KRLD-TV, Channel 4, telecasting with maximum power from atop Texas' tallest tower, sends its strong clear signal into 47 Texas counties . . . plus 5 in Oklahoma. This is the greatest area coverage of any Texas television station. BUT . . . what is more significant is KRLD-TV's coverage in terms of PEOPLE, INCOME, RETAIL SALES and TV HOMES. In those terms, a map such as just above gives a more accurate picture. The KRLD-TV Texas area contains 2,570,500 people who spend $3,332,054,000 annually of a Consumer Spendable Income of $4,270,706,000. There are more than 644,000 TV homes in this area. Truly, KRLD-TV CBS television for Dallas-Fort Worth, is the biggest buy in the biggest market in the biggest state.

NEXT MOVE • Investigation by Antitrust Div. of Dept. of Justice of network programming notably in relation to its ownership participation in independently developed shows has reached point where department attorneys want to meet with FCC to explore future steps. Proposal to this end is being considered by FCC, presumably in connection with current hearings on Barrow Network Study Report. Barrow Study Staff had been unable to complete programming-talent phase of its investigation and Assistant Attorney General Victor Hanson had announced last year that it was continuing its inquiry.

Also interwoven in network participation in program ownership is related aspect of clearances in option time. Another aspect under inquiry has been network stock ownership in BMI. Both matters were targets of House Celler Subcommittee inquiry two years ago.

NEW FIELD • Several broadcasters are exploring possibility of going into closed-circuit theatre tv, or version of it. Success of such closed circuit presentations as Robinson-Basilio fight in movie theatres has encouraged these broadcasters to look into possibility of obtaining equipment and franchises for special showings which broadcasters would manage in local auditoriums. Several broadcasters have asked TelePrompTer whether franchises would be available.

One item of business in current West Coast visit of Hubbell Robinson Jr., CBS-TV executive vice president for network programs, was negotiations with Bing Crosby in hope of getting his signature on tv dotted line. Except for occasional special shots, Old Groaner has resisted tv's advances up to now.

NO ROTATION • Major point of contention on final draft of House Oversight Subcommittee report (see page 27) concerned tenure of FCC chairman and how he would be named. Several members successfully objected to original draft calling for chairmanship to be rotated. They objected on grounds subcommittee did not have enough information to reach this conclusion. One member said both Democrats and Republicans objected to rotation idea; another member claimed it was strictly GOP protest. Chairman now is named by President.

Another House interim report will be forthcoming soon after congressional Easter recess—this one by special five-man subcommittee on inner operations of ASCAP. Following two weeks of hearings [GOVERNMENT, March 24], full subcommittee met in executive session Wednesday with three members of Justice Dept., including Robert A. Bicks, assistant to anti-trust chief Victor Hanson, W. D. Kilgore, chief of judgment and enforcement division, and trial attorney John Wilson. Report is expected to be critical of ASCAP operational policies and recommend further action by Justice.

SHOO-IN • Reappointment of Robert T. Bartley to new seven-year term on FCC, dating from next July 1, is confidently expected within next few weeks. Mr. Bartley, 48, sailed through his appearance before House Legislative Oversight Committee on March 28 and was given virtually clean bill by Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark. and other committee members. Nephew of House Speaker Sam Rayburn, Mr. Bartley began his service on FCC as Commissioner on March 6, 1952, although he previously had served at staff level.

FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer, it's reliably reported, already has urged White House to act expeditiously on Bartley reappointment. It's rare for White House, however, to announce nominations more than 60 days in advance of expiration. Sixty-day period will begin May 1.

DUTY CALLS • All members of FCC (except Comr. Lee who was in New York) lunched at NAB headquarters in Washington last Thursday for briefing on their panel participation at NAB Convention in Los Angeles, April 27-May 1. Panel, to be held on Wednesday morning, has been most popular NAB event. It was threatened by House Oversight Committee investigation because of "fraternizing" complaint but all FCC members have concluded that NAB convention, above all other events, is "must" for them. In addition to panel, Chairman John C. Doerfer will deliver annual address.

It's unlikely that FCC members will take their wives to West Coast this year. As things stand now they will get only their traveling expenses and $12 per diem from government and must pick up their own hotel bills, whereas NAB has paid them in past. Estimate is that each will be at least $150 "out-of-pocket" at this year's convention if he travels solo.

INNER COUNCIL • Giving added recognition to NBC's expanding radio network operations, President Robert W. Sarnoff has named Matthew J. Culligan, vice president in charge of radio network to his executive council, which meets at least once a week on policy matters. Also new to council is P. A. (Buddy) Sugg, who on April 1 assumed vice presidency in charge of owned and operated stations and Spot Sales. Others on council are executive vice presidents Robert E. Kintner, David C. Adams, J. M. Clifford and Kenneth W. Bilby.

With tv commercial production business going strong, MPO Productions Inc., New York, this week is expected to become first commercial production house to move into vacant Republic studios, Hollywood. Republic has suspended production of theatrical films and has been throwing open soundstages to such independent tv film producers as MCA's Revue Productions and Jack Webb's Mark VII Productions Ltd. MPO already has five full soundstages in New York. It will not begin film series work but will continue to turn out commercials and films for industry.

LOCAL OPTION • Practice of big-name national advertisers seeking local rates is becoming more widespread in broadcast media, extending beyond brewery and auto fields into food, drug and other product lines. Stations contend practice is "vicious circle" and one for self-defense on all industry levels; with result that some national clients are buying more time (spots) with same budget. Operators say station representatives are losing money and agencies complain they're caught in middle between competing clients. Only solution, they hold, is for all stations in single market to insist on national rates where justified.

In furtherance of U. S.-Soviet cultural exchange agreement, delegation of Russian radio-tv experts is expected in United States later this month. Group will confer with individual networks on program exchanges, handling negotiations on regular business basis. Presidents of three networks having tv as well as racey met with Ambassador William S. B. Lacey on March 27 for indoctrination. [CLOSED CIRCUIT, March 31]. Ziv Television, International, was first of U. S. entities to negotiate program sales with U. S. S. R.

EXPORT FILMS • Rank Organization, London, which owns piece of Southern Television, Ltd., Southampton-Isle of Wight (one of links in Great Britain's commercial Independent Television Authority), understood to be considering opening its Pinewood studios to independent tv film producers. Rank recently effected tie-up with Tom O'Neil's RKO Teleradio for motion pictures but will not itself release theatrical films to tv at present [FILM, March 31]. But it's thinking of sending crews to Australia to produce low-budget tv "westerns" with hopes of cashing in on current U. S. shoot-em-up fad. Reason: Australian production facilities are large—and inexpensive.

THE WEEK IN BRIEF

FCC Rapped—House investigators' interim report criticizes many FCC actions and customs; tells commissioners to cease many practices and promises remedial legislation on other points. Current phase of hearings concluded with testimony from present and former commissioners. Page 27.

Ethics for the FCC—Code of procedure considered by the Commission. Securities & Exchange Commission has drafted its own "list of integrities." Legislation introduced in Congress to govern contacts of litigants and commissioners. Page 28.

Creativity—A hard word to define, but many attempt it during two-day third visual communications conference of Art Directors Club of New York. ADC also announces tops in tv art by citing seven outstanding entries in categories running from network on-air promotion to lengthy film commercials. Pages 36, 84.

Pabst-Pepsi Talks—Soft drink firm and brewery may reopen discussions of merger or consolidation following proxy victory by group headed by Harris Perlstein, Pabst chairman. Page 38.

Fund Eyes Madison Ave.—Fund for the Republic, knee deep in tv study, may look into tv's "standards for acceptable advertising," the BMI-ASCAP feud to add to toll tv, audience ratings and tv-government relationship among other subjects. Tentatively earmarked for inquiry: allocation of $240,000 in 1958. Page 42.

Princess Takes a Flyer—Interim report on Sid Caesar Invites You, Helena Rubinstein Inc. and Ogilvy, Benson & Mather detail the ingredients of Princess Gourielli's not-so-secret formula that brought tv life back to Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca. Page 44.

U. S. Steel—It takes on a shiny "new look" as the giant of Pittsburgh revamps its advertising approach, makes bid for consumer by creating new corporate image and plans to make first full use of spot tv. Page 48.

The Long Hot Summer—Networks and advertisers will sweat it out with program schedules heavy on re-runs, light on experimental new material. They have benefit of new technique in distributing programs, though, getting magnetic tape recording equipment ready for annual tussle with daylight saving time confusion. Page 52.

DeGray Heads ABC Radio—Eastman leaves presidency after contract is settled. Harrison, Moudy, Lichtenstein and Hamilton leave as new streamlined programming format goes into effect. "ABN" to be abandoned in favor of "ABC Radio" as network's identification. Page 56.

Stanton Warns of "Tampering"—Wreck the networks and the in-depth news programming of Peabody quality will go by the board, CBS president tells 800 at awards luncheon in New York. CBS takes three honors, NBC is awarded four, and ABC a single kudo in annual George Foster Peabody event. Pages 57, 82.

Other Inter-network Switches—Aubrey leaves ABC-TV for CBS. ABC promotes Moore, Mullin. Page 57.

Three More Weeks—NAB conventions—Management and Engineering—start April 27 in Los Angeles. Programming nearly complete as first unit of association's Washington headquarters staff prepares to leave for Biltmore and Statler convention site. Page 58.

Libel Victory—Major court recognition of broadcasters' liability for candidates' comments comes from North Dakota Supreme Court decision. Court upholds lower tribunal's ruling that broadcasters should not be liable for remarks by candidates when they have no right to control their statements. Page 64.

FCC Gets Off Community Antenna Hook—Commission dismisses complaint by 13 western radio and tv stations asking agency to assume jurisdiction over community antenna tv systems as common carriers. FCC's reasoning: Customer decides what signals are transmitted on common carrier; he doesn't on CATV. Page 66.

Radio vs. Death—Congress told by broadcasters how radio can cut death toll on highways. MBS, NAB and WIP Philadelphia show how 36 million car radios can promote safety. Page 68.

More on Hollywood Musicians—New MGA asks NLRB certification at eight movie studios; charges AFM Local 47 executives with unfair pressures on musicians. Page 85.

IBEW, CBS Negotiating—Union and network continue discussions in effort to reach agreement on new contract. Job security, pay increases appear to be main barriers to early accord as danger of strike persists. Page 86.

Don't Bite the Hand That Feeds You—That's the word from Victor Seydel, radio-tv vice president of Anderson & Cairns, in this week's MONDAY MEMO. Reporting that some stations are concerned more with filling their schedules than with serving the advertiser, he reminds them that the lean years weren't that long ago—and could return. Page 113.

HARRIS SAYS IT'S UP TO JUSTICE NOW; NAB WON'T PICK UP FCC'S CONVENTION TAB

At Friday news conference on House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee interim report [LEAD STORY, page 27], Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) said it is not "responsibility of subcommittee to level charges against commissioners," and entire matter now is in hands of Justice Dept.

Rep. Harris said he could not see how Justice could keep from taking action on some matters uncovered in committee's seven-week hearing on FCC and individual commissioners. "I don't think anyone by any stretch of the imagination thinks that the question of perjury is not an interesting one and that it will not receive attention," he stated. Subcommittee heard several instances of apparently conflicting testimony during hearings on FCC grant of ch. 10 Miami to National Airlines [GOVERNMENT, March 17, et seq.].

First backlash of report was felt Friday when NAB President Harold E. Fellows said association could not pay hotel bills of commissioners and FCC personnel attending April 27-May 1 Los Angeles convention. Commissioners themselves were not available for comment Friday on subcommittee report.

Mr. Fellows said FCC officials, like other program participants not within association ranks, will receive complimentary registrations. Delegates' fee is $27.50 ($25 if paid before April 14). This includes three lunches and banquet. "Obviously commissioners cannot be expected to pay for luncheons when they sit at the head table," he added.

In past years, NAB has paid hotel bills of most convention guests from government but FCC members testify they have had to use their own funds despite this courtesy and $12 per day government allowance. In its budgeting, NAB estimates $20 per day as minimum cost of supporting staff official outside Washington, with figure usually running $25 upward depending on city and type of activity.

Rep. Harris, with concurrence of Rep. Joseph P. O'Hara (R-Minn.), ranking minority member of committee, said four points outlined in report for further study were "highly controversial" and subcommittee needed more information before making recommendations. He stressed report "does not conclude our investigation of the FCC." Also, chairman said, committee is not necessarily finished with commissioners on misconduct charges "because we do not know what may develop later on."

Report does not follow conclusions reached by former subcommittee chief counsel Bernard Schwartz in January memorandum [LEAD STORY, Jan. 27], Rep. Harris maintained, in that no charges are made that commissioners violated law.

Subcommittee concluded that it would be "very difficult" to legislate code of ethics, Rep. Harris said. Congressmen felt this could be handled better by FCC itself. However, Rep. Harris took note that uniform code has been proposed (see page 28) and felt this may be feasible after testimony has been taken from all agencies.

"We will not have further hearings until we do develop the facts," Rep. Harris replied when asked subject and date of future hearings. He said staff also has been put to work on Securities & Exchange Commission and Federal Power Commission as well as FCC.

Ad Shift for Chesebrough-Pond's

Appointment of William Esty Co. as fourth Chesebrough-Pond's Inc. agency being announced today (Mon.). Effective July 1, Esty takes on Vaseline petroleum jelly from McCann-Erickson, which retains rest of Vaseline products and Pertussin. (McCann also will be named for new products.) Compton Adv., which presently has Valcream, will inherit Pond's Angel Skin from J. Walter Thompson Co., which retains all other Pond's products and is in line for new product assignments.

Burnett Gears for Chrysler

Personnel alignment being firmed up Friday at Leo Burnett Co. to service Chrysler Corp.'s institutional account in agency's Chicago and Detroit offices. Burnett opened Detroit servicing office in Buhl Bldg. last week with skeleton crew, including Robert

P. Leonhard as account executive. Named in Chicago office on account are Hal Tillson, media supervisor; George Wilcox, assistant media supervisor; Ted Giovan, timebuyer. William Diener and F. Strother Carey previously appointed management representative and account supervisor, respectively.

Lazarow Buys WDDY for $65,000

Sale of WDDY Gloucester, Va., by WDDY Inc. (principal Charles E. Springer) to Cape Radio Inc. (principal Arthur Lazarow) for $65,000 being filed today (Mon.) at FCC. Mr. Lazarow has been announcer past several years at WWJ Detroit and will be chief stockholder, president and general manager of WDDY. Mr. Springer understood to be negotiating to buy another Virginia radio property.

Blackburn & Co., station broker, handled sale.

BUSINESS BRIEFLY

Late-breaking items about broadcast business; for earlier news, see ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, page 36.

YEAST FOR RADIO • Two national bakeries go into two seven-week radio spot drives this week and next. Continental Baking Co., Rye, N. Y., kicks off Wednesday and Ward Baking Co., N. Y., next week. Markets undetermined. Ted Bates & Co. places Continental, J. Walter Thompson places Ward.

MOVIE TIME • Warner-Lambert Pharmaceutical Co. (Emerson Drug Div.), Baltimore, placing first Bromo-Seltzer campaign in early and late night movies. Starts April 14 in number of major markets, as yet undetermined.

WAX SHINES TO TV • S. C. Johnson & Son (Pledge furniture wax), Racine, Wis., reported starting nine-week spot tv campaign in major and medium-sized markets in late April, using daytime minutes and ID's. Agency: Benton & Bowles, N. Y.

ONE-SHOT • Clinton Engine Co. (outboard engines and engine toy kits), Clinton, Mich., understood to have bought NBC-TV's The Price Is Right for one time only April 14 (7:30-8 p.m.). Agency: W. B. Donor & Co., Detroit.

WARING TO F&S&R • Waring Products Corp., (Waring drink-mixer, shaver, Kar-shave, ice jet, coffee mill, irons and food mixer), N. Y., appoints Fuller & Smith & Ross, N. Y. effective immediately. Account formerly handled by Anderson & Cairns, N. Y. Media plans were uncertain as of Friday, but radio and television are definitely being considered. Advertiser was former spot and network television user.

FOAMING OVER • Olympia Brewing Co., Olympia, Wash., which earlier had bought Ziv Television Programs' Target series in 35 western markets, is adding six markets starting this week—Klamath Falls, Ore.; Juneau, Alaska; Kalispell, Mont.; Yakima and Bellingham, Wash., and Honolulu.

RENEWAL, REPLACEMENT • Toni Div., Gillette Co., Chicago, has renewed alternate-week sponsorship of NBC-TV's You Bet Your Life, effective Oct. 2, and Lever Bros., N. Y., has replaced DeSoto as alternate week sponsor of program starting Sept. 25. Program moves from present Thursday 8-8:30 p.m. spot to Thursday 10-10:30 p.m. next fall. Agency for Toni is Tatham-Laird, Chicago; for Lever Bros., J. Walter Thompson, N. Y.

Federal Mediator Out to Avert IBEW Strike Against CBS

Effort to prevent possible strike of IBEW against CBS made Friday by Joseph F. Finnegan, federal mediator (story page, 86). He proposed IBEW and network both agree to hold off any strike or lockout and agree to workers' vote on network's latest offer of $5 weekly raise plus another $5 raise in February 1959 and 2½-year contract.

Mediator's telegrams to union and network said government was concerned over "serious impact" which stoppage of important communications system would have. He asked acceptances of secret ballot proposal, with replies expected today (Monday). Request was described as unusual in federal mediation practice.

Two Up for Dist. 15 Post

Two nominees for Dist. 15 (N. Calif.; N. Nev.; TH) vacancy on NAB Board of Directors announced Friday. They are Joe D. Carroll, KMYC Marysville, Calif., and W. K. (Bud) Foster, KLX Oakland, Calif. Special election being held to fill vacancy created by resignation of J. G. Paltridge, formerly of KROW Oakland and now at KABC Los Angeles. Ballots will be mailed April 8, returnable May 5.

New Off-Air Monitoring Firm

Storyboard Reports, New York, announced Friday it has begun new air-check service for tv and radio advertisers. Company said that both pictures and sound of commercials are taken off air and presented to clients in form of storyboard within 24 hours of broadcast. Storyboard Reports is at 200 W. 57th St., New York 19. Robert Richardson is president.

Kimball, Grant Merge in S. F.

Merger of Abbott Kimball Co.'s San Francisco office with Grant Adv. Inc. announced Friday by Alfred Ducato and Will C. Grant, respective agency presidents. Other Abbott Kimball offices joined Grant March 1. Mr. Ducato will become vice president-manager of West Coast office. Grant assumes 19 new accounts (including KRON-TV San Francisco and Pacific Air Lines).

Payroll for CBS Executives: Paley, Stanton Top Salary List

Chairman William S. Paley and President Frank Stanton were CBS Inc.'s highest-paid executives in 1957 with aggregate pay of $299,807.94 each, proxy statement to stockholders showed Friday. These payments are substantially same as in 1956 ($300,000.16 each), but amounts paid or set aside for them under pension plan went up, from $16,526 in 1956 to $35,584.77 in 1957 for Mr. Paley and from $12,335 to $24,625.70 for Dr. Stanton.

Proxy statement also revealed that negotiations for $20 million purchase of WCAU-AM-FM-TV Philadelphia were handled for CBS by J. A. W. Iglehart, board member, and that he and his firm, W. E. Hutton & Co., will receive $100,000 each if station purchase is consummated. If not, they get nothing for negotiations.

Next to Messrs. Paley and Stanton, highest paid officers in 1957 were Merle S. Jones, president of CBS-TV (now president of CBS Television Stations), with $94,932.89; Goddard Lieberman, president of Columbia Records, $89,999.92; Arthur Hull Hayes, president of CBS Radio, $76,923.24; Arthur L. Chapman, president of CBS-Hytron, $62,615.56, and Henry C. Bonfig, CBS Inc. vice president, $54,230.78.

Louis G. Cowan, named CBS-TV president last month, was granted option to buy 7,500 shares of Class A stock at $25 per share, exercisable in blocks up to 1,500 shares per year over five-year period. Stock was selling at $26.25 when option was granted March 12, 1958.

During 1957, report also showed, CBS paid Rosenman Goldmark Colin & Kaye $207,460 as general counsel.

Proxy statement was issued in preparation for annual stockholders meeting April 16. Seven Class A and seven Class B directors to be elected, with following nominated by management: Class A—Messrs. Bonfig, Cowan, Hayes, Iglehart, Robert A. Lovett, Millicent C. McIntosh and Samuel Paley; Class B—Messrs. Chapman, Jones, Lieberman, Stanton, William S. Paley, Ralph F. Colin and Leon Levy.

Payroll for RCA Executives: Sarnoff Alone at $200,000 Mark

Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff's $200,000 salary as RCA board chairman again was tops among RCA executives in 1957, according to proxy statement issued in preparation for annual stockholders meeting May 6.

Next in line were Frank M. Folsom, chairman of executive committee of board, with $165,000 salary plus $15,000 incentive award paid and $60,000 to be earned out; RCA President John L. Burns with $125,000 plus $20,000 incentive paid and $80,000 to be earned out; Robert W. Sarnoff, NBC president, with $125,000 plus $12,273 incentive paid and $49,227 to be earned out; Elmer W. Engstrom, RCA senior executive vice president, $110,000 plus $10,980 in-

PEOPLE

CHARLES R. DENNY, who took over new post of RCA vice president for product planning on April 1, elected Friday to board of RCA Communications Inc. Former FCC chairman, he had been NBC executive since 1947 and was executive vice president for operations when he moved into new RCA post.

MERRILL A. TRAINER, formerly manager, merchandising administration, RCA Industrial Electronic Products, to newly-created post of administrator, plans and coordination services, Broadcast and Television Equipment Dept., RCA Telecommunications Division.

RALPH F. MORIARTY, product manager for Walter Baker Chocolate products for General Foods Corp., White Plains, N. Y., appointed marketing manager for GF's S. O. S. Div., Chicago. He will be responsible for advertising, sales and market research activities. S. O. S. scouring pad and Tuffy (plastic dishwashing aid) are division's principal products.

HAROLD A. SMITH, NBC Central Div. tv sales promotion manager for past 12 years, to radio-tv department of Needham, Louis & Brorby Inc., Chicago, as head of program and merchandising promotion effective today (Mon.).

PRESTON SALZ, formerly with Maxon Inc. and other agencies as group head or copy chief, appointed senior writer at Keyes, Madden & Jones, Chicago.

centive paid and $44,020 to be earned out; Charles M. Odorizzi, RCA sales and services executive vice president, $100,000 plus $7,840 incentive paid and $31,360 to be earned out; Charles B. Jolliffe, RCA vice president and technical director, $72,500 plus $5,660 incentive paid and $22,740 to be earned out.

(Incentive awards, partly in cash and partly in RCA common stock, are designed to recognize "employees' contributions to success of the corporation's operations." Amounts indicated as paid are first installments on awards for 1957; amounts "to be earned out" are installments payable over next four years, as provided in RCA Incentive Plan.)

Law firm of Cahill, Gordon, Reindel & Ohl received $350,000 for legal services in 1957, plus $400,000 for legal services "in connection with certain extended litigations which now are terminated."

John Hays Hammond Jr., RCA director, and his Hammond Research Corp. received $60,000 for 1957 and $15,000 for first quarter 1958 "toward the maintenance of a research laboratory, for consulting and engineering services and for rights under inventions."

Lehman Bros. and Lazard Freres & Co. received $50,000 each for consultant services "on various financial matters" in 1957.

Five directors to be elected at annual meeting. Management nominees: Messrs. Engstrom and Odorizzi and John T. Cahill, Edward F. McGrady and Walter Bedell Smith, all incumbents.

The attraction of opposites...

"SEZ WHO!"

VARIETY: "... One of the zaniest and funniest radio shows heard in a long time." LOS ANGELES TIMES: "... One of the brightest half-hours in Sunday listening." N. Y. MIRROR: "There's a brand new smash hit in radio ... The name of the show is 'Sez Who!' and the gimmick is the resurrection of famous voices and sounds from the past for the purpose of befuddling a panel of wits ... judged by the critics as the best radio quiz show of 1957." PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE: "Somehow or other the panel managed to get more than they missed. Considering all the banter ... this wasn't bad. It was, in fact, quite remarkable. So was the entertainment level achieved."

Here are two programs at opposite poles. A weekly comedy quiz. A headline-making special broadcast on international affairs. Yet they have a vital ingredient in common. / Both require attention. They are meant to! The entire CBS Radio Network program schedule is designed that way — drama, comedy, personality shows, news in depth. You listen to these programs, or you don't tune in. / And, as reviews attest, there's an excitement about them, an unmistakable sense of things happening. It occurs, uniquely, in one place in all radio today: CBS Radio. / This excitement and importance—this requiring of attention—has a real value for advertisers. It spells the difference between just “being in radio” and selling. And today, when your advertising dollar must work harder to make sales, that’s a most meaningful value. / So it’s not surprising that in 1957, of the 50 advertisers who use national advertising most, and know it best, more bought the CBS Radio Network and more bought CBS Radio exclusively than any other radio network.

“RADIO BEAT”

N.Y. TIMES (JACK GOULD): "Radio was the platform last night for an immensely civilized and fruitful discussion of international affairs, a trans-Atlantic conversation among the leaders of the loyal opposition in the United States, Great Britain and France . . . Adlai Stevenson . . . Hugh Gaitskell . . . and Pierre Mendes-France . . . on the Columbia Broadcasting System's program called 'Radio Beat' . . . In all respects the program was most remarkable and heartening . . . It was as if an international conference were humanized and brought to the perspective necessary for easy and relaxed comprehension in the living room . . . CBS News once again has acquitted itself most handsomely."

IN REVIEW

THE CASE FOR THE COLLEGE

The noteworthiness of CBS Radio's The Case for the College is not that it was an interesting, well-done profile on higher education. Such programs are a familiar part of the broadcast repertoire—increasingly so since Sputnik put the whole country on a science and/or education kick.

It was noteworthy not for how it was done, but why. This was not public service in intent, whatever its results may be. It was an hour-long commercial for higher education in general and Harvard U. in particular. It was paid for at commercial rates.

In format the show—somewhat disappointingly—was just what you'd expect: interviews with students, before and after their Cambridge exposure; statements by professors; excerpts from classes; reflections of distinguished alumni. At regular intervals there were commercials, called just that, telling listeners that higher education is suffering from financial anemia and encouraging them to contribute (1) to the schools of their choice or (2) to Harvard.

Harvard, whose financial resources are the largest in the U. S., is not given to putting up hard cash where it expects no return. That it put such hopes on network radio testifies to its regard for the medium. One hopes it will be justified.

Production costs: $16,000.

Sponsored by Harvard U. through BBDO on CBS Radio, March 28, 9-10 p.m.

Executive producer: Laurence O. Pratt; producer: William F. Suchmann; coordinating supervisor: George D. Crothers.

NO WARNING

"More heart than head" is the way his wife describes the taxi driver hero of "Emergency," first program in the No Warning half-hour series of filmed dramas which started last night on NBC-TV. That phrase is a pretty good description of the first program itself.

Hearing over the radio that an unidentified boy is in the hospital, with his parents being sought for permission for a needed operation, the cab driver calls home, is assured that his son is safely at a neighbor's but goes to the hospital anyway. Moved by the helplessness of the injured boy and by the insistence of hospital attendants that there's no time to waste, the cab driver poses as the father and signs the authorization for surgery. As he gradually realizes the implications of his impulsive deed, tension mounts to the climactic meeting with the boy's real parents.

Elisha Cook's excellent performance as the emotional hero, aided by a fine supporting cast, Charles Smith's incident-packed story and Fletcher Markle's fast-paced direction, swept the viewer along on an emotional ride ignoring, if not forgetting, some pretty big holes in the plot structure.

If "Emergency" is typical of the rest of the series (each program will have a different writer, director and star), No Warning may fully realize the formula of "pure suspense shows without violence" set by Al Simon, its creator-producer. The new series, as well as its new title, started out as an appreciable improvement over its forerunner of last year, Panic, which never quite lived up to the promise of taut suspense implicit in its title.

Production costs: Approximately $35,000.

Sponsored alternately by Royal McBee Corp.

through Young & Rubicam and P. Lorillard Co. through Lennen & Newell on NBC-TV, Sun., 7:30-8 p.m.

Producer: Al Simon; assoc. producer: Herbert Brower; writer: Harold Swanton; director of photography: Arch R. Dalzell; filmed at McCadden Productions, Hollywood.

BOOKS

THE TECHNIQUE OF FILM AND TELEVISION MAKE-UP, by Vincent J-R Kehoe; Communication Arts Books, Hastings House, 41 E. 50th St., New York. 260 pp. $9.

This comprehensive treatment of make-up techniques for both color and black-and-white processes would seem to be a must addition to the practitioner's library. Mr. Kehoe provides detailed information for a multitude of make-up problems, from "progressive old age" to "prosthetic noses." The book is lavishly illustrated, clearly written and excellently annotated as to specific materials suggested for various jobs, even to where these materials can be obtained in both the U. S. and Great Britain. Though probably of little interest to the average reader, Mr. Kehoe's book is a professional handbook that could be of value to anyone interested in theatrics.

BRAINSTORMING, by Charles Clark; Doubleday & Co., 575 Madison Ave., New York. 262pp. $4.50.

Engineers using talcum powder to allow for smoother operation of their slide rules, housewives using their aluminum Aunt Jemima Cornbread package as a baking pan, and even that rare adman who forsakes his martini on the rocks for Campbell's on the rocks—owe it all to "brainstorming."

These and other examples cited in Mr. Clark's book exemplify the effect brainstorming has had on the development of new products and services and new uses for established products. The extent of that effect should surprise the reader of this book.

Brainstorming was conceived by Alex Osborn of BBDO. The author of this book, a friend and collaborator of Mr. Osborn on the latter's books, has made this volume a concise, how-to-do-it manual on "brainstorming." It is not a piece of entertainment, to be read lightly; nor is it a "hidden persuaders" type "expose." It is simply a guidebook to a "science" for which there can never be a written text.

"Please answer on your 7:15," the folks write Frank Field, Frank's name is legend in the Corn Belt area embracing parts of four states served by Radio KMA.

Frank Field—
no sacred cows

No one who knows Frank Field will ever underestimate the power of radio.

For almost 18 years now Frank has been dishing it out for a quarter-hour every morning at 7:15. Weather and gardening are the chief subjects on which he is expert, but roads, recipes, egg prices, the almanac and many other subjects come within his purview.

"Frank says" is a common-place quote that starts many a conversation in the soil-wealthy provinces of Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri and Kansas.

There are no sacred cows in Frank's letter basket. He frequently disagrees with the U.S. Weather Bureau and his batting average is good enough that his detailed weather reports for a 10-state area are treated pretty much as gospel.

Everyone in KMA-land knows Frank Field. Imagine the consternation Frank caused Dr. Sidney Roslow when the good Doctor made his first area Pulse for KMA. Frank's 7:15 a.m. show came up with a 16.6 rating and a 48% share of audience.

Dr. Sidney thought his tabulating machines were playing tricks on him. So he ordered the data re-tabulated. Now, Dr. Sidney knows about Frank, too.

Dr. Sidney can tell you lots more about other KMA personalities who inspired Homer Croy to tab KMA "The Heart Beat of the Corn Country" in his famous book, "Corn Country."

Incompatible Color

EDITOR:

Re imitation and flattery in "color radio" billboards as expressed in this column [OPEN MIKE, March 24]: It might be interesting for KFWB Los Angeles to know that the color bit was done on KBUZ Phoenix's parent station, WSAI Cincinnati, many moons before the Johnny-come-lately color promotion of January 1958 in Los Angeles.

Taking it a step further, our president was amused, rather than merely flattered, when on a recent trip to Los Angeles he heard WSAI sounds of five years' standing on KFWB. For example, how long has KFWB used the Fabulous Forty promotion? Answer: since Jan. 1, 1958. WSAI has been doing it in Cincinnati for five years.

As to that billboard, it's a copy of a design we've had in use here for some time. I guess it all goes to prove that there is nothing new under the (California) sun.

Sulphur & Molasses for Programs

EDITOR:

Surveys, speeches by leading figures in broadcasting and actual figures from most radio stations show conclusively that radio is far from dead, and has made a strong comeback from the depths to which some people figure it had dropped several years ago.

... We read where one network may drop radio and where radio is dropping day and night. Let me say that if the networks would put on good programs and if local owners and managers would program good local shows radio can still be a powerful force both day and night. Radio is a powerful force for the advertiser, but it can be improved by newer, more entertaining, more educational programs from the networks themselves as well as from local stations.

“THE BEST WESTERN ON TV”*

Wagon Train is now reaching more than sixteen million homes every Wednesday, 7:30–8:30 pm, on the NBC Television Network. It reaches more homes than any other new show this season.

Since its premiere last September this hard-riding new series has more than doubled NBC's audience in its time period against two programs which were consistently in the Top Ten less than a year ago. And not only is Wagon Train NBC's top-rated program on Wednesday evening, it also outrates any 7:30 or 8:00 pm program on any other network seven nights of the week.

The key to Wagon Train's spectacular audience success is its appeal to the entire family. Its powerful combination of action drama and top star names wins a balanced buying audience of 3½ million adults: more men than any other weeknight program except one; more women than 9 out of 10 evening programs; plus a bonus audience of children that exceeds 13 million per show.

Wagon Train is currently sponsored by Edsel, Ford Motor Company, Drackett and Lewis-Howe.

"You Get Results From Radio!" has been one of the industry's proudest watchwords. Here, with four more prize-winning examples to prove that aggressive salesmanship plus top station production plus "Radio Hucksters & Airlifts" service makes for MOST Happy Sponsors. If you are a non-subscriber and would like a demonstration disc with the whole story in these stations own words, drop us a card.

K P H O, Phoenix, Ariz.

KPHO's success with jingle commercials is founded on one of radio's most imaginative production staffs. Jingles run the sponsor gamut from department store, furniture, auto dealer to dry cleaner and laundry, using Radio Hucksters jingles, attention getters or theme music as a base, and mixing with verse lyrics and music by station's own announcer and vocalist. The result sounds completely custom-built . . . and the sound is great.

W H B Y, Appleton, Wis.

WHBY likewise, 'mixes up' various Radio Huckster units for custom-built effect; case in point, the Matthews U.S. Tire Co., a steady advertiser who wanted a new approach to Radio. This Happy Sponsor's report "selling tires galore" is the result of what WHBY calls "its new type of selling service . . . a salesman takes out a produced spot including a Lang-Worth jingle which effectively features the Sponsor's business or his product . . . plays the spot for the Sponsor in his own place of business."

W W O K, Charlotte, N. C.

General Manager Jack Wheeler summarized "we never had it so good . . . just one account, McCoy's Service Centers paid more than double the cost of the Lang-Worth service, a firm year and a half contract and still on the air . . . one of many Lang-Worth sales we have made here at WWOK." Mr. Wheeler's conclusion: "But Radio Hucksters won't sell themselves sitting in the file. You've got to take them out, prepare something for the advertiser before you sell him."

W E J L, Scranton, Pa.

Hugh Conner reports the solution to the problem of selling an additional program to an already Happy Sponsor, Scaluba Dodge-Plymouth Motors. The show, early morning "Sports in a Coffee Cup," is bringing the Sponsor "fantastic results", featuring Radio Hucksters used car jingle as the tag. We salute WEJL as a "Most Happy Sponsor" station for the second successive month.

These and many other progressive stations combine their top production and sales know-how with RADIO HUCKSTERS & AIRLIFTS to win most happy sponsors. Let RADIO HUCKSTERS & AIRLIFTS make the difference to your station. Contact-

$100 Million Given by Ad Council In Drive Against Forest Fires

American advertising—advertisers, agencies and media, working through the Advertising Council—has contributed more than $100 million to the forest fire prevention campaign symbolized by Smokey the Bear, saving the American public $10 billion that otherwise would have been lost through timber destruction alone, says De Witt Nelson, director of the California Dept. of Natural Resources.

Speaking at a joint session of the Los Angeles and Hollywood ad clubs in honor of the Advertising Council, Mr. Nelson paid tribute to Russell Z. Elder, advertising manager of Sunkist Growers Inc., volunteer coordinator of the campaign, and Foote, Cone & Belding, its volunteer agency. For 17 years they have worked to educate the public to be careful not to start a fire that might destroy a forest. This campaign, symbolized by Smokey the Bear, is not only the longest continuous campaign of the Advertising Council but actually predates by a few months the formation of the Council itself.

WEATHER ALERT • WJR Detroit will utilize the Conelrad "one thousand cycle tone" to warn Michigan residents of tornadoes or other major weather disturbances, on a year-round basis. The "tone" signifies that emergency conditions exist and triggers radio receivers that are designed to be activated at the "pulse" of the tone signal. The alert system is used at the direction of officials of the U. S. Weather Bureau.

TRAFFIC TALLY • WWDC Washington broadcasts daily reports of traffic deaths occurring in Washington, Maryland and Virginia. The number of fatalities is aired three times a day on weekdays, and more frequently on weekends. Specially prepared, original traffic safety tunes precede the announcements.

ON THE ROAD • KYA San Francisco broadcast an appeal to alert an Air Force officer and his family who were traveling from Texas to California that their seven-week-old daughter had been exposed to a rare and dangerous form of measles in Houston. The family was driving near Fresno when it learned from the broadcast that the child needed immediate medical attention. The officer rushed the girl to a San Francisco hospital where she was pronounced "out of danger," the station reports.

SUNCOAST SAFETY • WSUN St. Petersburg, Fla., has inaugurated a new program in an effort to reduce area traffic fatalities. Traffic reports are broadcast from the St. Petersburg Police Dept., Tampa Police Dept., Pinellas County Highway Patrol and the Hillsborough Highway Patrol during the 4-6 p.m. show. Also aired from 5-6 p.m. on Saturdays, the program features recorded music with host d. j. Earl Wood.

OUR RESPECTS to Carleton Dabney Smith

The daily Washington routine of Carleton Smith back in early 1933 was like that of all announcers around the nation's capital—some commercials, some studio and remote programs and occasionally a high government official. That was before the inauguration of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt on March 4. This key day in national history was also the turning point in the life of Carleton Smith, who had helped announce the inauguration and a few days later introduced the President on the historic bank-closing speech. These led to his designation as "Presidential announcer" of WRC, key NBC Red station in Washington, and then to national prominence as he frequently intoned the familiar Fireside Chat introduction, "Ladies and gentlemen, the President of the United States."

Another major event in his career happened just a fortnight ago when Mr. Smith completed the move of WRC-AM-FM-TV, NBC owned-and-operated stations, to a $4 million plant in the Northwest Washington residential area. As NBC Washington vice president and general manager of the stations he now directs a staff of 202 and the operation of "the first tv station designed from the ground up for color."

The Presidential assignment eventually took Mr. Smith into all 48 states and to foreign countries. In 1935 he started his executive career as assistant manager of WMAL, NBC's Blue key. WRC was added to his responsibilities in 1936 and by 1941 he had become manager of WRC. The White House asked that he continue his assignment as Presidential announcer, a post he held during the entire Roosevelt administration.

After NBC's WNBW (now WRC-TV) went on the air in 1947, Mr. Smith spent some of his time arranging live and filmed network programs from the seat of government. Within a year he was called to New York to become NBC's manager of network television operations. Soon he was named director of the tv unit. In 1951 he was raised to a vice presidency, taking charge of network station relations, and then becoming director of operations of the NBC o&o stations division.

After returning to Washington in 1953 as NBC vice president and general manager of WRC-AM-FM-TV, he reorganized radio and tv operations—and set alltime sales records.

When WRC-TV's power was boosted to 100 kw (ch. 4 maximum), Mr. Smith was already preparing for a new Washington headquarters building to replace the quarters in the Sheraton-Park Hotel, conceiving a broadcast plant around the future of color tv. In 1957 Vice President Nixon laid the cornerstone for a two-story plant on Nebraska Ave. The tower reaches 849 ft., highest structural point in the District of Columbia. (The Washington Monument is 555 ft.)

A native of Winterset, Iowa, where he was born Feb. 16, 1905, young Carleton Dabney Smith moved east to Washington in 1922. Daytime he worked as a stenographer in the office of Rep. Gilbert Haugen (D-Iowa) (he can still decipher Gregg shorthand). At night he attended George Washington U. In 1927 he married a schoolmate, Anne Jones, and took a job in Roanoke, Va., as executive secretary of the American Automobile Assn. office in that city. After a series of auto safety talks on WDBJ Roanoke he was hired as parttime announcer on the night shift by Manager Ray Jordan, now vice president and managing director of WDBJ-AM-TV. In November 1931 he decided he liked radio, applied for and got a job at WRC.

After assuming the management post at WRC in 1941 he took an active part in community affairs. Soon he was a board member of the Washington Board of Trade and served on the Greater National Capital Committee, Advertising Club and Better Business Bureau. He was a charter member of the Radio-Television Correspondents Assn. and belonged to the Kiwanis Club and National Press Club.

Following the New York interlude he resumed civic activities. In April 1957 the Kiwanis Club of Washington honored him with a special luncheon. President Eisenhower sent a message praising him for his contribution to the community in encouraging the growth of a strong and generous citizenry. He was first general campaign chairman and now is president of the United Givers Fund of Washington.

Carleton Smith hides a churning mind behind a calm, dignified front. He is seldom ruffled—even when his auto telephone keeps ringing in heavy traffic during a day loaded with appointments, office routine and the assorted activities of a Washington network executive. His decisions are made deliberately but without hesitation.

He lives in Chevy Chase, Md., a Washington suburb, with his 17-year-old son, Craig. Mrs. Smith died in 1956. On weekends and at odd moments he indulges three hobbies—golf, boating and photography. He is a member of Burning Tree Club and Columbia Country Club.

HOUSE OVERSIGHT REPORT SLAPS FCC

- Subcommittee criticizes misconduct, urges stiffened laws
- First phase of investigation is ended, but more's to come

Culminating eight weeks of hearings, the House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee Friday morning issued an 18-page report severely criticizing the FCC on several points and recommending corrective legislation on others. While failing to go so far as to propose a "ripper" bill such as is under study in the Senate [GOVERNMENT, March 18], the report nevertheless failed to find a single area in which to commend the Commission (for text, see page 30).

The report covered just about every phase discussed during hearings on misconduct charges lodged against the commissioners and on the FCC February 1957 grant of Miami ch. 10 to National Airlines. Specific legislation is recommended—and amendments to the Communications Act have been drafted for introduction soon after the Easter recess—in these four fields:

- (1) A code of ethics for commissioners.
- (2) Removal of the provision in the 1952 amendment authorizing the acceptance of honorariums.
- (3) Abolishment of all ex-parte contacts with commissioners. This would include letters and telephone calls made by members of Congress unless the same communications were sent to all interested parties and made a matter of public record.

(4) Give to the President the power to remove commissioners for "neglect of duty or malfeasance in office, but for no other cause."

Following pretty much the lines of a general indictment, the report did not mention specific names or instances. "Our hearings to date have revealed certain highly improper activities in connection with the FCC. . . . Accordingly, we are . . . referring the record to the Dept. of Justice for appropriate action with respect to the violations of law," the report stated.

The commissioners were put on notice to spend more time finding solutions to industry problems rather than continuing "fruitless debate" at broadcasting conventions and meetings. On commissioner acceptance of industry payment of hotel bills and travel expenses, the report said the "questionable propriety of some of this conduct . . . has seriously undermined public confidence in the FCC." In this field, the report called on the Comptroller General to clarify his "conflicting" statements.

It also told the commissioners not to accept in the future industry equipment in their homes which "may have been" placed there "not in the public interest but in the interest of promoting the business of the industrial concerns which furnished the equipment."

Pressures of the kind brought to bear against commissioners in the Miami ch. 10 case "cannot be tolerated," the report stated, and it was further felt these pressures were brought on by long FCC delays in comparative tv proceedings.

"Further exploration" is needed in four fields, the subcommittee reported. These include:

- "Method of selecting or designating chairmen of independent regulatory commissions. . . . Present provisions authorizing the President to designate the chairmen of most of these commissions appear to be in conflict with the objective of bi-partisan, political neutrality.
- "The powers of the chairmen of independent regulatory commissions.
- "The powers of the Bureau of the Budget with respect to independent regulatory commissions.
- "The terms of office and salaries of the members of independent regulatory commissions."

Text of interim report pages 30-31

"Unanimous" approval of the interim report came following a lengthy Tuesday executive meeting and two Thursday meetings interspersed before and after public hearings. Rep. Morgan Moulder (D-Mo.), who resigned as chairman of the subcommittee after Bernard Schwartz was fired as chief counsel; [LEAD STORY, Feb. 17], did not participate in any of the discussions on the report. Rep. Moulder has been absent from practically all the hearings for the past six weeks.

Other members of the subcommittee of the House Interstate & Foreign Commerce Committee are Democrats Oren Harris (Ark.), who succeeded Rep. Moulder as chairman and who also is chairman of the parent committee; John Bell Williams (Miss.); Peter F. Mack Jr. (Ill.); John J. Flynt Jr. (Ga.), and John Moss (Calif.) and Republicans Joseph P. O'Hara (Minn.); Robert Hale (Me.); John W. Heselton (Mass.); John B. Bennett (Mich.), and Charles A. Wolverton (N. J.).

Meanwhile, public hearings continued for three days last week with a parade of present and former commissioners testifying on official misconduct charges lodged by Dr. Schwartz. Thursday's testimony by former Comr. Frieda B. Hennock ended the current phase of hearings, Rep. Harris announced. Also testifying last week were Comrs. Robert E. Lee, T. A. M. Craven, John C. Doerfer, Frederick W. Ford and former Comrs. George C. McConnaughey and E. M. Webster.

As each of the present commissioners were excused, Rep. Harris served them with notice they probably would be called to testify again on other phases of the investigations. The subcommittee was established last spring with a $250,000 appropriation to determine if the regulatory agencies are "administering the laws as Congress intended."

The hearings thus far have caused the resignation under fire of former FCC Comr. Richard A. Mack for the role he played in the Miami ch. 10 grant. They also have resulted in sensational, nationwide headlines on charges of wrongdoing at the FCC. The subcommittee's first chief counsel was fired and replaced by Robert W. Lishman, who has participated in the last 10 days of hearings.

From the start, the cry was raised in some circles that the subcommittee was out to do a "hatchet job" on the FCC. Later charges of "whitewash," especially by Dr. Schwartz, were raised against the subcommittee. Rep. Harris and other members of the subcommittee have repeatedly denied both counts and just as often promised an "all-out, impartial" investigation.

While a definite future course still is undecided, Rep. Harris said Thursday the staff is "seeking light" on other comparative tv cases. A memorandum has been prepared giving the subcommittee members what information on these cases the staff now has and possible future hearings will be determined later.

Some of these other cases are known to be the grants of ch. 5 Boston (WHDH-TV-Herald Traveler), ch. 13 Indianapolis (Crosley Broadcasting Co.), ch. 4 Pittsburgh (merged applicants WCAE [Hearst] and Television City Inc.), ch. 10 Rochester, New York (see Hennock testimony), ch. 12 Jacksonville, Fla. (WFGA-TV), ch. 12 Fresno, Calif. (KFRE-TV), ch. 7 Seattle (KIRO-TV), ch. 7 Miami (WCKT [TV]) and ch. 4 New Orleans (WWL-TV).

Rep. Harris stressed that the subcommittee does not plan hearings in all the cases under scrutiny. "It's a question of what will be necessary to complete the committee's task," he said. At least three members of the subcommittee have stated privately, however, that they will take a long look at the Boston and Indianapolis decisions.

During last week's testimony, Mr. Lishman entered into the record a lengthy letter from NBC Vice President Thomas E. Ervin relating to that network's contacts with commissioners and FCC personnel. In addition to color tv sets, Mr. Ervin said commissioners had been provided with transistor radios and in two instances—Comrs. Lee and Mack—hi-fi sets.

Also, the network presented 51 Christmas presents to FCC personnel in 1956. The subcommittee had asked for records dating back to 1949 and Mr. Ervin pointed out 2,000 persons at NBC are eligible to file expense accounts and there were "several hundred thousand items" related to the period involved.

The subcommittee has compiled some known instances of ex-parte contacts with the FCC and its staff by the three tv networks over a period dating back to 1948. The list shows ABC with 54 contacts, CBS 81 and NBC 115. The network "contacts" include such items as a picture of Mamie Eisenhower for Mrs. McConnaughey; introduction to tv personality Garry Moore for Mrs. McConnaughey; a sapphire-tipped needle for long playing records for former FCC Chairman Wayne Coy; the loan of a truck and driver; service as a travel agency; delivery of packages, and several other more or less conventional "services" such as tickets to tv shows and Broadway plays, candy, phonograph albums, flowers, lunches and cocktails.

Last Thursday, Sen. Spessard L. Holland

Code of ethics docketed for FCC action

The FCC has been considering a code of ethics—and something may be forthcoming in another week or two.

The Securities and Exchange Commission has drafted a list of integrities for its members—and has circulated it among other federal regulatory agencies with the avowed hope that all organizations might adopt a common standard of conduct.

A bill to amend the Administrative Procedures Act, to bar discussion of a case with officials of an agency handling the case once it has been set for hearing, has been introduced in Congress by Sen. John Marshall Butler (R-Md.) and Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde (R-Md.). The proposed legislation (S 3521 and HR 11624) prohibits litigants from discussing or communicating with agency officials about their cases.

Still pending in the Congress are three bills to legislate integrity on government officials. They are S 3306, by Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.), S 3346, by Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.), and HR 11022 by Rep. Charles A. Wolverton (R-N.J.).

The FCC's proposal has actually been roughed in and has been discussed at several Commission meetings in the last few weeks. One of its main items is the provision that all communications to Commissioners on adjudicatory cases be placed in the public files.

There is some disagreement among the commissioners as to whether ethics can be imposed. There is also some question among the commissioners as to whether this is the proper time for the Commission, or any other agency, to establish a code of ethics. This is in light of the recent unpleasantness on Capitol Hill and the feeling that the adoption of a code of ethics might be construed as acknowledging wrongdoing. All the FCC members have stoutly maintained before the House Oversight Committee that they did nothing improper.

There is also a feeling that it might be better to wait because of pending legislation in Congress. And, some commissioners are strongly of the opinion that no matter how many ethical guideposts might be adopted and published, they would not deter a miscreant.

"I've got to sleep with myself," one FCC commissioner said last week, "and no rules of conduct, our own or any imposed on us, is going to change my responsibility to my own conscience."

The proposed SEC canons of ethics were circulated among other federal regulatory agencies not only for possible use as a single standard for all agencies, SEC Chairman Edward N. Gadsby said last week, but also for any comments or suggestions by commissioners in other agencies.

Thus far no comments have been received, Mr. Gadsby acknowledged, but he added that none were expected so soon. The proposed SEC rules, which (D-Fla.) took the floor of the Senate to explain why he and Sen. George A. Smathers (D-Fla.) recommended Mr. Mack for the FCC because President Eisenhower, the people of Florida and the Senate deserved an explanation.

In 1951, Sen. Holland said, Mr. Mack approached both the Florida senators about an appointment to the Interstate Commerce Commission. Mr. Mack came highly recommended for the post, the senator said, and his name was passed on to President Truman for either the ICC or FCC.

When he did not get either, he was later recommended for the Federal Power Commission and the FCC again in 1955, when he was appointed. Sen. Holland said the resigned commissioner "was recognized as one of the ablest young men in his field . . . and there was every reason why the Florida senators should support" him for the FCC nomination.

WITNESS: Comr. Lee

Comr. Lee told the subcommittee that he was a "surprise" appointment to the FCC, that he knew nothing about the industry and it was necessary for him to do considerable traveling soon after joining the Commission. He was asked about seven trips for which he accepted government per diem and industry payment of his hotel bills.

In each instance, he gave the purpose of the trips in question and said he often claimed less per diem than he was entitled to. In fact, he said, official trips cost him personally $170 in 1956 and $200 in 1957. He estimated the out-of-pocket expenses for himself and other Commissioners to attend this month's NAB convention in Los Angeles would be $150 to $200. And, he said, "it is absolutely essential that I be there" because of his extra job of defense commissioner.

He said it would be impossible for any FCC member to do his job without personal contacts with industry figures. And, if a broadcaster wants to take him to lunch, the former FBI agent said, "I have no compunction about his paying the check. . . . I resent the feeling that I could be bought."

The commissioner was asked about several telephone conversations he had with Charles Steadman, Cleveland attorney [CLOSED CIRCUIT, March 31]. (In previous testimony, Mr. Steadman had been described as "the man closest to McConnaughey" on the Miami ch. 10 case.) Comr. Lee said Mr. Steadman is a close personal friend, that all the calls were personal and were not paid for by the government. "No sir, I have emphatically not," he replied when asked if the Miami case, or any other comparative tv case, was discussed with Mr. Steadman.

It is "highly appropriate" for a commissioner to express an opinion in a rule making proceeding, Comr. Lee said in defending an article favoring pay tv he wrote for Look magazine. He said he received $1,500 for writing the story.

He did not remember ever discussing ch. 10 Miami with Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), as the senator had stated in a letter to losing applicant A. Frank Katzentine. Sen. Kefauver stated in the letter he also discussed the case with Comrs. Hennock and Bartley, both of whom denied such a conversation actually took place. If the senator mentioned ch. 10 to him, Comr. Lee said, "It would have to have been subliminal . . . I didn't get it." He denied ever being under any pressure in the Miami case or any other Commission proceeding.

WITNESS: Comr. Craven

The subcommittee had no instances of trips taken by Comr. Craven for which he had received government per diem and industry payment of hotel bills. He was asked, however, about three instances of being "entertained" by NBC and explained that all three occurred before he was appointed to the FCC in the summer of 1956.

Comr. Craven denied that he is one of the recipients of free RCA service for his own black-and-white tv set, as had been stated in a letter from NBC Vice President Thomas E. Ervin. He explained he subscribed—and paid for—an RCA service policy. A turkey has been the most expensive gift he has received from the industry, the engineer commissioner stated.

On the matter of "fraternization" with members of the regulated industry, Comr. Craven said he has been associated with broadcasting since 1930 and did not give up his personal friends when appointed to the FCC.

Rep. John B. Bennett (R-Mich.) questioned the witness at length about his participation in the Miami case. Subcommittee files show that Comr. Craven participated in three actions taken by the FCC during a January 1957 executive meeting.

At the meeting, Comr. Lee moved for adoption of the opinion already written favoring National. This carried by a 4-3 vote with Comr. Craven voting against, along with Comrs. Hyde and Bartley. Next, a motion was made and carried unanimously to reconsider the decision. Comr. Bartley followed this with a motion to instruct the staff to write an opinion favoring applicant L. B. Wilson Inc. Comr. Craven seconded this motion, which was defeated by a 4-3 vote (Comr. Hyde also for; Comrs. McConnaughey, Lee, Doerfer, Mack against).

Comr. Craven insisted this participation have been under consideration for the last few weeks, were distributed to other agencies two weekends ago.

The suggested SEC standards of conduct were praised by Sen. Proxmire as "an excellent beginning" in establishing a "firm moral code" for the independent agencies. The Wisconsin Democrat said he particularly liked the first section which bans gifts of any kind from persons with whom the agency does business.

The proposed canons of ethics for the five members of the SEC is an expansion of the current standards of personal conduct for SEC members and employes.

In addition to the usual bans on engaging in business related to the scope of the Commission, accepting gifts, favors or services, divulging confidential information, and becoming unduly involved with persons outside the government through frequent and expensive social engagements, the canons more specifically spell out other touchy areas.

Sections of the proposed code pointedly are based on recent revelations brought out by the Harris Legislative Oversight Committee's investigation of the FCC.

For one thing it behooves members to "exhibit a spirit of firm independence and reject any effort by representatives of the executive or legislative branches of the government to affect their independent determination of any matter being considered by the agency."

For another, it calls on members not to become indebted in any way to persons who are or may become subject to their jurisdiction. No member should accept the loan of anything of value or accept presents or favors from persons who are regulated or who represent those who are regulated."

The code continues that members should avoid discussing judicial matters with persons outside the agency. It affirmatively states, however, that it is the "duty" of a commissioner to solicit the views of interested persons in their rule-making and administrative functions.

"Insofar as it is consistent with the dignity of his official position," the canons read, "he should maintain such contact with the persons who may be affected by his rule-making functions as is necessary for him fully to understand their problems, but he should not accept unreasonable or lavish hospitality in so doing."

The proposed rules go one step further; they state that a member should not "permit the impression to prevail that any person may unduly influence him, that any person unduly enjoys his favor or that he is unduly affected in any way by the rank, position, prestige or affluence of any person."

SEC commissioners are Mr. Gadsby, chairman; Andrew Downey Orrich, Harold C. Patterson, Earl Freeman Hastings and James C. Sargent.

The agency was formed in the early days of the New Deal to police the stock market.

All of the five, independent regulatory agencies have codes for their employes, and, in some cases, these apply to the members also.

Some of the agencies also have rules of conduct for practitioners.

All of these standards of conduct call for probity, honesty, and responsibility [GOVERNMENT, March 3].

THE INTERIM REPORT

The House Oversight Subcommittee last Friday sharply criticized the behavior of some FCC Commissioners and recommended stiffening the law under which they operate. Here, slightly condensed, are the principal comments and conclusions.

CONDUCT OF FCC COMMISSIONERS

(a) Relationship with industry

The extensive hearings held by the subcommittee on the conduct of the members of the FCC have revealed that over the years a pattern has developed of questionable conduct on the part of some members of the Commission and on the part of some industry organizations and members of industry who are subject to Commission regulation. The questionable propriety of some of this conduct, in the opinion of the subcommittee, has seriously undermined public confidence in the FCC, thus affecting adversely the administration of law by the Commission.

Some members of the industry, as the record shows, have followed a practice of providing excessive entertainment for the members of the FCC and the Commission staff. The subcommittee feels that such entertainment does not lend itself to the establishment of a proper relationship between the independent regulatory commissions and those who are subject to regulation by such commissions.

To the extent that members of the FCC find it necessary, in the course of the performance of their official duties, to attend meetings sponsored by industry organizations, the subcommittee feels very strongly that such attendance should be at government expense.

The subcommittee is not at all certain that the benefits to be derived from the wholesale attendance by members of the Commission at industry meetings and the participation of individual members in promotional events are commensurate with the time and effort devoted to these affairs. The Commission has followed the practice of attending these meetings for many years, but the important industry problems which have been pending before the Commission for many years, such as clear channels, daytime broadcasting, the possible modification of frequency allocations for television stations, and network regulations, to name only a few, still remain on the Commission's agenda. This leads the subcommittee to suggest an increase in the amount of time spent on the solution of these industry problems would bring greater benefits to the public and the industry than the continuing fruitless debate of these problems at industry meetings.

In this connection, the hearings have revealed the unsavory practice engaged in by representatives of some industrial concerns of charging business expenses and using the names of members of the FCC as justification for such expenses, while actually such entertainment did not occur. These practices, the subcommittee feels, are utterly indefensible. They blacken the names of members of independent regulatory agencies who have no way of defending themselves against such practices.

(b) Per diem

The record in the hearings shows that several members of the FCC have engaged in the practice of accepting per diem in spite of the fact that industry organizations or members of the industry actually paid hotel expenses and other expenses of some of these commissioners. Such practices undermine public confidence in the commissioners and must be avoided.

The question of the propriety and legality of such conduct is of concern not only to members of the FCC but to members and the staffs of other independent regulatory commissions and executive agencies. The rulings and testimony of the Comptroller General given this subcommittee are ambiguous and in conflict.

The subcommittee feels very strongly that there is an urgent need for clarification by the Comptroller General.

(c) Delays and pressures

The hearings held by the subcommittee on ch. 10 in Miami, Fla., have revealed the pressures brought on some members of the Commission. Pressures of this kind cannot be tolerated. It is the purpose of the subcommittee, through the views and recommendations contained in this interim report, to relieve the FCC from pressures of an improper character.

The subcommittee is concerned about the long delays which have occurred in rendering final decisions in adjudicatory proceedings and in important rulemaking proceedings. Such delays have contributed to an increase in pressure of the kind referred to above. It will be the purpose of this subcommittee to submit additional legislative recommendations aiming at eliminating some of these serious delays. The subcommittee has in mind, for further study and consideration, provisions of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, which enable competitors to delay the grant of licenses and other provisions of the act which prevent the Commission from utilizing effectively the services of members of the Commission staff.

(d) Furnishing of equipment

Over the years there has grown up in the industry the practice of making available to members of the FCC radios, color and black-and-white television sets, and other equipment which have been installed and serviced in the homes of individual Commissioners at the expense of industrial concerns which are subject to regulation by the Commission. While members of the Commission, particularly during development stages of new uses of radio and tv, may well need to have easy access to such equipment, the subcommittee believes that the present practices with respect to furnishing such facilities are undesirable. Furthermore, the subcommittee has serious doubt whether some of the equipment which has been so made available would meet the test of being needed by the members of the Commission, in the public interest, in order to enable them to follow new technical developments. Finally, the subcommittee feels that the furnishing of some of these facilities to the Commissioners was not in the public interest but in the interest of promoting the business of the industrial concerns which furnished the equipment.

The subcommittee believes that the Commission itself should examine into this subject, applying the most stringent standards of propriety, and take such action as will remedy a situation which has brought on much public criticism and provide an orderly and well-publicized method of obtaining such equipment.

LEGISLATIVE RECOMMENDATIONS

While the hearings with respect to the FCC have not been completed as yet, the hearing record contains enough information with respect to some phases of its operations to warrant certain legislative recommendations. Specifically, the subcommittee recommends that changes in the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, are desirable with respect to the matters listed below, and amendments have been prepared for this purpose.

(1) Code of ethics

The hearings have dealt at great length with the conduct of individual Commissioners, including ex parte contacts with interested parties, acceptance of loans and gifts, excessive fraternization and payment by industry of the travel expenses of some of the Commissioners and their wives.

Certain conduct of some of the Commissioners in this regard indicates that they were insensitive to the requirements of their high office. In some instances, a strict interpretation of the provisions of the Federal Communications Act and the United States Criminal Code may lead to the conclusion that federal law has been violated. The decision whether such violations, if any, should be prosecuted must be left to the Dept. of Justice.

In another section of the report, the subcommittee has recommended that the Communications Act be amended so as to make the provisions prohibiting ex parte contacts more stringent.

This still leaves for consideration the question of how to deal with other aspects of personal conduct which have come under scrutiny in these hearings. The subcommittee feels that even the most detailed statutory provisions enacted by the Congress, or the most detailed code of ethics adopted by a commission, cannot avoid leaving areas of doubt—which must be resolved by those who are supposed to be governed by the code of ethics.

Nevertheless, the subcommittee feels that there are two important advantages to be gained from a statutory requirement that the FCC adopt a code of ethics which shall be published in the Federal Register and which shall be revised periodically to keep pace with changing developments. These advantages are that (1) it will require the members of the Commission to consider carefully, and discuss with each other, what the particular provisions should be of the code of ethics, and (2) the publication of such a code in itself should have salutary effects. The subcommittee, therefore, recommends adoption of an amendment to the act requiring the Commission to adopt and to revise from time to time a code of ethics for members of the Commission and the Commission staff, as well as former members of the Commission and the Commission staff, designed to promote the observance of high ethical standards in matters related to activities of the Commission. The amendment would require publication of the code in the Federal Register.

(2) Honorariums

The hearing record before the subcommittee indicates that the provision in Sec. 4 (a) of the Communications Act of 1934 with regard to honorariums produced unfortunate and regrettable results which are not in the public interest.

It appears that in some instances honorariums and compensation were accepted while at the same time per diem payments were collected from the Federal Government. Such a result does not appear to have been the intent of Congress when in 1952 it added by Public Law 554, 82d Congress, an exception to the prohibition of outside employment of Commissioners or staff members, so as to permit acceptance of a reasonable honorarium or compensation for the presentation or delivery of publications or papers.

The original intent was to permit honorariums or compensation for the publication of technical books or the oral delivery of bona fide technical papers. However, there has grown up a practice of accepting honorariums or compensation for the delivery of goodwill speeches on the occasion of semisocial or promotional industry gatherings or the inauguration of radio and television stations or other affairs publicizing new industrial developments. This practice would appear to stretch the original intent considerably.

The subcommittee recommends that the "honorarium" provision be stricken from the Communications Act of 1934.

(3) Ex parte contacts

The Communications Act of 1934, as amended, contains prohibitions against ex parte contacts in cases of adjudication. Section 409 (c) (2) prohibits ex parte contacts on the part of any person who has participated in the presentation or preparation for presentation of such cases during hearings before an examiner or examiners or the Commission. The statute thus fails to reach ex parte contacts with Commissioners or the Commission staff by persons other than those who participated in the presentation or preparation for presentation of such case before the examiner or the Commission.

The hearing record before the subcommittee on the ch. 10 case in Miami indicates that several ex parte contacts on behalf of two of the principal contenders for the license were made or attempted to be made both by persons who did and by persons who did not participate in the presentation or preparation for presentation of the case before the examiner.

It is imperative that the Commission as well as the competing parties be protected by law from any attempt at influencing off the record the decision of the Commission.

It is, therefore, the opinion of the subcommittee that section 409 (c) (2) should be amended for the following purposes: (1) To make the prohibition apply to ex parte contacts by any person, except certain Commission personnel; (2) to require that any Commissioner or staff member receiving an ex parte communication shall place such communication (or a memorandum stating the circumstances and substance of such communication if such communication was made orally) in the public record in the case; and (3) to provide that the secretary of the Commission shall transmit to each party a copy of such communication or memorandum.

Any failure on the part of any Commissioner or staff member to comply with the provisions of this subsection would constitute misconduct of a character which would justify, if the seriousness of the offense warrants it, appropriate disciplinary action, dismissal, or removal.

It is doubtful whether the law should be left in a state where ex parte contacts are ruled out in adjudicatory proceedings, while the implication is left that they are permissible in rule-making proceedings even though formal hearings on the record are conducted by the Commission in such proceedings. It seems illogical, for example, to prohibit ex parte contacts in a case where an applicant seeks a television channel in a competitive proceeding but to let the law remain silent in a case of rulemaking where a television channel in a particular community may be added or deleted.

However, the subcommittee is aware of the distinction which has been made traditionally between adjudicatory proceedings and rulemaking proceedings and it desires to study further through open hearings on this subject the question of whether the ban on ex parte contacts now limited to adjudicatory proceedings should be extended to rulemaking proceedings as well.

(4) Removal of Commissioners

The hearings held by the subcommittee thus far indicate the need for an appropriate amendment to the Communications Act of 1934 providing for the removal for cause of any member of the FCC.

Provisions authorizing the removal of members of independent regulatory agencies are contained in the organic acts of other such agencies. For example, the Federal Trade Commission Act, the Interstate Commerce Act, and the Civil Aeronautics Act provide that members of these agencies are removable by the President "for inefficiency, neglect of duty, or malfeasance in office."

In order to guarantee the independence of independent regulatory agencies, the removal authority of the President with regard to any member of such agency should be expressed in language as clear and unambiguous as possible. Therefore, the subcommittee recommends that the Communications Act of 1934 be amended by providing that the President may remove any member of the Commission "for neglect of duty or malfeasance in office, and for no other cause."

was not a vote on the merits of the case but merely a parliamentary procedure. He voted for an opinion favoring L. B. Wilson so the FCC would have two decisions before it "... in order that I might have an opportunity to discuss the entire case with the commissioners, a matter which was denied me because I was not present when the original instructions were given," he explained. In such an event, he felt, he then would have been able to vote on a final decision after having participated in a discussion of merits of the two proposed decisions.

When a final vote was taken on the National grant in February, Comr. Craven said he did not participate because he was not present for oral argument or initial instructions and "I would have possibly committed a reversible legal error." All in all, he said, the question of influence in the Miami ch. 10 case had been "highly overplayed."

WITNESS: Comr. Ford

Comr. Frederick W. Ford, whose FCC appointment was confirmed last August, told the subcommittee that the only expenses he has drawn since joining the Commission were $1.50 for taxi fare. In fact, the newest commissioner said, many of his closest broadcasting friends "have kept strictly away from me" since his appointment to the Commission.

When asked if he had a color tv set on loan in his home, Comr. Ford replied: "As a matter of fact, I have seen color tv only once and that was four years ago." The only long distance call he has made since joining the Commission concerned the hiring of a legal assistant, he stated.

WITNESS: Ex-Comr. Webster

Mr. Webster, a member of the Commission from 1947-56 (he was replaced by Comr. Craven) was asked about two trips for which the government paid per diem and subcommittee records show NAB paid the hotel bill. The witness said he was "mystified" that NAB paid the bills because he was under the impression he had paid them personally.

The propriety of allowing industry representatives to pay hotel bills was discussed at one time while he was on the FCC, Mr. Webster said, and the general opinion was this is an acceptable practice. However, he said, he made very few trips while a commissioner and was not often invited to speak.

He still has an RCA color receiver loaned to him, he said, but NBC is "privileged to get the set at anytime." He denied Frank (Scoop) Russell, NBC Washington vice president, or anybody else told him to keep the set. "They were of immense value to us [commissioners]," he told the subcommittee.

"No one at any time, in industry or otherwise," talked or attempted to talk to him about the Miami ch. 10 case, Mr. Webster testified. He said "terrific goings-on" among Miami principals in the case were evident but that he had no personal knowledge of just what this amounted to. In fact, he said, one of the principals was "rude" in avoiding talking to him when the two met in a Miami restaurant while the case was pending.

WITNESS: Comr. Doerfer

After spending three days answering personal misconduct charges early last February [GOVERNMENT, Feb. 10], Chairman Doerfer returned to the stand Monday to further explain industry contacts and trips he has taken since becoming a member of the FCC. The chairman estimated that over a five-year period he has taken approximately 40 trips on official FCC business.

Rep. Harris thought this was a conservative estimate and criticized all commissioners for spending too much time on the road and not enough tending to the FCC workload. He stated: "... I am just wondering if the members of the Commission had not felt compelled to attend too many invitations by the industry in these conventions and things that have too much the appearance of a vacation instead of actual official business. . . ."

"Is it necessary for several members of the Commission to go on these things at the same time, together with several members of the staff? . . . It seems to me these various things . . . should be very, very carefully considered and this business of going off and the industry running up a big expense and charging it to public officials when they don't even participate in it at all, seems to me is intolerable."

Comr. Doerfer agreed that in many instances his name was used, when actually he was not even present, to justify an expense account. The commissioner also hit out at "influence peddlers" and "name-droppers" who do not have any influence.

On the five airline tickets furnished FCC by NBC for the Sarnoff dinner, Comr. Doerfer said it is possible he and Mrs. Doerfer used two of them since the government was not charged. However, he could not account for the remaining three and all other commissioners denied using NBC transportation to attend the dinner.

In filing his income tax returns since becoming a commissioner in 1953, Comr. Doerfer said he has listed seven honorariums totaling $2,100. Even with the honorariums, he has consistently lost money on industry trips, he testified.

WITNESS: Ex-Comr. McConnaughey

Former FCC Chairman McConnaughey told the subcommittee about ex-parte meetings he had with principals in two applications for the hotly-contested ch. 5 Boston and one of the applicants for ch. 4 Pittsburgh, a case under Justice Dept. scrutiny. Mr. McConnaughey said he lunched with Robert Choate, publisher of the Boston Herald-Traveler (WHDH-TV), which won the ch. 5 grant, and had a second meeting with Forrester T. Clark, principal in one of the losing applicants.

Mr. McConnaughey claimed he kept the conversations away from the pending case and that Mr. Choate "just wanted to meet me." He said later two men from the Boston Globe, which strongly protested a grant to the Herald-Traveler, came to his office and "read the riot act" over the Herald-Traveler application. Mr. McConnaughey also told about a luncheon with Earl F. Reed, applicant for ch. 4 Pittsburgh, and that he changed the subject from the pending case "as soon as I could."

Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks did not contact him about Boston ch. 5, Mr. McConnaughey said. "I honestly do not know . . ." he said, when asked if Mr. Weeks had any interest in the case. He denied the White House had ever interfered in any case and said most executive contacts had to do with security matters.

Like other witnesses, Mr. McConnaughey was confronted with a long list of trips and 10 pages of telephone calls. He said he kept no record of incoming telephone calls or visitors because both came "in a steady stream." He was questioned at length about a five-week trip to Europe in the summer of 1956. This cost him, he said, over $800 out-of-pocket for his expenses, plus those of Mrs. McConnaughey who accompanied him.

The former FCC chairman replied "none whatsoever" when asked if he had received any gifts or loans from the industry. "For many years, I never made less than twice as much as I made . . ." while serving on the FCC, he said. He hit former subcommittee counsel Bernard Schwartz for "smear and character assassination" tactics. He said members of the regulatory agencies are "very high-type, honorable folks."

Jerry Carter, Florida Democratic National committeeman, was the only person who ever approached him regarding the Miami ch. 10 case, Mr. McConnaughey testified. He said he never discussed the case with Comr. Mack and had made up his mind how to vote even before the oral argument was held.

"I thought the examiner was completely wrong . . ." he said, because the examiner failed to take into consideration Mr. Katzenine's past broadcast record in the operation of WKAT Miami Beach, Fla. Mr. McConnaughey said the reasons he voted for National Airlines are set forth in the printed decision "which, as far as I'm concerned, speaks for itself." L. B. Wilson Inc. would have been his second choice for the ch. 10 grant, Mr. McConnaughey said.

It would not be a good idea to rotate the FCC chairman every year, Mr. McConnaughey maintained, because it takes a chairman that long to get thoroughly acquainted with his job.

Mr. McConnaughey said he paid RCA $200 for the color tv receiver "loaned" to him while he was a commissioner. This amount was paid in December 1957 after he had determined the set would work in his Columbus, Ohio, home, he stated. Mr. Lishman pointed out a new model was delivered to Comr. McConnaughey's home in March 1957 and asked the witness if he did not know, at that time, that he was leaving the Commission in June. Mr. McConnaughey replied that he had been "toying with the idea" for some time.

Mr. Lishman also read an RCA invoice carrying the color sets in Commission homes

211,051 Bill Wagners...

In 1794, Gen. Anthony Wayne built a fort to fight the Miami Indians. No trace of it remains today, but its history lives on in the people that make up Fort Wayne, Indiana and the Fort Wayne television market . . . because people . . . not sites, make cities and markets . . . people like Bill Wagner, a skilled machinist in a factory manufacturing agricultural machinery.

Prosperous hard-working Bill and his family are typical of the 211,051 television families that are the Fort Wayne television market . . . families that look to WANE-TV  for their news and entertainment . . . families with buying incomes of over $1,250,000,000.

Smart advertisers want to reach these 211,051 Wagner families. They do it over WANE-TV  as more of these families watch WANE-TV than any other station in the billion-dollar all-UHF Fort Wayne market. Represented by Petry.

WITNESS: Ex-Comr. Hennock

"I'll answer anything; just ask me," former Comr. Frieda Hennock told the subcommittee on taking the stand Thursday and she kept this promise during subsequent testimony. Counsel Lishman said there were no instances where Miss Hennock—in married life Mrs. William Simons—received government per diem and at the same time had her hotel bill paid by the industry. "I know, I never took any trips—wasn't invited," she replied.

Rep. Emanuel Celler's (D-N. Y.) charges of monopoly against the networks found a champion in Miss Hennock. She charged "monopolistic interests," identified as the three tv networks and AT&T, completely dominate the industry. She cited the failure of uhf as ample proof of this contention.

"They [networks] don't want 3,000 stations; they want 300," the witness charged. Regardless of how many channels were assigned to Washington (for instance), she said, only the number of stations wanted by the networks would be on the air.

She said nobody with official standing in Washington ever discussed the possibility of her reappointment to the FCC with her. "I knew of the impossibility" of reappointment but knew nothing of the "possibility," she said. "I assumed I was marked for extinction," she said, and was "kicked off the Commission unceremoniously." She was succeeded by Comr. Mack.

Miss Hennock told about hearing "rumors" of the way "certain large interests" felt about her work on the Commission.

She said if these interests did not approve of her actions, she thought she was doing a good job. Mr. Lishman asked if "monopolies control appointment of members of the Commission," and Miss Hennock replied: "You can draw your own conclusions. The fact is, I fought these interests and was not reappointed."

As with other witnesses, Mr. Lishman asked Miss Hennock about numerous trips and telephone calls made while she was a commissioner. In practically every instance, she explained, they concerned her efforts to boost educational television, for which she was highly commended by several of the Congressmen.

A majority of the trips were made over weekends to New York, her home state "because I didn't want to miss a Commission session," Miss Hennock said. She explained efforts to interest the New York Board of Regents in backing an educational uhf operation. If the board had done this, she maintained, each of the 48 states would now have an operating educational station and "ultra high wouldn't be dead."

She said a call to former President Harry S. Truman also involved educational television. Mr. Truman, who appointed Miss Hennock to the Commission, at one time called all the commissioners to the White House and asked them to reserve channels for educational use, she said.

Miss Hennock did not remember exactly why she called Mrs. India Edwards, former Democratic National Committee official, but assured the subcommittee it was on official business. She said Mrs. Edwards "got me my job" on the FCC.

On the color tv set placed in her home, Miss Hennock said she and other commissioners "resented" them and did not want the sets. She said efforts to have her state congressional delegation watch color in her home on a Monday night, when color was offered, were unsuccessful because "none of the New York delegation is in Washington on Mondays."

The witness was asked about the FCC sharetime grant of ch. 10 Rochester, N. Y., in March 1953 to WHEC-TV and WVET-TV. Minutes of FCC meeting at the time the grant was made, Mr. Lishman said, show the vote actually was 3-3 but a final decision was granted on a 3-2 vote with Miss Hennock abstaining. The witness said this was the FCC interpretation, her's was that a legal quorum was not present. Although not voting, she issued a strong dissenting opinion. She told the subcommittee she felt the case was not properly on the meeting agenda.

Miss Hennock termed the FCC's Sixth Report and Order "the worst thing that ever came out of the Commission." She said a proposed code of ethics should include legislative matters as well as adjudicatory proceedings. "To me," she added, "the dirtiest work was done in rulemaking proceedings," a legislative process.

In a lengthy exchange with Rep. Harris, a pay tv foe, Miss Hennock said she favored pay tv in a form limited to uhf outlets in multi-station markets. She said toll operations should be limited to 15% of the station's time.

QUOTES WORTH REPEATING

WJTN DEFENDS RADIO-TV

WJTN Jamestown, N. Y., used its prerogative to editorialize in replying to criticism, made in a speech at Jamestown by William Stringer of the Christian Science Monitor's Washington bureau, that radio-tv too often treat news as "a show." The editorial, voiced by Si Goldman, WJTN president, said in part:

Let's look at Mr. Stringer's charge that the broadcast media treat news as "a show." It's a serious charge, indeed.

We pick up a copy of a New York newspaper with wide circulation. Its headline story concerns a scandal involving movie stars. Also featured on the first two pages are items about an ax murder, two sex crimes, and juvenile gangsters. News on the national and international scene is relegated to the back pages.

Of course this paper is an exception. Its policies are not the policies of the average newspaper across the country. But exceptions, too, are radio and television stations which make "a show" of the news. Every substantial poll taken in the United States shows that listeners consider radio news the fairest and most honest. Radio established an unprecedented reputation for news reporting and fairness during World War II—a reputation it never relinquished. . . .

As the number of daily newspapers has tended to decline in this country, the number of radio stations has tended to grow. . . . Today there are 18 states without locally competitive daily newspapers. In these instances, radio is the only competitor to the local daily paper and in many communities the hometown radio station is the only source of fresh local and community news. This situation has placed heavy responsibility upon radio stations . . . and they recognize their responsibility and work hard to meet it.

RULES FOR EDITORIALIZING

WHAS-AM-TV Louisville do not broadcast editorials because the stations are owned by the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times and because editorial opinions are "the province" of these newspapers' editorial columns, Victor A. Sholis, WHAS-AM-TV vice president and director, said in a statement in the Times. But Mr. Sholis said he would recommend editorializing by non-news-paper-owned stations under these specific rules:

1. The opinions broadcast would reflect the thinking of the station licensee and not individual employees.
  2. The station licensee would assume full responsibility for the opinions expressed.
  3. The editorials would not be casual or off-the-cuff judgments, but would be the documented product of research and study by an editorial staff disassociated from the station's news department.
  4. Most frequently these editorials would probably deal with local and regional issues.
  5. The editorials would be clearly identified as such, would be carried completely apart from regular newscasts, and would not be delivered by newscasters.
  6. Comparable and equal opportunity would be given responsible persons and groups who disagree with the station's editorials to express their differing opinions on the air.
- Broadcasting editorials under such rules would give stations additional stature in the community.

CONFERENCE CALL FOR CREATIVITY

- Visual communications sessions convene in New York
- Brainstorming, conformity come in for special attack

Criticism of brainstorming and conformity and a call for more humor and individuality highlighted the third Visual Communications Conference of the Art Directors Club of New York last Wednesday and Thursday. The annual conference was held in conjunction with the 37th Exhibit of Advertising and Editorial Art & Design (see page 84). The theme was "Creativity in Visual Communications."

A separate luncheon session Tuesday featured the Art Directors Awards ceremony. Wednesday morning's keynote address was by conference chairman Paul R. Smith, president and creative director of Calkins & Holden, New York. Said Mr. Smith:

"It seems very interesting that the advertising business which is supposed to be so highly dependent on creativity and which employs so many high-priced creative personnel and whose competitive practices place such a high premium upon creativity should be so laggard in its investigation of this phenomenon. We are entrusted with the expenditure of $10 billion every year with a gross commission of $1.5 billion and yet the best the advertising business has been able to come up with are some generalities about the handling of creative people and the technique of brainstorming. While better than no technique at all (because it does produce ideas where none existed before), brainstorming is at best an empirical method with little or no basic understanding of the creative process as it is being revealed by contemporary scientific investigation. . . . Not only has the subject (of creativity) been woefully neglected with the result that most people don't know about it, but for some reason or another most people don't want to know about it. There is resistance to knowing about it . . ."

But, as the conference wore on, resistance melted quickly. To make some of the cut-and-dried material more palatable, ADC invited humorist-pianist Victor Borge to talk about "creativity in humor," and jazzman Eddie Condon to talk about "creativity in music."

During Tuesday's awards luncheon, ADC President Walter Grotz, art director of McCann-Erickson's Marschalk & Pratt Div., presented 14 ADC medals and 43 certificates of distinctive merit. He also introduced this year's winners of the club's annual "Management Awards." Among this year's recipients and their citations:

Marion Harper Jr., president of McCann-Erickson: ". . . for inspiration and encouragement given to the art directors of McCann-Erickson throughout the world, resulting in a consistently high standard of visual excellence in advertising produced for its clients."

George V. Allen, director of the U. S. Information Agency: ". . . for outstanding efforts in presenting American culture and traditions to the peoples of the world through USIA sponsorship of traveling exhibitions and its information libraries."

Morse G. Dial, president of Union Carbide Corp.: ". . . for the high standard of excellence maintained in its advertising; and for the integrated design program conceived at UCC resulting in an outstanding example of the use of graphic art to establish corporate identity." Howard S. Bunn, UCC executive vice president, accepted the award in the absence of Mr. Dial.

In the sessions that took place Wednesday and Thursday, a host of salient points were made by numerous speakers. Among them:

• Victor Borge: The role of humor in advertising—especially on tv—is not to move goods but to create a climate of acceptability for and friendliness to the sponsor. There is too little humor on tv these days, and the amount that exists is often interrupted by "those idiotic three minutes of nonsense" on behalf of a product that is little different from another product. Too often, an advertiser will lose the friendship he has built up through his star "midway in the commercial."

• George Avakian, vice president of World-Pacific Records, former Columbia Records executive and jazz expert: The advertising-radio-tv industry ought well to consider, for commercial purposes, using more of the creative talents and improvisations of the avant-garde composer. He said the "right step in the right direction" has al-

A DISSENTING VOICE

An unexpected rebuttal to "the false statements and unfair attack" on brainstorming was offered late Thursday afternoon from the floor at the third Visual Communications Conference by Willard O. Pleuther, BBDO vice president in charge of brainstorming and communications. Mr. Pleuther, angered by the "unwarranted" and "untrue" statements offered by art director Saul Bass (see this page) asked conference chairman Paul R. Smith for "equal time." Mr. Pleuther dismissed the Taylor (Yale U.) report on brainstorming cited by no less than eight speakers as "a fine piece of research" that did not involve the "successful application of brainstorming." He said that Dr. Sidney Parnes of the U. of Buffalo had analyzed the "Yale foursome" (so named because its panel consisted of only four members as against BBDO's 15) as inconclusive since that group met for only 12 minutes at a time (as against BBDO's 60-90 minutes) and got the problem at the time of the meeting (as against BBDO's practice of issuing, in outline form, the "problem" some 24-48 hours ahead of meeting).

ready been taken by NBC-TV (which retained composer Carlos Surinach to score the theme for that network's color peacock identification, CBS-TV (which has used composers David Diamond for See It Now and Norman Della Joio for Air Power and Seven Lively Arts) and Robert Saudek Assoc. (which six years ago had "modernist" Henry Cowell score the "Sun Theme" for Omnibus).

• Saul Bass, motion picture and advertising designer and art consultant: As conformity is achieved by the technical society and business community, efficiency increases, creativity decreases. Mr. Bass said, the concept of the repetitive advertisement is vital to our mass production-mass economy system but, he asked, "at what price?" He declared that industry, particularly many blue-chip advertisers such as AT&T and General Foods Corp., is realizing that there is more to corporate success than profits and is sending its executives back to college to study the classics and the humanities. He dwelt on brainstorming, said that the BBDO-conceived science of Groupthink (see IN REVIEW, page 14) "inhibits creative thinking . . . restrains the freedom of open criticism and non-conformity . . . makes individuals pursue an identical train of thought." Basing his opinions on a thorough investigation of brainstorming by Yale U.'s Dr. Donald W. Taylor, Mr. Bass said that this development can "only be useful in giving birth to gadgets or their visual or verbal equivalents. Gimmicks, gadgets and twists are, of course, invaluable but we must recognize that they also are quite superficial. At a time when the superficial has manifest value, it is not surprising that a systematic approach should arrive for its perpetuation. By implication, brainstorming obscures and confuses the real problem, which is that creativity—like freedom—is indivisible. Creativity is a total process. It cannot be isolated in the experience of individuals and turned on and off like a faucet every Thursday afternoon." Mr. Bass noted, "We have had several years of togetherness sponsored by McCall Corp. I would like to propose a few years of aloneness'."

• Dr. M. F. Agha, consultant, art director and designer: Advertising is not an art in the purest of senses; it is a conception of art—"creativity within a rigid framework of established forms, canons and formulas with a great body of precedent as a base." It is hard to be "original" in advertising, Dr. Agha pointed out, citing that the best of ads are usually the product of two or three or more contributors, "with dozens of bystanders, calling various precedents to the team's attention and otherwise trying to get into the act." He concluded: "Under these often trying circumstances the creative originality in advertising becomes a matter of knowing everything that was done before, and cribbing only from the least known examples."

Of particular interest to the representatives of the advertising agency field was a lengthy presentation on creativity in marketing today, delivered by Remus A. Harris, new products manager of Colgate-Palmolive Co.'s toilet articles division. Mr. Harris minced few words, charged that the country was suffering from "a hangover of production-minded thinking in a total marketing economy." Specifically, Mr. Harris felt that management today tries to sell what it can make, rather than make what it can sell. "No one can sell what no one will buy," he declared, citing the current auto lag in Detroit as a case in point. For three years up to 1958, he maintained, "American consumers had paid the bill for the cars . . . they were statistically and financially ready to buy. But when the public saw the designs offered by Detroit, it stopped, looked again and decided to wait. Result: Automobile inventories backing up, production cut and a rush to get the 1959 models out early."

He said that America "has changed from a sales economy to a purchase economy; people do not want to be sold, people want to buy, [as] witness the success of the supermarket and its self-service principles and the decline of the local grocery store. . . ." "When women help themselves their purchases are usually larger than anticipated, particularly when merchandise is scientifically arranged. . . ."

The challenge: "We must be creative marketers . . . we must be creatively marketing-minded, and that means consumer-oriented and consumer-minded. No longer caveat emptor but caveat mercator."

The suggestion: "More emphasis on brand development for brand marketing departments such as exist at Procter & Gamble and General Foods, who know that "the consumer is boss. They know it is their first job to find out what consumers need and want in their products . . . and then produce brands that will meet these needs and desires."

The most unusual "speech" of the entire session was played, not read. Guitarist Eddie Condon was joined by trumpeter Rex Stewart, drummer George Wettling, pianist Eddie Schroeder and other musicians, in a demonstration of creative improvisation. Their rendition of "Muskrat Ramble" and other Dixieland pieces left little doubt that pure jazz isn't pure; it's the "living end" of creativity.

SIX VOICES AND A GUITAR

PAUL SMITH, president, Calkins & Holden:

"Creativity has been so neglected that most people don't know about it . . . and most people don't want to know about it."

VICTOR BORGE, humorist-pianist:

"Too often, an advertiser will lose the friendship he has built up through his star midway in the commercial."

GEORGE AVAKIAN, vice president, World-Pacific Records:

"Advertising should use more of the creative talents and improvisations of the avant-garde composer."

M. F. AGHA, consultant, art director and designer:

"Advertising becomes a matter of knowing everything that was done before and cribbing only from the least known examples."

SAUL BASS, movie-advertising designer and art consultant:

"We have had several years of 'McCall's' Togetherness. I would like to propose a few years of 'Aloneness'."

REMUS A. HARRIS, Colgate-Palmolive toilet articles division:

"America has changed from a sales economy to a purchase economy: People do not want to be sold—they want to buy."

EDDIE CONDON, guitarist:

BUSINESS BRIEFLY WHO'S BUYING WHAT, WHERE

FLIGHT PLAN • KLM Royal Dutch Airlines, N. Y., last week launched extensive advertising campaign, to include use of spot radio in eight major market cities—New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Miami, Houston, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco. Three drives are planned, each running for five weeks, on stations with "quality audience." Agency: Erwin Wasey, Ruthrauff & Ryan, N. Y.

TAFFY PULL • Gold Medal Candy Corp. (Bonomo's Turkish taffy), Brooklyn, N. Y., placing four week tv campaign in major eastern and midwestern markets effective this Saturday (April 12). Campaign, geared for children's programs, is essentially contest calling for identification of famous persons. Emil Mogul Co., N. Y., is agency.

DESSERT TIME • Parti-Day Inc. (marketer for dessert toppings), Oak Park, Ill., through D'Arcy Adv., Chicago, to use tv spots (60-, 20- and 10-second ID's) initially in Chicago on test basis, expanding to other markets starting in May.

NEW PRODUCT DRIVE • Purex Corp., South Gate, Calif., has started an introductory campaign for Bat Guano, plant food whose distribution Purex is handling in Southern California, using radio, tv and newspapers. Potts-Ray, Los Angeles, is agency. As larger shipments are available, distribution and advertising will be extended throughout the West and eastward until full national coverage has been obtained.

GOLF DATE • Miller Brewing Co., Milwaukee, through Mathisson & Assoc., Milwaukee, has signed to sponsor one-half of ABC-TV's All-Star Golf Tournament when it returns to air next October. Matches for next season will be filmed starting tomorrow (Tues.) in Miami, network announced. Miller had same sponsorship agreement during present season.

NEW WAFER • King Kone Corp. (Old London line of Melba products and other snacks), N. Y., is introducing new wafer product, Pizza-Rino, this week with spot schedule in New York, Philadelphia, Columbus and Cleveland. Spots should be on air in most or all markets by April 21 for initial six-week run. Station lineup as of last week: WPIX (TV) and WCBS-TV New York, KYW-TV Cleveland, WBNS-TV Columbus and Philadelphia stations to be determined. As many as 30 spots weekly will be used. National distribution is expected by Sept. 1 for product that is distributed through chains and independent grocery stores. Richard K. Manoff Inc., N. Y., is agency.

DIXIE DELUGE • Dixie Cup division (Dixie Cup home dispensers, refill packages, etc.) of American Can Co., Easton, Pa., has ordered saturation campaign on NBC-TV calling for sponsorship of quarter-hour segments of each of network's 11 daytime programs as well as participations in Today and The Jack Paar Show. Campaign will run for one month beginning April 17. Hicks & Greist, N. Y., is agency.

GROUCHO SPONSORS • Toni Co., through Tatham-Laird Inc., Chicago, has renewed Groucho Marx's You Bet Your Life for fall on NBC-TV in new time period, Thurs., 10-10:30 p.m. EST, effective late September or early October. Program will replace Rosemary Clooney Lux Show in that segment, with Lever Bros. (sponsor of latter) assuming other half of Life dropped by DeSoto (through BBDO).

Pabst-Pepsi Merger Is Talked by Pabst

Speculation that talks may be reopened looking toward a possible "merger or consolidation" of Pabst Brewing Co. with Pepsi-Cola or perhaps with other companies was revived last week.

Conjecture arose after Pabst's management slate, headed by Harris Perlstein, chairman and president, won a bitter proxy fight over a stockholder committee Thursday.

After the battle John Toigo, who resigned as vice president and marketing director of Joseph Schlitz Brewing Co. to seek the Pabst presidency, reported he would continue working for the Pabst-Spaeth stockholder group.

Mr. Toigo plans to remain in the group's employ at a maximum $50,000 annual salary and to research Pabst merchandising problems. He resigned his reported $100,000-per-year post at Schlitz after a two-year tenure.

Throughout the stockholders' meetings, Mr. Perlstein reiterated he favored merging with Pepsi-Cola "if it would help Pabst." He added that if management won, exploratory talks may be renewed with Pepsi-Cola or other firms, with a view to a possible merger or "straight-out acquisition." He noted previous discussions with Pepsi had bogged down because of the proxy issue [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, March 24].

Between them, Pabst and Pepsi-Cola probably spent $15-20 million in advertising last year, with both clients heavy in television. (Pepsi allocated over $3 million to spot and Pabst equal amounts of about $1.5 million each for spot and network in tv.)

Final tally of the proxy fight, announced Thursday, showed the Perlstein management group with 2,266,298 shares (55.1%) and 1,759,399 (or 42.78%) for the insurgent slate headed by David Pabst and Carl J. Spaeth. A total of 4,028,693 of 4,112,377 shares outstanding were voted. After the results, Mr. Perlstein said he would remain as president "for the time being."

Mr. Spaeth warned that Pabst should adopt "creative merchandising methods" lest it continue to drop farther behind its competitors. One of the charges voiced by the rebel group was that present Pabst management has "frittered away" advertising monies on televised fights and that total 1956 expenditures represented $1.99 a barrel, "the highest in the industry."

During the proxy hearing Mr. Toigo described Pabst's problems as essentially those of "marketing, sales, merchandising, advertising and promotion."

Kudner Shifts Continue; Newman, Millard Leave

The second realignment of the executive staff at Kudner Adv., New York, in two months was announced last week following the resignation of two key agency executives—Paul E. Newman, executive vice president, and J. W. Millard, a vice president and secretary.

Both Messrs. Newman and Millard were long-time executives on the General Motors Corp. account, the large portion of which has been withdrawn from Kudner. Last December the Buick Div. of General Motors (estimated billing: $23 million), announced the termination of its 22-year association with Kudner and two weeks ago GM's Frigidaire and GMC Truck & Coach divisions (estimated billing: $9 million) withdrew their business from the agency [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, March 31].

No reasons were specified for the resignations of Messrs. Newman and Millard.

At the same time, C. M. Rohrabough, president of Kudner, announced changes in the board of directors and the executive committee "in order to strengthen the agency's operation." New directors are Robert W. Bode, Andrew G. Diddel, Charles W. Doughtie, Donald Gibbs, Robert Murray Haig, William A. MacDonough, Rodger S. Harrison and Charles A. Holcomb. They will serve with other board members including Mr. Rohrabough, Charles R. Hook Jr., William J. Griffin Jr., Amedee J. Cole and John H. Sheldon.

New members of the executive committee are James F. Black, Mr. MacDonough and Mr. Holcomb. Carl Phares Jr. was elected secretary of the agency.

Vincent F. Aiello, copy chief, has asked to be relieved of his responsibilities as a director and a member of the executive committee, but will continue as copy chief.

Compton, CN&P in Pact

Compton Advertising Inc. has announced an affiliation agreement with Carvel Nelson & Powell Adv. Agency, Portland, Ore. Compton accounts will get regional servicing in the Pacific Northwest from CN&P. Compton, with offices in New York, Chicago, Milwaukee, Los Angeles and San Francisco, will provide CN&P with service in consumer and industrial marketing, merchandising, media research and creative advertising. While details are being completed CN&P will maintain its name and operational procedures in Portland and will continue to function as a fully-staffed agency for local clients.

TV AD ACCEPTANCE IN FUND STUDY

- Taste standards, BMI-ASCAP feud also on 'tentative' list
- Already under scrutiny: FCC-government, toll tv, ratings

How far has The Fund for the Republic gone in its planned "study" of the television medium since it was announced last December [GOVERNMENT, Dec. 23, 1957]?

The answer: the fund has mapped out a broad and general area of inquiry. According to current plans, the fund expects to cover several aspects of television, including a consideration that it review "television's standards for acceptable advertising, with a special inquiry into the new subliminal type of advertising."

In addition to advertising acceptance on tv, the fund would concern itself with broadcaster use of musical composition and most likely touch on the BMI-ASCAP situation.

The fund already has embarked in three areas: the governmental study (particular reference to FCC policies); "an objective study of the problems presented by proposals for toll television," and an examination of audience rating systems.

The advertising acceptance study is one of five areas still being considered but not yet entered. The other four include: (1) an analysis of how the mass media are "interrelated," (2) a study of broadcasters and a survey of the "structure of television," (3) an inquiry into the controversy over the use by broadcasters of musical compositions and other creative works (presumably the BMI-ASCAP feud) and (4) a study of the "interpretations of 'good taste' and the effects upon television programs of 'the requirements of national security.'"

The mass media project (primarily television) already has a tentative budget—about $240,000 for this year. (The fund's current plans and allocation can be compared to the FCC's Network Study Staff that spent two years and $221,000 in investigating television network activities.)

The fund is an independent non-profit institution set up originally with Ford Foundation millions. It was established in 1952 with grants totaling $15 million. As of June 30, 1957, the fund had spent a total of $8.5 million in various projects centering on civil liberties and freedoms.

Here is the history of the tv study: Nearly a year ago, the fund's board of directors decided to "concentrate on a searching examination of the questions facing Americans in preserving a free society under 20th Century conditions." Basic issues of freedom and justice now involve more than traditional issues as formed in the 18th Century, the board determined, and thus last June announced it would go into a number of questions. Among these are some institutions which did not exist at the time of the Bill of Rights: "the modern corporation, the labor union, the media of mass communications, the organized political party."

It did not take long for the fund's Committee of Consultants on the Basic Issues to find that in the mass communication field, television wields tremendous power and influence. Robert M. Hutchins, the fund's president, said as much when he noted last December that "surveys have shown that people spend more time with television than with magazines, newspapers and radio combined.

"The latest estimates indicate that more than 41 million American homes have television sets and these sets are in operation several hours a day. It has become increasingly clear that television is having a tremendous impact on our society."

The first phase of the inquiry—that of government and the FCC—was described formally as "a study of the application of the First Amendment's guarantees of free speech to the medium of television and an analysis of the role of the FCC as a regulatory body in this field." This phase, though underway, has a long way to go.

But already well on its way is an inquiry into the toll tv vs. free tv controversy. An independent survey of the field is being conducted for the fund by Robert W. Horton, a writer associated with the fund (formerly director of the National Defense Advisory Commission and a former Scripps-Howard columnist in Washington and at one time a news commentator with CBS).

The fund has people at work sifting and studying the voluminous material on the governmental phase (and with the current hearings in Congress and at the FCC, the material is coming in at a faster pace than it can be digested)—a "tremendously complex field," a fund executive explains.

In addition to having assigned a survey on toll tv, the fund is looking over the problem of audience ratings. And, the fund, it is learned, has been making round-robin calls on network executives and the network's top news directors, gathering information and leads for the inquiry.

Eric F. Goldman, Princeton U. professor and Bancroft prize winner, has special responsibility for the mass media study. Prof. Goldman also is a member of the consulting committee which recommended the project. Three members of the fund's board of directors act as liaison directors and Frank K. Kelly, a vice president with the fund, is staff director for the project.

BIG STAKES RIDE RUBINSTEIN TEST

- Cosmetic maker may renew tv's Caesar-Coca team after trial
- Company's media history explains coolness to spot tv, print

On Sept. 29, 1957—24 hours after her advertising agency, Ogilvy, Benson & Mather, first presented the idea of sponsoring comic Sid Caesar and his troupe—the Princess Artchil Gourielli-Tchkonina met with several ABC-TV executives in her plush, 26-room Park Avenue triplex to sign a forceful “Helena Rubinstein” to the contract that would wed her multi-million-dollar, world-wide cosmetics empire to network television for a “try-out” of 18 weeks.

This “test”—and Rubinstein officials regard it as just that—is to end officially May 25 and by then will have cost the advertiser an estimated $1.75 million. Present indications point to possible renewal of Sid Caesar Invites You (ABC-TV, Sun., 9-9:30 p.m.) with speculation centering on whether the show might be enlarged to 60 minutes with Rubinstein picking up 50% of the tab. Ratings over the past two months have been fluctuating from very high to very low—the latter the night of March 2 when Bob Hope was pitted against Caesar, with Hope scoring 33 and Caesar 9. But “we don’t go by ratings,” says a Rubinstein advertising official. “We’re only interested to see whether the goods move.” Apparently they are moving.

The Rubinstein-Caesar-Coca announcement came as somewhat of a surprise to the broadcast industry, although it was no secret that Mr. Caesar and Miss Coca had been talking reconciliation terms since early last summer. The industry’s surprise was not unjustified: Rubinstein, ranking eighth among those cosmetics firms which bare their corporate earnings, had tried tv for an 11-month period during 1955-56, spent $750,000 in fiscal 1956 in 34 markets and then dropped tv to return to print.

What made Rubinstein change its corporate mind and return to tv? The reasons are numerous and complex, even though an ABC-TV executive sums up the situation as follows: “It was simply a marriage of simple economics and necessity conducted by a man who knows his show business.” The man: Oliver Treyz, ABC-TV president.

Mr. Treyz is only part of the story. The rest can be found in a look at Rubinstein’s corporate standing in the cosmetics industry. Founded in 1902 in Melbourne, Australia, by the Polish-born, self-taught beautician, then 31, the Rubinstein empire began to grow in 1908 when Miss Rubinstein (leaving the Australian salon in the care of her sisters, Ceska and Manka) opened a 20-room “Maison de Beaute” in London and began catering to the aristocracy. In 1912, she took her business to Paris and in 1915 to New York. Meanwhile she developed many “firsts” in skin treatments, the upshot being that for the next 20 years Rubinstein had a virtual monopoly in the beauty-preparation field. At this time, the name Revlon first cropped up as a potential rival with a new opaque nail polish; Elizabeth Arden likewise began to appeal to those who could afford beauty treatments. But it wasn’t until the age of television that Rubinstein realized it was being passed—in the retail end of the business—by sleeker and harder-selling competitors such as Avon (door-to-door distribution only), Chesebrough-Pond’s, Helene Curtis Industries, Max Factor, Toni, Shulton, Coty, and, of course, Revlon.

At the time Rubinstein first tried spot tv, its No. 1 competitor was Revlon. It still is. Where Rubinstein had spot, Revlon had network and therein lies the crux to this tale. Explains Sara Fox, Rubinstein advertising director: “We could introduce a new product only to find that one of our network-using competitors likewise would come out with a similar product. The upshot was that they had the national audience in one fell swoop and we didn’t.” Miss Fox says “it isn’t polite” to cite specifics, but beauty fashion industry observers can cite numerous instances of the Rubinstein vs. Revlon battle; Rubinstein in the early fifties marketed Deep Cleanser, a liquid skin cleanser, using print through the years; subsequently, on tv, Revlon introduced Clean ‘n Clear. To make matters worse, Toni Div. of Gillette Co., another tv network user, introduced its Deep Magic liquid skin cleanser. (Now, armed with a network show of its own, Rubinstein reassuredly has marketed Dew-Kissed lipstick, a moisture-laden brand, beating out Revlon with its Lustrous Lipstick. The battle right now is 50-50.)

What bothered Rubinstein more than the fact that its rivals had money to spend in network was that spot tv wasn’t living up to all it claimed it could do for cosmetics. Explains Larry Wechsler, Rubinstein advertising manager: “We’ve built our business on demonstration and we want to demonstrate on tv. But you can’t do a thorough job in 20 seconds.” He referred to the paucity of one-minute spots in Class A time. “The stations told us that if we wanted prime evening time, we’d have to settle for the short spots—or nothing at all.” So Rubinstein got out of tv.

And when it learned the hard way that it doesn’t pay to introduce new products in print when the competition has tv, Rubinstein called a halt to such new product introduction, concentrating on building and developing its arsenal within the corporation. Thus, when it got into network this past January, Rubinstein not only had the Dew-Kissed lipstick on hand, but also Mascara-Matic, the first automatic waterproof mascara applicator; Beauty-Dew, billed as the first liquid cold cream in cosmetics history; a moisture agent named Skin Dew, and the full line of Color-Tone shampoos. (Though Rubinstein has been known longest for its specialized products in the premium price line—such as estrogenic hormone preparations—the Sid Caesar-Imogene Coca program will be used primarily to push competitively priced items.)

To match its competitors dollar for dollar, Rubinstein has even borrowed their technique of using a "spokeswoman" to build the corporate and product image. Revlon has its Barbara Britton and Factor its Polly Bergen and Anne Jeffreys, but Rubinstein is taking a flyer with a relatively unknown personality, Broadway ingenue Elizabeth Allen, who won the lead in Peter Ustinov's "Romanoff and Juliet" last year.

Miss Allen's job has been made considerably easier because the name Helena Rubinstein is so well known. Motivational researcher James M. Vicary—a man better known these days as the inventor of the subliminally-projected tv commercial—was retained seven years ago by OB&M to conduct a word association poll among 51 women representing, in Mr. Vicary's estimation, a cross-section of the average cosmetics consumer. When asked what word they associated with "Rubinstein," 27—over 50%—replied either "Helena" or "cosmetics." Four more said "lipstick," 3 said "makeup," and the rest mentioned such non-cosmetics as the piano (after pianist Artur Rubinstein) and even "Serge" (after international banker-playboy Serge Rubinstein, murdered in his Fifth Avenue apartment several years later).

The Sid Caesar Invites You series has been described by some industry people as "a good deal." No one at Rubinstein denies this, least of all Madame Rubinstein herself who still maintains a shrewd woman's eye on bargains while conducting the top management role of her firm. In terms of investment, the $80,000 a week (time and talent) represents 75-80% of the total January-June national advertising appropriation. The Rubinstein advertising department considers the network deal to be one of the best it ever made. Some oldtimers in the firm dispute this privately, but one thing is certain: best or not, the Rubinstein-Caesar contract may be one of the fastest deals negotiated in recent broadcast history.

Last summer, ABC-TV's Mr. Treyz, then vice president of that network, had been seeking a way to bring Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca back together after an interval of three years. The comedian had left NBC-TV on his own. Miss Coca had severed her own NBC-TV contract a year earlier, claiming she wanted an "out" from guest appearances. Around that time, OB&M's David Ogilvy, a close friend of Madame Rubinstein, hired Hendrick Booraem Jr. as radio-tv vice president and instructed him to find a suitable tv show for the Rubinstein company. Messrs. Booraem and Treyz met one morning for coffee and Mr. Treyz made his pitch: "I can give you Caesar and Coca if you give me a sponsor." That night, Mr. Treyz had Mr. Caesar's signature. The next morning, Messrs. Ogilvy and Booraem and friends marched into the Rubinstein triplex and without benefit of charts or even a pilot film told the Princess that this was the show. She didn't say yes or no. For the next 12 hours, she merely called up all her friends and business acquaintances who were familiar with the old antics of Caesar and Coca. The next morning the spry, diminutive octogenarian called for the contract for signing.

Although her sons by her first marriage, Horace and Roy V. Titus, both are active in running the show at Rubinstein, the decision was strictly hers.

Nielsen Is At Work On Instant Ratings

A. C. Nielsen Co. officially confirmed last week the development of its own tv instantaneous measurement device—and visitors to its Chicago headquarters have had an opportunity to see it in action.

The market research organization also said it has discussed the Instantaneous Audimeter device with network officials but has not actively tried to "promote" the instrument for use.

Nielsen has been conducting a "pilot stage operation" with a new audimeter in about two dozen Chicago homes since last fall and reports "continuing evolution and improvement." Similar tests were conducted in a like number of homes by Nielsen in Chicago and New York in 1946. The instrument is comparable in objectives to American Research Bureau's Arbitron, which will become operative this year.

Initial confirmation came out last week in The Nielsen Newscast March issue, reporting "considerable interest" by visitors who have seen the device. Nielsen reported "the I. A. automatically compiles homes-using television and station-audience data each minute round the clock, printing out (on tape) minute-by-minute and quarter-hour summaries."

Nielsen spokesmen describe the device as more utilitarian than eye-appealing, with "simplicity" as its keynote. It involves the use of telephone wires between the Chicago homes and Nielsen offices on a daily basis.

It's acknowledged that Nielsen has not actively publicized the instrument, primarily because of the cost factors involved at this time, but "some progress" is continually being made along this line. While Nielsen is not expected to begin instantaneous operations in the immediate future, there are indications it may do so before year's end.

Why U. S. Steel expended $1 million in a two-year quest for a new image

There's a new look to U. S. Steel advertising. So new that it may even take into account television spot—marking the corporation's first use of non-network television—though probably not until late this year or early 1959. The purpose: to slam home the new corporate image of U. S. Steel.

U. S. Steel unveiled this "new look" last week. It is the end product of a two-year study of how better to sell Americans on U. S. Steel Corp. as a corporation, as well as to how better to sell Americans on more products made of steel.

U. S. Steel, which last year had a net income of $419.4 million in spite of a steady decrease of the total market—32 to 28.7% over the past 10 years—has good reason to make Americans more "steel conscious." So do its competitors such as Bethlehem, Republic, Inland, Crucible, Allegheny, National and Youngstown Sheet & Tube. The tried-and-true Wall St. maxim that "if you want to know the state of the economy, watch steel," took on considerable meaning last week as steel ovens were working at 48% of capacity, as Detroit laid off more auto workers and as aluminum salesmen told their customers of a two-cent per pound price reduction.

The "new look" has been in the making for two years [CLOSED CIRCUIT, March 10]. Its cost to date has been estimated at roughly $1 million (research and development); its execution will probably add in excess $2 million to its already fat corporate budget of $9 million (of which $3 million goes toward its alternate-week sponsorship of the Theatre Guild's U. S. Steel Hour on CBS-TV Wednesdays, 10-11 p.m. Coincidentally, the company last week announced renewal of the CBS-TV program for another year).

Before deciding on its new symbol and theme ("Today's U. S. Steels lighten your work . . . brighten your leisure . . . widen your world"), U. S. Steel and its agency, BBDO New York, called in Alfred Politz Research Inc. to conduct an exhaustive survey of what Americans thought of steel products generally, U. S. Steel in particular. Meanwhile, the design firm of Lippincott & Margulies fashioned a new "USS" logo which premiered on the Steel Hour last month.

According to Bennett Chapple, administrative vice president (commercial), Politz found that most Americans tended to associate steel with heavy machinery, strength and heaviness. They erroneously assumed stainless steel to be "much lighter and more reasonably priced . . . both, incidentally, untrue." And while the public gave U. S. Steel a high rating on product-oriented factors such as research and bigness ("bigness is greatness"), it knew little, if anything, about its divisions and subsidiaries such as American Bridge, American Steel & Wire, National Tube, Universal Atlas Cement, etc. In fact, less than 10% of the population, according to Politz, could tie these companies up with U. S. Steel although in many instances they had heard of the existence of these companies. Suggested Politz: publicize the fact that they are "part of the family."

BBDO recommended that since Politz had found that 66% of the population could associate and identify the "USS" trademark with U. S. Steel—a very high number—the logical solution would be to develop a way whereby all U.S.S. products could be tagged. Enter Lippincott & Margulies and the tri-colored symbol (see picture). Said Mr. Chapple: "We will execute an aggressive campaign to promote the use of the new mark on steel products as they leave the factory and as they go on display at the point of sale." The label will not identify U. S. Steel "products," as products made by U. S. Steel; a label which bears the tri-color symbol and the "lighten-brighten-widen" slogan will simply say steel." It will be offered by U. S. Steel to its competitors at cost in hopes of stimulating over-all steel sales. "Since we sell to just about everybody in the consumer product business, anything that helps steel helps U. S. Steel," a spokesman declared.

In effect, U. S. Steel is doing what Aluminum Co. of America did three years ago. Only early in 1955, Alcoa—one of the four giant aluminum firms (with Kaiser, Reynolds, Aluminium Ltd.) cutting into much of Steel's business—was faced with a minor crisis: Defense Dept. orders had been cut considerably following the Korean truce; aluminum, which has grown like Topsy, had to find new markets to accommodate stepped-up production. Most logical market: the home. In June of that year, its agency, Fuller & Smith & Ross, New York, announced it would not be picking up the Edward R. Murrow-Fred W. Friendly' See It Now on CBS-TV (which Alcoa had been using as an institutional prestige program). Its reason: Alcoa was "going consumer." It came out with a new red-and-blue symbol and a slogan ("You Can Live With Aluminum"), and a tag ("We chose Alcoa . . .") which Alcoa customers could attach to their household products. In December 1955, Alcoa supplmented its NBC-TV Alcoa Theatre with a "vertical" sales push on that network; all day Dec. 6, Alcoa pushed its "new look" on network and, in some cases, spot.

Just how and when U. S. Steel will place its spot drives is still to be worked out. While U. S. Steel executives admit privately that at the outset such a push would be limited in size and expenditure, it is expected that much emphasis will be placed on co-op campaigns, either regionally (by U. S. Steel customers and/or by local dealers selling appliances made of U. S. Steel and bearing the new "trademark." (U. S. Steel managed to make considerable headway using the last-mentioned system on radio during "Operation Snowflake," both in 1956 and 1957). The new tag will be applied to all products made of U. S. Steel or by U. S. Steel subsidiaries and divisions working for the consumer. The Pittsburgh firm claims one-third of its business is geared for the home and farm, but it includes automobiles, which in turn account for 80% of steel produced for the consumer.

Just how much U. S. Steel will allocate to tv spot has yet to be decided. Mr. Chapple could offer no specifics nor could other officials of Steel's advertising department. (The company is presently placing "some tv spot" in the intermountain region on behalf of its fertilizer and chemical products, may use this schedule as a "test run" for the new label). Should U. S. Steel decide to splurge in spot (probably not until 1959) chances are that any large allocations would also include co-op funds. Spot is necessary in the company's ad plans; it knows that not everyone it wishes to reach watches Steel Hour. It also is aware of Steel Hour's excellent "sponsor identification" [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, Jan. 20] and realizes that to purchase another network show would merely diffuse that identification. Any way one looks at it, Steel's "new look" is quite a radical departure from the way it looked to media in 1937 when U. S. Steel's total ad allocation was $700,000.

Desilu's Hamilton Named Lever Bros. Tv Consultant

Lever Bros., which ranked as fourth largest national tv advertiser last year, has appointed A. E. Hamilton, a former vice president of Desilu Inc., as television consultant.

It is presumed that Mr. Hamilton in his capacity as consultant will offer the company advice on show properties including their audience appeal. It could not be determined whether he will recommend program formats for Lever, but a spokesman for the company said last week that this was "possible." Lever indicated in New York that Mr. Hamilton most likely will operate on the West Coast and concentrate on filmed properties. Edgar Kobak, station owner and business consultant, is a consultant to Lever Bros. in New York.

Lever in 1957 invested nearly $24 million at gross rates in national tv, more than $16.2 million in network and over $7.6 million in spot, according to compilations made by Publishers Information Bureau and N. C. Rorabaugh Co.

Frigidaire, GMC Truck & Coach Still Looking for New Agency

General Motors' Frigidaire and GMC truck & coach divisions accounts (with estimated total billings of $9 million) were still unassigned Thursday. The accounts withdrew from Kudner Adv. a fortnight ago [Adv. & AGENCIES, March 31].

Key principals for both divisions were busy all week talking with agencies, it was reported, but no decisions were forthcoming.

Among agency candidates, it was learned that Campbell-Ewald Co. (which has GM's Chevrolet) is "very much being considered," while McCann-Erickson (which recently inherited Buick) was reported "not under consideration," chiefly because it already has competing Westinghouse Electric Co. (refrigerators).

Other agencies bidding for Frigidaire reportedly included Benton & Bowles, D'Arcy Adv. and Ted Bates. A Frigidaire spokesman in Dayton, Ohio, merely reported "we are considering several agencies" and that a decision will be made "in due time," probably within the next two weeks.

Campbell-Ewald Co. emerges as a front-runner because it handles Chevrolet and Delco products and is in line for GM's Motorama showcase campaign. MacManus, John & Adams is considered a favorite for GMC truck & coach to complement its Pontiac-Cadillac accounts. Cutoff dates on Frigidaire and truck & coach accounts at Kudner are effective with the appointment of a new agency or agencies.

Taking Ratings at Face Value Is Slanting of Facts: Roslow

The intelligent user of broadcast research looks beyond the program's rating itself and considers how the rating was obtained; what it means and the competitive and historical record of the time slot, the program and the station.

This evaluation of the role of ratings in broadcast research was offered by Laurence Roslow, associate director of The Pulse Inc., New York, in a talk March 27 before the Television and Radio Advertising Club of Philadelphia. He emphasized that unless all the elements associated with a rating are ascertained, "the rating is just a figure that means only what its users want it to mean." He added:

"Since ratings are used by both program and sales people, it is obvious that each of them wants the ratings for a different purpose. Yet, too often each of them will use ratings without additional information and without knowing what they mean. If they invested in the stock market in so unintelligent a manner, their portfolios would be short on blue chips and overlong on blue sky shares."

COUNTER-PUNCH

An 896-line ad stressing television as "far and away America's top hard-sell medium" was placed in the Wall Street Journal last Wednesday by the Television Bureau of Advertising. The newspaper recently had run articles interpreted by TvB as de-emphasizing television's ability for hard selling.

Copies of the ad were distributed to TvB members with a note explaining that "with the talk of advertising cutbacks, the increase in corporate image concern, the public press neglect of the facts about television as a business, with the increasing importance of the banking-financial industry to the television industry, we thought it time that the story of today's television be presented." The note suggested that stations use parts of the ad on the air or place it in local papers, and also pointed up TvB's work with financial interests.

Lever Bros., is editor of Madison Avenue. Managing editor is Bill Greeley, formerly with Tide and Television Age magazines. The first issue will appear about May 5, aimed at executives of advertising agencies and client firms in New York. Madison Avenue will have controlled circulation.

HOW PEOPLE SPEND THEIR TIME

There were 124,216,000 people in the U. S. over 12 years of age during the week March 23-29. This is how they spent their time:

71.9%	(89,311,000) spent 1,875.5 million hours	WATCHING TELEVISION
57.0%	(70,803,000) spent 983.0 million hours	LISTENING TO RADIO
83.7%	(103,969,000) spent 431.2 million hours	READING NEWSPAPERS
32.1%	(39,873,000) spent 186.1 million hours	READING MAGAZINES
23.1%	(28,694,000) spent 327.8 million hours	WATCHING MOVIES ON TV
23.7%	(29,500,000) spent 115.5 million hours	ATTENDING MOVIES*

These totals, compiled by Sindlinger & Co., Ridley Park, Pa., and published exclusively by BROADCASTING each week, are based on a 48-state, random dispersion sample of 7,000 interviews (1,000 each day). Sindlinger's weekly and quarterly "Activity" report, from which these weekly figures are drawn, furnishes comprehensive breakdowns of these and numerous other categories, and shows the duplicated and unduplicated audiences between each specific medium. # THEY'RE SETTING SIGHTS FOR SUMMER

Tv schedules heavy on re-runs; videotape gets its first big chance

The television networks are pinning down two major summertime projects—facilities for fighting perennial daylight saving time disruptions, and the hot-weather programming to be fed over these facilities.

In magnetic videotape recording they have a new sedative that promises to ease the DST strain (see page 54). But in programming they and their advertisers appear to depend in large measure on something old instead of something new—re-runs of wintertime series.

There are some who say these also will be sedative—to audiences—and a group of affiliates of at least one network, NBC-TV, is planning a protest meeting in hopes of getting more virile fare into the summer lineup. The meeting is slated April 15 in New York.

An NBC spokesman said Friday, however, that he was unaware that the April 15 meeting involved program complaints and that, indeed, the agenda could hardly include complaints at this time because the affiliates didn't know details of the summer plans. Actually, he asserted, the plans are by no means firm yet and accordingly subject to change. Presumably this will be true for all networks virtually right up to airtime in each case.

A survey conducted by BROADCASTING show that, on the basis of plans thus far, approximately 65 half-hours of network evening time each week will be filled with re-runs of what sponsors and networks consider the best episodes of their winter film series. This represents close to half of all network evening time.

While some affiliates take affront at the summertime lineups, feeling they add up to as sterile a summer as television ever faced, other stations appear willing to accept the situation on the theory that it probably cannot be greatly helped. Their reasoning: Some sterility is inevitable so long as advertisers, to keep costs down, insist on buying 39 shows and re-running 13 instead of buying 52 all-new shows.

A few programs on each of the three networks are clearly on try-out. If they make good track records during the hot-weather months they'll be slipped into the 1958-59 fall and winter lineups. Among these:

On ABC-TV: Sylvester L. (Pat) Weaver's Make Me Laugh, which started a short time ago (Thursdays, 10-10:30 p.m.), and the Dick Clark Show, now in the Saturday 7:30-8 p.m. spot.

On CBS-TV: Too Young To Go Steady, which General Foods is considering for the Monday 9:30-10 p.m. spot for the summer, would be testing for a fall spot, as is Wingo, which already has moved into the Tuesday 8:30-9 p.m. period.

On NBC-TV: Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme will almost certainly find a regular spot if they make good as Steve Allen's summer replacement, and Jefferson Drum, a new film series, can be expected to be carried over if it gets a high summer mark.

Networks, their advertisers and agencies still are looking for summer replacements for a number of shows. These include Sid Caesar, Pat Boone, Frank Sinatra, Patricia Munsel and possibly Love That Jill, Voice of Firestone, West Point and Colt .45 on ABC-TV; Red Skelton, The Lineup, Person to Person and possibly Sgt. Preston and Dick and the Duchess on CBS-TV, and on NBC-TV, George Gobel-Eddie Fisher, Tic Tac Dough among others.

Despite the uncertainty about these shows a lot of veterans are set for re-viewing. Among them:

ABC-TV: Maverick, Cheyenne, Sugar Foot, Wyatt Earp, Broken Arrow, Disneyland, Tombstone Territory, Ozzie & Harriet, Circus Boy, Zorro, Real McCoys, Navy Log, Rin-Tin-Tin and Jim Bowie.

CBS-TV: Lassie, The Brothers, GE Theatre, Hitchcock Presents, Robin Hood, Burns & Allen, I Love Lucy, Mr. Adams & Eve, Gerald McBoing-Boing, Leave It to Beaver, Playhouse of Mystery, Millionaire, Richard Diamond, Playhouse 90, Track-down, Zane Grey Theatre, Phil Silvers, Schlitz Playhouse, Perry Mason, Gale Storm Show, Have Gun, Will Travel and Gun-smoke.

NBC-TV: Noah's Ark, Loretta Young (at least until June 29), Restless Gun, Wells Fargo, Alcoa-Goodyear Theatre, Suspicion, dramatic film anthology, Bob Cummings Show, Californians, Wagon Train, Father Knows Best, This Is Your Life, You Bet Your Life, Dragnet, People's Choice, Jane Wyman, Life of Riley, M-Squad, Thin Man, People Are Funny, Turning Point, No Warning and On Trial (under the new name of the Joseph Cotten Show).

Some of the summer programs have been tried before, under their present or other names, and dropped. Among these are The Brothers and McBoing-Boing on CBS-TV and Noah's Ark, No Warning (formerly Panic!), Turning Point and Joseph Cotten Show (On Trial) on NBC-TV.

No matter how the coin falls—Washington rates high

If it comes up "Family Income," consider: the 1957 median for the Washington, D. C. urban area was $6,500—an increase of 49% since 1949 and about 20% higher than the U. S. urban area median. If it comes up "Total Income," consider again: the 1957 Washington Metropolitan Area personal income total approximated $4.6 billions. Per capita, this amounted to $2,310 for Metropolitan Washington—compared to the U. S. average of $2,016.*

There's one more factor to consider—how best to reach this exceptionally affluent market. And that's where WWDC Radio comes up—loud and clear. We have been first or a mighty close second in every PULSE of 1957 and thus far this year. We have a simple formula—to be a listenable station to our audience, and a promotional station to our hundreds of national and local advertisers. The mutually happy result—ever-increasing listeners for us, ever-increasing sales for you.

VIDEOTAPE PRESCRIPTION FOR DST

The use of videotape by all three television networks this year looks like the key to licking that old bugaboo—daylight saving time—almost completely. DST becomes effective April 27.

Notable exception: Stations operating on Pacific Standard Time, which will carry their programs one hour earlier than at present. This applies to the 14 network-affiliated stations in the states of Washington and Oregon. Networks explain they cannot accommodate those stations off their feeds to California, where there are numerous stations, because California operates on Pacific Daylight Time. It would be uneconomical for networks to arrange special lines to feed the Washington-Oregon outlets. ABC-TV is considering establishing a feeding point at Portland but has come to no definite decision.

Videotape headquarters have been set up by ABC-TV in Chicago with four recorders and associated equipment; by NBC-TV in Hollywood (12), and CBS-TV in New York (12).

Since ABC-TV is feeding from Chicago, the network is required to introduce some changes in its live evening schedule. As examples, the Wednesday Night Fights, currently carried at 10-11 p.m. on EST stations, will be carried 9-10 p.m. EST, and Ozzie and Harriet (Wed., 9-9:30 p.m.) will be slotted 10-10:30 p.m. Similar changes will be made for stations continuing on CST and MST.

CBS-TV reported that some of its stations in the Mountain zone will receive their programs an hour earlier because co-axial cable is not readily available at a later time. CBS-TV estimates that at least 98% of its programming will be carried during DST in the same period as present.

Jim Lucas . . .

This handsome, carefree "master of ceremonies" charms the ladies having "Breakfast At The Tutwiler" each weekday morning.

Folks of all ages enjoy this "man of many voices" on his weekday afternoon hour of sparkling fun and recorded music known as "Funfare."

As emcee of "Teentime," Jim delights listeners as well as the "live" audience attending the show at Birmingham's largest theatre.

A most versatile performer, Jim has an ingratiating personality that makes him one of Birmingham's top air entertainers.

Why not let this talented impersonator - comedian - singer deliver YOUR clients' sales messages?

Weighty and whimsical are the views Dave Campbell airs on "Dave Campbell Speaking," leading to varied listeners' comments as "The People Speak."

Adept at reporting on all "Spectator Sports," Tom Hamlin is proud to be the fellow who calls the football games for the nation's top team, Auburn.

Pleasing to the eye, Barbara Bender is an equal delight to the ear as she fills her role as co-emcee and vocalist on "Breakfast at the Tutwiler."

Informality is the watchword with Leland Childs as he hosts "The Early Risers' Club" and greets the afternoon audience on "Hi Neighbor."

RADIO sets tuned to Owen Spann "The Morning Man" and to "Spannland" deliver the latest music, weather information, and news in a humorous vein.

ABC RADIO HELM GOES TO DEGRAY

- Eastman leaves; 'ABN' concept to follow
- Resignations continue as streamlined programming begins

Edward DeGray officially took over direction of the ABC radio network last week as the parent American Broadcasting-Paramount Theatres completed negotiations settling Robert E. Eastman's four-years-to-run contract as network president [NETWORKS, March 31]. Mr. DeGray's appointment is being announced today (Monday) by AB-PT President Leonard H. Goldenson.

Late last week Mr. Goldenson held a group of radio affiliates that he and Mr. Eastman had come to terms and that Mr. DeGray would become operating head. Mr. Eastman said the settlement was "amicable" and that he was leaving toward the end of the week "on good terms," probably to return to the station representation business although his plans were not yet firm.

The announcement of Mr. DeGray's new post described it as head of the network. Apparently some unresolved nomenclature was involved—whether he would become president or operate the network under some other title.

Another bit of nomenclature was more certain. There appeared no reason to think that the network's "ABN" identification—from American Broadcasting Network—would be continued. "ABN" was introduced last summer as part of Mr. Eastman's concept that the radio network should not be identified with ABC-TV in any way. But "ABN" never caught up with "ABC Radio" in popular usage and now reversion to the older name is deemed certain.

In announcing Mr. DeGray's selection, Mr. Goldenson said he "brings an excellent record in the field of radio to his new post. He has program and sales experience, he is exceptionally well acquainted with the managers of our radio affiliates and he has the backing as well as the full support of ABC management."

Personnel cutbacks meanwhile continued as the network prepared to switch to its new ultra-streamlined program format over the past weekend.

Tom Harrison resigned as vice president in charge of sales; Dale Moudy as assistant to the president, and Irv Lichtenstein as director of exploitation and promotion. The network never replaced Stephen Labunski as programming vice president after he resigned several weeks ago, and last week it was learned that William Hamilton also had resigned a fortnight ago as national program director.

John White, national sales manager, is expected to head up the sales organization with Mr. Harrison's departure. Two weeks ago four of the network's seven salesmen were among "about eight" people reported being let go [CLOSED CIRCUIT, March 24].

Under the new program format, which was to become effective yesterday (Sunday), ABC Radio plans to program Breakfast Club (Mon.-Fri. 9-10 a.m. EST), continue and expand its newscasts and continue its religious and other public service programming.

The fate of the Saturday afternoon Metropolitan Opera broadcasts, sponsored for years by Texaco, was reported still up in the air. Network officials told Texaco representatives some weeks ago, when the network's future was even more in doubt, that Texaco was free to consider moving the opera to another network if it wished. No decision had been made known late last week.

Plans for ABC Radio's future were explored Monday in a meeting of representatives of some two dozen affiliates, and another meeting of this group and ABC Radio authorities is expected to be held during the NAB convention later this month, or sometime in May. Participants said last Monday's session was a general study of what might be done to improve the network, that it was conducted in a friendly atmosphere and that none of the affiliates indicated he might drop his affiliation.

This meeting was called by Otto Brandt of the King broadcasting stations (KING Seattle and others); Roger Clipp of the Triangle stations (WFIL Philadelphia and others); Donald Davis of KMBC Kansas City, and Alex Keese of WFAA Dallas. The stations met both among themselves and with AB-PT and ABC officials including Mr. Goldenson; James Riddell, new executive vice president of the ABC division, and Mr. DeGray.

Mr. DeGray, new operating head of the radio network, has been vice president in charge of station relations. He joined the network in 1955 as national director of station relations and became a vice president in February 1957.

He entered broadcasting in the CBS accounting department in 1937, transferred to WBT Charlotte, N. C., then owned by CBS, in 1940 as office manager and later assistant general manager. In 1948 he returned to CBS headquarters in New York as executive assistant in charge of station administration, spot sales, co-op program sales and Housewives Protective League programs. He became station relations representative and co-op sales contact in 1951 and rose to national director of CBS radio station relations and supervisor in charge of radio co-op programs in 1953. In 1955 he moved to Vitapix Guild films as station relations director and switched to ABC in October of that year.

Mr. Eastman, who was executive vice president of John Blair & Co. before going to ABC last spring, said he might return to the station representation field, possibly starting his own firm, but that entry into station ownership remained a possibility.

He said he wanted to take his time in deciding his next step and that a two-week call to jury duty, starting today (Monday), should help him avoid over-hasty action.

Mr. Eastman also issued a formal statement on his resignation. It said:

"There is nothing more I can contribute to the company. We have arrived at an amicable termination of my employment.

"I regret leaving the association of some very wonderful people. I am grateful for the opportunity to have worked with men like Leonard H. Goldenson, Simon B. Siegal [AB-PT financial vice president and treasurer] and others toward whom I hold great respect and friendship.

"My plans are indefinite. However, I will most certainly remain in the broadcasting business. To my successor, Edward DeGray, I wish the very best and I know that the radio network will receive the kind of cooperation and help from stations and advertisers which will enable it to grow."

CBS-TV's Dozier Heads Tv City in Hollywood

William Dozier, CBS-TV network program executive with considerable experience in live tv production plus extensive background as a Hollywood motion picture executive, becomes the network's top administrator at its huge Television City in Hollywood, it was announced last week by Hubbell Robinson Jr., executive vice president in charge of network programs. Mr. Dozier has been appointed CBS-TV network vice president, programs, Hollywood, and "all Television City operations" will report to him.

Concurrently, Mr. Robinson announced that a two-year contract has been negotiated with Alfred J. Scalpone, since 1935 CBS-TV vice president in charge of network programs, Hollywood, to serve as independent producer and to supply CBS-TV with a minimum of two new program pilot films each year. A fortnight ago, Howard Meighan, CBS-TV vice president who has been in overall charge of Television City operations, announced his resignation to head two new firms which will produce tv commercials on video tape, a new service undertaken in association with Ampex Corp. which will provide the financing [DEADLINE, March 31]. CBS-TV at the time said it did not intend to name a replacement for Mr. Meighan in his former position.

Mr. Robinson also announced the promotion of Guy Della Cioppa from director of network programs, Hollywood, to CBS-TV network vice president and program director, Hollywood.

Mr. Dozier has been with CBS-TV since 1951 when he became head of the network's story department in New York and director of the search for new talent. The following spring he was named executive producer of dramatic programs. In January 1955 he was transferred to Hollywood as director of network programs. In the fall of 1955 he became vice president of production at RKO under Tom O'Neil's ownership and returned to CBS-TV Hollywood two years later in charge of live network originations.

Mr. Scalpone before going to CBS-TV Hollywood had been vice president in charge of radio-tv for McCann-Erickson.

Governmental Proposals Called Network Threats

Dr. Frank Stanton, CBS Inc. president, urged Wednesday in an off-the-cuff talk that radio-tv executives give "serious consideration" to "recommendations in Washington" which in his opinion would "wreck the networks."

He related what he called proposals to "tamper" with the "structure of the networks" with the depth and range of CBS' news broadcasts which, he said, included news, public affairs and religious programming. Dr. Stanton made his impromptu remarks after accepting on behalf of CBS a George Foster Peabody award for the network's performance in radio and tv news during the year. The awards were presented at a luncheon in New York attended by about 800 persons (see page 82).

Dr. Stanton led off his comment by noting that if it is important to have news in range and depth and if it is important to keep radio networks in business, executives must devote time to the "reports on our desks" dealing with proposals current in Washington to curtail network activity.

The CBS president has testified before the FCC in Washington on the so-called Barrow Report [LEAD STORY, March 10]. That report recommends changes in network option time and of multiple ownership. It was submitted to FCC by Dean Roscoe L. Barrow and his staff. Dr. Stanton warned then that prohibition of option time would abolish tv networks as they exist today and commented that parts of the Barrow Report indicated "tinkering for the sake of tinkering."

The network structure has made possible such shows as those CBS programs specifically mentioned by the Peabody Award Board, Dr. Stanton said, adding that perhaps not all shows are as good as the net-

LATE LATE SHOW

NBC-TV and its affiliates carrying The Jack Paar Show put on an after-midnight "Paar appreciation party" a weekend ago, filling New York's Plaza Hotel grand ballroom with people, comedy, music, dancing and buffet dinner.

The party, which attracted close to 600 guests, started at 1 a.m. March 29—when the Jack Paar Show was over for that night—and ran to about 6 a.m. It was designed to pay tribute to Mr. Paar for the success he has achieved with the show since he took it over late last summer. A recent NBC compilation showed that during the first week of March 1957, when it was known as the Tonight show, it carried only two advertising participations a week, whereas during the first week of March this year it had 21.

Harry Bannister, station relations vice president, presided over the proceedings. Entertainers on the program included Jan Murray, Jonathan Winters, Jack Carter, Vaughn Monroe, Jack E. Leonard, Louis Nye, the Meadowlarks, singer Connie Towers and, of course, Mr. Paar. Representatives of some 60 NBC-TV affiliates were among the guests.

works desire "but it is important that we try." (The CBS shows specifically mentioned in the award were Face The Nation, See it Now and Twentieth Century, all network programs, and a fourth program This is New York, a local radio program broadcast by CBS Radio's flagship WCBS New York.)

In 1957, Dr. Stanton continued, the category of news-public affairs-religious programming cost the network $21 million, and, he said, sponsorship failed to clear the cost leaving a "net cost or loss" of $11 million. He reminded that these are "the toughest kinds of programs to sell," and that "it is not easy to make a decision to spend $1 million or $2 million" when the network does not know the program will be successful.

Dr. Stanton, during his testimony before the FCC, had pointed to unrecovered costs of nearly $1.7 million for the Gerald McBoing-Boing color series and of nearly $1.4 million for The Seven Lively Arts, both of which failed to remain on the air.

Three Promoted in NBC-TV Sales

Walter D. Scott, vice president, NBC-TV network sales, announced three promotions last week. Stephen A. Flynn, formerly manager, tv sales traffic operations, appointed director, sales services, reporting to Mr. Scott; Joseph J. Iaricci, since 1956 manager, sales order services, named manager, contract services, reporting to Mr. Flynn, and Angus Robinson, network tv salesman in NBC's central division since 1953, appointed manager, television network sales, central division, reporting to Edward R. Hitz, vice president, tv network sales, central division.

AUBREY JOINS CBS, LEAVING ABC-TV POST

- Named creative services vp
- ABC promotes Moore, Mullen

James T. Aubrey Jr., ABC-TV programming and talent vice president, resigned last week to join CBS Inc. as vice president for creative services.

Thomas W. Moore, ABC-TV sales vice president, was named to succeed him, and William P. Mullen, manager of the ABC-

MR. AUBREY MR. MOORE MR. MULLEN

TV Detroit sales division, was advanced to the ABC-TV sales vice presidency.

At CBS Mr. Aubrey takes over the post held by Louis G. Cowan before his promotion to the presidency of the CBS-TV network division last month [NETWORKS, March 17].

Dr. Frank Stanton, CBS president, said Mr. Aubrey "will be responsible for assisting executive, operating and service management in obtaining maximum effectiveness in each of the company's operating divisions having to do with creative product. Mr. Aubrey will have no direct operating responsibilities; his position is advisory to both the chairman of the board [William S. Paley] and the president and, upon request from the divisions, to CBS Radio, CBS Television, CBS Television Stations, CBS News and Columbia Records." He also will serve on the CBS Editorial Board.

Mr. Aubrey's appointment is effective April 28. For him the move will be a return to the company he served as manager of tv network programs, Hollywood, before taking the ABC-TV post 15 months ago.

Mr. Moore, ABC-TV's new vice president for programming and talent, also is a CBS alumnus. He was general sales manager of CBS Television Film Sales, and had been with that organization since 1952, when he moved into the ABC-TV sales vice presidency last November.

Mr. Mullen, also with a CBS background, joined the ABC-TV sales department in May 1955 and was named head of the Detroit sales division in 1957.

WJIM-TV Becomes CBS Primary

WJIM-TV Lansing, Mich., has changed from a secondary to a primary affiliate of CBS-TV, it was announced Thursday by Edmund C. Bunker, CBS-TV vice president and director of station relations. The change was effective April 1, when WJIM-TV dropped NBC-TV programs which it also had carried. WJIM-TV becomes CBS-TV's 58th primary affiliates. Station is owned by Gross Telecasting Inc., of which Harold F. Gross is president.

NAB L. A. AGENDA VIRTUALLY SET

- Concurrent radio, tv management sessions planned
- Automation developments due for special attention

Programming for the annual NAB Management and Engineering Conferences to be held April 27-May 1 in Los Angeles was practically complete at the weekend as the vanguard of NAB's headquarters contingent prepared to head westward.

Management meetings are divided into concurrent radio and tv sessions, with two half-day programs in which engineering and management delegates will meet jointly.

Advance registration compares favorably with 1957 when NAB met at Chicago but the association expects attendance to run considerably below last year because of the West Coast locale. This would follow the pattern of the 1948 and 1953 conventions in Los Angeles. The advance registration fee of $25 expires April 14. After that it will be $27.50.

Engineering delegates, who traditionally spend more time in meeting rooms than management representatives, will have four days of formal programming, winding up with what is described as a spectacular feature—a demonstration, "New Adventures in Electronics," by C. N. Hoyler, manager of technical relations, David Sarnoff Research Center, Princeton, N. J.

Meetings will switch from the Biltmore Hotel and Theatre to the Statler. The two joint management-engineering meetings will be held at the theatre. All engineering programs will be at the Statler, but the radio and tv management meetings will use both hotels.

Formal engineering programming starts Monday, April 28 with papers covering such topics as transistors and new automatic devices. James E. Barr, assistant chief of the FCC Broadcast Bureau, will deliver a paper on FCC rules covering remote control and automatic logging.

NAB President Harold E. Fellows will address the engineering luncheon Monday and the management luncheon Wednesday. Speakers at other engineering luncheons will be Sir Harold Bishop, engineering director of British Broadcasting Corp., appearing Wednesday, and Adm. Charles Horne, vice president and division manager of Convair, who talks Thursday on "Guided Missile Programs—the Less Glamorous Ones." The Thursday luncheon will honor Dr. Lee DeForest, inventor of the three-element vacuum tube.

Marion Harper Jr., president of McCann-Erickson, will speak at the Tuesday management luncheon. The seven members of the FCC will take part in a Wednesday morning panel discussion, with both management and engineering delegates attending. A new Wednesday feature will be a public relations presentation.

Convention exhibits will be at the Biltmore and Statler. The convention banquet will be held Wednesday at the Palladium, in Hollywood, with ASCAP providing the show.

Both engineering and management sessions will go into automation developments. Papers at the engineering meetings will be supplemented by discussions at the management programs. The exhibits will show the latest automatic equipment developed by manufacturers.

Radio programming is under supervision of John F. Meagher, NAB radio vice president, with the tv activities under Thad H. Brown Jr., tv vice president. Everett E. Revercomb is secretary-treasurer and convention manager. William Walker, assistant treasurer, is in charge of registration and Howard H. Bell, assistant to the president for joint affairs, is program coordinator.

A. Prose Walker, NAB engineering manager, said the technical programming will lay groundwork for the future operation of automatic equipment at broadcast stations, with both radio and tv covered by the automation papers and exhibits. He said engineering attendance was near the 600 mark a year ago at Chicago.

Co-chairmen of the NAB convention are J. Frank Jarman, WDNC Durham, N. C.,

Washington Broadcasters Assn. Elects KPQ's Wallace President

Jim Wallace, KPQ Wenatchee, was elected president of the Washington State Assn. of Broadcasters at a March 28-29 meeting, held at Washington State College, Pullman. Other officers elected were W. W. Warren, KOMO Seattle, vice president, and Allen Miller, KWSC Pullman, secretary-treasurer.

MR. WALLACE

Dr. Frank Stanton, CBS president, and Sen. Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.) headed a list of speakers. The sessions included a sales clinic coordinated by Pat O'Halloran, KPQ, and Cal Watson, KWSC. Clinic speakers included Martin Boss, Pacific National Adv. Agency, Spokane, Wash.; Dean Eugene Clark, Washington State College School of Economics & Business; John Agostino, KXLY-AM-TV Spokane, and John Condon, KTAC Tacoma.

Charles H. Tower, NAB labor relations manager, told the Washington group that radio and tv stations generally are maintaining advertising revenues though competition is stiffer. He found a higher turnover among advertisers, shorter term commitments and more station effort and expense involved in maintenance of volume. He said it is fair to assume broadcasting will follow trends applicable to overall advertising expenditures unless its growth pattern and effectiveness in moving goods and services more efficiently are strong enough to make up the difference.

Other speakers included W. R. Twining, of Hamilton, Stubblefield, Twining & Assoc., San Francisco, and Ron Murphy, manager-counsel of the association. The association board includes Len Higgins, KTNT Tacoma; Saul Haas, KIRO Seattle; Wallace Reid, KORD Pasco; William Taft, KRKO Everett; Tom Bostic, KIAM Yakima; Rogan Jones, KVOS Bellingham; Dick Jones, KXLY Spokane, and Otto Brandt, KING Seattle.

RAB-RNRC '58 Figures Show Radios in Use Up 81% from '48

The total of U. S. radios in working condition stood at 139.5 million as of Jan. 1, 1958, according to the semi-annual estimate of radio set population by the joint Radio Advertising Bureau-Radio Network Research Committee released last week. The figures show that there are 81% more radios in the U. S. today than in 1948, which, RAB pointed out, is the "year tv began its real growth."

A breakdown of the sets in use today shows 93.0 million in homes; 36.5 million in autos, and 10.0 million in public places. The committee estimates there are 46.6 million U. S. households with at least one radio in working order, plus an additional 1.9 million homes with radios temporarily inoperative. A total of 37.9 million secondary sets are in use in radio homes, RAB said, adding this excludes portables and auto sets.

An increase of 3 million auto sets in the past year was shown in the report. The auto set total of 36.5 million is more than three times the number there were 10 years ago. "As a matter of fact," it was reported, "there are more auto radios today than there were total radio homes in 1947." Portable radio count is now 8.5 million.

N. Y. Press Group Installs Slate

Julian Anthony, ABC, was installed last week for a second term as president of the Radio-Newsreel-Television Working Press Assn., N. Y. Also elected were Herb Schwartz, CBS, first vice president; Gabe Pressman, NBC, second vice president; Richard Milbauer, Newsfilm USA, treasurer; Charles Campbell, free lance, secretary; Cy Avnet, NBC, assistant secretary; George Jordan, NBC, sergeant at arms. The board of governors includes Nick Archer, News of the Day-Telenews, chairman; Robert Donahue Jr., News of the Day-Telenews; Jack Fern, CBS; David Klein, NBC; Arnold Lerner, IBM; Phil Scheffler, CBS, and Ed Silverman, ABC.

SMPTTE to Hold Tv Film Session As Feature of L. A. Convention

A session on tv film distribution will highlight the 83rd semi-annual convention of the Society of Motion Picture & Television Engineers April 21-25 at the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles. The tv film session will be held at the ABC Television Center, Los Angeles.

Other subjects on the convention agenda include closed-circuit tv and plastics for the motion picture and tv industries. An exhibit of new equipment also will be featured during convention week.

Speakers announced for the tv film session: Frank G. Ralston Jr., ABC, Los Angeles, on results of a study of network film programming; Charles E. Buzzard, NBC, Hollywood, on conditions and procedures affecting a network film exchange; Henry J. Miller, ABC, Hollywood, on the difference in responsibilities of the tv film editor and the motion picture film editor; John P. Ballinger, Screen Gems Inc., Los Angeles, on the possibilities of standardization in tv film; Eric C. Johnson, Eastman Kodak Co., Rochester, N. Y., on film handling, and William W. Edwards, ABC, Hollywood, on planning film installations.

Flint Radio Stations Organize

Six radio stations in Flint, Mich., have formed the Flint Radio Broadcasters Assn. Managers of WAMM, WBBC, WFDF, WKMF, WTAC and WMRP met March 26 to organize the top-level management group and elected Richard S. Carter of WAMM president. Joseph R. Fife, WBBC, is secretary and Marvin Levey, WFDF, treasurer.

TvB Fires Back With Statistics Following Usual ANPA Claims

"The attraction and allure of television are about over," Charles T. Lipscomb Jr., president of Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Assn. told the Assn. of Advertising Men & Women in New York last week. Therefore, he said, "within the next few years, more and more big advertisers are going to switch to newspapers as their primary medium." The Television Bureau of Advertising promptly disagreed.

"Tv costs are rising and ratings declining," Mr. Lipscomb said. With more and more tv stations coming into being, the audiences become split, divided and diminished, to the point where advertisers are getting very nervous."

According to Mr. Lipscomb the average home "even if watching for a total of five hours a day) can get, at most, only 7 or 8% of the advertising on television."

A TvB spokesman said Wednesday that this was "wishful thinking" on the part of Mr. Lipscomb. TvB cited its recently released figures which show a rise in network tv audience for the first two months of 1958. January and February 1958 set "two new alltime highs," TvB said "with the average daytime television advertiser reaching 19% more homes in 1958 than 1957, while the average evening tv advertiser reached 9% more homes." The TvB report showed that the average weekday daytime program reached 692,000 more homes per broadcast in 1958 than in 1957. Figures were compiled by A. C. Nielsen Co.

WOR-TV New York's Problem: No Ratings History on Phillies

Though WOR-TV New York has obtained three advertisers to sponsor its upcoming schedule of telecasts of Philadelphia Phillies baseball games, some advertiser resistance can be traceable to the "novelty factor" of the programming, Gordon Gray, executive vice president of WOR-TV New York, told a meeting of the Sports Broadcasters Assn. of New York last week.

Mr. Gray explained that timebuyers and other agency officials at agencies prefer to have a rating on a program before they recommend its purchase. The station obviously has no rating history on Phillies games and there has been some advertiser reluctance. Mr. Gray expressed the view that if the station does not obtain complete sponsorship by the opening of the season, he believes that advertisers will buy in "within a few weeks" after the first telecast.

Mr. Gray later declined to name the three advertisers signed but said the station hoped to announce the complete roster of advertisers at a later date. WOR-TV will start telecasting 78 Phillies games on April 15.

AWRT to Meet April 24-27

The American Women in Radio and Television has announced that it will hold its Seventh Annual Convention at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco April 24-27. The theme of the convention will be "Resources and Resourcefulness."

WDAY-TV GETS SEC. 315 RELIEF

The legal dilemma of broadcasters—liability for political remarks they are forbidden to censor—received major judicial recognition Thursday in North Dakota Supreme Court.

In a 4-1 decision the court held that WDAY-TV Fargo is not liable for statements made over its facilities by a candidate in the 1956 general election campaign. The decision upheld the ruling of Judge John C. Pollock, of county district court, dismissing a $100,000 libel suit brought against the station by the North Dakota Farmers Union and A. C. Townley, a candidate for the Senate.

The Supreme Court hearing was held last Oct. 3, with Douglas A. Anello, NAB chief attorney, participating as a friend of the court [TRADE ASSNS., Oct. 7, 1957]. The Union has not decided if it will appeal.

Judge P. O. Sathre, of the Supreme Court, handed down the majority decision. It was believed to be the first time an appellate court had ruled on the liability problem created by Sec. 315 of the Communications Act of 1934, the "equal time" section. The law requires broadcasters who broadcast speeches by one or more candidates for the same office to give equal time to other candidates. It holds broadcasters may not censor speeches carried under this equal time basis, under penalty of loss of broadcast license.

In his opinion Judge Sathre said, "Since power of censorship of political broadcasts is prohibited, it must follow as a corollary that the mandate prohibiting censorship includes the privilege of immunity from liability for defamatory statements made by the speakers.

"In the instant case the defendant (WDAY-TV) was required by Sec. 315 to permit broadcast of the Townley speech. Power to censor the speech was denied by the clear and specific language of Sec. 315. We cannot believe that it was the intent of Congress to compel a station to broadcast libelous statements and at the same time subject it to the risk of defending actions for damages."

North Dakota has a state law giving immunity to broadcasters for defamatory statements made over the station by persons other than the station owner or station personnel. This law was not before the State Supreme Court in the current case.

Quenton Burdick, Farmers Union counsel, said Thursday in Fargo the Union would decide today (Monday) at a board meeting if it would take the case to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Judge James Morris, in dissenting from the majority ruling, contended that while Congress may have intended to prevent censorship of matter defamatory to candidates, this does not extend to innocent bystanders. He said, "The plaintiff is an innocent third party whose reputation has been defamed under the claimed protection of the prohibition against censorship in Sec. 315." He concluded Sec. 315 does not afford WDAY-TV a defense and that the public interest is not served by making the reputation of innocent third parties subject to destruction without recourse to the disseminator.

NTA Newark Purchase Gets FCC's Approval

The first sale of a New York market station was granted by the FCC last week to National Telefilm Assoc. Inc. with approval of the firm's $3.5 million purchase of ch. 13 WATV (TV) and WAAT-AM-FM Newark, N. J., from Irving R. Rosenhaus and associates.

The grant was made without prejudice to whatever action the Commission "may deem appropriate in the light of any determination" of certain anti-trust suits which involve NTA. Comrs. Robert Bartley and T.A.M. Craven dissented on this decision. Comr. Robert Lee was not present.

NTA, which also owns ch. 9 KMSP (TV) Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn., plans to change the call letters of its Newark stations to WNTA-AM-FM-TV. WAAT, which along with its fm affiliate was licensed to Bremer Broadcasting Corp., operates on 970 kc with 5 kw day, 1 kw night. WAAT-FM is on 94.7 mc with 13.5 kw. WATV, licensed to Atlantic Television Inc., began in 1948 on ch. 13, and is one of seven tv stations sharing an antenna atop the Empire State Bldg.

NTA is considered one of the larger distributors of feature films and tv film series to television. It has an agreement with 20th Century-Fox Corp. to release its pre-1948 films to tv as the company makes them available for television showing. NTA also operates the NTA Film Network, in which Fox holds a 50% interest.

Commenting on last week's FCC action, Ely A. Landau, board chairman and chief executive officer of NTA, said: "The acquisition of television and radio operations in metropolitan New York City is an important milestone in the growth of NTA. We have plans for a complete overhaul of the program structure of these stations, including the presentation of many live programs. Shortly we shall announce new and additional personnel to carry forward the plans we have been working on."

FCC Questions KTVW (TV) Proposed Move to Seattle

The FCC last week asked J. Elroy McCaw, owner of KTVW (TV) Tacoma, Wash., to explain why a hearing should not be set on the station's application to increase power and antenna height and move the ch. 13 outlet's transmitter into Seattle.

Questioned in the FCC's McFarland letter, among other things, was whether KTVW is attempting to become a Seattle station.

Mr. McCaw's application asked for an increase in power from 100 kw to the maximum 316 kw, an increase in antenna height from 780 to 795 feet, a change in type of transmitter and a move of KTVW's transmitter 26 miles north from its present location five miles east of Tacoma to Queen Anne Hill in Seattle.

The FCC said its findings indicate the proposed changes would place part of Tacoma in a shadow area because of major terrain obstruction; that the proposed site is in an area zoned as residential and KTVW has been refused the proposed site; that the outlet's proposal to use existing capital of $55,500 and deferred payments of $166,500 for the changes does not verify that there is an agreement for credit with an equipment manufacturer for credit terms; that KTVW's balance sheet on April 15, 1957, indicates liabilities exceed cash receivable by $127,000, and that the FCC is unable to determine if any cash at all is available or how it can be obtained from liquid assets.

WOV Joins Rush to Suburbs, Asks New York-Carlstadt ID

While some small-market broadcast stations aspire to be identified with nearby big cities, WOV New York has joined the great American rush to the suburbs.

That is the deduction to be made from the station's application to the FCC asking that it be allowed to identify itself as serving both New York and nearby Carlstadt, N. J. (population 5,591, 1950 Census). The management of the station, known for its programming to Italian-speaking audiences, explained Carlstadt has had a heavy influx of Italian-speaking and Negro populations in recent years.

But the FCC, its amazement and curiosity still unabated, last week sent WOV a McFarland Letter asking why a hearing should not be set on WOV's claim that an undue burden would be placed on the station if it remains a New York-only outlet.

Enden Dandruff Claims Revised In Wake of FTC's Crackdown

Helene Curtis Industries Inc., Chicago, has entered a consent agreement with the Federal Trade Commission that it will cease claims that Enden shampoo will unqualifiedly cure dandruff. This is the second television case based on FTC monitoring to be closed.

The agreement signed by Helene Curtis is not an admission of violating the law. It follows an official complaint filed against the cosmetic house by the FTC last summer [GOVERNMENT, Aug. 5] charging that false dandruff-curing properties were claimed for Enden in network and spot commercials. The FTC approved the consent order last week.

Helene Curtis is forbidden to claim that Enden will have any lasting effect on dandruff except during regular use, according to the FTC. One other cosmetic case developed by the monitoring unit was closed when Lanolin Plus last fall signed a consent order prohibiting scare tactics and statements that competitors' detergent shampoos burn hair [GOVERNMENT, Nov. 4]. Cases against broadcast commercials for drugs, a household cleaner and other products still are in litigation.

FCC DISCLAIMS CATV CONTROL

The FCC last week washed an old irritant, community antenna television, out of its hair.

Community antenna systems do not perform the functions of common carriers as set forth in the Communications Act, the FCC said—and dismissed a 1956 complaint by 13 radio and tv broadcast stations asking the agency to assume jurisdiction over 28 such systems operating in 36 states.

Comr. Robert T. Bartley abstained from the FCC vote which threw out the complaint filed April 6, 1956 [GOVERNMENT, April 9, 1956] by KFBC-AM-TV Cheyenne, Wyo.; KSTF (TV) Scottsbluff, Neb.; KFXJ-AM-TV Grand Junction, Colo.; KOTA-AM-TV Rapid City, S. D.; KID-AM-TV Idaho Falls, Idaho; KSPR Casper, Wyo.; KGOV-AM-TV Missoula, Mont.; KLIX-AM-TV Twin Falls, Idaho; KLAS-AM-TV Las Vegas, Nev.; KANA Anaconda, Mont.; KGLN Glenwood Springs, Colo.; KRAL Rawlins, Wyo., and KSID Sidney, Neb.

Comr. Robert E. Lee did not participate in the FCC action.

In turning down the request by the 13 western outlets, the FCC acknowledged that common carriers and CATV systems have several qualities in common. But the significant difference, the FCC emphasized, is that the signals transmitted by the former are determined by the user or subscriber, not the common carrier itself, while the signals transmitted by the CATV system are determined by the system itself, not the customer.

Although the complaint had not raised the question of possible FCC jurisdiction over CATV through the agency's radio licensing provisions, the FCC said there is doubt that these provisions may be interpreted to reach CATV systems as long as the systems don't violate prohibitions against excessive electromagnetic radiation emission.

The FCC said that while the Communications Act does not define the specific test of what is and is not a common carrier, the history of the Act has made it clear that its provisions should not apply to persons who are not common carriers in the "ordinary" or "traditionally accepted" concept of common carriers.

Fundamental to this is that the customer transmits intelligence of his own choosing, the FCC said. Acknowledging that a CATV operator would be likely to transmit programs to general listener preferences, the FCC said that nevertheless the ultimate choice is with the CATV operator, and that it's obvious the CATV operator can't program according to the desires of each individual among his customers.

Even if the FCC could assume common carrier powers over CATV, the order said, the agency doesn't feel it could restrict or control the entry or operation of CATV systems to protect broadcast stations.

The 13 outlets had claimed CATV tends to defeat the objectives of the Sixth Order & Report—to provide at least one tv service to all parts of the country and one service to each community; causes reluctance by advertisers to buy a local station when they already are getting free circulation via CATV; affects quality of local station programming because of diminished revenues from networks; inhibits construction of local and satellite stations and thus makes it tough for rural subscribers (not served by CATV) to get tv service; may create overlap of the service areas of stations under common control.

There are 500 to 600 community television systems throughout the U. S., with the heaviest concentration in mountainous regions. CATV systems, which may be privately operated or owned co-operatively by a community, receive the signals of regular tv broadcast stations in their area via an antenna, usually on a hilltop or other high ground near the community. From this point, signals are transmitted by wire, with suitable amplifiers, to the homes or places of business in a community.

Technically, a CATV system may receive and transmit the signals of up to seven tv stations if that many are within its antenna's reach, but the average is three—usually representing programs of the three tv networks. The systems can receive signals from a uhf station and convert them for reception on a conventional vhf receiving set.

CATV systems are not legally required to get permission from the tv stations whose signals they retransmit, though some do. The systems charge the set owner an installation fee ranging from $25 to $75 and a monthly fee of $3 to $7.50.

Walla Walla Shifted to All-U, In FCC Deintermixture Action

The FCC last week finalized its rule-making on Walla Walla, Wash., and amended its tv table of assignments, effective May 12, to make Walla Walla all-uhf by deleting chs. 5 and 8, adding chs. 44 and 50 (educational) and making ch. 22, now reserved for educational use, available for commercial use. Comr. Robert Bartley dissented in this decision.

At the same time the Commission rejected proposals by ch. 59 WFAM-TV Lafayette, Ind., to shift ch. 10 from Terre Haute to Lafayette, and by ch. 24 WDAN-TV Danville, Ill., to shift ch. 10 from Terre Haute to Danville.

The FCC also directed preparation of a document which would deny all ch. 12 rule-making proposals affecting Erie, Pa.; Akron-Cleveland, Ohio; Clarksburg and Weston, both West Virginia, and Flint-Saginaw-Bay City, Mich. This proceeding has involved conflicting proposals to shift ch. 12 from Erie to the Cleveland-Akron area, or to Akron or Cleveland alone, or to Canton or Cleveland for educational use. The proceeding has also involved the reassigning of ch. 12 from Flint to Saginaw-Bay City-Flint, or to Ann Arbor. The proposal to shift ch. 12 from Erie to Akron-Cleveland or to Akron alone would have necessitated transmitter site and possible channel changes of facilities in Clarksburg and Weston, W. Va.

The Commission last week invited comments by May 12 to a proposal by ch. 12

KTVH (TV) Hutchinson, Kan., to shift that channel to Wichita, Kan., so that KTVH could request modification of its license to specify operation on ch. 12 at Wichita. Comrs. Bartley and Frederick Ford dissented.

The Commission also invited comments by May 12 to petitions for rule-making to (1) shift ch. 22 from Clarksburg, W. Va., to Pittsburgh, Pa., and (2) substitute ch. 33 for ch. 73 in Youngstown, Ohio, deleting ch. 47 from Pittsburgh and adding chs. 22 and 73 to that city and ch. 79 for ch. 22 in Clarksburg. At the same time, WTVQ (TV) Pittsburgh was asked to show cause why it should not shift from ch. 47 to either ch. 22 or ch. 73, and WXTV (TV) Youngstown to change from ch. 73 to ch. 33. The first of these proposals was made by Pittsburgh's educational tv station, ch. 13 WQED (TV), to enable ch. 22 (commercial) also to be used for educational programs in Pittsburgh area. The second proposal was made by ch. 73 WXTV (TV) Youngstown, which claims to be at a disadvantage because of lower uhf channel service in its area. Chairman John Doerfer and Comr. Ford dissented.

Comr. Robert Lee was absent for the day. Chairman Doerfer was absent for the Walla Walla, Wash., allocation.

Objections Filed at Commission To Storer Experimental V Bid

Storer Broadcasting's petition to construct an experimental station in the Wilmington-Philadelphia area on ch. 12 to broadcast the regular program schedule of Storer's ch. 12 WVUE (TV) Wilmington, [GOVERNMENT, Feb. 24] ran into opposition from ch. 12 WBNF-TV Binghamton, N. Y., sister station of WFIL-TV Philadelphia.

WBNF-TV states that the Storer proposal is contrary to the public interest because "construction and operation of the proposed facilities at the site specified will reduce the mileage separation" between WVUE and WBNF-TV "substantially below the minimum" permitted by the FCC. The experimental station would also cause objectionable interference to WBNF-TV, and the proposed station does not offer a "valid program of research and experimentation." WBNF-TV feels the WVUE experiment is "subterfuge."

WPRO-TV Providence, R. I., has also objected to the experimental station, stating that it will cause "objectionable interference". WPRO-TV wants either a denial, hearing, or the limitation on Storer to confine its experiment to no-interference hours or to modify its proposal so no interference will be caused WPRO-TV.

WGKA-AM-FM Programs Proper

WGKA-AM-FM Atlanta was reported in BROADCASTING as one of nine radio stations receiving a letter of inquiry from the FCC regarding purported program imbalance [CLOSED CIRCUIT, March 31]. This was incorrect. WGKA, which runs a good music program operation, was informed that its application for license renewal was received too late for processing. There was no question of programming imbalance. FCC staff has WGKA application under review now.

RADIO TRAFFIC AID CITED TO CONGRESS

- House group holds hearings
- MBS, WIP, NAB appear

Radio broadcasters told Congress last week that radio can be used to beat death on the highways.

"The only possible way of reaching the man or the woman driving a car is through radio," one of them told a subcommittee of the House Commerce Committee.

MBS' Charles Godwin described Mutual's network of East Coast affiliates which furnish road and weather information to Florida-bound motorists in winter months. A unique aspect of this Operation Roadbeat program, Mr. Godwin pointed out, is that participating Mutual stations tell listeners where to turn their dials for additional information enroute from one area to another.

He called for the establishment of a centralized reporting system so all media could receive traffic information quickly and easily.

Mr. Godwin illustrated his statement with a 2½-minute tape recording of a WIP Philadelphia broadcast on road and traffic conditions. He also read a statement for MBS president Armand Hammer, saying 36 million automobiles are equipped with radio.

Ralf Brent, WIP executive, told committee members, that the Philadelphia station broadcasts almost 100 traffic announcements weekly, and has been promoting highway safety for 22 years.

One special WIP program, Heading Home, runs from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. for homeward bound workers, Mr. Brent related. He also said that the General Motors Acceptance Corp. sponsors 30 traffic announcements weekly. WIP is one of the stations in the country carrying the GMAC campaign on a 52-week-a-year basis, he said. During the summer months, he explained, GMAC expands this campaign to 300 stations.

WIP also uses an airplane in the summer months to spot traffic conditions, Mr. Brent said. Reports from the plane are broadcast direct to listeners in cars via WIP, he explained.

He also said WIP has received many grateful calls from motorists during the severe snowstorm three weeks ago expressing appreciation for the advice on what to do and what not to do if an automobile ran into a fallen power line or one fell on a car.

Vincent T. Wasilewski, NAB government relations manager, told the committee that radio-television placed 2,114,515,000 "home impressions" on traffic safety during 1957. This was attributed to A. C. Nielsen Co.

Mr. Wasilewski also related what some stations were doing to bring traffic conditions to the attention of motorists. In Los Angeles, he related, one station uses a helicopter to survey traffic conditions and broadcast them to the motoring public [PROGRAMS & PROMOTION, March 31].

Georgia broadcasters conducted a "Deathless Weekend" campaign in 1957 which contributed substantially if not entirely, to a reduction from the average nine traffic fatalities per weekend to only two. Kentucky broadcasters use daily beeper reports on statewide traffic conditions, furnished by the State Police, Mr. Wasilewski said.

Radio works in other ways to promote traffic safety, Ed Kiester, travel editor of Parade Magazine, reminded. He alluded to the companionship radio brings the solo driver as well as its news function.

The only dissent to the unanimous presentation calling for greater centralization in the handling of traffic news came from Ross D. Netherton, legislative counsel for the American Automobile Assn. He praised the ability and service radio performs in alerting the public and the motorist to traffic and road conditions—describing also the co-operation which AAA furnishes in collecting and disseminating this information—but he expressed his opposition to the "commercialization of travel condition news." He also said monopolies of such information are not in the public interest.

The special House Subcommittee on traffic safety is headed by Rep. Kenneth A. Roberts (D-Ala.), and includes Democratic Reps. Walter Rogers (Tex.), Samuel N. Friedel (Md.) and J. Carlton Loser (Tenn.), and Republican Reps. John V. Beamer (Ind.), Alvin R. Bush (Pa.) and Paul F. Schenck (Ohio).

The hearing was held at the behest of broadcasters who asked for the opportunity of explaining how they could help in bringing down traffic fatalities.

CBS' Salant Counterattacks On McDonald Network Charges

"Nightmarish fantasy." That is what Richard C. Salant, CBS vice president, termed the letter sent to newspaper publishers by Comdr. E. G. McDonald Jr., president of Zenith Radio Corp. [CLOSED CIRCUIT, March 31].

Mr. Salant told Mr. McDonald in a March 26 letter answering the Zenith attack on CBS and NBC that it was inconceivable that anyone "remotely acquainted with both the statutory and practical safeguards under which the broadcasting industry in this country operates could voice such charges."

The Salant reply, also circulated to members of the Senate and House Commerce

COMDR. McDONALD

MR. SALANT

Committees, noted that broadcasting is regulated by the FCC and that it is impossible, even if a broadcaster wished, to operate contrary to the public interest. He also stressed that the public would not let unfair play go undetected and uncorrected without reaction.

"Indeed," Mr. Salant said, "the record of the broadcasting industry in controversial matters is conspicuous among all media for the diversity of views that it presents."

Comdr. McDonald's March 21 letter to newspaper editors and publishers accused the networks and their affiliates of scuttling proposed tests of pay tv through a campaign of distorted editorials. He also expressed great concern at the potential for "thought control" inherent in the broadcast medium.

FCC Upholds KTVI (TV) For Ch. 2 St. Louis

The FCC last week granted ch. 2 in St. Louis to KTVI (TV), licensed to Signal Hill Telecasting Corp.

The station had held a license for ch. 36, but has operated on ch. 2 under temporary authorization for about a year.

The grant affirmed an initial decision in February by Hearing Examiner Herbert Sharfman favoring the grant. The approval is subject to any future action the FCC may take concerning minimum mileage separation requirements between the St. Louis ch. 2 and proposed sites for co-channel 2 at Terre Haute, Ind.

Examiner Sharfman recommended the grant after a merger agreement between Signal Hill (KTVI) and Louisiana Purchase Co., both applicants for ch. 2, in which Louisiana Purchase agreed to become 10% owner of KTVI [GOVERNMENT, Feb. 24]. The terms of the agreement called for Louisiana Purchase principals to pay 10 cents a share individually for a total 135,190 shares of KTVI stock and for Signal Hill to reimburse Louisiana Purchase for part of that firm's actual expenses by payment of $41,000.

The FCC in making the grant last week waived its mileage separation requirements in the Terre Haute-St. Louis cases contingent on location of the Terre Haute ch. 2 transmitter at an antenna farm area there at an exact site to be approved by the FCC.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat owns 25% of KTVI. The newspaper exercised its option to acquire this interest (also at 10 cents a share) after relinquishing its 23% interest in the St. Louis ch. 4 station, bought by CBS Inc.

WQXR Challenges WDXR Grant

WQXR New York has asked the U. S. Court of Appeals in Washington to reverse the FCC's 1957 grant of 1560 kc with 1 kw unlimited to E. Weaks McKinney-Smith in Paducah, Ky. (now WDXR). WQXR is the Class 1-B station on 1560 kc. WQXR's petition for rehearing was denied by the FCC in February of this year.

The 1560 kc grant was made after a hearing, with WQXR as a party. An examiner ruled against the grant to McKinney-Smith, but the Commission overruled and granted the application in February 1957. New York Times-owned WQXR claimed that its license was modified without a hearing and that the grant conflicted with the so-called 10% rule (Sec. 3.28(c)), which prohibits grants in certain cases where the proposed station would receive interference from existing or dominant stations affecting 10% or more of its potential primary coverage area.

Next to Face Barrow Hearing: Meredith, Storer, Westinghouse

The FCC announced last week that resumption of the Barrow Report network practices hearing tomorrow will commence with Meredith Publishing Co. as the first witness, with Storer and Westinghouse following. The sessions will be held on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday of this week.

The scheduled April 15 date has been changed to April 14, with network affiliate committees on the stand. These sessions will run through April 18, except for April 16 (Wednesday) which is the Commission's usual meeting day.

The third group of meetings will take place April 22, at which time Richard A. Moore, KTTV (TV) Los Angeles—expected to be the first (and possibly the only) witness to support the Barrow Report findings—will testify.

WJRT (TV) Gets Closer On Flint, Mich., Ch. 12 Grant

The four-year-old case of ch. 12 Flint, Mich., moved toward conclusion last week as the FCC directed preparation of documents affirming its previous grant of ch. 12 to WJRT (TV), as modified by changes in transmitter and programming.

The Commission heard a second oral argument in this case last January [GOVERNMENT, Jan. 27]. By this decision, the Commission would again deny competing applications of Trebit Corp. and W. S. Butterfield Theatres Inc. for ch. 12 in Flint. It would also deny protests by ch. 57 WKNX-TV Saginaw, ch. 54 WTOM-TV Lansing and ch. 13 WWTV (TV) Cadillac, all Michigan, and affirm a previous grant to WJRT to move its transmitter site from a point southeast of Flint (Clarkston) to a point northwest of Flint (Chesaning), to make antenna changes and to change studio location in Flint.

Sen. Schoepfel Says Continuance Of ABC Radio Network Vital

Sen. Andrew F. Schoepfel (R-Kan.) is worried about the news that ABC may be forced to shut down the American Broadcasting Network (see story, page 56). In statements on the Senate floor the Kansas Republican praised the four radio networks and said he hoped ABC, "in a decision worthy of public admiration, will find it possible to continue its radio network's role as a vital link in the chain of man's knowledge and understanding."

Sen. Schoepfel, a member of the Senate Commerce Committee, said the "essentiality of radio networks is more pronounced than ever."

Hennings' Secrecy Bill Slated For Second Subcommittee Airing

A bill which its author says will "make it clear beyond any doubt" that present law "does not authorize censorship or the withholding of information from the public" will be aired again April 16 when the Senate Constitutional Rights Subcommittee resumes hearings on the measure.

Sen. Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (D-Mo.), author of the bill (S 921) and chairman of the subcommittee, said the bill would amend the government "housekeeping statute which permits executive department heads to prescribe regulations for the custody, use and preservation of the records and papers in the departments."

Sen. Hennings said that among those testifying will be representatives of the various news-gathering media. The senator has invited Attorney General William P. Rogers to return to state his views on the bill. Sen. Hennings said Mr. Rogers' testimony March 6 before the Senate group [GOVERNMENT, March 10] and a later letter from Mr. Rogers to Sen. Hennings are in "conflict."

Rep. George Meader (R-Mich.), an acknowledged critic against secrecy in government, last week in a talk on the House floor criticized Mr. Rogers and asked him to explain his position that the President has unlimited power to keep information secret. A companion bill (HR 2767) is in the House.

THE 10 TOP FILMS IN 10 MAJOR MARKETS

AS RATED BY ARB IN FEBRUARY

FROM the monthly audience surveys of American Research Bureau, BROADCASTING each month lists the 10 top-rated syndicated film programs in 10 major markets, selected to represent all parts of the country with various degrees of competition. Despite all precautions, occasional errors will occur in these tables, due to use of the same program name for both a syndicated and a network series and the practice of some stations of substituting local titles (such as [advertiser] Theatre) for real program names.

Wonder of the World

The Ida Cason Callaway Gardens in western Georgia is a non-profit 2,500-acre paradise of tall trees, cool lakes, wildflowers and sunshine. 25,000 people, motoring an average distance of one hundred miles, find beauty here on a sunny weekend. They boat and they swim. They bask on clean white sand—19,000 tons of it, hauled in to carpet a crescent of lake shore. They play golf, they picnic and they stroll along miles of flower-studded paths.

One project now under construction is the open-air dining pavilion, shown in the drawing. The pavilion will be beautiful and amazing, because the giant, concrete-covered umbrellas seem to be engineering impossibilities. They are designed not only to be uniquely beautiful, but to serve pleasure seekers for generations to come. And to be sure that they do, they will be built of USS steel and Universal Atlas cement for exceptional strength and durability.

Producers Mobilize To Fight Tax Formula

Morris Stoller of the William Morris Agency has been appointed chairman of a steering committee on taxes of the Alliance of Television Film Producers. The group, whose 22 members account for about 85% of all tv film production, has decided to spearhead the fight against a change in the federal tax formula that "threatens to put the independent producer of films for television out of business," Maurice Morton, ATFP president, said last week in announcing the committee.

"Because we consider this the most important single issue to confront us in our existence, the entire executive committee of ATFP is acting as Mr. Stoller's committee," Mr. Morton stated. The group includes President Morton (McCadden Productions); Maurice Unger, vice president (Ziv Tv); Archer Zamloch, treasurer (Hal Roach); Jack Findlater, secretary (Revue); two ATAS immediate past presidents, Hal Roach Jr. and Armand Schoeffler (Flying A), and John Zinn, ATFP executive secretary.

"Virtually all tv film companies keep their books on a 'cost recovery' basis," Mr. Morton said, explaining the operation with this example. A company produces a series of 40 half-hour films at an average cost of $40,000 each or a total of $1.6 million. The series is sold to a sponsor for the same figure, $1.6 million. In addition, the sponsor buys 12 reruns at $10,000 apiece, or a total of $120,000. The producing company, therefore, has taken in $1,720,000, has spent $1,600,000 and has a taxable income of $120,000. At 50% the tax would be $60,000. Having paid that to the government, the company has $60,000 in the bank which it can invest in another pilot.

What is proposed is a change from the "cost recovery" system to an "amortization" method of calculating the tax on tv films, he stated. Under this method, the probable life of the film series is estimated and the cost of production spread over the entire period. Various tax officials have set varying probable life spans, he commented. Arbitrarily taking a two-year figure for his hypothetical case, he pointed out that producer's income for the year remains at $1,720,000, but he can now charge off only $800,000 of his cost as applicable to the year. The taxable income is now not $120,000, but $920,000. The tax is not $60,000, but $460,000.

"Instead of paying his tax and having enough money left to start work on a new series, our producer finds himself with $120,000 on hand and a tax bill of $460,000. So he has to borrow $340,000 just to pay his federal taxes, assuming he can get a loan for that purpose, and he's left with no capital for future operations," Mr. Morton commented.

The question of an amortization vs. a cost recovery tax formula hinges on whether a film series is sold outright or rented, a spokesman for the Internal Revenue Service in Washington said. It would not be reasonable, he said, to figure rental income on a cost recovery basis, if a series can be rented for indefinite reruns, just as income from building rental is not written off on an immediate cost recovery basis but amortized over a period of years.

"We aren't trying to dodge our just taxes," the ATFD president declared. "There is no reluctance about paying taxes on income actually received. But we don't want to be taxed on money we don't get.

"This is a risky business. Several hundred pilots are made each year, but only about 20 new film series ever get on the air. The odds have been put at about 18 to one. And when a series is sold, the producer is usually working six to eight weeks ahead. This means he's carrying a $250,000 investment, usually financed through a bank loan which he can get because he has a contract as collateral. But who can finance a loan of $340,000 with nothing to show for it but a receipted tax bill?"

New Rogers Firm Set For Tv Distribution

Formation of Empire Productions Inc. to handle syndication of the 100 Roy Rogers tv film programs sponsored by General Foods on NBC-TV as well as the production of new tv programs is being announced today (Monday) by Roy Rogers.

Edward L. (Ned) Koenig Jr. has resigned as vice president in charge of sales for Hal Roach Studios to become president of the new company. W. Arthur Rush, executive director of Roy Rogers Enterprises will be chairman of the board. Mr. Rogers will also be personally active in the management.

Empire Productions will headquarter in the building owned by Roy Rogers Enterprises at 357 N. Canon Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif.

The new company is the first independent tv production firm to set up its own sales organization for the direct mail of "off-the-network" programs, Mr. Koenig stated. "The decision to market our own products," he said, "was made in the interest of reducing increasingly-high distribution costs with which advertisers, agencies, stations and producers have been unnecessarily burdened in recent years. Top-rated off-the-network films with which the buyers are completely familiar do not require 35% to 50% distribution costs."

Empire Productions has $5 million of assets in film and story properties, Mr. Koenig said. It will produce a number of spectaculars during 1958 as well as a variety

“General Practitioners” in Transportation

Today, you are deprived of the best and most economical transportation because public policies place artificial and severe restrictions upon the opportunity of any one form of transportation, such as railroads, to serve you by the use of other means of transportation, such as that by highway, waterway or airway.

Yet, in other industries, diversification of products has become common, and has proved beneficial both to those industries and to the public.

Why, then, shouldn't the public be allowed to benefit by diversification in transportation?

Clearly, diversification would be to the advantage of the nation's shippers. They could then arrange for their transportation through a single transport company which could utilize any or all means of carriage needed to do the particular job at hand most efficiently. That's why the railroads ask for removal of present artificial limitations.

They seek only the same opportunity as anyone else to enter into other fields of transportation. Then they could become “general practitioners” in transportation — using a wide variety of facilities to serve you and the nation more efficiently.

Isn't this common sense?

In announcing the syndication of the Roy Rogers programs formerly on NBC-TV, Mr. Koenig pointed out that many of these films have had only one run in all network cities and there are a number of important markets where the programs have not as yet been seen at all. Plans call for distribution of the films abroad as well as inside the U. S.

Sy Weintraub Buys Control Of Sol Lesser Productions

Acquisition by veteran tv film distributor Sy Weintraub of a controlling interest in Sol Lesser Productions, Hollywood, was announced jointly last week by Mr. Weintraub and Mr. Lesser. The purchase price was said to be in excess of $3.5 million and the transaction covers television and theatrical rights to the "Tarzan" character and 45 motion pictures owned by the Lesser organization.

MR. WEINTRAUB

It also covers real estate in Encino, Buena Park, and Van Nuys, Calif. In addition to 14 "Tarzan" features, the acquisition includes tv rights to a "Tarzan" pilot film and the tv rights to "Our Town" and to the "Captain Horatio Hornblower" series.

Mr. Weintraub plans to take an active role in the feature film and tv film production field and will move to Hollywood from New York. The corporation of Sol Lesser Productions will be retained, with Mr. Weintraub as president and chief executive officer and Mr. Lesser as chairman of the board.

Mr. Weintraub served recently as president of Telestar Films, a distribution-production company, and earlier had been executive vice president of Flamingo Films and a vice president of Motion Pictures for Television Inc. He is president of WKIT Mineola, L. I., N. Y., and formerly was president of KMGM-TV Minneapolis.

More Stations Play Up Anti-Recession Theme

More radio and tv stations jumped on the bandwagon to familiarize the public with the positive factors in today's business outlook [STATIONS, March 31, PROGRAMS & PROMOTIONS, March 24]. This was pointed up in reports to BROADCASTING last week from the Bartell radio stations, WWJ-TV Detroit, KMPC Los Angeles, WEJL Scranton, Pa., and WELM Elmira, N. Y.

The Bartell group kicked off a "Buy today for a better tomorrow" campaign with a one-minute editorial recorded by Gerald A. Bartell, president of the group (KCBQ San Diego, KRUX Phoenix, WOKY Milwaukee, WYDE Birmingham, WAKE Atlanta, WILD Boston and KYA San Francisco). The editorial said in part, "A fine automobile feels most comfortable when traveling at a good rate of speed. Slow it down too long and people feel poky and nervous. The obvious remedy . . . speed it up again. The American economy, too, is most comfortable when it speeds along at a lively clip. A slowdown, such as we are experiencing—however slight—is uncomfortable. The best advice—speed it up again by resuming normal purchasing. Whatever you buy today will be worth every cent you pay—and those who are holding off for prices to go down are waiting for a tomorrow that never comes. Prices will not decline—and there are wonderful bargains today!"

WWJ-TV aired Our Economy Today, a panel consisting of business leaders and a government official, who examined economic trends and offered proposals for effecting a business upswing in Detroit.

KMPC reports that the Chevrolet Dealers of Southern California have placed a heavy spot schedule on that station to dispel the "gloomy outlook" in that state. The dealers highlight job opportunities as listed in the want ads of the Los Angeles Examiner to "prove there is prosperity and an abundance of work to be had in Southern California."

With a harsh winter affecting Pennsylvania business, an "optimistic" policy has been adopted by WEJL concerning weather, road conditions and recession talk. Listeners are urged to come to town and resume normal daily procedures unless "severe storm conditions prevail." The station reports that it does not place over-emphasis on recession talk and points up the optimistic viewpoint in addition to the news.

WELM has been playing up the theme "Now . . . you can get a better buy. So . . . Better Buy Now!" The slogan is used on practically all of its station breaks and is tied in with the promotion of specific items such as automobiles, appliances and home improvements.

Following the same train of thought, Jack Cable of Jack Cable & Assoc., Houston, sent a letter to Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) outlining a plan which he says "holds the possibility of turning the present recession into a boom within 90 days." He suggests selective tax benefits to businesses to induce them to increase their advertising and selling efforts. He advocates a double deduction ($2 allowed for every $1 spent on advertising and selling in 1958), which he feels would accomplish the upswing. He says "It's even possible that the government net tax revenue from businesses would be increased this year under the plan."

Half-Million Earnings Shown In WJR 1957 Annual Report

WJR Detroit showed nearly a half-million-dollar profit after taxes for the year 1957, according to the annual report of The Goodwill Station Inc. This was based on the largest revenue in the company's history.

The 1957 profit was $495,680.53 or 86 cents per share on 572,552 shares, compared with 83 cents per share in 1956 and 47 cents per share in 1955 on the same number of shares. Total sales last year amounted to $3.57 million, up from $3.515 million in 1956 and $2.759 million in 1955. WJR cash dividends were maintained last year on a 50-cents-per-share basis, the report said. The station's 10-year history of earnings shows that the 1957 net earning figure is surpassed only by 1948 and 1949 earnings of $531,945 and $577,483, respectively.

In a letter to stockholders, WJR President John F. Patt said the 1957 record reflects "particular credit to General Manager Worth Kramer and our staff."

Last year marked the 35th year of broadcasting by the pioneer Detroit station.

NOT IN TEXAS' 5th TV MARKET

Some markets may be slumping but not the big Waco-Temple Central Texas Market of 33 counties served by KCEN-TV. Here's why things are humming in this market:

A PRINCIPAL DEFENSE ARSENAL OF THE NATION!

MISSILES . . .

In McGregor, 9 miles west of the KCEN tower, North American Aviation and Phillips Petroleum have established ASTRODYNE, INC., a $6 million rocket power firm designed to expedite research, development, and manufacture of higher energy solid fuels, propellants, and devices for use in missile systems.

MISSILE TRAINING . . .

Units from Ft. Sill, Okla., and Ft. Bliss, Texas, recently have been transferred to neighboring Ft. Hood for special missile training. This is an increase to the present permanent mission.

U. S. ARMY . . .

Nearby Ft. Hood is swelling daily with the entire 2nd Armored Division returning from Europe. And retail sales are booming with Ft. Hood. This is a permanent Army Post capable of housing 2 divisions plus an Army Corps Headquarters.

U. S. AIR FORCE . . .

Connally AFB, just outside of Waco, is operating under full steam, adding still more to the retail sales growth of Central Texas.

Economic Factor Favorable INDUSTRY . . .

Alcoa's huge aluminum plant at Rockdale in our B area is going full blast.

WATER DEVELOPMENT . . .

New dams in KCENland are underway at Lampasas, Proctor, and Lake Waco, all pouring new money into Central Texas with a permanent water supply.

HIGHWAYS . . .

U. S. Interstate Highway #35 (formerly U.S. 81), part of the huge interstate system, is now under construction in this booming market.

AGRICULTURE . . .

A record year of rains during 1957, and this spring, has already assured Central Texas farmers of another multi-million dollar crop this year from their rich blackland soil.

WITI-TV Releases Research Data From Station-Conducted Survey

Results of WITI-TV Milwaukee's first study of viewing habits and set ownership data have been released by the independent ch. 6 station.

Figures are based on a total of 1,060 homes contacted by U. of Wisconsin students during the period December 1957-February 1958. The figures cover viewing regularity and time segments, length of tv set ownership, data on color and uhf reception, mail order purchases via tv, tv-advertised products and viewer preferences on motion picture and syndicated films.

The purpose of the study was to ascertain the nature of programming preferences, with some emphasis on motivational testing factors.

WITI-TV reported:

In homes with two viewers per set, 19.9% regularly watch tv—the highest percent among unit viewers per set.

Total of 94.5% of all viewing is done in the 6 p.m.-12 midnight period.

Total of 28.2% of Milwaukee viewers have had their receivers six years or more; 2.1% have color television.

Total of 55% of viewers prefer half-hour films (presumably syndicated); 44% favor full-length movies.

Total of 15% of all viewers have bought mail order items via television; 97.1% regularly purchase products in stores advertised on tv.

WBAI (FM) Plans to Multiplex For Stereophonic Broadcasting

Plans to enter stereophonic broadcasting through multiplexing have been confirmed by Stephen Temmer, general manager of WBAI (FM) New York, owned by industrialist Louis Schweitzer. The target date is March 1959, Mr. Temmer said, explaining that one stereo channel would be carried on the main program channel and the second on the multiplex sub-channel. He said the stereo programs would not be commercial at first, because of FCC regulations governing multiplex experimentation.

The WBAI executive said the station has not made any agreement on equipment but will require the supplier of transmitter components to be able to supply initially 1,000 "adapters" which will permit owners of fm tuners or hi-fi equipment to filter out the multiplex signal. The adapter, to cost an estimated $89 at first and about $59 later, would merely produce two program channels via the listener's existing tuning equipment and would require in addition the necessary second audio amplification-speaker "chain" to complete the dual reception system used in stereo. Mr. Temmer said a Pulse study shows 59% of the people in New York have fm receivers. He predicted the break-through in stereo broadcasting will come with the general availability of stereo discs. These will give greater program selectivity, economy and flexibility than tape, he explained.

WNHC-TV Appoints Blair-Tv

Blair-Tv's appointment as exclusive national sales representative for WNHC-TV New Haven was announced Thursday by Roger Clipp, vice president and general manager of Triangle Publications' radio and television division, and Edward P. Shurick, executive vice president, Blair-Tv. Mr. Clipp noted that the appointment for WNHC-TV "puts all the Triangle television stations under the Blair banner. The move on our part is a direct recognition of the Blair selling record on our other four television stations." Those stations are WFIL-TV Philadelphia; WNBC-TV Binghamton, N. Y.; WFBG-TV Altoona, Pa., and WLBR-TV Lebanon, Pa.

KNXT (TV) Issues New Rate Card

KNXT (TV) Los Angeles has issued rate card No. 8 effective April 1, 1958, upping by 7.1% the base rate established by rate card No. 7 a year previously. The station pointed out that the number of tv families in its service area have increased 7.5% in the interim. New base hour rate is $3,750, up from $3,500. Other time period rates, in general, are raised similarly. Spot announcement and participation rates are largely unchanged; advertisers on contract as of March 31 get the customary six-month protection.

Dannenbaum, Swartley Elected To Westinghouse Bcstg. Board

Two new members were elected to the board of Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. effective today (Monday). They are Alexander W. Dannenbaum Jr., vice president-sales, and Wilmer C. Swartley, vice president-Boston.

Mr. Dannenbaum, a 20-year broadcaster, became WBC vice president-sales in 1956. Donald H. McGannon, WBC president, said the company has shown a steadily rising sales curve in both radio and tv under his direction. He has served at WDAS and the former WPTV (TV) Philadelphia, joining WBC in 1953. He is a director of Television Bureau of Advertising.

Mr. Swartley has been with Westinghouse since his graduation from Cornell U. in 1930, moving to the broadcasting company in 1938 as general manager at WOWO Fort Wayne, Ind. He moved to the New England staff of WBC in 1940 as general manager of WBZ-WBZA Boston-Springfield. He became WBZ-AM-TV Boston general manager in 1948 and vice president-Boston in 1955.

Fleischl Resigns from WMCA

M. M. Fleischl, executive vice president and general manager of WMCA New York, resigned last week after a 17-year association with the station.

Reportedly Mr. Fleischl resigned because he found himself "in disagreement with station policy" as set by WMCA Inc. President Nathan Straus. While Mr. Fleischl would not explain what these differences were except that they concerned "programming," it was learned that he had proposed a greater emphasis on popular music but failed to obtain agreement. Mr. Fleischl, whose future plans had not been set, expects to remain at the station for several weeks. He served on the sales staff for nine years, was sales manager for a year and has been general manager for the past seven years. His successor has not been determined.

Booth Inc. Buys Ninth Paper

Booth Inc., which publishes eight Michigan newspapers, announced last week the purchase of a ninth, the Grand Rapids (Mich.) Herald from Federated Publications Inc. at an undisclosed price. LOS ANGELES—A helicopter operated by KABC here [PROGRAMS & PROMOTIONS, March 31] last week combined a rescue with a news beat when its pilot, Max Schumacher, spotted three teenage boys in a rubber raft on the rain-swollen Los Angeles River and followed them as they were swept along, unable to get the craft out of the current and back to shore. Landing long enough to unload Donn Reed, announcer, and gain greater maneuverability, pilot Schumacher caught up with the raft, lowered the helicopter above it and directed the draft from the 'copter blade to drive the boat to shore. Waiting policemen promptly arrested the

NEW 16mm Super Anscochrome Tungsten Film EXPOSURE INDEX 100

Super Anscochrome—daylight type—has set new standards for color photography. Now Super Anscochrome is made available in a Tungsten Type emulsion—with a Tungsten exposure index of 100—for 16mm motion picture work. Judging from the wide acclaim received by the daylight type Super Anscochrome, it promises to open-up new worlds in cinematography under existing and artificial light conditions.

Super Anscochrome's Tungsten speed does not mean a loss in color quality. As in all Super Anscochrome emulsions, greater color curve conformity means closer correspondence with subject color—from full intensities to pastels in highlight or shadow areas.

Processing may be carried out in regular Anscochrome processing chemicals. Forced development will give increases in speed to E.I. 160 with just slight loss in quality, and up to 200 if required.

Super Anscochrome Tungsten is at least three times faster than any Tungsten type color film you have ever used, and ten times faster than traditional color films. Try it on your next assignment. Ansco, Binghamton, New York. A Division of General Aniline and Film Corporation.

N. Y. Jury Takes Up Tube Racket As Judge Proposes New Controls

The recurrent racket of branding used tv and radio tubes as "new" came before a Bronx County (N. Y.) grand jury last month when County Judge Samuel Joseph proposed a six-point program to spare the public further injury by "tube counterfeiters." His plan:

(1) To license all tube dealers and servicemen by state charter, (2) to change from misdemeanor to felony the penalty for rebranding used tubes, (3) to amend the New York state penal law to make "conspiracy to commit a felony" a felony rather than a misdemeanor, (4) to require tube manufacturers to affix permanent trademarks on their product, (5) to require manufacturers to set up and maintain outlets where dealer-distributors "could return tubes in warranty" and (6) to stamp used tubes with the word "used."

Judge Joseph's proposals stem directly from the trial and sentencing of 10 persons and six corporations found guilty in a city-wide tube fraud racket [MANUFACTURING, March 17]. His proposals were made March 26.

General Electric Co. earlier that week pledged to wage "an active fight on behalf of the public" against the counterfeiting of tv and radio receiving tubes. According to L. Berkley Davis, general manager of GE's electronic components division in Owensboro, Ky., "the electronic tube counterfeiter is a modern criminal who has proved to be imaginative and resourceful in carrying out a new form of fraud." It was GE which had presented evidence to the Bronx County district attorney which set off the 17-month long investigation and trial that was climaxed March 11 with Judge Joseph's sentencing of defendants, Mr. Davis said. He is chairman of a special anti-counterfeiting committee set up by the Electronic Industries Assn.

GE has published an anti-tube counterfeiting proposal which it is recommending to all authorized tube distributors. In general it seeks to alert dealers to the problem and concerns itself principally with the "drying up" of bogus tube sources. The key step: to destroy, permanently all used tubes.

RCA already has instituted its own plan to "dry up" such sources by affixing a permanent mold mark on all RCA tubes that would eliminate all doubts as to name of manufacturer, and is taking other steps [MANUFACTURING, March 24].

ORRadio Begins Operating From New $.5 Million Plant

ORRadio Industries Inc., Opelika, Ala., last week began operating from a new half-million dollar plant. The new quarters house manufacturing equipment for ORRadio's Irish brand sound tape, videotape, instrumentation, computer and geophysical tapes.

J. Herbert Orr, founder and president of the firm, opened the Opelika installation March 29 at ceremonies attended by Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala.), George I. Long,

TAPE-CUTTING honors at the new plant opening of ORRadio Industries, Opelika, Ala., were handled by Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala.) (second from l). Also on hand for the ceremonies with J. Herbert Orr (r), founder of the firm, were Douglas Edwards (l) of CBS-TV, whose news show was the first tv program to be recorded on videotape, and George I. Long (second from r), president of Ampex Corp. and board member of ORRadio.

president of Ampex Corp., Redwood City, Calif., which owns 25% of ORRadio, and Douglas Edwards, CBS-TV news commentator. Sen. Sparkman in his speech called the new plant a "significant milestone in the small business success story."

Some 600 visitors toured the plant after its opening and saw the dedication played back on the Ampex VR-1000 videotape recorder. William H. Barnett, ORRadio vice president for manufacturing, explained varied features of the factory to the guests.

Mr. Orr founded ORRadio Industries in the late 1940s. In 1953 the firm made a public stock offering and today has about 1,550 stockholders with 460,000 shares outstanding for 1957-58. Net sales for the year ending Feb. 28 were $2,291,438, a 48% increase over the year before.

In April 1957 ORRadio joined forces with Ampex Corp. for development and production of video, instrumentation and computer tape. Ampex bought 25% of ORRadio and President Long of Ampex was named to the board of directors of the Alabama firm.

Sonora Electronics Inc. Formed; Earl Muntz Becomes Chief Owner

The formation of Sonora Electronics Inc., with Earl Muntz, former tv set manufacturer, as principal owner was announced last week.

Mr. Muntz made final the terms of his purchase of Sonora Radio & Television Corp. from Thomas F. Kelly & Assoc., Chicago, which had acquired the firm's assets at a government auction in the spring of 1957. Sonora Electronics has acquired Sonora's old Chicago plant for manufacturing tv receivers.

Also involved in the purchase was Frank Atlass, program manager of WBBM-TV Chicago, who with Mr. Muntz had sought to purchase controlling interest in HIT-TV Ciudad Trujillo, government operated station in the Dominican Republic [CLOSED CIRCUIT, Jan. 27]. Negotiations fell through but Mr. Muntz reportedly still is seeking to set up a tv production firm in the republic.

Before Sonora's assets were auctioned off by the Internal Revenue Service last year, the company was engaged in the manufacture of radio-tv sets, phonographs and radio-tv-phono combinations, with Joseph Gerl as president.

Westinghouse Electric Announces First Quarter Earnings Down

A forecast of lower first quarter earnings than a year ago was made last week by Gwilym A. Price, board chairman of the Westinghouse Electric Corp., at the company's annual stockholders meeting in Metuchen, N. J. But Mr. Price expressed "cautious optimism" for Westinghouse business in 1958.

One reason for this optimism, Mr. Price reported, is that negotiations on new business "currently are more active than they have been in several months." He said prospects for defense business and for sales overseas are particularly favorable. He described sales of consumer goods, such as home appliance and radio and television sets, as "not good."

In answer to a question, Mark W. Cresap Jr., president and chief executive officer, reported that the company was spending $38 million a year in advertising, in the belief that this activity should not be curtailed in a time of recession.

Support for Private Tv Grows in West Germany

Sentiment in the West German Bundestag, the lower house of the Bonn legislature, has grown in favor of opening the television spectrum to private broadcasting in Germany. Establishment of private stations would be delayed, however, by jurisdictional differences between the national government and the German Laender districts, it is reported by observers.

The Bonn government, after prolonged debate, has decided it is unwilling to reserve all channels for the existing government monopoly system of tv and that it favors making vhf grants to private operators, adding uhf when that part of the spectrum becomes practicable for German broadcasting. On the other hand, the Laender deny that Bonn has the right to disrupt the broadcasting status quo by instituting a combined commercial-noncommercial basis. The German newspaper press, it is reported, is critical of the government monopoly stations for entering limited commercial tv, selling a daily half-hour show.

The German Brand Name Advertisers' Assn. has endorsed the British plan for commercial tv, saying at the same time that the American system would not fit into the German advertising pattern. The Brand Name Advertisers, constituting one of the most powerful groups pressing for commercial tv in Germany, believe that a five-station private network could start operating next year, covering 60% of West Germany.

In latest estimates, tv set circulation in West Germany is reported nearing the 1.5 million mark. One industry spokesman expects the country to surpass original estimates and exceed 2 million sets this year.

Russian Trip Convinces Talbot Tv Needs Overseas Spokesman

The urgent need for an impartial television industry spokesman to handle trade negotiations with overseas nations and act on behalf of all tv interests was voiced last week by Paul Talbot, president of Fremantle Overseas Radio & Tv Inc., New York, upon his return from Moscow.

During his visit in Moscow, Mr. Talbot concluded negotiations with Soviet television officials for Western rights to a Russian tv film series in exchange for U. S. telefilms under the terms of the cultural exchange agreement between the U. S. and Russia. But he told a news conference that his visit reinforced a long-held opinion that the tv industry should have a spokesman abroad.

Above and beyond the situation in the Soviet Union, Mr. Talbot continued, there is need in the overseas market for "a person of stature" to help counteract "some of the bias" that exists there toward U. S.-produced tv films. As examples, he cited "pressure" in Great Britain, other countries in Europe and Latin America to reduce the number of U. S. tv films to be permitted there. He contended that a "tv foreign minister" could offer a "united front" on behalf of all U. S. tv film distributors and other elements of the business and engender "a favorable climate" for future tv business.

Mr. Talbot said that his arrangement with Moscow tv officials calls for Fremantle to provide such American telefilms as productions of the Encyclopaedia Britannica films and the Movie Museum series in return for a series of five-minute shows, Spotlight on Russia, which depict various phases of Russian life, including the Bolshoi Ballet, an atomic ice-breaker and the Moscow tv center. The series will be narrated in English.

Mr. Talbot said he was told by Soviet tv officials that there are about 1.4 million tv sets in Moscow alone. These officials placed the number of tv stations in the Soviet Union at 45 and said that 35 more outlets will be on the air by the end of 1958.

CBC Grants New Tv, Tightens on Giveaways

Recommendation for one new tv station and deferment of hearings on applications for a number of new radio stations marked the March meeting of the CBC board of governors at Ottawa on March 25. Board also announced that it will crack down at license-renewal time on stations which emphasize giveaways to build audience.

Last February the Canadian Assn. of Radio & Television Broadcasters suggested to the board that there be no general regulation limiting giveaway programs but that each individual station be dealt with under existing regulations. CBC board is acting on this suggestion. The board is not against bona fide quiz contests. It is opposed to programs designed to buy audience chiefly by offering prizes largely on chance.

CJDC Dawson Creek, B.C., at the southern end of the Alaska Highway, has been recommended for a tv station on ch. 5 with 173.5 w video and 86.75 w audio and with antenna 60 feet high.

CHUB Nanaimo, B.C., was recommended for an increase from 1 kw to 10 kw on 1570 kc. CKNW New Westminster, B.C., was recommended for a change from 1320 kc to 980 kc, with 5 kw. In making this recommendation, the board turned down an application of CHWK Chilliwack, B.C., and for a new station at Burnaby, B. C., on 980 kc.

CKSB St. Boniface, Man., was recommended for an increase from 1 kw on 1250 kc to 10 kw on 1050 kc and change of transmitter site. A new station with 1 kw on 910 kc was recommended for Drumheller, Alta., to Dinosaur Broadcasting (1957) Ltd.

Denied radio station grants were CKGN-TV North Bay, Ont., and Wm. H. Zakus at Transcona, Man., a suburb of Winnipeg, Man. Deferred were applications for change of ownership of CKLB-AM-FM Oshawa, Ont., CJAV Port Alberni, B.C.; for increase in power of CJRH Richmond Hill, Ont., from 500 w to 1 kw day and 250 w night with frequency change from 1300 kc to 1310 kc; and application of new radio station with 5 kw on 1060 kc applied for Quebec City by Les Entreprises Sillery-Quebec, Inc.

FOUR PEABODY AWARDS GO TO NBC

Among the networks, NBC scored with the greatest number of George Foster Peabody Awards announced last week. NBC won four awards, CBS took three and ABC and Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. (non-network but station group owner) each received one. There were six awards to individual stations, three of which are non-commercial.

NBC landed its awards in the categories of musical tv entertainment (Dinah Shore Show); non-musical tv entertainment (Hallmark Hall of Fame); tv contribution to international understanding (Bob Hope-NBC), and a special radio-tv award for outstanding contribution to education (the NBC Educational Tv Project in cooperation with the Educational Television & Radio Center at Ann Arbor, Mich., and "Know Your Schools" a project by the network's o&o radio and tv outlets).

The three areas for CBS were in radio and tv news; tv youth and children's (Captain Kangaroo) and tv public service (The Last Word). ABC's award in the category of tv news (Prologue '58 and all around coverage provided by John C. Daly and his associates). WBC received a special radio-tv award for its Boston conference on public service programming and the quality of its own broadcasts in that program area.

Local station awards: Louis M. Lyons of WGBH-FM-TV Boston (non-commercial educational) for local radio-tv news; WQED (TV) Pittsburgh (non-commercial educational) for tv education (Heritage Series); WKAR-TV East Lansing (non-commercial educational) for local radio education (You Are the Jury); KING-TV Seattle for local tv youth and children's programs (Wunda Wunda); KLZ-TV Denver for local tv public service (Panorama), and KPFA (FM) Berkeley, Calif., for local radio public service.

The Peabody awards for 1957 were presented at a luncheon Wednesday of the Radio & Television Executives Society in New York. Bennett Cerf, president of Random House Inc., New York, chairman of the awards' national advisory board, announced the awards. They were presented by Dean John E. Drewry of the U. of Georgia's Henry W. Grady School of Journalism, which with the Peabody board, administers the annual awards. Citations, in part:

RADIO AND TELEVISION NEWS: During 1957, CBS provided news in depth by going behind current happenings to identify related problems, underlying causes, and influential individuals—as exemplified by the exclusive Moscow interview with Khrushchev on Face the Nation; the documentary filmed behind rebel lines, "Algeria Aflame"; and such series as See It Now, 20th Century, and on its New York radio station, This Is New York.

TELEVISION NEWS: ABC's handling of the news, consistently authoritative and imaginative throughout 1957, hit a new high with its yearend roundup and forecast for the months to come—Prologue, '58. The credit goes equally to John Daly and his staff and to the executives who provided them immediate and adequate airtime to function at top efficiency.

MR. DALY

LOCAL RADIO AND TELEVISION NEWS: As all Eastern New England knows, Louis M. Lyons is a Yankee of sunny, salty character. His broadcasts heard simultaneously on radio and television are clear-headed, courageous but unbelligerent, forthright and fair. Aimed at the intelligent listener, they are an admirable example of what can and should be done in every vigilant community. Therefore, the Peabody Award goes to Louis M. Lyons of WGBH, Boston, Mass.

MR. LYONS

TELEVISION ENTERTAINMENT (MUSICAL): The thumping success of the Dinah Shore program is heartening proof that no matter what formats and fads may temporarily dominate the airwaves, you can never beat a combination of unflinching good taste, irrepressible spirits, and sheer talent. What tv needs is a hundred more Dinah Shores.

MISS SHORE

TELEVISION ENTERTAINMENT (NON-MUSICAL): The Hallmark Hall of Fame during 1957 provided viewers a varied fare of outstanding contemporary and classical theatrical productions, skillfully adapted and artistically and imaginatively presented.

TELEVISION EDUCATION: WQED (TV) of Pittsburgh has, in the judgment of the Peabody Board, originated the most distinguished programs in the field of education in television.

The Heritage Series, which were planned and staged in Pittsburgh and which have since been distributed over most of the 30 educational channels, have literally opened the eyes of American adults and students to the richness of our intellectual life. Here, for instance, are ten half-hour programs with Robert Frost, America's greatest living poet; in one we see and hear him talking with a group of Pittsburgh students; in another with Dr. Salk of the famous vaccine. . . .

JOHN F. WHITE

LOCAL RADIO EDUCATION: You Are the Jury is one of the most distinguished traffic safety programs of recent times. The fact that a great foundation is contributing to its adaptation to television speaks for itself. Both the purpose of the series and the pattern merit high commendation. Therefore, for promoting traffic safety in an absorbing format which teaches defensive driving techniques authoritatively, yet entertainingly, the Peabody radio award for Education goes to You Are the Jury and WKAR East Lansing, Mich.

TELEVISION YOUTH AND CHILDREN'S PROGRAM:

Captain Kangaroo is virtually the only genuine children's program left on network television—certainly the only one which puts the welfare of the children ahead of that of the sponsor; which instructs children in safety, in ethics, in health, without interrupting the serious business of entertaining them at the same time. The Peabody Award for outstanding television youth and children's programs goes, therefore, to Captain Kangaroo (Bob Keeshan).

YOUTH AND CHILDREN'S PROGRAM: Wunda Wunda features well chosen world-wide story material, songs and action games, integrated with highly imaginative musical background. All segments of this delightful and wholesome series lend themselves to the indirect teaching of manners, attitudes, speech and better human relationships. Television station KING (ABC) of Seattle, Wash., is to be commended for both the pleasure and the potentialities for good which are provided by Wunda Wunda.

TELEVISION PUBLIC SERVICE: A program concerned with words, their use is educational. It is also literary. In the case of The Last Word, it is entertainment and public service—made so by the wit, charm, and erudition of Bergen Evans, John Mason Brown and their distinguished guest panelists. This sparkling weekly discussion of words, the basis of all understanding and progress, makes it clear that learning can be fun, and that educational programs do not have to be dull. The Last Word has, therefore, rendered the kind of meritorious public service for which Peabody Awards came into being—and richly deserves this recognition.

TELEVISION PUBLIC SERVICE: A program concerned with words, their meaning, and Meritorious public service goes to Panorama and KLZ-TV (CBS) Denver.

TELEVISION PUBLIC SERVICE: Panorama, through the inquisitive and revealing eye of the tv camera, tells the story, "This is our land and these are our people"—with particular emphasis on the West and those things which interest Denver viewers. Here are intimate glimpses of Americans at work, at play, at prayer—in research laboratories and on skid row, in industrial centers and in rural isolation. This is indeed a notable achievement in creative television on the local level. In recognition, the Peabody Award for local meritorious public service goes to Panorama and KLZ-TV (CBS) Denver.

LOCAL RADIO PUBLIC SERVICE:

For a courageous venture into the lightly trafficked field of thoughtful broadcasting and for its demonstration that mature entertainment plus ideas constitute public service broadcasting at its best, the Peabody Award in this category goes to KPFA-FM, Berkeley, Calif.

TELEVISION CONTRIBUTION TO INTERNATIONAL UNDERSTANDING: To millions of people from Moscow to Morocco, Bob Hope is Mr. United States—the wisecracking, ever-cheerful symbol of an abundant and good-natured land. In his travels to dozens of countries in the last decade, he has contributed immeasurably to international good will.

MR. HOPE

SPECIAL RADIO-TELEVISION AWARD: NBC during 1957 was responsible for two undertakings of far-reaching significance to broadcasting and education. One of these was the NBC Educational Tv Project in cooperation with the Educational Television & Radio Center at Ann Arbor, whereby 23 weeks of live high grade tv programming were provided educational outlets the country over. The other special service was the "Know Your Schools" project, in cooperation with the U. S. Dept. of Health, Education, and Welfare, produced simultaneously over a six weeks period by 13 NBC-owned radio and television stations in New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Chicago, Hartford-New Britain, Buffalo, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

SPECIAL RADIO-TELEVISION AWARD: The Boston Conference of the Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. brought into sharp focus the significance of public service broadcasting—both to this company and to the industry. The Conference was in a sense a creative sounding board, the message of which was more attention to better local public service programming. Westinghouse merits special recognition for this Conference, but also for the high quality of its own public service broadcasting. Every Westinghouse-operated station reflected in 1957 projects and programs too numerous to mention the admirable concept which is hereby recognized with this special Peabody radio-television award for meritorious and distinguished public service.

Headliner Award Winners Named; Presentation Set for April 12

Awards for outstanding achievements by radio and tv stations, networks and individuals during 1957 will be presented April 12 at the annual frolic of the National Headliners Club, Atlantic City, N. J. The awards are sponsored by the Press Club of Atlantic City.

For radio, the club announced these winners: Frank McGee, NBC, consistently outstanding radio network news reporting; WBUR Boston, educational station of Boston U., school-created series, for Impact, promoting highway safety and carried by 30 commercial stations in New England; KLIF Dallas, consistently outstanding radio news reporting as exemplified by Texas tornado coverage.

Television awards: WBZ-TV Boston for a housing documentary series, City in a Shadow; WTVT (TV) Tampa, Fla., consistently outstanding coverage of local news events under direction of Dick John, news director; Maurice Levy, NBC-TV, outstanding network coverage of a news event in the film story of a Texas tornado; KTVT (TV) Salt Lake City, outstanding tv coverage of a local news event for an on-the-spot story of a prison riot and public service contribution through tv's role in the settlement of the riot.

CBS News, Heffner Among Winners In George Polk Memorial Awards

CBS News and Richard D. Heffner, producer, writer and moderator of The Open Mind, which appears on WRCA-TV New York, were among the winners of the 10th annual George Polk Memorial Awards announced last Thursday by Long Island U. The winners will receive bronze plaques at an awards luncheon April 15 in New York at the Hotel Roosevelt.

The Polk Memorial Awards are made in seven news categories and two special ones. CBS News won in tv reporting with Algeria Aflame, its special report on the Algerian uprising. Mr. Heffner won a special award.

The memorial awards were established by Long Island U.'s department of journalism in 1948 after CBS correspondent Polk was slain while on assignment in Greece. The journalism faculty at the university, all professional newsmen, judges the contest each year; curator is Professor Jacob H. Jaffe, head of the department.

Best '57 tv commercials picked by art directors

Over a two-night period in January, 12 agency art directors, radio-tv executives and film producers met in the conference and screening rooms on the 17th floor of McCann-Erickson's New York office to weed through 240 still pictures and 367 films (commercials, program openings, station promotions) submitted for the 37th annual exhibit of Advertising and Editorial Art and Design. Seven entries won; a number of also-rans were found worthy of exhibition.

Last Wednesday noon, the seven winners (at right) received their due; until this Thursday, New York ad executives and visiting firemen will wander through a maze of exhibited stills at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria until they reach a small screening room where the Art Directors Club of New York will run off 30 films judged the best of last year's crop of tv commercials.

Quality is not to be construed as just "artiness," according to Norman Tate, tv art director of N. W. Ayer & Son, chairman of the tv awards committee. "While it's true that we do not judge on the basis of sales effectiveness or purchasing persuasion power it is extremely hard to divorce yourself from the consideration of selling in tv. After all, we're not creating commercials for fun alone."

Regarding the tv stills category of the '57 judging, Mr. Tate said, "It should be noted that most of the entries are executed at a fraction of the cost of publication art work—tv production budgets being what they are. Probably because of this ever present problem and because of inadequacies in tv reproduction these exhibits display a continuing high level of originality and humor. There also is a refreshing boldness and simplicity in design."

Concerning the film winners and runners-up, Mr. Tate described the basic tenets or standards by which the champions were picked: "Excellent taste in every detail, flawless production, well-conceived continuity and, last but not most important, originality." All the winners are relatively simple and uncluttered in design.

Mr. Tate went on, "In the opinion of the judges, the calibre of film work submitted to the show was of generally higher professional standard than in previous years. It looks as if in the future it is going to be harder to be outstanding simply on the basis of high production quality and good taste. It also is true that there were fewer bad uses of cartoons but though there was a relatively high level of quality in cartoon work there was evidence of a sameness that was disappointing." Several winners, however, represented a use of cartoon techniques.

Summing up, Mr. Tate found that "in all categories there seemed to be fewer new trends or developments. Possibly this is simply a sign of developing maturity in the field, or it may reveal a fertile field for competition in the future."

The jury which picked the 1957 award winners was comprised of Mr. Tate; Edward R. Mahoney, Cunningham & Walsh; G. Warren Schloat Jr., Compton Adv., John A. Sidebotham, Young & Rubicam; William Duffy, McCann-Erickson; Stephen Elliot, Elliot, Unger & Elliot, and S. Rollings Guild, Photographers 2 Inc. As chairman, Mr. Tate did not vote. This group was primarily responsible for evaluating film entries.

Other judges included William H. Buckley, Benton & Bowles; Suren Ermoyan, Lennen & Newell; John Jamison, J. M. Mathes Inc.; Allen F. Hurlburt, Look magazine, and Robert H. Blattner, Readers Digest. They were concerned primarily with judging non-film or still art work involving tv.

GOLD MEDAL: Edward J. Bennett (art director), Guy Fraumeni (artist), Hallmark Cards (advertiser), Foote, Cone & Belding (agency), Hallmark Hall of Fame on NBC-TV.

COMMENT: "... an extremely good illustration of good 'color taste.' Subtle, moody, impressionistic, this painting effectively projected the somber and sometimes desperate mood of the Robert E. Sherwood play."

CLASS: Design of complete unit: show titling—continuity stills.

GOLD MEDAL: Chris Jenkyns, Robert Cannon (art directors), Bill Higgins (artist), Playhouse Pictures Inc. (producer), U.S. Navy (advertiser). No advertising agency.

COMMENT: "... it seemed to represent a very emotional approach to a serious problem—recruiting. It was a hell of an effective combination of animation and photography... so unusual none of us had ever encountered it before..."

CLASS: Fully-animated film commercials.

CERTIFICATE OF DISTINCTIVE MERIT: Georg Oiden (art director), Eleanor Bunin (artist), CBS-TV (advertiser). No advertising agency.

COMMENT: "... devastatingly clever. This bit of promotion for The Last Word truly was the last word. Here we have an original based on a theme of Steinberg... a living dictionary pointing to the last page and, inevitably, the last word."

CERTIFICATE OF DISTINCTIVE MERIT: Jack Sheridan (art director and artist), Albert McCleery (producer), NBC-TV (client), NBC Matinee Theatre.

COMMENT: "... dramatic... yet clearly simple and uncluttered in both thought and execution."

CLASS: Design of complete unit: single frame show titling.

GOLD MEDAL: John Hubley (art director), Emery Hawkins (artist), Storyboard Inc. (producer), CBS-TV (client) for The Seven Lively Arts.

COMMENT: "... not a cartoon in the usual comic sense (however sophisticated) but a representation of jazz music that captured the eccentric movement and textural feeling of pure jazz, most decidedly one of the seven lively arts."

CLASS: Design of complete unit: filmed show titling.

CERTIFICATE OF DISTINCTIVE MERIT: John Coleman, Henry Caroselli (art directors), Tom Armstrong (writer), Hans Koenekamp, Arthur Feindel (photographers), Warner Bros. Tv (producer), Campbell-Ewald (agency), Chevrolet Div. (advertiser).

COMMENT: Where other auto advertisers throw in everything but the spare tire, this one stayed wonderfully simple, combining a fine-looking product with yet a finer concept of imagination."

CLASS: Film commercials.

CERTIFICATE OF DISTINCTIVE MERIT: Lawrence Berger (art director), Paul Kim (artist), Academy Pictures Inc. (producer), BBDO (agency), Timken Roller Bearing Co. (advertiser), Project XX's "The Innocent Years" on NBC-TV.

COMMENT: "... action flows magnificently... it is simple, fresh—and while it uses the traditional 'institutional approach,' it manages to be untraditional in that it is done with light, clean, child-like naivete."

CLASS: Live and animated film commercials.

Pre-Premiere Publicity for Tv Offered by New McDermott Firm

To provide pre-premiere and premiere publicity, promotion and exploitation for new tv series, Pat McDermott Inc., Hollywood-New York public relations and personal management firm, has set up a new division, Premiere Publicity Inc. Premiere is offering a nine-week promotional package to sponsors, agencies, program packagers and syndicators.

"Television business being what it is, program cancellations are discussed the day the second overnight Trendex comes in," Miss McDermott president of Pat McDermott Inc., said. "In order to protect your multi-million dollar investment you must build your audience before going on the air."

She said that Premiere Publicity will build audiences by a "crash program" when it is needed most—before the crash. She pointed to the extensive promotion conducted by Hollywood movie companies prior to release of theatre films.

Searle Heads California Firm

Don Searle, veteran station operator, is chairman of the board of Special Events Inc., Southern California organization specializing in staging and publicizing such events as movie premieres, store openings, anniversary sales and the like. Quentin Brewer, partner in the Kansas City advertising agency, Bruce B. Brewer & Co., now like Mr. Searle a resident of Southern California, is president of Special Events Inc.

The firm has acquired the equipment of Gordon Gray Advertising and is servicing accounts formerly handled by that organization. Roger (Jet) Hamilton has been named general manager of Special Events Inc., which has headquarters at 3833 Sepulveda Blvd., Culver City, Calif. Telephone is Texas 0-2551.

Mr. Searle is president of KFNF Shenandoah, Iowa; KMMJ Grand Island, Neb., and KXXX Colby, Kan.

Miller Opens Own Design Studio

Irving Miller, art director for CBS-owned radio stations and prominent in CBS radio and television art departments for the past 12 years, has resigned to open his own design studio. Known as Irving Miller Studio, it is at 141 East 55th St., New York. Telephone: Plaza 5-1270. Mr. Miller and staff will concentrate on design and production of advertising, packaging and promotional material for both advertisers and agencies. Clients include WTOP Washington, among others.

New Firm to Provide Tv Models

Babs Ferguson, formerly with Hartford Agency, and Jean Collieran Foster, former model, have formed a new firm, Foster-Ferguson Agency, to provide advertising agencies and film firms with models for commercials. The new firm is at 141 East 44th St., New York. The agency will provide both male and female models, providing screening service before sending models to casting directors.

MGA FIRES DUAL SALVO AT AFM

Musicians Guild of America, newly organized competitor to the American Federation of Musicians [PERSONNEL RELATIONS, March 31] last week took the first step in its program of invasion of the AFM domain. On Monday MGA filed a petition with the National Labor Relations Board's regional office in Los Angeles asking for recognition as the exclusive bargaining agent for musicians employed by the major motion picture producers.

MGA specifically asked for certification as bargaining representative for all musicians under contract to the eight studios comprising the Assn. of Motion Picture Producers and for musicians employed by these companies for at least 30 days since Aug. 1, 1957 under the AFM agreements. The studios: Allied Artists, Columbia Pictures, Walt Disney Productions, MGM, Paramount, 20th Century-Fox, Universal and Warner Bros.

MGA Chairman Cecil Read estimated that a total of 500 musicians is involved and he said that the MGA petition was accompanied by authorization cards signed by more than the required 30% of that total.

On Wednesday Mr. Read filed another document with NLRB. This was an accusation that Eliot Daniel, president of AFM's Hollywood Local 47, and John Tranchitella, vice president of the local, were guilty of unfair labor practices. Messrs. Daniel and Tranchitella, Mr. Read charged attended a rehearsal of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra on Tuesday and warned the musicians that anyone who attended an MGA meeting, signed an MGA authorization card or in any way aided the new union, would be guilty of dual unionism and subject to loss of AFM membership. The Local 47 officers, Mr. Read alleged, told the musicians that if they lost their AFM membership they would also lose their jobs with the Philharmonic, as this type of employment did not come under NLRB jurisdiction.

Mr. Read disputed this statement noting that the orchestra's radio broadcast, recording activities and out-of-state performances put it into interstate commerce and therefore under the NLRB.

He further charged Mr. Daniel with ordering the local's business agents to picket an MGA meeting on March 30. Mr. Read claimed that nine of the Local 12 business agents plus 15-20 other "Petrillo supporters" gathered outside the meeting place and passed out handbills warning members of Local 47 that attendance at the meeting would automatically make them guilty of dual unionism and subject to expulsion from the AFM. He said that 50-75 musicians attended the meeting despite these threats and estimated that perhaps another 50 stayed away because of the threats.

On Wednesday evening six board members of the Musicians Club, which owns the building and property of Local 47, received telegrams notifying them that they had been suspended from the local pending the outcome of an investigation of the charges that they had aided MGA and were guilty of dual unionism.

Mr. Read said that the Musicians Club, a California corporation, is technically independent of control by Local 47, but a requirement that a member of the club must also be a member of the local was used by Mr. Daniel in an "illegal attempt to regain control of the club property" from the Read supporters elected by the club members last month.

IBEW, CBS Negotiate Under Threat of Strike

Negotiators for CBS and the International Brotherhood of Electric Workers met in Washington last Thursday and Friday in an effort to reach agreement on a new contract, although IBEW New York Local 1212 earlier had voted to reject a CBS offer and had authorized a strike.

Neither IBEW headquarters nor the local reported if progress had been made, although a CBS executive believed that IBEW itself would not call a walkout. Seven other locals also voted on the CBS proposal but the final tabulation was not available Thursday.

The old contract expired Jan. 31 [PERSONNEL RELATIONS, Feb. 10, 3] and members have continued on the job with the understanding that terms of a new contract would be retroactive to that date. The pact covers technicians and certain other classifications at CBS Radio, CBS-TV and the company's owned stations.

A spokesman for Local 1212 reported that the main reason CBS's proposal had been turned down last Wednesday was that it failed to provide "job security and adequate monetary increases."

Several weeks ago the National Assn. of Broadcast Employees & Technicians rejected the contract proposals of ABC and NBC. NABET covers technical employees at these two networks. The old contract at NBC and ABC also expired Jan. 31. A network spokesman said that NABET is expected to request a meeting shortly to pinpoint areas of dissatisfaction and he felt that no strike is imminent.

In another labor development, Federal Judge Archie Dawson last Thursday denied Local 1212's application to have the National Labor Relations Board vacate an injunction issued last July 1. The injunction against Local 1212 was issued in connection with WCBS-TV New York's telecast of the Tony Awards [PERSONNEL RELATIONS, April 29, 1957, et seq.], when Local 1212 disputed the right of Local 1, International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees to provide lighting for the remote program. The injunction restrains Local 1212 from striking the network in the remote lighting situation.

14 Broadcasters Get Education Fellowships

Fourteen commercial and educational broadcasters are among 40 persons who will share this year's Fund for Adult Education fellowships. Grants total $205,000 and will permit the recipients to study up to a year at universities or public institutions. This is the second year fellowships have been made in the mass communication field.

C. Scott Fletcher, president of the fund, announced at the same time the opening of applications for the Mass Media and Leadership Training Awards Program for 1959-60. Filing deadline is October 15 with awards to be announced April 1, 1959. Selection among this year's candidates was made by a national committee under the chairmanship of Edward W. Barrett, former assistant secretary of state, now dean of Columbia U.'s graduate school of journalism.

Among 1958 fellows are:

Elmer W. Lower, director of special projects (including election coverage), CBS News & Public Affairs Div., who will make a study at Columbia U. of mass communication's role in Presidential elections; Claud P. Mann Jr., news and special events director at KSBW-TV Salinas, Calif., to study mass media at U. of California; Mrs. Elisabeth M. Alford, copywriter-women's director, WCOS Columbia, S. C., who will study at U. of South Carolina and intern in the news department of WCSC-TV Charleston, and Sam L. Becker, director of the radio-tv-film division of State U. of Iowa and research chairman of the National Assn. of Educational Broadcasters, who will do a post-doctoral study on attitudes and motivation at Columbia U., including study with the research staffs of CBS, NBC, Young & Rubicam and McCann-Erickson.

Ethelbert A. Hungerford, director of operations, Metropolitan Educational Television Assn., New York, to study education administration at New York U.; Colin D. Edwards, freelance news commentator specializing in Far East, to intern at radio-tv division of United Nations; James W. Sanders, Alabama Polytechnic Institute radio-tv instructor, to do radio-tv doctoral study at Northwestern U.; Sidney Roger, labor editor, commentator on KROW Oakland, Calif., to study communications, especially labor news, at the U. of California; John S. Clayton, director of production, radio-tv-motion picture dept., U. of North Carolina, to do doctoral study in drama, Yale U.; Wayne M. Carle, journalism instructor, Brigham Young U., to do doctoral study in radio-tv education, Ohio State U.; Richard E. Mansfield Jr., producer-director, WTTW-TV Chicago, to study playwriting-direction, Yale U.; Marine Lt. Dennis A. McGuire, ex-writer, WOW-TV Omaha, to study tv direction, Yale U. and U. of Southern California; Dorothy E. Minlace, radio-tv coordinator, U. of Wisconsin, to study adult education, Columbia U., and Mrs. Doris Karasov, volunteer community leader, to study tv education at U. of Minnesota and intern at KTCA-TV St. Paul.

The fund invites applications from writers, editors, reporters, producers, program directors and others in similar capacities with commercial or educational radio and tv stations, newspapers and magazines and who deal with world affairs, politics, economics and the humanities ("broadly defined"). The amount of money granted is sufficient to meet needs of the candidate, including support of family where necessary while he is on leave from his regular work. The fund is at 200 Bloomingdale Rd., White Plains, N. Y.

N. Y. Legislature Okays ETV Funds

The New York board of regents has moved closer toward realizing its hope of having its "own" tv channel in New York City. On March 26 the state legislature approved $212,912 to defray part of the cost of backing an etv project. Gov.

Averell Harriman has 30 days to sign the bill. An agreement has been reached between RKO Teleradio Pictures Inc. and the regents to utilize WOR-TV New York as an etv station during daytime hours, effective Sept. 1 [EDUCATION, March 17].

100-Station ETV Network Seen By 1968 in New ETRC Report

A 100-station live network of educational television stations is predicted for 1968 in a report prepared by the Educational Television & Radio Center, Ann Arbor, Mich., and its affiliated stations.

By 1968 the etv network will reach 80% of the country's population, the report forecasts. At the same time the educators call for "vastly increasing support of all types of educational television broadcasting."

Some 30 educational tvs that have followed KUHT (TV) Houston, Tex., which pioneered educational television five years ago, now are in a position to give new stations the benefit of their experience, the ETRC report says. With their help, by 1968 etv will be utilizing longer broadcast schedules, more remote pickups, color and improved programming produced by larger staffs. The network will begin first on a regional level, as in Alabama at present, the educators foresee, spreading nationally by the end of the decade.

"Such achievements can only be realized through an imaginative approach . . . on the part of government bodies, foundations, industry, educational and cultural institutions and the public itself. From these sources the ETRC wants "vastly increased financial support" to develop stronger program service, prompt activation of educational channels and research and evaluation of educational broadcasting.

Three New Series Scheduled In NBC's Second ETV Year

NBC-TV has announced it is extending its educational tv programming into the second year, effective last month, describing the past year's activities as "an experiment." Once again working closely with the Educational Tv & Radio Center at Ann Arbor, Mich., the NBC Educational Television Project this spring will take up three new series, each lasting 13 weeks.

One of these series will be "sponsored" via outside capital, according to NBC Public Affairs Director Ed Stanley: effective today (Monday) and for 12 Mondays thereafter, NBC and the American Heart Assn. (which will provide a portion of the necessary working capital) will air Decision for Research—a series dedicated to attract new research careerists from ranks of school youngsters.

The other programs, dealing with foreign policy and jazz, will feature such prominent names as author-critic Gilbert Seldes, jazz authorities Marshall Stearns and Leonard Feather (hosting such stars as Duke Ellington) and Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor. In addition to the 29 ETV stations carrying these programs, 24 regular NBC-TV affiliates will also slot the shows, many via kinescope.

Pay Tv Reaction Poll Made Part Of WREX-TV Limerick Contest

WREX-TV Rockford, Ill. is to begin today (Monday) a promotional contest called "Silver Dollar Tele-vote," which is tied to the issue of free versus pay television. The contest will be conducted 13 weeks with Carolyn Sholder Assoc., promotion-merchandising company, handling all details for the station.

One phase of the contest asks respondents to check whether they are in favor of pay tv or free tv. Another part asks them to complete a limerick on the programming the station offers at present. Ballots are obtainable only at the local merchants who have bought time on the station. The contest is being advertised in newspapers and through display cards in stores, plus on-air promotion. Over the 13-week period, three first prize winners will be selected on the basis of the completed limerick.

Prior to the opening of the contest, the ch. 13 station carried a delayed kinescope of CBS-TV's program on pay tv versus free tv and also took advertisements in local newspapers outlining the issues of the controversy.

ABN Operatic Winners Announced

Nine prizes of $1,000 each were awarded to young singers on the final American Broadcasting Network Metropolitan Auditions of the Air program for the 1958 season. The four national winners who received $1,000 each from ABC were Martina Arroyo, soprano, New York City; Grace Bumbry, mezzo-soprano, St. Louis; Charles K. L. Davis, tenor, Hawaii and Lillian Messina, soprano, Brooklyn, N. Y. Five regional awards as well as special awards in other categories also were presented. Almost 30 American singers have been presented on the series which began in January.

Tunesmiths Get Chance on KPHO

A "Search for Songs" contest is being conducted by KPHO Phoenix. Budding song-writers are urged to submit words and music for an original popular song. The winner will receive $25 and his work will be published and recorded. The recording will be featured on KPHO on Ray Curtis' (Mon.-Fri. 4-7:30 p.m. MST) show.

Chefs Cook Up KYW Promotion

KYW Cleveland was instrumental in arbitrating a contest between two army chefs as to which was the better cook.. Disc jockeys Big Wilson and Joe Finan each championed one of the chefs and guested him on the respective d.j. show. Messrs. Wilson and Finan also conducted a listeners' recipe contest which reportedly drew 373 recipes. The persons who submitted the winning entries were treated by KYW to dinner at a local restaurant. The army chefs utilized the winning recipes in cooking dishes for their personal contest. A draw was declared and both chefs paid the loser's penalty of having his head shaved.

For Some 'Fowl' Reason?

An even dozen listeners to WNEW New York will win a year's supply of eggs for the most original answer to that old wheeze, "Why did the chicken cross the road?" The question is being asked by d.j. Lonny Starr on WNEW's Music Hall programs. The judge is comedian Henny Youngman.

'Purse-Suasive' Blair-Tv Gift

To remind advertisers about Blair-TV's "Purse-Suasion" campaign, the station representative is sending present and prospective clients a small plastic purse. A label attached to the purse handle reads "This little lady's purse holds a story for you!" Inside is a "shopping list" of Blair-TV represented stations.

WABR Cleans Up For Listener

An Orlando, Fla., housewife had her house cleaned courtesy of WABR there. The spring cleaning was the prize in the station's three-week contest which called for listeners to submit reasons why the clean-up should be done for them. WABR hired professional house cleaners to do the job for the winner.

Explorer Launches KCKN Contest

The successful launching of Explorer III March 17 was worth $100, a hi-fi record player and $40 worth of phonograph records to a KCKN Kansas City, Kan., listener, who submitted nearest guess to the satellite's launching time in KCKN's "Operation Space" contest.

Networks Promote Brand Names

Television promotion kits in support of "Brand Names Week" (April 13-20) have been mailed to all U. S. tv stations by Television Bureau of Advertising. The kits, created and prepared by ABC, CBS, NBC, Westinghouse Broadcasting Co., and TvB, contain filmed trailers, slides, balops and sample scripts supporting the "Better Buy By Brand Name" theme.

Trenton Chamber Salutes WTTM

The Greater Trenton (N. J.) Chamber of Commerce pays tribute to WTTM there in an issue of its monthly Trenton magazine. Headed "WTTM—To Community Leadership by Working Together With People," the article deals with the station's 16-year history and takes readers behind the scenes to see how WTTM operates, introducing station staffers.

From: Bob Perrott, The Silver Dollar Man

For quite a few years now, as some of you may know, I've been operating my Silver Dollar program on a regional basis with outstanding success. Now I'm ready to open up nationally. What I have to offer is a down-to-earth way to increase a bottler's home business by as much as 100% in the first 30 days! If I don't . . . you pay me nothing. You have a money back guarantee . . . Plus a guaranteed audience builder. For example, in Harrisonburg, Virginia, Hamilton Shea of WSA-TV, says: "Tremendous success . . . draws an average of 3000 cards a week, with a peak week of 6000 cards." J. W. "Bill Davis" of Roanoke, Virginia has just moved into first place nation wide on a per capita basis with the Dr. Pepper Co. Yes! He has used the Silver Dollar Man program for more than five consecutive years. My Silver Dollar program is equally well suited for any product that stays in home refrigerators or freezers, the most valuable storage space of all. ### KCOP (TV) Boosts Medium Via Institutional Promotions

On-air promotion of tv as an advertising medium has been started by KCOP (TV) Los Angeles. Station personalities deliver one-minute and 20-second spots, telling the audience that, with more than three million tv sets in the area, television advertising will produce results at "the lowest cost per sale."

The KCOP promotional spots are largely institutional, designed to sell tv itself. Each personality, in a message written and delivered in his own personal style, urges viewers with anything to sell to call one or more of the seven Los Angeles tv stations. Only at the end does KCOP get in its own plug: "And I hope one of the ones you call will be my station, KCOP."

Alvin Flanagan, station manager, said that the idea for using tv to sell tv stemmed from a realization that every popular tv show must have at least 100 local advertisers in its audience.

Other personalities will make filmed spots for the series, which will be aired three or four times a day during the evening hours, "when the people we want to reach are most apt to be watching," Mr. Flanagan said. KCOP plans to continue this campaign for three or four months, "until we've either proved or disproved the idea." As the campaign continues, successful tv advertisers will be used in the film spots, delivering capsule testimonials.

WBBM-TV Show Is 'In the Bag'

A panel comprised of local radio-tv personalities, including guest celebrities, is a feature of a new series started by WBBM-TV Chicago under the aegis of Frank Atlass, program director. Titled In the Bag, the program is built around a guessing format, with panelists seeking to determine what each studio contestant is concealing in a bag. The panel is composed of Paul Gibson, WBBM-AM-TV personality; columnists Irv Kupcinec of the Chicago Sun-Times, Janet Kern of the Chicago American and a guest celebrity, with John Coughlin as moderator. A contestant who stumps the panel receives $50 plus his choice of two bags from the "Grab Bag Rack."

A BLACK EYE was given to Jack Parr, host of his own show (NBC-TV, Mon.-Fri. 11:45 p.m.-1 a.m. EST) by the shadow of a lamp on a WBUF-TV Buffalo billboard there. A WBUF-TV staffer noticed the effect on the nine-foot high cutout of Mr. Parr and sent him a photograph of it. Mr. Parr showed the picture on his show with the comment "what Buffalo sunshine did to me looks like what Sugar Ray did to Basilio. . . ."

Chamber Buys Day on WOAP

A whole day of remotes was sold by WOAP Owosso, Mich., to the local Chamber of Commerce for the chamber's annual "Sidewalk Sale." Each year Owosso merchants move as much stock as possible in front of their stores to promote a spending spree. For a week prior to the event, it was promoted by participating retailers in special spot packages sold by the station. WOAP originated all its features from the back of a wagon parked on a main street with staffers dressed in t-shirts marked "WOAP . . . Hot Radio."

Egg, Matchbook Contests on WCPO

A citywide Easter egg hunt has just been concluded on WCPO Cincinnati. An egg was hidden within the city and clues to its location were aired each hour. The egg was redeemable at WCPO for a 14-pound ham. In another contest launched today (Monday), models are touring the city giving out numbered WCPO matchbooks. Winning numbers are announced by disc jockeys throughout the day. A total of $1,230 (the station's frequency is 1230) will be divided among the people handing in the winning matchbooks.

D. C. Headlines Featured in 'WWW'

NBC-TV's Wide Wide World (Sun. 4-5:30 p.m.) will present "Headline City" the story of Washington, D. C., "as the news-making and news-gathering capital of the world" April 13. Scheduled for participation are James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary; Benjamin M. McKelway, president of Associated Press and editor of the Washington (D. C.) Evening Star; Lyle Wilson, vice president and bureau chief of United Press, and James R. Wiggins, executive editor of the Washington Post & Times Herald. NBC-TV cameras will visit official and unofficial centers of news.

Teen Talent Converges on WBZ

So many phone calls were received at WBZ Boston following the announcement of Westinghouse Broadcasting Co.'s "American Youth Talent Search," that WBZ changed the message within five minutes to a "write-in only" policy. Teenage singing groups are being auditioned through April 12. Prize for the winning group includes a trip to New York to compete against other WBC station winners. An RCA Victor recording contract is the grand prize.

New Job Promoted by WKMF D. J.

To publicize a move from WBBC Flint, Mich., to WKMF there, d.j. Bill Lamb asked listeners to his programs on the new station to write "Bill Lamb—1470" (WKMF's frequency) as many times as possible on a regulation-size postcard. The winner submitted a card with the words written 4,538 times and was awarded a hi-fi radio-phonograph combination. Other prizes included a transistor radio and LP phonograph record albums.

Editors Join in WOR-TV Promotion

WOR-TV New York invited news editors last week to "join our treasure hunt" as a promotion for its Million Dollar Movie presentation of "Sinbad the Sailor" which will be shown twice daily for a week beginning tonight (Monday). Entrants must trace a route on a map of the Near East by following a list of clues. Winners will receive a Zenith Overseas receiver.

K. C. Mayor's Two-Way Marathon

Kansas City's Mayor H. Roe Bartle, scheduled to appear for a half-hour on WHB there to answer constituents queries on city government, ended up being on the air three hours. The mayor was kept busy answering questions via the station's "Multi-phone System" in which the questions and answers can be heard over the air.

WSAZ Gives Trip to Oscar Guesser

WSAZ Huntington, W. Va., made Academy Award judges of the station's listeners when it asked them to guess the winners in its "Oscar" contest. A prize of a trip to New York over the Easter weekend was awarded to the listener who guessed the most movie stars to win Oscars.

on joint motion by Wabash Valley Bestg. Corp. (WTHI-TV), Cy Blumenthal and Illiana Telecasting Corp., applicants for ch. 2 in Terre Haute, declared that mileage separation requirement of Sect. 3.610(b) will be waived insofar as it would apply to trans. locations at Terre Haute and St. Louis, to permit (1) grant of an application to locate trans. for ch. 2 operation in the Terre Haute ant. farm area at a location therein to be approved by Commission and (2) grant of application of Signal Hill for operation on ch. 2 at site specified in above order.

By memorandum opinion and order of April 2, Commission denied petition by Dixon Bestg. Co., Dixon, Ill., for review of ruling of examiner which granted petition by Russell G. Salter for leave to amend his application for new am station in Dixon, Ill. to operate on 1460 kc D, with 1 kw DA in lieu of 500 w non-DA, and which removed application from hearing and returned to processing line. Dixon Bestg. Co. now has pending competing application.

By memorandum opinion and order of Apr. 2, Commission granted petition by WKWB-TV Inc., for review of adverse ruling of examiner and permitted that company to change trans. location, height and power, and make other necessary engineering and financial changes in its application for new tv station to operate on ch. 7 in Buffalo, N. Y., which is in consolidated hearing with Great Lakes TV Inc., and Greater Erie Bestg. Co.

By memorandum opinion and order of April 2, Commission granted petitions by Western Empire Bestrs (KRNO) San Bernardino, Calif., and Ben S. McGlashan (KGFJ) Los Angeles, for reversal of ruling by Chief Hearing Examiner, and permitted KRNO and KGFJ to intervene in proceeding on application of Pierce Brooks Bestg. Corp. to increase daytime power of station KGIL San Fernando, from 1 kw to 5 kw.

By decision of March 26, Commission granted application of Manchester Bestg. Co. for new am station to operate on 1230 kc, 250 w, U, in Manchester, Conn., and denied competing applications of Regional Bestg. Co., East Hartford, Conn., and Brothers Bestg. Corp., Hartford, Conn. Initial decision of Aug. 3, 1956, proposed this action.

By memorandum opinion and order, Commission dismissed petition by Red River Bestg. Co. (KDAL-TV Ch. 3), Duluth, Minn., for reconsideration and rehearing directed against Jan. 8 grants of (1) assignment of cp of WJMS-TV Ch. 12, Ironwood, Mich., from Upper Michigan-Wisconsin Bestg. Co. Inc., to Lake Superior Bestg. Co., for use as a satellite to latter's station WDMJ-TV Ch. 6, Marquette, Mich., (2) extension of time to construct WJMS-TV, and (3) cps for private tv intercity relay system for off-the-air pickup of programs of WDMJ-TV for broadcast WJMS-TV. Announced April 2.

INITIAL DECISION

Hearing Examiner Annie Neal Hunting issued initial decision looking toward grant of application of John Bozeman for new am station to operate on 900 kc, 250 w, DA, D, in Wichita, Kan. Announced Mar. 28.

OTHER ACTIONS

By letter, advised B. F. J. Timm president and 100% stockholder of WDMG Inc., that application for mod. of cp to increase daytime power of WDMG Douglas, Ga., is being placed in Commission's pending file, and will be held without action pending final determination of proceedings on his application for cp for new station to operate on 1010 kc 50 kw, DA, D, in Lakeland, Fla. Announced Mar. 27.

By order of Mar. 26, Commission granted motion by Port City Tv Co. Inc., to dismiss its application for new tv station to operate on Ch. 18 in Baton Rouge, La., but dismissed it with prejudice. Initial decision of Nov. 1, 1957, proposed grant of cp. Port City had been in comparative proceeding with Bayou Bestg. Corp. but, by mutual arrangement, Bayou previously dismissed its application.

By order of Mar. 26, Commission granted motion by Wrather-Alvarez Bestg. Inc., to dismiss petition to enlarge issues in proceeding on application for extension of time to construct station KYAT (Ch. 13) Yuma, Ariz.

Commission on April 2 directed preparation of documents looking toward:

Affirming May 14, 1954 grant of application of WJR, Goodwill Station Inc., for new tv station (WJRT) to operate on Ch. 12 in Flint, Mich., as modified by application filed Dec. 16, 1954 changing trans. site, programming, etc. May 14, 1954 decision denied competing applications of Trebit Corp. and W. S. Butterfield Theatres Inc. Supplemental initial decision of Sept. 12, 1957 proposed this action.

Denying protests by Lake Huron Bestg. Corp. (WKNX-TV Ch. 57) Saginaw, Inland Bestg. Co. (WTOM-TV, Ch. 54), Lansing, and Spartan Bestg. Co. (WWTV Ch. 13) Cadillac, all Michigan, and affirming April 14, 1955 grant to WJR, Goodwill Station Inc., for mod. of cp of station WJRT (Ch. 12), Flint, Mich., to move trans. site from point southeast of Flint (Clarkston) to point northwest of Flint (Chesaning), make ant. changes and change studio location in Flint. Supplemental initial decision of April 5, 1956 proposed this action.

Taking following actions in Parma-Onondaga, Mich., Ch. 10 proceeding: granting petition by Booth Radio & Tv Station Inc., to amend its application to change name to Booth Bestg. Co.; granting petitions by Jackson Bestg. & Tv Corp. to amend its application and to reopen record for limited purpose of showing that Donald M. Teer, director and stockholder, died on Jan. 18 and National Bank of Jackson and Paula Teer (widow) have been named co-executors and Don T. McKone was elected on Mar. 6 to fill vacancy on board of directors; and granting joint request by Triad Tv Corp., Booth and Jackson for increase of time from 20 to 30 minutes allowed each applicant for oral argument scheduled for April 21. Other applicants in proceeding are Tv Corp. of Mich. Inc., and State Board of Agriculture.

Commission on Mar. 26 directed preparation of document looking toward conditional grant of application of Radio Columbus Inc., to change facilities of WDAK Columbus, Ga., from 1340 kc, 250 w, U, to 540 kc, 500 w-N 5 kw-LS, DA-N denial of application of Southeastern Bestg. System for new station on 540 kc, 5 kw, D, in Macon, Ga.; retaining in hearing status applications of James A. Noe for change of facilities of KNOE Monroe, La., from 1390 kc, 5 kw, DA-N, U, to 540 kc, 1 kw-N, 5 kw-LS, DA-2 and B. J. Parrish for new station on 540 kc, 1 kw, D in Pine Bluff, Ark., and remanding this portion of proceeding to examiner for purpose of obtaining additional information as to operation of XEWA in San Luis Potosi, Mexico, and making Radio Columbus party respondent thereto. Announced Mar. 27.

FM SIMPLEX FUNCTIONAL MUSIC EXTENSIONS

By order, Commission, on its own motion, further waived Sect. 3.293 of rules to permit following fm stations to continue functional music operation on simplex basis to May 12: KDFC San Francisco, Calif.; WBFM New York, N. Y.; KFMU Los Angeles, Calif.; KUTE Glendale, Calif.; WDDS-FM Syracuse, N. Y.; WEAW-FM Evanston, Ill.; WLDW Oak Park, Mich.; WNVA-FM Annapolis, Md.; WMUZ Detroit, Mich.; WKJF Pittsburgh, Pa.; KDFZ San Diego, Calif. By separate actions, extended similar operation of WHOO-FM Orlando, Fla., to May 12, and KING-FM Seattle, Wash., to Oct. 1. Announced Mar. 27.

Don't queer your long-range chances by abusing today's radio prosperity

No one in our business needs to be told that radio is enjoying excellent health and I cannot think of anyone who is not overjoyed to see radio once again take its rightful place as a dynamic and competitive advertising medium.

There are many things that have contributed to radio's present healthy condition. A few of them are:

Realization on the part of station and network management that "all is not lost" because of television.

New programming concepts that are geared to the living and listening habits of the people.

Realistic pricing.

Aggressive, and perhaps more important, creative selling.

For all of these things which lead to success and give us, as media users, more working tools, I say "Hoorah!" However, I would like to inject a note of caution, for which I may be called "stuffy." I feel privileged to speak because I have never lost faith in the medium of radio (and proved it with our clients' radio buys) even in its most trying and desperate times.

What I am about to say does not apply to the great majority of stations and their representatives. It does, however, apply to a few. It is simply that by attitude and inference some stations and their representatives today are saying: "We're real fat—we've never had it so good. If you want to do business with us, Buster, get in line!"

Granted, a lot of media people and their clients have gone hog-wild wanting to buy only early morning or early evening during the traffic hours, and near or in news, weather and sports. On many stations, for this type of a buy, one does have to stand in line. And if this be the situation of a particular station, this is the time for the station to bend over backwards rather than play Big Wheel.

My work often takes me on the road in behalf of our clients. In contacts around the country I have found that the vast majority of stations have an attitude of willingness to aid as much as possible in seeing that a client's campaign produces results. However, there are a few examples on the negative side, like these:

Not too long ago, by appointment and with a schedule firmed up, I visited an important radio station in a large midwestern city. My client was in the soft goods field. The station manager's opening remarks to me were as follows: "I wish you had a drug or a food product; we could do a swell merchandising job for you, but we do not have any contacts in the department store and specialty store field."

SWAMPED BY THE FLOOD

Another station in the Northeast had agreed to do a simple but important kind of local merchandising. All it involved was a personal call to be made on five local retailers. The object of the call was to inform the retailer of the schedule that our client had purchased and further explain to the retailer what this would mean in audience and impact for his benefit. Therefore, the station was to urge him to tie-in with point of purchase material. Upon arriving for my meeting with the station manager, one week after the start of the campaign, he apologized for not having followed through on the five merchandising calls because there was so much business on the station and orders were coming in faster than he could take care of them and he had to spend all of his time figuring how he could get the commercials in so as not to lose business.

This same complacent attitude was brought into sharp focus recently when a radio representative called and said, "Hey! I see in the trade press you're planning a radio schedule in a couple of my markets. How much dough are you going to spend?"

Isolated instances such as the above would not concern me relative to the industry's general health except that they, and a half-dozen others in the last six months, occurred in connection with major stations in major markets.

I sincerely believe that the signs are unhealthy. Therefore, I would like to remind a very small but important group that they have forgotten how tough it was in radio just a few short years ago.

All of us who are concerned with the strategy of planning and buying welcome creative selling and are appreciative of the problems involved when a station is overloaded and orders are waiting in line, but an attitude of smugness and, in some cases, downright cockiness will not make for a healthy radio economy in the overall media battle.

If the pendulum swings back, fellows, you'll have no one to blame but yourselves.

Forcing the Pay-Tv Issue

IF the opponents of subscription television think they have won their case, they have foolishly underestimated the tenacity of Eugene F. McDonald.

Mr. McDonald, president of Zenith Radio Corp. and foremost advocate of subscription television, was only invigorated by the blow he received when the House Commerce Committee stopped the FCC from approving toll tv tests early in February. After pausing to change tactics, Mr. McDonald has re-entered the subscription television fight with a vengeance.

We are in possession of a letter he has written to newspaper editors and publishers [CLOSED CIRCUIT, March 31]. In essence, the letter warns the newspapermen that television threatens the position of newspapers as the dominant editorial force in the U. S. Further, the letter charges, television's editorial power is in the dictatorial control of two men, the heads of CBS-TV and NBC-TV, because they have an economic stranglehold on their affiliates.

"This network monopoly," the letter reads, "is, in fact, a threat to freedom of speech—of vital interest to every printed publication."

Mr. McDonald's letter is plainly intended to enlist newspapers on his side in the subscription television fight by the device of scaring them into believing that their own welfare is at stake.

It is a device which shows signs of working.

Congressmen are inserting in the Congressional Record newspaper editorials supporting subscription tv.

Congressmen are also speaking about alleged abuses of television's editorial power.

On this subject, the Congressmen are simply borrowing the ideas of Eugene McDonald. In other parts of his letter to newspapermen, Mr. McDonald charges that it was an abuse of editorial power for television stations to oppose subscription tv.

Television has been put into editorial competition with newspapers by the clever prodding of Mr. McDonald. It must face the challenge of that competition or yield the field, without struggle, to the medium which has exclusively occupied it for so long.

The issue of subscription television has now been inextricably associated with the issue of freedom of speech or, to be more specific, freedom of the air.

Telecasters must fight for their position on both issues. To surrender on one is to invite certain defeat on the other.

Is television to become an editorial force? It can be if individual broadcasters make it so. It won't be if individual broadcasters refuse to carry the serious responsibilities which editorializing imposes on the editorialists.

It is scandalously untrue, of course, to say that two men control television in America. But that charge, however false, will be given currency if the hundreds of broadcasters in control of individual stations fail to assert their individuality through vigorous editorial programs on many subjects—including subscription tv.

Affiliate Responsibility Too

IT took talk of the possible demise of the American Broadcasting Network to awaken both government and industry to the realization that radio networks are indispensable in our way of life.

Since the coming of age of television, network radio has been in trouble. There must have been times when all of the networks wondered whether it could ever come back. Some old-line radio affiliates went independent, where money could be made.

But NBC and CBS stuck to their guns and the majority of their affiliates took painful cuts in compensation and stuck along with them. Now these networks are doing better. They may not reach the pre-tv peaks any time soon, but there is new optimism and new acceptance from national advertisers.

NBC President Robert W. Sarnoff, in one of his periodic letters to radio-tv editors 10 days ago, gave network radio the strongest shot of adrenalin it has had in some time. Thanks to the zeal of its new radio management and the team-work of affiliates who wouldn't quit, NBC Radio is on the road back, and affiliate compensation has quadrupled over what it was two years ago.

Drawn for BROADCASTING by Sid Hix

"Better change my sign. I hear pay tv isn't popular with the American public."

ABN has cut back its programming to reduce its losses. It is searching for the formula that will enable it to retain nationwide interconnected service. MBS, sold last year as a network, minus owned-and-operated stations, and recently reorganized a second time, is seeking the formula that will enable it to remain afloat.

Whether there will be four networks or three or two, only time will tell. But it is clear that NBC and CBS, with unflagging faith in the future and in the necessity of maintaining radio service, will continue to put all steam possible behind their operations.

Emerging, too, from the current discussion is the realization that network radio is a two-way street. There can be no network without affiliates in key markets providing the circulation that the advertiser is willing to buy. This has been one of the serious roadblocks in the path of ABN's successful operation.

Affiliate responsibility therefore is equal in importance to network responsibility. Networks have had difficulty in retaining affiliates in major markets and in several instances have been forced to buy stations to get essential clearances. NBC, Mr. Sarnoff said, put the question of clearances to its affiliates bluntly: if they wanted to maintain the NBC Radio network service, they would have to carry more programs in network option time. Clearance of network programs has since increased an average of 15%, he reported, and national advertisers have found the network an increasingly valuable buy.

The discussion provoked by the ABN plight elicited not only the strongly optimistic Sarnoff statement but also a speech by Sen. Schoeppel (R-Kans.) in the Senate urging ABC to "continue its radio network's role as a vital link in the chain of man's knowledge and understanding."

And there was yet another development that may have been stimulated by the radio network discussion. The FCC, in considering license renewals of radio stations in Atlanta, withheld regular licenses to eight stations for purported program imbalance. That means they had little or practically no public service programming (i. e., educational, agricultural, religious). Two major network affiliates and one independent in Atlanta did receive renewals.

Network schedules include full-scale news reporting, public service sustainers and other program resources unavailable to the average independent, although there are notable exceptions.

There are serious, even sinister implications in the network radio picture. The government could not condone a condition whereby network radio service might be sharply curtailed. Nationwide radio service is too fundamental to our national welfare in a world torn with discord. There would be moves toward subsidy to retain adequate service, and that would lead inevitably to limitation of profits or something tantamount to public utility control. That broadcasters do not want at any price, for with it would go the freedom of broadcasting.
