HUGHES SERVICE

With the launch of SBS-6, Hughes Communications will ensure Ku-band capacity into the 21st century.

Hughes Communications means satellite service that's right for your business. No matter what you need. Or when you need it.

Private satellite network owners entrust their communications to our SBS fleet of Ku-band satellites. They know they can count on Hughes for reliable interactive data, voice, and video services. And the launch of SBS-6 later this year will reaffirm our dedication to meeting increased customer demand for Ku-band satellite communications.

SBS-6 will expand our capacity for business networks. Additionally, SBS-6 will enable us to inaugurate services targeted to satellite newsgathering

(SNG) and the occasional use video markets. These services feature a customized transponder reservation system that allows customers to respond to fast-breaking news and special events, quickly and efficiently, with more availability and less contention during peak periods.

Our mandate is to provide unsurpassed satellite communications. That's why Hughes' team of experts continuously monitors the entire Ku-band fleet to ensure quality transmission around the clock. That's service you can count on.

Hughes Communications. We have the services to make ideas happen — well into the 21st century.

¹ C-band and Ku-band columns indicate numbers of transponders on each satellite. End-of-life estimates are based on launch date plus average 10 or 12 years.

² Although not of use for customers with nonsteerable antennas, Comsat developed a system to track and maintain use of birds that have used up station-keeping fuel and have gone into north-south drift.

³ Imbalanced loading of fuel caused GStar III not to reach 125 degrees on schedule following September 1988 launch. Expending station-keeping fuel to move it there reduced bird's design life by five.

⁴ FCC approved Hughes purchase of Western Union satellites in November 1988.

Hughes Television Network, an IDB Communications affiliate entity, is a supplier of satellite time for various events. Programs distributed by HTN via satellite include major sporting events, INDX Network News, live business teleconferences & syndicated programming feeds. HTN controls transponders on several satellites & has access to others on an occasional basis.

Hughes Communications' satellite replacement program ensures C-band capacity into the 21st century.

At Hughes Communications, we give you the most advanced technology and we back it with the most comprehensive service available in satellite communications.

That's the Hughes commitment to excellence.

Our C-band fleet, led by our Galaxy satellites, has earned a reputation as the premiere cable satellite system in orbit today. In addition to our cable and broadcast services, our audio services have taken a leading role in the industry.

Coupling sound engineering with a team of dedicated professionals, we ensure the quality and continuity of our customers' transmissions, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

We will provide even further protection for our Galaxy/Westar customers with the launch later this year of Galaxy VI, our in-orbit satellite spare. In fact, long after the turn of the century, we will continue to deliver the level of excellence in satellite communications services that our customers have come to expect of us.

Hughes Communications. Our commitment to excellence will continue to make ideas happen — well into the 21st century.

WE MAKE IDEAS HAPPEN.®

WE'LL TREAT YOUR BROADCASTS AS IMPORTANTLY AS THEIRS.

Some of the biggest names in broadcasting rely on GTE Spacenet. So when you come to us for broadcast services, you'll be in good company.

You'll also be making a very popular choice. Last year alone, we carried more than 44,000 hours of news and sports events with broadcasters accessing our satellites over 53,000 times.

One reason so many broadcasters come to us is for our specialized services. Like News Express™, a satellite news gathering service for live, on-the-spot coverage. Sports Express™, a backhaul service for remote sports coverage. Full-time Transponder Service for program distribution. And Occasional Use Service for special or regularly scheduled events.

Broadcasters also choose us for the customer service we provide. Our computerized scheduling system ensures you'll get access when you need it. Once you're on the air, we monitor your broadcast to assure the highest quality service possible. And when you need customer service, call our toll-free number 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

So when you have a program to broadcast, call GTE Spacenet. No one will do more to see that your show goes on.

Radio Formats by State and Province

This special section is an expanded version of THE BROADCASTING YEARBOOK'S Radio Formats by State index, originally introduced in the 1987 edition.

This section includes the number of AM and FM stations in each state or province, with a breakdown of the number of commercial and non-commercial stations, followed by a ranked tally of formats. Appearing on this page are format totals for all U.S. stations. Totals for Canadian stations appear on F-110.

Formats defined

The YEARBOOK defines a radio format as programming over 20 hours weekly. Programming broadcast from one to 20 hours weekly is defined as special programming.

The majority of stations broadcast one specific type of format, but many stations report using two or more programming formats. Stations reporting four or more formats are listed as "Variety". The format "Other" represents stations whose formats did not fit into any of THE YEARBOOK'S 69 format classifications.

Please see the chart on page F-112 for a breakdown of radio programming by AM/FM and commercial/non-commercial for the U.S. and Canada.

Industry Standard Coding Identification System_ISCI

A computer format system for identifying television commercials, adopted by the American Association of Advertising Agencies, the Association of National Advertisers, the National Association of Broadcasters, the Station Representatives Association, the Television Bureau of Advertising and the television networks effective July 1, 1970.

In 1986, the ISCI System was expanded in two ways: 1. the TV commercial coding is offered for extension to cover advertisers worldwide under the one standard. 2. a portion of the ISCI System is used to cover all television programs... program material of all types, lengths and media which are intended for syndicated or other repeat usage.

The eight-character (four letters and four numbers) coding is to be used on commercials and on their schedules, leaders, boxes, etc. ... with all commercials of a single advertiser (parent company (if there are subsidiaries, divisions or affiliates) identified by the advertiser's prefix which is assigned by the ISCI system. For programs, the ISCI System assigns a specific eight-character permanent code to each piece of programming.

Canadian Representatives. ISCI System, NAB TV-Radio Codes

The ISCI System, Attn: David W. Dole. 719 Lincoln St., Northfield, Minn. 55057.

Copies of the ISCI Register, a 288-page book listing 3,000 national and regional advertisers and 900 advertising agencies with their assigned ISCI prefixes, are obtainable from Dole, to whom all questions regarding the system should be addressed.

NAB Television and Radio Codes

Both codes of broadcast standards promulgated by the National Association of Broadcasters have been suspended. The NAB and U.S. Justice Department agreed to a consent decree abolishing commercial time standards in the television code, in settlement of an antitrust suit brought by Justice (see BROADCASTING Magazine, July 19, 1982). Programming standards in the television and radio codes were suspended in 1976 after a U.S. federal judge in Los Angeles ruled that family-viewing provisions of the television code violated the First Amendment. For texts of the suspended codes see BROADCASTING/CABLECASTING YEARBOOK 1982.

Radio and Television Audiences

Radio and Television were in more U.S. homes than ever as 1991 approached.

Radio. The Radio Advertising Bureau estimated that 92.8 million U.S. homes, 99%, were radio-equipped as of Jan 1, 1990.

Radio Sets. The number of working order radio sets in the U.S. totaled 541.1 million in 1990, according to estimates by the Radio Advertising Bureau. RAB estimated that 349.3 million of these were home and personal radio sets and 191.8 million were out of home receivers.

Television. A total of 93.1 million homes, or 98.2% of all U.S. homes (including Alaska and Hawaii) were TV equipped as of January 1, 1991 according to Nielsen Media Research.

Color TV. Homes equipped with color TV sets totaled 91.3 million or 98% of all TV homes, as of January 1, 1991 according to Nielsen Media Research estimates.

Viewing and Listening. The extent to which radio and television sets were used is indicated in the tables that follow. The television figures were furnished by The Nielsen Company and its Nielsen Television Index (NTI). The radio data came from RAB and other sources as noted.

Adhere to Broadcast Standards.

Every day, all over the world, Delta's full line of products make sure the most important broadcasting standard of all is met—your total satisfaction.

AM Splatter Monitor—Spectrum analyzer performance at a significantly reduced price! An inexpensive means of verifying FCC and NRSC spectral compliance. This frequency agile instrument tunes from 1700 kHz down to 450 kHz, with 9 or 10 kHz channel spacing. The monitor also measures incidental phase modulation (IPM). Designed to be rack-mounted or operated from a vehicle's 12 volt supply using an optional antenna.

C-QUAM® AM Stereo—The Above Standard Industry Standard is easy to install and maintain with its modular design and construction. Offers standard features other manufacturers charge as options. A sound value, built to last.

High Power Pulse Reflectometer—Strong interfering fields that would destroy time domain reflectometers are virtually ignored by the PRH-1. This instrument can handle up to 1,000 watts of induced power on an intermittent basis as it locates faults on transmission lines. Provides a visual representation of the transmission or sample line, STL coax, or antenna, using your oscilloscope.

Coaxial Transfer Switches—These 1 3/8" and 3 1/8" motorized four port switches are designed to switch between antennas, transmitters, or dummy loads both quickly and efficiently. The switches can also be operated manually and are fully interlocked.

RF Ammeters and Sampling Toroids—Precision toroidal current transformers (TCTs) provide stable antenna monitor sampling while eliminating the problems associated with loops. TCTs also work well in supplying additional modulation monitor or test sample RF outputs. The transformer coupled ammeter (TCA) offers stable base or common point current readings, independent of modulation. The dual and single scale meters also provide remote DC outputs.

Low Power RF Ammeters—When every milliamp of current counts, depend on the accuracy of the TCA-Jr. This portable RF ammeter is designed to plug into either a Delta MJ-50 Meter Jack (pictured above), or a standard J-plug jack. Two current ranges are available: 0.2 to 1.0 Ampere, or 0.4 to 2.0 Amperes.

Rotary Variable Inductor—Where long life and high reliability are required, specify the RVI. Designed to provide long life, even under continuous rotation, the RVI is available in either 12 μ H or 10 μ H versions (maximum inductance). Other values by special order.

RF Receiver/Generator—A rugged, high output (2 watts) generator and correlation detector receiver virtually eliminate false nulls caused by interfering signals. The RG-3A operates from 0.5 to 1.65 MHz, and the expanded range of the RG-4 generates signals from 100 kHz to 30 MHz.

Transmitter Power Controller—Your insurance against over- and under-power citations. Continuously monitors transmitter power levels, compensating for AC power line sag by adjusting the transmitter to 100% power.

Digital Controlled Processor—This inexpensive, stereo tri-band processor boasts user-friendly controls and an aggressive sound. Mono stations can take a step toward AM Stereo, at a price that won't break the budget.

Impedance Bridges—At last, a means of measuring your impedance under full power. Both portable and in-line bridges are available, with a variety of features, for both AM broadcast and HF applications. The in-line Common Point Bridge can be supplied with a TCA RF Ammeter to permit precise current and impedance measurements.

Only BTS can offer you a facility control system as advanced as the BCS-3000.

The BCS-3000 is a single, integrated control system designed to bring all the "pieces" of your facility together, interfacing and operating as one smooth unit.

It uses industry standard computer network and machine control protocols... not proprietary protocols used in other systems. And the BCS-3000 is a user defined and configurable system, allowing for more flexibility in operation and expansion of BTS's full family of products... which include routing switchers, master control, machine control and automation devices.

Let the BCS-3000 bring the "total picture" of BTS engineering to your facility.

*Prior to 1971, data reflects factory sales by U.S. manufacturers plus those products imported directly by distributors or dealers for resale. All import statistics are based on average value as published by the U.S. Department of Commerce, which is F.O.B. and therefore excludes U.S. import duties, freight charged from the foreign country to the U.S. and insurance.

RRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRIP

Our readers tear us to pieces! It's not that we're misused, just much used.

Each issue of Broadcasting starts out clean as a whistle, handsome enough to frame. What happens after that is just exactly what our editors had in mind.

Articles are ripped from their hinges, annotated, sent along for media action. Pages are pulled apart, stapled to memos, routed for special perusal. One feature story is the basis for an advertising report. Another triggers a manufacturer's survey.

And it happens issue after issue.

Want your own issue to tear up? Call our circulation department at: 1-800-638-7827.

WE SHOUT:
WE'RE 5 YEARS OLD!

YOU MUTTER:
Who cares?

You will. Once you know these 3 simple truths we've learned along the way.

- 1. In today's crazy lending climate, we need to place as much emphasis on the buyer's financial ability to close as we do on getting you the price you want.
- 2. You deserve to have someone who will stay tight with you via visit, phone or fax.
- 3. Amazing, isn't it? The harder we work for you... the luckier you get!

If you are thinking of selling, counsel with us and let us show you how we have earned all those referrals!

HOW DO YOU EXPLAIN A $40,000 ACCIDENT TO YOUR BOSS?

Usually, you start by cleaning out your desk and reserving a seat on the next flight to Montana. Then you try to explain to your boss that, "Somehow, I let the Klystron amplifier tube in the transmitter burn up."

Or, you could get a Townsend CST (Computer-Supervised Transmitter) and never have to worry over the question again. Because the CST protects the Klystron tube from the exceeding manufacturer's warranty limits. This feature is known as S.T.O.P.—Safety Trip Overload Protection. An exclusive CST series feature that is a second level of protection for your most costly transmitter component.

But S.T.O.P. is just part of what makes the CST a breakthrough in television technology. The transmitter combines the art of supervision with the science of information display. Computer supervision, remote or local, provides automatically-sequenced turn-on, turn-off and restart.

The Townsend CST series Transmitter. It can S.T.O.P. a lot of your worries.

Then again, they say Montana is beautiful this time of year.
