Vocabulary for the Study of Religion Online

Edited by Robert Segal, University of Aberdeen, and Kocku von Stuckrad, University of Groningen

The academic study of religion has been an interdisciplinary endeavor since its inception at the end of the nineteenth century. Much of the theoretical vocabulary that is needed to study religion has been imported from adjacent disciplines such as sociology, anthropology, historiography, theology, philology, literary studies, psychology, philosophy, cultural studies, and political sciences. It is the strength of the academic study of religion to bring these approaches into conversation with one another. The Vocabulary for the Study of Religion provides an excellent platform to sustain this conversation. Written by experts with a background in a variety of disciplines, over 400 entries collected in the Vocabulary offer a unique overview of critical terms in the study of religion(s), as well as the themes and issues that have to be addressed in future research. This is the first dictionary in English that covers such a broad spectrum of theoretical topics. The Vocabulary is an indispensable tool for all students of religion and it will influence the academic discussion for many years.

The Vocabulary for the Study of Religion is also available in print. Please see p. 12 for more information.

World War II Era Records of the World Council of Churches

Advisor: Fernando Enns, Professor of (Peace-) Theology and Ecumenical Studies, Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam

First editor: Pierre Beffa, former Director, World Council of Churches Library

The documents in this collection form a subset of the World Council of Churches archives dating from 1932 to 1957. They were assembled hurriedly and in a very provisional form during the “dark days” of the war by an administration just being born and still in the making. Under such chaotic conditions, some elements were inevitably lost and the original order of the records was difficult to reconstruct. Yet a dramatic story is revealed here, the story of the fledgling ecumenical movement’s thought, policy, and activities in the face of the power of Nazi Germany.

During the Second World War, the World Council of Churches in Process of Formation was instrumental in smuggling several hundred Jews across the borders into Switzerland, actively helped by courageous and inventive young French workers affiliated with CIMADE (Comité Inter-Movement Auprès Des Evacués). Reflecting on this era, Dr. W. A. Visser ‘t Hooft, then General Secretary of the World Council of Churches, wrote “... as I look back on these attempts to help the Jews during the war years, I feel far from proud. I know that I should have done a great deal more.” Not all the sources testifying to this period have been preserved, but what remains is gathered in this collection.

Religions in the Graeco-Roman World Online

Series Editors: David Frankfurter, Boston University, Johannes Hahn, Universität Münster, Frits Naerebout and Miguel John Versluys, University of Leiden

The first online collection of Brill's flagship series in Religion in Antiquity (Religions in the Graeco-Roman World) presents monographs and collections of essays that make original contributions to the field. The series, formerly known as Études Préliminaires aux Religions Orientales dans l'Empire Romain (EPRO), is a forum for studies in the social and cultural function of religions in the Greek and the Roman world, dealing with the religions of city and region between ca. 400 bce and 700 ce, both on their own terms and in their interaction with early Christianity, Judaism, and Islam. Special attention is given to the religious history of regions and cities which illustrate the practical workings of these processes.

This e-series also includes Studies in Greek and Roman Religion (1980-1990), a series of 7 volumes on international studies in Hellenic and Roman theology.

This collection contains 190 titles published up to and including all titles published in 2015.

World Christian Database

General Editors: Todd M. Johnson & Gina A. Zurlo
Co-published with the Center for the Study of Global Christianity at Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary

As of 2007 Brill is the publisher of the World Christian Database (WCD), which complements the World Religion Database. The WCD is updated quarterly. It includes detailed information on 9,000 Christian denominations and on religions in every country of the world. Extensive data are available on 238 countries and 13,000 ethno-linguistic peoples, as well as on 5,000 cities and 3,000 provinces. This extraordinary database is an invaluable reference tool for professionals, scholars, students, agencies, health organizations, and news media. Information is readily available on religious activities, growth rates, religious literature, worker activity, and demography. Additional secular data is included on population, health, education, languages, and communication. All this information makes the WCD an invaluable resource for anyone interested in Christian and religious demography and the history of Christianity. Thousands of sources are evaluated and reviewed on a weekly basis by a professional staff dedicated to expanding and updating the WCD. There is no other resource completely focused on providing global statistics on World Christianity today.

World Religion Database

International Religious Demographic Statistics and Sources

Editors: Todd M. Johnson and Brian J. Grim
Co-published with the Institute on Culture, Religion and World Affairs, Boston University

The World Religion Database (WRD) contains detailed statistics on religious affiliation for every country in the world. It is the major source to render a definitive picture of international religious demography. The WRD provides both current and historical data, as well as sophisticated forecasts of future developments. For each of the world's religions, best estimates at multiple dates for the period 1900 to 2050 are given. The WRD also offers access to the sources which underlie the figures in the database, such as censuses and surveys. Through an interactive feedback mechanism users can leave comments on sources or methodology related to any figure reported in the WRD. The WRD is constantly updated with new sets of data as they become available, such as estimates of religious affiliation at the province level and religious freedom information for all countries in the world. No other database available today is as comprehensive.

Features and Benefits

- Global comparative figures for every major religion
- Population and religious adherents for every country and United Nations region
- Access to source material on religious affiliation (census and survey figures)
- Breakdown of major religions into traditions (e.g. Sunni-Shi'a's within Islam)
- Multiple data points to compare growth rates (1900, 1950, 1970, 2000, 2005, 2025, 2050)
- Feedback mechanism for users to comment on data, sources and methodology

Arkyves

Online Reference Tool for the History of Culture

Hans Brandhorst & Etienne Posthumus

Arkyves is both a unique database of images and texts and a meeting place for everyone who wants to study imagery and publish about it. All visual and textual sources are made accessible with the help of the multilingual vocabulary for cultural content of the Iconclass system. By using this system it has been made possible to find and retrieve images and texts from various sources on a specific topic.

By using Arkyves it is currently possible to access more than 500.000 images, texts, etc. from libraries and museums in many countries among them the Rijksmuseum in Amsterdam, the Netherlands Institute for Art History (RKD), the Herzog August Bibliothek in Wolfenbüttel, and the university libraries of Milan, Utrecht and Glasgow. More collections will follow in the near future. The database contains a link to the images which are available in open access.

Arkyves is both a research tool for art historians and book historians, as well as a tool to facilitate the process of describing images.

Encyclopedia of Law and Religion Online

Edited by Gerhard Robbers, Minister of Justice for Consumer Protection of Rhineland-Palatinate, Germany, and W. Cole Durham, Jr, Brigham Young University
Associate Editor: Donlu Thayer, Brigham Young University

In recent years, issues of freedom of religion or belief and state-religion relations have become increasingly important worldwide. While some works have treated such issues regionally, the Encyclopedia of Law and Religion is unique in its breadth, covering all independent nations and jurisdictions as well as the major international organizations, treating the relation between law and religion in its various aspects, including those related to the role of religion in society, the relations between religion and state institutions, freedom of religion, legal aspects of religious traditions, the interaction between law and religion, and other issues at the junction of law, religion, and state.

Offered online and in five print volumes – Africa, the Americas, Asia, Europe, and Oceania + International Organizations – this work is a valuable resource for religious and legal scholars alike. Each article provides the following information for the broadest comparative advantage:

- Social facts;
- Historical background;
- Position of religion in the legal system;
- Individual religious freedom;
- Legal status of religious communities;
- Right of autonomy;
- Active religious communities and cultures;
- Labour law within religious communities;
- Religious assistance in public institutions;
- Legal position of religious personnel and members of religious orders;
- Matrimonial and familial laws;
- Religious and criminal laws; and
- Country-specific issues.

The Encyclopedia of Law and Religion Online is also available in print. For more information please visit brill.com/elr or see p. 12.

Textual History of the Bible Online

Edited by Armin Lange (editor in chief), Emanuel Tov, Matthias Henze, Russell E. Fuller, Sidnie White-Crawford and Hanna Tervanotko

THBO is the online edition of the Textual History of the Bible.

The Textual History of the Bible brings together for the first time all available information regarding the textual history, textual character, translation techniques, manuscripts, and the importance of each textual witness for each book of the Hebrew Bible, including its deuterocanonical scriptures. In addition, it includes articles on the history of research, the editorial histories of the Hebrew Bible, as well as other aspects of text-critical research and its auxiliary fields, or Hilfswissenschaften, such as papyrology, codicology, and linguistics.

Added features of the Online edition of the THB compared to the printed volume include:

- cross-references in the form of hyperlinks, taking you with a single mouseclick to your target and back.
- Full Text Search and Advanced Search options helping you find any concept you may be looking for without having to wait for the indexes in vol. 4.
- cross-searching with other Brill online products, e.g. the Dead Sea Scrolls online.

Brill's Encyclopedia of Hinduism Online

Editor-in-Chief: Knut A. Jacobsen, University of Bergen
Associate Editors: Helene Basu, University of Münster, Angelika Malinar, University of Zürich, and Vasudha Narayanan, University of Florida

Brill's Encyclopedia of Hinduism presents the latest research on all the main aspects of the Hindu traditions. Its essays are original work written by the world's foremost scholars on Hinduism. The encyclopedia presents a balanced and even-handed view of Hinduism, recognizing the divergent perspectives and methods in the academic study of a religion that is both an ancient historical tradition and a flourishing tradition today. The encyclopedia embraces the greatest possible diversity, plurality, and heterogeneity, thus emphasizing that Hinduism encompasses a variety of regional traditions as well as a global world religion. Presenting all essays and research from the heralded printed edition, Brill's Encyclopedia of Hinduism is now available in a fully searchable, dynamic digital format. The service will include all content from the six printed volumes.

Features and Benefits

- Keyword and full-text search
- Navigate extensive hyperlinked cross-references
- Consult a comprehensive index of approximately 20,000 terms, concepts, and personal and place names accompanied by short explanations
- View rich illustrations, maps, and photographs

Archives of the Presbyterian Church of Cuba Online

Advisor: Luis Martínez-Fernández, University of Central Florida

This collection makes available for research the records of the Iglesia Presbiteriana-Reformada en Cuba (IPRC) and predecessor Presbyterian churches and missions in Cuba, including a complete run of Heraldo Cristiano, the church's newsletter, 1919 – 2010, which provides a framework for the history of the church, its work and history. Also included are the periodicals Juprecu and Su Voz, early mission records, originally maintained in English and then in Spanish as the congregations took over management of their churches and schools from the mission workers. These include session minutes and membership/baptism/marriage/death records, as well as minutes of men's, women's, and youth groups, including their mission work in their communities.

Size of the collection: 52,000 scans, approx. 80,000 pages.

Languages: Spanish (main), English.

This publication was realized with the support of the Kenneth Scott Latourette Fund, Yale Divinity School Library.

Studying Religions with the Iron Curtain Closed and Opened

The Academic Study of Religion in Eastern Europe

Edited by Tomáš Bubík, University of Pardubice, and Henryk Hoffmann, Jagiellonian University in Kraków

The book provides a systematic treatise about the history and present of the Academic study of Religions in the Central and Eastern Europe. The origins of the discipline can be found as late as the early 20th century, but promising beginnings were disrupted by the rise of the Marxist-Leninist critique of religion. After the political changes in 1989, the field is successfully re-established.

Revisiting Aquinas' Proofs for the Existence of God

Edited by Robert Arp

Edited and introduced by Robert Arp, Revisiting Aquinas' Proofs for the Existence of God is a collection of new papers written by scholars focusing on the famous Five Proofs or Ways (Quinque Viae) for the existence of God put forward by St. Thomas Aquinas (1225-1274) near the beginning of his unfinished tome, Summa Theologica. It is not an exaggeration to say that not only is Aquinas' Summa a landmark text in the history of Western philosophy and Christianity, but also that the Five Proofs discussed therein—namely, the arguments that conclude to the Unmoved Mover, Uncaused Cause, Necessary Being, Superlative Being, and Intelligent Director—are as compelling today as they were in the 13th Century. Written in a debate format with different scholars arguing for and against each Proof, the papers in the book consist of arguments utilizing various combinations of contemporary science and philosophical ideas to bolster the positions. The result is a revisiting of Aquinas' Proofs that is relevant, stimulating, enlightening, and refreshing.

Annual Review of the Sociology of Religion Sociology of Atheism

Edited by Roberto Cipriani, Roma Tre University, and Franco Garelli, University of Turin

Atheism is increasing, but as a phenomenon continues to be at the fringe of current research. The lack of a clear definition of what being atheist (or an unbeliever) means today invites us to study the issue in greater depth. This volume represents a first attempt at understanding and scrutinizing atheism.

A Reformed Voice in the Ecumenical Discussion

Martien E. Brinkman, VU University Amsterdam

In A Reformed Voice in the Ecumenical Discussion Martien E. Brinkman offers a critical account of the ecumenical developments of the last three decades. He delivers a sketch of the Reformed contribution to it. He pleads for a stronger non-Western input emphasizing that in many contexts (Indonesia, India, China) the interreligious dialogue has become part of the inner-Christian dialogue.

Aries
Journal for the Study of Western Esotericism

Edited by Peter Forshaw, University of Amsterdam

Aries is the first professional academic journal specifically devoted to a long-neglected but now rapidly developing new domain of research in the humanities, usually referred to as "Western Esotericism". This field covers a variety of "alternative" currents in western religious history, including the so-called "hermetic philosophy" and related currents in the early modern period; alchemy, paracelsianism and rosicrucianism; christian kabbalah and its later developments; theosophical and illuminist currents; and various occultist and related developments during the 19th and 20th centuries, up to and including popular contemporary currents such as the New Age movement. Aries is a peer-reviewed journal publishing articles and book reviews in English, French, German and Italian.

Ecclesial Practices

Journal of Ecclesiology and Ethnography

Editor in Chief: Henk de Roest,
Protestant Theological University,
Groningen, the Netherlands
Deputy Editor: Paul Fiddes

Ecclesial Practices publishes articles and book reviews at the intersection of ethnographic and other qualitative approaches with theological approaches to the study of a variety of ecclesial practices and contexts of practice. These might include churches, congregations, other (new and emerging) ecclesial communities, virtual ecclesial communities and local, national, and international expressions of para-church organizations. The journal maintains a special interest in a breadth of systematic-theological perspectives, including the doctrine of the church, as they relate to qualitative study of emerging and existing ecclesial communities and practices.

The journal is an initiative of the Ecclesiology and Ethnography Network, <http://ecclesiologyandethnography.wordpress.com/about/>

Gnosis: Journal of Gnostic Studies

Executive Editors: April D. DeConick, Rice University, and Lautaro Roig Lanzillotta, University of Groningen

Gnosis: Journal of Gnostic Studies is a peer-reviewed publication devoted to the study of Gnostic religious currents from the ancient world to the modern, where 'Gnostic' is broadly conceived as a reference to special direct knowledge of the divine, which either transcends or transgresses conventional religious knowledge. It aims to publish academic papers on: the emergence of the Gnostic, in its many different historical and local cultural contexts; the Gnostic strands that persisted in the middle ages; and modern interpretations of Gnosticism – with the goal of establishing cross-cultural and trans-historical conversations, together with more localized historical analyses. The corpus of Gnostic materials includes (but is not restricted to) testimonies from outsiders as well as insider literature such as the Nag Hammadi collection, the Hermetica, Neoplatonic texts, the Pistis Sophia, the books of Jeu, the Berlin and Tchacos codices, Manichaean documents, Mandaean scriptures, and contemporary Gnostic fiction/film and 'revealed' literature.

Horizons in Biblical Theology

Edited by Lewis Donelson, Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary, USA

Horizons in Biblical Theology publishes articles that address all aspects of the relationship between biblical studies and theology. This includes traditional historical readings of biblical texts, thematic studies within biblical texts and theology, explorations of methodology and hermeneutics, and even readings from within confessional traditions. The journal welcomes both technical articles that address historical and linguistic issues in biblical texts and theoretical articles that address innovations and difficulties in theological reading of texts. Contributions are peer-reviewed.

Indo-Iranian Journal

Editors-in-Chief: Peter Bisschop, Leiden University, & Jonathan Silk, Leiden University

The Indo-Iranian Journal (IJ), founded in 1957, is a peer-reviewed journal that focuses on the ancient and medieval languages and cultures of South Asia and of pre-Islamic Iran. It publishes articles on Indo-Iranian languages (linguistics and literatures), such as Sanskrit, Avestan, Middle Iranian and Middle & New Indo-Aryan. It publishes specialized research on ancient Iranian religion and the Indian religions, such as the Veda, Hinduism, Jainism and Buddhism (including Tibetan). The Journal welcomes epigraphical studies as well as general contributions to the understanding of the (pre-modern) history and culture of South Asia. Illustrations are accepted. A substantial part of the Indo-Iranian Journal is reserved for reviews of new research. The Journal predominantly publishes articles in English and occasionally in French and German.

International Journal of Public Theology

Edited by Sebastian Kim, York St John University, UK

Public theology is the result of the growing need for theology to interact with public issues of contemporary society. It seeks to engage in dialogue with different academic disciplines such as politics, economics, cultural studies, religious studies, as well as with spirituality, globalization and society in general. The International Journal of Public Theology, affiliated with the Global Network for Public Theology, is a platform for original interdisciplinary research in the field of public theology.

All articles undergo rigorous peer review based on initial editor screening and blind refereeing by two anonymous referees.

International Journal for the Study of Skepticism

Editors in Chief: Diego E. Machuca, CONICET, Argentina, and Duncan H. Pritchard, University of Edinburgh

As the first international journal entirely devoted to philosophical skepticism, the International Journal for the Study of Skepticism publishes high-quality articles and discussion notes on any field of research relevant to the study of skeptical thought. The journal also contains critical notices and reviews of major books on skepticism, and organizes book symposia on recent ground-breaking works. On occasion, it publishes special issues devoted to current lively debates on specific topics or authors.

The wide range of areas covered includes the history and significance of ancient, medieval, modern, and contemporary skepticism as well as discussions of current specific skeptical problems and arguments in epistemology, metaethics, ontology, philosophy of religion, philosophy of mind, and philosophy of language.

A Journal of Jewish Art and Visual Culture

Edited by Steven Fine, Margaret Olin and Maya Balakirsky Katz
Emerita: Vivian Mann
Book Review Editor: Shula Laderman

The study of Jewish art and visual culture, which has been cultivated for over a century in European, American and Israeli institutions, has burgeoned in the recent years. Major universities have established graduate programs that integrate Jewish art and visual studies and Jewish museums dot the landscape in Israel, Europe and North America.

Contemporary scholarship on Jewish art and visual culture intersects with concerns of the wider academy; a lively interchange among scholars has ensued. The field has now achieved the breadth and maturity to sustain an international journal that represents the interests of this interdisciplinary community of scholars.

IMAGES invites scholarly articles on Jewish art and visual culture, ranging in time from Greco-Roman antiquity to the present day.

Journal of Ancient Near Eastern Religions

Editor: Abraham Winitzer

The Journal of Ancient Near Eastern Religions (JANE) focuses on the religions of the Ancient Near East: Egypt, Mesopotamia, Syria-Palestine, and Anatolia, as well as adjacent areas under their cultural influence, from prehistory through the beginning of the common era. JANE defines Ancient Near Eastern civilization broadly as including not only the Biblical, Hellenistic and Roman world but also the impact of Near Eastern religions on the western Mediterranean. JANE is the only peer-refereed journal specifically and exclusively addressing this range of topics, and is intended to provide an international scholarly forum for studies on all aspects of ancient religions. JANE welcomes submissions that introduce new evidence, revise old understandings, and advance debates on ancient Near Eastern ideas and practices of the otherworldly.

Journal of Empirical Theology

Executive Editor: Chris Hermans, Radboud University Nijmegen, the Netherlands

The Journal of Empirical Theology publishes articles on comparative research in religion on the macro-level of society (especially the function of religion with regard to equality and inequality, social order and cohesion and the process of rationalization), the meso-level of institutions (especially family, public and religiously affiliated schools, health and welfare institutions and religious institutions), and the micro-level of patterns and processes of identity formation and group formation. The journal offers an international forum for scholars from different religions and contexts. It presents articles on empirical research in theology and religious studies, both qualitative and quantitative. The journal contributes to reflection on empirical research methodology and research methods.

Journal of Reformed Theology

Edited by E.A.J.G. Van der Borght, Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam

The Journal of Reformed Theology (JRT) is a refereed international journal of systematic, historical, and biblical theology. The JRT is an instrument for the study of living and contextual theology that provides a forum for debate on classical and contemporary theological issues and offers an update on new theological and biblical literature.

The Journal of Reformed Theology originates from the International Reformed Theological Institute (IRTI). Established in 1995, IRTI comprises a world-wide network of scholars involved in Reformed theology. 'Reformed' refers to the theological tradition that started with the sixteenth-century Reformation in Strasbourg, Zurich and Geneva, as an expression of Christian faith of all times and places.

Journal of Religion in Europe

Edited by Kocku von Stuckrad, University of Groningen, and Titus Hjelm, University College London
Book Review Editor: Anne Koch, Paris Lodron University of Salzburg

The peer-reviewed Journal of Religion in Europe (JRE) provides a forum for multi-disciplinary research into the complex dynamics of religious discourses and practices in Europe, both historical and contemporary. The journal's underlying idea is that religion in Europe is characterized by a variety of pluralisms. There is a pluralism of religious communities that actively engage with one another. Additionally, there is a pluralism of societal systems, such as nations, law, politics, economy, science, and art, all of which interact with religious systems. There is also a pluralism of scholarly discourses, including religious studies, legal studies, history, anthropology, sociology, philosophy, and psychology, that are addressing the religious dynamics involved. JRE encourages new research that responds to the changing European dimension of social and cultural studies regarding these pluralisms.

Journal of Youth and Theology

Edited by Jos de Kock, Protestant
 Theological University, Amsterdam, The Netherlands

The Journal of Youth and Theology is an international peer-reviewed academic journal developed and originally published by the IASYM, the International Association for the Study of Youth Ministry, now published by Brill. The journal aims at furthering the academic study and research of youth and youth ministry, and the formal teaching and training of youth ministry. The academic efforts are rooted in the Christian theological tradition and ecumenical. The scope of the journal is to serve scholarship in the broad field of children, youth, faith, church, theology and culture. Research articles in the journal mainly have theology (both practical, systematic and biblical theology) as a core discipline. At the same time, contributions are often interdisciplinary, which implies theological reflection combined with e.g. pedagogical, sociological or psychological perspectives.

Numen

International Review for the History of Religions

Exec. Editors: Gregory D. Alles and Olav Hammer

Numen (NU) publishes papers representing the most recent scholarship in all areas of the history of religions ranging from antiquity to contemporary history. It covers a diversity of geographical regions and religions of the past as well as of the present. The approach of the journal to the study of religion is strictly non-confessional. While the emphasis lies on empirical, source-based research, typical contributions also address issues that have a wider historical or comparative significance for the advancement of the discipline. Numen also publishes papers that discuss important theoretical innovations in the study of religion and reflective studies on the history of the discipline. The journal publishes book reviews and review articles to keep professionals in the discipline updated about recent developments.

Oriens

Edited by Asad Q. Ahmed, Robert G. Morrison, and Cornelia Schöck

Oriens is dedicated to extending our knowledge of intellectual history and developments in the rationalist disciplines in Islamic civilization, with a special emphasis on philosophy, theology, and science. These disciplines had a profoundly rich and lasting life in Islamic civilization and often interacted in complex ways—from the period of their introduction to Islamic civilization in the translation movement that began in the eighth century, through the early and classical periods of development, to the post-classical age, when they shaped even such disciplines as legal theory and poetics. The journal's range extends from the early and classical to the early modern periods (ca. 700-1900 CE) and it engages all regions and languages of Islamic civilization.

Philosophia Reformata

International Philosophical Journal of Christianity, Science, and Society

Edited by: Gerrit Glas, Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam, The Netherlands

Philosophia Reformata is a philosophical journal which welcomes contributions that contain philosophical reflection in relation to the Christian tradition. Articles are broadly philosophical in nature, including interdisciplinary approaches in which philosophical reflection forms a substantive element. Contributions may either focus on philosophical themes in relation to Christianity (e.g., being, truth, knowledge, the good, religion, personhood, and others), or on themes in the sciences, the humanities, ethics, and professional practices, also in relation to Christianity (e.g., themes relating to normativity, responsibility, care, natural and social sciences, politics, economics, environmental sciences, and/or technology).

Pneuma

The Journal of the Society for Pentecostal Studies

Edited by Peter Althouse, Southeastern University, Florida, USA, and Robby Waddell, Southeastern University, Florida, USA

Pneuma is the Journal of the Society for Pentecostal Studies (SPS). Since its founding in 1970, the SPS has become an international society of scholars interested in Pentecostal and Charismatic studies. Though many of the more than 600 members of the Society belong to one of the Pentecostal or Charismatic churches, a number of others are involved in the Society's annual meetings from other churches or merely from university settings. In 1979, Pneuma first appeared as the Journal of the SPS. The Journal became a major medium for the international discussion of scholarly issues related to Pentecostal and Charismatic studies. Pneuma publishes peer-reviewed articles on matters related to the special interest groups of the SPS, namely, biblical studies, history, theology, missions, praxis, ecumenism, ethics, philosophy, and religion and culture. The Journal cherishes an ecumenical and an international vision as well.

Religion and the Arts

Edited by James Najarian, Boston College

Launched by the Boston College in late 1996, Religion and the Arts has rapidly developed into a major new international journal in this important interdisciplinary field. Religion and the Arts promotes the development of discourses for exploring the religious dimensions of the verbal, visual and performing arts. The journal has attracted international acclaim for its approach and its excellent quality and range of interest.

Religion and the Arts publishes:

- interpretations that develop new approaches to the religious and spiritual aspects of works of art.
- discussions on the role of religion in cultural studies
- critical overviews of the state of scholarship in particular areas
- reviews, interviews, comment, debate, and surveys of recent developments

Religion & Human Rights An International Journal

Editor-in-Chief: Dr. Jeroen Temperman, Associate Professor of Public International Law, Erasmus University Rotterdam, the Netherlands

Religion & Human Rights provides a unique academic forum for the discussion of issues which are of crucial importance and which have global reach. The Journal covers the interactions, conflicts and reconciliations between religions or beliefs on the one hand; and systems for the promotion and protection of human rights, international, regional and national, on the other. The Journal tackles these issues fearlessly, and draws its materials from all relevant disciplines - theology, anthropology, history, international relations, human rights, religious studies, and many others - but with special emphasis on legal frameworks. It is an indispensable source for all those concerned with monitoring, studying, teaching, analysing or developing policies on the relationship between religion and human rights today.

Religion and Theology A Journal of Contemporary Religious Discourse

Executive Editor: Gerhard A. van den Heever, University of South Africa

Religion & Theology publishes scholarly articles of high quality on religion, theology, and related fields. The journal pursues new ways of conceptualising religion, theology and academic religious discourse, as well as reflecting on new meaning-giving praxis. The journal functions as an international forum for contemporary religious discourse with an emphasis on new ways of understanding our multifaceted religious heritage and ourselves as 'religious' beings in this time of major change in world history. Religion & Theology encourages dialogue between divergent theoretical, conceptual and disciplinary languages, with a view to reconceptualising theology (in theory and praxis) in the light of contemporary theory of religion, especially more recent social and rhetorical theories of religion.

Review of Rabbinic Judaism

Ancient, Medieval, and Modern
(Formerly: The Annual of Rabbinic Judaism)

Edited by Alan J. Avery-Peck

The Review of Rabbinic Judaism, the first and only journal to focus upon Rabbinic Judaism in particular, will publish principal articles, essays on method and criticism, systematic debates (Auseinandersetzungen), occasional notes, long book reviews, reviews of issues of scholarly journals, assessments of textbooks and instructional materials, and other media of academic discourse, scholarly and educational alike.

The Review fills the gap in the study of Judaism, which is left by the prevailing division of Rabbinic Judaism among the standard historical periods (ancient, medieval, modern) that in fact do not apply; and by the common treatment of the Judaism in bits and pieces (philosophy, mysticism, law homiletics, institutional history, for example). No journal in "Jewish studies" focuses upon the study of religion, let alone upon the single most important Judaism of all time.

Review of Religion and Chinese Society

Editor-in-Chief: Fenggang Yang, Purdue University, West Lafayette, Indiana
Book Review Editor: Jonathan Pettit, Purdue University

Review of Religion and Chinese Society is an international peer-reviewed journal that publishes articles and book reviews in social sciences and certain humanities disciplines. All articles will be in English, and Chinese titles and abstracts will be provided as well.

- "Religion" is understood in the broadest sense, including various spiritualities and meaning-making systems of beliefs and practices.
- "Chinese society" includes those in mainland China, Taiwan, Hong Kong, Macau, and Chinese diasporic communities in Asia, North America, Europe, and elsewhere throughout the world.
- It welcomes studies that compare religion in Chinese and some other societies.
- The journal is multi-disciplinary and inter-disciplinary in its outlook and presents theoretical and empirical studies of religion in disciplines such as anthropology, economics, geography, political science, psychology, sociology, and history.
- The preferred articles are theoretically driven empirical studies, although it also publishes articles that are primarily empirical or primarily theoretical.
- It also publishes review essays of particular fields, symposia of particular topics, interviews with renowned scholars, and reports of academic conferences relevant to the themes of this journal.
- Submissions of articles and proposals for special issues are welcome.
- The journal will publish reviews of books that have been published in English, Chinese, and other languages.

Science of Religion

Abstracts and Index of Recent Articles

Edited by Katja Triplett, Georg-August-Universität Göttingen
Associate Editors: Seong-Hee Choi and Friederike Böllmann

The objective of Science of Religion is to provide a systematic bibliography of articles which contribute in various ways to the academic study of religions. This in turn is intended to facilitate the work and international collaboration of all scholars working in this field. The abstracts published in Science of Religion are drawn from a wide range of journals in various languages and reflect a range of contributory or complementary disciplines. The list of periodicals consulted is reviewed regularly and suggestions for improvement are welcomed. Science of Religion does not seek to appraise or criticise the contents of any articles. Nor does it endorse any of the religious standpoints or agendas referred to in the articles abstracted. In all cases the individual authors are responsible for their own opinions and any reference to these opinions should take account of the complete article in the original source. Science of Religion is published by Brill with the support of the International Association for the History of Religions (IAHR).

Social Sciences and Missions

Sciences sociales et missions
(Formerly: Le Fait Missionnaire)

Edited by Eric Morier-Genoud, Queen's University Belfast, Wendy Urban-Mead, Bard College, and Yannick Fer, CNRS

The peer-reviewed journal Social Sciences and Missions / Sciences sociales et missions provides a forum for exploration of the social and political influence of Christian missions worldwide. The journal does not aim at studying missions for themselves, but rather as "total social facts", an idiom, which history, anthropology, sociology or political science can use to analyse reality and give it meaning. Christian missions represent a unique site of observation for the study of a great number of valuable themes, such as: contemporary and past North-South relationships, not least the history of empire and of the post-colonial period; religious and cultural pluralism in contemporary societies and the regulation of religious expressions in the public space; the evolution of religious organizational models and religion's links to social work, sport, music and systems of thoughts. Social Sciences & Missions accepts articles in English and in French.

Sociology of Islam

Edited by Gary Wood, Virginia Tech, and Tugrul Keskin, Maltepe University, Istanbul, and Shanghai University

Sociology of Islam (SOI) provides an international scholarly forum for research related to the religion and culture of Islam, Muslim societies, and social issues related to Muslims in socio-political context. Decidedly rooted in the sociological perspective, SOI takes an expansive and global view of this broad subject matter. SOI publishes multiple issues per year containing original peer-reviewed articles and book reviews on the sociological, political, anthropological, historical and other aspects of Islam and Muslim societies across all times and places. By promoting an academic understanding of the richly variegated and complex nature of both majority Muslim societies and of the issues related to the minority status of Muslims in other social contexts, in both thought and practice, Sociology of Islam makes a distinctive contribution to current scholarship in the field of sociology.

Vigiliae Christianae

A Review of Early Christian Life and Language

Executive Editors: K. Greschat, Ruhr-Universität Bochum, J. Lössl, Cardiff University

Vigiliae Christianae contains articles and short notes of an historical, cultural, linguistic or philological nature on early Christian literature written after the New Testament, as well as on Christian epigraphy and archaeology. Church and dogmatic history are dealt with as they relate to social history; Byzantine and medieval literature are treated as far as they exhibit continuity with the early Christian period.

Worldviews: Global Religions, Culture, and Ecology

Edited by Christopher Key Chapple,
Loyola Marymount University

Worldviews: Global Religions, Culture, and Ecology is an international academic journal that studies the relationships between religion, culture, and ecology worldwide. The journal addresses how cultural and ecological developments influence the world's major religions, giving rise to new forms of religious expression, and how in turn religious belief and cultural background can influence peoples' attitudes toward ecology.

Zutot Perspectives on Jewish Culture

Founding Editors: Shlomo Berger Z"L
and Irene Zwiep

Editors-in-Chief: Irene Zwiep,
University of Amsterdam and Avriel
Bar-Levav, The Open University of Israel

Zutot: Perspectives on Jewish Culture aims to fill a gap that has become more and more conspicuous among the wealth of scholarly periodicals in the field of Jewish Studies. Whereas existing journals provide space to medium and large sized articles, they neglect the small but poignant contributions, which may be as important as the extended, detailed study. Zutot serves as a platform for small but incisive contributions, and provides them with a distinct context. The substance of these contributions is derived from larger perspectives and, though not always presented in an exhaustive way, will have an impact on contemporary discussions. Zutot covers Jewish culture in its broadest sense, i.e. encompassing various academic disciplines—literature, languages and linguistics, philosophy, art, sociology, politics and history—and reflects binary oppositions such as religious and secular, high and low, written and oral, male and female culture.

Zeitschrift für Religions- und Geistesgeschichte Journal of Religious and Cultural Studies

Editors: Joachim H. Knoll, Julius H.
Schoeps, Hans J. Hillerbrand, Helmut
Peitsch, Almut-Barbara Renger

Zeitschrift für Religions- und Geistesgeschichte was founded in 1948. It has a longstanding tradition and is one of the most outstanding journals in the humanities of the German-speaking world. Today, it is a forum for interdisciplinary research and scholarly dialogue in the fields of religious and intellectual history. The Zeitschrift für Religions- und Geistesgeschichte is a peer-reviewed journal and comprises original papers, miscellanea and reviews both in German and English from the crossroads of philosophy, the history of religions, cultural studies, theology, ethnology, European history, the history of art and the history of the sciences. It is not bound to any specific period, field, scholarly method or school but rather to the excellence and the innovative character of texts and ideas. Each issue aims at presenting a mixture of insights from outsiders and newcomers as well as scholarly views and outlooks from insiders along with an extensive book review section.
