya Savitri; Surya Kumari; 1923: Sati Narmada (also act.); Karmadevi; Minal Devi; Vratasur Vadba; Veer Bhimsen; Goswami Tulsidas; Shri Balkrishna; Shuk Deo; 1924: Gul-e-Bakavali; Kala Naag; Sadguni Sushila; Shareef Badmasb; Sati Seeta; 1925: Baap Kamai; Kamallata; Anath Abala; Swapna Sundari; 1926: Raja Ne Gami Te Rani; Khubsoorat Bala; Veer Kesari; Burkhwali; Bolti Bulbul; 1927: Kuldeepak; Mardna Gha; Mahasati Ansuya; 1928: Chandrabasa; Neelam Manek; Devkanya; Bodku Mathu; Kunj Kishori; Kal Ratrinu Khuni Khanjar; 1929: Veer Rathod; Raj Hansa; Kono Vak?; Rukmini Haran; 1930: Math No Sadhu; Nirbhagi Nirmala; Rajkumari Ni Ranagarjana; Tati Talwar (all St); 1931: Chintamani; Ghar Ki Lakshmi; Harishchandra; Laila Majnu; Pak Daman; 1932: Bhakti Prabhad; Bhasmasur Mohini; 1933: Lanka Dahan; 1934: Hothal Padmini; Jan Nissar; Sati Anjani; Thief Of Iraq; 1936: Punjab Ka Sinh; 1937: Gul Badan; 1938: Ghungatwali; 1939: Sairandhri; 1940: Anjaam; 1949: Shethno Salo.

RATHOD, KANTILAL (1925-88)

Gujarati and Hindi director and animator born in Raipur. Trained as a painter in Calcutta and at the Art Institute of Chicago, where he made a short film about a child's paintings, Cloven Horizon, distributed by the Encyclopaedia Britannica. Worked with Norman MacLaren at the National Film Board of Canada. Set up animation unit for Hunnar Films and authored celebrated animated films like Adventures of a Sugar Doll and Business is People. His Kanku inaugurated a Gujarati art cinema although he went on to make films in Hindi. Made shorts and features for his own Akar Films, also making films on commission from Films Division, the CFS and the US Information Agency.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1956: Mr and Mrs Peacock (Sh); 1959: Buddha Aur DCM (Doc); 1960: Withering Flowers (Sh); 1965: Cloven Horizon (Doc); Adventures of a Sugar Doll (Animation); 1966: The Parts that Build the Auto (Doc); 1967: Peace-Time Armada (Sh); 1968: Pinjra (Sh); 1969: Strife to Stability (Doc); Kanku; 1971: Freedom Freedom (Doc); 1973: Tested Berries (Sh); Short Cut (Sh); 1974: Parinay; 1975: Business is People (Sh); 1976: Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel (Doc); 1977: Zangbo and the Zing Zing Bar; 1982: Ramnagari; The Choice is Yours (Doc); 1985: Doongar Ro Bhed; 1989: Save Energy through Efficient Motors (Doc).

RAWAIL, HARNAM SINGH (B. 1921)

Hindi-Urdu director born in Lyallpur (now Pakistan). Went to Bombay in his teens to join films. Slept on the streets and in the Madhav Baug temple precincts. These experiences were later retold in quasi-autobiographical Pocketmaar. Left for Calcutta where he became assistant to Kidar Sharma. His first script is Banke Sipahi (1937), a version of The Three Musketeers. Wrote several scripts, usually in stunt genre, at Indrapuri Studios where he also received his first break as director. Turned producer in Calcutta (1948), then returned to Bombay (1949) and later established Roshni Pics (1955) and Rahul Theatres (1960). Made comedies (best known is Kishore Kumar's slapstick Shararat) and love stories.

Sangbarsb was based on major Bengali novelist Mahashweta Devi's Laila Aasmaner Aina. After Mere Mehboob, made period romances and love legends. Last film Deedar-e-Yaar, written by his son Rahul Rawail, was one of the biggest financial disasters of 80s Hindi film. Since then has produced films for his son.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1940: Dorangia Daku; 1944: Shukriya; 1945: Zid; 1948: Jhoothi Kasmeh; 1949: Do Baatein; Patanga; 1951: Sagaai; Jawani Ki Aag; 1952: Saqi; 1953: Lehren; Shagufa; 1954: Mastana; 1955: Tirandaz; 1956: Pocketmaar; 1959: Shararat; 1961: Kaanch Ki Gudiya; Roop Ki Rani Choron Ka Raja; 1963: Mere Mehboob; 1968: Sangbarsb; 1971: Mehboob Ki Mehndi; 1976: Laila Majnu; 1982: Deedar-e-Yaar.

RAWAIL, RAHUL (B. 1951)

Hindi director born in Bombay. Son of H.S. Rawail, who also produced some of his films. Classmate of Rishi Kapoor, which allowed him to become assistant to Raj Kapoor for seven years. Directorial debut with the hit Love Story (1981), produced by Rajendra Kumar to launch his son Kumar Gaurav, but the film was delayed and he eventually refused the directorial credit. Known for launching new faces, incl. Dharmendra's son and 80s star Sunny Deol in Betaab and Kajol in Bekbudi. Wrote his father's megaflop Deedar-e-Yaar (1982). Involved in the video serial, Dharamyudh; also did TV series, Honee Anhonee.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1980: Gunehgaar; 1981: Love Story (uncredited); Biwi-o-Biwi; 1983: Betaab; 1985: Arjun; 1986: Samundar; 1987: Dacait; 1988: Honee Anhonee (TV); Dharam Yuddh (TV); 1990: Jeevan Ek Sangbarsb; 1991: Yodha; Mast Kalandar; 1992: Bekbudi; 1994: Anjaam.

RAY SATYAJIT (1921-92)

Bengali director born in Calcutta. Grandson of Upendra Kishore Ray-Choudhury, publisher, musician, author and creator of children's fiction characters Goopy and Bagha (see Goopy Gyne Bagha Byne and Hirak Rajar Deshe). Son of noted satirist and writer of

Satyajit Ray directing Goopy Gyne Bagha Byne (1968)

limericks and nonsense rhymes, Sukumar Ray, about whom he made a documentary. Family counted prominent members of the secular reformist Sadharan Brahma Samaj. Student at Kala Bhavan, Shantiniketan (1940-2) under the painter Nandalal Bose. Left without completing the course but maintained long-standing loyalties to its notions of Oriental discourse, later invoked in e.g. his appreciation of Kurosawa and Japanese film. Started the Calcutta Film Society (1947) with Chidananda Das Gupta et al., which introduced him to European and Soviet cinemas. Met Jean Renoir when the latter made The River, 1951. First film: Pather Panchali, receiving major acclaim on the Euro-American festival and art-house circuits making him India's first internationally recognised film-maker. Films mostly seen as relating to the ideological liberalism of Nehru and, particularly, to Ray's artistic and intellectual mentor, Rabindranath Tagore, whose writings he filmed (Teen Kanya, Charulata, Ghare Baire) and about whom he also made a documentary. Early films often associated with the chronicling of India's transition from feudal decadence and agrarian economic systems to capitalist modernity. Their slow rhythm and finely tuned evocation of emotional mid-ranges also derives substantially from cameraman Subrata Mitra's expertise (he shot the films up to Devi, then also Kanchanjunga and Charulata). Likewise, his celebrated attention to realist detail, notably in his period films situated in 19th C. Bengal and in Wajid Ali Shah's court at Avadh (Shatranj Ke Khiladi) draws from set designer Bansi Chandragupta's explorations into the habits and customs of Colonial India through 19th C. academic and popular painting. Late 60s films invoke a sharper critique of urban culture (Nayak) and acknowledge an increasingly irreconcilable split between the rootless urban and the economically oppressed rural conditions (Aranyer Din Ratri, Ashani Sanket) and prefigure his major 70s shift towards contemporary Calcutta (Pratidwandi, Seemabaddha, Jana Aranya). After Shatranj Ke Khiladi, his only non-Bengali feature, Ray focused exclusively on his native state, sometimes revisiting his earlier genres of the children's movie and Tagore adaptations, but also attempting new directions in chronicling Bengal's history through original screenplays. Published numerous short stories (some of which were filmed by his son Sandeep Ray in two TV series called Satyajit Ray Presents) for annual Puja numbers of Bengali literary journals and for the children's journal he used to edit, Sandesb. Extensively chronicled biography: Seton (1971), Das Gupta (1980) and Robinson (1989; including bibliography). Wrote autobiography encompassing his childhood years, Jakban Choto Chibilam (When I Was Small, 1982) and essays on film: Our Films, Their Films (1976), Bisoy Chalachchitra (On Cinema) (1976), Ekei Bole Shooting (We Call it Shooting) (1979). Most of Ray's novels and stories have been published as books by Ananda Publishing, Calcutta. English translations of his fiction include Phatikchand (1983), The Adventures of Feluda (1985), Bravo! Professor Shonku (1986), Stories (1987). Most of the screenplays are published in Bengali in the Eksan journal. Also worked, mainly as composer or writer, on H. Dasgupta's The Story of Steel (1956) and Quest for Health (1967); Bansi Chandragupta's Darjeeling-Himalayan Fantasy, Glimpses of West Bengal and Ganga Sagar Mela; Tony Mayer's House that Never Dies and John Thiele's Max Mueller. Also did music for Shakespeare Wallah (1965), Nityananda Dutta's Baksha Badal (1965) and worked on all his son's films (Phatikchand, 1983, Goopy Bagha Phere Elo, 1991). Received an Oscar for his 'lifetime achievement' in 1992. Also the subject of a number of documentaries, e.g. by Benegal and K. Bikram Singh's Satyajit Ray: An Introspection (1990).

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1955: Pather Panchali; 1956: Aparajito; 1957: Parash Patbar; 1958: Jalsaghar; 1959: Apur Sansar; 1960: Devi; 1961: Teen Kanya; Rabindranath Tagore (Doc); 1962: Kanchanjungha; Abhijaan; 1963: Mahanagar; 1964: Charulata; Two (Sh); Mahapurush; 1965: Kapurus; 1966: Nayak; 1967: Chidiakbana; 1968: Goopy Gyne Bagha Byne; 1969: Aranyer Din Ratri; 1970: Pratidwandi; 1971: Seemabaddha; Sikkim (Doc); 1972: The Inner Eye (Doc); 1973: Asbani Sanket; 1974: Sonar Kella; 1975: Jana Aranya; 1976: Bala; 1977: Shatranj Ke Khiladi; 1978: Joi Baba Felunath; 1980: Hirak Rajar Deshe; Pikoo (TV); 1981: Sadgati (TV); 1984: Gbare Baire; 1987: Sukumar Ray (Doc); 1989: Ganasbatru; 1990: Sakha Proshakha; 1991: Agantuk.

REDDI, BOMMIREDDI NARASIMHA (1908-77)

Telugu director and producer born in Kothapalli, Cuddappah Dist., AP. Professional accountant and amateur theatre actor with Madras-based group Chennapurri Andhra Mahasabha, where he also worked with Bellari Raghava. Set up the BNK Printing Press (1936). Entered films as associate financier of H.M. Reddy's Rohini Pics and as scenarist for Gribalaksbmi (1938). At Rohini he met K. Ramnoth, Chittor V. Nagaiah, K.V. Reddy and art director A.K. Sekhar, the nucleus of what was to be one of the largest studios of South India, Vauhini (prod. co. 1939; studio 1946). Best-known Vauhini films in 40s are among the most elaborate melodramas ever made in Telugu (possibly in India). Set in a rural family situation, they usually contrast a nostalgic past with contemporary big city values, industrialism, unemployment and 'loose women'. The form itself was politically legitimated through Ramabrahmam's claim that it was in line with Gandhian progressivism. The genre was continued in the early Vijaya films, made by disciples K.V. Reddy, K. Kameshwara Rao and most notably by the L.V. Prasad school of film-makers. Monograph on Reddi by Randor Guy (1985).

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1939: Vande Mataram; 1940: Sumangali; 1941: Devatba; 1945: Swargaseema; 1951: Malleeswari; 1954: Bangaru Papa; 1957: Bhagya Rekha; 1959: Raja Makutam; 1964: Poojapbalam; 1965: Bangaru Panjaram; 1966: Rangula Ratnam.

REDDY, HANUMAPPA MUNIAPPA (1882-1960)

Pioneering Telugu and Tamil director born and educated in Bangalore, Karnataka. Made the first talkies in Tamil (Kalidas) and Telugu (Bhakta Prablada). Policeman in Bangalore; resigned and followed his brother-in-law, H.V. Babu, to Bombay. Assistant to B.P. Mishra (1927) before turning film-maker at Imperial with Prithviraj Kapoor adventure fantasies, Vijaykumar and Bar Ke Pobar/A Wager in Love. Also directed L.V. Prasad in many features, including Bhakta Prablada and Kalidas. Bhakta Prablada was made for Krishna studio's subsidiary Bharat Movietone, and Kanjibhai Rathod did the Hindi version. Both were strongly influenced by the Surabhi Theatres tradition of the stage mythological and featured extensive musical sequences with members of the group. Enjoyed the reputation of being an actors' director, usually for Anjali Devi's early lead performance in Nirdoshi and for the hit Gribalaksbmi which provided the breakthrough for Chittor V. Nagaiah (making his debut), Kannamba and Kanchanmala. Freelance work 1932-7 including Hindi, Tamil and Telugu films in Bombay, Madras and Kolhapur. Launched Rohini Pics (1937) with finance from M/s. Reddi & Co. representing B.N. Reddi's first association with film production, making it the origins of the Vauhini Studio monolith. The Rohini unit also introduced K.V. Reddy and Y.R. Swamy to film-making. Wrote Swamy's Pratigna (1953). Associated with launching of the Navajyothi Studio in Mysore (1944).

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1930: Vijaykumar; 1931: Bar Ke Pobar (all SD); Bhakta Prablada; Kalidas; 1932: Jazz of Life (St); 1933: Seeta Suwayamvar, Savitri; 1938: Gribalaksbmi; 1939: Matbru Bhoomi; 1940: Barrister Parvatisham; Bondam Pelli; Chaduvukomma Bharyu; 1941: Tenali Ramakrishna; 1942: Gharana Donga; 1946: Sati Seeta; 1951: Nirdoshi/Niraparadhi.

REDDY, KADRI VENKATA (1912-72)

Telugu director born in Tadipatri, AP. Degree in science. Former assistant to H.M. Reddy. Production executive at Vauhini (1938) and key participant in all of B.N. Reddi's 40s melodramas. First two films, Bhakta Potana and Yogi Vemana, contributed to Chittor V. Nagaiah's image as South Indian cinema's most famous actor in the Saint film genre. Continued his spectacular success with Patala Bhairavi, whose 100-day run in 28 cinemas in 1951 effectively established Vauhini's successor, Vijaya Pics. He attributed his success in the early 50s to his ability to get the sequence of 'introduction, commentarial exposition, conflicts, resolution, sub-climax, climax and message' in the correct order. Telugu cinema's best-known exponent of its most successful 50s genre: the action fantasy locally dubbed the 'folklore' film. Other famous films include Gunsundari Katba, an apparent assimilation of King Lear, and Pedda Manusbulu, which borrowed the story of Ibsen's Pillars of Society.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1942: Bhakta Potana; 1947: Yogi Vemana; 1949: Gunsundari Katba; 1951: Patala Bhairavi/Patala Bhairavi; 1954: Pedda Manusbulu; 1955: Donga Ramudu; 1957: Maya Bazaar; 1958: Pellinati Pramanalu; 1959: Vazhkai Oppanbham; 1961: Jagadeka Veeruni Katba/Jagathala Prathapan; 1962: Sbri Krisbharjuna Yuddham; 1965: Satya Hartsbchandra; 1968: Umachandi Gauri Shbankarula Katba; Bhagyachakram; 1971: Shri Krishna Satya.

REDDY, PATTABHI RAMA (B. 1919)

Kannada director born in Nellore, AP. One of the first free-verse poets in Telugu. Studied English at Calcutta University and mathematics at Columbia, New York (1940-3). Joined the Madras Players amateur theatre. Participant in the opposition to Indira Gandhi's 1975-7 regime with his wife Snehlata Reddy, who died in police custody (1977) for want of medical assistance. Founded Jayanti Pics with K.V. Reddy, where future box-office director Singeetham Srinivasa Rao also worked. Made Samskara, a milestone of South Indian film (see Navya Movement).

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1970: Samskara; 1977: Chanda Marutha; 1984: Sringara Masa; 1993: Devara Kaadu.

REDDY, S. V. KRISHNA

Successful 90s Telugu director, mainly of low-budget, 'family entertainment' melodramas often with fantasy plots (a genre refurbished by TV). Former bit-actor in Telugu, later turned producer and composer (e.g. Raviteja's Kobbari Bondam, 1991). Rajendrudu Gajendrudu, Mayalodu and Yamaleela were among the biggest Telugu hits of their time given their relatively low budget and predominantly urban distribution outlets. Usually casts the popular comedy actor Rajendra Prasad, although he also introduced Ali, who became a star with Yamaleela. Number One, with Krishna in the lead, was a major success and his first effort to shift into a bigger-budget genre. His later efforts to work with major stars were not successful (e.g. Top Hero with Balakrishna and Vajram with Nagarjuna).

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1993: Rajendrudu Gajendrudu; 1993: Mayalodu; 1994: Number One, Sbubhalagnam; Top Hero; Yamaleela; 1995: Ghatotkachudu; Vajram.

REHMAN, ALLAH RAKHA (B. 1966)

Innovative and phenomenally successful 90s Tamil and Hindi composer. Scholarship from Trinity College; former member of the Madras-based rock group Nemesis Avenue. Became a major star with his music in Mani Rathnam's Roja (1992), followed by hit scores in Gentleman, Thiruda Thiruda, Kadhalan and Bombay. The music in all these films proved equally successful in dubbed Hindi versions, as did his formal debut in Hindi, in Rangeela which included the songs 'Ayi re' and 'Tanha tanha'. His electronics-derived music, often scored on computer, is seen as belonging to the tradition of e.g. R. D. Burman.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1992: Roja; 1993: Gentleman; Puthiya Mukham; Kizhakkum Seemayile; Thiruda Thiruda; 1994: Kadhalan; Pavithra; Karutbamma; Duet; May Maadham; 1995: Indira; Muthu; Rangeela; Bombay; Anthimantharai; 1996: Kadhal Desam.

REHMAN, WAHEEDA (B. 1938)

Hindi-Urdu star of the 50s and 60s who came to prominence after an extraordinary performance as the prostitute in Guru Dutt's Pyaasa. Born into a traditional Muslim family in Hyderabad, AP. A student of Bharat Natyam, she débuted in Yoganand's Telugu film Jayasimba; her second film, Chanakya's Rojulu Marayi, was a massive hit. Guru Dutt cast her in Raj Khosla's CID with Dev Anand. Classic scenes in CID like the song Kabin pe nigaben (sung by Shamshad Begum), where she tries to seduce the villain and allow the hero to escape, reveal her extraordinary facial mobility and dancer's grace, both repeatedly used in Dutt's song sequences (as in Jaane kya tune kahi in Pyaasa as she leads Vijay through alleys and beneath bridges or in Bhawra bada nadaan in Sabib Bibi Aur Gbulam). Her physical presence was used by Dutt to convey an intense sense of life, often counterposed to another female role associated with death (e.g. Meena Kumari in Sabib Bibi). Aspects of this image continued into Vijay Anand's Guide and Asit Sen's Khamoshi, where she is a nurse in an institution for the mentally deranged replacing sick hero Rajesh Khanna as victim. Also acted in Satyajit Ray's Abbijaan. Currently plays white-haired mothers, including Amitabh Bachchan's violated mother in Trisbul.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1955: Jayasimba; Jaisingh; Rojulu Marayi; Kalam Maripochu; Alibabavum Narpatha Thirudargalum;

Waheeda Rehman in Bees Saal Baad (1962)

1956: CID; 1957: Pyasa; 1958: Solva Saal: Twelve O'clock; 1959: Kaagaz Ke Phool; 1960: Chaudhvin Ka Chand; Ek Phool Char Kaante; Girl Friend; Kala Bazaar; 1961: Roop Ki Rani Choron Ka Raja; 1962: Baat Ek Raat Ki; Bees Saal Baad; Raakhi; Sabib Bibi Aur Gbulam; Abbijaan; 1963: Ek Dil Sau Afsane; Kaun Apna Kaun Paraya; Mujhe Jeene Do; 1964: Kobraa; Majboor; Shagun; 1965: Guide; 1966: Dil Diya Dard Liya; Teesri Kasam; 1967: Palki; Patthar Ke Sanam; Ram Aur Shyam; Ghar Ka Chirag; 1968: Admi; Baazi; Neel Kamal; 1969: Khamoshi; Meri Bhabhi; Shatranj; 1970: Dharti; Man Ki Aankhen; Prem Pujari; Darpan; 1971: Man Mandir; Reshma Aur Shera; 1972: Dil Ka Raja; Subah-o-Shyam; Zindagi Zindagi; Trisandhya; 1973: Insaaf; Phagun; 1975: Love in Bombay; 1976: Adalat; Kabhi Kabhie; 1977: Aaj Ki Dhara; 1978: Trisbul; 1979: Jiban Je Rakam; 1980: Jwalamukhi; Jyoti Bane Jwala; 1981: Naseeb; 1982: Dharam Kanta; Namak Halal; Namkeen; Sawal (H); 1983: Coolie; Ghughroo; Himmatwala; Mahaan; Pyasa Aankhen; 1984: Maqsad; Mashaal; Sunny; 1986: Allah Rakha; Sinhasan; 1989: Chandni; 1991: Lambe; 1994: Ulfaat Ki Nayi Manzilen.

REKHA (B. 1954)

Originally Bhanurekha. One of the few contemporary Indian film stars with a legendary status far outstripping her screen roles. The daughter of Tamil-Telugu stars Gemini Ganesh and Pushpavalli. Début as Baby Bhanurekha in B.N. Reddi's Rangula Ratnam. Eventually became a star via Mohan Segal's hit, Sawan Bhadon. Overweight and gawky in her initial years, she made a spectacular physical change which was later marketed through e.g. tips for body beautification and Jane Fonda-style aerobics. Her image, often as a rural belle, became that of a vulnerable yet sexually driven woman following the role of the prostitute Zohra in Muqaddar Ka Sikandar. She made a bid for actorial respectability by appearing in New Indian Cinema-type films: Muzaffar Ali's Umrao Jaan, Benegal's Kalyug and Girish Karnad's Utsav. Her personal life as reflected in gossip magazines and in the media was the subject of Silsila in which she is said to have played herself. Married the industrialist Mukesh Aggarwal who committed suicide shortly afterwards, triggering a new wave of public gossip invoking her femme fatale image.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1966: Rangula Ratnam; 1970: Amma Kosam; Sawan Bhadon; 1971: Dost Aur Dushman; Elaan; Haseenon Ka Devta; Saaz Aur Sanam; 1972: Rampur Ka Laksman; Ek Bechara; Sazaa; Zameen Aasmaan; Gaon Hamara Shaber Tumhara; Do Yaar; Gora Aur Kala; Double-Cross; 1973: Namak Haram; Kashmakash; Pran Jaye Par Vachan Na Jaye; Anokhi Ada; Dharma; Barkha Bahar; Keemat; Khoon Khoon; Mebmaan; Kahani Kismat Ki; 1974: Do Aankhen; Duniya Ka Mela; Woh Main Nahin; Hawas; 1975: Dafaa 302; Dharam Karam; Dharmatma; Kehte Hain Mujhko Raja; Zorro; Akraman; 1976: Aaj Ka Mahatma; Do Anjaane; Kabeela; Nagin; Santan; Khalifa; 1977: Aap Ki Khatir; Alaap; Chakkar Pe Chakkar; Dildaar; Farishta Ya Qatil; Imaan Dharam; Kachcha Chor; Khoon Pasina; Palkon Ki Chhaon Mein; Ram Bharose; 1978: Bhola Bhala; Ganga Ki Saugandh; Ghar; Karmayogi; Muqaddar; Muqaddar Ka Sikandar; Parmatma; Prem Bandhan; Rahu Ketu; Ram Kasam; Sawan Ke Geet; Aakbri Daku; Do Musafir; Kasme Wade; Do Shikari; 1979: Gautam Govinda; Muqabala; Abimsa; Jaani Dushman; Kartavya; Mr Natwarlal; Suhaag; Kali Ghata; Naya Bakra; 1980: Aanchal; Agreement; Chebre Pe Chebra; Jal Mahal; Judaai; Khubsoorat; Maang Bharo Sajana; Ram Balram; Neeyat; Jyoti Bane Jwala; Kalyug; Saajan Ki Sabeli; 1981: Basera; Chashme Buddoor; Khoon Aur Pani; Daasi; Ek Hi Bhoor; Ghughroo Ki Awaaz; Mangalsutra; Silsila; Umrao Jaan; Raaste Pyar Ke; 1982: Mehndi Rang Layegi; Apna Bana Lo; Deedar-e-Yaar; Ghazab; Jeevan Dhara; Vijeta; 1983: Agar Tum Na Hote; Mujhe Insaaf Chahiye; Nishan; Prem Tapasya; Bindiya Chamkegi; 1984: Utsav; Asha Jyoti; Baazi; Jhootha Sach; Kaamyaaab; Mati Maange Khoon; Khazana; Zameen Aasmaan; Musafir; 1985: Ram Tere Kitne Naam; Faasle; Locket; 1986: Insaaf Ki Awaaz; Jaal; Jaambaaz; Sada Subagan; Jhoothi; Pyar Ki Jeet; 1987: Apne Apne; Jaam Hatheli Pe; Sansar; Ijaazat; 1988: Soomra Bhopali; Biwi Ho To Aisi; Khoon Bhari Maang; Ek Naya Rishta; Akarsban; Jism Ka Rishta; 1989: Kasam Suhaag Ki; Clerk; Ladaai; Bhrashtachar; Souten Ki Beti; Baburani; 1990: Amiri Garibi; Azad Desh Ke Gulam; Mera Pati Sirf Mera Hai; Shesh Naag; 1991: Phool Bane Angarey; Yeh Aag Kab Bujbegi; 1992: Insaaf Ki Devi; 1993: Geetanjali (H); Madam X; 1995: Ab Insaaf Hoga; Nishana.

ROY, BIMAL (1909-66)

Director regarded as one of Hindi cinema's top cineastes in the 50s. Born in Dhaka (now Bangladesh) into a landholding family. Studied in Calcutta. Hired as camera assistant by Nitin Bose for New Theatres. Shot many films, such as P.C. Barua's Devdas (1935), Gribadab, Maya (both 1936) and Mukti (1937) and Amar Mullick's Bardidi (1939) and Abbinetri (1940). Remade Barua's Devdas and Mullick's Biraj Bou (as Biraj Babu). Directorial début at New Theatres with Udayer Pathy, introducing a new era of post-WW2 romantic-realist melodrama that was to pioneer the integration of the Bengal School style with that of De Sica. Made the classic of the radical-popular IPTA-supported cinema: Do Bigba Zameen. Wrote Manoj Bhattacharya's Taibapi (1950). Left New Theatres (1950), worked briefly at Bombay Talkies and set up Bimal Roy Prod. in Bombay (1952) making 13 films in 11 years, including some of his best-known socials in Hindi (esp. Sujata and Bandini). Madhumati (with story, script and apparently directorial input by Ritwik Ghatak) was one of the biggest Hindi hits of 50s, with a popular soundtrack by Saif Choudhury. Supported younger Bengali film-makers who followed him to Bombay, producing films by Hemen Gupta (Kabuliwala), 1961) and Asit Sen (Parivar, 1956; Aparadhi Kaun, 1957). Roy's film-making team contained many talents who went on to become major film-makers themselves, e.g. Hrishikesh Mukherjee, Gulzar and Bimal Dutt. Monograph on him by his daughter Rinki Bhattacharya (1989).

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1943: Bengal Famine (Doc); 1944: Udayer Patbey/Hamrabi; 1948: Anjangarh; 1949: Mantramugdba; 1950: Pebha Admi; 1952: Maa; 1953: Do Bigba Zameen; Parineeta; 1954: Naukri; Biraj Babu; Baap Beti; 1955: Devdas; 1958: Madhumati; Yabudi; 1959: Sujata; 1960: Parakh; 1961: Immortal Stupa (Doc); 1962: Prem Patra; 1963: Bandini; 1964: Life and Message of Swami Vivekananda (Doc); 1967: Gautama the Buddha (Doc).

ROY, CHARU (1890-1971)

Bengali painter and director born in Behrampore, West Bengal. Graduated in geology from Presidency College, Calcutta (1918). As a painter, he considered the Bengal School's Abanindranath Tagore to be his teacher. Associated with Indian Society for Oriental Art; paintings reproduced in journals Bharat Varsba and Prabashi (1913). Cartoonist for daily Ananda Bazar Patrika and other journals like Prabashi, Modern Review, etc. (1922-7). Worked on the first Bengali film journal, Bioscope (1930); later edited Rangmabal journal. Became a renowned set designer, e.g. for Sisir Bhaduri's Seeta, where he pioneered naturalist, three-dimensional stage design and perspectival lighting. Entered film as art director for Himansu Rai (e.g. Prem Sanyas, 1925). Also acted in some of the Osten films (e.g. Shiraz, 1928; Prapancha Pash, 1929). First film as director was a megabudget Great Eastern production in Orientalist spectacular genre, Loves of a Mughal Prince, but was upstaged by R.S. Choudhury's quickly made Anarkali (1928). Also continued as art director, e.g. for Modhu Bose's Michael Madbusudhan (1950) and Prafulla Roy's Malancha (1953). His Bangalee was praised by Satyajit Ray for its avoidance of Hollywood influences and for its accurate depiction of the Bengali middle-class lifestyle. Roy acknowledged his debt to Osten (in particular to cinematographer Wirsching) for his use of source lighting and for overcoming theatrical acting styles.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1928: The Loves of a Mughal Prince (also act.); 1930: Bigraba; 1931: Chorekanta; Swami (all St); 1934: Rajnati Basantsena; 1935: Duku Ka Ladka; Diljani; 1936: Kubu-o-Keka (Sh); Bangalee; Sarala; Graher Pher; 1939: Pathik.

ROY, JAHAR (1929-77)

Some sources give 1919 as his birth year. Born in Barisal, now Bangladesh, the son of the early film comedian Satu Roy. Became one of the top comedians of the Bengali cinema, remembered as a fat actor prone to boisterous performances and for his trade-mark giggle. Broke through with Bimal Roy's Anjangarh. Teamed up with Bhanu Sen to make Anand (1950) featuring the names of either or both stars in the title: e.g. Ae Jabar Sey Jabar Noy; Bhanu Goenda Jabar Assistant. Remembered as the foreman in Ghatak's Subarnarekha and the villainous prime minister in Ray's Goopy Gyne Bagha Byne. A major stage actor and director, from 1953 (when he first appeared as Nakul in Durabbashi) he was the driving force of the main Calcutta Theatres company, Rungmahal, until 1977, when he played Bhujanga Roy in Aparichita.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1947: Purbaraag; 1948: Anjangarh; 1950: Pebha Admi; Roopkatha/Roop Kabini; Vidyasagar; 1952: Chhoti Maa; Basu Parivar; 1953: Adrishya Manush; Jog Bhyog; Shbarey Chuattar; 1954: Dbuli; Nababidhan; Chitrangada; Agni Pareeksha; Bhakti Bilwamangal; Moner Mayur; Ankush; Naramedh Yagna; Sada-Kalo; Kalyani; Ladies' Seat; Jagrihi; Sudamander Mela; Sati; Barbela; Chheley Kaar; 1955: Nishiddha Phal; Chatujye-Banrujye; Dakinir Char; Anupama; Devatra; Chhoto Bou; Aparadhi; Jharer Parey; Dashyumohan; Mejo Bou; Bhalobasha(?); Upabar; Shribaisa Chinta; Hrad; Paresb; 1956: Asaharna; Saudhan; Chirakumar Sabha; Ekti Raat; Chalachal; Rajpath; Govindadas; Nagardola; Chore; Amar Bou; Chhaya Sangini(?); 1957: Bara Maa(?); Tapasi(?); Chhaya Patb; Ulka; Adarsha Hindu Hotel; Kuncha-Mithey; Punar Milan; Mamata; Ogo Sunchho; Tamasha; Parash Pathar; Gharer Matb; 1958: Yamalaya Jibanta Manush; Rajalaksbmi-o-Shrikanta; Manmoyee Girls' School; Dak Harkara; Nupur; Bhanu Pelo Lotte(?); Jonakir Alo; Nagini Kanyar Kabini; Shri Shri Tarakeshwar; Rajdhani Theke; Kalamati; Surya Toran; 1959: Shri Shri Nityananda Prabhu; Sagar Sangamey; Derso Khokhar Kando; Jal-Jangal; Abhisap; Mahut Bandhu Re; Gali Theke Rajpath; Bari Theke Paliye; Ae Jabar Sey Jabar Noy; Rater Andhakare; Mriter Martye Agaman; 1960: Maya Mriga; Debarshi Narader Sansar; Akash-Patai; Haat Baraley Bandhu; Prabesh Nishedb; Kono-Ek-Din; Shaharer Itikatha; Nader Nimai; Biyer Khata; Suno Baro Nari; Dui Bechara; Gariber Meye; 1961: Raibahadur; Sathi Hara; Mr and Mrs Choudhury; Bishkanya; Megh; Pankatilak; Dilli Theke Kolkata; Aaj Kal Parsbu; Madhureno; Kanamachi; 1962: Mon Dilona Bandhu; Sorry Madam; Atal Jaler Abwan; Bandhan; Kajal; Abhisarika; Subarnarekha; 1963: Dui Bari; Barnachora; Sat Bhai; High Heel; Palatak; Dui Nari; Hashi Sudhu Hasbi Noy; Surya Sikha; Shreyasi; 1964: Pratimidbi; Swarga Hotey Biday; Kinu Goyalar Gali; Kashtipathar; Kanta Taar; Binsati Janani; Ketumi; Marutrisba; 1965: Roop Sanatan; Alor Pipasa; Mahalagna; Ek Tuku Basa; Ghoom Bhanger Gaan; Pati Sansodhini Samiti; Devatar Deep; Dinanter Alo; Abhoya-o-Srikanta; Dolna; Mukbujey Paribar; Kal Tumi Aleya; 1966: Firey Chalo; Kanch Kata Hirey; Nutan Jiban; Ramdebeka; Shesh Tin Din; Mamata; Asbru Diye Lekha; 1967: Abhisapta Chambal; Balika Bodhu; Wobi Ladki; Ajana Shapath; Antony Firingee; Asbite Ashio Na; Bodhu Baran; Hatbat Dekha; Miss Priyambada; Mabashueta; Nayika Sangbad; Trasoti Satakshar; 1968: Adyashakti Mahamaya; Baghini; Baluchari; Boudi; Chowringhee; Kokbono Megh; Panchasar; Parishodb; Patbe Holo Dekha; Rakta Rekha; Hansamithun; Goopy Gyne Bagha Byne; 1969: Agni Yuger Kabini; Chena Achena; Dadu; Duranta Charai; Kamallata; Natun Pata; Pita Putra; Shuk Sari; Rabgir; 1970: Muktisnan; Ae Korechho Bhalo; Nala Damayanti; Rajkumari; Nishipadma; Rupasi; 1971: Anyu Mati Anya Rang; Bhanu Goenda Jabar Assistant; Chhadmabeshi; Dhanyi Meye; Ekbhame Pinjar; Nabaraag; Nimantran; Pratham Pratisruti; Sachimar Sansar; 1972: Biraj Bou; Chhayatir; Chhinapatra; Memsahib; Haar Mana Haar; Nayikar Bhumikay; Padi Pishir Barmi Baksba; Shesh Parba; Stree; Chitthi; Chhandapatani; Duranta Jay; Jiban Sangram; Marjina Abdallah; 1973: Ek Je Chhilo Bagh; Bon Palasbir Padabali; Nakal Sona; Shesh Pristhby Dekhun; Daabi; Pranta Rekha; Shravan Sandhya; 1974: Debi Choudhrani; Sangini; Sujata; Chhatur Phande; Umno-o-Jhumno; Phulu Thakurma; Biley Naren; 1975: Chhoto Nayak; Mohan Baganer Meye; Agniswar; Kajal Lata; Hansaraj; Sei Chokh; Amriter Swad; Tin Pari Chhoy Premik; Arjun; Bandi Bidhata; 1976: Asudharan; Ek Je Chhilo Desb; Nana Ranger Dmguli; Balak Saratchandra; Ananda Mela; Laila Majnu (B); 1977: Babu Moshai; Din Amader; Hatey Roilo Tin; Ami Ratan; Brajabuli; 1979: Jata Mut Tata Patb; Sonay Suhaga; 1988: Bile Naren.

ROY, NIRUPA (B. 1931)

Hindi and Gujarati actress, originally called Kokila Kishorechandra Balsara. Born in Valsad, Gujarat. She is the most famous screen mother in Indian cinema. Début in V.M. Vyas's successful Gujarati feature, Ranakdevi. Broke through with Gunsundari. Best-known for roles as a mother goddess, e.g. Seeta thrice, Parvati thrice and Lakshmi, Taramati, Draupadi and Damayanti once. Also played Rani Rupmati, elaborating this persona in other period movies like Amarsinh Rathod, Veer Durgada and Jai

Nirupa Roy in Navratri (1955)

Chittor. Worked extensively at Ranjit following the success of Har Har Mahadev, often in mythologicals opposite male lead Trilok Kapoor. First played the mother in Dev Anand's Munimji. Also acted in realist tragedies, often with Balraj Sahni (Do Bigba Zameen, Garam Coat). Developed a new dimension to her image playing Bachchan's mother in Manmohan Desai's Amar Akbar Anthony and in Yash Chopra films. She is the pivot of Deewar and triggered the line addressed by the 'good' brother, Shashi Kapoor, to the bad one, Bachchan: 'Mere paas maa hai' (I have mother on my side). She plays to perfection the role of the mother as victim, so that Bachchan or Dharmendra may engage in vendettas to restore the family honour.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1946: Amar Raj, Ranakdevi; 1947: Bhanwar, Lakhon Mein Ek, Meerabai; 1948: Jeevan Palto, Gunsundari, Hip Hip Hurray, Jai Hanuman, Mitti Ke Khilone, Satyavan Savitri, Nanand Bhojai; 1949: Garibi, Hamari Manzil, Udhaar, Mangalfera; Sati Sukanya; 1950: Jawabdari, Alakh Niranjani, Bhai Baben; Har Har Mahadev; Veer Bhimsen; Gadano Bel, Man Ka Meer; 1951: Bade Bhaiya, Dashavatar, Ishwar Bhakti, Jai Mahakali, Kashmir, Lav Kush, Maya Machhindra/Gorakhnath, Nai Zindagi, Ram Janma, Shri Ganesh Janma, Shri Vishnu Bhagwan, Parnetar. 1952: Bhakta Puran, Izzat, Rajrani Damayanti, Shiwashakti, Sinbad the Sailor, Veer Arjun; 1953: Bhagyavaan; Dharmapatni; Do Bigba Zameen; Madmust; Manchala; Naag Panchami; Naulakha Haar, Naya Raasta; Raj Ratan, Shuk Rambha; Teen Batti Char Raasta; 1954: Aulad; Aurat Teri Yahi Kahani; Bilwamangal; Chakradhari; Durga Puja; Hukumat; Pehli Tareekh; Shiv Kanya; Shiv Ratri; Watan; 1955: Garam Coat; Mahasati Savitri; Munimji; Navratri; Oonchi Haveli; Sati Madalasa; Shri Ganesh Vivah; Tange wali; Teen Bhai; Vaman Avatar; Raj Durbar; 1956: Bajrang Bali; Basant Panchami; Bhai Bhai; Dassehra; Gauri Puja; Lalkaar; Ram Navami; Sati Naagkanya; Taksaal; Amarsinh Rathod; 1957: Chandi Puja; Do Roti, Ek Gaon Ki Kahani; Janam Janam Ke Phera; Krishna Sudama; Lakshmi Pooja; Mohini; Musafir; Naag Lok, Naag Mani; Narsi Bhagat; Ram Hanuman Yuddha; Sant Raghu; Shesh Naag; Blackmailer; 1958: Chaalbaaz; Dulhan; Karigar; Naag Champa; Pati Parmeshwar; Raj Pratigya; Ram Bhakta Vibhishan; Samrat Chandragupta; 1959: Bazigar; Bedard Zamana Kya Jaane; Charnon Ki Dasi; Daaka; Dr Z; Heera Moti; Kangan; Kavi Kalidas; Paksbiraj; Rani Rupmati; 1960: Aanchal; Ghar Ki Laaj; Lal Qila; Maya Machhindra; Superman; Veer Durgadas; 1961: Apsara; Batwara; Chhaya; Dharmaputra; Jai Chittor; Razia Sultana; Chundadi Chokha; 1962: Aalha Udal; Bezubaan; Bijli Chamke Jamna Paar; Maa Beta; 1963: Chandrasekhar Azad; Grihasthi; Gumrah; Kaun Apna Kaun Paraya; Mujhe Jeene Do; 1964: Benazir; Bhakta Dhruwakumar; Hameer Hatb; Phoolon Ki Sej; Shehnai; 1965: Chand Aur Suraj; Shaheed; Shankar Seeta Ansuya; Sbi Ram Bharat Milap; 1966: Aasra; Laadla; Neend Hamari Khwab Tumbare; 1967: Badrinath Yatra; Jaal; Ram Aur Shyam; 1968: Ek Kali Muskayi; Jyot Jale; Raja Aur Runk; Aabroo; Sadhu Aur Shaitan; 1969: Surya Devata; Anjaana; Aansoo Ban Gaye Phool; Aaya Sawan Jhoom Ke, Hum Ek Hain; Jigri Dost; Pyar Ka Mausam; Rahgir; 1970: Maharaja; Aan Milo Sajna; Abhinetri; Ghar Ghar Ki Kahani; Gopi; Maa Aur Mamta; My Love; Purab Aur Paschim; 1971: Chhoti Babu; Ganga Tera Pani Amrit; Jawan Mohabbat; Nadaan; Sansar (H); 1972: Anokhi Pebchan; Ek Hasina Do Diwane; Jaanwar Aur Insaan; Jawani Diwani; 1973: Kachche Dhaage; Manchali; Pyar Ka Rishta; Taxi Driver; 1974: Aaina; Badla; Roti; The Cheat; Zehreela Insaan; 1975: Deewar; Mouno; Ponga Pandit; 1976: Aap Beeti; Maa; Santan; Dharti Mata; 1977: Saubhagya Sindoor; Akhri Goli; Aankh Ka Tara; Amar Akbar Anthony; Anurodh; Hatyara; Kasam Khoon Ki; Khoon Pasina; 1978: Anjane Mein; Besharam; Dil Aur Deewar; Ram Kasam; Nalayak; Muqaddar Ka Sikandar; 1979: Ahimsa; Jaandaar; Kartavya; Kbandaan; Suhaag; Chambal Ki Kasam; Zalim; Aatish; Gautam Govinda; 1980: Lootmaar; Aas Paas; 1981: Jail Yatra; Qatilon Ke Qatil; Khoon Aur Pani; Kranti; Professor Pyare Lal; Chalti Ka Naam Zindagi; Kabani Ek Chor Ki; Shaaka; 1982: Ganga Meri Maa; Chalti Ka Naam Zindagi; Kabani Ek Chor Ki; Shaaka; 1983: Betaab; Mawaali; Aan Aur Shaan; Chor Police; 1984: Pavitra Ganga; Mera Faisla; Ram Tera Desh; 1985: Aaj Ka Daur; Graaftaar; Mard; Pataal Bhai; Ramkali; Maanu Mangalsutra; Locket; Dharam Shatru; Mahaguru; Sarfarosh; 1986: Angarey; 1987: Naam-o-Nishan; Pyar Karke Dekho; 1988: Pyar Ka Mandir; Charnon Ki Saugandh; Sone Pe Suhaaga; Aurat Teri Yahi Kahani; Ganga Tere Desh Mein; Inteqam; Ganga Jamuna Saraswati; 1989: Dana Pani; Santosh; 1990: Karnama; Pyar Ka Devata; 1991: Pratikar; Hai Meri Jaan; Lakhpati; 1992: Mere Sajna Saath Nibhana; Humshakal; Jai Shiv Shankar.

Rupkonwar see Agarwala, Jyotiprasad
Sabhyaaschi see Kar, Ajoy

SADANANDAN, S. L. PURAM (B. 1927)

Prolific Malayalam scenarist and major playwright. Film debut adapting his best-known play, Oralkoodi Kalanayi, on the theme of unemployment, for the film by P.A. Thomas (1964). Scenarist mainly with M. Krishnan Nair (e.g. Kavya Mela, 1965; Pinchu Hridayam and Kalyana Rathriyil, 1966; Agniputhri and Collector Malathi, 1967). Also wrote for Sethumadhavan (e.g. Sibanarathi Saramma, 1966; Kottayam Kola Case, 1967). Adapted Thakazhy Shivashankar Pillai's landmark novel for the equally epochal film Chenmeen (1965) and P. Vatsala's story for Nellu (1974), both films by Kariat. Wrote the dialogues for George's Lekhayude Maranam Oru Flashback (1983). Provided script and/or dialogues for c.150 Malayalam films since 1964.

SAGAR, RAMANAND (B. 1917)

Hindi director, producer and writer born in Lahore as Ramanand Shankardas Chopra. Journalist for the Daily Milap and the Daily Pratap (1936-42). Assisted e.g. H.S. Thakur (Raiders of the Railroad, 1936) and obtained a degree in Sanskrit (1942). Migrated to Bombay on Partition, recording the communal holocaust in his classic Hindi novel, Aur Insaan Mar Gaya (1948). Using the names Ramanand Chopra and Ramanand Bedi, published prose stories (Diary of a TB Patient, 1942; Jawar Bhata, 1943; Aine, 1944; Jab Pable Roz Barf Giri, 1944; Mera Hamdani Mere Dost, 1945; Phool Aur Kaante, 1949) and plays (e.g. Gaura, part of which was staged by Prithviraj Kapoor's Prithvi Theatres as Kalakaar, 1951). Broke through in cinema writing Raj Kapoor's epochal Barsaat (1949). Wrote scripts and dialogues for S.S. Vasan's Hindi films (Insaniyat, 1955; Raj Tilak, 1958; Paigham, 1959) and directed two films (Ghughhat, Zindagi) for Vasan's Gemini Studio. Produced most of his own films via his Sagar Art (1953). Notable recent work includes the 91-episode TV serial Ramayan, Doordarshan's first major success with peak Sunday morning viewing of c.78% of the audience. Continued with a sequel derived from the Mahabharata (released on video). Addressing communally charged ideals of Hindu glory, with a tacit glorification of sati, the serial claims to be founded on Tulsidas's 16th C. Ramcharitmanas, but formally it remains within the ambit of e.g. Radheshyam Kathavachak's popular playwrighting style.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1953: Mehmaan; 1954:

BazooBand; 1960: Ghughhat; 1964: Zindagi; 1965: Arzo; 1968: Aankhen; 1970: Geet; 1972: Lalkaar; 1973: Jalte Badan; 1976: Charas; 1978: Prem Bandhan; 1982: Baghavat; 1983: Romance; 1985: Salma; 1986-8: Ramayan (TV); 1989: Krishna (TV).

SAGAR FILM COMPANY

Bombay studio started in 1930 by Chimanlal Desai and Ambalal Patel, Southern distributors of Select Pics, Imperial and Ardeshir Irani (who withdrew in 1931). Its major early film-maker was Sarvottam Badami (e.g. Dr Madhurika, 1935); Ezra Mir contributed some seminal Parsee theatre-derived films and novelist K.M. Munshi helped formulate the codes that were to shape Mehboob's early work. Others who started their careers in the studio, and in the same genre, were Zia Sarhadi and Ramchandra Thakur. When Chimanlal Luhar joined, they made some stunt movies, including Mehboob's Deccan Queen (1936). The studio also made nationalist documentaries, on Nehru and Subhash Bose, with the active collaboration of their subjects. In 1936 Ambalal Patel withdrew to start Sudama Pics. In 1939 Sagar merged with Fazalbhoy's Film City and General Films to become National Film. One of their earliest films was Mehboob's classic Aurat (1940), made at Sagar but released by National.

SAHNI, BALRAJ (1913-73)

Born in Rawalpindi (now Pakistan), and the best-known film actor to emerge from the post-WW2 Left cultural movements. Studied at the Government College of Lahore, graduating in literature. Started writing poetry in English and involved in 'realist' theatre, absorbing the then prevalent desire for both nationalism and Westernisation. Married Damayanti who was a noted theatre actress. Taught Hindi and English at Shantiniketan. Wrote his first compilation of Hindi fiction, Sbabzadonka Drink (1936). Worked as a journalist and briefly as radio announcer for the BBC's Hindi service. Started the Monday Morning journal in Delhi. Went to Bombay (1947) and became a key figure in IPTA plays; also director and lead actor in Zubeida (by Abbas) and The Inspector General (both 1944). Ran the Juhu Art Theatre group in the 1960s. After a walk-out part in Phani Majumdar's Insaaf, starred in Abbas's first film, Dharti Ke Lal. Damayanti died in the late 40s and Sahnî later married Santosh. Made his reputation as the displaced rickshaw-puller in Bimal Roy's Do Bigba Zameen, continuing the neo-realist style he had adopted for Dharti Ke Lal. In Garam Coat he gave the classic performance of the displaced person as represented in the writings of Rajinder Singh Bedi and Krishan Chander. He embodied the tragedy of the people of Punjab (partitioned during Independence) and the ethnic groups of the North West Frontier (e.g. the Pathans) so effectively that his very presence came to signify a host of historical connotations, as in Kabuliwala, in Sone Ki Chidiya where he plays a radical poet and defender of the rights of film extras, or in the war movie Haqeeqat where his acting inflected the film's nationalist chauvinism, and in the Agra-based story Garam Hawa. Wrote the story and dialogues of Guru Dutt's Baazi (1951). Wrote extensively on many issues, including novels and an autobiography (1971). Remained a Left activist throughout his life and was part of cultural delegations to the Soviet Union and to China. Communist leader P.C. Joshi compiled the book Balraj Sahnî: An Intimate Portrait (1974) with Sahnî's writings and speeches in addition to Joshi's own recollections of the radical theatre movement.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1946: Dharti Ke Lal; Insaaf; 1947: Gudiya; 1948: Gunjan; 1951: Humlog; Maldar; 1952: Badnaam; Rabi; 1953: Akash; Do Bigba Zameen; 1954: Aulad; Bazooband; Chalis Baba Ek Chor; Majboori; 1955: Garam Coat; Jawab; Joru Ka Bhat; Seema; Tangewali; Vachan; Era Bator Sur; 1956: Taksaal; 1957: *Lal Batti; Pardesi; Bhabhi; Do Roti; Katbputli; Krishna Sudama; Mai Baap; Mamata; 1958: Devar Bhabhi; Ghar Gribasthi; Ghar Sansar; Khazanchi; Lajwanti; Naya Kadam; Sone Ki Chidiya; 1959: Black Cat; Chand; Cbhoti Baben; CID Girl; Heera Moti; Satta Bazaar; 1960: Amuradba; Bindiya; Dil Bhi Tera Hum Bhi Tere; Nai Maa; 1961: Bhabhi Ki Chudiyani; Kabuliwala; Sapan Subane; Subaag Sindoor; 1962: Anpadb; Shadi; 1963: Akela; 1964: Punar Milan; Haqeeqat; Main Bhi Ladki Hoon; 1965: Faraar; Waqt; Dak Ghar; 1966: Aaye Din Babar Ke; Aasra; Laadla; Neend Hamari Khwab Tumbare; Pinjre Ke Panchbi; 1967: Aman; Hamraaz; Naunihal; 1968: Aabroo; Duniya; Izzat; Neel Kamal; Sangbarsh; 1969: Do Raaste; Ek Phool Do Mali; Hum Ek Hain; Nannha

Farishta; Talash; 1970: Dharti; Ghar Ghar Ki Kabani; Holi Aayee Re; Mere Humsafar; Naya Raasta; Pavitra Papi; Pebchan; 1971: Jawan Mohabbat; Paraya Dhan; 1972: Jungle Mein Mangal; Jawani Diwani; Shayar-e-Kashmir Mahjoor; 1973: Chimni Ka Dhuani; Daman Aur Aag; Garam Hawa; Hanste Zakhm; Hindustan Ki Kasam; Pyar Ka Rishta; 1975: Amanat.

SAHU, KISHORE (1915-80)

Hindi actor, writer, director and producer born in Durg, MP. Son of the Raja of Raigarh's chief minister. Degree in literature from the University of Nagpur (1937). Wrote many short stories. Started as actor in Bombay Talkies playing a Barua-like ineffectual lover opposite Devika Rani in Jeevan Prabhat. Prominent early instance of a total author: an actor-director of mid-budget socials usually scripted by and starring himself. Films often claimed classic European sources (e.g. Olivier's Hamlet, 1948). Started Kishore Sahu Prod. (1940) and Hindustan Chitra (1944). Part of late 40s Filmistan stable. Wrote Insaan (1944) and Apnapan (1977); wrote dialogues for Vasani's Aurat (1967) and Teen Bahuranyan (1968). Villainous figure in several Dev Anand films e.g. Kala Pani, Guide, Hare Rama Hare Krishna.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d/ only d): 1937: Jeevan Prabhat; 1940: Baburani; Punar Milan; 1942: *Kunwara Baap; 1943: *Raja; 1944: *Shararat; Insaan; 1945: *Veer Kunal; 1947: *Sajaan; *Sindoor; 1948: *Nadiya Ke Paar; 1949: *Sawan Aya Re; Namuna; Rimjhim; 1951: Buzdil; *Kali Ghata; 1952: Zalzala; Hamari Duniya; Sapna; 1954: *Hamlet; *Mayurpankb; 1956: *Kismet Ka Khe; 1957: *Bade Sarkar; 1958: Kala Pant; 1960: Kala Bazaar; Love in Simla; *Dil Apna Aur Preet Parayi; 1963: *Gribasthi; *Ghar Basake Dekho; 1965: *Poonam Ki Raat; Guide; 1967: *Hare Kaanch Ki Chudiyani; 1969: Beti; 1970: *Pushpanjali; 1971: Gambler; Hare Rama Hare Krishna; 1974: *Dhuen Ki Lakeer.

Kishore Sahu in his film Hamlet (1954)

SAIGAL, KUNDAN LAL (1904-46)

legendary actor and singer whose performance in the lead role of Barua's Devdas set the standard for musical melodrama acting. Born in Jammu. As a child, he occasionally played Seeta in the Ramlila of Jammu. His only formal training apparently came from a little-known Sufi peer, Salman Yussuf. The singing tradition he assimilated, sometimes described as the Kotha (where the courtesans performed), had little classical rigour, but emphasised the poetic 'bending' of syllables into musical curves in forms like the thumri and the ghazal. His renditions of Mirza Ghalib's poetry and his identification with its tragic iconography formed the famous Saigal persona. Worked as a typewriter salesman when B.N. Sircar recruited him for his singing ability. His style was substantially shaped at New Theatres by Rai Chand Boral who, with Timir Baran and Pankaj Mullick, composed most of the songs which remain among the most popular hits in Indian film history. Acted in a Bengali film for the first time when he did a small role, including two songs, in the Bengali version of Devdas (having first had to satisfy Saratchandra Chatterjee that he could do it). He also sang two songs in P.V. Rao's 1936 Tamil version of Barua's film. Later proved very popular in Bengali films, e.g. Didi, Desher Mati. At New Theatres, the films of Nitin Bose (President, Jiban Maran) and Phani Majumdar (Street Singer) allowed his music to develop its own autonomy. Inspired a whole generation of singers such as Mukesh, Talat Mahmood, Kishore Kumar and Kozhikode Abdul Qadir. Worked at Ranjit in the 40s (e.g. the classic Tansen). Biography by Menon (1989).

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1932: Mohabbat Ke Aansoo; Zinda Lash; Subah Ka Sitara; 1933: Puran Bhakt; Rajrani Meera; Yahudi Ki Ladki; Dulari Bibi; 1934: Chandidas; Daku Mansoor; Mohabbat Ki Kasauti; 1935: Karwan-e-Hayat; Devdas; Bijoya; 1936: Karodpati; Pujarin; 1937: Didi/President; 1938: Desher Mati/Dharti Mata; Street Singer/Saatbi; Dushman/Jiban Maran; 1940: Zindagi; 1941: Parichay/Lagan; 1942: Bhakti Surdas; 1943: Tansen; 1944: Bhanwara; Meri Baben; 1945: Kurukshetra; Tadbir; 1946: Omar Khayyam; Shahjehan; 1947: Parwana.

SAIKIA, BHABENDRANATH (B. 1932)

Assamese director born in Nowgong. Physicist with doctorate from Imperial College of Science and Technology, London (1960). Lecturer at Gauhati University (1962-81). Major Assamese short-story writer (e.g. the anthologies Sindoor, 1973; Shrinkhal, 1976). Prolific radio playwright. Currently edits fortnightly Prantik and children's monthly Safura. Writes his own films, which he believes to be the most important of his creative output, occasionally based on his fiction: e.g. Kolabal, his best-known film, based on his radio play, and Agnisnan, based on his own novel. Directorial debut in 1977. Makes art-house films with a strongly melodramatic literary tendency combined with an ethnographic realism (e.g. the truck scenes of Kolabal).

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1977: Sandhya Raag; 1981: Anirban; 1985: Aginsnan; 1988: Kolabal; 1991: Sarothi; 1993: Abartan; 1995: Itibas.

SAINT FILMS

Genre of film biographicals of the medieval Saint-poets. This Bhakti tradition emerged from the proliferation of regional and lower-caste cultures after the 7th C. when the Pauranic texts and portions of the Mahabharata were rendered in the Prakrit or demotic languages spoken by the lowest castes of Shudra or Atishudra. Starting with Shankara (8th C.) and Ramanuja (12th C.), the movement expanded into several sects: e.g. the Jaina, the Shaiva, the Natha, the Lingayat, the Mahanubhav. It was strongest in the South and the West, creating the first major literatures in Tamil, Telugu, Kannada and Marathi. Directly addressing the peasantry and the artisans, the Bhakti tradition was revived in several currents of 19th C. nationalist and egalitarian reformism, e.g. by Mahadev Govind Ranade (1842-1901) who opposed a Vedantic revivalism by modelling his own sermons on the verses of the 17th C. Marathi poet, Sant Tukaram. In Telugu and Kannada the movement is traced to the spread of the Veerasaiva cult, pioneered by Mallikarjuna Pandit and Basvanna respectively, leading to the earliest reform movements which, as e.g. with the educational activities of the Lingayat Viratka monks in 19th C. Karnataka, fed into the social reform movement under British occupation (see Social). Used for the first time to create a political language in the banned film Bhakta Vidur (1921), a tradition continued by e.g. Prabhat's famous Saint films: Dharmatma (1935) drew parallels between Gandhi and the 16th C. poet Eknath; Sant Dnyaneshwar (1940) made a call for peace in the context of WW2. The theatrical version of the genre emphasised miracle sequences in narratives culminating in intense devotional emotions. This approach found a natural extension into filmic spectacle beyond the means of the conventional mythological, best exemplified by S.S. Vasan's big budget Avvaiyyar (1953). In Telugu the form is uniquely associated with the star Chittoor V. Nagaiah (Bhakta Potana, 1942; Tbyagayya, 1946; Yogi Vemana, 1947 et al.). Other classic Saint films are Chandidas (Bengali, 1934), Sant Tukaram (Marathi, 1936), Bhakta Cheta (Tamil, 1940), Bhakta Kabir (Hindi, 1942), Meera (Hindi/Tamil 1945), Bhakta Gora Kumbhara (Kannada, 1949), etc. The last major film in the genre is the Punjabi classic Nanak Naam Jabaz Hai (1969) although this is not strictly a biographical.

SALIM JAVED (SALIM KHAN, JAVED AKHTAR)

The most successful scenarists of 70s Indian cinema. Javed Akhtar, son of songwriter Jan Nissar Akhtar and born in 1945 in Gwalior, started his career in the late 60s writing the dialogues of e.g. S.M. Sagar's Sarbadi Lutera (1966). Salim Khan established himself as a scenarist with 70s megastar Rajesh Khanna's hit Haathi Mere Saathi (1971). The two teamed up to write e.g. dialogues for Ramesh Sippy's Seeta Aur Geeta (1972) and the script for Nasir Hussain's hit teen-picture, Yaadon Ki Baraat (1973). They broke through as a team in 1973 mainly with the rise of Amitabh Bachchan, writing his first vigilante movie, Prakash Mehra's Zanjeer (1973). Established themselves in the wake of Bachchan's success, with Deewar and Sholay (both 1975), followed by Don and Trisbul (both 1978), later claiming the authorship of the star's screen persona. Became independent attractions with equal billing as the stars while inaugurating a new era in professional screenplay writing. They separated shortly after Aakbro Dao (1975), after which Akhtar wrote several hit films such as Mr India (1989) and the massively successful song Ek do teen of N. Chandra's Tezaab (1988). Salim Khan returned to top-billing status with Shashilal Nair's Falak (1988) although he remained less successful than his former partner. Together with his wife Shabana Azmi, Akhtar participates in civil rights and communal harmony campaigns. Khan's son Salman Khan became a star with Maine Pyar Kya (1989).

SAMANTA, SHAKTI (B. 1925)

Hindi director and producer born in Burdwan District. Science student; then assistant director on Raj Kapoor's Sunebr Din (1949). Assisted and wrote scripts for Phani Majumdar (Baadbaan, Dhobi Doctor, both 1954). Early films include successful crime thrillers (1953-63) in the Filmistan mould (Hourab Bridge, Detective Jaali Note) and classic Shammi Kapoor hits (China Town, Singapore), switching abruptly to love stories (1964-74) when he started working in colour (Kashmir Ki Kali). Best-known film: Aradhana, launching 70s superstar Rajesh Khanna and initiating a new version of the tragic love story formula, continued with Amar Prem and Anuraag. Has made Hindi-Bengali bilinguals (roughly 1975-85), starring Bengali star Uttam Kumar. Amanush introduced the Hindi melodrama genre into 80s Bengali cinema, and its success led to a series of Bengali hits, e.g. Kanak Mukherjee's Lal Kotli (1977), some made by non-Bengali directors, e.g. Batra Mohinder's Prabari (1982) and Pramod Chakravarty's Teen Murti (1984). Bhimsingh's Ragam (1975) adapted his Anuraag. Currently produces films made by son Ashim Samanta (Main Awara Hoon, 1983; Palay Khan, 1986). Appointed chairman of the Central Board of Film Certification (1990).

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1955: Babu; 1956: Inspector; 1957: Hill Station, Sheroo; 1958: Hourab Bridge; Detective; 1959: Insaan Jaag Utha; 1960: Jaali Note; Singapore; 1962: China Town; Isi Ka Naam Duniya Hai; Naughty Boy; 1963: Ek Raaz; 1964: Kashmir Ki Kali; 1966: Sawan Ki Ghata; 1967: An Evening in Paris; 1969: Aradhana; 1970: Kati Patang, Pagla Kabin Ka; 1971:

Amar Prem, Jaane Anjane; 1972: Anuraag; 1974: Ajnabi, Charitraheen; Amanush; 1976: Mehbooba; 1977: Anand Ashram; Anurodh; 1979: The Great Gambler; 1980: Khuab; 1981: Barsaat Ki Ek Raat; Anusandhan; 1982: Ayaasb; 1984: Awaaz; 1985: Aar Paar/Anyay Abichar, Alag Alag; 1990: Dushman; 1993: Geetanjali.

Samarth, Nutan see Nutan Samarth

SAMARTH, SHOBHANA (B. 1916)

Hindi film actress born in Bombay. Started with Master Vinayak at Kolhapur Cinetone. Acted in Sagar films (1936-41), often with Motilal. Established her definitive screen image in her first Vijay Bhatt film, Bharat Milap/Bharat Bhet, playing Seeta, repeating the role in Ramrajya, one of the most successful mythologicals in Indian cinema. She repeated the role several more times (Rambaan, Ram Vivah) opposite Prem Adib as Ram. This duo's image fundamentally shaped the contemporary iconography of the Ramayana legend in comic books, calendar paintings and, recently, in TV as well as in Vishwa Hindu Parishad posters in the context of the Hindu Ram Janmabhoomi movement. Although associated almost solely with the Seeta figure, she also appeared in other mythologicals: esp. Nala Damayanti (with Prithviraj Kapoor) and Kishore Sahu's Veer Kunal, as well as in melodramas like Shaukat Hussein Rizvi's Naukar. Turned producer and director with Hamari Beti, launching her daughter Nutan. Also launched her other daughter Tanuja in Chhabili.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1935: Vilasi Ishwar/Nigab-e-Nafarat; 1936: Do Divane/Be Kharab Jan; 1937: Kokila; 1938: Nirala Hindustan; 1939: Kaun Kisika: Pati Patni; Sadbana; 1940: Apni Nagariya; Saubhagya; 1941: Darpan; Holiday in Bombay; Gharjawai; 1942: Baraat; Bharat Milap/Bharat Bhet; Mata; Nai Duniya; Savera; Shobha; Swaminath; 1943: Mahasati Anusuya; Naukar; Ramrajya; Vijay Lakshmi; 1944: Anban; Insaan; 1945: Taramati; Nala Damayanti; Veer Kunal; Shri Krishnarjun Yuddha; 1946: Urvashi; 1947: Mallika; Sati Toral; Shahkar; Veerangana; 1948: Rambaan; 1949: Narasinh Avatar; Ram Vivah; 1950: *Hamari Beti; Janmasbhami; 1951: Jai Mahalaksbmi; Ram Janma; 1954: Prisoner of Golconda; 1955: Insaniyat; 1959: Keechaka Vadha; 1960: *Chhabili; Chhalia; 1965: Nai Umar Ki Nai Fasal; 1972: Do Chor, Ek Baar Muskurado.

SAMI, ARUL SUSAI ANTHONY (B. 1915)

Tamil director born and educated in Colombo, Sri Lanka; son of a theatre contractor. Quit his job as university lecturer in Colombo to move to Madras, where his play Bilhana, originally written for the radio and later performed with great success by M.K. Thyagaraja Bhagavathar and by the TKS Brothers, went on to become a major film hit produced by TKS

(1948). Sami, who scripted the film, got a job at Jupiter Studio, Coimbatore, where he wrote e.g. Sundarrao Nadkarni's Valmiki (1946), A. Kasilingam's Abhimanyu (1948), with Karunanidhi and the story of Lanka Sathyam's Mohini (1948). His debut as director, Rajakumari, an Arabian Nights movie he also scripted, is MGR's first hit in a lead role and put Sami in the front-line of Tamil directors. His second film, Velaikkari, is a DMK Film propaganda classic written by Annadurai. His sole Hindi film, Maya Sundari, is largely dubbed from the Tamil hit Karpurakarasi, but includes a new dance number sung by Geeta Dutt with music by Bulo C. Rani (uncredited). Later worked as Head of the Direction department of the Tamil Nadu Film & TV Institute, Madras.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1947: Rajakumari; 1949: Velaikkari; 1950: Vijayakumari; 1951: Sudarshan; 1953: Ponni; 1954: Thuli Visham; 1955: Neethipathi; 1957: Karpurakarasi; 1959: Kalyanikku Kalyanam; Thangapathumai; 1960: Kaidi Kanniyiram; 1961: Arasilankumari; 1962: Meri Baben; Muthu Mandapam; 1963: Ananda Jyoti; Asai Alaigal; Kadwulai Kandan; 1964: Vazhi Piranthadu; 1967: Maya Sundari; 1971: Thirumagal.

SANDOW, P. K. RAJA (1894-1942)

Aka P.K. Nagalingam. Silent star, Hindi actor and Tamil director born in Pudukottai, TN. A passionate gymnast, he started his career as a stunt actor in S.N. Patankar's National Film (1922). Top star at Kohinoor and its associate Laxmi Pics. (1922-8) under Manilal Joshi (Mojili Mumbai), R.S. Choudhury and Homi Master. Achieved fame when he formed a trio with director Chandulal Shah and heroine Gohar, starting Jagdish Film with them (1928) and its successor, Ranjit Film (1929-36). Sandow's star image in reformist melodramas, playing complex psychological characters opposite Gohar, was launched with Gunsundari and extended in several classic 'negative' roles in Shah-Gohar sound films, e.g. Desh Dasi, Prabhu Ka Pyara and Barrister's Wife. Other noted roles include Indira MA where he plays Kishore. Directed his first film with R. Padmanabhan's Madras-based Associated Films (Anadhai Penn), embarking on a series of reformist socials. Anadhai Penn, Nandanar (the story of an Untouchable Hindu saint, subtitled The Elevation of the Downtrodden), Peyum Pennum and Taranhaar were followed by sound films Vasantsena and Chandranantha. These films are all considered influential predecessors to Dambachari (1935), usually seen as the first 'social' in Tamil sound film. Menaka, produced by the TKS Brothers, introduced the star N.S. Krishnan. Continued a freelance career as actor with Jaswantal's Kashmeera, Homi Wadia's Dhoomketu, and Babubhai Mistri. Some films with footage of Sandow were released after his death. Early memoirs excerpted in the Movie Mirror in 1928.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d/ only d): 1922: Bhakta Bodana; Surya Kumari; 1923: Vratrasur Vadha; Veer Bhimsen; 1924: Ra Mandlik; Bismi Sadi; Razia Begum; Sati Sone; Sadgumi Susbila; 1925: Indrasabha; Suvarna; Kala Chor; Devadas; Panchdanda; Desh Na Dushman; Mojili Mumbai; Veer Kunal; Vimala; Khandani Khavis; Matri Prem; 1926: Madhav Kam Kundala; Mena Kumari; Mumtaz Mahal; Neera; Bhasmasur Vadha; Ra Kawait; Samrat Shiladitya; Typist Girl; Telephone Ni Taruni; 1927: Bhaneti Bhamini; Gunsundari; Sati Madri; Sindh Ni Sumari; The Mission Girl; 1928: Grihalakshmi; Naag Padmini; Vishwamobini; *Sneh Jyoti; 1929: Chandramukhi; Pati Patni; 1930: *Anadhai Penn; Raj Lakshmi; *Sati Usba Sundari; *Rajeshwari; *Peyum Pennum; *Nandanar; *Sadaram; 1931: Bhaktavatsala;

*Taranhaar; *Signet Ring (all St); 1932: *Parijata Pushpabaranam; 1933: Noor-e-Imaan; Pardesi Preetam; 1934: Indira MA; Kashmeera; Toofani Taruni; Devaki; 1935: College Girl; Desh Dasi; Ratan Manjari; *Raat Ki Rani; *Menaka; Barrister's Wife; 1936: Dil Ka Daku; Matlabi Duniya; Prabhu Ka Pyara; *Chandranantha; *Chalal Chor; *Vasantsena; 1937: *Minor Rajamani; 1938: *Vishnu Leela; 1939: *Thiruneelakantar; 1941: *Choodamani; 1942: *Araichi Mani; 1949: Dhoomketu; 1952: Alladdin and the Wonderful Lamp; 1953: Nav Durga; Husn Ka Chor.

SANGANI, CHANDRAKANT (B. 1927)

Gujarati director, writer and actor, born in Saurashtra, Gujarat. Started as a radio performer. Journalist for the Gujarati paper Prajatantra (1957-63). Active playwright, stage actor and director as well as author of five novels in the 50s and 60s. Turned to cinema in 1968 and directs mostly Gujarati films.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1968: Mare Javun Pele Paar; n1970: Jigar Ane Ami; 1975: Tanariri; 1976: Sati Jasma Odan; 1977: Vanjari Vav; Saubhagya Sindoor; 1978: Tamere Champone Ame Kel; 1979: Garvo Garasiyo; 1980: Parayana To Pyara Ladi; 1981: Vansdi Vagi Valamni; 1982: Prem Diwani; 1983: Raakhna Ramakada; 1985: Sorabno Savaj; 1988: Gunabon Ke Shatranj; Ghar Ek Mandir (TV); 1992: Mayavi Jaal (TV); 1993: Geetanjali.

SANGEET NATAK

Marathi musical theatre tradition believed to have been launched by Vishnudas Bhave's Seeta Swayamwar (1853). The play adapted the coastal folk form of Dashavtara to the proscenium, merging it with visual art and theatrical forms from Tanjore while retaining elements like the use of a mobile curtain to signify spaces and to frame actors. It emerged as a popular urban art form alongside the art schools (practising the academic visual art style on the elaborate stage backdrops) and the music schools of the late 19th/early 20th C. The best-known initial groups were Annasaheb Kirloskar's Kirloskar Natak Mandali (Est: 1880), Keshavrao Bhosle's Lalitkaladarsh (1908), Bal Gandharva's Gandharva Natak Mandali (1913) and Govindrao Tembe's Shivraj Natak Mandali (1915). Their initial theatrical repertoire adapted Sanskrit classics and Shakespeare: e.g. the famous playwright G.B. Deval wrote five major plays, three adapting Kalidasa and one Shakespeare (Othello, as Zunzharro, 1890) with only one original (Sangeet Sharada, 1898). The music usually created popular vernacular versions of classical North Indian music, adapted by singers like Ramakrishnabua Vaze and Bhaskarbua Bakhle (who taught Master Krishnarao). The form increasingly came under the influence of the operatic Parsee theatre, creating an influential local version of classical art, contemporaneous with (and sometimes formally similar to) Ravi Varma's paintings. The first feature film in India, Pundalik (1912), is based on a Sangeet Natak

Sulochana and Raja Sandow in Indira MA (1934)

played by the Shripad Sangeet Mandali, Nasik. Later, Baburao Painter - a noted painter of stage backdrops - translated its conventions into cinematic mise en scene. The form greatly influenced the early Prabhat Studio via e.g. the noted composers Tembe and Krishnarao and the stage stars Bal Gandharva and Vishnupant Pagnis, as well as many other theatre actors who turned to the cinema. Sangeet Natak troupes, travelling through Maharashtra, Gujarat, Karnataka and Madhya Pradesh, also set in place much of the distribution infrastructure of the early Kolhapur and Pune-based Marathi cinema.

SANYAL, PAHADI (1906-74)

Aka Narendranath Sanyal born in Darjeeling. Joined New Theatres (1931) and became one of its main stars. A trained musician with a diploma from Morris College, Lucknow. Worked as private secretary of the Raja of Avadh. Started mainly as a singing star in early Aorthy, Barua and Debaki Bose films, often accompanying K.L. Saigal (e.g. Devdas). His most famous music of this period was in Adhikar: the song Subag ki raat set to Baran's music. Featured in several romantic hero roles, but later found his métier in classic biographical (e.g. Modhu Bose's Mahakavi Girishchandra) drawn from literary melodrama and creating a new, more lasting 'character' image in Bengali films for 40 years. The crucial transition took place in Bombay, where he moved in 1942, in films like Jaswantlal's Kadambari and Nitin Bose's Milan. Acted in Satyajit Ray's Kanchanjungha as Jagdish, the man interested more in watching birds than in the material machinations of the family, and in Aranyer Din Ratri, where he sang a haunting Atulprasad Sen lyric as the old retired singer Sadasib Tripathi.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1933: Meerabai/Rajrani Meera; Yabudi Ki Laadki; 1934: Cbandidas; Rooplekha/Mohabbat Ki Kasauti; Daku Mansoor; 1935: Karwan-e-Hayat; Devdas; Dhoop Chhaon/Bhagya Chakra; Bijoya; 1936: Karodpati; Pujarin; Maya; 1937: Mukti; Bidyapati/Vidyapati; 1938: Adhikar; 1939: Bardidi/Badi Didi; Sapurey/Sapera; Rajat Jayanti; 1940: Abhinetri/Haar Jeet; Zindagi; 1941: Pratisruti; 1942: Kisise Na Kebna; Saheli; Saugandh; 1943: Inkaar; Mazaqa; Mohabbat; Mauj; Sharafat; 1944: Anban; Bade Nawab Sabeh; Insaan; Mahakavi Kalidas; Paristan; Kadambari; 1945: Main Kya Karun; Preet; Ramayani; 1946: Shravan Kumar; Nauka Dubi/Milan; 1948: Priyatama; Rang Berang; Sadharan Meye; 1949: Bamuner Meye; Jar Jetha Ghar; Ulloorath; Bishnupriya; Swami; 1950: Pebala Admi; Kashmir Hamara Hai; Maryada; Indrajai; Panchayat; Sandhya Belar Rupkatha; Vidyasagar; 1951: Rupantar; Aparajito; Ratnadeep/Ratnadeepam; Darpachurna; Pratyabartan; Setu; Babla; 1952: Rani Bhabani; Chhoti Maa; Basu Partwar; 1953: Malancha; Raja Krishna Chandra; Blind Lane; Bou Thakuranir Haat; 1954: Maa-o-Chhele; Sada-Kalo; Dbuli; Sadanander Mela; Shivshakti; Grihapraves; Kavi; Joydev; Balay Gras; 1955: Amar Saigal;

Sajghar; Parishodh; Shap Mocban; Bir Hambir; Prashna; Kalo Bou; Devimalini; Mejo Bou; Sabar Uparey; Paresh; Du-Janay; Drishti; Ardhangini; Teen Bhai; 1956: Mahanisha; Sagarika; Bhaduri Mashai; Sadhana; Ekti Raat; Mahakavi Girishchandra; Asamapta; Chalachal; Manraksha; Jagte Rabo/Ek Din Raatre; Rajpath; Suryamukhi; Govindadas; Madan Mohan; Shilpi; Sintbir Sindoor; Dhular Dharani; 1957: Haar Jeet; Shesh Parichaya; Bardidi; Sindoor; Ratri Sheshey; Tapasi; Panchatapa; Yatra Holo Suru; Pritibibi Amar Chai; Raat Ekta; Natun Prabhat; Surer Parashey; Basanta Babar; Harano Sur; Mathur; Kari-o-Komal; Tamasha; Pathe Holo Deri; Janmatithi; Jiban Trishna; Parash Pathar; 1958: O Amar Desher Mati; Yamalaya Jibanta Manush; Megh Malhar; Shri Shri Maa; Tansen; Jonakir Alo; Indrani; Leela Kanka; Dhoomketu; 1959: Janmantar; Manutirba Hinglaj; Bicharak; Shri Shri Nityananda Prabhu; Deep Jewey Jai; Shashi Babur Sansar; Bhranti; Ae Jabar Sey Jabar Noy; Nriyer Tale Tale; Shubha Bibaha; Personal Assistant; 1960: Akash-Patal; Haat Baraley Bandhu; Sakher Chor; Hospital; Shabarar Itikatha; Ajana Kabini; 1961: Manik; Carey Shabeber Munshi; Lakshmi Narayan; Agni Sanskar; Swayambara; Necklace; Kathin Maya; Mithun Lagna; Punasbcha; Kanamachi; 1962: Bipasha; Kancher Swarga; Suryasnan; Sancharini; Kanchanjungha; Agnisikha; Agun; Kaja; Abhisarika; Nabadiganta; Abasheshe; 1963: Ek Tukro Agun; Shesh-Anka; Dui Bari; Saat Pake Bandha; Uttarayan; Nirjan Saikate; Dui Nari; Akash Pradeep; Shesh Prabar; Chhaya Surya; Uttar Falguni; Deya Neya; Kanchan Kanya; Barnali; Shreyasi; The Householder; 1964: Kaalsrote; Ta Holey; Bibhas; Swarga Hotey Biday; Kinu Goyalari Gali; Deep Nebhey Noy; Ketumi; 1965: Alor Pipasa; Mahalagna; Antarak; Jaya; Ek Tuku Basa; Dolna; Surya Tapa; Tapasi; 1966: Maniha; Mayabini Lane; Nutan Jiban; Sankha Bela; Mamata; 1967: Ajana Shapath; Grihadah; Hathat Dekha; Kedar Raja; Nayika Sangbad; Nai Rosni; 1968: Baluchari; Boudi; Saathi; 1969: Rahgir; Kamallata; Mon-Niye; Aradhana; Sabarmati; Aranyer Din Ratri; 1970: Dharti; Muktisnan; Rajkumari; 1971: Bhanu Goenda Jabar Assistant; Nimantran; Pratham Basanta; 1972: Haar Mana Haar; Shesh Parba; 1973: Agni Bhramar; Ami Sirajer Begum; Kaya Hiner Kahini; Rater Rajanigandha; Rodon Bhora Basanta; Sajarur Kanta; 1975: Kajal Lata; Chhoto Nayak.

SARAIYA, GOVIND (B. 1929)

Gujarati and Hindi director born in Nadiad, Gujarat. Graduated from Bombay University. Studied animation on UNESCO fellowship at Walt Disney Studios and at the National Film Board of Canada where he was briefly apprenticed to Norman MacLaren. Employed at Films Division, where he set up the animation lab before becoming independent film-maker. Feature films noted for their literary sources in Gujarati classics. Best-known film is his feature debut Saraswaticandra which, along with its sequel Gunsundari No Ghar Sansar, is based on the epic novel of Govardhanram Tripathi. Saraswaticandra became a commercial hit helped by Kalyanji-Anandji's music. Mansai Na Diva, written by Zaverchand Meghani, is a biographical based on a cult figure in Gujarat. Ravishankar Maharaj, who worked among the 'criminal' tribes of Patanwadia and Baraiya, and later participated in Gandhi's Bardoli Satyagraha.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1956: Electricity in the Service Of Man (Doc); Growing Wings (Doc); 1957: All About Teeth (Doc); Freedom on Wheels (Doc); Operation Sky (Doc); 1958: The Metric System (Doc); You and the Railways: Footboard Travel (Doc); 1959: Banyan Deer (Doc); Notes that Matter (Doc); On Stamps and Stamping (Doc); 1960: A Great Problem (Doc); When Dreams Come True (Doc); 1961: Portrait of a Postman (Doc); Romance of the Indian Coin (Doc); 1962: Dust the Killer (Doc); Metric Measures (Doc); 1963: A Man of Valour (Doc); Quickfire Plan (Doc); 1964: It Happened on a Saturday (Doc); Sterilisation of The Female (Doc); 1965: My Wise Daddy (Doc); 1967: The Dreams of Mouji Ram (Doc); 1968: Saraswaticandra; 1969: Leela (Doc); 1970: Priya; 1971: Chain Reaction (Doc); The Cheats (Doc); 1972: Gunsundari No Ghar Sansar; 1975: Angarey; 1976: Sajjo Rani; 1977: Mansai Na Diva; 1980: Karo Kankuna; Four Faces (Doc); 1982: Tran Treniya Chha Chhabila Baharvatiya/Bachche Teen Aur Daku Chhe; 1984: Waqt Se Pehle; 1991: Saiyan Ke Gaon Mein (Doc).

Sardar Begum see Akhtar, Sardar

SARHADI, ZIA (B. 1914)

Hindi-Urdu director and scenarist born in Peshawar (now Pakistan). Entered film in 1933 at East India Film, Calcutta; then joined Sagar (1934) where he met Mehboob, who later produced his Awaaz. Played the lead in Mehboob's Manmohan as well as writing the script and the lyrics. Also scripted Mehboob's Baben (1941) and was also a noted scenarist and writer at Ranjit. Sarhadi's cinema drew inspiration from and gave sustenance to the IPTA style of film-making. Although himself an unaffiliated Marxist, Humlog, Footpath and Awaaz were very influential when the IPTA's film efforts were at their peak between the end of WW2 and Independence. Migrated to Pakistan after Independence, remaining there except for a brief period in the mid-70s. Apart from his own films, other writing credits include Jagirdar, Kal Ki Baat (both 1937), Jeevan Saathi (1939), Sajani (1940), Garib (1942), Badi Maa (1945), Elaan (1947), Anokha Pyar (1948), Dil Ki Duniya (1949) and Khel (1950); also wrote the dialogue for Baiju Bawra (1952).

✦ FILMOGRAPHY (* act only): 1936: Manmohan; 1937: Jagirdar; 1938: Abhisalsha; Afsana; 1939: Bhole Bhole; Seva Samaj; 1942: Swapna; 1943: Nadaan; 1945: Yateem; 1951: Humlog; 1953: Footpath; 1956: Awaaz.

SARMA, PHANI (1910-70)

Assamese actor and director. One of the most enigmatic figures in Assamese film. Stage enthusiast, footballer, bohemian, actor, playwright and film-maker. Worked initially as a trader with his comrade-in-arms Bishnu Rabha; then became a stage actor and achieved a major reputation in the 30s. Became a key member of Jyotiprasad Agarwala's Tezpur-based film unit in the 30s, playing the cruel Gaathi in Agarwala's Joymati, and also acted in his second film, Indramalati. Continued working in the touring theatre groups of Assam, including an adaptation of Gogol's The Government Inspector, and in the original plays Kiyya, Kolabazar etc. Together with Agarwala and Bhupen Hazarika, he was a key figure in the provincial committees of the Assamese IPTA (1946). Adapted Siraj, a plea for Hindu-Muslim unity, from a story by Lakhidar Sarma, filming it in 1948 (apparently co-directed by Bishnu Rabha and with Hazarika débütting as composer) and staging it in 1962. After 1963, known mainly as film actor following a tremendously successful comic performance in Brojen Barua's Ito Sito Bobuto.

FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1935: Joymati; 1939: Indramalati; 1948: Siraj; 1955: Pioli Phukan; Sarapat; Era Bator Sur; 1957: Dhumuba; 1958: Bhakta Prabhad; 1959: Amar Ghar, Kecha Son; Puuwati Nishar Sapon; 1960: Lachit Barphukan; 1961: Shakuntala, Narakasur; 1963: Ito Sito Bobuto; Maniram Dewan; 1964: Pratidhwani/Ka Suariti.

SARPOTDAR, NARAYANRAO DAMODAR (1896-1940)

Marathi and Hindi director, scenarist and producer; born in Ratnagiri Dist., Maharashtra. Short-story writer and playwright (Unad Pendya, Chandrurao More, which later turned into his first film). One of the first and most significant studio producer-directors in the Pune-based Marathi cinema outside Prabhat. Early career in Maharashtra Film, Kolhapur (1919). Acted in Baburao Painter's Bhagwata Bhakta Damaji (1922). First film started for Deccan Pics (1924) which he bought and ran, with Pandurang Talegiri, as United Pics Syndicate (1925-7) in Pune. Started Aryan Film (1927-32) and, in addition to his own films, wrote the scripts for Raja Harishchandra (1928), Shri Balaji, Dasharathi Ram (both 1929), Subrahmanyam and Shamsheer Babadur (both 1930, some directed by Y.D. Sarpotdar). Worked briefly at Imperial (1932-6) before joining Master Prod. Wrote film criticism under the name Charudatta and published a poetry volume, Mudrikar. Also managed a hotel in Pune. Films continue the historical mode introduced by Baburao Painter, conventionally based on Maratha history, chiefly the rule of Shivaji and the subsequent Peshwai. In specifically addressing a Maharashtrian audience, they also initiated a strand later taken up by Bhalji Pendharkar (who remade Thoratanchi Kamala in 1941).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1925: Chaturanga Lakshmi; Maharachi Por; Chhatrapati Sambhaji; Prabhavati; 1926: Totayache Bund; Dba Cha Ma; Tai Teleen; Umaji Naik; Babanchi Bayko; 1927: Thoratanchi Kamala; Krishna Sambhav; 1928: Ganimi Kava; Arya Mahila; Namak Haram; Patitoddhar; Udantappu; 1929: Subhadra Haran; Parijata; Prithviraj Sanyogita; 1930: Jai Vijay; Bhimsen the Mighty; Chatur Sundari; 1931: Nakoga Bai Lagna; Chandbibi; 1932: Bhawani Talwar (all St); 1933: Prithviraj Sanyogita; Rukmini Haran (Mar); 1934: Devaki; 1935: Chalta Putla; 1938: Sani Janabai; Nandakumar; 1939: Bhagwa Jbenda.

SASI, I. V. (B 1948)

Prolific trendsetting Malayalam director; born in Calicut, Kerala. Also worked in Hindi, Tamil and Telugu. Received diploma at the Madras School of Fine Art. Joined films as art-director for A.B. Raj's Kaliyalla Kalyanam (1968); worked as cameraman in the early 70s. Associated mainly with the expansion of the Malayalam film industry in the 70s in the wake of the 'Gulf boom' produced by remittances from émigré labour. Working in the context of the infamous 'Blade companies' (investing in Malayalam films often at usurious interest rates), he dealt with issues of Malayalam identity, often featuring Mammooty. Makes 7 or 8 films annually, often drawing on the work of the Marxist writer Damodaran, in which the hero fights an oppressive contemporary reality by turning vigilante. Broke through with Avalude Ravukal, originally a poignant if sexually explicit love story featuring an orphan brother and sister, notorious in a dubbed version titled Her Nights. His fantasies about the nexus between crime, politics and the law-enforcement machinery grew in the 70s to grandiose dramas e.g. America America (largely set in Florida) or Iniyenkilum, which contrasts Kerala's economic and cultural conditions to those in Japan. Typical hits are e.g. Avanazhi, apparently based on a notorious Emergency scandal in which a student was tortured and killed in jail (also the subject of Shaji Karun's Piravi, 1988), featuring mainly a violent policeman (Mammooty) who uses illegal means to capture people otherwise beyond the law; or Vartba in which a newspaper editor hires his own men to bring political criminals to book. Shifted his style for the big-budget historical Ayarthi Thollayirathi Irupathonnu aka 1921, recreating the famous Moplah (aka Mappilla) rebellion in the former Malabar. Directed several Tamil films, often starring Rajnikant (Guru, Kali, Allavudeenum Arputha Vilakkum).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1975: Ulsavam; 1976: Abhinandanam; Alinganam; Anubbavam; Asbivadam; Ayalakkari; 1977: A Nimisham; Abhinivesam; Akale Akasam; Anandam Paramanandam; Angikaram; Anjali; Antardhanam; Hridayame Sakshi; Innale Innu; Itha Ivide Vare; Oonjal; 1978: Amarsham; Anumodhanam; Avalude Ravukal; Ee Manohara Theeram; Jnan Jnan Mathram; Iniyin Puzha Ozbukum; Itha Oru

Manushyam; Vadagaikku Oru Hridayam; Yeetha; 1979: Allavudeenum Alputha Velakkum/Allavudeenum Arputha Vilakkum/Alladdin And The Wonderful Lamp; Anubhavangale Nandi; Arattu; Ezham Kadalinnakkare; Man Ka Aangan; Manasa Vacha Karmana; Ore Vanam Ore Bhoomi; Pagalil Oru Iruvu; 1980: Angadi; Ashwaratham; Evar; Guru; Kali; Kanthavalayam; Karimbana; Meen; Patita; Pratisodh; 1981: Abimsa; Orikalkoodi; Trisbna; Hamsa Geetham; 1982: Eenadu; Ina; Innalenkil Nale; John Jaffer Janardhan; Sindoor Sandhyakku Mounam; Thadagam; 1983: Abankaram; America America; Aroodam; Intyenkilum; Kaikeyi; Nanayam; 1984: Adiyozhukkukal; Aksharangal; Alkootatbil Thaniye; Athiratham; Kaanamarayathu; Karishma; Lakshmana Rekha; Uyyarangalil; Disco Disco; 1985: Angadikkapurathu; Anubandham; Ida Nilangal; Karimbin Poovinakkare; Rangam; 1986: Abhayam Theedi; Anokha Rishita; Avanazhi; Vartba; Koodanayum Kattu; 1987: Adimagal Udumagal; Nalkawala; Vrutham; Ithrayum Kalam; Nadodikattu (act only); 1988: Ayarthi Thollayirathi Irupathonnu; Anuragi; Illam; Mukti; Abkari; 1989: Aksharathettu; Avedana; Manchiwaru Maavaru; Mrigaya; 1990: Ee Thanutha Velappan Kalathu; 1991: Inspector Balram; Miss Stella; Neelagiri; 1992: Aparadha; Kallanum Polisum; 1993: Devasuram; Arhana; 1994: The City; 1995: Kolangal.

SASIKUMAR

Prolific Malayalam director born in Alleppey, Kerala, where he started in Kunchako's Udaya Studio. Acted a small part in P.R.S. Pillai's Thiramala (1953). His first feature was co-directed by P.A. Thomas. Best known for sex comedies and titillation melodramas. One of the latter, Interview, is not to be confused with Mrinal Sen's film of 1970.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1964: Porter Kunjali; 1965: Jeevitha Yatra; Thommente Makkal; 1966: Kanmanikal; Pennmakkal; Kootukar; 1967: Kavalam Chundan; 1968: Velutha Kathrina; Vidyarthi; Love in Kerala; 1969: Rest House; Rabasyam; 1970: Rakta Pushpam; 1971: Bobanum Molyum; Lanka Dabanam; 1972: Anveshanam; Brahmachari; Pusbanjali; Maravil Thiruvu Sukshbikuha; 1973: Diyya Darshanam; Interview; Padmayyubam; Panchavati; Thani Niram; Thekkan Kattu; Thiruvabharanam; 1974: Setu Bandhanam; Night Duty; Panchatantram; Poonthenaruvi; 1975: Abhimanam; Aranyakadam; Alibaba and Forty-One Thieves; Chaitambi Kalyani; Padmaragam; Palazhi Madhanam; Picnic; Pravaham; Sindhu; Sammanam; Pulival; 1976: Ajayanum Vijayanum; Amritba Vabini; Kamadhenu; Kayamkulam Kochunnayude Maghan; Pickpocket; Pushpa Sarem; Swimming Pool; Panchamrutham/ Pachamirutham; Thuruppu Gulam; 1977: Minimol; Mohamum Mukthiyum; Lakshmi; Aparajitha; Chaturvedam; Rathi Manmathan; Rendu Lokam; Parivarthanam; Mutatba Mulla; Saghakkale Munoitu; Vishukkani; Varadakshina; Akshaya Pathram; 1978:

Bharyayum Kamukiyum; Kalpa Vruksha. Kanyaka; Jayikkanai Janichavan; Mattoru Karnan; Mudra Mothiram; Mukkuwane Snehicha Bhootham; Ninakku Jnanum Enikku Neeyum; Nivedyam; Shathru Samharam; 1979: Ormayil Nee Mathram; Manavadharmam; Nithiyavasatham; Vellayani Paramu; Chula; 1980: Itbikkara Pakki; Theenalagal; Oru Varsham Oru Masam; Kari Puranda Jeevithangal; Prakananam; 1981: Kodumudikal; Ellam Ninakku Vendi; Dhruva Sangamam; Attamari; Theekali; Nagamadhatbu Thampuratti; 1982: Post Mortem; Thuranna Jail; Jambulingam; Koritharicha Naal; Madrasille Mohari; Sooryan; Keni; Nagamadhatbu Thampuratti; 1983: Arabikkadal; Kattaravi; Mahabali; Chakravalam Chuvannappol; Yuddham; Sandhya Vandanam; Attakkalasam; Kola Komban; Pourushyam; 1984: Ivide Thodangannu; Saundamevide? Bandamevide?; Makale Maapu Tharu; 1985: Azhiyatha Bandhangal; Ezhamuthal Onpathuware; Ente Kannakiyil; Makan Ente Makan; Mouna Nombaram; Shri Vamanavatharam; Pathamudayam; Manasi Oru Manimuthu; 1986: Akalangali; Iniyum Kurukshetram; Kunjatta Kiligal; Ente Entethu Mathram; Sobhraj; 1987: Ithente Neethi; Jaithra Yathra.

SASTRY, BELLAVE NARAHARI (1881-1961)

Kannada cinema's first scenarist-lyricist. Foremost author of Company Natak mythologicals with c.40 plays, nearly all for Veeranna, including the hit Sadarame (1935). Key figure in the translation of Yakshagana folk forms into proscenium stagecraft and films, incorporating many ritual forms such as the initial invocation of the gods in his Krishna Leela. Renowned for plays with miracle scenes like the Kaliya Mardana (Krishna killing the snake-demon Kaliya) and Vishwaroopa Darshan (the world seen in Krishna's mouth). Historian Marulasiddappa (1983) commented that Sastry's idealisation of the divine and the heroic were the kind of formal anachronism castigated by the 'modernist' Amateur Dramatic Assoc. but his more casual scenes of e.g. village life were remarkable for their use of popular dialect. Also successful lyricist with hits like Aseye neerase yaadude in H.L.N. Simha's Hemareddy Mallamma (1945). Other scripts: Y.V. Rao's Sati Sulochana (1934), Chavan's Bhakta Purandaradasa (1937), C. Pullaiah's Subhadra (1941), Ch. Nayanamurthy's Bhakta Prablada (1942) and K. Subramanyam's Krishna Sudama (1943).

SASTRY, DEVULAPALLI KRISHNA (1897-1980)

Telugu lyric writer and noted poet, born in Pithapuram, AP. Born in a family of traditional literary scholars in the employ of the Rajah of Pithapuram. Associated with the rationalist and social reformer Raghupati Venkataratnam Naidu. Published his first anthology of poetry, Krishna Paksham (1925), initiating a new age of romantic literature described as the Bhava kavitvam. Also known for devotional poems, published under the name Mahati, and prose compilations (Babukala Darshanam, Pushpa Lavikalu). A popular figure on early radio, broadcasting several plays and lectures. Film debut with B.N. Reddi's Malleeshwari (1951) as songwriter. Wrote several film lyrics and his poetry has been extensively used in films.

SATHYAN (1912-71)

Top star, with Prem Nazir, in Malayalam cinema, providing the embodiment of Malayali machismo. Former Malayalam teacher when aged 16. Joined the army (1941) becoming the Viceroy's commissioned officer, seeing action in Imphal, Burma and (former) Indochina against the Japanese. Later, a clerk at the Trivandrum secretariat and a police sub-inspector. Stage actor with Thikkurisi Sukumaran Nair; entered cinema at Merryland Studio (Atmasakhi). His classic screen persona of the brooding, remote and unreachable outlaw was shaped mainly by Kariat's Mudiyanaya Putran (where he spurns love with a Byronic disregard for merely human emotion) and Chemmeen (as an orphan battling with the forces of nature). In his many films with Nazir, he acquired the image of a loser (e.g. Odeyil Ninnu). Partner in Manjilas Films, with director Sethumadhavan and M.O. Joseph. Biography by Kunnappally (1988).

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1952: Atmasakhi/ Priyasakhi; 1953: Thiramala; Lokaneethi; Asha Deepam; 1954: Neelakuyil; Snehaseema; 1955: Kalam Marunnu. 1956: Avarunarunnu; 1957: Achannum Maganam; Minnumathellan Ponnalla; Devasundari; 1958: Thaskara Veeran; Lily; Nair Pidicha Puluvale; 1959: Minnal Padayali; 1960: Alukkoru Veedu; 1961: Unniyarcha; Arappavan; Krishna Kuchela; Mudiyanaya Putran; 1962: Laila Majnu; Sreekovil;

Palattukoman; Kannum Karalum; Vidhithanna Vilakku; Bhagya Jatakam; Viyarppinte Vila; Bharya; Pruthiya Akasham Puthiya Bhoomi; 1963: Nithya Kanyaka; Doctor; Moodupadam; Kadalamma; Ammeey Kannan; Rebecca; Sushila; 1964: Manavatti; Pazhassi Raja; Adya Kiranangal; Omanakuttam; Kalanjukkuttiya Thangam; Ayesha; Thacholi Othenan; Anna; 1965: Devatha; Shyamalachechi; Odeyil Ninnu; Kadattbukaran; Inapravugal; Aminu; Kattu Thulasi; Daham; Shakuntala; Chettathi; Thommente Makkal; Chemmeen; 1966: Station Master; Pagal Kinavut; Roudy; Jail; Kootikar; Kayamkulam Kochunni; Anarkali; Tharavatamma; Kallipennu; Tilottama; 1967: Thallirikal; Sahadharmini; Sheelavati; Udyogastha; Arakillan; Postman; Kudumbam; Mainatharavi Kola Case; Kadhija; Anveshichu Kandatiyilla; Ashuamedham; Pavapettaval; NGO; Kavalam Chundan; Nadan Pennu; Chekuthante Kotta; Swapnabhooni; Mulkireedam; Ollathu Mathi; Pesum Davam; 1968: Thokkukal Katha Parayunnu; Manaswini; Vazhipizhacha Santhathi; Karthika; Kaliyalla Kalyanam; Yakshi; Midumidukki; Pengal; Aparadhini; Velutba Kathrina; Agni Pareeksha; 1969: Veetu Mrigham; Kattukurangu; Kuruthikalam; Urangatha Sundari; Sandhya; Kadalpalam; Vilakkapetta Bandhangal; Chattambi Kavala; Velliyazhcha; Kootu Kudumbam; Adimagal; Mooladhanam; 1970: Amma Enna Stree; Kurukshetram; Kalpana; Stree; Vazhve Mayam; Cross Belt; Bhikara Nimishankal; Dattuputran; Othenente Makan; Kuttavali; Ningalenne Communistaki; Vivahitha; Nilakatha Chalanangal; Triveni; Tara; Aranazhikaneram; Nishagandhi; 1971: Shiksha; Moonunukkal; Theitri; Oru Penninte Katha; Kalitbozhi; Inquilab Zindabad; Sarasayya; Karakanakadal; Vimochana Samaram; Anubhavangal Palicakal; CIDin Jungle; Kuttivedathi; Karinjizhakal; Panchavan Kadal; Agnimrigam; 1972: Kalippava; Akkarapacha.

Sathyan (holding gun) in Adya Kiranangal (1964)

Lakshyam; Balya Pratignya; 1973: Checkpost; Asha Chakram.

SATHYU, MYSORE SRINIVASA

(B. 1930)

Hindi, Urdu and Kannada director born in Mysore, Karnataka; noted theatre director and set designer. Graduated from Central College, Bangalore; moved to Bombay in 1952. Directed plays in Bombay and Delhi while freelancing as set designer and lighting director for e.g. Parvati Kumar ballets (Dekh Teri Bambai, Discovery of India). Associated with IPTA, Bombay, and with its various offshoots: e.g. the Left organisation Bombay Youth (which published a journal edited by theatre director Habib Tanvir) and Balraj Sahni's Juhu Art Theatre. Staged Aakbri Shama (1969), a biographical play on the poet Mirza Ghalib, along with writer Kaifi Azmi and Sahni in the role of Ghalib. Both later contributed to his debut feature, and best-known film, Garam Hawa. Other noted plays for IPTA include Sarveshwar Dayal Sakseña's Bakri, Sufaid Kundali (from Brecht's Causasian Chalk Circle) and Moteram Ka Satyagrah (adapting Premchand). Also directed the play Sookshma Roop written by Sahni for the latter's Juhu Art Theatre. Joined films assisting Chetan Anand (e.g. Haqeeqat, 1964) and documentarists Homi Sethna and Zul Velani. Also collaborated on the children's film Chernaya Gora (aka Black Mountain, 1971), an Indo-Soviet co-production by Alexander Zguridi based on a story by K.A. Abbas. Made c.20 shorts and 12 documentaries; now works mainly for TV, e.g. the 13-part series, Choli Daman, and adapting Masti Venkatesha Iyengar's Kannada short stories into Tamil and Kannada (e.g. Pratidhwani). His wife, Shama Zaidi, wrote scripts for S. Benegal.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1967: Ek Tha Chhotu Ek Tha Motu; 1969: Ghalib (Doc); Irsbad Panjatan (Doc); 1970: Kala Parvat; 1971: Chernaya Gora; 1973: Garam Hawa; 1977: Kanneshwara Rama; 1978: Chitbegu Chintbe; 1980: Bara/Sookba; 1981: Your Enemy: TB (Doc); 1986: Kaban Kaban Se Guzar Gaye; 1988: Choli Daman (TV); 1991: Kayar (TV); 1995: Galige.

SATYANARAYANA, E. V. V.

Successful 90s Telugu director. Former assistant to writer-filmmaker Jandhyala. Early films were failures, but broke through with Pr... ...aidi, produced by D. Rama Naidu, followed by a series of hits. Occasionally possesses the humorous style associated with Jandhyala, but currently best known for the controversial reception to his erotic drama Alluda Majaaka starring Chiranjeevi. Earlier, A Okati Adakku had also been attacked for obscenity, as had Jambalakadi Pamba.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1989: Chevilu Puvvu; 1990: Prema Khaidi; 1991: Appula Apparao; 420; 1992: A Okati Adakku; Seetharatnamangari Abbayi; Jambalakadi Pamba; 1993: Alibaba Aru Dozen Dongalu; Abbaigaru; Evandi Avide.

Ocbindi; Varasudu; 1994: Hello Brother; Aame, Maharayudu; 1995: Alluda Majaaka; Ayanaku Iddaru; Telugu Veera Levara.

SAURASHTRA FILM COMPANY

Est. 1923 as the Saurashtra Kinematograph in Rajkot, making it the first fully equipped studio in Gujarat. Founded by Vajeshankar Kanji Pattani (1889-1957) and Champakraj Kanji Pattani (1897-1958) with financial support from Sir Prabhashankar Pattani, Diwan of Bhavnagar. Major films include Kanjibhai Rathod's Anah Abala (1925) and V.K. Pattani's Baliyagna (1924). Known for making Harold Lloyd-type comedies. Among the other talent employed was Chimantlal Luhar, actors Madanrai Vakil and Miss Ermeline and the comedian (later cameraman) Gatubhai Vaidya. Shiraz Ali started his career at the studio before establishing the Famous Cine Lab. The studio, which also made newsreels, closed in 1929.

Save Dada see Bhatavdekar, H. S.

SAVITRI, KOMMAREDDY (1937-81)

Telugu-Tamil actress and director born in Chirravuru, Guntur Dist., AP, into a wealthy family. She learnt music and dance under Sista Purnayya Sastry and gave some public performances as a child in Vijaywada. Worked in the theatre company run by NTR, K. Jaggaiah et al. Started her own group, the Navabharata Natya Mandali. Also acted in the play Atma Vanchana by Buchi Babu. Début with L.V. Prasad's Samsaram, then K.V. Reddy's Patala Bhairavi. Minor film roles until Pelli Chesu Choodu made her a star, although she had to wait until Ardhangi to establish her acting credentials. Played the lead role of Mary in Prasad's comedy Missamma. Acted in several films by the choreographer-director Raghavaiah, e.g. Devadasu. Leading Tamil star in Bhimsingh (Pasamalar) and A.P. Nagarajan (Navarathri, Thiruvillaiyadal) films, often starring with Sivaji Ganesan, leading to her being titled 'Nadigeeyar Thilakam'. Turned director and producer (1968-71) without much commercial success. Married to Gemini Ganesh.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1950: Samsaram; 1951: Roopavati; Patala Bhairavi; 1952: Adarsham; Priyuralu; Pelli Chesu Choodu/Kalyanam Panni Paar; Palleteooru; Shanti; Sankranti; 1953: Chandraratham; Bratuku Theruvu; Devadasu; Kodarikam; Paropakaram; Pempudu Koduku; Pratigna; 1954: Jyoti Illara Jyoti; Menarikam; Parivarthana; Babur Din Huye; 1955: Ardhangi/Pennin Perumai; Vijayagauri; Missamma/Missiamma; Santhanam; Vadima/Cheellapillai; Donga Ramudu; Kanyasulkam; 1956: Bhale Ramudu/Prema Pasham; Mathar Kula Manikam/Charanadasi; Amara Deepam; 1957: Thodi Kodallu; Maya Bazaar; Bhale Ammayilu/Iru Sabodarigal; MLA; Kutumba Gauravam; Karpurakarasi; Mahadevi; Saubhagyavati; 1958: Intigitu; Karthavarayan Katha; Appu Chesu Pappu Koodu/Kadan Vangi Kalyanam; 1959: Mangalya Balam/Manjal Magimai; Bandaramudu/Adisaya Thirudan; Bhagya Devatha/Bhagya Devatha; Kalasiyunte Kaladu Sukham; 1960: Namminabantu/Pattayilin Vetri; Sbri Venkateshwara Mahatya; Kumkumarekha; Deepavali; Chivaraku Migiledi; Abhimanam; Vimala; Mamaku Tagga Alludu; Maa Babu; Kalathur Kannamma; Pudhuya Patbai; 1961: Maavoori Ammayi; Tallichina Ajna; Pasamalar; Kappalotya Thamizhan; Pasamalar; Pavamanippu; 1962: Aradbana; Manchi Manushulu/Penn Manam; Gundamma Katba/Manidan Maravalli; Siri Sampadalu; Kathirunda Kankal; Atmabandhuvi; Pavitra Prema; Parthal Pasi Theerum; Konjum Salangai; Padithal Mattu Poibuma; Vadiuvukku Valai Kappu; 1963: Raktha Tilakam; Karpagam; Parisu; Chaduvukomma Ammayilu; Nartanasala; Tbobuttuvulu; Manakaram; Moogamanasulu; Naanum Oru Penn/Nadi Aada Janme; 1964: Karnan/Karna; Poojapbalam; Raktha Tilakam; Pativrata; Dr Chakravarthi; Kaikodutha Daivam; Ganga Ki Lehen; Vettaikaran; Navarathri; 1965: Sumangali; Pandava Vanavasam; Devatha; Manasulu Mamathalu; Thiruvillaiyadal; 1966: Monagalluku Monagadu; Papa Paribaram; Navarathri; Bhakta Potana; Manase Mandiram; Saraswathi Sabatham; 1967: Seeta; Kanchukota; Nirdoshi; Ummadi Kutubam; Pranamithrulu; Kandan Karunai; 1968: Bandhavayulu; Moogajeevulu; Talliprema; *Chinnari Papalu; Varakatnam; 1969: *Chiranjeevi; *Mathrudavata; Manasichina Maguva; Vichitra Kutumbam; *Kuzhandai Ullam; 1970: Maro Prapancham; Pettandarulu; Talli Tandru; Kodalu Diddina Kapuram; 1971: *Vintha Samsaram; Suputhrudu; Talli Kutubulu; Nindu Dampatulu; *Prapibam; 1972: Jakkamma; Thaikkuru Oru Pillai; Kanna Talli; Amma Mata; Shabash Baby; Shabash Papanna; 1973: Deshodharakulu; Ramrajyam; Puttinillu Mettinillu; Jyoti Lakshmi; Poola Mala; Chuzhi; Veetu Mappillai; Suryakanthi; Engal Thary; Baghdad Perazbagi; 1974: Akkarai Pachai; Jeevitba Rangamu; Gali Patalu; Uttama Illahu; Tulasi; Manushulu Matti Bommalu; Anaganaga Oka Thandri; Adambaralu Anubandhalu; Bandhalu Anubandhalu; Mugguru Ammayilu; 1975: Bharatamlo Oka Ammayi; Kavitha; Maa Inti Devudu; Pooja; Santhanam Saubhagyam; Pellikani Thandri; Puttu Vellam; Chillara Devullu; 1977: Punitha Anthoniari; Rambha Urvasi Menaka; Panchayathi; 1978: Rowdy Rangamma; Amara Prema; Prema Paga; Allari Pillalu; Devadasu Malli Puttadu; Vattathukkul Chaduram; Jagan Mobini; Mugguru Muggure; 1979: Rangoon Rowdy; Gorintaku; Korikile Gurralaite; 1980: Circus Ramudu; Prema Tarangalu; Ravichandra; Ramayanamlo Pidikala Veta; Sujatha; 1981: Puli Bidda; 1985: Andarikante Monagadu.

SEGAL, MOHAN (B. 1921)

Hindi director born in Jullundur, Punjab. Degree in literature. Studied dance at Uday Shankar's India Culture Centre, Almora. Member of theatre group invited by the IPTA and the PWA to tour their Shadow Play in working-class areas throughout Bombay to raise funds for Bengal famine relief (1944). Worked at Prithviraj Kapoor's Prithvi Theatres as actor (e.g. Deewar and Shakuntala, 1945) and choreographer. Remained closely involved with the IPTA in Bombay. Wrote and directed the play Desh Bhakti; also directed Balraj Sahni's play Jadu Ki Kursi. Joined films as actor and assistant director to Chetan Anand (Neecha Nagar). Choreographed Nanabhai Bhatt's Chalis Karod, and the first two films he directed. His best-known films are the freewheeling Kishore Kumar satires of the late 50s: New Delhi, Apna Haath Jagamath and Karodpati. His spectacular hit, Sawan Bhadon, introduced the 70s/80s star Rekha.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* act only): 1945: *Chalis Karod; 1946: *Neecha Nagar; 1948: *Phool Aur Kaante; 1949: *Raaz; 1950: *Afsar; 1953: *Humsafar; 1954: Aulad; Adbikar; 1956: New Delhi; 1960: Apna Haath Jagamath; 1961: Karodpati; 1966: Devar; 1968: Kanyadaan; 1969: Saajan; 1970: Sawan Bhadon; 1972: Raja Jani; 1974: Woh Main Nahin; 1976: Santan; 1977: Ek Hi Raasta; 1979: Kartavya; 1981: Daulat; 1982: Samrat; 1984: Hum Hain Lajawaab; 1989: Kasam Subhaag Ki.

Sekhar, Raja C. see Chandrasekhar, Raja

SEN, APARNA (B. 1945)

Bengali actress and director born in Calcutta, daughter of critic and cineaste Chidananda Das Gupta. Grew up watching European art films. Graduated in English. Stage actress in Utpal Dutt's Little Theatre Group and made film debut as a teenager in the Samapti episode of S. Ray's Teen Kanya. Went on to star in many mainstream melodramatic plays and films. Directorial debut with the English-language film 36 Chouringbee Lane, produced by Shashi Kapoor as explicitly apolitical cinema. As director she deploys psychological realism familiar from Western art films but concentrates on female characters, often imbued with a strong sense of nostalgia. Edits a women's fashion glossy, Sananda. Directed Shabana Azmi's first TV drama, Picnic. Recently returned to the commercial stage with Pannabai (1989) and Bhalo Kharap Meye (1991).

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* only d): 1961: Teen Kanya; 1965: Akash Kusum; 1968: Hansamithun; 1969: Aparichhita; Vishwas; The Guru; Aranyer Din Ratri; 1970: Kalankita Nayak; Padmagolap; Bombay Talkie; 1971: Ekhani; Ekhane Pinjar; Jay Jayanti; Khunjee Beri; 1972: Jiban Saikate; Mem Sahib; Nayikar Bhumikay; Basanta Bilap; Bilet Pherat; 1973: Epar Opar; Kaya Hiner Kahini; Rater Rajantigandha; Shesh Pristhay Dekhun; Sonar Khancha; 1974: Alor Thikana; Asati; Jadu Bansba; Sujata; Chhbitir Phande; Chenra Tamsukh; 1975: Jana Aranya; Kajal Lata; Nishi Mrigaya; Raag Anuraag; 1976: Nidhi Ram Sardar; Ajasra Dbanyabad; Asomoy; 1977: Proxy; Imaan Dbaram; Kotwal Saab; 1978: Hullabaloo over Georgie and Bonnie's Pictures; 1979: Nauka Dubi; 1980: Pikoo (TV-Sh); 1981: Abichar; Bandi Balaka; 36 *Chouringbee Lane; 1982: Amrita Kumbher Sandhaney; Bijoyini; 1983: Abhinay Nay; Indira; Mobaner Dike; Arpita; 1984: Bishabriksba; 1985: *Paroma/Parama; Devika; Neelkantha; 1986: Shyama Sabe; 1987: Ekanto Apon; Jar Je Priyo; 1988: Ek Din Achanak; 1989: Kari Diye Kinlam; *Sati; 1990: *Picnic (TV); Sankranti; 1991: Mahaprithibi; 1992: Ananya; Sbet Patharer Thala; 1994: Unishe April; Amodini; 1995: *Yuganta.

SEN, ASIT (B. 1922)

Bengali and Hindi director born in Dhaka (now Bangladesh). Early interest in photography. Joined films as camera assistant to D.K. Mehta at Bharatlaxmi Prod. (1946); then assisted his uncle, the noted cameraman Ramananda Sengupta, on Ardhendu Mukherjee's Purbaraa (1947). Made an independent 16mm documentary on Gandhi's tour of Noakhali and Patna, joining Gandhi's entourage for a month. Debut in Assamese film (Biplabi), went uncredited following a dispute with the producers over its ending. Ran a photography studio (1949) while seeing Hitchcock and Danny Kaye and other Hollywood films which, he says, he studied extensively, often persuading the manager of the New Empire and Light House theatres in Calcutta to run selected reels specially for him. His Bengali debut, Chalachal, was a major Arundhati Devi hit; it was followed by Panchatapa with the same star. The Suchitra Sen hits Deep Jewel Jay and Uttar Falguni established a new generation of post-war and post-Independence (and in Bengali film, post-New Theatres) brand of romantic love story, using several new lyrical-expressionist devices such as the mobile camera of Deep Jewel Jay and the dramatic montage of Uttar Falguni. Much of his style is comparable to Bimal Roy's in its simultaneous assimilation of romantic Bengali literature, Hollywood and neo-realism. Roy produced Sen's third film, his first in Hindi, Parivar, and later also Anokhi Raat. Remade Uttar Falguni in Hindi as Mamata. In the late 1960s/70s, he directed Hindi star Rajesh Khanna in two big romances, Khamoshi (remaking Deep Jewel Jay) and Safar (remaking Chalachal), both strongly imbued with the Bengali romantic lyricism of his early work.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1948: Biplabi; 1956: Chalachal; Parivar; 1957: Aparadhi Kaun; Panchatapa; Jiban Trishna; 1958: Jonakir Alo; 1959: Deep Jewel Jay; 1961: Swaralipi; Swayambara; 1962: Agun; 1963: Uttar Falguni; 1965: Trishna; 1966: Mamata; 1968: Anokhi Raat; 1969: Khamoshi; 1970: Maa Aur Mamta; Safar; Sharafat; 1972: Annadata; Anokha Daan; 1975: Anari; 1976: Bairaag; 1981: Vakil Babu; 1983: Mehndi; 1984: Prarthana; 1985: Pratigya.

SEN, HIRALAL (1866-1917)

Bengali film pioneer born in Bakjuri village, Manikganj (now Bangladesh). India's first filmmaker with Bhatavdekar. The son of a lawyer, he started as photographer and achieved considerable renown. Almost definitely saw first-ever film show, at Star Theatres, featuring Prof. Stevenson's shorts on double-bill with Star's stage hit, The Flower of Persia (1898). His first film, made with equipment and guidance from Stevenson, was based on scenes from The Flower of Persia and shown at Star, with Stevenson's package, in repeated shows that year. Acquired camera from London, a projector from Warwick Trading and set up Royal Bioscope (1899) with his brother, Motilal Sen. His best-known outlet was Amar Dutta's Classic Theatre in Calcutta, where Royal initially exhibited imported footage (e.g. Transvaal War Pictures, Splendid Magical Exhibitions, A Few Marvellous Scenes of a Well-known Circus Played at Paris Exhibition) in intervals between stage shows. Best-known work in collaboration with Classic, filming scenes from its stage repertoire (1901-4). The partnership culminated in what was perhaps Sen's only feature-length film, Alibaba and the Forty Thieves (the film's length is disputed). Also did many request shows in private houses of landed gentry, command performances at the court of local maharajas, etc. Made some advertising films. Increasing competition from Madan Theatres in partnership with Pathé and the rise of several newer bioscope companies in Calcutta are among the reasons for Royal Bioscope's decline. Apparently all its films were destroyed in a fire shortly before the studio closed down. Sen's filmography is still a controversial issue among film historians. This one combines titles given by various sources. Further research will have to establish the definitive filmography.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1898: Dancing Scenes from The Flower of Persia; 1899: Moving Pictures of Natural Scenes and Religious Rituals (both co-dir Prof. Stevenson); 1901: Scenes from Bhramar; Scenes from Seetaram; Scenes from Sarala; Scenes from Alibaba; Scenes from Buddhadev; Scenes from Hariraj; Scenes from Dol Leela; 1903: Scenes from Sonar Swapan; Scenes from Maner Matan; Dances from Alibaba; Alibaba and the Forty Thieves; Indian Life and Scenes; Coronation Ceremony and Durbar; 1905: The Bengal Partition Film; 1912: Grand Delhi Coronation Durbar and Royal Visit to Calcutta Including Their Majesties' Arrival at Amphitheatre, Arrival at Hourrah, Princep's Ghat, Procession, Visit to Bombay and Exhibition; 1913: Hindu Bathing Festival at Allahabad.

SEN, MRINAL (B. 1923)

Leading Bengali director; also worked in Oriya, Telugu and in Hindi. Born in Faridpur (now Bangladesh). Studied science in Calcutta, worked as apprentice in sound recording studio, as journalist and medical representative. Read voraciously about cinema and aesthetics; also reviewed films. Associated with the IPTA (1943-7) and remained active in Left politics. Early influences include Arnheim's writings. Authored book on Chaplin (1951) and Bengali translation of Karl Capek's The Cheat (1946). Directorial debut in 1956 and his 2nd film was banned for two months by the government, but didn't break through until Akash Kusum, which generated a passionate debate with S. Ray. His Bhuvan Shome, made in Hindi, was a commercial success in Bombay and is said to have pioneered the New Indian Cinema, generating the 70s debates about low-budget alternatives to commercial cinema. In his films Sen has consistently and unambiguously downgraded notions of artistic 'originality' and deployed a wide array of influences from Glauber Rocha's early work to Truffaut (Akash Kusum) and from Augusto Boal's Theatre of the Oppressed to Solanas and Getino (the Calcutta trilogy: Interview, Calcutta 71 and Padatik), Fellini (Akaler Sandhaney) and most recently Bresson (Khandbar). Best-known 70s work evoked the radical currents of Bengali theatre and folk forms, achieving a freewheeling style Sen later described as 'playing around with tools as often as I could, as a child plays with building blocks. Partly out of sheer playfulness, partly out of necessity, also partly to shock a section of our audiences [to violate the] outrageously conformist ... mainstream of our cinema.' His political films, drawing also from the IPTA and from Utpal Dutt's 60s theatre group, culminated in the Calcutta trilogy made in the wake of the dismantling of the United Front Ministry in Bengal, with massive anti-Left reprisals, esp. against Naxalite factions: The films became a cause celebre as their screenings became meeting-points for Left activists (with Sen's encouragement) and were raided regularly by the police. This period was later commemorated by Reinhard Hauff in his documentary Ten Days In Calcutta: A Portrait of Mrinal Sen (1984). 80s work, introduced by Ek Din Pratidin, returns to a storytelling style he presents as a more contemplative way of advocating 'a greater awareness of reality'. In addition to scripting his own films, also wrote Ajit Lahiri's Joradighir Choudhury Paribar and Ajoy Kar's Kanch Kata Hirey (both 1966). Published books on cinema, Chalachitra Bhut Bartaman Bhabhishya and Views on Cinema (both 1977) and Cinema, Adhunikata (1992).

Mrinal Sen's Matir Manisha (1966)

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1956: Raat Bore; 1958: Neel Akasher Neechey; 1960: Baishey Shraavan; 1961: Punashchha; 1962: Abasheshe; 1964: Pratinidhi; 1965: Akash Kusum; 1966: Matir Manisha; 1967: Moving Perspective (Doc); 1969: Ichhapuran, Bhuvan Shome; 1970: Interview; 1971: Ek Adburi Kabani; 1972: Calcutta '71; Allaudeenium Arputha Vilakkum; 1973: Padatik; 1974: Chorus; 1976: Mrigaya; 1977: Oka Oorie Katba; 1978: Parashuram; 1979: Ek Din Pratidin; 1980: Akaler Sandhaney; 1981: Chalachitra; 1982: Kharaj; 1983: Khandbar; 1984: Tasveer Apni Apni (TV); 1986: Genesis; 1987: Kabbi Door Kabbi Paas (TV); 1988: Ek Din Achanak; 1990: Calcutta My Eldorado (Doc); 1991: Mahapritibhi; 1993: Antareen.

SEN, SATU (1902-72)

Bengali director, pioneering art director on commercial Bengali stage before entering films; considered to have influenced later masters such as Bansi Chandragupta and Tapas Sen, the lighting technician for several IPTA plays and for Utpal Dutt. Early training in Europe and USA. Saw Meyerhold's work in Moscow; apprenticed to Stanislavski's student Richard Boleslawski at Laboratory Theatre, New York (1926). Also saw Max Reinhard perform in Berlin, Gordon Craig in London and Sarah Bernhardt on Broadway. Technical director of Laboratory Theatre; then mainly responsible for building Woodstock Theatre (1929). Returned to Calcutta (1930) where he worked for major Calcutta Theatre companies: Rangmahal (1931), Natya Niketan (1931-42) and Sisir Bhaduri's Srirangam (1942-56). Best-known plays co-directed with Naresh Mitra, often starring major Bengali film actors: Dhiraj Bhattacharya, Jahar Ganguly, Shanti Gupta, etc. Also introduced the revolving stage, mood (or 'psychological') lighting, etc. Freelanced as film-maker, e.g. Sachindranath Sengupta's well-known comedy produced by Priyanath Ganguly, Sarbjanan Bibahotsab. Wrote autobiography (1976), including theoretical essays on colour and light.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1935: Mantra Shakti; 1936: Abartan; Pandit Moshai; Impostor; 1938: Sarbjanan Bibahotsab; Chokher Bali; 1940: Swami Sri.

SEN, SUCHITRA (B. 1931?)

Bengali star; originally called Roma Sen. Born in Patna, Bihar. Debut in unreleased Shesh Kotbai. First role opposite Uttam Kumar in Sharey Chuattar. They lasted as a screen duo in Bengali romantic melodramas for more than 20 years, becoming almost a genre unto themselves. Her career peaked in the late 50s with films like Shap Mochan, Sagarika, Harano Sur and Saptapadi, creating a new image in Bengali film of the articulate, if tragic, heroine, carving out an independent space away from those framed by the family and traditional values. First Hindi film was Bimal Roy's Devdas. Did two films with Dev Anand in 1960 (Sarbad, Bambai Ka Babu) and later returned again to the Hindi cinema to star in Gulzar's Aandhi, in a role apparently modelled on Indira Gandhi. The announcement of her early retirement triggered a wave of nostalgia for her romantic films. Mother of current Bengali-Hindi star Moon Sen. Her assertiveness on screen was coupled with a personal anxiety over the way she was photographed while her rigid gestures and mask-like make-up at times contradicted her strong screen persona, dividing the star from the stereotype (e.g. Hospital).

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1952: Sesh Kotbai; 1953: Sat Number Kayedi; Sharey Chuattar; Kajari; 1954: Atom Bomb; Ora Thake Odbare; Dbuli; Maraner Pare; Sadanander Mela; Annapurnar Mandir; Agni Pareeksha; Gribapravesh; Balay Gras; Bhagwan Shri Krishna Chaitanya; 1955: Sanjher Pradeep; Devdas; Sajghar; Shap Mochan; Mejo Bou; Bhalobasha; Sabar Uparey; 1956: Sagarika; Shubharatri; Ekti Raat; Trijama; Shilpi; Amar Bou; 1957: Harano Sur; Chandranath; Pathe Holo Deri; Jiban Trishna; Musafir; Champakali; 1958: Rajalaksbmi-o-Shrikanta; Indrani; Surya Toran; 1959: Chaoua-Pawa; Deep Jewel Jayi; 1960: Hospital; Sarbad; Bambai Ka Babu; Smriti Tuku Thak; 1961: Saptapadi; 1962: Bipasha; 1963: Saat Pake Bandha; Uttar Falguni; 1964: Sandhya Deeper Sikha; 1966: Mamata; 1967: Gribadab; 1969: Kamallata; 1970: Megh Kalo; 1971: Fariyad; Nabaraag; 1972: Alo Amar Alo; Haar Mana Haar; 1973: Shraavan Sandhya; 1974: Debi Choudhrani; 1975: Priya Bandhabi; Aandhi; 1976: Datta; 1978: Pronoy Pasha.

SETHUMADHAVAN, K. S. (B. 1926)

Prolific Malayalam director; also worked in Tamil, Hindi and made one film (Manini) in Kannada. Born in Palghat. Science graduate from Madras University. Assistant to K. Ramnoth (1952), later worked briefly with L.V. Prasad (1954) and more extensively with T.R. Sundaram (1957). First major hit:

Kannum Karalum. Early films produced by Manjilas, a collaboration between Sethumadhavan, star Sathyan and M.O. Joseph. Adapted novels by Kesavadev (Odeyil Ninnu, Adhyathe Katha), Thakazhy Shivashankar Pillai (Omanakuttan, Chukku, both scripted by Thoppil Bhasi), Uroob (Mindapennu) etc., often with playwright-scenarist K.T. Mohammed. Together with Vincent's films, his work exemplifies a cinema promoted after 1970 by official institutions as 'good' films (see New Indian Cinema). Nijalgal addressed the conditions of bus transport, while Marupakkam was made for the NFDC. Best-known films claimed to address social justice issues mainly through bizarre portrayals of intimate sex, seen from the 'tragic' viewpoint of decaying but good tradition (Odeyil Ninnu, Adimagal, Chattakkari, and his best-known film outside Kerala and Tamil Nadu, Oppol). Remade Nasir Hussain's teen movie Yaadon Ki Baraat (1973) as Nalai Namadbe with MGR. Returned to direct the Vijaya studios' comeback film with Kamalahasan, Nammavar.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1961: Gnana Sundari; 1962: Kannum Karalum; 1963: Nithya Kanyaka, Sushila; 1964: Anna, Manavatti, Omanakuttan; 1965: Odeyil Ninnu; Dabam; 1966: Rowdy, Archana, Sihanarbi Saramma; 1967: Kottayam Kola Case; Nadan Pennu; Ollathu Mathi; 1968: Thokkukal Katha Parayunnu, Yakshi, Bharyamar Sukshikuka, Paal Manam; 1969: Adimagal; Kadalpalam; Kootu Kudumbam; 1970: Mindapennu, Amma Enna Sree, Kalpana; Vazhve Mayam; Kuttavali; Aranazhikaneram; Kalyana Urvalam; 1971: Oru Penninte Katha; Thettu; Anubhavangal Palichakal; Karakanakadal; Inquilab Zindabad; Line Bus; 1972: Devi; Achannum Bappayam; Punarjanmam; Adhyathe Kadha; Pani Teertha Veedu; 1973: Kaliyugam; Chukku; Azbakulla Saleena; 1974: Jeevikkan Marannupoya Sthree; Chattakkari; Kanyakumari; 1975: Chuvanna Sandhyakal; Makkal Julie; Nalai Namadbe; 1976: Priyamvadha; 1977: Amme Anupame; Ormakal Marikkumo; Yahi Hai Zindagi; 1978: Nakshatrangale Kaval; 1979: Manini; 1980: Oppol; 1982: Afsana Do Dilon Ka; Nijangal; 1984: Zindagi Jeene Ke Liye, Ariyatha Veethigal; Arorumariyathe; 1985: Avidatbepole Ivideyum; 1986: Sunil Vayasu 20; 1990: Marupakkam; 1991: Venal Kinavukal; 1994: Nammavar; 1995: Sree.

SHAH, CHANDULAL JESANGBHAI (1898-1975)

Hindi director born in Jamnagar, Gujarat. Attended Bombay University (1924) and trained as a stockbroker. Among the biggest moguls in Indian cinema with his studio, Ranjit. Introduced to films by his brother, Dayaram J. Shah, the publicity manager of Irani's Majestic theatre and later scenarist at Ranjit. Assistant to Manilal Joshi for whose Laxmi Film he made his directorial debut (1925). After Laxmi closed down, joined Kohinoor (1926-7). His third film Typist Girl

Why I Became a Christian featured Sulochana and Gohar. Founded Jagdish Film where the nucleus of his Ranjit Movietone in Bombay (Est: 1929) was gathered: Gohar (his actress and common law wife), Raja Sandow and cameraman Pandurang Naik. By 1950, Ranjit had produced over 160 films, the largest number under any single banner in Indian cinema (e.g. work by Nanubhai Vakil and Jayant Desai). Their films largely adhered to the genres inherited from the Kohinoor scenarist Mohanlal Dave, including social melodramas addressing the joint-family system, occasionally with mythological overtones based on original scripts by Narayan Prasad Betaab, Gunwantra Acharya, Chaturbhuj Doshi et al. The breakthrough film founding the genre was Gunsundari. The films were distributed by his elder brother, Dayaram Shah. A leading spokesman for the industry in his later years (first president of the Film Federation of India, 1951). He died in poverty.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1925: Panchdanda; Vimala; 1926: Typist Girl; Madhav Kam Kundala; 1927: Gunsundari; Sati Madri; Sindh Ni Sumari; 1928: Gribalakshmi; Vishwamobini; 1929: Bhikharan; Chandramukhi; Pati Patni; Rajputani; 1930: Diwani Dilbar; Raj Lakshmi (all St); 1931: Devi Devayani; 1932: Sati Savitri; Sheilbala; Radha Rani; 1933: Miss 1933; Vishwamobini; 1934: Toofani Taruni; Gunsundari; Tara Sundari; 1935: Barrister's Wife; Desb Dasi; Keemti Aansoo; 1936: Prabhu Ka Pyara; Sipabi Ki Sajni/Sipabini Sajni; 1937: Pardesi Pankhi; 1940: Achbut; 1953: Paapi; 1955: Ootpatang; 1960: Zameen Ke Tare.

SHAH, KUNDAN (B 1947)

Hindi director. Studied commerce at Sydenham College, Bombay (1968). Employed in educational publishing at Popular Prakashan. Spent time in London but returned to join the FTII where he took a special interest in silent comedy. Graduated (1976) and did some documentaries for the Municipal Corp. of Hyderabad as part of a film collective. Returned to Bombay to work with Dharmaraj. Debut feature Jaane Bhi Do Yaaron introduced to the New Indian Cinema the genre of ribald comedy. The TV series Yeh Jo Hai Zindagi inaugurated the era of sponsored serials on Doordarshan. Partner in Iskra, a company founded with Saeed Mirza, Aziz Mirza, Sudhir Mishra et al., directing alternate episodes of Nukkad. His Police Station started as a serial but ran into censorship problems over its depiction of police brutality; it was broadcast as a TV film using footage from the three episodes that had been shot. The serial Circus discovered 1990s superstar Shah Rukh Khan, with whom Shah made the love story Kabhi Haan Kabhi Naa, returning to mainstream features.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1976: Bonga (Sh); Posters-Neons (Doc); 1981: Vision Of The Blind (Doc); 1983: Jaane Bhi Do Yaaron; 1985: Yeh Jo Hai Zindagi (TV); 1987: Nukkad (TV); Police Station (TV); 1988: Intezaar (TV); 1989: Wagle Ki Duniya (TV); 1993: Kabhi Haan Kabhi Naa.

Naseeruddin Shah in Tabbaliyu Neenade Magane (1977)

SHAH, NASEERUDDIN (B. 1950)

One of the icons of New Indian Cinema with Smita Patil, Shabana Azmi and Om Puri. Born in Barabanki, student at the National School of Drama in Delhi and the FTII. First roles in Bengal's Nishant, Mantban and Bhumika, followed by the lead role in Saeed Mirza's Albert Pinto Ko Gussa Kyon Aata Hai and as the lawyer in Nihalani's Aakrosh. His use of hesitant speech and casual gesture to signify psychological complexity has been widely adopted as the norm for 'realist' characterisation, e.g. by Mrinal Sen in Khandbar, Girish Kasaravalli in Mane and Sai Paranjpye in Sparsb. He also reveals a talent for comedy, e.g. in Ketan Mehta's films (in comics and catchpenny print-inspired roles in Bhavni Bhavai and Mirch Masala), the corrupt, smooth-talking lawyer in Mohan Joshi Hazir Hol, and in Mandi. Shah also works in commercial cinema, where he is best known for his Tirthi Topiwala role in Rajiv Rai's big-budget hit, Tridev. Also actor and director in English and Hindi plays. Often cast as an innovative actor in demand by commercial directors for character roles, e.g. Karma, where he was pitted against Dilip Kumar.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1975: Hand Held (Sh); Hero (Sh); Nishant; 1976: Mantban; A Proposal (Sh); Bhumika; 1977: Tabbaliyu Neenade Magane/Godhuli; 1978: Jumoon; 1979: Shayad; Sunayana; Sparsb; 1980: Khwab; Aakrosh; Albert Pinto Ko Gussa Kyon Aata Hai; Bhavni Bhavai/Andher Nagari; Chakra; Hum Paanch; 1981: Kanhaiya; Sazaaye Maut; Tajurba; Umrao Jaan; Adbarshila; 1982: Bezubaan; Bazaar; Dil Aakbir Dil Hai; Pyara Dost; Masoom; Sitam; Swami Dada; Katha; Naseeb Ni Balibari; 1983: Arbh Satya; Haadsa; Nirvana; Mandi; Woh Saat Din; Jaane Bhi Do Yaaron; Khandbar; Mohan Joshi Haazir Hol; Holi; Protidan; 1984: Party; Paar; Lorie; 1985: Bahu Ki Awaaz; Gbulami; Misaal; Surkhiyaan; Mirch Masala; Trikaal; Khamosh; Shart; Maan Maryada; 1986: Ek Pal; Karma; Jahwa; Yeb Wob Manzil To Nabin; 1987: Pestonjee; Jazaat; The Perfect Murder; 1988: Zulm Ko Jala Doonga; Hero Hiralal; Malamaal; Ribhaee; 1989: Anjaam Khuda Jaane, Tridev; Khoj; Mane; 1990: Police Public; Chor Pe Mor; 1991: Shikari; Libaas; Electric Moon; Lakshmanrekha; 1992: Viswattma; Panaab; Tabalka; Chamatkar; 1993: Game; Lutere; Hasti; Sir; Bedardi; Kabhi Haan Kabhi Naa; Ponthan Mada; 1994: Mobra; Drobkaal; 1995: Najayaz; Takkar.

SHAHANI, KUMAR (B. 1940)

Director born in Larkana, Sind (now Pakistan). Early life marked by Partition. Graduated from the University of Bombay (1962) and from the FTII (1966) where he was one of Ghatak's students. Also student of the historian and anthropologist D.D. Kosambi. Further film studies in France (1967-68) where he assisted Bresson on Une Femme Douce (1969). Was an enthusiastic participant in the May 1968 movements in France. After the intense and innovative Maya Darpan, he obtained no support from the NFDC for 12 years. Homi Bhabha fellowship (1976-8) to study the epic tradition as represented by the Mababharata, Buddhist iconography, classical Indian music and the Bhakti movement, leading to the production of Tarang. Made two more features subsequently, adapting a Chekhov story for Kasba, and investigating the North Indian classical Khayal music for Khayal Gatha. Taught and lectured extensively, including at the FTII, presented the film appreciation programme on Bombay TV, Montage (1974-6) and wrote numerous essays and lectures on cinematic aesthetics, defining the terrain of an independent cinema movement in India. Early work contextualised by the political events of the 60s/70s (the Naxalite insurgency culminating in the Emergency) and the definitive shifts in the Nehruite nationalist model caused by the Indira Gandhi regime. Developed from the iconographies of revolt and repression characterising this period, and evident in e.g. his documentary Fire in the Belly, his contemporary terms of reference for the epic in cinema. Developed his key formulation of the narrative sequence (as against the shot or the frame) from theories of performance and visual representation in Indian art, to define what he sees to be the two crucial needs of an oppositional art practice: the need 'to innovate [and] to individuate'. Has addressed, from this vantage point, questions of nationalism, indigenous modernism, the forms of capitalist commodification and their impact on both feudal/patriarchal systems and on the Left movement. Recent work, such as Khayal Gatha and Bhavantarana (on Odissi dancer Guru Kelucharan Mahapatra), investigates more specifically the process of cultural classicisation in India, where the epic often comes to be the most precise representation for history itself. Writings on cinema published by Framework (No. 30/31, Dossier on Kumar Shubani). Major essays include 'Film as a Contemporary Art' (In Social Scientist, March, 1990) and the Rita Ray Memorial Lectures, 'The Self as an Objective Entity', 'Narrativity' and 'Figures of Film' (unpublished, 1987). Co-edited the book Cinema and Television (1991). Directed actress Alaknanda Samarth in two stage plays La Voix humaine and Kunti.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1966: The Glass Pane (Sh); 1967: Manmad Passenger (Sh); 1969: A Certain Childhood (Sh); 1970: Rails for the World (Sh); 1971: Object (Sh); 1972: Maya Darpan; 1973: Fire in the Belly (Doc); 1976: Our Universe (Sh); 1984: Tarang; 1987: Var Var Vari (Sh); 1988: Khayal Gatha; 1989: A Ship Aground (Sh); 1990: Kasba; 1991: Bhavantarana.

SHAIENDRA (1923-66)

Hindi and Urdu lyric writer often associated with Raj Kapoor's films. Part of a long-lasting team with composers Shankar-Jaikishen and Urdu lyricist Hasrat Jaipuri. Worked in IPTA plays in Bombay. Employed in a railway yard when he was offered a job by Kapoor (Barsaat, 1949). Wrote many of the best-known songs of Kapoor's 50s and 60s output, including the title numbers of Barsaat and Awara (1951) and Mera Naam Joker (1970). He also produced Teesri Kasam (1966), based on the novel by Phaneshwar Nath 'Renu', and starring Raj Kapoor and Waheeda Rehman. Wrote songs for c.170 films, working with several music directors.

Shaji see Karun, Shaji Narayanan

SHANKAR-JAIKISHEN, AKA SHANKARSINH RAGHUWANSHI (?-1987) AND JAIKISHEN DAYABHAI PANCHAL (1929-71).

Composers who started as orchestra musicians in Prithviraj Kapoor's Prithvi Theatres where they first met Raj Kapoor. Jaikishen was born in Bulsar, Gujarat, and migrated to Bombay in 1945. Shankar was born in Hyderabad. They assisted composer Ram Ganguly in Kapoor's inaugural production, Aag (1948). Scored Barsaat and continued working with Kapoor and his favourite playback singer, Mukesh, for the next two decades, including Awara and Sbri 420. Their extraordinary popularity was enhanced by numerous films, e.g. Amiya Chakravarty's Daag, Patita (using the singer Talat Mahmood), Seema and Katapultli, Vijay Bhatt's Patrani and Hariyali Aur Raasta, Mohan Segal's New Delhi, Bimal Roy's Yabudi. Also did the Hindi films at AVM. Changed after Chori Chori to rock music in the Shammi Kapoor era: Nasir Hussain's Jab Pyar Kisise Hota Hai, Subodh Mukherjee's Jungle (with the famous Shammi Kapoor 'Yahoo' number) and April Fool, Rajkumar, An Evening in Paris etc. Composed for all leading playback singers, but also worked with unknown singers like Subir Sen and Sharada. After Jaikishen died, Shankar carried on scoring films signing their joint names. For Chandrasekhar's Street Singer, Shankar used the name Suraj.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1949: Barsaat; 1951: Awara; Badal; Kali Ghata; Nagina; 1952: Daag; Parbat; Poonam; 1953: Aab; Aas; Aurat; Naya Ghar; Sbikast; Patita; 1954: Badshah; Boot Polish; Mayurpankh; Pooja; 1955: Seema; Sbri 420; 1956: Basant Babar; Chori Chori; Halaku; Kismet Ka Kbel; New Delhi; Patrani; Rajbaath; 1957: Begunah; Katapultli; 1958: Baghi Sipahi; Yabudi; 1959: Anari; Chhoti Baben; Kanhaiya; Love Marriage; Main Nashe Mein Hoon; Shararat; Ujala; 1960: College Girl; Dil Apna Aur Preet Parayi; Ek Phool Char Kaante; Jis Desh Mein Ganga Behti Hai; Singapore; 1961: Aas Ka Panchhi; Boy Friend; Jab Pyar Kisise Hota Hai; Jungle; Karodpati; Roop Ki Rani Choron Ka Raja; Sasural; 1962: Aashiq; Asli Naqli; Dil Tera Diwana; Hariyali Aur Raasta; Professor; Rangoli; 1963: Dil Ek Mandir; Ek Dil Sau Afsane; Hamrahi; 1964: Apne Huye Paraye; April Fool; Aayi Milan Ki Bela; Beti Bete; Rajkumar; Sanjh Aur Savera; Sangam; Zindagi; 1965: Arzoo; Gumnaam; Jaanwar; 1966: Amrapali; Badtameez; Gaban; Love in Tokyo; Pyar Mohabbat; Suraj; Teesri Kasam; Street Singer (only Shankar); 1967: Aman; An Evening in Paris; Around the World; Chhotisi Mulaqat; Diwana; Gunabon Ka Devta; Hare Kaanch Ki Chudiyar; Laat Sabeh; Raat Aur Din; 1968: Brahmachari; Duniya; Jbuk Gaya Aasmaan; Kabin Aur Chal; Kanyadaan; Mere Huzoor; Sapnon Ka Saudagar; Shikar; 1969: Bhai Baben; Chanda Aur Bijli; Jaban Pyar Mile; Prince; Pyar Hi Pyar; Sachaa; Shatranj; Tumse Achha Kaun Hai; Yakeen; 1970: Bhai Bhai; Dharti; Mera Naam Joker; Pagla Kabin Ka; Pebchan; Tum Haseen Main Jawan; Umang; Jwala; Bombay Talkie; 1971: Albela; Andaz; Balidan; Duniya Kya Jaane; Ek Nari Ek Brahmachari; Elaan; Jaane Anjane; Jawan Mohabbat; Kal Aaj Aur Kal; Lal Patthar; Main Sundar Hoon; Nadaan; Parde Ke Peechhe; Patanga; Preetam; Seema; Yaar Mere; Jeevitha Chakram; 1972: Aan Baan; Aankh Micholi; Aankhon Aankhon Mein; Bandagi; Beimaan; Dil Daulat Duniya; Jungle Mein Mangal; Rivaaj; 1973: Aaj Ki Taaza Khabar; Chori Chori; Daman Aur Aag; Door Nabin Manzil; Naina; Pyar Ka Rishta; Archana; 1974: Chhote Sarkar; Insaniyat; International Crook; Resham Ki Dori; Tarzan Mera Saathi; Vachan; Mera Vachan Geeta Ki Kasam; 1975: Do Jbooth; Love in Bombay; Neelima; Saazish; Sanyasi; 1977: Dhoop Chhaon; Duniyadari; 1978: Mehfil; 1979: Atmaram; The Gold Medal; 1980: Garam Khoon; 1981: Nari; Chorni; 1982: Eent Ka Jawab Patthar; 1984: Puapi Pet Ka Sawaal Hai; 1986: Inteqam Ki Aag; Kaanch Ki Dewaar; Krishna Krishna.

SHANTARAM, RAJARAM VANKUDRE (1901-90)

Hindi and Marathi director, producer and actor aka V. Shantaram. Born in Kolhapur. Worked on the railways as a teenager; apprentice in Bal Gandharva's Gandharva Natak Mandali (1914-15) where he was trained by people he later employed (e.g. Govindrao Tembe, the tabla master Tirakhwan); then odd-job man at a local cinema (1917). Became assistant photographer, then joined Painter's Maharashtra Film (1920) learning all production skills, including acting (Surekha Haran, Sinbagad, Savkari Pash) and eventually directing Netaji Palkar. Left together with Damle, Fattelal, Keshavrao Dhaiber and S.B. Kulkarni to start Prabhat in Kolhapur (1929), directing all the studio's silent films. Released 3 sound films in 1932 launching Durga Khote (e.g. Ayodhyecha Raja). Established Prabhat Studio in Pune (1933). Prabhat's films made him one of the most celebrated Indian directors of the 30s. The spectacular Amritmantban consecrated Shanta Apte as a major star. Married one of his stars, Jayshree (Shakuntala) and launched their daughter, Rajshree in Geet Gaya Pattharone. Later teamed up with the dancer and actress Sandhya (Jhanak Jhanak Payal Baaje). Chief Producer of Government Film Advisory Board during WW2 (producing documentaries, e.g. Sangeet Bharat, Song of Maharashtra, both 1956; Important People, Magic Touch and Symphony of Life, all 1957). Established his own studio Rajkamal Kalamandir in Parel, Bombay (1942). Founded V. Shantaram Prod., 1962. Published autobiography, Shantarama (1986). Up to 1933, followed the Painter mould of mythologicals and historicals, occasionally with political overtones (Udaykal). After 1933, following long visit to Germany's UFA Studios, his films show the influence of the expressionist Kammerspiel film. Perceived by Shantaram himself as 'classical' art, the films arguably mobilise a 19th C. German Orientalism to achieve a modernist return to classic Sanskrit Indian cultural values. His later Rajkamal films ended up offering degraded versions of the classical arts (e.g. India's first Technicolor film, the musical extravaganza Jhanak Jhanak Payal Baaje - later re-released in 70mm - or Jal Bin Machbhi Nritya Bin Bijli).

V. Shantaram in his film Do Aankhen Bara Haath (1957)

Early reformist socials (Kunku/Duniya Na Mane) were exemplary of the genre in pre-Independence India and led to e.g. Dr Kotnis Ki Amar Kabani (which pleased the British, the nationalists and the Communists all at the same time) and Do Aankhen Bara Haath. Lokshahir Ramjoshi (co-d. Painter) helped originate the Tamasha musical in Marathi cinema. His critical approach to feudal traditions in melodramas and socials, together with determined efforts to break into US and European markets (e.g. with Shakuntala) earned him the reputation of being influenced by foreign (read German and Hollywood) elements. Many, including K.A. Abbas, regard Manoos/Admi as his finest film.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY (* also act/ act only):

1921: *Surekha Haran; 1923: *Sinbagad;
*Shri Krishnavatar; 1924: *Sati Padmini;
 1925: *Shabala Shah;*Savkari Pash;
*Rana Hamir;*Maya Bazaar; 1926: *Gaja Gauri;*Bhakta Prabhad; 1927: *Muraliwala;*Sati Savitri;Netaji Palkar (with K. Dhaiber); 1928: *Maharathi Karna;
 1929: *Baji Prabhu Deshpande;*Nisha Sundari;
Gopal Krishna; 1930: *Rani Saheba;Khooni Khanjar;*Udaykal;
 1931: Chandrasena (all St); 1932: Ayodhyecha Raja/Ayodhya Ka Raja;Jalti Nishani/Agnikankan;Maya Machhindra;
Amritmantban; 1935: Chandrasena;Dharmatma; 1936: Amar Jyoti; 1937: Kunku/Duniya Na Mane; 1939: Manoos/Admi; 1941: Shejari/Padosi; 1943: Shakuntala; 1944: *Parbat Pe Apna Dera;
 1946: *Dr Kotnis Ki Amar Kabani; 1947: Lokshahir Ramjoshi/Matwala Shayar Ramjoshi; 1949: Apna Desh/Nam Naadu; 1950: Dabej; 1951: Amar Bhoopali; 1952: Manoos; 1953: Sirang;Teen Batti Char; 1954: Jal Bin Machbhi Nritya Bin Bijli; 1955: Jhanak

Jhanak Payal Baaje; 1957: *Do Aankhen Bara Haath; 1959: Navrang; 1961: *Stree; 1963: Sehra; 1964: Geet Gaya Pattharone; 1965: Iye Marathyachi Nagari/Ladki Sahyadri Ki; 1967: Boond Jo Ban Gaye Moti; 1971: Jal Bin Machbhi Nritya Bin Bijli; 1972: Pinjra; 1977: Chaani; 1986: Jhanjhar.

SHARADA (B. 1945)

Aka Saraswati, aka 'Urvashi' Sharada. Malayalam, Telugu, Tamil and Hindi star born in Tenali, AP. Studied Bharat Natyam dance as a child. Early youth in Burma. Spotted by L.V. Prasad in a Telugu play, Rakthakanneeru. Married Chalam, the co-star of her debut film, Tandrulu Kodukulu. Second film, Iddaru Mitbrulu, a hit made by Adurthi Subba Rao for A. Nageshwara Rao's Annapurna Studio, established her in mid-budget Telugu melodramas in secondary roles and as a comedy actress. Sivaji Ganesan noticed her in Athreya's play Thirupati which led to her first Tamil film, Kumkumam. Achieved major stardom in Malayalam with Kunchako's Inapravugal. Best film work is in Malayalam, e.g. for Sethumadhavan, A. Vincent and Kariat, with intensely emotional performances chronicling the decline of matriarchal power. Oru Minnaminugunte Nuringu Vettam cast her with Nedumudi Venu playing retired school teachers. Cast in Adoor Gopalakrishnan's debut Swayamvaram and in his Elippathayam, in K.G. George's Lekhyade Maranam Oru Flashback and in P.N. Menon's films. Returned to Telugu cinema when her award-winning Malayalam film by Vincent, Tbulabbaram, was remade in Telugu as Manushulu Marali and in Hindi as Samaj Ko Badal Dalo, featuring her in all three versions.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1961: Tandrulu Kodukulu;
Iddaru Mitbrulu; 1962: Atmabandhuvu; 1963: Valmiki;Thobuttuvulu;Kumkumam; 1964: Vazhikai Vazhvaradarke;Arunagiri Nathar; Murali Krishna;Dagudu Moothalu; 1965: Chaduvukonna Bharya;Inapravugal; Kattinbhusali;Rajamalli;Kathiruna Nikkhal;
Murappenu; 1966: Manikya Kottaram;
Arbhana;Pagal Kinavu;Jali;Kanmanikal;
Karuna;Tilottama;Bhakta Potana;
Shakuntala;Shrimati; 1967: Tballirikal;
Irutinte Atmaru;Udyogastha;Arakillam;
Anveshichu Kandatiyilla;Cbitramela;
Parceeksha;Kavalam Chundan;
Kasaritbattam;Mulkireedam; 1968: Karutha Pournami;Manasuvini;Asuravithu;Karthika; Kadal;Hotel Highrange;Punnappa Vyalar;
Kaliyalla Kalyanam;Yakshi;Tbulabbaram;
Midumidukki;Aparadhinini;Agni Pareeksha;
Mana Samsaram; 1969: Shri Rama Katha;
Manushulu Marali;Vila Kuranja Manushyar;
Veetu Mrugham;Kattukurangu;Susie;
Adimagal;Sandhya;Mooladhanam;Jwala;
Vilakkapetta Bandhangal;Nadbi;
Velliyazhcha;Kootu Kudumbam; 1970:
Mindapenu;Pearl View;Stree;Cross Belt;
Kuttavali;Kakathampurati;Triveni;Tara;
Samaj Ko Badal Dalo;Sambarala Rambabu;
Pasidi Manasulu;Ambalapraavu; 1971:
Abhijathyam;Vilakku Vangiya Veena;
Amayakuralu;Jeevitha Chakram;Pagabattina

Paduchu; Sati Ansuya; Sisindri Chittibabu; 1972: Kalam Marindi; Manavudu Danavudu; Maya; Professor; Shri Guruvayoorappan; Gandharvukshetram; Anveshanam; Brahmachari; Suayamvaram; Gnana Oli; Snebadeepame Mizhi Thurakku; 1973: Enippadikal; Udayam; Veendum Prabhatam; Thekkan Kattu; Agni Rekha; Abhimanavanthulu; Ida Lokam; Jeevitbam; Mallamma Katha; Sharada; Vishali; Mayadari Malligadu; Devudu Chesina Manushulu; 1974: Harathi; Urvasi (Te); Premalu Pellilu; Tbulabbaram; Radhamma Pelli; Adambaralu Anubandhulu; Palle Paduchu; Devudu Chesina Pelli; Oru Pidi Ari; Thayi Pirandhal; 1975: Ninaitthalai; Mudippavan; Ragam; Abhimanam; Palkadal; Thiruvonam; Saubhagyavati; Vaikunthapali; Bharati; Zamindarugari Ammayi; Balipeetam; 1976: Mahatmudu; Suprabhatam; Amritha Vahini; Chennai Valarthiya Kutty; Kanyadanam; Nurayum Pathayum; Ennai Pol Oruvan; Mazhai Megam; 1977: Aradhana; Amme Anupame; Anjali; Aparajitha; Hridayame Saksbi; Itha Ivide Vare; Rendu Lokam; Sridevi; Taxi Driver; Vishukkani; Indra Dhanushu; Swarganiki Nitchenalu; Bhale Alludu; Daanu Veera Shura Karma; 1978: Navodayam; Anubhootikalude Nimisham; Asthamayam; Ithanende Vazhi; Mannu; Onappudava; Raghuwamsam; Rowdy Ramu; Society Lady; Sundari Marudde Swapnangal; Mattoli; Manoratham; 1979: Ente Sneham; Ninakku Mathram; Ward No. 7; Karthika Deepam; Captain Krishna; Rajadhi Raju; Gorintaku; Shivamettina Satyam; Pichatbikkuttappan; Pushyaragam; Priya Bandhavi; 1980: Alayam; Alludu Pattina Bharatham; Dharma Chakram; Pratishodh; Adbikaram; Akalangalil Abhayam; Mangala Gauri; Sannayi Appanna; Sardar Paparayudu; Ramudu Parashuramudu; Evar; Swarga Devata; Kaliyuga Ravana Surudu; Kodalu Vastunaru Jagratha; 1981: Elippathayam; Prema Natakam; O Amma Katha; Sindoor Bane Jwala; Alludugaru Zindabad; Nyayam Kavali; 1982: Nipputho Chelagatam; Jagannatha Rathachakralu; Pratikaram; Anantham Ajnatham; Ankuram; Ponmudi; Justice Choudhury; 1983: Lekhayude Maranam Oru Flashback; Nizhal Moodiya Nirangal; Apathbandhavudu; Durga Devi; Kala Yamudu; Kaliyuga Daivam; Poratham; Bandhipotu Rudramma; Babudoorapu Batasari; Kumkuma Tilakan; Raghu Ramudu; Alaya Shikharan; Kurukshetramlo Seeta; Swarajyam; 1984: Raaraju; Apanindalu Adavallakena; Bobbili Brahmana; Iddaru Dongalu; Katha Nayakudu; Marchandi Mana Chattalu; Rowdy; Sardar; Ugra Roopam; Bharatamlo Sankharavam; Justice Chakravarthy; Swati; Chadarangam; Bharyamani; Nimmajanam; Charitra Nayakan; Alaya Deepam; 1985: Bhale Tammudu; Agni Parvatbam; Illaliko Pariksha; Maha Sangramam; Painati Simham; Devalayam; Raktha Sindooram; Ee Samajam Maakodu; Adavi Donga; Bebbuli Veta; Vijeta; Pattabhishekkam; Krishnagaradi; Intiko Rudramma; Pralaya Rudra; Thayi Mamathe; 1986: Kondaveeti Raja; Muddula Krishnaiah; Mr Bharat; Manavudu Danavudu; Khaidi Rudraiah; Ravana Brahma; Ansyammagari

Alludu; Deshodddharakulu; Apoorva Sabodharulu; Jailupaksbi; 1987: Rotation Chakravarthi; Repati Swarajyam; Muddayi; Agni Putrudu; Sharadamba; Bhargava Ramudu; Samrat; Lawyer Bharti Devi; Presidentgari Abbayi; Sankharavam; Kulala Kurukshetram; Ramu; Oru Minnaminugintie Nürungu Veltam; 1988: Prajaswamyam; Samsaram; Raktha Tilakam; Ashwathama; Illu Illalu Priyuralu; Donga Ramudu; Rowdy No. 1; Brahma Putrudu; Maa Telugu Talli; Dharma Teja; August 15 Rathri; Raktabbhisekkam; 1989: Manchi Kutumbam; Goonda Rajyam; Pardhudu; Raktha Kanneeru; Dhruwanakshatram; Nari Nari Naduma Murari; Dr Bhawani; 1990: Lorry Driver; Kadapa Redamma; Prema Khaidi; 1991: Jagannathakam; Nayakuralu; Coolie No. 1; 1992: Mother India; Killer; 1993: Major Chandrakant; Pelli Gola.

SHARDA FILM COMPANY

Studio set up by Bhogilal K.M. Dave and Nanubhai Desai under direct control of financier Mayashankar Bhatt (formerly of Hindustan Cinema Film) in 1925. The most famous of the silent era's stunt film producers, Sharda's output was marked by its biggest star, Master Vithal. Around his image they developed a style combining special effects with Arabian Nights exotica. Their fast editing has remained part of the genre ever since (cf. Dara Singh). Dave's Suvarna Pics extended this approach, as did the Surya Studio (launched by former manager of Laxmi, Haribhai Desai) where Dhirubhai Desai made his directing debut. Nanubhai Desai went on to found Saroj Movietone. Actors like Ganpatrao Bakre and Zunzharrao Pawar, working under Sundarrao Nadkarni's direction, also continued the Sharda signature.

SHARMA, ARIBHAM SYAM (B. 1939)

Manipuri director born in Imphal. Graduated in philosophy and music from Shantiniketan. Lecturer in philosophy and worked in the Aryan Theatre in Imphal in the late 60s. Well-known singer with classical training. Films often written with Manipuri author Maharajkumari Binodini Debi and usually feature mystical versions of traditional cultures contrasted with economic modernity. Manipur's marginalised and colonised relations with the Indian mainstream, leading to insurrectionist movements (70s and 80s), are referenced obliquely, e.g. the toy guns in Paokhum Ama, the child playing Krishna in a folk performance in Imagi Ningthem or the Meitei rituals in Ishanou. Acted in and scored the first Manipuri film, Deb Kumar Bose's Matamgi Manipur (1972).

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1974: Lamja Parashuram; 1976: Saphabee; 1979: Olangthugee Wangmadasoo; 1981: Imagi Ningthem; 1982: Paokhum Ama; 1983: Sagol Sanabi; 1986: Tales of Courage (Doc); 1988: Sangai Dancing Deer of Manipur (Doc); Keibul Lamjao National Park (Doc); Koro Kosii (Doc); 1989: The Deer on the Lake (TV); 1990: Ishanou; 1991: Indigenous Games of Manipur (Doc); 1992: Lai Haraoba (Sh).

SHARMA, KIDAR NATH (B. 1910)

Hindi director and scenarist born in Narowal, Sialkot (now Pakistan). Signboard painter at New Theatres; promoted to dialogue writer-lyricist for the studio's Hindi versions, including Barua's Devdas (1935) and Mukti (1937), Debaki Bose's Vidyapati (1937) and Sapera (1939). Author of classic Saigal numbers such as Balam aayo baso more man mein (Devdas). Moved to Bombay (1941). Established by the success of Chitralekha. Noted for having introduced several famous Hindi actors to their best-known image: e.g. Mehtab (in Chitralekha), Ramola (Dil Hi To Hai), Shamim (Armaan), Raj Kapoor and Madhubala (Neel Kamal), Geeta Bali (Subhaag Raat). Acted the lead in his own Neki Aur Badi. Made several films at Ranjit Studio in mid-40s. In recent years made children's films (e.g. Jaldeep). Wrote his own scripts, which were the films' most saleable aspects. In an essay in Filmfare (1952), Sharma distanced himself from the dominant ways sensuality was portrayed in films, criticising 'The director with the Cave Man conception of Love. This is the technique made vivid on the Indian screen mostly by Raj Kapoor and other film artistes graduating from the Prithvi Theatres.' His own favoured technique was to evoke the passionate imagery of Urdu poetry in tragic romances (Jogan, Banure Nain) with wide-angle shots of nature in the form of rain or howling wind playing a major commentative role. Made several shorts for the Children's Film Society.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY (* only act/ act also):

1935: *Inquilab; *Devdas; *Dhoop Chhaon; 1936: *Karodpati; 1937: *Vidyapati; 1939: *Badi Didi; Dil Hi To Hai; 1941: Chitralekha; 1942: Armaan; 1943: Gauri; Vish Kanya; 1944: Bhanwara; Kaliyan; Mumtaz Mahal; 1945: Chand Chakori; Dhanna Bhagat; 1946: Duniya Ek Sarai; 1947: Neel Kamal; 1948: Subhaag Raat; 1949: *Neki Aur Badi; Thes; 1950: Banure Nain; Jogan; 1951: Bedardi; Shokbiyan; 1952: Sapna; 1953: Gunab; Jhanjhar; 1955: Chhora Chhori; 1956: Jaldeep; Rangeen Raatein; 1957: Bachchon se Baatein (Doc); Ganga Ki Lehren (Sh); 1958: Scout Camp; Gulab Ka Phool (Sh); 1959: Ekti (Sh); 1960: Chetak; Meera Ka Chitra (Sh); 1961: Hamari Yaad Ayege; Mahateerth (Sh); 1964: Chitralekha; Fariyad; 1967: Maikhana; 1972: Kavi Sammelan (Doc); 1981: Pebla Kadam; 1983: Khuda Hafiz.

SHARMA, RAMESH

Hindi director born in Kalimpong near Darjeeling, where he attended university. Postgraduate studies in Montreal at McGill University. Returned to India (1974) and joined a media company in Calcutta. Made ads for the Sikkim Government. Went independent in 1979. Through his own company, Rigsum Prod., published the book Images of Sikkim. Feature debut in 1985. Produces current affairs series for TV, Focus.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1979: Rumtek: A Monastery Wreathed in a Thousand Rainbows (Sh); 1981:

Dringung: A Faith in Exile (Sh); 1985: New Delhi Times.

Sharmaji see Khayyam, Mohammed Zahur
Shobhana Samarth see Samarth, Shobhana

SHOBHAN BABU (B. 1936)

Telugu star born in Tallidevarapalli, Krishna Dist., AP. Studied science and law; broke into films playing Lakshmana in NTR's mythological Seeta Rama Kalyanam; also played Abhimanyu in Nartanasala and Veer Abhimanyu (his first solo hit). Early films extended the classic Vijaya Studio-NTR idiom, e.g. third film, K. Kameshwara Rao's Mahamantri Timmarasu. Departed from mythological and aristocratic roles with Loguttu Perumallukeruka, achieving great success with Manasulu Marali. Made the hit cop movie Goodachari 116 with main rival, G. Krishna. Although known mainly for macho roles in action melodramas and musicals e.g. by V. Madhusudana Rao, returned to mythologicals with e.g. Bapu's Sampoorna Ramayanam and Kameshwara Rao's Kuruksbetramu.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1960: Bhakta Shabari; 1961: Seeta Rama Kalyanam; 1962: Mahamantri Timmarasu; 1963: Somavara Vratam; Irgu Porugu; Chaduvukonna Ammayilu; Nartanasala; 1964: Navagraba Pooja Mahima; Mabiravana; Deshadrobulu; 1965: Prameelarjuneyam; Veer Abhimanyu; Bangaru Panjaram; 1966: Loguttu Perumallukeruka; Potti Pleader; Kanne Manasulu; Goodachari 116; 1967: Pinni; Satyame Jayam; Private Master; Sbri Krishnavataram; Poolarangadu; Aada Paduchu; Raktba Sindooram; Kambojaraju Katha; Punyavati; Pattu Kunte Padivelu; 1968: Bharya; Chuttarikalu; Lakshminivasam; Pantalu Pattimpulu; Jeevitha Bandham; Kalasila Manasulu; Kumkumabharina; Mana Samsaram; 1969: Manchi Mitrbulu; Mooganomi; Vichitra Kutumbam; Sattekalapu Sattaiab; Mamaku Tagga Kodalu; Nindu Hridayalu; Buddhimanthudu; Manasulu Marali; Matbrudevata; Kannulapanduga; Tara Sasankam; Pratikaram; 1970: Bhale Goodachari; Desamante Manusbulo; Iddaru Ammayilu; Maa Manchi Akkaiab; Mayani Mamata; Pasidi Manasulu; Inti Gauravam; Pettandarulu; Talli Tandruhu; Jagath Jettehu; 1971: Mooga Prema; Jagath Jentreehu; Bangaru Talli; Chelleli Kapuram; Chinnanati Snebitulu; Dabukku Thba Dongala Muttha; Katha Nayakuralu; Kootburu Kodalu; Naa Thammudu; Sati Ansuaya; Sisindri Chittibabu; Talli Kutulu; Tehsildarugari Ammayi; Vichitra Dampthyam; Kalyana Mandapam; Ramalayam; 1972: Kalam Marindi; Kiladi Bullodu; Manavudu Danavudu; Pedda Koduku; Sampoorna Ramayanam; Shanti Nilayam; Vamsodharakudu; Amma Mata; Kanna Talli; Bangaru Babu; 1973: Dr Babu; Ganga Manga; Puttinilla Mettinilla; Ida Lokam; Jeevana Tarangulu; Jeevitham; Kannavari Kalalu; Khaidi Baba; Sbarada; Minor Babu; 1974: Chakravakam (Te); Kode Naagu; Andaru Dongale; Manchi Manasulu; Devudu Chesina Pelli; 1975: Soggadu; Andharu Manchivare; Babu; Jeevana Jyoti; Balipeetam; Jebu Donga; Pichimaraju; Gunavanthudu; 1976: Iddaru Iddare; Monagadu; Premabandham; Raja; Raju Vedale; Pogarubottu; 1977: Khaidi Kalidas; Ee Tharam Manishi; Gadusu Pillodu; Jeevitha Nauka; Kuruksbetramu; 1978: Enki Nayudu Bava; Naidu Bava; Nindu Manishi; Mallepoovu; Radha Krishna; Manchi Babai; Kalanthakulu; 1979: Mande Gundelu; Karthika Deepam; Bangaru Chellalu; Judagadu; Gorintaku; Ramabanam; 1980: Chandi Priya; Sannayi Appanna; Chesina Basalu; Dharma Chakram; Ramudu Parashuramudu; Manavude Mahaniyudu; Pandanti Jeevitham; Deeparadhana; Kaksba; Ketugadu; Kodalu Vastunaru Jagratha; 1981: Jeevitha Ratham; Gharana Gangulu; Devudu Mamayya; Illalu; Jagamondi; Samsaram Santhanam; Alludugaru Zindabad; Girija Kalyanam; 1982: Pratikaram; Swayamvaram; Illali Korikal; Balidanam; Krishnarajunulu; Iddaru Kodukulu; Korukunna Mogudu; Prema Moorthalu; Devatha; Vamsagauravam; 1983: Bandhulu Anubandhulu; Mugguru Monagallu; Mundadugu; Raghu Ramudu; Rajakumar; Todu Needa; 1984: Danavudu; Iddaru Dongalu; Kodetharachu; Mr Vijay; Bava Maradallu; Punyam Kodi Punusbudu; Jagan; Abhimanyudu; Sampoorna Premayanam; Dandayatra; Illalu Priyuralu; Bharyamani; 1985: Maha Sangramam; Kongumudi; Devalayam; Jackie; Maharaju; Mugguru Mitrbulu; Mangalya Balam; Sreevaru; Uriki Soggadu; 1986: Shravana Sandhya; Mr Bharat (Te); Jeevana Poratam; Jailupakshi; Driver Babu; Jeevana Rangam; Bandham; 1987: Ummadi Mogudu; Karthika Pournami; Punya Dampathulu; 1988: Samsaram; Chattamtho Chadarangam; Donga Pelli; Bharya Bartulu; 1989: Dorikite Dongalu; 1990: Doshi Nirdoshi; 1991: Sarpayagam; 1992: Balaram Krishnudu; 1993: Evandi Avide Ochindi; 1995: Ashti Muredu Asbe Baredu; Dora Babu.

SHOREY, ROSHAN LAL

Pioneer Punjabi cineaste. Started in photolitho dept. of the Military Staff College in Quetta. Specialised in photography in the USA and returned to Lahore where he founded Kamala Movietone (1924), later to house the Punjab Film Corp. set up in 1926 with R.L. as its technical director and facilities provided by Shorey Studios. Began film career with government-sponsored instructional films but sound prompted the move into features (the mythological Radhe Shyam). From 1942, Shorey Pics grew into a major financier and distributor of post-Independence Hindi film. His son Roop K. Shorey was the in-house director.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1932: Radhe Shyam; 1935: Swarg Ki Seedhi; 1940: Ik Musafir.

SHOREY, ROOP KISHORE (1914-73)

Hindi and Punjabi director and producer born in Quetta (now Pakistan). Son of R.L. Shorey. Cinematographer, lab assistant, editor and producer in Kamala Movietone. Produced and directed more than fifty shorts in Lahore. Turned feature director with the coming of sound, pioneering cheap versions of Bombay films: e.g. mythologicals, Laila-Majnu love stories and Tarzan movies. Although preceded in this by B.R. Oberai and Kardar, Shorey was the first to demonstrate the financial viability of this formula, esp. in partnership with distributor Dalsukh M. Pancholi (1938). Worked with Information Films of India in WW2. Migrated to Bombay following Partition. Established Shorey Films in Bombay (1948). His last film, Ek Thi Rita, is an English bilingual (A Girl Named Rita) intended to tap the US market. His wife Meena Shorey (1920-87) acted in several of his films and, after her hit song in Ek Thi Ladki, became known as the 'La-ra-lappa' girl.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1935: Majnu 1935; 1938: Tarzan Ki Beti; 1939: Khooni Jadugar; 1940: Dulla Bhatti; Ik Musafir; 1941: Himmat; 1942: Nisbahi; Mangti; 1943: Koel; 1945: Diin Raat; 1946: Sbalmir; 1947: Paro; 1948: Chaman; 1949: Ek Thi Ladki; 1951: Dholak; Mukhda; 1953: Aag Ka Dariya; Ek Do Teen; 1955: Jalwa; 1961: Ek Ladki Saat Ladke; Aplam Chaplam; 1962: Main Shaadi Karne Chala; 1966: Akalmant; 1971: Ek Thi Rita/A Girl Named Rita.

SIMHA, H. L. N. (1904-72)

Kannada director; also well-known Kannada Company Natak actor and stage director. Worked in several theatre companies such as Bharata Manolasini Co. (Mysore) and Gubbi Veeranna's. Best stage work, including his own landmark play, Samsara Nauka, for Mohammed Peer's Chandrakala Nataka which he filmed twice, in Kannada (1936) and Tamil (1948). Started his own Select Artists in the mid 30s. Started in film as assistant to Belgian director Raphael Algoet's Veeranna-produced silent film, His Love Affair (1931). With theatre colleagues B. Puttaswamaiah and B.R. Panthulu, he abandoned the conventions of the mythological as practised by B.N. Sastry and the Gubbi Co., in favour of a more 'contemporary' approach, derived from the Amateur Dramatic Assoc.'s (Est: 1909) socials and historicals and from G.B. Shaw. In this respect, modernist Kannada cineastes paralleled the Marathi avant-garde of the 30s (see K. Narayan Kale). His films transposed his own plays and those of the Gubbi repertoire. Best-known: Bedara Kannappa, introducing Kannada superstar Rajkumar to the screen.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1936: Samsara Nauka; 1938: Muthal Mappillai; 1940: Tilottama; 1948: Samsara Nauka; 1953: Gunasagari/Sathya Shodhanai; 1954: Bedara Kannappa; 1955: Shiv Bhakta; 1959: Abba! A Hudgi; 1962: Tejaswini; 1971: Anugraha.

SINGH, DARA (B. 1928)

The best known of the B-grade stunt actors in the Master Vithal tradition. Born in

Dara Singh in Veer Bajrang (1966)

Dharmuchak near Amritsar, Punjab. Started as a professional wrestler and later self-proclaimed world champion in live bouts usually with masked foreign challengers. Babubhai Mistri's version of King Kong launched him in a stunt movie series often playing Tarzan. His early career extended the Mistri-Nanabhai Bhatt tradition of the Wadia Movietone and Prakash Pics stunt movie, in films like Samson and Shankar Khan. Set up his own Dara Films (1970) and turned to direction with a hit Punjabi devotional, Bhagat Dhanna Jat, made in the wake of Nanak Naam Jabaz Hai's 1969 success. Later work in quasi-mythologicals playing characters like Balram or Hanuman. Often worked with director Chandrakant. Obtained a substantial urban working-class and semi-urban following. His most famous recent role as Hanuman, the monkey god revered by traditional village wrestlers in North India, was in Sagar's television epic Ramayan. Also acted sentimental roles of the strong man with a tender heart in e.g. Anand, and the commando trainer in Karma. Kedar Kapoor paid tribute to the star with a feature called Dara Singh (1964). In the early 90s, promoted his son Vindoo in action films.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1954: Pebli Jhalak; 1962: King Kong; 1963: Awara Abdulla, Ek Tha Alibaba, Faulad, Rustom-e-Baghdad; King of Carnival; 1964: Aandhi Aur Toofan, Aaya Toofan, Badshah, Dara Singh, Hercules, Rustom-e-Rome, Samson, Veer Bhimsen; 1965: Bekhabar, Boxer, Hum Sub Ustad Hain; Khakaan; Lutera; Mahabharat; Raaka, Rustom-e-Hind, Saat Samandar Paar, Sangram, Sher Dil; Sikandar-e-Azam; Tarzan and King Kong; Tarzan Comes to Delhi; 1966: Dada, Daku Mangal Singh; Insaaf, Jawan Mard; Khoon Ka Khoon; Naujawan; Shankar Khan; Thakur Jarnail Singh; Veer Bajrang; Bahadur Daku; Husn Ka Gulam; 1967: Do Dushman; Nasihat; Sangdil; Sardar, Trip to the Moon; 1968: Balaram Shri Krishna; Jung Aur Aman; Thief of Baghdad; Watan Se Door; 1969: Apna Khoon Apna Dushman; Beqasoor; Chaalbaaz; Danka; Hum Ek Hain; Jaalsaaz; The Killers; Toofan; 1970: Anand; *Choron Ka Chor; Gunahon Ke Raaste, Mera Naam Joker; Ilzaam; Nanak Dukhiya Sab Sansar; 1971: Tulasi Vitab; Sher-e-Watan; Daku Mansingh; Kabhi Dhoop Kabhi Chhaon; Maya Bazaar; 1972: Dukh Bhanjan Tera Naam; Mele Mitran De; Lalkaar; Sultana Daku; Hari Darshan; Aankhon Aankhon Mein; 1973: *Mera Desh Mera Dharam; Phir Aya Toofan; The Criminals; 1974: *Kunwara Baap; Bhagat Dhanna Jat; Har Har Mahadev; Kisan Aur Bhagwan; Zehreela Insaan; Shaheed-e-Azam Sardar Bhagat Singh; 1975: Dharmatma; Dharam Karam; Warrant; 1976: *Alibaba; Bajrang Bali; Raakhi Aur Rifle; Sawa Lakh Se Ek Ladaun; 1977: Jai Mata Di; Bolo He Chakradhari; Ram Bharose; 1978: *Bhakti Mein Shakti/Dhyanoo Bhagat; Sone Ka Dil Lobe Ke Haath; Nalayak; 1979: Chambal Ki Rani; Banmanush; 1980: Shiv Shakti; Guru Suleman Chela Pabelwan; Kbel Muqaddar Ka; Lambadarni; 1982: *Rustom; Main Inteqam Loonga; 1983: *Aan Aur Shaan; Bhulekha; Unkhili Muttiar; 1984: Shrawan Kumar; 1985: Veer Bhimsen; Mard; Babul Da Vedha; 1986: Karma; Krishna Krishna; 1988: Mahaveera; Mardangi; Paanch Fauladi; Shiv Ganga; 1989: Elaan-e-Jung; Shehzade; Maut Ki Sazaa; 1990: Nakabandi; Triyatri; 1991: Ajooba; Dharam-Sankat; 1992: Prem Diwani; Main Hoon Sherni; 1993: Bechain; Anmol; 1994: Rakhwale; 1995: Ram Shashtra.

SINGH, M. A.

Manipuri director. Graduated from Shantiniketan University in Bengal; obtained FTII diploma (1973) and moved to Bombay. Worked for TV, then returned to Manipur and made newsreels and documentaries. Shot his first feature, Manipur's first colour film, on 16mm. Chairman of the Manipur Film Development Corporation. One incomplete film, Paikruchakrabadba, has been in the making for several years.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1983: Sanakeitbel. 1984: Langlen Thadoi.

SINGH, SHANKAR V. RAJENDRA (B. 1948)

Kannada director; also worked extensively in Telugu and Hindi. Born in Mysore, Karnataka. Son of director Shankar Singh, itinerant exhibitor with Mahatma and Nehru Talkies; owner of the influential Kannada company, Mahatma Pics, started with Kemparaj Urs in 1947. Rajendra Singh entered films as child actor in 50s in his father's Mahatma productions. Assisted Hunsur Krishnamurthy. Started Rohini Pics (1974), expanding it with a distribution wing (1976). Nagarhole is a children's thriller modelled on disaster movies. Best-known film, Antba, remade in Hindi as Meri Awaaz Suno, introduced a Kannada version of the Bachchan-type vigilante, with publicity slogans enjoining audiences to 'see it before it is banned'. Ganda Bherunda was strongly influenced by Mackenna's Gold (1968). His war film, Muthina Hara, had one of the biggest-ever Kannada film budgets.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1975: Naga Kanye; 1977: Nagarhole; 1978: Kiladi Jodi; 1980: 1981: Antba; Simhada Mari Sainiya; Bhari Bharjari Bete; Meri Awaaz Suno; 1984: Ganda Bherunda; Bandhana; Sharara; Mera Faisla; Aaj Ke Sholay; 1985: Ek Se Bhale Do; Prem Yuddhami Prem Yudh; Elam Singam; 1987: Thene Manasulu; 1990: Bannada Gejje; Muthina Hara; Prema Yuddham; 1993: Hoovu Hammu; 1994: Mahaksatriya; 1995: Kalyanotsava.

SINGH, SUCHET (?-1920)

Pioneer of the pre-studio era comparable to Dadasaheb Phalke and S.N. Patankar. Studied film-making in USA at Vitagraph. Returned to India (1917) and, with assistance from Haji Alla Rakhia (editor of the prominent Gujarati journal, Vismi Sadi), started Oriental Film (1919) in partnership between Abu Hasan (who later financed Irani), Chunilal Munim (later manager of Universal's Bombay office), Mangaldas Parekh and H.M. Mehta. Went back to USA (1919); returned with actress Dorothy Kingdom and cameraman Baron Van Rayvon (probably Hollywood cameraman Roy N. Vaughan). Died in a car crash. His unfinished productions were apparently finished by his assistant and actor, Kanjibhai Rathod.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1920: Shakuntala; Rama Or Maya; Mrichhakatik; Narasinh Mehta; Doctor Pagal (all S).

SINGH, SURINDER (B. 1945)

Punjabi director born in Jullunder. Obtained degrees in the arts (1965) and in English (1969), then graduated from the FTII (1973). Films often address questions of Punjabi ethnicity: Sachcha Mera Roop Hai Khalsa Mera Roop He, co-d by B.S. Shaad, dealt with the politically contentious concept of 'Khalsa', the term used by Guru Gobind Singh to define Sikhs as the chosen people and later inflected into a territorial Sikh nationalism, in a story where the heroine returns from abroad and learns about the history of her native Punjab. Other stories feature fratricidal conflicts within the Punjabi joint family, blood ties (in Dharti Sadi Maa two men are close friends until the wife of one is suspected of having an affair with the other) and feuds over agrarian property. His best-known film Marbi Da Deeva is based on a popular novel also adapted to the stage by Gurdial Singh (1964). Teaches at the FTII.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1976: Sachcha Mera Roop Hai; Dharti Sadi Ma; 1977: Saal Solvan Chadiya; 1979: Mutiyaar; 1982: Reshma; 1989: Marbi Da Deeva/Deep; 1992: Udikan Saun Diyan.

SINHA, MALA (B. 1936)

Hindi and Bengali star of Nepali origin born in Calcutta. Introduced in Bengali films by Pinaki Mukherjee, acting in his classic Dbuli. Made her Hindi debut in Kishore Sahu's Hamlet followed by Amiya Chakravarty's Badshah. Became one of the leading stars in 50s melodramas with a series of tragic roles often featuring marital discord. Played Guru Dutt's former girlfriend in Pyaasa, the single mother in Yash Chopra's Dhool Ka Phool and Ashok Kumar's estranged wife in B.R. Chopra's Gumrab. Her best-known performance was as the self-sacrificing Shobhana in Vijay Bhatt's Hariyali Aur Raasta; she also did his next film Himalay Ki God Mein. Acted in the hit Maryada with the rising star Rajesh Khanna, but then receded into supporting roles. Currently promoting her daughter Pratibha Sinha as a star.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1953: Jog Biyog; Shri Krishna Leela; Roshanara; 1954: Bhakta Bilwamangal; Dhuli; Chitrangada; Badshah; Hamlet; 1955: Ekdashi; Riyasat; 1956: Putrabadhu; Paisa Hi Paisa; Rangeen Raatein; 1957: Surer Parashey; Pritibhi Amar Chai; Louba Kapat; Aparadhi Kaun; Ek Gaon Ki Kahani; Fashion; Lal Batti; Nausherwan-e-Adil; Naya Zamana; Pyaasa; 1958: Bandhu; Lookochuri; Chandan; Detective; Devar Bhabhi; Ek Shola; Parvarish; Phir Subah Hogi; 1959: Chhabi; Khelaghar; Dhool Ka Phool; Duniya Na Mane; Jaalsaz; Love Marriage; Main Nashe Mein Hoon; Ujala; 1960: Shaharar Itikatha; Bewaqoof; Mitti Mein Sonar; Patang; 1961: Raibabadur; Sathi Hara; Dharmaputra; Maya; Subaag Sindoor; 1962: Aankh Micholi; Anpadh; Bombay Ka Chor; Dil Tera Diwana; Gyarab Hazaar Ladkiyan; Hariyali Aur Raasta; 1963: Bahurani; Gebra Daag; Gumrab; Phool Bane Angarey; 1964: Apne Huye Paraye; Jaban Ara; Main Suhagan Hoon; Pooja Ke Phool; Suhagan; 1965: Abhoya-o-Shrikanta; Babu Beti; Himalay Ki God Mein; 1966: Aasra; Babaren Phir Bhi Aayengi; Dillagi; 1967: Jaal; Jab Yaad Kisiki Aati Hai; Nai Rosbni; Night in London; 1968: Aankhen; Do Kaliyan; Humsaya; Mere Huzoor; 1969: Do Bhai; Paisa Ya Pyar; Pyar Ka Sapna; Tamanna; 1970: Geet; Holi Aayee Re; 1971: Chabat; Maryada; Kangan; Sanjog; 1972: Lalkaar; Rivaaj; 1973: Archana; Kabani Hum Sub Ki; Ricksbawala; 1974: Chhattis Ghante; Kora Badan; Phir Kab Milogi; 1975: Sunebra Sansar; 1976: Do Ladkiyan; Mazdoor Zindabad; Zindagi; 1977: Kabita; Prayashchit; 1978: Karmayogi; 1980: Berabem; Dhan Daulat; 1981: Harjaai; Yeh Rishta Na Toote; 1982: Nek Perveen; 1983: Babu; 1984: Aasmaan; 1985: Dil Tujhko Diya; 1992: Khel; Radha Ka Sangam; 1994: Zid.

SINHA, TAPAN (B. 1924)

Bengali director born in Calcutta. Studied in Bihar, where his family owned much land. Science graduate at Calcutta University (1945). Worked as sound engineer at New Theatres (1945-9) where he observed Nitin Bose and Bimal Roy. Did the sound for Satyen Bose's Paribartan (1949). Invited to the London Film Festival, he stayed and spent a few months at Pinewood Studios (1950-1). Committed to making mid-budget 'honest entertainment'. Worked in many genres including comedies and children's films. Best-known work is derived from literature: e.g. Tagore (Atitbi; Kabuliwala; Kshudista Pashan), Narayan Ganguly's story Sainik (Ankush), Sailajanaanda Mukherjee's Krishna (Upabar), Jarasandha (Louba-Kapat), Tarashankar Bandyopadhyay (Hansuli Banker Upakatha), Indramitra (Apanjan), Ramapada Choudhury (Kalamati; Ekhan), Samaresh Bose (Nirjan Saikate), Shankar (Ek Je Chhilo Desh), Sunil Ganguly (the children's film Sabuj Dwiper Raja). Jhinder Bandi adapted John Cromwell's The Prisoner of Zenda (1937). Films usually focus on literary rather than cinematic qualities. Occasionally made more expensive melodramas with major stars from Bengali (Uttam Kumar) or Hindi film (Ashok Kumar and Vijayanthimala in Hatey Bazarey; Dilip Kumar in Sagina Mahato). Introduced a brand of political cinema with Apanjan, later continued in Raja and Adalat-o-Ekti Meye, addressing the contemporary in the wake of the Naxalite uprising, revealing a greater sense of social critique when dealing with women's oppression. Raja and Adalat-o-Ekti Meye were accused by Provas Phadikar, West Bengal's Minister of Information & Cultural Affairs, of having incited political violence. Writes and scores many of his own films.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1954: Ankush; 1955: Upabar; 1956: Tonsik; Kabuliwala; 1957: Louba-Kapat; 1958: Kalamati; 1959: Kshaniker Atitbi; 1960: Kshudista Pashan; 1961: Jhinder Bandi; 1962: Hansuli Banker Upakatha; 1963: Nirjan Saikate; 1964: Jotugriha; Arobi; 1965: Atitbi; 1966: Galpa Holeo Satti; 1967: Hatey Bazarey; 1968: Apanjan; 1970: Sagina Mahato; 1971: Ekhan; 1972: Zindagi Zindagi; 1973: Andhar Periyee; 1974: Sagina; Raja; 1975: Harmonium; 1976: Ek Je Chhilo Desh; 1977: Safed Hath; 1979: Sabuj Dwiper Raja; 1980: Bancharamer Bagan; 1981: Adalat-o-Ekti Meye; 1983: Abhimanyu; 1984: Admi Aur Aurat; 1985: Baidurya Rahasya; 1986: Atanka; 1987: Aaj Ka Robin Hood; 1990: Ek Doctor Ki Maut; 1991: Antardhan; 1994: Wheelerkhai.

SIPPY, GOPALDAS PARMANAND (B. 1915)

Director born in Hyderabad (Sind). Jailed as a student for participation in the Independence Movement. Became a lawyer and ran a restaurant in Karachi. Moved to Bombay following Partition. Floated G.P. Prod. with Sazaa (1951). Also produced Amiya Chakravarty's Shabenshab (1953) and Raja Nene's Radha Krishna (1954). Started Sippy Films, now one of the biggest Hindi producers and distributors, with Marine Drive. Concentrated on production and distribution in the 60s; since the early 70s a leading industry representative involved in government policy. Produced blockbusters such as Sbolay (1975), Sbaan (1980) and Sagar (1985) by his son Ramesh Sippy, a major box-office director. The music of his film Bhai Baben was released under the title Blackmailer.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY (* also act): 1955: Marine Drive; Adl-e-Jehangir; 1956: Chandrakant; Shrimati 420; 1958: Light House; 1959: Bhai Baben; 1961: Mr India.

SIPPY, RAMESH (B. 1947)

Hindi director born in Karachi. Son of producer G.P. Sippy under whose banner he made most of his films. Graduated from Bombay University. Debut, Andaz, is a love story featuring Rajesh Khanna at the peak of his popularity, Hema Malini and Shammi Kapoor. Known for big-budget multi-starrers. One of the few accomplished genre directors in India, he made a remarkable sci-fi espionage thriller (Sbaan), a love story (Sagar) and virtually redefined the Hindi version of the western with Sbolay, a hit of legendary proportions. His regular scenarists, Salim-Javed (more recently only Javed), helped define his story patterns enhanced by carefully choreographed, technically accomplished action sequences: Sbolay's opening chase sequence, based on How the West Was Won (1962), was made with the technical assistance of the British technician Jim Allen, as were the helicopter shots of Sunil Dutt's kidnapping and murder in Shaan, shot in Somerset. Made the first major TV serial, Buniyaad, planned as a film drama shot on 16mm but deadlines forced him to shoot mainly on video.

Niloufer (left) and G.P. Sippy in his film Bhai Baben (1959)

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1971: Andaz; 1972: Seeta Aur Geeta; 1975: Sholay; 1980: Shaan; 1982: Shakti; 1985: Sagar; 1987-88: Buniyaad (TV); 1989: Bhrashtachar; 1991: Akela; 1995: Zamana Deewana.

SIVAN, PAPANASAM (1894-1973)

Tamil songwriter and composer. Originally called P.R. Ramaiyyer. Trained in music at the Maharaja's Sanskrit College, Trivandrum. Became known as a classical musician in the Carnatic style at the royal court, where he was also a disciple of the musicians Mahadeva Bhagavathar and Samba Bhagavathar. Lived as an itinerant singer of devotional songs. Taught music to the members of a drama company at Papanasam village, TN, also acting in some plays. Moved to Madras (1930) and published his first book of devotional lyrics (1934). Film debut for Prabhat Studio's Tamil film Seeta Kalyanam (1933) as songwriter and composer. Had a big impact, esp. through the films in which M.S. Subbulakshmi and G.N. Balasubramanyam sang his compositions, on the induction of the Carnatic style into film music (e.g. Seva Sadan, 1938; Shakuntalai, 1940). Best-known work for K. Subramanyam: e.g. music and lyrics for Seva Sadan, and major roles in Bhakta Kuchela (1936) and Thyagaboomi (1939). Also worked with Duncan, writing lyrics/music for Ambikapathy (1937) and Shakuntalai.

SOCIAL

See also Melodrama. The social is a loosely defined generic label for melodrama with a 20th C. setting, rehearsing a variety of 'social' issues. It overlaps with melodrama when these issues are elaborated in terms of family problems and sexuality. It also extends beyond melodrama by giving the social issues relating to tensions of modernisation a broader canvas than just the family. It would be possible to see the Social as an umbrella genre encompassing all stories with a 20th C. setting relying on an orchestration of affect at the expense of narrative propulsion. In this sense, the Social becomes a hegemonic genre absorbing melodrama. It is also possible to argue that the more a reformist story is treated cinematically, departing from the literariness of its model, the more melodramatic the result. In that sense, a Social is a film which is still insufficiently cinematic and a Melodrama would be a genuinely cinematic treatment of the issues addressed by reform literature. A narrower usage refers specifically to the films that emerged from the social reform movement initiated in British-controlled India towards the beginning of the 19th C. The reform movement in this sense was initiated by Christian missions (e.g. the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, the London Missionary Society, the Church Missionary Society, the Wesleyan Mission, the Free Church Mission of Scotland) when they established institutionalised education (later extended by the British government). The impact was notable particularly in Bengal, Maharashtra, AP and Malabar (North Kerala). Among the first to redefine this reformism in line with the requirements of an Indian middle class was Raja Rammohan Roy (1772-1833) who established the Brahmo Samaj (1828). His focus on the social oppression of women and the lower castes went together with his efforts to displace established religiosity by appealing to the Vedas and the Upanishads as embodying the 'real' tradition. The numerous texts of the movement, including journalism, archaeology and its privileged art form, the reform novel, repeatedly negotiate a 'traditional' idiom and symbology to find a way of representing modernity. Key novelists were the Bengali writers Bankimchandra Chatterjee, whose work, despite important differences, is extended by Rabindranath Tagore and the early 20th C. writers Bibhutibhushan and Tarashankar Bannerjee; the seminal Telugu playwright Gurzada Appa Rao (Kanyashulkam, 1892); the Malayalam writer O. Chandu Menon (Indulekha, 1889), the Marathi novelist Hari Narayan Apte and others. The form provided some of the key stereotypes for the early cinema: e.g. 'More than half of Saratchandra [Chatterjee]'s 20 novels and about as many short stories deal either centrally or partially with the situation of a widow' (Meenakshi Mukherjee, 1985). Elsewhere, e.g. in Karnataka, reformism produced key literary works (e.g. Masti Venkatesha Iyengar, K.V. Puttappa) formulating a cultural universalism within the nationalist-regionalist experience, a strategy later adopted in many films. From the silent era onwards, Socials based on classic novels sought to transfer literature's respectability to the cinema. At times (e.g. in Maharashtra), reform novelists were hired as scenarists (Narayan Hari Apte, V.S. Khandekar). Bhavnani persuaded the best-known 20th C. Hindi-Urdu novelist, Premchand, to write a film script: Mazdoor (1934).

SOUNDARARAJAN, S. (?-1966)

Tamil director and producer, born in Kottacheri, TN. Worked with the Cummaiah theatre group and started Tamil Nadu Talkies (1933), debuting as director with the mythological Lavakusa. Introduced through his films actors like Vasundhara Devi, Krishnakumari, Rama Shankar, Gummadi Venkateshwara Rao, the musician and director S. Balachander, etc. His first Telugu film, the hit Chenchulakshmi, is composer C.R. Subburaman's debut. Films included early colour experiments, e.g. Mobini Rugmangada used hand-tinting for a sequence; Miss Sundari is printed in sepia, advertised as Trucolor. Best-known film: Rajadrobi, featuring an autocratic diwan from a princely state, a thinly disguised reference to C.P. Ramaswamy Aiyer, Diwan of Travancore, who banned the film in his state, thus ensuring its success everywhere else. Directed the seminal Gubbi Veeranna Kannada stage adaption Hemareddy Malamma. Also credited with having set up the first processing lab in South India.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1934: Lavakusa; 1935: Gul-e-Bakavali; Mobini Rugmangada; 1936: Mahabharatam; 1937: Miss Sundari; 1938: Rajadrobi; 1940: Thirumangai Alwar; 1942: Bhakta Naradar; 1943: Chenchulakshmi; 1945: Hemareddy Malamma; 1950: Adrushta Deepudu; 1951: Navutte Navarathbruhu; 1952: Penn Manam.

SRIDEVI (B. 1960)

Major star mainly known until the mid-80s for Tamil and Telugu films, then for big-budget Hindi films. Started as a child actress aged 5 with Sivaji Ganesan (Kandan Karunai); also with MGR (Nam Naadu). Became a major star with Bharathirajaa's debut Patbinaru Vayathinile, its Hindi remake Solva Saawan being her first Hindi film. She had earlier featured with this film's two male leads Kamalahasan and Rajnikant in Moonndru Mudichu. Played in key NTR vigilante films (Vetagadu, Bobbili Puli) and opposite the Telugu star Krishna. Made Hindi B-movies with Dasari Narayana Rao, K. Raghavendra Rao and K. Bapaiah, including dubbed versions of her Telugu films. Broke through in Hindi with K. Raghavendra Rao's Himmatwala, and made several more films with its male lead Jeetendra. Shekhar Kapur's Mr India was her first solo success, her famous song in this film, Hawa hawaii, being quoted in Mira Nair's Salaam Bombay (1988). Of another song in Mr India Ravi Vasudevan writes: 'In the most sexual of her performances, [s]he is sensualised by the lovemaking of an invisible man. It could be argued that this empty space invites the insertion of the male spectator, [b]ut it is somehow still consistent with the narcissistic, auto-erotic regime of sexuality implied in the persona of this female star.' With her 'sequined dress and feathers look' (as choreographer Chinni Prakash put it) and inch-long false eyelashes, Sridevi is the latest in a line of buxom South Indian stars (Vijayanthimala, Rekha, Jayapradha). Nashilee Jauani was promoted as her first 'sex film'. Highest-paid actress in India (until she was displaced by Madhuri Dixit), and the main sales asset of one of India's most expensive films ever, Roop Ki Rani Choron Ka Raja.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1967: Kandan Karunai; 1969: Nam Naadu; Kumara Sambhavam; 1970: Swapnangal; Agni Pareeksha; Maa Nanna Nirdoshi; 1971: Poombatta; Bharya Biddalu; Naa Thammudu; Nenu Mamishine; Sbrimanthudu; 1972: Bala Bharatam; Kanimuthu Papa; Amma Mata; Raj Mahal; Badi Pantalu; Teerthayatra; 1973: Prarthana; Mallamma Katha; Marapurani Manishi; Bhakta Tukaram; 1974: Avalukku Nihar Avale; 1975: Anuragalu; Devudulanti Manishi; E Kalapu Pillalu; Yashoda Krishna; Julie; 1976: Moonndru Mudichu; Padavoyi Bharatheeyuda; Abhinandanam; Alinganam; Asbivadam; Kuttavum Sitshayam;

Thulavarsbam; 1977: Gayatri, Kavikuyil, Sainthadamma Sainthadu; Pathinaru Vayathimile; Bangarakambal, Vezbambal; A Nimisham; Amme Anupame, Angikaram; Antardhanam; Nalumani Pookkal; Nirai Kudam; Oonjal; Satyavan Savitbri; 1978: Priya, Ayiram Janmangal; Elaya Rani Rajalaksbmi; Ganga Yamuna Kaveri; Ithu Eppadi Irukku; Machanai Parthingala; Manitharil Ithanai Nirangala; Mudichooda Mannan; Pilot Premnath; Rajavukku Etha Rani; Sigappu Rojakkal; Taxi Driver; Vanakathukuria Kathaliye; Kannan Oru Kai Kuzhambhai; Radhai Ketra Kannan; Sakka Podu Podu Raja; Solva Sawan; Padabarella Vayasu; Avalude Ravikal; 1979: Sigappukkal Mookuthi; Dharma Yuddham; Kalyanaraman; Kavariman; Neela Malargal; Thayi Illamal Nanilla; Vetagadu; Buripalem Bullodu; Naan Oru Kai Parkiren; Lakshmi; Pagalil Oru Iravu; Arumbugal; Pattakathi Bhairavan; Karthika Deepam; Muddula Koduku; Samajaniki Saval; 1980: Guru, Johnny, Varumayin Niram Sigappu; Vishwa Roopam; Kaksha; Sardar Paparayudu; Sandhya; Bangaru Bhava; Prema Kanuka; Devudichina Koduku; Gharana Donga; Mama Allula Saval; Aatagadu; Adrushtavanthudu; Chuttalunnaru Jagratha; Rowdy Ramudu Konte Krishnudu; Ram Robert Rahim; Satyavandhudu; Gajadonga; Premabhisbekham; 1981: Balanagamma; Daiiva Thirumanangal; Meendum Kokila; Ranuva Veeran; Shankarlal; Bhoga Bhagyalu; Gadasari Attaba Sogasari Kodalu; Rani Kasularangamma; Akali Rajyam; Prema Simhasanam; Puli Bidda; Aggirava; Gharana Gangulu; Kondaveeti Simham; Guru Shishyulu; Illalu; Satyam Shivam; 1982: Moondram Pirai; Pookkari Raja; Thanikatu Raja; Vazhve Mayam; Bangaru Koduku; Devatha; Bangaru Kanuka; Bangaru Bhoomi; Anuraga Devatha; Krishnarajunulu; Vayyari Bhamulu Vagalamaru Bharthulu; Krishnavataram; Shamsber Shankar; Bobbili Puli; Justice Choudhury; Aadi Vishnulu; Kalavari Samsaram; Daiiviyin Thiruvilaiyada; Premabhisbekham; Prema Naksbatram; Thirisoolum; 1983: Adutha Varisu; Mundadugu; Adavi Simhalu; Muddula Mogudu; Urantha Sankranthi; Rama Rajyamlo Bbeemaraju; Kirai Kotigadu; Ramudu Kadu Krishnudu; Himmatuvala; Jaani Dost; Kalakaar; Mawaali; Sadma; Shri Ranganeethulu; Devi Sridevi; Lanke Bindelu; Simham Navindi; 1984: Akaimand; Amme Narayana; Aakbri Sangram; Jaag Utha Insaan; Maqsad; Naya Kadam; Tohfa; Zulm Ki Zanjeer; Inquilab; Tandava Krishnudu; Kodetharachu; Kanchu Kagada; 1985: Vajrayudham; Aaj Ka Dada; Balidan; Masterji; Sarfarosh; Pachani Kapuram; Santham Bheekaram; Josbilay; Aakbri Raasta; 1986: Karma; Aag Aur Shola; Bhagwan Dada; Dharam Adhikari; Ghar Sansar; Jadu Nagari; Jaambaaz; Nagina; Subagan; Sultanat; Naan Adimai Illai; Jayam Mande; Khaidi Rudraiah; 1987: Aulad; Himmat Aur Mehnat; Jawab Hum Denge; Majaal; Mr India; Nazrana; Watan Ke Rakhwale; 1988: Ram Avatar; Sberni; Waqt Ki Awaaz; Sone Pe Subhaaga; Aakbri Poratam; Halla Gulla; 1989: Gatr Kanooni; Guru; Main Tera Dushman; Nigaben; Chandni; Chaalbaaz; Mera Farz; 1990: Jagadeka Veerudu Atiloka Sundari; Nakabandi; Pattbar Ke Insaan; 1991: Kshana Kshanam; Lambe; Farishte; Asmaan Se Gira; Banjaran; 1992: Khuda Gawab; Laila Majnu; Roop Ki Rani Choron Ka Raja; Heer Ranjha; 1993: Gurudev; Gumrah; Chandramukhi; 1994: Gopikalyana; Govinda Govinda; S.P. Parashuram; Laadla; Chand Ka Tukda; 1995: Deva Ragam.

SRIDHAR, CHINGELPET V.

Major Tamil director of melodramas; also worked extensively in Telugu, Hindi and Kannada. Playwright while employed in a government office in his native Chingelpet. Became a scenarist after adapting his best-known play, Raktha Pasam, staged by the TKS Brothers, for R.S. Mani's film (1954). Scripted e.g. Ch. Narayanamurthy's Ethirparadathu (1954), T. Prakash Rao's Amara Deepam, Matbar Kula Manikam (both 1956; the latter based on Tagore's Nauka Dubi) and Uthama Putbran (1958). Partner in Venus Pics (1956). Directorial debut with Kalyana Parisu for the producers of Amara Deepam. It is a successful love triangle presenting a neurotic man as a tragic hero and starred Gemini Ganesh and B. Saroja Devi. For his own Chithralaya Pics (1961), he scripted and directed e.g. Nenfil Ore Alayam, a story about three people in a hospital enhanced by the popular songs of A.M. Raja and shot by A. Vincent. It was remade as Dil Ek Mandir, Rajendra Kumar playing a doctor who has to cure the terminally ill husband (Raj Kumar) of his former lover Meena Kumari. K. Hariharan suggests that Sridhar's type of 'intense emotional drama (was) confined to just two or three characters and with a strong emphasis on composition and gesture'. His best-known Hindi film, Pyar Kiye Jaa, adapting Kadalikka Neramillai, is a slapstick comedy featuring one of Mehmood's most famous performances. Briefly partnered cameraman and Malayalam director Vincent in business in the 60s; his early work often featured the composer duo Vishwanathan and Ramamurthy. Launched Jayalalitha (in Vennira Adai), Ravichandran, Muthuraman and Kanchana as lead characters.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1959: Kalyana Parisu; 1960: Meenda Sorgam; Pelli Kanuka; Vidiveli; 1961: Nazrana; Punarjanmam; Thennilavu; 1962: Nenfil Ore Alayam; Policekaran Magal; Sumaithangi; 1963: Dil Ek Mandir; Nenjam Marappathillai; 1964: Kadalikka Neramillai; Kalai Kovil; 1965: Vennira Adai; 1966: Kodimalar; Manase Mandiram; Pyar Kiye Jaa; 1967: Nai Rosbni; Nenjirukumvarai; Ootivarai Uravu; 1968: Saathi; 1969: Sivantha Mann; 1970: Dharti; 1971: Avalukendu Ore Manam; Duniya Kya Jaane; 1973: Alaigal; Gehri Chaal; 1974: Urimai Kural; 1975: Jagruthi; Lakshmi Nirdoshi; Ninagagi Namu; Vaira Nenjam; 1976: Oh Manju; 1977: Meenava Nanban; Seeta Geeta Datithe; 1978: Elamai Vunjaladugiradhu; Vayasu Pilichindi; 1979: Azhage Unnai Aradikiran; Urvashi Neenu Nanna Preyasi; Urvashi Nive Naa Preyasi; 1980: Hare Krishna Hello Radha; Sundarime Varuga Varuga; 1981: Mohana Ponnagai; 1982: Dil-e-Nadaan; Nenaiwellam Nithya; 1983: Oru Odai Nadhyagiradhu;

Thudikkum Karangal; 1984: Alaya Deepam; Prema Sangamam; Roudilaku Saval; 1985: Thendrale Ennai Thodu; Unnai Thedi Varuver; 1986: Nanum Oru Thozhilali; Yaro Ezhutbai Kavithai; 1987: Andarikante Ghanudu; Iniya Uravu Poothathu; 1988: Premayanam; 1991: Thanduwritten Ennai.

SRINIVASAN, M. B. (1925-88)

One of the more enigmatic figures in Malayalam, Tamil and Telugu film music. Born in Chittor, AP; nephew of the CPI leader M.R. Venkatraman and himself a CPI member and organiser of the trade union movement in the Tamil film industry together with director Nemai Ghosh. Both were key figures in the brief career of the Leftist Kumari Films. Its best-known film, Padhai Theryudu Paar, included the popular song written by Jayakantan and set to the xylophone, Thennan keetru oonjalile. His political allegiances hampered his Tamil career and he did his best-known work in Malayalam, initially for P. Subramanyam and K.S. Sethumadhavan, then for Adoor Gopalakrishnan (his use of the raga Chakravakam in Swayamvaram is a cinematic innovation). K.G. George (Adaminte Varyellu) and Lenin Rajendran (Swathi Thirunal). Best remembered for playing the lead in and scoring John Abraham's Agraharathil Kazhuthai, where he used the melancholic Carnatic raga Neelambari, a lullaby usually sung by women, in the cow-milking scene. Composed choral songs like Vanam namadhu thandai and Bharatha samudayam in Dhakam.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1960: Padhai Theryudu Paar; 1962: Sneha Deepam; Puthiya Akasam Puthiya Bhoomi; Kalpadukal; Kannum Karalum; Swargarajyam; 1963: Kaleyum Kaminiyum; 1964: Althara; Vivahabandham; 1966: Puthri; 1968: Kadal; Aparadhini; 1969: Nurse; 1970: Madhuvidhu; 1971: Vidiyarthikale Itthile Itthile; Vimochana Samaram; 1972: Dhakam; Ini Oru Janmam Tharu; Swayamvaram; 1974: Kanyakumari; Uttarayanam (with Raghavan); Pathiravum Pakalvelichavum; Svarna Vigramam; 1975: Eduppar Kayi Pillai; Puthu Vellam; Prayanam; 1976: Sivathandavam; Voorummadi Brathukulu; Madana Malligai; 1977: Agraharathil Kazhuthai (also act); 1978: Onappudava; Bandhanam; Thrasam; 1979: Edavazhiyile Pucha Mindappucha; Ulkadai; 1980: Greeshamam; Kolangal; Oppol; Kala Thappitha Payilu; Mela; Vilkannudu Swapnangal; 1981: Elippathayam; Valaribu Mrugangal; Ilakkangal; Arathi; Manasinte Teertha Yatra; Venak; Vida Parayum Munpe; 1982: Yavanika; Idavela; Layam; Varikkuzhi; 1983: Adaminte Varyellu; Akkare; Evedayo Oru Sathu; Kathi; Lekhayude Maranam Oru Flashback; Omana Thingal; Parasparam; Prem Nazirine Kanmanilla; Rachana; Rukma; Sagaram Shantham; Oru Swakariam; 1984: Mukha Mukham; Oru Kochu Swapnam; Panchavadippalam; Thathamme Poocha Poocha; 1985: Ayanam; Irakal; Kilippattu; Meenamasthile Sooryan; 1987: Purushartham; Swathi Thirunal; Manivathoorile Ayiram Sivarathrikal; Anantaram; 1988: Mattoral.

SRIRANJANI (JUNIOR) (1927-74)

Telugu and Tamil actress; younger sister of Sriranjani (Senior). Born in Narasaraopet, AP. Known mainly for her roles as the long-suffering wife. In her Tamil film Parasakti she epitomises the male ideal of virtuous Hindu womanhood. Joined films in Telugu with L.V. Prasad's Gribapravesham as Lalita, the ill-reputed girlfriend of C.S.R. Anjaneyulu. Acted in films by K. Kameshwara Rao, K.V. Reddy and P.S. Ramakrishna Rao. Played the blind girl in the City Lights (1931) remake Raji En Kammani. Retired from films in 1960, returning to play a few guest roles, usually of elderly mother-figures, after 1969.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1944: Bhishma; 1946: Gribapravesham; 1947: Gollabbama; 1948: Madalasa; 1949: Gunsundari Katha; Laila Majnu; Brabma Raibam; 1950: Vali Sugriva; 1951: Mantradandam; 1952: Prema/Kathal; Aadabrabhuku; Manavati; Rajeswari; Sankranti; Parasakti; 1953: Bratuku Theruvu; Chandrabaram; 1954: Pedda Manasulu; Raji En Kammani/Raji Naa Pranam; Amara Sandesham; 1955: Santhanam; 1956: Shri Gauri Mahatyam; 1957: Swayamprabha; Premiada Putri/Preme Daivam/Anbe Daivam; Vaddante Pelli; 1958: Shri Ramanjaneya Yuddham; 1959: Bhakta Ambarish; Ore Vazhi; 1960: Tbilakam; Mahakavi Kalidasa; 1962: Shri Krishnarajuna Yuddham; 1965: Bangaru Panjaram; 1969: Bhale Tammodu; 1973: Bangaru Manushulu; Jeevama Tarangulu; Bhakta Tukaram; Snehabandham; Vishali; Pookkari; 1974: Kode Naagu; Inti Kodatu.

SRIRANJANI (SENIOR) (1906-39)

Actress known as 'Senior' to distinguish her from her younger sister, the Telugu and Tamil star Sriranjani (Junior). Born in Narasaraopet taluk, AP. A major singing star of the 30s; became known through her record albums and audio releases of plays by the Gramophone Company of India. Stage actress (often playing male roles, e.g. Abhimanyu, Satyavan, Krishna) in Krishna Vilas Nataka Samajam-produced mythologicals. Debuted in C. Pullaiah's Lavakusa. Thereafter with Vel Pics in Shri Krishna Leelalu and Maya Bazaar. She died 4 years later from cancer.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1934: Lavakusa; 1935: Shri Krishna Leelalu; Nala Damayanti; 1936: Maya Bazaar; Sati Tulasi; 1937: Sarangadhara; 1938: Chitranaliam; 1939: Varavikrayam.

SRI SRI (1910-83)

Telugu lyricist for over 150 films. Originally called Srirangam Srinivasa Rao; born in Vishakapatnam, AP. Major radical Telugu poet (e.g. Prabhava) and novelist (e.g. Veerasimba Vijayasimbulu). Introduced free verse into his socially concerned poetry (Maha Prasthanam). Known for the original songs for Abuthi (1950), a Telugu dubbed version of Junnarkar's Neera Aur Nanda (1946). Some of the songs, Hamsavale o padava, Oogisaladenayya, Premaye janana marana leela, scored by Saluri Rajeshwara Rao, were major hits. Also did some strident songs like Padavoyi bharatiyudu in Velugu Needalu (1961). Biography and compilation of his writings by Chalasani Prasad (1990).

STAGE BACKDROPS

One of the earliest recorded uses of stage backdrops in the popular theatre was Vishnudas Bhave's Marathi play Seeta Swayamvar (1853). The practice derived from the Sanskrit theatre where a mobile curtain called the yavanika or pati would be held by two men to modulate acting spaces: to mark different styles of entry of the gods and rakshasas (demons), to introduce the sutradhara (chorus) and vidushaka (jester-commentator), the women's sanctum, etc. This device remains in use in Kathakali and related performance modes. The form developed in the Parsee theatre as a means of giving spectacular dimensions to the proceedings. Haji Abdullah's Sakhawat Khodadost Badsbah, staged by the Indian Imperial Co., used 14 curtains. The Zoroastrian Club's famous backdrop for Badshah Ustaspa showed the angel Zarathustra with a ball of fire in his hands. Initially the curtains in the Parsee theatre were painted by Europeans (Italians, in particular), later by painters trained in Indian art schools. Some of the well-known artists incl. the German Kraus, Italians Ceroni and Rua, and Indian artists Pestonjee Madan, Ganpat, Bala and Dinshaw Irani. The scenes depicted became increasingly elaborate showing streets, gardens, industrial and urban locations. In the Lalitkaladarsh production of Mama Wärerkar's Satteche Gulam (1922), the painter P.S. Kale took the next logical step and duplicated a photograph of a Bombay street intersection on to the backdrop. Baburao Painter and his brother Anand Rao were among the most famous backdrop painters in Western India. The back curtain had a double function: it presented a locale to match the one evoked in the fiction through dialogue and song, but it also provided a fantasy space beyond the physical, contiguous acting space on the stage where actors would constitute realistic tableaux. Both functions were crucial to early Indian cinema from Phalke and Hiralal Sen onwards. The pictorial paradoxes potentially set up by the relations between the backdrop space and the stage space helped determine the concept of the shot in early fiction films. The technique of spatial juxtaposition to ground the narrative in effect substituted spatial contiguity for temporal continuity, relaying the viewer's gaze from one spatially fixed tableau to another.

SUBBAIAH NAIDU M V (1896-1962)

Kannada actor-singer, best known for heroic roles in Company Natak. Started as child actor in Bailatta folk theatre. Played female roles in the Seeta Manohar Natak and worked with Simha in the Manolasini Co.; eventually joined Veeranna's troupe (1925) where he achieved stardom. With R. Nagendra Rao, he staged Bhakta Ambarisha, Bhukailasa and Yachbhamanayika (all were later filmed), introducing cinematic techniques to the Kannada stage and thus to early Kannada cinema: elaborate scene changes and backdrops, stage dimmers, spotlights, cycloramas and trick scenes such as the severing of Ravana's head in Bhukailasa. Naidu established the pattern for the heroic look in his incarnation of Indrajit in the first Kannada talkie, Y.V. Rao's Sati Sulochana, and as Charudatta in Vasantsena. Also composed the music for Bettada Kalla (1957).

✦ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1931: His Love Affair (St); 1934: Sati Sulochana; 1940: Bhukailasa; 1941: Vasantsena; 1943: Satya Harishchandra; 1947: Mabatma Kabir; 1958: Bhakta Prahlada.*

SUBBA RAO ADURTHI (1921-75)

Mainstream Telugu director born in Rajamundhri, AP. Still photographer; assistant cameraman in Vijay Bhatt's Prakash Studio (Bombay), editor (including parts of Uday Shankar's Kalpana, 1948), occasional lyricist (Okaraju Raju, 1944; Mangalsutram, 1946) and assistant to T. Prakash Rao. Also worked for Radha Films, Calcutta (1937). Best-known films at Annapurna provided art-house variation on melodrama, backed by Telugu megastar A. Nageshwara Rao. Early work acclaimed for its heightened realism (e.g. the bullock-cart race in Namminabantu). The experimental aspect, which in e.g. Thene Manasulu simply meant working with new faces such as the future star Krishna, became a strategy when Subba Rao combined with Nageshwara Rao to found Chakravarthi Chitra (Sudigundalu). Its commercial failure and that of Maro Prapancham, the company's only other film, ended their experimental aspirations. Hindi debut Milan remade Moogamanasulu with Sunil Dutt and Nutan. Made several Hindi and Tamil films.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1954: Amara Sandesham; 1957: Thodi Kodallu; 1958: Aadapettanam; 1959: Mangalya Balam/Manjal Magimai; Engal Kula Davi; 1960: Namminabantu/Pattayilin Vetri; 1961: Velugu Needalu/Thooya Ullam; Krishna Prema; Idlaru Mithrulu; Kumudam; 1962: Manchi Manasulu/Penn Manam; 1963: Chaduvukonna Anmayilu; Mamakaram; Kattu Raja; Neenkada Ninaivu; Moogamanasulu; 1964: Thayin Madiyil; Dr Chakravarthi; Dagudu Moothalu; 1965: Sumangali; Thene Manasulu; Todu Needa; 1966: Kanne Manasulu; 1967: Poolarangadu; Milan; Sudigundalu; 1968: Man Ka Meet; 1969: Doli; 1970: Darpan; Mastana; Maro Prapancham; 1971: Rakhwala; 1972: Jeet; Vichitra Bandham; 1973: Mayadari Malligadu; Insaaf; Jwar Bhatta; 1974: Bangaru Kalalu; 1975: Gunavanthudu; Gajula Kishtayya; Sunebra Sansar; 1976: Mahakavi Kshetrayya.

SUBBURAMAN C R (1921-52)

Telugu composer and singer born in Chintamani, Tirunel Dist., AP. Employed as harmonium accompanist and later composer at HMV, Madras, where he worked until 1945. Performed occasionally in film orchestras. First film as composer is Chenchulakshmi, after S. Rajeswara Rao and R.N. Chinniah had already worked on the film. His contribution is a major departure from established norms in its use of Latin American rhythms in the title music and for a tribal dance sequence. His first full assignment is for Ratnamala at the Bharani Studios, becoming a top Telugu film composer with the success of Laila Majnu. Regular composer for the Jupiter Studio. Established Vinoda Pics. (1950) in partnership with the writer Samudrala Raghavacharya and the director Vedantam Raghavaiah. The group made one of the most memorable musicals of the 50s, Devadasu, dedicated to him and released shortly after Subburaman died. Music historian V.A.K. Ranga Rao describes his compositions with M.L. Vasanthakumari in Tamil and with R. Balasaraswathi in Telugu as the norm for the 1943-53 period when playback was coming into South Indian film. Also occasionally sang in films, e.g. in N.S. Krishnan's Manamagal/Pelli Koothuru (1951). Composed Lavangi with Bulu C. Rani under the name C.S. Ram.

◆ FILMOGRAPHY: 1943: Chenchulakshmi; 1947: Ratnamala; 1948: Abhimanyu, Mohini; 1949: Laila Majnu; Kanniyin Kaibali; Nallathambi; Pavalakkodi; Ratnakumar; Velaikkari; 1950: Parijatham; Swapna Sundari; Vijayakumari; Lavangi; 1951: Roopavati; Marmayogi/Ek Tba Raja; Manamagal/Pelli Koothuru; 1952: Dharma-devata; Shanti; Prema; Daasi; 1953: Ammalakkalu/Marumagal; Chandirani; Devadasu; 1954: Sorgavasal.

SUBRAMANYAM, KRISHNASWAMY (1904-71)

Tamil director, scenarist and producer; key figure in the establishment of a Madras-based Tamil film industry. Born in Papanasam, TN. Started film career as scenarist and producer at R. Padmanabhan's Associated Films, working e.g. on Raja Sandow's silent film Peyum Pennum/The Devil and the Damsel (1930). Then started Meenakshi Cinetone with Alagappa Chettiar, directing his first film, Pavalakkodi, the film debut of the legendary stage star M.K. Thyagaraja Bhagavathar. Early work derived mainly from Tamil stage conventions. He made a remarkable shift with the politically emphatic Balayogini, attacking the caste system. His best-known work, displaying a stridently nationalistic reformism, is contemporaneous with V. Shantaram's and B.N. Reddi's melodramas and culminates in Thyagabhoomi. Other classics in the genre are Seva Sadan, advocating a better deal for women, the Saint film Bhakta Cheta, critiquing Untouchability, and the war-effort film Manasamrakshanam. Established Madras United Artists (1935) with S.D. Subbulakshmi, but shot his films (Naveena Sadarame, Balayogini, Mr Ammanji) at East India Films in Calcutta. Expanded his company into the Motion Picture Producers Combines Studio, which later became Gemini when S.S. Vasan bought it. Made some Kannada mythologicals 1942-3 (Bhakta Prahlada, Krishna Sudama) and 1955-6 (Stree Ratna and Kacha Devayani). Some accounts suggest he supervised the direction of Andaman Kaitbi (1952). Participated in the setting up of the South Indian Film Chamber of Commerce, the South Indian Artists Association and the Film Producers Guild of South India. Produced documentaries for Information Films of India, and was an adviser on Indian affairs for UNESCO's International Film and Television Committee in the 50s. Ironically, the credit due to Subramanyam for establishing the political link between cinematic and institutional reformism was later claimed by the commercially populist Vasan at Gemini and by the political populism of the DMK Film which inflected the reformist conventions into their own very different programmes. His son, Subramanyam Krishnaswamy, wrote, with Eric Barnouw, the classic book, Indian Film (1963, updated 1980). May have directed a Sinhalese film, Kapatrika Rakshakayam.

◆ FILMOGRAPHY: 1934: Pavalakkodi; 1935: Naveena Sadarame, Naveena Sarangadbara; 1936: Balayogini; Bhakta Kuchela; Usba Kalyanam; 1937: Kausalya Parinayam; Mr Ammanji; 1938: Seva Sadan; 1939: Thyagabhoomi; 1940: Mani Mekalai; Bhakta Cheta; 1941: Prabhadan; Kacha Devayani; 1942: Bhakta Prahlada; Ananthasayanam; 1943: Krishna Sudama; 1944: Bhartrahari; Manasamrakshanam; 1946: Vikatakavi; 1947: Vichitra Vanitha; 1948: Gokula Dasi; 1949: Geetha Gandbi; 1955: Stree Ratna; 1956: Kacha Devayani; 1959: Pandithevan.

SUBRAMANYAM, P. (1910-78)

Malayalam director and producer born in Nagercoil, TN. Owner of Merryland Studio, Ernakulam (Est: 1951), the second studio in Kerala after Kunchako's Udaya and a major influence in the establishment of Kerala's Malayalam film industry. Started as exhibitor with the first permanent sound cinema in Kerala, the New Theatres in Trivandrum. A large part of his own films, produced with the studio-affiliated Neela Pics, were mid-budget melodramas often based on Kanam and Mutattu Varkey's stories. Made Randidangazbi, a rare script by Malayalam novelist Thakazhy Shivashankar Pillai. His mythologicals had bigger budgets and often dealt with religious cults surrounding the temples of Guruvayoor and Sabarimalai. Some of them featured Tamil star Gemini Ganesh (e.g. Kumara Sambhavam). Not to be confused with a 1970s Telugu director of the same name.

◆ FILMOGRAPHY: 1956: Manthravadi; 1957: Padatha Paingili; Jailpully; 1958: Mariakutty; Randidangazbi; 1959: Yanai Valartha Vanampadi; 1960: Petravai Kanda Peru Vazhuvu; Poothali; 1961: Christmas Rathri; Bhakta Kuchela; Yar Manamagam; 1962: Shri Rama Pattabhishekkam; Sneha Deepam; 1963: Snapakaya Yohannan; Kaleyum Kaminiyum; 1964: Atom Bomb; Althara; 1965: Kaliyodam; Pattu Thoovala; 1966: Puttri; Kattumallika; Kattu Malligai; Priyatama; 1968: Kadal; Hotel Highrange; Adhyapika; 1969: Urangatha Sundari; Kumara Sambhavam; 1970: Swapnangal; 1971: Kochaniyathi; Yanai Valartha Vanampadi Magam; Adavi Veerulu; 1972: Professor; Shri Guruvayoorappan; 1973: Hum Jungli Hain; Malai Nattu Manga; Kaadu (Mal); Suvaragaputtri; 1974: Vandikkari; Deri Kanyakumari; 1975: Sucami Ayyappan; 1976: Amba Ambika Ambalika; Hridayam Oru Kshetram; 1977: Shri Murugan; Viduranna Mottugal; Roudy Rajamma; 1979: Hridayathinte Nirangal.

SUHASINI (B. 1961)

South Indian actress born in Parnakudi, TN. Daughter of actor Charulhasan and niece of the

Prathap Pothan and Suhasini in Nenjathai Killathay (1980)

Tamil star Kamalhasan. Known for performances in Malayalam, Telugu and Kannada films. Trained as a cinematographer at the Madras Film Institute. Assistant to J. Mahendran, who introduced her as an actress (Nenjathai Killathbey). Often cast in 'positive' female roles (e.g. Swati, Lawyer Subasini) developing a mature performance style best used in her Malayalam films (e.g. K.G. George's Adaminte Varyellu, Padmarajan's Koodevide?). Best known Tamil film is K. Balachander's Sindhu Bhairavi. Directed the TV series Penn, and made the nationalist Indira, scripted by her husband Mani Rathnam.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1980: Nenjathai Killathbey, Kotba Jeevitbulu; 1981: Palaivana Solai, Kudumbam Oru Kadambam, Madhumalar; 1982: Kalyana Kalam, Lottery Ticket, Manchu Pallaki, Marumagaley Varuga, Nandri Meendum Varuga, Thottalsudum, Gopurungal Saivatbillai, Azhagiya Kanney, Agaya Gangai, Manishiku Charithra; 1983: Benki Alli Aralida Hoovu, Koodevide?, Maa Intiki Randi, Maha Maharaju, Mukku Pudaka; Oru Indhiya Kanavu; Thayi Veedu, Uruvavugal Maralam, Veetile Raman Velieyele Krishnan, Shubba Muburtam (Tam); Adaminte Varyellu; Pudhiya Sangamam, Muddula Mogudu; 1984: Illalu Priyuralu, Aromariyathe, Adbiko Alladiko, Aksarangal, Aparadhi, Bandhana, Challenge; Gudigantalu Mrogayi, Mangammagari Manavudu, Nirdosbi, Santhanam, Swati; Thathamme Poocha Poocha, Unni Vanna Divasam, Bata Maradallu, Intiguttu, Justice Chakravarthy, Ente Upasana; 1985: Bullet, Sindhu Bhairavi; Kirathakudu, Kongumudi, Mangalya Bandham, Jackie, Shiksha, Mugguru Mithrulu, Muddula Manavaralu, Brahma Mudi, Dampatyam, Maharaju, Sagar (Te); Katha Ithuvare, Mazhakkala Megham, Hosa Neeru; 1986: Patnam Pilla Palleteori, Mr Bharat, Karpura Deepam, Sirivennela, Usba; 1987: Lawyer Subasini, Arabhana, Thene Manasulu, Punya Dampatbulu, Presidentgari Abbayi, Brahma Nayudu, Sardar Krishnama Nayudu, Gauthami, Manivatboorile Ayiram Sivarathrikal, Ezbutapapurangal, Samsaram Oka Chadarangam, Manadhil Urudhi Vendbum, Manchi Donga; 1988: Chuttalabbai, Chattamto Chadarangam, En Bommu Kutti Ammavukku, Bharya Bartulu, Marana Mridangam, Suprabhata, Dharmathin Thalavani, Ramudu Bheemudu, Oru Sayabnatbinte Swapnam, Oobakachavadam; 1989: En Purushanthan Enakkum Mattumthan, Bala Gopaludu, Mamatala Kovele; 1990: Mutbina Hara; 1993: Radbasarathi; 1994: Shubhalagnam; 1995: Indira (only d.).

SUKHDEV SINGH SANDHU (1933-79)

India's leading Griersonian documentarist. Born in Dehra Dun; son of a Sikh farmer from Ludhiana. Educated in Bombay. Assistant to the German émigré cineaste Paul Zils (1955). Directorial début with film on handmade paper industry produced by Zils. When Zils left India, set up own company, United Film Arts (1958). First major work: And Miles To Go... (though censors imposed a hectoring soundtrack). Worked mostly for Films Division where he made several industrial and instructional films. Best-known film, India 67 (released as An Indian Day, later shortened and released as India Today), used documentary montage technique and rhythmic association of images. Also mixed documentary with enacted footage, casting himself (e.g. No Sad Tomorrow) and his family (After the Eclipse). Intense sympathiser with the Mukti Bahini's Bangladeshi independence struggle. Extended the Griersonian aesthetic with a combination of highly stylised yet bluntly propagandistic movies (e.g. Nine Months To Freedom). Made one feature, starring Shashi Kapoor and Sharmila Tagore: My Love, shot in Kenya. Major propagandist for Indira Gandhi's Emergency rule. Suffered from alcoholism and died of a heart attack in Delhi. His last film, Shaira, a documentary on Meena Kumari, was finished by S.S. Gulzar. Published work includes talks on documentary practice as well as poems in English and in Urdu. Acted in Abbas's Saat Hindustani (1969), in a Punjabi feature by Dara Singh and in Merchant-Ivory's Bombay Talkie (1970). Left an unfinished film, Four Directors, with footage of Kurosawa, Antonioni, Kazan and S. Ray at the Delhi Film Festival (1977). A friend and colleague, Jag Mohan, published a commemorative monograph on Sukhdev (1984).

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1958: Wazir the Kazbgi; 1960: The Saint and the Peasant; 1961: The Evolution and Races of Man; 1962: Man the Creator, Castor; 1964: After the Eclipse, Frontiers of Freedom; 1965: And Miles To Go...; Kal Udaas Na Hogi/No Sad Tomorrow; 1967: India 67; Homage to Lal Bahadur Shastri; 1968: Thoughts in a Museum; 1970: Tomorrow may be Too Late, Kathak, My Love; 1971: A Village Smiles, Khilonewala; 1972: Nine Months to Freedom: The Story of Bangladesh; 1973: Co-operation is Success, You Must Be Your Own Policemen; Science-4; 1974: Behind the Breadline; Violence: What Price? Who Pays? No. 4; Wild Life Sanctuaries of India, Voice of the People, A Few More Questions; 1975: For a Happier Tomorrow, The Food Front; Maa Ki Pukar; 1976: Thunder of Freedom; 1977: After the Silence, New World of Power; 1978: Maha Kumbh; 1980: Shaira.

SULOCHANA (1907-83)

Born in Pune as Ruby Myers, one of the many Eurasian actresses to become silent stars (cf. Seeta Devi, Patience Cooper and Ermeline). A former telephone operator (1925), she became a star under Bhavani's direction at Kohinoor. Reputedly the highest-paid star in the film industry at Imperial. She was billed as the Queen of Romance or the Jungle Queen in DeMille-type costume epics, often co-starring with D. Bilimoria under her favourite director, R.S. Choudhury. A fair portion of Imperial's sound films were remakes of their silent Sulochana hits. e.g. Anarkali (1928 and 1935), Indira BA (1929, remade as Indira MA in 1934), Wildcat of Bombay (1927, remade as Bambai Ki Billi in 1936), Khwab-e-Hasti/Magic Flute (1929 and 1934) and Madhuri (1928 and 1932). In Wildcat of Bombay, she played eight roles including a gardener, a policeman, a Hyderabad gentleman, a street urchin, a banana seller and a European blonde. Also known for costumed period movies, e.g. Alibaba and her favourite role of Anarkali. Jaswantal pays tribute to her association with the Anarkali figure in his 1953 version of the legend (where he casts her as Salim's mother). Started her own Rubi Pics in the mid-30s, continuing production after she retired as actress. From the 60s, she had to accept cameo roles in Hindi films. Ismail Merchant's short, Mahatma and the Mad Boy (1974), contains a passing tribute to her.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1925: Veer Bala; Cinema Ni Rani; 1926: Telephone Ni Taruni; Pagal Premi; Mumtaz Mahal; Ra Kawat; Samrat Shiladitya; Typist Girl; Bhamto Bhoot; 1927: Alibaba and the Forty Thieves; Naseeb Ni Lili; Balidan; Gutter Nu Gulab; Daya Ni Devi; Gamdeni Gori; Wildcat of Bombay; 1928: Anarkali; Madhuri; Rajrang; 1929: Heer Ranjha; Indira; Mewad Nu Moti; Khwab-e-Hasti; Punjab Mail; Talwar Ka Dhani; 1930: Hamarun Hindustan; Raat Ki Baat; 1931: Rani Rupmati; Noor-e-Alam; Khuda Ki Shaan (all St); 1932: Madhuri; 1933: Daku Ki Ladki; Saubhagya Sundari; Sulochana; 1934: Gul Sanobar; Indira MA; Khwab-e-Hasti; Piya Pyare; Devaki; 1935: Anarkali; Do Ghadi Ki Mauj; Pujarini; 1936: Bambai Ki Billi; Jungle Queen; Shaan-e-Hind; 1937: Jagat Kesari; New Searchlight; Wab Ri Duniya; 1939: Prem Ki Jyot; 1942: Aankh Micholi; 1946: Chamakti Bijli; 1947: Jugnu; 1949: Shayar; 1952: Apni Izzat; 1953: Anarkali; 1954: Sultanat; 1957: Lal Batti; 1959: Anari; 1960: Kadu Makrani; Dil Apna Aur Preet Parayi; 1962: Son of India; 1963: Soorat Aur Seerat; Akeli Mat Jaiyo; 1964: Haqeeqat; 1973: Honeymoon; 1975: Julie; 1977: Khatta Meetha; 1978: Akhiyon Ke Jharokhon Se; 1979: Salaam Memsaab.

SULTANPURI, MAJROOH (B. 1924)

Prolific Hindi-Urdu songwriter originally called Asrar Hussain Khan; born in Sultanpur, UP, the son of a police constable. Studied Persian at Aligarh; moved to Bombay to practise his poetry. His early and best-known independent poetry, inspired by Jigar Muradabadi, is in the ghazal form, and was criticised by writers associated with the PWA for its feudal decadence. Film début with Kardar's Shabjehan (1946), which included Saigal's classic song Jab dil hi toot gaya. Early hits: e.g. Andaz (1949) and songs for Shammi Kapoor (Miss Coca Cola, 1955; Tumsa Nabin Dekha, 1957). Worked at Filmistan and for many Dev Anand films (Paying Guest, 1957; Kala Pani, 1958; Bambai Ka Babu, 1960) and with Guru Dutt (Aar Paar, 1954; Mr and Mrs 55, 1955). Wrote songs for CID (1956). His songs are often set to music by O.P. Nayyar or S.D. Burman. Also worked with Bimal Roy (Sujata, 1959). Moved to successful pop lyrics like Aja aja in Teesri

Manzil (1966), in Yaadon Ki Baraat (1973) and in Qayamat Se Qayamat Tak (1988).

SUNDARAM, TIRUCHENGODU RAMALINGA (1907-63)

Tamil director and producer born in Tiruchengode, TN. Studied textile engineering at Leeds University. Worked at Angel Films (1933), later taking it over to start the Modern Theatres Studio (1937) in Salem. Apparently produced 98 films, including work by Duncan, M.V. Raman, M.L. Tandon, K. Ramnoth and T.R. Raghunath. Established a professional film industry and studio system for the first time in South India, and along with Duncan, some of the most influential conventions of dramatic narrative in Tamil, all of which was to form an important predecessor to the Gemini studio set up a decade later. Imported foreign technicians for his debut, Sati Abalya, made in two versions, one for Modern Theatres and one for Chandra Bharathi Cinetone. Produced the first Malayalam sound film, Balan (1938) as well as the first partly coloured films in Tamil (Alibabavum Narpathu Thirudargalum) and in Malayalam (Kandam Becha Coat). Worked in several genres, most notably the swashbuckling adventure movies of P.U. Chinnappa (e.g. Uthama Puthran, adapting Dumas's The Man in the Iron Mask) that later developed into the MGR filmic and political signature: e.g. the Karunanidhi scripts Mantbiri Kumari, Sarvadhikari, and the Alibaba film Alibabavum Narpathu Thirudargalum. Also adapted Tamil epics (Manonmani, Valayapatbi) and made the war movie Burma Rani.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1937: Sati Abalya, Padma Jyothi; 1938: Thayumanavar; 1939: Manikavasagar; 1940: Haribara Maya, Rajayogam; Uthama Puthran; Vikrama Urvashi; 1942: Manonmani, Sati Sukanya; 1943: Diwan Bahadur; 1944: Burma Rani; Kalikala Minor; Palli Natakam; Soora Pulii; Chow Chow; 1945: Subhadra; 1946: Sulochana; 1947: 1000 Thalavangi Apoorva Chintamani; 1948: Adinathan Kanavu, Abimsa Yuddham (Doc); 1949: Mayavathi; 1950: Digambara Swamiyar, Mantbiri Kumari; Maya Rambha/Maya Rambai; 1951: Sarvadhikari; 1952: Valayapatbi; Savithri Poru; 1953: Mangala Gauri; Thirumbi Paar; 1955: Alibabavum Narpathu Thirudargalum; 1959: Thalai Koduthan Thambi; 1960: Baghdad Thirudan/Baghdad; 1961: Kandam Becha Coat.

Sundarajan, S. see Soundararajan, S.

SURABHI THEATRES

Popular 19th C. theatre tradition in AP with a fundamental impact on early Telugu cinema, passing on its definition of the mythological and supplying a large number of its actor-singers. The name came from the large family that pioneered this industry: a family of Maharashtrian warriors which fought on the side of the British in the 1857 mutiny and later settled in the Surabhi village in Rayachoti.

Initially, narrative forms were borrowed from the Andhra leather puppet tradition as used by the brothers Vanarasa Ramayya, Venkoji and Krishnajirao in the mid-19th C. It involved complex conventions: colours to show different rasas, the gods always entering from the right and the demons from the left (Tholu Bommalatta: a folk tradition performed with leather puppets). The most famous theatrical form was due to Venkoji's adopted son, Vanarasa Govindarao, who staged the mythological Keechaka Vadha, one of the most frequently staged and filmed episodes from the Mahabharata. He subsequently established the Sarada Vinodini Nataka Sabha (1895) and became the most successful touring theatre in the state, virtually inventing a theatrical style drawn partly from the folk Harikatha mode and partly from the leather puppets (e.g. in the chalk, yellow, red ochre and lampblack used for make-up). The plays and lyrics were either written by the family itself or by well-known Harikatha performers commissioned to adapt Ramayana or Mahabharata stories. By 1910 the group split into three. Each was assigned a territory to prevent competition. Over the next 50 years, thirty companies grew up, all claiming the same ancestry. The most famous ones were the Govindaraya Surabhi Natya Mandali, the Sarada Vijaya Nataka Mandali and the Venkateswara Natya Mandali. H.M. Reddy's first two sound films, Kalidas (1931) and Bhakta Prablada (1931), the first talkies in Tamil and Telugu respectively, used the Surabhi repertoire and featured the theatre family's most famous film star, Surabhi Kamala aka Kamalabai.

SURAIYA JAMAL SHEIKH (B. 1929)

Major singing star of 50s Hindi-Urdu film born in Lahore. Debuted as child actress in 1941 (Taj Mahal). Later did playback singing for Mehtab (Sbarada, 1942). Effectively launched as a singing and dancing star in the Bombay Talkies film Hamari Baat. Acted with Saigal in some of his last Hindi films: Omar Khayyam, Tadbir and Parwana. With Nurjehan (with whom she acted in Anmol Ghadi) and Khursheed (Mumtaz Mahal, 1944), she introduced an acting style strongly nostalgic for the adakar (manners) of North Indian Muslim feudalism (e.g. her Urdu historicals like Mirza Ghalib and melodramas like K. Asif's Pbool). That style was often used, most notably by Mehboob in his classic Anmol Ghadi and Kardar in Dastaan, to endow modernity with an aura of tradition. It served this function even in her otherwise radically different Dev Anand films (Afsar, Shayar, Jeet). Like Shanta Apte, the other major singing star of the time, her performance expertly integrated gesture, music and speech.

✿ FILMOGRAPHY: 1941: Taj Mahal; 1942: Statlon Master; Tamanna; 1943: Ishara, Hamari Baat; 1944: Pbool; 1945: Main Kya Karun; Tadbir; Yateem; Samrat Chandragupta; 1946: Chehra; Eighteen Fifty- Six; Hamari Dilli; Omar Khayyam; Sharda; Anmol Ghadi; 1947: Dak Bangla; Sharda; Hamari Dilli; Pampana; 1948: Aaj Ki Raat; Gajre; Kajak; Pyar Ki Jeet; Rang Mahal; Shakti; Vidya; 1949: Amar Kahani; Eadi Baber; Balam; Char Din; Dillagi; Duniya; Jeet; Lekb; Naach; Shayar; Singaar; 1950: Afsar; Dastaan; Kamal Ke Phool; Khliladi; Nili; Shaan; 1951: Do Sitare; Rajput; Sanam; Shokbiyan; 1952: Diwana; Goonj; Khoobsurat; Lai Kunwar; Moti Mahal; Resham; 1953: Mashuqa; 1954: Bilwamangal; Mirza Ghalib; Shama Parwana; Waris; 1955: Inaam; Kanchan; 1956: Mr Lambu; 1958: Malik; Miss 1958; Trolley Driver; 1961: Shama; 1963: Rustom Sobrah.

SURYAKANT (B. 1925)

Marathi actor born in Kolhapur. With elder brother Chandrakant, was one of the first major stars of the Marathi cinema. Debut aged 12 in D.K. Kale's mythological Dhruva made in Kolhapur, playing the child god Dhruva. Pendharkar fashioned him as the archetypal Maratha Emperor Shivaji in Bahirji Naik, later in Pavankhind and then towards the end of his career in Ganimiti Kava. The classic Shivaji role in Marathi/Hindi film, Chhatrapati Shivaji (1952), was, however, played by his brother. Suryakant repeated the role in Jai Bhawani and several times on the stage (Agrahun Sulka, Bebandshahi). Also known for films in the ruralist 'gramin chitrapat' genre with Mane (e.g. the genre's classic Sangtye Aika) and Dinkar D. Patil (e.g. Malhari Martand); also in Dharmadhikari's melodramas (e.g. Bala Jo Jo Re, Akber Jamla, Pativrata). Wrote his autobiography (1986).

✿ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1938: Dhruva; 1943: Bahirji Naik; 1946: Sasurvas; 1947: Jai Bhawani; 1949: Meeth Bhakar; Shilanganache Sone; 1950: Ketakichya Banaat; 1951: Bala Jo Jo Re; Swarajyacha Shiledar; 1952: Akber Jamla; Stree Janma Hi Tuji Kahani; 1953: Aukshavanta Ho Bala; Muka Lekru; Majhi Zameen; 1954: Kanchanganga; Maharani Yesubai; Purshachi Jaat; Sasar Maher; Shubhamangal; 1955: Bal Mazha Navasacha; Bhaubej; Kuladaitvat; Punavechi Raat; Ratnaghar; 1956: Kar Bhala; Jagavegali Goshta; Pavankhind; Gaath Padli Thaka Thaka; Ranpakhare; 1957: Gribadevata; Pabila Prem; Preetisingam; 1958: Sant Changdev; 1959: Akashganga; Pativrata; Sangtye Aika; Shikleli Baiko; 1960: Antaricha Diva; Kanyadaan; Lagnala Jato Mi; Pancharati; Salami; Sakhya Savara Mala; 1961: Bhav Tethe Dev; Kalanka Shobha; Mansala Pankh Astaat; Rangapanchami; Shola Jo Bhadke; Vaijayanti; 1962: Baikocha Bhau; Bhintila Kan Astaat; Gariba Gharchi Lek; Gavachi Izzat; 1963: Fakira; Mohityanchi Manjula; Subhadra Haran; Thoratanchi Kamala; Tu Sukhi Raha; 1964: Sant Nivrutti-Dnyandev; 1965: Malhari Martand; Sadhi Manse; 1966: Hi Naar Rupasundari; Pallachi Soon; Pavanakathcha Dhondi; Tochi Sadhu Olakhava; 1967: Bara Varshe Saba Mabine Teen Divas; Pathcha Bhau; Sangu Kasbi Mi; 1968: Ambi Jato Amuchya Gava; Angai; Dhanya Te Santaji Dhanaji; 1969: Murali Malhari Rayachi; Tila Lavite Mi Raktacha; 1970: Ashi Rangali Ratra; Kortachi Pauri; Mala

Tumchi Mbana; Varanecha Vagh; 1971: Aai Ude Ga Ambabai; Asel Mazha Hari; Lakhat Ashi Dekhani; 1972: Kaul De Re Khanderaya; Kunku Mazha Bhagyacha; Soon Ladki Hya Gharchi; 1973: Mi Tuzha Pati Nabi; 1974: Soon Majhi Savitri; 1975: Jyotibacha Navas; 1978: Irsha; Netaji Palkar; 1979: Aitya Bilavar Nagoba; Ashta Vinayak; 1980: Savat; 1981: Baine Kela Sarpanch Khula; Ganimi Kava; Manacha Kunku; Tamasgeer; Sher Shivaji; 1982: Daivat; Don Baika Phajiti Aika; Rakhandar; 1983: Sasu Varchad Javai; 1989: Auntie Na Vajavili Ghanthi; 1990: Patli Re Patli; 1991: Pratikar; 1992: Anuradha; 1995: Doghi.*

SURYAKUMARI, TANTAGURI (B. 1925)

Major Telugu actress and singer born in Vijaywada, AP. Trained in dance and music. Elected Miss Madras in a local beauty contest. Turned female singing star in Tamil with hits in Vipranarayana. Played the hero's sister in B.N. Reddi's Devatha. Hindi debut in Watan; her big Hindi hit is Udan Khatola (although she didn't sing in it). Sang in Telugu version of Shantaram's Apna Desh (1949). Performed in nationalist political rallies. Recorded patriotic songs on the Odeon label, as well as devotionals and romantic bhavageetham with composers like B. Rajanikanta Rao and Manchala Jagannatha Rao, often singing the poetry of Basavaraju Apparao and D. Krishna Sastry.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1937: Vipranarayana; 1939: Raitu Bidda; Athirishitam; 1941: Chandrabasa; Devatha; 1942: Dinabandhu; 1943: Bhagya Lakshmi; Krishna Prema; 1947: Katakam; 1948: Samsara Nauka; 1949: Bharati; 1951: Maradalu Pelli (also music d); 1954: Watan; 1955: Udan Khatola; 1964: Ramadasu.

SWADESHI

Nationalist programme for the boycott of all foreign manufactures and, by extension, a spur to self-reliance and 'Indianness' in education, the arts, technology, etc. Originated in the 1895 agitations against the British government's discriminatory cotton tariffs. Formally adopted as a political programme by Indian National Congress (1905). By 1912, following the enormous pressure from a growing sector of Indian entrepreneurs to define Swadeshi as a simple transfer of control into Indian hands, questions of Indianness became controversial. Gandhi's emphasis on village crafts as urban forms of popular art was accompanied by positions on 'high' art by Bengal School theoreticians E.B. Havell (Havell, 1901) and Ananda Coomaraswamy (Coomaraswamy, 1911, 1918/1977), opposing e.g. the Company School's assimilation of imported technology with a call for a more fundamental restatement of the Indian tradition. This debate influenced perceptions of a 'borrowed' technology such as cinema and determined both the rhetoric and the formal choices of film-makers like Phalke, Painter, Barua, K. Subramanyam et al.

SWAMINATHAN, KOMAL (1935-1995)

Tamil director, playwright and scenarist and noted Marxist intellectual born in Chettinad, TN. Associated in his youth with the theatre personality S.V. Sahsaranamam, whose group he joined (1957) apparently to learn playwriting. Later worked with director K.S. Gopalakrishnan while writing hit political plays like Puthiya Patbai (1960) and his best-known work, Tbanneer Tbanneer, originally staged by his own theatre group, Stage Friends, and filmed by K. Balachander (1981). Wrote the melodrama about inheritance and legitimacy filmed by Devaraj-Mohan as Paluti Valariba Kili (1976). Turned to direction in 1983, making three films all released in one year before returning to his writing. His best-known film is Oru Indhiya Kanavu, a political story in which Suhasini is a fearless crusader who comes up against corrupt and sadistic ministers. Edited the journal Subamangala, an important forum for debates in theatre, literature and film.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1983: Anal Katru; Oru Indhiya Kanavu; Yuddha Kadam.

TAGORE, RABINDRANATH (1861-1941)

Poet, novelist, playwright, essayist, painter and significant figure in 20th C. India's cultural history. Born in Calcutta into the numerous family of Debendranath Tagore, the leading Brahma Samaj intellectual. Privately educated, Rabindranath started writing at an early age and first visited Europe in 1878. His creative output and institutional interventions largely set the terms for India's cultural modernity. His writings and political contributions are still highly topical and contentious. Some of the more actively discussed areas include his influence on cultural nationalism, the recasting of European neo-classicism in e.g. his literary assimilation of Goethe and Heine and his influence on education, esp. through the arts university, Shantiniketan (Est: 1901) and its industrial-agrarian counterpart, Sriniketan. In addition, Tagore exerted a formidable influence through his poetry: a whole musical industry was generated by his Rabindra Sangeet, with 2232 lyrics which he set to music and seminal experiments with orchestration. His dance dramas were assimilated into the commercial Calcutta Theatres repertoires. In the 20s, the nascent Bengali cinema often borrowed from the music, literature and theatre industries, following Tagore's example of trying to elaborate an industrially valid synthesis of diverse cultural traditions. The Bengali cinema drew heavily on Tagore's stories and music (e.g. films by Naresh Mitra, Modhu Bose, Satyajit Ray, Ajoy Kar, Tapan Sinha, etc.). However, Tagore's personal involvement with cinema was more significant than conventional film histories allow. His one major, extensively quoted statement on cinema came in a letter to Murari Bhaduri (1929): 'The principal element of a motion picture is the "flux of image". The beauty and grandeur of this form in motion has to be developed in such a way that it becomes self-sufficient without the use of words. If some other language is needed to explain its own, it amounts to incompetence. If music can achieve profundity without the words of the cadence of a melody, then why should not this "motive form" be considered as a distinct aesthetic experience?' In addition, Arunkumar Roy (1986) noted that, in 1907, a dance ballet that he had directed was filmed in his presence. Ajit Sheth (1981) quoted Nitin Bose saying that, in 1917, Tagore had directly requested him to film a dance recital of his songs and 'showed a great deal of interest in the technique of filming'. His letters of 1920-3 contain references to cinema (apparently Douglas Fairbanks visited him at the time) including his responses to Naresh Mitra's filming of his Maanbhanjan (1923). In 1925, sailing to Europe, he saw a film and refers in Paschim Jatrir Diary (1925), to its 'speed of motion', suggesting that it could be addictive to young people; later he described Western society as 'one huge cinema'. Closely involved in Modhu Bose's Giribala (1930), apparently writing the intertitles himself. Scripted parts of Dahlia (1930), adapting his short story of the same name. Later (1936) wrote a screenplay subtitled 'a play fit to be filmed' merging parts of Dahlia with a novel, Rajorshi. In Germany he wrote an English script for Ufa, The Child (1930), later adapting it into Bengali as Shishu Tirth. It was inspired by seeing a German passion play. Also in 1930, on a visit to the USSR, he asked to see Bronenosets Potemkin (1925). Later, in Germany, he met Eisenstein along with Stefan Zweig, Lion Feuchtwanger and Pirandello. In 1932, in a much touted production, New Theatres announced that he would direct a film for them, which he may have done with two stationary cameras: Natir Puja (1932). According to Roy, he was 'disappointed with the result'. Finally, he formally approved Pankaj Mullick's adaptation of his lyrics for Barua's Mukti (1937), the first film featuring Rabindra Sangeet.

TAGORE, SHARMILA (B. 1944)

Bengali actress introduced in Satyajit Ray's Apur Sansar as the wife of the adult Apu. Also cast by Ray in Devi, Nayak, Aranyer Din Ratri and Seemabaddha. Worked for other Bengali film-makers like Ajoy Kar (Barnali, Prabhatar Rang), Tapan Sinha (Nirjan Saikate), Partha Prathim Choudhury (Jadu Bansha), etc. Became a Hindi star in Shakti Samanta's Kashmir Ki Kali opposite Shammi Kapoor, acquiring a reputation as a sex symbol. Caused a sensation in Samanta's Sawan Ki Ghata, posing in a bikini; consolidated her image playing a cabaret dancer in An Evening in Paris, once again with Shammi Kapoor. She changed her persona for Aradhana, playing both Rajesh Khanna's wife and his mother, and went on to form with him the most successful duo in 70s Hindi films: e.g. Safar, Amar Prem. Alternated between Khanna and Shashi Kapoor love stories like Subana Safar and Aa Gale Lag Jaa; also did tragic romances for Hrishikesh Mukherjee (Anupama, Satyakami), Basu Bhattacharya (Atishkar, Grihapravesh) and Samanta's Hindi-Bengali bilinguals with Uttam Kumar (Amanush, Anand Ashram). Her reputation was consolidated in Gulzar's Mausam, playing a prostitute. Also gave a notable performance in Ramesh Sharma's New Delhi Times. Asbiq Awara launched her son Saif Ali Khan as a star.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1959: Apur Sansar; 1960: Devi; 1963: Nirjan Saikate; Shesh Prabar, Chhaya Surya; Barnali; Shesh-Anka; 1964: Kinu Goyalar Gali; Prabhater Rang; Kashmir Ki Kali; 1965: Waqt; Dak Ghar; 1966: Anupama; Devar; Sawan Ki Ghata; Yeh Raat Phir Na Aayegi; Nayak; 1967: Aamne Samne, An Evening in Paris, Milan Ki Raat; 1968: Dil Aur Mohabbat, Humsaya; Mere Humdum Mere Dost; 1969: Aranyer Din Ratri; Aradhana; Pyaasi Shyam; Satyakam; Talash; Yakeen; 1970: Mere Humsafar, My Love, Safar, Subana Safar; 1971: Seemabaddha; Amar Prem; Badnaam Farishte, Chhoti Bahi; 1972: Dastaan; Malik, Yeh Gulistan Hamara; 1973: Aa Gale Lag Jaa; Avishkar; Daag; Raja Rani; 1974: Jadu Bansa; Charitraheen; Paap Aur Punya; Shaitan; Shandaar; Amanush; 1975: Khushboo; Anari; Chupke Chupke, Ek Mahal Ho Sapnon Ka, Faraar, Mausam; 1976: Ek Se Badhkar Ek; Tyaag; Do Shatru; 1977: Anand Ashram; 1978: Besbaram; 1979: Chuvanna Chirakukul; Dooriyan; Mother; 1980: Gribapravesb; 1981: Naseeb; Kalankini Kankabati; 1982: Desh Premi; Namkeen; Divorce; 1983: Protidan; Tanaya; Doosri Dulhan; 1984: Jawani; Sunny; Swati; 1985: Bandhan Anjana; Ek Se Bhale Do; Uttarayan; New Delhi Times; Ricky; 1986: Door Desh; Mera Dharam; 1987: Anurodh; Zindagi (TV); Maa Beti; Saat Saal Baad; 1988: Hum To Chale Pardes; 1989: Doorie; 1991: Dastoor; Mississippi Masala; 1993: Aashiq Awara; 1994: Rishte (TV); Siyasat (TV).

TARAFDAR, RAJEN (1917-87)

Bengali director born in Rajshahi (now Bangladesh). Arts degree in Calcutta (1940). Trained as commercial designer and worked for J. Walter Thompson (1944-58). Active in amateur theatre. Introduced to cinema via Renoir's presence in India to shoot The River (1951), the Calcutta Film Society and exposure to Italian neo-realism (Ganga can be seen as a variant on La terra trema, 1947). Best-known films try to integrate fiction and ethnographic realism into quasi-documentary regime: Ganga and Nagpash were shot in the Sundarbans region in a fishing community. Claimed influence of vérité film-makers Jacques Rozier, Francois Reichenbach and Chris Marker. Innovative use of crane shots, long takes and diffused lighting, which, Chidananda Das Gupta suggests, contradicts the otherwise realist intention by evoking romanticised notions of a Sonar Bangla (Golden Bengal). Also scripted his own Akash Chhoan and Palanka in addition to e.g. Sansar Simantey (1975) and Ganadevata (1978). Acted in Mrinal Sen's Akaler Sandhaney (1980), S. Benegal's Aarohan (1981), and Shekhar Chatterjee's Vasundhara (1984).

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1957: Antariksha; 1960: Ganga; 1962: Agnisikha; 1964: Jiban Kabini; 1967: Akash Chhoan; 1975: Palanka; 1981: Nagpash.

TEMBE, GOVINDRAO (1881-1955)

Musician, actor, playwright, theatrical personality and compulsive theorist. Composed the music for Painter's films and some early Prabhat movies. Born in Kolhapur when it was at the forefront of a major cultural renaissance: the Khayal was adapted to concerts and recording techniques; the music schools and Sangeet Natak were recasting the classical-popular musical idiom. Tembe mentions the enormous impact on him of singers like Ustad Alladiya Khan of the Jaipur gharana (then living under the patronage of the Shahu Maharaj), Bhaskarabua Bakhle (later with Bal Gandharva) and Ramakrishnabua Vaze, crucial figures in the evolution of the Sangeet Natak. Became the chief music director of Bal Gandharva's group (1913-15), then set up his own stage group the Shivraj Natak Mandali, employing the Painters for his stage backdrops. Joined Prabhat and was responsible for some of the first hit singles of Marathi film (e.g. Bala ka jhob yeyina in Ayodhyecha Raja). However, in the words of his successor, Bhole (1964): 'He was never to know the difference between stage and film music.' Wrote extensively about aesthetic problems, e.g. on attempts to create post-Sangeet Natak classical Khayal in Marathi: on problems of notating Indian music; on the harmonium, his favourite instrument (banned by AIR for being antithetical to the system of classical music). He also argued that cinema should be understood as an experience between reading and visualising what is read. Publications include Jeevan Vibhar (1948) and Mazha Sangeet Vyasanga (1939).

✦ FILMOGRAPHY (* act only/ also act): 1932: Ayodhyecha Raja/Ayodhya Ka Raja; Jalti Nishant/Agnikankan; Maya Macbhindra; 1933: Sairandhri; Sati Mahananda; 1934: Manjari; Seeta*; 1935: Raj Mukur (also d); Usha; 1936: Savkari Pash; Aseer-e-Hawas; Vish Vaman; 1937: Pratibha; 1938: Savangadi/Sathi; Vasant; Nandakumar* (M/H); 1941: Nirdosh; 1943: Bahirji Naik.

TENDULKAR, VIJAY (B. 1925)

Scenarist and Marathi playwright born in Kolhapur. Regarded with Karnad, Mohan Rakesh and Badal Sircar as a new generation of literary and theatrical realists. One of the founders of the vanguard theatre group Rangayan, launched with Vijaya Mehta's performance of his play Bali (1960). 70s stage work (e.g. Sakharan Binder, 1971, causing a notorious censorship debacle; Ghasbiram Kotwal, 1972, the film version of which in 1976 he scripted but disowned) offered a psychological exploration of physical violence with an overtly political dimension, a concern later reflected in his scripts for Benegal (Nishant), 1975; Mantban, 1976), Nihalani (Aakrosb), 1980; Arbh Satya, 1983) and Jabbar Patel (Saamna), 1975; Sinhasan, 1979; Umbarta/Subab, 1981). Stories featured political vendettas often in rural situations, with fights between feudal rulers and oppressed castes shading into statements about the inevitability of the oppressed themselves turning into oppressors. Co-scripted Saeed Mirza's debut, Arvind Desai Ki Ajeeb Dastaan (1978).

THAKUR, RAJA (1923-75)

Marathi director born in Phonda, Goa, as Rajaram Dattatray Thakur. Assistant to Vinayak (later continuing Vinayak's series of Malvankar-Jog comedies with Gharcha Jhalatoda) and to Raja Paranjpe. With Rajdutt, he is regarded as part of the 60s middle-class orthodoxy in Maharashtra prior to the earthier comedies of e.g. Dada Kondke. Turned producer with his own Nava Chitra company. Made one film in English, Birbal My Brother, and his Mumbaicha Javai was adapted in Hindi by Basu Chatterjee as Piya Ka Ghar (1971).

Durga Khote (centre) and Govindrao Tembe (right) in Nandakumar (1938)

FILMOGRAPHY: 1953: Bolavita Dhani; 1954: Reshamchya Gaathi; 1955: Mi Tulas Tujhya Angani; 1956: Mazhe Ghar Majhi Manse; 1957: Gharcha Jbala Thoda; Uthavala Narad; 1958: Gaja Gauri; 1959: Rajmanya Rajasbri; 1961: Putra Vhava Aisa; 1962: Rangalya Ratri Asba; 1963: Pabure Kiti Vaatl; 1965: Raigadacha Rajbandi; 1966: Dhananjay; 1967: Sant Gora Kumbbar; 1968: Ekati; 1970: Gharkul; Mumbaicha Javai; 1971: Ajab Tujhe Sarkar; Bajiravacha Beta; 1972: Birbal My Brother; 1973: Javai Vikat Ghene Aabe; 1975: Zakbmi; 1976: Raeeszada.

THAKUR, RAMCHANDRA (1908-92)

Hindi and Gujarati director. Born in Chitroda, North Gujarat. A polyglot who spoke eleven languages, he was also a Pali scholar and a journalist at Mouj Majab (1928). Publicity officer at Sagar, later assisted C.M. Luhar and Hiren Bose. First film, Gramophone Singer, is said to have introduced back projection without recourse to optical superimposition (with cameraman Keki Mistry). Civil Marriage was hailed by Abbas as a precursor to his own 40s cinema. Worked at Sagar and its successor National Film in collaboration with progressives around R.S. Choudhury, including Mehboob and Zia Sarhadi. With the decline of National, worked with Ranjit writing scripts in Gujarati for Punatar (Nanand Bhojai, 1948; Mangalfera, 1949; Gadano Bel, 1950). Later work mainly as freelancer. Known for his ability to work within very tight budgets to help independent producers in financial trouble. Wrote two novels and several short stories, one of which, Amrapali, was the basis of Nandlal Jaswantlal's hit in 1945. Scripted his own films, as well as e.g. Dynamite (1938), Narad Muni (1949), Baiju Bawra (1952), Tulsi Vivah (1971), Hari Darshan (1972). Apparently directed Kaa and Stree (both 1966) in Oriya under the name Siddharth. As a scenarist, he used the name Sarangapani.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1937: Mabageet (co-dir Hiren Bose); 1938: Gramophone Singer; 1940: Civil Marriage; 1941: Kasauti; 1942: Garib; Apna Paraya; 1943: Asbirwad; 1945: Aarti; Sbarbati Aankhen; 1947: Geet Govind; 1948: Vadilona Vanke; Jai Hanuman; 1949: Garibi; Rumal; 1951: Ghayaal; 1952: Veer Arjun; 1953: Dharmapatni; 1955: Jai Mahadev; 1956: Sheikh Chilli; Makbeeboos; 1960: Veer Durgadas; 1961: Hiro Salaat; 1967: Nawab Siraj-ud-Dowla; 1969: Jyoti (Doc).

THAKUR, SIVA PRASAD (B. 1930)

Mainstream Assamese director born in Nazira, Assam. Degree in botany and lecturer at D. R. College, Golaghat. Started as producer (e.g. Mamata, 1973), then made several successful features as well as documentaries and TV serials (e.g. Sandhyatora, 1993; Dainandin and Torali, both 1994).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1978: Pbaguni; 1982: Bowari; 1983: Gbar Sansar; 1984: Son Moina; 1985: Mon Mandir; 1986: Mayuri; Ae Desh Mor Desh; 1989: Sewali; 1991: Mukta Bandi; 1993: Sandhyatora (TV); 1994: Asbanta Prabar; Dainandin (FV); Torali (TV).

Thikkurisi Sukumaran Nair see Nair, Thikkurisi Sukumaran
Timirbaran see Baran, Timir

TKS BROTHERS

Best-known early 20th C. commercial Tamil theatre company. It was run by the four sons of the actor T.S. Kannuswamy Pillai. Shankaran, Muthuswamy, Shanmugham and Bhagavathi were apprenticed in 1918 to the noted playwright Sankaradas Swamigal. They later joined the group run by T.K. Krishnaswamy Pavalar, then producing plays with nationalist themes (cf. Kadarin Vetri), and then the playwright Sarabam Muthuswamy Kavirayar's group. As established actors, they launched their own company, the Madurai Bala Shanmughananda Sabha (1925), best known by the initials of the most famous brother, T.K. Shanmugham. They debuted with the play Kovalan. Although the group was considered to be the legitimate heir to the 19th C. tradition of their mentor Sankaradas Swamigal, during the course of staging 32 original plays they gradually shifted to reform melodrama and evolved a new writing and acting style which had a big influence on early Tamil sound films. In 1935, T.K. Shanmugham started Shanmugham Talkies, co-producing Raja Sandow's Menaka (1935) which featured the brothers along with N.S. Krishnan in an adaptation of one of their plays. This was followed by Balamani (1937) and the seminal reformist film Gumastavin Penn (1941) to which Annadurai wrote a novelised sequel. Their other noted productions adapted to film include Andaman Kaitbi (1952) and Ratna Pasam (1954). Their theatre includes the earliest writings of a new generation of playwrights (and DMK Film directors) like A.S.A. Sami (Bilhana, filmed by TKS in 1948), P. Neelakantan (the play Mullil Roja) and former actor-writer A.P. Nagarajan. More significantly perhaps, the group nurtured a whole generation of film actors such as the legendary N.S. Krishnan, S.S. Rajendran, S.V. Sahasranamam, M.N. Rajam and, more recently, Kamalahasan. They also worked in other languages, e.g. the Malayalam play Manitban, later adapted by Ramnoth (1953).

TORNEY, RAMCHANDRA GOPAL (1890-1960)

Hindi and Marathi director, born in Sukulwadi and educated in Malwan, coastal Maharashtra. Employed by Greaves Cotton Electrical in Bombay (1896); then transferred as a branch manager to Karachi. Resigned and returned to Bombay (1920). He is often cited as Phalke's rival for having apparently made the feature Pundalik (1912) a year before Raja Harishchandra (1913). Recent research suggests that it was probably made by N.G.

Chitre, the owner of Coronation Cinematograph (which released Raja Harishchandra) with P.R. Tipnis, Coronation's manager and later noted exhibitor in Delhi. Torney was initially manager of Laxmi Film (1924-6) and Imperial (1927-31). Debut film, as co-director, was the commercial hit Neera (1926). Partnered distributor Baburao Pai when the latter launched the Movie Camera Co. (1931) to import Audio-Camex recording equipment which they installed in Saraswati, Prabhat and Aryan studios. Took over Saraswati Film in Pune (1931), started as a technicians' enterprise by Nanubhai Desai, Bhogilal Dave, Dorabsha Kolha and others in 1926. Saraswati Cinetone closed down in 1942 after an unsuccessful move into Hindi cinema. Torney made Marathi comedies in late 30s and early 40s, often starring comedian Dinkar Kamanna. Made films for his own studios, Imperial, Sagar and Sikandar; also art direction and sound recording for some early Marathi talkies. Scripted Madanrai Vakil's Mewad No Mauwali (1930).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1926: Neera; 1930: Sinbad Khalashi; 1931: Dilawar (all S); 1933: Bhakta Prabhad; 1934: Bhedi Rajkumar/Tbaksen Rajputra; 1935: Pyara Dushman; 1939: Majhi Ladki; 1941: Babhaklela Brahmachari; Narad Naradi; Navardev.

TRIVEDI, UPENDRA

Major Gujarati film star and producer, known also in Gujarat for his stage productions. Introduced to films by Raskapur; debut in Kadu Makrani and Mebndi Rang Lagyo, films usually cited as the renaissance of Gujarati cinema. Reappeared in an equally epochal production, Dave's Jesal Toral, playing the outlaw lover. Associated prominently with Dave's films: e.g. Sbetalne Kantbe, Malavpati Munj (which retells the extensively filmed K.M. Munshi story, Pritbivi Vallabb) and Paiso Bole Chbe. His brother Arvind Trivedi is also a noted stage and film star in Gujarati who shot to fame playing Ravana in Sagar's Ramayan TV series (1986-8).

FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1960: Kadu Makrani; Mebndi Rang Lagyo; 1961: Hiro Salaat; Veer Ramwalo; 1962: Jogidas Khuman; 1963: Vanraj Chavdo; 1971: Jesal Toral; Parde Ke Peeche; 1972: *Zer To Pidban Jani Jani; Jungle Mein Mangal; 1973: Kadu Makrani; Raja Bharabari; Ranakdevi; Mahasati Savitri; Blackmail; 1974: Ghunghat; Harishchandra Taramati; Hothal Padmini; 1975: Jai Ranchhod; Jogidas Khuman; Sbetalne Kantbe; Bhadar Tara Vebta Pani; 1976: Chundadino Rang; Malavpati Munj; Ra Navghan; Santu Rangili; Veer Mangdaval; 1977: Bhrashtachar Murbad; Halaman Jetbu; Manno Manigar; Paiso Bole Chbe; Sadavant Savlinga; Son Kansari; Kali Raat; Kbel Khiladi Ka; 1978: Chundadi Odhi Tara Namni; Dada Kbetrapal; Manektbamb; Patali Parmar; Ver Ni Vasulal; 1979: Amarsimb Ratbod; Garvo Garasiyo; Kunwari Satino Kesariyo Kantib; Lalwadi Phoolwadi; Navrang Chundadi; Preet Kbandani Dbar; Rang Rasiya; Sona Indboni Roopa Bedlun; Suraj

*Chandra Ni Sakhe, Vahue Vagovya Mota Khorda; Veer Pasali, 1980: Chitadano Chor, Jivi Rabaran; Kesar Kathiyani; Kotno Ladakwavo; Namni Nagarvel; Sorathni Padmini, 1981: Amar Devidas, Bhav Bhavna Bheri; Mebulu Luhar, Seth Jagadusha; Vansdi Vagi Valamni; 1982: Retina Ratan; 1983: Vachda Dadani Dikri; 1984: Dhartina Ami; Mali Methan; Mansaina Diva; Machhu Tara Vehta Pani; Nagmati Nagvala; Sajan Sonalde; 1985: Malo Naagde; 1988: Sole Somwar; 1991: Bhadarne Kanthe; 1993: Manvini Bhavai

URS, D. KEMPARAJ (1918-82)

Kannada director, actor and producer; also worked in Tamil and Telugu. Born in Hunsur, Mysore Dist., into an aristocratic family. Studied medicine for three years while doing amateur theatre. Film debut as actor in Veeranna's Jeevana Nataka. Also small role in Prabhat's Ramsbatri. Pioneer producer-director of Kannada cinema with Raja Vikrama and key influence on its historicals. Jaladurga, shot simultaneously in Tamil as Karkottai, was based on The Count of Monte Cristo. Was actively involved in Congress politics when brother Devaraj Urs was Karnataka Chief Minister and campaigned for Indira Gandhi when she fought the controversial Chikmagalur elections (1980). Later chairman of Karnataka Film Development Corp. Wrote two autobiographical books, Naanu (1979) and Alvat Varshalu.

FILMOGRAPHY (* also act/ act only):

1942: Jeevana Nataka; 1944: Ramsbatri; 1947: Krishnaleele; Mahananda; 1948: Bhakta Ramadas*; 1950: Shiva Parvati; Raja Vikrama*; 1953: Jaladurga/Karkottai*; Shri Krishna; 1957: Nala Damayanti*; 1959: Azhagamalai Kalvan*; 1964: Navajejevana.

VAIRAMUTHU

Poet and noted Tamil lyricist in 70s/80s, sometimes considered a successor to Kannadasan. Born in Thamaraiakulam near Madurai; graduated in Madras; employed by the government as a translator. His early poetry is often broadcast on the radio; published his first anthology in 1972. Film debut in Bharathirajaa's Nizhalgal (1980), remaining associated with this director and with composer Ilaiyaraja until his highly publicised break with the latter. Wrote the songs for over 50 films, notably Meghame meghame for Palatvana Solai, Anthi mazhai pozhikirathu (Raja Parvati), Ayiram tamarai mottukkai (Alaigal Oyvathillai), all three films 1981; Izhaya nila pozhikirathu (Payanangal Muduvathillai), 1982), and Balachander's Sindhu Bhatravi (1985). Known in the 90s mainly for hits in Mani Rathnam films (Roja, 1992, and Bombay, 1994) and Shankar's Kadhalan (1994).

VAKIL, NANUBHAI B. (1904-80)

Hindi director born in Valsad, Gujarat. Educated in Bombay, where he graduated as a lawyer (1926). Started as a scenarist at Sharda Film, then at Chandulal Shah's Jagdish Film. Prolific director at Ranjit (silent) and Sagar (sound). Directed the first Gujarati sound feature, Narasinh Mehta. Definitive films were with Zubeida in Mahalakshmi Cinetone, co-founded with her (1934-5). Helped found Jayashree Cinetone in Calcutta, but returned to Bombay (1938) and joined Kikubhai Desai's Paramount Film. Until late 60s, he mainly remade silent adventure movies derived from Parsae theatre's versions of legends from Firdausi's 10th C. Shah Nama and from the Arabian Nights. His films helped define the B-movie production in post-WW2 period. 50s films (Yabudi Ki Beti, Parvin, Flying Rani) are also the first scripts by the Marxist poet Kaifi Azmi. Adapted Premchand's novel for Seva Sadan, but the author distanced himself from the film, thus enabling Subramanyam's definitive 1938 version to be made.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1929: Veer Pujan; Dehna

Daan; Kumud Kumari; Simhaldweep Ki Sundari; 1930: Sheikh Chilli; Madhbhar Mohini; Sorathi Baharatiyo; Desh Deepak; Ranakdevi; Rasili Radha; Vijreli Waghan; Vanraj; 1931: Albeli Mumbai; Azadi Nu Jung; Mojili Mashuq; Hoor-e-Roshan; Noor-e-Alam; Baghdad Nu Bulbul; 1932: Nakhreli Nar; Baghdad Ka Badmash (all St); Bulbul-e-Baghdad; Narasinh Mehta; Maya Bazaar; 1933: Bulbul-e-Punjab; Mahabharat; 1934: Nanand Bhojai; Radha Mohan; Nand Ke Lala; Rashk-e-Laila; Seva Sadan; 1935: Birbal Ki Beti; Gulshan-e-Alam; 1936: Mr and Mrs Bombay; Nariraj; 1937: Fakhr-e-Islam; 1938: Alladdin and the Wonderful Lamp; Banke Savaria; 1939: Son of Alladdin; Madhu Bansari; Sansar Naiya; 1940: Deepak Mahal; Golibar; Hatimtai Ki Beti; Jadui Kangan; 1941: Jadui Bandhan; Taj Mahal; 1942: Firman; 1943: Naya Zamana; 1944: Kismatwala; 1945: Alladdin; Kul Kalank; Hatimtai Ka Beta; 1946: Alibaba; Arab Ka Sitara; Baghdad Ka Chor; Sinbad the Sailor; Mohabbat Ki Duntya; 1947: Flying Man; Kismet Ka Sitara; 1948: Azad Hindustan; Desh Seva; Hind Mail; Jadui Bansari; Ratan Manjari; 1949: Flying Express; Alladdin Ki Beti; 1950: Raj Mukut; 1951: Jai Mahalakshmi; 1953: Raj Mahal; 1954: Gul Babar; Noor Mahal; 1955: Darbar; Hatimtai Ki Beti; Sakhi Hatim; Shah Behram; 1956: Alam Ara; Indrasabha; Khul Jaa Sim Sim; Lal-e-Yaman; Lalkaar; Yabudi Ki Beti; 1957: Bansari Bala; Pervin; Sati Pariksha; 1958: Miss Punjab Mail; Shaan-e-Hatim; Pehla Pehla Pyar; 1959: Flying Rani; Kya Yeh Bambai Hai; 1960: Alam Ara Ki Beti; 1964: Id Ka Chand; 1971: Shaan-e-Khuda; 1973: Alam Ara.

VALI

Prolific Tamil lyricist with c.6500 songs, prominently associated with composer M.S. Vishwanathan and with films starring MGR. Born as Rangarajan, in Tiruchi, TN. Started as visual artist in the College of Art, Madras. Started an independent journal in Tiruchi, Kalki got him a job at the AIR. Early reputation as writer of theatre dialogue. Breakthrough in film with Azhagamalai Kalvan (1959), consolidated by the success of P. Neelakantan's Nallavan Vazhvan (1961). Major hits in Chanakya's Enga Veetu Pillai (1965), esp. the number Nan anaiyital (If I could command), contributed to star MGR's screen image. Top lyric writer of 80s Tamil film, e.g. Mani Rathnam's musical hit Agni Nakshatram (1988). Also scripted the controversial Ore Oru Gramathile (1987).

VAMSY (B. 1956)

Telugu and Kannada art-house director. Born in Karnataka. Prolific novelist including novelisations of films, e.g. K. Vishwanath's Shankarabharanam (1979). Joined films as assistant to K. Vishwanath, whom he regards as his teacher along with Bharathirajaa. Films feature extensive music (usually by Ilaiyaraja) and dance. Best-known film: Sitara.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1982: Manchu Pallaki;

1984: Sitara; 1985: Anveshana; Preminchu Pelladu; 1986: Ladies' Tailor; Alabhama; 1987: Lawyer Subasini; 1988: Maharsbi; Shri Kanakamabalakshmi Recording Dance Troupe; 1989: Chettukinda Pleader; Swara Kalpana; Amrutha Bindu; 1991: April 1 Vidudala; 1992: Detective Narada; 1993: Joker; 1994: Neeku-16 Naaku-18; Prema & Co. 1995: Lingababu Love Story.

VANISREE (B. 1951)

Telugu, Tamil and (briefly) Kannada star born in Nellore, AP. Educated in Andhra Mahila Sabha, Madras, where she learnt the Bharat Natyam dance. Debut in B.A. Subba Rao's Bhishma; first lead role in Tamil: Joseph Taliath's Kathal Paduthum Padu. Known as a star in Kannada cinema while playing comedienne roles in her early Telugu films. Broke through in Telugu with Manipurani Katha, going on to star opposite e.g. NTR, A. Nageshwara Rao and Shobhan Babu. Important Tamil films incl. (with Sivaji Ganesan) Uyarntha Manithan and Vasanthha Maligai, and Balachander's Velli Vizha. Known in her later career for idiosyncratic mother-in-law roles. Financed and acted in Shyam Benegal's only Telugu film, Anugraham.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1962: Bhisma; 1964:

Thotalopilla Kotalo Rani; Mane Aliya; 1965: Sati Sakkubai; Pakkalo Bellem; Pandava Vanavasam; Satya Harisbchandra; Chandrabasa; Bangaru Panjaram; Mangamma Sapatham; Prameelarjuneyam; Patala Mobini; 1966: Potti Pleader; Aggibarata; Kanne Manasulu; Shri Krishna Tulabharam; Bhoolakamlo Yamalokam; Kathari Veera; Logattu Perumallukeruka; Kathal Paduthum Padu; Nammaveeti Lakshmi; Rangula Ratnam; 1967: Thanga Thambi; Marupurani Katha; Gopaludu Bhoopaludu; Kanchukota; Bhuvana Sundari Katha; Devuni Gelichina Manavudu/Devvara Gedda Manava; Nindu Manasulu; Stree

Vanisree in Bangaru Panjaram (1965)

Janma: Aada Paduchbu; Janara Jama; 1968: Sukha Dukhalu; Lakshminivasam; Asadhyudu; Ranabheri; Veerapooja; Bharya; Pantalu Pattimpulu; Kalasina Manasulu; Uyarnthu Manithan; 1969: Mahabaludu; Shabash Satyam; Astulu Antastulu; Atmiyulu; Jagath Kiladilu; Bbale Rangudu; Nindu Hridayalu; Anna Dammulu; Karpura Aratbi; Rajasimbu; Kuzbandai Ullam; Ayiram Poyi; Nirai Kudam; Kanni Penn; Annaiyum Pitavum; Manasakshi; Athai Magal; 1970: Tapalkaram Thangai; Thalaiivan; Pelli Sambandham; Kodalu Diddina Kapuram; Chitti Chellalu; Drobi; Iddaru Ammayilu; Jagath Jettelu; Katha Nayika Molla; Pachani Samsaram; 1971: Dasara Bullodu; Kiladi Singanna; Mooga Prema; Ananda Nilayam; Raitu Bidda; Adrushta Jatbakudu; Chimmanati Snehitulu; Dabukku Thba Dongala Muttha; Jagath Jentreehu; Jeevitba Chakram; Katha Nayakuralu; Pavitra Bandham; Prem Nagar; Attulu Kodallu; Chelleli Kapuram; Kasidre Kailasa; 1972: Amma Mata; Dattaputhrudu; Vichitra Bandham; Bangaru Babu; Abbaigaru Ammaigaru; Illu Illalu; Maa Inti Kodalu; Marapurani Talli; Shri Krishnanjaneya Yuddham; Koduku Kodalu; Avasara Kalyanam; Velli Vizba; Vasanth Maligai; 1973: Deshodharakulu; Ganga Manga; Minor Babu; Ramudu Devudu; Sreevaru Maavaru; Vintba Katha; Manchi Vudu; Khaidi Baba; Kanne Vayasu; Kannavari Kalalu; Jeevana Tarangulu; 1974: Chaduvu Samskaram; Manushilo Devudu; Satyaniki Sankellu; Krisbnatani; Chakravakam; Sivakamiyan Selvan; Vani Rani; 1975: Edukuleni Manishi; Katha Nayakuni Katha; Abhimanavathi; Babu; Maya Machbindra (Te); Jeevana Jyoti; Ramuni Minchina Ramudu; Chikati Velugulu; Pooja; 1976: Secretary; Doralu Dongalu; Premabandham; Aradhana; Bhakta Kannappa; Pogarubottu; Suprabhatam; Ilaya Thalaimurai; Oorukku Uzhaipavani; Rojavin Raja; 1977: Thaliya Salangaiya; Edureetha; Chakradhari; Raja Ramesh; Kondura Anugraham; Aalu

Magalu; Jamma Jammala Bandham; Jeevana Theeralu; Sati Savitri; 1978: Chilipi Krishnudu; Gorantha Deepam; Devadasu Malli Puttadu; Enki Nayudu Bava; Ramachilaka; Vichitra Jeevitbam; Simba Baludu; Sabasavantbudu; Shri Rama Raksha; Punya Bhoombi; 1979: Kalamamma Kamatam; Nallathoru Kudumbam; Andaman Ammayi; Maavari Manchithanam; Shrimad Virata Parvam; 1980: Shri Vinayaka Vijayam; 1981: Devudu Mamayya; 1988: Gandu Mane Makkalu; 1989: Swati Chinukulu; Attaku Yamudu Anmayiki Mogudu; Poolarangadu; 1990: Bobbili Raja; 1992: Pellam Chattu Mogudu; Seetharathnamgari Abbayi; Rajeshwari Kalyanam; 1993: Evandi Aride Ochindi; Bhavya Bharata; Preme Naa Pranam; Rowdygari Teacher; 1994: Curfeu.

VARALAKSHMI, GARIKIPATI (B. 1926)

Telugu and Tamil actress, singer and producer born in Ongole, AP. Aged 11, she ran away to Vijaywada to join the theatre. Worked in Tungala Chalapathi's and in Kotirathnam's troupes, playing e.g. Radha in Sakkubai and Prabhavati in Rangoon Rowdy. Film debut in H.M. Reddy's Barrister Parvatisham, where she acted alongside L.V. Prasad. After a brief spell at the Shobhanachala Studio, she relaunched Prasad in her production, Drobi and acted in his Pelli Chesu Choodu. Acted in several films by her husband, K.S. Prakash Rao (whom she married in 1943). Played the comic vamp in Vindhyarani and a dominant man-hating queen in Aravalli. Acted lead and character roles in several Tamil and Telugu films; then acted with stars like MGR (Gul-e-Bakavali) and Sivaji Ganesan (Naan Petra Selvam). Produced, wrote, directed and starred in the film Moogajeevulu.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1940: Barrister Parvatisham; 1941: Dakshayagnam; 1942: Bhakta Prablada; 1946: Vanarani; 1948: Drobi; Vindhyarani; 1950: Modathi Ratbri;

Vali Sugriva; Lakshamma; Swapna Sundari; Maya Rambhai/Maya Rambai; 1951: Deeksha Anni; Nirdosbi/Niraparadhi; 1952: Manavati; Pelli Chesu Choodu/Kalyanam Panni Paar; 1953: Kanna Talli/Petrathi; Prapancham; Paropakaram; Robini; Naa Chellelu; Ulagam; 1954: Jyoti/Ilara Jyoti; Maa Gopi; Menarikam; Palle Paduchbu; Kutumbam; 1955: Ante Kavali; Pasupu Kumkuma; Porter Kandhan; Gul-e-Bakavali; Nalla Thangai; 1956: Balasanyasamma Katha; Melukolupu/Marumalarchi; Naan Petra Selvam; 1957: Aravalli; Dampatyani; Dongalo Dora; Paithni Daivam; Karpurakarasi; 1958: Raja Nandini; Dongalunaru Jagratba; 1959: Mamiyar Meechiya Marumagal; 1960: Sivagami; Renukadevi Mahatyam; 1961: Iddaru Mitbrulu; Nagarjuna; 1962: Bhishma; Kalimilemulu; Kulagotbralu; Padandi Munduku; 1963: Anuragani; 1966: Atabommalu; Shri Krishna Tulabharam; Letamanasulu; Astiparulu; 1967: Rahasyam; 1968: *Moogajeevulu; Veerapooja; Amayukudu; Bangaru Sankellu; Attagaru Kottakodalu; Harishchandra; 1970: Jai Jawan; 1971: Mooga Prema; Bhule Papa; Pavitra Bandham; 1972: Abbaigaru Ammaigaru; Vazhai Yadi Vazhai; 1973: Veetukku Vandha Marumagal; Dr Babu; Ganga Manga; Neramu Siksha; Ramrajyam; Geetha; Vishali; 1974: Premulu Pellilu; Chakravakam (Te); Tulasi; Vani Rani; 1975: Thota Ramudu; Katha Nayakuni Katha; Ee Kalapu Pillalu; Vayasochina Pilli; Rajyamlo Rabandulu; 1976: Attavarilu; Manchiki Maro Peru; Swami Drobulu; Mahatmudu; 1977: Talle Chullani Daivam; 1978: Gorantha Deepam; Nindu Manishi; 1980: Kiladi Krishnudu; Mohana Ragam; Sirimalle Navvindi.

VARALAKSHMI, S. (B. 1927)

Telugu and Tamil actress and noted singer. Born in Jaggampeta, AP. Debut as child actress in K. Subramanyam's Balayogini and Seva Sadan. First adult role in Ramabrahmam's Mayalokam. Top 50s Tamil star with several musical hits. Also considered in some ways a successor to Kannamba, e.g. in Panama Pasama where she 'tames' her mother-in-law. Turned producer with Varalakshmi Films (1957). Married A.L. Srinivasan, owner of the ALS Prod. and brother of Kannadasan.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1936: Balayogini; 1938: Seva Sadan; 1939: Raitu Bidda; Prem Sagar; 1940: Illalu; 1945: Mayalokam; 1947: Palmati Yuddham; Apoorva Chintamani; 1948: Balaraju; Bhojan; Chakradhari; 1949: Navajeevanam; Jeevitbam; 1950: Macharekhai; 1951: Saudamini; Mohanasundaram; 1952: Tinguranga; Chinnadurani; Velaikkaram; Syamala; 1953: Kodarikam; Vayyari Bhama; 1954: Sati Sakkubai; Etbirparadatbu; 1955: Shri Krishna Tulabharam; 1956: Naga Panchami; Kanakataru; 1957: Sati Savitri; Chakravarthi Thirumagal; 1959: Sati Tulasi; Veer Bhaskaradu; Rebukka Pagaticbukka; Veerapandya Kattaboman; Jai Bhawani; Sivagangai Seemai; 1960: Shri Venkateshwara Mahatyam; Abhimanam; 1961: Krishna Prema; 1962: Mahamantri Timmarasu; Shri Krishnarajuna Yuddham; 1964: Babruvahana; 1965: Vijayasimba; Satya Harishchandra; 1966: Bhimanjaneya Yuddham; Shri Krishna Tulabharam; 1967: Gopaludu; Bhoopaludu; Bhama Vijayam/Bhale Kodalu; Shri Krishnavataram; 1968: Nindu Samsaram; Panama Pasama; 1969: Poova Thalaiya; Adarsha Kutumbam; Sattekalapn Sattaiah; Mattukkara Velan; 1970: Drohi; 1971: Bhagyanthudu; Bomma Borusa; Naa Thammudu; Shri Krishna Satya; 1972: Bullet Bullodu; Pedda Koduku; Atthanu Diddina Kodalu; Bangaru Babu; Bala Bbaratam; Delhi To Madras; Daiva Sankalpam; Velli Vizha; 1973: Valli Daivanai; Raja Raja Chozhan; Thirumalai Daivam; Nathayil Muthu; Sreevaru Maavaru; Devudu Chesina Manasulu; Meena; 1974: Inti Kodalu; Thayi; Devi Shri Karumariamman; 1975: Cinema Paithiyam; Abhimanavathi; Ee Kalam Dampathulu; Pichimaraju; Ramuni Minchina Ramudu; Yashoda Krishna; 1976: Doralu Dongalu; Dashavatharam; Needhikku Thalai Vanangu; 1977: Navarathnam; Suvaraniki Nitbenalu; Chanakya Chandragupta; Daana Veera Shura Karna; Oka Talli Katha; 1978: Ananda Bhairavi; 1979: Puthiya Varpugal; Kavariman; Suar Illatha Chitrangal; Viyalavari Kayalu; 1980: Madana Manjiri; Bangaru Bhava; Ketugadu; Mogudu Kavali; Moogaku Matta Vastha; Sarada Ramudu; 1981: Daiva Thirumanangal; Aggirava; Guru Shishyulu; Mayadari Alludu; Suvargam; 1982: Kaliyuga Ramudu; Grihapravesham; Vayyari Bhamulu Vagalamaru Bharthulu; 1983: Muddula Mogudu; Neti Bharatham; Shri Ranganeethulu; Adutha Varisu; Thungatha Kanniru Onru; Shubha Muburtam; 1984: Tharasu; Premagola; Punyam Kodi Purushudu; Takkariidonga; Bangaru Kapuram; Devanthakudu; 1985: Aggiraju; Uriki Soggadu; Sreevaru; Bullet; 1987: Cbinna Thambi Periya Thambi; 1988: Sanghiana; 1991: Guna.

VARKEY, MUTATTHU (B. 1918)

Writer, born in Changanassery, Kerala. One of the most famous purveyors of a Malayalam literature known as paingili fiction: romances pioneered in the serials of the Malayalam magazine, Malayala Manorama, with weekly instalments of formulaic love stories often dealing with extramarital sex, people going away to work or the attractive returnee from the city or abroad causing emotional turmoil. These fictions were a major influence on Malayalam melodrama and on star personae such as Prem Nazir and Sharada. Joined films as scenarist for P. Subramanyam. Wrote e.g. Padatha Paingili, Jailpully, (both 1957); Mariakutty (1958); Poothali (1960); Sneha Deepam (1962), Snapakka Yohannan (1963). Also wrote for Kunchako (Inaprauvugal, 1965) and for K.S. Sethumadhavan (e.g. Gnana Sundari, 1961; Sthanarthi Saramma, 1966). Varkey's style was perpetuated by the writer and scenarist Kanam, his successor in the paingili genre.

VARKEY, POONKUNNAM (B. 1908)

Influential Malayalam writer turned scenarist. Prominent member of a new generation of radical Malayalam short-story writers with e.g. P. Kesavadev, Vaikom Mohammed Basheer and Thakazhy Shivashankar Pillai. According to the literary critic and poet Ayyappa Panicker (1987), many of his stories are 'open attacks on the Church' and 'attempt to bring to light the hidden motivations for outwardly pious actions' (1987). Dialogue writer in the 50s and 60s, e.g. for V. Krishnan's Navalokam (1951), G.R. Rao's Asha Deepam (1953), S.S. Rajan's Snehaseema (1954), M. Krishnan Nair's Viyarpinte Vila (1962), Kunchako's Bharya (1962: from a Kanam story), K.S. Sethumadhavan's Nithya Kanyaka and Susheela (both 1963). Adapted Panthulu's original Kannada version of School Master (1958) into Malayalam, directed by Puttanna Kanagal (1964).

VARMA, RAJA RAVI (1848-1906)

Painter who greatly influenced the iconography of early Indian popular painting, theatre and mass-produced lithographs and oleographs. Born in a feudal family with blood ties to the royal house of Travancore, Kerala. Apprenticed to the Travancore court painter Ramaswamy Naicker and probably studied under the Dutch painter Theodore Jensen. Quickly became known as a portraitist in demand by the Indian nobility and the top British administrators. Then changed direction in a way that left an extraordinary and lasting imprint on popular Indian art forms: he started painting Indian gods and goddesses and famous scenes from the Puranas in a naturalist, 'academic' style, extending this practice into mass-produced oleographs manufactured at a press near Lonavala (1894), an unprecedented development at the time. The 'surrogate realism' (Geeta Kapur, 1989) of his oils and the way they evolved into the first industrialised visual art genre, the mythological, was partly overdetermined by the political aspirations of his royal patrons in Travancore. Varma was part of a current which was explicitly elaborated by the poet and novelist Kerala Varma (1845-1914) and included 'Chambu poets, composers of Kathakali literature, Manipravala poets, anagrammatists, riddle-mongers, instant rhymsters and Shakuntala translators' (R. Nandakumar, 1989). Its political role was to match the cultural credentials of the ruling élite with those of brahminical 'tradition' and Victorian race and class consciousness. This period in 19th C. Travancore was typical of a phenomenon in many feudal South Indian areas (e.g. Mysore), where a reinvented 'classicism' substituted for a social reform movement. Varma's early paintings reinterpret the tenets of academic boudoir painting: e.g. his adaptation of Tanjore glass paintings to create his full-bodied figures. Combining traditional performative discourses and myth with the requirements of industrial production, he achieved, in G. Kapur's words, 'the allegorical transfer of the heroic ages into the current cultural resurgence'. Its impact was not limited to painting. His mise en scene in spatial tableaux was directly appropriated by the Sangeet Natak and by the early cinema: e.g. the way Varma painted his historical/mythological figures in the foreground and signified their actions through a layered background was adopted by stage backdrop painters. Kapur suggested that the oleographs could have emerged directly from his oils, its colours brightened in consonance with Indian light, making the pictures float to the surface: 'The technique of the oleograph captures this up-floated image, the depthless printing inks and high varnish of the technique, making the image all surface'. This flattening effect became a formal convention for middle-class drawing-room painting, for religious expression (e.g. the sewing of gilded sequins around the image of the gods) and for the low-technology cottage industries of label and poster printing, magazine illustrations and greetings cards. J. Sasikumar made a documentary, Raja Ravi Varma (1990), about the artist.

VARMA, RAM GOPAL (B. 1961)

Successful 90s Telugu and Hindi director. Dropped out of Engineering College and started his own video library. Debut with hit campus movie Shiva, deemed to have introduced a new generation of technically sophisticated consumerist cinema in Telugu, along with e.g. Mani Rathnam and Shankar. Made a series of hits, including Kshana Kshanam. Govinda Govinda ran into censor trouble, after which he vowed to abandon Telugu films. Successful entry into Hindi film with Rangeela, although both Shiva and Raat had been released remade in Hindi. Returned to Telugu with Anaganaga Oka Raju and the financial disaster Deyyam. Also produced films by former assistants Sivanageshwara Rao (Money, 1993; Money Money, 1994) and Krishna Vamsy (Gulabi, 1995) who continued his consumerist approach.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1989: Shiva; 1991: Kshana Kshanam; Ratri/Raat; 1992: Antham/Drohi; 1993: Gayam; 1994: Govinda Govinda; 1995: Anaganaga Oka Raju; Rangeela; 1996: Deyyam.

VARMA, VYALAR RAMA (1929-75)

The top lyricist of Malayalam cinema from the 1950s. Born in Vyalar. As a noted poet, he was one of the few members of the erstwhile Travancore aristocracy to join the CP-led cultural resurgence in the late 40s in Kerala. His poems continued the 30s Changampuzha (1911-48) tradition of romantic verse but often shift their rampant idealism into strongly materialist concerns: e.g. his poem Sagara Sangeetham, evoking the cosmic moment of creation replacing God with material reality. According to the historian V.A.K. Ranga Rao (1991), 'He brought the essence of Marxism, Darwin's theory of evolution [the song Itibasangal janikkum munbe in Chuvanna Sandhyakal, 1975], the parables from the Bible, all into Malayalam film song,' adding that Vyalar is never afraid to be explicitly erotic in the tradition of Kalidasa and Jayadeva.

VASAN, S. S. (1903-69)

Original name: Thiruthiraipoondi Subramanya Srinivasan Iyer. Director and best-known Madras producer; owner of Gemini Studio. Born in Thiruthiraipoondi, Thanjavur Dist., TN. Started in advertising; later published the journal Ananda Vikatan (still a best-selling weekly), pioneering a trend of serialised fiction that also introduced writers who later became scenarists (e.g. Kalki). His own novel Sati Leelavathi was filmed by Duncan in 1936: the film was MGR's debut. Turned distributor with Subramanyam's Thyagabhoomi (1939) and financier investing in the Motion Pics Producers Combine; then bought the studio in a government auction to establish Gemini Pics, named after his star sign. Their first film, Madanakamarajan (1941), a major hit, signalled a big shift in the Madras entertainment industry, exemplified by his most famous film, Chandralekha, and by his manifesto in defence of cinematic populism, Pageants for our Peasants. The Gemini signature was equated with multi-starrers and megabudget spectacles, involving songs, sword fights, massive sets and huge battle scenes, in part derived from DeMille but more from popular fairy-tale variants of Indian epics mediated by adventure fiction inspired as much by Alexandre Dumas as by Douglas Fairbanks. The formula called for direct control over distribution, which included a publishing empire, a script department with Ashokamithran and Pulamai Pithan, a star stable, a studio and, after 1958, a full-scale Eastmancolor laboratory. His unrepentant populism and commercial acumen, which at his peak virtually established Madras as a direct rival to Bombay, can be seen in part as a consequence of the nationalist mobilisation of popular culture (cf. K. Subramanyam) and the first real bid by Madras-based capital for the national All-India film market. As director, he concentrated on the Hindi versions of his studio's productions, often simply putting his name as director of bilingual versions.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1948: Chandralekha; 1949: Nisban; 1950: Mangala; 1951: Sansar; 1952: Mr Sampat; 1954: Babul Din Huye; 1955: Insaniyat; 1958: Vanjikottai Valiban; Raj Tilak; 1959: Paigham; 1960: Irumpubhirai; 1961: Gharana; 1967: Aurat; 1968: Teen Bahuraniyan; 1969: Satranj.

Vasudevan Nair, M. T. see Nair, Madathu Thekepattu Vasudevan

VAUHINI PICTURES

Telugu production company in Madras set up by B.N. Reddi (1939) following on from H.M. Reddy's Rohini Pics, which first assembled the team of K. Ramnoth, A.K. Sekhar and K.V. Reddy, later key contributors to Vauhini's 40s film output. Known mainly for B.N. Reddi's elaborate nationalist melodramas (e.g. Vande Mataram, 1939; Sumangali, 1940; Swargaseema, 1945) and for K.V. Reddy's early saint films. In 1948 Vauhini Pics became the studio Vauhini Prod., launched in partnership with Moola Narayanswamy. Ranked with Gemini as pioneering South Indian film institution. It changed hands the following year as B. Nagi Reddy took over and made it a sister concern of his Vijaya Pics.

VEERANNA, GUBBI (1890-1972)

Theatre and film actor, producer and entrepreneur born in Gubbi village, Mysore. Regarded as the founder of the Kannada stage and film industries. The most prominent practitioner of early 20th C. Kannada Company Natak. Aged 11, joined the Gubbi Shri Channabasaveshwara Swami Krupa Poshita Nataka Mandali, better known as the Gubbi Co., a travelling theatre group set up in 1884. Took charge of the group in 1917, performing almost only mythologicals with spectacular stage effects, rapid scene changes and the use of live animals. Set up a theatre school (1924) in Bangalore. At his peak, he ran three repertoires, including one for children, with 250 salaried staff. Started film production (1927) partnered by Devudu Narasimha Sastry and Srinivasa Murthy of the Oriental Bank who later set up the Karnataka Films Corp. (1930) with studios in Malleshwaram. A Belgian cameraman and ethnographic film-maker, Raphael Algoet, helped direct Veeranna's second feature, His Love Affair. The studio became Gubbi-Karnataka Prod. with support from A.V. Meiyappan. For its early productions Veeranna hired famous directors from other languages to make Kannada films: Y.V. Rao for Hari Maya, Raja Chandrasekhar for Sadarame (this film, based on the group's most famous stage production, was also the studio's first success). C. Pullaiah made Subhadra and S. Soundararajan made Hemareddy Malamma. Real success came, however, with entirely local talent: Bedara Kannappa (1954), based on G.V. Iyer's play for the Gubbi Co., directed by H.L.N. Simha. It was also Kannada megastar Rajkumar's first film. Veeranna set up Karnataka Film Distributors (1942), the Sagar Talkies Cinema in Bangalore with money borrowed from diwan Sir Mirza Ismail and later expanded his distribution interests by renting other cinemas. Co-founder of the Shri Kanteerava Studios in Bangalore (1966). Member of the Karnataka State Legislature. Wrote his autobiography, Kaleye Kayaka (1969).

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1930: Song of Life, 1931: His Love Affair, 1932: Hari Maya, 1935: Sadarame, 1941: Subhadra, 1942: Jeevana Nataka; 1945: Hemareddy Malamma; 1953: Gunasagari/Satya Shodhanai; 1956: Sadarame/Sadarama.

VEL PICTURES

Pioneer sound studio of Telugu cinema set up (1933) by exhibitor Pinapala Venkatadasu (aka P.V. Dasu) in Madras in collaboration with M.T. Rajan, C.D. Sami, C.P. Sarathi and Jayantilal Thakare. Launched with Chitrapu Narasimha

Rao's 1934 Telugu remake of Prabhat's Tamil film, Seeta Kalyanam (1933), involving the Prabhat team that later effectively ran the studio: directors K. Ramnoth and Murugadasa and art director A.K. Sekhar. It used RCA equipment apparently installed with assistance from Prabhat technicians. South India's most famous sound recordist, C.E. Biggs (who later worked for three decades with Gemini) started here with Sarpotdar's Nandakumar (1938). With General Pics, Vel represents the first efforts to establish a production infrastructure in Madras (away from Calcutta). The studio lasted only four years. P.V. Dasu died (1936) leaving his most ambitious film, Maya Bazaar (1936), incomplete. The impetus to local production it gave later provided precedents for the Karthikeya Studio (set up as a workers' co-operative in Madras), for Vauhini's output and for Ramabrahman's films at Sarathi. The Vel premises later became the Narasu Studios.

VENKAIAH, RAGHUPATHI (?-1941)

Popular photographer with a studio on Mount Road, Madras; as exhibitor he is sometimes credited with introducing cinema to South India. Imported the Chrono-Megaphone system through John Dickinson & Co., Madras, with an attached gramophone player which presented the illusion of synchronised sound. Screened films like Raja's Casket and Pearl Fish in the Victoria Public Hall. Many of his screenings were limited to c.500 ft of film in order to match the duration of the record disc. Some sources claim he travelled through Burma and Sri Lanka in 1912, before building the Gaiety, the first permanent cinema in Madras (1914). Also built the Crown and the Globe theatres in that city, showing mainly British and American films. Father of Raghupati Prakash.

VENKATESH, DAGGUBATI (b. 1960)

Telugu star; son of noted producer D. Rama Naidu. Debut as child actor in Prem Nagar. Abandoned studies in business management in the USA to become 'new generation' Telugu star alongside contemporaries Nagarjuna and Balkrishna. Srinivasa Kalyanam was one of his early successes, while the award-winning Swarna Kamalam accrued an actorial reputation to his style. First major success however was Bobbili Raja, followed by Kshana Kshanam and Chanti. Known generally for his introduction of a light-weight and casual performing style mounted in contrast to the theatrical rhetoric that still dominates notions of 'good acting' in Telugu. Hindi debut with Eeshwar, followed by Anari (remaking Chanti) and the unsuccessful Taqdeerwala.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1971: Prem Nagar; 1985: Kaliyuga Pandavulu; 1986: Brahma Rudralu; 1987: Ajeyudu; Bharatamlo Arjundu; Trimurtulu; Vijetha Vikram; Srinivasa Kalyanam; 1988: Raktha Tilakam; Brahma Puthrudu; Swarna Kamalam; Varasoduchadu; 1989: Prema; Vontari Poratham; Dhruvanakshatram; Two Town Rqwdy; Maro Peru; Oka Deepam Veligindhi; Padavoyi Bharatbeeyuda; Rama Rajyamlo Raktha Pasam; Secretary; Uttamurulu; Yavanam Katesindi; 1977: Aalu Magalu; Chakradhari; Ee Tharam Manishi; Geetha Sangeetha; Indra Dhanushu; Janma Janmala Bandham; Kalpana; Kurukshetramu; Savasagalu; Sati Savitri; Seeta Rama Vanavasam; Jeevana Theeralu; Jeevitha Nauka; 1978: Sahasavanthudu; Manchi Babai; Kalanthakulu; Enki Nayudu Bava; Akbar Saleem Anarkali; Allari Bullodu; Chal Mobanaranga; Devadasu Malli Puttadu; Dvudbasavanna; Nindu Manishi; Prema Chesina Pelli; Simha Garajana; Vichitra Jeevitham; Ganga Bhawani; 1979: Captain Krishna; Maa Inti Lakshmi; Mande Gundelu; Karthika Deepam; Bangaru Chellalu; Hema Hemeelu; Intinti Ramayanam; Judagadi; Muddula Koduku; Naa Illu Naa Vellu; Maavari Manchiibanam; Sankhu Teertham; Shri Tirupati Venkateshu; vr. Kalyanam; Tiger; Sangham Chekkina Silpala; 1980: Premabbishekkham; Sreevari Muchattu; Kiladi Krishnudu; Nijam; Ammayi Mogadu Mamaku Yamadu; Buchi Babu; Challenge Ramudu; Chandi Priya; Dharma Chakram; Gharana Donga; Kaksba; Kotba Jeevithulu; Shri Vasavi Kannika Parameswari Mahatyam; Gajadonga; Premabbishekkham; 1981: Asha Jyoti; Jeevitha Ratham; Agni Poolu; Alludugaru Zindabad; Bhoga Bhagyahu; Bhogimantulu; Jatagadu; Pranaya Geetham; Prema Mandiram; Sandhya Ragam; 1982: Jagannatha Rathachakralu; Gopala Krishnudu; Kaliyuga Ramudu; Anuraga Devatha; Bangaru Kanuka; Ee Charithra Ee Sivato; Ekalavya; Idi Kadhu Mugimpu; Mondighatam; Nelavanka; Pelli Chuputlu; Raga Deepam; Swayamvaram; 1983: Dharma Poratam; Dharmathmudu; Ee Pillaku Pellavuthunda; Ekanaina Marindi; Koteeshwarudu; MLA Yedukondalu; Mundadugu; Police Venkataswamy; Prema Picholu; Rojulu Marayi; Rudrakali; Sangharshana; Shubba Muburtam; Todu Needa; Gaju Bommalu; 1985: Kongumudi; O Thandri Teerpu; 1987: Theene Manasulu; 1990: Bobbili Raja; Pelli Pustakam; 1991: Talli Tandru; 1992: Brindavanamu; 1993: Mutha Mestry; Rajendrudu Gajendrudu; Varasudu.

Relangi Venkatramaiah in Varakatnam (1968)

FILMOGRAPHY: 1935: Shri Krishna Tulabbaram; 1939: Varavikrayam; 1940: Malathi Madhavam; 1942: Balanagamma; 1947: Gollabhama; 1948: Madalasa; Vindhyanani; 1949: Gunsundari Katha; Keelugurram/Maya Kudhirai; Mana Desam; 1950: Maya Rambha; Samsaram; Shavukaru; Vali Sugriva; Paramanandayya Sishyula Katha; 1951: Patala Bhairavi/Pataal Bhairavi; Perantalu; Agni Pareeksha; 1952: Daasi; Dharmadevata; Manavati; Pelli Chesu Choodu/Kalyanam Panni Paar; Pedaraitu; Prema/Katbal; Priyuralu; Tinguranga; 1953: Bratuku Theruvu; Chandirani; Pakkinti Ammayi; Paropakaram; Ammalakkalu/Marumagal; Chandrabaram; Pardesi; 1954: Pedda Manasulu; Aggiramudu; Amara Sandesam; Maa Gopi; Raju Pedu; Sati Sakkubai; Vipranarayana; 1955: Cherupukura Chedevu; Jayasimba/Jaisingh; Shri Krishna Tulabbaram; Missamma/Missamma; Rojulu Marayi/Kalam Maripochu; Santhanam; Santosham/Naya Admi; Vadina; Vijayagauri; Donga Ramudu; Aadabidda; 1956: Chintamani; Harishchandra; Ilavelu; Bhale Ramudu/Prema Pasam; Jayam Mande; Shri Gauri Mahatyam; Umasundari; Mathar Kula Manikam/Charanadasi; Penki Pellam; 1957: Dongalo Dora; Sarangadhara; Sati Savitri; Nala Damayanti; Repu Neede; Maya Bazaar; Dampatyam; Peddarikalu; Allavudeenum Arputha Vilakkum/Allauddin Adbhuta Deepam/Alladdin Ka Chirag; Suvarna Sundari/Manalane Mangayin Bhagyam; Veera Kankanam; Bhale Bhava; Sankalpam; Bhale Ammayilu/Iru Sahodarigal; Sati Ansuya; Thodi Kodalu; Bhagya Rekha; 1958: Ettuku Pai Ettu; Anna Thamudu; Chenchulakshmi; Raja Nandini; Shobba; Aadapettanam; Manchi Manishiki Manchi Rojulu; Bbuloka Rambba; Appu Chesu Pappu Koodu/Kadan Vangi Kalyanam; 1959: Mangalya Balam/Manjal Magimai; Jayabheri; Veer Bhaskaradu; Illarikam; Rechukka Pragaticukka; Shabash Ramudu; Daivabalam; Vachina Kodalu Nachindi; Bandaramudu/Adisaya Thirudan; Balanagamma; Bhagya Devatha; Kalasivunte Kaladu Sukham; 1960: Shantivasam; Kuladaivam; Rani Ratnaprabha; Dharmane Jayam; Pelli Kanuka; Mabakavi Kalidasa; Kumkumarekba; Bhakta Ragbunath; Kadeddulu Ekaramnela; Annapurna; Runanubandham; Abhimanam; Samajam; Vimala; 1961: Velugu Needalu; Usba Parinayam; Intiki Deepam Illale; Bhakta Jayadeva; Bharya Bartulu; Pelli Pilupu; Krishna Prema; RUSHYASHRUNGAL/ Rishyashringar; Taxi Ramudu; Vagdanam; Jagadeka Veeruni Katha; Iddaru Mithrulu; Raktha Sambandham; 1962: Mobini Rugmangada; Khaidi Kannayya; Arabhana; Tiger Ramudu; Pelli Thambulam; Bhisbma; Gundamma Katha; Mahamantri Timmarasu; Kulagotbralu; Siri Sampadalu; Ashajevelu; Atmabandhu; 1963: Irugu Porugu; Edureetha; Pempudu Kootburu; Chauduvukonna Ammayilu; Paruvu Pratisbha; Anuragam; Bandhipotu; Lakshadbikari; Savati Koduku; 1964: Mahiravana; Atmabalam; Gudigantalu; Amarashilpi Jakanna; Deshadrobulu; Ramudu Bheemudu; Babruvabana; Varasatwam; Poojapbalam; 1965: Sumangali; Mangamma Sapatham; Satya Harishchandra; Prameelarjuneyam; Preminchi Choodu; Vishala Hridayalu; Sati Sakkubai; Aadabrathuku; Shri Simbachala Kshetra Mahatyam; 1966: Zamindar; Atmagauravam; Navarathri; Srikakula Andhra Mahavisbnu Katha; Vijayasankham; Goodachari 116; Letamanasulu; Adugu Jadal; Manase Mandiram; Astiparulu; Ramu; 1967: Bhakta Prahlada; Pinni; Sati Sumati; Pranamithrulu; Bhale Kodalu; Vasantsena; Private Master; Rabasyam; Aada Paduchu; 1968: Varakatnam; Veerapooja; Talliprema; Tikka Shankaraiab; Govula Gopanna; Amayukudu; Chinnari Papalu; Chuttarikalu; Chhallani Needa; Bangaru Gajulu; Umachandi Gauri Shankarula Katha; Kalasina Manasulu; Pelliroju; Baghdad Gajadonga; Nindu Samsaram; 1969: Shri Rama Katha; Bhale Abbayilu; Nindu Hridayalu; Bhale Tammudu; Mathrudevata; Karpura Harati; 1970: Dharmadatha; Pettandarulu; Vidhi Vilasam; Yamalokapu Goodachari; Kodalu Diddina Kapuram; 1971: Jeevitha Chakram; Patindalla Bangaram; 1972: Kalavari Kutumbam; Shabash Papanna; 1973: Dabbuku Lokam Dasoham; Geetha; Dr Babu; Ganga Manga; Manavu Manasu; Palleteori Bhava; 1974: Mugguru Ammayilu; Manushilo Devudu; Radhamma Pelli; Ram Rabim; 1975: Pooja; 1976: Vadbu Varulu.

VENKATRAMAIAH, RELANGI (1910-75)

Telugu actor born in Ravulapadu, AP. Educated in Kakinada. Professional Harikatha performer. Also did folk theatre and acted female roles in stage musicals. Expert harmonium player. Joined films playing the Vidushaka (jester) in C. Pullaiah's Shri Krishna Tulabbaram. Assisted Pullaiah as production manager for several years before returning to acting. Became a star with Gollabhama. First major comedy role in Vindhyanani, continuing his reputation as a comedy actor in Missamma, Bhale Ramudu and Iddaru Mithrulu. Played minor roles until the late 50s, becoming a regular face in Vijaya films. Often paired with Suryakantam (e.g. Samsaram), and with Girija (sometimes forming a trio with Ramana Reddy).

VENU, MASTER (1916-81)

Telugu music composer born in Bandar, AP. Learnt music from a relative, Ramaiah Naidu, and later Chebrolu Venkatarathnam. Concert vocalist as a teenager. Introduced by Dr Giri of the Giri Museum in Madras to music director B. Narasimha Rao (1938), whom he assisted on Raitu Biddu (1939) and Meerabai (1940). Also worked in Vasant Desai's orchestra. Employed as chief conductor of the Vijaya Studio orchestra, pioneering the use of electronic synthesisers in Telugu films. First film as composer, Anta Manavalle, at Sarathi Studio. Became a star with Rojulu Marayi, esp. with the folk number Eruvaaka sagalo. The song, enacted by Waheeda Rehman in her screen debut, caused major debates regarding its origins. It was adapted into Tamil and S.D. Burman made its Hindi version for Bambai Ka Babu (1960).

FILMOGRAPHY: 1945: Valmiki; 1950: Vali Sugriva; 1954: Anta Manavalle; 1955: Rojulu Marayi/Kalam Maripochu; 1956: Melukolupu; 1957: Sati Savitri; Peddarikalu; 1958: Ettuku Pat Ettu; 1959: Mangalya Balam/Manjal Magimai; Bhagya Devatha; Raja Mukutam; Kalasivante Kaladu Sukham; 1960: Shantiniwasam; Kuladaivam; Kumkumarekha; Jaksarayudu; 1961: Batasari/Kanal Neer; 1962: Sri Sampadalu; 1963: Irugu Porugu; Somavara Vratam; 1964: Murali Krishna; 1965: Preminchi Choodu; 1966: Adugu Jadal; 1968: Kalasina Manasulu; Vintha Kapuram; Nindu Samsaram; Bharya; Baghdad Gajadonga; 1969: Bommalu Cheppina Katha; Ardha Rathri; 1970: Aada Janma; Vidhi Vilasam; 1972: Athanu Diddina Kodalu; 1974: Uttama Illalu; 1975: Andaru Bagundali; 1976: Vadhu Varulu; 1978: Melukolupu; 1980: Maa Inti Devatha.

VIJAYA PICTURES

Production company established in partnership between erstwhile publishers (and owners of BNK Press) B. Nagi Reddy and Chakrapani. They started with L.V. Prasad's Shavukaru (1950). Nagi Reddy had invested in Vauhini (1949) and became its studio manager, while Chakrapani was mainly a scenarist. With the production wing of Vauhini still run by its founder, B.N. Reddi, the Nagi Reddy-Chakrapani duo started their own production unit, Vijaya Pics, which gradually took over the studio's entire production section. Known as the Vijaya-Vauhini Studio complex, it is considered one of South India's most elaborately equipped studio floors, for a while reputedly the largest in Asia. Invented the megabudget folklore genre with Maya Bazaar (1957), Patala Bhairavi (1958), Jagadeka Veeruni Katha (1961) et al., in part derived from the children's fiction published in the 14-edition children's journal Chandamama published by the BNK Press. Alongside these, following the landmark Shavukaru, Vijaya's productions are also known for low-budget family socials, a genre pioneered by L.V. Prasad (Pelli Chest Choodu, 1952; Missamma, 1955; Appu Chest Pappu Koodu, 1958) and expanded by Vijaya in Tamil and Hindi. The films were directed by e.g. K.V. Reddy, K. Kameshwara Rao, Chanakya, T. Prakash Rao (who made their Hindi film Ghar Ghar Ki Kahani, 1970) and K.S. Sethumadhavan (Julle), 1975). After being dormant for some years, returned with films like Nammavar and Bhairava Dweepam (both 1994).

VIJAYABHASKAR (B. 1931)

Kannada music director since 1955; worked in 6 languages. Best known for Putanna Kanagal's films. Work includes classic songs from Bellimoda, Nagara Haavu and Manasa Sarovara. Also worked with Lakshminarayan and Nagabharana (e.g. Grahana, with music drawn from tribal folk rituals). Formally trained in both Carnatic and North Indian classical music (the latter under G.K. Bhavé) and worked as assistant to Naushad and Madhavlal Master before becoming an independent composer. His second assignment, Y.V. Rao's Bhagya Chakra, was based on his own script and dialogues as well.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1955: Shrirama Pooja; 1956: Bhagya Chakra; 1957: Premada Putri/ Preme Daivam/Anbe Daivam; 1960: Rani Honamma; 1963: Mana Mechhida Madadi; Sant Tukaram; 1964: Post Master; Pathiye Daiva; Nandi; 1965: Beretha Jeeva; Amarajeevi; 1966: Thoogu Deepa; Kusirthikuttan/Anni; 1967: Jeevikan Anuvadhikuta; Bellimoda; Lagna Patrike; Premakku Permitta; Pathirapattu; 1968: Kayalkarayil; Manku Dinne; Mysore Tonga; Bhagyada Bagilu; Anandakanda; Anna Thamma; Natasarva Bhowma; Manninamaga; 1969: Suvarnabhoomi; Namma Makkalu; Mallamma Pavana; Eradu Mukha; Makkale Manege Manikya; Uyyale; Brindavana; 1970: Gejje Pooje; Arishina Kumkuma; Anirikshita; Bhoopathiranga; Takka! Bitre Sikka!!; Lakshmi Saraswathi; Balu Belagithu; Aaru Mooru Ombattu; Seeta; Mukti; Balapanjara; 1971: Sbarapanjara; Signalman Siddappa; Kalyani; Bhale Adrushtavo Adrushta; 1972: Yavajannada Maitri; Hridayasangama; Naa Mechhida Huduga; Nandu Gokula; Mareyada Deepavali; Jeevana Jokaali; Nagara Haavu; 1973: Devaru Kotta Thangi; CID 72; Sankalpa; Seetheyalla Savithri; Jaya Vijaya; Mane Belagida Sose; Kesarina Kamala; Abachurina Post Office; 1974: Upasane; Krishnaveni; Kalyanamam Kalyanam; Ungal Virupam; Unnaitan Thambi; Engamma Sabatham; 1975: Aan Pillai Singam; Engalukkum Kathal Varum; Malai Sooda Va; Mayangurikal Oru Madhu; Thottabellam Ponnagum; Unga Veetu Kalyanam; Uravu Solla Oruvan; Yaruukku Mappillai Yaro; Ammayila Sabatham; Shubhamangala; Kasturi Vijaya; Bhagya Jyothi; Ninagagi Nanu; Bili Hendthi; Hennu Samsarada Kannu; Katha Sangama; 1976: Makkala Bhagya; Besuge; Chiranjeevi; Tulasi; Maya Manushya; Phalithamsha; Kalangalil Aval Vasantham; Moham Muppathu Varusham; Kalamadi Kalam; Sangharsha; 1977: Aadu Puli Atham; Aval Oru Athisayam; Mamiyar Veedu; Olimayamana Ethirkalam; Harake; Deepa; Magiya Kanasu; Mugdha Manava; Kumkuma Rakshe; Banashankari; Devare Dikku; Ganda Hendthi; 1978: Havina Hejje; Siritanakke Sava; Paduvaraballi Pandavaru; Premayana; Thappida Tala/Thappu Thalanga; Vasanthalakshmi; Aluku; Amarnath; Pare Solla Oru Pillai; Rajavukku Etha Rani; Grahana; 1979: Adalu Badalu; Sadananda; Muryi; Mallige Sampige; Dangeyedda Makkalu; Tirada Bayake; 1980: Akhanda Brahmachari-galu; Hanthakana Sanchi; Kappu Kola; Ellindalo Bandavaru; Subbi Subakka Stuvvalali; Namma Mane Sose.

Mother; Bangarada Jinke; Mithuna; Driver Hanuimanthu; Hare Krishna Hello Radha; Sundarime Varuga Varuga; Anteshane; 1981: Sooravalli; Leader Vishwanath; Chalagara; Nari Swargakke Dari; Balu Bangara; Bangarada Mane; Preetisi Nodu; Daari Thappinte Manishi; 1982: Jodi Jeeva; Jimmygallu; Manasa Sarovara; Suvarna Sethu; 1983: Devara Tirpu; Dharanmandala Madhyadolage; Banker Margayya; Matte Vasantha; Ananda Sagara; Muttaide Bhagya; Amayaka Chakravarthi; Oru Kai Paapam; 1984: Rajahmundry Romeo; Amrutha Galige; Shubha Muhurta; Huli Hejje; Pavitra Prema; Runamukhtbalu; 1985: Haavu Eni Aata; Mavano Aliyan; Masanada Hootu; Bhayankara Bakasarudu; 1986: Thavaru Mane; Nenapina Doni; Sundara Swapnagalu; Malaya Marutha; 1987: Huli Hebbuli; Thalaya Aane; Aaseya Bale; Avasthe; Bandha Mukti; Surya; Antima Ghatta; 1988: Thayiya Aase; Bhoomi Thayane; Gudugu Sidilu; Thayigobba Karna; Mithileya Seetheyaru; Kadina Benki; 1989: Thaligagi; Madhu Maasa; Matbilukal; Amrutha Bindu; Prathama Usha Kirana; Yerudu Mane Meena; 1991: Patita Pavani; 1994: Aagbata; Gangavaa Gangamayee; 1995: Kathapurushan.

VIJAYANIRMALA (B. 1945)

Telugu actress and director. Started acting aged 5 under P. Pullaiah (Macharekhai), in male role. Debut in adult roles in Tamil and Malayalam: Enga Veetu Penn (a remake of Shavukaru, 1950) for the Vijaya Studio, whence her screen name. Cast in A. Vincent's debut, Bhargavi Nilayam (Malayalam) playing the ghost. May have acted in 60s Malayalam films under the pseudonyms Neeraja and Usha Kumari. First Telugu film was Bapu's Saaksht, after which she married its star, Krishna, working with his Padmalaya Studio since then. Appeared in over 130 films in Telugu, Kannada, Tamil and Malayalam. Known in Tamil as Alek Nirmala after the song Ezhandam pazham in Panama Pasama. Directorial debut with Kavitha in Malayalam, later remade in Telugu. Together with her husband, set up own production company and directed most of their films, at times starring her son, Naresh, but mostly featuring Krishna himself, one of NTR's main rivals. Her film Sabasame Naa Upiri was a campaign film on behalf of the Congress(I), attacking NTR's government. Made many box-office hits but is said to prefer her flop, Devadasu, which starred Krishna in her version of the classic Saratchandra love story featuring her as Paro opposite Krishna's Devdas.

FILMOGRAPHY (* also d/ only d): 1950: Macharekhai; 1957: Panduranga Mahatyam; 1958: Bhukailasa; 1964: Bhargavi Nilayam; 1965: Enga Veetu Penn; 1966: Kalyana Rathriyil; Puchakanni; Chitthi; Rangula Ratnam; 1967: Padhyam; Anveshichu Kandattyilla; Udyogastha; Pooja; Pinni; Saaksht; Upayamlo Apayam; Bhale Kodalu; Poolarangadu; 1968: Panama Pasama; Sircar Express; Attagaru Kottakodalu; Bangaru Pichika; Nilagiri Express; Soppu

Vijayanirmala in Pulliman (1972)

Seppu Kannadi; Uyira Manama; Sathyam Thavarathe; Karutha Pournami; 1969: Love in Andhra; Manchi Mithruhi; Bommalu Cheppina Katha; Takkari Donga Chakkanichukka; Vichitra Kutumbam; Muburtabalam; Mamaku Tagga Kodalu; Anna Dammulu; Buddhimanthudu; Prema Kanuka; Bandhipotu Bhimanna; 1970: Agni Pareeksha; Amma Kosam; Alludu Menalludu; Akkabellelu; Maa Nanna Nirdosbi; Malli Pelli; Marina Manishi; Pagasadbishta; Pettandarulu; Rendu Kutumbala Katha; Pelli Sambandham; Talli Bottu; Vidhi Vilasam; 1971: Adavi Veerulu; Anuradha; Rowdy Rangadu; Ramalayam; Bangaru Kutumbam; Bangaru Talli; Bomma Borusa; Master Kiladi; Mosagalluku Mosagadu; Nindu Dampatulu; Vichitra Dampathyam; Bullemma Bullodu; 1972: Kalippava; Gnana Oli; Pulliman; Postmane Kananilla; Manchivallaku Manchivadu; Shabash Papanna; Tata Manavadu; Bhale Mosagadu; Pandanti Kapuram; Kathula Rathaiab; Maa Inti Velugu; 1973: Nija Roopalu; Varasurahi; Nenu Naa Desam; Devudu Chesina Manasulu; Kavitha; Meena; Ponnapuram Kotta; Kattu Vitthabavan; Thenaruvu; Pavangal Pennungal; 1974: Durga; Devadasu; Gali Patalu; Banbrotu Bbary; Dhanavanthulu Gunavanthulu; Jeevithasayam; Alluri Seetaramaraju; Nitya Sumangali; Ram Rabim; 1975: Mallela Manasulu; Sanibanam Saubbhagyam; Pichodi Pelli; Padi Pantalu; Kavitha; 1976: Devude Gelichadu; Rama Rajyamlo Raktha Pasam; Colonel and Collector; 1977: Ardhangi; Kuruksbetramu; Morotudu; Maarpu; Chakradhari; Chillarakottu Chittamma; Panchayathi; 1978: Moodu Puuvulu Aaru Kayalu; Rowdy Rangamma; Prema Chesina Pelli; Devadasu Malli Puttadu; Manavoori Pandavulu; Patnavasam; 1979: Bangaru Chellalu; Korikile Gurralaite; Sangham Chekkina Silpalu; Hema

Hemeelu; Sankbu Teertham; 1980: Ram Robert Rabim; Kiladi Krishnudu; Sirimalle Navindi; Raktha Sambandham; 1981: Antham Kadidi Arambham; Bhogimanthulu; 1982: Doctor Cineactor; Prema Sankellu; 1983: Todu Needa; Amayakudu Kadhu Asadhyudu; Bezwada Bebbuli; Chattaniki Veyi Kallu; Lanke Bindelu; 1984: Mukhya Mantri; Mukkopi; Sumangali Kolam; 1985: Vijeta; Hasyabhishekham; Surya Chandra; 1986: Shantniwasam; Naa Pilupe Prabbanjanam; Krishna Paramatma; Parasuramudu; 1987: Sankharavam; Pagasadbishta; Mandala Dheesudu; Collector Vijaya; 1988: Rowdy No. 1; Praja Pratinidhi; Sendhoora Poove; 1989: Prajala Manishi; Gandipeta Rabasyam; Pinni; Sahasame Naa Upiri; Ajatasathru; 1991: Vadina Mata; 1994: Yes Nenante Nene.

VINAYAK DAMODAR KARNATAKI, MASTER. (1906-47)

Marathi and Hindi actor-director known as Master Vinayak. Born and educated in Kolhapur. Brother of the cinematographer Vasudev Karnataki and step-brother of Baburoo Pentharkar. Started as a teacher while acting on the Marathi stage, then actor in Shantaram's films, making his mark in the early Prabhat films with his powerful singing and acrobatic acting style. Moved to Kolhapur Cinetone (1933) where he made his first film, Vilasi Ishwar. Launched the famous Huns Pics (1936), later Navyug Chitrapat (1940), and then Prafulla Pics (1943-7). Used remarkable scripts by Mama Warerkar, P.K. Atre and V.S. Khandekar, members of a new literary generation aggressively seeking to go beyond the then dominant social reform conventions. Scripts engaged with contemporary politics, transforming melodrama into satire, deploying slang and journalistic techniques. Often played the glibble fool, in Brahmachari, Ardhangi, Dharmaveer. Also did some inspired casting, e.g. the Gundyabhau-Chimanrao duo reminiscent of Laurel and Hardy played by Malvankar and Vishnupant Jog, based on C.V. Joshi's celebrated political satires (Lagna Pabave Karun and Sarkari Pabune, both scripted by Khandekar). Huns Pics commissioned scripts from writer-director teams, e.g. V.V. Bokil and R.S. Junnarkar (Pabili Mangalagaur, 1942) or Bokil and Vasant Joglekar (Chimukla Sansar, 1943). This system was continued by Atre's productions and by e.g. P.L. Deshpande and Ram Gabale (Doodh Bhaat, Ghardhani, both 1952) and G.D. Madgulkar and Raja Paranjpe. His biography was written by his chief disciple Dinkar D. Patil (1971), who finished Vinayak's last feature, Mandir.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY (* also d/ only d): 1932: Ayodhyecha Raja/Ayodhya Ka Raja; Jalti Nisbani/Agnikankan; Maya Machhindra; 1933: Sairandhri; Sinbagad; 1934: Akaswani; 1935: Bhikharan; Vilasi Ishwar/Nigab-e-Nafrat; 1936: Chhaya; 1937: Dharmaveer; Premveer; 1938: Jwala; Brahmachari; 1939: Brandicbi Batli/Brandy Ki Botal; Devata; 1940: Ardhangi/Gbar Ki Rani; Lagna Pabave Karun; Lapandav; 1941: Sangam; Amrit; 1942: Sarkari Pabune; 1943: Mazbe Bal; Chimukla Sansar; 1944: Gajabbau; 1945: Badi Maa; 1946: Subhadra; Jeevan Yatra; Dr Kotnis Ki Amar Kabani; 1948: Mandir.

VINCENT, ALOYSIUS (B. 1928)

Malayalam director and noted cameraman born in Calicut, Kerala, in a Syrian Christian family. Apprentice cameraman at the Gemini Studio (1947) where he assisted Kamal Ghosh and N. Natarajan. Key technician on Kariat's Neelakuyil (1954) and later on Mudiyanaya Putran (1961); also worked for Venus Pics, Madras: e.g. T. Prakash Rao's Amara Deepam (1956), Sridhar's Kalyana Parisu (1959). Debut as director with landmark Malayalam film Bhargavi Nilayam, a fantasy derived from Vaikom Mohammed Basheer's writing. Became a noted reformist director together with e.g. Sethumadhavan, often using scripts by the novelist and scenarist M.T. Vasudevan Nair (e.g. Murappennu, Nagarame Nandi, Asuravitbu). He does not usually photograph his own films.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1964: Bhargavi Nilayam; 1965: Murappennu; 1967: Aswamedham; Nagarame Nandi; Engalukam Kalamvaryam; 1968: Asuravitbu; Thulabaram; 1969: Almaram; Nadbi; 1970: Nizhalattam; Triveni; 1971: Abhijathyam; 1972: Gandharvakshetram; Teerthayatra; 1973: Chenda; Achani; Nakhangal; Dharma Yuddham; 1974: Thirumangalyam; 1975: Nalla Marumagal; Priyamulla Sobia; 1976: Anavaranam; 1977: Agni Naksatram; Naam Pirandha Maan; 1978: Vayanadan Thampan, Anappachan; 1982: Ponnu Pooam; 1983: Theeram Theedunna Thira; 1984: Shri Krishnaparunthu; 1985: Pournami Ravil; Kochuthemmadi.

VISHNUVARDHAN (B. 1952)

With Ambarish, the top male star in 70s/80s Kannada film. Début in Karnad/Karanth's Vamsba Vriksba. Made a major impression as the misguided rebel in Kanagal's Nagara Haavu: with hunched shoulders and stunted, reptilian moves he gave perhaps the one classic Kanagal performance replete with overtly phallic symbology and dramatic fatalism transcending psychological naturalism. The film showed he was capable of more than the star turns in discotheques and elaborate song picturisations which constitute the bulk of his work. Acted often with S.V. Rajendra Singh, notably the army officer in Muthina Hara. Début in Hindi cinema with Ramsay's Inspector Dhanush. Did two Tamil films, Alaigal and Mazhalai Pattalam.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1971: Vamsba Vriksba; 1972: Nagara Haavu; 1973: Seetheyalla Savithri; Mane Belagida Sose; Ganbhadagudi; Alaigal; 1974: Boothayyana Maga Ayyu; Professor Huchuraya; Anna Attige; Devara Gudi; 1975: Koodi Balona; Kalla Kulla; Bhagya Jyothi; Naga Kanye; Onderupa Eradu Guna; Lakshmi Nirdoshi; Devaru Kotta Vara; Hosilu Mettida Henu; 1976: Pellade Bomma; Makkala Bbagya; Bangarada Gudi; 1977: Bayasade Banda Bhagya; Sose Thanda Saubhagya; Nagarhole; Chinna Nimma Muddaduve; Shrimanthana Magalu; Sahodarara Sava; Shani Prabhava; Galate Samsara; Kittu Puttu; 1978: Hombisilu; Sandarbha; Kiladi Kittu; Vamsa Jyothi; Muyyige Muyyi; Siritanakke Sava; Pratima; Nanna Prayashchitta; Sneha Sedu; Kiladi Jodi; Vasantbalakshmi; Amarnath; Bhale Huduga; Madhura Sangama; Singaporenalli Raja Kulla; 1979: Asadhya Alitya; Vijaya Vikram; Na Niruvude Ninagangi; Manini; Nentaro Gantu Kalloro; Bayan; 1980: Nanna Rosha Nooru Varusha; Rama Parashurama; Kalinga; Hanthakana Sanchu; Makkala Sainya; Biligiriya Bandalalli; Simha Jodi; Rahasya Rathri; Bangarada Jinke; Driver Hanumanthu; Mazhalai Pattalam; Mr Rajanikant; 1981: Mane Mane Kathe; Naga Kala Bhairava; Maha Prachandaru; Guru Shishyaru; Snehitara Sava; Avala Hejje; Preetisi Nodu; Adimachangala; 1982: Pedda Gedda; Sabasa Simba; Karmika Kallanalla; Urige Upakari; Jimmygallu; Suvarna Sethuve; 1983: Onde Guri; Kalluveene Nudiyitu; Sididedda Sabodara; Gandharvagiri; Gandugalli Rama; Chinnadanta Maga; Simha Garjane; 1984: Purnandayya Shishyulu Katha; Sardar Ramudu; Prachanda Kulla; Rudranaga; Khaidi; Benki Birugali; Endina Ramayana; Huli Hejje; Bandhana; Chanakya; Aradhane; 1985: Kartavya; Mahapurusha; Veeradhi Veera; Nee Bareda Kadambari; Mareyada Manikyaa; Nanna Prathigne; Jeevana Chakra; Nee Thanda Kanike; Eetti; Mazhakkala Megham; 1986: Karna; Ee Jeeva Ninagagi; Katha Nayaka; Satya Jyothi; Krishna Nee Begane Baaro; Malaya Marutha; Viduthalai; 1987: Saubhagya Lakshmi; Karunamayi; Jayasimba; Aaseya Bale; Jeevana Jyothi; Shubha Milana; Satyam Shivam Sundaram; 1988: December 31st; Olavina Asare; Nammoora Raja; Jana Nayaka; Suprabhata; Krishna Rukmini; Mithileya Seetheyaru; Dada; 1989: Ondagi Baahu; Hridaya Geethe; Rudra; Deva; Doctor Krishna; 1990: Shiva Shankar; Muthina Hara; Mathe Hadithu Kogile; 1991: Lion Jagapathy Rao; Neenu Nakkare Haalu Sakkare; Jagadeka Veera; Inspector Dhanush/Police Mattu Dada; 1992: Rajadhi Raja; Ravi Varma; Sangharsha; Harakeya Kuri; Nanna Shatru; 1993: Vaishakada Dinagalu; Nanendu Nimmavane; Rayara Bandharu Mauana Manege; Vishnu Vijaya; Asbant; Manikantana Mahime; Nishkarsa; 1994: Time Bomb; Kuntiputra; Samrat; Mahakshatriya; Halunda Thavaru; Kiladigalu; Zalim; 1995: Kone Edaithe; Yama Kinkara; Mojugara Sogasugara; Deergba Sumangali; Bangarada Kalasa; Thumbida Mane; Karulina Kudi.

VISHWANATH, KASHINADHUNI (B. 1930)

Telugu and Hindi director born in Vijaywada, AP, where his father worked for Vauhini distribution. Science degree (1948) and started as sound engineer at Vauhini Studio. Assisted Adurthi Subba Rao at Annapurna and scripted e.g. the A. Nageshwara Rao production Sudigundalu (1967). Made his début in Telugu with Nageshwara Rao's support, continuing the Annapurna brand of art-house melodrama. Broke through with Nindu Hridayalu, followed by the major success of Shankarabharanam, which led to a series of films on classical music and dance. Tends to advocate a vulgarised classicism passed off as traditionalism, even Hindu revivalism in the arts and moderate liberalism in social customs. Hindi début, Sargam, remade Siri Siri Muuva. Has adapted several of his Telugu hits into Hindi, e.g. Sur Sangam, which remade Shankarabharanam with Girish Karnad. Writes his own Telugu films and prefers location shooting. In 1995 he acted in P.C. Sriram's Kurudhappunal/Drohi and in S.V. Krishna Reddy's Vajram, in addition to his own Shubha Sankalpam.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1965: Atmagauravam; 1967: Private Master; 1968: Kalischina Adrusbtam; Undamma Bottupeduta; 1969: Nindu Hridayalu; 1971: Nindu Dampatulu; Chinmanati Snehitulu; Chelleli Kapuram; 1972: Kalam Marindi; 1973: Sbarada; Neramu Siksha; 1974: O Seeta Katha; Amma Manasu; 1975: Jeevana Jyoti; 1976: Mangalyaniki Maro Peru; Siri Siri Muuva; Premabandham; 1977: Jeevitba Nauka; 1978: Kalanthakulu; Seetamalakshmi; 1979: Sargam; Shankarabharanam; President Peramma; 1980: Alludu Pattina Bharatham; Subhodayam; 1981: Saptapadi; 1982: Shubbhalekha; Kaamchor; 1983: Sagara Sangamam; Shubb Kaamna; 1984: Jaag Utha Insaan; Janani Janma Bloomi; Allulostunnaru; 1985: Swati Muthyam; Sanjog; Sur Sangam; 1986: Sirivennela; 1987:

Srutilayalu; Swayamkrushi; 1988: Swarna Kamalam; 1989: Eeshwar; Sutradharulu; 1990: Sirimuvvala Simhanadamu; 1991: Swati Kiranam; 1992: Sangeet; Apathbandhavudu; 1993: Dhanwan; Pranavam; 1995: Shubha Sankalpam (also act).

VITHAL, MASTER (?-1969)

Best-known Marathi and Hindi stunt star. Stage début as a child at the Rajapurkar Natak Mandali. Worked as editor at Maharashtra Film, a studio with a reputation for stunts in their mythologicals, e.g. by legendary actors Zunzharrao Pawar (1891-1982) or Ganpat Bakre (1901-1983). Vithal started playing a dancing-girl in Kalyan Khajina. Played minor roles in Bhalji Pendharkar silents before breaking through at the Sharda Studio. First lead appearance in Ratan Manjari. He was its top star for several years, usually playing Douglas Fairbanks-type roles grafted on to indigenous Rajput and Maratha legends. Bhogilal Dave's special effects accompanied his work, along with the rapid editing of directors like A.P. Kapur, Nanubhai Desai, Harshadrai Mehta, Luhar, etc. The style Vithal helped shape had a tremendous impact, making the Sharda Studio synonymous with low-budget stunt films in the silent era. Wadia Movietone later tried to redefine the stunt genre with direct reference to the Niblo/Fairbanks figure of Zorro to distance the genre from Vithal. Moved to Sagar in 1930 (and in a celebrated lawsuit that followed with Sharda, he was defended by M.A. Jinnah). Later starred in India's first talkie, Alam Ara, and in Saraswati Studio productions, ending his career in the 60s playing minor parts in Marathi films.

FILMOGRAPHY (* also d): 1924: Kalyan Khajina; 1925: Bajirao Mastani; 1926: Vande Mataram Ashram; Ratan Manjari; Swarna Kamal; Madan Kala; Gunial Gulab; 1927: Bansari Bala; Kala Paha; Swadesh Seva; Asuri Lalsa; Balidan; Bhedi Trisbul; Jaan-e-Alam Anjuman Ara; 1928: Gul Badan; Hira Sundari; Kanak Kanta; Raj Tarang; Sassi Punnu; Sobni Mahiwal; Saundarya Sura; Karina Kumari; 1929: Nishan Danka; Chirag-e-Kohistan; Bhedi Sawaar; Rank Nu Ratan; Ranghelo Rajput; 1930: Josh-e-Jawani; Veer Na Ver; Arunodaya; Dav Pech; 1931: Dilawar; Gulam; Hoor-e-Misar (all St); Alam Ara; Anangsenaa; Daulat Ka Nasha; Meri Jaan; 1932: Zalim Jawani; Kalo Bhoot (St); Burkbewala (St); 1933: *Awara Shehzada/Aut Ghatkecha Raja; 1934: Bhedi Rajkumar/Thaksen Rajputra; Chhatrapati Sambhaji; 1935: Rangila Nawab; Jaan-e-Alam Anjuman Ara; Raj Tarang; 1936: Hind Mahila; 1937: Asiai Sitara; 1939: Netaji Palkar; 1940: Jagat Mobini; Mobini; 1941: Amrit; 1942: Sunbai; 1943: Bahirji Naik; 1944: Ramsbastri; 1945: Nagma-e-Sahra; Pannadai; 1946: Jadugar; Kashmir Ki Kali; Rukmini Swayamvar; Sasurvas; 1947: Jai Bhawani; 1948: Garibanche Rajya; 1949: Vikram Shashikala; Meeth Bhakar; Shilanganache Sone; 1951: *Swarajyacha Shileda; Mard Maratha; 1952: Chhatrapati Shivaji; Mayecha Pzabar; Narveer Tanaji; 1953: Tai Teleen; Vadal; 1956:

Pavankbind; 1957: Naikinichi Sajja; 1958: Matevin Bai; 1959: Akashganga; 1960: Vanakesari; 1963: Mobityanchi Manjula; 1965: Sadhi Manse; Vavai; 1966: Sheras Savasher; Shodha Mhanje Sapdel.

VITTALACHARYA, B. (B. 1920)

Telugu and Kannada director born in Udupi, Karnataka, in a region exceptionally rich in traditional performing arts. Professes an interest in stage mythologicals, magicians and the fantastic tales of Harikatha performers. Film debut in the pioneering Kannada Mahatma Pics, in the tradition exemplified by the company's best-known film Nagakammika (1949). Shifted to Telugu films (1953), launching his own Vittal Prod. His work is characterised by fantasy, the evocation of legends, the use of special effects and of performing animals.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1952: Shri Srinivasa Kalyana; 1953: Saubbhagya Lakshmi; 1954: Kanyadana/Kanyadanam; Rajalakshmi; 1956: Muttaide Bhagya; 1957: Vaddante Pelli; 1958: Mane Thumbida Henu; Nabegebaboa Henu; 1959: Jayaveeran/Jayavijaya; Pelli Meeda Pelli; 1960: Anna Chellalu; Kanakadurga Puja; 1961: Varalakshmi Vratam; 1962: Madana Kamaraju Katha; Khaidi Kannayya; 1963: Veera Kesari/Bandhipotu; Guruvuniminchina Shishyudu; Manthiri Kumaran; 1964: Veera Pandian; Aggididugu; Navagraha Pooja Mabima; 1965: Vijayasimba; Mangamma Sapatbam; Jwaladeepa Rabasyam; 1966: Aggibarata; Piduguramudu; Madurai Manuvan; 1967: Yar Vallavan; Aggidora; Iddaru Monagalhu; Chikkadu Dorakudu; 1968: Bhale Monagadu; Ninne Pelladuta; 1969: Aggiveerudu; Gandikota Rabasyam; Kadaladu Vadladadu; Rani Dongala Rani; 1970: Lakshmi Kataksham; Alibaba 40 Dongalu; Vijayam Mande; 1971: Mosagalluku Mosagadu; Rajakota Rabasyam; Baghavat; 1972: Beedala Pathu; Pilla? Piduga?; 1973: Palletoori Chinnodu; 1975: Kotalo Paga; 1978: Jagan Mohini; 1979: Gandharva Kanya; 1980: Madana Manjiri; 1981: Shri Raghavendra Vaibhavam; 1982: Lakshmi Pooja; 1984: Nava Mohini; 1986: Mohini Sapatbam; 1988: Sridevi Kamakshi Kataksham; 1991: Shrisbaila Bharamambika Katakshyam; 1992: Karuninchina Kanakdurga.

VIAS, AVINASH (1912-84)

Foremost music director in Gujarati cinema with music for Punatar's Gunsundari and Mangalfera. Debut with V.M. Vyas, but established himself at the Ranjit Studio. Also contributed to Ranjit film-makers Chaturbhuj Doshi and Jayant Desai's efforts to establish a Gujarati film industry. His music was a key component of Raskapur's films. Vyas pioneered a music industry in Gujarati before he entered films, composing songs for the Young India label of the National Gramophone. Was a well-known AIR name in the 40s. Vyas's musical adaptations from the Hindi merged with popular Raas-Garba and Bhavai music from Gujarat, tailoring All-India Film formulas and 'national' genres to regional requirements, e.g. his semi-classical ballets choreographed by Yogendra Desai, such as Chauladevi, featuring Hindi star Asha Parekh.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1943: Mahasati Ansuya; 1944: Krishna Bhakta Bodana; Laberi Badmasb; 1947: Hotbal Padmini; Janeta; Krishna Sudama; Seib Sagalsba; 1948: Gunsundari; Jeevan Paito; Jesal Toral; Nanand Bhojai; Sati Sone; Radbe Shyam; Varasdar; 1949: Corakh Dbandba; Mangalfera; Narad Muni; Sati Sukanya; Vargheli; 1950: Akhand Saubhagya; Gadano Bel; Har Har Mabadev; Ramtaram; 1951: Bhakta Tulsidas; Lagna Bandhan; Mangalsutra; Parnetar; Vadilono Varso; Dashbantar; Jai Mahalakshmi; Ram Janma; Shri Vishnu Bhagwan; 1952: Rajrani Damayanti; Shivashakti; Veer Arjun; Manuni Masi; 1953: Bhagavati; 1954: Maha Pooja; Mallika-e-Alam Nurjehan; Adbikar; Chakradhari; 1955: Andher Nagari Choupai Raja; Ekadasbi; Jagadguru Shankaracharya; Riyasat; Naaag Devata; Vaman Avatar; 1956: Duarkadbeesh; Sudarshan Chakra; Malela Jeev; Sati Analde; 1957: Adhi Roti; Bhakta Dhruva; Lakshmi; Sant Raghv; 1958: Gopichand; Great Show of India; Jung Babadur; Pati Parmeshwar; Ram Bhakti; 1959: Charnon Ki Dasi; Gribalakshmi; 1960: Bhakta Raaj; Kadu Makrani; Mebndi Rang Lagyo; 1961: Chundadi Chokha; Ghar Divdi; Hiro Salaat; Narasaiyani Hundi; Ra Mandlik; Nandanwan; Veer Ramwalo; 1962: Bapu Ne Kaha Tha; Hawa Mahal; Kailashpati; Jai Bhadrakali; Janam Janamna Saatbi; Jogidas Khuman; Kanku Ane Kanya; 1963: Royal Mail; Gharni Shobha; Vanraj Chavdo; 1964: Ramat Ramade Ram; 1965: Chhogala Chhaganlalno Varghodo; Jamairaj; 1966: Kalapi; 1967: Samayvarte Savdhan; 1968: Mare Javun Pele Paar; Mata Mahakali; 1969: Badmasb; Beti Tumbare Jaisi; Surya Devata; Hastamelap; Majiyara Haiya; Sansar Leela; 1970: Tabht Aur Talwar; 1971: Jesal Toral; 1972: Zer To Pibhan Jani Jani; 1973: Mahasati Savitri; Kadu Makrani; Raja Bhartrahari; Vala Taro Deshma Danko; 1974: Ghungebat; Harishchandra Taramati; Hotbal Padmini; Kunwarbainu Mamernu; 1975: Daku Aur Bhagwan; Jai Ranchhod; Jogidas Khuman; Ra Mandlik; Sant Surdas; Seth Sagalsba; Sbetalne Kanthe; Veer Champrajvalo; Bhadar Tara Vehta Pani; 1976: Bhabbi; Bhaibandhi; Chundadino Rang; Dharti Mata; Malavati Munji; Ra Navghan; Santu Rangili; Sorathi Sinb; Veer Ebbalvalo; Veer Ramwalo; Verno Varas; Veer Mangdavallo; Shamalsbano Vivab; Sonbaini Chundadi; 1977: Bhrashtachar Murdabad; Dada Ho Dikri; Maa Baap; Manno Manigar; Paiso Bole Chbe; Rupande Malde; Son Kansari; 1978: Ashapura Matani Chundadi; Bhakta Gora Kumbhar; Chandan Malayagiri; Chundadi Odhi Tara Namni; Dada Khetrapal; Jai Mahakali; Janarwalo Jeevan; Maa Dikri; Mota Gharni Vabu; Nari Tu Narayani; Patali Parmar; Sansar Chakra; Sati Ansuya (G); Sati Sorath; Visamo; 1979: Apyo Jadro; Amarsinb Rathod; Ashadhi Beej; Chudi Chandlo; Jai Bhadrakali; Koinu Mindhal Koina Hatbe; Kunwari Satino Kesariyo Kantb; Lalwadi Phoolwadi; Maa Te Maa; Navrang Chundadi; Pithino Rang; Preet Khandani Dbar; Rang Rasiya; Roopli Daatanwali; Shankar Parvati; Sonba Ane Rupba; Suraj Chandra Ni Sakhe; Veer Pasali; Vabue Vagovya Mota Khorda; 1980: Sorathni Padmini; Abhan Lakshmi; Bhakta Prahlad; Chitadno Chor; Jivi Babaran; Karo Kankuna; Kesar Kathiyanti; Khordani Khandani; Koino Ladakvayo; Labini Sagar; Mari Bena; Parayana To Pyari Ladi; Sachun Sagapan; Sachun Sukh Sasaryaman; So Dabada Sasuna To Ek Dabado Vahuno; Sukhma Sau Dukhma Vabu; Vaya Viramgam; 1981: Albeli Naar; Amar Devidas; Bhav Bhavna Bheru; Chbel Chhabili Sonal; Hiro Ghoghe Jai Auyo; Mebndino Rang; Nuag Panchami; Ranchandi; Seth Jagadusba; Vansdi Vagi Valamni; Vaheta Ansu Vahuna; 1982: Bhakta Muldas; Di Vaale Ee Dikra; Jamuna Bani Jagadamba; Jawabdaar; Khabardar; Maa Kali Pavavali; Nala Damayanti; Naseeb No Kbel; Prem Diwani; Retina Ratan; Sherne Mathe Savasher; Tran Treniya Chba Chhabila Baharvatiya/Bachbche Teen Aur Daku Chbe; 1983: Chbel Chhabilo Gujarati; Ghar Gharni Vaat; Jitbro Bhabbo; Kankuni Kimat; Khara Kharino Kbel; Kurukshehra; Maa Koini Marsbo Nabin; Raakbna Ramakada; 1984: Maya Bazaar; Bhakta Narasinb Mehta; Bhagwan Shri Krishna; Dhartina Ami; Maana Aansoo; Sonani Jaal; Tejal Garasani; Vavazodun; 1985: Maanu Mangalsutra; Sagan Sabu Swarthana; Vali Bharawadan.

VIAS, VISHNUKUMAR MAGANLAL (B. 1905)

Hindi and Gujarati director born and educated in Ahmedabad, Gujarat. Credited with launching a Gujarati film industry with Ranakdevi, adapted by scenarist Mohanlal Dave from his own script initially filmed by Patankar at National (1923) and later by Vakil at Ranjit (1930). Throughout his long career consistently made mid-budget melodramas scripted by Dave. Started as a tabla accompanist for live musical scores at Kohinoor U.A. where he also became assistant cameraman; shot films for Homi Master and N.G. Devare when Kohinoor became Kohinoor United Artists. Continued as cinematographer in Bombay and Lahore until his directorial debut at Kohinoor UA with Dukhiari. His melodramas and devotionals were derived from popular Gujarati fiction serials later popularised by journals like Navchetan, addressing a middle-class and often explicitly female audience. His Ranakdevi led to major shifts in the production priorities: e.g. Ranjit started a subsidiary, Ajit Pics, mainly for Gujarati films of this genre.

FILMOGRAPHY: 1930: Dukhiari; Veer Vijaysingb; 1931: Veer Bahadur (all St); 1934: Saubbhagya Lakshmi; 1939: Daughters of India; Garib Ka Lal; 1940: Kanyadaan; Nirali Duniya; 1941: Ghar Ki Laaj; Prabhat; 1942: Ghar Sansar; Malan; 1943: Dubai; Mahasati Ansuya; 1944: Maa Baap; 1945: Ghar; 1946: Dhanwan; Ranakdevi; 1947: Babarvatiyo; Kunwarbainu Mamernu; Sati Jasma; Amar Asha; Bhakta Ke Bhagwan; 1948: Bhabbina Het; Bhai Bahen; Shamalsbano Vivab; 1949:

Gunial Gujaratan; Veenaveli, 1950: Pyar, 1952: Sanskar, 1953: Dana Pani, 1955: Naag Devata, 1958: Bharatni Vani, Dulhan; Ghar Sansar, 1959: Do Gunde, 1960: Bhakta Raaj, Ghar Ki Laaj, Maa Baap, 1961: Apsara, Narsaiyani Hundi.

VYJAYANTHIMALA (B. 1936)

South Indian actress born in Madras. Trained as a classical dancer in the Bharat Natyam style. With Padmini, she is one of the first Southern actresses in post-Independence All-India film to become a national star. Started in Tamil films under M.V. Raman's direction at AVM; Raman also cast her in her first Hindi film, AVM's hit Babar. A bigger success still was Nagin, esp. her sinuous snake dance to the smash hit Man dole mera tan dole. Since then, almost always has a mandatory dance sequence evoking 'classical art' associations: Devdas; Kishore Kumar's elaborate spoof New Delhi where she performs Bharat Natyam to his Fred Astaire imitation in the song Nakhrewali; Ganga Jumna (the song Dhoondo dhoondo re sajna) and Amrapali. This pseudo-classical style (also practised by e.g. Hema Malini and Jayapradha) is a filmic equivalent of calendar-art's version of Ajanta murals and Tanjore glass paintings, taking over the icon of the large-hipped, full-bosomed beauty developed e.g. by Ravi Varma. In Sangam, Raj Kapoor used this image for his post-60s exploration of links between voyeurism and decadent classicism. Other film-makers who used Vyjayanthimala's calendar-art style include B.R. Chopra (Naya Daur, Sadhana), S.S. Vasan (Raj Tilak) and T. Prakash Rao (Amar Deep). Best cinematic performance in the title role of Madhumati. Elected MP for Congress(I) in Madras (1984). Did several famous Tamil films with Gemini Ganesh (Vanjikottai Valiban; Thennilavu) and one with MGR (Baghdad Thirudan).

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1949: Vazhakai/Jeevitham; 1951: Babar; 1952: Anjaam; 1953: Penn/Ladki/Sangham; 1954: Miss Mala; Nagin;

Pebli Jhalak, 1955: Devdas; Jashan; Sitara; Yasmin, 1956: Devata; Kismet Ka Khe; New Delhi; Patrani; Taj; Anjaan, 1957: Aasha; Ek Jhalak; Katbputli; Naya Daur; 1958: Amar Deep; Madhumati; Piya Milan; Vanjikottai Valiban; Raj Tilak; Sadhana; Sitaron Se Aage, 1959: Jawani Ki Hawa; Paigham; 1960: College Girl; Baghdad Thirudan/Baghdad; Irumputhirai; Raja Bhakti; Parthiban Kanavu; 1961: Aas Ka Panchhi; Ganga Jumna; Nazrana; Thennilavu, 1962: Dr Vidya; Jhoola; Rangoli, 1964: Isbara; Leader; Phoolon Ki Sej; Sangam; Zindagi, 1965: Naya Kanoon, 1966: Amrapali; Do Dilon Ki Dastaan; Suraj, 1967: Hatey Bazarey; Chhotisi Mulaqat; Jewel Thief, 1968: Duniya; Saatbi; Sangharsh; 1969: Prince; Pyar Hi Pyar, 1970: Ganwaar; 1982: Manamadurai Malli.

WADIA, HOMI BOMAN (B. 1911)

Hindi director and producer born in Surat, Gujarat. Younger brother of J.B.H. Wadia. Entered films as a laboratory worker at Devare Film Laboratory (1929); then cameraman and colleague of his brother, whom he joined at the Young United Players for remaking Fairbanks-Niblo's Mark of Zorro (Diler Daku, 1931), for which he wrote the script and did the cinematography. H.B. and J.B.H. co-founded Wadia Movietone (1933). Operated as studio's main director and editor, responsible for successful Fearless Nadia action films co-starring John Cawas. Also made the stunt film Ekta in Sindhi. Left to start Basant Pics in 1942 (it became a studio in 1947), carrying on the Wadia stunt-action trade-mark. Later work includes several mythologicals, usually featuring special effects by Babubhai Mistri, and the successful Gevacolor film Hatimtai. Married Nadia (1961). Sold Basant 1981 and retired.

♣ FILMOGRAPHY: 1934: Veer Bharat; 1935: Hunterwali; Hind Kesari; Sarangadhaba; 1936: Jai Bharat; Miss Frontier Mail; 1937:

Toofani Tarzan; 1938: Lutaru Lalna; 1939: Punjab Mail; Bharat Kesari; 1940: Dian-ond Queen; Hind Ka Lal; 1941: Bambaiwali; 1942: Jungle Princess; Ekta; 1943: Vishwas; 1945: Bachpan; 1946: Amar Raj; Flying Prince; Sher-e-Baghdad; 1947: Atom Bomb; 1948: Eleven O'Clock; Shri Rambhakta Hanuman; 1949: Balam; Dhoomketu; 1950: Shri Ganesb Mahima; 1951: Hanuman Pataal Vijay; 1952: Jungle Ka Jawahar; Alladdin And the Wonderful Lamp; 1954: Alibaba and the Forty Thieves; 1956: Hatimtai; 1958: Zimbo; 1961: Zabak; 1964: Char Darvesb; 1966: Alibaba and the Forty Thieves; 1970: Shri Krishna Leela; Bhale Goodachari; 1976: Toofan Aur Bijli; 1978: Alladdin and the Wonderful Lamp.

WADIA, JAMSHED BOMAN HOMI (1901-86)

Hindi director and producer born in Surat, Gujarat. Literary scholar at Bombay University. Worked in a bank while taking a law degree. Major supporter and biographer of Communist (usually referred to as 'radical humanist') reformer M.N. Roy. Founder member of Radical Democratic Party of India (1937). Combined literary and political interests with fascination for US western and stunt films. Wrote and co-produced his first film (Vasant Leela, 1928) with Kohinoor cinematographer and producer G.S. Devare. Together they ran the Devare Film Laboratory and the Wadia Film Exchange. Established Young United Players (1931) with his brother Homi and made five silent films inspired by the Fairbanks-Niblo Mark of Zorro (1920), including one direct adaptation, Diler Daku (1931). With support from Manchersh B. Bilimoria, set up Wadia Movietone (1933) with his brother Homi. Personally made the Yeshwant Dave and Boman Shroff silents but functioned mainly as studio boss and scenarist. Best-known Wadia Movietone work, the Fearless Nadia films, were made by Homi Wadia, who also married the star. Although the Wadia signature is linked to the stunt genre, J.B.H.'s work is marked by his political adherences and the conventions of Parsee theatre (e.g. the Jal Khambatta films, Lal-e-Yaman, Baug-e-Misar, Kala Gulab). His Naujawan (Aspi, 1937) was a rare commercial feature without 'song cushions'. When he insisted on privileging social themes in the production programme, Homi left (1942). Influential documentary and newsreel producer (e.g. his Short Films of Musical Value, recording musical performances by the likes of Mallika Pukhraj and the child Kumar Gandharva). President of the Film Advisory Board (1941-2). Unsuccessful Indian Screen Gazette, modelled on Pathé Gazette, with early work by P.V. Pathy. Collaborated with ad agency D.J. Keymer on British war-effort films (1940). Apparently made three 30' thrillers for US television in 1949. Also made All Under the Heaven by Force, directed by Zul Velani (1964), condemning China's 1962 military operations in India. Established J.B.H. Wadia Publications, issuing e.g. M.N. Roy's New Humanism and wrote M.N. Roy: The Man (1983). Wrote his autobiography, Those Were The Days.

Vyjayanthimala in Naya Kanoon (1965)

(unpublished, 1977), and Gujarati poetry. Excerpts of his silent film Vantolio survive.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1932: Toofan Mail; Sinh Garjana; 1933: Vantolio (all St); Lal-e-Yaman; 1934: Baag-e-Misar; Kala Gulab; Vaman Avatar; 1935: Desb Deepak; Noor-e-Yaman; 1944: Krishna Bhakta Bodana; 1951: Madhosh; 1953: Husn Ka Chor; 1955: Veer Rajputani; 1957: Captain Kishore; 1960: Duniya Jhukti Hai; 1966: Tasveer; 1971: Saaz Aur Sanam.

WADIA MOVIE TONE

Studio established in 1933 by J.B.H. Wadia and Homi Wadia with Manchershah B. Bilimoria (film distributor-exhibitor and agent for the famous Columbia Carbon Arcs) and the brothers Burjor and Nadirsha Tata. Within 3 years Bilimoria and the Tata brothers left the partnership, Burjor continuing for a while as technical director at the Lovji Castle premises of the studio. Associated with the Fairbanks-inspired stunt genre in films starring Fearless Nadia, Boman Shroff, John Cawas and the villain Sayani. Most were intentionally addressed to the C-grade exhibition sector and tried to recapture J.B.H. Wadia's early cinephiliac fascination with Hollywood serials and westerns. Also known for documentaries and newsreels made during WW2, notably the Indian Screen Gazette series, under the Film Advisory Board's overall guidance and continued sporadically until the India-China War of 1962. J.B.H. Wadia was overall studio boss, chief producer and scenarist while Homi Wadia directed films and supervised the editing and sound departments. Shortly before closing, made the Modhu Bose dance movie Raj Nartaki (1941) with a bilingual English version to explore the US market. Wadia Movietone was sold to V. Shantaram in 1942, who started Rajkamal Kalamandir there, but it continued in the shape of Homi Wadia's Basant Pics, first as a production house (1942), then as a studio (1947-81). In 1990, J.B.H. Wadia's grandson, the actor and playwright Riyad Vinci Wadia, inherited Wadia Movietone which now mainly produces material for television.

WADKAR, HANSA (1923-72)

Marathi and Hindi actress, originally Ratan Salgaonkar. Changed her name in her screen debut, aged 11, using the family name of her grandmother and thereby asserted her ancestry in a family of Maharashtrian courtesans. Learnt music and tried to join Shalini Cinetone as a child actress but was rejected by Tembe. Introduced to the screen in Lalitkalarsh's only effort to translate its Sangeet Natak to cinema with Mama Warekar's Vijayachi Lagne. She then starred in the Karachi-based Golden Eagle Studio's routine movie Modern Youth. Did several B films, e.g. for Bhagwan's Studio (Babadur Kisan, Criminal) until she broke through in Osten's Durga and moved to Bombay Talkies. After three years, Prabhat brought her back to star against type in Damle-Fattelal's Sant Sakhu. Produced and starred in Dhanyavaad. Established the demure ingénue look that has graced nearly every social in Marathi cinema ever since (see Jayshree Gadkar). Went on to pioneer the brashly vulgar Tamasha musical with Shantaram's Lokshabir Ramjosbi and, towards the end of her career, Mane's Sangtye Aika, both record-breaking hits in Marathi cinema. Subsequently in films by Paranjpe (Pudbcha Paool), Dinkar D. Patil (Patlacha Por), Bhalji Pendharkar (Shilanganache Sone, Naikinichi Sajja) and Mane. Had a difficult and tempestuous personal life, including a series of relationships which she wrote about in a remarkably candid autobiography, serialised in the popular journal Manoos (1966) and later published as Sangtye Aika (1970), which caused a major sensation. A fictionalised version was the source of Benegal's Bhumika (1976).

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1936: Vijayachi Lagne/Shadi Ka Mamlu; 1937: Modern Youth; 1938: Babadur Kisan; Sneh Lagna; Zamana; 1939: Durga; Criminal; Navjeevan; 1940: Azad; 1941: Sant Sakhu; 1942: Apna Paraya; Dillagi; Mera Gaon; 1944: Ramsbastri; Meena; 1945: Aarti; Main Kya Karun; 1946: Behram Khan; 1947: Lokshabir Ramjosbi/Matwala Shayar Ramjosbi; Gaurav; 1948: Dhanyavaad; Dhanwale; Mere Lal; 1949: Pandbaricha Patil; Sant Janabai; Shilanganache Sone; 1950: Kalyan Khajina; Navara Baiko; Pudbcha Paool; Sonyachi Lanka; Vanshacha Diva; Sbri Krishna Darsban; 1951: Hi Majhi Lakshmi; Maya Machhindra/Gorakhnath; Patlacha Por; Parijata/Sbri Krishna Satyabhama; 1952: Sbri Gurudev Dutt; 1954: Khel Chhalala Nashibacha; Reshmachya Gaathi; 1955: Mi Tulas Tujhya Angani; 1956: Mulga; 1957: Naikinichi Sajja; 1958: Lokshabir Anantphandi; Matevin Bai; 1959: Sangtye Aika; 1961: Manini; Rangpanchami; 1963: Naar Nirmite Nara; 1964: Kai Ho Chamatkar; 1966: Hi Naar Rupasundari; 1967: Shrimanti Mehuna Pahije; 1968: Dharmakanya.

WALKER, JOHNNY (B 1925)

Revered Hindi comedian born Badruddin Jamaluddin Kazi; son of a millworker. Took his screen name from the whisky brand. Moved to Bombay (1942) doing odd jobs and was discovered by Balraj Sahni, who apparently met him as a bus conductor regaling the passengers with an uncanny ability to hold his audience with improvised speech. Made his mark in Baazi and Jaal playing Dev Anand's ally; then best known for Guru Dutt's films, often (in the mid-50s) carrying the second love interest (e.g. Aar Paar, Kaagaz Ke Phool). Developed a characteristic style as the hero's comic sidekick within the classic Indian film comedy tradition, relying on his pencil-thin moustache, facial grimaces and nasal drawl (cf. Sar jo tera chakraye sung by Mohammed Rafi in Pyaasa). He stuck to his style even when this might contradict the character he had to play: e.g. the misogynist playboy in Kaagaz Ke Phool or the nawab in Chaudhvin Ka Chand. Although he was unable to retain his popularity into the 80s, he pioneered a tradition of stand-up comedy often practised by successors who followed his idiosyncratic screen name: Tony Brandy, Johnny Whisky or Johnny Lever. Turned to direction with Pabunche Huye Log.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1951: Hulchul; Baazi; 1952: Aandbiyan; Jaal; 1953: Aag Ka Dariya; Armaan; Baaz; Humsafar; Thokar; 1954: Aar Paar; Baraati; Lalpari; Munna; Shaheed-e-Azam Bhagat Singh; Taxi Driver; 1955: Albeli; Babu; Devdas; Jashan; Jawab; Joru Ka Bhai; Marine Drive; Mast Kalandar; Milap; Mus Cocca Cola; Mr and Mrs '55; Musafirkhana; Railway Platform; Shahi Mehmaan; Shehzada; Society; 1956: Anjaan; Awara Shehzadi; Chandrakant; Choo Mantar; Chori Chori; CID; Insaaf; Naya Andaz; Rajdhani; Samundari Daku; Shrimati 420; Twenty-Sixth January; 1957: Changhez Khan; Do Roti; Duniya Rang Rangili; Ek Saal; Johnny Walker; Maibaap; Mr X; Naya Daur; Pyaasa; Qaidi; 1958: Aakhri Dao; Aji Bas Shukriya; Amar Deep; Chandan; Detective; Ghar Sansar; Khota Paisa; Light House; Madhumati; Mr Qartoon MA; Mujrim; Naya Paisa; Sitaron Se Aage; Zindagi Ya Toofan; 1959: Black Cat; Bhai Bahen; Jawani Ki Hawa; Kaagaz Ke Phool; Mr John; Pehli Raat; Paigambar; Satta Bazaar; Zara Bachke; 1960: Basanti; Chaudhvin Ka Chand; Ek Phool Char Kaante; Ghar Ki Laaj; Kala Admi; Mughal-e-Azam; Ricksbawala; 1961: Chhote Nawab; Modern Girl; Suhaag Sindoor; 1962: Aashiq; Baat Ek Raat Ki; Girls' Hostel; Neeli Aankhen; Sachche Moti; 1963: Ghar Basake Dekho; Kabin Pyar Na Ho Jaye; Kaun Apna Kaun Paraya; Mere Mehboob; Mulzim; Phool Bane Angarey; Pyar Ka Bandhan; Ustadonke Ustad; 1964: Door Ki Awaz; Shehnai; 1965: Bombay Race Course; Zindagi Aur Maut; 1966: Baharen Phir Bhi Aayengi; Dil Diya Dard Liya; Dillagi; Dulhan Ek Raat Ki; Pati Patni; Preet Na Jane Reet; Suraj; 1967: Babu Begum; Jaal; Milan Ki Raat; Nawab Siraj-ud-Dowla; Night in London; Noorjehan; Palki; Raju; Wahan Ke Log; 1968: Baazi; Dil Aur Mohabbat; Duniya; Hasina Maan Jayegi; Kabin Din Kabin Raat; Mere Huzoor; Shikar; 1969: Admi Aur Insaan; Nannha Farishta; Pyar Ka Sapna; Sachhai; 1970: Anand; Gopi; 1971: Hangama; Memsaab; Sanjog; 1972: Ek Bechara; Ek Hasina Do Diwane; Raja Jani; Yeh Gulistan Hamara; 1973: Dil Ki Raabein; Pyar Ka Rishta; 1974: Aarop; Badla; Dawat; Imaan; Jurm Aur Sazaa; Mera Vachan Geeta Ki Kasam; 1975: Teri Meri Ek Jindri; Dhoti Lota Aur Chowpatti; Kaagaz Ki Nao; Pratigya; Sewak; Vandana; Zakhmi; Ganga Ki Kasam; 1976: Bandalbaaz; Santan; Uranchoo; 1977: Farishta Ya Qatil; Khel Khiladi Ka; 1979: Madine Ki Galiyan; 1980: Jayen To Jayen Kaban; Shaan; 1983: Bindiya Chamkegi; 1984: Mera Dost Mera Dushman; Hum Dono; 1985: Pabunche Huye Log (also d); 1987: Mera Karam Mera Dharam; The Perfect Murder.

YAGNIK, INDULAL (1892-1972)

Gujarati scenarist and producer. Best known as a Gujarati politician for his long association with Gandhi, his 50s trade union work and his involvement in the regionalist Mahagujarat movements. His brief encounter with film as scenarist and producer stemmed from a desire to give it intellectual legitimacy. As editor of the Hindustan newspaper, he made both Indian and foreign film a subject of lively debate, e.g. through contributions from Chaturbhuj Doshi, then a journalist. Extended this commitment to a popular column in the Bombay Chronicle. Entered film as a scenarist (e.g. for Sharda Studio). After an abortive attempt to launch the Classical Pics Corp. with G.S. Devare and J.B.H. Wadia, turned producer with Young India Pics (Nagendra Majumdar's Pavagarb Nu Patan, 1928, which he also wrote). The company used his scripts, which were, from available descriptions, largely romances. He faced bankruptcy following the failure of Majumdar's Kashmir Nu Gulab (1931) and was rescued by Imperial's financier, Abu Hasan. His productions introduced film-makers Majumdar and Ramakant Gharekhan, and featured stars Madhuri and Navinchandra. Other script credits include Manilal Joshi's Ajabkumari (1926), Bhavnani's Daya Ni Devi (1927) and B.P. Mishra's Jay Bharati (1929). Major six-volume autobiography published between 1955-73.

Yatrik see Majumdar, Tarun

YESUDAS, K. J. (B. 1940)

Best-known playback singer in Malayalam cinema. Born in Cochin. Dominated Malayalam music since the 60s and created a parallel music industry with the Tarangini audiocassette label. Made a big cultural impact on e.g. the popular 'devotional'. Son of Augustine Joseph, a major stage actor and early Malayalam film star (and among the first Christians to be successful in Malayalam theatre and music), his early career was in professional Gana Mela troupes (groups singing film and film-derived compositions during religious festivals). Claimed to be the disciple of the legendary classical musician Chembai Vaidyanatha Bhagavathar, but probably only accompanied him on a few occasions. Early hits include the Baburaj-composed songs for Vincent's Bhargavi Nilayam (1964) and Kariat's Chemmeen (1965). Occasionally imitated the Carnatic maestro Balamurali Krishna. Most famous for his light classical devotionals addressed to the icons of Ayyappa at Sabarimalai (now an aggressive male cult) and Guruvayoor. His cassette releases are intended for Hindu and sometimes Christian festivals. Sang in almost every Malayalam film since the early 70s. Sang in Tamil, e.g. Neyyum bommai nanum bommai in S. Balachander's Bommai (1964), Vincent's Thulabharam (1968) and made a major comeback in Balachander's Aval Oru Thodarkathai (1974). Also did Hindi songs for Basu Chatterjee in the 70s, of which Jab deep jale aana in Chit Chor (1976) and Ka karun sajni in Swami (1977) were hits. Among the films he scored are Sethumadhavan's Azhakulla Saleena (1973), Madhu's Theekkanal (1976); Shrikumaran Thampi's Malika Paniyunnavar (1978) and P.N. Menon's Udhayam Kizhakkku Thanne (1976). Also composed for Sanchari (1981) and Tharavu (1981).

YOGANAND, D. (B. 1922)

Telugu and Tamil director born in Madras. Son of the estate manager of an Andhra nawab; adopted at an early age by D. Subbaiah of Bandar, owner of a watch-repairing and photography shop. Studied radiology briefly while developing his skills as a photographer. Joined films as assistant to Ramabrahmam's editor, Manikyam (Mayalokam, 1945). Also assisted famous South Indian technicians Jiten Bannerjee and Rehman. After Ramabrahmam, worked with L.V. Prasad, whose notions of the reformist social left their imprint on his films. In his use of genre he is perhaps the most inventive of the post-Prasad film-makers: his debut, the sentimental Ammalakkalu, is a musical hit attacking feudalist practices; his second film, Todu Dongalu, produced by and starring NTR, is an influential realist melodrama which flopped. Telugu and Hindi star Waheeda Rehman acted in his folk musical Jayasimba. Best-known 50s films are the successful Tamil folk legend Madurai Veeran, one of MGR's most influential roles, and Parthiban Kanavu.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1953: Ammalakkalu/Marumagal; 1954: Todu Dongalu; 1955: Jayasimba/Jaisingh; Vijayagauri; Kaveri; 1956: Ilavelpu; Shri Gauri Mahatyam; Madurai Veeran; 1958: Bhuloka Rambha/Bhuloka Rambhai/Pareeksha; Anbu Engay; 1959: Kaveriyin Kanavan; Pelli Sandadi/Kalyana Penni; Vachina Kodalu Nachindi; 1960: Parthiban Kanavu; Engal Selvi; 1962: Rani Samyuktha; 1963: Parisu; 1964: Pasamum Nesamum; 1967: Ummadi Kutumbam; 1968: Tikka Shankaraiyah; Baghdad Gajadonga; 1969: Mooganomu; 1970: Jai Jawan; Kodalu Diddina Kapuram; 1971: Thangaitkaga; 1972: Rani Yar

Kulandai?; 1973: Dabbuku Lokam Dasobam; Vaade Veedu; 1974: Tbayi; 1975: Katha Nayakuni Katha; Ee Kalam Dampathulu; Vemulavada Bhimakavi; 1976: Gribapravesham; 1978: General Chakravarthi; Justice Gopinath; 1979: Naan Vazhavippen; 1980: Yamanukku Yaman; 1982: Oorukku Oru Pillai; Vaa Kannu Vaa; 1983: Sumangali; Simbam Navindi; 1984: Charitra Nayakan.

Yusufali, Abdulali see Esoofally, Abdulally

ZILS, PAUL (1915-79)

Director born in Wuppertal, Germany. Influential figure in documentary Indian cinema. Worked at Ufa, Germany (1933-7), where he was a favourite of Goebbels and was often used by Ufa to secure Nazi governmental approval for scripts. Defected in 1937. Travelled to Africa and the USA (1939), where he worked with William Dieterle and Max Reinhard in Hollywood and persuaded Paramount to fund a film he wanted to make in Bali. During shooting he was arrested by the British (1941) and, with other Germans, interned in a prisoner of war camp in Bihar. After the war, because of his prior film experience and also because of some impressive stage spectacles in the POW camp, he was offered the job of heading the external unit of Information Films of India (1945-8). Then started his own Documentary Films of India. Sponsored quarterly journal Indian Documentary (1949). Became an Indian national for a few years before reverting to his German nationality. Documentarists Fali Bilimoria and P.V. Pathy started as his assistant and cameraman respectively. Made three features for Art Films of Asia, starring Dev Anand. His second one, Zalzala, was adapted from Tagore's controversial novel Char Adhyay. Returned to documentaries, setting up the Documentary Unit: India in collaboration with Fali Bilimoria, for which they made several films sponsored by e.g. Shell, the UN and the USIS. Best-known for his Major Industries In India series for Burmah Shell. Sukhdev regarded Zils as his teacher. Returned to Germany in 1959 where he ran the Deutsche Condor (Munich) and the Erlangen Film Institute, occasionally making films in India as well. Worked in Sri Lanka (1968-9) on behalf of the German government and made some films about Buddhism. Except for the 1950-2 titles, all are documentaries.

Kishore Sahu (on table), Jagdev, Mahendranath and Dev Anand (partially lit, right) in Paul Zils' Zalzala (1952)

✦ FILMOGRAPHY (* co-d. F. Bilimoria): 1945: Bombay-The Story of the Seven Isles; 1947: India's Struggle for National Shipping; 1947-8: *Mother/Child/Community; 1949: Kurvandi Road; *White Magic; *The Last Jewel; *General Motors in India; *A Tiny Thing Brings Death; Two Worlds; 1950: Hindustan Hamara; 1952: Zalzala; Shabasb; 1954: A Family In Bangalore; *Ujala; 1955: Fisherfolk Of Bombay; 1956: The School; The Ripening Seed; 1957: New Life of a Displaced Person; Maa-The Story of an Unwed Mother; *Fifty Miles from Poon; 1958: *The Vanishing Tribe; Oraons of Bihar; Martial Dances of Malabar.

ZUBEIDA (1911-90)

Actress born in Surat as a Muslim princess, daughter of the Nawab of Sachin and Fatma Begum (later India's first woman director). Started in silent films at Kohinoor aged 12. Early career was dominated by her extraordinarily beautiful sister Sultana, a better-known star in the 20s. Her second sister, Shehzadi, also became a teenage actress. Zubeida's best silent work was for Manilal Joshi at the Kohinoor, Laxmi and Excelsior Studios. Played the lead in Alam Ara, India's first sound film. Identified with courtesan roles in big Urdu, stage-derived costume pictures, a tradition extended by Meena Kumari. Developed the tragic dimension of her image in several of Naval Gandhi's socials including the prestigious Tagore adaptation Balidan. Freelanced at the Ranjit and Sagar Studios and in her mother's films: Bulbul-e-Paristan, Heer Ranjha, Milan Dinar. Set up Mahalakshmi Cinetone (1934) with the film-maker Nanubhai Vakil. Retired at the height of her stardom in the late 30s, doing only a few films later on.

✦ FILMOGRAPHY: 1924: Gul-e-Bakavali; Maqorama; Pritbvl Vallabb; Sati Sardarba; 1925: Kala Chor; Devadasi; Indrasabha; Ra Naughan; Rambha Of Rajnagar; Desb Na Dushman; Yashodevi; Khandani Khavis; Sati Simantini; 1926: Bulbul-e-Paristan; Kashmeera; Raja Bhoj; Indrajai; Sati Menadevi; 1927: Laila Majnu; Nanand Bhojai; Balidan; 1928: Chamakti Chanda; Samrat Ashok; Golden Gang; Heer Ranjha; 1929: Kanakatarra; Mahasundar; Milan Dinar; Shabi Chor; Jai Bharati; 1930: Devadasi; Garva Khandan; Joban Na Jadu; Veer Rajput; Sinh No Panja; 1931: Meethi Churi; Diwani Duniya; Roop Sundari; Hoor-e-Misar; Karmano Kaber; Nadira (all St); Alam Ara; Meri Jaan; Veer Abhimanyu; 1932: Meerabai; Subhadra Haran; Zarina; 1933: Harijan (St); Bulbul-e-Punjab; Pandav Kaurav; Mahabharat; 1934: Gul Sanobar (?); Nanand Bhojai; Radha Mohan/Nand Ke Lala; Rasbk-e-Laila; Maa; Seva Sadan; 1935: Birbal Ki Beti; Gulshan-e-Alam; 1936: Mr and Mrs Bombay; 1937: Aurat Ki Zindagi; Kiski Pyari.

Zubeida and Master Vitthal in Alam Ara

Sathyan and Sheela in Chemmeen

PUNDALIK

1912 St c.12' b&w
d/P.R. Tipnis, N.G. Chitre c/Johnson?

Often presented as the first Indian film. Usually credited to R.G. Torney, but recent research suggests he was only marginally involved. Made jointly by N.G. Chitre, the manager of the Coronation Cinematograph in Bombay, and P.R. Tipnis, later a major Delhi-based distributor. The film about the Hindu saint is based, according to Harish Booch (1964), on Ramrao Kirtikar's Marathi play as staged by the Shripad Sangeet Mandali of Nasik. Shot on location in Bombay's Mangalwadi compound near Grant Road by a Bourne & Shepherd crew and released at the Coronation on 18 May, 1912. For the record, it must be pointed out that film-makers such as Hiralal Sen had made similar films of stage plays before Pundalik.

RAJA HARISHCHANDRA

aka King Harishchandra
1913 St 3700 ft b&w
d/s/p D.G. Phalke pc Phalke Films
c Trymbak B. Telang.
lp D.D. Dabke, P.G. Sane, Bhalchandra D. Phalke, G.V. Sane, Dattatreya Kshirsagar, Dattatreya Telang, Ganpat G. Shinde, Vishnu Hari Aundhkar, Anna Salunke, Nath T. Telang.

Commonly performed and often-filmed Mahabharata legend and Phalke's first feature. The film is often celebrated for having inaugurated the Indian film industry following Phalke's own claim to that effect (ICC Report, 1928). The cast was drawn from non-professionals and although Phalke wanted to cast women in female roles (breaking with stage tradition), no woman agreed to perform. After its premiere on 21 April, the film was released at the Coronation Cinematograph on 3 May as part of a variety entertainment programme which also included The MacClements: A Comical Sketch and Alexandroff The Wonderful Foot Juggler. The film that survives and has been extensively screened following the Indian Silent Cinema package at the Pordenone Film Festival 1994 is the 1917 remake.

LANKA DAHAN

aka Lanka Aflame
1917 St 3000 ft b&w
d/p/s D.G. Phalke pc Phalke Films
c Trymbak B. Telang.
lp Anna Salunke, Ganpat Shinde, D.D. Dabke

Phalke Films' last production is a mythological retelling of the familiar Ramayana story of Rama's (Salunke) wife Seeta being abducted by Ravana, the demon king of Lanka, and Rama's triumph with the aid of men and monkeys. The available footage of the film, 501 ft, offers sophisticated parallel cutting between three spaces: the tulasi platform where Seeta is held captive in Lanka, the villain, Ravana, coming to molest her and the brave Hanuman (Shinde) atop a tree witnessing the tragic scene below. Instead of editing according to a temporal narrative logic, Phalke uses a spatial logic: Seeta's space is physically and emotionally isolated, conveyed in foreground/background contrasts. Ravana moves towards her in two daring long shots, from right background to left foreground, first across his palace garden and along his pool (locating his characters in the way stage backdrops in Marathi theatre functioned), then through two elaborate circular movements as he jettisons his royalty and moves into the no-man's-land around Seeta, with Hanuman performing an athletic dance in rage and grief at the villain's progress. The film proved a success after opening at the West End, Bombay and Aryan cinema, Pune.

RAJA HARISHCHANDRA

aka Satyavadi Raja Harishchandra
1917 St 2944 ft b&w
d/co-c/s D.G. Phalke pc Phalke's Films co-c Trymbak B. Telang
lp Anna Salunke, D.D. Dabke, Bhalchandra Phalke

Phalke's remake of his 1913 film. The original version of this very successful theme was written by Ranchhodhbhai Udayram, but made popular by Vinayak Prasad Talib's Urdu version for the Baliwala Victoria theatre group (1884) and Bhartendu's Hindi Satya Harishchandra (1885). The homage to the upright King Harishchandra (Dabke) who almost sacrifices his kingdom for his love of truth, opens with a Ravi Varma-like tableau showing the king, his wife Taramati (Salunke) and his young son, to whom he is teaching archery. Derived from the Sangeet Natak, continuity is defined through juxtaposition of spatial planes (e.g. the space of the family idyll and the space 'beyond', while off-screen space functions like stage wings) which allow the narrative to be condensed into spaces against, and into, which the viewer's gaze traces a logic of movement. The hunt proceeds into and conquers the space beyond. Then the king blunders into a contiguous area controlled by the sage Vishwamitra, a mystical space opposed to the king's physical one. To atone for his mistake, the king is banished. In his play, Talib had introduced an Indrasabha-like fairy to seduce the king into renouncing his kingdom. In the film, this figure surfaces in the form of the three furies caught in flames whom Harishchandra tries to rescue. The hunt sequence, as well as the reduction of Nakshatra, Vishwamitra's disciple, into a comic character, are faithful to the play. The king endures much hardship before a deus ex machina (here literally a god) emerges at the join of the horizon and the gaze (cf Sbri Krishna Janma, 1918) to reassure everyone that the whole narrative was merely a test of the king's integrity. Only 1475 ft of the original film appear to have survived.

SHRI KRISHNA JANMA

aka Birth of Shri Krishna
1918 St 5500 ft b&w
d/s D.G. Phalke pc Hindustan Cinema Films
lp D.D. Dabke, Purshottam Vaidya, Mandakini Phalke, Bhagirathibai, Neelkanth

Mandakini, the film-maker's daughter, played the child god Krishna, repeating her role in Phalke's next mythological, Kaliya Mardan (1919). Beginning with the invocation of 'almighty god', the only available sequence of the film (576 ft), which may in fact be its last episode, opens with a shot of a river from behind the backs of a group of people, echoing the position of the audience vis-a-vis the miraculous appearance of young Krishna rising out of the water astride the demon snake Kaliya. Phalke then cuts 180 degrees across the axis to the audience of the scene, an editing pattern he repeats several times, locking the two spaces into each other at right angles. The viewer enters Yashoda's space as she rocks the sleeping Krishna's crib and imagines the god as Gopala, generating a fantasy space in which the evil Kamsa imagines Krishna threateningly duplicated many times around him. Kamsa then imagines himself dead as his severed head rises up out of the frame and descends again, a matte effect that was one of the film's highlights. The end has people of all castes paying obeisance to the deity and Phalke inserted the title-card: 'May this humble offering be accepted by the Lord'. Adverts included a reference to a 'spectacular' scene of 'the heavenward flight of Maya in the form of lightning'. Released to great acclaim in Bombay.

KALIYA MARDAN

1919 St 6000 ft b&w
d/s D.G. Phalke pc Hindustan Cinema Films
lp Mandakini Phalke, Neelkanth

Introducing Phalke as the 'Pioneering Cine-Artist of the East', the most complete Phalke film extant opens with a series of shots demonstrating the 7-year-old Mandakini Phalke's acting skills through a series of facial expressions. The playmates of Krishna (Mandakini) are insulted by a female villager who splashes water on them. They take revenge by stealing butter from her house. When they are beaten up by the woman, they again take revenge. Krishna receives a gift of fruit and gives it away, 'an act which foreshadows his future benevolent inclination'. The film's most elaborately plotted sequence has Krishna entering the room of a wealthy merchant and his wife at night and tying the man's beard to his wife's hair. These exploits lead to a large crowd complaining of Krishna's antics to his foster parents. The film ends with Krishna vanquishing the demon snake Kaliya in a fierce underwater battle, intercut (cf Sbri Krishna Janma, 1918) with the faces of anxious observers. Krishna eventually rises triumphant with the slain demon's tail on his shoulder, garlanded by the now liberated wives of the demon. Only 4441 ft of the original film survive.

SAIRANDHRI

1920 St 4958 ft b&w
d/s/co-c Baburao Painter pc Maharashtra Film co-c S. Fattal lp Balasabeb Yadav, Zunzharrao Pawar, Kamaladevi, Kishabapu Bakre, Baburao

Pendharkar, Ravji Mhaskar, Ganpat Bakre, Sushiladevi, Sitarampant Kulkarni, Shivram Vashikar, V.G. Damle

Painter's first completed feature, a mythological alluding to contemporary politics, tells the Mahabharata story of the villainous Keechak's (Pawar) lusting after Sairandhri (Kamaladevi), the persona adopted by Draupadi in her 13th year of exile. As a maid who is supposed to be Swaraksita, she claims the protection of King Veerat (Bakre). Keechak, with the covert complicity of his sister Sudeshna, attacks the heroine and, after a spectacular chase through King Veerat's court, he is gorily beheaded by Bheema (Yadav). Pendharkar appears as Krishna. The published script (in Bhide and Gajbar, 1978) suggests several grand court scenes and a complicated narrative, more intricate than in Phalke's contemporaneous work and with a more flexible use of space. Remade as a sound film by Shantaram (1933).

⊗ NALA DAMAYANTI

1920 St 10,000 ft b&w
d/c Eugenio De Liguoro pc Madan Theatres
lp Patience Cooper, Keki Adajania, Dadibhai Sarkari, Signor Manelli, Signorina Manelli, Master Mohan, Khorshedji Bilimoria, Manchershia Chapparg

Big-budget film featuring Madan's star, Patience Cooper as Damayanti and Adajania as Nala in an often filmed episode from the Mahabharata, relying on special effects, moving from 'Narada's Ascent of Mount Meru to Swarga, the Heaven of Indra, the Transformation in the Clouds of the Four Gods into impersonations of King Nala, Swan Messengers of Love, the Transformation of Kali, the Demon of Evil, into a Serpent, the Meeting of Kali and Dwapor and the Four Gods amidst the Blue Air' etc., according to a Times of India advert. De Liguoro, who also played Pushkar, was known in Italy for his Orientalist spectacles (e.g. Fascino d'Oro, 1919).

⊗ SHAKUNTALA

1920 St c.6000 ft b&w
d/sc Suchet Singh pc Oriental Film st Kalidasa's Shakuntala c Baron Von Rayvon (Roy Vaughan?)
lp Dorothy Kingdom, Goharjaan, Sampson, Mrs Sutria, Kanjibhai Rathod, Dadibhai Sarkari, Khorshedji Engineer, Signorina Albertini, Isaac Simon, Rewashankar

Suchet Singh's debut, adapting Kalidasa's Sanskrit play, features the American import Dorothy Kingdom in the title role, triggering a major Swadeshi debate with S.N. Patankar announcing a rival production in the Bombay Chronicle of 24 January 1920: Shakuntala, or The Fateful Ring (1920), adapted 'strictly in accordance with the drama'. Hindustan Cinema Films joined in claiming that its Usba Swapna was 'produced by Indian Artistes, by Indian Labour and Without Foreign Assistance'. Singh's film was a major success running for 40 consecutive days in Bombay. The cameraman was probably Roy N. Vaughan, an American import.

⊗ BHAKTA VIDUR

aka Dharma Vijay
1921 St 6835 ft b&w
d Kanjibhai Rathod pc Kohinoor Film
s Mohanlal G. Dave c Gajanan S. Devare
lp Dwarkadas Sampat, Sakina, Maneklal Patel, Homi Master, Prabhashankar, Gangaram

One of the most famous silent mythologicals proposing a politically subversive allegory, causing a major censorship row. The Mahabharata story was advertised as a 'series of events between Pandavas and Kauravas, which led to the decline and downfall of the ancient empire and culminated in terrible war between the two rival factions. A Swadeshi film. Glory of the East, portrayed with a skill of acting which defies European art.' (Bombay Chronicle, 13 August 1921). Starred the studio's owners, Dwarkadas Sampat as Vidur and Maneklal Patel as Krishna, with Homi Master as Duryodhan. Initially successful in Bombay, it was first banned in Karachi, then in Madras, for being 'a thinly veiled resume of political events in India, Vidur appearing as Mr Gandhi clad in Gandhi-cap and khaddar shirt' (quoted in ICC Report, 1928). It was made partially in the wake of the anti-Rowlatt Act (1919) agitations and continued the studio's political documentaries representing Sampat's Gandhian nationalist adherences. Also known for a specially written music score performed live with every show, esp. the stridently nationalistic song in praise of the charkha (spinning wheel and Congress Party symbol) Rudo maro rentiyo, rentiyama nikle taar, taare taare thai Bharatno udhaar. Re-released as Dharma Vijay in 1922. Rathod and Dave courted notoriety again with Mahasati Ansuya (1921).

⊗ BILET PHERAT

aka The England Returned
1921 St c.4000 ft b&w
d/co-s N.C. Lahary pc Indo-British Film p/co-s Dhirendranath Ganguly c Jyotish Sarkar lp Dhirendranath Ganguly, Manmatha Pal, Kunjalal Chakraborty, Sushilabala

Dhirendranath Ganguly made his acting debut in this famous satire contrasting conservative Bengali culture with that of the colonial elite. Advertised as a story about 'a young Indian [who] returns to his native land after a long absence and is so mightily impressed with his foreign training that, at his parental home, he startles everybody with his quixotic notions of love and matrimony' (Bombay Chronicle, 20 August 1921). Ganguly's acting incorporated Hollywood slapstick and a number of 19th century performance traditions from Calcutta. A long time in the making, the film was promoted as the first Bengali film, with a live 'all-Bengali' band to accompany the screening.

⊗ DHRUVA GHARITRA

aka Triumph of Devotion
1921 St c.4000 ft b&w
d Eugenio De Liguoro pc Madan Theatres
s Tulsidutt Shaida
lp Patience Cooper, Master Mohan, Signora

Dorros, James Magarth, Master Manilal, Dadabhai Sarkari, Aga Hashr Kashmiri, Mrs Manelli, P. Manelli, Master Surajram, Khorshedji Bilimoria, Jashodha Singh, Cawasji Golla, Isaac Simon, Ardesheer Sanjana, Mr Palwan, Master Revla, Pestonji Madan

Mythological based on the Pauranic legend of the boy Dhruva whose quest for eternal salvation was rewarded when he became the brightest star in the heavens (the pole star is known as the Dhruvataru). As part of Madan's bid for an international breakthrough (cf Nala Damayanti, 1920, also by De Liguoro), the cast featured many Europeans with Cooper in the lead as Suniti. The Times of India (11 June 1921) noted that it offered 'directions in which a greater appeal may be made to the Westernised mind in trying to picture modern India.' The playwright Aga Hashr Kashmiri, then a Madan employee, played a small role (Dharmadev) and may have written some of the script, uncredited. The Indian version was successful but the film became better known in a shorter version adapted for Europe.

⊗ MAHASATI ANSUYA

aka Birth of Shri Dattatreya, Sati Ansuya
1921 St 6927 ft b&w
d Kanjibhai Rathod pc Kohinoor Film
s Mohanlal G. Dave c V.B. Joshi lp Vaidya, Sakina

Successful Kohinoor mythological consolidating the partnership between Rathod and Dave (e.g. Bhakta Vidur, 1921). It retells the Ramayana tale of Ansuya, who, with her husband Atri, shelters Rama, Seeta and Lakshmana during their banishment from Ayodhya. It gained notoriety for a nude shot of Sakina.

⊗ ANDHARE ALO

aka The Influence of Love
1922 St c.5000 ft b&w
d Sisir Bhaduri, Naresh Mitra pc Taj Mahal Film's Saratchandra Chatterjee c Nonigopal Sanyal lp Sisir Bhaduri, Naresh Mitra, Jogesh Choudhury, Durga Rani

Typical Saratchandra love-triangle short story provided the plot for Taj Mahal Film's debut production. An upper-class Bengali hero, the son of a zamindar, Satyendra, experiences the conflict between familial duty and the modern world in terms of his desire for an 11-year-old virgin bride, Radharani, and the nurturing and self-sacrificing courtesan Bijli. This is the first exploration in Bengali cinema of this plot's melodramatic potential (cf the films of Saratchandra's Devdas in 1928, 1935, 1955). The journal Bijli (1923) commended the acting in the emotionally charged scenes. Painted backdrops were used and, although Sourindramohan Mukherjee (in Bangla Bioscope) felt the film deployed several stereotypical scenes (drunkenness, a courtesan's dance), he recommended adapting more Saratchandra stories.

❖ PATI BHAKTI

aka Human Emotions

1922 St 11710 ft b&w

d J.J. Madan pc Madan Theatres s Harikrishna Jauhar, based on his play lp Patience Cooper, Master Mohan, Signorina Manelli, Manilal, Sayed Hussain

Major Madan hit starring Cooper as Leelavati in a social advocating that women should be devoted to their husbands. A highlight in her career and a significant prototype of the genre (cf Gunsundari, 1927). In Madras, the censor demanded that an 'obscene' dance sequence be removed. The film was later recensored on 16 Nov 1923.

❖ SUKANYA SAVITRI

1922 6898 ft b&w

d Kanjibhai Rathod pc Kohinoor Film s Mohanlal Dave

lp Moti, Jamna, Sakina

Recently restored by the NFIA, this is the only surviving work of Rathod and the important Kohinoor studio. It tells two relatively independent stories from the Mahabharata. The first part features the princess Savitri, who stands by her husband, the woodcutter Satyavan, when he is marked by Yama, the god of death. When Yama fulfills his prophecy and takes away Satyavan's life, Savitri pleads with him and eventually wins her husband back. The extraordinary scene showing Savitri's pleas with a god sitting astride a buffalo somewhere between heaven and earth is intercut with shots of the couple's idyllic life as Savitri tends to her blind parents-in-law. The flash-back construction and the cross-cutting to the 'tableau' of Savitri arguing with Yama provides a more sophisticated temporal structure than is evident in e.g. Phalke's work of the period. The second half narrates the legend of Sukanya, the daughter of Sharyati. Seeing a large ant-hill, and unaware that it has been built over the meditating sage Chyavana, she blinds the sage and, in return, is forced to marry him. She tends to the old and decrepit man, and he changes into a handsome youth. The surviving print mentions the Krishna studio in its inter-titles, possibly because former Kohinoor partner Maneklal Patel reissued it under his new banner.

❖ VEER ABHIMANYU

aka Virat Swaroop

1922 St c.6500 ft b&w

d Manilal Joshi pc Star Films s Mohanlal G. Dave c V.B. Joshi lp Sultana, Fatma Begum, Madanrai Vakil,

Joshi

Big-budget mythological by first-time producers Ardeshir Irani and Bhogilal Dave, director Joshi and silent star Sultana (sister of Zubeida). Advertises in the Bombay Chronicle emphasised the 'expense of more than 100,000 rupees. More than 5000 people have taken part in the production of this film'. The plot is from the Mahabharata tale about Abhimanyu who learns of the Chakravyuha or battle formation of the Kauravas while in the womb of his mother, Subhadra (Fatma). The film was acclaimed for its war scenes. Sultana plays Uttara and Vakil is Krishna.

❖ CATECHIST OF KIL-ARNI, THE

1923 St 5 reels b&w co-d/c R.S. Prakash co-d/co-s/p Thomas Gavin Duffy co-s Bruce Gordon Catholic propaganda film produced and written by the Irish lay-priest Thomas Gavin Duffy together with Bruce Gordon as a fund raiser for the Paris Foreign Mission Society in Pondicherry. Although there was a village called Kil-Arni nearby, the film was shot in March and April 1923 in the village of Sattiamangalam inhabited by Catholic Untouchables to avoid problems of caste and religious dissent. The plot tells of a reprobate called Ram who is converted to Catholicism by the exemplary conduct of the local priest (Duffy himself) during an epidemic. The main interest of the film resides in its location footage showing the landscapes and farming practices in the district. The non-professional cast was recruited locally. The film was processed in Boston where it was premiered on 25 October 1923.

❖ SAVITRI

aka Savitri Satyavan

1923 St 1634m b&w

d/sc Giorgio Mannini p Cines (Rome), Madan Theatres s Ferdinando Paolieri, Aldo de Benedetti c Giocchino Gengarelli lp Rina de Liguoro, Angelo Ferrari, Gianna Terribili-Gonzales

Described as India's first international co-production (cf Nala Damayanti, 1920; Dbruva Charithra, 1921), this much-touted Madan film was shot in Rome with an Italian cast in 1923 and released in 1925. Italian sources do not mention the involvement of Madan Theatres. Some sources credit T. Marconi, who later shot Indrasabha (1932), with the cinematography and the original story is said to be by the indologist A. De Gubernatis whose narrative was first translated into Gujarati by Nanabhai Ranina (Parsee theatre playwright and author of the first dictionary from Gujarati to English), and thence into Hindi. The love-is-stronger-than-death story sees Savitri (de Liguoro), the daughter of King Ashwapati and a goddess, fall for Satyavan (Ferrari) who is destined to die within a year. He is killed by a tree and his soul is gathered by the god Yama (Terribili-Gonzales) but he returns to life and there is a happy ending for the lovers. Contemporary Italian critics described it both as a medieval legend transported to the Orient and a 1001 Nights story. It was regarded as a colourful spectacle, promoted as Italy's most 'daring' film to date. Its delayed release and the short running time suggest that the film may have been re-edited, losing some nudity and other 'erotic' images to satisfy the censor.

❖ SINHAGAD

1923 St 6880 ft b&w

d Baburao Painter pc Maharashtra Film s Hari Narayan Apte's novel Gad Aala Pan Simba Gela c S. Fattelal

lp Balasaheb Yadav, Kamaladevi, Nalini, Baburao Painter, V. Shantaram, Zunzharrao Pawar, K.P. Bhawe, G.R. Mane

India's first full-scale historical and the Maharashtra Studio's costliest film to date. Based on a classic by the best-known 19th/early 20th-C. Marathi novelist, it retells a famous episode in the military career of the 17th-C. Maratha emperor Shivaji (Painter) and his lieutenant, the folk hero Tanaji Malusare (Yadav). It features Tanaji's invasion of Fort Sinhagad in the dead of night, using his pet lizard to run up the wall with a rope, and his death in victory. The film was a major influence on subsequent Marathi cinema and on Prabhat films when Maharashtra Film's key technicians worked there. It was remade by V. Shantaram (1933). Yadav played a double role in the film.

❖ BISMIL SADI

aka Twentieth Century

1924 St 9170 ft b&w

d Homi Master pc Kohinoor Film s Mohanlal G. Dave c D.D. Dabke

lp Raja Sandow, Noor Mohammed, Moti

Homi Master's directorial debut at Kohinoor is a social attacking Bombay's industrial parvenu class, initiating the realist-reformist melodrama as a genre. It tells of the street hawker Devidas, who goes to the city to make his fortune but, once successful, becomes an exploitative cotton mill owner and a callous snob knighted by the British. His wife, the kindly Hirabai, is made to suffer and his daughter Rukmini is dishonoured. The happy ending sees his deathbed repentance and Rukmini is saved by the real heir to the business. Location shots filmed on board a steamer and the mise en scene of a factory workers' violent revolt figured prominently in the film's marketing campaign.

❖ GUL-E-BAKAVALI

1924 St 7997 ft b&w

d Kanjibhai Rathod pc Kohinoor Film s Mohanlal G. Dave lp Zubeida, Fatma Begum, Sultana, Khalil, Noor Mohamed, Savita, Jamna, Usha Rani

One of the most successful silent films tells the legend of the fairy Bakavali (Zubeida), her deivi pushp (or divine flower) Gul known for its healing powers, and the Eastern prince Taj-ul-Mulk (Khalil), who wants the flower to cure his blind father. The origins of this popular legend vary. One version claims it was introduced into India by Nihal Chand Lahori's Mazhab-e-Ishq, translating from Izzat Ali Bengali's Persian version around the turn of the 19th C. under the influence of his British teacher John Gilchrist at the Fort William College in Calcutta. Another traces it to Abley Sheikh's narration of the story in 1513 couplets from which it was adapted by several Kashmiri writers into Urdu couplets in the Masnavi form. It was a favourite on the Parsee stage, esp. the scenes where Taj-ul-Mulk faces his villainous brothers who steal the flower as Bakavali is turned to stone and installed in a temple, and her human re-birth. It was often filmed, including in several South Indian languages (Dhirubhai Desai's Paristan, 1957; a Tamil version starring M.G. Ramchandran in 1955; a Telugu one, Gul-e-Bakavali Katha, starring N.T. Rama Rao in 1962). This version, made in 97 scenes, featured Kohinoor superstars Zubeida and Khalil. It was one of the first films to embrace the folk-fantasy mode as opposed to e.g. Rathod and Dave's mythologicals (Bhakta Vidur, Mahasati Ansuya, both 1921).

KALA NAAG

aka Kalyug Ki Sati aka Triumph of Justice

1924 St 8200 ft b&w

d Kanjibhai Rathod pc Kohinoor Film
s Mohanlal G. Dave c Gajanan S. Devare,
D.D. Dabke

lp Sultana, Homi Master, Ibrahim, Moti, Savita, Tara, Behram Vasanika, R.N. Vaidya, Fatma
Begum, Khalil

There is some debate about whether this film was made by Rathod or by Homi Master, its male star. It claimed realist intent, mainly for its thinly veiled allusions to a major scandal in Bombay known as the Champsi-Haridas murder case. Vihari, the son of a rich mill owner, falls into the clutches of crooks led by Kalidas, aka the Black Cobra, who also has designs on Nirmala, Vihari's wife. The Bombay Chronicle (5 January 1924) advertised the film as a 'thrilling plot revealing various styles of treacherous fraud of the modern civilisation and dreadful assassination for the ardent desire of wealth or passions and rape and ravishment by atrocious villains'.

KALYAN KHAJINA

aka The Treasures of Kalyan

1924 St 9440 ft b&w

d Baburao Painter pc Maharashtra Film
c S. Fattal

lp Chimasahab Bhosle, K.P. Bhave, Sultana, Master Vithal, Kamaladevi, Nalini, Vedi

Quasi-historical adventure movie based on the exploits of the 17th-C. Maratha emperor Shivaji (Bhosle). A large part of the film was shot in a cave where Shivaji meets the Subedar of Kalyan (Bhave). The design of the cave is often hailed as an art-directorial triumph for the studio. The film's dramatic highlight occurs when, inspecting stolen Mughal wealth, Shivaji suddenly confronts not a box-full of coins but a fair maiden (Sultana) emerging from one of the crates full of treasure. It is also stunt superstar Master Vithal's debut, apparently in the role of a dancing-girl.

PAAP NO FEI

aka The Debt of Sin

1924 St 6782 ft b&w

co-d Ardeshir Irani co-d/s Naval Gandhi

pc Majestic Film c Bhigilal K.M. Dave

lp B.P. Mishra, Tara, Asooji, Elizer

The best-known Gandhi-Irani co-direction at Majestic is a moralistic social in a contemporary setting, successfully translating Hollywood conventions (e.g. parallel cutting). The plot concerns a young woman, Sarojini (Tara), who, under the influence of her jailbird cousin Jairam (Mishra) swindles her aged husband and ruins her lover, the next door neighbour Thakurdas (Asooji). In spite of the moralism, the film's interest and energy derive from the depiction of moral turpitude and modernity represented by a race course, the cotton market and bars. Highlights include a car chase and Jairam's narrow escape from the police while Sarojini and Thakurdas end up in jail.

POONA RAIDED

aka Poona Par Hallo

1924 St 7453 ft b&w

d/s Mama Warekar pc Deccan Pics c Ramrao Anandkar

lp Miss Bhawani, Krishnarao Ketkar, Shankarrao Sahasrabudhe, Shankarrao
Moghe, Vishnupant Pagnis, Miss Kaiser,
Krishnarao Pethkar, Baburao Sansare, Datta
Varane, Haripant Kulkarni, Narayanrao
Phaterphekar, Shankarrao Shinde,
Pandharinath Kale, Lakshmanrao Rane,
Mohammed Arab, Shuplani Mukherjee,
Ratansha Vakil, Miss Dulari, Sundarrao
Nadkarni

This expensive historical, the most ambitious production of the Pune-based Deccan Pics, is a seminal item in Marathi cinema's influential tradition later continued by Sarpotdar and inherited by Bhalji Pendharkar: the Right-wing valorisation of the 17th-C. Maratha emperor Shivaji. It was also the best-known directorial effort by one of the Marathi theatre's major playwrights, B.V. (Mama) Warekar, whose play Satteche Gulam (1922), transformed the Marathi stage with the first full-blown instance of Ibsenite stage naturalism. This film retells the legendary episode, a favourite of numerous popular historians of Maratha glory, of Mughal emperor Aurangzeb's (Sahasrabudhe) attack on the fort city of Poona and of how Shivaji (Ketkar) repelled it. Although it shared the scale of e.g. Painter's Sinbagad (1923), it was probably made with greater awareness of the contemporary anti-imperialist metaphors of the historical genre and the ideological Hindu and Marathi-chauvinist dimensions of the era. Apart from Sarpotdar, who continued in this vein when he acquired Deccan, the other film-maker to launch his career was Sundarrao Nadkarni, appearing in a minor role.

PRITHVI VALLABH

aka The Lord of Love and Power

1924 St 7456 ft b&w

d Manilal Joshi pc Ashoka Pics sc Sirur based on K.M. Munshi's novel c V.B. Joshi

lp P.Y. Altekar, Wagle Sandow, Fatma
Begum, Zubeida, Sultana, Miss Jaina, Bhalji
Pendharkar

Seminal silent historical and the first film adaptation of Gujarati novelist K.M. Munshi. Just before the film was made, the story was serialised in the journal Vismi Sadi and its allusions to current events became controversial. Gandhi criticised it for departing from the principles of non-violence and abstinence. The story features King Munja, ruler of Aranti, famed warrior and patron of the arts who Munshi saw as 'the gay, amoral man radiating power and love - extracting joy from every moment - true to himself, under all conditions, in conquest, defeat, in prison, in love, when betrayed and sentenced to death. Critics fell on me like voracious tigers - Munja was so immoral! The truth was that in him the readers saw the man who lived as most people wanted to live but dared not.' (Munshi in a speech, 1947). Munja (Sandow) falls into the hands of his arch enemy Tailap, who received assistance from Bhillam (Altekar), king of Dharavati. Tailap orders that Munja be put to death but is held back by Tailap's powerful sister Minalvati (Fatma Begum), a widow who first wants to break Munja's spirit. Instead, she and Munja fall in love. Learning of Munja's plan to escape with Minalvati, Tailap has Munja trampled to death by his elephants. Manilal Joshi's film was also an ambitious launch for the new Ashoka Pics set up as an independent production company. The big production shot mainly around the Makkarpura palace in Baroda with sets designed by R.S. Choudhury, had climactic scenes featuring the elephant stampede and created a sensation. It was also noted for its costume design. Joshi defended the film's technical defects and implausibilities in a note published when it was released, claiming all this would be excused when India one day 'finds its place in the pantheon of world cinema'. It was remade by Sohrab Modi as a spectacular in 1943.

SADGUNI SUSHILA

aka Sushila the Virtuous aka Triumph of Truth

1924 St 7997 ft b&w

d Kanjibhai Rathod pc Kohinoor Film
s Mohanlal G. Dave lp Raja Sandow

Attributed to Rathod, this is a love story claiming to uphold the tradition of domesticated female virtue and a classic example of a reform novel-derived plot being transmuted into a thriller melodrama using elaborate references to the freedom struggle. Story tells of virtuous Sushila and her debauched husband Pratap, who leads a peaceful life until her former suitor Jaswant arrives on a social call. His appearance prompts Pratap to suspect his wife's marital fidelity and he drives the visitor away. Returning to retrieve his belongings, Jaswant surprises a gang of burglars who shoot him dead. The leader of the gang, the police chief Vinayak, frames Pratap for the murder. Pratap runs away and what appears to be his corpse is found in a well. Vinayak now makes amorous advances to Sushila who is resigned to widowhood (performing symbolically laden acts like weaving on the charkha). After some years, Pratap reappears having discovered the truth about Vinayak's criminal deals (but apparently unrepentant about his own nasty behaviour towards his wife).

⊗ SATI PADMINI

aka Beauty of Rajasthan, aka Siege of Chittor
1924 St 5990 ft b&w

d Baburao Painter pc Maharashtra Film
c S. Fattelal

lp Vedi, Ganpat Bakre, Balasaheb Yadav, Nalini, V. Shantaram

Painter moved outside his favourite Maratha history for this story of the legendary Rajput queen Padmini of Chittor. At the turn of the century, Rajput history, often drawn from the Raso sagas (corresponding to medieval European lays of prowess and chivalry), together with Maratha history were the most popular sources of screen historicals evoking pre-colonial grandeur. The story is set against the violent siege of Chittor, the Rajput capital, by the sultan of Delhi, Allauddin Khilji (Vedi), which temporarily saw the end of the Chauhan dynasty (14th C.). According to legend, during a state visit to Chittor, Khilji caught sight of a reflection of Queen Padmini and became so infatuated that he attacked the Chittor fortress, defeating the Rajputs. However, Padmini, with her entire entourage, had committed sati (ritual suicide) by the time Khilji arrived. The film capitalised on its screening at the British Empire exhibition at Wembley and received some favourable reviews in the British press, a fact always mentioned in references to the film in autobiographies or film histories.

⊗ SATI SARDARBA

1924 St 8747 ft b&w

d/s Nanubhai Desai pc Saraswati Film
c Bhogilal K.M. Dave

lp Zubeida, Sultana, Mohanlala, Fatma Begum, Putli

The debut production of Saraswati Film, an offshoot of Irani's Star Studio. Mulraj (Mohanlala), an alcoholic and gambler, wagers his sister Sardarba (Zubeida) to a bunch of crooks and loses her. The rest of the film focuses on Sardarba's tormented life and how she comes through her trials with her virtue intact. Apart from the sisters Zubeida and Sultana and their star mother Fatma Begum, the film features a rare screen appearance of Gujarati stage star Mohanlala (cf Narasin Mehta, 1932).

⊗ BAAP KAMAI

aka Fortune and Fools
1925 St 8927 ft b&w

d Kanjibhai Rathod pc Krishna Film
st Shaida c Chimanlal Luhar

lp Gulab, Gohar, Gangaram, Nandram, Putli

Seth Madhavadas's only son Laxmidas aka Bachuseth (Gangaram) is brought up with affection but also strict discipline. Surviving on a small allowance, he cannot sustain his expensive habits, particularly after he is befriended by the scoundrels Harilal and Chiman who try to exploit his family's wealth. Madhavadas dies leaving his son in the care of his trusted manager. Bachuseth then meets the actress Roshanara, a lady of ill repute who, with Harilal and Chiman, entices him to a gambling den. The villains tell Bachuseth that his wife is having an affair with Kundan, the son of his manager-guardian. Bachuseth dismisses the manager and his son and, gradually, Harilal and Chiman take over the business, including the inherited wealth, leaving Bachuseth a pauper. He is eventually helped by the sacked Kundan. The film is mainly remembered as Gohar's film debut, albeit in a minor role. Based on a novel by the Gujarati writer Shaida, the film illustrates a genre of popular fiction addressing the urban experience in colonial India, a fertile terrain to dramatise the encounter between traditional cultural values and those of the West.

⊗ BAJIRAO MASTANI

1925 St 7679 ft b&w

co-d/s Bhalji Pendharkar co-d Nanubhai Desai pc Sharda Film c Bhogilal K.M. Dave lp Master Vithal, Nanasahab Phatak, Miss Jones, Sayani, Yakub

Pendharkar's film debut, foreshadowing his later use of Maratha history, focuses on the Maratha Peshwai (18th C.). It is an uncharacteristic production launching the silent era's most famous manufacturer of stunt movies, Sharda Film, and features the legendary Marathi stage actor, Nanasahab Phatak.

⊗ CINEMA NI RANI

aka Cinema Queen, Love's Sacrifice

1925 St 8550 ft b&w

d Mohan Bhavnani pc Kohinoor Film

st Mohanlal G. Dave c V.B. Joshi

lp Sulochana, Khalil, Putli

Bhavnani's second film and one of Sulochana's first big films also inaugurated the very popular 'lives of the stars' genre. This film was about a poor painter named Chandrakant (Khalil) who is about to commit suicide when he meets the film star Manjiri (Sulochana). He is creatively rejuvenated by the fantasies she inspires. Manjiri's modelling sessions are used to narrate her biography: her mother was a prostitute with a heart of gold who made sure her daughter was well educated. Chandrakant and Manjiri fall in love, but he is already married and his vampish, ill-tempered wife will not set him free. Exploiting the autobiographical ambiguities generated by a star playing a star, the film shows how Sulochana's image was being moulded for exploitation at Kohinoor and later at the Imperial Studio.

⊗ FANKDO FITURI

aka Handsome Blackguard

1925 St 16400 ft b&w

d Homi Master pc Kohinoor Film st Pijam

sc Mohanlal G. Dave c D.D. Dabke, Gajanan S. Devare

lp Homi Master, K.B. Athavale, Miss Moti, Behram Vasania, Fram Sethna, Yakbal, Thelma Wallace, Yvonne Wallace

Based on a popular novel by Pijam (aka P.J. Marzban), editor of the newspaper Jam-e-Jamshed and playwright. Released as a two-part serial, the adverts summarised the story as: 'A charming heiress, a good-looking but villainous doctor, a timid lover, a crafty detective, a singing girl, a Nawab in his dotage and a dancing woman from the gutter. A photodrama that rings with love, hate, villainy, and fidelity'; 'The magnificent Parsee-Hindu-Muslim screen romance, from the extremely popular and sensational novel, [a] fascinating and thrilling story of social life of today, starring the beautiful and emotional artists Miss Thelma Wallace and Miss Yvonne Wallace'. It helped consolidate its maker and lead actor, Homi Master, playing Yakub the detective, as the top-selling film-maker at Kohinoor. Athavale played the eponymous handsome blackguard.

⊗ KULIN KANTA

1925 St 9144 ft b&w

d Homi Master pc Kohinoor Film

s Mohanlal G. Dave c K.G. Gokhale

lp Miss Moti, Jamna, Khalil, Behram Vasania, Ganibabu, Yakbal

Advertised as a 'dramatic version of love, jealousy and loyalty along with disastrous results of superstition and hot-headedness and the miseries of a deserted and ill-treated Hindu wife' and a 'story of Hindu superstition and its ruinous results', this film extends Homi Master's tendency (Bismi Sadi, 1924) to weave major social scandals into a fast-paced narrative with socially critical pretensions. The plot is derived from the Bawla murder case. The maharaja of Holkar fell in love with a dancing girl named Mumtaz (played by Moti) who spurned his advances because she loved another man. In fact, the maharaja had the man kidnapped in full public view and killed, a scene included in the film, shot on the Chowpatty waterfront in Bombay. The film was presented as critiquing the behaviour of religious leaders while showing communal unity among the lower classes. It equally valorises the love between brother and sister as well as between sisters-in-law. Reviewers often commended Master for his ability to elaborate highly complicated plots.

⊗ LANKA NI LAADI

aka Fairy of Ceylon

1925 St 9101 ft b&w

d Homi Master pc Kohinoor Film

s Mohanlal G. Dave c Gajanan S. Devare

lp Jamna, Gohar, Khalil

This fantasy, with overtones of Greek legend, is Gohar's first major hit and grossed more than any other film in 1925. The story is set in Lanka, present-day Sri Lanka and a site for some of the most important action of the Ramayana epic. The king is told that he will be killed by his grandson and that his daughter will marry a brave shepherd. When bandits come to steal cows from the royal park, the princess (Gohar) gives chase and is helped by a passing shepherd (Khalil). They fall in love and the shepherd claims her hand in marriage. The king then sends the shepherd on a series of dangerous adventures around the globe, hoping that he will die. However, the shepherd cures the ailing king of neighbouring Ghoga and is declared the heir to the kingdom, an event that enables the union of the couple and the realisation of the two predictions. The highlight is said to be a scene where the wounded shepherd is fed milk by a lioness.

MAHARACHI POR

aka Dher Ni Chhokri aka Two Little Untouchables aka The Untouchables
1925 St 7986 ft b&w

d/s Narayanrao D. Sarpotdar pc United Pics Syndicate c Pandurang Talegiri lp P.Y. Altekar, Joshi, Miss Jones, Dattoba Rajwade

Influential reformist social about an Untouchable girl who marries a Brahmin. The film draws its influence from a strand of Ibsenite naturalism pioneered on the Marathi stage by playwright Mama Warkar. Warkar had, the previous year, made Poona Raided for Deccan Pics, predecessors of United Pics, with Sarpotdar. This was a brief occasion for the convergence of Left progressives with mainstream Hindu reformism, e.g. in the journalism of N.S. Phadke, associate of Sarpotdar and an influence on the Natyamanwantar group (1933, cf K. Narayan Kale). It did not last long, as Sarpotdar's work revealed in its increasing assimilation of Hindu Mahasabha-inspired religious and regional Marathi chauvinism.

MOJILI MUMBAI

aka The Slaves of Luxury
1925 St 8220 ft b&w
d/s Manilal Joshi pc Kohinoor Film
c D.D. Dabke

lp Yakbal, Raja Sandow, Jamna, Ganibabu, Moti, Noor Mohammed, Baby Saraswati

Joshi's best-known film and, with Bismil Sadi (1924), the most successful attempt to locate the narrative in the present day. Presented as a comment on the lifestyle of Bombay's rich, the film tells of the wealthy Mr Nanavati (Sandow) who is attracted to a dancer, Roshanara (Yakbal) who in turn is represented by a Dalal (agent or, more precisely, pimp) named Chhotalal (Noor Mohammed). Chhotalal plans to rob Nanavati and seizes his chance when the rich man buys a gold necklace as a present for his daughter's birthday. Chhotalal tempts Nanavati to visit Roshanara, who then seduces him and obtains the necklace. When Nanavati realises that he has been duped, he accuses Chhotalal, who has by then switched the necklace for a fake. The film led to a debate in the pages of the journal Be-Ghadi Mouj about questions of morality and realism in film between Shaida, the editor and himself a scénarist, and Joshi. Joshi claimed that he merely wished to point to an all-too-common incident in Bombay instead of attempting to make a tragedy. The only other interesting thing about the characters is the continual reappearance in film themes (e.g. Baap Kamai, 1925), of a dancer of ill repute named Roshanara, based, apparently, on a real cabaret dancer of that name.

MUMBAI NI MOHINI

aka Social Pirates, aka Night Side of Bombay
1925 St 8879 ft b&w
d/s Nanubhai Desai pc Saraswati Film
st Nirbhayshankar Thakkar c Bhogilal K.M. Dave lp Fatma Begum, Mohanlala, Dorabji Mewawala, Elizer

Millionaire Ratanlal (Mohanlala) is an old man without an heir. He marries the rich, Western-educated Mohini. He has two managers, the sincere and faithful Dhairyadhhar and the Anglicised crook Manhar. Mohini, bored with her marriage, falls in love with Manhar who embezzles Rs 50,000 from Ratanlal's office and frames Dhairyadhhar for the crime, who is imprisoned. Mohini's affair with Manhar develops and they decide to eliminate old man Ratanlal but they are caught. In the end the two schemers die. The title, which in translation simply means Mohini of Bombay, is also a pun on the phrase 'the Charms of Bombay'. It preceded by a few months Kohinoor's Mojili Mumbai, the best-known example of a thriller set amongst Bombay's colonial bourgeoisie. Desai's film ran into a legal problem when the noted Gujarati novelist Gopalji Delwadekar claimed that he had written the script, commissioned by Bhogilal Dave's Star Film and that it was based on his novel Chandrakala (possibly adapted from Baron Lytton's play Night And Morning). Nirbhayshankar Thakkar, officially credited with the story, claimed that he had written it drawing on his own experiences as a poor medical student in Bombay.

PREM SANYAS

aka The Light of Asia aka Die Leuchte Asiens
1925 St 9437 ft b&w
d Franz Osten pc Great Eastern Film, Emelka Film (Munich), The Indian Players sc Niranjan Pal st Edwin Arnold c Josef Wirsching, Willi Kjermeier lp Seeta Devi, Himansu Rai, Sarada Ukil, Rani Bala, Prafulla Roy

Osten's Indian debut launched the Indo-German unit which grew into Bombay Talkies. Pal's adaptation of Arnold's 1861 Orientalist epic opened with documentary shots of tourists in Bombay watching street performers. Then a white-bearded old man sitting under the bodhi tree tells the tourists the story of Gautama (Rai), son of King Suddhodhana (Ukil) and Queen Maya (Bala), who left his consort Gopa (Seeta) and became a wandering teacher credited with founding Buddhism. The religious epic, with its idealised figures, takes up the narrative in flashback and ends with Gopa kneeling before Gautama asking to become his disciple. The film suggests that the real aim of Buddhism is the de-sexualisation of women. Released in India in 1926, it also received a major release in Germany with a score written by I.L. Fischer and Hans-Heinrich Dransmann. The film was hyped, mainly by Osten, as the 'first specifically Indian film' and the production was aided by a wealthy maharaja who contributed the use of his subjects, dressed in valuable old costumes, and 30 richly decorated elephants. One of the film's highlights, besides Seeta Devi's performance, is Wirsching's use of deep focus, as in the scene where Gopa watches a spectacular contest between Gautama and Devadatta (Roy) in the royal court. A key influence on the film's style was probably the costume and set designer, and future director, Charu Roy. A 90' version was screened in the US in 1928, shortly after the wedding of a Nancy Miller to a maharajah. (The original German footage is given as 7382 ft, while the print with the NFAI is 6569 ft). The discrepancy in the film's length may be due to different Indian and European versions. Some sources credit Himansu Rai as co-director.

SANAM NI SHODHMA

aka Looking for Love
1925 St 7468 ft b&w
d M.M. Vaidya pc Saurashtra Film s/c Chimanlal Luhar

lp Gatubhai Vaidya, Dorothy, Maganlal Dave, Bhimbhai, Monghibai, Miss Mani

Love fantasy from the short-lived but culturally influential Saurashtra Studio. Two young men, Naval and Mavji, dream of their ideal love. Naval's fantasy draws upon the Laila Majnu story while Mavji's is from the Arabian Nights. Trying to realise their dreams, Mavji falls for a woman he sees in a horse-drawn carriage. Naval meets Dolar, the daughter of Seth Kapurchand, who is trying to escape from an oppressive home. Mavji steals jewels which Naval had bought for Dolar, but the lovers overcome adversity and live happily ever after.

SAVKARI PASH

aka Indian Shylock
1925 St 5984 ft b&w
d Baburao Painter pc Maharashtra Film
s Narayan Hari Apte c S. Fattalal lp V. Shantaram, Zunzharrao Pawar, Kamaladevi, Kishabapu Bakre, Keshavrao Dhaiber, Shankarrao Bhute

The Marathi cinema's first explicit social, written by one of Maharashtra's most popular novelists in this genre. A peasant (Shantaram) loses his land to a greedy money-lender and moves to the city where he becomes a mill worker. Taking its cue from the realist tradition, the film counterposes an idyllic rural life (destroyed by the greedy money-lender who uses forged papers to steal the peasant's land) with the harsh city life. In spite of its high melodrama, the film was hailed as a realist breakthrough. Critics noted the poetic combination of visuals evoking sound and light, singling out the shot of a hut accompanied by a howling dog as one of the most memorable moments of the Indian cinema to date. The ending intercuts the money-lender snoring with his head on his safe while the poor peasant turned proletarian trudges the streets. It was remade in 1936, hyping the drama with scenes showing the money-lender with a sexy courtesan.

Zunzharrao Pawar (seated) and V. Shantaram (right) in Savkari Pasb

VEER KUNAL

1925 St 7235 ft b&w
d/s Manilal Joshi pc Kohinoor Film
c D.D. Dabke
lp Raja Sandow, Yakbal, Miss Moti,
 K.B. Athavale, Bachubabu

This legend drawn from the Asokavadana stories is set at the time of the Maurya empire (3rd C. B.C.). Kunal (Sandow), son of Emperor Ashoka (Athavale) and Queen Padmavati, has beautiful eyes but a prediction says he will go blind. The villainous Tishyaraksha (Yakbal) gains Ashoka's confidence and plots to have Kunal blinded and killed. The official executioners spare Kunal and he becomes a wandering singer accompanied by his favourite wife Kanchanmala (Moti). In Pataliputra, Ashoka hears Kunal's song, realises that Kunal's misfortune may have been a punishment for some past sin of the emperor himself and condemns Tishyaraksha to death, restoring Kunal to the court. The film acquired an avant-garde reputation for breaking with convention using close shots and with Dabke's camera deploying a sophisticated range of grey tones. It can be seen as a distant ancestor to the psycho-historicals of Mehboob: one concrete connecting link was R.S. Choudhury, apprenticed to Joshi for this film.

BHAKTA PRAHLAD

1926 St 7447 ft b&w
d/sc Dadasaheb Phalke pc Hindustan Cinema st V.H. Palnitkar c Anna Salunke lp Bhaurao Datar, Bachu Pawar, Gangaram Nhavi, Yamuna Gole

Drawn from the Vishnu Purana, this legend teils of Prahlad (Gangaram), the son of the demon tyrant Hiranyakashapu (Bachu). Prahlad disobeys his father by worshipping the latter's hated enemy, Vishnu (Datar). He undergoes tortures, including being burnt in oil, trampled beneath an elephant and poisoning, until, finally, Vishnu appears from a pillar in his Narasimha guise to overwhelm the demon. Available footage: 519 ft.

BULBUL-E-PARISTAN

1926 St 9427 ft b&w
d/s Fatma Begum pc Fatma Film c Rustom Irani, Ardeshir Irani lp Zubeida, Sultana, Putli, Madame Tosca, Madanrai Vakil, Athavale

Probably the first Indian feature directed by a woman. Available information suggests it was a big-budget fantasy abounding with special effects set in a Parastan or fairyland. Ardeshir Irani may have helped with the trick photography.

NEERA

aka Beautiful Snake of Aravalli
 1926 St 9217 ft b&w co-d/s R.S. Choudhury co-d R.G. Torney pc Lakshmi Film c Pandurang Naik lp Raja Sandow, Putli, Baba Vyas, Ghory, Dabir, K.B. Athavale, Takle

Choudhury's influential directorial debut breaks new generic ground, depicting tribals and presenting mysticism and sexuality as primal powers. Neera (Putli), a temple priest's daughter, lives amongst tribals. A Kapalik (Sandow), i.e. a devotee of Kali said to possess mystical powers, uses them to acquire tribal lands. The conflict is between his powers and the shield of innocence around Neera, leading to the villain's destruction. Conflict over land rights was later used extensively by Choudhury's apprentice, Mehboob (e.g. Roti, 1942).

SUVARNA KAMAL

aka Kalika Murti aka Golden Lotus
 1926 St 10176 ft b&w
d/s K.P. Bhav pc Sharda Film c Naval P. Bhatt lp Master Vithal, Mary, Shiraz Ali, Janibabu, Heera, Miss Rosy

Typical Vithal-Sharda stunt film featuring a masked adventurer in quest of a golden lotus, which involves placating the terrible goddess Mahakali. The film teemed with Bhatt's special effects (e.g. giant genies) and showed the influence of Douglas Fairbanks's work as well as of folk-fantasies (Gul-e-Bakavali, 1924; Indrasabha, 1932) while continuing in the vein of the studio's earlier successes, Ratan Manjari and Madan Kala, both 1926.

TELEPHONE NI TARUNI

aka The Telephone Girl
 1926 St 8427 ft b&w
d Homi Master pc Kohinoor Film

st Mohanlal G. Dave c Narayan G. Devare
lp Sulochana, Gohar, Khalil, Raja Sandow, Jamna

Sulochana's most famous silent film sees her as a telephone operator, a job she used to do in real life, who becomes the love object of a leading lawyer (Sandow). The problems of inter-community marriage are highlighted, as is the value of patriotism through the character of Peter, the heroine's brother (Khalil). The film also refers to a collectivisation movement among farmers (inspired by events in the USSR). Writer Dave was commended for his ability to entwine disparate narrative strands while introducing contemporary references. For his debut as cameraman, Devare pioneered the use of real locations, shooting in the Grant Road telephone exchange in Bombay.

✱VANDE MATARAM ASHRAM

1926 St 6590 ft b&w
d/s/co-p Bhalji Pendharkar co-p Baburao Pendharkar pc Vande Mataram Film
c D.D. Dabke
lp Yamunadevi, P.Y. Altekar, Baburao Pendharkar, Master Vithal

Independently produced by Bhalji and his brother Baburao Pendharkar in between leaving Maharashtra Film and joining Prabhat, this was a major silent political film influenced by the Hindu ideals of the nationalist leaders Lala Lajpat Rai and Madan Mohan Malaviya (the founder of Benares Hindu University). It criticises the British education policies and counterposed a defence of 'traditional' Indian teaching systems. The film was repeatedly censored, even banned briefly, and eventually released in a mutilated version.

✱BALIDAN aka Bisarjan aka Sacrifice

1927 St 8282 ft b&w
d Naval Gandhi pc Orient Pics st Rabindranath Tagore's play sc Jamshed Ratnagar c Naval P. Bhatt lp Sulochana, Zubeida, Master Vithal, Jal Khambatta, J. Makhijani, Janibabu

The Indian Cinematograph Committee of 1928 used Balidan and Janjirne Jankare (1927) to show how 'serious' Indian cinema could match Western standards. Based on Tagore's play of 1887, the film's advertising emphasised the high literary quality of its source. The plot of this quasi-historical is set in the fictional land of Tippera and features Queen Gunavati (Sulochana), King Govinda, Aparna the beggar girl (Zubeida) and the priest Raghupati who runs a Kali temple. The story addresses the conflict between reformist enlightenment and obsolete, inhuman ritual, questioning the contemporary validity of traditional rituals. The dramatic pivot is the conflict between the king who has banned animal sacrifice, and the priest who calls for the king's own blood. Emotionally, the film revolves around the childless queen and a beggar girl whose goat has been taken for the sacrifice and loves a servant in the temple. Except for the temple scenes, much of the film was shot on location in Rajasthan.

✱BHANELI BHAMINI

aka Educated Wife
1927 St 9882 ft b&w
d Homi Master pc Kohinoor Film
st Mohanlal G. Dave c Narayan G. Devare
lp Gohar, Raja Sandow, R.N. Vaidya, Master Kishore

Advertised in the Bombay Chronicle as 'an excellent warning to the younger generation to beware of venereal disease and take necessary precautions. [I]t not only brings ruin to himself but to the innocent members of his family.' This didactic Gohar-Sandow production set the tone for the message-oriented socials for which the duo became famous. It was also an important predecessor of Gunsundari (1927).

✱GAMDENI GORI

aka Village Girl
1927 St 10128 ft b&w
d Mohan Bhavnani pc Imperial Film
st Nanubhai Desai c Rustom Irani lp Sulochana, Madanrai Vakil, Bhatia Sandow, Jamshedji

This important film in Sulochana's career at the Imperial Studio cast her as Sundari, the innocent village beauty with an ineffectual father, adrift in the big, bad city where she is preyed upon by lustful men seeking to force her into prostitution. The hero, Navichand, is a film actor and the film milieu is represented by a studio boss and a comedian, Gazdar, nicknamed Charlie Chaplin. Other features of the urban landscape, besides 'electric trains, motor cars and buses, the giant wheel, cinemas and theatres', as the publicity pamphlet claims, include a corrupt policeman, a racecourse and the fictional Bachelors' Club whose members see Sundari and promptly postpone their collective pledge never to marry. The film was part of Imperial's calculated and successful effort to manufacture a star image for the actress.

✱GUNSUNDARI

aka Why Husbands Go Astray
1927 St 9452 ft b&w
d Chandulal Shah pc Kohinoor Film
st Dayaram Shah c Narayan G. Devare
lp Gohar, Raja Sandow, Rampiary, Jamna, R.N. Vaidya

Shah's best-known silent film established the core unit of the Ranjit Studio and the signature role of its lead star, Gohar. She plays a dutiful wife whose husband refuses to take his share of the domestic responsibilities, claiming that he has enough problems at the office. Frustrated with his housewifely spouse, he takes up with a dancing-girl. The wife is spurred into an active social life, discovering a world beyond the confines of the home. The film sought to tell modern women that they should not be content with their domestic life more than domestic drudges. Ranjit believed the story to be commercially infallible, it was remade by Shah himself in 1934 and again by Punatar in 1948 when the studio was branching out into Gujarati.

✱JANJIRNE JANKARE

aka At the Clang of Fetters
1927 St 13496 ft b&w
d Harshadrai Mehta pc Krishna Film
st Champsi Udeshi sc/c Chimanlal Luhar
lp Gulab, Hydershah, P.R. Joshi, Nandram, Gangaram, Sultan Alam

Together with Balidan (1927), this Rajput romance was often cited by the I.C.C. as an example of the Indian cinema's technical achievements matching those of the West. Commander Ambar of Ajaygarh triumphs over neighbouring Ramgarh capturing its king and the beautiful Princess Rama (Gulab). Ambar falls for her but problems arise when the king of Ajaygarh wants to give his own daughter in marriage to the victorious commander. Ambar covertly helps Rama and her father escape but he is killed in the process and dies in Rama's arms. The major portion of the film deals with Ambar's imprisonment at the hands of his own patron, remaining seven days without food. Drawn from Udeshi's story serialised a year earlier in the popular journal Navchetan, highlights included spectacular battle scenes.

✱NANAND BHOJAI

aka The Victim of Society
1927 St 9370 ft b&w
d/s Manilal Joshi pc Excelsior Film
c D.D. Dabke
lp Thatte, S. Nazir, Zubeida, Udvadia, Takle, Miss Mani, Nargis, Gangaram

After his successful Mojili Mumbai (1925), Joshi again used a real-life incident as the basis for a typical melodramatic plot locating reformist concerns in large joint families riven by tensions between in-laws. A greedy brother forces his educated sister to marry a rich old man. She rebels, goes to court and succeeds in preventing the marriage. The film was shot in Surat, where the original incident took place. A reviewer of the period noted that 'this is one of the few films to show Western women as not all bad'. Nanubhai Vakil remade the film in 1934, again casting Zubeida.

✱WILDCAT OF BOMBAY

aka Mumbai Ni Biladi, Uthavgir Abala
1927 St 9724 ft b&w
d Mohan Bhavnani pc Imperial Film
st Desai?
lp Sulochana, D. Bilimoria, Jamshedji

One of the best-known hits of Imperial's top-selling duo. Sulochana said in an interview (Screen, 1951) that she had eight separate roles in this film: a gardener, a policeman, a Hyderabadi gentleman, a street urchin, a European blonde, an old banana-seller and an expert pickpocket who gives her money to charity. Remade as a sound film, Bambai Ki Billi (1936), also with Sulochana.

DEVIDAS

1928 St c.8000 ft b&w

d Naresh Chandra Mitra pc Eastern Films Syndicate st Saratchandra Chattopadhyay

c Nitin Bose

lp Phani Burma, Naresh Mitra, Mani Ghosh, Tinkari Chakraborty, Kanaknarayan Bhup, Tarakbala (aka Miss Light), Niharbala, Rama Devi

First version of Saratchandra's novel later filmed by New Theatres (1935). A review in the Bengali journal Nachghar said that despite its 'theatrical ruggedness', the film was well scripted and showed a distinct Bengali touch as against the Madan style. Mitra was praised for his attempt to express character through mise en scene.

KELOR KIRTI

1928 St 10665 ft b&w

d Sudhangshu Mustafi pc Aurora Film

st Bhupen Bannerjee c Debi Ghosh

lp Lalu Bose, Belarani, Niharbala

Calcutta's Aurora Studio embarked on its first feature, Ratnakar (1921) when Madan Theatres started Bilwamangal (1919), the latter sometimes being presented as the first Bengali feature. The comedy Kelor Kirti, roughly meaning A Scandal, tells of Kalbhairab Bose aka Kelo, part clown part idiot and an incorrigible romantic. He rescues the heroine Manukumari from drowning and falls in love with her. Her father allows the marriage if Kelo first earns Rs 5000, triggering a series of adventures. He wins the money at the races but loses it when he swallows his winning ticket; he tries to have an accident to collect the insurance but is knocked down by a car driven by his future brother-in-law. He eventually gets the insurance and marries Manukumari. The film continues the efforts by locally owned Calcutta studios to create an indigenous cinematic idiom distinct from the idiom of Bilet Pherat (1921) or of Taj Mahal's Andhare Alo (1922).

LOVES OF A MUGHAL PRINCE, THE

aka Anarkali, Rajmahal Ni Ramani

1928 St 9525 ft b&w

co-d Prafulla Roy, Charu Roy pc Great Eastern Film Corp. st Intiaz Ali Taj's play Anarkali

sc Hakim Ahmed Shuja c V.B. Joshi

lp Charu Roy, Seeta Devi, Maya Devi, Rajkumari, Sawan Singh, Intiaz Ali Taj, Dewan Sharar, Shakuntala Tembe

Punjabi capital's first major bid for the national market used the seminal Urdu historical play of 1922, with the author himself playing the 16th-C. Mughal emperor Akbar. It recounts the love story between Prince Salim (Singh), Akbar's son, and the slave girl Anarkali (Seeta).

Following on from the Osten-Rai Orientalist dramas, and produced by the Indian partners responsible for Prem Sanyas (1925), it also features Seeta Devi as the heroine and is the directorial debut of Prem Sanyas' art director and the lead actor of Shiraz (1928), Charu Roy. The big-budget picture was beaten to the screen that same year by the rival and more successful Imperial version starring Sulochana and directed by R.S. Choudhury (Anarkali, 1928), who remade it in 1935. Jaswantal made it again in 1953 but the most famous version remains K. Asif's Mughal-e-Azam (1960).

SHIRAZ

aka Das Grabmal einer groszen Liebe

1928 St 9308 ft b&w

d Franz Osten pc British Instructional Films/Ufa/Himansu Rai Film st Niranjan Pal's play sc W.A. Burton m Arthur Guttman c Emil Schunemann, H. Harris lp Himansu Rai, Charu Roy, Seeta Devi, Enakshi Rama Rao, Maya Devi, Profulla Kumar

After Prem Sanyas and some German films, Osten returned to India for his second collaboration with Rai, a historical romance set in the Mughal Empire, subtitled, like Prapancha Pash (1929), A Romance of India. Selima (Enakshi) is a princess-foundling raised by a potter and loved by her brother, Shiraz (Rai). She is abducted and sold as a slave to Prince Khurram, later Emperor Shah Jehan (Roy), who also falls for her, to the chagrin of the wily Dalia (Seeta Devi). When Selima is caught with Shiraz, the young man is condemned to be trampled to death by an elephant. A pendant reveals Selima's royal status and she saves her brother, marries the prince and becomes Empress Mumtaz Mahal while Dalia is banned for her machinations against Selima. When Selima dies (1629), the emperor builds her a monument to the design of the now old and blind Shiraz, the Taj Mahal. The film contains a number of passionate kissing scenes. The cinematography received favourable comment, introducing a baroque camera style that became inescapably linked with the genre of Mughal romances (e.g. Charu Roy's Loves of a Mughal Prince and Choudhury's Anarkali, both also 1928). The art direction was by Promode Nath. The German release had a music score by Arthur Guttman. It was a slightly shorter version, at 8402 ft. The US release credited the assistant director V. Peers as co-director of an 80' version in 1929. The surviving print at the NFAI is 7778 ft.

VIGATHAKUMARAN

1928 St ? b&w

d/p/sc J.C. Daniel lp J.C. Daniel

Hailed as the first Malayalam film, released in November 1928 in Trivandrum. Its lack of success ruined the director and no literature about, or footage from, the film appear to have survived.

GOPAL KRISHNA

1929 St 9557 ft b&w

d V. Shantaram pc Prabhat Film s Shivram Vashikar c S. Fattalal

lp Suresh, Kamaladevi, Anant Apte, Sakribai, G.R. Mane

Shantaram's successful debut as a solo director (Netaji Palkar, 1927, had been co-directed with K. Dhaiber) signalled the first appearance of the famous Prabhat emblem, the profile of a woman (Kamaladevi) playing the tutari, the Indian equivalent of MGM's Leo The Lion. In his autobiography (1986) Shantaram said that he wove topical allusions into this Pauranic tale about the antics of Krishna as a child. The conflict between Krishna and the evil Kamsa, king of Mathura, was to be seen as representing the conflict between the Indian people and the British rulers in a manner enabling him to avoid censorship. The playful family film's highlight, apparently, is when the loin cloth of a little boy playing on the swing with Krishna came loose and revealed his penis. This, Shantaram says, went unnoticed in the shooting but was applauded for its bold realism and became seen as his unique directorial 'touch'.

HATIMTAL

1929 St 35891 ft b&w

d Prafulla Ghosh pc Krishna Film

c Chaturbhai Patel.

lp Rampiary, A.R. Pahelwan, Gulab, Hydershah, Haridas, Durga, Gangaram, Rosy, Leslie, Miss Hormez

After Patankar Friends' Ram Vanvas (1918), this was the second big-budget, four-part serial. The Krishna Studio's production was based on The Arabian Nights with sets designed by Mohanlal D. Shah. It tells of the traveller Hatim and his encounters with the fairy Gulnar, a popular Parsee theatre story.

KONO VANK?

aka Whose Fault?

1929 St 12861 ft b&w

d Kanjibhai Rathod pc Krishna Film

st K.M. Munshi c Gordhanbhai Patel

lp Gulab, Bapurao Apte

Based on a K.M. Munshi story, this typical transformation of a reform novel into a social substantially determined Rathod's authorial signature. It tells of Mani (Gulab), a child bride widowed aged eight and treated as a slave by her in-laws until she is cast out for bearing an illegitimate child. Her destitution is alleviated by a young lawyer, Muchkund, who nevertheless is forced to marry his father's choice, Kashi. Mani devotes herself to Muchkund, even sacrificing her own child, and finally marries the lawyer after Kashi's death. Gulab's performance made her a star.

PITRU PREM

aka Father's Love

1929 St 9868 ft b&w

d/s Harilal M. Bhatt pc Mahavir Photoplays lp Miss Mani, Gaby Hill, Mr Dave, Mr Yusuf, Y.L. Chichulkar, S.P. Niphadkar, Madanlal

Arguing for communal harmony and filial piety, the film tells of Madhumal (Dave), a rich zamindar, his beloved son Shashibhushan (Yusuf), his loving daughter Annapurna (Mani) and his adopted son Madhav (Chichenkar). When Madhumal picks up a wounded child swathed in bandages, a title says 'nay - Hindus and Mohammedans are but the children of one loving father - God'. In close-up, Madhumal is shown donating equally to the Aligarh Muslim and Benares Hindu universities. In contrast, his dissolute son Shashibhushan falls into the clutches of the villain Gadbaddas and the courtesan Nurjehan (Hill). 1262 ft survives with the NEAI.

Seeta Devi and Charu Roy (atop camel) in Prapancha Pash

PRAPANCHA PASH

aka A Throw of Dice aka Schicksalswurfel
1929 St 7630 ft b&w

d Franz Osten pc British Instructional Film/Himansu Rai Film/Ufa st Niranjan Pal
sc W.A. Burton, Max Jungk m Willy Schmidt-Gentner c Emil Schunemann lp Seeta Devi, Himansu Rai, Charu Roy,
Modhu Bose, Sarada Gupta, Lala Bijoykishen,
Tinkari Chakraborty

The third Osten-Rai collaboration (Prem Sanyas, 1925; Sbiraz, 1928, the latter also subtitled 'A Romance of India') no longer used existing legends but proposed a new one: two rival kings addicted to gambling, Ranjit (Roy) and the evil Sohan (Rai), also vie for the same woman, Sunita (Seeta Devi), Kanwa the hermit's (Gupta) daughter. Ranjit loses his kingdom and his love and becomes Sohan's slave through a crooked game of dice. The conflict is eventually resolved when the trickery is exposed and Sohan plunges to his death from a cliff after the people, led by Ranjit, revolt. The happy ending is sealed by a passionate kiss between the lovers. The lavish production with art direction by Promode Nath uses over 10,000 extras, a thousand horses and fifty elephants, benefiting from the largesse of the Royal houses of Jaipur, Udaipur and Mysore. Unusually, star and producer Rai played the villain. The German release was longer, at 8277 ft. The print at the NEAI is 6694 ft.

The plot also touched on the way a producer can curtail the freedom of a director.

opens up for her. When Gopinath runs off with Labanga, Giribala joins the stage in Labanga's place and becomes famous. The hypocrisy of men's moral double standards is revealed when Gopinath recognises his wife on stage when her veil drops. Tagore was apparently closely involved with the making of the film and may have written the inter-titles.

DAILY MAIL

1930 St 11925 ft b&w

d Narayan G. Devare pc Kohinoor United Artists st A.S. Desai lp Kumudini, Jamna, Khalil, Thomas, Alawaji, Bhopatkar

By the mid-20s, satirical prose and journalism had merged to create popular film gossip columns in most Marathi and Gujarati papers. KUA, an independent, employee-run group, produced this controversial film about the daily Hindustan thinly disguised as the fictional Daily Mail, edited by a character constructed as a composite portrait of Hindustan's owner Lotwala and editor Indulal Yagnik. It also lampooned the patron of the Ranjit Studio, Jamsaheb of Jamnagar, and his studio boss Chandulal Shah in a plot designed as a scabrous expose of the film industry's ethics.

UDAYKAL

aka Thunder of The Hills, Swarajyacha Toran
1930 St 10804 ft b&w

d V. Shantaram, K. Dhaiber pc Prabhat Film s Baburao Pendharkar c S. Fattelal, V. Damle
lp V. Shantaram, Baburao Pendharkar, Kamaladevi, Anant Apte, G.R. Mane, Ibrahim, Rahim Miya, K. Dhaiber, Vaghya the Dog

According to Shantaram (1986) this was the first film which explicitly politicised the figure of the enormously popular 17th-C. Maratha emperor Shivaji (Shantaram), a staple figure of the Marathi historical. Bhalji Pendharkar, whose sound films would confirm Shivaji as a contemporary icon, worked as a scenarist at Prabhat at this time but his brother Baburao received the script credit for this effort in addition to a starring role. Shantaram played the lead himself, a pattern he would often repeat. The film was originally titled Swarajyacha Toran (The Garland of Freedom) but the censors objected to the use of the word 'freedom' and forced many additional changes after the premiere screening. Key scenes included Shivaji's invocation of the goddess Bhawani who blesses his sword, and Shivaji putting up the saffron flag on the Sinhagad fort at the film's climax, another point objected to by the censors. Many of the battle scenes were shot with two cameras.

CINEMA GIRL

1930 St 10925 ft b&w

d/s B.P. Mishra pc Imperial Film c Rustom Irani.

lp Ermeline, Prithviraj Kapoor, Mazhar Khan, Baburao Sansare, Baby Devi

In contrast to Cinema Queen's (1925) exploitation of voyeurism or Daily Mail's (1930) kiss-and-tell approach to the cinema, this film presented a fictionalised biography of its maker. One of the major characters is a producer modelled on Kohinoor's proprietor, D.N. Sampat, including a reference to the real-life occasion when the studio, on the verge of bankruptcy, survived only because its employees donated money and gold ornaments to keep it afloat. Another character referred to a financier at the Imperial Studio.

GIRIBALA

1930 St c.8000 ft b&w

d Modhu Bose pc Madan Theatres st Rabindranath Tagore c Jatin Das lp Dhiraj Bhattacharya, Naresh Mitra, Tinkari Chakraborty, Lilabati, Shanti Gupta, Lalita Devi

Renamed after the lead character, this was Madan Theatres' remake of Taj Mahal Film's Maanbhanjan (1923). The rich Gopinath ignores his beautiful wife Giribala, preferring the company of the stage actress Labanga. Tired of her only pastime, dressing up in narcissistic solitude, Giribala one night follows her husband to the theatre where a new world

ALAM ARA

1931 124' b&w Hindi-Urdu
d/co-s Ardeshir Irani pc Imperial Movietone co-s Joseph David c Adi M. Irani
m Ferozshah M. Mistri, B. Irani lp Master Vithal, Zubeida, Jilloo, Sushila, Prithviraj Kapoor, Elizer, Wazir Mohammed
 Khan, Jagdish Sethi, L.V. Prasad

India's first sound film, released on 14 March 1931 at the Majestic Theatre, Bombay, narrowly beating Shirin Farhad (1931) to the screens. It established the use of music, song and dance as the mainstay of Indian cinema. The film is a period fantasy based on Joseph David's popular Parsee theatre play and told of the ageing king of Kumarpur, his two queens, Navbahar and Dilbahar, and their rivalry when a fakir predicts that Navbahar will bear the king's heir. Dilbahar unsuccessfully tries to seduce the army chief Adil (Vithal) and vengefully destroys his family, leaving his daughter Alam Ara (Zubeida) to be raised by nomads. Eventually, Alam Ara's nomad friends invade the palace, expose Dilbahar's schemes, release Adil from the dungeon and she marries the prince of the realm. The film was made on the Tanar single-system camera, recording image and sound simultaneously, which was difficult esp. for the seven songs which were its highlights. Wazir Mohammed Khan's rendering of a wandering minstrel's number, De de khuda ke naam par pyare, was particularly popular and pioneered the use of a commentating chorus, a device adopted in several later films. Although Mehboob was scheduled to play the lead, Master Vithal from the Sharda Studio got the part. Nanubhai Vakil remade the film in 1956 and '73. Playwright David was later known for his Wadia Movietone scripts, including Hunterwali (1935). A key technician associated with this film, and with several others in Bombay and Calcutta, was the American Wilford Deming. Often mentioned in early cinema histories, recent research suggests that he was employed by a company called Radio Installation Corp. and was imported by M.L. Mistry & Co. when they bought Western Indian rights to Tanar equipment. He set up sound equipment at Krishna and Imperial and went thereafter to Calcutta where his name features in the credits of some early New Theatres sound productions (also cf American Cinematographer, March 1932).

BHAKTA PRAHLADA

1931 108' b&w Telugu
d H.M. Reddy pc Bharat Movietone
s/lyr Surabhi Nataka c Gordhanbhai Patel
m H.R. Padmanabha Sastry lp Surabhi Kamalabai, L.V. Prasad, Muniapalle Subbaiah, B.V. Subba Rao, Darasami
 Naidu, Master Kishore

The first sound film in Telugu is a classic mythological drawn from the Vishnu Purana. Prahlada, the son of the demon Hiranyakashapu (Subbaiah), defies his father and worships Vishnu. He is imprisoned but Vishnu protects him. The film adapts a stage production by one of the Surabhi Theatre troupes, which was taken to Bombay's Krishna Studio to shoot the film. The verses and the dialogue were left intact. Its success prompted many more adaptations from plays e.g. Badami's Paduka Pattabhisekham and Shakuntala (both 1932). Rathod did the Hindi version of the film with actors Neelam, Hydershah and Kumar Mukund.

DEVI DEVAYANI

1931 150' b&w Hindi
d Chandulal Shah pc Ranjit Movietone
s Narayan Prasad Betaab c Pandurang Naik
m Jhande Khan
lp Gohar, Miss Kamala, D. Bilimoria,
 M. Bhagwandas, Keki Adajania, S. Baburao,
 Baba Vyas, Mr Thatte

Shah's first sound hit, a mythological, inaugurated the famous Ranjit Studio productions and the use of Audio-Camex sound equipment. A cosmic battle between gods and demons reaches stalemate when the sage Shukracharya (Adajania) instantly restores every fallen demon to life. The god Indra (Baburao), on advice from Brahaspati (Vyas), sends Kacha (Bhagwandas) to the sage to learn his magic secret. Shukracharya's daughter, Devayani (Gohar) likes Kacha and the latter is accepted as the sage's disciple. The demon Vrisha Parva (Thatte) tries to kill Kacha but the youth is rescued by Devayani until the demons succeed in dissolving Kacha's body in alcohol and make Shukracharya drink the brew. Shukracharya then teaches Kacha the secret chant so that when he dies and Kacha emerges from his stomach, Kacha may bring him back to life again. Kacha's duties now conflict with a love-triangle, as Devayani marries Yayati who loves Sharmistha (Kamala).

DILER JIGAR

aka Gallant Hearts
 1931 St 9632 ft b&w
d/s G.P. Pawar pc Agarwal Film c/p Shyam Sundar Agarwal
lp Ambu (Lalita Pawar), Hamir, Ezak Daniel, Gopinath

Along with Ghulami Nu Patan (1931), also made by the Pune-based Agarwal Film, this is one of the few surviving silent films. It opens with shots of a hand distributing charity from a silver plate to a waiting crowd and tells of the good king of Magadh's fight with his evil ministers. The king is poisoned by his brother, the evil Kalsen and the infant prince Chandrapratab, smuggled out by the loyal sardar Satyapal, grows up in a forest to become the acrobat Hamir (Hamir) in love with his partner, the beautiful Saranga (Pawar, credited as 'Ambu'). Saranga is kidnapped by Kalsen's son Ramanaraj, described as 'the perfect libertine', but Kalsen takes her away from his son and attempts to seduce Saranga with promises of wealth. The fearless Hamir fights dozens of soldiers, in amateurishly staged fights, trying to liberate her. In the end Saranga, rejected by her lover for having been tempted by Kalsen's promises of wealth, dons a mask and turns into a Zorro-type avenger. Hamir is eventually recognised by the royal tattoo on his shoulder and restored to the throne as well as reunited with Saranga. A dramatic moment in the film is Hamir's assumption that Saranga has fallen for Kalsen's wiles. The threatening seduction (rape) attempt is shown through a series of dissolves from the villain's face to that of the heroine. Other dissolves are effectively used to convey fantasies and desires, although the use of fades-to-black are used erratically, even within action scenes. One of the more technically elaborate scenes is Saranga's kidnapping, involving a trick bed descending through a trapdoor. The surviving version with NFAI is 8672 ft.

DRAUPADI

1931 124' b&w Hindi
d/s B.P. Mishra pc Imperial Movietone
c Adi M. Irani
lp Khalil, Ermeline, Jilloo, Jagdish, Hadi, Elizer, Rustom Irani, Prithviraj Kapoor

After its success with Alam Ara (1931), the studio made this big-budget Mahabharata adaptation starting with Duryodhana's (Jagdish) scheme to appropriate the kingdom of Hastinapur by eliminating his Pandava cousins. When the Pandavas return from banishment with Draupadi (Ermeline), won by Arjuna (Kapoor) in a tournament, they establish their capital at Indraprastha. The film shows the Rajasuya Yagna ceremony and culminates in the famous dice game in which Duryodhan, backed by his scheming Uncle Shakuni (Hadi), wins the Pandavas' kingdom and then Draupadi herself, whom Yudhishtira (Elizer) then wagers and loses. Duryodhan commands that Draupadi be stripped naked in open court but Krishna (Khalil) saves her honour with a miracle. Irani plays Bhim and Jilloo is Kunti.

GHULAMI NU PATAN

aka The Fall of Slavery
 1931 St 10627 ft b&w
d/sc/c/p Shyam Sundar Agarwal pc Agarwal Film st Baburao Thatte lp Vatsala, Ezak Daniel

With Diler Jigar (also 1931), this is the second silent film by the Pune-based Agarwal Film to have survived. More ambitious than the former, it is set in the Marwar region in 1818 and addresses the notorious 'Gola' system of slavery. The fantasy adventure, leavened with realistic scenes showing the slaves' working conditions, tells of Kumar Umedhsingh of Kadeempur (Daniel) who institutes a usurious tax mainly to obtain power over the beautiful peasant girl Kamalabala (Vatsala). However, she is protected by Kartarsingh of Amargarh, whom she once nursed to health and who has vowed to liberate all slaves. Kartarsingh is imprisoned but eventually defeats the villain and rescues the heroine. A (presumably Rajput) emperor arrives, censures the villain and lets the lovers marry. Extensive chase sequences on horseback and complicated plotting show that, by the end of the silent era, the Indian cinema had achieved considerable narrative dexterity. The surviving print at the NFAI is 9545 ft.

JAMAIBABU

1931 St 3000' b&w

d/s Kalipada Das pc Hira Film c D.R. Barodkar lp Kalipada Das, Pravat Coomar, Sivapada Bhowmick, Radharani, Amulya Bandyopadhyay, Rajen Baruah, Sadhana Devi

The only surviving silent Bengali film was accidentally discovered by Mrinal Sen's film unit while shooting on location in 1980. The comedy has a country bumpkin hero Gobardhan (Das) visiting his parents-in-law in Calcutta. Mistaking a 'No Nuisance' sign for an address, he gets lost trying to find his friend Amal's (Baruah) room. His subsequent adventures take him to famous locations including Howrah Bridge, the Victoria Memorial and the Maidan. These scenes are intercut with fast-paced shots of life in the city and of crowds, evidently gathered to watch the shooting. Gobardhan eventually finds his in-laws, feigns illness to prolong his stay, is beaten up when he tries to sneak into his wife's (Radharani) room and gets mistaken for a thief. The sequence of Gobardhan kissing his wife, somewhat abruptly introduced, probably evokes a tradition of pre-censorship pornographic film using Anglo-Indian actresses. As director and lead actor, Das mostly restricts his gags to stumbling in various ways. The erratic cinematography and editing betrays a general lack of technical control. The surviving print at the NFAI is 2110 ft.

KALIDAS

1931 c.10000 ft b&w Tamil

d H.M. Reddy pc Sagar, Select Pics
lyr Bhaskara Das

lp T.P. Rajalakshmi, Thevaram Rajambal, T. Sushila Devi, J. Sushila, P.G. Venkatesan, M.S. Santhanalakshmi, L.V. Prasad

The first Tamil sound feature, made by the director of Bhakta Prahlada (1931), was released in Madras on 31 October 1931, but shot in Bombay like most Tamil films between 1931 and '34. It tells the familiar tale of Kalidas, the legendary 3rd-C. Sanskrit poet and playwright. A minister at the court of King Vijayavarman of Thejavathi wants Princess Vidhyadhari (Rajalakshmi) to marry his son. She refuses and the minister tricks her into marrying a cowhand. The duped princess invokes the help of Kali, who appears to the couple and endows the cowhand with literary talent, allowing him to become Kalidas (Venkatesan). Although mostly in Tamil, including its 50 or so songs, some characters, incl. the male lead, spoke in Telugu, to accommodate actors from Surabhi Theatres, and in Urdu. The use of Telugu is partially in the context of its classical proximity to Sanskrit, as well as the later domestication of the Kalidas tradition (in the 1966 version Mahakavi Kalidas he was presented as belonging to the local Konar caste). Rajalakshmi sang some numbers she had made popular on the stage as well as two nationalist songs unconnected with the plot, linking the film to the Civil Disobedience Movement of the period: one song called for national unity, the other was in praise of the spinning wheel. The film was released with what is probably the first Tamil sound film, a four-reel short called Koratbi Dance and Songs, starring Rajalakshmi with the gypsy dancer Jhansi Bai.

KHUDA KI SHAAN

aka Wrath.

1931 St 10540 ft b&w

d/s R.S. Choudhury pc Imperial Film
c Adi M. Irani

lp Sulochana, Raghunath, R.B. Jagtap, Makanda, Salvi, Elizer, Sushila

Ramaki (Sulochana), a poor scheduled caste girl, has an illegitimate daughter by Manekchand, the son of the wealthy Krishnadas. She seeks refuge with a nautch girl. Krishnadas, who also wants to possess Ramaki, dies trying to kill her. Ramaki then seeks shelter with a young Muslim but they perish in a fire. Her daughter, along with the Muslim's son (Jagtap), is raised by a nomad, Garibdas Sadhu (Makanda), a character made to look like Gandhi. The youngsters are hired as factory hands by Manekchand who unwittingly falls in love with his own daughter and appropriates land belonging to Garibdas. When the latter finally curses the greedy Manekchand, a dam bursts, wiping out Manekchand and his property. Although the film focused on the evils of the caste system, censorship troubles arose from Garibdas' deliberate resemblance to Gandhi.

MARTANDA VARMA

1931 St 11905 ft b&w

d/s P.V. Rao pc Shri Rajeshwari Films, Nagercoil, R. Sunderraj st C.V. Raman Pillai's novel (1891)
c P.E. Naik

lp Jaidev, A.V.P. Menon, V. Naik, V.C. Kutty, S.V. Nath, Devaki, Padmini, Sundaram Iyer

The second Malayalam feature, based on the novel that effectively launched the prose tradition in Travancore. It was the first of a series by Raman Pillai (followed by Dharmaraja, 1913; Premamritam, 1915; Ramaraja Babadur, 1920) dealing with Travancore's royalty in a style that Ayyappa Panicker claims (1987) drew directly on Walter Scott's Waverly novels. It features Jaidev as Martanda Varma (1706-58), the legendary founder of the Travancore State (now Kerala), telling the story of the love between Anantha Padmanabham (Menon) and Parukutty (Padmini), the political conspiracy of Padmanabha Thampi (Naik) and the heads of the eight Nair Houses against Martanda Varma. It opens with newsreel coverage of the aarattu procession of the Travancore maharaja Chitta Thirunal, including elephants, cavalry and the Nair Brigade before embarking on the story of the king's ancestor. Scenes from the young Martanda Varma's youth are intercut with well-known episodes from the novel. The Malayalam intertitles, taken from the novel, are also translated into high-flown English. The opening title proclaims: 'Most Puissant Sovereign, born to carve a State Anew, and rid it clean of Marshallled Hate, released by Fractious Chiefs with Heartless Swords to seize thy realm'. The film may have included references to the contemporary Congress-led nationalism in e.g. titles like 'Enough of this age-long tyranny. Ye! Freedom-loving sons of the soil! Gird up your loins and fight for your birthright. Rise up from your slumber. Awake, arise and stop not, till the goal is reached.' There was a copyright dispute with the publishers of the original novel, so that the film was never released and the producer went bankrupt. This also prevented the novel from being filmed later. The available version, minus one reel, was salvaged by the NFAI, and the surviving print is only 7915 ft.

PREMI JOGAN

aka Drums of Love

1931 St 13477 ft b&w

d Nandlal Jaswantlal pc Ranjit Film s Mohanlal G. Dave c Pandurang Naik lp Shantakumari, D. Bilimoria, Thatte, Putli, Ishwarlal

Amar (Bilimoria) and Ila's (Shantakumari) love is disrupted by the dashing Samar (Ishwarlal). The rivals get embroiled in the Kashmir war and Samar dies in Amar's arms. Amar returns to find that Ila has become an ascetic but they eventually get married. This is an early Jaswantlal-Naik collaboration which elaborated the use of the close-up, esp. in melodramas. Naik, who had begun his career as a carpenter at Kohinoor, went on to assist cameramen Gajanan S. Devare and Dabke and turned cameraman with Neera (1926). He later toured Europe with Jaswantlal (1933). They went on to make some classic Imperial sound films together.

SHIRIN FARHAD

1931 120'(11000 ft) b&w Hindi

d J.J. Madan pc Madan Theatres lyr Aga Hashr Kashmiri m Vrijlal Verma lp Master Nissar, Jehanara Kajjan, Mohammed Hussain, Abdur Rehman Kabuli, Mohan, Miss Sharifa

Narrowly beaten to the screen by Alam Ara (1931) as India's first sound feature, this is a big-budget musical narrating a legend from the Shahnama. The Persian sculptor Farhad falls in love with Queen Shirin. The shah Khusro, who had promised Farhad a reward for having built a canal, agrees to let him marry Shirin provided he first single-handedly demolishes the Besutun mountain. Shirin and Farhad are finally united in death as Farhad's tomb miraculously opens to accept Shirin. The film proved a bigger hit than Alam Ara and, unlike the Tanar single-system camera used by Irani, recorded sound and image separately, a technique widely adopted later because it offered greater aesthetic flexibility.

AYODHYECHA RAJA/AYODHYA KA RAJA

aka King of Ayodhya

1932 146[M]/152[H] b&w Marathi/Hindi
d/ed V. Shantaram pc Prabhat Film st/co-

Govindrao Tembe (centre) and Durga Khote (right) in Ayodhyecha Raja

dial [M] N.V. Kulkarni co-dial [H] Munshi Ismail Farooque c Keshavrao Dhaiber

lyr/m Govindrao Tembe

lp Govindrao Tembe, Durga Khote, Baburao Pendharkar, Master Vinayak, Nimbalkar, Shankarrao Bhosle, Digambar

Shantaram's and Prabhat's first sound film may also have been the first Marathi talkie, although Sant Tukaram by Babajirao Rane was censored 11 days earlier (on 26 January 1932). A big-budget mythological, it tells a famous Ramayana tale. The truth-loving Harishchandra (Tembe), king of Ayodhya, is tested when the sage Vishwamitra challenges him to sacrifice his kingdom and offer alms of a thousand coins earned through his own labour. After many hardships, Harishchandra, Taramati (Khote) and their son Rohileshwara (Digambar) earn the money when the king and queen are sold as slaves in the city of Kashi. When the queen's new owner, Ganganath (Pendharkar), tries to assault her, her son intervenes and is killed. Taramati is accused of the killing and is sentenced to be executed by her husband. The Kashi-Vishveshwara deity intervenes, brings the boy back to life, declares the king to have proved himself and returns him to his throne. Shantaram cast the untrained actress and singer Khote when it was still controversial in Marathi theatre to use actresses. Shot on elaborate plaster sets designed by Fattelal, the film had some bravura shots like a burning forest and a tree falling to the ground barely missing the hero. Despite its occasional 'miracle' scenes and its stage-derived frontal compositions, there was an attempt at a realist idiom, esp. in the scenes where the king and queen are shown trying to earn their money. Shantaram's characteristic use of extended pauses and elaborate gesture may here still be due to the technical limitations of the sound equipment (Damle was the sound man), although he later elaborated this acting style into an expressionist technique. Tembe sang most of the songs while Khote performed the hit Bala ka jhop yeyina.

CHANDIDAS

1932 133'(118') b&w Bengali

d/s Debaki Bose pc New Theatres c Nitin Bose m Rai Chand Borol

lp Durgadas Bannerjee, K.C. Dey, Manoranjan Bhattacharya, Amar Mullick, Dharendra Bandyopadhyay, Chani Duita, Umasashi, Sunila

Classic New Theatres saint film about Chandidas, a legendary 15th-C. Bengali Vaishnavite poet whose biography remains obscure but was an influence on the better documented Chaitanya (1486-1533), a school teacher who promoted the Vaishnavite ideology in Bengal, mostly through hymns about the Radha-Krishna legend. Chandidas may have been one of three possible poets: Badu Chandidas, who wrote the Sbri Krishna Keertan adapted mainly from the Geet Govind (13th C.); Dwija Chandidas or Deena Chandidas. The film mainly adapted Apares Chandra Mukherjee's successful stage musical of the same title, performed first at the Star Theatre in Calcutta (1926), and stressed the poet's teachings through the love story between Chandidas (Bannerjee) and a low-caste washerwoman, Rami (Umasashi). The conventional villain of the saint film genre, who represents the established order threatened by the outsider's revolutionary influence on common people, is the rapacious upper-caste merchant Bijoynarayan. When Rami rejects his advances, he persuades the high priest to insist that Chandidas must repent or be punished for associating with a low-caste woman. Chandidas agrees to repent but when he sees the injuries Rami has suffered at the hands of the merchant's goons, he rejects institutionalised religion in favour of the higher Vaishnavite call for a more democratic god and leaves the village with Rami. Stylistically, the film broke new ground for the studio, distancing itself from the theatre by stressing the poet's ever popular lyrics. However, the acting remained stilted and used more straight frontal shots than e.g. Debaki Bose's later films at New Theatres (Bidyapati, 1937). It was the studio's first major hit. There were several more versions of the story, including Hiren Bose's Rami Dboban (1953), told from a woman's point of view. The film is also noted for its breakthroughs in recording sound with Mukul Bose overcoming the problems of an optical track with varying densities by spacing out dialogue and modulating frequencies.

INDRASABHA

1932 211' b&w Hindi

d J.J. Madan pc Madan Theatres st Sayed Aga Hasan Amanat's play (1853) c T. Marconi m Nagardas Nayak lp Nissar, Jehanara Kajjan, A.R. Kabuli, Mukhtar Begum

Big-budget adaptation of Sayed Aga Hasan Amanat's Indrasabha written in 1853 for the Lucknow court of Nawab Wajid Ali Shah. The often staged play had elaborated the Rahas style, adapted from the Ras-Lila form of Hindi folk theatre and brought specific music and dance conventions into Urdu prose theatre. This new style gradually amalgamated, says Somnath Gupta (1969), 'The Hindi Devmala [Hindi Pantheon] with the Islami Ravaiyat' and crystallised into a plot structure revolving around a benevolent king whose moral fibre is tested by celestial powers as they cause an apsara (a fairy) to appear before him as a fallen woman begging for mercy. The language assimilated the Urdu ghazal, Hindustani, Brajbhasa and dialects usually spoken by women (zanana boli). As performed in the Parsee theatre, this performance style also absorbed aspects of European opera, esp. its neo-classical visuals which already contained a measure of baroque Orientalism. The 69 songs, familiar from the stage productions, suggested an Indian equivalent of the Ziegfeld Follies. Madan also drew on his Italian connections (Savitri, 1923) and asked his Italian cinematographer to model the complex choral mise en scene on the venerable Italian epics. The film repeated the popular singing duo of Nissar and Kajjan from Sbirin Farhad (1931). Marconi later shot and probably directed the Tamil feature Vimochanam (1939).

JALTI NISHANI/AGNIKANKAN

aka The Branded Oath

1932 129'[M]/136'[H] b&w Marathi/Hindi

d V. Shantaram pc Prabhat Film

dial/lyr/m Govindrao Tembe c Keshavrao Dhaiber

lp Shankarrao Bhosle, Kamaladevi, Master Vinayak, Budasaheb, Nimbalkar, Leela, Baburao Pendharkar

Shantaram followed Ayodhyecha Raja (1932) with this adventure movie about a king (Bhosle) who is overthrown by the perfidy of his villainous Commander (Pendharkar). The young prince (Vinayak) eventually defeats the villain, reclaims the throne and restores his father's honour. Shot on Shantaram's (and set designer Fattelal's) trademark sets of large palaces and neoclassical decor, the film has more sophisticated lighting than its predecessor but the stodgy, static acting style dominates despite Vinayak's acrobatic swordplay in his first important film role. Shantaram returned to the story for his ambitious Amritmanthan (1934).

MADHURI

1932 155' b&w Hindi
d R.S. Choudhury pc Imperial Film
s Mohanlal Dave c Adi M. Irani m Pransukh M. Nayak lp Sulochana, Ghulam Mohammed, Vinayakrao Patwardhan, Jamshedji, Hadi, Chanda

Adventure spectacular set in the 4th-C. Gupta period during the battles between the kingdoms of Ujjain and Kanauj. Features the heroic Amber (Patwardhan) and the craven Prince Tikka (Mohammed), both from the Malwa, and the scheming commander of Kanauj, Mahasamant (Jamshedji). Highlights include extensive swordplay by the heroine, Madhuri (Sulochana), who defeats Mahasamant in a duel and later dresses as a male soldier to rescue Amber. Many songs by classical singer Patwardhan.

MAYA MACHHINDRA

aka Illusion, aka Triya Rajya
 1932 154[M]/158[H] b&w Marathi/Hindi
d V. Shantaram pc Prabhat Film st Mani Shankar Trivedi's play Siddhasansar dia N.V. Kulkarni, Govindrao Tembe[M], Narbada Prasad 'Aasi'[H] m Govindrao Tembe
c Keshavrao Dhaiber lp Govindrao Tembe, Durga Khote, Master Vinayak, Leela Chandragiri, Rajarambapu Purohit, Bazarbattoo, Nimbalkar, Baburao Pendharkar, Tanibai, Hirabai

Shantaram's 3rd collaboration with actor-musician Tembe was based on an often-filmed Tantric legend about the guru Machhindranath (Tembe) and his disciple Gorakh (Master Vinayak) on the subject of 'maya' (belief in the illusory nature of worldly temptations). The guru appears to his student to have entered the kingdom of man-hating women, married the queen (Khote) and abandoned his commitment to celibacy and pure thoughts. Gorakh sets out to rescue him but the entire experience turns out to be an 'illusion' set up by the master. There are many special effects, including the classic shot of Gorakh's beheading with his head rolling back and rejoining his body. In addition to the conventional use of dissolves and travelling matte effects for 'miracle' scenes, Shantaram attempted optical superimpositions for the first time, with animated sparks of fire coming out of swords, or when enemy troops are encircled by flames and lightning. The film includes a spectacular celebration of Vasantotsav (spring festival).

NARASINH MEHTA

1932 139' b&w Gujarati
d Nanubhai Vakil pc Sagar Movietone
s Chaturbhuj Doshi c Fareedoon Irani m Rane lp Mohanlala, Marutirao, Master Manhar, Master Bachu, Umakant Desai, Trikam Das, Miss Jamna, Miss Mehtab, Miss Khatun, Miss Devi

The first Gujarati feature is a saint film about the life of Narasinh Mehta (1408-75), played by Master Manhar. Known for his evocative Prabhatiyan (morning hymns) and especially for his composition Vaishnava jana to ('The Vaishnav is he who knows the pain of others') made popular by Gandhi, who also adapted the poet's term Harijan (children of god) for the nation's Untouchables. According to the writer Anandashankar Dhruv, Vakil's film adhered to the Gandhian interpretation of Narasinh Mehta's work, avoiding e.g. miracle scenes. The quasi-realistic sets were designed by Ravishankar Rawal. Mohanlala played Ra Mandlik, Khatun was Kunwarbai and Bachu her husband, Janma played Manekbai, Mehtab was Rukmini, and Desai played the god Krishna.

NATIR PUJA

1932 117' b&w Bengali
d/s Rabindranath Tagore pc New Theatres
c Nitin Bose m Dinendranath Tagore
lp Students of Shantiniketan

Widely advertised as a film directed by Tagore, this was, according to B. Jha (1990), a simple recording of Tagore's 1926 dance drama based on a Buddhist legend, staged on his 70th birthday at the New Empire, Calcutta. Sound recorded by Mukul Bose. Two long shots from the film on 16 mm have recently been restored, although these were probably by a second unit. They feature as part of Arunkumar Roy's documentary Of Tagore and Cinema (1994).

RADHA RANI

aka Divine Lady
 1932 176' b&w Hindi
d Chandulal Shah pc Ranjit Film s Narayan Prasad Betaab c Pandurang Naik m Jhande Khan lp Gohar, Bhagwandas, Keki Adajania, S. Baburao

Betaab's best-known script tells of Radha (Gohar), a carefree rural belle who is supposed to marry childhood friend Gopal, but instead falls in love with a stranger who turns out to be the missing Prince Vijaysingh. When the king despatches soldiers to recover the prince, Vijaysingh discards the pregnant Radha. She is attacked by the villagers for her immorality and eventually appears before the prince, her former lover, in court where she refuses to denounce him. Her child dies, she becomes a prostitute and eventually dies in the arms of the prince.

SATI SAVITRI

1932 153' b&w Gujarati/Hindi
d/st Chandulal Shah pc Ranjit Movietone

sc Chaturbhuj Doshi c Pandurang Naik
m Jhande Khan
lp Bhagwandas, Ghori, Keki Adajania, Alladdin, S. Baburao, Gohar, Shanta, Kamal, Tara

Ranjit's debut in Gujarati uses the Mahabharata tale of how Savitri (Gohar) saves her husband Satyavan (Bhagwandas) from the clutches of Yama, the god of death. The film opened up a lucrative regional market for the producers, consolidated by the films of e.g. Ratibhai Punatar and V.M. Vyas.

SATI SONE

aka Champraj Hado, aka Sone Rani
 1932 134' b&w Hindi
d Madanrai Vakil pc Imperial Film
s Joseph David c Rustom Irani lp Jamshedji, Boman Shah, Hadi, Jiloo, Mushtari

Champraj, king of Bundi (Jamshedji), boasts in the court of the maharaja Karansingh of his wife Sone's (Jiloo) purity and fidelity. The villainous Sher Singh (Hadi) claims to prove otherwise and, through trickery, appropriates a dagger and a handkerchief by which Sone had said she would remember her husband in his absence. Champraj, who stakes his life on his wife's fidelity, is about to be beheaded when Sone herself, dressed as a dancing-girl, exposes the truth. Based on a script by David, a Parsee theatre playwright, author of Alam Ara (1931) and future Wadia Movietone stunt movies, the film remade Homi Master's 1924 version.

SHYAM SUNDAR

1932 136[M]/121[H] b&w Marathi/Hindi
d/s/lyr Bhalji Pendharkar pc Saraswati Cinetone c D.G. Gune m Bapurao Ketkar lp Shahu Modak, Shanta Apte, Bandopant Sohoni, Bapurao Ketkar, Sandow, Bapurao Apte

Children's mythological drawn from the Vishnu Purana telling of the child Krishna (Modak). The film intercuts Krishna's rural escapades with Pendya and other childhood friends with palace intrigues in Mathura, where Kans receives a divine warning that the boy Krishna shall be the cause of his death. Although the film follows the style of the Gopal Krishna (1929 and '38) versions by Prabhat, it was a breakthrough in other ways: it was the first film made in Pune, apparently the first Indian film with a continuous run of more than 25 weeks (at the New West End, Bombay) and the first to introduce the marketing technique of adding a new sequence after the release to attract a repeat audience (the sequence in which Kans is killed). It is also the screen debut of Prabhat stars Apte and Modak as child actors. Pendharkar continued the actor's motifs in his next film, Akashwani (1934).

ZALIM JAWANI

aka The Youth aka Chandraprabha
 1932 139' b&w Hindi
d/s B.P. Mishra pc Imperial Cinetone
c Adi M. Irani

lp Master Vithal, Ermeline, Jamshedji, Rustom Poonawala, Hadi, Saku

Mishra, who died in 1932, followed his Draupadi (1931) with this historical fantasy establishing the studio's trademark genre. The story is drawn from the Rajput war sagas and features the despotic Jaisingh (Poonawala) who usurps the throne of Achalgarh. The court intrigues involve the good Pratap (Vithal), lover of Princess Chandraprabha (Ermeline), hidden testaments from the dead King Udaybhanu, fortune tellers and a swayamvar (a public contest) to claim the princess as a bride. The film's treatment of sexuality receives an unusual twist when the misogynist Sher Singh (Hadi), a friend of Pratap, is forced to impersonate a woman to protect Chandraprabha from the villain Ranamal (Jamshedji). The main highlights are Master Vithal's swordplay.

KARMA/NAGAN KI RAGINI

aka Fate aka Song of Serpent
1933 76'[H]/73'(68')[E] b&w Hindi/English
d J.L. Freer-Hunt pc Indian & British Film Prods p Himansu Rai s Diwan Sharar m Ernest Broadhurst lp Devika Rani, Himansu Rai, Abraham Sofaer, Sudharani, Diwan Sharar

Himansu Rai continued addressing the European markets with this effort directed by an ex-Royal Navy captain better known for Navy propaganda and training films. The simple plot has the maharani (Devika Rani) fall in love with the neighbouring prince (Rai) despite her father's disapproval. Shot and synchronised at Stoll Studios in London, it is presented as an Orientalist fantasy with a by Indian standards scandalously prolonged kiss. Devika Rani's melodious English was a major selling point, with songs like Now The Moon Her Light Has Shed and an advertising blurb quoting the London Star: 'You will never hear a lovelier voice or diction or see a lovelier face'. Variety (30 May 1933) described it as 'a sort of modern American romance done against an Indian background.' The film flopped, encouraging Rai to concentrate on Bombay Talkies.

LAL-E-YAMAN

aka Parviz Parizad
1933 158' b&w Hindi
d/sc J.B.H. Wadia pc Wadia Movietone st/co-lyr/m Joseph David dial/co-lyr Munshi Ashik co-dial Munshi Sefta m Master Mohammed c Vasant B. Jagtap, Homi Wadia lp Jal Khambatta, Karimja, Padma, Feroze Dastur, Master Mohammed, Sayani, Nazir, B. Khan, Boman Shroff, Mohini, Kamala, Mayuri, Lola

Classic Parsee theatre-derived Oriental fantasy. The heir to the Yemeni throne, Prince Parviz (Karimja), is falsely imprisoned by his stepmother (Mohini) who claims power. Parviz receives a magic dagger from a mystic sufi fakir (Mohammed) to liberate himself and his people. The dagger makes him invisible. He kills the Apeman (Shroff) and the genii (Khan), rescues the captive Princess Parizad (Padma) and, finally, overwhelms the soldiers sent to recapture him. The king (Khambatta) learns the truth and repents. Lalurukh (Kamala), Parviz' wife who dresses in male clothes to rescue her husband, sacrifices her life so that he may marry the princess.

MEERABA/RAJRANI MEERA

1933 131'[B]/154'[H] b&w Bengali/Hindi d/s[H] Debaki Bose pc New Theatres
co-s[B] Hiren Bose, Basanta Chatterjee c Nitin Bose m Rai Chand Boral
lp Pahadi Sanyal, Molina Devi, Durgadas Bannerjee[B]/Prithviraj Kapoor[H], Amar Mullick[B], Manoranjan Bhattacharya[B], Sailen Pal[B], Chandrabati Devi[B]/Durga Khote[H], Nibhanani Devi[B], K.L. Saigal[H], Ansari[H]

Big-budget saint film on the life of Meera (Chandrabati Devi/Khote), a princess of the Rajput kingdom of Chittor married to the king of Mewad (Bannerjee/Kapoor). She is persecuted by her husband and her brother-in-law when she abandons worldly possessions to become a devotee of Krishna. She undertakes a journey of penance and performs a miracle which the king attributes to the machinations of the evil army chief Abhiram. After being imprisoned, vilified and accused of infidelity, she dies and is united with her god. The film launches Chandrabati Devi (1903-92) as a major Bengali star, while Khote, already established at Prabhat, went to Calcutta to do the Hindi version (cf. Meera, 1945).

MISS 1933

1933 176' b&w Hindi
d Chandulal Shah pc Ranjit Movietone
c Pandurang Naik m Jhande Khan lp Gohar, Mehtab, E. Bilimoria, Keki Adajania, Dixit, Ghory, Yakub

Gohar in a classic modernisation melodrama exploring the consequences of female autonomy. Kusum (Gohar) rejects her avaricious uncle's decision to marry/sell her to a rich man and is adopted by Seth Kisandas (Adajania). She meets his urbanised son Jayant (E. Bilimoria) and his friends Ramesh (Yakub) and Kishori (Mehtab). The love story of Kusum and Jayant explores the complications ensuing from a woman's freedom to choose. The issue is resolved only after Ramesh molests her: she defends herself and is tried for attempted murder.

PRITHVI PUTRA

1933 154' b&w Telugu
d Potina Srinivasa Rao pc Saraswati Cinetone lp K. Raghuramaiah, Parepalli Satyanarayana, Surabhi Kamalabai

The Pauranic story of Narakasura, the demon who, when slayed by Krishna, asks that the day of his death be celebrated by mankind and that he be allowed to descend to earth every year to witness the festivity. Financed by an AP exhibitor, the film, made at the Saraswati Cinetone, was probably the first locally financed Telugu film.

PURAN BHAKTI

1933 159' b&w Hindi
d Debaki Bose pc New Theatres c Nitin Bose m Rai Chand Boral
lp Choudhury Mohammed Rafiq, Kumar, Anwari, K.C. Dey, Umashashi, Kapoor, Tara, K.L. Saigal, Molina Devi, Ansari

The legend of Prince Puran, born under King Silwan of Sialkot's curse which binds his parents never to set eyes on him until he is 16. Accused of leading a debauched life by an evil general and by the king's second wife, Puran is sentenced to death. Rescued by the mystic Gorakhnath, he becomes an ascetic. When the king is overthrown, Puran rises from his meditations to depose the general who has seized power, before returning to his life of renunciation. Saigal only appears during his own song sequences.

SAVITHRI

1933 125' b&w Telugu
d C. Pullaiah pc East India Film
lp Ramatilakam, Vemuri Gaggaiah, Nidumukkala Subba Rao, Surabhi Kamalabai

Mababharata legend in which Princess Savitri marries Satyavan despite a curse that foretells his death within a year. She manages to get Yama (Gaggaiah), the god of death, to restore her husband to life. With this film the Calcutta-based studio tried to compete with the entry of Bombay studios into the nascent Telugu cinema, inaugurated by H.M. Reddy's Bhakta Prablada (1931) using actors from the Surabhi theatres troupe. Pullaiah's version introduces the star Gaggaiah.

SINHAGAD

1933 134' b&w Marathi
d V. Shantaram pc Prabhat Film st Hari Narayan Apte's novel Gad Aala Pan Sinha Gela sc/dial/m Govindrao Tembe
c Keshavrao Dhaiber, V. Avadhoot lp Keshavrao Dhaiber, Shinde, Shankarrao Bhosle, Bazarbatoo, Baburao Pendharkar, Budasaheb, Master Vinayak, Leela Chandragiri, Prabhavati

Based on a Marathi literary classic, but more immediately on Baburao Painter's 1923 silent version, the film focuses on the 17th-C. Maratha emperor Shivaji's lieutenant (and folk hero) Tanaji Malusare (Bhosle). Here Kalkumari, about to commit sati (self-immolation), is captured by Udaybhanu (Pendharkar) and taken to his fort at Kondana. Tanaji dies during his successful attack on the fort with only 50 soldiers. This scene, although not a great piece of action choreography, is imaginatively lit with torches in the background, followed by remarkable shots of Shivaji's (Shinde) ascent up the hill on horseback. The music was memorable for the songs in the militant Powada form: Mard maratha mawalcha and

Nawab (bearded, in white), Tara (centre) and K.L. Saigal (foreground, right) in Yabudi Ki Ladki

Tanaji's strident defence of his king as representing 'Hindu' ideals, Jyachi kirti saarya jagaat. Dhaiber had acted in B. Painter's version (1923) as well.

YAHUDI KI LADKI

1933 137' b&w Hindi-Urdu

d Premankur Atorthy pc New Theatres
sc Aga Hashr Kashmiri from his play
Misarkumari c Nitin Bose m Pankaj Mullick,
Rai Chand Boral
lp K.L. Saigal, Pahadi Sanyal, Rattan Bai, Gul Hamid, Nawab, Nemo, Ghulam Mohammed,
Radharani, Tara

Costume epic and the most faithful adaptation of Kashmiri's Parsee theatre classic also filmed by Bimal Roy (Yabudi, 1958). The play was written by Kashmiri in 1915, but the movie's immediate formal ancestor was the Bengali stage version of Kashmiri's play, Baradprasad Dasgupta's Misarkumari (1919). The familiar story features the rivalry between the Roman priest Brutus and the oppressed Jewish merchant, Prince Ezra. Brutus sentences Ezra's son to death and Ezra in turn kidnaps and raises Brutus' only daughter, Decia. When the daughter, renamed Hannah (Rattan Bai), grows up, the Roman Prince Marcus (Saigal) falls in love with her. To court her, he disguises his Roman identity. When his religion is discovered, he is ejected from Ezra's house. Marcus then agrees to marry Princess Octavia (Tara) as arranged, but Hannah denounces him in open court and he is sentenced to death by his own father, the emperor. When Hannah and Ezra respond to Octavia's pleas and retract their accusations, they in turn are sentenced to death by Brutus. Ezra reveals to Brutus that Hannah, who is about to be killed, is in fact Brutus' own daughter. The costumed spectacular was one of the early New Theatres' most elaborate productions, with 19 songs in Saigal's Ghalib number Nuktanchi (1933) and sunaye na bane.

ZEHARI SAAP

1933 156' b&w Hindi

d J.J. Madan pc Madan Theatres
s/lyr Narayan Prasad Betaab from his play
c T. Marconi m Vrijlal Verma lp Patience Cooper, Kajjan, Sorabji Kerawala, Sheela, Rosy, A.R. Kabuli, Ghulam Hussain

Typical Cooper vehicle about a medieval chieftain's revolt against the good Nawab Bakar Malik. The nawab's outlaw son vows revenge and the adventures end with the royal family reunited. The dramatic pivot is the chieftain's demand to marry the princess whom he had raised as his own daughter. The theme of incestuous aggression, present in many stories (e.g. Kbuda Ki Shaan, 1931), is prevalent in Parsee historicals (as it was in the Elizabethan theatre which fed into that form) and culminated in Mehboob's Humayun (1945). Cooper provided the matrix for roles later associated with Nargis, evoking an uneasily innocent sexuality upon which competing males, representing conflicting social-historical forces, make proprietorial claims.

AKASHWANI

1934 151' [M]/149' [II] b&w Marathi/Hindi

d/s/lyr Bhalji Pendharkar pc Kolhapur
Cinetone c V.B. Joshi m Gundopant Walavalkar

lp Leela, Nanasahab Phatak, Master Vinayak, Dr Sathe, Baburao Pendharkar, Master
Vasant, Shirodkar, Bhadre

Pendharkar's anti-imperialist version of the Vishnu Purana legend tells of the villainous Kans (Phatak) plotting to marry Devaki (Leela) to Dikpal (Pendharkar), commander of Magadh's army. The people of Mathura fear that Magadh will destroy their city-state and foil Kans' scheme as Devaki marries the beggar Vasudev (Vinayak). The heavens forecast, accurately, that Devaki's eighth son Krishna (Shiv Kumar) will cause Kans' death. This is the launched as a rival to Prabhat and featuring Phatak, Pendharkar and Vinayak in roles evoking their screen images established at Prabhat.

AMRITMANTHAN

aka The Churning of the Oceans

1934 155' b&w Marathi/Hindi

d/dial V. Shantaram pc Prabhat Film s Narayan Hari Apte from his novel Bhagyashree lyr Shantaram Athavale
c Keshavrao Dhaiber m Keshavrao Bhole
lp Chandramohan [H]/Keshavrao Date [M],
Nalini Tarkhad, Sureshbabu Mane, Shanta
Apte, Kelkar, Kulkarni, Varde, Budasaheb, Desai

Shantaram's classic opens with a sensational low-angle circular track movement as Chandika cult followers meet in a dungeon of flickering lights and deep shadow. As the more rationalist King Krantivarma (Varde) banned human or animal sacrifices from the increasingly fanatical festivals dedicated to the goddess, the cult's high priest (Chandramohan/Date) orders the hapless Vishwasgupta (Kelkar) to kill the king. He obeys but is then betrayed by the perfidious priest and caught. His son Madhavgupta (Mane) and daughter Sumitra (Apte) together with the princess (Tarkhad) and the people finally overthrow the priest. There are several famous scenes, including the twice-told legend of the churning of the seas, once by the priest to show how evil must be exorcised, and again by a good general to show how demons often appear disguised as gods. Although invoking divine intervention when Madhavgupta is about to be sacrificed, the film's strongly political thrust has the people rise in revolt. Shantaram had just returned from Germany and used several techniques from that expressionist cinema, including the systematic recourse to artificial light, even bleaching the film in places, and, in its most famous shot, the telephoto lens focused on the priest's right eye in his opening declaration. Prabhat's first all-India hit introduced names later associated with several of the studio's productions, with screen debuts from both Date in the Marathi version and Chandramohan in the Hindi. Date perhaps gives his best performance ever, while Apte plays her first adult role. It is composer Bhole's first professional film. Fattalal and Damle are responsible for the art direction and the sound.

BHAKTA DHRUVA

1934 142' b&w Kannada

d P.Y. Altekar pc Jayavanti Talkies s/lyr from a play by the Ratnavali Natak Co. m Harmonium Sheshgiri Rao

lp Master Muthu, T. Dwarkanath,
H.S. Krishnamurthy Iyengar, G. Nagesh,
M.G. Mari Rao, T. Kanakalakshamma

Regarded as the first Kannada feature, though Sati Sulochana (1934) was released earlier. Pauranic mythological about the child Dhruva (Muthu) who eventually finds solace when he becomes a star in the heavens. The film was made by the Marathi stage and film director Altekar, of the Natyamanwantar group, as a tribute to the Kannada theatre personality A.V. Varadachar who died in 1933. Varadachar's grandson played the lead, surrounded by several actors from his grandfather's Ratnavali company.

CHANDIDAS

1934 128' b&w Hindi

d/c Nitin Bose pc New Theatres dial/lyr Aga Hashr Kashmiri m Rai Chand Boral
lp K.L. Saigal, Umasashi, Pahadi Sanyal, Nawab, M. Ansari, H. Siddiqui, Parvati, Ansaribai

Hindi remake of Debaki Bose's 1932 film by its cameraman. The film stars Saigal as Chandidas and Umasashi as Rami, featuring several of their popular duets (e.g. Prem nagar mein banaongi ghar main) and other songs with Sanyal. Released at Chitra and New Cinema, Calcutta, it became the studio's first Hindi success.

GUL SANOBAR

1934 154' b&w Hindi

d/st Homi Master pc Imperial Film
sc Mohanlal G. Dave c Rustom Irani
m Pransukh M. Nayak

lp Sulochana, D. Bilimoria, Zubeida (?), Jilloo, Chanda, Lakshmi, Ghulam Mohammed, Peerjan, Hadi, Abdul Kader, Syed Ahmed

Adventure drama based on a Persian legend. Mubarak (Kader) kidnaps Sanobar (Mohammed), the son of the king of Yemen (Peerjan) and raises him in the forest. Prompted by Mubarak, Sanobar attacks the king returning from a hunt, but is caught, condemned to be locked in a box and thrown into the sea. A fakir teaches the king the language of the animals, warning him not to pass on the skill to any other humans. Listening to two birds, the king realises that Sanobar is his own son. The queen (Jilloo), learning that the king has special linguistic powers, forces him to teach them to her as well. He does so and becomes paralysed. Only a flower from the mouth of Meherangez, the princess of Sistan (Sulochana) can save him. Umar (Bilimoria), the good prince, attempts the task. Zubeida may have acted in the film as the helpful fairy, Gul. Remake of Master's 1928 silent film.

GUNSUNDARI

1934 185' b&w Hindi

d/s Chandulal Shah pc Ranjit Movietone
c Pandurang Naik m Rewashankar Marwadi, Gangaprasad Pathak lp E. Bilimoria, Gohar, Keki Bawa, Gangaprasad Pathak, Dixit, Ghory, Ram Apte, Shanta, Charubala, Rampiary, Kamala

Shah's first remake of his silent hit Gunsundari (1927) presents a more traditional, though complicated, version of the original plot. A joint family headed by Seth Shyamaldas (Bawa) includes two sons Chandrakant (Bilimoria) and Vinu (Apte) and daughter Kusum (Shanta). The stories of the father and each of the three children unfold and in each Gunsundari (Gohar), Chandrakant's dutiful wife, appears as the saviour. Shyamaldas (Bawa) is a drunkard, accused of fathering an illegitimate child. Chandrakant becomes a drunk falling into the clutches of both the villain Madanrai (Gangaprasad) and the prostitute Bansari (Rampiary) who try to steal his property. Sister-in-law Sushila (Kamala) is unhappily married to Vasantrai (Ghory) who pawns her necklace. Gunsundari gives her some money and later gets into trouble because she is sworn to secrecy and cannot account for the money. As in the silent version, Gunsundari tries to entice her husband back from Bansari, but eventually finds herself on the streets, destitute. She finally meets Chandrakant, who is also on the streets. Eventually all ends happily when they discover, through coincidence, that the dead Shyamaldas has left all his property to his estranged son.

INDIRA M A

1934 158' b&w Hindi

d Nandlal Jaswantlal pc Imperial Films
s Mohanlal G. Dave lyr Dhani Ram 'Prem' c Pandurang Naik m Pransukh M. Naik lp Sulochana, D. Bilimoria, Raja Sandow, Jamshedji, Jilloo, Hadi

Imperial production presenting an East-West conflict in the form of a love triangle. Indira (Sulochana), with an MA from Oxford, rejects the 'idiot' Kishore (Sandow) chosen for her by her alcoholic father, the leading lawyer Bansilal (Jamshedji), and falls for the playboy Pyarelal (Bilimoria). However, Pyarelal is a philanderer and the marriage ends in divorce while Kishore remains devoted to his beloved, proving that parents instinctively choose the right man for their daughters. The climactic scene has the father defending the innocent Kishore in court and publicly accusing himself for his daughter's misfortune, blaming alcohol and his decision to have her educated abroad. Apparently inspired by the play College Ni Kanya and Clarence Brown's film Free Soul (1931).

LAVAKUSA

1934 c.165' b&w Telugu/Tamil

d C. Pullaiah pc East India Film
s Ramanamurthy lyr Balijepalli Lakshmikanta Kavi m Prabhala Satyanarayana lp Parepalli Subba Rao, Sriranjani Sr., Master Bhimmarao, Malleshwara Rao, Parepalli Satyanarayana, Bhushana Sastry

Made apparently on the used sets of Debaki Bose's Seeta (1934). It is the Ramayana story of Seeta (Sriranjani) who retires to the forest and gives birth to twin boys, Lava (Bhimmarao) and Kusa (M. Rao), who later take on the might of Rama (Subba Rao) unaware that he is their father. Probably the first film to receive a wide release in the AP countryside, it was singer Sriranjani's film debut and a major hit running in some theatres for over a year. Pullaiah remade the film (1963) with N.T. Rama Rao and Anjali Devi.

MAZDOOR

aka The Mill

1934 142' b&w Hindi

d/sc Mohan Bhavnani pc Ajanta Cinetone
s Munshi Premchand c B.C. Mitra
m B.S. Hoogan
lp Bibbo, S.B. Nayampalli, P. Jairaj, Tarabai, Khalil Aftab, Amina, S.L. Puri

One of the first realistic treatments of industrial working-class conditions and the only engagement with cinema of the best-known 20th-C. Urdu and Hindi novelist, Munshi Premchand. In his biography, Premchand: A Life (1982), Amrit Rai noted that Premchand had to accept Bhavnani's offer for financial reasons after the closure of his journal Jagran. In Bombay for a year, Premchand wrote: 'What they want are thrilling and sensational films. Without endangering my reputation I shall try and go along with the directors as far as I can, for that I shall be obliged to do. [I]dealism demands a high price and one is occasionally obliged to suppress it.' Premchand later elaborated his position on the film industry in his essay Cinema Aur Sahitya (publ. in Lehkh, Allahabad, 1935). Shot on location in a Bombay textile mill, the schematic plot opens with the death of a benevolent mill owner whose good daughter Padma (Bibbo) and drunken playboy son Vinodh (Nayampalli) must now run the business jointly. Vinodh's ruthlessly exploitative management prompts Padma and her protege Kailash (Jairaj) to lead a strike against her brother. Vinodh turns violent, goes to prison and the mill closes. With the workers' support and a providential order, Padma restarts the business in a humanitarian way and marries Kailash. The president of the Mill Owners Association was a member of the censor board in Bombay and tried to get the film banned. The Punjab Board cleared the film initially, but following near-riots after it was released in Lahore, banned it. The Delhi ban was followed by a Central government decree that the film had an inflammatory influence on workers. The film was a commercial failure, sinking the Ajanta Studio.

PIYA PYARE

aka My Man

1934 144' b&w Hindi

d R.S. Choudhury pc Imperial Film
sc Ardeshir Irani st Mohanlal G. Dave
c Adi M. Irani m Pransukh M. Nayak lp Sulochana, D. Bilimoria, Jilloo, Lakshmi, Chanda, Jamshedji, Ghaznavi

Classic R.S. Choudhury adventure fantasy setting the studio's top box office duo in an unnamed Rajput-style court. The king's younger wife Taramati (Jilloo) is condemned to death for infidelity and her son Chandrakumar (Ghaznavi) is brought up by a distant uncle. The elder wife has twins, the lovely Princess Chanda (Sulochana) and the nasty Jaisingh, who turns out not to be their son after all. Rohil (Bilimoria) is the romantic outlaw who is revealed to be the long lost son of the good chief Sajjan Singh (Jamshedji). Rohil helps restore order in the kingdom to Princess Chanda's delight. Elaborately filmed scenes of a tiger hunt, the cheetah who takes away Rohil when still an infant and lavish palace scenes contributed to its success.

RASHK-E-LAILA

aka Jaaneman

1934 153' b&w Hindi

d/s Nanubhai Vakil pc Mahalakshmi Cinetone dial G.K. Mehta c V.V. Date m Master Dinkar lp Zubeida, Bhai Desa, Master Gulab, Hiroji, Pawar, Master Yusuf, Master Joshi

One of the best-known films of Mahalakshmi, a sound film studio set up jointly by star Zubeida and director Vakil. The costumed love fantasy derived from the Arabian Nights and tells of Laila (Zubeida), a gypsy dancer who falls in love with the Persian soldier Asghar (Desa). The villain, who lusts after Laila, is Sardar Sagi (Gulab), right-hand man to the grand vizir (Joshi) who has political ambitions of his own.

SAMAJ KI BHOOL

1934 143' b&w Hindi

d Homi Master pc Imperial Film

st/dial Munshi Zameer c Adi M. Irani

m Pransukh M. Nayak

lp Ghaznavi, Dulari, Jamshedji, Syed Ahmed,

Abdul Kader, Inayat, Jiloo, Lalita

Unusually violent film for its time advocating widows' right to remarry. The crooked Daulatram (Jamshedji) sells his daughter Chandramukhi (Dulari) in marriage to Banwarilal. Distraught, her mother commits suicide. Banwarilal is poisoned by his nephew who fears the new wife might produce an heir, and Chandramukhi is forced into prostitution. Her father, now a beggar, chances to see his daughter in this condition and he too commits suicide. The nephew then kills Chandramukhi's brother Dayaram (Kader) in an argument and Chandramukhi is arrested for the murder. The sorry tale ends happily when the good lawyer Raghuvir (Ghaznavi), Chandramukhi's original suitor, rescues her in court. The film ends with debates for and against widow remarriage and with Raghuvir marrying Chandramukhi.

SATI SULOCHANA

1934 c.170' b&w Kannada

d Y.V. Rao pc South India Movietone st a play by Shri Sahitya Samrajya Nataka Mandali

sc Bellave Narahari Sastry m R. Nagendra Rao lp R. Nagendra Rao, M.V. Subbaiah Naidu, Lakshmi Bai, Tripuramba, C.T. Sheshachalam, Y.V. Rao

First major Kannada film, released before though made after Bhakta Dhruba (1934). Based on a play by R. Nagendra Rao and Subbaiah Naidu's theatre group, the first of many the duo translated to the screen, it is a Ramayana mythological told from the viewpoint of Sulochana, daughter-in-law of the villain Ravana. Her husband Indrajit, who wounds Lakshman, is eventually killed by Rama, leaving her a widow. According to M.V. Ramakrishnaiah (1992), the film was made in a Kolhapur studio with 2000 extras and spectacular war sequences were shot with two cameras.

SEETA BIBAHA

1934 ?' b&w Oriya

d/p Mohan Sunder Dev Goswami dial

Advaitacharan Mohanty m Haricharan Mohanty

lp Makhanlal Bannerjee, Mohan Sunder Dev

Goswami, Krishnachandra Singh, Prabhavati,

Buddhimati, Radharani

Oriya cinema's first feature is a Ramayana mythological telling of Rama's wedding to Seeta. Made on the initiative of an amateur theatre group in Puri, it was sponsored by Priyanath Ganguly's Kali Film Studio in Calcutta and cost Rs 30,000. Director Goswami apparently ran a Rasadala group (boys specialising in performing the Krishna Leela). Although the film did well at the box office, the next Oriya film, Lalita, was released only in 1949.

SEETA KALYANAM

1934 c.133' b&w Telugu

d Ch. Narasimha Rao pc Vel Pics

c K. Ramnoth lyr/m Master Penchaiah lp Master Kalyani, Benzwada Rajarathnam, Madavapeddi Venkatramaiah, T.

Venkateshwarulu

The Vel Studio's debut production is a Telugu adaptation of Prabhat's Tamil mythological, Seeta Kalyanam (1933). Believed to be the first Telugu film to use outdoor sequences, it is the first independent production of cameraman Ramnoth and art director A.K. Sekhar, later crucial to the Vauhini and Gemini Studios.

SHAHER KA JADOO

aka Lure of the City

1934 136' b&w Hindi

d/s Kaliprasad Ghosh pc Sagar Movietone

c Ambalal Patel m K.C. Dey lp Sabita Devi, M. Kumar, Motilal, K.C. Dey,

Kamalabai, Sitara Devi

After some silent successes ((Nishiddha Phal, 1928; Kanhabaar, 1930), this is Kaliprasad Ghosh's sound debut during his brief stint at the Sagar Studio. A seminal Sabita Devi social critiquing decadent urban values, it tells of Sundarlal (Kumar) who leaves his wife Lalita (Kamalabai) and children to make a living in the city where he succumbs to depravity and vice. His son dies and his beautiful daughter Sarju (Sabita Devi) defends her virtue and tries to support her mother in conditions of extreme misery. Dressed as a man and accompanied by the blind Baldev (Dey), she scours the city in search of her father, encountering difficulties, including a drunken millionaire she rescues and with whom she falls in love even though he mistakes her for a boy. Dey, a New Theatres singer, moved to Bombay to act in and score this film which saw Motilal's debut. Ghosh later became better known for 40s/50s Bengali films such as Vidyasagar (1950) and Kar Papey (1952).

SITAMGARH

aka The Tyrant

1934 160' b&w Hindi

d/co-s Jayant Desai pc Ranjit Movietone

co-s/dial/lyr Narayan Prasad Betaab co-s Chaturbhuj Doshi c G.G. Gogate

m Banne Khan, Rewashankar Marwadi lp E. Bilimoria, Keki Bawa, Ghory, Charlie,

Dixit, Ishwarlal, Bhupatrai, Ram Apte, Madhuri,

Khatun

The tyrant Jabbar (Bawa) attacks the village where lives the famously devout Sayyed (Bhupatrai) and kidnaps his son Iqbal (Bilimoria). Iqbal grows up to become the commander of Jabbar's army and is as tyrannical as his mentor, campaigning to force the people to accept Jabbar as the true god. He comes upon a camp of 'true' religious believers led by Sadiq, his daughter Sadika (Madhuri) and a Princess Hamida (Khatun). The latter falls in love with him, much to the chagrin of Shaddad (Ishwarlal), her suitor. Eventually Iqbal learns of his real ancestry and joins the true believers. He then proceeds to attack those who do not share his religion, nor his belief in Jabbar. When Jabbar realises that his own family now opposes him, he commits suicide. The Ranjit Studio hit evokes the successful Amritmanthan of the same year.

VEER BABRUWAHAN

1934 144' b&w Hindi

d Jayant Desai pc Ranjit Movietone

st Dayaram Shah, Narayan Prasad Betaab

c G.G. Gogate m Jhande Khan, Rewashankar

Marwadi, Gangaprasad Pathak

lp E. Bilimoria, Madhuri, Bhagwandas, Khatun, Keki Adajania, Ghory, Ishwarlal, Dikshit,

Tarabai

Bilimoria's best-known mythological. Babruwahan (Bilimoria), son of Arjuna (Adajania) and Chitrangada (Tarabai), fights heroically in the Mahabharata war and returns to his mother who despairs at the strife between her son and her husband. He stops a horse that belongs to Arjuna's army, which is a sign of defiance that leads to further bloodshed. Babruwahan defeats and beheads his own father and is about to follow his mother in an act of ritual suicide when Krishna (Bhagwandas) descends to earth and instructs him to go to the land of the serpents and fetch the mythical Sanjivani Mani to bring Arjuna back to life. This pits Babruwahan against Ullupi (Khatun), daughter of the serpent king and a former wife of Arjuna. After another battle she is forced to surrender the sanjivani mani, but instead she captures the dead Arjuna's head. Krishna has to intervene again to resolve matters. One of the most adventure-laden of the epics, this tale is popular among producers of mythologicals. It was first made by Phalke (Babruwahan, 1923), then by Nanabhai Bhatt in Hindi (1950) and most recently by Hunsur Krishnamurthy, starring Kannada superstar Rajkumar (Babruwahan, 1977).

BARRISTER'S WIFE

aka Barrister Ki Bibi

1935 158' b&w Hindi

d Chandul Shah pc Ranjit Movietone

dial/lyr Narayan Prasad Betaab

c G.G. Gogate m Rewashankar Marwadi, Banne Khan

lp Gohar, E. Bilimoria, Keki Bawa, Raja Sandow, Ram Apte, Ishwarlal, Bhanumathi, Charlie, Dixit, Bhupatrai, Khatun, Kamala, Shanta

Lily (Gohar) and her college lover Vasant (Bilimoria) vow to commit suicide should circumstances prevent their marriage. Lily's father forces her to marry a barrister (Bawa) but she persuades Vasant not to kill himself. When Vasant becomes an invalid, she looks after him, causing her husband to disown and ban her from meeting their daughter. Years later, Lily becomes a servant while her daughter Indu (Gohar again) returns from England having become a lawyer. Lily meets Vasant again, who coincidentally is painting a portrait of her daughter. Their encounter leads to a renewal of their death pact but only Vasant dies while Lily is arrested for his murder. In the long trial scenes, Indu defends Lily, the prosecutor is Indu's boyfriend (Sandow) and the judge is Lily's ex-husband and Indu's father.

BHIKHARAN

aka Song of Life

1935 143' b&w Hindi

d/s Premankur Atorthy pc Kolhapur

Cinetone c V.B. Joshi m H.C. Bali

lp Rattan Bai, Master Vinayak, I.A. Hafizji, Pramila, Raja Pandit, Pheroze Bai, Pawar, Gundopant Walavalkar

After quitting New Theatres and moving to Western India, the noted Bengali writer-director Atorthy's first Hindi film was this bid by Kolhapur Cinetone to enter the Hindi mainstream. It is a four-handed melodrama: Kedar (Hafizji) asks Madhavi (R. Bai) to leave home so that he may marry the rich Chandra (Pramila). But Chandra is only obeying her parents: in fact she loves the painter Kumar (Vinayak). Madhavi, now a beggar singing for alms, becomes Kumar's model and lover while Chandra tries to get away from Kedar. She enlists Kumar's help, pushing Madhavi out again. The latter becomes a stage actress while the distraught Kumar becomes a mad street singer. Eventually, Madhavi and Kumar get married. The film belongs mainly to Rattan Bai, a New Theatres singing star recruited to the cinema by Atorthy in Yabudi Ki Ladki (1933).

CHANDRASENA

1935 136' b&w Marathi/Hindi/Tamil

d V. Shantaram pc Prabhat Film s/dial

Shivram Vashikar lyr K. Narayan Kale

c Keshavrao Dhaiber m Keshavrao Bhole

lp Nalini Tarkhad, Rajani, Sureshbabu Mane, Kulkarni, Mane Pahlwan, Kelkar, Manajirao, Budasaheb, Shantabai, Azoorie

After his epochal Amritmantban (1934), Shantaram returned to familiar territory with this special-effects-laden episode from the Ramayana. Indrajit, son of Ravana, initiates an attack on Rama (Mane) and Lakshmana (Kulkarni) in which they are captured by Mahi (Kelkar). They escape with the assistance of Rama's disciple, the monkey-god Hanuman (Manajirao). The narrative foregrounds Chandrasena (Tarkhad), wife of Mahi, who reveres Rama but disapproves of the bacchanalian orgies and the celebration of liquor that is the norm in his kingdom. She helps resolve the stalemate of the battle when Mahi (who can duplicate himself and his dead soldiers) proves invincible, by revealing the secret formula that will kill her husband. In addition to the usual flying figures and magic arrows mandatory for a Ramayana mythological, there is an effective scene of a gigantic Hanuman picking up a miniaturised human figure. A Tamil version was also made alongside the Marathi and Hindi ones.

DESH DASI

1935 167' b&w Hindi

d Chandul Shah pc Ranjit Movietone

c G.G. Gogate

lp Gohar, E. Bilimoria, Raja Sandow, Keki Bawa, Dixit, Ghory, Charlie, Ishwarlal, Khatun, Shanta, Ram Apte, Baby Bhanumathi

Shah gave this melodramatic Gohar/Bilimoria/Sandow love triangle a nationalistic twist. Leading a life of boredom typical of the colonised leisure class, Vinakumari (Gohar) and her lover Dr Rasik (Bilimoria) suddenly come across a Gandhian ashram run by Dilip Kumar (Sandow) and other social workers. Vinakumari dedicates herself to the cause of the poor while the ashram faces problems: an entertainment carnival set up by urban businessmen leads the villagers into temptation, a famine breaks out and rapacious landlords, including Bakshiji (Bawa), Vinakumari's guardian, demand money. Eventually Dr Rasik too joins the group, providing much-needed medical assistance to the workers in the disease-stricken countryside.

DESH DEEPAK

aka Josh-e-Watan

1935 160' b&w Hindi

d/sc J.B.H. Wadia pc Wadia Bros. st/lyr/co-dial

Joseph David co-dial Munshi Sarfaraz c Vasant

B. Jagtap m Master Mohammed lp Sharifa, Iqbal, Sardar Mansoor, Sayani, Fearless Nadia, Parsee Charlie, Husn Bano, Puri, Master Mohammed, Boman Shroff, John Cawas, Master Jaidev, Bashir Qawal

Unusual Parsee theatre-influenced costume thriller written by noted stage and film writer Joseph David (Alam Ara, 1931). Two sisters vie for power in a kingdom. The elder one (Iqbal), though hampered by a perfidious general (Sayani), wins and persecutes the younger one (Sharifa) who has the support of the elder one's husband (Sardar Mansoor). She captures her brother-in-law but he refuses to abandon his patriotic ideals. The nasty general's daughter (Bano), having lost her lover (Puri) in the war, mobilises the army for a pacifist campaign with the support of an adventurous duo (Nadia and Parsee Charlie) who penetrate the enemy fortress disguised as dancers. Director J.B.H. Wadia saw this film as representing anti-war propaganda and included, in his directorial credit, another one for the 'pacifistic incidents in the scenario'.

DEVIDAS

1935 141'[H]/139'[B] b&w Hindi/Bengali

d/sc P.C. Barua pc New Theatres st

Saratchandra Chattopadhyay's novel (1917)

c Bimal Roy[H]/Yusuf Mulji, Sudhin Majumdar, Dilip Gupta[B] dial/lyr[H] Kidar Sharma

Bibbo and S.B. Nayampalli in Mazdoor Chandrasena

m Rai Chand Boral, Pankaj Mullick[H]/Timir Baran[B]

lp K.L. Saigal[H]/P.C. Barua[B], Jamuna, K.C. Dey, Kshetrabala, Rajkumari[H], A.H. Shore[H], Nemo[H], Biswanath Bhaduri[H], Ramkumari[H], Pahadi Sanyal[H], Kidar Sharma[H], Bikram Kapoor[H], Amar Mullick[B], Dinesh Das[B], Manoranjan Bhattacharya[B], Nirmal Bannerjee[B], Sailen Pal[B], Ahi Sanyal[B], Chandrabati Devi[B], Lila[B], Kishori[B], Prabhavati[B]

Devdas (Saigal/Barua), son of a zamindar, and Parvati (aka Paro) (Jamuna), his poor neighbour's daughter, are childhood sweethearts. Status and caste differences prevent their marriage and Devdas is sent to Calcutta while Paro is married off to an aged but rich widower. In Calcutta the hero meets the prostitute Chandramukhi (Rajkumari/Chandrabati Devi) but remorse drives him to alcohol and (after a long train journey in which he attempts to run away from himself) he comes to die in front of his true love's house. Saratchandra's classic novel, which touched a sensitive nerve with its implied criticism of the spinelessness of the feudal elite, later became a favourite source for films after Saigal's influential performance. The weak and narcissistic hero, esp. as played by Saigal (confirmed by his major hit song Dukh ke din ab beetat nabin), later grew into a Werther-type cult figure as the story, first filmed in the silent period by Naresht Mitra (1928), was extensively remade in many languages. Saigal apparently sang two songs in P.V. Rao's Tamil version (1936) also produced by New Theatres. Thereafter the story was remade in Hindi by Bimal Roy with Dillip Kumar (1955) and twice in Telugu (by Vedantam Raghavaiah in 1953 with A. Nageshwara Rao; and by Vijayanirmala in 1974 starring Krishna). The film has become a mythological reference point for Hindi melodrama: in Ramesh Saigal's realist Phir Subah Hogi (1958), Raj Kapoor is taunted for 'being a Devdas' and Guru Dutt used the story as an undercurrent for both Pyaasa (1957) and Kaagaz Ke Phool (1959). Bimal Roy's hyperactive camera and sophisticated lighting techniques (e.g. the use of green filters to create a negative effect of black sky above white bushes and grass) contrasts with the static acting style, generating an uncanny emotional resonance reinforced by the dynamic, even distorted editing. Barua's Hindi version is strictly a remake of the original Bengali in which Barua played the lead. This version was believed lost until a print was recently discovered in Bangladesh. Saigal, who plays Devdas in the Hindi version, had a sensational walk-on part in the Bengali film as one of the visitors to a brothel, singing Kabare je jodathe chai and Golab huey utbuk phutey. This was his Bengali debut and the producers, unsure of his accent and whether a non-Bengali singing Bengali songs would be acceptable to the audience, got the author Saratchandra's personal approval (his argument in favour was apparently that Bengalis were not the only people who frequented brothels). Saigal later acted in several Bengali films at New Theatres. Most contemporary critics mention the use of parallel cutting, suggesting this technique had a startling impact at the time. The montage of Devdas crying out in delirium, Parvati stumbling and then Devdas falling from his berth in the train, was described as a 'telepathic' sequence, sometimes commended for its essential 'Indianness' in conveying fate's dominion over individual destiny. Ritwik Ghatak admired the film greatly and often used it to teach film students about cinematography.

⊗ DHARMATMA

1935 144[M]/152[H] b&w Marathi/Hindi
d V. Shantaram pc Prabhat Film
s K. Narayan Kale dial/lyr[H] Nartottam Vyas
c V. Avadhoot m Master Krishnarao
lp Bal Gandharva, Ratnaprabha, K. Narayan Kale, Master Chhotu, Chandramohan[H]/Kelkar[M], Vasanti

Playing the only male role of his career, the Marathi stage legend Bal Gandharva's film debut in one of Prabhat's elite Shantaram-directed releases made this saint film one of the most eagerly awaited productions of the year. He acted Sant Eknath (1533-99), a major Marathi poet, author of the Eknathi Bhagavata and of numerous abhangas evoking folk poetry, esp. the bharuda form of solo performances. The film focuses on Eknath's humanitarian defence of the 'untouchable' castes. Opposed by the evil Mahant (Kelkar/Chandramohan), Eknath becomes a social outcast when he arranges to have the lower-caste people fed before the Brahmins during a prayer meeting at his house, compounding the offence by going to eat in one of their houses. The drama is heightened by Eknath's son Hari Pandit (Kale) who joins the ranks of the opposition. The happy ending occurs when the film transcends the food motif and Eknath defends himself by reading his poems to the Pradyananda Shastri of Kashi. The ambitious film enjoyed a larger budget than e.g. Sant Tukaram (1936). Its key author was Kale who intended it as a political film and played down the mandatory 'miracle' scenes while drawing an explicit analogy between Eknath and Gandhi. The film was originally titled Mahatma but the title was changed after the censor objected. Shantaram's direction brought it into the Hindi mainstream, making e.g. the Mahant into an ordinary film villain with a nervous tic in one eye, while continuing on another level his expressionist preoccupations with several high-angle close-ups. The only character contrasting Gandharva's bland performance, extended into most of the other 'goodies', is the wisecracking Shrikhandya (Chhotu).

⊗ DHOOP CHHAON/BHAGYA CHAKRA

1935 129[H]/125[B] b&w Hindi/Bengali
d/sc/c Nitin Bose pc New Theatres st/lyr Sudarshan m Rai Chand Boral
lp Biswanath Bhaduri, Bikram Kapoor[H]/Durgadas Bannerjee[B], K.C. Dey, Ajmat Bibi, Nawab, Kidar Sharma, Pahadi Sanyal, Umasashi, Devbana, Nagendra Bala, Girdharilal Vaid, Indu Mukherjee, Shyam Laha, Sardar Akhtar, Amar Mullick[B], Boken Chatterjee[B], Ahi Sanyal[B]

Shyamal (Bhaduri) kidnaps Deepak (P. Sanyal), the son of his elder brother Hiralal (Kapoor/Bannerjee), to get a larger share in Hiralal's will. Deepak is raised by the blind singer and stage performer Surdas (Dey). Deepak grows up and falls in love with Rupkumari (Umasashi). Plagued by the uncertainty of his parentage, they decide to elope and are chased by detectives (Mukherjee and Laha) employed by Hiralal. Following an accident, Deepak loses his memory, only to regain it when he sees Surdas on the stage. The film is dominated by Dey's powerful singing and the Umasashi-Sanyal love interest. It was the first Indian film to introduce systematically the technique of playback singing (Nitin Bose later claimed it to be one of the first films in the world to do so).

⊗ DR MADHURIKA

aka Modern Wife
1935 174' b&w Hindi
d Sarvottam Badami pc Sagar Film
st K.M. Munshi dial/lyr Waqif c Faredoon Irani
m Pransukh M. Nayak, Ashok Ghosh lp Sabita Devi, Motilal, Padma Shaligram, Pesi Patel, Gulzar, Baby Indira, Pande, Bhudo Advani

Dr Madhurika (Sabita) is a 'modern' young woman dedicated to her profession who advocates birth control to limit population growth. She marries Narendra (Motilal) on condition that he foregoes children, and does not interfere with her practice or with her choice of friends. The film then presents her as neglecting her home and provoking her husband's jealousy with her relationship with a smarmy colleague, Dr Gaurish (Patel). When Narendra attends to Dr Gaurish's suffering wife and then to a starving stranger, Indu (Shaligram), Madhurika gets jealous and agrees to become a dutifully domesticated wife. Using one of Munshi's rare original scripts, the film exemplifies the Sagar Studio's commitment to the morality tale disguised as a reformist social.

⊗ DO GHADI KI MAUJ

1935 153' b&w Hindi
d/st Homi Master pc Imperial Film
sc Mohanlal G. Dave dial Munshi Zameer
c Adi M. Irani
lp Sulochana, D. Bilimoria, Jilloo, Jamshedji, Lalita, Baby Mayuri, Syed Ahmed, Gani, Sohrab, Gulam Rasool

Master's remake of Kohinoor's silent-era hit Be Ghadi Mouj (1927) starred Imperial's top star-duo. Hero Kishenprasad (Bilimoria) is an upright engineer with a large family, including his wife Lakshmi (Sulochana), mother Valibai (Jilloo), sister Asha (Lalita) and son Bachoo (Mayuri). He gambles away his happiness and is about to be jailed for embezzlement when he is saved by an honest fellow employee, Hamid (Jamshedji), who takes the blame. The villains are his secretary Kassum (Ahmed) and Sukhlal (Gani), a rich man who wants to marry Asha. When his advances are spurned, he alleges that he had an affair with Kishenprasad's wife, Lakshmi.

FASHIONABLE INDIA

1935 169' b&w Hindi
d/s/lyr Mohan Sinha pc Krishna Film
c Haribhai K. Patel, Sadashiv J. Vyas
m Badriprasad
lp Pushpa, R.D. Shukla, O.K. Dhar (aka Jeevan), Wadilal, B.L. Ganju, Badriprasad, Bhusharan Sharma, Dhanjit Shah

Big-budget drama with 'special photographic tricks, story, dialogues, songs and the entire production idealised' by the director. The idealistic Kusum (Pushpa) believes in the 'fashionable way of modern civilisation' and writes a play extolling the virtues of modernisation. It is produced by her lover and fellow university student, Ramesh (Shukla), bringing him into conflict with the villainous Madhav (Dhar). The other major character is a local Raja (Wadilal) who also loves Kusum and plans to marry her by settling her father's debts. This leads to kidnappings and murders before the happy end. Known mainly as a musical spectacular containing English ditties like Daisy, Daisy and Jolly Good Fellow and the film that sank the Krishna Film Studio. Well-known Hindi screen villain Jeevan acts under the name O.K. Dhar, retaining the name for the sequel, Romantic India (1936).

GHAR JAMAI

1935 177'[G]/155'[H] b&w Gujarati/Hindi
d/sc Homi Master pc Premier Cinetone st Mohanlal G. Dave dial[H] Munshi Sagar Hussain c Rustom Irani lp Heera, Jamna, Baby Nurjehan, Amoo, Alimiya, Jamsheedji, Syed Ahmed, Gulam Rasool, Chemist

Master's big hit was an unusual slapstick remake of his own 1925 film. Mafatalal (Alimiya) is an unemployed adventurer thrown out of his home and told not to return until he has made some money. He responds to an ad for a 'resident son-in-law for wealthy heiress', tries to earn commission from a lawyer by instigating lawsuits, impersonates a station-master to dodge the fare, gets chased by cops and a fisherwoman, and gets robbed. Eventually, he is chosen by the original advertiser, Heeralaxmi (Heera), a woman with 'advanced views' on everything. Other characters include a phalanx of women standing for election on outlandish platforms. The socially conservative comedy betrayed the anxieties of sexually insecure men when faced with the possibility of the emancipation of women.

HIND KESARI

1935 141' b&w Hindi
d Homi Wadia pc Wadia Movietone st H.E. Khatib sc J.B.H. Wadia lyr Joseph David c M.A. Rehman m Master Mohammed lp Husn Bano, Sardar Mansoor, Dilawar, Gulshan, Jal Khambatta, Tarapore

The Wadias' remake of Homi Master's 1932 silent film is a Ruritanian drama mainly featuring the stunts of the horse Punjab-Ka-Beta. Good King Mansingh (Tarapore) is dethroned by evil minister (Dilawar) (Khambatta). Princess Hansa (Husn Bano) transforms lover Prince Randhir (Sardar Mansoor) from an easy-going youth into the masked Hind Kesari, saviour of the poor.

HUNTERWALI

aka The Lady with the Whip
 1935 164' b&w Hindi
d/sc Homi Wadia pc Wadia Movietone st J.B.H. Wadia dial/lyr Joseph David c Balwant Dave m Master Mohammed lp Fearless Nadia, Sharifa, Gulshan, Boman Shroff, John Cawas, Master Mohammed, Sayani, Atish, Jaidev

The stunt movie that established the Wadias and Fearless Nadia. Preceded by a legend describing its heroine as a 'Brave Indian girl who sacrificed royal luxuries to the cause of her people and her country', the story opens with a prologue showing Krishnavati (Sharifa) and her infant son being thrown out of the house in a thunderstorm by the wicked Prime Minister Ranamal who also killed her brother. 20 years later the now adult son, Jaswant (Schroff), is hit by a royal motor car and given a bag of gold in compensation. His refusal of the gift attracts the admiration of Princess Madhuri (Nadia). When the nasty Ranamal, who wants to marry her, imprisons her father the king (Mohammed), she becomes the masked Hunterwali, 'protector of the poor and punisher of evildoers', and performer of stunts like jumping over a moving cart and fighting 20 soldiers at once. She steals Jaswant's prize horse, Punjab, but returns it later. Jaswant chances upon a nude Hunterwali bathing in the river (a rare sequence for Nadia) and after a long duel captures her and takes her to Ranamal to claim his reward. She escapes, but later they join forces and triumph over the villain. There are several bhajans by Govind Gopal, one of them (Hunterwali hai bhali duniya ki sudh leth) in praise of its masked star. Jaidev, later a noted composer, appears here as her sidekick, Chunnoo. J.B.H. Wadia's original scenario was developed by Joseph David, also known for India's sound debut Alam Ara (1931).

INQUILAB

aka After the Earthquake
 1935 144' b&w Hindi
d/s Debaki Bose pc New Theatres lyr Kidar Sharma c Krishna Gopal m Rai Chand Boral
lp Durga Khote, Prithviraj Kapoor, Syed Mohammed, Nawab, K.C. Dey, H. Siddiqui, Mehera, Kidar Sharma, Surama, Malina, Nirmal Bannerjee

Prabhat star Durga Khote's foray into Calcutta's New Theatres is a drama set amid an earthquake in Bihar. Miss Renee (Khote) looks after the victims while her lover, the businessman Sardar (Mohammed), wants to make money from the disaster. She comes under the spell of the blind itinerant Musafir (Dey in his usual persona) whose low opinion of the depravity of the wealthy provides the film's moral backbone. She eventually discovers that as a child she had been promised to Musafir but had been rejected by his family for being of a lower caste. In a dramatic finale, fighting the villainous Sardar's henchmen, she dies in the itinerant's arms.

JAWANI KI HAWA

aka Leichtsinm der Jugend
 1935 148' b&w Hindi
d Franz Osten pc Bombay Talkies
s Nirajan Pal dial J.S. Casshyap, S.I. Hassan co-lyr/co-m Saraswati Devi, J.S. Casshyap, Najmul Hussain, Bare Agha co-lyr Dhansukhlal K. Mehta c Josef Wirsching lp Devika Rani, Najmul Hussain, Chandraprabha, Kamta Prasad, J.S. Casshyap, P.F. Pithawala, Talpade, Bhaskar Dev, Mukherjee, Azoorie, Sunita Devi, Solanki, Masiha, Khosla

Osten's first Hindi sound film was the debut production of Bombay Talkies. It is a romantic crime thriller. Kamala (Rani) elopes on her wedding day with her childhood friend Ratanlal (Hussain). Her father Maganlal chases the couple and catches them on a train. His furious exchanges with Ratanlal are interrupted by gunfire and in the mysterious gloom of the evening a body is thrown off the train. The suspects are Ratanlal, who cannot furnish an alibi, Kamala, who insists on being the murderess, ex-convict Sukhdev (Dev), who confesses to the murder claiming robbery to be the motive, and the lunatic Tarachand, who also admits his guilt. The film caused a major scandal by employing two sisters from the conservative Parsee community: composer Saraswati Devi and actress Chandraprabha. The Parsee Federal Council tried to ban it and organised demonstrations at the Imperial cinema. Eventually the predominantly Parsee board of Bombay Talkies' trustees mediated with the leaders of the community and got the film released without censorship.

JEEVAN NATAK

aka Life is a Stage
 1935 139' b&w Hindi
d/s Debaki Bose pc Jayant Pics dial/lyr Narottam Vyas c Y.D. Sarpotdar, Haribhai Patel m Harishchandra Bali lp Durga Khote, Rampiary, Alaknanda, Shivrani, Lavji Lavangia, Nirmal Bannerjee, Nandkishore Mehra, Trikamlal, Gulam Jilani Sham, Pahlawan

The plot is set in two historical epochs, 1735 and 1935. The spirited Miss Queen (Khote), performing in a period play, recalls a previous incarnation when she was the actual person she is now acting on the stage. She inherited the throne because the state of Ranigarh had no constitutional male heirs and her horoscope was deemed auspicious. Instead of being merely a figurehead, she opposes the corrupt minister Jairaj and army commander Mubarak and, following the advice of the court poet (Pahlawan), she makes sure the royal court is accessible to the suffering people.

JOYMATI

1935 c.14,000 ft b&w Assamese

d/s/m/lyr Jyotiprasad Agarwala
pc Chitraklekha Movietone st Lakshminath
Bezbaruah's play Joymati Kunwari c Bhopal Shankar Mehta

lp Phanu Barua, Asaideo Handige, Mohini
Rajkumari, Swargajyoti Datta, Phani Sarma, Manabhiram Barua, Sneha Chandra Barua,
Naren Bordoloi, Rana Barua, Shamshul
Haque, Gajen Barua, Putul Haque, Pratap
Barua, Rajkumari Gohain, Lalit Mohan
Choudhury, Banamali Das, Prafulla Chandra
Barua, Kamale Prasad Agarwala

The Assamese cinema debut feature made in an improvised studio built by Jyotiprasad Agarwala on the Bholaguri tea estate. Set in 17th-C. Assam, it tells of the sacrifice of Joymati, a medieval princess who is tortured and killed by the evil prime minister for refusing to betray her husband. The event is interpreted in contemporary patriotic terms and calls for a greater harmony between the people of the hills and the plains (the former represented by Dalimi, a Naga tribesman who shelters the fugitive Prince Gadapani). Available footage was used in Bhupen Hazarika's commemorative film Rupkonwar Jyotiprasad Aru Joymati (1976) devoted to Agarwala.

JUDGEMENT OF ALLAH

aka Al Hilal

1935 158' b&w Urdu

d/s Mehboob pc Sagar Movietone
dial/lyr Munshi Ehsan Lucknowi c Faredoon Irani m Pransukh M. Nayak lp Kumar, Indira, Yakub, Sitara Devi, Pande, Wallace, Asooji, Razak, Kayamali, Azoorie

Mehboob's directorial debut was one of Sagar's classic period movies, better known until then for its reformist socials. It is set in the Ottoman empire where Caesar's (Pande) Roman armies clash with the Muslim kingdoms. Ziyad (Kumar), the son of the sultan (Asooji), is captured by the Romans. Rahil (Indira), a Roman princess, falls in love with him and asks the Muslim woman Leila (Sitara) to guard him. Leila smuggles a message written in her blood to the sultan. Ziyad eventually escapes with Rahil's help and the film culminates in an elaborate chase sequence. The film probably drew from the influential style of K.M. Munshi (cf. Pritivi Vallabb, 1924), combining historical fantasies with a reformist sensibility. Apparently inspired by DeMille's The Sign of the Cross (1932).

KARWAN-E-HAYAT

1935 122' b&w Urdu

d Premankur Atorthy, Hemchandra Chunder pc New Theatres dial Hakim
Ahmed Shuja c Krishna Gopal m Mihirkiran Bhattacharya, Rai Chand Boral
lp K.L. Saigal, Rajkumari, Pahadi Sanyal, Shyama Zutshi, Nawab, Hamid, Rana, Pottai
Bai

Adventure movie featuring Saigal as the wild Pervez, heir to the throne of Kascand. In protest at the marriage with the princess (Rajkumari) of neighbouring Bijapore arranged by his mother (Zutshi) and the vizir (Hamid), he leaves and joins a band of travelling gypsies where Zarina (Rattan Bai) falls in love with him. The bad Tikkim, who wants to marry the princess himself, has her kidnapped by the gypsies. In the gypsy camp, Pervez sees her as a dancing girl. They fall in love and defeat the villain while Zarina resigns herself to the class difference between her and the prince.

KEEMTI AANSOO

1935 154' b&w Hindi

d Chandulal Shah pc Ranjit Movietone
sc/lyr Narayan Prasaad Betaab
m Rewashankar Marwadi, Banne Khan lp Gohar, E. Bilimoria, Ishwarlal, Khatun, Ram
Apte, Bhanumathi, Charubala

A tearful melodrama about a progressive writer, Pushpa (Gohar), and her weak husband, Kulin (Bilimoria). She has to fight her domineering mother-in-law and the tyrannies of a conservative household. When falsely accused of theft and infidelity by her wayward sister-in-law Gulab, Pushpa is forced out of the house. In her final state of penury, she recalls the examples of the great female Saint-Poets of Indian history, like Meerabai. Secondary characters are used to caricature Bombay's merchant class e.g. Mahatma Ramanand : Adambar, a fortune-teller who suspects his wife of infidelity, and a gold collector called Prof. Pyarelal.

KHOON KA KHOON

aka Hamlet

1935 122' b&w Urdu

d Sohrab Modi pc Stage Film s Mehdi Ahsan from his Urdu adaptation of Hamlet
m Kanhaiya Pawar
lp Sohrab Modi, Naseem Banu, Shamshadbai,
Ghulam Hussain, Obali Mai, Fazal Karim, Eruch
Tarapore, Ghulam Mohiyuddin, Shamshad,
Rampiyari, Gauhar, B. Pawar

Modi's debut featured him as Hamlet in the film version of his highly popular stage performance surrounded by the same principal cast: Banu as Ophelia, Shamshadbai as Gertrude, etc. The play had been made popular by the Parsee Theatre actor and producer Cowasji Khatau. Modi's film won acclaim mostly for the qualities of the play, esp. the Urdu dialogue. A Times of India review (10.1.1936) noted that Modi's performance so dominated the film 'that the other characters do not matter very much' and criticised the 'protracted clowning with which the director has attempted to provide relief from the tragic atmosphere'.

MANMOYEE GIRLS' SCHOOL

1935 152' b&w Bengali

d Jyotish Bannerjee pc Radha Films Co st Bhabanath Mitra's play c D.G. Gune lp Bhabanath Mitra, Ghosh, Kumar Mitra Bhattacharya

Ganguly, Kanan Devi, Jyotsna Gupta, Kumar Mitra

Veteran Madan Theatres director Bannerjee's comedy adapting a major Bengali stage success, staged originally by Star Theatres (1932). The zamindar Damodar Chakraborty (Chakraborty) starts a school named after his wife and recruits a married couple as teachers. Manas (Ganguly in the role which had made him a stage star) and Niharika (Kanan Devi) pretend to be married in order to get the jobs. Their imposture, together with the fact that he is Hindu while she is Christian, produces complications. Eventually the couple fall in love and get married. The film is remembered mainly as an acting tour de force with Kanan Devi matching Tulsi Chakraborty's comic talent. The introduction of various small-town stereotypes gives the film an appealing sense of a village populated by laid-back, slightly crazy but basically benevolent denizens. The film was a hit and was remade several times: in Bengali by Hemchandra Chunder (1958), and then, with a partially altered plot, by L.V. Prasad in Tamil (Missamma, 1955), Telugu (Missamma, 1955) and Hindi (Miss Mary, 1957). Anant Mane also made a Marathi version, Jhakli Mooth (1957).

SHRI KRISHNA LEELALU

1935 199' b&w Telugu

d Ch. Narasimha Rao pc Vel Pics
s A.T. Raghavachari m Galipenchala Narasimha Rao
lp Vemuri Gaggaiiah, Srianjani Sr.,
Ramatilakam, Saluri Rajeshwara Rao,
Parepalli Satyanarayana, Parepalli Subba Rao,
Master Avadhani, Lakshmirajyam

Playful mythological featuring the antics of the child Krishna (Rajeshwara Rao) from his birth to his victory over the evil Kamsa (Gaggaiiah). It is the film debut of future composer Rajeshwara Rao and one of Gaggaiiah's best-known films.

SILVER KING

1935 161' b&w Hindi

d/s Chimanlal Luhar pc Sagar Film
dial Waqif c Faredoon Irani m Pransukh Nayak lp Sabita Devi, Motilal, Asooji, Yakub, Tara, Jamoo Patel

One of the best-known costumed stunt movies made at Sagar, in the Mehta-Luhar silent tradition. The king of the idyllic royal state of Jayanagar is kidnapped by his wily commander (Yakub). Ajit, aka the Silver King (Motilal), who leads a band of patriots, frees the king with the aid of the Princess Krishna (Sabita). In the end Ajit is revealed as the crown prince of the kingdom.

THAKICHA LAGNA

1935 52' b&w Marathi

co-d/co-p/sc Vishram Bedekar co-d/co-p V.N. Bhatt st Ram Ganesh Gadkari's play dial P.K. Atre c Nana Pankshie, Anant Marathe

Ip Damuanna Malvankar, Balwantrao Pethe, Shankarrao Majumdar, Vithu, Balkoba Gokhale

The noted reformist Marathi playwright Gadhkari is known mainly for his classic tragedy on alcoholism, Ekach Pyala (1919), and less so for the humorous prose which he often wrote under assumed names. This film version of his play fields a variety of Maharashtra rural comedy stereotypes: Nana, Balkya and Balakram use a number of ploys to arrange the marriage of Thaki, the virtually unmarriageable daughter of Timbunana. Scripted by Atre and featuring Marathi comedian Malvankar in his first major screen role, the film pioneered a tradition in Marathi comedy later associated with Vinayak, Atre, and the Hans/Navyug production companies.

USHA

1935 122' b&w Marathi/Hindi
d Baburao Painter pc Shalini Cinetone
c K.V. Machwe m Govindrao Tembe
lp Usha Mantri, Govindrao Tembe, Ratnaprabha, K. Vasudeo, D. Dudhale, Sushila Devi, Karnakar, Kale

The film with which Baburao Painter re-established himself after the closure of Maharashtra Film is a fiction film deploying aspects of the mythological. The demonic King Banasur (Dudhale), a devout disciple of Shiva, wants to eliminate Vishnu and his followers in the guise of Krishna (Tembe), king of Dwarka and an incarnation of Vishnu. Krishna overcomes Banasur's designs by getting his daughter Usha (Mantri) to fall in love with Aniruddha (Vasudeo). Painter was also responsible for the art direction.

VILASI ISHWAR/NIGAH-E-NAFRAT

aka Orphans of the Storm
 1935 140'[M]/148'[H] b&w Marathi/Hindi ;
d Master Vinayak pc Kolhapur Cinetone
st Mama Warekar sc R.S. Junnarkar c V.B. Joshi
m Gundopant Walavalkar lp Master Vinayak, Baburao Pendharkar, Bal Dhavale, Shobhana Samarth, Indira Wadkar, Gundopant Walavalkar, Manohar Mainkar

Master Vinayak's directorial debut was scripted by Warekar, noted Marathi playwright and film-maker (Poona Raided, 1924). It is a melodrama about the rich and callous Vilas (Pendharkar), who abandons girlfriend Shama (Wadkar) when he discovers that she is pregnant. She raises her son Nandu (Mainkar) with the help of her younger brother and the film's hero, Sanjeev (Vinayak). When Vilas re-enters their lives, it is with a new name, Ishwar, and with the intention of seducing the rich Princess Indira (Samarth) who loves Sanjeev. Ishwar has a bad accident and an attack of amnesia that also leads to a confession of his past deeds. The film, which was also actress Shobhana Samarth's debut, includes an English song, Puff Puff the Engine Said and is apparently the Marathi cinema's first full-length social (two years before Kunku/Duniya Na Mane, 1937). The Hindi version contained 12 songs.

YASMIN

aka Bewafa Asq
 1935 119' b&w Hindi
d H.K. Shivdasani pc Eastern Arts dial/lyr Gauri Shankarlal Akhtar c Gordhanbhai Patel
m Chandiram
lp Rattan Bai, Amirbai Karnataki, H. Siddiqui, Gope Kamlani, M. Mirza, D. Manek, Hamid, Alexander

Parsee Theatre-derived adventure fantasy about an old man, Gias Baig (Manek) who wants his daughter Zubeida (Karnataki) to marry the rich merchant Shaukat (Mirza) although she loves Rashid (Siddiqui). Zubeida and Rashid plan to elope but are intercepted by Gias Baig who promptly dies of heart failure. Accused by Shaukat of murder, Rashid escapes to a gypsy camp where the beautiful Yasmin (Rattan Bai) entertains him, much to the envy of the gypsy chief Behram (Hamid). When Rashid is arrested, Yasmin's men rescue him and make him the new clan chief. Hamid (Alexander), a nomad who belongs to Yasmin's group, rescues Zubeida from Shaukat's clutches by killing the villain and bringing her to the camp. This creates a love triangle solved only when Yasmin sacrifices her life to save Rashid. Writer-director Atorthy was credited with the 'personal supervision' of the film.

ACHHUT KANYA

aka The Untouchable Girl
 1936 142' b&w Hindi
d Franz Osten pc Bombay Talkies
s Niranjana Pal dial/lyr J.S. Casshyap c Josef Wirsching m Saraswati Devi lp Devika Rani, Ashok Kumar, P.F. Pithawala, Kamta Prasad, Kishori Lal, Kusum Kumari, Pramila, Anwar, Ishrat*

A circular story, told in flashback, in which eternal repetition is only interrupted by death in the form of a relentlessly linear railway engine. The film opens at a railway crossing where a man is about to kill his wife when the narrative spins into the past via a song. The central story is of the unhappy love affair between Kasturi (Devika Rani), the Harijan (Untouchable) daughter of the railway level-crossing guard Dukhia (Prasad), and Pratap (Kumar), the Brahmin son of the grocer Mohan (Pithawala). At first, rumour and mob violence are deployed to lethal effect in order to maintain a 'traditional', oppressive morality. Later, when the main protagonists are about to conform and marry selected partners, rumour and maliciousness again intervene to trigger renewed violence until the on-rushing train of fate stops the strife. Enhanced by Wirsching's contrasted imagery, the plot suggests that both conformity and nonconformity are equally impossible options, the latter being punished by society, the former unable to suppress what it oppresses. The standard formal conflict between circular/traditional time and linear/modernising time is undercut by the suggestion that social-ethical change is as untenable as social stasis. Even fate, associated with the archetypal symbol of modernity and progress, is denied its ultimate victory: the spirit of the defeated lingers, haunting the crossroads, testifying to the ineradicability of desire. The film's narrative structure and its eruptions into visual stylisation can be seen as a more intelligently complex way of addressing the encounter between Indian and European notions of history than many an attempt to take East-West differences as an explicit theme. With this film, Bombay Talkies also invented its Anglicised fantasy of an Indian village which became a studio stereotype (Janmabboomi, 1936; Durga and Kangan, both 1939; Bandhan, 1940), resisting the generic shifts in the formula initiated by S. Mukherjee and Amiya Chakravarty. Hero Ashok Kumar later said that he felt his acting in this film to be 'babyish'.

AMAR JYOTI

aka The Immortal Flame
 1936 166' b&w Hindi

Durga Khote and Chandramohan in Amar Jyoti

d V. Shantaram pc Prabhat Cinetone sc K. Narayan Kale dial/lyr Narottam Vyas
c V. Avadhoot m Master Krishnarao
lp Durga Khote, Shanta Apte, Vasanti, Aruna Devi, Chandramohan, K. Narayan Kale, B. Nandrekar

Remarkable Prabhat adventure classic featuring Durga Khote's most memorable role as the pirate Queen Saudāmini. Faced with extreme patriarchal laws in an ancient seaport kingdom and denied the legal custody of her infant son Sudhir, Saudāmini becomes a pirate declaring war on the state and especially on its tyrannical minister of justice, Durjaya (Chandramohan). She attacks a royal ship and captures Durjaya, inadvertently also taking Princess Nandini (Apte). In captivity, Durjaya declares his love for Nandini but she falls for a shepherd boy (Nandrekar) who turns out to be Saudāmini's long-lost son Sudhir. Durjaya's men then capture Saudāmini and a palace intrigue ensues marked by her emancipatory rhetoric and the universal humanist arguments of her adviser Shekhar (Kale). The swordplay and stunt action distinguish this film from Prabhat's other work although Kale's story bears some resemblance to the plot of e.g. Amritmanthan (1934), with Chandramohan replaying some of his role in the earlier film.

ANSUYA

1936 100' b&w Telugu
d C. Pullaiah pc East India Film s Balijepalli Lakshmikanta Kavi m Prabhala Satyanarayana lp C. Krishnaveni, Prakash Rao, Suryanarayana, Narayanarao, P. Sundaramma, R. Balasaraswathi

Ansuya was made and released by Pullaiah as a double bill with Dhruva (1936)(65'), two mythologicals made exclusively with children and telling the stories of Sati Ansuya and Bhakta Dhruva. The films were commended by reviews for their realism in script and casting.

BALAYOGINI

aka Child Saint
 1936 c.210' b&w Tamil/Telugu
d/p/s K. Subramanyam pc Madras United Artistes Corp[Ta]/Mahalakshmi Studios[Te] dial/lyr Papanasam Sivan[Ta], B.T. Raghavacharyar[Te] c Kamal Ghosh m Moti Babu, Maruthi Seetaramayya lp K. Vishwanathan (aka Vathsal)[Ta], Bharath[Ta], Mani Bhagavathar[Ta], V.R. Chellam[Ta], C.V.V. Panthulu[Ta], K.N. Rajalakshmi[Ta], Baby Saroja, R. Balasaraswathi[Ta], Rukmini[Ta], Brahadambai[Ta], Arani Satyanarayana[Te], Vangara[Te], Kamala Kumari[Te], Thilakam[Te], S. Varalakshmi[Te]

Although there had been some films with a 'contemporary' setting (Dambachari, 1935, a Dhiren Ganguly-type story about a playboy being especially influential, being later remade with M.R. Radha as Ratha Kanmeer, 1954), this was one of Tamil cinema's first reformist socials with an original script. A Brahmin widow (Chellam) and her daughter (Saroja) are cast out by wealthy relatives. She seeks shelter in the house of a low-caste servant, causing the enraged Brahmins of the village to set the servant's house on fire. The film, made by Brahmins, launched Baby Saroja as a legendary star and infringed many caste taboos, including the casting of an actual Brahmin widow in the lead. A group of Brahmins met in Thanjavur and declared the director an outcast. He replied with Bhakta Cheta (1940), glorifying a Harijan saint. In Seva Sadan (1938) he defended the cause of women's equality and went on to make the classic reformist social Thyagabhoomi (1939). However, in the context of Periyar E.V. Ramaswamy Naicker's strident anti-Brahminism, Subramanyam's humanist attack on the irrationality of caste prejudices was very moderate. The lead role was played by the director's brother, K. Vishwanathan.

BAMBAI KI BILLI

aka Wildcat
 1936 170' b&w Hindi
d Nandlal Jaswantlal pc Imperial Film
m Pransukh M. Nayak
lp Sulochana, D. Bilimoria, Jilloo, Lakshmi, Pramila, Abdul Kader, Ali Dadan, Syed Ahmed

A remake of Bhavnani's silent Sulochana hit crime melodrama, Wildcat of Bombay (1927), again featuring Sulochana as the mysterious criminal nicknamed the Wildcat who is pitted against police Inspector Suresh (Bilimoria). She masquerades as Usha, a medical student, and in this guise falls in love with Suresh. Eventually the Wildcat, after cleaning up the nefarious activities of Pratap and getting arrested for the murder of his henchman Kapoor (Kader), turns out to be the daughter of Judge Biharilal, kidnapped years ago in an effort to blackmail the judge in a murder case.

BANGALEE

1936 142' b&w Bengali
d Charu Roy pc Shri Bharatlaxmi Pics st Bhupendranath Bannerjee c Bibhuti Das
m Tulsi Lahiri
lp Manoranjan Bhattacharya, Nirmalendu Lahiri, Tulsi Lahiri, Dhiraj Bhattacharya, Sarat Chatterjee, Mani Ghosh, Kartick Roy, Bhanu Roy, Manorama, Meera Dutta, Charuvala, Kamala Jharia

One of the first Bengali films to attempt a realist idiom with a story about a lower-middle-class family, praised by Satyajit Ray for its ability to 'steer clear from Hollywood'. The family consists of Dinadas the father, a mother and some sons, only one of whom earns money. It opens with a series of dissolves presenting each son: one is smoking a cigar and trains for an acting career reciting Michael Madhusudan Dutt; the next is an aspirant writer smoking a hukka (a bubble-pipe); the third wants to be a dancer and smokes a bidi (reed). The mother complains that there is no peace in the house; the father returns from the market to find everything in a mess; the earning brother prefers to spend his money buying expensive cosmetics. The story shows a rivalry with the family of Sukhadas, first over who Dinadas's only daughter will marry, and then, more seriously, over the Anglo-Indian prostitute Flora, with whom the sons of both patriarchs fall in love. In an interview reprinted along with excerpts of Bangalee's script in Chitravas (1987), Charu Roy claimed that this was the first film using source lighting as a shooting principle, deploying a tonal range as practised by Osten's German crew. Tulsi Lahiri, who acted in and scored this film, was also a prominent Bengali film-maker (Happy Club, 1936) and became a key figure in the film industry's assimilation of the IPTA-influenced realist idiom (e.g. via his acting in Sushil Majumdar's Dukhir Iman, 1954).

CHHAYA

aka Holy Crime
 1936 150'[M]/152'[H] b&w Marathi/Hindi
d Master Vinayak pc Huns Pics st/dial/lyr[M]
V.S. Khandekar sc R.S. Junnarkar dial/lyr[H]
 Pandit Indra c Pandurang Naik m Annasaheb Mainkar, Dhamman Khan lp Master Vinayak, Leela Chitnis, Indira Wadkar, Baburao Pendharkar, Hardikar, Ratnaprabha, Vaishampayan, N.G. Pandit Rao, Anant Marathe

Vinayak's second film, which was also his regular scenarist Khandekar's debut with a celebrated melodrama, launched Huns Pictures. A bank employee who steals money to buy medicine for his dying wife is caught, jailed and dies of shame. His eldest son Prakash (Vinayak) publishes a poem in the very newspaper that publicised his father's crime. The judge (Hardikar) who convicted Prakash's father gives him a poetry prize and the judge's daughter Chhaya (Chitnis) happens to fall in love with him. But when she learns of Prakash's family history, Chhaya allows her father and her suitor, Dr Atul (Pendharkar), to accuse Prakash of molesting her and sends him to prison. Prakash's destitute sister Kala (Ratnaprabha) becomes a prostitute to pay for the younger brother Suman's (Marathe) medical bills levied by the ambitious Dr Atul. Kala bears a child and has to kill it. Prakash escapes from jail and works as a porter in a small town. His anonymous existence ends when his autobiographical novel is published. The police eventually catch up with both Prakash and Kala and the two are sent back to jail.

DECCAN QUEEN

1936 158' b&w Hindi
d Mehboob pc Sagar Movietone lyr Zia Sarhadi c Faredoon Irani m Pransukh Nayak, Ashok Ghosh lp Surendra, Aruna Devi, Ramchandra, Pande, Pesi Patel, M.A. Mani, Kayamali, Bhudo Advani, Mehdi Raza, Gulzar, Kamala

Mehboob's only full-scale stunt movie, made presumably after Luhar introduced the genre at Sagar Studio. The crooked trustees of Lala Niranjanmal's estate try to eliminate its two heirs: the daughter (Aruna Devi) is jailed and

